System eases ballot headache

By DARLENE STINSON

On the morning of Nov. 7, 1978, 26 election workers began counting Canton's absentee ballots.

Twenty-six hours later — at 10 a.m. the following morning - all 3,000 paper ballots were finally counted. The workers earned $4 an hour for their time. But no one could leave the absentee ballot chambers until every vote was tabulated on Clerk John Flodin, who predicts a speedier counting process in the absentee precinct this year, vividly remembers those two days in 1978. He worked from 4 a.m. Nov. 7 until 11 a.m. Nov. 8.

'You'd look over and see someone taking a nap in a corner," he recalled "Two women, who wore contacts, had to quit because their eyes were so sore.'

FLODIN, who calls supervising elections "the most demanding" aspect of his job, hopes to catch some sleep on the night of this Aug. 5 -Canton's primary election day.

Last winter, the Township Board authorized a partial switch to the punchcard method of voting at a cost of $6,000. The system, used for the total election process in many communities, will be used for only absentee ballots in Canton.

Flodin has tapped only four workers for the absentee counting precinct because of conversion to the new system. He hopes to complete counting the paper ballots by about 10 p.m. — the same time that most machine votes are tabulated.

People voting absentee under the punchcard system receive a foambacked computer card, stylus and a paper copy of the ballot. Numbers follow the name of each candidate. Voters are asked to punch out a corresponding number on the computer card for each candidate they want.

On election day, the cards are fed into machines, which counts 45 ballots per minute.

Under the method formerly used, absentee votes were manually tabulated on machines. The process was time-consuming and subject to er-

So far, only 75 of Canton's 24,634 registered voters have submitted absentee applications.

"That's not as many as I anticipated. It leads me to believe there's not a heck of a lot of interest in this center sometime in the next five years. The plan would include two to four major department stores and dozens of small shops. While the project still is only a proposal, it raises questions.

Invading farm country Firm eyes site for area retail mall

The firm is a division of Dayton-Hudson Corp., as is the J.L. Hudson Co.

THE LAND parcels are in an AGI zoning (agricultural industrial). Assistant township planner David Nicholson said the parcels are on a "tongue" of an area which is zoned for permanent agricultural use under a land preservation plan.

The township land plan is designed to keep remaining farmland areas intact.

What are the chances of getting the land rezoned to permit a shopping center? What would happen to adjacent land values?

Would farmland preservation in Canton be doomed by this project?

Township Planner James Kosteva and his assistant Nicholson both say the Ford-Beck site would represent a major shift away from farmland preser-

She added that the so-called "majors" usually buy their own parcel in the shopping complex from Dayton-Hudson.

"When you get beyond 10 miles (between major shopping centers), we feel very comfortable" about development, cholson say there are other desirable locations in Canton Township.

Robert Greenstein

Robert Greenstein predicts that "respect will return to Canton" if he wins back the supervisor's chair.

"We were respected by everyone and ignored by no one," said Greenstein of his 1974-76 term as supervisor. "Today, it's the reverse. "There hasn't been the proper

AS SUPERVISOR, Greenstein established the Canton Police Department and engineered a master plan that preserved agricultural lands in western Canton.

He perceives leadership as a main issue of this campaign, and says he has what it takes to be an effective leader. Greenstein noted his executive order in 1975 "to shut down all the builders in Canton" because of a backlog of homeowner complaints.

"I think it's correct to say that one of my virtures - and perhaps one of my faults - is that I'm very accomplishment oriented," he said. "Every day had to produce some accomplishments.

He attributes much of that strife to the times. One political faction fought the master plan and farmland preservation proposal in order to retain high property values on their lands, he says.

Harold Stein

Harold Stein is a politician who says he wants to be judged on his actions rather than his words.

"I'm not a smooth-talking politician. Action speaks louder than words and my record of action is a good one," Stein said in talking about his bid to be elected Canton Township supervisor.

Stein, supervisor from 1976 to 1978, is one of four Democrats seeking the party nomination in the Aug. 5 primary election. Among his opponents are former supervisor Robert Greenstein and incumbent supervisor Noel Culbert. The winner of the Democratic nomination will be the very strong favorite to win in the general election in November.

Stein said he has the leadership and administrative abilities which are needed in Canton's top administrative office.

STEIN CITES a long list of accomplishments during his tenure as supervisor.

The former supervisor credited himself with establishing the Economic Development Corp. (EDC), which added $15 to $20 million to the township tax base, he said.

Stein said he also initiated establishment of the industrial and commercial committee and pushed for the construction of the soon-to-be Canton library and a branch of the 35th District Court. He said he also lowered taxes by a half mill in 1979, the first cut in Canton's history. Until recently Stein served as

Very few are enthusiastic about signing up for draft

By W.W. EDGAR

One by one they came, reluctantly, in numbers averaging more than 100 a day to walk through the group of protesters in front of the post office to register for the draft.

They were members of the 20-yearold bracket of Plymouth youth, and not one among them went through the formality with any degree of enthusiasm.

In most cases, their reaction was strange in that they frowned on the protesters who were attempting to discourage the youth. The protesters' posters said "Uncle Sam, you have no right to try to make us fight."

At the same time, they looked upon the registration with the thought that, for the most part, it was meaningless. In many cases, they were college students who realized that their education may be interrupted for a time, and at point in their lives when it counted Among the group, willing to state his views, was Charles Nyhus, a student at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo. Nyhus said he didn't think anything ever would come of registration. "On the surface," he said, "it seems like a good idea to register youths. But if it is to prepare us for war, I don't think it is appropriate because I don't think there will be a war. "And it seems odd that student's plans should be in the balance with the threat of it.'

More outspoken was Douglas Reedy, who graduated from high school in Elmwood Park, Ill., before coming to Plymouth.

"I think the whole thing stinks," he said. Reedy is now a student at Western Michigan University.

"I don't see any need for it because, from what I hear, there are enough of the unemployed who are volunteering for service and there is no urgent call for service."

If he did receive a call, Reedy said, he would make every effort to be assigned to the Navy.

"That would be far from the trenches and I most likely would have a chance to travel and learn something to make up for my absence from col-

Another who voiced a desire for Navy duty if called was Jim Sellsman, a graduate of Plymouth High.

"I don't like the idea even a little bit." he said as he filled out the registration card. "It takes me away from school and makes it all the more difficutt to get back."

"But I won't protest with my country calling."

"I am here because I think it is my duty," said Robert Waddell, a recent resident who came from Middletown,

"I just don't like the idea of having my life interrupted, but what can I do when my country calls? And if I had a choice, I would take service in the Joel Mellare of Canton, who is now a sopbomore at Ferris State College at Big Rapids, voiced the opinion for all to hear that the registration is just a waste of time.

Pursuing a course in criminal jus- nue tice, he hates to have it interrupted just when it is getting interesting.

"I don't think there is any need for the registration," he said, "and all we are doing is going through the emotions with a waste of time and money."

Then, as he placed his completed form through the clerk's window, he left this parting shot:

"If I do get called, I hope it is for the Party planned to screen villian

For many avid "Dallas" viewers, this has been a long, hot summer.

Climate conditions aside, night-time horse opera fans have been sittin' on Texas tacks awaiting the fall return of the popular family drama.

It was at the close of last season's programming that viewers across the country saw their favorite modern-day villian felled by a single gunshot.

The season ended without the slightest hint as to the assailant of unscrupulous J.R. Ewing, played by actor Larry

Far from the open ranges of Texas, a Plymouth businessman is already planning for the season's premier show. Though not an avid fan, himself, he does plan to be tuned into the action.

Scott Lorenz, who with his father Ralph, operate the Mayflower Hotel and Meeting House, is orchestrating a Texas-size feast complete with largescreen viewing of the "Dallas" return.

CBS in California, he recently learned the show would appear September 19 in a two-hour special. So, he decided to open the Maylfower Meeting House for business that night and have his customers view the program from deep in the heart of Plymouth.

"I WAS looking around here the other day and decided it was going to be dead as a doornail. Then I decided there's a lot of people out here who would like to make a party out of it."

He says he'll equip the meeting house with at least two large size television screens so that customers can view the program over dinner.

"We're really taking off on the Dallas theme," says Scott. "We're going to have Texas-size steaks and Texas-size drinks. I'll even wear my cowboy hat. This is going to be a fun evening.

Parents plug soccer as school varsity level sport

By TERI BANAS

A group of soccer parents is expected to flood tonight's Plymouth-Canton Board of Education meeting with its demand to put soccer on the district's list of varisty-played sports.

Supporters believe "soccer's time has come" as a competitively played school sport because of its growing interest among the young.

More than that, they would like it offered in the schools so that players could become eligible for college athletic scholarships.

"We want it in the schools for the enjoyment of it," said David Lee, whose children play in the Western Suburban Soccer League (WSSL). "One advantage with soccer is that it doesn't take force to play. Some boys, half the size of others, often play better than the bigger

The group expected tonight will be made up of parents whose children play in two area leagues - the WSSL and the Great Lakes Soccer League.

