Tests confirm unsafe well water in subdivision

By ARLENE FUNKE

A lab test has confirmed that at least two homes on Washburn in southern Canton have tap water that is "unsafe to drink" - possibly because of problems with wells in the area.

Township ordinance officers earlier this week took water samples from two houses to the Canton Analytical Laboratory, located in Pittsfield Township near Ypsilanti. The lab test showed an fied unsafe to drink by the departexcessive amount of chloride and organic carbons.

Chloride often is associated with road salts. Organic carbons could include a variety of substances, including dissolved gases.

"IT'S HIGHER than the acceptable standards of the Wayne County Health Department and (the water is) classiment," said Bruce Phillips, Canton's ordinance officer.

Ordinance officials say they may take a water sample of another Washburn resident who was away earlier this week. A fourth told officers he doesn't use his tap water.

Peter Rekshan, a chemist with the laboratory, said there were "20-40 times higher than normal" amounts of chloride in water samples. He said with the ground water. He said the chloride sometimes gets into the soil, and ultimately into ground water, through rain.

Also evident were traces of nitrate, which is found in fertilizers, and coliform bacteria. Rekshan said coliform bacteria is associated with well-water contamination.

However, Rekshan believes the problem stems from the wells, rather than able if I could look at it (the well).

wells may be shallow, cracked or substandard.

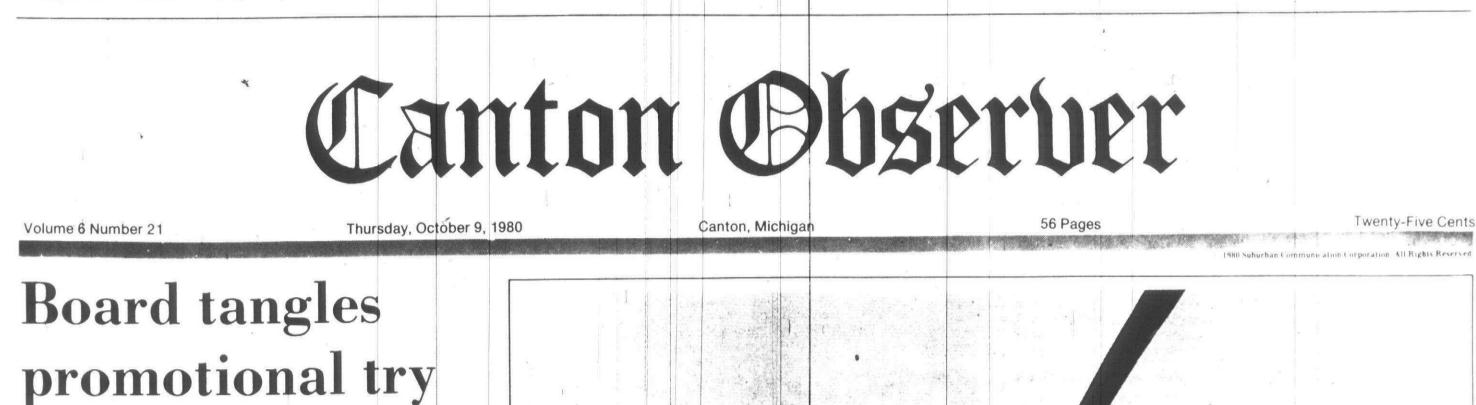

"Looking at the data, it looks to me that the wells are substandard," said Rekshan, who lives in Canton Township. "That's just an off-the-cuff idea. 'There is no question there is a problem," he added. "Why, I don't know. I would feel a whole lot more comfort-

The "unsafe" designation shouldn't be any surprise to the four residents who live on Washburn, in a sparsely populated area south of Michigan and east of Sheldon.

Several residents last week told the Observer that their water is "unfit' and that they cart drinking water from a public tap on Geddes Road.

What's a "special event?"

A controversy over definition of the phrase has set back a first attempt of a new business organization to spur promotion of retail stores.

The Canton's Merchants Association. a group officially formed about two weeks ago, is planning a coupon promotion and coloring contest for kids later this month in hopes of increasing sales.

Members had hoped for a "special event" declaration from the Township Board in order to erect signs and fly banners in front of their stores.

But board members in effect denied the request Tuesday night by tabling the matter for two weeks. The merchants promotion is scheduled for Oct. 16-30.

Board members said the request violated the intent on Canton's strict sign ordinance and its special event provision in two weeks to discuss the definition of "special event." Township ordinance director Bruce Phillips and Chamber of Commerce president Frank McMurray jointly have been studying the issue.

Roberts, who is running for township trustee, said he was "hurt" by the board's action. He believes the board's denial was motivated by political reasons, but insists that the timing of his request had nothing to do with politics.

"I've been working on this for two years." he said of the merchant's association, a splinter group from the Canton Chamber of Commerce which currently includes 45 local businesses.

Roberts said plans for the promotion later this month will continue despite the board's denial. The promotion will include the distribution of free coupon books, which offer discounts on merchandise in member stores.

Roberts had hoped for the special

Gary Roberts, organizer of the merchants group, admitted that discontent over the sign ordinance sparked the request

"The sign ordinance being so restrictive, you've got to have special events to advertise your goods," Roberts told the board

The sign ordinance allows businesses to erect freestanding signs of only 18-25 square feet. Four-by-eight-foot signs, banners and other promotional material may be erected with a township declaration of a special event.

Special events have been declared for the Jaycee Fair, the Canton Country Festival and other community events. Last June, the board declared one weekend as a special event to help township businesses at the request of Roberts.

UNDER THE BOARD'S action Tuesday night, a study session will be held event declaration in order to erect signs and banners in shopping plazas. The signs would advertise the coupon promotion and inform customers where the books were available.

But Township Board members objected to the application of a "special event" to a sale. They suggested the possible declaration of one week a year as "merchant's week" in order to allow stores to use the special event provi-

"IT WAS MY intent when I helped write the sign ordinance that we'd have special events to promote community things," objected Treasurer Jim Donahue.

"I'm a whole hell of a lot uncomfortable in granting special events which should maybe be a once-a-year thing." (Continued on Page 4A)

Auto crashes into ambulance

A fire department ambulance en route to St. Joseph Hospital may have been damaged beyond repair Monday afternoon when it collided with a car in front of Canton Township Hall.

Sustaining minor injuries in the accident were the driver of the ambulance, Gary Sova; a second rescue worker, Jim Sumner; and the driver of the car, Stewart Arthur Patten, 75, of Canton.

Marlene Miller, 29, of Canton was being transported in the ambulance for a back injury at the time of the collision, Fire Chief Mel Paulun said. She was taken to St. Joseph by the township's only other operating ambulance following the crash.

Ms. Miller was released from St. Joseph later that day, a hospital spokesperson said. Capt. Arthur Winkle of the fire department took the three injured men to Wayne County General Hospital in his car, Paulun said. All three also were released later that day.

POLICE CHIEF Jerry Cox said Patten was ticketed for failure to yield to an emergency vehicle.

According to the police report, Patten made a left turn in front of the ambulance from northbound Canton Center Road into the driveway of Township Hall. The Township rescue workers, who were traveling south on Canton Center in the rescue vehicle, had activated the ambulance sirens.

Paulun said the 1977 ambulance may have damaged beyond repair.

"We have to wait for an appraiser to see if it's feasible to fix it or if it should be scrapped," he said.

You might say Pat Monks has a bird's eye view of life.

Twice each weekday, Monks climbs into his blue and white helicopter at Mettetal Airport in Canton. He pulls on a set of earphones and rises above expressways and major roads clogged with automobile traffic.

Curly-haired, mustachioed Monks, 36, is a part-time traffic reporter for WWJ-radio. He's on duty about five hours a day, during peak morning and afternoon driving periods.

The rest of the time, Monks is busy with duties as president of Meir Copters Inc., located at Mettetal on Lilley Road south of Joy.

"ONCE you get in the air, it looks a helluva lot different," said Monks. "I work no (traffic) pattern. I go where I want to go. I have radios on board (and) listen to accident runs."

Monks says he knows his business because he has been flying a helicopter around the area since 1970. He was born in Detroit and raised in Livonia, graduating from Bentley High School in 1962.

Following that was a stint as a warrant officer in the U.S. Army, serving less than two months in Vietnam before his helicopter was shot down. He spent about a month recuperating in a hospital in Japan.

Later, he had a business in Howell. He also has spent time as a bush pilot in Alaska.

MONKS now lives in Whitmore Lake with his wife Dianne and two daughters. He has been affiliated with WWJ-radio for about 21/2 years, initially as a pilot for an onthe-air reporter.

There is a feeling of nervous anticipation as I peer from the window of the two-seat helicopter.

Above, pastel shades of blue and pink are streaking the early morning sky. Five hundred feet below, cars move bumper-to-bumper along expressways and major roads.

· Their headlights twinkle in long rows as the vehicles merge onto Mettetal Airport in Canton and flies over the Jeffries Freeway to the Southfield. Livonia and Redford soon give way to Detroit.

Traveling at 85 mph soon brings the aircraft above the sparkling Detroit River, Belle Isle and Manoogian Mansion, official residence of Detroit's mayor.

Pat Monks, pilot of the helicopter, in the next couple of hours will make about nine live traffic reports over WWJ-AM radio. He also will give a couple of traffic headline features for this all-news radio station.

The cockpit of the helicopter is filled with voices from radios linked to the station and to the Michigan Emergency Patrol, which funnels traffic information.

Study points out flood districts

Canton Township will be required to pass an ordinance controlling construction along creeks and drains as a result of a federal study on flooding hazards.

