Winds blow away $5 million in 'disaster'

By ARLENE FUNKE

Estimates of damage in Canton Culbert don't include crop losses. Township from last week's wind storm now top $5 million and may go as high as $6 million, according to Supervisor Noel Culbert. Earlier estimates had placed damage at about $1 million. And the damage figures provided by

As the cleanup and property damage appraisals continued, Gov. William Milliken Monday declared Wayne and Washtenaw counties disaster areas.

Hard-hit communities will be eligible for assistance.

Police Chief Jerry Cox, the emergency preparedness coordinator for the township, who had surveyed the damage from a helicopter, noted particularily what had happened to crops.

Cox said he saw "hundreds of acres of corn lying flat to the ground." He said most of the damaged farms were west of Canton Center Road.

Dianne Neihengen - a member of the Canton planning commission and the farmland preservation committee said barns and portions of storage sheds had also been destroyed.

Fruit' trees were toppled by high winds and portions of crops had been blown away or crushed, she added.

"The problem they (farmers) are having is that they don't have water," said Ms. Neihengen, who had volunteered to get in touch with farmers. "Their pumps are powered by electricity. They are really in trouble."

(As of Tuesday afternoon, about 1,700 homes in Canton Township remained without electricity, according to a Detroit Edison spokesman. Service was expected to be restored by Friday.)

Complicating the problem is that the farmers haven't really joined in a cooperative effort as have the homeowners'

"They (farmers) are extremely independent," continued Ms. Neihengen. "I don't think all of them are aware of available aid. I can see a need for a farmers' association."

Carroll said the state disaster plan calls for crop damage to be verified by a state-certified assessor. Damage assessment would be based on the fair market value of the crops, he added.

"I DOUBT if we'll have to do any crop assessment," said Carroll. "Rather than taking their chances with the government, they probably would opt to harvest now.

"Private insurance will cover a lot of loss on single family homes," he continued. "We would like to look at what (aid) is available for businesses."

"We've asked for federal disaster assistance," said Lt. Gene Conley of the emergency services division of the Michigan State Police. The division is coordinating the state-wide plan from

"There are also state and federal teams verifying (damage)," he added. 'Just because we ask doesn't mean we get it. The problem is we're trying to boil down a multitude of programs that may apply. Conley explained that there are a number of state and federal disaster or emergency funding plans, and communities must be able to document a need. Some forms of aid reimburse the community for cleanup. Others would include loans and grants through the federal Small Business Administration.

For days after last Wednesday's storm, most of Canton - as well as most of western Wayne County and portions of Washtenaw County lacked electricity and telephone service. Trees were toppled, garages and sheds destroyed and portions of buildings blown away during the short-lived storm.

While the assessment continued, volunteers from the Civil Air Patrol, the Salvation Army and the Red Cross logged thousands of hours helping out.

Other volunteers, and township employees, helped residents store perishable meats in trucks and boxcars which supermarket chains had donated.

Earlier, the township had distributed free dry ice to residents. However, that proved too costly and time consuming to drive to Flint, Grand Rapids and Lansing for available ice.

Storm stalls board

The Canton Board of Trustees will meet Tuesday to consider items on the agenda of this week's cancelled meeting.

Problems stemming from last week's storm prompted officials to cancel the regular July 22 meeting.

Township employees were unable to prepare packets and other information for the meeting because of a power failure in the administration

Local investigators are looking into the death of a ninth grader from Plymouth Salem. High who they believe may have started the fire that claimed his life Sunday evening.

The body of Larry Sumner, 15, was found in a secluded loft above a workroom adjacent to his family's living quarters in the Mayflower Townhouse complex, 400 N. Main Street, Plym-

Firefighters, who rescued Sumner's 18-month-old nephew from an untouched bedroom in the home, say they were unaware of Sumner's presence there until the burning home was al-of the Plymouth Police. However, the third possibility was discounted Tuesday by Fire Chief Roy Hall who confirmed the fire was purposely set. Although lab testing results were not available by press time, he believes either gasoline or paint thinner was used to start the fire.

MR. AND MRS. SUMNER had left the home Sunday at 5:30 p.m. to attend a bingo game, leaving Larry in charge of his sister's children, Dennis Lee Cooper Jr., 18 months, and Shanny, 4.

When the fire broke out, only Larry and Dennis were in the dwelling. Shanny Cooper had been playing outside.

The first two firefighters to arrive on the scene, Al Matthews and Don Belsky, said their original attempt to enter the home through the garage was thwarted by intense heat, fire and

"Fire completely involved the garage area and the kitchen just north of the garage door," said Capt. Belsky.

Hall added that several explosions accounted for the "rapid expansion" of the fire in that area.

"We didn't even know there was a loft," said Belsky. "The body was really found at the end of the fire. The place was hot, humid and completely filled by smoke.

Meanwhile, as additional help arrived to extinguish the blaze, Matthews and several other firefighters began entering the living quarters of the

It was organized by about 30 people, mostly students from the Plymouth-Canton community, who recently formed their chapter of the national Committee Against Registration and the Draft (CARD).

The national committee is a coalition of about 50 separate groups, including womens, students, religious, civil rights and political organizations.

Among those urging an anti-war, anti-draft stance was a laid-off tool and die maker from Plymouth Township, Don Calvin.

"There are three things you can count on in this life, the dawn will follow the dusk, the draft will follow the registration and the burying of our dead youth will follow the draft," he told the audience of approximately 100-250.

"I think the reason the young people asked me to speak is that they don't want to give the impression that you have to be in high school to belong to the Plymouth-Canton CARD.

"I don't think the government should be taking my son to register for the draft," said Mrs. Dawson. "My son-inlaw was taken away from my daughter and grandson to get involved in Vietnam. Now my son is facing it and my grandson will in another 10 years. Is that what we're raising them for

On occasion, Mrs. Falkiewicz has sat on the Township Board with fulling voting power in the absence of Donahue.

LEGISLATIVE ASPECTS of the treasurer's job are as important as administrative duties, she said.

You have such a diversified position, you sometimes have to be two people," said Mrs. Falkiewicz. "The administrative duties are important. But the other important thing is that you're a public official.

She sees a need to attract more industry to Canton as vitally important.

The Township Board should research the possibility of hiring an industrial coordinator. Mrs. Falkiewicz said tax incentives should be given to only certain kinds of industry. Campaigns should not be aimed toward automotive-related industries.

We have to determine what kind of development we want and where. We have three school districts here. If we plan for development in the south end, we're not helping the Plymouth-Canton Schools," she said.

She recognizes a need for more recreational facilities in the township.

"I'd like to see some type of multipurpose building," she said. "But we always have to remember our taxes." Township officials should seek feder-

But she said improvements are needed in the township's emergency preparedness program. Specific duties of each township official and department head should be contained in a policy.

"Professionalism" is lacking in township government, she said.

really listen to what they're saying?" Do we give them answers?"

She said staff members are sometimes "ridiculed publicly" at Township Board meetings

"If board members disagree (with their recommendations), fine," Mrs. Falkiewicz said. "But there's no reason for (ridicule).

She favors the establishment of a committee with members from all special interest groups. The committee should meet regularly with the Township Board or administrators, she said.

at the point now that we can do something about it.'

Culbert says an industrial coordinator is needed "if this thing is to be cone professionally."

If re-elected, Culbert hopes to expand the township's recreational offerings.

He expresses worry, however, about the proposed Tisch tax cut and other propositions on the November ballot.

"The issue we'll all have to face if Tisch comes through is where the money will come from. You can't budget for money you don't have."

Culbert says the township's general fund cannot afford additional spending for recreation. He endorses the use of revenue-sharing funds — which he calls "frosting on the cake" - for recreational pur-

He likes the idea of a community recreation center and advocates the purchase of more park land.

But the Township Board must consider operational and development costs before approving any capital expenditures, he said.

AS FOR FARMLAND preservation, Culbert believes that implementation of a development rights program can wait.

"It has to be addressed. I'm not ignoring it," he said of a development rights program. "But the farmer isn't feeling development pressures right now.

"Right now, the farmer wants tax relief. The farmer wants to farm. He doesn't want to be told what to do with his land."

Culbert brushes off a criticism which surfaced early in his term regarding his administrative abilities.

'When I came on, four department heads had just been hired and there was a change in administrations. There were certainly adjustments that had to be made.

"That criticism came up over a year ago. Frankly, I haven't heard any criticisms since then."

Higgs will serve out the remainder of a fouryear school board term, which expires next June. That board seat was vacated by Stephen Kelly, who accepted a position with the Garden City district one week after the school election in June. Kelly had resigned, effective July 1, and the board had 20 days to appoint someone to the position.