They plan to ask the board to institute the sport in the district by next

While it's not the first time the request has been made, the likelihood of it happening in 1980-81 is dim, according to Schools Superintendent Mike

"IT'S JUST not in the stars for the moment," said Hoben. "It's very improbable. We just made $1.2 million in cuts throughout all programs and $25,000 has been cut out of the athletic department.'

"They're just not going to stampede the board into action."

"Other school districts have found a way," countered Lee. "I don't see why Plymouth hasn't gotten into it. Once it takes off, it'll help support the schools.

"For one thing, it's a sport both boys and girls can play. How many football teams do you see girls involved in?"

Despite the group's contention that soccer is a "relatively inexpensive sport," Hoben says it cannot be accommodated because of lack of playing fields and expenses such as transportation costs and coaching stripends.

"It just seems to be an inappropriate time to be asking for it when we're in a posture of cutting back. The hockey people also have been pressuring to get a varsity sport but we're not expanding right now because of the financial crunch."

According to Lee, soccer promoters have been trying for about five years to sway the school board into their court.

"THE LAST FIVE times they've said they agree with us and it's next on the list," said Lee.

The last time the issue came up it was denied because the district was still in the process of meeting Title IX requirements. Those requirements held that team sports needed to be equally available in numbers to both boys and

While this goal has been achieved, says Hoben, the current financial picture just doesn't include any expansion in athletics next school year.

In Wayne County, varsity school soccer is offered in all Livonia high schools and some in Northville and Redfrod Township.

Chamber nets more festival participation

The Newcomers are new this year. Also new to the Canton Country Festival are churches, volunteers from Michigan Bell and the Plymouth Cadet Squadron youth organization.

Jack Koers, publicity chairman for the festival, said planners are trying to draw community and volunteer groups into the fold. The festival, now in its fifth year, runs from Aug. 8-10 at Griffin Park on Canton Center Road north of Cherry Hill.

"There are 30 percent more community groups this year," said Koers. "We're going to try to build it every

"We'd like it to be like the Plymouth Fall Festival," he added. "We want total involvement between the two communities.

Participation is confined to non-profit groups that will use the proceeds for operating expenses or charity. The organizations will sell refreshments, including freshly picked sweet corn and watermelon, baked goods, snacks, ice cream and drinks.

FESTIVITIES will begin Aug. 8 with a baseball tournament, with proceeds going to fight muscular dystrophy.

Also on Friday will be midnight madness sales and sidewalk sales at shopping centers and retail stores in Canton. Sales will continue throughout the weekend. Saturday's events will include a breakfast from 7 a.m. to noon prepared by the Rotary Club. From 4-8 p.m., the Canton Fire Department will serve a spaghetti supper, with proceeds going to a burn center.

On Sunday, the chamber of commerce will serve barbecued chicken from noon to 6 p.m. There also will be hayrides and a corn-eating contest.

Throughout the festival, there will be the usual picnic-type games for both children and adults. There also will be entertainment, including a senior citizens band and square dancers.

Groups still have time to take part in the festival. For information, call the chamber of commerce at 453-4040.

AS THE TOWNSHIP'S farmland preservation director, Greenstein views saving agricultural lands "as vitally important." What Canton needs is a good, sound non-residential tax base. Industry should be a part of that," he said.

"But we've got thousands of acres of industrial land out there. Our time is coming. Livonia is full. We're next."

Greenstein favors creation of an industrial coordinator position. He said he interviewed applicants for the job while supervisor, but subsequent supervisors failed to follow through.

New ballot system eases election day worries of clerk

By state law, residents have until 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 2, to apply for absentee ballots. Canton Township hall will remain open for that purpose next Saturday.

Voters may return the ballots until 8 p.m., Aug. 5, when polls close.

Residents legally may vote absentee if they expect to be out of township on election day or are 60 years or older. Other legal reasons are jain confiement, election precinct work, physical disabilities and religious beliefs.

Primary election voters may cast ballots for only one party. Voters may choose Republican or Democratic parties or help qualify independent or third-party candidates for a spot on the November ballot. The party qualification section on the Aug. 5 ballot includes the Anderson Coalition, Libertarian, Socialist Workers and Citizens parties.

He also opposes a citizen group's proposal for a township manager form of government. Under that system, an appointed administrator would perform many of the duties currently performed by the su-

"If you have a qualified supervisor, it would be a duplication of effort," Stein said. "I'm inferring that the present leader doesn't have leadership capabilities. You've got to delegate responsibilities and put round pegs in round holes.'

STEIN SAID he is concerned about last spring's action of the Tax Board of Review to lower farmland property assessments 13 to 60 percent. Stein said he has spoken with representatives of the Michigan Taxation Commission about the move.

He said assessments were lowered without an appraisal or market survey and that the state may find the action illegal unless the township justifies its steps with adequate documentation.

Stein said the move to lower farmland assessments could raise taxes of homes, businesses and industry. He also maintained that Canton will lose $31,000 in tax revenue because of the board of review action. "Some board members have this gloom-and-doom philosophy. Yet, they're giving away $31,000 from their operating budget," he said.

While Stein was supervisor, the Township Board placed a four-mill tax request ($4 per $1,000 assessed property valuation) for development right purchases on the ballot. Voters defeated the ques-

"I THOUGHT this issue was settled, quite frankly, when I brought it to a vote," he said.

We cannot afford to play with this thing any longer. I believe in farmland, but they've offered no program. Every source of revenue (for development right funding) has been exhausted.

"Are people going to pay for this or not? We've been through all the games. Let the people voice their opinion on it again.'

Stein favors drafting two alternative ballot proposals. One would request a development rights millage for a farmland preservation program. The other would request a tax for acquisition of park land in western Canton.

If the latter proposal were approved, Stein said the township would have to rework its zoning ordinance and abandon the farmland preservation pro-

He would like "aesthetically-pleasing development" in western Canton. He said large acre homesites are preferred. "It doesn't mean helterskelter development," he said.

"The people would get more use out of that land," Stein said of a park acquisition program. "At least, they'd be getting something for their money. With farmland preservation, they're not getting anything."

STEIN INSISTS that he would work vigorously to implement farmland preservation if voters approve a tax. "I'd be a fool not to; I'd be a hypocrite." Stein said.

The former supervisor denied that he worked against farmland preservation while supervisor. Stein said he instituted several studies and reports on the issue before placing the four-mill request on

He said the studies showed that four mills would be need to finance the program. Stein said he favors more money for recreation and less money for legal fees.

He said ordinance officers should be banned from carrying guns. "There is a liability there. They are not enforcing the kinds of laws the police are. Carrying guns sometimes induces problems.

Stein's candidacy is endorsed by the 15th District Democratic Party organization. He is past president of the Wayne County chapter of the Michigan Township Assocation, past director of the Wayne County Association of Elected Officials and a member of the Plymouth Elks.

Cops slate hunting class

The Canton Township police department will offer a hunter safety class for youth ages 12-16 on Aug. 24. Class will be at the Canton fire station on Canton Center Road and Cherry Hill.

State law requires a hunter safety class before youth in that age category may receive a Michigan hunting license. Classes are open to both residents

Canton Township police officers who have been certified by the state Department of Natural Resources will teach the classes. Techniques will include knowledge of weapon, ballistics, first aid and POLICE LT. Larry Stewart said students won't be handling a gun during the class.

Fee is $2 per person ($1 extra if you wish lunch). Class size is limited to 50 persons, said Stewart. Send check or money order to the Canton Police Department, 44508/Geddes, Canton 48188. Include name, address, date of birth and telephone number. Also, registration forms may be obtained at the police department. For information, call 397-3000. If there is enough demand, other classes will be offered periodically through December. The police department later plans to offer classes in safe snowmobiling and boating.

League urges yes vote on reform of county

At long last, Wayne County voters have an opportunity to do something constructive about our antiquated and inefficient county government.

Incredible as it may seem, the structure of county govern ment has remained virtually unchanged since 1796. The result is lack of flexibility, overlapping responsibilities, and no executive to oversee and coordinate county

The first step in the process of revitalizing the county would be the election of a charter commission. This group would be responsible for writing a charter, a blueprint for an orderly and responsive county government, to present to the voters for their approv-

A charter commission is vital to correcting the obvious deficiencies in the structure of Wayne County. The League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi urges you to vote YES on County Home Rule Proposal A on Aug. 5.

The League of Women Voters is a national nonpartisan organization established 60 years ago to encourage citizen participation in government. It never supports nor opposes any political party or candidate. The League does support or oppose issues after careful study

Voters Guide error regretted by League

Editor:

A non-partisan Voter Guide published by the seven Leagues of Women Voters in Wayne County for the Wayne County Charter Commission primary election on Aug. 5 contained an error regarding the response from Democrat W. Edward Wendover, candidate in the 27th District.

Information for the Voter Guide was taken from questionnaires sent to each certified candidate by Voter Information Service, Wayne County - a coalition of Civic Searchlight Inc., League of Women Voters and Urban Alliance.

