Board, teachers near contract settlement

By EMORY DANIELS

A ratified contract with teachers should be reached within the next couple of weeks.

After an inability to ratify a "tenative agreement" for the past year both sides last Friday finally found the right compromise to bring an end to negotiations.

That compromise also brought an end to the hearings before the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) and resulted in the withdrawal of all unfair labor practice charges.

The price of the agreement is about $80,000 to the Plymouth-Canton Schools, or half of the $160,000 issue which had kept both sides apart for the past year.

The Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA) notified teachers this morning of the new tentative agreement at a general membership meeting.

A formal ratification meeting will be held as soon as written copies of the proposed contract can be distributed to all teachers.

Derald McKinley, chief negotiator for the PCEA, said he didn't "see any particular problem" in obtaining a ratification vote from members. Norm Kee, board chief negotiator, likewise anticipates no problem in getting final agreement from the school board.

THE COMPROMISE was worked out last Wednesday and finalized Friday morning when the announcement was made.

Kee announced agreement had been reached on a "compromise which both teams feel is fair and just to both sides."

McKinley explained that the agreement "essentially splits the difference of the problem we had."

Last fall, ratificaton did not follow the tentative agreement when the union discovered the board had a different interpretation of what had been agreed upon.

The union felt the salary increases would be compounded while the board insisted only flat percentage increases would be given each year.

The difference between those two interpretations, Kee explained, was about $160,000. "So we agreed to take half, or $80,000, and divide it up proportionately in a lump sum payment to all members who were employees in the 1979-80 school year."

Kee added that the $80,000 also would be included in the salary schedule which would be the basis for initial economic talks between both sides in 1982.

JOHN RYDER, outgoing PCEA president, said he hoped the compromise and upcoming ratification would mark the beginning of a new era between the union and the board.

"We are hoping this will be the beginning of a new era of cooperation between us which really started about the first of June.

"From here on we intend to go to problem solving mutually rather than fighting it out on a picket line.

"The important thing about this compromise is that we settled this among just local people — there were no attorneys, MERC hearings or MEA involved, just us."

Ryder said the PCEA already has had some initial, informal meetings to become involved in problem solving with certain board members and administrators. "So we really have some open, direct lines now to the board."

Kee echoed Ryder's hopes that both sides would "continue to meet with each other and work towards developing mutual trust for the benefit of all."

The three-year pact, retroactive to the fall of 1979, will expire in two years.

Library looks for Oct. 20 opening

The long-awaited opening of Canton Township's new library has been set for Oct. 20.

"I'm certain about that date — unless some real hitches come along," said head librarian Deborah O'Connor.

"We've had some people call and say they thought the library was already open. But I think people understand all that goes into (establishing a library)."

The target opening date of Oct. 20 is the latest in a string of dates set by the library board.

The new facility will be located on the third floor on the township's administration building at Canton Center Road and Proctor.

Voters approved a one-mill tax for the library in May 1979.

LAST SPRING, library officials were hopeful the facility would be open sometime in August. Those plans hinged on whether the library's shelves would arrive in time.

Shelving supply companies pushed back Canton's order, however, because of competing requests from a number of school districts and universities.

Ms. O'Connor now expects to receive the shelves during the week of Sept. 21. The library board's timetable calls for the installation of furniture during the week of Oct. 5 and the installation of a sucurity system the week of Oct. 12.

Ms. O'Connor expects a stock of 20,000 books for the library's opening. More books will be purchased during the next few years.

Although most of the current book stock has been cataloged, Ms. O'Connor said library employees still need help from volunteers. Interested persons should call Ms. O'Connor at 397-0999.

Supporters of the library originally planned to open the facility last January. The target opening date was pushed back to June when library board members realized they would not receive millage revenue until the December tax collection period.

Further difficulties pushed back the opening date to August and now to Oct. 20.

Further difficulties, such as a delay in negotiating a library lease, pushed back the opening date to August. According to Ms. O'Connor, it now "looks pretty certain" that the library will swing open its doors on Oct. 20.

'Toy' or necessity?

Officials take steps to computerize hall

By DARLENE STINSON

Two trustees call the proposed computer system "a toy."

But other township officials say the $156,000 system would save Canton $95,000 annually in personnel and other costs.

Finance director Mike Gorman says a dollar value cannot be placed on increased efficiency and other benefits which the system would bring to Township Hall.

After spending $31,000 on an eight-month computer study, the Township Board authorized Gorman last week to negotiate a purchase agreement for the system from Nixdorf, a German-based company with offices in Southfield.

The actual purchase will require Township Board approval.

Funds would come from 1980 federal revenue-sharing money.

The system would computerize most operations at Township Hall, including water billing, payroll, the processing of property taxes, voter registration and accounts payable.

"We're vastly old-fashioned right now," said Supervisor Noel Culbert of current township operations. "This system will greatly modernize us. You can't put a dollar value on all this system will do."

TWO OTHER TOWNSHIP Board members are fighting purchase of the system.

Trustee Robert Greenstein calls the computer a "toy" and suggests that proponents of the system chip in to buy it. Trustee Steve Larson calls any decision to buy the system "sheer lunacy."

The two dissented in last week's 5-2 vote of the Township Board to proceed with plans to buy the system.

Their opposition is based on fears about the economic climate. Both Larson and Greenstein have taken stands to curb government spending for "frills."

The township already has spent approximately $31,000 for a study on Canton's need for the computer system. The study was performed by Arthur Andersen & Co., an accounting and consultant firm.

The corporation will receive an additional $40,000 contract from Canton if the computer system is installed. Andersen & Co. will oversee installation of the system, programming and matters to ensure that the computer meets the township's needs, said Gorman.

The $40,000 for the Andersen contract is included in the system's estimated $156,000 cost, according to the finance director.

The Andersen study indicated benefits for Canton in terms of increased efficiency and long-run cost savings.

But Larson and Greenstein criticized the board for taking the firm's findings at face value. The firm stands to gain $40,000 from a township decision to buy the system, they noted.

GORMAN MAINTAINS that the system will pay for itself by 1983 — a belief which neither Greenstein nor Larson accept.

"I think these people don't really understand about government computer systems," he said of the two trustees.

"The people who deal with Ford and those kinds of companies don't understand that this computer isn't the type used by big business. You don't have to bring big staffs in. It's not that kind of animal."

Gorman served on a computer study committee which worked in conjuction with Andersen & Co. The committee also included Culbert, Clerk John Flodin, Trustee Carol Bodenmiller and Police Chief Jerry Cox.

According to Gorman, the present clerical staff will be able to run the system. He envisions the elimination of 2½ Township Hall jobs for a cost-saving of $70,000 annually because of the increased efficiency which the computer system would provide.

But Gorman says no one would be pink-slipped. The township would not fill job vacancies which typically arise.

Gorman said the township would save an additional $25,000 annually by cancelling contracts for computerized processing of payroll, water bills and monthly budget reports which are presented to the Township Board.

HE CITES a long list of other, "intangible" benefits.

Currently, for example, the township processes all purchases for supplies and equipment by hand. Purchase orders and payment forms are filled out manually, and lists of bills are typed up for the Township Board. After ordered items are received, workers deduct the expenditures from line items in the budget.

According to Gorman, officials never know the exact amount of each line item in the budget because of outstanding bills.

Cadets join force

8 try hand at cop's job

By ARLENE FUNKE

Canton Township's eight new employees are excited, ambitious and somewhat uncertain of the future, but they wouldn't trade their jobs for any others.

The uncertainty comes almost from the nature of the occupation they have chosen — police cadet, with the expectation of becoming full-fledged police officers.

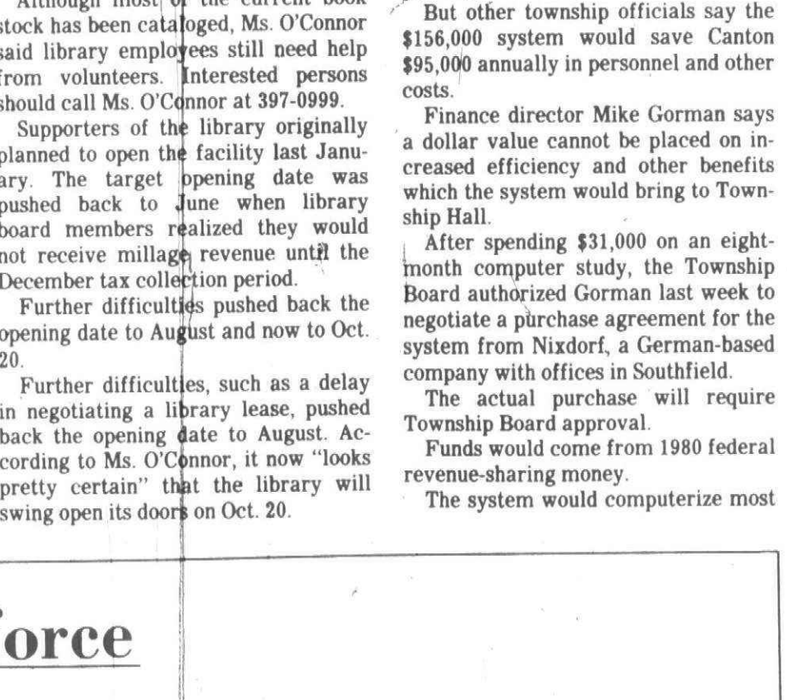

About a month ago six men and two women — ranging in age from early 20s to 40 — were hired for the cadet program.

They now have 18-24 months to show their stuff and discover if they're cut out for police work in Canton.

Police Chief Jerry Cox says the program offers the cadet a chance to "evaluate ideals as opposed to reality.

"It frees up regular officers," continues Cox. It's a means of getting the most for the dollar while giving the young people the exposure."

Donahue returns paycheck

Treasurer Jim Donahue took steps to fulfill a long-standing promise last week when he turned back a check for $212 to Canton Township.

The lame duck treasurer earmarked the funds for the soon-to-be Canton library.

The money is part of an estimated $900 which Donahue has promised to turn back to Canton. Last April, he pledged to return the difference between his part-time treasurer's salary of $7,500 and the wages paid to trustees — $75 per Township Board meeting.

Deputy treasurer Maria Falkiewicz officially assumed the administrative aspects of Donahue's job last April due to the elected treasurer's poor health.

Donahue said he will return all his treasurer's check to Canton until the total $900 is repaid.

Earmarking the checks for a specific project — such as the library — will enable Donahue to deduct the money from his federal income tax.

"I don't mind giving the money back," he said. "But I sure as hell would hate to pay (income tax) to be treasurer."

Donahue said he "may just give some money to everybody — not that it's such a huge amount."

Donahue's two-year term as treasurer expires in November.

Hadley to address parents of gifted

Is your child gifted?

If so than you will be interested in the next meeting of the Plymouth-Canton Association for the Academically Talented (PCAAT) beginning 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 10.

Parents and educators attending the meeting will learn what to look for when identifying the gifted child.

The opening meeting of this season will be in the cafetorium of Pioneer Middle School at 46081 W. Ann Arbor Road.

THE GUEST speaker will be Dr. Donald Hadley, who is a consulting psychologist and therapist at the Medrano Mental Health Clinic in Farmington and a psychologist for the Livonia Public Schools.

Besides discussing the identification of the gifted child, Dr. Hadley also will conduct a long question-answer period.

"Without schools just attempting to build a comprehensive program to work with gifted students, both parents and teachers have many questions and concerns," says Marjorie Croll, PCAAT president.

"Our meetings are open to the public and are designed to help answer these questions."

Hadley, who earned his doctorate in psychology and education at the University of Michigan, has an extensive background as a psychologist in public education and as an instructor in child development and educational psychology at numerous colleges and universities including U-M.

PCAAT MEETS on the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in Pioneer Middle School.

The goals of the organization include:

- To share the problems and joys of helping talented and gifted children.
- To learn practical suggestions for meeting the needs of talented and gifted children at home and at school.
- To provide sources of information about alternative schools, summer programs, conferences, workshops and publications.
- To promote educational programs to meet the individual needs of the talented and gifted in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.
- To inform the community about state and national trends in education and pending legislation as well as local plans.

The 'Y Guides' ready to begin

The Y-Indian program sponsored by the Plymouth Family YMCA will be getting started next week with the annual Indian-A-Rama.

The Indian-A-Rama will be held from 7-8 p.m. Sept. 9 at Amerman School in Northville, Sept. 10 at Allen School in Plymouth, and Sept. 11 at Hulsing School in Canton.

The purpose of the YMCA parent-child programs is to strengthen the family unit by reinforcing relationships between parents and children and to open new pathways of communication between all members of a family.

"The parent-child programs have been especially designed to create an atmosphere in which parents can come to understand their children better," says Janet Luce, program director of the YMCA. "This encourages parents to provide much needed positive examples to their young children.

"As the name implies, the Y-Indian programs are based on the lore of the American Indian. This is because of the common interest of both moms, dads and kids in Indian life."

THE PROGRAM participants are formed into groups called tribes composed of six to eight parents and their children.

The tribes meet once or twice a month in the homes of members and plan activities such as: a family banquet, roller skating, sleepins, winter camp, field trips, canoe trips, bowling tournaments, summer camp, picnics, parades, and holiday parties.

The programs are organized as follows: Indian Guides, for fathers and sons ages 5-9; Trailblazers, fathers and sons, ages 9 and older; Indian Princess, fathers and daughters, ages 5-9; Trail Mates, fathers and daughters, ages 9 and older; Indian Maidens, mothers and daughters, ages 5-9; Trailettes, mothers and daughters, 9 and older; and, Braves, mothers and sons, ages 5-9.

Persons interested in joining one of the YMCA parent-child programs may show up at one of the Indian-A-Ramas or may contact the YMCA at 292 S. Main, Plymouth, or by calling 453-2904.

Student broadcasters are returning to the air

Plymouth-Canton's own radio station will return to the air from noon to 9 p.m. on Thursday.

WSDP, the student-operated 200-watt radio station of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, can be found at 88.1 on the FM dial.

The program schedule on WSDP will remain the same as last year, including news, sports and a varying choice of music.

And again this fall WSDP will be providing live coverage of both Plymouth Canton High and Plymouth Salem High football and girls basketball games.

The first games to be broadcast, each one beginning at 7:30 p.m., will be: Sept. 16, Canton girls basketball against Thurston; Sept. 19, Canton football against Harrison; and Sept. 20, Salem football against Bentley.

The station will be operating on a limited staff until auditions are held Sept. 10-15.

The staff consists of volunteer students from grades 9-12 from both of the high schools who perform the basic operation of the station.

All interested students should stop by the station in Salem High by Sept. 10 to pick up an audition packet. Packets will available when school opens Thursday.

WSDP has been broadcasting since February 1972. Since that time the station has not only expanded its area of coverage to some 700 square miles but also its programming.

Jeffrey Cardinal, administrative coordinator, says it is WSDP's goal to work toward meeting the needs of the community with locally-originated programming of varying interests.

Classes resume for traditional, ESY pupils

More than 17,000 students in Plymouth-Canton will be opening school books again before this week comes to an end.

Students on year-round school returned to classes this morning and almost all others will be in school Thursday morning.

Because of the staggered block start system for Extended School Year (ESY) those pupils assigned to Track D at a year-round school will not be starting classes until Monday, Sept. 22.

John M. Hoben, superintendent, says that about 17,200 students are expected to be enrolled for the current school year.

The projected student count of 17,200 includes the anticipated enrollment for adult education classes as well as for special education and general classrooms.

For school year 1979-80 the official student count was 16,856.

ONE CHANGE for students this year will be new school lunch prices.

The new, and higher, lunch prices are 75 cents for elementary pupils, 80 cents for middle school students, 90 cents for high schoolers, and $1.45 for adult lunches.

Another change for many students will be new principals or assistant principals as a shuffling of administrative personnel has occurred involving some five schools.

The changes were primarily caused by the promotion of Shirley Spaniel from principal of Miller Elementary to executive director of elementary education replacing Dr. Barbara Bowman who had resigned to take a position with another district, and by the leave of absence taken by Ron South, Smith principal, to teach in Germany.

The chain of moves involves George Dodson moving from his position as principal at Gallimore to become Smith principal with Joyce Reefer, former assistant principal at Miller, becoming Gallimore principal.

Lolly Buikema, principal at Tanger Elementary, was named principal at Miller to replace Ms. Spaniel and the Tanger principalship was filled by Carroll Nichols who last year was the top administrator at Bird Elementary.

Sam Barresi, assistant principal at Field Elementary, has been named principal at Bird Elementary and Gregory Owens has been hired from Warren Public Schools to become assistant principal at Central Middle School replacing Brian Kidston.

That shuffling still leaves open assistant principal spots at Miller and Field elementaries.

THE SCHOOL DAY begins first at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) as classes there begin 7:15 a.m. and end at 2:05 p.m.

The middle school day for East, West, Central and Pioneer will be from 7:55 a.m. to 2:45 p.m.

Elementary days are: Geer, 8:35 a.m. to 3:05 p.m.; Smith, 8:40 a.m. to 3:10 p.m.; Bird, Eriksson, Starkweather, Fiegel, Isbister and Farrand, from 8:45 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.; and Allen, Field, Gallimore, Miller, Hulsing and Tanger, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Police trainees lend helping hands to officers

CURRENTLY, cadets are learning clerical procedures, typing reports, answering phones and making an occasional patrol run under the watchful eye of a police officer.

Some will attend criminal justice classes and local classes learn about Michigan laws, local ordinances and use of firearms. Before they can become regular officers, they will have to complete a state police academy course.

Behind the cadets are a series of interviews, psychological evaluations, background checks and tests for physical stamina and agility. The eight emerged at the top of about 160 persons who had applied for the cadet slots, said Cox.

They, as well as about 35 other persons, now make up an eligibility list for eventual hiring as patrol officers, added Cox.

The police chief said he drew up the requirements after the township last year decided to hire officers through a cadet format. He said he studied similar programs in several state and met with Canton's merit commission, township finance director and criminal justice instructors from Madonna College in Livonia.

"THE PEOPLE we have on board were the upper level of that battery (of requirements) in all aspects," said Cox. "Because we're dealing with a better-educated society, police officers have to be better educated."

Cadet positions have three levels, depending on education and experience. They may advance by taking criminal justice classes and showing ability, according to Cox.

Cox said the program is designed so that a cadet will be finished in 18-24 months.

Entry-level cadet pay is $12,305 per year, advancing to $12,700 for the second level. Top cadet pay is $13,500.

That compares to $17,000 starting pay for a patrol officer, says Dennis Joker, a shift commander.

"It takes about two years working the road to get the feel of it," says Joker. "I was very impressed. They are very useful."

Two of the cadets are being paid with federal funds from the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), and the remainder will be paid from $103,000 set aside in the proposed 1981 budget.

All cadets must become members of the police officers' association (union) and will receive the same fringe benefits as regular officers, says Cox.

SEVERAL CADETS said they are excited about police work because it offers diversity and a chance to help people.

William Keppen, 40, of Canton, had worked 22 years in sales for an insurance company prior to being selected as a cadet. Keppen said he had served as an unpaid reserve police officer for 10 years in Garden City and had always wanted to be a full-time officer.