Areas near Willow Creek, Fellows Creek, Tonguish Creek, the Green Meadows Drain and other storm drainage districts have been identified as regions which could flood during a 100year storm.

Assistant planner Dave Nicholson said existing ordinances fail to require special construction techniques because of potential flooding hazards.

Robert Freitag of the Federal Emer-

Rates for federally-subsidized flood insurance could go up for future housing and businesses in the flood-prone districts because of the agency's study, Freitag said.

However, owners of existing homes and businesses will never pay more than the current rate. Rates for some structures outside the flood plain may go down.

The federally-subsidized policies cover some types of flooding caused by backed-up sewers, according to Freitag. To cover such circumstances, widespread flooding must be demon-

Freitag said "we encourage people to submit claims whenever (flooding occurs.)"

HOWEVER, agency records show that only 40 to 50 residents and business owners in Canton currently buy flood insurance, Freitag said his agency contracted with Wade, Trim & Associates to perform the study on floodprone areas in order to better define risk areas. Results of the 18-monthlong study will help residents determine if flood insurance is needed.

Representatives of the agency and and said his agency has scheduled similar studies for about 200 Michigan communities. Nationally, about 18,000 communities are involved. Each study costs the federal government about $50,000.

"The fact that we're doing the study is no need for alarm," said Freitag "It's not like Canton is one of sever communities being studied.'

The study follows up a sketchy federal report submitted in 1974. The report identified Canton as a flood-prone area along with thousands of other communities, including the city of Plymouth

Hospital-bound fire-ambulance collides with car

Thursday, October 9, 1980

He estimated the cost of buying a replacement ambulance at $35,000 to $38,000. The vehicle is covered by accident insurance.

Only one fire department ambulance is in operation this week because of the crash. The department normally uses three rescue vehicles. But one currently is in Columbus, Ohio, for installation of a new, $19,000 chassis.

Paulun expects return of that ambulance next week. A new chassis was installed on the department's only currently operating ambulance a few months ago.

"I THINK we'll manage," Paulun said of the temporary ambulance shortage. "It doesn't hurt us that much, because we have mutual aid with surrounding communities.'

Paulun said the department's one operating ambulance will be kept at the fire station at Canton Center and Cherry Hill. A fire truck carrying emergency medical personnel will be sent on rescue runs requested of the station at Warren and Haggerty.

lance from the Canton Center station or another community arrives.

Paulun said the department normally keeps one ambulance at each of its two stations for any day-to-day use. The third ambulance is used as a backup vehicle.

According to the chief, Canton owns more ambulances than some surrounding communities. Plymouth and Plymouth Township each own two, he said. Paulun said rescue workers average one run a day.

'We hardly ever get two at a time,' he said. "But you might get one one day, and 10 the next.

Paulun said Monday's accident was the first crash involving a township ambulance in three years.

Last month, a Canton woman involved in the 1977 crash filed a lawsuit against the township for damages. The rescue vehicle was transporting the woman to an area hospital when the accident occurred at Merriman and Michigan Avenue. Township Supervisor Noel Culbert said he drove to Township Hall immediately after Monday's accident

But there are no immediate plans to install water and sewer lines, because the township plans to turn the 40-acre subdivision into an industrial park. Some 18 homeowners would be relocated under that plan.

Eventually, sewer and water lines will have to be installed before the land could be sold for industrial development, say township officials.

"THEY (homeowners) wanted to know if it's (water) polluted," said Supervisor Noel Culbert. "They may have to drill a new well. It's incumbent on them

"There's no question the township won't extend water lines now.

Culbert said the fastest way to help the homeowners is to move ahead with the relocation plan, which is expected to take place over a three- or four-year period.

Edward Simler has a very sore foot at the moment, but he doesn't mind. He figures his new thumb is worth the pain.

Use toe to restore thumb

By MIKE SCANLON

Edward Simler is 20 years old, and like nearly every other young man he's looking forward to life.

That's a small miracle - because until two weeks ago, Simler was not like nearly every other young man.

On Dec. 6, 1979, Simler lost the thumb of his right hand in a power saw accident at work.

"It's just crazy, the things that go through your mind. The first thing you say is 'Why me?' You can get pretty depressed.

On Sept. 11, 1980, Simler got a new thumb. Armed with special microscopes, a surgical team headed by Dr. Mune Gowda spent 12 hours amputating the second toe of Simler's left foot and grafting it in place on Simler's hand. It was the second such operation in state history.

Now, Simler's foot and hand are both heavily bandaged. The hand will remain so for a couple more months, and rehabilitative therapy will follow that ordeal.

But as far as Simler's concerned, the future looks terrific.

"I want to go back to school. There's no future where I was working. I want to maybe get into some kind of safety program," said Simler, a 1977 graduate of Stevenson High School.

"When it happened, I took it great. I took it too good - I didn't even let my emotions flow. Then a couple months later when they unwrapped my hand and I took a look at it, I went way down. Sometimes I didn't even want to get up in the morning. I started drinking. I drank myself right into an ulcer," said Simler.

"BUT NOW I know I can go on and do anything. This changed my life, but now it's changing my life for the better - for one thing, I used to idolize money. No money in the world is going to bring my hand back."

"He should have almost 99 percent of the function of the hand," said Dr. Gowda.

Simler had earlier opportunities for a toe-thumb graft, but they involved older techniques in which it was the big toe, not the second toe, used as the replacement. Amputating the big toe makes walking difficult, and having your big toe on your hand sticks out like, well, like a sore thumb.

The newer technique, Simler says, is a big improvement.

"It doesn't hurt your walking, and it looks like a thumb," he said.

"Cosmetically, the second is very good. It's a little bit smaller than a thumb. The big toe is larger than any of the other digits," said Dr. Gowda.

Simler's new thumb may be just about as good as new, but Simler probably would have settled for less - anything would be better than the artificial devices he tried and abandoned.

"We're delighted something could be done," said his mother, Mary. "The worst day of my life was the day he had the accident. Unless you've got a kid - you suffer right along with them."

Simler has two friends who suffered debilitating injuries prior to his own accident, one who lost an arm to cancer, and another who had three fingers amputated.

"You have to experience it to know. They used to try to explain it to me and I thought I understood, but until I looked down at the end of my hand and saw my fingers hanging there, I didn't understand," said Simler, who also lost his two middle fingers in the accident. They were successfully reattached the same day.

Simler's father, Art, has a simple

Solar home tour on for this week

An open house is being held this weekend to demonstrate a solar-energy system.

The open house is being held by Suntemp Energy of Plymouth in cooperation with Holtzman and Silverman of Southfield.

$1,300, said McMurtrie, for a net final cost of $455 after the buyer realizes the benefits of the tax credits.

The systems are basically maintenance free and can be applied to old buildings as well as to new ones. Each system is custom built for the individu-

The Suntemp solar-heating system works on a passive heating principle, Suntemp's Tom McMurtrie said, as there are no moving parts to the system.

The wall-mounted collectors, which operate on a natural hot-air-convection principle, will provide 25 to 30 percent of a home's heating needs over the entire winter, adds McMurtrie, or about 20,000 BTUs per 100 square feet on a sunny day.

The system has been approved by the state of Michigan for a 25-percent tax al home. The model will be open from 10 a.m. .to 5 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The model home also will feature other energy-saving devices such as insulating window shades which cut window heat loss by 79 percent and watersaving devices.

The subdivision is on the west side of I275 and on the south side of Ann Arbor Trail. Suntemp's offices are located at 219 Harvey at Penniman Avenue in Plymouth.

Humanities to be aired

"Echo: Humanities on the Air" will again be broadcast each Tuesday from 7-8 p.m. by WSDP (88.1 FM), the student-operated radio station of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

"Echo" operates in conjunction with the Humanities I and II classes at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

Students enrolled in the humanities classes are required either to make a showcase display or prepare and produce a live radio show.

The students work in groups of three or four and choose their topic according to their interests. The show's primary purpose is to let both students in the courses and residents of the community learn about the humanities. Art, literature, philosophy, culture and customs of different peoples are examined.

Legislature debating foster care home fate

By MARY GNIEWEK

The state Legislature has proposed several bills that would give local government almost total control over placement of foster care homes for the mentally retarded.

Two companion bills introduced by state Rep. Claude Trim, D-White Lake, and a third introduced by Rep. Thomas Brown, D-Westland, will be addressed in public hearings across Michigan each Friday in October.

The next hearing is slated Oct. 10 at 10 a.m. at the Oakland County Courthouse in Pontiac.

Trim's package, HB5905 and HB5906, would set up local panels comprised of township supervisor, city council member, two persons from the regional office of the state Department of Social Services, two from the local mental health center and one local resident.

The panel would be responsible for devising an annual plan to include the number of foster care sites the city could handle, location of those sites and the reason and logic behind the choices.

The plan would be sent to the state departments of Social Services and Mental Health for recommendations, but the final decision would rest with the panel.

HB5905 deals with adult homes and HB5906 with children's homes. Both are presently in the House Towns and Counties committee, chaired by Brown, whose district includes all of Canton and part of Plymouth Township.

THE BILLS, which were introduced before summer recess, were prompted by an outpouring of correspondence ble task for mental health and social from residents across Michigan requesting more control of foster care propriate review and evaluation of homes, according to a Trim aid.

"They say 'We know they (mentally Goolsby, a Trim aid.

Under the current setup, if the department of Social Services approves an application from a licensee, a foster care home is established regardless of local zoning ordinances.

The only other stipulation is that the home can't be within 1,500 feet of another foster care facility.

West Franklin Estates subdivision homeowners are keeping a careful watch on Trim's bills. The homeowners, concerned about placement of five severely retarded adults in their neighborhood near 14 Mile and Farmington roads, hear conflicting reports from various government agencies on operation of the homes.