Because the Voter Guide editor received only a copy of the Wendover resume and not a copy of his questionnaire, the notation "No response to questons" was entered following his biographical information to the Voter Guide. The statement was in error as candidate Wendover had indeed responded fully to the questionnaire but the copy was either inadvertently not

League Voter Guide editor or, if sent, was lost in the mail.

The seven Leagues of Women Voters in Wayne County deeply regret the fact that this error has resulted in candidate Wendover not having the space devoted to his statements as other candidates for charter commissioner in the 27th District received.

The League urges voters to consult the Canton Observer and the Plymouth Observer of July 24 for coverage of statements of 27th District candidates, including the responses of candidate Wendover.

While the League of Women Voters is a national, nonprofit organization which never supports or opposes candidates, it does publish voter guides containing statements and opinions of candidates in the interest of public service.

Mike Scanlon's "tear-jerking" article (7-21) on the GOP convention in Detroit shows how one journalist's feelings overcame his reasoning.

After all, Scanlon's "inconveniences" (crowded downtown bars, the sight of 8,000 pairs of white patent leather shoes, etc.) are certainly minor compared to the amount of tourist dollars that flowed into Detroit and other

Wayne County communities, including Plymouth

This money flow does not come very often to Wayne County, so these tourist dollars were a welcome relief luring these times of recession and inflation.

If Scanlon found it difficult to live in Wayne County during the greatest opportunity Wayne County ever had to make a financial profit, he should have taken a short vacation out of state.

Treat your family to more cookouts. Not only are they fun, they use less energy and keep the heat outside the house Cookouts use fewer dishes, too.

THE STORM.

Detroit Edison extends its thanks to more than 300,000 customers who suffered from the most severe thunderstorm on record.

Your patience and understanding helped make orderly restoration of electricity possible.

The thunderstorm that struck at 9 A.M. Wednesday, July 16 was the worst in the area's history. Over 500 utility poles were snapped like toothpicks by hurricane force winds.

8,000 spans of Detroit Edison wire were ripped apart and 700 miles of overhead lines downed. Facilities which took years to build were destroyed in a few minutes. Much of the damage was caused by trees falling on lines and poles.

Immediately after the skies cleared, experienced damage evaluators began to assess the degree of destruction.

Transmission towers and cross arms were twisted piles of steel.

Thousands of uprooted trees littered the streets blocking access to power lines.

Nearly 35 substations and 200 distribution circuits were interrupted.

In all, more than 300,000 customers were left without power.

By noon, repair crews were transferred to the southern portion of Detroit Edison's electrical system where the damage was heaviest. On Thursday, every available company, contract and tree trim crew was at work in Detroit and Wayne, Washtenaw and Livingston counties.

Working ahead of the repair crews, evaluators determined the degree of trouble in each circuit. They estimated requirements for crews and equipment

So massive was the destruction that almost immediately Detroit Edison called for help from other utilities through its Mutual Assistance Pact. Soon, 101 crews from out-of-state utilities, including Cleveland Electric Illuminating, Toledo Edison, Ohio Edison and Commonwealth Edison of Chicago were working alongside Detroit Edison crews.

Restoration efforts went on around the clock. In 90 degree heat more than 2000 field workers labored on 16-hour shifts to restore power to customers in a repair program that continued until all power was restored. Repair work carried on even through the following Sunday's heavy thunderstorm which deprived 15,000 additional customers of electricity

First priority in power restoration is given to emergency facilities such as hospitals or buildings housing medical equipment. Next, police and fire stations. water and sewage pumping stations, as well as high voltage transmission and subtransmission lines feeding individual substations are restored. In all cases, those repairs which restore power to the greatest number of customers and take the least time are given priority

At this report, Detroit Edison believes it has restored power to all customers left without electricity by the recent storm

It was hard work, skill and dedication that made this so. And for this Detroit Edison says a special thank you to the repair crews and Detroit Edison people supporting them.

We also express our appreciation to the many customers who talked to the crews in person or who telephoned or wrote our offices to say thank you.

If you or someone you know is still without electricity, please contact your nearest Detroit Edison customer office.

Keeping the power in your hands

Comic Sellers recalled for his gift to a teen

Without question, comedian Peter Sellers will be revered as the famous Inspector Clouseau.

But I will fondly remember the less known Sellers, the Sellers who entertained a young teenager in the strange and mysterious art theaters.

A while back, like around 1960, there existed in Detroit real art theaters.

Unlike later art theaters which specialized in Xrated films, these featured the best of European

Sure, there was an occasional Brigitte Bardot movie, but for the most part, they showed the kind of films which today are seen at the Detroit Institute of Arts. They were my father's favorite haunts. Many a weekend, he would peruse the movie guide and pick out one of these films to broaden our horizons. My older brother and I weren't always as delighted about these cultural excursions as was my father, but when you're young, an adventure is adventure, no matter

Besides, art theaters were different. They all seemed to be located in some strange part of town where we never went during daylight hours. And in those days of the elaborate Fox and Michigan theaters, these small movie houses were a novelty.

INSTEAD OF THE big candy counters with the brightly lit popcorn machine, the art theaters just had a small card table in the lobby with a few chocolate candy bars and a coffee urn.

The cramped lobbies were full of strange looking characters with beards and berets. They huddled in corners talking over the most recent offerings at Wayne State or the latest literature.

Beyond the lobby doors could be heard the echo of foreign voices. Quietly, the crowd would meander into the theater proper. The movie had started.

This was quite a contrast for a young teenager growing up in a time when Mamie Eisenhower's pillbox hats were considered all the rage.

Needless to say, I became somewhat of an expert at reading subtitles, which wasn't always an easy task, especially when the white letters were cast against an equally white background.

I distinctly remember hunching down in my seat, squinting my eyes so I couldn't see the subtitles. The diversion of trying to guess what the foreign-speaking actors were saying was a welcome relief.

But one week, I had a pleasant surprise. As the movie screen lit up. I noted that the actors were speaking English.

To be sure, it was difficult to understand. It was real English, the kind spoken in the British Isles. But I was soon to find the words mattered little.

FOR THE MAN on the screen was one Peter Sellers, an English actor virtually unknown to American audiences.

And the movies were the funniest I had ever seen or was to ever see.

Over the next two decades, Sellers was to go on to become world-reknown for his portrayals of Inspector Clouseau, the mad Dr. Strangelove, and Chance, the gardener in "Being There.

And while I enjoyed these later films, I'll always remember Sellers in those early black and white films with the scratchy sound tracks which the majority of America has never seen and most likely never will.

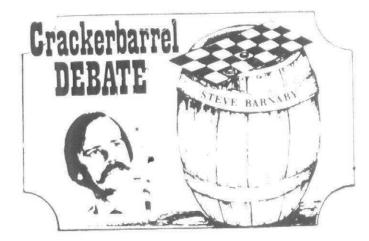

I couldn't tell you the name of even one of these films. But they were vintage Sellers - strange characters, mostly old men coping with a world that was less than willing to cooperate.

For this teenager, the Seller's films were a welcome relief from some of the more dark and dismal foreign movies.

In coming years, we'll have to suffer through countless Seller film festivals with accompanying dissertations of each film's true meaning.

But that's a bunch of hogwash. Seller's enjoyed comedy for its own sake. He created dozens of characters for two simple reasons he wanted to make his audience laugh, and he relished the creative challenge it took to do it.

HE WAS A MASTER of the comedic art. He was one of the best ever — better than Chaplin.

Through the years, his fans realized that Sellers would die at an early age because of his heart problems. We feared that end, because few could make us laugh like he did.

We will miss him — especially the teenager who met him in those mysterious art theaters that no

Suffering a cultural shock

Art and artists have always held an awesome fascination for me.

Having taken one art class - in which I drew three out-of-proportion bottles and a dubious-looking apple - I saw the light. I felt like pieces of broken charcoal and drawing paper in a world of vibrant oil paintings and subtle water colors.

Those who can, paint. Those who can't are often art buffs like me. So you can imagine how impressed I was when on a recent trip to New York I got tickets to see "Pablo Picasso: A Retrospective." It's the culminating exhibition in the Museum of Modern Art's 50th anniversary

Standing in line to get in to see 900 works of the prolific Picasso, I felt as though I was dripping with culture. But it might have been the 99 degree heat

My culture shock set in when a bearded, balding artist-type standing in the street handed me a leaflet It said, "Dear Picasso Fan, I am sorry that I have to tell you that you have fallen victim to one of the greatest con artists of our time -

"HE AND his reactionary promoters really pulled a job on you. They convinced you that Picasso is the final solution in modern art. The vast number of art historians universities spit out every year don't want to admit they wasted a lot of time on Picasso's junk.

The letter goes on, calling Piacasso the biggest opportunist in the art world who changed his style and form language more freely than most people change their clothes. The message is from a young German-born Brooklyn artist who identifies himself only as Paul.

