Task force seeks cure to local business woes

By DARLENE STINSON

A new agency will swing into operation sometime this fall in an effort to heal a long-standing rift between township government and the business community.

Chamber of Commerce president Frank McMurray, who suggested formation of the group, expresses hope that a new air of cooperation will spring from the group's activity.

The seven-person agency will include representatives of the business community, township officials and residents.

Supervisor Noel Culbert has suggested a string of public hearings on local business problems as the group's first task. He envisions a second round of hearings on any recommendations made by the group to deal with business woes.

Recommendations could include a revision of township ordinances or regulations. The township board of trustees will consider any suggestions made by the group, Culbert said.

McMurray, a member of the Canton Planning Commission, views the agency as a pilot organization which could be copied by other communities across the state. McMurray won an appointment by Gov. Milliken last June to the Executive Council of the Michigan Conference on Small Businesses.

McMURRAY MAINTAINS that problems created by government and over-regulation plague businesses across the nation.

He said that strict enforcement of local ordinances in Canton has created a rift between the Canton business sector and the township hall. He points to the township's sign ordinance, which prohibits freestanding signs larger than 32 square feet, and a berm requirement as examples.

"It's an open and shut case to the business community right now," said McMurray. "This (agency) might serve as the vehicle to tear down the barriers.

"I think a lot of ordinances on the books create financial difficulties for the business community.

"Berms (grassy mounds in front of businesses) cost thousands of dollars to construct, because someone says they look pretty. After they're up, they cost thousands to maintain," he said. "If the money doesn't come in the front door, then the business is in trouble.

"I think we have to look at things to meet (business) people's needs."

Culbert said he is growing increasingly sympathetic with the problems of local businesses.

"I believe our business community is hurting," said the supervisor. "If they have to close their doors, then it reflects on our community."

THE TOWNSHIP BOARD voted to establish the agency on business problems last July. But agency members were not appointed by the Township Board until last week.

Township appointees include Trustee Carol Bodenmiller, ordinance director Bruce Phillips, planning commissioner John Burdziak, resident Gloria Hammonds and Robert Czerniak, owner of the Country Deli & Wine Shoppe. As chamber president, McMurray appointed Mary Perna — manager of a local Security Bank & Trust office — and former planning commissioner Bart

Stars in her eyes

Teen wins role in movie

By TERI BANAS

They all told Bonnie Knaus that they loved her.

They told her she was fabulous, a natural talent and that she had that special something some girls have and some girls don't — the elusive X-factor.

And now they say she can be a real shining star.

Bonnie Knaus, a 17-year-old Plymouth Canton High senior who has received a flurry of encouraging words from area talent scouts recently, has just gotten the break of her life.

At the end of this month, she'll play a small part in a made-for-television film that's planned to be on location at Kellogg Park in Plymouth.

It's not quite the role Bonnie had in mind — she'll play a contestant in a beauty pageant — but it's still no less exciting for the young woman who has never had a professional acting job in her life.

"I've always wanted to be an actress, ever since I was a little girl," said the Canton Township teen-ager. "But my dad's in advertising and he said 'It's a bad field. Don't go into it. Only one in a million make it.'

"But I wasn't going to give up. I planned to still keep trying.

"Now that I've got a part, they (her parents, Jennifer and Carl) say they're going to back me up 100 percent."

THE MOVIE, to be filmed in Plymouth Sept. 19 and 20, is called "Word of Honor" and stars Karl Malden as a small town journalist who faces a jail sentence for refusing to disclose a source.

Bonnie originally was considered for the role of Malden's 15-year-old daughter but lost out in the final cut to another young woman who "looks more like Karl Malden," she said.

Instead, she'll be among 10 runners-up in a beauty pageant scene to be filmed at Kellogg Park Sept. 20.

Since Bonnie learned of the casting last week, life has turned around for the slender 5-foot-1 teen.

She says tensions at home have eased up ever since her parents, initially skeptical and cautious about her acting interests, learned that she had landed an actual movie role.

That role also meant that she now needs to find a talent agent. And on Thursday, the first day back at Canton High, she spent the day interviewing potential talent agents instead.

By Friday, however, she was back to her school life, telling friends about her new opportunity, and accepting their gentle ribbing with abundant enthusiasm.

"Everyone's been really positive about it," she says.

SURPRISING AS it may seem for a high school student with no professional background to land a part in a movie production, Bonnie attributes her find to the father of a former Farmington Hills school chum.

Head of a Southfield advertising firm, she calls him her "big connection."

He was the first to arrange a screen test for her last summer, and

Board eyes half-mill cut in township's tax rate

By DARLENE STINSON

Township administrators have proposed a one-half-mill property tax cut (50 cents per $1,000 assessed property valuation) for the 1981 fiscal year.

However, homeowners can expect an increase in their tax bill because of a 23 percent jump in assessments caused by generally rising prices of homes.

Finance director Mike Gorman estimated that the owner of a home assessed at $25,000 would pay $281 more next year. By law, assessments are pegged at 50 percent of "true market value.

Township Board members are expected to set the millage rates for police, fire and the general fund at a regular meeting Tuesday night. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in Township Hall at Canton Center and Proctor.

Board members must approve budgets based on the millage rates by Oct. 31. By state law, municipalities must submit millage rates to county bureaus of taxation by Oct. 1.

ADMINISTRATORS have juggled the amounts of Canton's three millage rates in an effort to improve accounting procedures.

Last year, property owners paid 3.25 mills for police, five mills for general operations and 1.25 mills for fire protection. However, the equivalent of two mills ($653,000) was transferred from the general fund to the fire budget to meet actual costs.

This year, administrators have proposed the same 3.25 mills for police, three mills for general operations and 3.25 mills for fire protection.

This would end the necessity of transferring money from the general operating fund to the fire department and improve accounting procedures, Gorman said.

Board approval of the three administrative tax proposals would mean a net reduction of one-half mill for property owners.

The general fund budget proposal submitted by Supervisor Noel Culbert last week is based on revenues from 2½ mills. The tentative budget for general operations shows a $245,000 drop in revenues compared to the present budget.

GORMAN EXPECTS 1980 revenues to round out at $3.95 million by the end of the fiscal year, Dec. 31. The 1981 budget proposal, based on 2½ mills rather than 5 mills, anticipates revenues of $3.7 million.

Gorman attributes the small difference between 1980 revenues and 1981 predictions to an expected $1 million increase in Canton's share of state revenue-sharing funds, sales tax and other revenues from the state.

State revenues next year will be based on 1980 census figures. Tentative results of the population count put Canton's population at 48,000. The 1970 census, used to compute revenues during the last decade, showed a population of only 11,000.

The general fund budget proposal appears lower than last year's on the surface.

But Gorman admitted that more funds actually will be available for general operations, because no monies will be transferred to the fire department.

The general fund budget proposal contains no frills, said the finance director.

It allocates funds for the salaries of three new employees — an industrial coordinator, a secretary for the coordinator and a part-time aide for the grants department.

THE PROPOSAL earmarks only $88,000 for capital improvements next year. Gorman said the money could be used for miscellaneous needs.

The draft also allocates $250,000 to a new farmland preservation account. Last winter, board members resolved to establish the account for the future purchase of development rights.

The proposed 3.25-mill tax levies for police and fire would provide both those departments with a $1.3 million budget in 1981.

However, Police Chief Jerry Cox requested an additional three-quarter mill for police at a public hearing two weeks ago on the tax proposals.

Cox said his department desperately needs more staffing.

The 3.25-mill budget proposal would

Supervisor nominee touts slash in top job's salary

By ARLENE FUNKE

Does James Poole have a great idea, or is he trying to make political hay by proposing a cut in the supervisor's salary?

Poole, a Repubican candidate in the November election for township supervisor, thinks the $29,000 annual supervisor's salary is too high. The supervisor's salary will be hiked to $32,000 annually in December under action taken by the Township Board last winter.

Poole suggests a $7,000 salary slash effective Dec. 1.

However, state law forbids a pay cut for elected officials during their term of office.

The Township Board could adopt a resolution changing the pay scale for incoming officials, but that must be done at least 60 days prior to the election, said Robert Robinson of the Michigan Townships Association in Lansing.

Poole further wants the Township Board to hire a superintendent (manager) to handle day-to-day administrative duties. He proposes an additional cut in the supervisor's salary starting in June, provided a superintendent is hired.

Poole wants these issues to appear on the Nov. 4 ballot as a non-binding, "advisory question" for residents to decide. The deadline for submitting the question is Sept. 16, said deputy county clerk Orville Tungate.

The county clerk's office reviews and prepares all ballots.

Poole said his pension as a retired Air Force major is $15,000 a year — most of that non-taxable because he retired with a disability. He currently has income from real estate insurance sales and rental property.

He said he "can afford" to serve at a lower salary.

"It isn't subterfuge (and) I'm not promoting it," said Poole. "I'm just saying, 'Hey, people, what do you think?' "

Talk steps up on arson squad

Talk of creating a regional task force on arson has won the lukewarm blessing of elected officials in Canton.

Fire and police chiefs from Canton, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville and Northville Township have been discussing the idea of the task force since last spring.

Under tentative plans, a police officer and firefighter from each of the five communities would investigate suspected cases of arson.

According to Canton Police Chief Jerry Cox, only a handful of communities in Michigan currently investigate arson through that type of arragnement.

"We want police and fire people to get enough training so they can recognize arson," Cox explained. "The police academy doesn't teach anything about arson recognition. The fire department doesn't know anything about prosecution."

According to police statistics, 33 cases of suspected arson were reported in Canton last year. Most involved empty buildings or cars.

LAST WEEK, Cox and Fire Chief Mel Paulun asked the Township Board to approve the concept of establishing the regional force.

Cox said fire and police officials would like to formulate a plan for equipment, training and other matters.

"But going at it on our own without a commitment from our governing bodies would be rather presumptuous. We don't feel we can go into it deeper without a commitment from this board," he said.

Chiefs from the other communities plan to seek a similar commitment from their governing bodies, Cox said. Last week, the Plymouth City Commission approved a resolution supporting the concept. The resolution was submitted by police and fire chiefs involved in the talks.

But Canton board members expressed concern that the submitted resolution asked for a final commitment on establishing the group.

The resolution stated the communities' agreement to "aid each other by providing personnel, equipment and training."

Township Board members changed that wording to state their endorsement of only the planning stage. They emphasized that no funds have been committed and any definitive plans would have to win their approval.

"I don't want this to become a separate entity and then we have no fires. They might all be up in Plymouth and Northville," said Trustee Eugene Daley.

ALTHOUGH PLANS still are tentative, Cox assured the board that "we don't want to create a special team that won't do anthing else."

Paulun said 10 members of the fire department have volunteered to take arson training on their own time. Cox said training for police officers would proceed on the same basis.

According to Cox, the possibility of obtaining a federal or state grant for purposes of establishing the force is under investigation

Representatives of the communities involved in the arson talks met last spring to discuss construction of a unified courthouse for the 35th District.

Canton withdrew from those discussions after the four other communities proposed construction of a courthouse on Plymouth Road near Haggerty in the city of Plymouth.

The other communities have decided to proceed with those plans. Canton's courtroom is located in the basement of Township Hall.

Collectors keep old styles cruising

There was enough chrome plate parked on Buz Yount's lawn the other day to make even the most hardened viewer of car shows look twice.

And Dave Dershinski's spanking blue 1957 Chevy, ready to cruise down Woodward, was parked in Livonia next to Yount's lumbering bronze 1934 Ford.

Yount, Dershinski of Canton Township and Bob Glover of Livonia were among the members of the Road Knights, a vintage car collector's group, who exhibited their prized vehicles to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association recently in Farmington Hills.

The special interest auto show was sponsored by the Knights and Street Rods Limited, another speciality car club.Those clubs include car buffs from throughout the metropolitan area.

Ready to cruise down Woodward in his 1957 heavy Chevy is Dave Dershinski.

For the trio, the cars parked on the lawn were more than mechanical nuisances. The cars were pampered, repainted and reconditioned so the vintage stylings covered such contemporary conveniences as the air conditioning Yount installed in his running board-equipped Ford.

For Dershinski, the flashy blue Chevy is a part of his adolescence regained.

WHEN THE Ford Motor Co. laid him off last year, restoring the Chevy became more than a hobby. It almost took the place of a regular job.

During the six months he was unemployed, Dershinski pampered his Chevy back to vintage shape. Now he's looking for another challenge.

This time around he wants to acquire a car which captivated him during his teens, a 1933 coupe.

Dershinski, an admitted fan of Detroit's beleagured auto maker, says, "I like the Chrysler model better. It has a better body style."

At the moment he's toiling over a 1964 Plymouth — testimony to his affection for Chrysler. Within that six cylinder Plymouth is the Chrysler gadget of the mid-60s, the push-button transmission.

These projects take time, as Bob Glover's four years' work on his fenderless '28 Model A hiboy hot rod proves. That screaming yellow monster has a fiberglass body which graces the pages of national car magazines. Glover, obviously proud of his accomplsihment, also notes that the car has appeared in the Autorama show at Cobo Hall in Detroit.

SUCH DEDICATION to the job of restoring the cars to road quality has its own standards and problems, as the men will testify.

"I don't like having something like everybody else's got," Yount explained.

His 1934 sedan boasts air conditioning, a tilt wheel, stereo and new rear and front suspension systems.

Next on the agenda is to paint the car a dark blue or wine color depending on which color other members have managed to miss when they painted their cars recently.

The parts for cars long removed from the showrooms are found, bartered for, and the subject of some skillful wheeling and dealing. If all else fails, there are vintage car part swap meets and junk yards in remote rural towns.

On-the-road damage to the cars is protected by a variety of special insurance policies. Among them is the policy put out by the Michigan Street Rod Association. Owners evaluate their own cars and then set their policies on that basis.

For all their pains in the buying and caring of their cars, they've acquired their own brand of pride in ownership.

"Anybody can buy a vet. It takes a certain type of person to build their own car," said Glover.

Checking out his souped-up Model A Ford is owner Bob Glover.

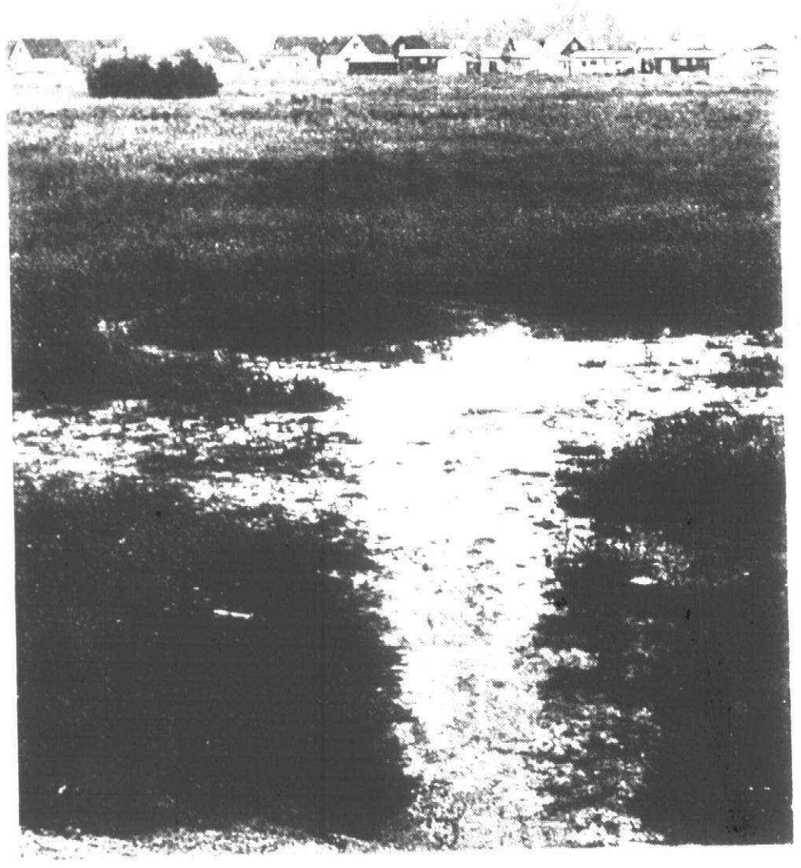

Homeowners eye school site for use as park

By ARLENE FUNKE

A 40-acre play field could be in the works near Lilley and Cherry Hill.