Keppen says he has been to the police academy and has received certification. Currently, he is training a German Shepherd dog which eventually will be used by the Canton department to track lost people and search buildings.

"It's quite satisfying to train (the dog) from a puppy," adds Keppen.

Ronald Stenske, 34, of Garden City, was a criminal justice intern with the Southfield police department in 1976. Previously, he was unable to find a job as a police officer and had been a salesman.

"I haven't been to the police academy because of the cost," Stenske said. He said he likes police work because, "I like coping with emergency situations and helping distraught people."

LAURA GOLLES of Dearborn Heights says she "loves it all.

"I want to be chief of police," says Ms. Golles, 21. "I tested in Dearborn and placed fifth." She said that placement encouraged her to apply in Canton.

"It's so young," she said of the township. "It has room to grow."

Ms. Golles recently accompanied a patrol officer on a run to investigate a fight at a wedding in a Canton Township rental hall.

"I feel very comfortable," she said about the work. "So far I haven't had any resentment from men."

Cadet Richard Pomorski, 22, of Dearborn, praised the Canton police officers for helping him lose some of the nervousness he's been feeling during the first weeks on the job.

"There are a lot of checks and balances," notes Pomorski. "Everything has to be logged to the precise time."

Pomorski, who has worked as a security officer for Korvette Department Store, said he wants to "progress up the ladder of success" and eventually teach criminal justice.

Robert Sidor, 23, of Redford Township, says his goal is to "make it to the job of police officer."

He believes, "you have to be easy-going and patient with people."

Local movie set?

Area panned for shooting

By TERI BANAS

Birmingham's loss could become Plymouth's gain if a television movie previously considered for filming in that city is shot here instead.

Last week, former Detroit Lion-turned-filmmaker Alex Karras paid a visit to Plymouth City Hall in search of a new site on which to film his planned CBS presentation "Word of Honor."

The film will star Karl Malden as an investigative reporter for a community newspaper who has given his word not to reveal something he learned from an informant while on the track of a story.

The film company's on-site review of Plymouth last week was prompted by a rejection of the Birmingham City Commission which, in a 5-1 vote, said it wanted no part of the film crew or its business.

By Friday, however, it was learned Birmingham received a hand-delivered letter from Georgian Bay Productions, owned by Karras and wife Susan Clark, requesting a second chance.

(It was not known at that time whether the council would reconsider its vote at its next meeting tonight.)

The decision to reject the filming came after Birmingham commissioners said they feared that a subplot of the story — the murder of a teen-ager — might harm the city's image or recall memories of past tragedies.

MEANWHILE, the production company, while conducting auditions at the Kinsley Inn in Bloofield Hills, sent scouts to other possible middle-America settings including Plymouth, Northville and Royal Oak.

One of those scouts arrived in Plymouth Wednesday and toured Kellogg Park, the city assessor's office and the 35th District Courtroom in city hall.

Felicia Kobylanski of Station Producers Express Inc. of Southfield said Plymouth was a nice small town with a central business district, which they were looking for.

That company is employed to do preproduction and location managing for "Word of Honor." It's the same firm that handled the work for Karras' other television movie, "Jimmy B. and Andre," filmed in Detroit.

Asked how seriously Plymouth was considered as an alternative to Birmingham, she said: "I'm not at liberty to discuss it right now because nothing is locked in." But she added Plymouth was a definite possibility.

"Two scenes involved at this time are of a courtroom and town square."

According to city hall employees, Ms. Kobylanski took several pictures of the courtroom and city hall building Wednesday.

By Thursday, Karras and his crew arrived to discuss the prospect with City Manager Henry Graper.

"I DIDN'T EXPECT them to come back so quickly," said Graper.

In light of Birmingham's rejection, Graper added he canvassed the Plymouth city commissioners and found they all approved of shooting the film in Plymouth.

"It's publicity," said Graper. "I find them very enjoyable people, and I don't think it would cost the community anything. It'll be a plus factor, and another chance for Plymouth to be seen."

"I can't understand why they want Birmingham so bad when they can have Plymouth," said commissioner David Pugh, a supporter.

"On the surface, I think it's great. I think it would be a whole lot of fun to have Alex Karras here, Karl Malden, and whoever else."

Commissioner Ron Loiselle had these comments:

"Initially, my reaction is it sounds really exciting to have a film company in town. It's like when Kirt Lorenz got his chicken in a movie. I don't remember the name of it anymore, but he was in it for about two seconds, and it was a big deal."

(Lorenz, the son of Mayflower Ralph Lorenz, appeared briefly in the television movie "The Betsey." The scene was of Lorenz walking off a plane with his Chicken Flying Contest entry.)

WHEN ASKED what he thought of Karras' production, commissioner Ralph Kenyon said he had some initial reservations.

"I'm really not that coonvinced they want us yet," he said. "I would want to see if they're trying to use us as a lever against Birmingham.

"I would think that a business like that would be trying to cover all its bets by giving Birmingham the idea there are other alternatives and in that way maybe Birmingham wouldn't extract such a large toll from them."

Graper said the film crew is sending him a copy of the movies' script, but he added he didn't need to base his decision on the content.

He added they said the filming would take four days in September and one day in October and "local" people would be used in the filmmaking.

Officials debate computer

The computer would enable officials to receive up-to-the-minute reports. The computer would issue checks, print a list of bills and deduct expenditures from the budget automatically.

Computerized voter registration lists would provide immediate demographic reports, such as statistics on the number of residents over age 55. Such information often is needed for purposes of writing grant applications.

Residents could receive immediate information on back tax and water bills.

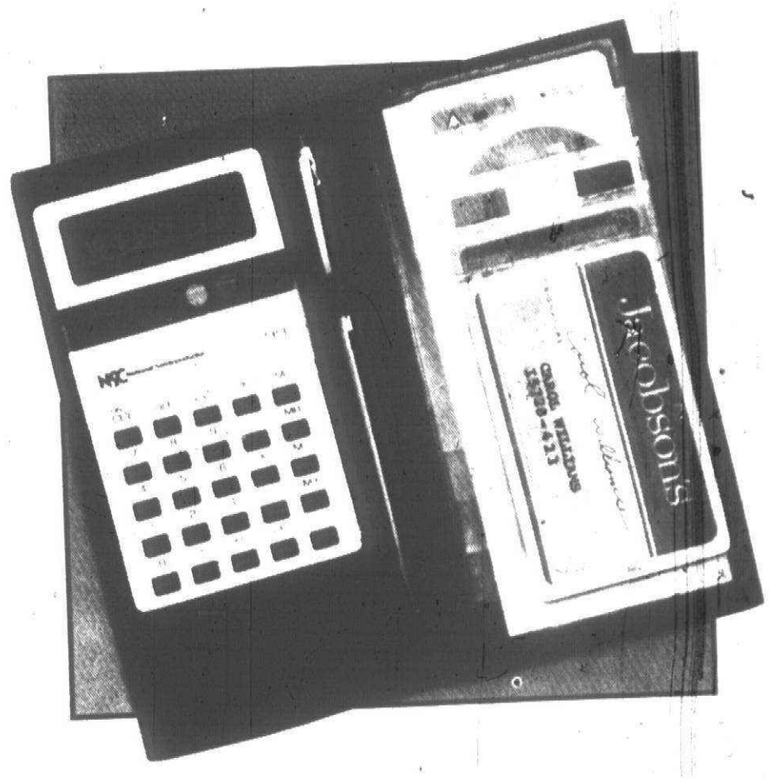

"I could go on forever about the kinds of the things the computer could do for us," Gorman said.

According to Gorman, Nixdorf offered the lowest computer price and seemingly best system of the 10 firms which recently submitted bids.

Although administrators will negotiate with Nixdorf for the system, Gorman said other firms will be considered if an acceptable agreement cannot be reached.

Pilot recounts happenings that led to crash

A single-engine passenger plane en route to Canton's Mettetal Airport crashed on Ann Arbor Trail near Harvey in downtown Plymouth last Wednesday night. None of the three Arkansas travelers on board were seriously injured. The following is the pilot's account of the accident.

By EMORY DANIELS and TERI BANAS

"I'm sorry for any damage done and for the disruption caused to your city last night."

So said Arkansas pilot David Davis Thursday afternoon when he called the Observer to "thank Plymouth for everything they have done for me and my passengers."

Davis, 34, of St. Joe, Ark., was flying Carolyn Adkins, 36, of Mount Hope, Ark., to a funeral in Flint. Also making the trip was Colbert Wilson, 43, of St. Joe.

All three were released from St. Mary Hospital in Livonia Thursday after two received treatment for minor injuries.

THE THREE had left Mount Hope Wednesday afternoon to take Ms. Adkins to Flint for the funeral of a relative.

"Enroute, the weather began to worsen while we were flying over southern Illinois," said Davis, "so I changed from a visual flight plan to an instrument flight plan.

"There were a lot of small, marginal airports along the way so I had to make some adjustments when I switched to instruments. The new flight plan called for me to stop at Jackson and then continue on to Flint where I'd leave my passenger and return to Arkansas.

"As I was arriving south of Jackson the route traffic control center advised us that the Jackson airport was closed.

"The weather reports also indicated Battle Creek might close because of the fog mixing with haze. Also there was no fuel available for me at Jackson and they were having some kind of problem with approach lights. So I was advised to divert to Willow Run."

About the time he was diverted from Jackson, Davis had checked his fuel supply and found he had enough in reserve to fly for 50-55 minutes.

One reason the decision was made to divert to Willow Run, Davis added, was to make use of radar to land with the poor visibility.

"When I got to the Detroit area, though, Willow Run was stacked up with traffic and they had a problem getting me in.

"Then my one tank went dry. I switched to the other one and immediately asked for help. I was about eight miles south of your local airport (Mettetal) but it was unlighted so they asked me to stay in a holding pattern and they'd get me down.

"My other tank went dry and the motor shut off. I was gliding down, saw a dark street down there, and got set up for a landing. When I got on the ground, I knocked the door out and scrambled out."

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) is still investigating the Plymouth crash. One investigator for the agency, however, commended Davis for a landing that averted serious calamity.

"He did land it and he did an excellent job of it," said investigator Leslie Torguson, based at the general aviation district office at Willow Run."

"It takes a special kind of pilot to do what he did; landing in such short time, missing all those electrical wires and making it so those people could walk away from the crash."

Torguson added if Davis had crashed into overhanging wires "he probably wouldn't have walked away from it.

"He probably would have lost control and it would have been a severe crash."

Although the case is still subject to review by the Transportation Safety Board for an exact cause, Torguson was able to confirm the small aircraft ran out of fuel.

Davis, who said he felt fortunate to be alive, has flown for several years and has never had an incident. "I just got trapped by some bad weather and deteriorating events."

The pilot stressed that he really appreciated the care and hospitality given him and his passengers.

"The people of Plymouth have been fantastic. The emergency crews, police officers, firefighters, and Civil Air Patrol all went out of their way to help us.

"I remember talking to this one guy the night of the crash and listening to him inviting me to drop in anytime. I wanted to laugh but couldn't.

"I am really amazed, though. There was not one cross word said and was never, at any time, a lack of hospitality showed. Plymouth is great and I hope to come back some time under better circumstances.

"In fact everyone was so nice I wish there was some way to invite the whole town to come back with me to St. Joe."

Answers sought in double murder

By TERI BANAS

Two men found dead in a Plymouth parking lot last week have been identified as George Edward Woizky, 31, of Allen Park and Eugene Zalenski, 31, of Inkster.

An undisclosed quantity of hashish — but more than for "personal consumption" — was found in the truck, according to Michigan State Police.

The pair, found dead in the back of a pickup truck at the SEMTA Commuter Parking Lot, died of multiple gunshot wounds, police said.

Police believe the men were killed "somewhere" in western Wayne County" and moved to Plymouth Township sometime Aug. 25, Det. Sgt. James Collins of the state police said.

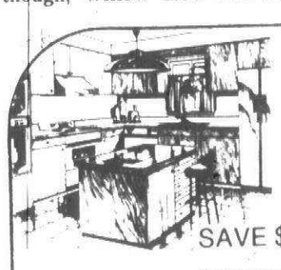

The bodies were discovered Wednesday morning when state police were alerted to a "suspicious vehicle" that had been parked in the lot for a prolonged time.

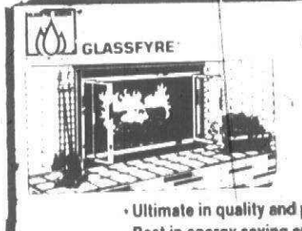

The bodies were found in the rear cab of the pickup truck used by Zalenski his construction company. Zalenski employed Woizky in his business.

Police have no suspects and no motive for the double homicide but have ruled out robbery because neither the tools in the cab nor money from the men's wallets were taken.

The pickup is described as a brown American Motors Jeep with a white cab and yellow flatbed trailor. Keys were found in the truck and its windows were rolled up.

Police have asked that anyone who may have information concerning the case or who may have seen the truck elsewhere contact them at the Northville Post, 348-1505.

My doctor pronounced me cured of cancer.
My boss didn't.

My boss didn't understand that I was healthy again.
So I was let go.
A lot of people are like my boss. They think that everyone dies of cancer. I thought so, too. Until the American Cancer Society, through one of its service and rehabilitation programs, helped me return to a normal life.
The ACS also has local Units that help Americans who've never had cancer understand it better.
Today, more and more cancer is a curable disease. Ignorance about cancer is curable, too.

Cantonite gets patent on a safer car tire

James J. Pixley of Canton was the recipient in August 1980 of a U.S. patent entitled "Pneumatic Tire Having A Run-Flat Insert Structure."

Present day pneumatic tires are practically all of the tubeless type in which the beads of the tire are held tightly against the rim of the wheel so that the wheel and tire together form a sealed air-containing chamber.

Puncture of either a tubeless or tube type tire deflates the tire to a flat condition which presents a number of problems.

If an attempt is made to run the vehicle on a flat tire for more than a very short distance, the tire will deteriorate very rapidly. Thus is must be replaced by the spare tire usually carried in the vehicle.

Considerable difficulty often is experienced when replacing a flat tire with a spare. Many persons don't have the strength and sometimes lack the know-how to remove and replace a tire. The replacement of the flat also can be quite dangerous on busy roads.

Another problem, presented when the tire rapidly deflates, is the possible loss of control of the vehicle.

To cope with these problems, Pixley has invented a pneumatic tire within which is a fully-enclosed insert made of suitable rubber material and is pneumatically inflated.

The insert is mounted within the cavity which is formed by the pneumatic tire and the wheel rim upon which the tire is mounted. As a feature of the construction, the insert is of such shape and is spaced apart from the interior walls of the tire so that contact between the insert and such tire walls is at a minimum during normal operation of the tire.

The pneumatic tire of Pixley's invention is of such construction that, during the deflated condition of the tire, the insert will effectively support the tire and its load. In other words, the fully-enclosed, pneumatically inflated insert interferes at no time with the flexing function of the sidewalls of the tire and interferes to a minimum extent with the conventional operation of the tire.

When the tire is deflated, the insert will maintain the tire seated on the rim of the wheel and will support the tire and its load at a deflection which prevents excessivley rapid deterioration of the tire while running in the deflated run-flat condition.

Pixley's patent has been assigned to Uniroyal, Inc., New York City.

MEMBER 50 YEARS

Donald B. Gall, 68, of Salem Township this week received a 50-year membership award from the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Gall, who has never had an auto accident in more than a half-century of driving, was honored at the Auto Club's Plymouth branch office at 44511 Ann Arbor Road at Sheldon.

Ruth Miller, the Plymouth branch manager for AAA, presented Gall with a special framed certificate recognizing his 50 years of consecutive membership.

Gall started work as a messenger boy for Bank of the Commonwealth and retired in 1974 as a vice president after 44 years employment.

He began driving in his early teens near his boyhood home, which was built on a portion of his grandfather's subdivided farm at Indiana and Grand River avenues in Detroit.

Gall graduated from Redford High School in 1930 and became an Auto Club member the same year after his parents bought him a Ford sedan. While he does not travel frequently any more, he and his late wife visited every state east of the Mississippi River.

Gall, who moved to Salem Township from Detroit in 1968, keeps active by tending his garden and his two prize-winning ponies — Sue, a Welsh, and Candy, a grand champion Shetland.

VANDEN BRUL PROMOTED

Richard C. Vanden Brul of Applewood, Canton, has been promoted to second vice-president and trust officer at Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit.

Vanden Brul is a graduate of Miami University of Ohio and also received a law degree from Golden Gate University in San Francisco.

He joined Manufacturers Bank in 1977 as an investment officer and previously was a trust investment officer at Security Trust Company. He is president of the Canton Country Acres Community Association.

THUMM PROMOTED

Elmo Thumm of Plymouth has been named a vice-president of investments for A.G. Edwards & Sons, Inc. — a St. Louis-based investment firm.

Thumm, an investment broker with the firm, joined A.G. Edwards & Sons in 1977 after serving as an assistant vice-president for Watling Lerchen & Company. Thumm earned an MBA degree with honors from the University of Detroit.

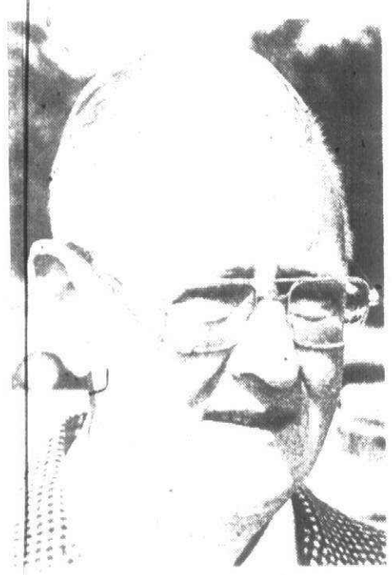

A.G. Edwards & Sons is a member of the New York, American and other leading securities and commodities exchanges as well as the Securities Investors Protection Corporation.

MERRIMAN ELECTED

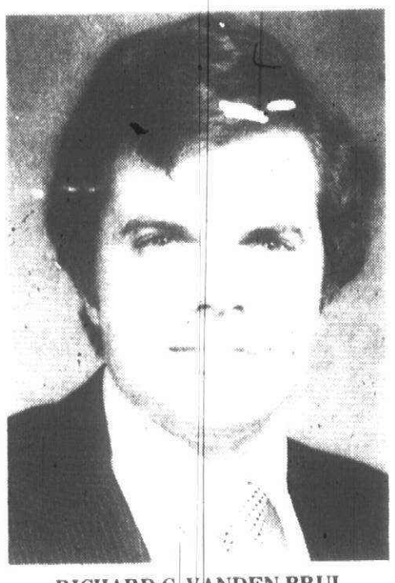

Nadine Merriman of Plymouth has been elected to a one-year term as alternate director of Region VIII of the Michigan State Employees Association (MSEA).

Merriman, a procurement executive for Plymouth Center, was elected to the position by delegates to MSEA's 30th annual general assembly held at Michigan State University Aug. 22-24. Region XIII covers the southeast portion of the Lower Peninsula.

