Wild police chase triggers sticky questions

By ARLENE FUNKE

What kinds of police incidents or suspected crimes justify the potential danger of a high-speed chase along city streets or highways?

Police admit that chasing a suspect can be risky, and should be justified by the "gravity" of the alleged incident.

Consider this scenario, which took place earlier this week: The radio in a police car blurts a message of a shooting in the city of Wayne.

A "subject" (suspect) in a white Toyota truck has escaped in that incident and is driving through western Wayne County "shooting at police."

That message last Monday afternoon prompted a chase that reached speeds bor. Wayne police believe Adams, 37, of 80-100 mph, according to a witness. There were unsuccessful roadblocks along the route, which went from the city of Wayne through Canton Township and into Washtenaw County.

THIRTY OFFICERS from the city of Wayne, the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, Ann Arbor and the Michigan State Police chased the truck along Michigan Avenue, onto I-275, along Ford Road, north on M-14, onto U.S. 23. It ended north of Ann Arbor when the suspect, Lawrence Adams of Garden City, was forced off the road and shot.

He died several hours later in Uniwersity of Michigan Hospital in Ann Ar-

Police said Shellswell lived at the motel with his wife. Adams, who had been staying at the motel since late September had recently been evicted by the manager.

Family members told police that Adams' marriage broke up six years ago. Adams had been laid off from Ford Motor Co.'s Transmission Plant in chase. But in recent weeks, injuries or deaths from these Starsky-and-Hutch stunts have sparked criticism.

For example, a 17-year-old woman recently was critically injured in Westland. Her car collided with a vehicle driven by a man police suspected of holding up a florist shop.

A Clawson man was thrown through his windshield and killed last week when the van he was driving collided with the car of a suspected shoplifter who was being chased by police.

In Monday's incident, Canton Township Police officials decided against dispatching cars or trying to set up a roadblock.

"By the time the vehicle had arrived in Canton, there already were 18 cars involved." said Police Chief Jerry Cox. "It seemed fruitless to make it number

Cox said he discourages high-speed chases. The exceptions, he said, are in cases of serious assaults, suspected homicides cr thefts involving large amounts of money (such as a bank robbery), or if giving chase were the only way a suspect could be identified.

But often the decision to chase boils down to an individual officer's percep-

"The primary criterion is the gravity of the crime," said Cox. "There is justifiable controversy. The patrol officer has the information.'

Sometimes a routine traffic stop "snowballs" into a chase if the motorist is trying to cover up a previous crime, said Cox.

"In that situation (this week), you had an individual who had shot at least one person (and) who was fleeing and hanging out the window shooting.'

ANDREW PRUNER knows well how dangerous that situation was.

Pruner, 41, a Wayne County deputy sheriff, took part in the chase and was instrumental in catching up with

Renewal date tagged for school millage

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education has reserved Thursday, Jan. 22, as a special election date in the school

The election is being scheduled to seek voter approval of a renewal of 10.36 mills now being levied for opera-

Although the school board is considering asking voters to approve a bond issue and possibly a request for additional millage, only the tax renewal will be on the Jan. 22 ballot.

Carol Davis, board president, indicated the school board still is in the discussion stage on whether to task for a bond issue.

Dr. John Hoben, superintendent of schools, told trustees the timetable was really too tight to put a bond issue on the January ballot.

Tom Yack, trustee, said the board has a lot of massive planning to accomplish for school year 1981-82 to implement grade re. lignment and expansion of Extended School Year (ESY) and needs to know how much money will be available for the following year.

Board holds line in '81 budget

For the second year in a row, Canton officials have adopted an operating budget which totals less than that of the previous year.

The 1981 budget, effective Jan. 1 balances revenues and expenditures at $3.93 million That's $200,000 less than the $4.1 million budget revised in midyear for 1980. Actual revenues now are expected to total only $3.95 million by year's end, because of a sharp decline in building permit revenues.

The adopted budget for 1981 carries a net, half-mill decrease as well as a drop in the bottom line.

An expected $1 million increase in state revenues offsets much of the loss in tax dollars. A hike in the township's state equalized value (SEV) and a corresponding increase in the value of one mill brings expected 1981 revenues within $20,000 of actual revenues predicted for this year.

State revenues are expected to increase dramatically in 1981 because of this year's census, which pegged Canton's population at 48,000. Only 11,000 residents were counted in Canton during the previous federal census in 1970.

The $3.93 million operating budget was adopted by the Township Board Tuesday night along with a $1.4 million budget for the police department and and a $1.3 million budget for the fire department.

MILLAGE RATES for police, fire and the general fund were approved by the board in September. Property owners will realize a net, half-mill decrease because of the total amounts adopted for all three. The board has juggled the total amounts of the three millage rates in an effort to improve accouting procedures.

Last year, property owners paid 5 mills ($5 per $1,000 assessed valuation) for the general operations, 3.25 mills for police and 1.25 mills for fire. However, two of the five general operating mills were transferred to the fire department to meet actual costs. None of the 2.5 operating mills which will be levied in 1981 will be transferred to other budgets. Both the police and fire millages have been set at 3.25

Finance director Mike Gorman called the 1981 budget a "minimal" one. "But it doesn't cut out any services at this point," he said.