"I don't think anyone has a quarrel with mentally retarded," said Annetta Lynd, a subdivision resident for more than 25 years.

"These bills are designed to slowly re-evaluate foster care homes. They. sort of sneak into the community and there are so many things the public doesn't know about them.

"The more positive things we can hear, the more positive it makes me feel as a homeowner," she said.

SOCIAL SERVICE Director John T. Dempsy has attacked the Trim packages on several fronts. He says their passage would create two panels per township - one for adult and one for children's homes - or the establishment of 2,490 panels.

"It would be an elaborate and costly approach and inappropriate for the state to undertake," Dempsy'said.

The bills would create "an impossiservices because it would require ap-1,425 plans in a 30-day period.

$125,000. Mental health would also have to increase its staff, Dempsy said.

State Rep. Sandy Brotherton, R-Farmington, isn't sure the Trim bills are on target, but he sees need for revision of the present system.

"I want foster care homes in communities, but where they are properly supervised and where they are wanted," he said.

A better system would ensure that home supervisors are well trained. Brotherton is concerned because current law says home caretakers can be as young as 18 years of age. They are paid minimum wage.

HB6053, introduced by Brown, would require a licensee to be a permanent resident of the home. Brown's arguement is that employees changing shifts every six hours aren't providing a homelike atmosphere for residents.

THE BILL would ensure that licensees of the profit-making home venture live in the home. But, Brotherton says, some licensees operate several foster care homes and obviously can't live in all of them.

"I think the hearings will get a lot of problems out on the table," Brotherton said.

Not being addressed publicly this month is a newer package of bills introduced by state Sen. Donald Bishop, R-Rochester. SB1300 and companion bills 1297, 1298 and 1299 all deal with amendments to the adult foster care act or related zoning acts.

The bill includes seven major provisions:

. It reduces from six to four the maximum number of clients per home.

Mondale leads student cheers for auto industry

By TOM LONERGAN

Sounding like a coach at a pep rally, Vice President Walter Mondale led a gymnasium packed with Cousino High School students in Warren Tuesday in cheers for the American auto industry.

"American cars are good, fuel-efficient and the safest cars in the world," Mondale told more than 2,300 students, mostly sons and daughters of auto company personnel.

Mondale's appearance at Cousino, in heavily blue-collar Warren, was his second stop in a day of campaigning for Detroit area votes. His visit came on the heels of President Carter's trip last week to the blue-collar communities of Wayne and Flint.

THE VICE PRESIDENT emphasized that the country's future was threatened by continued dependence on imported oil, claimed Republican nomi-"nee Ronald Reagan would cut college tuition aid programs and said his "greatest fear" was the possible use of nuclear weapons.

The high school student crowd responded enthusiastically to Mondale's repeated calls for reductions in oil imports.

"There's nothing like this country when we're aroused," Mondale said. He said there should be "no tolerance of dependance on foreign (energy) sourc-

"We're going to show the whole world how to lick that problem."

Mondale said the "biggest source of inflation" is the cost of imported oil, which, he added, was a "threat to jobs and, unless we solve it soon, the independence of our nation.

"Instead of sending billions and billions of American dollars overseas . spend it on American business," said Mondale, "to hire American workers to produce and conserve American energy."

A STUDENT questioner of the vice president tied the reinstatement of draft registration to a possible war over Mideast oil.

Mondale's response, without mentioning the draft, was that a stronger American military presence in the area was needed "to prevent miscalculation and keep the peace."

"Does the Carter Administration think nuclear war is inevitable?" asked another student.

"We do not think nuclear war is containable," Mondale said. He said the country's nuclear weapons policy was based on being "strong enough to deter anybody from thinking they have a choice of attacking our country and succeeding.'

He said the country's nuclear policy is "designed to enhance deterrence and not the other way around."

The vice president said the Carter administration had improved the college tuition aid program to help "the middle range of working families."

IN A PRESS conference following his speech, Mondale was more direct in challenging Reagan.

With the Nov. 4 election less than a month away, he declared "Michigan will be a battleground."

Several national publication polls released recently showed Reagan with a slight lead over Carter.

Mondale said Michigan voters will be asked to compare Carter's record regarding the auto industry-dependant state with Reagan's positions.

Mondale cited Carter's support of $1.5 billion in federal loan guarantees for Chrysler Corp., extended unemployment compensation benefits and the Trade Readjustment Act.

The latter federal policy provided added unemployment benefits to autoworkers laid off due to increaed imported auto sales.

Thursday, October 9, 1980 12A(P,C) Bands stress visual effect The eyes of the crowd must be pleased

By BETTY DeLANO

In this final series dealing with high school marching band competition the visual-effect category will be explained as well as the details of the first annual CEP marching invitational. Unmistakenly, the major role of a marching band at a football game is to provide the fans with something to look at and to listen to during the 20minute halftime period.

But, with all the shouting and screaming going on, listening to the musical performance is usually a difficult task.

Therefore, the performing band's visual effect is vital in winning the crowd's attention and response. Originality, precision of execution and appeal are the foundations of a visually effective performance.

The judge takes into consideration the utilization of all the elements of a band's visual presentation including color guard, percussion and winds, and how they coordinate for maximum effect

The judge considers form and development of drill, staging, theme and climax. Showmanship - the entertainment appeal and professionalism of the unit - also is a primary consideration. Out of the total possible 100 points visual effect holds 20 points.

VISUAL EFFECT will be a highlight of the band's performance when it takes to the field Saturday night for the first annual CEP Invitational Marching Band Competition

Since the CEP band will be the host of the six-band invitational, it will not be eligible to compete against the other bands, which will include the Durand High School Marching Band and the Flushing Raider High School Marching Band. Competition will start at 6:30 p.m. on the CEP football field. Other participating bands include West Bloomfield, Royal Oak Dondero, Clarkston and Utica Eisenhower.

The competition, which has been planned by the CEP Band Booster Club since last year, is a means of fundraising for the CEP Marching Band and has required many hours of preparation.

Band parents working in individual committees have taken care of the behind-the-scenes preparation for the competition.

Some of those parents include Booster Club President Jerry Hotchkin (trophies), MaryJo LaBeau (public relations), Carol Scruggs (refreshments), Dick Brown (security and band guides), Wayne Maule (first aid), Carl Williams (parking and runners) and Bill Hurtebuise (programs and tickets).

Tickets for the competition may be purchased at the gate for $2.50 or in advance for $2. Ticket outlets include Trading Post, The Health Shoppe, Sideways and area band directors. All area marching band enthusiasts are encouraged to attend as well as those persons who are curious about the mechanics of a marching band competition.

Opponent raps Pursell vote

Responding to a recent release of a Congressional report describing 10 Michigan sites where hazardous chemicals may be seeping into the groundwater, Democratic Congressional candidate Kathleen O'Reilly criticized her opponent for voting against funding for an Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) study of groundwater contamination.

Speaking before a faculty group at University of Michigan last week, Ms. O'Reilly noted that the Congressional study calls on the EPA in urgent terms to locate and eliminate potential threats to groundwater supplies.

She also pointed out that her opponent, U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, voted on June 22, 1979, to deny $4 million to the EPA to investigate ways to attack the problem.

Pursell's vote contributed to the defeat of that critical project, she added. "The next time you, as a 2nd District voter, take a drink of water, think of that inexcusable vote.

"One hundred million Americans depend on groundwater supplies for drinking water," O'Reilly told the faculty group. "The mechanism of contamination is poorly understood, and funding is desperately needed for research. If we don't stop stalling, the damage to our environment and our health could be irreversible.

"I find it ironic that Carl Pursell supports multibillion dollar synthetic fuel boondoggles, but won't vote to spend $4 million to keep our water clean."

O'Reilly noted that the toxic problem is particulary severe in Michigan. "In this district, on Arkona Road in Augusta Township, there's a shut-down landfill which has state and federal officials concerned. The time is long overdue to make a positive commitment to effectively address these issues."

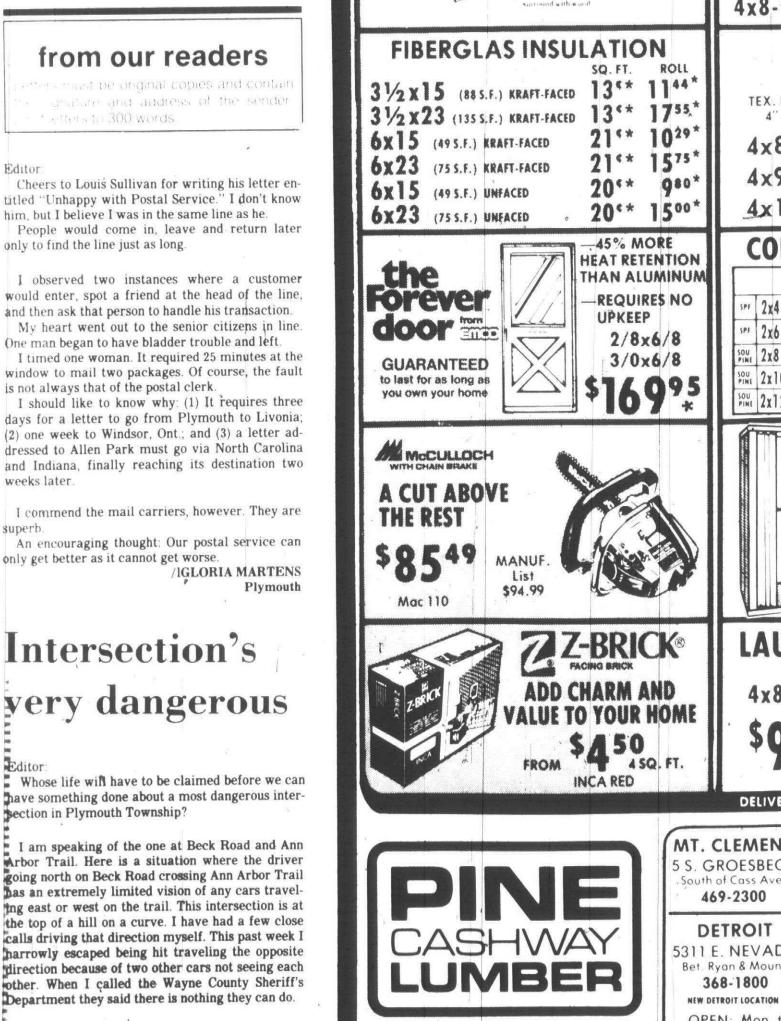

The Congressional study by a house government operations subcommittee, cites 250 locations nationwide where drinking water may be endangered. O'Reilly was a leading lobbyist for the Toxic Substances Act while she headed the Consumer Federation of America, the nation's largest consumer advocacy organization.