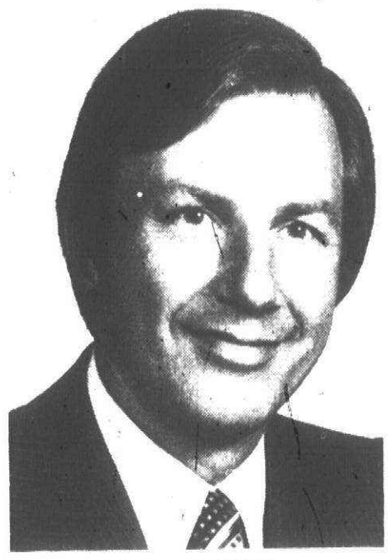

Merriman is currently president of Chapter 71 and also has served as chapter vice-president and is a member of the MSEA's statewide mental health committee.

Help the north argues Pursell

Two leading members of the Congressional Northeast-Midwest Coaliton recently made a strong, bipartisan appeal to use federal policy to stimulate private jobs.

The appeal was made when the two urged immediate repeal of the "Maybank Amendment," which prevents targeting of defense appropriations to areas of high unemployment.

Speaking before a House Small Business subcommittee, Congressmen Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, and Robert Edgar, D-Pennsylvania, attacked the Maybank Amendment as a roadblock to using federal procurement policy to relieve economic suffering in northern cities.

Edgar is chairman of the NE-MW Coalition, composed of members of Congress from the industrial belt from New England to Minnesota. Pursell is co-chairman of the coalition's budget task force and is a member of the House Appropriations Committee.

The Maybank Amendment has been routinely attached to every defense appropriations bill since 1953 — the year after a federal policy was implemented to encourage placing federal contracts in areas of highest unemployment.

The amendment prohibits the defense department from paying higher prices for goods and services as a way to counteract economic distress.

Pursell and Edgar pointed out that government procurement policy must take a balanced approach which targets a fair share of contracts to all areas of the country. They contend that this not only could help relieve chronic unemployment, but also is desirable for defense because it promotes a diversified base for production of defense items.

The amendment excludes more than two-thirds of all government purchasing from the labor surplus program, said Pursell.

"This nation has been searching for ways to stimulate the creation of private sector jobs in distressed areas — without fueling inflation.

It's time to put an end to Polish jokes

Sherry Kahan

If there is any justice at all, the courageous stand of the Poles against the Russians should put an end to Polish jokes.

Those who have been sitting around doing little about the Russian menace but finding plenty of time to crack put-down jokes, might be interested to know that this is the second time in 10 years the Poles have stood up to the Russians.

They might also notice that while various dictatorships have been overthrown in the past two decades, none of them were dominated by Russians. Russians play hard ball and it takes real guts to take them on. Imagine what it will mean to the world if the Poles are successful.

And while we're laying to rest the Polish jokes, let's retire at the same time that whole mess of humor that makes one nationality dumber than the rest. When we laugh at someone else's expense, we forget we could be the butt of jokes if we moved from our safe bit of space to a different turf.

A sophisticated city dweller can do so many stupid things on a farm that the farm family regularly has to retire behind the barn to double up in hysterics at his dumbness.

WHAT THE WORLD seems to be crying out for is a new word to characterize persons who are not too swift. Something like poodies or scrumpies. Words that would not step on anyone's toes, but would allow us to hold onto this humor which, if not at someone's expense, can be genuinely funny. The jokes would be almost as good. I say almost because that delicious feeling of superiority at putting down someone else's religion or nationality would be absent.

Now to add a new word to the language is no simple task. Yet it is a job well worth doing. If anyone has any ideas, I'll be glad to hear about them. Think of the fame that will be yours, should the word become internationally significant. It may even reduce international tensions.

So get busy. But before you go, here is a dumb person joke.

THREE FOREIGNERS were convicted of crimes calling for death in France. The guillotine would be used. Foreigner No. 1 was asked if he were a man or a mouse. Did he want to face up at the blade or did he want to face down? He said he would face down. But lo, when the blade almost reached his neck it stopped. According to this joke, when such a miracle occurs, the prisoner is allowed to go free.

The second man was asked the same question and he too opted to lie face down. Once again a miracle. The blade halted an inch from his neck, and he was released.

Now it was the turn of the dumb person to go under the knife. He announced, "I'm a man, not a mouse, I will look up at the blade."

So there he was, lying down and gazing up. Would the miracle occur thrice? Suddenly the dumb person pointed up to the scaffold and shouted, "I think I can see what your problem is up there."

Can man fly?

Close encounter with a hurricane of the century

For the people of coastal Texas, Hurricane Allen will go on record as the biggest scare of the century.

With winds of up to 185 miles an hour, Allen bullied its way across the Gulf of Mexico last month with a billing of the second worst hurricane on record.

Thousands of Texans evacuated the coast in an effort to escape Allen's wrath. For most, it was a time of fear and deep concern about their property and relatives who refused to leave their homes.

During those few days in the second week of August, my heart was in Texas — a state I visited only once as a teen.

A relative, ex-Birmingham resident Jerre Stinson, was among the evacuees who spent 15 hours on the road to Corpus Christi to San Antonio, normally a 2½-hour trip.

I talked to Jerre many times during those few days and heard the excitement in his voice turn to fear as Allen set a direct course for his new home.

The lives of thousands were disrupted by Allen. But for awhile at least, it seemed as though the hurricane was an intelligent force with a personal vendetta against me.

WITH A TRIFLE more bad luck, I would have been among the evacuees who fled inland from Allen's wrath.

I was scheduled to arrive in Texas via plane on the day that Allen hit. My destination was Jerre's apartment — located in a flood plain one mile from Corpus Christi Bay.

Vacations are supposed to be a time of rest and relaxation.

But Allen pumped an increasing quantity of adrenalin into my blood as it blew closer and closer to my destined vacation spot.

As it turned out, my scheduled rendezvous with Allen was aborted. I turned in my ticket for a sure stay in a Red Cross hostel and headed for Chicago — then Up North — instead.

But it took days and days to recover from my first near-brush with a hurricane. For awhile, it seemed as though Allen would rage thousands of miles to make an historical appearance in the cold waters of Lake Michigan.

I've never visited Corpus Christi or seen photographs of the coastal town. But anyone who had spoken to me during those few days in August would have thought Corpus Christi was my home.

To me, any community near an ocean has to be a paradise. Envisioning Allen's destructive rage almost was more than I could bear.

FORTUNATELY, the hurricane treated coastal Texas — and Corpus Christi — more kindly than predicted.

Allen veered south of its original collision course with Corpus Christi and slowed its winds before hitting the coast in an unpopulated area north of Brownsville.

It's too bad I've already used my vacation time from work.

"You can't even tell it hit," James Lontos, engineering director for the city of Corpus Christi, told me last week.

"You should come down. The sky is blue, and the water has never been clearer." Lontos said most of Allen's mess already has been cleaned up. He estimated damage at public property alone at $8 to $10 million.

Maybe I'll make it next year — before hurricane season.

They offer big help for small offenders

Jackie Klein

A corporate executive jumps out of bed at midnight in response to an urgent call from a 17-year-old probationer arrested for drinking beer.

The wife of a prominent local educator goes to court to stand by a 19-year-old reformed shoplifter who served her six-month probation term and is rewarded with a clean record.

An attorney takes time out from his busy practice to talk to a runaway high school boy who had stolen food from a supermarket.

These three caring persons have something in common. They're all VIPs which stands for Volunteers in Probation. They're also Very Important Persons to kids in trouble who are hoping for a second chance.

The dynamic community program under way in Southfield involves 25-30 active volunteers. The program is an offshoot of "Project Misdemeanant," which got its start in Judge Keith Leenhout's Royal Oak courtroom in 1960.

The idea of volunteer probation sponsors began to spread through Michigan. Some judges said the program may be the key to the rehabilitative dilemma.

LEENHOUTS, who became the director of the VIP division of National Council on Crime and Delinquency, came to Southfield a few years ago to speak to volunteers. District Judge Norman Feder introduced Leenhouts as the "Billy Graham of Volunteers in probation."

Leenhouts prefers to use the term "apprehended offenders" to "probationers," because he believes there's a little bit of larceny in all of us. He also strongly believes that rehabilitation fosters positive changes in human beings.

"Despite all the technical jargon available, caring people influence others by loving them," he said. "True love is demanding and sets limits. But, at the same time, it's affectionate, kind and considerate."

Leenhouts might have been talking about Kay Dambrum of Lathrup Village. She's president of VIP Inc. of the 46th District Court and a volunteer's volunteer. This understanding mother of three describes an ideal VIP as a person who loves and is willing to go outside himself, reach and touch others and be a friend.

Mrs. Dambrun doesn't believe there are any bad kids. And the best things VIPs can do for them is to be objective, let them do the talking and get clues about their attitudes and behaviors.

REV. DALLAS GREEN, recipient of the 1978 46th District Court VIP award, counsels young persons in trouble to repay a debt. Green said he was helped by wonderful people through many adolescent crises in his life.

"I was on the borderline and tipping the scale, but I never got caught by the law," he recalls. "I guess you could say I had sticky fingers at the early age of eight or nine. I appreciate the non-professional counseling I got and I always wanted to help someone else to repay that debt."

Green and his clients dig into the past and look into the future. They talk about education, finances, employment, value systems and self-images. But Green maintains the young persons he counsels really solve their own problems and he does a lot of listening.

Arthur Gowens, 45, spent eight years behind the walls of Jackson Prison on charges of murdering his wife. When he got out, he was hired as an employment counselor with the Michigan Department of Corrections. Gowens has also spoken to VIPs in Southfield.

"If you don't get help in your teens, you can become an old man in a penitentiary," he said. "Age is no criteria. Nine out of 10 men were crying for love and nobody listened.

"I don't want to be my brother's keeper, but I want to be his best friend. That's what Volunteers in Probation is all about. They prove you don't have to go out of the world backwards if you understand the alternatives."

THERE WILL always be those who believe probation and volunteering are the ways to go. Others will always maintain rehabiliation is ineffectual pablum-feeding by the courts to violators who have stepped over the line.

In 1970, when then 46th District Judge S.James Clarkson initiated the city's probation department, he noted that probation provides an opportunity to learn what underlying problems were manifested in a criminal act.

A basis premise of probation isn't to coddle criminals, he said, but to get effective cooperation toward rehabilitation. And, he stressed, a one-to-one volunteer program can be a human deterrent to crime.

BREAKFAST CEREALS:

TREND FOODS FOR THE EIGHTIES

Breakfast is back – a good reason to salute National Better Breakfast Month this September. Many nutritionists consider breakfast the most important meal of the day. It should provide about one-quarter of the day's nutritional needs, according to nutritionists, and there are many ways to achieve this goal.

Increasingly, the people's choice for the morning meal is a cereal breakfast, because it fits in so well with today's lifestyles. In fact, a recent National Menu Census shows that of all breakfasts eaten 38% include a ready-to-eat or hot cereal, and the number one breakfast choice of both children and adults is a bowl of cereal and milk.

Variety and moderation are the most reliable keys to a nutritious diet. Growing consumer interest in nutrition and health has focused increasing attention on the contribution grain foods such as breakfast cereals can make to the diet. This focus on grains is one of the important trends affecting breakfast cereals in the Seventies and likely to continue in the Eighties.

Most significant among these trends are:

A Way to Stretch Food Budgets. Consumers recognize that breakfast cereals are relatively inexpensive sources of nutrition. Early this year, the average national price of 14¢ for a bowl of ready-to-eat cereal with milk was significantly below average prices for other breakfast entrees.

Changing Lifestyles. With 60% of mothers of school-age children working outside the home, breakfast preparation by children is a fact of life. The rapid increase of one- and two-member households has resulted in greater individual responsibility for meals, increasing the appeal of convenient, nutritious, quick-to-serve foods such as breakfast cereals.

Growing Interest in Nutrition. Many nutritionists have suggested that an increase in consumption of complex carbohydrates, including cereal grains, would be a desirable dietary modification for many people. In fact, the U.S. Government's Dietary Guidelines suggest that for the American population as a whole, a reduction in current intake of fat would be sensible. The guidelines recommend "foods which are good sources of fiber and starch, such as whole-grain breads and cereals, fruits and vegetables, beans, peas and nuts."

Breakfast cereals are important grain foods. And grains are recognized as excellent sources of several B vitamins, iron, complex carbohydrates and fiber. They are also low in fat. Moreover, the basic nutritional value of most ready-to-eat and some hot cereals has been enhanced by the addition of nutrients through fortification.

Role of Fiber. Widespread interest in the role of fiber in the diet has increased demand for bran-type cereals. This increased demand is being met by the development of new and appealing bran-type cereals and a greater emphasis on the fiber content of a variety of other ready-to-eat and hot cereals.

Impact of Physical Fitness and Weight Consciousness. Physical fitness and weight consciousness had a greater impact on food choices in the 1970's than ever before. With this growing concern for weight control has come increased awareness of the importance of breakfast. The morning meal can supply significant amounts of nutrients with relatively few calories, thus helping to alleviate hunger pangs that lead to excessive snacking or heavier eating later in the day.

September is National Better Breakfast Month. Join the celebration by serving cereals and breakfast breads. Raisin 'N Bran Can Bread, Hearty Oat Flakes Muffins, Frosted Flakes Jammy Cake and Baker's Dozen Crunch Biscuits will perk up morning appetites and pave the way to a brighter day!

2 cups fortified oat flakes cereal
3/4 cup milk
1/3 cup vegetable oil
1 egg
1-1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

Heat oven to 400°F. Combine cereal and milk; let stand a few minutes to soften cereal. Add oil and egg; mix well. Add combined remaining ingredients, mixing just until dry ingredients are moistened. (Batter will be very stiff.) Fill 12 greased or paper-lined medium-sized muffin cups 2/3 full. Bake at 400°F. about 20 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 1 dozen muffins.

FROSTED FLAKES JAMMY CAKE

2 cups sugar frosted corn flakes
1 cup milk
1/3 cup vegetable oil
1 egg
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
1-1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup preserves or jam

Heat oven to 375°F. Combine cereal and milk; let stand a few minutes to soften cereal. Add oil, egg and peel; mix well. Add combined remaining ingredients, mixing just until dry ingredients are moistened. Spread into greased 6-cup ring mold; bake at 375°F. about 25 minutes or until wooden pick inserted into cake comes out clean. Immediately loosen edges of cake from sides of pan; invert onto serving plate. Spoon preserves over top of cake; serve warm. Makes 1 ring coffee cake.

BAKER'S DOZEN CRUNCH BISCUITS

1-3/4 cups bite-size rice cereal biscuits, coarsely crushed
1-1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
4 crisply cooked bacon slices, crumbled
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1/3 cup vegetable oil

Heat oven to 425°F. Combine all ingredients except milk and oil; mix well. Add milk and oil, mixing just until dry ingredients are moistened. Drop by heaping tablespoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet; bake at 425°F. for 13 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Makes about 13 biscuits.

RAISIN 'N BRAN CAN BREAD

1-1/2 cups whole bran cereal
1 carton (8 ounces) plain yogurt
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
3 to 4 teaspoons grated orange peel
1-1/2 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/8 teaspoon ground cloves

Heat oven to 350°F. Combine cereal, yogurt, water and raisins; mix well. Let stand a few minutes to soften cereal. Add butter, sugar, egg and peel; mix well. Add combined remaining ingredients, mixing just until dry ingredients are moistened. Divide batter evenly between 4 greased 16-oz. vegetable cans.* Bake directly on center oven rack at 350°F. for 45 to 50 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from cans. Cool completely on wire cooling rack. Makes 4 loaves.

NOTE: Save empty vegetable cans for use as baking pans. Remove labels, wash and dry thoroughly before using.

How does Molly's garden grow? Sensationally

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

I have always been fascinated with gardens of all kinds formal English gardens, serene Japanese gardens, lush vegetable gardens, fragrant herb gardens, vibrant wildflower gardens. Gardens seem ideal spots for retreating from the world. The perfect garden should be surrounded by a wall and offer shade in which to read a book, undistributed.

I should hasten to point out that I am not a gardener myself. A real gardener does all the "ant" work - working the soil when it is still cold enough to freeze your fingers, mulching, composting, weeding, spraying, fertilizing, transplanting, thinning and whatever else gardeners do. I actually wouldn't mind any of those chores - once. It's just that gardens have the effrontery to demand this kind of care daily — in frigid weather, in blistering heat, and, worst of all, when you just did it yesterday.

Even harvesting is not unadulterated pleasure. Plants have their own time schedules which don't allow for vacations, shortages of canning jars, indisposition of the gardener or other calamities. Left on the vine even a day too long, berries are eaten by birds, vegetables pass their prime, and flowers to go seed.

A REAL GARDENER has to not only endure but enjoy these inconveniences. I know such a gardener, Molly Hudson, and was recently treated to a long, fascinating tour of her gardens — veget able, herb, and flower — which included a generous sampling of her harvest. Since she uses intensive planting methods, there was a tremendous amount growing in relatively limited space. Even more impressive than the quantity was the variety of plants. The vegetables alone ranged from the popular Big Boy tomatoes and sugar snap peas to such exotic items as jicama and Egyptian onions.

An accomplished, creative cook as well as a knowledgeable and successful gardener, Molly finds it incredible that I have devoted so much time to vegetarian cooking without ever growing my own vegetables and herbs. I find it equally incredible that anyone can successfully work full time, cook superbly, and garden prolifically. I've actually always envisioned myself turning to gardening as a hobby in my dotage, wearing a large, floppy-brimmed sunbonnet over my white hair.

Actually, Molly is right. The taste of vegetables fresh from her garden confirmed what I already knew. There is no comparison between anything purchased in a grocery store — even in season — and the same food, fresh picked from a garden.

IN ORDER TO make maximum use of this freshness, I rushed home with a basket of Molly's vegetables and herbs and immediately set to work sampling them in a variety of dishes. The cucumbers (Green Ice) and fresh dill, of course, combined in a cool, refreshing salad. The fresh savory found its way into an unusual turnip omelet from Richard Olney's Simple French Cooking. The Swiss chard did double duty. Raw, it was mixed with Romaine (also fresh from the garden) in a delicious tossed salad. Since chard has a very strong, distinctive flavor, it should be used with discretion in any salad.

This distinctive flavor works well when it is not competing with other flavors, as in Stuffed Chard Leaves, the dish which used the remaining larger Swiss chard leaves. The filling in this particular recipe is a rice pilaf. Another time you might want to wrap the chard leaves around a wheat pilaf or even fish. Steamed on top of the stove, stuffed chard makes a lovely, light summer entree without ever having to heat your oven.

If you don't have a garden of your own, a visit to a local farmers' market, in the cool of early morning, would be a satisfactory alternative source of fresh produce. This actually seems like a cheater's method - a way of enjoying the "grasshopper pleasures without the "ant" work. If it assuages anyone's conscience, by such cheating, the non-gardener misses out on such pleasures as long, winter's evenings spent with seed catalogues or, as Molly puts it, "laying back like a princess and braiding onion tops" - simple pleasures rarely experienced in a technological, fast-paced society.

CUCUMBERS IN SOUR CREAM

4 to 5 medium cucumbers
1½ tbsp. salt
2 tbsp. sour cream
1 tbsp. chopped chives
2 tbsp. chopped fresh dill
1 clove garlic, put through a press
fresh-ground black pepper

Peel the cucumbers, quarter them lengthwise, and scrape out the seeds. Now slice the long strips at an angle, into even little disks. Add the salt, mix well, and set aside for 1 hour. Then rinse the cucumbers thoroughly and press out excess liquid.