The budget provides for three new positions — an industrial coordinator, a secretary for the industrial coordinator and a part-time aide for the grants department. Salaries for all three positions have been placed in the "cemetery fund" in an effort to force department heads to justify the new hires at a the further implementation of a farmland preservation program. Most other line items have been kept close to 1980

BOARD MEMBERS approved all three budgets by a 4-1 vote Tuesday night. Trustee Eugene Daley dissented. Trustee Robert Greenstein and Clerk John Flodin were absent from the meeting.

Gorman said revenues in last year's operating budget also dipped below revenues of the previous year. A decrease in state revenues and building department fees accounted for the lowered bottom line in the 1980 budget.

Administrators have based projections for 1981 building revenues on only 80 housing starts. About 500 housing starts were predicted originally for 1980. But Gorman said only about 50 have been reported by the building de-

In case of Tisch OK

Schools develop plan for cutbacks

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education has been given a contingency plan to implement in case voters approve the Tisch tax-cutting plan on Nov. 4.

The proposal has been developed by the central administration which estimates the school district will lose between $11 to $15 million in income if Proposal D is approved.

Dr. John M. Hoben, superintendent of schools, says a loss of $11 million would mean a drastic curtailment of programs and services.

If Tisch passes, Hoben added, some 500 to 700 school employees would be laid off including 200 classroom teach-

Besides a shortened school day and/ or school year, a budget cut of $11 million also would mean elimination of: all reading teachers; elementary music, art and physical education teachers; counselors; athletic and band programs; librarians; roof replacement; asphalt repair; and aides.

Cut by 50 percent would be the special education program and custodial services, and transportation services would be cut by 25 percent.

Also to be eliminated, according to Hoben, would be the bus replacement program, more than 30 secretarialclerical positions and more than 20 administrative positions.

THE SMITH-BULLARD proposal (Proposal A) provides equal funding for every student in the state through a five-year phase-in period by 1986-87 school year, said Hoben, but critics claim spending equal dollars per child statewide will not result in equal educational opportunities

While Proposal A yields Plymouth-Canton more dollars in the early phasein years, Hoben added, it is projected the funding would fall behind the present method of financing before the five years are completed. The proposal also shifts the reduction in property tax to an income tax, said Hoben, and the income tax is a less stable source of revenue than property

The legislative-gubernatorial coalition plan (Proposal C) would result in a net revenue loss to Plymouth-Canton Schools of $157,000 during the first year of 1981-82, according to Hoben.

Proposal C would reduce local property tax for most homeowners from $350 to $400 per year while the state sales tax would increase from 4 to 5.5

The sales tax also is a less stable revenue source than the property tax.

THE SCHOOL administration urges residents to consider the following when voting on Nov. 4:

· All three tax proposals are independent of each other.

· The status quo will remain in effect should none of the proposals pass.

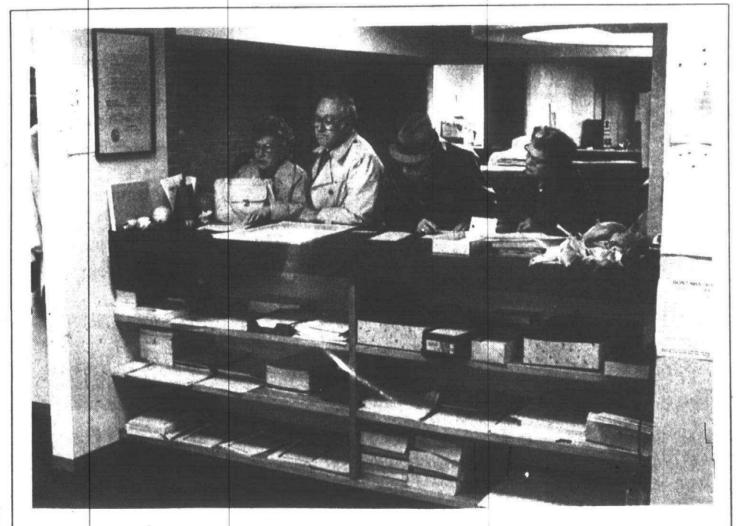

· The voter needs to vote on all three proposals. It is necessary to vote "no" on a given proposal to defeat it, not just "yes" for another proposal.

· The three plans (A,C,D) have many conflicting provisions. If more than one proposition were to pass, the Michigan Supreme Court would rule on conflicting provisions, letting the plan with the highest vote prevail. Where there is no conflict, those portions of all the approved proposals will be implemented.

· For any of the tax proposals to pass, it must receive more than 50 percent approval by the voters.

Another nod for Ronnie

Ronald Reagan was the popular choice for U.S. President in a mock election conducted Monday and Tuesday in Plymouth Canton High School.

Reagan received 318 votes to Carter's 271 votes in balloting conducted by the American government classes at Canton High.

More than 770 students voted, or about 40 percent of the eligible student

In the presidential voting, independent John Anderson ran in third place with 101 votes.