The Stonegate Homeowners Association has been talking with the parks and recreation department recently about a possible cooperative plan to set up ball diamonds and soccer fields on the east side of Lilley, south of Cherry Hill.

The land parcel is a vacant field owned by the Plymouth-Canton School District as a possible future site for a middle or senior high school. Nearby is Field Elementary.

It's an empty field now. But homeowners in Stonegate subdivision want to use the school-owned site for a park. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey.)

STILL TO BE determined are costs to grade and maintain the site and which group has liability in case of a lawsuit.

"The soccer association desperately needs fields," said Mike Gouin of the parks and recreation department. "The problem that we're going to have to look at is parking. Who is going to come up with a parking lot?

"There's no question we're going to have to check (liability)," added Gouin.

Any plan would have to be approved by the Township Board.

Gouin said it would cost an estimated $1,500 a year to mow the grass. Still undetermined is the cost of grading the field.

School Superintendent John Hoben said he wouldn't recommend that the school board approve any lease agreement because it is "plausible" the site will be used for a new school.

But Hoben said the land might be used temporarily for recreation.

"We're totaly overcrowded," said Hoben. "We're talking about renting space in Livonia.

"I can't speak for the board," he continued, "(but) as long as it's vacant, and as long as they aren't putting in a permanent building, I don't see any problem (in using the property)."

THERE ARE 289 houses in the Stonegate sub, said Thomas Rivard, secretary of the homeowners association. Members pay annual dues of $25.

It is important to know all sides of the issue, said Rivard.

"We originally proposed to lease it," said Rivard. "And we would be in charge — the homeowners."

Rivard said there now are two parks in the subdivision. The parks and recreation department provides some planned activities, such as arts and crafts.

"The problem, frankly, is they aren't physically equipped to play ball," said Rivard. "There isn't enough room.

"I think it's important to recognize that around this area there are three more subdivisions," added Rivard. "Those are quite large and could have access."

Curing business woes is goal of new committee

Berg — owner of Bart's Nursery on Michigan Avenue.

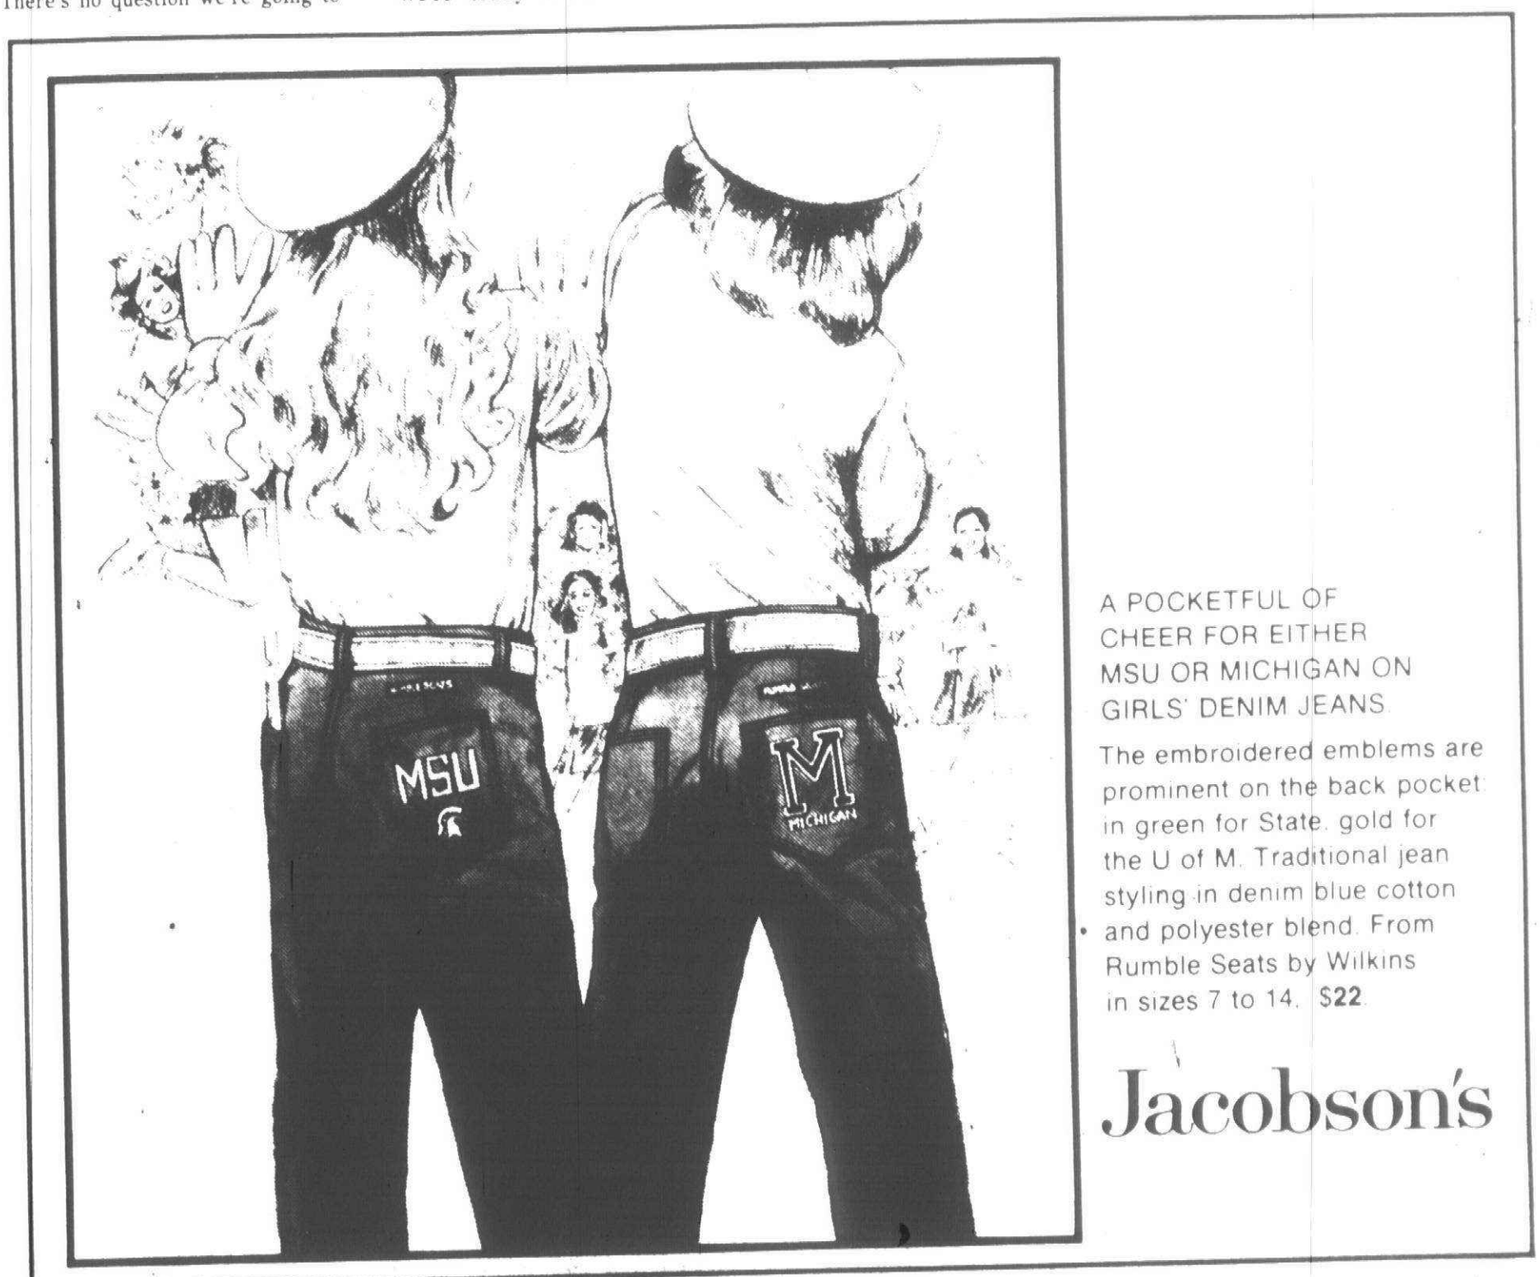

Both Culbert and McMurray agree that the agency should represent a cross-section of the community.

"I don't think we should dominate," McMurray said of the business community's representation. He emphasized that the Chamber of Commerce will take no official role in the agency other than "telling (people) to show up and explain or complain."

Culbert said the agency may be dissolved after it presents recommendations to the township board.

"I tend to think of it with a finite lifespan. But it could evolve into an ongoing thing."

"My intent is to take the politics out of it and let the people look at the business community's needs," he said.

Poole pushes manager form of government

fessional administrator (superintendent) could "change the destiny of the township."

CURRENT Supervisor Noel Culbert — who is running for re-election on the Democratic ticket — says he doesn't advocate a change in the current system and branded Poole's idea political.

"This issue has been around for a year," said Culbert. "I don't think the board is going to arbitrarily put it on the ballot just because Jim Poole, candidate, wants it."

Tungate said municipalities sometimes put advisory questions on the ballot to "read the pulse of the people.

"At this point, I see no problem as long as they meet the legal requirements of getting it in on time and the wording," said Tungate.

Poole's proposal is affected by state guidelines governing administrative duties and salaries of officials.

Poole believes that a superintendent, who would function similarly to a city manager in a city government, would lead to a "more professional administration." He said most superintendents have degrees in public administration and have been trained to deal with municipal issues.

"The point is that the superintendent is a hired manager," saio Poole. "A supervisor is elected. This allows the supervisor to respond to complaints of citizens.

"I want a committee set up to study the feasibility," added Poole. "The board can do what they want (but) at least you can ask the people how they feel, and that is what I'm asking."

THE SUPERINTENDENT issue came up in February, when a committee of residents and officials began studying whether Canton Township should take advantage of state charter township law which allows the appontment of a superintendent.

Members of the committee included Bart Berg, Robert Padget of the township planning commission, Eldon Johnson, school board member Flossie Tonda, Joyce Chumbley, Carl Schultz, Orren Hall and George Lawton.

Under the state Charter Township Act, a superintendent would be appointed by the township board of trustees and would attend board meetings but not vote. Culbert said no one has asked the board to take action on the superintendent issue, and the plan needs more study.

The Township Board includes salaries in its annual budget, which goes into effect Dec. 1. Preceding adoption of the budget, public hearings are held to give residents an opportunity to express their views.

"We (board of trustees) all voted unanimously last year that salaries be raised," noted Culbert. "This year I feel Poole is wasting his time."

Board to set millage rate

fund the promotion of five patrol officers to command posts in 1981, a new corporal position and two new cadet slots.

Cox said increasing the police tax to four mills would allow the hiring of 10 additional patrol officers.

Two weeks ago, at least some board members appeared in favor of granting the chief's request. Trustee Robert Greenstein suggesting hiking the police tax by three-quarter mill and lowering the general fund levy by a corresponding amount. At the time, the administrative proposal for a net, one-half-mill tax reduction had not been made.

The proposed $1.3 million fire budget includes a $50,000 line item for purchase of land. Fire Chief Mel Paulun maintains that a third fire station soon will be needed in Canton Township.

Last year, the fire department operated on a $1.1 million budget. The police department operated on a $1.2 million budget.

The bulk of revenues for both departments came from taxation money. However, the value of one mill has increased from $318,00 to $413,000 since last December's tax collection period because of the 23 percent hike in property assessments.

Both Paulun and Cox say the additional revenue will be eaten up by inflation.

Assessments are reviewed annually by Wayne County and the state of Michigan to see that they are in accord with state law which calls for property to be assessed at 50 percent of market value. The county applies a multiplying factor to all property in the community to try to ensure that assessments are at 50 perent..

Teen lands role in movie

this summer he introduced her to the casting director at Studio 12, Nancy Kelley. Studio 12 has handled the pre-production work for "Word of Honor," produced by former Detroit Lion Alex Karras.

Bonnie was among some 70 other would-be actresses to converge on Studio 12 this summer for a chance in the TV movie.

"So many of those girls got mad at me when I went for the interview because they had these $500 portfolios and I had nothing. But I didn't care."

And then she was called back for follow-up interviews.

"I was among six girls who were called back. They were all so beautiful, crowding around, checking out each others hair and smiles. I was so scared."

"I met Nancy Kelley and the film's director and they said I had natural talent. They loved me. They said I had something some girls have and some girls don't — the X-factor."

DESPITE THEIR encouragement that she continue in the field, Bonnie says she'll probably follow her parents advice and attend college next year.

1. A high voltage ignition system and an efficient combustion chamber means it'll start work when you do. Every time.
2. A "no-thumbs," fully automatic chain oiler lets you concentrate on cutting. Not oiling.
3. Hot chamber magnesium die-casting makes the housing tougher. And the whole saw lighter.
4. Balanced fuel and oil tank capacities keep you from having to refill one when there's still plenty in the other.
5. It's been designed to last at least twice as long as any other saw like it.
6. And by lasting twice as long, it'll really only cost about half as much.

Son pays tribute

Longtime chef at Hillside dies

By W.W. EDGAR

Brenton Crowthers, a former longtime Plymouth resident who established himself as one of the best known chefs in the state while serving in the kitchen at Hillside Inn for 30 years, died a week ago of a massive heart attack in Indian River, Mich.

Born in England in 1901, Crowthers spent most of his life in either the hot ovens of a bakery or supervising the the work in the kitchens where he was considered a master in preparing food.

Several years ago he survived a heart attack but last week the second jolt marked the end of a most colorful career.

AS A YOUNG MAN of 19 he had left his home in England to locate in Canada where he was introduced to the baking ovens at the famed Crissey Bakeries.

There he learned the trade as a baker. But he sought higher goals and finally was sponsored for entry into the United States.

Sponsored as a cook he joined the staff at the Detroit Yacht Club when the Belle Isle site was a hive of activity because of Gar Wood's famed Harmsworth Trophy victories with his fleet of Miss America speedboats.

It was while working there on one of the busy days that he met his wife, also a native of England, who had come to the United States after he did.

"We met in a very peculiar way," his widow said. "I also was working at the Yacht Club and this day I fell down a flight of cement steps. He was there to help me up. That was our first meeting and we had been sweethearts ever since."

The couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary sev eral months ago. Along with her Crowthers is survived by sons, Charles, George and Joseph.

DURING HIS TENURE as chef at Hillside Inn, Crowthers became a favorite of the Plymouth residents who dine out and over the 30 years of service he prepared the food for most of the diners in Plymouth.

No higher tribute could be paid to him than this note written by his son, Joe:

"A man who walked among us is gone. A man who was loved by all and loved all.

"A man with a gentle voice, twinkling eyes, and a warm smile that could reach in, touch and warm the coldest of hearts.

"A man who never met a stranger — a man who loved life, his family, his work. A man who gave me three things — love, roots and wings.

"We shall miss you, Brenton. We shall grieve, for we have truly lost a friend.

"Goodby, my friend.

"Goodby, my father."

BRENTON CROWTHER

Senior activity center to open

Beginning today a new activity center is available to senior citizens in the city of Plymouth.

The activity center is located in the basement of Tonquish Creek Manor — the senior citizen housing center located at 1160 Sheridan, Plymouth.

The center will be available from 10 a.m. to noon and from 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

A nutrition program meal will be served at noon and programs will be planned before and after lunch. Monthly schedules will be posted in the center and listed in the Golden Record, the senior citizen newsletter made available in city hall.

During the hours there activities are not scheduled, seniors are encouraged to use the room for cards, socializing, and similar activity.