Captures 1st place in weekend tourney

CEP Marching Band is blue ribbon winner

By BETTY DeLANO

Members of the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band came home winners this weekend

They had competed on Saturday in the Marching Bands of America (MBA) Northern Regional Championship in Toledo and Sunday in the Michigan Invitational at Atwood Stadium in Flint. They competed under the direction of Jim Griffith and Carl Battishill.

Marching against 15 other bands from throughout Michigan and some from Ohio, the CEP marching band Sunday captured first place in the open class as well as the overall championship with an point total of 72.40.

The band brought back to Canton the traveling Governor's Sweepstakes trophy for overall performance, a trophy which was won last year by the Durand Railroaders High School Marching Band. The CEP musicians also captured honors for best percussion section, best general effect and the best brass and wind sections.

Competing in the open class, the CEP band took first place over Lexington High School Marching Band from Ohio (65.05 points) and third-place Trenton (45.30). The band also beat out the Durand group which had beaten the CEP earlier this year at the Clarkston Invitational.

Music performed in capturing the awards included "Carmina Burana" and "West Side Story," arranged by Joseph Laird, and "Buckaroo Holiday," arranged by Ralph Johnson. The band's High School Marching Band from drill, which won the best general-effect trophy, was written by Pete Fader and Carl Battishill ("Buckaroo Holiday").

The judges said they were impressed with the CEP band's full range of volume levels and expression, variety in phrasing and styles, good rhythmic contributions and good tone.

In the performance-effectiveness category the band was awarded 62 out of a possible 70 points and it got 69 out of a possible 80 points in overall musicianship

ON SATURDAY members of the Plymouth-Canton group competed against a total of 25 bands from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Indiana and Michigan.

Considering that this was only the second year that the CEP has entered the MBA competition, the band's sixthplace finish was satisfying. In last year's competition the band failed to reach the finals after the morning preliminary competition.

Following the preliminary competition this year, the bands' with the top ten highest scores were eligible for the finals. Earning a point total of 69.85 in the preliminary contest, the CEP band then competed in the finals to earn a final point total of 65.7. First place in the competition went to the Chesterton

Chesterton, Indiana.

Preliminary competition, besides determining which bands would be selected for the finals, also helped place each competing band on a national linear scale. That scale compares high school bands with each other on a national level.

The CEP Marching Band will participate in an exhibition Saturday at the first annual CEP Invitational Marching Band Competition starting at 6:30 p.m. on the CEP football field.

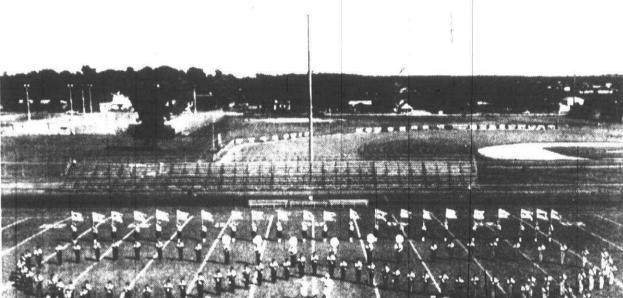

Tickets may be purchased at the gate for $2.50.

One almost would think that this isn't Canton Township.

The general election is less than one month away. But the politicians whose names will appear on the Nov. 4 ballot still are running clean campaigns.

So far, election year 1980 has spawned the type of campaigning which should be run in a rational democratic society.

The 13 candidates who are running for seven seats on the Canton Township board should be congratualted for that. The 13 candidates who were knocked out of the race in the August primary also deserve a pat on the back.

Newcomers to Canton Township may ask, "So what?" Candidates should stick to the issues in a political campaign, despite expectations for some degree of name-calling.

Residents who are not surprised by this year's campaign obviously weren't around in the mid to late '70s.

CAMPAIGNING IN THOSE years went far beyond name-calling. Many politicians stooped to downright dirty, below-the-belt campaigns.

By October of previous election years, candidates already had hurled numerous allegations at their opponents. Their charges were greeted by counter charges and more allegations. of dirty campaigning. Here are just a few examples from the 1976 and 1978 elections:

• In the 1978 campaign, a flyer appeared which painted one candidate as a "puppet master" for several others. The literature prompted a libel suit, which still is pending.

• A wife of one candidate in the 1978 election claimed she was assaulted by a person affiliated with the opposing political camp. According to Canton police, a warrant was issued by the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, but never was presented because the accused moved out of the state.

• In the 1976 election, one candidate claimed that "impostors" impersonating his campaign workers were running around Canton. The candidate said the "impostors" were acting obnoxiously to dirty his name.

• In the 1976 election, one candidate claimed that a bomb threat had been made against his campaign headquarters.

• A victorious candidate in the 1976 election brought members of the Michigan State Police and Wayne County Sheriff's Department to Township Hall to impound the ballots. He accused a losing candidate of an effort to tamper with the ballots.

• A letter calling mobile home residents "trailer trash" was circulated in the 1976 election. The candidate accused of making the statement said he never said such things.

CHARGES LIKE THOSE created an infamous political reputation for Canton Township.

They confused voters and removed the emphasis from the real issues. No one knew who to believe the candidates levying the charges or those denying the dirty political tricks.

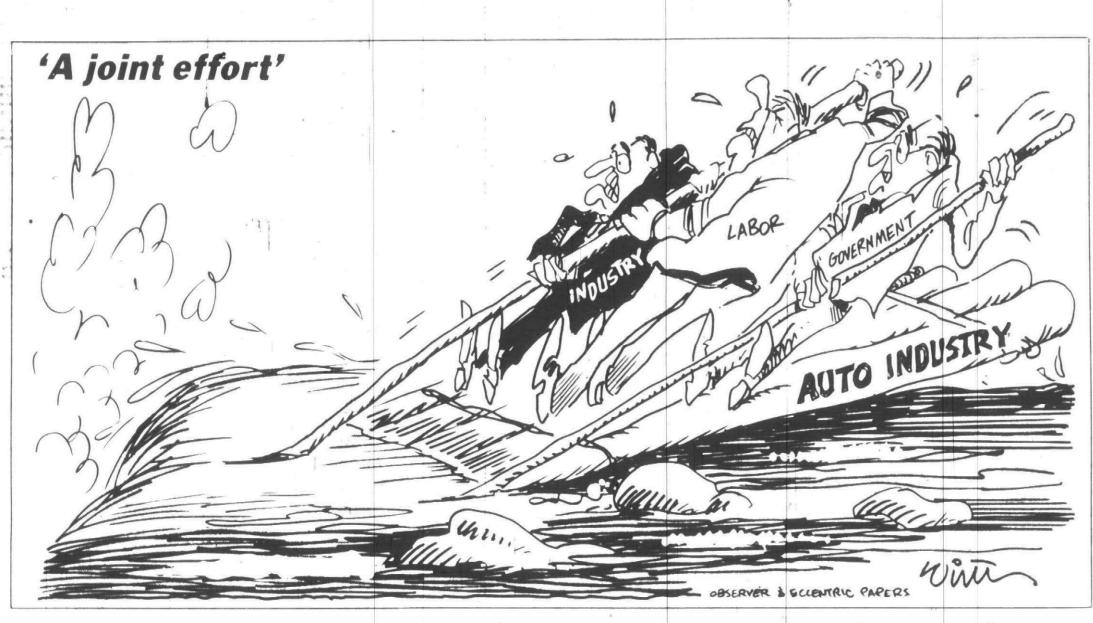

Surprisingly, such tactics have been almost totally absent from this year's campaign with the possible exception of gripes concerning the removal of political signs and other minor issues.

The calm, cool, collected atmosphere of this campaign is an encouraging sign.

It could mean that the wall between Canton's political factions is crumbling and that politicians are more willing to work together.

It also signifies a more mature attitude on the part of candidates.

Hopefully, that attitude will continue to dominate this year's campaign down the home stretch. Nov. 4 is less than a month away. Candidates should continue their efforts to keep this one clean.

Vietnam War syndrome lasts for life

Few persons in these parts have heard of Mike Tindall.

A New Jersey resident, his story appeared on the front page of a Detroit metro daily last month.

Just as quickly it disappeared from readers' minds. Newspaper stories are like that.

But Mike's story is that of thousands — just a little more dramatic.

He was acquitted by a Federal Court jury of smuggling hashish. His successful plea was a first for the American judicial system — insanity based on the "Vietnam Syndrome."