Although my faith in Picasso and art in general was slightly shaken, my reporter's curiosity compelled me to talk to Paul who was still handing out leaflets to art lovers outside the museum.

Paul told me he burned a lithograph, described as 'a hand-signed Picasso, in a public protest because he thought it was a piece of junk. He declined to estimate its value and said, "To sell it would corrupt me, although, believe me, I could use the

THE APPARENTLY self-styled, impoverished artist maintained Picasso hadn't been an influence on modern art since his 1907-1914 period. Paul railed at museum officials who, he contended, wield a tremendous power to influence people and tell them what is modern.

The museum should be named "The Museum of Remote Art," Paul

"I'm going to file suit to force this institution either to show modern art or change its name," he said. "This place should be concentrating on art of the 1960s, 1970s and 1980s. When Paul described his own work as kinetic art with light and mixed media, I was beginning to think he was loosely wrapped and didn't have both oars in the water. Kinetic means a branch of dynamics dealing with the effects of forces on the motions of material bodies. But what's light and mixed media?

PAUL SAID HIS art project 306 was publicly burning his handsigned Picasso print. In his leaflets, he offers matches to owners of inferior Picassos so they can do the

He also offers a gift he claims will become a collector's item in appreciation of "your uniqueness." It's a certificate to sign. Mine says, "This is a certificate that Jackie Klein is a creation of art who is reflecting her century better than most other art - Paul."

I finally made the big time in the world of art. That's a real culture shock. And I bet you thought I was going to write about the Picasso ex-

Did you know that Detroit is about the same distance from Chicago, Indianapolis, Toronto, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh? Mileage by road to these major cities varies from 233 to 287 miles. Once a visitor reaches Michigan, he can travel comfortably on the state's 9,459-mile highway system, including 1,685 miles of four-lane divided freeways.

The draft is a chilling idea

I'll tell you something: If the guys who run the Pentagon were baseball players, they'd be in over their heads against the Toledo Mud Hens. If they were boxers, they'd lose bar fights.

I mean, talk about not learning from your mis-

It's only five years since the end of the southeast Asian war. If there was anything to learn from that disaster, it was that asking draftees to fight for a cause they don't respect - never mind believe in is stupid.

The soldiers won't stand for it and, if it goes on long enough and drags in enough soldiers, society in general won't take it anymore either.

But now the Pentagon guys are back for more. You can be coy about it, if you like. You can call it Selective Service Registration like the government. Or you call it the draft plan like me.

Either way, it makes no sense to have draft registration unless you have a draft. They're like Abbott and Costello, or salt and pepper - when you find one, you've found the other.

But it should be said that the Pentagon does make a sound point in its argument for the draft . .

The military today uses incredibly complex, incredibly expensive weapons. For instance, the last I time I priced anti-tank missles, they cost about $3,000. Each. Only the best recruit in every training class actually gets to fire a round.

A draft would presumably draw from a wider spectrum of society. That would result in soldiers and sailors and such with a higher intelligence — as a group — than the volunteers. Theoretically.

THIS ALONE says a lot about the military - smart guys are too smart to sign up. But anyway, that theory also isn't true. The U.S. has never had a limited draft - such as one that would conscript only 19- and 20-year-olds - without a dazzling array of rules and regulations to describe just what the limits of the limited draft are. These blizzards of paper boiled down to this: People with money could avoid being drafted. Poor people did push-ups.

Sometimes the discrimination was blatant. The Civil War conscription let anybody who could scrape up $300 literally buy himself out of the draft This helped cause the bloodiest street conflicts in U.S. history, the 1863 New York draft riots.

The system was more subtle by the time to Vietnam war rolled along. But the make-up of the military that resulted from that system made subtlety useless. Counting the ratio of black to white noses in Vietnam and comparing it to the National Guard in Gaylord and the campus at Ann Arbor usually made the point.

This inequity helped cause anti-war demonstrations — the second largest street conflicts in U.S.

And the complex military equipment that seems to make the draft make sense really makes the draft sort of stupid.

It takes months, sometimes years to learn how to use this complex gear; it doesn't make a lot of sense to spend that kind of time and money on a guy who's getting out in two years.

PERSONALLY, the draft seems pointless anyway. If the U.S. were ever truly threatened, the clerks sending out the draft notices would have to fight their way through the crowds of volunteers to find a mailbox.

And there's a better way.

An efficient, well-trained military would result if money now spent to train short-timers over and over again in the same skills were instead spent on making the already-trained more willing to stay.

Higher salaries, in other words. After all, you only get what you pay for.

Vacations are dusty work

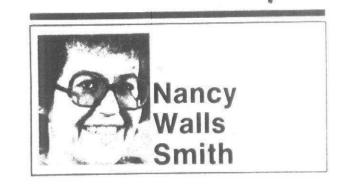

A week at a cottage is, to may frazzled mind and weary body, a week well spent. A solid seven days in which my only goal in life is to get a good tan. Lying on the beach is one of the few things I'm really good at.

There are hardships, I admit. Spending half of the day washing and re-washing the limited supply of mismatched dishes provided is one of them. This year my dear husband started off the week by announcing, "Let's make sure all the dishes are washed before we go to bed each night." I don't know where he gets this "let's" and "we" stuff when he washes dishes only on Mother's Day or if I have a temperature over 103 degrees! Fortunately for me, I even enjoyed the view through the kitchen window. I have it memorized.

Sand is another drawback to cottage life. Each morning I would sweep enough up from the floor to fill a small sandbox. Still the gritty stuff managed to work its way into our clothes, shoes, and beds, and I'm sure we brought home a goodly amount in Even so, I find the beach to be much more fun now than I did in my single days. As a securely married "older lady," I can get my hair wet diving for shells for the kids and even bravely face the public with all traces of make-up washed off. My husband still loves me. This is far better than those olden days when I would sit miserably for hours in my dry bathing suit making futile attempts at striking seductive poses and fretting over the effect the humidity was having on my "page boy." Last year I even gave up holding in my stomach.

Anyone who can successfully diet while on vacaion must be a saint. With a cupboard loaded with chips, Ding Dongs and Oreos, typical vacation fare, it's practically impossible to exist on poached eggs and salads. With all that exercise, you need energy! At least that's what I kept telling myself as I scoffed down enough Oreos to provide energy sufficient for a swim across the lake and back.

We all had a glorious time. Except for my husband's occasional protests of succumbing to acute boredom. I ignored him, figuring if he had washed a few dishes he wouldn't have found so much empty time on his hands. The kids swam, ate, played, and even found a few toads to bring home (oh goody). I, too, ate, swam and played. I also worked. After a long day of sweeping sand, making beds, washing 1,000 dishes, picking up dozens of wet bathing suits and towels, and trying to make order out of a general state of chaos, each night I was pooped. This was fortunate, since cottage beds are invariably lumpier than any bed has a right to be. It was like sleeping on a very large loaf of fresly kneaded dough. My husband would sink to the middle, while I clung to the edge for fear if we both sunk to the middle we wouldn't be able to climb out in the

But now we're home and, despite the good times at the lake, it's good to be back. I felt like embracing my dishwasher as soon as I walked in the door. My washing machine and dryer have never looked so good! And our bed! It's so wide and hard and un-

Rates low but home sales off

Housing sales in western Wayne and Oakland counties are well off last year's pace, even with recent drops in mortgage rates, according to the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

The real estate agent group reports that 1,137 houses were sold last month, compared with 1,480 in June 1979. Despite the 23 percent drop, more houses were sold in June than in either March, April or May, when 50 percent declines were reported.

The recent June figure was the highest in the WWOCBR area since last October, when 1,176 houses were sold.

"INTEREST RATES are now down about as much as we expect them to go," said John J. Halser, president of the 4,500 member realtors' group.

A spokesman for First Federal Savings and Loan of Detroit, the metropolitan area's largest mortgage lender, said this week the conventional mortgage interest rate of $12\frac{1}{2}$ percent has remained stable for about two months.

The rate is for a 20 percent downpayment mort-gage.

County offers senior aid

The Wayne County Office on Aging expects a $350,000 home repair grant for senior citizens living west of Telegraph Road.

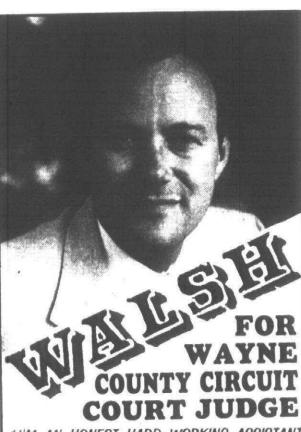

Sixteen communities will be included in the program, including the cities of Livonia, Westland, Garden City and Plymouth and the townships of Canton, Plymouth and Redford.

The grants will cover house insulation, caulking and broken window repair.

For information on eligibility and other requirements, call the county office on aging, 963-8000 or 326-9402.

U-M raises tuition 13% at 3 campuses

A hike in tuition rates for all students at the three University of Michigan campuses was announced by the university's Board of Regents during a recent meeting.