The center will be open on a trial basis until December to see if a drop-in center is a needed program for senior citizens. The success of the activity center will depend on the amount of use by Plymouth seniors.

Persons wanting more information about the center may contact Traci Johnson, senior citizen coordinator, at 455-6620.

League to hear Marj Lansing

? The workings of the two-party system and the difficulties facing a third party candidate will be the topic of discussion at the Sept. 11 meeting of the League of Women of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi.

The speaker will be Marjorie Lansing, a political science professor at Eastern Michigan University who also is a member of the National Women's Political Caucus and a past delegate to the Democratic National Convention.

The general membership meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of West Middle School at 4401 W. Ann Arbor Trail.

Prospective League members may call Nancy White, president, at 453-1044, or Claudia Jacques, membership chairman, at 455-5676.

Will men's clubs join the 20th century?

It won't get as much ink or TV news time as the Republican Party withdrawing its support for the Equal Rights Amendment at its national convention in Detroit.

But recent actions in two suburbs will still continue to carry positive messages for those concerned with how we treat other human beings.

The first came when the Boys Club, based in Redford Township, agreed in an out-of-court settlement to admit a girl, Corina Maxam, now 17.

The case started three years ago when the girl, then 14, wanted to play ping-pong and do others of age want to do in a wholesome and supervised setting.

The Boys Club refused her membership, saying it won't admit girls because of its boys-only policy.

The club's policy, ridiculously out of date with the times, was challenged by the girl's parents in Wayne County Circuit Court.

She eventually won her point in the settlement.

The girl's victory in the court case means that about half of the persons in her age group can now play bumper pool and ping-pong with boys--hardly a serious threat to the macho leaders of the club.

ON AN ADULT level, the Garden City Business and Professional Women's Club disclosed that it will soon have its first man.

The man invited to join is Mayor Vincent Fordell who knows a little about the problems facing women in the world of work. He is a staff supervisor in Michigan Bell Telephone Co.'s personnel office.

Fordell noted that he might bring his own boss--a woman--to one of the BPW dinner membership meetings.

The women's group changed its membership policy to allow men this summer at its national convention.

NOW IT IS time for other male service clubs to join the 20th century (which will end in less than 20 years) and seriously consider letting women join their groups.

Women now make up just over half of the nation's workers and they fill many professional and business positions— not the traditional clerical jobs.

Service clubs are always looking for new members and opening the doors for women would be a positive step in improving human relations in the community.

Admittedly, most men's service clubs are bound by international membership rules.

When the New York Times hires a woman as sports editor (as it did several years ago) it's time for organizations to drop the artificial barriers and open its membership rolls to qualified persons regardless of sex.

Why is quality still an alien in auto plants?

Here is one car owner who was upset to read that General Motors was charged by the government with withholding information from buyers between 1975-80 about defective camshafts, transmissions and diesel fuel pumps.

Like most Americans, I had hoped that by 1979, or at the very least by 1980, those high in corporate headquarters would have seen the handwriting on the wall. And if life were an Horatio Alger story they would by now have mended their ways and decided to give the customers their best shot.

I see three big problems — engineering in the blueprint stage, life on the assembly line and an adversary relationship between employer and worker that has little to do with pay.

ENGINEERING has to top the list. I judge that from the fact that millions and millions of cars have been recalled. In 1979, 4.8 million vehicles were recalled. GM had 1.3 million recalls, and Ford had 1.2 million. About 225,000 Chryslers needed recalls, and 29,000 cars built by American Motors Corp.

Faulty engineering is the reason behind recalls. I once heard an auto mechanic say he wished the engineers would work in a repair shop for a while. They would find out how difficult it is to reach certain areas in need of fixing.

But various aspects of auto plant work must contribute, too.

Meet a couple of men who work on the assembly line.

One has the relatively simple task of wiping excess sealing material off the car body so paint can go on smoothly. He has about half a minute to do it. But to reach one spot he must stretch upward and backward. To reach the other it's downward and inward.

He can't always do it in the time allotted. Sometimes he must run after the vehicle. But that puts him behind with the next one, coming down the line with terrifying regularity. There is hardly time to rinse out his cloth.

Once in a while he skips a car.

The other man puts batteries into place and fastens two cables to them. However, the space for the battery is cluttered with wires when it comes to him. The only way he can complete his operation in the alloted time is to rip out the other wires to make a place for the battery.

The line is too fast, I decided. To test this theory, I asked a question of two UAW women, who work in different plants.

"Would the consumer profit from slowing down the line, so that cars could be assembled more carefully?"

One said "yes," because, at the present speed, inspectors in her plant do not always catch errors and fix them. The other replied "no," because she has confidence in her factory's inspection system.

BUT NOT ENOUGH attention has been given to the anger created by the frustrations of the line.

The man cleaning off the sealant hated the line. It never stopped. He couldn't even blow his nose. He couldn't do his job right.

The adversary relationship in factories is not always only between the company and union. It arises in situations like this when workers feel helpless about their inability to control their work life, to count for somthing.

The Wall Street Journal recently reported that an employee at Ford's plant in Mahwah, N.J. was fired for smashing his fist into a succession of car doors and denting them.

The article also said Ford was closing that plant and one of the reasons given was the poor quality of work.

I've heard a number of suggestions about improving the quality of life in factories in the hope of getting better workmanship.

Besides slowing the line, it has been recommended that car and worker be showered with more attention. Or maybe workers could switch around jobs within a small unit to get more variety.

LATELY I'VE SEEN some indications that the problem of a quality auto is getting some attention. I've read about innovative plans between the UAW and Ford and Chrysler. A pilot project at Ford gives a worker representative the right to stop the line if a defect is found on a vehicle. If the idea is successful, it will become more widespread.

At about the same time a Ford vice president implied there had been too great an emphasis on production at the sacrifice of quality. He indicated his company would not return to seven-day-a-week production that included three shifts.

Another important straw in the wind is at Chrysler. It is forming joint union-management inspection teams with the UAW in two of its plants. Workers will be allowed to point out engineering faults and defects in workmanship.

Perhaps at long last we're getting real commitment to quality on the part of both management and labor in the auto industry.

Until recently American car manufacturers had it all their way. Like the long, sleek gas guzzlers or lump them.

Now, faced by serious competition from abroad, they may not have to completely redesign the automobile. But they certainly will have to redesign their thinking about how to produce a good car.

Hooked on the electronic opiate?

"Television is a triumph of equipment over people. The minds that control it are so small you could put them in the navel of a flea and still have enough room beside them for a network of vice presidents' hearts." — Fred Allen

Jackie Klein

While glued to the boob tube for at least 20 hours watching Jerry Lewis's Labor Day Telethon and waiting for him to cry while he croaked "You'll Never Walk Alone," I though of television as an electronic opiate.

Between listening to Frank Sinatra and everyone else singing "New York, New York" and watching various Detroit celebrities get doused in dunk tanks for MD, I happened to come across a 1974 issue of the then Southfield Observer.

A letter to the editor from Lou LaRiche of Plymouth caught my eye. It was titled, "TV insults, bring back good ol' radio." LaRiche said he wanted a radio revival.

He was brought up on imagination, he wrote, and he's sorry most people today can't exercise their mental muscles because of the boob tube.

The golden age of radio and all its characters have gone by the wayside, he lamented. And he said he was glad nostalgia is trying to make a comeback.

"AS A KID, I hurried to finish my paper route to listen to 'Superman,' 'Jack Armstrong' and 'Captain Midnight,'" LaRiche wrote. "I wish I had all the decoder rings, pedometers and badges I sent away for. It was no rip off. Those pieces of nostalgia are worth hundreds of dollars today."

Winston Churchill once said there are three things he would never forget about America. They are the Rocky Mountains, the Statue of Liberty and "Amos n' Andy."

How about "Little Orphan Annie," "Fibber McGee and Molly," "Hermit's Cave," " Grand Central Station," "Flash Gordon, "Buck Rogers," "Tarzan," "Dick Tracy" and other radio greats?

"Our Gal Sunday" was on Monday through Fridays. Before each show, the announcer asked the same question: "Can this girl from a little mining town in the West find happiness as the wife of a wealthy and titled Englishman?" I hope so, but I'll never know for sure.

Then came television, the electronic opiate. Grown men fantasized they were the Lone Ranger mounted on a horse and commanding "Heigh-yo Silver." These viewers shot imaginary holes in the sofa with their restless guns. And when they were headin' for the last roundup, they probably wanted to be buried on the lone prairie with their television antennaes.

"IT WAS TUESDAY, Jan. 11. It was cool in Los Angeles. We were working the day watch out of forgery division. My partner is Frank Smith. The boss is Captain Welsh. My name's Friday. Just the facts, ma'm."

Do you remember Joe Friday, alias Jack Webb, another electronic fantasy? Do you recall when everybody loved Lucy, who displaced Milton Berle and Arthur Godfrey from top ratings? "The Honeymooners," "Our Miss Brooks," "I Remember Mama," "Ozzie and Harriet", "Burns and Allen" were all television legends.

LaRiche and I agree radio commercials were never like those on TV. LaRiche claims television hypes insult our intelligence.

"You have to ride a white horse to use Ajax," he wrote. "You don't dare squeeze the toilet paper. Did you ever see an arm pop out of a washing machine? Or how about your dog chasing a miniature horse and covered wagon through the kitchen and then disappearing into the cupboard.

"Peanut butter is sold by a gay Peter Pan who falls out of the window. One channel has its lead newscaster shooting up the wild west dressed in white and riding a white horse."

I'll go a step further. If you take them seriously, TV commercials can ruin your life.

Use "Soft and Dry" anti-perspirant, Gillette hair spray for the dry look and Pampers for your baby's dry custom-fitted bottoms. The wet head may be out along with damp armpits and soggy bottoms. But it's better than having all your skin scale off.

GIVE YOUR cold to Contac and watch your friends catch it anyway. Come home to the lemony freshness of Fab and your husband may walk out on you because you never gave him Nyquil when he had the sniffles.

Many an old maid is munching her way through a case of Certs waiting for a guy to kiss her once. In the meantime, she's gaining 10 pounds a week.

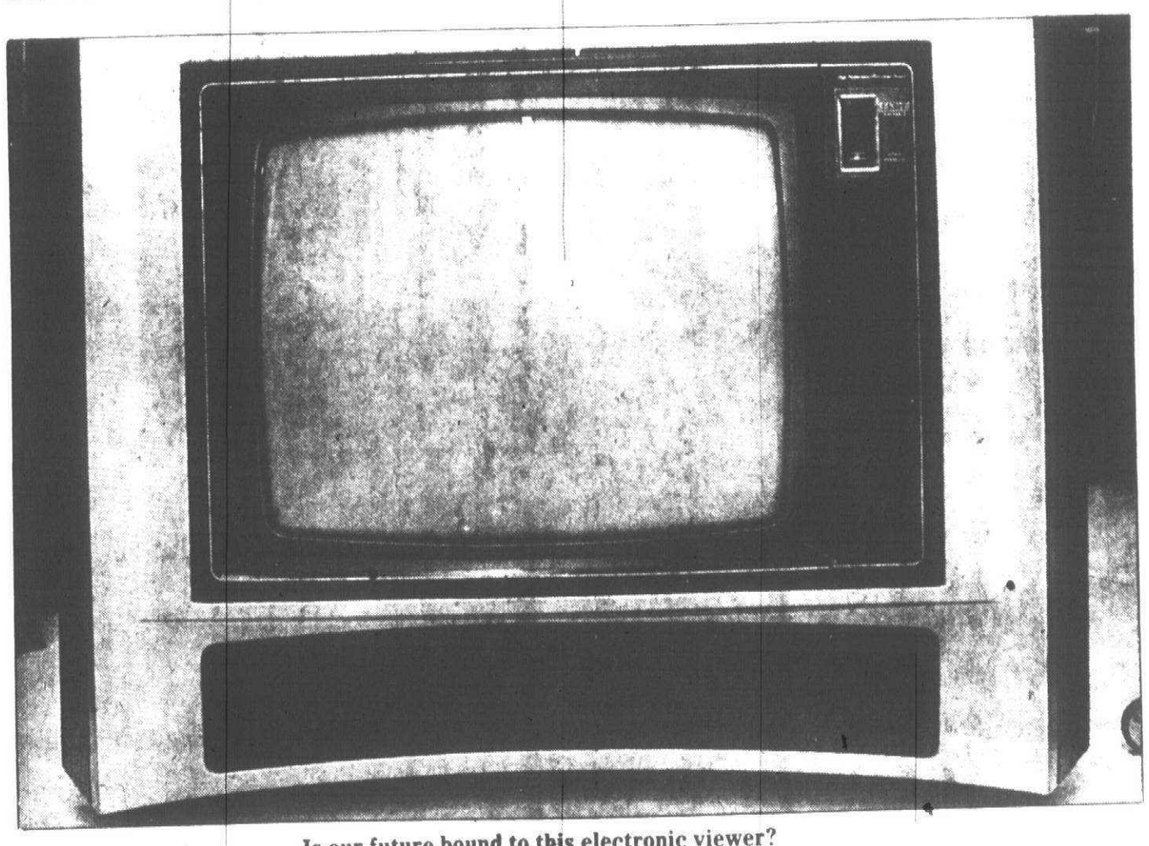

Think of all the lonely spinsters in the world going up and down elevators looking for guys to hand them a can of Alpo dog food. You see them hanging around laundromats expecting some dingbat to share a box of Tide.

They hover around supermarkets till the tall, dark, handsome man they saw on TV comes along to take their Clorox away. Their mothers probably never told them about Ultra-Brite toothpaste because they didn't think their daughters would be too appealing anyway.

It makes me want to cry, only I don't know if I should use Puffs or Kleenex Boutique with the green and yellow flowers. Maybe I'll take an Excedrin for my headache, a Repoz for my nerves or fix a quick Lipton chicken noodle Cup-a-Soup.

LaRiche says give him old time radio anytime. He's sick of all the explicit violence on TV anyway. As for me, I don't want to become addicted to the electronic opiate. So how come I watched the telethon for 20 hours and know so much about TV commercials?

Where do boob tube junkies go to take the cure? Maybe I'll call Dr. Marcus Welby or Trapper John who never lose patients on TV.

Is our future bound to this electronic viewer?

Poking at bubbles that cross in the mail

I don't ordinarily much mind the mail, but nowadays it seems each day's delivery brings stuff I don't want to see.

I get, for instance, a lot of deodorant samples. This makes me think the powers that be at Proctor and Gamble may be giving me a message. But they're out of luck — ever since almost a generation ago, when I first heard about American GIs getting blown away in Southeast Asia because they were tracked down by the clean smell of Brut, I've made a habit of avoiding the scent of anything but lighter fluid and Jim Beam.

But deodorant isn't all I get in the mail. Last week I got a shampoo sample guaranteed to leave my dry ends OK while my oily roots got clean as cucumbers. Since my hair won't grow longer than a dollar bill, it hardly seems important.

But I'll tell you the truth. I tried that shampoo and I liked it.

In my cheapest inner heart of my cheap soul, this only makes a bad situation worse. This is because I know that if I go to the store and buy a bottle of this shampoo, I'll be paying for it twice. Once for the bottle I buy, and once again for the bottle my next door neighbors got for free.

I'm not pleased at the thought.

You understand — there's no happiness to be found in the daily mail any more.

Worse, it's still summer and I can't expect my mail at the usual time. In January I can tell them at work that my car wouldn't start because my grandmother died, an excuse that gives me an extra 20 minutes so I can stick around and have a uniformed representative of the United States government drop the check I'm expecting in my mailbox. Those uniformed representatives tend to hustle right along when it's 10 degrees outside.

But last week I saw a guy with surfer-blond hair, cut-off jeans and a striped red-and-yellow shirt dropping off the shampoo samples. He looked like an exile from the Beach Boys, and he was delivering the mail six hours late.