Stir in the sour cream, chives, dill, garlic, and enough fresh-ground black pepper to suit you. Chill at least 1 hour, stir again, and serve. Serves 4 to 6. (from The Vegetarian Epicure by Anna Thomas)

SAVORY TURNIP OMELET

1 lb. turnips (young and tender)
Salt
¼ cup butter
1 tsp. fresh savory leaves, finely chopped
3 eggs
½ cup chopped parsley
Pepper
2 tbsp. olive oil

Peel the turnips, grate coarsely and leave in salted layers. After ½ hour, drain well, wrap in a clean, absorbent towel and squeeze out any remaining liquid. Cook in the butter sprinkled with the savory over low heat until tender, about 15 minutes. Stir frequently. Tast for salt, adding more if necessary.

Stir together the eggs, parsley, and a generous grinding of black pepper. Add the turnips, a little at a time if they are still hot, beating them in with a fork.

Pour the mixture into an omelet pan in which the olive oil has been heated. Stir for a moment. Cook over low heat for about 5 minutes. Using a flexible spatula, flip the omelet and continue cooking until just set. (May add chopped black olives) 2 servings. (from Simple French Food by Richard Olney)

STUFFED CHARD LEAVES

16 large leaves Swiss chard
2½ cups cooked brown rice
1 onion, chopped
¼ cup oil
1½ cups low-fat cottage cheese
1 egg, beaten
1½ cup chopped parsley
¾ cup raisins
1 tsp. dill weed
¾ tsp salt

Preheat oven to 350. Saute onion in oil. Mix all ingredients except chard.

Wash and dry chard leaves and remove stems. Place 2 tablespoons of filling on the underside of the leaf, a third of the way from the bottom. Fold over the sides of the leaf and roll up into a square packet. Place seam-side down in a greased casserole. Cover and bake for about 30 minutes, or steam in a steamer basket over boiling water until the leaves are tender, about 20 minutes. Bake any extra filling and serve with stuffed leaves. Serves 6 to 8.

Nothing like homemade ice cream

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

Close your eyes and put a spoonful of homemade ice cream into your mouth. Strawberry, peach, blueberry. Your favorite flavor.

Ummm. Good, isn't it? Bet that will make you forget that it is getting toward the end of summer, that it is already September. A dish of homemade ice cream can take your taste buds back to the height of summer.

It is also fun to make. An electric ice cream maker is more convenient and easier on the arm, but a hand-turned model will add to your storehouse of nostalgic summer memories.

Once the cranking starts, the handle must be kept turning at all times or the ice cream may become lumpy. Which means the whole family must get into the act, each taking a turn cranking, then lining up again to be ready to relieve other tired arms. And, of course, cracking jokes to distract the person who is turning from the tiredness building in his or her arm. And anticipating the sweet flavor of the end product.

Ginger Peach Ice Cream is one tasty possibility. However, this is one instance where the creative cook can shine. In place of the peaches and ginger used below, substitute your family's favorite flavor for some homemade excitement.

You can add fruit, nuts, candies, shaved chocolate, ground and chopped peppermint stick candy, or any number of other possibilities, limited only by your family's preferences.

Also, it is not necessary to have an ice cream maker to turn out homemade ice cream. It can be made in the ice cube trays from your refrigerator. Instructions appear below.

GINGER PEACH ICE CREAM

To make about 1½ quarts
4 cups heavy cream
¾ cup sugar
⅛ tsp. salt
1½ tsp. vanilla extract
6 medium-sized firm ripe peaches
½ cup crystallized ginger, coarsely chopped

In a heavy two- to three-quart saucepan, heat one cup of the cream, the sugar and salt over low heat, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Do not let the mixture come to a boil. Pour the cream mixture into a deep bowl, stir in the remaining three cups of cream and the vanilla, and refrigerate until chilled.

Meanwhile, drop the peaches, two or three at a time, into enough boiling water to cover them completely and boil briskly for two to three minutes. With a slotted spoon, transfer the peaches to a sieve or colander and run cold water over them. Peel the peaches with a small sharp knife, halve them and discard the stones, then chop the fruit coarsely. Cover with foil or plastic wrap and refrigerate until ready to use.

Pack a two-quart ice cream freezer with layers of finely crushed or cracked ice and coarse salt in the proportions recommended by the freezer manufacturer. Add cold water if the manufacturer advises it. Then ladle the chilled cream mixture into the ice cream can and cover it.

If you have a hand ice cream maker, fill it with the chilled cream mixture and let it stand for three or four minutes before beginning to turn the handle. Then, beginning slowly at first, crank continuously for about five minutes. Stir in the peaches and ginger and crank for 10 to 15 minutes more. Do not stop turning at any time or the ice cream may be lumpy.

When the handle can barely be moved, the ice cream is ready to serve. If you wish to keep it for an hour or two, remove the lid and dasher. Scrape the ice cream off the dasher and pack it firmly into the container with a spoon. Cover securely, pour off any water in the bucket and repack the ice and salt solidly around it.

If you have an electric ice cream maker, fill the can with the chilled cream mixture, cover it, turn on the switch and let the mixture churn for about five minutes. Stir in the peaches and ginger, cover again and continue to churn for about 10 to 15 minutes more, or until the motor slows or actually stops. Serve the ice cream immediately or follow the procedure above to keep it for an hour or two.

Lacking an ice cream maker, stir the peaches and ginger into the chilled cream mixture and pour the mixture into two ice cube trays from which the dividers have been removed. Spread the ice cream evenly and smooth the top with a rubber spatula. Freeze for three to four hours, stirring every 30 minutes or so and scraping into the ice cream the ice particles that form around the edges of the tray.

Tightly covered, the ice cream may safely be kept in the freezing compartment of the refrigerator for several weeks. Before serving, place it in the refrigerator for 20 to 30 minutes to let it soften slightly so that it can more easily be served.

Letters and recipes are welcomed and should be addressed to Vivian Byrd, P.O. Box 1024, Birmingham, 48012.

Cancer is often curable.
The fear of cancer is often fatal.

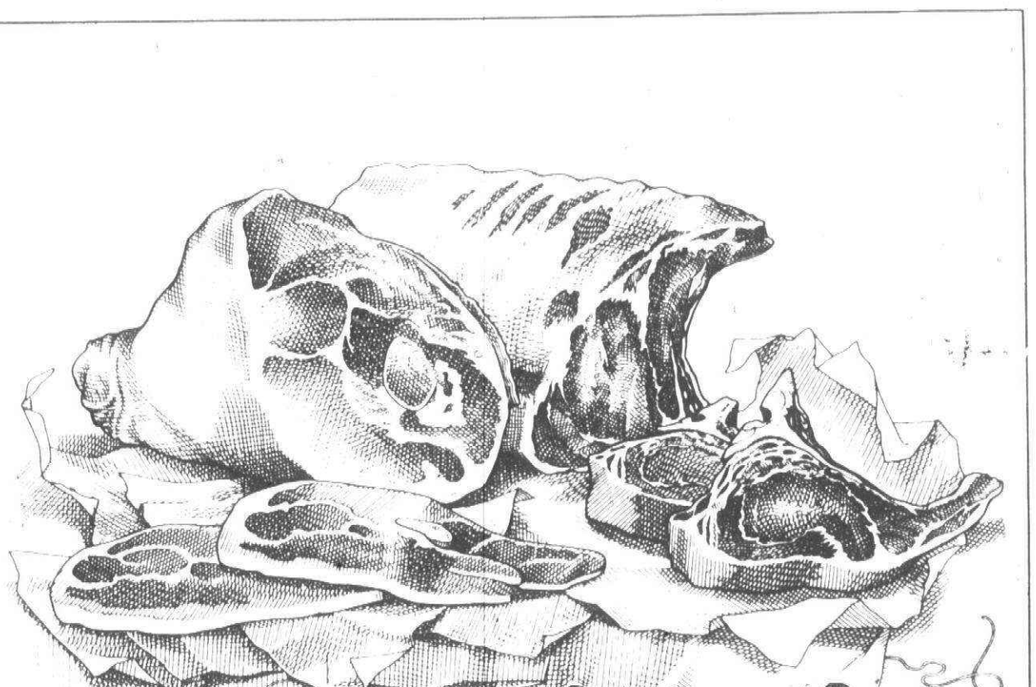

If you're afraid of cancer... you're not alone. But some people are so afraid that they won't go to the doctor when they suspect something's wrong.

They're afraid the doctor might "find something." This kind of fear can prevent them from discovering cancer in the early stages when it is most often curable.

These people run the risk of letting cancer scare them to death.

"WE PUT THE MAKINGS OF A DELICIOUS PORK DINNER INTO ALL THE SAUSAGE WE MAKE."

The best way to make sausage delicious is to make it with the best cuts of pork.

So at Bob Evans Farms, we don't settle for just the pork trimmings like some other companies do. Instead, we include all the choice fresh hams and tenderloins in every pound of sausage we make.

Then we limit the fat. So you get lean sausage that cooks up plump and tender every time. Not greasy.

And there's nothing artificial in Bob Evans Sausage. We use no preservatives.

So try Bob Evans Farms Sausage. Because our breakfast sausage is so meaty and delicious, it could even be the makings of your next dinner.

The VIEW from 461 SOUTH MAIN

MICHIGAN STATE Fair results are beginning to trickle in. So far, it has been announced that Peggy Lee of Plymouth Township was a first prize winner in baked goods created from a mix. She used a biscuit mix for her entry.

Barbara Tarrow of Plymouth took two first place prizes, one for her apple sauce cake and the other for her pumpkin cake.

Largest pumpkin at the fair was a 48-pounder. We may be able to beat that at the Sunday produce show of the Fall Festival. Flowers, corn stocks, fruit, sunflowers, canned goods and vegetable arrangements should be at the tent at Main and Church streets Sunday morning.

JAN GATTONI has been assembling sheet music from the 1940s for the dance Saturday night at the Fall Festival. She will be soloist with the 20-piece band.

Those who attended the 1979 Follies sponsored by the Community Arts Council will remember Jan belting out "Hard Hearted Hannah." Just to show her versatility, she has had the role of the mother in Our Lady Of Good Counsel Church's production of "Amahl and the Night Visitors" for the past two Christmas seasons. She sings first soprano in the OLGC choir and is soloist.

by ELLIE GRAHAM

Jan started singing in public when she was 7 years old. She says she had no formal voice training until she was in high school where she had three years of semiclassical training. As a teenager, she sang with bands and performed in shows around the Detroit area. She was born and raised in Lincoln Park.

She continued singing professionally until she took time out to raise her family. During those years, she limited her singing to choir and chorus work.

She is vice president of the arts council and will chair the follies in March.

Yes, next year is follies year again. It's an every-other-year project. This is fair warning for all the residents of Plymouth and Canton to start getting in shape for their dancing, singing or comedy roles in the revue.

SHARON RUCINSKI and Hazel Gibson have devoted weeks of TLC to the plants in the pots now hanging from the utility poles in downtown Plymouth. They watered them every day and nursed them along so they would be ready for the Fall Festival. There were 55 planters in all.

Sixteen have been set aside for use in the new information booth set-up designed by Jim Anulewicz. The marigolds and chrysantheums will be placed at the base of the honey locust trees in the huge planters.

THE LACOMBES have been running up the high scores at the party bridge games in the Plymouth Cultural Center these past two Thursdays.

On Aug. 21 it was Lydia LaCombe and her mother-in-law, Frances LaCombe. Last Thursday, Renee LaCombe and Gordon Sherman were the winners.

WADE WILKES celebrated his 93rd birthday Friday surrounded by lovely women. And what more could a southern gentleman ask?

Ellen Person hosted the celebration at her Priscilla Lane home. Ellen had a party for his 90th birthday and it has become an annual event. This year it was an old-fashioned picnic with (Southern) fried chicken, homemade peach ice cream and birthday cake starring on the menu.

Mr. Wilkes lives with his son-in-law and daughter, Al and Annette Heindryckx, in Plymouth Township.

Among the guests were Annette, Bit Folger, Ramona Greenler, Betty Zimmerman, Fran Lang, Rosemary Prueter, Betty Doty, Vickie Hawkins, Edna Lowe, Jean Sayward, Olene Richeson, Thelma Lents and Betty Urquhart.

JUST FOUND out that most of those old quilts which are on display this week at Emma's Restaurant, Folkways, Volume II, etc. on Penniman Avenue are for sale. I saw some of the Winterberry Hill Collection and they are beautiful.

Edna Webb is the owner of the collection and she is an expert at refurbishing very old quilts. They don't look as if they had been touched — she must find old material to match.

Sentimental evening

The big band era of the '40s will return Saturday evening of the Plymouth Fall Festival. For an hour and a half — 8:30-10 p.m. — there will be dancing under the stars to those old classics, "Sentimental Journey," "String of Pearls," "Mood Indigo," "In the Mood," "You Made Me Love You," "Don't Get Around Much Anymore," etc. etc. Party planners Ellen Gross, table decorations; Nadine Heid, coordinator; and Jan Gattoni, soloist, were up in Kellogg Park last week, looking over terrain and deciding where the tables would be set up and where the dancing would take place. Carl Battishill, director of the Plymouth Community Band, will conduct the 20-piece orchestra for dancing. (Photos by Gary Caskey)

Breaking the sound barrier

By SHERRY KAHAN

Deaf people have their share of psychological problems — some because they are deaf and some because they are people.

But lacking the usual means of communication, how does one in a serious depression explain to his psychiatrist what is troubling him?

Soon those in Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital will be able to outline feelings in sign language. That is because the staff pyschiatrist, Dr. Robert Metadial, is learning this method of communication. And he's not the only one.

In the Center for Deaf Treatment Services, a state pilot program soon to open on the top floor of the hospital, the head nurse, Joanna Larson of Livonia, is picking up a functional vocabulary in sign language. So are about 13 aides.

All are taking lessons from Madonna College faculty Kenneth Rust, chairman of sign language studies, Michael Meldrum, director of educational support servicesfor the deaf, and Sharon Meldrum, instructor.

Kate Davis, director of training at the hospital, has helped make arrangements for the new program.

The new 20-bed unit, due to open Sept. 15 with an initial five to 10 patients under the direction of Dr. Steven K. Chough, will serve psychiatric hearing impaired persons over the age of 17.

Dr. Chough, who trained in psychiatric social work for his master's degree and has a doctorate in social planning from Columbia University, aims to provide a place where the deaf can communicate to receive psychiatric help. He plans to give communication training to the deaf patients as well as to the staff.

"SOME OF OUR patients know sign language, some don't," said Dr. Chough, who is deaf and spoke through an interpreter, Aralyn MacEachin. "The ones who don't will be taught. Speech training will be available for those who prefer the oral method of communication. We maintain a philosophy of total communication, using the combined methods of oral and manual, plus writing and lip reading."

"I think it is a very important step," said Rust. "It is long overdue for deaf people who are institutionalized. Most hearing people don't know how to deal with the communication problem. This will give deaf patients at the hospital much more opportunity to become mentally healthy. They can talk about their problems, their anxieties."

Dr. Chough pointed out that deaf and hard of hearing people have greater frustrations in not being able to talk with others.

"Without communication, a human being almost ceases to exist," he said.

His plan is to train staff members to be aware of the deaf microculture, a word he prefers over subculture. "Deaf people are not an ethnic group, but they have a culture and social group," he explained.

Staff members will be trained to understand the psycho-social aspects of hearing loss, said Dr. Metadial, who feels that deaf psychiatric patients have been neglected for a long time.

With the new setup, he added, "we'll do a good job of rehabilitating them."

DR. METADIAL, who numbers himself among those with much to learn about sign language, said those being trained will do elementary signing at first and then will make use of interpreters until they learn enough of the language to communicate at greater depth.

He estimated that perhaps 40 percent of the emotional problems of these patients stem from deafness.

Rust, whose sign language program at Madonna has attracted 20 majors in the field, has worked at Ypsilanti State Hospital to facilitate communication between social workers and deaf patients.

"But these patients never had a chance to communicate with a psychiatrist or psychologist who would be able to diagnose or treat their particular problem," he said. "I think Northville (hospital) wants to create a communication environment so deaf people can tell someone their problems. It would be a step toward recovery."

HEAD NURSE LARSON applied for the center job knowing she would have to learn sign language. It was not unknown to her.

"There was a large deaf community where I used to live in Kansas," she said. "I took two courses in signing when I lived there, but I've forgotten it."

As a nurse she has worked with psychiatric patients. "I could see the need for a program that recognizes the special needs of deaf people and which has staff members who can communicate with them."

Mrs. Meldrum teaches Dr. Robert Matadial, staff psychiatrist at the Northville facilty, how to say "good morning."

Girl Scouts learn Indian lore

American Indians was the theme of this summer's day camp week in Maybury State Park, sponsored by the Plymouth-Northville Canton Girl Scout Association.

Jeanette Smith of Plymouth was camp director with Judy Parker as assistant director.

The 103 Brownies in camp were divided into four units, the Chippewa, Sioux, Osage and Comanche. There were 52 Junior Scouts who were in two units, the Arapaho and the Apache. The 16 boys ages 7-13, who were the sons of the adult volunteers, formed their own tribe, the Mohawks.

The Brownies made necklaces, drums and leather bracelets. They also learned finger weaving. The Juniors' craft activities included coil baskets, macrame necklaces, and lanyards. They also had an overnight campout.

Adults from all three communities cooperated to make it a successful week. Judy Williams of Northville handled registration; Jo Morse was in charge of first aid.

Other volunteers were Barb Wernimont, supplies; budget, Cynde Larame; Cathy Lynch, campcraft; Barb Houser, crafts; Marla Rice, Barb Pint and Esther Brain, craft assistants; Marian West, singing tree; Pan Van DerWheele, archery; and Sally Johns, silk screened T-shirts.

Unit leaders were: Chippewa, Ann Koehl and Carol Symanns; Sioux, Candy Jackson and Jackie Mathis; Osage, Tony Meyers and Happy Merritt; Comanche, Ailene Burcham and Diane Smith and senior scouts, Ann O'Riely and Jennifer Courtier; Cherokee, Brenda Krackenberg and Judith Fallon.

Junior unit leaders were: Arapaho, Lollie McLean and Jan Samarzyia; Apache, Ann Fowler, Angie Clifford and Ann Spencer.

Ann Sheardown and Tom Tucker led the boys' Mohawk unit.

Kathy Lynch (right) instructed the Sioux, led by Jackie Mathis, in the crafts of campground procedures — fire building, tools and lashing.