AN ATTEMPT was made to inform students about the candidates and ballot issues before the mock election was conducted, said Audrey Etienne, social studies teacher at Canton High.

All government students, for instance, received information about the statewide ballot proposals and then visited other classes in the high school to explain the pros and cons of each ballot

Team patrols on Halloween

Members of the Plymouth Area RE-ACT Team will be patrolling the Plymouth-Canton area during the Halloween period, beginning tonight.

The team this year, as it has for the past four years, will patrol the greater Plymouth community on Oct. 30, 31.

REACT will have a minimum of eight vehicles patrolling each night. The patrol will concentrate on the schools and other public buildings along with the residential areas.

The object of the patrol is to become extra "eyes and ears" for the local police, explains Charles E. VanVleck, president and commander.

"We want to help keep our children safe on Halloween night and to help prevent needless destruction on 'Devils Night," explained VanVleck

Each member of the patrol has been trained in first aid, cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR), and were taught traffic control procedures by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Each vehicle on patrol will be in contact with a central base station by CB radio so that any oroblems can be reported quickly to the local police.

Following are their remarks on leghave been edited for purposes of conserving space.

Question: The township treasurer is a legislator as well as an administrator. What programs do you plan to pursue of introduce as a member of the Township Board?

Maria Falkiewicz: Number one,

Canton's two treasurer candidates ture of money which goes before the Township Board has to go on a form which goes throughout this building before it's placed on the agenda. We should handle things more professionally on that level. I realize we have some problems with our ordinances. We're not as receptive to the people, the business community or whatever. That all takes proper planning. There are items which are on the agenda which shouldn't be on the agenda. They should be administrative decisions. There are things that are handled administratively which should be agenda items.

James Kearney: We need to broaden our industrial tax base. We need to prioritize essential services and budget for those essential services.

As far as industrialization, I think it's absolutely necessary that we start developing within the next two years a broader program for a tax base. Plymouth and the other areas have started already. They will get ahead of us. In order to do that, we've made one step forward with the highway supplement program that has come through. I think we can offer an incentive program of three minutes to rebut the opposing free tap-in fees and utility hook-ups or railroad hook-ups.

"I think also on farmland preservaislative priorities. Some of the answers tion we're in the right area. We have to find out how strong the laws are upholding our zoning ordinance so we know how fast to come with the rest of the program. We need to propose that the state produce a farmland abatement program to remove taxes from those farmlands which are not used as personal property. We need to continue would be more effective planning and to fund and appropriate through investutilitization of our staff as far as agenments funds farmland preservation. I da items. All items that are expendithink that, in a law-type approach, allows us to say we're continuing with farmland preservation and protects our zoning ordinance.

Those are my two strong legislative priorities. Other than that, if the Tisch amendment comes through, I would propose that we shut down the recreation department, that we shorten up the planning department and transfer many items to Wade, Trim (consulting firm). We could reduce the ordinance department to some extent and transfer it over to the police department. My thinking on that line is that ordinance is law enforcement, and law enforcement is regularly part of the police procedures.

Falkiewicz: As far as commercial and industrial, that is a priority in this township. I think every candidate recognizes that. We can all speak about it, but none of us have the expertise to know how to carry it through. Internally, we have met with an industrial coordinator and discussed what our needs are and how we should get started. There have been steps taken to go into that direction. I believe our budget, if it is approved, will include an industrial coordinator. We have forwarded people for tax abatements. Our problem is that there is no one person in here (to coordinate this.) We've lost a lot of business.

Farmland preservation should be addressed immediately. They should get it onto the agenda for discussion. They should invite people who are directly affected. They shouldn't be holding those properties anymore. One way or another, this has to be resolved. If they decide to go further and they can't get funding, then they will have to go to the

with the final say so.

After that, it would be prudent to set up industrial-type financing program and also work on farmland preservation with state representatives.

Maria Falkiewicz: Number one, is the tax preparation. There has to be a know what is happenning with their tax dollars. There are changes and procedures we're working on right now. Inform them, let them know. I feel the treasurer is going to have to devote a ment. The tax area is a problem because we collect only once a year and we have to bring part-timers in.

It's going to take awhile to be able to implement the new computers. It's going to take Mike Gorman and myself and others about three days a week to be able to write all the policies and procedures for the input. The treasurer's department will be the first to go on computer.

Kearney: I'd like to go back to farmlot of time to the treasurer's depart- land preservation. I think it's very possible to propose to the state that we have abatement program. We could have the law changed to allow farmers to come under the Economic Development program and give them lower interest rates than what they're forced to buy at now.

I believe the treasurer department should float those bonds and take care of the administration of those bonds. I think it can be done with the people we have available now

But Kearney, the Republican candidate, questions the need for a full-time treasurer at this time. Ms. Falkiewicz maintains that the position is badly

Following are their remarks on the added responsibilities of the treasurer's job:

Question: The treasurer's position soon will become a full-time job for the first time in Canton's history. What do you see as the added responsibilities of the full-time treasurer?