THERE'S NO PERCENTAGE at all any more to the mail. I mean, I haven't even begun to talk about bill collector letters, although if you ever see the wallpaper in my bathroom you'll know all about them.

None of this was true when I was a kid. In those days, I looked forward to the mail for weeks at a time.

On the postage stamp-size comics that come with Bazooka bubble gum there are nearly always offers of cheap toys. I was a habitual orderer of these toys. I especially remember a toy ship, at which you fired toy torpedoes from a toy submarine. Hit the right part of the toy ship and the toy submarines' toy torpedoes would produce a pile of toy junk — easily assembled again into a toy ship.

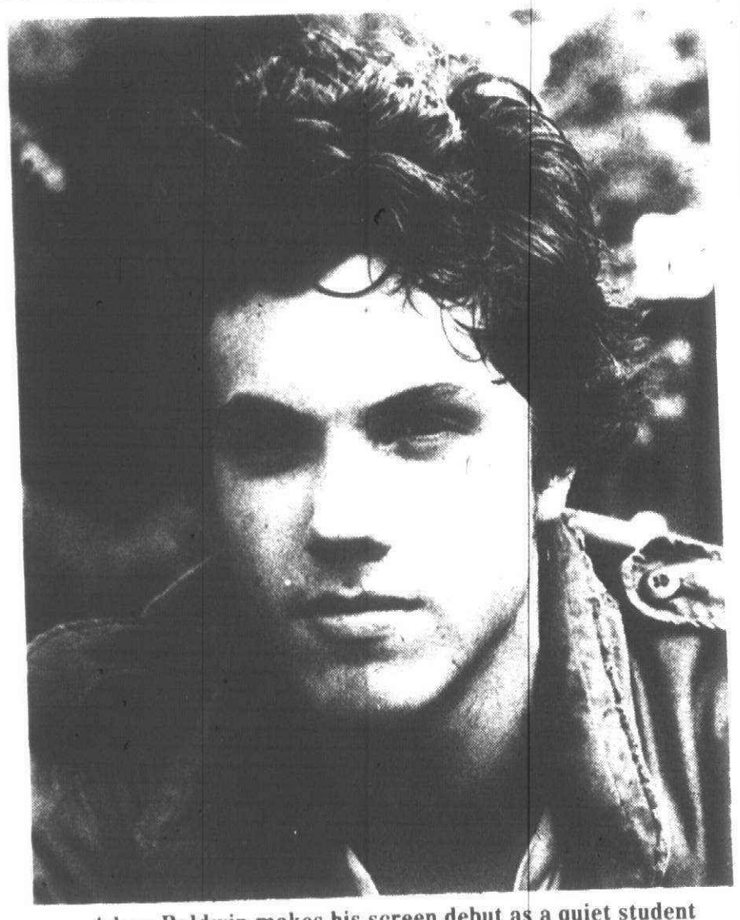

Mike Scanlon

Creative destruction — every boys' dream.

Later, I subscribed to magazines and looked forward to them. Now and then I'd order a fishing rod or a book or something and, just like the old days, the letter carrier would once again be my friend.

It's all different now. I pass my idle hours waiting for the guy in the red-and-yellow striped shirt and praying for labor disputes in the Postal Service.

O&E

Adam Baldwin makes his screen debut as a quiet student hiding a tragic secret in "My Bodyguard."

the movies

Louise Snider

'My Bodyguard' turns out to be a pleasing film

"My Bodyguard" (PG) is a low-key surprise for the moviegoer. The satisfaction is comparable to that which you get when you buy the no-name product in your supermarket and find it superior to the nationally advertised brand.

Such a mundane analogy is not far afield. Although "My Bodyguard" has nothing to do with supermarkets, it does have something to do with coping with the problems of daily living. In particular, it deals with the problem of a teen-ager in a large high school where a bully and his gang are operating.

The wide appeal of "My Bodyguard" is its connection with a common experience. Everyone at some time or another has been bullied and has dreamed of revenge. The film trades on that bit of wish fulfillment. It's the 97-pound weakling decking the brute, David socking it to Goliath.

Cliff Peache (Chris Makepeace), a new kid in school, is average in size but more than average in his sense of justice and his determination not to be pushed around.

MELVIN MOODY (Matt Dillon) is a teen tough who extorts $1 a day "protection" money from the students. Supposedly, he is protecting them from Ricky Linderman (Adam Baldwin), a big kid with a bad rep. In reality, $1 a day simply protects them from Moody and his goons.

When Cliff discovers that going to school is hazardous to his health, he finds his own protective vaccine. Big, silent, scary Ricky Linderman becomes his bodyguard.

The confrontations that ensue, the mystery about Linderman's background and the complications in Cliff's home life all add interest to a simple and amusing story.

Chris Makepeace conveys a very genuine warmth and naturalness as Cliff. Like John Ritter in "Hero at Large," he appears pleasing and ordinary but demonstrates extraordinary strength of character.

Matt Dillon is smooth and nasty as the student extortionist. His slicked down hair and DA cut look out of place in the contemporary setting, however.

NOTABLES IN THE CAST belong to Cliff's family and home environment. He lives in the Ambassador East hotel with his father (Martin Mull), who is the manager, and his grandmother (Ruth Gordon), who picks up men at the bar.

Craig Richard Nelson is an overly prim and proper assistant manager, and John Houseman makes a brief appearance as a hotel chain executive who comes to check up on the conduct of the little old lady hustling in the bar.

This points to the major flaw in the film, the split between the humorous but modest tone that surrounds the characters and events at school and the sitcom complexion of the goings on at the hotel.

The excesses of Ruth Gofdon are not cute, but vulgar and depressing. When she is off screen "My Bodygurad" generates a warm optimism and intimate charm.

what's at the movies

NEW RELEASES

AIRPLANE (PG). A picture that takes off. This spoof of all those "Airport" movies is one of the zaniest films around.

THE BLUE LAGOON (R). Lush photography but silly story of two shipwrecked youngsters who grow up uninhibited on tropic isle.

THE BLUES BROTHERS (R). A film that's as unoriginal and dreary as it is expensive (very) with one meatball scene after another and enough car crashes to make AAA go belly up.

BRUBAKER (R). Serious drama with Robert Redford as reform warden fighting corruption on state prison farm.

CADDYSHACK (R). Chevy Chase and other comics in misadventures of caddies at a stuffy country club.

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND (PG). Added footage and some judicious editing improve an already good product, Spielberg's sci-fi adventure of aliens contacting Earth.

DRESSED TO KILL (R). Horny murder mystery with more than a passing resemblance to Hitchcock's "Psycho."

THE EMPIRE STRIKES BACK (PG). "Star Wars" sequel unites original cast in continuation of battle against the evil empire.

FAME (R). Lots of young talent in vibrant musical about students at New York's School of Performing Arts.

THE FIENDISH PLOT OF DR. FU MANCHU (PG). Not very funny or very fiendish, but Peter Sellers' last film does include an occasional flash of comic genius that reminds us of what a gifted actor he was.

Calling all mutts

Opera seeks stage-struck pooch

Michigan Opera Theater is looking for a lazy dog to star in its upcoming production of "Of Mice and Men," an opera based on the John Steinbeck play.

"Nothing cute, and no poodles," says Dwight Bowes, MOT's director of productions. "We need an old bunkhouse mutt — mixed breed, mangy, docile and on his last legs.

"He has to lie quietly under a bed throughout the opera's second act, and he is not to join in the boisterous singing around him. In fact, ad libs of any kind will be frowned on."

The chosen dog will be needed for rehearsals beginning Sept. 19, and for performances Sept. 26 and 28 and Oct. 1, 3 and 4. wants to make a dog a star.

Dog auditions will be held Thursday. For an appointment, call 963-3717.

While MOT will pay a small stipend to the chosen dog, Bowes suggests the primary benefit will be in the animal's career development.

"It will look terrific on a resume," he says.

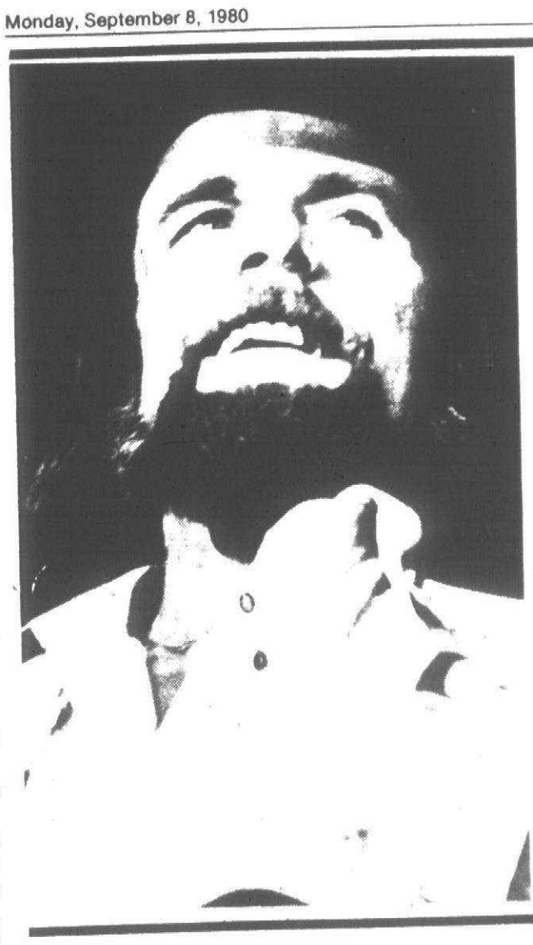

Folk opera at the institute

"Dance for a Minotaur," billed as a contemporary folk opera, will be performed at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium.

The event, which combines music, dance and drama, involves personnel of three participating dance companies which have joined for this project under the name Jacara Production Company. Appearing with them will be the Pastiche Wind Quintet.

Tickets are $4, available at the Art Institute ticket office and at the door.

Support for this event, which sets out to prove that local artists don't need to go to other cities to perform, came from Michigan Council for the Arts, National Endowment for the Arts and the Artist Guild of Detroit.

On stage

Country singer Johnny Paycheck, best known for his rousing "Take This Job and Shove It," will perform at 9 p.m. Wednesday at Harpo's Lounge, 14238 Harper in Detroit. Tickets are $7 in advance at Harpo's and Dearborn Music, or $8 at the door. Doors open at 8 p.m. For more information, call 823-6400.

Nature hike at park

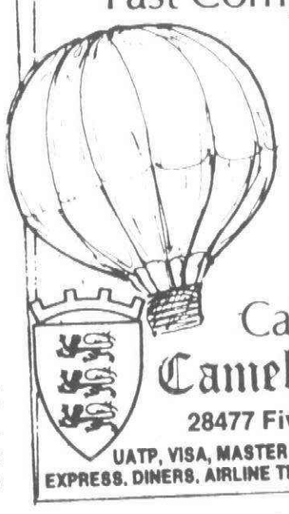

A two-hour evening nature hike will start at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Naturalist Gordon Lonie will lead the walk at what is considered one of the best times of day to observe animals and to hear the sounds of birds and insects.

Advance registration is required by calling the nature center at 685-1561.

Participation is free, although a vehicle entry permit is required for entry to the park. Permits cost $7 annually, or $2 daily.

We're the best kept secret in Detroit!

Although there's nothing secretive about being the 4th largest pizza company in the country, (in terms of pizza sales) we've grown so fast, at a rate of over 40% each year, that many people still may not know about us.

When they find out that by investing $9,500 cash (our total franchise fee) and by qualifying for financing of $40,000 to $50,000 they may be eligible for a Domino's Pizza franchise, they want to know more!

They are surprised to find that a franchise relationship with Domino's Pizza includes a professional training program, advertising expertise, site selection and store opening assistance.

We have over 300 stores located in 30 states and are now going international. We're a secret you don't have to keep to yourself!

PIES: LABOR-SAVING FINALES

(Top) Raspberry Ripple Pie. (Center) Banana Orange Pie. (Bottom) Strawberry Peach Pie.

Whether it is a dessert for bridge club, a dish to pass at a picnic or pot-luck dinner, or a dessert buffet, these pies are for you.

Preparation time can be streamlined with a trio of distinctive pies that are light yet satisfying, beautiful to look at, and deceptively easy to make. Most impressive, of course, is the high and handsome volume of these pies. The prepared whipped topping adds volume to the mixtures when it is whipped with instant pudding and pie filling right from the package.

Revel in the fact that these pies are the epitome of convenience. They either wait in the freezer or are kept chilled until near serving time. Each recipe calls for two envelopes of whipped topping mix and two packages of vanilla flavor instant pudding and pie filling which, incidentally, may be in your current inventory. Fresh, frozen and canned fruits add flavor and texture variety when folded into mixtures.

There is the marbling of frozen raspberries in a raspberry ripple pie. This, the result of zigzagging a spatula through alternate layers of berries and a pudding whipped topping mixture.

Tart canned mandarin oranges and fresh banana complement the pudding-whipped topping mixture in a banana orange pie. This chilled dessert welcomes fruit garnish along with refreshing mint leaves.

A merger of fresh strawberries and blushing ripe peaches creates taste excitement in a starwberry peach pie. Happily, canned peaches c can be used just as deliciously.

For those "strawberries only" enthusiasts, try strawberry pie (not shown in photograph). What could be simpler than to spoon a pudding-whipped topping mixture over whole strawberries resting in a pie shell, then chilled.

The taste of summer can be extended to the full year through all the seasons with these light fruit pies.

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

Break out of the dull brown bag lunch routine

I attended a parochial elementary school. The nuns ran the school on the assumption that we were there for one purpose only — to learn. Consequently, we were denied many of the frills enjoyed by children attending the public schools.

One of those frills was a cafeteria. We ate at our desks, in silence. Milk was delivered first thing in the morning and left to sit in the halls for the four hours until lunch. At some point near the end of my academic career there, technology or the health department caught up with the school and milk machines were installed. No more souring, warm milk! Now it was frozen instead.

My sister, Maureen, ate the same lunch every day for all eight years of elementary school — a dry raspberry jam sandwich. My husband recalls eating the same lunch for an entire year in high school — three peanut butter sandwiches and two cartons of chocolate milk. Children like to eat like that. It must give them a sense of order and predictability.

As most children pass into adulthood, however, their palates expand as they seek a balance between variety and security in their food. Many adults, though, never expand their repertoires of brown-bag lunches beyond the level established when they were between the ages of 10 and 12.

For those ready to break out of that mold, a selection of sandwiches suitable for packing:

SWISS - BEAN SPROUT SANDWICH

2 slices pumpernickel bread
2 slices Swiss cheese
2 or 3 large, fresh, spinach leaves, rinsed well and patted dry
2 slices tomato
1 thick slice red onion, separated into rings
½ cupp alfalfa sprouts
1 tbsp. minced red onion
1 tbsp. mayonnaise

Layer the cheese, spinach leaves, tomato, and onion rings on one slice of the bread. Combine alfalfa sprout sprouts, minced onion, and mayonnaise. Distribute over the top of the layered cheese and vegetables. Top with the remaining slice of bread. Makes 1 sandwich.

CHEDDAR - VEGETABLE SANDWICHES

8 slices whole wheat bread
½ cup chopped cabbage
¼ cup minced carrot
3 oz. Cheddar cheese, cut into ½-inch cubes
1½ tbsp. mayonnaise
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. prepared mustard

Combine cabbage, carrot, cheese, mayonnaise, salt and mustard. Spread on four slices of the bread. Top with the remaining four slices. Makes 4 sandwiches

CHICKPEA SANDWICHES

12 slices whole wheat bread
1 can (15½ oz.) chickpeas, drained and chopped
⅓ cup chopped green onion
3 tbsp. mayonnaise
1 tbsp. lemon juice
1½ tsp. dried basil
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. freshly ground black pepper
lettuce leaves
1 can (16 oz.) bean sprouts, well-drained
12 tomato slices
Seasoned salt to taste
Seasoned pepper or lemon-pepper marinade to taste

Combine chickpeas, green onion, mayonnaise, lemon juice, basil, salt and pepper. Place lettuce leaves on six slices of the bread. Top with the chickpea mixture, bean sprouts, and two tomato slices per sandwhich. Close the sandwiches with the remaining six slices of bread. Makes 6 sandwiches (from The Encyclopedia of Nutrition and Cooking by the Culinary Arts Institute).