The 13 percent average increase was comparable to increases at other public institutions of higher education in Michigan.

The new rate at the U-M Dearborn will be $544 per semester. A corresponding rate increase for resident graduate students and non-resident undergraduate and graduate students was also ap-

On the Ann Arbor campus, the new rates range from $682 per term for resident freshmen and sophomores to $3,336 for non-resident medical students.

"The proposed tuition rates represent an across-the-board increase of 13 percent," said B. E. Frye, U-M vice-president for academic affairs said "except for law students at 17 percent and Extension Service students at 10 percent.

"The increases for non-resident students are comparable to those in our peer institutions. Increases for resident students are in line with those at other institutions within the state."

Chancellor William Jenkins of the Dearborn campus said that student financial aid will also be increased. Figures on the amount of that increase will be announced when details of the general fund budget are finalized.

"It is very unfortuanate," said Jenkins, "that we must ask our students to pay for their education. But the continuing effects of inflation and uncertainties of the 1980-81 legislative appropriation make it necessary to increse tuition at this time.

The 1980-81 tuition rates will be:
Freshmen and soophomores: Michigan residents, $682 (now $606) per term; non-residents, $2,060 (now $1,824). Juniors and seniors: residents $768 (now $682; non-residents, $2,218 (now $1,964).

Home canning, a time-honored tradition in many families, is on the rise — a result of the home gardening revival that is sweeping the country. This year, an estimated 50 percent of all home vegetable gardeners will reap the economic rewards and satisfaction that come from "putting up" their own produce.

Of course, home canning equipment and techniques have been refined and simplified over the years, thanks to such pioneers as Ball Corporation, whose famed Blue Book has guided homemakers in preparing safer and more wholesome products since 1905. Naturally, the Blue Book has gone through many revisions over the years. For instance, it's interesting to note that some foods called for in old Blue Book recipes, such as dandelions and clover blossoms, have largely disappeared from the American diet.

To mark the company's 100th anniversary, Ball home economists have selected those foods that have enjoyed continuing popularity among Americans during the past century and fashioned them into new recipes that are sure to become classics. A home gardener's delight, this wonderful collection will help make this canning season a success from start to Tomato Bisque is an unusual use of tomatoes — the most popular home canned food. A sprightly blend of fresh tomatoes and spices, this tempting soup makes a tasty appetizer or entree when topped with a dollop of sour cream and served with a crusty bread. Incidentally, Tomato Bisque must be processed like whole tomatoes, in a water bath canner.

Cucumbers, another garden favorite, rank among the top ten crops grown every year. Those with a surplus might want to put up some Dill Slices, as a colorful and crunchy companion for sandwiches. To make these fresh-pack dills, just pack cucumbers and brine into jars, process and then let stand for several weeks to allow flavors to blend.

TOMATO BISQUE

20 pounds tomatoes (about 3 dozen

2 tablespoons celery seed 2 tablespoons whole allspice 1 tablespoon dried tarragon

4 cloves garlic, crushed 1 cup sugar

1/2 cup lemon juice 2 tablespoons salt

Wash and drain tomatoes. Remove core and blossom ends. Cut tomatoes into small pieces. Measure 6 quarts into a large (8 to 10 quart) saucepot. Cover and simmer until soft, about 30 minutes.

Press tomatoes through sieve or food mill. Place celery seed, allspice, tarragon and garlic in a cheesecloth bag. Pour tomato juice into a large (8 to 10 quart) saucepot and add the bag of spices, sugar, lemon juice and salt. Simmer, covered, for 20 minutes. Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's Remove spice bag and carefully ladle bisque into hot jars, one jar at a time, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Wipe jar rim clean, place lid on and screw band down evenly and firmly. Place closed jar in canner.

Process quarts 15 minutes in boiling water bath canner. Yield:

about 5 quart jars. HONEY SPICED PEACHES

8 pounds small, ripe peaches 2 cups honey

1 cup sugar 4 cups water 2 teaspoons whole allspice 1 teaspoon whole cloves 4 cinnamon sticks

Soaking solution: 8 cups water, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 tablespoon

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's

Peel peaches and place in soaking solution to prevent darkening. Combine honey, sugar and water in a large (6 to 8 quart) saucepot. Cook and stir over medium heat until sugar dissolves. Rinse and drain peaches and cook, one layer at a time, in syrup for 3 minutes.

Pack peaches into hot jars, leaving 1/2 inch head space. Add 1/2 teaspoon allspice, 1/4 teaspoon cloves and one cinnamon stick to each jar. Juestion of Taste

Versatile zucchini delights creative cooks

If memory serves me correctly, the zucchini crop is due right about now.

Home gardeners who planted this lovely summer squash in early spring are now rewarded handsomely for their labors - almost too handsomely in many cases, since zucchini does not appear in manageable batches but in over-whelming abundance.

Some of it can be preserved by freezing or canning, but the best features of the vegetable are sacrificed in the process. Its lovely texture is reduced to an unappetizing sogginess and even its delicate flavor seems lost.

An alternate solution to the problem of over-abundance is to share the harvest with non-gardening friends who would probably love to help consume the surplus.

Just be sure, whether harvesting for yourself or for others, to get the zucchini off the vine while it is six or eight inches long. The huge clubs into which zucc?hini will grow are visually impressive but gastronomically disas-

The tender skins (which should puncture easily with a finger nail) become tough rinds which should be peeled before the flesh can be eaten. The seeds become large and hard and should also be discarded. It would be better to grow non-edible gourds for show pur-

A few years ago, Zucchini Bread became very popular. This is one way of freezing the vegetable with satisfactory results. It would be a shame, however, not to enjoy zucchini fresh in a as many ways as possible while it is at its peak. Its mild taste makes it an ideal food to combine with a whole range of other flavors, while its cylindrical shape makes it ideal for stuffing or for slicing finger-style and serving with a dip.

Too often, zucchini if served fresh at all, appears on the dinner table as an over-cooked, soupy, bland side-dish an undeserved fate. The recipe below lifts it from this role and features it as of sliced tomatoes, still warm from the the basis of a number of unusual en-

Tomatoes: the taste of summer

by Vivian Byrd

Fresh tomato, to many palates, is the taste of summer. Sometimes referred to as "love apples," tomatoes are best when gathered bright red and bursting with flavor, from one's own backyard

Next best seems to be tomatoes purchased from farmer's markets or roadside vegetable stands, places which sell home grown produce.

Those tomatoes have a common advantage of having been allowed to ripen on the vine before being picked and offered for sale.

This versatile vegetable can be sliced, quartered, baked, boiled, broiled, and so on. It can star on its own or sparkle in a salad, become a sauce or part of a sauce, or add extra flavor to any number of combinations of vegetables or casseroles.

Fresh tomatoes are delicious sliced thick and served with a little salt, or spread in a dish and sprinkled with oil, from element until brown (for about 10 vinegar and a sprinkling of basil (tomatoes love basil) and allowed to sit for at least 10 minutes, then eaten as a salad. Other herbs may be used in place of the basil, such as parsley, fennel, tarragon or a mixture of salad herbs, either fresh or dried.

Below are some other ways with tomatoes which might appeal to you.

BROILED TOMATOES WITH OLIVES 6 medium tomatoes

1/2 cup chopped cooked ham 1/2 cup chopped green olives Fresh or dried basil to taste 3 tbsp. olive oil

Halve the tomatoes and invert a few minutes to drain. Arrange them cut side up in a shallow casserole. Mix ham and olives and put a rounded tablespoon of the mixture on each tomato half. Sprinkle with basil and drizzle the oil over the top. Broil about 3 inches SAUTEED TOMATOES Dip firm tomato slices into slightly beaten egg, then into fine cracker crumbs. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Brown on both sides in hot melted Pepper butter in a heavy skillet, about 10 minutes. Note that butter burns easily, so "hot" would be in a lower temperature

STEWED TOMATOES 4 tsp. butter 4 lbs. tomatoes Salt and freshly ground pepper

1 tsp. or more sugar Peel tomatoes and cook slowly in a heavy skillet, covered, with the butter until they begin to break up. Add the salt and sugar and cook until the mixture is well blended, about 10 minutes. Add salt and sugar if needed. Serve with additional butter, if preferred.

DR. RICHARD C. Dunkelberger of Newport in Plymouth Township was one of the 210 descendants and guests who attended a meeting and reunion of the Dunkelberger Family in America July 12 in Reading, Pa.

He is the executive director of Presbyterian Village in Redford Township and former pastor of Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church. Dr. Dunkelberger, his brothers, Paul of Battle Creek and Arlo of Kalamazoo said it was a very interesting meeting. They met Dunkelbergers from as far away as Pasadena, Calif.

The family association was officially organized for historical as well as so-

Shirley Turner, a Dunkelberger descendant and geologist, presented and reviewed her book, "The Dunkelburger Family in America." She said she had found the original emigration records of the three original family members, Clementz, Peter and Frederick, who emigrated to America from Germany in 1728. She also has received copies of the original land grants received from William Penn by both Peter and Dan Dunkelberger reported on his efforts to trace the family in Germany. He showed pictures of the original family Bible brought along to America and of the German town of Olighs, where there is a street and arboretum named for the family. He also had pictures of one of the old family homes in Olighs.