Kearney: By law, the treasurer's position is supposed to do three things. It's mandated to take care of the tax receipts and preprepare the tax bills. It is to see that the money is invested.

I'm not actually sure we need a full-time treasurer at the present time. As I see the job function itself, it is nice to have a full-time treasurer. One of the things I will do is eliminate the deputy treasurer position on a full-time basis, because I don't think there's enough work to take care of it.

Priority-wise, the treasurer sure make sure we get all the tax receipts. We should be after those taxes which are delinquent. I think we can be a little more current in that situation. I would work to revise the accounts payable position. I would propose to the board of trustees that they remove from the finance department the issuance of bonds and also for providing information to the bonds rating service.

Other than that, I think revisions can be made in preparation of tax bills to make that area more efficient so there isn't such a jam-up at year end.

As for other financial areas, it should be responsibility of treasurer to provide additional coordination in the area of budgets. The full-time treasurer could change the purchasing procedure used in the township. That definitely could be made more efficient.

Falkiewicz: As for added responsibilities in tax preparation, the part-time treasurer has never been able to get into the assessment area, which by law is supervisor. There is no check and balance between tax board of review, all the petitions and so forth. We found there were assessments not added to the roll. There has been no cross check, but there has been no one to do these things.

I have to state that I think there should be a fulltime treasurer. You cannot handle the things you have to handle efficiently without that. As far as the deputy, that's still questionable. The investment ш program alone can take 20 to 40 hours a week.

Purchasing, payables have changed drastically in the last year. By December, we'll eliminate one girl in accounts payable totally. We're going into central purchasing. The (new) computer (system approved by the Township Board) will be a tool.

We've saved hundreds of thousands of dollars in procedures we've set up.

Handling the legislative end and the board and the administrative duties is totally opposite. To handle both of them and the department heads and all the information you have to present, to be able to be here on a full-time basis and make the proper recommendations to the trustees is very, very im-

Kearney: I would like to add a couple things.

As for the investment program, there would probably be disagreements between Maria and I as to which direction the investment program should go. I'm sure Maria would like to go in areas other than securities which are backed by the U.S. government. I am to some extent for that but only on triple A long-term things.

I am not for short-term securities in any institutions other than banks. Given the current conditions, it's far too risky to risk taxpayer money in

In the future, it's the responsibility of the treasurer to coordinate with finance director the uses and investments of those moneys. The township will be forced to make sure it has funds available before it can allocate them to any expense.

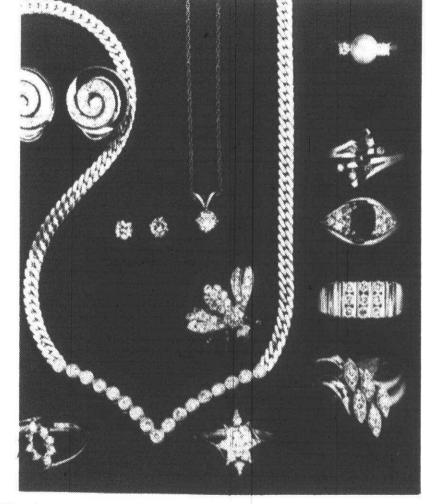

Falkiewicz: There is a new budget act which goes into effect in January. All the preparation which we have done to get to this is a plus. Fortunately, we are one of the townships which have been written up well in reports to the attorney general.

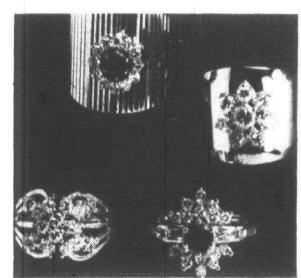

I think the financial situation in this township today is so much better than any others.

I'm very cautious on investments. I did not have any experience in investments when I came in. In investments, the short-term draws us the extra money we make. If you need the money on Monday, you can invest it on Friday. I get a dated cash chart of what we have. I invest everything I can get my hands on. Trying to keep that organized could be very difficult. You have to pay exact attention towhat you're doing. It is something you cannot or should not delegate to just anyone. I see it as a very responsible position. I feel up to this that (the board) never considered the importance of this department."

Here's a bird's-eye view of presidential debate

By TERI BANAS

While President Jimmy Carter and Gov. Ronald Reagan faced the nation at their first public one-on-one debate Tuesday in Cleveland, Jim Copeland was on the sidelines, sizing up their performances.

Copeland was selected by the Associated Press wire service to judge the debate along with six other national forensic experts. It was their assignment to listen, watch and report to the nation on the question - "Who won?"

Copeland is a Michigan native who now teaches at Marquette University High School in Milwaukee. His parents, Virginia and Bill Morrison, live in Plymouth.

THERE WAS NO clear cut victory for either candidate, according to the seven judges, who based their judgments on the guidelines from the American Association Forensic Ballot. Six were split between Carter and Reagan and one judge was undecided. He later said if he was forced to decide, he would give the victory to Reagan based on his "super delivery."

Copeland, himself, gave a narrow victory to Carter.

"I felt they were equally disorganized and did not stick to the questions," he said. "Both provided a shallow anal-Copeland said one Carter flaw was his constant attempt to challenge and "jab" at Reagan's statements "He came off as really brusk and debatish. And I don't think the American public wants that.