PAN BAGNAT

4 round hard rolls or miniature French rolls
Olive oil
1 garlic clove, halved
1 large tomato, thinly sliced
1 medium green pepper, cut into rings
12 black, oil-cured olives, pitted and halved
1 small red onion, thinly sliced
2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 can (6½ oz.) white tuna, drained
4 radishes, thinly sliced
4 anchovy fillets
Red wine vinegar
Freshly ground black pepper

Cut rolls in half horizontally. Using a fork, pull out some of the soft interior. Brush the inside of the bread with the olive oil. Rub the cut surface of the garlic over the oil. Layer the bottom halves of the rolls with the tomato slices, green pepper, olives, onion, eggs, tuna, radishes, and anchovies. Sprinkle vinegar over the top. Finish with a few grinds of black pepper. Close with the tops of the rolls. Refrigerate until serving time. Makes 4 sandwiches (from The Great Sandwich Book by Anita Borghese).

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

Salad combines tender seafood and vegetables

There are still many warm days when a cool summer salad is just the thing for a refreshing lunch or dinner. Tender seafood and fresh vegetables shine in these easy-to-prepare meals.

The Far Eastern Salad below combines rice, anchovies, scallions, pimiento and tomato tossed together in an unusual and filling combination. Since anchovy for some is an acquired taste, you might like to try substituting coarsely chopped shrimp, chunks of cooked fish, or even chunks of roast pork.

Fresh vegetables purchased this morning from your local supermarket or vegetable stand can star tonight in a Red and Green Salad that highlights the bright colors and tastes of a summer garden.

Both of these salads are tossed with their own vinaigrette style dressing, which is made at the same time.

FAR EASTERN SALAD
Serves 4

½ cup raw long grain white rice, boiled, drained and cooled
1 6-oz. can flat anchovy fillets, drained, rinsed under cold water and coarsely chopped
½ cup finely chopped pimiento
1 firm ripe tomato, sliced ¼ inch thick and cut into ¼-inch dice
2 tbsp. red wine vinegar
½ tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. salt
Freshly ground black pepper
6 tbsp. olive oil
Chilled crisp lettuce leaves

Put the rice, chopped anchovies (or other seafood), scallions, pimiento and tomato in a serving bowl and toss together with a fork.

With a wire whisk, beat the vinegar, mustard, salt and a few grindings of pepper in a small bowl until the mustard has dissolved. Add the oil gradually and continue to beat until the dressing is smooth and thick. Taste for seasoning. Pour the dressing over the rice mixture and stir with a fork until the ingredients are well combined. Serve on lettuce leaves.

RED AND GREEN SALAD

1½ tsp. salt
1 lb. fresh green string beans, trimmed and washed
2 tbsp. red wine vinegar
½ tsp. dry mustard
Freshly ground black pepper
½ cup olive oil
12 firm ripe cherry tomatoes
1 large red onion, peeled and cut crosswise into ⅛-inch thick slices and separated into rings

Bring three quarts of water and ½ teaspoon of salt to a boil in a large enameled or stainless steel pan. Drop in the beans and boil briskly, uncovered, for about 10 minutes, or until they are tender but still slightly resistant to the bite. Drain the beans and transfer them to a serving bowl.

With a wire whisk, beat the vinegar, remaining salt, mustard and pepper together in a small bowl. Still whisking, slowly pour in the oil. Continue to whisk until the mixture is smooth. Pour the dressing over the beans, and add the tomatoes and onions. Toss the ingredients together lightly with a wooden spoon, then cover the bowl with a plastic wrap and refrigerate for at least 2 hours before serving.

SAUTEED TOMATOES

Dip firm tomato slices into slightly beaten egg, then into fine cracker crumbs. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Brown on both sides in hot melted butter in a heavy skillet, about 10 minutes. Note that butter burns easily, so "hot" would be in a lower temperature range.

STEWED TOMATOES

4 lbs. tomatoes
4 tsp. butter
Salt and freshly ground pepper
1 tsp. or more sugar

Peel tomatoes and cook slowly in a heavy skillet, covered, with the butter until they begin to break up. Add the salt and sugar and cook until the mixture is well blended, about 10 minutes. Add salt and sugar if needed. Serve with additional butter, if preferred.

Letters and recipes are welcomed and should be addressed to Vivian Byrd, P.O. Box 1024, Birmingham, 48012.

Beef and pineapple curry with rice

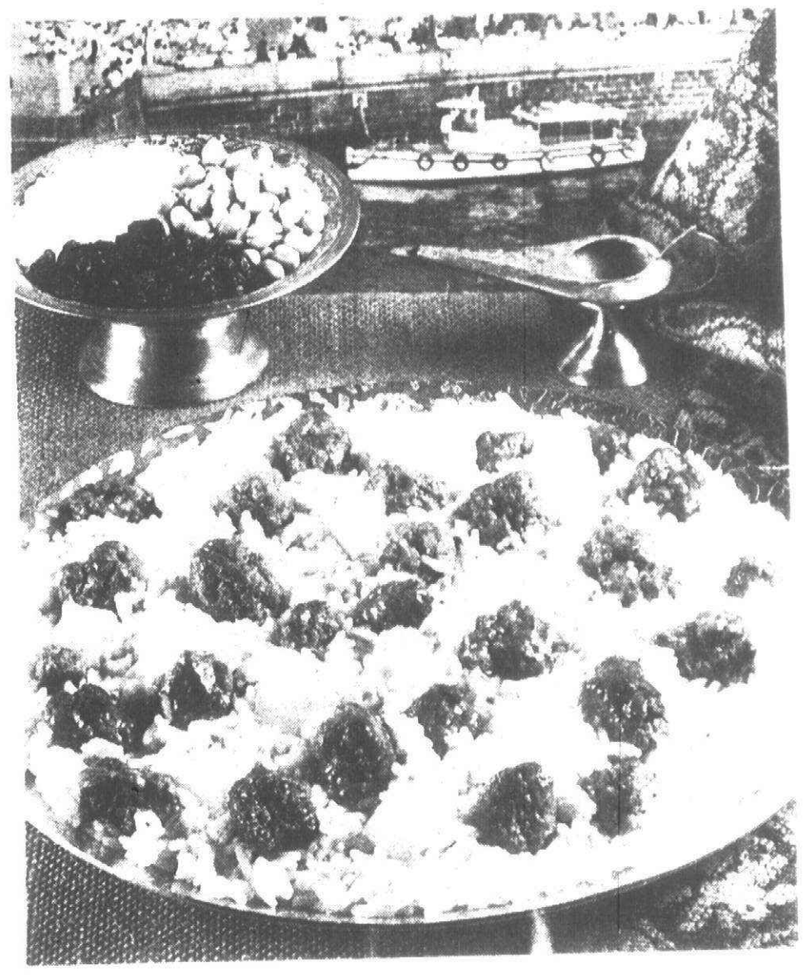

There's a hint of the far East in this curried beef and pineapple dish. Since the ground beef in this recipe is browned and the drippings poured off, any ground beef can be used.

However, it will be most economical to choose beef with a lower percentage of lean.

CURRIED BEEF AND PINEAPPLE

1 lb. ground beef
1 medium onion, halved lengthwise and sliced
2 tsp. cornstarch
1½ tsp. salt
1 to 2 tsp. curry powder
⅛ tsp. ginger
1 can (8 ounces) pineapple chunks in juice
2 cups hot cooked rice

Brown beef and onion in large frying pan; pour off drippings. Combine cornstarch, salt, curry powder and ginger; sprinkle over meat and stir. Drain pineapple into 1-cup measure. Add enough water to juice to make ¾ cup liquid. Stir pineapple liquid and pineapple chunks into meat. Cook slowly, 5 to 6 minutes or until thickened. Fold hot rice into meat mixture. Makes four servings.

Here's a fast food that's good for you

If your lifestyle has prompted you to abandon the three-meal-a-day routine, you are not alone. Snacking is not necessarily a bad habit to be broken, but one that can easily tip the nutritional balance.

These crunchy Peanut Butter Crisps, with a glass of skim milk are a mini-meal, high in protein, minerals and vitamins. They make a good snack choice, or lunch box treat.

PEANUT BUTTER CRISPS

3 cups quick cooking oats
¾ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
½ tsp. salt
½ cup margarine
1 cup creamy peanut butter

Thoroughly combine oats, sugar and salt. Set aside. In a small saucepan melt margarine. Add to oat mixture and mix well. Firmly pack ½ of mixture into a 11x7-inch baking pan.

Melt peanut butter. Spread over oats. Cover with remaining oat mixture, packing gently.

Bake at 350 degrees 25 to 30 minutes. Let cool almost completely before cutting. Makes 18 squares.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

THE OLD SAW, "Penny wise and pound foolish," was rather forcibly brought to mind on the Thursday evening of the Fall Festival.

After driving round and round the parking lot behind the Penn Theater, looking for a parking place, I gave up and parked by the fence at the rear entry of the library. My mission was to save 15 cents by returning some library books. The $5 parking ticket that was awaiting me when I dashed out to the car made for some pretty poor arithmetic.

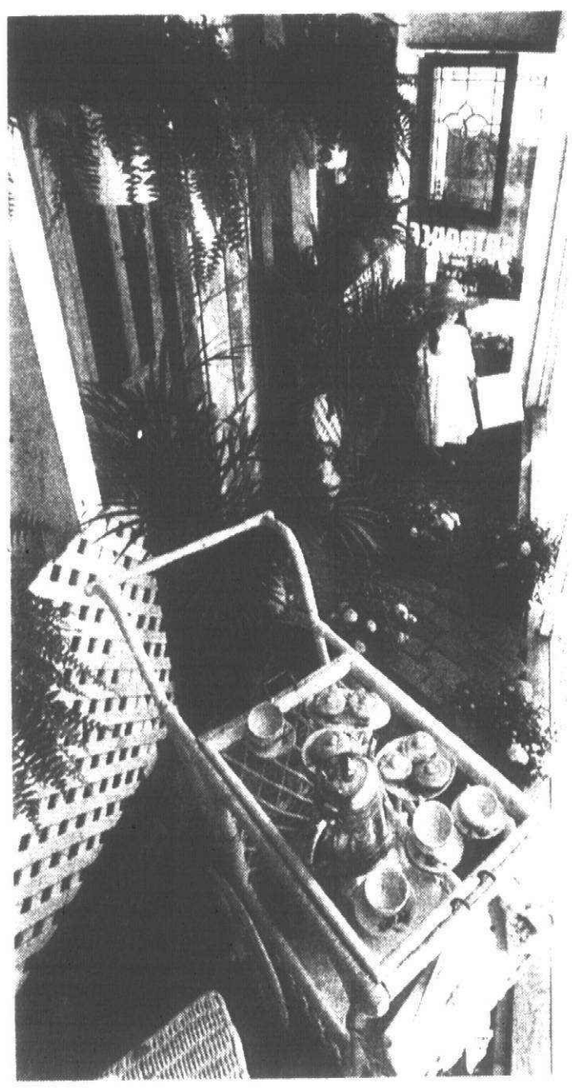

AND NOW THAT THE Fall Festival is over, next big item on the city's agenda is the Fowl Festival.

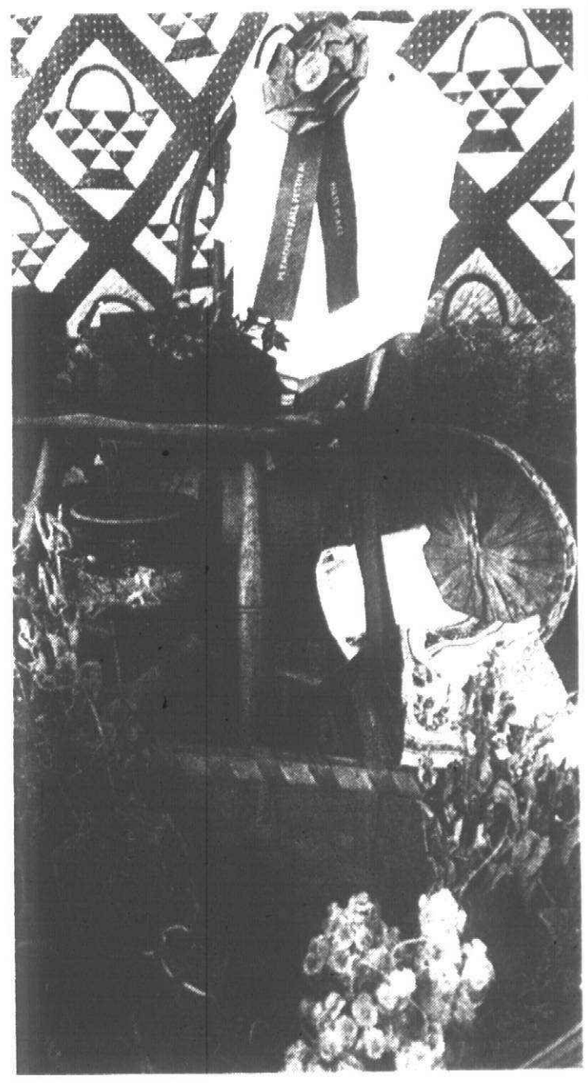

City Manager Henry Graper has had some difficulty differentiating between the two. Earlier, Henry reported that the Chamber of Commerce was seeking permission for a beer tent for the Fall Festival. Later he discovered that the C-C actually wanted permission for a beer tent for the Fowl Festival.

Last Tuesday he apologized for confusing the two wingdings and made it clear that it was his mistake, not the Chamber's. He later was heard to think out loud that it might be better to call the October event simply a Chicken Flying Contest.

Meanwhile, the City Commission tabled the Chamber's request for a beer tent, even after it became clear which festival was intended.

Festival windows

Elise Murphy (from left), Fred Eisenlord and Joan Englehart made the rounds Thursday judging the store windows decorated for the Fall Festival. Winners were Emma's Restaurant and, in the garden club division, the Pilgrim Garden Club for decorating Community Pharmacy window. The Plymouth branch of the National Farm and Garden Association came in second for their old-fashioned garden scene in John Smith's window. For windows decorated by an individual, the Willow Tree window by Serapha Moore and Sherwin Williams tied for second. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

THE NEW COURTHOUSE being built by the city of Plymouth is going to be named the Dunbar Davis Hall of Justice 35th District Court, according to announcement made by Mayor Mary Childs. The city will let the project out for bids soon and hopes to have it completed by next spring.

Naming the courthouse after Judge Davis is a fine idea. I have just one worry. With Alex Karras coming to town to make his movie, he'll probably take one look at the photogenic judge and that will be the last we'll see of him. Alex will entice him away to Hollywood and in the years to come strangers will ask, "How come you named your Hall of Justice after a movie star?"

We'll have to keep the judge out of sight while the film crews are in town.

DORYL HODGINS, a French teacher at Plymouth Salem High School, attended a month-long Foreign Language Institute at Purdue University this summer.

The intensive session was funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities, which provided Purdue with a $225,000 grant. Major goals of the project, according to Purdue professor Joseph Wipf who headed the session, were to "increase the teachers' knowledge of the foreign culture they teach, to improve fluency in their languages and to update teaching techniques."

Teachers from Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Michigan and Wisconsin participated in the workshop.

WINNERS AT the Wednesday daytime duplicate bridge session at the Plymouth Cultural Center were east-west, first, Helen McGee and Betty Maloney; second, Cissy King and Frank Wright. For north-south, Marge LeFevre and Marion Cline were first and Juanita Fenkel and Sue Griebel were second.

Gabi Ideh and Jerry Cohn were high for east-west at the Tuesday night duplicate play. Al and Madeline Short were second.

North-south winners were Clarise Gordon and Joan Lundy with Jim and Evelyn White coming in second.