Arlo Dunkelberger conducted an auction of antique and craft items. A picnic-style lunch was served in Egelmans Park near Reading.

The family originally settled in Berks County along Maidencreek and Schuylkill River on fertile farmlands received through grants from William Penn. The Peter line of the family has remained largely in Berks County, Pa., while the descendants of Clementz migrated to counties farther north and west of Berks County. There are no records of any descendants of the original Frederick. There are about 400 to 450 Dunkelbergers living in the United States, more than there are in Germa-

Dr. Dunkelberger and his brothers were born in Bangor, Mich.

Anyone who has Dunkelberger ancestry should get in touch with Jacquelin J. Flamm, 4701 St. George Street, Reading, Pa. Newsletters will be mailed twice a year and another meeting and reunion will be at the same place, July 11, 1981.

DON STARR had his picture in Time Magazine. He went to downtown Detroit during the Republican Convention and was riding on the trolley when a Time photographer took the picture.

LORENE VIVES of Canton Township and Betty Manthey of Plymouth have an exhibit of their works in the Northville Community Credit Union. The display of acrylics, watercolors, collage and batiks will be there until the end of August.

Both prize-winning artists are members of the Three Cities Art Club. Works in the exhibit are for sale.

ALICE MISSLER and Rene La-Combe had high scores at the Thursday afternoon party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

THEY HAD 15 tables again last Tuesday evening for the duplicate bridge games at the Cultural Center.

Students compare notes after year in Europe

Kim Bissey and Greg Carol, 1979 graduates of Plymouth Salem High School, had been to Stockholm to meet King Carl Gustav XVI. Christine Bennett, who will be a 1981 graduate of Plymouth Canton high, had crossed the wall into East Berlin and found it dirty but thriving from the tourist trade.

The three were comparing notes after a year in Europe as part of the Youth for Understanding program.

Ms. Bissey lived in Avesta, Sweden, an inland city with a population of about 30,000 and a stainless steel plant as its major industry. Her Swedish "father" was chief health inspector for the city and her "mother" a welfare coun-

Carol's second host family lived in Gothenburg, Sweden's main port and second largest city. He had started out with a Danish doctor who worked for Esso Corp., and his wife, a French teacher. Ms. Bennett spent her year in Cologne, Germany. Her father was a commercial judge and the mother was a housewife with the two youngest of their six children still at home.

The conversation swung from food to schools, to teen-agers, to the economy, to the Youth for Understanding pro-

KIM BISSEY said the food in Sweden was nutritious.

"I can't get used to all the junk food we eat here," she said one week after her return from Sweden. "Even the filmjolk we put on our cereal was special - a milk with a high bacteria content, almost like yogurt.

Christmas dinner in Sweden was baked ham, pickled herring, breads, cakes, jellos, salads. "The bread for the open-faced sandwiches tasted like fresh home-baked.

We had a roll, with cheese and sausage for breakfast," said Christine Bennett. "I don't like coffee so I had either tea or hot chocolate with it. We took sandwiches to school and had the large meal at 2 p.m. when we got home. School was from 8 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. Dinner was dumplings, large balls of flour dumplings served with gravy and very filling. The meat would have a always very small in individual bowls.

"Supper was the same as breakfast except the cheese and sausage were served with dark bread." She added that although the food seemed fattening, the family was amazingly slim.

"EVERYBODY ate their lunch right in the classroom, during class," said nett Ms. Bennett.

"They ate in class in Sweden, too," said Carol. "The Swedish schools are Orchestra. She plays violin and viola quite permissive. If a teacher was assigning homework, the students would say they couldn't do it that night, they had something else to do.'

"I attended a private all-girls Catholic school with nuns and a monastery. It was a church boarding school, and I'm not Catholic," said Ms. Bennett. She explained the different high students who would go on to the a university; the real school, for those who would take technical or engineering training; the main school for those who would go into a trade, factory work or unskilled labor.

Students should sign up before December if they wish to go. They are asked to give three top choices of countries they would prefer.

Kim Bissey said that the students must be independent and be willing to change their way of life.

"You have to be able to accept other people and their way of life. And you have to be prepared for inflation three times as great as in the United States. Jeans - Levi's - are more than $40 in Sweden.

Greg Carl said the Social Democrats had been in power until 1976.

The students who went to Sweden had two weeks of orientation which did not help them learn the Swedish language. Carl said there was a feeling of isolation because he did not understand the language.

Christine Bennett said their five weeks of orientation was much too long and they did not know who their host families would be until the end of that time.

"We did not have a chance to buy gifts for our families or know anything about them. It · seemed a waste of time.'

Host families are responsible only for board and room of the exchange student. They have no responsibility in providing trips and taking them sight-seeing.

"I was never homesick," said Bissey. "You must be independent and not even consider homesickness. And you must be able to accept the fact that other countries have their advantages, too.

Right now, she attends a two-hour painting class each week and does some painting during the week. It is not her only hobby, for Janine is interested in sports, especially baseball and bas-

Her first memories of drawing go back to when she was 3 or 4 years old. "When we lived in Kentucky, the whole family went on camping trips. My mother is an artist and while she was painting, we all sat with our sketch books and drew pictures.'

Two years ago, she was awarded a $50 grant from the Plymouth Community Arts Council. The student grants may be used by the recipients to further their studies or purchase equipment. Janine used her money to buy paint brushes.

"They cost at least $6 a piece," she said, " and I now have about 11 or 12 brushes.

Water color is her favorite medium although she does use acrylics and ink. She enjoys painting landscapes and flowers and it was a landscape that earned the first place ribbon

She credits her mother, father and her teacher, Betty Manthey, with encouraging and maintaining her interest in painting.

BETTY MANTHEY, artist and teacher, has an exhibit and sale of her students' works at the Credit Union on Harvey Street, Plymouth. The display will be there until the end of August.

The 37 works are the efforts of young artists ranging in age from 8-15 years, who have been taking lessons from Mrs Manthey for from one to three years. Marjorie McClennen and Theresa Church of Plymouth and Michele Mertz and Nicole Transou of Livonia also contributed to the show.

Certificate awards were presented from Northwest Blueprint, Pease Paint, the Frame Works, Nelson's Framing and Audettes.

Mrs. Manthey is president of the Three Cities Art Club.

LEN JENNINGS, 15, a student at Plymouth Canton High School, was awarded second place. He has been taking private art lessons from Mrs. Manthey for two years.

He said, "I have been drawing ever since I can remember.

He enjoys sketching and drawing, has done some acrylics and is "just starting oils."

His prize-winning work is a pen and ink drawing of a vase of flowers. Three of his works which were in the show have been sold, a pen and ink drawing of humming birds done on parchment paper, and two John Wayne drawings. He has another John Wayne on order.

Len says he hopes to someday "make a living out of it." His ambition is to become a cartoonist. His most admired artists are John Byrne and Michael Goldman, both of whom work for Stan Lee, publisher of Marvel Comics.

"I'm planning on going to New York next year to visit the Marvel Comics Building," he said. He would like to do cartoon strips.

His mother suggested the private art lessons and he credits Betty Manthey "who got me started and on my way."

MARC ZAGORSKI, 10, a student at Smith Elementary School, won the schach blot. Marc dressed him up in formal clothing.

bears the responsibility of managing the Township in accordance with policies determined by the Township Board of Trustees.

During the past 20 years, the Township has grown from a small, rural community to a medium-sized urban community. We must have good business management to insure our tax dollars are not wasted.

My experience in law, business and township government convinces me that we need effective management now more than ever.

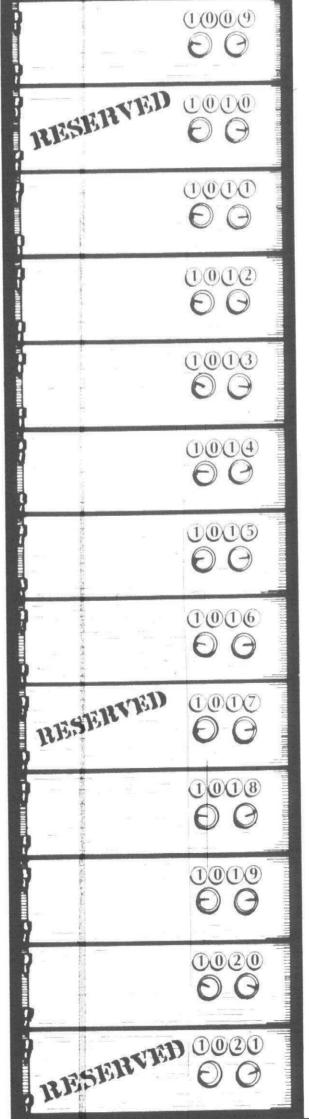

I deeply believe township government can be the most economical and efficient form of government. It can reflect the idea that "PEOPLE ARE OUR PRIORITY". I have fought to keep the Township a "PEOPLE" community these past 20 years.