He said, the debate's outcome would rejuvenate momentum in the Reagan

THE SEVEN panelists rated the candidates on a scale of one to five in several categories. They rated candidates' performances in analysis, evidence, reasoning, refutation and delivery.

While some judges traveled to Cleveland, others were hooked into the debate at their homes. Copeland was based at a Wisconsin television station, where he later provided a political commentary.

Prior to the debate, Copeland said Reagan needed to avoid his much publicized "off-handed" comments.

He also believed then that Carter would concentrate on Reagan's performance as California governor and would attempt to contrast recent opinion changes with statements the former governor made in the mid-'60s and Copeland said Carter's "best chances" were in his access to detailed government reports which he later proved in providing the "evidence" most judges detected.

Despite the public importance placed on such presidential debates, Copeland suggested that voters base Copeland believed the debate would their final decision on information in newspaper stories and editorials. "You should contrast the two positions and seek out independent sources such as books and editorials.'

"However, deciding how you will vote based on a presidential televized debate is probably better than deciding from the bumper stickers you read, or what your boss or union chief has to

"What really frazzles me is some people who watch the debate may get the wrong conclusion, but at least they tried. Those who don't watch the debate - I don't know what they're basing their vote on. Certainly, the format is not as good as it might be but at least it's better than watching the 'Dukes of Hazzard' or other such nonsense.'

SINCE THE '70s Copeland has co-authored several textbooks on debate tactics for college and high school students. He has coached several national high school debate team winners. In addition to teaching in Milwaukee, he provides weekly political commentaries for televison and radio stations in

Now 41-years-old, he grew up in Ann Arbor and was a 1957 national debate

As a judge in previous presidential debates, he followed the 1976 Carter-Ford debates and the Reagan-Anderson debate this year.

"In the Ford-Carter debate, security was extremely heavy as there had been two assassination attempts on Ford by that time," he said. "Security officers spent three hours combing that auditorium with dogs sniffing for explosives.

"During hour and a half technical rehearsal, Ford was quite relaxed and spent his time joking with his wife, Betty. The difference in the Carter camp was pronounced. His press secretary, Jody Powell, and other kept firing questions away and proved to be quite accurate in their research.

One area of concern in the election was a straw vote in the 15th Congressional District where Rep. William D. Ford, D-Taylor, is being challenged by Ron Carlson, a member of the American Nazi Party who has filed as a Republican.

An attempt was made to make students aware of Carlson's Nazi affiliation and to make sure students knew what the Nazi Party stood for.

With that effort being made, Carlson still fared well, gathering 236 votes to Ford's 299 votes.

Candidates ponder issues

I think our growing pains are down and we'll be getting different issues. The main thing is to address issues and get it over with it and then address the next issue.

Kearney: I'd like to disagree with Maria on one point, and that's the industrial coordinator. I don't think it's necessary to have an industrial coordinator. If the planning department is doing its job properly, they should be able to determine what we need to do.

"As a board member, it would be part of your performance as a treasurer to have the financial ideas that are necessary and how to implement them. I don't think budgetary-wise, it's feasible for us to hire a full-time industrial coordinator. We could transfer an individual who already is in government to

Pruner said the most frightening moment came after he had fired six shots from his service revolver at the truck and didn't have time to reload.

"He (Adams) had the shotgun cradled in his left arm resting on the door," said Pruner. "I was scared. I can still remember the shotgun staring me in the face.

"The state police had closed ranks behind me, shooting over my head at the truck," added Pruner.

At that point, Pruner said he rammed his car against the truck, forcing it off the road into an embankment. Moments later, the state police officers and Pruner pulled Adams from the truck.

Pruner said Tuesday that ballistics tests were being taken. It was undetermined which officer fired the fatal shot, he said

"It seems it had to end the way it did," said Pruner. "He didn't want to give up. We gave him every opportunity.'

the industrial coordinator job as a promotion."

Hopefuls set goals

Maria talks about the computers. I was not for the computer at this time. I think there are other priorities which should be taken care of.

One of those priorities is the police department. I think that one of my first priorities is to see how the polire department is doing and what I can to help them stretch their dollars, whether through the best investments or timing of their expenses.

Training and development of employees is another important program.

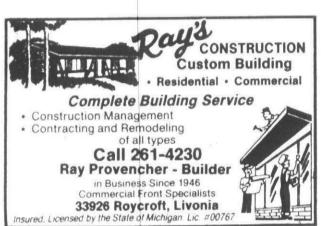

Falkiewicz: As far as delegation on investments, the paperwork is being done by someone else. I have been asked to teach investments. I've been to many seminars. Many of the treasurers in other areas have called me and asked me to send their programs to them. We have to be very organized on these types of program. You have to be careful in delegating. We're talking about millions of dollars. The treasurer doesn't do it alone. It takes the cooperation of your staff.

think the most important thing with all employees is the training. Unfortunately, it's been very difficult for people in the past year because of the changes that have been made (in the treasurer's department).