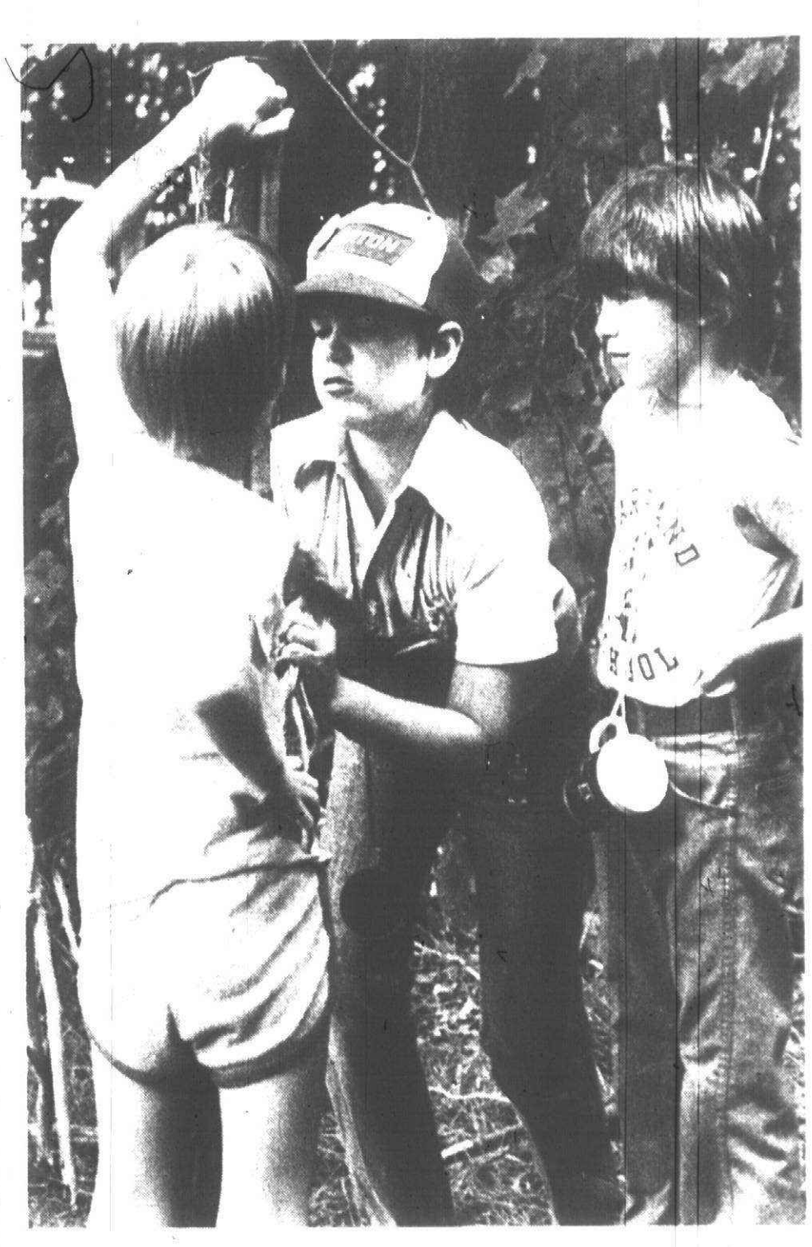

The joy of creating is reflected in the expression of Tracey Harris, 8, of Plymouth as she works on a craft project. She was a member of Chippewas orange Brownie group at camp.

Burt Reynolds is the Bandit who outwits Smokey again in "Smokey and the Bandit II."

the movies

Louise Snider

'Smokey' rehashes same old story, with car wrecks

"Smokey and the BAndit II" (PG) has all the entertainment value of a traffic jam and is just about as novel.

Replaying the first film with only slight variation on the theme, the original cast is reassembled and supplemented, thank goodness, by the presence of Dom DeLuise.

DeLuise does a shtick as an Italian gynecologist who ministers to the other new member of the cast, a pregnant elephant named Charlotte. DeLuise's hyperantics are matched by those of Jackie Gleason as the continually frustrated sheriff, Buford T. Justice.

The sheriff, always in "hot pursuit," and the gynecologist, always guzzling wine, eke out a few laughs in a repetitious film where crudity substitutes for comedy.

Burt Reynolds as the Bandit, with his sidekick the Snowman (Jerry Reed), Fred the bassett hound and Frog (Sally Field) once again are lured to the open road by a lucrative mission: To transport an elephant (the pachyderm's condition is discovered en route) from Miami to Dallas.

NATURALLY, THIS presents big problems. The biggest of these is sobering up the Bandit and getting him into driving condition.

This unpromising beginning sets the tone for the entire film. Sour. Reynold's flair for light comedy emerges in scenes where he belches repeatedly, just one witty blast after another.

It seems that after a fling with fame, fortune and fooling around, which prompted the Frog to leave him, the Bandit hit the skids. Will he pull himself together? Can he make the run from Florida to Texas? And can he do it without jeopardizing the health of his cargo and cargo-to-be?

About 105 minutes and maybe 105 car wrecks later, one gets the answers. They aren't unexpected, worth waiting for or of any possible consequence to anything.

Even so, the film tries to flesh out the frail plot with an in-joke about the Bandit (and by implication, Reynolds) being publicity starved. It pokes fun at his need for celeb treatment and recognition, for a "People magazine fix."

THE RESULT IS that the film is both a rehash of the original and a cynical commentary on popularity, but neither perspective enhances or contributes to the other.

The Bandit guns his TransAm across America's highways, but he isn't the lovable rascal he used to be. Now he just leaves a trail of empty beer cans and noxious fumes.

NEW RELEASES

AIRPLANE (PG). A picture that takes off. This spoof of all those "Airport" movies is one of the zaniest films around.

THE BLUE LAGOON (R). Lush photography but silly story of two shipwrecked youngsters who grow up uninhibited on tropic isle.

CADDYSHACK (R). Chevy Chase and other comics in misadventures of caddies at a stuffy country club.

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND (PG). Added footage and some judicious editing improve an already good product, Spielberg's sci-fi adventure of aliens contacting Earth.

DRESSED TO KILL (R). Horny murder mystery with more than a passing resemblance to Hitchcock's "Psycho."

THE EMPIRE STRIKES BACK (PG). "Star Wars" sequel unites original cast in continuation of battle against the evil empire.

FAME (R). Lots of young talent in vibrant musical about students at New York's School of Performing Arts.

THE FIENDISH PLOT OF DR. FU MANCHU (PG). Not very funny or very fiendish, but Peter Sellers' last film does include an occasional flash of comic genius that reminds us of what a gifted actor he was.

THE FINAL COUNTDOWN(PG). Kirk Douglas in action drama of a warship that goes through a time warp to the hour before Pearl Harbor.

HERBIE GOES BANANAS (G). Herbie, the Volkswagen bug, returns to the screen in a new adventure.

HONEYSUCKLE ROSE (PG). Willie Nelson is the center of attention in story about a country-western star who forgets he's married whenever he's on tour, which is most of the time.

THE HUNTER (PG). Steve McQueen returns to the screen again as a modern-day bounty hunter in pursuit of fugitives.

MOUNTAIN MEN (R). Charlton Heston and Brian Keith in violent story of hunters in the Rockies in the early 1800s.

RAISE THE TITANIC (PG). Adventure as American special operations team tries to recover vital mineral from the ship while interested Russians have their own plan.

Harmonicists

A foot-stomping convention is coming to town

By CRAIG PIECHURA

When harmonica players convene at a convention, they are collectively known as "harmonicists."

It's understandable. Call them "harmonica buffs" and it sounds like a secret society that plays the instrument in the nude.

"Harmonicists" is what Gordon Mitchell, a Southfield resident and president of the Society for the Preservation and Advancement of the Harmonica (SPAH), calls the 1,500 harmonica playing members of the organization.

SPAH's membership roster is diverse, encompassing country star Charlie McCoy; Grammy award-winner Stevie Wonder, whose first hit, "Fingertips," featured harmonica histrionics; and Larry Adler, guest soloist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Mitchell, 53, has been playing the harmonica, or mouth organ, since the age of 9. He played professionally with groups like the Harmonica Rhythymaires, the Harmonica Dons and, most recently, the Hi-Lites and the New Group. In the early 1940s Mitchell also toured with the comedy group, the Borrah Minevitch Harmonica Rascals.

Many persons remember the latter group because of the slapstick antics of midget Johnny Puleo. In performances, Puleo usually was knocked around by fellow musicians with oversized harmonicas and would retaliate by biting them in the kneecap.

"PEOPLE invariably ask 'Where's the little guy?' " Mitchell says. "It doesn't matter what harmonica group is playing."

In response to that inevitable query, Mitchell says Puleo is in his 70s, retired and living in Washington, D.C.

Puleo won't be at SPAH's upcoming 17th annual convention at Southfield's Ramada Inn, but nearly 1,000 harmonica players and enthusiasts will be there Sept. 4-6.

Featured performer at the convention is Peter "Madcap" Ruth of Ann Arbor, a blues and jazz player who has appeared on three albums with Dave Brubeck and one with folksinger Rosalie Sorrels, among others.

Ruth will perform at 9 p.m. Friday, Sept. 5, at the Ramada Inn. The public is invited to the concert and tickets are $5 at the door the night of the performance. He also will be playing a short set for free at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Hart Plaza during the Montreaux-Detroit International Jazz Festival.

Much of the convention, though, is not big names, just people who enjoy playing the harmonica. Nearly half the scheduled hours are set aside for jam sessions or open playing by "harmonicists."

SEMINARS are scheduled on such topics as ways of improving one's stage presence, proper miking and amplification, harmonica repair, and a session on chord and bass harmonica technique.

There are certain songs, Mitchell says, that most harmonica players know and can join in on.

One of Mitchell's personal favorites is the song "Ruby," a romantic song done most recently by Ray Charles.

"For a group of young people, it's usually 'Proud Mary,' " he said. "That's a mover. They enjoy it and we old-timers enjoy playing it."

Mitchell says one of the best aspects of the convention is that you find older people playing modern songs and young people playing the classics like "Peg o' My Heart."

Along with Madcap Ruth, other groups slated to play at the convention are the Harmonica Express; the Harmonichords, Don Les' New Harmonicats, the Sgro Bros. and Bernie Bray.

While many people think of the harmonica as only a backup instrument, Mitchell argues that harmonica groups handle it all. In fact, one group at the convention plays dance music.

PETER "MADCAP" RUTH

A harmonica band usually features a bass player using a double row chromatic bass harp; a rhythm player blowing a two-foot-long chord rhythm harmonica and a lead player with a chromatic or diatonic harmonica with sharps and flats, Mitchell said.

Records, spare parts, bumper stickers, badges and assorted harmonica paraphernalia will also be available to conventioneers.

Saxony is appearing 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Mondays through Saturdays at Dewey's in the Michigan Inn through Sept. 12. The group, including singer Alice Morgan, performs top 40 tunes for dancing. There is no cover charge. The Michigan Inn is next to the Northland Theater in Southfield.

Film maker seeks investors from area

By ETHEL SIMMONS

Detroit has more buildings that look like Berlin in the 1920s than Berlin has, claims filmmaker Hrayr (Peter) Toukhanian.

The Motor City has been chosen as a backdrop for a projected feature film by Toukhanian, the Beirut-born executive producer-director of Video Films Inc. in Detroit.

His background in industrial film production, with many awards to his credit, is launching him on "Assignment Berlin."

Toukhanian is seeking investors for the production, and will hold another in a series of meetings at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Somerset Inn, Troy. Persons who want to attend may call Toukhanian at 393-0800.

THE DOCU-DRAMA is based on a true story of an assassination. The cast includes David Hedison, who played the captain in the TV series "Journey to the Bottom of the Sea," as the assassin, code name Lightening; Eddie Mekka, who plays Carmine on TV's "Laverne and Shirley," as Torch; and Val Avery, as the Prime Minister of the Ottoman Empire, who is assassinated.

French singer/actor Charles Aznavour has a role in the film. The film will be marketed internationally, and Aznavour asked only for 3 percent of profits in France, Belgium and Switzerland, in accepting the film role, Toukhanian said.

Budgeted at $1 million, "Assignment Berlin" still needs $128,000 of $550,000 the film's producer-director is seeking to raise. Toukhanian said investors may come in for as little as $1,000 a unit.

If the money is raised by the end of October, filming will begin in the spring. A Huntington Woods resident, Toukhanian said investors include area residents from Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, West Bloomfield, Southfield, Farmington and Rochester.

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and other civic organizations have sent letters of encouragement for the project to Toukhanian.

Welcome to a garden of contemporary delights

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Internationally known sculptor Alexander Liberman recently dedicated a piece of massive contemporary sculpture at Laumeier International Sculpture Park in St. Louis.

This garden is one of the little-known treasures available to travelers going south and west from Detroit. It is part of the St. Louis County Henry H. Laumeier Memorial Park, one of only three such sculpture gardens in the country.

The other two are in Mountainville, N.Y., and Georgetown County, S.C.

The founding of the Laumeier park was a happy accident.

The Laumeier family donated the estate to St. Louis County, which did not know quite what to do with it until Missouri sculptor Ernest Trova solved the problem for them.

Trova donated a large number of his outdoor sculpture pieces to the county on condition that they find an appropriate setting.

The park now includes pieces by Pablo Picasso, Louise Nevelson, DiSuvero, and now Liberman.

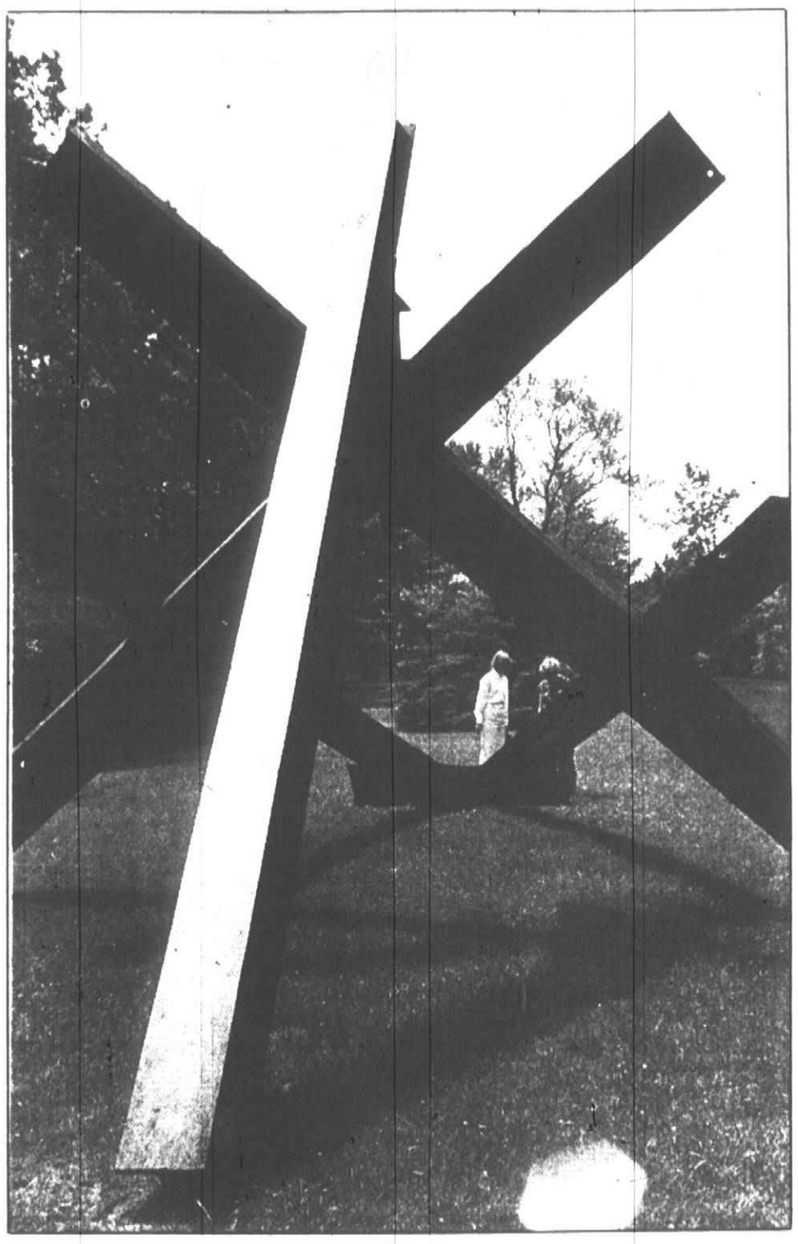

Liberman's composition "The Way" is one of the largest pieces of sculpture in North America, a bright red tubular form comprised of huge oil storage tanks. It is 50 feet high and 100 feet long, set on a slope at some distance from the museum building which serves as headquarters for the garden.

Most of the other works are scattered on the grass and under the trees in several acres around the museum.

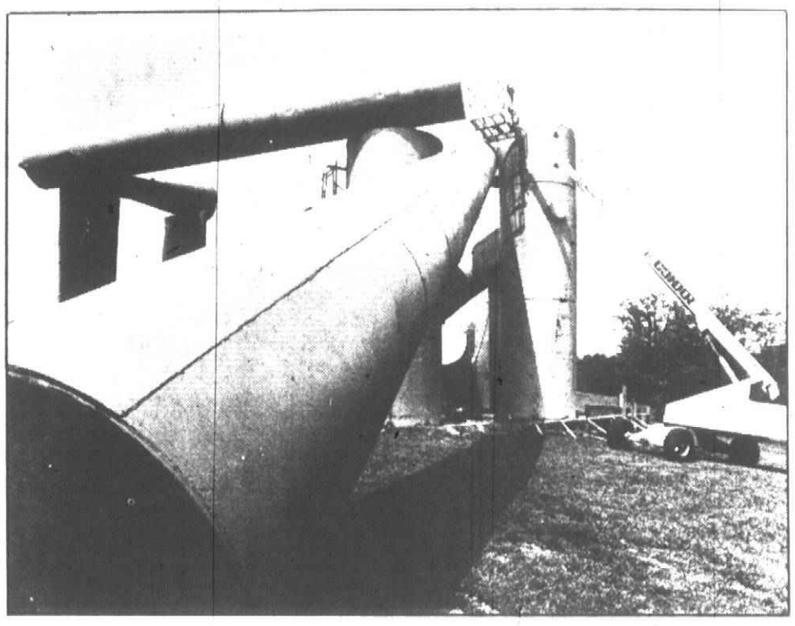

Two of the most interesting pieces, both by Trova, are hidden under trees or among bushes on the estate. "Poet sitting in Chair with Table," a 6-foot-high steel sculpture looks like a real figure sitting under a tree.

"Three Women Poets" stride in metal through a woods beside the path; you could easily miss them or mistake them for real people.

The sculpture garden is operated by the St. Louis County Parks and Recreation Department.

Angular piece of ironwork is by the aritist DiSuvero and stands on the former estate in St. Louis. Other artists represented in the park are Picasso, Louise Nevelson, and Ernest Trovo, who donated many of his outdoor sculptures with the condition they be placed in an appropriate setting. (Photo by Micky Jones)

The monumental sculpture "The Way," by artist Alexander Liberman, was installed in Laumeier Internationl Sculpture Park in St. Louis in July. It is one of the largest contemporary works in the U.S. It weighs 50 tons and stands 50 feet high and 100 feet wide. The tubular pieces originally were oil storage tanks unearthed on the east coast.

Playing carries responsibilities

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Travel is more than just play; it is also cleaning up after yourself, as resorters and travelers learn every September in northern Arkansas.

At Greer's Ferry Lake and Little Red River, near Heber Springs, Ark., the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers runs one of the largest and most unusual clean-up campaigns in the country.