I ask that you consider me as your candidate.

Alberta, Canada, is this year celebrating its 75th year as a province in the Canadian confederation with activities that range across the farmland, the cow-pasture foothills and the mountains that pierce Canada's western sky. Iris Sanderson Jones, our contributing travel editor, flew into the capital city of Edmonton, tracked by rail into the Rocky Mountains at Jasper National Park, traveled by bus down the Columbia Icefields Parkways, and drove past the old fur-trading post at Rocky Mountain House to Calgary. Along the way she visited guest ranches and dinosaur country to capture the province's many and different faces.

Edmonton is the Dallas of the north, a prairie-cum-foothills city en route to the Jasper Pass and the northern gateway through the Rockies to the Pacific. This is still the gateway to the Yukon and Alaska, the last big city on the way to the Alaska Highway.

Edmonton has always been a gateway for fur-traders, railroad builders and prospectors, but for the past 10 years it has been a boom town for oil and natural gas interests. It's the sixth largest city in Canada, and one of the earliest fur-trading posts, but most people went by to the south on the Trans-Canada highway and the Canadian Pacific Railway until the wells started gushing here a few years ago.,

Gasoline is 20 cents a liter, the cheapest in Canada. Albertans savor the bargaining power they now have with the Canadian government. Easterners say. "We've supported you for years, now it's your turn to support us with your energy.

Albertans prefer to sell their oil at world prices, and they use words like "separatists" when other people tell them what to do. A popular bumper sticker here during the days of the Arab oil embargo read, "Let's let those eastern bastards freeze in the dark.

The energy boom is great for tourists. They have so much money here that Alberta doesn't have any sales tax. Hotels and restaurants are popping up everywhere. We stayed at the elegant old McDonald Hotel, built by the Canadian National Railway and for years the social center of town, but there are also excellent newer hotels in the city.

A typical summer day is sunny and 75 degrees Fahrenheit. Winter is snow

You can hike, camp, drive, climb, or go resorting but 2 million other visitors will also be doing these things, during the peak summer months when accommodations are scarce.

All that ragtime

For Mike Montgomery, the music rolls and rolls

By BOB BYLER

(The writer is a professor of journalism at Bowling Green State University and self-professed jazz enthusiast. Portions of this article originally appeared in a copyrighted article in Mississippi Rag, a ragtime and jazz monthly.)

Mike Montgomery's Southfield home as different from most.

Crowded into various corners of the house are four pianos - including two player bianos - 5,000 piano rolls and 10,000 sheets of sheet music. It represents a hobby that has consumed much of his time over the past 30 years.

His vocation is with Michigan Bell as a training staff supervisor. But his avocation is music and music research.

Montgomery began collecting piano rolls in 1951 in the Chicago area. He was 16 and had been playing piano since he was 7.

"I enjoyed western movies, and I discovered ragtime through some of the saloon scenes that featured ragtime players," he recalled.

"In an antique bar one winter weekend I climbed up in the loft and found a pile of 625 dusty piano rolls. I asked the dealer what she wanted for the rolls and she said, 'Oh, I don't know. Why don't you give me a gun.' "

Montgomery, who had been collecting antique guns, quickly agreed and swapped her a $7.50 gun for the rolls.

He used a friend's player piano to hear the rolls at first, then got one in March 1951 for his birthday. He remembers some of the tunes on the rolls: "Mashed Potatoes Rag", "Incandescent Rag", "You've Got to See Mama Every Night" and "Underworld

Since then his search for piano rolls has been continuous. They were cheap in the early 1950s - a dime or quarter, 50 cents at tops. But there was no book that covered piano rolls, so that got him involved in research about rolls and the musicians who played or arranged them.

TODAY HIS COLLECTION is far from the largest, but it is distinctive for its selectivity and completeness in chosen categories.

"I've always been interested in rags, blues and jazz and the music of black composers and players. I really specialize in hand-played rolls," he said.

He has almost complete collections of rolls by Jelly Roll Morton, James P. Johnson, Fats Waller and Eubie Blake. There are about 15 by these four he hasn't found.

He has more than 100 rolls each by Jimmy Blythe, Clarence Johnson, Clarence Jones and J. Russel Robinson. He also has most of the rolls by George Gershwin, Adrian Rollini, Cow Cow Davenport, Seger Ellis, Maceo Pinkard, Lem Fowler and Luckey Roberts.

Few rarities are found in junk shops today. Montgomery said. Many piano rolls have no more value today than when first issued, and these are plentiful at auctions and garage sales.

Recently he tipped a dealer friend to a huge collection in the East, two ga-

MONTGOMERY also makes his own music. He has performed on 12 albums in addition to the 16 produced for Biograph, a series of carefully researched music studies.

He first turned to jazz and ragtime while in high school in Des Plaines, Ill. Then, as a freshman at University of Michigan, he met the Ann Arbor Alley Cats and began to sit in with them. They later changed their name to the Boll Weevil Jass Band and played regularly in Ann Arbor through 1962.

For the past 10 years his sparetime gig has been a solo job at the Dakota Inn in Detroit, which primarily draws a dining, drinking, sing-along crowd.

Mike has appeared as accompanist behind the legandary Sippie Wallace in two Detroit area concerts. He's working with her manager, Ron Harwood, to research Sippie's old recordings and compositions. Harwood hopes to issue albums, publish a book and produce a film about Sippie.

Music also is a family hobby for the Montgomerys. Mike's wife, Sue, is a trained pianst and organist. Sons, Danny, 10, and Robbie, 13, both play piano and can execute classic rags, such as "Maple Leaf" and "The Cascades" with skill. Matthew, 16, is learning to play guitar and banjo.

Montgomery's exuberant love of music was most evident at an outdoor concert at the Detroit-Windsor Jazz and ragtime Festival in 1974.

The Cakewalkin' band wasn't using a pianist then, but there was an idle piand on stage. After a few numbers it was just too much for Montgomery to bear. He vaulted on stage and joined the band for the rest of the set.

Mike Montgomery (above) sits amid a small portion of his collection of piano rolls and sheet music. He also owns four pianos to play all that ragtime and all that jazz. At left, Dan Montgomery, a student at Thompson Middle School, tickles the ivory while brother Rob, who will be a freshman at Southfield High, joins in on coronet. Their father (background) accompanies them. A third son, Matt, a junior at Southfield High, is a member of the school's Madrigal Singers. (Staff photo by Mindy Saunders)

Sports collectors draw big money

I kept kicking myself Friday morning as I browsed through the 10th annual Midwest Sports Collectors Show at the Plymouth Hilton.

This gathering of sports junkies couldn't have been real. I was mad with envy because I wasn't a part of the trading, buying and selling of sports memorabilia

I collected baseball cards as a youngster - quite a few in fact. But somehow I lost all those cards or may have even thrown them in the garbage when I got older.

It was a very careless mistake because in today's world, sports memorabilia has real intrinsic val-

Pitcher Al Lipinski of Canton scattered six hits, struck out nine and walked one. He raised his summer league mark to 8-0. The game lasted six innings because of a time limit.

"I can't say enough about Al," said Canton interim coach John Gravlin. "He's hitting over .450 and is our RBI leader."

Second baseman Steve Schumacher of Caesars went 2-for-2, scored twice and drove home two runs as the club McMurray belted singles to lead off the

Catcher Dave Slavin drove in three runs and Jim Anderson added a solo homer to spark the Plymouth Salem Elks to a 6-4 Redford-Adray Connie Mack League baseball win Thursday night

Salem is 10-8 in league play. Slavin and Anderson, a first base-

The winners broke it open early with four runs with 2 out in the first inning. Humphries and Blanchard led off with back-to-back walks. They both scored on Dan Carlson's single.

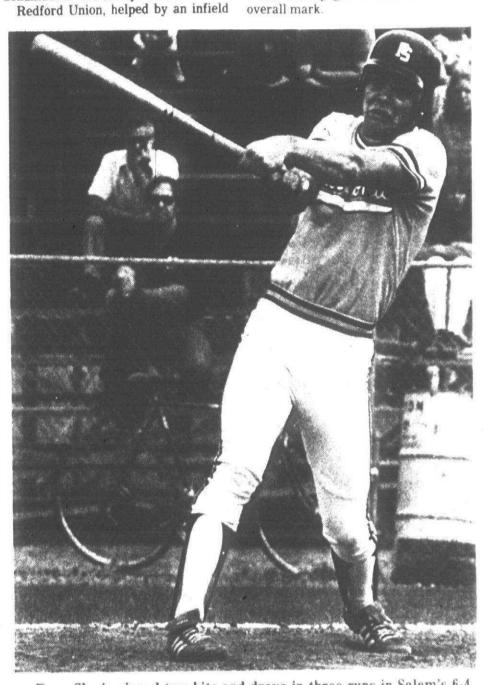

Bob Debenedet then singled and Ken Vermeulen followed with another single, scoring Debenedet and Carlson.