Debate began over Higgs' appointment and continued over the method for selecting the new appointee. Trustee Fred Warmbier objected to the board casting ballots. He moved instead that David Moranty be appointed on the basis of the last

On the first written ballot, Higgs was selected by a 4-2 vote.

Several district residents voiced displeasure with the appointment, one asking for some background information on Higgs.

Higgs described his community involvement and said his children had attended Wayne-Westland junior and senior high schools after leaving St. Mary school.

"I always thought I might like something like this, and this is an opportunity to do so on a shortterm basis," Higgs said, adding that if people are unhappy with his appointment, they should organize campaigns now to do something about it in the next election.

Before electing Higgs to the board, trustees had interviewed candidate's in a public meeting. Only six people were in the audience, including a reporter and a school sec-

Beloved ice cream cone celebrates 76th year

By W.W. EDGAR

During these humid days of an unusual summer, it is a common sight to see men, women and children line up at the ice cream parlors to obtain an ice cream cone.

But few of them who enjoy the cool delicious mound of ice cream, cuddled in a crunchy cone, realize that this is the 76th birthday of the delicacy - and that its birth still is couched in contro-

According to the crisp yellow pages of history, the ice cream cone came into being in 1904 at the World's Fair in St. Louis, but from there on, the history is not clear.

Little is made of the birthday of the cone in 1904 as the world already had been seen the telephone, the airplane and the cotton gin that were considered much more important.

Most of the accounts agree that a nameless concessionaire, who was shouting about the goodness of the griddle cakes he was baking right on the midway, came up with the idea.

DURING A lull in business, he is supposed to have rolled one of his stillwarm cakes into a cornucopia shape. The vendor in the next stall was selling ice cream, and the cake baker got an idea. Why not put a cake of ice cream in his cone? When he did that, the ice cream cone was born.

Unfortunately, so history tells us, neither man realized that he had contributed a great day to history. But two other employees at the fair were taken with the idea and when the fair closed they went back to Cincinnati and began an experiment.

They started manufacturing cones in a small way, but the new ice cream container caught the fancy of the public, and it wasn't long until cones appeared in other cities.

Automation got in on the new product in 1910 when a man named Frederick Brockman, in Portland, Ore., invented a machine that turned out 3,000 cones an hour. Cones became the rage and in 1928, the Nabisco Co. came into the ice cream cone business.

The Nabisco Co. improved on the original by arranging for what was called a nesting ring around the top, This allowed the cones to be packed into each other for shipping. With this new idea, cones were now being shipped to all sections of he country without fear of breakage and the cones became one of America's favorites in hot, humid weather

IT IS now claimed that Americans consume 786 million gallons of ice cream annually. Just imagine what it would be like if it all was dispensed in single-dip cones. It would come to 194 cones a year for each man, woman and Yet, with it all, no one is certain on which day to sing "Happy Birthday." So, possibly, it should be sung all summer in honor of the two unknown vendors who made it possible at the 1904 World Fair in St. Louis.

Delegate says 'thanks a lot'

Editor

Last night I returned to my home community of Winchester, Mass., overtired, overfed, and over-politicked.

Today I tried to sort out my feelings about the Republican Convention and what we delegates had (or had not) accomplished there. However, I determined that I had overwhelming emotion, and that was the feeling of gratitude I had to all the people of Plymouth for their many kindnesses to all of our

We have been proud of the public relations of our great National Committeewoman Polly Logan, but even she could take lessons from Mary Childs. And we've decided your mayor must have passed on her qualities to all the people of Plymouth for never once did we meet anyone who wasn't equally as outgoing, gracious and anxious to help

The party on Sunday night was great, the concert lovely, the visits to the homes of our hosts and hostesses heartwarming. The hotel send-off on Friday was a super fun time. But above all this was the response of every person, from the hotel employees to the taxi and bus drivers, to the people in the stores, to just the people we met on the street - a genuine welcome and a real interest in how we liked your town.

If we could experience this sort of coming together with people from all over the country, from all walks of life and from all faiths, I feel that many of our problems would disappear and we could have a truly strong and united America. Thank you, thank you, thank you! MRS. PHILIP WOODWARD Winchester, Mass.

Library's a changing institution

By W.W. EDGAR

During a slight lull in the steady stream of clients Patricia "Pat" Thomas, the Plymouth librarian, took time out to chat about the great changes that have taken place in the libraries during the past few decades.

"We have become more relaxed behind the counter," she emphasized, "and the people have changed, too. And it makes the work all the more pleas-

While she didn't say so, there was a time when the libraries were staffed for the most part by sophisticated maiden ladies who wore pince-nez or the old-fashined lorgnettes, and smiles were unknown to them.

While she confessed that she never was that sophisticated, she did admit that there was a time, and not too long ago, when the presence of children in the library bothered her.

"When I saw a woman coming in with a small child I just cringed," she said, "because I just didn't know what

"But that's all changed now. We have places in the library where the children can be pacified and we have things to interest them. And the same goes for the mothers. They have changed too."

One of the great changes is a the fact that people not only call on the librarian for books but for information too. Many of these clients are more interested in obtaining poems by great poets and all they have for a lead toward success is one line.

This happened to the writer recently when he asked if it was possible to obtain the old poem "Only The Game Fish Swim Upstream," and he didn't know the poet who wrote it.

It seemed like a most difficult task. But within a short time librarian Thomas had a copy of the great poem in the mail to him. Now it is one of his prized possessions.

With a smile librarian Thomas commented, "That's part of our work and we found what you wanted in the files of the Detroit Public Library. It was just another part of our service.

This type of service was unknown in what are referred to as "the good old days," If the poem couldn't be found in the local library, that was it. There was no further effort.

Another thing that has changed is the manner of the clients when they approach the counter.

"Some of the women just want to come in and talk. And the men, too. It is a place for them to take a short respite from trudging around down-

"And we are always glad to welcome them for a short visit," librarian T' om-

While sitting there chatting, she recalled that she was attracted to library work when still a student in high

"The teacher and the librarian were always so cheerful and accomodating and seeminglly relaxed," she said, "that I made up my mind that I would become a librarian. And here I am.

In a recent research program Contour Analysis screening tests disclosed 94% of the scoliosis cases found to be positive by x-ray examination

Contour Analysis involves taking a "three dimensional" picture (Called Moire photography) of the surface of the back to help detect postural distortions. This analysis will be correlated with leg deficiency, patient symptomotology, and levels of spinal tenderness. Such composite examinations may indicate such things as normal and abnormal stress patterns.

EACH CANDIDATE was asked issue questions and responded as follows:

Q. What are the major plans or problems associated with the present form of government in Wayne County that you would work to correct in writing a new charter?

Wiegand: Fragmentation of authority and responsibility. We need to have an administrator who is in charge, especially in the area of budget and finance.

Wendover: The largest problem facing Wayne County (and from which most other county woes stem) is the lack of clearly defined responsibility. A charter (with either the appointive or elective administrator form - and those forms should be widely varying) should pinpoint authority. Additionally, a well-written charter should facilitate the administration of county services without further fostering the imagined rivalry between Detroit and the outcounty areas. A good charter will benefit us all fairly.

Holland: The major problems as I see them are: 1.) lack of centralized authority; 2.) failure to set priorities; 3.) inability to solve problems in an organized and efficient manner. 4.) lack of inter-departmental cooperation.

Hink: One of the major problems with the present form of Wayne County government is the absence of an exeuc-see the various county departments and agencies. In drafting a new county charter. I would advocate the creation of an elected countywide chief executive whose responsibility would be to oversee and control the various departments and agencies of county government. The various department and agency heads would be directly responsible to the county executive.

Hammonds: The major problem with the present form of government is its lack of cohesiveness. Having a county executive should correct some of this since all departments except those headed by elected officials will come under the authority of this individual. Another problem is overspending. Hopefully when a county executive is in office with veto power some of the excessive spending will be curtailed.

Foley: The major problems of Wayne County are that authority and responsibility are so widely diffused, that it is tive branch with the authority to over- frequently difficult or impossible to new, workable system is needed if pinpoint responsibility for particular problems or functions. County government is fragmented and inefficient.

Berg: 1.) Financial planning and fiscal responsibility; 2.) Redefine the responsibilities of the road commission and the drain commission to have them be more responsive to the needs of the communities they serve.

Q. Do you support a "yes" or "no" vote on the Aug. 5 proposal to establish a charter commission? Give the reasons for you position and indicate whether you are publicly advocating that position.