Greer's Ferry is known in Arkansas as a corps lake, because it is one of several lakes dammed and managed by the Corps of Engineers.

Their clean-up here is part of a statewide action program to educate youth and adults in good litter disposal habits. Volunteers, residents and travelers remove litter from 276 miles of shoreline around Greer's Ferry Lake and 25 miles of Little Red River shoreline below the dam.

Their gear includes a Coast-Guard-approved life preserver, because most of the clean-up is done by canoe with specially designed can retrievers useful in snagging drink cans from the bottom.

The annual clean-up campaign is followed by a giant feast free to all participants and available to others for $3. Musical entertainment accompanies the fish fry.

It is an unusual activity for a traveler, but if you are going to be anywhere near Greer's Ferry Lake Sept. 6, contact Carl Garner at the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Heber Springs.

Garner will also tell you about primitive camping sites around the lake and about plans to provide camping facilities warmed by solar heating.

travel log

contributing travel editor

A world can be yours for two bits and a pull

One of the interesting aspects of travel is in reading newspapers from other places and learning new travel tricks at airports.

Local newspapers are a great way to discover the little inside bits of news that make a new city meaningful. They are also a way of finding out what's going on in the world outside Wayne and Oakland counties.

It was too early for the local paper when I boarded my flight in Windsor this morning, so I paid 50 cents in a newsstand machine for a weekday edition of The New York Times.

It was full of news stories, editorials and sidebars on the new transit plan to be introduced into New York City in late September.

These changes, a valiant attempt by Mayor Edward Koch to reduce traffic congestion in Manhattan, will affect Detroiters traveling to the Big Apple.

No single-occupant cars will be allowed to cross the four toll-free East River bridges into Manhattan between 8 and 10 a.m. The Automobile Club of New York is filing suit against that part of the plan because, they charge, it discriminates against both drivers and the retailers who serve them.

THEY FAVOR TWO other aspects of the plan: bicycle lanes separated from car traffic between Broadway and the Avenue of the Americas, and special Madison Avenue lanes for buses.

The clean air groups love it because, they say, it cuts down air pollution. Salesmen hate it; they must travel alone during rush hour.

The plan begins Sept. 22.

By the time I discarded The Times at Toronto's Mallon airport, I was ready to learn something else about travel.

Rapidair, an Air Canada service to Montreal that runs as regularly as a downtown bus, has a service whereby you can write your own ticket. Instructions tell you to put a charge card such as Mastercharge or Visa in the appropriate machine, add a blank ticket from a nearby stack and fill the ticket out yourself. They'll bill you automatically.

It saves you a wait in line if you don't have luggage, allowing you to go through security to the gate before having your ticket processed.

You learn something new every day.

SPEAKING OF LEARNING. Three special itineraries are being offered for the Christmas season by the American Institute for Foreign Study (AIFS).

Eight- and 10-day programs include yuletide in London; south of the border via Mexico City, Taxco, Cuernavaca and Acapulco; and the Yucatan and Mayan ruins.

Contact AIFS, Department TW1, 102 Greenwich Ave., Greenwich, Conn. 06830.

GREENFIELD VILLAGE and Henry Ford Museum are very nervous, because many Detroit-area people apparently confuse them with the Ford Motor Co, and the indefinite closing of Ford Rouge Tours. You can't tour the Rouge plant, but you can still visit the museum and village, where the Old Car Festival will be held Sept. 2-7.

Bike race at EMU

WEMU-FM, Eastern Michigan University's radio station, and Stroh's Brewery are co-sponsoring the first WEMU Peddle Pusher Classic, billed as the slickest bicycle event of the season.

The race (actually three events: bicycle touring evaluation, bicycle races, bicycle moto-cross) will take place on the EMU campus with check-in time 8 a.m. Sept. 13 at Huron River Driv and Barbour Road in Ypsilanti.

Classes are divided by age: 12-14; 15-18; and 18 and older. Trophies and prizes will be awarded.

Entry fee is $6. For more information, write to: Mike Walden, event director, c/o Bill Humphries, WEMU Radio, Ypsilanti 48197; or call 313-487-2229.

The faces may change but the philosophy remains the same for Plymouth Salem football as long as Tom Moshimer is head coach.

Salem is 28-9 over the last four years, one of the top records in greater Detroit. Moshimer will continue to implement the same type of offensive football Salem fans have grown accustomed to since 1973.

"We'll go with the triple option wishbone," said Moshimer, "the same as always."

The Rocks will also field another strong defensive team in 1980, a hard-hitting group which has become a trademark under Moshimer.

"I'm rather pleased with the defense," said the Salem coach, entering his 14th year with the Rocks.

"Right now the defense is ahead of the offense," he said.

Only one starter returns from last year's 7-2 team, quarterback-safety Joe Garcia, a senior co-captain.

Several Rock gridders, however, saw considerable playing time in 1979.

Among those returning include senior halfbacks Brian Lewandowski (6-foot, 175 pounds) and Dave Skone (5-9, 170). They will be joined by junior fullback Darrel Bartkowiak, a bruising 5-10, 195-pounder.

Bob Pittaway, a 5-11, 165-pound senior halfback, also figures in. He missed most of 1979 with a pinched nerve, but is pronounced fit and ready for the season opener Friday at home against Livonia Franklin. Pittaway, with speed to burn, will also see action as a defensive end.

Sophomore Dave Slavin (5-11, 180) is another potential running back who can play defensive end.

Garcia will most likely start the opener at quarterback, according to Moshimer, but two juniors — Jeff Hubert and Kirk Soluk — may see plenty of time.

"They all have their strong points," said Moshimer about the quarterback situation. "I'm sure all three will play. They have move the ball to be in there."

Moshimer is concerned about replacing grads Ron Schultz and Jeff Spencer in the key pass catching positions.

"We lost two starters and are looking for people to catch the ball," Moshimer said.

The most likely candidates to fill the gap are senior Jim Spooner (5-9, 145) and junior Geoff Baker (5-10, 130). Mark Kitz, a senior with experience, and Gary Workman, a 6-1, 155-pound senior, are working out at tight end.

"We'd like to have more of a pass-run balance offensively," said Moshimer. "We'll throw the ball more."

Salem will take the field with one of its biggest offensive and defensive lines.

Senior John Penders (6-0, 190), will start at center or guard. He played some last year as did Steve Szilagyi (5-11, 190), an outstanding wrestler who will be at the other guard.

If Penders starts at center, junior Ed Skotzke (5-11, 165) will get the call. Moshimer welcomes senior Greg Staron (6-1, 210) and junior Marty Piper (6-4, 215) at the tackle spots. The biggest player on the team, senior Rob Hanschu (6-2, 230), will not be able to play until he recovers from a stress fracture of the foot.

Valuable offensive line replacements include seniors Wayne Craig (6-0, 210) and Richard Wooley (5-10, 185).

As usual, most of Salem starters will go both ways.

Wooley will start at nose guard. He will be flanked at the tackle spots on defense by Piper and Staron. Pittaway and Kitz will start at the ends.

Jeff Powers and Phil Anderson graduated, leaving a gaping hole at linebacker, but Szilagyi, Penders and Bartkowiak are able replacements.

Skotze and Jeff Scott, are in reserve at linebacker.

In the secondary, Garcia returns at cornerback along with Skone. Lewandowski and Soluk are the safeties. They will be backed up by Hubert, Baker, junior Jeff Swanson (5-11, 165) and senior Ron Brewer, a fullback also who returned to the team after a two-year absence.

Lewandowski and Skone will handle the punting chores. Lewandowski, a fine kicker last season (extra points and field goals), will compete with Staron this fall.

"I think we'll be better on defense," Moshimer predicted, "we're not there yet but if we continue to improve, we'll be better than last year.

"This is the second largest team we've had here. We have to stay away from getting hurt, because we're not very deep.

"We always build our defense first. We're not a catch up team on offense. We have to have patience."

Rusty Nail gains women's crown

Rusty Nail pulled out a 3-2 victory over a surprising Do-Rite-Duds in the finals of the Women's divison of the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department softball league last week.

Debbie Cushman started things out for Rusty Nail with a single in the second and was moved along with a single by Debbie McLean. Cushman scored on an error to give Rusty Nail a 1-0 lead.

McLean and Diane Jonika singled home in the sixth for a 3-0 Rusty Nail advantage.

Do-Rite-Duds closed the gap behind Jenny Bath's homer in the bottom of the sixth to finish out the scoring.

Rusty Nail swept throughthe playoffs undefeated as they whipped Peloquin Enterprises, 9-5, and nipped Gould Realtors, 5-3, with a come-from-behind victory.

Do-Rite advanced to the finals with upset victories over Maria's Bakery, 14-3, and Gould Realtors, 6-2. The hot Do-Rite team also downed Peloquin Enterprises, 6-3 in its fight for the championship.

James Goedde had three hits to lead Pellegrino's past Falzon Electric, 8-1, in the Men's Class C finals of the Canton Parks and Recreation softball playoffs.

Pellegrino's 12-hit attack was powered by Goedde, Bob Sidlow and Mike McDivitt. Falzon's lone run came on a Dave Clark RBI double in the second inning.

PELLEGRINO'S JUMPED out to a three-run lead after one and led 5-1 heading into the third.

Pellegrino's closed out the scoring with three runs in the fifth.

Falzon dumped Mich.-I-Van, 16-4, to advance to the finals while the Lion and the Sword fell victim to the eventual champs, 9-5.

Home runs by Dennis Finfrock, Mike Eves and Tom Guilfoyle powered a come-from-behind victory by McMurray Insurance, 8-6 over Silver Cricket in the Men's Class A finals of the Canton Parks and Recreation softball playoffs.

McMurray and Silver Cricket both had 18-2 records heading into the championship game.

Silver Cricket jumped out to a 5-0 lead after three innings only to have McMurray come storming back.

A three-run homer in the bottom of the third closed the gap to 5-3. Both teams scored once in the fourth, and then McMurray exploded.

Eves started things off in the bottom of the fifth with a solo home run. Carl Vasquez drove home Jim Taylor to tie the score at 6-6 and Guilfoyle knocked in the winning run with a another solo homer. McMurray got an insurance run in the sixth.

Carriers wield deadly racquets

By day, Tom Spade and Lisa Abraham are a Observer Newspaper carriers, but by night they turn into championship tennis players.

Spade, 14, and Abraham, 13, joined forces a to win the USTA Michigan Open junior mixed doubles tourney at the Grosse Pointe Academy Aug. 22-24 by defeating Julie sporas and Kevin Donase, 6-1, 6-4.

Spade, a Northville resident, has been delivering the Observer for three years and has used the money he earned in the past to pay for tennis shoes and lessons.

Abraham, of Livonia, did almost the same thing, delivering papers and using tne money for equipment.

And both of them got their money's worth.

In the Fairlane Junior USTA 14-and-under singles open, Abraham reached the semis before bowing out while Spade was eliminated in the finals by John Baylos, 6-0, 6-1. Spade ousted the No. 1 seed, Mark Egnatios, in the quarterfinals, 6-2, 6-4.

Canton seeks turnabout

New coach stresses conditioning

By BRAD EMONS

The first ball has not even been kicked off but new Plymouth Canton football coach Richard Barr has already instituted quite a few changes.

The Chiefs will have a new look, both offensively and defensively. Barr, who was an assistant at Plymouth Salem the past seven years, is also trying to get his team as fit as possible for the Sept. 5 opener at Livonia Bentley.

"We're trying to get into the best condition we can," said Barr, who succeeded Dave Schuele after an 0-9 season in 1979.

"The better shape we are in, the better we'll play," he said. "You have to get the kids to believe in that. I'm very pleased with our progress.

"When you're in condition, you'll be able to take more punishment."

Barr is not going to forecast the upcoming season for his young Chiefs.

"We're going to go one step at a time," he said. "No one assumes we'll win, but we may surprise a few people."

Livonia Churchill and Walled Lake Western are favored to win the Western Six League. Canton just doesn't figure in right away, according to the experts.

Barr has already seen his future rivals on film and feels "we can be competitive."

Offensively, Canton will run the triple option, much in the same manner as Plymouth Salem has successfully run over the past seven years under Tom Moshimer.

Senior Billy Childs, a 5-foot-11, 165-pound quarterback will most likely get the starting call opening day against Bentley. He sat out all of last season because of a shoulder injury.

"The triple option is harder to learn from the quarterback standpoint," said Barr. "So far I've been really pleased with the way we run it."

Six players are competing for running back spots.

Senior transfer Scott Brookhouse, a 5-11, 180-pounder, looks good at fullback spot. Junior Tom Wennerberg is also competing.

Contending for halfback jobs are three juniors and a sophomore. Steve Hamblin, who performed on the junior varsity last year, is the biggest at 5-8, 170 pounds. David Simms and Mike Clayton, both juniors, are also contending along with sophomore Chuck Davis.

Jamie Chilcoff and Ken Jayroe, both juniors, are battling for a wide receiver job along with senior Todd Abrams.

The starting tight end is veteran Craig Gearns (6-3, 225), who is making a switch from fullback.

"He has the ability to catch the ball," said Barr of Gearns. "We want to get it to him."

Gearns, who will also start at defensive tackle, will be backed up on offense by Rob Reed, a senior, and Chuck Farden, a junior.

The offensive line returns veteran seniors Mike Dupuis, John Gray, Eddie Pierangelino and Bruce King.

Dupuis, a co-captain, is fighting junior Dennis O'Flynn (5-11, 180) and Gray for the starting center spot. King (6-3, 180) and junior Fred Rumberger will man the tackles.

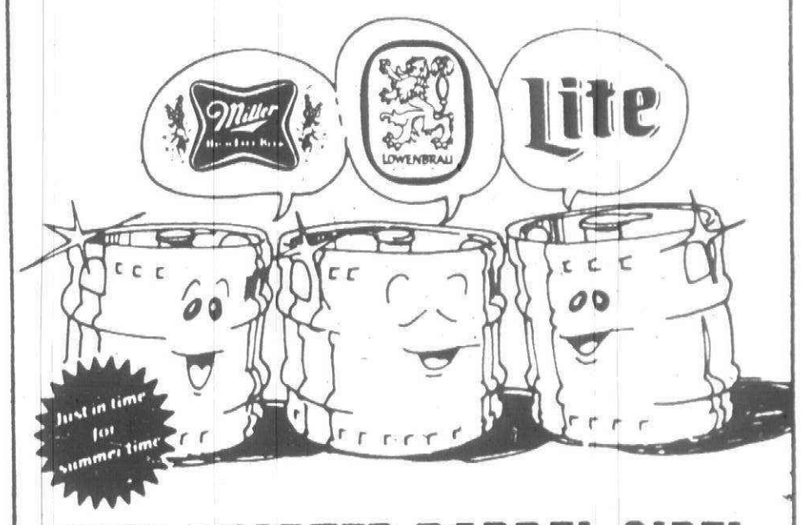

Pierangelino and junior Jeff Cousino can play guard, but according to Barr, all the offensive lineman will know more than one position.

The kicking game will be left up to Clayton, a punter, and O'Flynn, the latter whom kicked a 40-yard field goal during a recent scrimmage.

Barr is excited about his prospects on defense. Canton is switching to a 4-3

Smoker Puzzle Solved By Merit Taste.

Research establishes low tar MERIT as proven taste alternative to high tar smoking.

There is a difference between other low tar cigarettes and MERIT —a proven difference.

Tests with thousands of smokers provide solid evidence that MERIT delivers the flavor of high tar brands, and continues to satisfy long term.

Smoker Quest Ends

Blind Taste Tests: In tests where brand identity was concealed, a significant majority of smokers rated the taste of low tar MERIT as good as—or better than —leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar!

Smoker Preference: Among the 95% of smokers stating a preference, the MERIT low tar/good taste combination was favored 3 to 1 over high tar leaders when tar levels were revealed!

Long-Term Satisfaction: In the latest survey of former high tar smokers who have switched to MERIT, 9 out of 10 reported they continue to enjoy smoking, are glad they switched, and reported MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried!

MERIT is the proven alternative to high tar smoking. And you can taste it.

alignment in favor of the traditional 5-2.

"I'm pleased with our defensive line and the way our linebackers are responding," beamed Barr.

The defensive line is big and quick with senior Paul Furioso (6-1, 210) joining Gearns at tackle. Jayroe and Dan Jurek, another senior at 6-3, 205 pounds, gives the line experience and stability at the ends.

Chris Koch (5-9, 180), a co-captain, heads the linebacking corps along with Brookhouse, Pierangelino, Cousino, Rumberger, Gray and Dupuis.

Barr's biggest concern is in the defensive backfield where varsity experience is at a minimum.

"We're a little 'green' back there," Barr said. "The secondary needs more work as they always do."

Childs will see action at safety, but "we'd like not to have to use him back there," said Barr. Abrams, Simms, Chilcoff and Reed are also learning the spot.

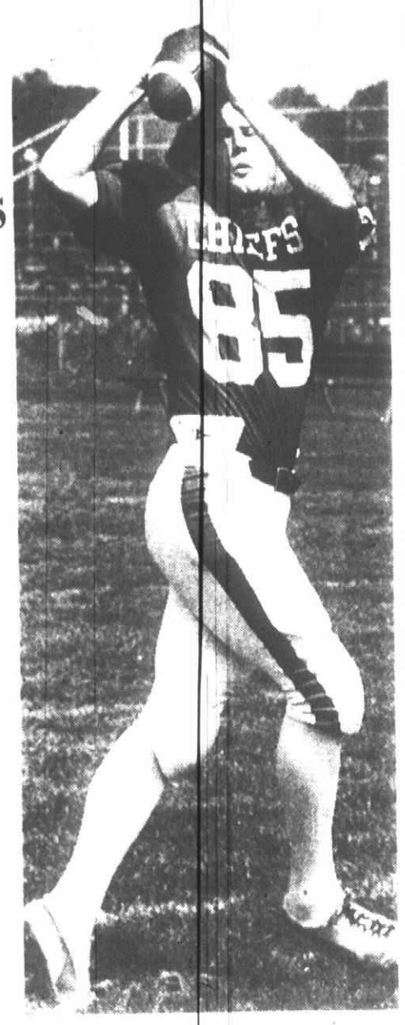

Cornerbacks include Clayton, Hamblin, Davis, Susock, Pat Murphy and Jerry Miles.

"I don't know who is going to end up playing there," said Barr.

Barr does know, though, that his team will go into the season physically fit.

"We've worked hard the last four weeks," he said. "We hope to have 30 players on the varsity for the first game. We have to stay away from injuries.

"No one we play uses the triple option. Hopefully we'll use it to our advantage."

Blohm sets season goals

Salem cagers rely on quickness

By BRAD EMONS

The loss of two valuable players can't dim coach Bob Blohm's hopes for the upcoming girls' basketball season at Plymouth Salem.

Gone are 6-foot center Patty Weidman and sharpshooting guard Nan Horwood. Both players went on to Central Michigan.

Salem will take the floor in 1980 with three returning starters and help from last year's fine junior varsity team.

"Offensively we're going to have to establish an inside game," said Blohm, who enters his third season with a 38-9 record. "We have to get consistent defensively and expand our game."

Blohm's squad played together this summer and rested five weeks until pre-season practice began Aug. 18.