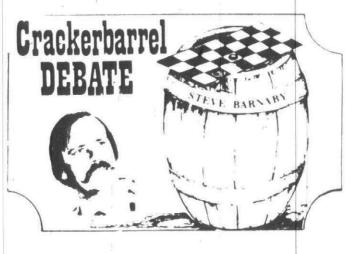

THERE ARE COUNTLESS Mike Tindalls in this country. If you know a Vietnam veteran, you know a person who, to some degree or another, will live with the syndrome until the day he dies.

Vietnam Syndrome is for real. The American Psychiatric Association and Veterans Administration say it is. Vietnam veterans know it is.

For some the syndrome is a living death. It changes the personality, sometimes dramatically, Recall the veteran who, for three hours, held hostage a Charleston congregation at gunpoint.

He suffered from an extreme case of malaria and for three years before the hostage incident was plagued with persistent headaches.

He was pleading for help to a society which would rather forget anything associated with the word Vietnam.

BUT RATHER THAN dissipating, the Vietnam Syndrome grows as the years pass.

Rather than readjusting as time passes, more and more Vietnam veterans are dropping out of society, turning to drugs, crime and the unemployment line.

For others, the majority, it takes on a more subtle form. The divorce rate is acute. A wife only can stand so much of a befuddled partner trying to explain the confused, emotionless state which is impossible to explain.

Most Vietnam veterans prove to be good employees. But few employers realize that underneath the work-aholic facade is a person combating constant boredom. The boredom never goes away.

Like Mike Tindall, other Vietnam veterans crave a challenge which just doesn't exist.

As Tindall's doctor put it, his smuggling activities represented just another combat mission.

The Vietnam veteran is harnessed with an impatience with the society in which he lives. He has difficulty understanding what he considers the petty complaints of other persons in this society — having to work too much, having to work too little, the car; payment, the weather ad nauseam.

VIETNAM VETERANS play the game. They join in on the complaining. It makes them seem to fit into this alien society. But underneath they are satisfied to have a warm bed in which to sleep and a hot meal to eat.

The rest is luxury.

The Syndrome tells the veteran he is living on bonus time — an extra granted to those who at one time had resigned themselves to death.

But the bonus is tainted. The challenge is gone. Life is an emotionless abyss.

You used to go to the showroom of a dealer of your choice — Ford, Chevy, Chrysler or whatever — and tell him you were in the market for a new car. No dilly-dallying.

Those days are gone now. And when you appear at the showroom, you not only will be asked what model of your favorite car will be, but the salesman will open the drawer of his desk and pull out a questionnaire that appears to be a foot or two long. Then the grilling begins.

The Stroller found this out the other day when he accompanied the lady of our house to the showroom to purchase a car to replace her once classy little car.

FIRST SHE WAS asked, "What model do you want?"

This was sort of an odd question because you just used to ask for the make of the car. Now the make of the car is only a family name, and the models are like children.

When she had selected a model, she was asked. "Would you prefer a six cylinder or an eight cylinder?"

This seemed strange to The Stroller, who had been accustomed to making a choice of a model and then taking whatever engine came with it. No more.

Now she was asked. "Would you like air conditioning?"

When she nodded yes, he moved to the next question, "How about tires? Do you want whitewalls or steel radial tires. I think maybe you would prefer the steel radials."

She gave it some thought and decided on steel radials on the theory they wouldn't go flat on the road and leave her needing help.

"HOW ABOUT the metal band around the body?" be asked, then explained that the metal band would protect her car from damage by careless drivers in supermarket parking lots. So her new car will have the metal band.

"Do you prefer a stick shift or the shifting levers on steering wheel?" She chose the stick shift and sighed with relief, thinking she was finished. Not yet.

"How about the red lines (defroster) on the rear window?"

She didn't have them on her old car and had never given it a a thought. This was something new. She took it.

Then she asked a question: "Is it possible to get an electric seat?"

"Would you prefer the single automatic seat or the double? The single will be $193 extra." She took the double, being a strong believer in saving money whereever possible.

Then came the color. What did she prefer?

"I always liked a red car," she said. The salesman quickly answered, "The model you selected doesn't come in red," so she chose burgundy.

ALL THE WHILE, there never was a question about paying for the car. This seemed strange.

It was different when The Stroller purchased his first car. It was the year Henry Ford produced the Model A.

He just called his friend, John Hettche, the Ford dealer, and told him he wanted one of the new ones. No questions were asked.

When it arrived, it was a sporty looking four door in green with a a black leather top. And it cost only

Back in college, we had great philosophical arguments about whether people could have freedom of speech, assembly, press and the rest under socialism.

I had my doubts about whether a socialist government would or could protect those freedoms. A liberal professor of political science, however, put me down good and hard. The prevailing notion was that the Bill of Rights wouldn't go down the tube under socialism.

It's time to reopen the argument. Let us consider events in Poland and Yugoslavia. Specifically, let's consider the workers' strike in Poland and the UNESCO International Commission for the Study of Communication Problems.

IN POLAND, one major difficulty the workers faced in their effort to establish unions that weren't government controlled was finding meeting places.

All buildings except churches are owned by the government. You don't just rent the VFW hall or the Knights of Columbus hall. You can't get your hands on materials to put up your own union hall. You don't rent a meeting room in a motel.

Thus, while on paper the right of assembly may be protected, workers can have difficulty exercising ability to print such things as meeting notices, bulletins, membership cards, ballots and all the things necessary for concerted action. The government owns all printing presses. That's socialism.

At this point, persons who are ignorant of Americana will rant in reply that "freedom of the press belongs to the man who owns one." There will follow a tirade about "chain" ownership of newspapers.

The charge is demonstrably inaccurate. I just checked my handy telephone directory — six solid pages of ads for quick printing places. High school activists whose papers were closed down by heavyhanded administrations during the early 1970s were In modern American capitalism, you don't need to own a press to spread your word.

THE UNESCO gathering in Belgrade is being covered best by news magazines. Here are some items gleaned from Time (Oct. 6) and the New York Times Magazine (Sept. 21):

• Most Third World countries don't allow newspapers or broadcasters to subscribe directly to wire services. The government subscribes and then controls which stories go to the media.

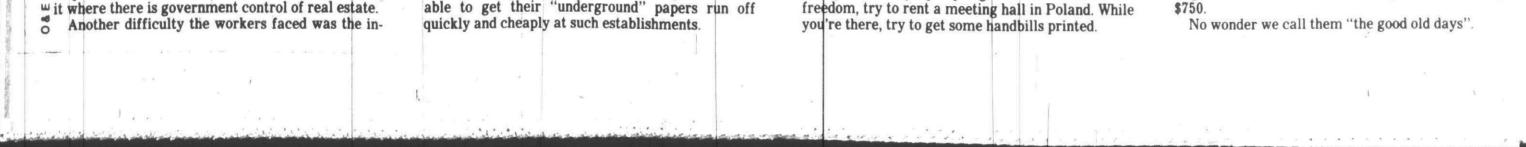

• While many socialist nations complain about Western news coverage, they make it difficult to report news by limiting reporters' visas to brief periods for single visits.

• Many socialist nations limit drastically the importation of Western newspapers, magazines and books and jam foreign radio broadcasts.

Bills of rights, in any language, are pretty on paper. A government that owns all property, however, can find ways to curtail those rights.

Some non-thinkers distinguish between "human rights" and "property rights," implying that property rights are somehow inferior. The distinction is superficial.

If you think property rights aren't essential to

Here are things to do when you're in a jam

Have you ever shot a roll of film, begun to rewind it into the cassette and then — you guessed it found the film had never advanced through the camera.

Don't feel lonely; it's happened at some time in almost every photographer's career.

But did you know there's a way to assure that your film always advances through the camera? In fact, there are a number of helpful hints to get you out of a jam and improve your photographs. Here are some:

To resolve the film advancing problem, watch the film "rewind" crank when you advance the film for the first few shots. If the rewind crank turns, everything is OK. If not, the film isn't going through the camera. It's that simple.

Use a skylight or haze filter on all of your lenses. They not only will warm up colors and cut through haze, but they will protect your valuable lenses.

Thoroughly read the owner's manual that came with your camera. Carry it in your camera bag for quick reference. It contains valuable information on your camera and general information on photography.

Change batteries in your camera once every year, even though it still appears to be functioning properly. Pick a day you will remember, such as your birthday, or Jan. 1. (It's also a good time to reread your owner's manual.)

Tape the label-from your film box on the back of your camera — some cameras have slots for this purpose — as a reminder of what kind of film you're shooting. If you don't take many pictures, it's easy to forget what's in your camera. If your meter should fail, all is not lost. Simply set the shutter speed to the number closest to the ASA of the film you're using. Example: With Kodachrome 64, the shutter speed should be 1/60th of a second. Then set the aperture at f/16 on a sunny day, f/11 on a bright overcast day, f/8 when it's overcast, and so on.

Don't always use "fast" film (high ASA ratings). I recommend using the slowest speed film that conditions and lighting will permit. You'll get sharp results, and save money on the lower-priced slower films.

When is it safe to hand-hold your camera? Shoot at the shutter speed that comes closest to the focal length of your lens — not slower. Example: With your normal 50 mm lens, shoot at 1/60th sec. or faster. With a 135 mm lens, use 1/125th sec. or faster. When poor light demands a slower speed, use a tripod.

Add impact to your pictures. Move in close, compose carefully, watch your backgrounds, and learn how to use depth-of-field creatively.

Look at photographs. Go to museums, galleries, exhibits. Invest in photography books. Not just "how to" books, but photography picture books. Study closely and carefully the works of other photographers, especially those that have impact on you. This will improve your own pictures as well as enhance your personal enjoyment of photography.

and Mrs. Bonner, a Northville resident s in who joined the garden group during her 16 years as a Livonian, started making her pressed flower pictures because "I lays see something, I get interested and I find out how to do it."