Because of the antique dealers moving in for the Symphony League antique mart, the Thursday daytime party bridge games were canceled.

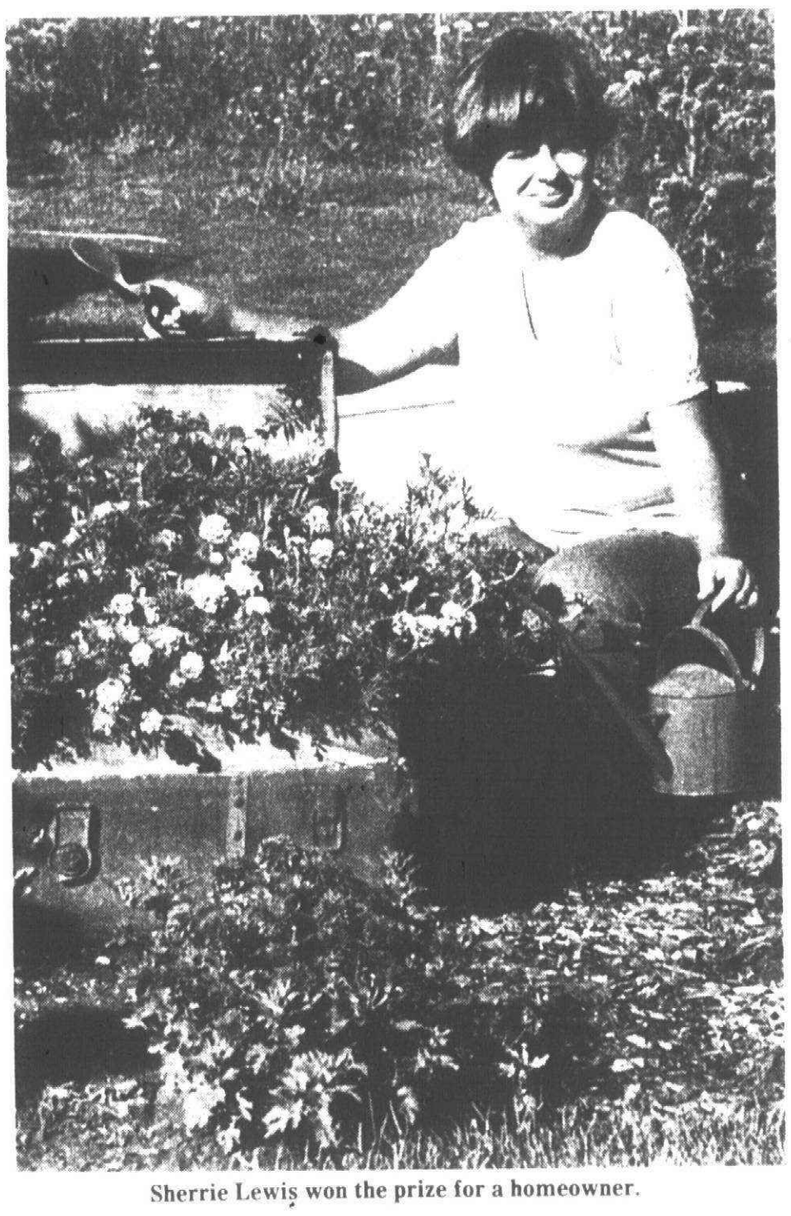

"HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Us" is the title of the 20th anniversary celebration planned by the Lake Pointe branch Women's National Farm and Garden Association.

The party will begin at 7:45 p.m. Thursday in the library of Farrand Elementary School. Mary Ellen Gibbons is chairing the event. Co-hostesses are Jean McAllister, Betty Dempsey and Marian Burke.

Kim Kepler will talk about "This Year at Higgins Lake" and there will be a house plant exchange.

Happy birthday, ladies.

WHEN FALL FESTIVAL rolls around, it marks an anniversary for the Childbirth and Family Resource Center on Penniman Avenue.

Sherrie Lewis won the prize for a homeowner.

Winning gardeners named

For the first time in its 25-year history, the Plymouth Fall Festival has a floral theme. Marigolds were chosen as the official festival bloom and homeowners and businessmen have been urged to use the plants prolifically in their garden and landscaping.

Judges Tiv Balogh, Jim Anulewicz, Erick Carne and Harriet Ward were appointed to decide who would earn the ribbons. They made the rounds last week and Bob and Sherri Lewis were named winners for a private home. Doug Swatosh of Doug's Standard Service on the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Maun Street was first prize winner in the commercial category.

The Lewises live on Glenview in Plymouth Township. Todd Kananen of 543 Hartsough, Plymouth came in second and the David Balfours of Mellowwood Court, Plymouth Township were third.

Honorable mentions went to the Kenneth McMullens, 184 Caster; Ernest Koi, 14411 Elm, Oakhaven Trailer Court, Plymouth Township; and Connie Fitzner, 1150 Roosevelt, Plymouth.

The Community Crier received an honorable mention in the commercial division.

James Sockolosky and his neighbors on the Brookside cul de sac in Plymouth Township were given a first place ribbon for a group effort. Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church on Penniman Avenue we an honorable mention.

Doug Swatosh (left) won a first place ribbon for commercial gardener at Doug's Service Station. He gave credit to Ralph Davidson who faithfully watered the redwood boxes of marigolds on the gas pumps. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Churches plan Canton survey

Three Canton Township churches are planning a survey of selected Canton neighborhoods in an effort to understand the particular needs of the community.

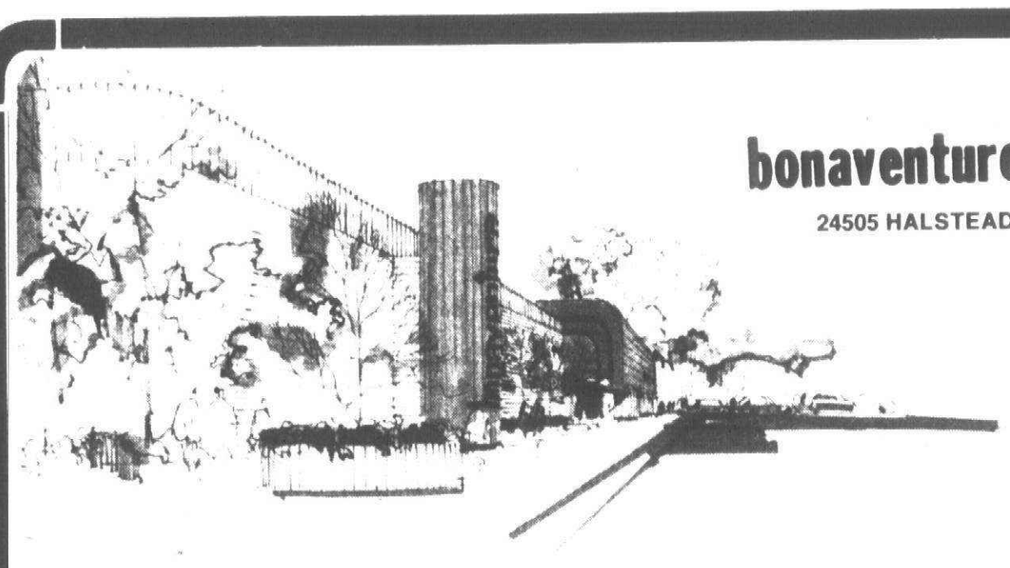

Faith community Church, People's Church and St. Michael Lutheran Church are joining forces in the ecumenical surveys Saturday afternoons Sept. 13 and 20.

The Rev. Kathy Batell, assistant pastor at St. Michael, initiated and organized the planning of the survey effort. Participating in the planning was a committee of lay and clergy representatives from each of the three churches. Clergy involved were the Rev. Harvey Henevald and Intern Paul Hansen from People's Church, and the Rev. Darryl Bell and Intern Ron Baard from Faith Community Church.

Teams of representatives from the three churches make the personal contacts in the selected neighborhoods. Callers will ask the residents to respond to a few brief questions designed to help the churches define community needs. The churches hope to develop future programs to serve the needs revealed by the survey.

A packet containing information on all three churches will be left at the homes surveyed. Results of the survey will be tabulated and made available to the public.

The hope of the three churches involved is that this effort is only the beginning of an ecumenical spirit that will continue to grow by expanding to include other area churches

Knupp-Haley

Louanne Gaye Haley and Craig Bryon Knupp were married in Central Baptist Temple in Plymouth on the the 22nd anniversary of the wedding of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haley. Dr. Stan Jenkins officiated. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krupp of Highland.

The bride wore a white chiffon gown with a lace overlay. Her white derby hat had a large white rose in back and floor-length veiling. She carried red, white and pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath. The white lace fan in the bouquet was a gift from her Grandmother Diedrick. Michelle King was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lisa Knupp, Debbie Bush and Darla Keefer. Ruthann Haley, the bride's sister, was junior bridesmaid. They wore dusty rose gowns with qiana skirts, lace bodices and sleeves and they carried bouquets of pink carnations and red sweetheart roses.

Katy Hinote was flower girl and Eric Smith was ringbearer.

Randy Knupp was best man. Groomsmen were Jaime Haley, Ron Joslyn and Mike Sagers. Following a wedding reception in the church fellowship hall, the couple honeymooned in the Pocono Mountains. They are living in Plymouth.

The bride is the director of the child care center at Central Baptist Schools in Plymouth. Her husband is employed by Chemical Systems in Livonia and is a volunteer firefighter for Plymouth Township.

Shovelful of memories from Cape Breton pits

Miles McCabe is a part of the people experience, a sturdy smile-eyed man who worked 47 years in the coal mines of Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia.

McCabe started in the mines at age 13 and retired in 1969. Nowadays, he is one of many retired miners who work as tour guides in the Glace Bay Miners Museum, a few miles from Sydney, Nova Scotia. The red brick museum fronted by an old mine wheel and two old coal carts, is adjacent to a restored village of gray board houses and an excellent museum restaurant.

Guides like McCabe take you through the museum exhibits for 50 cents or on a $2 tour of a mine built specifically for this purpose. This was never a working mine, but it was built by real miners to emulate one. They dug out several thousand tons of coal to re-create an authentic mine setting.

MEN LIKE MILES know exactly what they are talking about when they lead you level by level down a 6-foot-high seam of coal that extends at least 20 miles under the sea.

"My father started in the mines in England at age nine," Miles said. "In England he worked a seam that was only 18 inches high, so he always worked lying down. Here he worked on a six-foot seam, so he could stand up."

McCabe started at a beginner's job: opening the doors underground to let the horsedrawn coal carts pass through.

"On a six-foot seam we use horses and on a three-foot seam, we use ponies," he said. "They spent their lives underground, sometimes six miles down the shaft from the surface."

The horses were fed and shoed and lived underground in their own movable stables. As the seam was worked further underground, the horses and their stables were moved to new locations.

THEY NEVER saw the light of day until 1942, when miners were given vacations for the first time. Those were war years. A miner's job was frozen because he was an essential worker in the war effort, but he finally got a week's vacation.

The horses were brought to the surface and were blinded by the light for the first half-hour. Then they began to go crazy with pleasure, running around the fields in their new-found environment. They didn't want to go below when the time came. They had to be blindfolded and led into the shaft and were seldom let out again.

They don't use horses in mines anymore. The museum mine shows you an old fashioned method replaced now by new technology. It is, however, one of the many fascinating things to do on Cape Breton Island, a land beloved by the people who live there and little-known by the rest of the world. One of the highlights of the Miners Museum is a Tuesday night concert by the singing miners called the Men of the Deep.

The experience had a particular attraction for me because of men like Miles McCabe who work there.

Ridin' the rails to Nova Scotia

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

I have seen many elegant old, but deserted, railway stations in the U.S., their carved marble ceilings staring down at abandoned rooms aisleways. It is a long time since I have been in a modern, busy, terminal integrated into the downtown life of a city, as Gare Central is in Montreal.

This is no 12th Street location. Signs lead you down new glassed-in walkways to the Queen Elizabeth, the Bonaventure, and other hotels, and to Place Ville Marie. Place Ville Marie was one of the first underground shopping malls on this continent and is still one of the most elegant. It is a perfect way to spend an afternoon while waiting to board the train to Nova Scotia.

A sunny fall afternoon can easily lead you out to a terraced cafe or to an umbrellaed sidewalk drinking spot on the street. Pigeons flutter in the sky between the shops, where French is heard everywhere and sale signs read "Reduction."

Back at the train station, where I haul my suitcase out of a locker, I must line up at the sleeping car desk to get an assignment for a lower berth. The dining car serves dinner at 6:30 and 7:45 p.m.; I reserve for the late sitting.

ViaRail continues the passenger rail service once offered by Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways in a new system that has brought shiny new equipment to many Canadian railway lines.

THE TRAIN FOR Nova Scotia begins its familiar squealing crawl out of the rail yards at 6:30 p.m. Soon we are crossing the rough blurred surface of the St. Lawrence River, with the bridge making shaped lines across the water in either direction. We will change trains at Truro, Nova Scotia, tomorrow afternoon and get into Sydney, Nova Scotia, at 9 p.m. later that night.

A voice begins to move down the aisle. "First call to dinner. First call to dinner." That's the first sitting.

The train follows the suburbs and then the rich, green farmland out of Montreal going east. An hour later, another voice calls out in French. She is calling the second sitting for dinner and I nearly miss it.

In the dining car, the maitre d' seats me at a table with a mother and child, and leaves both the menu and an order form which we must fill it out. I order roast pork, apple sauce, carrots and salad with hot rolls and small bottle of red wine.

The service is friendly and good, the food and ambiance are nice. The prices are reasonable. I cannot help remembering childhood days when trains had elegant, expensive dining rooms and silver finger bowls.

Diners drift into the parlor car for after-dinner drinks and head to bed early. By 9:30 p.m. the berths are made up and the passageways in the sleeping cars are lined with blue curtains that button shut for privacy. It's not easy to undress in a berth, but there is a lineup for the tiny washrooms.

The berth is wide enough to sleep comfortably, but the train lurches and sways on this run because the old track hasn't been replaced. I watch the lights shining outside the speeding window until I fall asleep. At the first light of dawn, the early morning scenery is of back-lit trees against a dawn sky and the sun rising over woodlands. I have coffee and breakfast in the snack bar towards the front of the train. It serves much the same food as you'd find in the dining room, but it's cheaper.

Coffee shops on trains always attract crowds, and this one on the train to Nova Scotia was no exception.

THE FIRST REAL sight of the Maritimes is at St. John, New Brunswick. Quick scenes: purple and yellow wildflowers against green, rocky hills; high, narrow wooden houses painted blue and yellow against the morning sky; and the unexpected sight of misted industrial plants hovering over waterways where the pollution floats like ice floes.

At the tiny modern station where we get out to stretch our legs, the train is a blue and yellow stripe against a hill topped with old churches, smokestacks, and high wooden buildings. A freighter is parked in the sea at the end of the street.

By now, I begin to recognize people: the man who made a row in the ticket line yesterday; the Via employee who handled him; the woman and child in matching red jackets, who last night asked the way to the dining car; the waiter who watched me stumble and fall in the snack car and now asks about my health.

Three St. John papers are being taken to the club car. I get one and promise to return it.

WE CHANGE trains at Truro at 2:15 p.m., moving to smaller, older coach cars, while the Montreal train continues to Halifax. As we track towards Sydney, the Nova Scotia scenery grows greener.

Lake and sea water scenes begin to appear in small doses. By the time we approach Cape Breton Island, it begins to look like a Nova Scotia picture book. Boats are pulled up on rocky, misted shores; colored clapboard houses rise mistily out of low hills.

At North Sydney, the last stop before the city of Sydney, passengers for Newfoundland get off to take the overnight boat to Port au Basque.

Why would anybody spend more than 24 hours going from Montreal to Sydney when you could fly in a few hours? If you are a train person, it's a wonderful way to relax and to plug into the life of the people who travel with you and those whose land you are crossing along the way.