Holland: I support a "yes" vote. The main reason why I support the charter commission is obvious to anyone who looks at Wayne County government the old system has failed badly and a quality services are to be maintained.

Wiegand: I will publicly advocate a "no" vote Aug. 5 on the proposal to establish a charter commission. The present districts based upon the 1970 census figures are an insult the the fair ing to see the lack of reorganization principal of "one man-one vote." There support from the out-county areas has been an obvious shift in population which seem to be losing the 1980 cenwithin the county since 1970. I feel we sus basis drive. We need a new charter should wait until the updated 1980 cen- now. If the voters don't restructure sus figures are available so that the county government, the courts will districts can be redrawn to reflect reality. Additionally, such an important proposal should appear on the ballot in an even-numbered year when the majority of municipalities within the county will be holding regular elec- tive who has the authority to coorditions. I support the lawsuit recently nate all administrative operations of filed and I hope the circuit court will county government and who is accountissue a restraining order to prevent the clerk from placing any names on the ballot for charter commission posts. Berg: Yes. Any movement toward reform is a forward movement.

Wendover: By all means, vote "yes' on Wayne County reorganization. I advocate that at every opportunity in my campaign and have asked my opponents to do so as well. (All my literature supports that stand.) It is distresseventually do it.

Foley: I support a "yes" vote and I publicly advocate that position. I believe Wayne County must adopt a charter which provides for a county execuable for that. As presently structured there is overlap between executive and legislative functions and a lack of clear lines of authority and accountability.

County charter commission hopefuls give views

Hammonds: Yes, the county needs an executive to administrate and correlate the various departments, boards and commissions. In order to have a county executive it is necessary to have a charter with provisions and terms set. Whoever finally becomes executive would then have guidelines as to the limits and responsibilities of the position. Wayne County needs someone to take control and coordin, te all the various functions to eliminate any duplication of services that may exist and enable the system to perform more effi-

Hink: Though I believe a new charter is needed. I support a "no" vote on the Aug. 5 proposal to establish a charter commission if the districts are apportioned as per the census. In the period betweent the 1970 and 1980 census, there has been a major shift in population from the city of Detroit to its outlying suburban areas. As a result, the majority of the population in Wayne County is in the suburban districts. By not apportioning the charter commission districts based upon the 1980 census, the majority of the population of Wayne County is not adequately represented under the present apportionment plan

Q. Do you support the concept of an elected or appointed chief executive officer? What powers and duties would you grant this office? What role should this person play in relation to the board of commissioners and the other elected officials?

Hink: I support the concept of an elected chief executive officer. The chief executive officer's powers and duties as the executive branch of county government should be to direct and control the day-to-day operation of the various departments and agencies of county government. The county executive branch should also initiate and recommend various legislation to the board of commissioners for their approval. The chief executive officer would have the executive function of county government and the board of comissioners' function should be that of a purely legislative body. The relationship between the county executive and the statutory elected county department heads should be that of consultation and coordination of operations of these departments with the board of commissioners.

Hammonds: Elected - the voters should choose the county executive just as they choose the executive officials in every other unit of government, such as mayor, governor and president. The county executive should: supervise all non-elected departments and have the power of appointment and removal of those departments. Coordinate and unify functions where necessary. Recommend policies and budgets to the board of commissioners. Have the power of veto of legislation.

Foley: I believe there should be an elected county executive, directly responsible to the voters. The executive should have the authority to supervise, direct, control and coordinate the functions of all departments of the county, except those departments headed by an elected official. However, the personnel policies and financial policies and practices of those departments should be supervised and controlled by the county executive, acting through the personnel department and finance department. The executive should have authority to veto line items in the budget and also to appoint and remove members of the road commission.

Wiegand: I support the concept of an elected county executive to serve for a term of four years. He would submit recommendations to the board while attending meetings of the board with the right to participate, but not vote. He would prepare and submit to the board an annual county budget, enforce the orders and rules of the board, coordinate and unify the management of all county affairs, supervise, direct and control all departments of the county except those headed by elected officials. He would have authority to veto by line item all resolutions and appropriations of the board and could appoint and remove department heads with a majority concurrence of the board of commissioners

Berg: Yes, I support the concept of an appointed executive. Complete authority to manage the day to day operation of the county and to carry out the policies of the board of commissioners.

Wendover: I have mixed feelings here, but my guess is that in the long needed in the two types of charters are haul the appointed county manager form (properly constituted) would be the best for the county as a whole. If appointed, I would see the executive's relationship with the commissioners as being similar to those of a city manager to his/her council. The differences many - it is not, as some suggest, simply a matter of switching two paragraphs. The whole philosophy (from elected or appointed department heads to civil service) must be looked at throughout the charter. Basically, this issue is too complicated to have easy

Holland: I believe that the position of chief executive should closely parallel the mayor-city council relationship. The powers should be similar to those of a strong mayor. At this time, I have no firm position on elected vs. appoint-

Israeli guide knows the scriptures

BY SHERRY KAHAN

When members of the Berean Bible Church of Livonia tour the ancient city of Jericho in the late fall, they will be accompanied by a guide who is no stranger to many of them.

He is an Israeli named Ari Cohen, who recently made it his business to come to Livonia and visit the Rev. Roland DeRenzo, pastor of the church. With his wife, Rose, DeRenzo is hosting the upcom-

"I thought I'd be a better guide if I came to the U.S.A. and discovered what makes America tick," said Cohen

He has been sharpening the interest of the tour group with tales about the places they will go, giving them a preview of what they will see and hear. Cohen also has demonstrated his ability to quote scripture, chapter and verse, with ease. He said he tried "to make the scriptures vivid" for the many Christian groups he guides around the Holy Land.

"The scriptures have a different meaning at a time like that," he said. "They come alive when heard in the place where important Biblical events happened."

The tour will include several Mideast countries in addition to Israel. Participants will go first to Egypt, then to Jordan. They will drive into the Jordan Valley and cross the Jordan River over the Allenby Bridge into Israel. After visiting many sites in Israel, they will return to Jordan and drive north to Damascus, Syria, regarded as the oldest continually inhabited city in the world. From there they will return to the United States.

The tour is open to the public as well as to church members. Costing $1,399 per person. it will start Oct. 21 and return Nov. 2. More details are available from DeRenzo, 425-5585.

THE HOLY LAND adventure in Israel will begin with a close look at a city 9,000 years old, Jericho.

"We will try to show you the wall that came tumbling down," Cohen told a group of young people planning to make the trip. The fortress called Masada will be another stop. That is the place where a group of Jews held out against the Romans, finally killing themselves rather than sur-

Beersheba will be on the route along with Valley of Elah, where David killed Goliath.

"You can collect pebbles the way David did," promised the guide.

In Jerusalem, the tourists will walk in the footsteps of Christ.

"We will be in all the places he was," said Cohen. "We'll see a panoramic view from Mount of Olives, the two mosques and the temple esplanade where Jesus overturned the money tables."

Cohen warned the young people that the streets won't look the same as they did in the time of

"Children will try to sell you things," he said. "They are difficult to shake off.

"You will see women all covered up by their clothing, and you'll see women in high heels. Men will be bringing in goats and sheep, and the traffic will be going by.

"INSTEAD OF THE usual street sweeper, a nun in a long robe will be sweeping. Near her will be a fur-hatted rabbi with long side curls. "You will probably watch a sunrise and a sunset in Jerusalem. The city is built of light pink and white stone which reflects the lights. Cohen also cautioned the young people that they will be eating a lot of fruit and vegetables.

"You will need a magnifying glass to see the steaks," he laughed. Turkey, chicken, yogurt will also be served along with falafel, made of chick peas fried into balls and placed in pocket bread, he

"Our salads are different," he said. "Yours are lettuce. Ours are made of cucumbers, tomatoes, and onions chopped small, with dressing

The guide, who served with the British Army in Italy during World War II, said the trip should offer participants a chance to see the contrast between

It gradually dawned on me that speakers are sending us a subtle message by referring to the dream world of Alice. I would rather be direct. Let's be alert to our temptation to retreat into fantasy when problems seem overwhelming.

Cooperative spirit makes 'disaster plan' click

Darlene Adas of Walled Lake has spent the better part of a week cooking up huge batches of chili and stew for Canton Township residents who are without electricity because of last week's severe wind

A man named Clark travels from Rochester to Canton, then spends hours passing out dry ice and knocking on doors to make sure residents are holding up without power or phone.