"I'm pleased because physically we're in good shape," he said. "I don't know if it's going to be a factor.

"Last season we played good for 30 minutes and then for the last two we just weren't there. This year we're going to offer different looks and pressure. We have the players to put pressure on the ball at all times. Our overall quickness is better. Sixty percent of our practice time has been spent on defensive situations.

Weidman and Horwood accounted for much of Salem's offense during last year's 17-8 season. The Rocks, however, can still put the ball in the hoop with the return of starters Cheryl Sobkow, Eileen Moore and Jacque Merrifield.

A rugged 5-8 senior, Sobkow averaged around 10 points per game in 1979 and was a workhorse on the boards.

"She (Cheryl) is going to have an excellent year if she stays healthy," said Blohm. "She can score inside and can now bring her game out, too. She's a double threat."

Sobkow will likely move into Weidman's spot while Moore, a junior at 5-7, will switch from a ball-handling guard to up front.

"Eileen's role is going to be a little bit different," said Blohm. "She's a swing player with the ability to score inside. She's also an excellent rebounder."

Moore was a major reason for Salem's success in the state tournament last season. As a sophomore in 1979 she averaged almost nine points a game. This is her third year on the varsity.

Merrifield, who became a starter as a freshman midway through last year, will play the guard position. The other guard spot is up for grabs among three juniors who played extensively on the reserve team last year — Carol Ross, Linda Lybarger and Bonnie Southerland.

Jan MacKenzie, a 5-7 junior, lettered last season and will play up front. She is an accurate 15-foot perimeter shooter, according to Blohm.

Jeanine Papa, a 5-7½ junior, will see plenty of playing time on the front line along with junior Sue Evans.

Sophomore Ann Glomski may also see varsity time.

"I think we're a good ball handling team," Blohm added, "and I think we can control the ball. We're not a racehorse team. We'll try to make the our opponents turn it over and then run."

Blohm is looking for balance offensively, defensively and in the transition game.

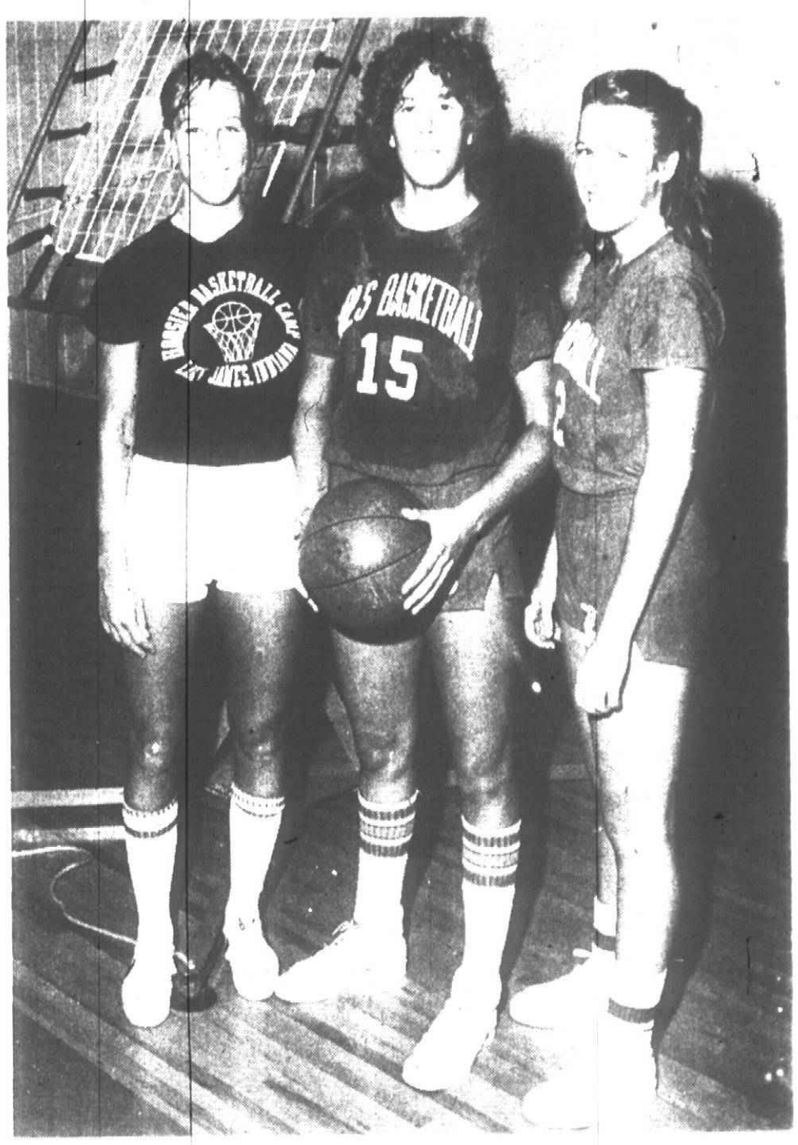

"Our goals are to make a conference run, win 15 games and have the team peak for the state tournament," said the Salem coach, a native of South Bend, Ind.

The Rocks reached the regional (Class A) last year before losing to Redford Union. Blohm's squad won the district and placed second in the Suburban Eight League.

Salem is expected to challenge once again for the crown along with defending champs Livonia Bentley and Dearborn Edsel Ford.

"I think we're fundementally better," said Blohm. "The thing we're not sure about is that we have a lot of untested players. We don't have the size because we lost Patty and Nan. We have to hit the boards offensively and defensively."

Blohm's squad will open the season Sept. 9 at home against Walled Lake Western.

CANTON SUPERBOWLERS

The Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department, in cooperation with Superbowl, is sponsoring a youth bowling league beginning Saturday, Sept. 13.

Registration will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at Superbowl, 45100 Ford Road, Canton. A fee of $2 is required. The weekly cost for bantam and junior players is $2.50 per person. Pee wees must pay $1.90 per week.

At the end of the 30-week league, trophies will be awarded and special event parties have been planned.

For more information, call 397-1000.

SPECIAL GOLF PLAYOFF

It will take a playoff match to determine the winner of the Canton Recreation second round Fox Hills men's golf league.

The team of Larry Slade and Steve Moraca ended the eight-week session tied for first place at 28 points along with Dick Kraft and Tony Valenti.

Each squad won four out of a possible five points to tie for first.

The winner of the playoff will meet the first round league winners, Jim Monro and Art Lawrence to determine the 1980 champion.

Jack and Bob Koers scored all five possible points to gain third place with 26½ points. Kraft carded a 38 for the best round of the week. Paul Oberhelman shot a 40 and Valenti had a 42. Bill Duncan fired a 43.

RACQUETBALL LEAGUES

The Canton Recreation Department is sponsoring racquetball leagues for men and women beginning Tuesday at Rose Shores of Canton Racquetball Center.

The women's league will start at 8 p.m. Tuesday while the men open up at 8 or 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The cost is $60 per person which includes all league court time and trophies. Players will be divided up based upon ability levels.

Interested participants can register by mail or in person to: Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department, 1150 South Canton Center Road, Canton, Mi. 48188.

REINKE WINS TITLE AT FELLOWS CREEK

Gerald Reinke posted a nine-hole round of 38 to score four points and capture the Canton Recreation men's golf league at Fellows Creek.

Reinke totaled 23 points to grab first place in the second round. Mike Howe and Steve Rogin, who scored five points last week, tied for second overall with 20.

Brian Hayes shot a 40 and Jack Casey carded a 45 in other top rounds last week.

STUDT WINS RACE

Bob Studt of Dearborn Heights won the Street Stock 15-lap A Main car race at Flat Rock Speedway recently, edging out Canton's Rick Bundon and Livonia's Steve Cronenwett.

Stingrays want members

The Michigan Stingray Swim Association has scheduled team registration and tryouts for new members for Sept. 8-11 ? from 6-8 p.m. at the Farmington Harrison High School pool.

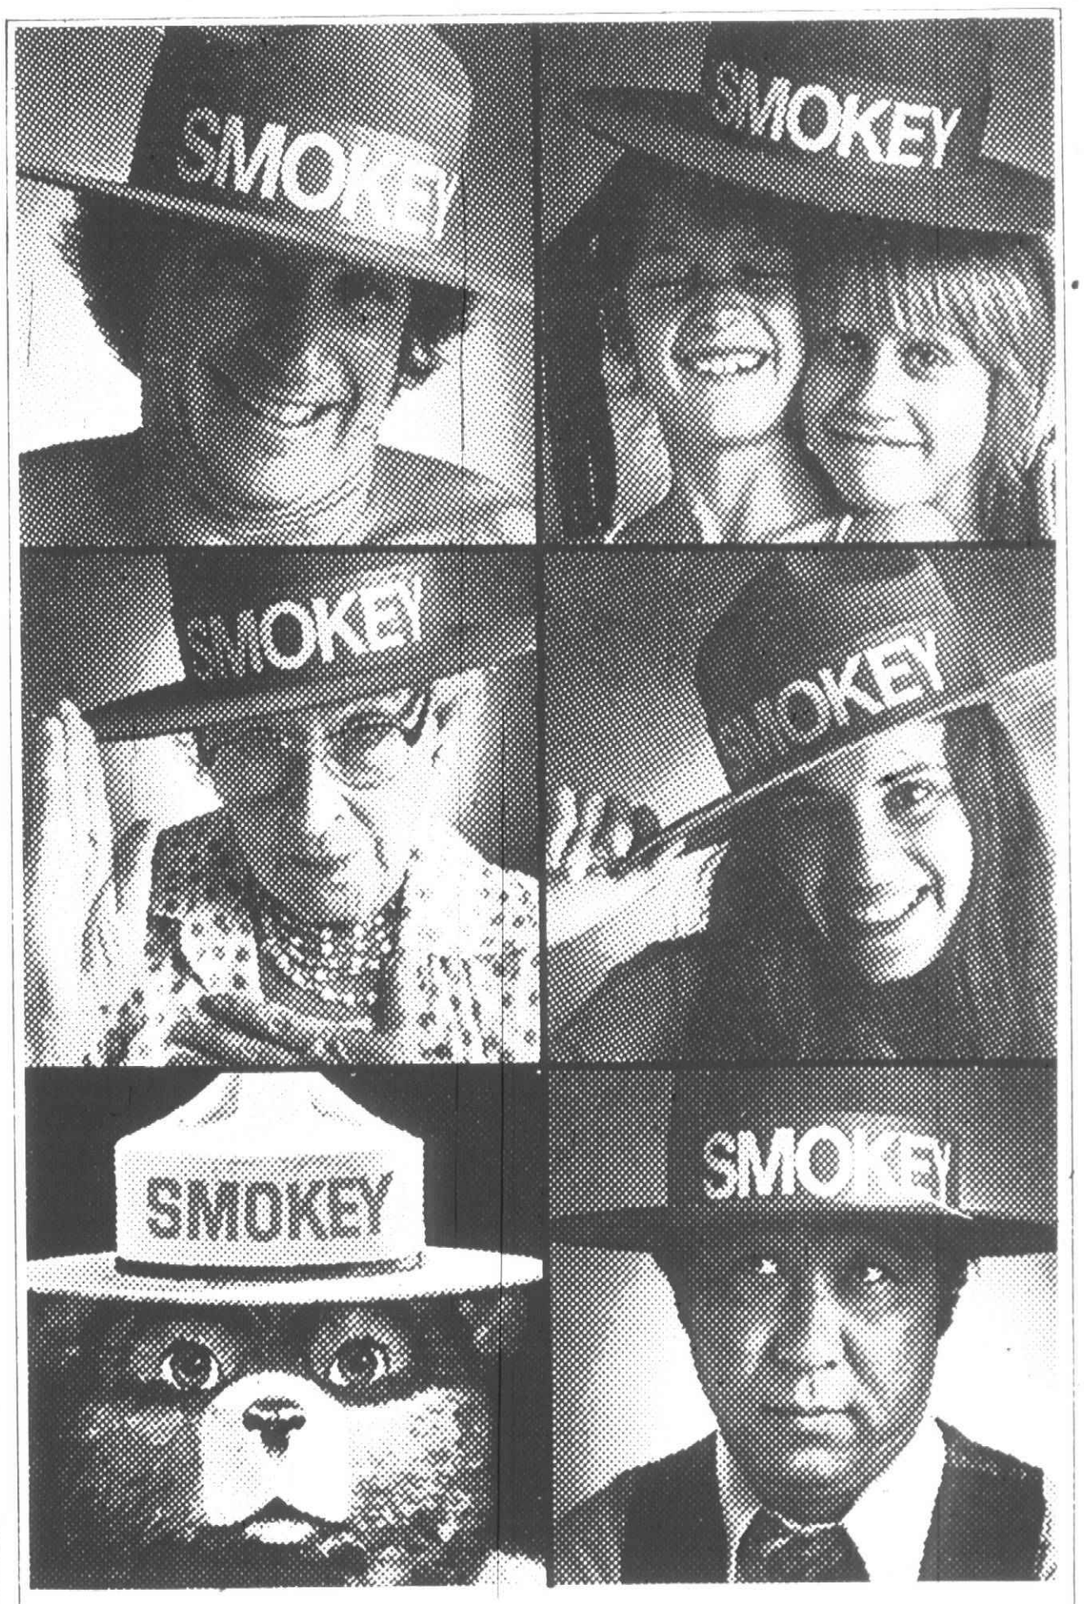

Mandatory registration for old Stingrays will be Sept. 8-9. Registration and tryouts, to determine level of instruction, for new members is set for Sept. 12-13. Any youngster interested in swimming competively for the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) team should attend.

For more imformation call membership chairperson Frieda Rudel at 478-6869 or Joy Stinson at 661-1589.

LEGAL SECRETARIES

Dear Legal Secretaries:

If you get up in the morning and thing "I wish I didn't have to go to work today", believe me, it's time for a change in jobs.

Stop being a masochist and do something about it! Isn't your mental health important to you? Why beat your brains out all day long on a job that no longer fulfills you. Do you realize most of us have to spend more than 2,000 hours a year working away from home, so you better like what you're doing.

A good job is one where the week isn't long enough, and you resent the weekends that take you away from it. Do yourselves a favor TODAY. Pick up the phone and call Joanne. It only costs 20c and a few minutes of your time. A psychiatrist is a lot more expensive.

If I don't have the job that turns you on, I'll find it for you. We don't push people into situations they don't want. We keep you out of them.

If you have what you think is a great job, have you bothered to tell your employer thanks?

All fees are employer paid.

I'M NOT THE PLUMBER
Nor the plumber's son, but any work you should have, I shall soon have done. Plum

Nothing personal. We just wondered if you are an ardent Eccentric lover or a passionate Observer lover. There are lots of things about both newspapers that everyone loves. The features about their hometowns. The great photos that make these local stories come alive. The classified ads where you can find some super bargains.

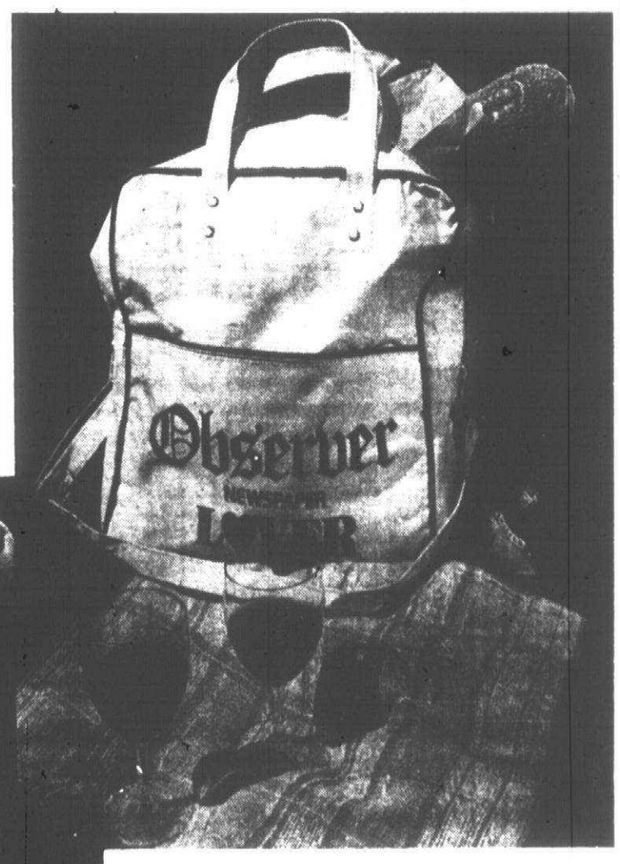

Whichever newspaper lover you happen to be, we have a super tote bag for you. It's roomy, has a detachable, adjustable shoulder strap AND handles. It has a zippered top and a handy front pocket. It makes a terrific carry-all and overnight bag. (Nothing personal)

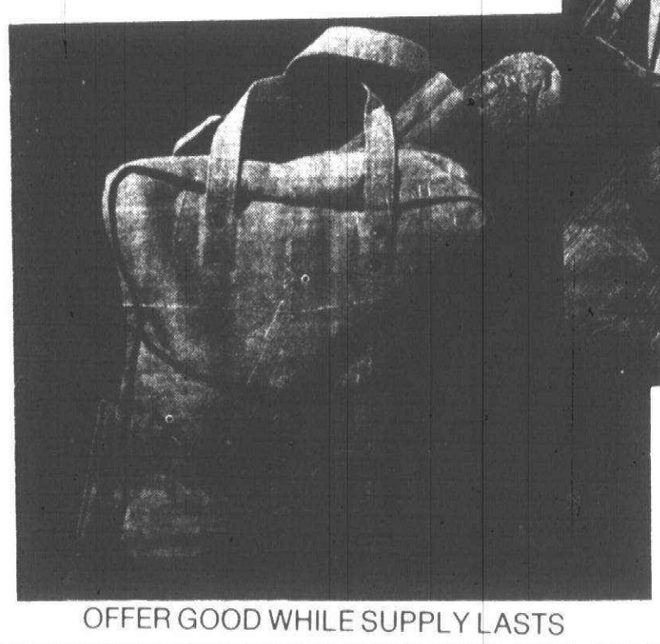

Personally, I'm an Eccentric ☐ Observer ☐ lover. Please send me ___ tote bags @ $6.95 each. Enclosed is a check or money order for $___ (add $1.25 per bag for shipping and handling).

The Dodge Mirada CMX package includes the "convertible" cabriolet roof.

'81 Mirada debuts

The Dodge Mirada for 1981 offers a wide range of trim and performance features to compete in the sporting car segment of the new car market.

The basic model includes cloth-trimmed bucket seats and sports steering wheel, a bodyside tape stripe treatment, up/over roof band and dual remote control sport mirrors.

A high-strength steel rear bumper replaces the aluminum unit previously used. Mirada interiors have been revised with improved bucket seats and a re-engineered tilt steering column.

The standard powerplant is a 225 CID (3.7 L) slant six engine with hydraulic lifters for quieter operation. A 318 CID (5.2 L) V8 is available as an option.

Other improvements include a new catalytic converter used on most 225 CID engines, an electronic feedback carburetor system with a three-way catalyst on all 318 CID engines and a greater interval between antifreeze collant refills: three years or 50,000 miles.