Holed up in Lake Orion

Q: What's 8 feet in diameter, with a 6-foot center, weighs more than 200 pounds and hangs around with the Hills Brothers?

Let's not see the same hands now?

Time's up.

A: The dunker provided by Waltman's Bakery to the sixth annual Jaycee and Jaycette Doughnut Festival in Lake Orion Friday-Sunday.

Highlights include crafts booths, petting zoo, hay rides, old time movies, square dances and, whether you dunk or not, bees, hives, free bands, puppet shows and a light and sound show.

The festival is at Keatington Antique Village on Joslyn Road in Orion Township and runs 5 p.m. to 1 a.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday.

The big doughnut, by the way, will be cut by the king and queen of the cakes at 5 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call 693-1230 or 553-8110.

● POLKAS ET AL
Step together, step, hop are the basics to a mildly successful polka, depending on a couple's agility and the rhythm and beat from the band.

Practice this week may net 10 top contestants $400 in prizes at the 12th annual Michigan Oktoberfest Polka Contest in Fowlerville as part of an encounter with the hops Sept. 18-21.

Couples will be judged on style, originality and costume. The preliminaries will be from 6-10 p.m. that Thursday with the finals from 4-6 p.m. Sept. 21. Registration is free. To enter or for festival information, call Steve Chernoby at 1-517-223-3474 by Sept. 17.

There will be movies, steam engines, clowns and, of course, the beer festival in the old country tradition. Admission is $2.50 in advance, $3 general. Group rates available.

For information, write to the Michigan Oktoberfest, Box 164, Howell 48843.

● MILL-ING ABOUT
The 1980 Mill Valley Festival is on tap for Sept. 20 and 21 in Milford, sponsored by that city's Historical Society and the Huron Valley Arts Council.

Home tours, an arts festival, entertainment and craft demonstrations will happen during the two-day event. For times, places and prices, call 684-0215 or 685-3086.

● COLORFUL
The Southeast Travel and Tourist Association of Southeast Michigan has available its "Autumn Color Tours" guide for perusal by Michiganders and out-of-state traveling types taking in the tones of the trees this fall.

Thirteen tours are described within the brochure that includes year-round area attraction and seasonal space whereabouts, like cider mills, you-pick-'em orchards, and historical sites.

For a free copy, write: "Autumn Color Tours in Southeast Michigan," Travel and Tourist Association of Southeast Michigan, American Center Building, Suite 350, 27777 Franklin Road, Southfield 48034.

● MORE COLOR
Connecticut, like its counterpart pretty here, has published a tour guide to autumn. Carrying things a step further, the brochure takes the tourist into wintertime activities with a round-up of downhill and cross-country ski areas, private and public campgrounds and hay and sleigh rides.

For a free copy, write: "Fall and Winter in Connecticut," Travel, Connecticut Department of Economic Development, 210 Washington St., Hartford, Conn. 06106; or call 203-566-3948.

● GRANTED
The Detroit Historical Society received a $150,000 challenge grant from the Kresge Foundation to assist in the restoration of the Commander's Residence at the Fort Wayne Military Museum.

To qualify for the money, the DHS must raise by Feb. 15, 1981, the balance necessary to restore the house to its original look. Entire cost of the project is $318,000.

Canton charges past Bentley in opener

Barr's debut a success

By BRAD EMONS

What a difference a year makes.

It was only football season ago when Steve Naumcheff's Livonia Bentley squad held Plymouth Canton without a first down in a 20-0 opening win.

Times have changed, however, as Canton made it a joyous debut for new coach Richard Barr in a 7-6 upset victory Friday night over the Bulldogs.

Kissed by his wife Beverly, Barr seemed estatic over the surprise win.

"It was a helluva job by the kids," said Barr, who was formerly an assistant at Salem for the past seven years. "It was a one-point win. I'll take a half-a-point win."

Bentley controlled the ball and dominated the first two quarters, taking a 6-0 lead into the dressing room.

Canton, though, turned the momentum around in the second half, mounting a 93-yard drive midway through the third quarter.

Bentley's Dave Johnson put Canton into a hole with nine minutes left in the third quarter when his punt landed on the Chiefs' seven-yard line.

After two unsuccessful running plays, Canton tried a halfback option pass as reserve quarterback Chris Susock appeared trapped in the end zone. Somehow, though, the Canton junior wormed his way out and dashed for 28 yards to the 34 for a first down.

Helped by an offside penalty and a 13-yard pass from quarterback Billy Childs to halfback Steve Hamblin, Canton marched down the field to score. A 14-yard scamper by Scott Brookhouse brought the ball down to the Bulldog 16.

Childs then cooly directed the Chiefs to their only score with a one-yard plunge with 1:23 left in the period. Dennis O'Flynn's extra point sailed through the middle of the uprights as Canton took a 7-6 lead they never relinquished.

BENTLEY WAS stymied until a last-ditch effort in the waning moments.

Sophomore quarterback Keith Percin connected on a 51-yard screen pass to fullback Gary Wolfe down to the Canton 22 as time expired. The Bulldogs were out of timeouts.

"The big play was when we had the kid trapped in the end zone," said a disheartened Naumcheff, who beat Canton in his coaching debut a year ago. "It was a busted play and went for a first down. Take nothing away from Canton. They were able to stay on the field."

Bentley got on the broken scoreboard early in the second quarter when Percin hit Alan Porter with an eight-yard touchdown pass. The extra point kick went wide. Bentley started the drive on the Canton 30 when defensive end Mike Schneider recovered a fumble.

The Bulldogs marched into Canton territory twice in the first half. The Chiefs' Craig Gearns stopped a Bulldog drive when he recovered a fumble with 8:30 left in the second quarter on his own 30-yard line. Linemate Bruce King stripped the ball away on the play.

"We knew they (Bentley) would run power," said Barr. "In the first half we didn't stick. We were making a lot of arm tackles. The kids realized they had to play football.

"I'm very excited and pleased. Conditioning and the persistency of running our offense paid off. We finally got it going in the second half.

"Susock gave us the first down and the spark we needed. The kids then started to believe in themselves after we scored."

Childs, a senior, did not play a single down last year because of a separated shoulder. In the fourth quarter, he used the clock to the Chiefs' advantage, drawing praise from the Canton coach.

"He played well," said Barr. "The kid worked at it. We didn't move the ball in the first half because we just weren't blocking."

NAUMCHEFF SAID his team "dropped the ball too much and made crucial errors." Despite that, the Bentley coach remained optimistic about the upcoming season.

"I'm super proud of our defensive people," he said, "and we chewed up a lot of yards."

Bentley was superior in total offense. Wolfe, a 202-pound rusher, churned out 84 yards in 12 carries. Teammate Jeff Kaminski had 49 yards rushing in seven tries.

Childs was Canton's leading rusher with 54 yards in 12 attempts. He connected on two of five passes for 46 yards.

Bentley will host Belleville at home Friday while Canton, which broke a 10-game losing skid, entertains Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

Rock frontliners dominate Patriots

Salem 'power game' trips Livonia Franklin, 28-7

By SCOTT ADLER

Plymouth Salem's football team started its season with a bang Friday as it rolled over a scrappy Livonia Franklin 28-7 at the Rocks' home field.

The win avenged last year's controversial 12-9 season opening loss on the Patriots' home ground.

"For the first game it wasn't bad," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "I've seen better openers and then again I've seen worse."

The Rocks seemed to have a hard time holding on to the ball as they fumbled five times, once on the Franklin 1-yard line. Salem was also penalized seven times for a total of 75 yards.

Patriot coach Armand Vigna was impressed with the Rocks' fine execution on the offense as Moshimer's troops ran over and around the smaller Franklin defense.

"Salem looked very good," said Vigna. "I don't think it was their size that hurt us the most as it was their execution on the line."

The Rocks drew first blood in the opening quarter after Dave Skone intercepted a Chris Panzl pass at the Franklin 33 and returned it 12 yards to the 21.

HALFBACK BRIAN Lewandowski ran the ball five straight times to the two and scored on his sixth carry.

Lewandowski missed the extra point attempt to give Salem a 6-0 lead with 3:28 left in the first quarter.

Just one minuted later, Lewandowski intercepted another Panzl pass for a touchdown only to have it called back because of an interference call. The Patriots couldn't capitalize and were forced to punt three plays later.

Salem fumbled on a bad pitch from quarterback Jeff Hubert at the end of the quarter and Franklin thanked the Rocks by fumbling it right back on the next play.

This time the Rocks would not be denied as they drove 36 yards for another touchdown The two-point conversion failed and Salem led 12-0.

The tough Salem defense held the Patriots in check and forced another punt with seven minutes left in the first half.

Once again the Rocks drove from the Franklin 36 down to the one and fumbled the ball away only to have the Patriots offense go nowhere in three plays.

Mark Kitz blocked Brad alewski's punt and the ball squirmed out of the end zone giving the Rocks a safety instead of a touchdown. Salem turned it into a nine-point play as it marched 52 yards down the field and scored with 10 seconds left in the half. The extra-point was good and Salem took a 21-0 lead into the locker room.

THE GAME WAS over with 11:50 left in the third quarter as Darrel Bartkowiak took the first handoff of the second half and went 65 yards to give Salem a 28-0 lead.

Franklin, normally a running team, lit up the sky with 20 passes as its ground game was nonexistent against the tough Salem defense.

Chief tankers raise expectations

The versatile Tarja Tuominen has returned to her native Finland, but that can't dim the optimism generated this fall by Plymouth Canton girls' swim coach Mark Griffith.

Entering his second season, Griffith is looking forward to the year with great anticipation despite the loss of his top tanker from a year ago.

"We'll be ready for anything that comes up," said Griffith. "We're ready for any challenge."

Tuominen, who would have been a senior this fall, was the top point-getter for the Chiefs during her one-year stint as a foreign exchange student.

KIM MASSEY
Veteran returnee

She currently holds four school records — 100, 200 and 500-yard freestyle along with the 100-yard butterfly.

She qualified for the Class A state meet in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 5:27.7. Her best clocking in the butterfly was 1:03.0. Tuominen was a first-team all-Observer pick.

Her loss, however, can't dim Griffith's hopes for 1980.

"Everybody is back," he said. "We have more depth than last year and I think we're in better shape. The good prospects are still here."

Canton ended last season with a 5-5 dual record and a third place finish in the Western Six League behind champ Northville and Farmington Harrison (second place).

Griffith is encouraged at the size of his squad. He has 30 swimmers on the roster this fall as compared with 18 last year.

KIM MASSEY was an all-Observer at-large selection in 1979 and will replace Tuominen as the team's most versatile swimmer. She will enter her senior season as a standout in numerous events.

She was ranked 10th in the area last year in the 100-yard backstroke with a best clocking of 1:09.66. Massey also stood out in the 200-yard freestyle and 200-yard IM (2:27.2).

Mary Reardon, a senior, and Missy McMurray, a junior, return in 1980 after gaining honorable mention all-Observer status.

The Canton senior will compete in freestyle races and the 200-IM while McMurray is basically a sprint freestyler.

The Chiefs look strong in diving with the return of senior Chris Wennerberg, who was ranked No. 4 in Observerland. She placed third in the Western Six League meet and qualified for the Class A regional.

Wennerberg will be joined on the platform by veterans Ellie Wagner, a junior and Carrie Lewis, a sophomore.

Also returning are senior freestylers Karen Mullen and Janet Powell. A pair of juniors, Brownwyn Fitzgerald and Debbie Dickinson, have varsity experience in the breaststroke and freestyle events respectively.

Sophomore veterans back for their second year include Beth Greenleaf (IM), Kris Burns (backstroke), Lissa Potter (freestyle) and Kelly Salyer (freestyle).

'I think they're in better shape.'
— Canton coach Mark Griffith

Griffith is heartened by the turnout of 13 freshmen.

"I'm sure a few (freshmen) will be helping us out," he said.

Canton will open the season at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Plymouth Rotary Girls' Invitational at the Salem High School pool.

IMPORTANT
SAFETY WARNING
to owners of older John Deere Lawn and Garden Tractors

Maintaining the safety equipment on your older John Deere Lawn and Garden Tractor can be especially important. The original boot (or cover) for the battery's positive post on Model 60, 70, 100, 110, 112, 120 or 140 Tractors manufactured from 1963 through 1974 may have suffered from age or may have been lost or damaged. And if that positive battery post is not properly covered, there is danger of a spark causing a fire and bodily injury if you accidentally touch a metal gas can to the positive battery post when refueling the tractor. A more serious fire can result if you are not using a safety-approved gas can.

If you own one of the above models, John Deere wants to make absolutely certain that your tractor has the battery's positive post properly isolated. To make it easy—and safer—for you, we will send you a new cover, free. Just fill out the coupon provided below and mail it to the address shown. It comes complete with installation instructions and is not difficult to install. But if you prefer, after you have received your kit, make a date with your John Deere Lawn and Garden Tractor dealer and he'll install it for a small service charge.

Remember, safety and maintenance go hand in hand. The operator's manual can help you. Read it again. Keep your tractor as safe as it was when it was delivered.

It could be the most important thing you do today.

Rock swimmers hope to rebound

Plymouth Salem girls' swim coach Chuck Olson is pointing toward a return to the limelight in 1980.

As far as Olson was concerned, Salem napped most of 1979. His team fell to a fourth-place finish in the Suburban Eight League after winning the crown for three straight years.

"We swam poorly in the league meet," recalls Olson. "No one was satisfied with our place. The ones who are back remember the league meet and didn't care for that position."

Olson, entering his fifth season, is confident better days are ahead for Salem swimming.

"I think we're in pretty good position this year," Olson said. "We're actually a better team than last year.

"I'm very optimistic we can be back up there and go the other way. We've changed things around a little bit. We have two practices after school. The pool is less congested.

"I'm pleased with what I've seen so far. They've kept up the intensity."

Dearborn and Livonia Bentley tied for the Suburban Eight title last year and will be strong contenders again.

Olson, however, has one of the top freestyle swimmers back in the area — junior Terri Eudy.

"Terri is more experienced and she'll continue to improve," predicts Olson. "She'll swim all over for us the first half of the season. She could qualify for four or five events in the state."

Eudy was a state qualifier last season in the 100-yard freestyle with a best time of 57.1. She also placed second in the 100 and 200-yard freestyle events in the league meet. Her time of 26.1 was second best in the 50-yard freestyle last year in the area Observer rankings.

Another top returnee is senior diver Patty Larson, who ranked fourth best in the area. She will pick up the slack for the graduated Natalie McClumpha.

"PATTY HAS that ability," said Olson. "She has the potential to be as good as McClumpha."

Larson has been elected a tri-captain along with veterans Julie Cabadas and Linda Wochna, both seniors.

Cabadas will swim the freestyle and breaststroke events. Wochna, meanwhile, will be used in a number of events with her strongest being the 100-yard backstroke. Wochna ranked in the area's top 10 last year with a time of 1:07.8.

Other veterans returning include seniors Karen Kohler and Nancy Lazarus. Junior returnees include Debbie Darlington and Kelly Brandt. Olson is counting on Brandt to replace the graduated Sharon Ross, who was a standout in the 500-yard freestyle and was an all-Observer at-large pick in 1979. Darlington will swim the backstroke and 200-yard individual medley after spending a year as a diver.

Sophomores who return with experience are Corinne Cabadas, Ruth Ettinger, Robin Cummings, Ellen Wall, Sallie Weimer and Kim Nelson. They will be joined by sophomore divers Carol Lindsay and Cindy McSurely.

Olson said, "It's too early to tell," about his crop of incoming freshmen.

"We have a few new sophomores who we hope can help us out," he said. "We don't have any freshman yet who stands above the rest right now."

TERRI EUDY
Most versatile tanker

Salem will open the season Saturday with the Plymouth-Canton Rotary Invitational. Competing for honors will be host Salem, Plymouth Canton, Westland John Glenn, Northville, Livonia Franklin and Brighton.