Mrs. Adas is a volunteer with the American Red Cross. Clark, whose parents live in Canton, is with the Civil Air Patrol.

They are just two of the dozens - perhaps hundreds - of people who have pitched in to help after one of the worst wind storms in recent years. The storm tossed trees, snapped power lines and blew away fences, roofs and garages.

It also came during a period when temperatures soared into the 90s for several days.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS are to be congratulated for their swift implementation of a "disaster plan," which was set up several years ago to deal with storms, tornadoes and the like.

The plan included rounding up dry ice for free distribution to residents; information about fresh drinking water; emergency phone numbers, and other details.

Township employees - including police, firefighters and clerical help - worked long hours assisting residents.

Volunteer help poured in, ranging from Jaycees distributing canned food to people arranging to deliver hot meals to senior citizens in a mobile home

Help included several food chains and local transport firms that donated refrigerated trucks and railroad box cars so residents could store fastspoiling meat.

THESE FEW individuals and organizations are mentioned to show what type of help is available. There are others, many others.

They know who they are, and they share in the

Unfortunately, some victims of the storm weren't as grateful. They include those who turned up their noses at bologna sandwiches prepared by Red Cross to residents who ranted because they had to wait in line for dry ice.

The ice was paid for out of a $30,000 disaster

Now that things are almost back to normal, township officials should review their plan and see if it needs to be tightened.

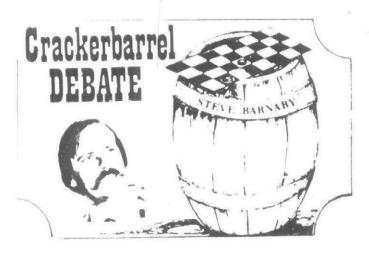

Does the plan need to be reviewed more often? Is there enough communication between officials and

Are the residents fully aware of the services available under the plan?

Take a good, hard look at the plan, But first, take a breather.

WITH 12,000 DELEGATES, alternates and media employees staying at hotels, motels and private homes, we saw a national story become a batch of local stories.

Our writers and editors told how the conventions affected our towns, and businesses, and they followed the caucuses of visiting delegations.

Our coverage of the Republican National Convention was an example of community journalism at its best — timely coverage of a national event in the context of how and why it affected you and your from readers about our convention coverage And let me tell you something, folks: It was a struggle, but one that was well worth it.

Community newspapers have been kicking around for a lot of years. But their definition and challenge continually are changing. Readers and journalists, alike, have disparate views on the sub-

But last week, we proved that we can deliver, despite the fact that the national party treated us in the same category as the college, village weekly and foreign press.

Our seating was in the balcony, and we had to finagle to get floor passes.

BUT TIMES are changing. At this year's GOP convention, there were more than 300 non-daily publications at the convention — a record.

Every year, more persons are turning to their community newspaper to find out what's happening. You depend on us, and we didn't want to let you

We're still not perfect, and we still have to try harder. But this week we're proud. There will be u more weeks like this in the future.

Will politicians turn back the free enterprise clock?

The elderly gent at the luncheon table the other day caused a bit of eyebrow lifting when he commented on the recent GOP convention, " I listened to the candidates and the other political leaders say they were going to turn the country around. I just wonder how far they'll turn it.

"Could it be that they will turn it around far enough to bring back the free enterprise system on which our country was built?" he went on, and then

"I don't think they will go back to the days of our Pilgrim fathers and adopt the policy of those who didn't put anything into the common storehouse couldn't take anything out."

NO DOUBT he had in mind the recent maneuver in which Chrysler Corp., the No. 3 auto maker in the country, pleaded with the government for a loan guarantee — and got it — to stave off bankruptcy.

And no doubt the elderly gent had in mind those who are in long lines to collect unemployment compensation and making little effort to get back to

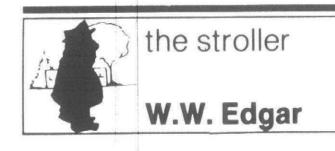

There is no doubt he had in mind the recent attempt to get Japanese automakers - now our chief competition — to cut their sales in the United

AS HE LISTENED. The Stroller couldn't help recalling the days of his youth back in Pennsylvania when the only source of family income was a sixstool lunch counter and the only commercial pool table in town.

The lunch counter was all The Stroller's father left behind when he shuffled off this mortal coil. And for a long time, it was sufficient for mother and her five children. Then one day an enterprising gent came to town, opened a first class restaurant and shouted, "It will be what this town needs."

It wasn't long until the townfolk forgot the widow and her five children. Little by little, the sales in our lunch counter fell off. We had to admit defeat and close the enterprise.

There was no pleading to the town's officials for financial help - as Chrysler did. There was no pleading with the owner of the new restaurant to reduce his sales in order that our widowed mother's lunch counter could survive.

No, there was none of that. We were victims of the free enterprise system and had to close shop.

IT WAS THE SAME when we ran smack into a depression and men were laid off at the industrial plants around town.

There was no unemployment compensation in those days, no lining up every week and getting up to 95 per cent-of your former earnings just for not working.

The unemployment plan was fine at the start when a fellow had to report at the plant each morning to apply for work. If there was no work, he would be given a card stating that fact and he could use that card for unemployment compensation.

And the big rule at the start was that you had to take any job offered. Now you get compensation if there is no work in your category.

So, it was no surprise when the elderly gent at the luncheon table wondered just how far politicians would go when they shouted from the rostrum, "We are going to turn this country around."

Leadership tax plan avoids pitfall

Sometimes you know a thing is good not by the friends it collects but by its enemies.

Take the tax shift plan placed on the Nov. 4 ballot by Gov. William Milliken and the legislative leader ship. It might be pretty good.

I arrive at this tentative conclusion by reading an angry letter in one of the daily papers from a farmer from out Chelsea way. He calls the leadership plan "neither sensible nor equitable tax relief as we understand it." By "we" he appears to mean

'A flat relief of $350 for all homeowners and $140 for renters, regardless of the amount of tax they pay, is very inequitable," says The Farmer.

"Farmers pay thousands of dollars more property taxes than homeowners for the privilege of providing food for the nation and the world — " and he proceeds to rhapsodize about The Farmer as if he grew food out of the goodness of his heart.

THE FLAW of this farmer's criticism is that he equates property taxes on a house with property

A farm is more than a house. It is also a manufacturing plant - land, machinery, barns, stock and

It would be wrong to give tax relief to the entire value of the farm unless the state also gave property tax relief to the factories, stores and offices where city folks produce the food, clothing, appliances, automobiles, trucks, fertilizer, tractors, newspapers, TV and radio programs which the

The Smith-Bullard tax shift plan, however, falls into this trap. It proposes to eliminate school property taxes on homes and farms — making no distinction between the home portion of the farm and the manufacturing portion.

Smith-Bullard then proceeds to spread industrial and business property taxes statewide, so that the farmer can use urban folks's tax bases but give up nothing in return.

HERE ARE SOME other provisions of the Milliken-Leadership tax shift plan:

 It would exempt the first $6,500 of state equalized value on homes ($13,000 in actual value). That exemption is increased annually with inflation.

· It would pay back local government for lost property tax revenue. • It would grant a flat $140 property tax credit to

• It would maintain the present "circuit breaker"

property tax credit. • It would repair one of the flaws in the 1978

Headlee tax limitation amendment by excluding personal property (machinery and business inventory) in computing the increase in property values for the annual tax rate rollback. Experts say the effect of the rollback is less than intended in highly industrialized areas because personal property fails to rise with inflation the same way real estate does.

THERE IS, of course, a price to pay for these wonderful property tax cuts.

The price would be an increase the sales tax from the current 4 percent to 5.5 percent — but the sales tax on utility bills (a highly inflationary item in recent years) would be phased out entirely

In pure economic theory, the sales tax is supposed to be regressive and the income tax the ideal way to do things. But according to Lt. Gov. James Brickley, polls show Michigan voters hate the property tax most and the income tax next most, but they don't think the sales tax is so bad.

It's beginning to look as if Milliken and the legislative leadership came up with a good idea. If a selfish farmer squawks, it must be good.

Look 'into' a picture for the feelings, ideas

So you've developed an interest in photography, and you've just spent a few hundred dollars on a new camera, with all the latest features. You've even purchased a good "how-to" book, maybe taken a class, and you're getting a good understanding of the fundamental mechanics of photography.

If so, you are off to a good start, and you should feel good about your photographic growth thus far. But there is another area of stimulation, very important to your photographic growth, which unfortunately too few photographers pursue.

I refer to this as the area of "looking at picture."