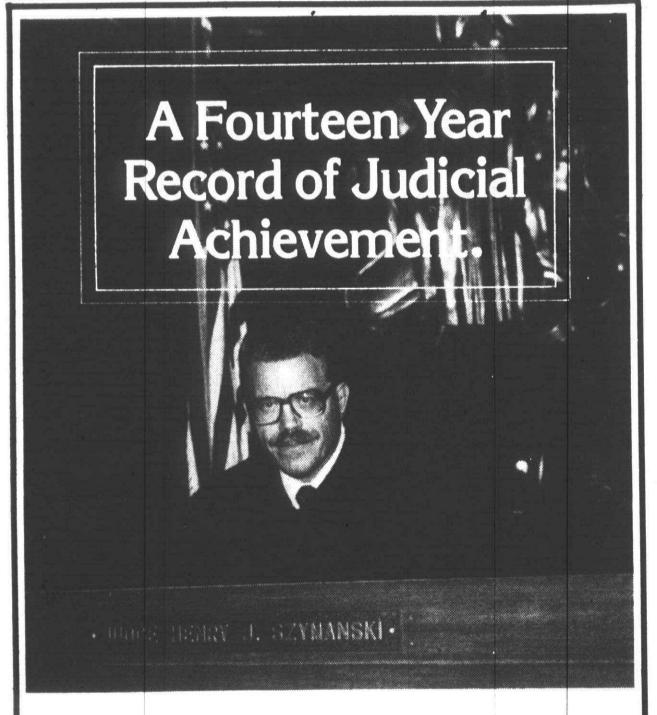

Board maps plans

Based on an analysis done by the administration, the impact of each proposal on a family of three in Plymouth-Canton would be: Proposal A, an increase in total taxes from $1,821 to $1,951 (assuming local voters approved enrichment property tax millage and property tax dropped from $800 to $490) and income tax rose from $920 to $1,300 with a new income tax rate of 6.5 percent; Proposal C, a decrease from $1,821 to $1,662 in total taxes assuming sales tax rises from $368 to $506 and property taxes drop from $800 to $516; and Proposal D, a decline in total taxes from $1,821 to $1441 with the only change being a decline in property taxes from $800 to $360.

Brickley rallies forces for Tisch defeat

By TOM LONERGAN

As the Nov. 4 election nears, a campaign to defeat the Tisch tax-cut plan (Proposal D) will "bring the people of this state to their senses," Lt. Gov. James Brickley told a gathering of local government officials last week.

Brickley, who is backing an alternative plan, Proposal C, spoke at Schoolcraft College Thursday before the General Assembly of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEM-

State and local government officials have stressed that Tisch, which would cut property taxes 60 percent by reducing property assessments to half of their 1978 levels, will cause "devastating" cuts in government services.

A SPOKESMAN for Tisch said Friday that Gov. Milliken was "using elected officials in Lansing to shake down lobbyists and special interest groups to finance a campaign of decep-

McMaster said next year's recommended budget for the state police from the state Office of Management and Budget (OMB) was $12 million more than the past budget year's $138 million. The Michigan Legislature adjourned earlier this month without passing a new budget.

In his speech, Brickley cited a nationwide study showing "85 percent of people are dissatisfied with the performance of government," but added that Michigan voters have a recent history of "avoiding radical proposals."

Skunks invade neighborhoods

Residential neighborhoods in the city of Plymouth have been invaded recently - by skunks.

Kenneth Vogras, director of the department of public works, says the DPW has been receiving calls from residents about of skunks in their neighborhood.

Residents who are experiencing a skunk problem, says Vogras, should be sure there is no exposed garbage or lumber piles in the area to entice

Skunks generally are harmless, added Vogras, but if they are cornered or attacked by dogs they will "defend themselves the only way they know how."

Residents also are asked to keep their dogs confined or on a leash while walking the dog, particularly during the evening hours.

In case a dog is sprayed by skunk, Vogras says the best thing to do is give the dog a bath in tomato juice, allow the animal to dry, and then bath it with a shampoo.

Any person knowing the whereabouts of skunks' living quarters are asked to notify the DPW at 453-7737 and the city will send out a

Who wants to learn how to build an ice shanty?

By LEM MESEE Outdoors writer

My ice fishing buddy, C.O. Jones, must be getting old. He has always braved the elements while on a winter lake jigging for 'gills or crappies.

"I've been thinking of building a shanty," C.O. mumbled the other day, as if he were embarrassed to admit it. "Any ideas?"

Most shanties I've seen have been little shacks that were left on a lake all winter and towed off late in the season. There are tents available, but I've seen few in use

My own idea would be to construct one with hinged walls so you could fold it down and store it in the garage during warm weather.

Talk about coincidences! Tony Brehler from the Four Seasons Fishing Club came by the other day with the announcement of their Nov. 5 meeting, and guess what:

"Highlighting the meeting will be a demonstraation on ice shanty construction plus fishing tips and films. The Four Seasons is a family-oriented fishing club, and guests are always wel-

FROM THE Michigan Legislature comes word that several changes have been made in the state's snowmobile with the secretary of state when purchased or when you transfer owner-

Snowmobiles must be registered

Snowmobiles need not be registered if they are used only on lands owned by the snowmobile owner (or for safety education programs).