It takes her several hours to complete a picture once she has gathered her materials. Her frames have a cardboard backing plus cotton wadding which helps to keep the picture snug and tight. She lays her plant or flowers on a silk background. In picking plant materials, she looks for color and shape.

Choice or no-choice?

"It's my first chance to vote in a presidential election and there's nobody I want to vote for."

The lament from our college student daughter drew my sympathy. I've felt the same way myself as I approach this presidential election, but at least it's not my first time for being a part of our time-honored electoral process.

I thought how much more fortunate I had been - my first presidential vote was during World War II and I could really exercise my convictions in marking the ballot for FDR. Of course, in doing so I caused a minor revolution at home and had a father wondering for months - no, make that years - how any flesh of his could possibly vote for "that man."

And the second time around, too, I felt I was really part of the voting process. That was 1948, when Harry Truman and Thomas Dewey were the main candidates. I remember I walked into the voting booth thinking I was going to vote for Socialist Norman Thomas, but instead I ranked myself with Truman's slim majority in preference to wasting a vote. It was people like me, I realized later, who made the difference in that election. And I've always been glad I didn't miss my chance to vote for a man I later came to admire greatly.

BUT IT SEEMS different this year for my daughters, two of them first-time presidential voters.

It's not just that both the Republicans and the Democrats nominated candidates who were not our first choices. That has happened before, and our political system says we then line up behind the candidate nominated or exercise our right to be a political independent.

The problem I find, and see visited upon my daughters, is with a system that isn't working as it once worked and should work.

Throughout this campaign I've thought about the need to vote for one of three men I really don't want to vote for. Any other action is again wasting a vote. But I've also thought about so many people I wish I could vote for, from those in my acquaintance to other national leaders.

And I've decided that the reason my choice and my daughters' is so limited is that seeking the highest leadership is almost off limits to those who are really functioning members of society, exercising true leadership.

MONEY AND LEISURE somehow becomes the main prerequisites for seeking the highest office.

We put restrictions on financial contributions to campaigns, but still seem to have the very rich as candidates for top office. Our presidential primaries were supposed to give more people a voice, but these have only lengthened the campaign time - again weighing things for the wealthy who don't have other work.

We put candidates into television debates, but then we decide they don't show their true personalities that way.

I'm not a political expert, but I'm sure we're doing something wrong. There has to be a shorter, more direct, more open, better way to pick a president for this country.

I hope sometime, somehow we can find it. I'd like my daughters and granddaughters to feel good about walking into that voting booth.

This book on death can help the living

Death is, without a doubt, one of the most unpopular topics of discussion. Yet, death is, without a doubt, inevitable. Not talking about it will not make it go away.

Death is part of living. We are all moving unceasingly toward our death from the day of our birth. As someone once said, death is a law, not a punishment.

Dr. Martin Shepard has put together a book to help people face the unavoidable fate of death, whether it's their own, or that of a loved one

The book is called, "Someone You Love is Dying," and was published in 1975 by Harmony Books, a division of Crown Publishers, Inc., of New York,

I think this book should be required reading for every intelligent person.

This is not a religious book, but it offers comfort to those of all faiths, and, perhaps, even to those with no faith at all, if such is possible.

The book includes interviews with terminally ill patients, as well as with those who have been officially declared dead, but have been revived, and survived to tell about it.

Writing in clear, simple language, Dr. Martin pulls no punches. The main point of the book is honest and open communication.

"Someone You Love is Dying" was written to help people through a time of crisis. I would like to recommend, however, that you do not wait until a crisis arises, but read the book now, and go back to it again and again.

Then when the time comes, and it will, that you must face the death of a loved one, you will be better prepared, and better able to accept it.

Death comes to everyone. Here are a few quotations by some of those who knew they must face it.

"We sometimes congratulate ourselves at the moment of waking from a troubled dream: it may be so the moment after death." Nathaniel Hawthorne

"No man can be ignorant that he must die, nor be sure that he may not this very day." - Cicero

"Life is the leading cause of death." - anonymous

"To die would be an awfully big adventure." - J.M. Barrie "There is no death. What seems so is transition. This life of mortal breath is but a suburb of the life Elysian, whose portal we call death." - Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

"Some people are so afraid of death that they never begin to live." — Henry van Dyke

"It is impossible that anything so natural, so necessary, and so universal as death, should be designed by Providence as an evil to mankind." - Swift

"Really, friend, I care not whether I live or die. For if I die, I will be with God, and if I live, He will be with me." - anonymous.

Gospel of Luke gets close study in series

The Gospel of St. Luke, the physician who chronicled the life of Jesus, will be the study topic for a fall series at St. Damian Catholic Church of West-

Six views of the Gospel, its writer and its subject matter will be outlined in "Invitation to Luke," a series of 7 p.m. lectures by area theologians. The series will begin Sunday, Oct. 19, in the St. Damian education building, 29821 Joy.

Leading the sessions, which continue through Nov. 23, will be the Rev. Robert Werenski, professor of scriptures at Ss. Cyril & Methodius Seminary, Orchard Lake Schools; Robert Dugas, religious education coordinator for St. Mark Catholic Church in Warren; the Rev. Kenneth Untener, rector of St. John Seminary in Plymouth, and the Rev. Alex Brunett, pastor of St. Aidan Catholic Church in Livonia and director of ecumenical offices for the Detroit Archdiocese.

The study series was arranged by the St. Damian education committee, which last year sponsored a series on the Gospel of Mark. Working on this year's project with the Rev. Richard Dorr, pastor, were Lorraine Wygonik and Kathy Kubik.

The community may participate in all programs. The third Gospel book was picked because of the universal appeal of the story as recounted by the man often called the beloved physician, said Mary Rice, religious education coordinator for St. Damian

Scripture scholar William Barclay said, "Somehow, of all the gospel writers, one would have liked to meet Luke best of all."

Fr. Werenski will lead off the series with a discussion of Old Testament references in Luke on Oct. 19. He also will be the final speaker, discussing forgiveness in the Luke Gospel on Nov. 23.

Dugas, a University of Detroit scripture and theology graduate who has done doctoral study work at Hebrew University in Jerusalem, will speak Oct. 26 on "Jesus as Our Model" and on Nov. 9 on "The Work of the Spirit in Luke's Gospel.'

"The Passion of Jesus in Luke's Gospel" will be Fr. Untener's topic Nov. 2, and Fr. Brunett, who also is chairman of the National Christian-Jewish dialogue, will talk on Nov. 16 about the land where

Campaign feeds television drama

After viewing the Reagan-Anderson Debate and watching the evening news avidly, I have realized that television has altered the nature of politics in American society. Political figures now spend less time on substantive issues and more on symbolic issues, interpreting what they think and do in terms of impact on mass audiences.

Newsmen look for "the story" in the mass of events that they confront each day. For example, a remark or phrase by a candidate that can be construed as harsh, intemperate or abusive, such as Governor Reagan's reference to President Carter and the KKK, or President Carter's remark about peace-and-war and Governor Reagan, become media events.

Television, news reports and magazine profiles

THERE ARE dangers in imposing this dramatic form on political dialogue. If a campaign becomes a stage upon which the candidate struts and declaims his part, it results in tales full of invective and fury, signifying little.

How many Americans can define, at this time, the differences between the three candidates for President in terms of: economic policies; defense policies; taxation; urban development; energy programs, to name some of the more crucial concerns we face.

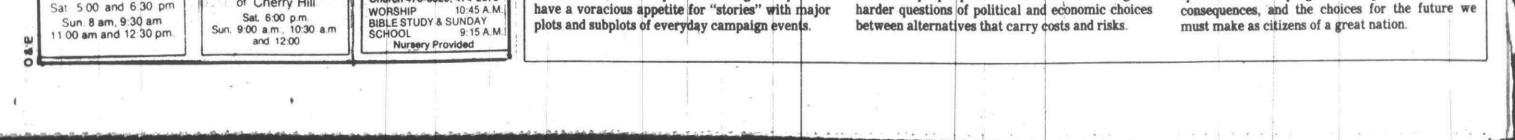

When political candidates act out a drama in politics, they emphasize form over substance, appearance over convictions, presentation over policy. Each candidate seeks to offer the kind of drama American people prefer and avoids addressing the

ONE SOMETIMES feels that candidates go through motions in public, and especially before the television cameras, that are quite distant from their inner beliefs and authentic views.

Of course, every effective leader must inspire his people and offer them a vision that unites them in pursuit of common ideals, and thus appeal to their emotions as well as their intellect.

But when we compel the aspirants for high public office to perform "on stage" we should not be surprised if their discourse deals less with fact and reason and more with "scripts," stage directions, and theatrical effects.

We need to restore to American politics the spirit of understanding and argument in which candidates speak to us about programs and policies, costs and

By JIM WINDELL

When Tom Alexander was 14 years old, his father, concerned about the young teenager hanging around on street corners, bought him a trombone. Today Tom writes music and arranges for television shows and lives in Hollywood. And guess who plays the trombone?

If you guessed Tom's father, Dr. 'Charles Alexander, you're right.

Every Thursday and Saturday night at the Sussex House, 19701 W. 12 Mile Road in Southfield, there is a doctor in the house.

In fact, there are two doctors in the house when Dr. Alexander's New Orleans Jazz Band gets together at the 16th-century English decor restaurant Jimmy Jardack built in 1969. Leader Alexander, a proctologist, is joined by banjo player Dr. Hal Carter, a radiologist.

THE MUSIC they play, with the help of four other musicians, is calculated to make everyone in the restaurant healthy. New Orleans jazz has a happy effect on the customers.