HOW MANY OF YOU have been to the photography department in the Detroit Institute of Arts or the many area libraries which host photo exhibits?

How many have seen the photography exhibits in the Halsted Gallery in Birmingham, the Eloquent Light Gallery in Rochester, or the Blixt Gallery in Ann Arbor?

There is a tremendous amount of knowledge you can gain by looking closely a photographs. Museum and gallery personnel are eager to help you with whatever questions you may have.

Study photographs carefully. Look for things such as composition, how the photographer uses light, and how he performs in the darkroom.

Look "into" the picture — see what the photographer is feeling and what he is trying to say.

Did you know you can learn a lot about a photographer by closely studying his work? Look at the magnificent landscapes and vibrant print quality of an Ansel Adams photograph or the simple subtleties of an Imogen Cunningham still life.

You'll learn a great deal about the personalities if you do. Also, your appreciation of photography will be enhanced, your own photographic growth stimu-

BEGIN COLLECTING BOOKS. Not just "howto" books but photography picture books.

Study the works of the masters. Learn technique and style. Photography books are an inexpensive way to have and enjoy many photographs.

Consider investing in photographic prints. There are many outstanding, young photographers whose work can be purchased at very reasonable prices. Even the works of many well-known photographers can be obtained at affordable prices.

Photography can be a handsome investment. But first and foremost, any purchase should be based primarily on your enjoyment of the print.

Perhaps the best book available today to help you get started in "seeing picture" is "The Photograph Collector's Guide" by Lee Witkin. This book covers the history of photography, contains a guide of exhibition photographers with biographies and samples of their works, and has much information to stimulate your interest in photography - and help you to "see" pictures.

RITA AND DON McDonald couldn't have received a more thoughtful wedding anniversary present from their four children. It was a framed photograph of their family and a poem. Daughter Linda Giguere wrote the poem and Rita sheds a few tears every time she reads it. The title is, simply, MOM AND DAD

Your family is grown, your job well completed.

There'll never be a time when you're both not needed We're all on our own, gone our sepa-

Our love for you both will last day to

Here's something to look at, enjoy and to cherish

Our closeness and love for each other won't perish, We're all together in this portrait

And though we're apart, in our memories we'll look

The rough times, the good times, the hard times, the bad,

These make us realize you're the best moni and dad. Your raising us four wasn't easy to

You think your job's done? We've got news for you.

The grandkids are here, so don't you give up

We still need your guidance and advice to lead us

So someday OUR kids can be proud and glad,

So someday they can say we're the best mom and dad.

The framed poem was signed by all four, Linda, Karen Ball, Donald McDonald and Gary McDonald.

Rita Ladouceur and Donald McDonald were married July 24, 1948, in Epiphany Catholic Church, Detroit. They moved to Plymouth two years ago when Don became maintenancemanager of Tonquish Creek Manor. Rita works part-time at the Cozy Cafe. They have three grandchildren.

MARSHA LIVERMORE just returned from a busy eight days in New Orleans as a delegate to the Alpha Chi Omega National Convention. Marsha serves the sorority as district alumnae chairman of Michigan and is immediate past president of the Detroit Metropolitan Chapter. Alpha Chi Omega is a national sorority which will be celebrating its 95th birthday this fall. Founded at DePauw University in Greencastle, Ind., there are five collegiate chapters in Michigan. Marsha is a Central Michigan University graduate.

More than 800 alumnae and collegiates attended the convention. They were involved in a round of workshops and officer training sessions. New officers were elected and constitutional changes voted on.

Cystic fibrosis and Easter Seals are the main philanthropic endeavors, while the sorority supports Star Studio at MacDowell Colony in Peterborough, N.H. The colony is a place for creative artists - composers, painters, sculptors or writers. They can go there to get away from it all and work in an atmosphere free from noise, tension and interruption. Star studio was built by Alpha Chi Omega in 1911. There are three groups in the Detroit area which meet in the western Wayne suburbs, Grosse Pointes, northeast area and Birmingham. The Western Wayne chapter includes residents of Plymouth, Canton, Northville and Plymouth.

TWO CANTON residents, Monica Wroblewski and Junaid Mazhar, attended the second summer session at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp.

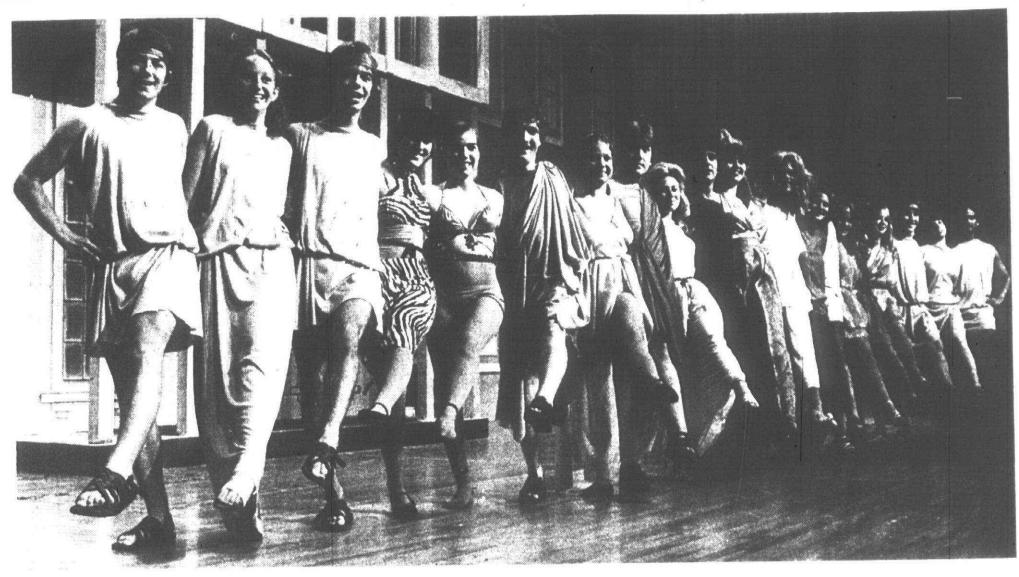

Monica, a band major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wroblewski of Forrest Street, and Junaid an art major, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. M. Mazhar of Longwood. He attends Central Middle School and studied sketching and oil painting at Blue Lake.

The fine arts camp is 15 miles north of Muskegon in the Manistee National Forest. The summer school of the arts has grown, in 15 years, to be one of the largest facilities of its type in the United States. The camp will host more than 3,600 elementary through high school students this summer.

MEMBERS of the Plymouth Community Chorus were amazed when Mickey Kivell, past president, told them Gloria Logan, head of the Massachusetts delegation to the Republican Convention, had asked if the chorus could come to Massachusetts. They are

Growth Works programs keep youths busy

Their skills have progressed so much they have taken on the job of building a 21/2-car garage. When they started out a couple of years ago, cleaning debris out of Tonquish Creek, the work was definitely menial.

The task force is a group of 16- to 19year-olds who are participants in two Growth Works programs, the Youth Community Conservation Improvement Project (YCCIP, which rhymes with hiccup) and the Youth Employment Training Program (YETP).

The former is the senior program begun three years ago. The present group started last November. By the time a new session begins Nov. 1, participants will have earned up to three high school credits; they may be back in school working toward graduation diplomas; or they may have full-time employment. Those are the goals of the help them cope with the future.

Youth in YCCIP are from the city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township and Northville. YETP participants are from Canton Township and the Belleville area.

Both programs have been refunded for next year and and both are carefully monitored. The U.S. Labor Department gave them an exemplary rating. and Manpower found they had 100 percent compliance with stated grant requirements. The 30-40 area businesses involved in the program gave them 100 percent on positive placement of persons employed through the programs.

Before they are ready for the work world they receive training at the Growth Works facility on Main Street. Interpersonal development is an important phase of this preparation. To be successful on the job, they must be able to get along with their fellow employees. So they discuss the difference in beliefs and values of others whom they may meet in an effort to better understand and deal with on-the-job contacts.

"When we're on a job, they take over the program. The job of crew leader rotates and they are responsible for a smooth running operation. Each has a

ONE GROUP is building the garage at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

They broke the sod, dug the footings and built the cement forms. A professional company poured the cement floor. The youths did the framing, the roof and the siding. They will shingle the roof, put on the siding, insulate, do some of the electrical work, dry wall then paint the interior and do the landscaping.

Jim Grimmer finds the projects for the group. They receive the minimum ($3.10 per hour) wage. The YCCIP people can earn a wage increase. The YETP members can earn bonuses. Both depend on initiative, cooperation and attendance.