The new law raises the three-year snowmobile registration price to $15 from $9. By my calculation, that's a 67 percent increase. But it's the sort of thing we expected with the Headlee "tax limitation" amendment. A snowmobile registration isn't a tax.

The $6 increase will go into a recreational snowmóbile trail improvement fund administered by the state Department of Natural Resources. It is expected to raise $650,000 a year. The rego into the general fund.

TAKING YOUR scout group out for some winter camping? Four National Forest campgrounds in Michigan are available. Three are in the lower penin-

· The Bowman Bridge Campground near Baldwin is available to Nov. 20 and has a capacity of 80.

· Luzerne Trail Camp, near Mio, is open to Dec. 1 and has a capacity of 50.

· South Branch Trail Camp near Tawas is open to Nov. 1 and has a capacity of 250.

Fees range from $10 for groups of 50 or less to $60 for groups of 200 or more. For information, contact the Huron-maining $9 of the fee will continue to Manistee National Forest headquarters in Cadillac at 616-775-2421.

> We all may be getting better acquainted with the national forests if, as our leaders in Lansing say, 76 of our 84 Michigan state parks are closed if Proposal D passes Nov. 4.

"BIRD BANQUETS and Winter Feeding Stations" is the title of a special program at Kensington Metropark nature center near Milford at 10 a.m. Nov. 2. Naturalist Bob Hotaling will explain how to use bird feeders, what type of feed to use and what kinds of birds can be attracted by certain foods.

Register in advance by calling the nature center at 685-1561. There's no charge for the program, but a park vehicle entry permit is required.

Resident is cleared

A Plymouth man has been cleared of charges that he stabbed a Wayne County Sheriff's deputy in Hines Park last

The charge was dropped against Donald Hunter, 32, last Thursday following a five-day jury trial in the courtroom of Wayne County Circuit Judge Michael Connor.

Hunter had been charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm following the July 7 incident involving deputy Tony Shannon.

Shannon was stabbed in his stomach when he attempted to break up a ruckus at the park involving some 30 people. It was reported then that the injury could have been more severe if the deputy's belt had not stopped the force of impact.

C-C states tax views

Editor:

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors has considered and discussed the tax reform proposals presently pending on the November ballot.

The board is deeply concerned about the present taxation structure in the state of Michigan and takes the position that a change in the present system of taxation and government spending is required.

The present proposals before the electorate, however, do not resolve the question of unbridled government spending which, in the opinion of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, is the center of the present need for tax reform.

Because of this fact, and because each of the three proposals do not provide, in the opinion of the board, a method of reform that is acceptable to members of the business community, the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce does not support any of these proposals.

The Chamber urges the public to carefully consider the "tax reform" proposals currently on the ballot and to insist that the legislature embark upon a program of reduction of government spending in lieu of support for these proposals.

> BOARD OF DIRECTORS PLYMOUTH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Prop. D would hurt universities

(An open letter to Plymouth-Canton voters from a Canton resident now attending Central Michigan University.)

A very serious referendum on the November ballot faces Michigan vot-

Proposal D is very appealing on the surface level, but after a little digging one can find it will produce only disastrous results for the state.

Shiawassee Drain Commissioner Robert Tisch has proposed slashing property taxes to half their 1978 assessed values. While this may relieve homeowners of a burden, the state will bear the load in the end. State services will be drastically cut - virtually all areas will be hit, including education, labor, courts and state police. State employees, like those at the Plymouth Center for Human Development, are likely to lose their jobs. Local school systems also will lose some state aid.

As a college student, I have a special interest in the Tisch proposal. If passed, it will all but shut the doors of many state colleges and universities. Gov. William Milliken has proposed funding only the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University if Proposal D passes. Tuition at other schools will double and triple, and financial aid programs will be severely limited.

I agree our state tax system needs revising, but the Tisch approach is a band-aid proposal which will severely wound the state.

For your sake and the state's, vote "no" on Proposal D.

> KIM CLARKE CMU, Mt. Pleasant

Give the fans fresh music

Editor:

The Plymouth High School Band has established a record of sorts in bandmanship. They have put on the same halftime program for all four Canton football games. The first time it was great, but by the fourth time it was pretty dull - the only things different were the mistakes.

I will not believe these kids cannot learn new music and formations as it is very obvious they are good musicians. But somebody either thinks that the public doesn't know the difference or since it's only for Canton it doesn't matter. I would be interested to know what they do for Salem.

We have one more home game and it would be great to hear a few marches or maybe some rock and roll. But if they plan to give us the same old jazz again they should forget it. We would rather watch the Canton Chiefettes.

In supervisor race

Culbert should stay in office

If you're looking for an outstanding choice in Canton's supervisor race, you'll probably be disappointed.

Neither of the two candidates - Democrat Noel Culbert or Republican James Poole - shines brightly above the other.