In the year the band has played regularly at the Sussex House, there have been few Thursdays and Saturdays when the barroom hasn't been packed. Not only by customers, but by other singers and musicians who frequently sit in with one of the few regularly performing New Orleans-style bands in the area

'It was terrifying at first. I thought I must sound terrible after all the years that had gone by.'

Alexander formed Dr. Alexander's New Orleans Jazz Band to play specifically at the Sussex House. After playing a benefit for an ailing musician, Alexander asked Jimmy Jardack about hiring his band.

"I liked jazz," Jarcack said recently in his restaurant, with the sound of the band in the background romping through "I've Got a Right to Sing the Blues."

"But I'm from the big band era and I didn't know if the public wanted Dixieland."

Jardack found he had to take out table space to open a dance floor for my Dorsey, Jack Teagarden and Bobby Byrnes - all outstanding trombonists.

After being away from the trombone 2 for nearly a quarter of a century and establishing himself as a success in another field, how did he get back in the swing of ensemble playing?

HE BEGAN to pick up the horn at home to "get back into it" and soon found it fun to express himself again.

Confidence in his musical abilities didn't guite match his self-assuredness in the office or when teaching medical students at Michigan State University.

"It was terrifying at first," Alexander admitted. "I thought I must sound terrible after all the years that had gone by.

Sitting in with groups around town a couple of years ago, he found himself standing behind other musicians. But it all came back, and watching him growl out a solo during a low-down version of "St. James Infirmary Blues" there is no evidence of his former timidity. What does show is his debt to some great Duke Ellington trombonists.

Completing the roster for the jazz band are Dr. Hal Carter of Grosse lle on banjo, Jimmy Amaro of Windsor on clarinet, Bill Fulmer of Grosse Pointe Park on drums, Joyce McDonald (once pianist with Jack Teagarden) of West Bloomfield on piano, Bill Hayward of Farmington Hills on tuba, Claude Lambert of Farmington Hills on trumpet and Sylvia Browning of Livonia on vo-

"The 39 Steps" (1935) and "Foreign Correspondent" (1940) at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday at Detroit Film Society in the Detroit Public Library, 5201 Woodward, phone 833-4048, $2.50. Both films both nights; running times 87 and 120 minutes.

Two of the lesser-shown works of Alfred Hitchcock mark a little-known film society's second series of films. The Detroit Film Society doesn't get much publicity, probably because it schedules only one program per month. But it has such fine pictures as "The African Queen," "A Night at the Opera" and "Yankee Doodle Dandy" lined up through June

"The 39 Steps" is one of Hitchcock's classic British films from the mid- to late-1930s which established him as a leading figure of the mystery film genre. Other pictures from that period include "The Man Who Knew Too Much" (1934), "Sabotage" (1936) and "The Lady Vanishes" (1938). In 1940, producer David O. Selznick brought, Hitchcock to the United States to make "Rebecca" and, later that year, Hitchcock made "Foreign Correspondent" for United Artists.

"Steps" and "Correspondent" represent distinct periods in Hitchcock's career, even though they were made only five years apart.

The wrong-man theme - a Hitchcock favorite is again at the heart of "The 39 Steps." Robert Donat is mistaken for a spy and chased across Scotland with Madeleine Carroll in tow. The film has a distinctly British flavor, replete with music halls, castles and an air of humor beneath the suspense.

Tom Panzenhagen

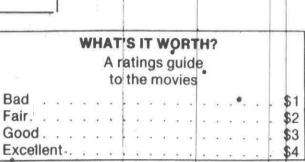

"Foreign Correspondent" is a much more forceful film with little humor and high suspense. Joel McCrea is sought by Nazis in a picture which, in another director's hands, could have turned into pulp propaganda. As is, Hitchcock's message (as delivered by McCrea) is strong and clear: "The lights are going out in Europe! Ring yourself around with steel, America."

Still, "Correspondent" is not a "message picture" per se, and it is undoubtedly one of Hitchcock's best American films. As in "The 39 Steps," viewers are almost subconsciously conditioned for suspense through a combination of visual and aural effects that heighten and heighten - like the blade of a guillotine being raised higher and higher - until, when Hitchcock is good and ready, the denouement arrives at last. Rating: $3.10.

"Fahrenheit 451" (1967) at 12:15 Friday night on Ch. 9. Originally 111 minutes.

Science fiction films of the '50s reacted to all the uncertain threats of of a burgeoning nuclear age. The message of those films, if they had one, was keep an eye on the sky lest invaders like "The Thing" or the "Phantom from Space" drop down upon us. Science and technology were responsible for society's problems during the Eisenhower years.

Sci-fi films in the '60s pointed the finger of guilt at society itself. Hitchcock in "The Birds" (1963) would suggest that one woman's fastidiousness could bring on an upheaval, and in Jean-Luc Goddard's "Alphaville" (1965) there was no longer even a pretense of cause and effect. Society as a whole was in upheaval.

Francois Truffaut directed "Fahrenheit," a film certainly more fantastic than "The Birds" while being more believable - or at least more understandable - than "Alphaville." Set in the future, "Fahrenheit" is about a society where books are banned and all information is provided by television screens. Rather than focus on how this society evolved (what force from outer space created it), as a '50s director may have, Truffaut limits himself to an examination of the society and how people in it react to it. The viewer, in turn, must take for granted that such a society exists and that he is a part of it, if not responsible for it.

Julie Christie, Oskar Warner and Cyril Cusack star; based on the nevel by Ray Bradbury. Rating: $3.30.

Salem tankers continue dual-meet domination

It's been a good week for the Plymouth Salem girls' swim team.

Coach Chuck Olson's tankers finished third last Saturday in the nine-team Redford Union relays behind two area swim powers, Livonia Stevenson and West Bloomfield.

Salem then blasted Livonia Churchill Tuesday at home in a non-league dual meet, 123-48, raising the Rocks' record to 6-1.

Olson was particularly pleased with his team's showing at RU.

"We swam real well," said Olson. "We swam intelligently. The times are about what I expected. Before the meet we did a lot of talking on how we'd swim."

Salem, which totaled 58 points, finished one spot ahead of Livonia Bentley, defending Suburban Eight League champs.

"Before the meet I was hoping we'd get in the top five," admitted Olson. "I was kind of surprised how close we were to West Bloomfield."

Stevenson totaled 92 points to grab first. West Bloomfield had 69.

"We had good turns and good starts," said Olson. It was nice to be in front of the relays, but Livonia Bentley is still the team to beat in our league. Their whole season is geared around that league meet."

The team of Debbie Darlington, Sallie Weimer, Amy Dunn and Linda Wochna gained second place in the 200yard backstroke relay with a time of 2:06.59.

Salem also performed well in the 400-yard freestyle relay (4:17.63). That second place team consisted of Kelly Brandt, Nancy Lazarus, Ellen Wall and Lisa Trahev

In diving, the Rocks' Patty Larson and Cindy McSurely finished third with a total of 1$9.80. (Complete statistics of the meet appears on page 4C).

SALEM-CHURCHILL

The Rocks won 10 of 11 events in beating winless Churchill.

Larson came through with her best diving effort of the season, a first-place finish with a total of 213.70. McSurely placed second at 191.05.

Salem first place finishers included Corinne Cabadas, 200-yard freestyle, 2:15.1; Terri Eudy, 200-yard IM, 2:28.2; Wochna, 50-yard freestyle, 28.6; Dunn, 100-yard butterfly, 1:15.74; Lazarus, 100-yard freestyle, 1:03.6; Darlington, 100-yard backstroke, 1:13.09; Karen Kohler, 100-yard breaststroke, 1:22.9.

Salem's Kim Leesch, Ruth Ettinger, Dunn and Darlington placed first in the 1:15.3; B.J. Bing, 500-free, 6:28.4.

200-yard medley relay (2:13.6) with teammates Muzette Carrol, Larson, Lindsay and McSurely grabbing third (2:28.5).

In the 400-yard freestyle relay, Salem took first again with Eudy, Wochna, Brandt and Lazarus combining for a clocking of 4:10.83.

Leesch, Pam Rode, Renee Rudin and Bth Vargenve of the Rocks garnered third (5:08.21).

Kathy Curtiss was the lone bright spot for Churchill as she took first in the 500-yard freestyle (6:19.4) and second in the 200-yard IM (2:40.8).

Rock swimmers finishing second were: Trahey, 200-free, 2:25.9; Heather Campbell, 50-free, 33.2; Weimer, 100butterfly, 1:20.7; Rudin, 100-free,

Canton harriers gain 5th at invite

By BRAD EMONS

An eight-year-old record fell on a near-perfect Tuesday afternoon of boys' cross country at the 19-team Redford Union Invitational at Cass Benton Park

Bill Courtney of Dearborn led his team to the title with a time of 15:39, breaking the previous three-mile mark held by Mike McGuire of Farmington in 1973.

Dearborn totaled 70 points as Scott Law and Doug Swancutt finished fourth and ninth respectively.

Farmington, coached by Jerry Young, finished second with 109 points. Belleville gained third (119) followed by Northville, fourth, 121; Plymouth Canton, fifth, 132; and Westland John Glenn, sixth, 178. Redford Union, which hosted the meet, placed seventh with 208. "This is our best finish in an invitational," said Young. "Our kids did real well. We're starting to come along. "We've always done well here, and I don't know why. It was a real good team effort." Farmington, which won the title for four straight years and finished second the last two, used its depth to gain second. Bill Atkinson finished eighth overall. Bill Anglin and Tom Feiten grabbed 16th and 17th spots, respectively.