The diving preliminaries will begin at 10 a.m. followed by the swim event heats at 1 p.m. Admission is free.

Girls' basketball squads launch prep campaigns

If it's September, it must be football season.

And girls' basketball season, too.

That's right. Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem will kick off the year Tuesday in a pair of non-league home games.

Salem, coached by Bob Blohm, will host Walled Lake Western at approximately 7:45 p.m. following the junior varsity contest.

Mike McCauley's Canton cagers will host Ypsilanti, also at 7:45 at Phase III.

Blohm's Rocks opened last season by whipping Western, 56-32, and went on to a 17-8 season.

Western has fallen on hard times the past two years and Blohm doesn't know what to expect from the 1980 Warriors.

"Traditionally they've had good teams until the last two seasons," said Blohm. "They (Western) are always well prepared. They played real hard against us last year."

Blohm has settled on his starting lineup for the opener. Veterans Cheryl Sobkow, Eileen Moore and Jacque Merrifield were regulars last year and will get the starting nod Tuesday. Jan MacKenzie, a junior, will start at forward. The Salem coach is undecided about the final guard spot. Carol Ross, Jeanine Papa and Linda Lybarger are in contention.

Blohm is looking for a solid defensive performance from his Rocks in the opener.

"We've gotten a lot accomplished defensively in the last week of practice," he said. "We have to be good defensively this year or we're going to have problems. We have to control the tempo.

"Offensively I don't know. It'll be interesting."

MEANWHILE, McCAULEY expects to meet an improved Ypsilanti team.

The Braves were defeated by Canton in their season opener a year ago after leading at halftime. The Chiefs' aggressive defense, however, rebounded in the second half and won going away, 40-25.

Canton, with eight veterans returning, will be a similar type unit. The Chiefs posted a 17-4 record in 1979 and expect to improve this season.

Likely starters for Tuesday include senior co-captains Jean Timlin and Debbie Gibb. Junior Cindy Sovine (5-feet-10-inches) will get the call at center.

Other veteran returnees include juniors Susie Pierce, Pearly Cunningham, Reggie Ruggiero, Colleen Crissey and senior Joni Sommerville.

Newcomers include 6-0 transfer Robyn Hudgin, Sue Gerke and Vicki Skeen.

Ypsilanti will counter with 6-1 center Bev Turman, the team's leading scorer from a year ago.

Running attack lifts Salem in opener

The Patriots did put together one lone drive in the third period, as they ate up nearly six minutes on the clock in marching 76 yards for their only touchdown.

Panzl connected on a seven yard pass play to Bill Check at the 5:10 mark of the third period.

"I don't think they quit," said Moshimer. "They showed a lot of poise coming back (and scoring) right after we scored and had them down 28-0."

in the pocket/W.W. Edgar

The long layoff from keen competition during the summer months has hampered the bowlers from all appearances they may set all sorts of scoring records.

The season is only two weeks old and already there has been a 783 series posted at Westland Bowl and a 3238 series registered in the Wonderland Classic.

"This is one of the best starts we've ever had," George Bashara commented at Wonderland after announcing that the Mason Lounge team, captained by Jim Shelp, had rolled a 3238 series on games of 1091,1033 and 1114.

While this was going on, Jerry Heilstadt put together games of 245, 222 and 243 to pace the league with a 712. At that he only beat Hugh O'Neil by four pins. O'Neil closed with a 259 for his 708.

The story was much the same at Westland Bowl where Dave Sill, bowling in the tri-city men's league linked games of 279, 244 and 160 for 783.

THEY ARE STILL talking about the great duel put on by the area's two youngest stars — Aleta Rzepecki and Cheryl Daniels in the recent women's pro tournament at North Hill lanes.

Opposing each other on lanes 1 and 2, they matched games of 267 to provide one of the major thrills of the entire tournament,

ANITA CANTALINE and her Jac-Ro team were up to their old tricks Wednesday night as the Ladies Major League opened its season at Beech Lanes.

They set the pace in the inaugural with a 975 while Cora Feibig rolled high series with 612 and Pat Rizzo captured high single with 234.

IN THE MEN'S league at Garden Lanes Rod Stachuski stole the show with a 681 series. He opened with 233, followed with 236 and closed with 213. At that figure he had a big edge on Jeff Stover who landed in second place with 619 and Dean Piedmont took third with a 611.

In the Vinco League Brad Lackey lead the parade with a 632, while Marie Eihonsky had a 248 in 623 to show the way to the ladies senior house league.

WHILE THERE was no real high scoring in the Wednesday men's league at Westland Bowl, the competition was keen. As a result only seven pins seperated the two top men. Steve Reese took the honors in the 32-team league with a 242 in 576 and Frank Essa was right behind with a 569.

AMONG THE GOOD performances in the area, D.J. Archer paced the senior house league at Merri-bowl with 258 and Rita Grace rolled a 214 at Woodland Lanes to take first place in the Morning Stars circuit. And Sam Salisbury had a 214 in 619 to show the way in the business and industrial league at Plaza Lanes.

BILLY G set a torrid pace in the Bel-Aire Classic when he put together games of 278, 227 and 226 for 731. He had to yield high game to Tony Stepcak who had a 264 in 679 for third place,. 18 pins behind Mark Hammel who had a 246 in 698.

Some of the spotlight for the week was centered on Doug Parmin who converted the 7-10 split in the Detroit Architect's league.

Whiffle Ball event raises benefit money

The Second Annual Whiffle Ball Marathon for Muscular Dystrophy was a rousing success this year as 15 Plymouth-Canton residents raised over $900 for Jerry's kids.

John Matthews, organizer of the event for the second year, was pleased with the amount of money raised although it was shy of their $1,000 goal.

"I'm happy that we raised more money than last year," said Matthews. "I'm sorry that we didn't reach our goal but it was still a success and you can bet your whiffle bat we'll do it again and again in the years to come."

Last year's whiffle ballers raised $650 in the first annual whiffle ball game.

The final score saw the home team nip the visitors 270-250 in 219 innings.

"It was a dandy," Matthews said.

HOT WATER FOR A SONG.

THREE CENTS, TO BE EXACT.

If you've got a gas water heater, a good, 5 minute shower costs you about 3 cents.

And that's about 15 gallons of water.

Enough to give a body something to sing about...at least when you consider what inflation's doing to other current costs.

No, we're not saying natural gas is cheap. But the fact of the matter is that natural gas uses up less of the average family's spendable income now than it did 20 years ago, heating homes, cooking meals, and warming the water for countless baths and showers. Natural gas – especially when you use it wisely – is still a very good buy.

Baking a turkey for 5 hours in a gas oven today costs only about 11 cents. Doing a load of clothes in a gas dryer runs you about 4½ cents. And you can shower daily for a month for under a dollar.

Yes, the cost of energy as a whole has increased considerably in recent years. But there are still forms of energy that, in relation to all the other costs of living, serve us well and at a reasonable expense.

At Consumers Power, we wanted you to know that natural gas is one of them. And that we're trying to keep it that way.

NATURAL GAS. It's still a good buy. Consumers Power

Livonia Stevenson rips Redford Union

By DOUG FUNKE

Livonia Stevenson football coach Jack Reardon wouldn't come out and say it directly, but he hinted — with a slight smile — that psychology might have been a factor in his team's 32-12 win Friday over Redford Union.

"Maybe we weren't ready last year," Reardon said. "We talked about last year and how emotional RU was. I think kids think about things like that."

The Spartans transformed thought into action and avenged the 12-0 defeat inflicted by RU in the 1979 opener.

The smaller Spartans seemed to confound the visiting Panthers with their mis-direction running plays.

Stevenson quarterback Matt McAuliffe, who played behind both Dave Hall and James Fox last season, proved that he can throw the football, too.

Stevenson started from its own 42 yard line after taking the opening kickoff and marched 58 yards in only five plays. Kevin Spala scored the touchdown with a 35-yard romp around right end on a counter play.

RU took the ensuing kickoff and suffered misfortune on its first offensive play from scrimmage. Steve Quinlan intercepted a pass from Andy Szabo and Stevenson was in business again at the RU 30.

McAuliffe completed the first of his three touchdown throws during the game from the 12 yards out to give the Spartans a 12-0 advantage just six minutes into the game. Rich Sanders was on the receiving end of the pass.

The Panthers failed to generate any offense during their third possession and punted only to Stevenson's 45. The Spartans drove again and scored their third touchdown seven seconds into the second quarter on a 13-yard pass from McAuliffe to Brian Burke.

RU finally started moving the ball midway through the second quarter and broke into the scoring column on a beautiful 36-yard TD run by John Utych on a draw play.

The Panthers had one more good scoring opportunity late in the second quarter, but a halfback pass on fourth down fell short of a wide-open receiver.

Stevenson took a 26-6 lead into the locker room at the half when McAuliffe capped a 63-yard drive with a 13-yard touchdown throw to Quinlan. Wayne Probst caught a pass from McAuliffe for the two-point conversion, the only points-after-touchdown Stevenson converted during the game.

RU received the kickoff to open the second half and drove all the way down to Stevenson's three yard line, but eventually lost the ball on downs at the Spartans' 17.

That turn of events, both Reardon and RU coach Harvey Heitman agreed, took the winds out of the Panthers' sails.

Stevenson raised its lead to 32-6 with only nine seconds remaining in the third quarter. Gary Biermann bolted over right guard, broke a tackle, cut across the field and ran 30 yards into the endzone.

Mike Petouhoff gave the Spartans good field position prior to the touchdown by returning an RU punt 25 yards.

RU scored its other touchdown midway through the fourth quarter on a 10-yard pass from Mike Lowney to Tim Holme. The Panthers moved the ball 30 yards in six plays following a shanked Stevenson punt.

"We didn't really put anything fancy in," Reardon said. "The kids executed well and hit well.

"I was very, very pleased with the play of the senior quarterback (McAuliffe)," Reardon continued.

Raiders secure football triumph

By TOM BAER

The pesky mosquitos which descended on the crowd at Wisner Stadium Friday night were probably more of a bother to North Farmington's football team than host Pontiac Northern was.

Coach Ron Holland's North Farmington squad put together a good first half in drubbing Northern, 27-6, in the grid opener for both teams. Northern, which didn't have football last year because of a millage failure, wasn't must of a test.

"I'll say we're 1-0 for the first half," said Holland, whose team amassed 145 of its 209 yards rushing in the first 24 minutes. "I'm not taking credit for the second half."

North running backs Doug Schulte and Rick Roth, both seniors, showed that they're worth watching. Schulte, the bigger of the two at 185 pounds, gained 91 yards in 12 carries and scored two touchowds on short runs. Roth gained 67 yards in 16 tries and scored a touchdown.

North scored a TD in its second drive of the game, and then added 20 more points in the second quarter. Northern mistakes set up the Raiders on the first two scores. North recovered a PNH fumble on the Raider 33 and needed seven plays for the TD, a two-yard run by Schulte.

A bad snap on a Northern punt gave North the ball on the 30 near the end of the quarter. Roth carried the ball four times in the touchdown drive, but Schulte went over from the one.

SCHULTE RAN 25 yards for a first down on a fake punt to the Northern three to set up the next touchdown, a three-run dash by Roth. Another fumble recovery put North in good position to score its last touchdown on a 16-yard pass play from junior quarterback Jim Franchi to senior Chuck Kott.

Steve Magyari made good on the three PATs he attempted.

North's Freddie Simmons ran 42 yards for a third-quarter touchdown.

North plays next on Saturday at home against Walled Lake Central. Game time is 2 p.m.

Free Contour Analysis Helps Determine If You Really Have To!

In a recent research program Contour Analysis screening tests disclosed 94% of the scoliosis cases found to be positive by x-ray examination.

Contour Analysis involves taking a "three dimensional" picture (Called Moire photography) of the surface of the back to help detect postural distortions. This analysis will be correlated with leg deficiency, patient symptomotology, and levels of spinal tenderness. Such composite examinations may indicate such things as normal and abnormal stress patterns, spinal curvature, muscle spasms, muscle imbalance, spinal distortion and scoliosis.

A free Contour Analysis screening test is also being offered for people with acute or chronic pain by the chiropractic office listed below. People who suffer with backache, bursitis, arthritis, neuralgia, nerve pain, neck pain, muscle pain, bone pain, etc. are also invited to receive this free examination.

These tests, including consultation with the doctor, are being offered to the public at no charge, or obligation, for the next 30 days. Anyone wishing to receive this free examination may telephone the participating office directly for information or an appointment. If treatment, or additional examination, is indicated, almost all health insurance policies cover chiropractic care. All fees thoroughly explained prior to any additional service being rendered.

LEGAL SECRETARIES
Dear Legal Secretaries

If you get up in the morning and think "I wish I didn't have to go to work today", believe me, it's time for a change in jobs.

Stop being a masochist and do something about it! Isn't your mental health important to you? Why beat your brains out all day long on a job that no longer fulfills you. Do you realize most of us have to spend more than 2,000 hours a year working away from home, so you better like what you're doing.

A good job is one where the week isn't long enough, and you resent the weekends that take you away from it. Do yourselves a favor TODAY. Pick up the phone and call Joanne. It only costs 20c and a few minutes of your time. A psychiatrist is a lot more expensive.

If I don't have the job that turns you on, I'll find it for you. We don't push people into situations they don't want. We keep you out of them.

If you have what you think is a great job, have you bothered to tell your employer thanks?

All fees are employer paid

Dasher diesel claims mpg of 36 city, 49 highway

Volkswagen's front-wheel-drive Dasher Diesel station wagon claims to be America's most fuel efficient station wagon.

The four-door wagon will hold 40 cubic feet of cargo with the rear seat up, carry five adults and give 36 miles per gallon (city), 49 miles per gallon (highway), according to EPA estimates.

The Dasher is Volkswagen's top-of-the-line model. It is appointed like a luxury wagon. The Dasher has crushed velour upholstery, quartz clock, AM/FM stereo radio, vent windows woodgrain dash, center console, intermittent wipers, remote control mirror and tirp odometer.

The engine is a 1.5-liter four-cylinder diesel. The overhead cam powerplant is mated with an all-synchromesh four-speed gearbox. In addition to the wagon, the Dasher is available in two-door and four-door hatchback models, both of which can be ordered with the optional diesel engine.

As with all VWs, the Dasher is backed by a 12-month, 20,000 mile limited warranty.

New Escort Lynx will offer lots of electronic options

The widest selection of electronic options ever available on cars of their size and price class will be offered for the 1981 Ford Escort and Mercury Lynx.

The optional electronic features cover driver conveniences, driving controls and entrrtainment systems.

Driver-convenience options include a graphic display module with malfunction warning indicators, an electronic digital clock and electronic interval windshield wipers.

THE GRAPHIC display module is based on one now available on the Mustang and Mercury Capri. This features a side view of a car silhouette with red light-emitting diodes (LEDs) as warning indicators.

In Escort and Lynx, the car silhouette is displayed as viewed from above and a yellow LED warning indicator with ISO symbol shows low fuel. Red LEDs display low washer-fulid level and a failure of low-beam headlamp, taillamp or brake lamp. The module is mounted in a console next to an ash tray instead of being combined with the electronic clock, as in Mustang and Capri.

The electronic clock is mounted in the upper center of the instrument panel. A four-digit, vacuum-flourescent display shows month and day, time in hours and minutes and elapsed time in minutes and seconds up to one hour and in hours and minutes up to 100 hours.

IN CAR controls, Escort and Lynx will offer an electronic speed-control system with both automatic and manual transmissions. The system, introduced in 1979, has the familiar fingertip steering-wheel controls with an added "resume" button, which commands the vehicle to accelerate automatically at the touch of a previously set speed.

Entertainment systems include AM/FM monaural and AM/FM stereo radios and AM/FM stereo with cassette-tape player. Both stereo systems will have four speakers instead of the two now provided with stereos on Ford's smallest North American-built cars. In addidtion, a four-speaker system with power amplifier will be offered as a separate option with the stereo radios. AM radio will be standard but will be deleted on request.