When Grimmer made the rounds in the fall, looking for jobs, he talked to government officials in Northville and Plymouth. The work is free to the communities. All they have to do is provide the materials.

The Growth Works people worked at the Northville Community Center. They painted the gymnasium, bathrooms, offices and kitchen and partitioned the locker room. They tiled a floor and are in the process of scraping and painting the exterior trim.

Another Northville job was painting the exterior of the DPW building and staining the exterior of the salt shed. They also painted the bay doors

'Oh, the little things we took for granted'

This was certainly a week to remember, wasn't it? Ask many a Canton domestic engineer, or to be quaint housewife, what it's like to do without modern conveniences for three-five days and they'll chatter your ears off.

After doing without electricity for five days, it's now a thrill to open the freezer and see ice cubes, and be able to have a cold soft drink. Oh, the little things we took so much for granted.

I've loved a line from Joan Rivers I heard several years ago. She said, "No wonder women hate housework. First, it isn't appreciated. Secondly, you scrub the floor, vacuum, wash clothes, wash dishes, and make the beds, and why? Six months later you have to do it all over again.'

Well, like many others, I had my big chance. Five days without housework

I confess, I made the beds every day, scrubbed the floor because I couldn't stand the mud, and for fear of mildew setting in, I even went to the coin laundry Friday. I kept putting dishes in the dishwasher hoping the electricity would be on any moment, but when it was full, I had to break down and wash them by hand. But, I did not vacuum!

BUT THIS just recounts the inconveniences during the past week. Many people in Canton suffered much more than inconvenience.

I'm sure most of you have seen pictures of garages that collapsed on cars. Siding was torn off many houses, there were numerous broken windows, a Florida room was completely torn off a home, trailers were blown over, and our town has a lot fewer trees than we had last week.

I'm sure we're all thankful the storm didn't last any longer than it did, and that there were no more serious injuries than occurred.

We also can be thankful for all the good in people that came out. Several people rented generators and shared freezer space with friends and neighbors. As people reacquired electricity, they were quick to call friends and share freezer space and much needed

Luckily, I have a gas stove. Gas stoves were also a much shared item.

I can report a pleasant situation at the laundry, while unfortunately, Linda Minsterman found people fighting for and over washers and dryers. I guess part of the difference was that I went Friday and she went Saturday. Patience was beginning to wear thinner

GENERALLY SPEAKING, neighbors pitched right in to help neighbors. With no television, most neighborhoods report getting out and getting to know each other better. I even found out Lee "the bachelor" had a real last name Suchorski. And if good fences make good neighbors, hang on folks. There's a whole lot of fence mending going on as privacy fences proved to be a favorite target of the storm.

Many homeowners now report they'll never own a metal back yard shed after having their home's architecture changed by flying sheds. Linda Havens reports seeing a barbecue sailing down the middle of her street about six inches off the ground.

It was certainly not a cold ay in July as ice, in any form, was about the hardest item to find. Canton Township sent trucks to Toledo, Lansing and Saginaw in search of dry ice. To the 100 persons waiting at township hall, it seemed for a while they might as well have sent them to the moon. But even as temperatures rose and food thawed, most people remained cool and friendly.

"Gee, haven't seen you in a long time. What have you been up to?" could be heard over and again during the many hours wait.

I HAPPENED to shop Kmart in Canton for my candles and flash lights. Thank you, Kmart, for marking your prices down on these items during a time of need. It's a good feeling knowing many area merchants helped in this

On the other hand, there ere those individuals who charged whatever people in desperation could afford for tree removal, bag ice and dry ice. I suppose it does indeed take all kinds to make the world go round, but greed in this fashion is, at best, disgusting.

While the cleanup and rehashing of last week's storm will go on for weeks, we'll all get back into the swing of every day life. And if your golf swing helps get your mind off storm damage for a while, why not go out to the Newcomer's best ball outing, Saturday, July 26. Call Joe Sobditch at 981-1518 for reservations and more details.

The Newcomers also will be having a family picnic in August. For information, call Cynthia Betley at 459-2528.

Businessman Ted Griffore of Gladwin will be the principal speaker at the 7 p.m. dinner meeting on Friday, July 18, of the Northville-Plymouth-Livonia Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessman's Fellowship held at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

The musical part of the program will be provided by gospel singer and pianist Rocky Berra of Westland, a soloist for the United Assembly of God in

A former resident of Plymouth, he was brought up in the Catholic Church. He owned and managed an auto parts firm in Dearborn for 10 years before moving to Gladwin. While living in Plymouth, he assisted in founding the fellowship and served as its secretary.

Cost of the event is $8 plus a 15 percent gratuity. Make a reservation by sending a check payable to FGBF to P.O. Box 5332, Northville 48167 by July

How to submit news items to newspaper

News of clubs, service organizations. engagements, weddings and wedding anniversaries are printed without cost in the Suburban Life Section of the Plymouth Observer and Canton Observer newspapers.

News items may be dropped off or mailed to the office at 461 S. Main St.; Plymouth 48170. Special forms are available for club news, engagements, weddings and 50th wedding anniversary announcements.

Black and white pictures are preferred as they reproduce more clearly than color photos. A self-addressed, stamped envelope assures return of the pictures, or, they can be picked up at the office a week after they have been published. Mail should be addressed to the attention of Elinor Graham, Suburban Life editor.

Activities of more major scope than regular club meetings may warrant more extensive coverage and a photograph. Call the newspaper, 459-2700, well in advance of the event to permit scheduling a photograph.

Breaking news stories (and we appreciate telephone calls on these these) like fires, accidents, etc., receive onthe-spot coverage.

Other events, planned for in advance, should be announced a week or so before the actual date

Persons who have been appointed to publicity positions in their clubs should try to attend the special public relations seminar that is arranged early each October.

Thomas Gotts, Plymouth resident who teaches art in the Taylor School District, drew the Old Village Cannon Park picture for the Plymouth Community Arts Council postcard collection.

Gordon Eddy, advertising art director for Campbell-Ewald, made the pencil drawings of the Main Street railroad crossing and the old coal and lumber company by the tracks.

Credit for the latter two postcards was given to Gotts in a recent story about the PCAC postcards.

Arsenal kickers

Livonia and Plymouth residents have made a significant contribution this season to the soccer success of Arsenal - a team comprised of boys 13-14 years of age. The squad, which already has won five titles, will venture to Cincinnati this weekend to compete in the United States Soccer Association Midwest Regional. Arsenal earned that right by winning the Michigan Cup - the state championship - for its age

But that's not all. Just last weekend the team edged M.M. Marconi of London, Ontario, 3-2, to win the championship game of the Essex County Invitational Soccer Tournament. Earlier, Arsenal finished first during the regular season in the Bonanza-Express Soccer League, won the Bonanza-Express playoffs and the Buckeye Invitational, which was contested in Cincinnati.

The team consists of Livonia residents Andrew Crawford, Terry Harshfield, Mike Kolacz, Chris Banyai, Brett Murphy, Kevin Patterson and Eric Pence.

Bob Bowling, Matt Crook and Tom Wright reside in Plymouth, Scott Gala, Mickey McGrath, Jeff Metz and Steve Starcevich live in Northville, and John Brennan and Peter Stoyonovich live in Dearborn.

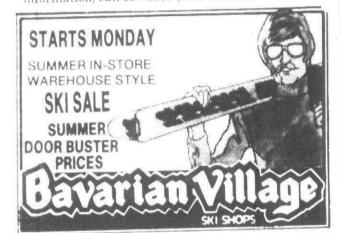

John Starcevich, coach of Arsenal, is impressed with the team's success this season. "I can't tell you exactly what our record is. We have 40 or 38 wins and two losses -, something like that," he said.

"The local program is now starting to bear some fruit on a national level," Starcevich add-

The recent hot spell seems to be just what the doctor ordered for Larry Franz' bowling game.

While others have been bothered by the heat and the humidity, he has been reaching new heights, especially in the summer leagues at Bel-Aire Lanes.

In the space of a week, he has posted two 279 series. The first of these came Sunday in a make-up of the trio league when he rolled the 279 that was the high single of the While Franz took high single, Wally Evans put together games of 204, 245, 265 and 232 for 936 to pace the Franz came right back Monday night and not only rolled another 279 but set the pace for the entire group when he followed with games of 234, 212, and 234 for a 953.

These two big blasts boosted his average in the Trio league to 209, and he is only three pins short of the average in the Kings and Queens. At these figures, he is considered the "hottest" bowler in the area.