Young was also pleased with Dave Denny's 24th-place finish, his best showing of the year.

NORTHVILLE SENIOR Clark Couvoumjian ran another strong race, placing second with a time of 15:59. His brother, Harry, won the same event last year. Northville's Scott Dayton and Dave Malinkowski finished the course in seventh and 12th respectively.

Belleville coach Dave Medley was kicking himself after the meet.

He had three junior varsity runners who beat his fifth man.

"We could have had second place had I inserted the right guys," said Medley. "That's the beauty of coaching."

The regular season is over, and now it's tournament time for the Plymouth Salem boys' golf team.

The Rocks, who ended another fine year Saturday with a 12th-place finish in the prestigious Bedford Invitational, will host the Class A regional Friday at Brae Burn. Play begins at 10 a.m.

"Hopefully, I can bring you good news," said Salem coach Bob Waters, whose team won the event last year.

Salem's golfers battled the elements Saturday in the 28-team event

"It was very cold and wet," said Waters. "We left before it was all over. It's the premier high school boys tournament in the state.

"It brings the top teams from Class A and B, and also five teams from Ohio.'

Mandle finds his niche as passer

Rusty Mandle is a gifted young athlete.

That's the only way you can describe the 6-foot-2, 195-pound graduate from Plymouth Canton High School.

He was a three-sport standout as a prep. He would go from football to basketball to baseball.

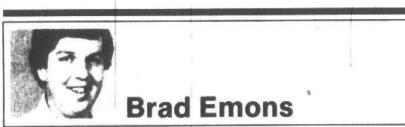

As a senior, Mandle rushed for over 1,000 yards as a tailback in a wishbone offense. In basketball he helped Canton to then its best season ever as a guard and later in the same year developed a strong throwing arm from the catcher's position for coach Fred Crissey's baseball team.

The former Chief got a few "nibblers" from nearby colleges upon graduation.

Grand Valley expressed interest, but Mandle shyed away. He wanted to play football at Toledo University, but the scholarship terms between the two parties changed for the worse after the initial offer.

Instead, Mandle decided to enroll at Saginaw Valley State College, an NCAA Division II school, with the intent of playing baseball

He played baseball and gave basketball a shot, too. He made the basketball team as a freshman last year and later quit, saying he'd perferred "unorganized basketball."

Mandle decided to go out for football in August. Head coach Frank "Muddy" Waters took the job at Michigan State and new coach Jim Larkin, a large Abe Gibron-type, was in command.

"The guys on the team told me to go out for quarterback," recalls Mandle. "They suggested it. I was thinking about playing defensive back."

Mandle, a walk-on, was up against three freshman recruits.

He impressed Larkin in the pre-season Red-White scrimmage and the rest is history, at least through Saginaw's first five games.

Mandle, who prefers roll-out type passing, has started all five games for the Cardinals, now sporting a 4-1 record.

The Canton graduate has already made a name for himself in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC). He currently leads the league in passing and was named "NAIA District 23 Player of the Week," Encouraged by his college friends, for his performance last Saturday against Hillsdale in a come-from-behind 21-17 triumph.

Mandle threw for 281 yards, completing 12 of 25 passes. He completed many of those passes under lion-like pressure from the Hillsdale defense. He hit speedster Melvin Matthews with a 60-yard TD toss and later hit a 35-yard strike, after scrambling back-andforth, to Matthews on a key third down situation with 31 yards to go.

"I can see more of the field when I'm throwing on the run," he explained. "I threw twice as many passes against Hillsdale as I had before. You've got to be in shape.

"I tried to condition myself as best I could this summer. Right now I'm just getting by. Last summer I threw only

Mandle says "football is a little harder. You have to know more. I'd say I spend three to four hours a day on it." He has been able to overcome a pair of nagging injuries.

"Evansville was a very physical team," he recalls. "I bruised my spine in that one and got hurt in the Central State (Ohio) game two weeks ago. I pulled a muscle behind my sternum and couldn't breath.

"Last week I felt good."

Mandle, who wants to get into the field of business management, gave Hillsdale headaches all day long with his Fran Tarkenton-like scrambling. He also led the Cardinals in rushing.

"We're more of a power team," he said, "and yesterday (Tuesday) we worked on nothing but the running game for our game this week against Grand Valley.

And how did Mandle react to his being named "Player of the Week."

"It's a good feeling, that's for sure," he said.

Mandle is the first Canton football player to make a name for himself in the NCAA ranks.

Based on his performance in the first five games Mandle is a sure bet to win a scholarship during Saginaw's second

And with a little more experience, who knows what lies beyond?

He fires up his teammates on the sidelines and plays with reckless abandon.

That's his style. He knows no other way to get the job done.

Burnstein satisfied with net progress

The Plymouth Canton girls' tennis team pulled off a rare doubleheader sweep Monday on its home courts.

Coach Cyndi Burnstein's netters virtually assured themselves of second place in the Western Six League with a pair of 4-3 victories over Farmington Harrison.

Canton's Marianne Pink won her match No. 3 singles, beating Therese Moehlman 6-2, 7-6, while Kris Harrison edged Jill Taylor of Harrison at No. 4 singles 75-, 6-3.

Harrison won two of three doubles matches, but Canton scored its winning point when Barb Rupprecht and Ann

In the feature match at No. 1 singles, Eileen McGlinn of Canton lost of Joelle Lukasiewicz, 6-1, 6-F.

The two victories lifted Canton's overall record to 6-3 and 5-2 in the league behind defending champ Northville. Harrison dropped to 3-5 overall and 3-4 in the league.

ginning at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Northville, which beat Canton for the second time in a dual a week ago Wednesday, 6-1, is the clear-cut favor-

Burnstein. 'It's not dumb speculation that we would have had a better team had Joan Keiser played No. 1 singles for us.

"That would have moved everybody down a spot in singles, and I feel we could have challenged Northville. "It's really a shame that Joan couldn't play for us."

Senior center Cheryl Sobkow scored 26 points and grabbed 16 rebounds to lead Plymouth Salem to a 59-39 Suburban Eight League girls' basketball win over Dearborn Edsel Ford.

Salem is 8-0 overall and 4-0 in the league. The Rocks will meet Livonia Bentley (4-0) in a league showdown Thursday.

A big third quarter by Sobkow, powered Salem to the 20-point win. She scored 14 points in that period to give the Rocks an insurmountable 47-26 lead.

"We made them spread out their zone," explained Salem coach Bob Blohm. "Eileen Moore and Jan MacKenzie did a great job of hitting Cheryl cutting through the middle. They threw her some dynamite passes.

"I was concerned about this game. We had to beat Edsel Ford with Bentley coming up. This was a must game for us."

MacKenzie, a junior forward, scored 14 points. Moore, also a junior, added six points, 10 rebounds and seven assists.

"In the first quarter, I thought we set the tempo," said Blohm, whose team raced out to an 18-8 advantage. "I thought we played very well."

The stingy Rock defense stymied Edsel Ford in the third quarter, holding the Thunderbirds scoreless through the first five minutes.

"(Jacque) Merrifield and (Carol) Ross gave us solid games defensively," Blohm said. "Edsel Ford is best at the fast break. We didn't want to get into a running game with them.

"In the third quarter we played excellent defense," said the Salem coach. We held them to 17 points in the second Most area golf teams will compete in a state regional at either Brae Burn or Burroughs Farm tomorrow. Plymouth Salem will host at Brae Burn.

The top three teams at each regional will qualify for the state finals, which will be played Oct. 18 in Battle Creek (Class A).

Like old wine, Billy Golembiewski seems to be improving with age.

Now a member of the classic league at Bel-Aire, he has been on a scoring spree and currently is averaging 221 That is the highest average boasted by any of the all-stars in the metropolitan area's major leagues.

In the years he has been piling up scores on the area lanes since he came here from Grand Rapids, Billy has been in many an exciting duel. But none of those would beat the battle he won last week

When the final pin fell, Golembiewski found himself in the pacemaking role and the winner wasn't decided until the last ball

He posted a 655, but that was only one pin better than Dave Brandenberg and four pins better than Paul Bettner. who wound up in third place with 651.

DICK BEATTIE continued his high scoring in the mixed classic at Westland Bowl when he linked games of 279,236 and 243 for 758

He needed every pin as Bob Goike Jr. was right behind with 755, made possible by a 280 finishing game after counts of 268 and 207. Carl Wysocky landed third with 710.

WALT SMITH drew the spotlight at Woodland Lanes and for a good reason He linked games of 237,257 and 225 for 715. It was the first barrier-breaking series in the house this season.

ONE OF THE most hotly contested battles of the season was fought in the Bowlerettes league at Luxury Lanes Monday night when Marge Kropacek, the Canton housewife, pitted her Mr. F team against Penny Behn's Bonanza squad.

Each team bettered the 1000 mark during the three games. Marge's team had games of 1099,929 and 952, while Penny's team opened with 1025, followed with 1082 and closed with 978 for 3085

LEANDRA STAWSKI had one of the best weeks of the season. A member of the Mr. F. team she paced the women in the mixed league at Westland with 604 and followed by taking high single game in the Bowlerettes with 260.

SCORES WERE on the upgrade at Farmington Lanes and Doug Demarois walked off with top honors by posting a 248 in 678 in the Monday men's league.

Right behind him came Guy Haneckou with 257 in 657, Bob Clappian with 257 in 636 and Rudy Pearson with 235 in 644

ONE OF THE ODDEST triplicates of the season was turned in by the Rutherford Electric team at Cloverlanes when it came up with three identical games of 720.

The members of the team were Marc Rutherford, Chris Rutherford, Adam Oleszkowicz, Trudy Oleszkowicz and Tom Tanski