Blanchard started things off in the third inning with a solo round tripper to make it 5-0.

Another golden era in bowling ended this week when Stroh Brewery announced that it no longer will sponsor its top team as it had in past years. In making the announcement, officials stated that under a new plan, the firm would sponsor more teams in more leagues and thus keep its hand in the game it helped to dominate since 1933.

The Authority shall have power to issue additional bonds to complete, repair or alter the Project as authorized in the Contract.

Camaro Z28

This year's Chevrolet Camaro Z28 features a functional hood air scoop, new body striping and a newly styled grille. Optional cast aluminum wheels are available on other Camaro woodels as well as on the Z. While a 5.7-liter V8 is standard on the Z, a fuel-efficient V6 engine and new 4.4-liter and 5.0-liter V8s are available.

Cars can be fat, too

Extra weight is something none of us needs these days. That's good advice whether it's coming from your physician or your mechanic.

We all know how important a thin waistline is to good health. We are now rapidly learning to appreciate that excess poundage in the family car wastes fuel and money.

The U.S. automaker's trade association says that weight is by far the biggest factor in fuel consumption. America's car producers will have spent an estimated $80 billion by 1985 to reduce the weight of their products and make they more energy efficient, said the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association.

As a matter of fact, manufacturers have been downsizing or paring off the poundage since the 1977 model year. This has been the single greatest contribution to improved fuel economy

Car owners and drivers must do something about weight, whether the car is a downsized, late model product or whether its odometer has passed 100,000

With Solar Energy Saving Exclusively Pella Features

More sunlight, more living space, more energy economy thanks to passive solar energy and exclusive Pella features. Whether you're building or remodeling, your home can have a place in the sun.

The Pella Sunroom can actually help reduce winter fuel bills because its passive solar design helps trap the sun's warmth. In summer, its ventilating windows can help keep things cool. Several exclusive Pella features like Slimshade , the Contemporary French Door, the Double Glass Insulation System and the Clad System, as well as superior, energy-tight construction of Pella products make all this possible. But that's not all. The Sunroom is simple to construct. The size is up to you, Just use more sections if you want a larger Sunroom. What's more, there's no exterior maintenance.

More insulation for less money

One of the most important energy-saving features in a Pella Window is the Double Glass Insulation System. With its 13/16" space between panes, Pella's Double Glass Insulation System actually outperforms ordinary welded insulating glass and costs you less per window!

Add this fact to Pella's many other "Energy-Tight" features and you have one of the best energy savers on the market.

The technical review group better enables the clearing house staff to assess the accuracy and the reliability of energy information, products and services.

Central to the clearinghouse is a record-keeping system designed to monitor and evaluate the service provided. Each citizen's call or letter is "logged in," and demographic data are collected. EACH REQUESTOR is sent a follow-up questionnaire to determine: the quality of service received, the usefulness of information given, and the specific conservation actions taken as a result.

These findings play a significant role in reviewing the service and information made available to Michigan residents via the clearinghouse and energy hotline.

The Michigan Energy Extension Service Clearinghouse is supported by three fulltime staff members (a coordinator and two information specialists), and a small support group of volunteers and student assistants.

A grant from the federal Department of Energy covered $206,000 of the $249,000 solar collector's cost, said Gordon Andringa, auxiliary services director for Troy schools. The demonstration project is designed to "show publicly that solar energy works and encourage more people to use them (collectors) and more companies to make them," Andringa said.

"Our only obligation is to make the solar site available for viewing for five

"It doesn't take awfully hot water,"
Williams said. "We can heat rooms off

On hot days, though, water from solar panel can be as hot as 240 degrees.
The water is under pressure, so the boiling point is higher than normal.

els. Only two-thirds of the system was operating last winter, as a result. So it was no surprise when energy savings were less than previously predicted, Andringa said

Bemis used about 23 percent less electricity in the first month of winter than the other two schools. In the second heating month, Bemis used 13 percent less electricity. But because only part of the system was operating, it's difficult to analyze the collector's effectiveness, Andringa said.

"We expected 40 percent savings

"We expected 40 percent savings with the system fully in operation," he said. "It's hard to comment without all the panels working."

Based on 40 percent savings, he had calculated it would take 14 years for the solar collectors to pay off.

Detroit Edison electric company recently installed meters on the boilers to gauge the impact of the solar collector.

"WE'RE STILL KIND of groping to see how the system compares," Andringa said. Measuring only the electricity used by the boilers will eliminate any difference in the use of lights or other electrically-operated devices at the schools, which can confuse comparisons of entire electric bills, he said.

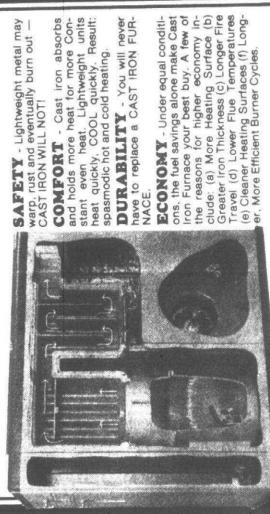

The district plans to replace all the leaky panels this summer, so the system can operate at full capacity next fall and winter. It operated for five weeks in spring 1979, and at partial capacity since October 1979.

Troy may also be the first school district to expand its solar program. But the delay in appraising the system will also postpone any decision about installing solar collectors at the two sister schools.

The district will examine at least a full year of comparative data before making that decision, Andringa said.

Even if you are planning to insulate, add storm windows or make other major energy-saving purchases, you should do these 11 things first. They are cost-effective. They to offer quick paybacks, and in some cases, they will increase the savings you get when in you install insulation later.

That will cost you $75-$100 annually if your water heater is electric and $30-$40 if your water heater is gas.

You can get back a hefty chunk of that money — without taking colder or shorter showers — by installing a flow controller. The flow controller is inserted between the shower head and the shower arm.

It reduces the flow of water to three gallons per minute, while the shower continues to give off a good spray. You can enjoy a comfortable shower and still wind up saving one gallon of hot water per minute, or up to 4,000 gallons of hot water a year.

Most shower heads screw right onto the arm or pipe that extends out from the wall. They can be removed with a wrench. You might want to put a cloth around the area where the wrench is applied so that the shower head or shower arm is not damaged or scarred with the wrench.

The shower head should come off easily. If it doesn't, don't force it, because too much pressure might twist, pinch or break the shower arm.

Once the shower head is removed, the flow controller is inserted into the shower head, large end first. Push or screw it in as far as it will go.

The shower head is then put back on the

The shower head is then put back on the shower arm until it fits snugly and tightly. If the joint leaks, try a little pipe joining compound on the threads.

On some ball-type installations, the shower er head is not removable from the shower

In this case, the builder may apply for precertification to the Energy Administration, and the builder will supply the purchaser of the residence with the precertificate. When you submit that to the Energy Administration, along with proof of ownership, your tax credit certificate will be approved.

For certified solar, wind or water energy conversion systems, the credit will apply to systems installed between Jan. 1, 1979, and Dec. 31, 1983. The percentage of the costs that can be credited against income taxes declines yearly after 1980. The credit for single-family residences are:

It is important that the insulation be fixed to the tank so that it can't slip down and cover the openings later.

an explosion.

4. Cooling the wash.

A hot wash and warm rinse combination, the highest setting on most machines, requires 25 gallons of hot water.

A load a day on such a setting, for electric water heaters, could easily cost $100 a year. Changing the rinse water to cold, which experts say does not affect the results of the wash, will save eight of those gallons per day or $25 a year.

By changing the wash setting from hot to warm, you could save another $25. If you have a gas water heater, the savings would be $10 a year for each strategy.

5. Escape up the chimney

A fireplace chimney is a bad place to have a leak because the chimney itself encourages a strong flow of air.

One way to stop the leak is to stuff a gap at the damper with insulation. If it is too large to insulate, to cover it with a board.

In Michigan, you can plug the damper and save $45 a year with electric resistance heat, $20 with gas heat and $30 with oil heat.

6. Holes in the attic are like holes in your

If your attic is warm in winter, some of the expensive heat you need downstairs has escaped up to where it won't do you any good. Major heat leaks are found not only in uninsulated attics, but also in insulated ones where gaps and holes have been left untreated.

Such attic "bypasses" are conduits for heat to leave the house during winter and enter the house in the summer. It is com-

Don't plug gaps around recessed light fixtures and the vents in the attic. Do not coner light fixtures directly with insulation as this may cause a fire. Also, the vents must be able to "breathe" so that they can prevent moisture accumulation in the attic.

Another major attic bypass is the gap where the furnace stack or chimney meets the wood framing of the house. This gap is very important, because it often creates a kind of chimney effect, carrying air all the way from the basement to the attic and making a river of hear loss.

Forgetting to seal and insulate ducts may cost 20-40 percent of a furnace or air conditioner output. Covering ducts can save up to $100 a year in heating costs and $35 in central air conditioning costs.