Car is safe in lightning, but beware of twisters

A motor vehicle is a relatively safe place to be during a lighting storm, but it's not a good place to be if a tornado is approaching, points out the Automotive Information Council.

Some believe the rubber ties cause the car to be insulated if struck, but the National Weather Service says it is the steel of the body that "fights" the lightning.

Lightning striking a car usually travels along the outer metal skin of the car and then jumps to the ground, keeping the power from the occupants.

However, a car's occupants should not touch interior metal parts during the storm. They also should avoid convertibles.

Besides which, lightning and rain tend to appear at the same time, and the occupants of a convertible may get wet.

Contacted about what to do in the event of severe weather, the Weather Service also suggested that during a lightning storm, those who are outside should get inside. Inside may mean either into a car or a building.

AVOID GETTING near metal fences and other metal objects, stay away from trees and do not remain in or on the water.

For tornadoes, the Weather Service warns that if you try to outrun one, it could be the last race you'll be in.

Fleeing a tornado in a car could be fatal unless you're in open, flat country. If you can drive in any direction at high speed, you may be able to outrun the tornado by driving at right angles to it's path.

If you are confined to roads, you may not be able to drive at right angles to the path of the oncoming tornado. Trying to win a race against a tornado is not a good idea.

If there's even a slight doubt about the funnel's speed or direction, don't take the chance.

Instead, if you're in a car when a tornado approaches, get out and take shelter in a well-contrructed building.

If none is nearby, lie in a ditch, culvert or other low spot until the twister passes.

Avoid small buidings, for they can get picked up by the high winds and scattered like toys.

Fall in Plymouth time to be festive

The Plymouth Fall Festival is celebrating its silver anniversary this year.

For 25 years, community non-profit organizations have been able to continue their service to the community because of the money raised during the four-day festival.

What began as a fund-raising picnic for the Rotary Club of Plymouth has developed into a four-day event for the entire community and surrounding areas.

Dinners are served nightly, booths line the streets, and there's a flea market, antique show, arts and crafts show, produce display, pet show, fireman's waterball fight and entertainment nightly.

In addition, Saturday night will be dance night, with a "Big Band" sound and dancing until 10 p.m. Firefighters from city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, and nearby towns will be on hand for a waterball fight. Saturday and throughout the four days, pony and train rides will keep the kids busy.

One thing the festival always has been is a time to enjoy great food at very reasonable prices. The eating begins Thursday, Sept. 4, with the lunch served up by the Plymouth Grange and with the spaghetti dinner served up by the Colonial Kiwanis Club.

On Friday evening, the Lions Club of Plymouth puts on a fish fry, and Saturday is a time to enjoy a pancake breakfast

Especially for you

This guide to the Plymouth Fall Festival was especially prepared for people who plan to attend one or all of the days of the four-day event.

In the middle of the section you will find a two-page schedule with a map showing the location of major events. Readers in past years have found it beneficial to remove these two pages from the section and take it with them to the Fall Festival. We hope you will do the same in 1980.

Also included in the festival guide are special day-by-day summaries of what can be expected — important information because each day of the festival is unique in its own way. The daily summaries may be found on Pages 4, 10, 12 and 15.

We hope you save this guide because it is intended to make the Fall Festival more enjoyable for you. The section was planned by advertising coordinator Audrey Roof and editorial coordinator Emory Daniels with assistance from Bridget Lucas, Elinor Graham, Gary Caskey and Teri Banas.

Sunday, Sept. 7

People still flock to Plymouth on Sundays of the Plymouth Fall Festival each year to watch 16,000 meals being served in six hours.

The attraction is the annual chicken barbecue sponsored by the Rotary Club of Plymouth from noon to 6 p.m. in Kellogg Park.

For those unable or unwilling to dine in the park, the Rotary Club operates a take-out site at the corner of Sheldon and Ann Arbor roads from 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

For $3.50 per person, each diner receives a half-chicken (barbecued with 25 years experience), an ear of corn, chips and beverage.

Sunday visitors to the festival can take a stroll down Penniman Avenue from Main to Harvey to view the antique auto exhibit. This year, 70 cars will be on exhibit from noon to 5 p.m.

THE COSTUME Contest, sponsored by the American Association of University Women (AAUW) of Plymouth, will be held from 1:30-2 p.m. at the bandshell in Kellogg Park, with winners being called up on stage from 3:10-3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Another Sept. 7 highlight will be the produce judging and exhibit at Central Middle School, Church at Main.

Kellogg Park is filled up on Sundays as the Plymouth Rotarians serve 16,000 chicken dinners from noon to 6 p.m. (Staff photo) hosted by the Plymouth Kiwanis Club followed by a beef rib dinner by the Plymouth Jaycees. And Sunday is the greatest eating extravaganzas of all as some 16,000 barbecue chicken dinners is served in six hours from noon on by the Plymouth Rotary in Kellogg Park.

The Plymouth Symphony League will be sponsoring an antique mart Friday-Sunday at the Plymouth Community Cultural Center. The Plymouth Community Arts Council offers a arts and crafts show on Saturday and Sunday at Central Middle School for a donation of $1.

A square dance begins 7:30 p.m. Friday on Penniman Avenue, the Plymouth Optimist Club Pet Show starts 9 a.m. Saturday, the Big Band Dance Saturday from 8:30-10 p.m., produce judging Sunday at Central Middle School and an antique auto exhibit Sunday on Penniman Avenue. The Plymouth American Association of University Women also will have its annual costume judging contest Sunday at the bandshell in Kellogg Park.

Inside this section, readers will find schedules of specific events with times and locations, plus more information on Plymouth's four-day Fall Festival. The Fall Festival Board will have an information booth on Main Street between Ann Arbor Trail and Penniman Avenue to aid visitors.

The Three Cities Art Exhibit always attracts interest on the Main Street side of Kellogg Park. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Established in 1956 and still growing strong.

That's number 25 coming up, Plymouth.

In fact, our Fall Festival is one of the oldest community events of its kind around.

But more important, each year it's a reflection of that very special quality of life we're all working for in our hometown.

In short, our Fall Festival isn't just getting older or simply getting bigger every year. It's getting better, just the way Plymouth is getting better all the time. So congratulations to our fellow old-timers. And welcome to all you newcomers.

Have a great Fall Festival!

Thursday, Sept. 4

Each day of the Plymouth Fall Festival is special in its own way.

Thursday is, of course, opening day.

And if opening day 1980 is like the past 24 years, it should be a good day to attend the festival for those who don't like to get lost in the crowds.

Traditionally, the turnout to the festival is lowest on Thursday as the crowds pick up momentum as the four-day event marches towards Sunday.

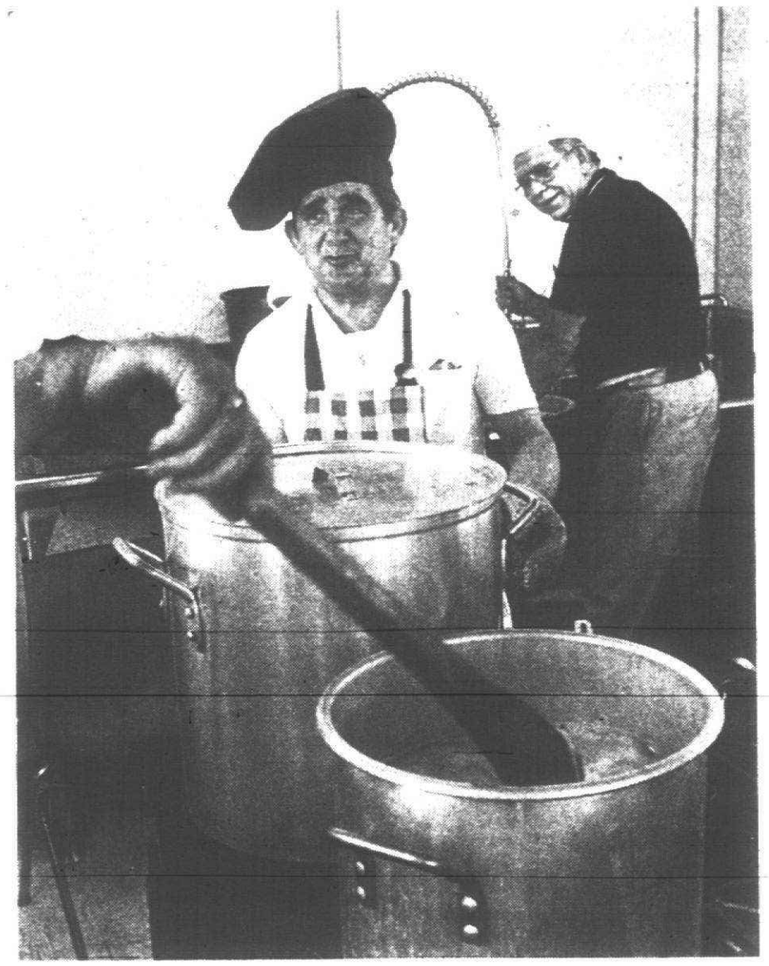

And so Thursday is a great time to visit all the booths, sample the goodies, take the kids on the pony and train rides, visit the flea market, and get a good flavor of what the Fall Festival is all about.

This year, Thursday also is a special day because opening ceremonies have been planned that evening in Kellogg Park. Because this is the silver anniversary of the Fall Festival, the special opening ceremonies have been planned at the bandshell from 7-8 p.m.

IN BETWEEN, though, festival-goers will want to have lunch with the Grange and dinner with the Kiwanians. Home cooking and homemade baked goods offer a great fare for diners in the Grange Hall on Union immediately north of Penniman Avenue near the northeast corner of Kellogg Park.

And then from 4-9 p.m., the Colonial Kiwanis Club of Plymouth will sponsor its annual spaghetti dinner in the park with the serving line being along Penniman from Union to Main.

For out-of-town visitors, most of the meals are served at or near Kellogg Park, which is in the heart of Plymouth at Ann Arbor Trail and Main Street (Plymouth Road).

Arts, crafts, good food is found at the Grange

A four-day arts and crafts sale and a lot of good home cooking will be the Plymouth Grange's contribution to the 1980 Plymouth Fall Festival.

Fourteen craft booths selling candles, flower arrangements, needlework, ceramics and many Christmas items will be at the Plymo uth Grange Hall at 273 Union near Penniman Avenue.

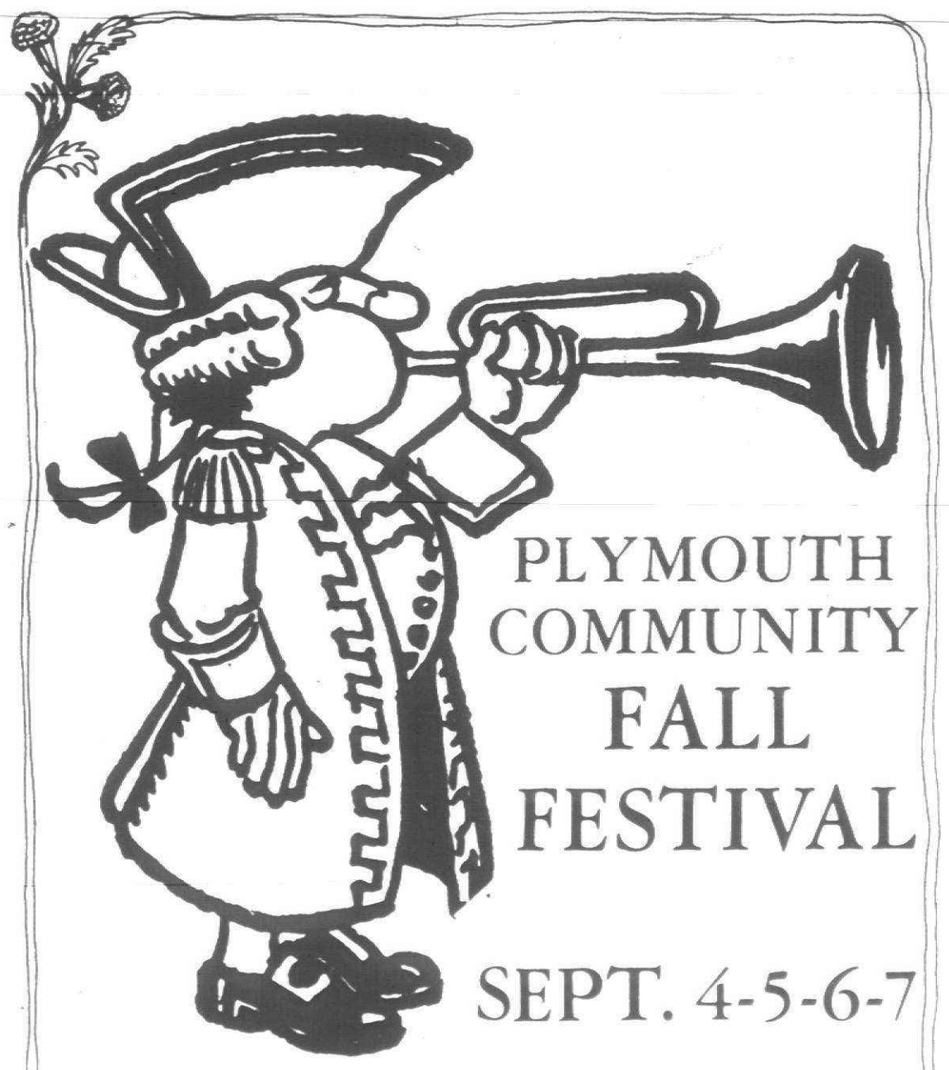

The times of the arts and crafts sale are from noon to 8 p.m. on Thursday, form 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. There is no admission charge.

The Grange Hall also is a good location to enjoy some homemade cooking and baked goods for lunch or snacks. Soups, sandwiches and homemade pies and donoughts will top the menu for lunch and dinner each day of the festival.

The Plymouth Grange is the oldest continuing Grange Hall in Wayne County, and each year is a center for good homemade cooking and baking for the Plymouth Fall Festival.

Saturday, Sept. 6

Wake up Saturday morning, drive into downtown Plymouth, and find the Masonic Temple on Penniman Avenue across from Kellogg Park.

There'll be a long line in front for the pancake breakfast, but the line will move along pretty fast. Before long, you'll be at the serving line inside for a tasty plate of pancakes and sausage.

You can sleep in, though, if you wish because the members of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club will be serving pancakes from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sept. 6.

And then from 5-9 p.m. Saturday, the Plymouth Jaycees will be serving their annual beef rib dinner as diners can get some hearty barbecue beef hot off the coals in Kellogg Park between the Masonic Temple and the Penn Theatre.

Saturday is a great day for the kids, too, as the Plymouth Optimist Club's annual pet show will be held from 9-11:30 a.m. at the bandshell in Kellogg Park.

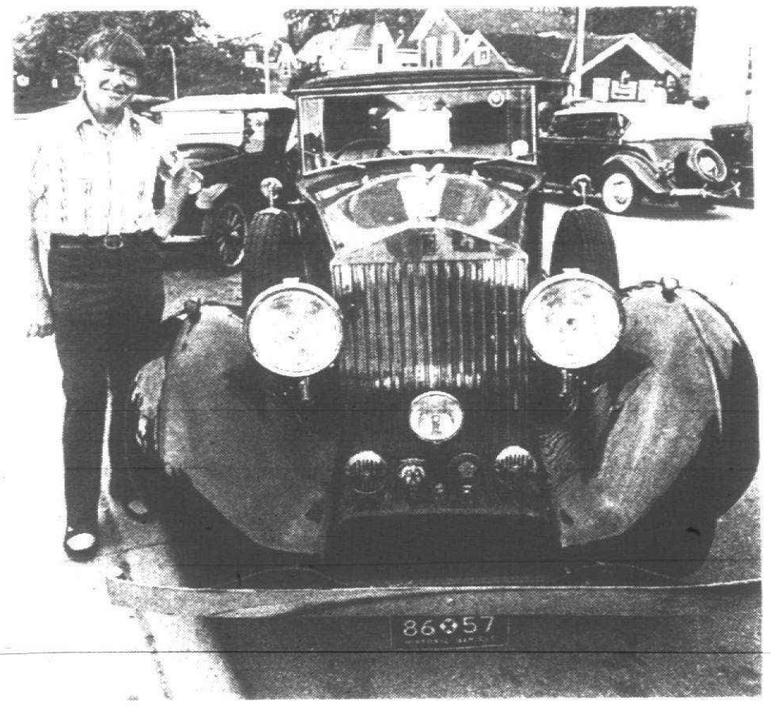

For a scene out of the past, festival-goers will want to watch the firemen's waterball fight involving fire departments from the city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton, Salem, Northville and other nearby communities.

Sounds out of the past will be heard Saturday from 8:30-10 p.m. as a dance featuring the big band sounds will be held on Penniman Avenue from Main to Harvey.

Another Saturday highlight is the opening of the artists and craftsman show, sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC), at Central Middle School.

Preparing pancakes keeps Kiwanians busy Saturday morning and until 5 p.m. Saturday in the Masonic Temple. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Antique Car Show

An antique automobile display will be one of the features Sunday for festival visitors from noon to 5 p.m. on Penniman Avenue between Main and Harvey. About 70 cars are expected, said chairman George Breck, and there should be something for everyone. Anyone who wants to register to display an antique or classic car should show up from 10 a.m. to noon Sunday. Some of the types of vehicles to be on display are a 1937 Ford convertible, a couple of antique fire trucks, antique Ford trucks, classics from the '20s and '30s such as Packards and Cadillacs, antique foreign sport cars, foreign sport cars from the '50s and '60s, T-Birds from the '50s and Corvettes from the '60s, and post-war special interest cars.

In times like these, we still give our customers what they want.

A dealership that's got it all together.

Selection and service. Both important when you're deciding where to buy your new or used car.

So, before you do decide, we want you to know that we offer complete customer care.

Our Service Department and Body Shop are both provided with modern, up-to-date equipment and facilities. We have an entire inventory of factory-guaranteed parts to always assure your satisfaction.

Our trained mechanics and technicians attend special schools. As do our salesmen. So anyone in our dealership can help you make a wise decision.

We want you to be happy with your new car. And your dealership. Because at times like these, good customers are important.

CHEVROLET

Friday, Sept. 5

What would Friday be without a fish fry?

And some of the best fresh, deep fried fish you can get is served up from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday by the Plymouth Lions Club in Kellogg Park.

And beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday, a square dance will be staged on the streets as the festival closes off Penniman Avenue from Main Street west to Harvey.

Another important happening Sept. 5 is the opening of the antique mart, sponsored each year by the Plymouth Symphony League.

The antique mart, which attracts dealers from throughout the country, is held Friday-Sunday in the Plymouth Community Cultural Center at 525 Farmer.

Out-of-towners from the east coming into town on Plymouth Road should continue past Mill to the C&O Railroad tracks and turn right at Theodore. Take Theodore all the way until it deadends and the Cultural Center is on the left.

VISITORS FROM the south will continue past the lights at Penniman and Church and then turn left unto Theodore immediately before the tracks.

Anyone needing first aid on any of the four days of the festival can find the American Red Cross first aid station on Penniman between Main and Harvey (on the west side of Main).

Anyone who wants information about where particular events or happenings may be found will want to look up the Fall Festival Manager's Office, which is on Main Street directly in front of Kellogg Park.