THE TUESDAY ALL-STAR league that bowled for the past six years at Thunderbowl is still without a home since the recent storm made a shambles of the Allen Park complex.

Several invitations have been extended, but the league is waiting to see what progress is being made to restore at least one section of the damaged lanes in the hope that the site will still be "home" to the league.

When the storm hit last week, the north section with its 20 lanes suffered the least damage. It is possible that the roof can be repaired in time to permit bowling to continue by the start of the season.

WHILE THUNDERBOWL was being leveled, Satellite Bowl in Dearborn Heights and Ford Lanes in Taylor also were hit, but the damage was not enough to prevent the resumption of league play next month.

ELVIRA TOEPFER, four-time Detroit Bowling Queen, has drawn an outstanding partner for the Great versus the Greatest Tournament being sponsored by th Brunswick Co. next month in Las Vegas.

The star of the Jac-Ro team in the ladies all-star leagues, has been paired with Donna Adamek, the "Bowler of the Year' who won the event last year with Dottie Fothergill as a partner.

On the men's side the Michigan bowlers also drew strong partners. Joe Joseph of Lansing has been paired with Marshall Holman again. This pair won the inaugural event two years ago.

In the other pairings, Ed Lubanksi has been given Don Johnson, of the star of the pro circuit, as a partner, and Bill Golembiewski will share the spotlight with Carmen Salvino.

Matt Etienne and Marty Kendell carried big bats for Redford Adray last weekend when Redford defeated and tied Westland in an Livonia Adray League baseball doubleheader.

Etienne smacked two home runs to lead Redford to a 10-5 victory in the first game. Kendell hit safely seven of eight times at-bat during the twin bill. All of his hits were singles.

Kendell also punched an RBI-single in the sixth inning.

Save This Map. It Could Save Your Life.

This map—courtesy of WDMC FM104—is specifically designed to help you pinpoint the location of reported tornadoes. So please, carefully choose—in advance—a safe tornado shelter. Then paste this map up on the wall.

When a tornado threatens, listen to WOMC FM104 for exclusive, accuweather reports and follow these basic safety rules:

- Stay away from windows, doors and outside walls. Protect your head.
- In homes and small buildings, go to the basement or to an interior part on the lowest level. Get under something sturdy.
- In schools, factories, shopping centers or other public places, move to pre-designated shelter areas. Interior hallways on lowest floors are best.

• In mobile homes or vehicles, leave them and go to more substantial shelter.

• If outdoors, and no shelter is nearby, lie flat in the nearest ditch or ravine and shield head with arms.

Tornado Watch: Tornadoes and severe thunderstorms are possible. Tornado Warning: Tornado detected. Take shelter immediately.

Low tar/good taste combination scores impressive 3-to-1 victory over leading high tar brands.

There's a low tar cigarette that's challenging high tar smoking—and winning.

The cigarette: MERIT.

High Tars Suffer Setback

Nationwide smoker research documents that smokers prefer MERIT.

Blind Taste Tests: In tests where brand identity was concealed, a significant majority of smokers rated the taste of low tar MERIT as good as—or better than—leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar!

Smoker Preference: Among the 95% of smokers stating a preference, the MERIT low tar/good taste combination was favored 3 to 1 over high tar leaders when tar levels were revealed!

Long-Term Satisfaction: In the latest survey of former high tar smokers who have switched to MERIT, 9 out of 10 reported they continue to enjoy smoking; are glad they switched, and reported MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried!

MERIT is the proven alternative to high tar smoking. And you can taste it.

Classical

Could it be the music for the masses?

By GERI CRAWFIS

Who are the classical music lovers, opera buffs and symphony fans? Where do they live and work? Are they Ivy League suburbanites, blue collar workers, college students, or all three?

Not all the answers are available, but one thing is certain: A lot of people support classical music.

And WQRS-FM (105.1) hopes to grab them all.

"Our aim is to become America's finest classical station," says Lee Hanson, who returned from San Diego in December to become general manager of the station which recently began 24-hour broadcasting and dropped all non-classical music programming.

"I came back for the chance to do it. It is fun, a different kind of radio," says Hanson, who has worked at Channel 50 and WNIC-FM, among other stations.

Speaking of WQRS, he says: "It is amazing the number of people who know we age here, yet don't know we are here. They know there is a classical music station somewhere, but they can't identi-

The station conducted a survey, trying to identify listeners and provide figures for advertisers. According to Hanson, over 10,500 questionaires have been sent to listeners, upon their request, with an anticipated return of 98 percent.

Hanson admits he was, and still is, amazed at the overwhelming

"Usually the person who listens to classical music does not want to be imposed upon to tell," he says. Plans are to relocate the station to larger quarters in the fall. There will be a studio where chamber music and other programs can be presented; for a live audience. Less tangible are plans to remove the stuffiness from classical music. Hanson's philosophy is that classics should be openly heard and enjoyed by people in all walks of life. It's relaxing and should

'We want to get away from the highbrow image," he said. "The assembly line worker should not be embarrassed to listen to classical music.

Recalling his own introduction to the classics, he noted, "Classical music has been an important part of my family life. I went to concerts at a young age with my mother, who was taking a music appreciation class.

Although he claims the station's library of 27,000 classical albums is not large, there is a good variety of material from opera, quintets, concerts, and full symphony presentations that are played throughout the day and night.

To round out the programming, "Film Classics," music from motion pictures, airs at 7 p.m. Friday; and the Boston Pops and "Big Band Beat" are featured Saturday from 7 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Billy Joel: The big money rolls in

By NICK CHARLES

The piano man, Billy Joel, comes to the Joe Louis Arena on Monday.

The first sound heard on Joel's new album is the sound of breaking glass. It's supposedly the sound of Joel's own picture window being shattered by a stone thrown by none other than the owner himself preview called The album,

"Glass Houses," has a picture of Joel's new estate on the cover. It will be in the spotlight during his

Joel has been around the music world for a long time, but the big money started rolling in after his first record, called "The Stranger.

The album included the hits "Movin' Out," "Only the Good Die Young," "She's Always a Woman" and the love song "Just the Way You Are." Joel, who started piano at the age of 4 in Long Island, NY, still has the reputation of a tough kid. His albums are a careful mixture of "I don't care what you say" and "If you search for tenderness, it isn't hard to find."

It's true that Billy Joel writes all of his own music and lyrics. But the cherry on top is the way he performs them.

The Billy Joel concert has been rescheduled for 8 p.m. Monday. Tickets are sold out.

THE 1980 WORLD AMATEUR PLIMPTON CUP TOURNAMENT

The 19-point finals match proceeded between Wayne Drogseth of Las Vegas and Russell Sands of Los Angeles. The score at this point is 10-2, with Sands (white) capturing a healthy lead in the race toward victory

In this position, Drogseth (black) is on roll. But before rolling the dice, he decides to turn the cube to 2. Would you have doubled the cube to your opponent if you were black?

Should white accept the cube (and continue the game), or refuse the cube (losing one)point) and begin another game?

Black seems to have gotten off to a good start. By holding his bar point (7 point), he is effectively blacking white from running. White's previous roll was a 6-5; with little choice, he slotted on his bar point with the 6 in hope of covering the blot on the next roll if he wasn't hit.

At this point, black doubles the cube to white. In tournament play, this is a good double. The pressure exerted on white at this point should have forced him out of the game. Why?

White has a great lead in the 19-point match. Why jeopardize two points when he could easily take a one-point loss and begin again? White's position is not that terrible. But being pinned on the 1 point, white is certainly not going to escape very

Although the game did not look promising, white accepted the double and black proceeded to roll double 5s, missing white but strengthening his White covered the 7 point blot on his next roll, forming his own little prime.

Black again rolled double 5s, forcing him to move at a much faster pace than he expected.

The cube was soon redoubled to 4, forcing black out of the game with another two-point loss. That's backgammon!

Jack Webb meets David Nelson

"- 30 -" (1959), 12:30 Monday night on Channel 50. Originally 96 minutes.

Jack Webb is back, playing the same hard-boiled character which he originated in the "Dragnet" series (made into a movie in 1954 and again in '69) and followed up on in the 1957 film "The D.I.," meaning Army drill instructor.

This time, though, he's night editor of a large, metropolitan daily, barking out commands to a loyal, hard-working staff who no doubt think of him as "tough but fair." Among the staff are city editor

Robert Conrad, copy boy David Nelson, Joe Flynn and Richard Deacon.

Here's a film in the tradition of Humphrey Bogart's 1952 "Deadline U.S.A." or James Cagney's 1951 "Come Fill the Cup" - only funnier. The '50s must have been a popular time for ridiculing the press in the name of Hollywood B movies.

Yes, this film is pure hype — albeit entertaining hype. It's the sort of picture that's as unintentionally amusing as it is unintentionally bad. Conrad's speech on "What is a newspaper" is remarkably camp. If you didn't know better, you might think this was a Andy Warhol version of life on a big city

Topping it all is a music score that's a combination of typewriter noises and a bad impression of the '50s beatnik beat. Put it all together and you've got a five star film that could choke a bulldog.

"The Uninvited" (1944), 12:30 Thursday night on Channel 50. Originally 98 minutes.

The modern day "masters" of the horror film those who rely upon violence, gore and/or shocker endings to disturb their audiences - should pay close attention to this Lewis Allen film starring Ray Milland, Ruth Hussey and Gail Russell. It's a suspense-filled picture, but one which allows for the imagination to create the horror. You'll come away chilled but with the realization that nothing has happened which you didn't expect to happen.

"Philadelphia Story" (1940), 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Redford Theatre, 17360 Lahser, phone 537-2560, $2. Running time 112 minutes.

Wealth, love, yellow journalism and wealth are at the center of this George Cukor film starring Katharine Hepburn, Cary Grant and James Stewart. The story was remade in 1956 as "High Society" and changed somewhat, with Grace Kelly, Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra starring. The first version is the best, largely because the class actors from the '40 version were replaced with the likes of Bing, Frankie and Grace in the remake.

Night of the Living Dead" (1968), 12:45 Friday night on Channel 7. Originally 90 minutes.

George Romero's first film made on a shoestring budget outside of Pittsburgh. Though its subject matter sounds like trash - the dead rise to devour living human flesh - the film has its subtleties that include themes of racism and isolationism. "Dawn of the Dead," a sequel, was made a couple of years

"Tarzan's New York Adventure" (1942), 11:30 a.m. Saturday on Channel 50. Originally 71

Here's the sixth and last Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan Tarzan film, made 10 years after their debut. Unfortunately, MGM had run out of good ideas for Tarzan adventures by this time, so the ape man is left to scale tall Manhattan buildings while saying things like, "Ugh, New York concrete jungle." But let's not forget how gently moral and entertaining all these Tarzan films were - this one included, at least to a certain degree.

"One Million Years B.C." (1966), 8 p.m. Tuesday on Channel 50. Originally 100 minutes.

It's hard to believe, but Raquel Welch has made more than 30 films, the fifth of which was this epic. Well, one thing's for sure: Raquel, in her cavewoman outfit, has never been better.

"Maltese Falcon" (1941), 8 p.m. Wednesday on Channel 50. Originally 100 minutes.

"Falcon" and "High Sierra" came out in the same year, propelling a bit player who specialized as a small-time thug into a star. The actor was Humphrey Bogart and the director of "Falcon" in his directorial debut - was John Huston, who also wrote the screenplay. Considered the prototype for later crime films of the '40s and '50s, "Falcon" also stars Mary Astor, Sidney Greenstreet and Peter Lorre.

The women win a losing battle in Iowa town

Comedian Buddy Hackett has lost a

He made a prediction on Johnny Carson's show in June when he shared the guest spotlight with some folks from Stratford, Iowa, At that time, a man and a woman from Stratford told about the plans for a battle of the sexes dieting contest.

Hackett said the men would win because they have a hormone advantage that permits them to lose weight more quickly.

That was late June, and the contest ended at noon on July 12. Since I had reported the competition and Hackett's. prognosis, I called Mayor Alf Lee to find out how everything came off.

"Well, it ended good, and not so good," he reported. "What do you mean, mayor?" I

"Well, it ended up where the women won," he chuckled. "And that's the part that wasn't so good. Everyone thought the men would win. Didn't you? Don't you think men can lose more quickly than women?

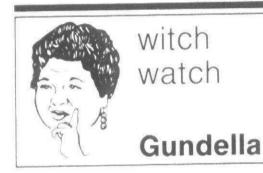

"Yes, men may be able to lose more quickly than women," I told him. "But women are always dieting and men

And that, said the mayor, may have had something to do with the fact that the men lost a total of 2,164 pounds while the women lost 2,667 pounds.

"Every single woman did something, while not every man did," he explained.

MAYOR LEE reported that whole town lost almost 21/2 tons.

He also said the men had some spectacular loses in their group. One man had lost more than 100 pounds in 41/2

Witches call 'still point'

"I lay on the bowsprit, facing astern, with the water foaming under me, the masts with every sail white in the moonlight, towering high above me. I become drunk with the beauty and the singing rhythm of it, and for a moment I lost myself - actually lost my life. I was set free! I dissolved in the sea, became white sails and flying spray; became beauty and rhythm, became moonlight and the ship, and the high dim-starred sky! I belonged without a past or future, with peace, unity, and wild joy, within something greater than my own life or the life of Man, to life itself!"

When Eugene O'Neill wrote these words in the last act of his play, "Long Day's Journey into the Night," he was describing what witches call the

There is within all of us memory of something we have once known before our birth. It is as if you once knew something so magnificent, so great, that nothing you can experience with your five senses is

This is what drives mankind into religion and the search for God Reaching the still point is a religious or mystic experience that can never be described with mere words. Another name for it is "ecstatic union," for in that moment, one feels united with God and the whole universe; one with all, totally belonging, completely in tune with all matter and spirit. One-

Eastern holy men, Christian monks, ancient Greeks, and modern occultists have gone to great lengths attempting to experience it. Rituals, fasting, dancing, prayer, breath control, exercise, sex, self-hypnosis, and drugs have all been used in the

But when the still point comes, it usually happens as it did to Edmund in O'Neill's play, completely unbidden and unexpected it can happen to anyone at any time, and when it does, it is the rarest and most beautiful sensation known to mankind

Can you think of any more unlikely place for a religious experience than Bob-Lo Island at high noon, or walking alone down St. Aubin Street late on a winter's night? And yet, I have experienced it in these places. Anyone can experience it at anytime. Suddenly you are without limit; beyond time and space. You are everything, and everything is you. You are the bliss of the universe, and united

Once experienced, the still point is never to be

Detroit museum plans workshops

Anyone interested in learning to make porcelain dolls will find a class on this subject at the Detroit

Historical Museum, 5401 Woodward. A workshop is also available to those who wish to discover how to make homemade ice cream, British food or crazy quilts

Saturday, Aug. 2, is the date for the start of the procelain doll course. Participants 16 and up will create their own reproduction doll. The total process will be learned from the preparation of the unfired procelain to china-painting the facial features, setting the glass eyes and adding the cloth or porcelain body.

Scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., the workshop will continue for four weeks. The fee is $25. Contact the museum (833-9721) for information on the cost of supplies.

"How did he do it?" I inquired. "He just about quit eating, I suppose"

Mayor Lee said. "Is the man sick now," I asked, not at all facetiously. "Well, I am sure he has some adjusting to do, and he isn't as strong as he was, but he was a husky man to begin with. He weighed over 350 pounds." Then I asked the mayor if he had a weight problem. "Why, no, not at all," he said.

contest?" I pressed a little harder.

"Yes, I lost 17 pounds," he told me "Well, if you didn't have a weight problem, then how did you lose 17 pounds?'

"Well, you know, you put it on around the middle," he conceded. "But I feel "Did you lose any weight during this much better now. Now I don't have a weight problem any more."

"Do you think you might do this again next year?" I asked him.

"Well if they lost the weight, we shouldn't have to do it again next year. They should keep the weight off," he idealized. "But then maybe there will be some others who might have to. Maybe we will."

great deal of national attention. Publications such as the National Enquirer, Star, Time, Newsweek and People, as well as the TV show "Real People" are reporting on the event. The mayor was surprised at the amount of national attention Stratford received.

It doesn't surprise me. The entire nation is obsessed with diets. What does surprise me is the success of the townspeople in staying with the challenge.

For their efforts, the women won blue ribbons and a huge trophy that now sits in the front window of the city

"What we ought to do," the mayor THE CONTEST GAINED gained a said, "is to move the trophy to a back

"Is that because the women won," I

"Why, yes," he chuckled. "Of course, you know I am only kidding."

It is rumored that other towns and cities are thinking of following Stratford's idea. Can you picture Mayor McNamara prodding the citizens of Livonia into such a contest. Or Mayor Mary Childs in Plymouth? Or can you picture the city of Bloomfield Hills challenging Birmingham to a contest, or Rochester taking on Southfield? The possibilities are endless, and a lot of fun to think