A plus for both is a familiarity with the workings of township government. Culbert, the incumbent, has held the township's chief elective position since 1978. Poole served as township trustee from 1972 to

But neither could be called outstanding public officials during their tenure in office.

POOLE, a retired Air Force major, sometimes showed a failure to study the issues that came before the Township Board during the latter part of his term as township trustee.

He asked questions that should have been resolved through study of the board's information packet prior to the meeting.

Poole seldom took a strong leadership role on the Township Board or introduced legislation.

Since the election filing deadline last spring, Poole has shown a renewed interest in township affairs. He suddenly has reappeared at Township Board meetings as a vocal member of the audience who asks questions and makes suggestions. That's not unusual for a candidate.

But what is unusual is Poole's insistence that his suggestions have nothing to do with politics. He often refers to other candidates as "the politicians."

Voters who are looking for a refreshing, non-political change in government should not be fooled by Poole's campaign. He is just as political as the rest of them.

Poole's attributes include a willingness to listen to others. His administration undoubtedly would be an open one.

LIKE POOLE, Culbert has shown mostly mediocrity during his tenure in office.

He often was criticized for administrative bumbling during the early part of his term. He shows a tendency to blurt out ideas and programs before thoroughly examining an issue.

But Culbert has shown improvement in those areas since he took office in November 1978. Sources inside Township Hall say Culbert's administrative capabilities have improved.

As a legislator, Culbert is an independent thinker. Like Poole, he seems willing to listen to the views of others.

Culbert will never make history as an outstanding supervisor. But Poole gives voters little reason to change administrations at this time.

For that reason, the Observer gives an edge to Noel Culbert in the supervisor's race.

His capabilities as Canton's chief elected official have improved during the last two years. We hope to see him contine to mature in those areas.

The Observer urges a vote for Culbert Nov. 4

Record qualifies Dem for treasurer

Politics seems to cloud the race for Canton's first full-time treasurer's job.

On the ballot are Democrat Maria Falkiewicz the township's deputy treasurer for almost two years - and Republican James Kearney, a newcomer to Canton politics. On paper, Kearney seems to be the best candidate for administrative responsibilities of the job by virtue of college degrees in the financial field.

Ms. Falkiewicz lacks those educational qualifications. However, she has demonstrated competence in the financial area by implementing among other things an investment program which reaped $1.5 million in interest last year.

As deputy, Ms. Falkiewicz has kept a close tap on legislative issues and programs. On a few occasions, she sat on the Township Board with full voting power in the absence of elected Treasurer James Donahue, who is not seeking re-election.

Kearney also seems well-versed on township is-

THE RACE is a close one between two good can-

Unfortunately, questions concerning personnel and other issues are clouding the contest. Several sources inside Township Hall believe persons opposed to Ms. Falkiewicz election are raising those questions for political reasons.

One question pertains to personnel and Ms. Falkiewicz' supervisory capabilities. One person in the treasury department has charged Ms. Falkiewicz with harassment.

But administrative sources inside Township Hall say the charge is unfounded.

Those sources praise Ms. Falkiewicz for her competence in taking over the reigns of the treasury department. She became the department's first full-time supervisor last spring when Donahue handed all administrative responsibilities to his deputy because of his own illness.

Earlier this month, the Township Board yanked responsibility for processing liquor licenses from Ms. Falkiewicz. Several board members, who admit their support of Kearney in the treasurer's race, seemed to orchestrate the move, which was based on charges of incompetence.

Canton's politics traditionally have been turbulent. The politicking seems to center on the treasurer's race so far this year

UNFORTUNATELY, only those who work five days a week inside Township Hall know the full ramifications of the charges and how much politics

Voters can only base their decisions on the promises of Kearney and the record of Ms. Falkiewicz.

Kearney holds the educational qualifications, while Ms. Falkiewicz already has proven her competence in the financial area. Ms. Falkiewicz is more familiar with township issues by virtue of her employment inside Township Hall.

The real difference between the two candidates may come in their commitment to township government

Kearney attempted to drop out of the treasurer's race prior to last August's primary because of a time crunch in running a campaign and writing a thesis for a master's degree.

Ms. Falkiewicz, on the other hand, worked long and hard hours in Township Hall for a weekly pay of $135 before her deputy job officially became full

Both candidates promise a good four-year term in the treasury department.

But the Observer gives a slim edge to Maria Falkiewicz in the treasurer's race. She deserves a vote on Nov. 4.

All 4 county tax proposals deserve a 'no'

We hope that when voters turn down Proposals J. K, L and M, Wayne County officials won't interpret it as part of the tax revolt.

We hope they will interpret it as a rousing vote of "no confidence" in county government.

Year after year, the county general fund runs a rousing deficit — this year around $19 million.

Year after year, the board of commissioners tries to make spending cuts. Time after time, the board is frustrated in court by judges who want theirs, by the six elected countywide officials who say they are sacrosanct, by unions who want to have their cake and eat it too.

LAST AUGUST, voters approved creation of a charter commission which, we hope, will recommend setting up a strong county executive and other reforms.

Proposals J-M are all property tax increases. In our view, no such tax increases should be proposed until some of the reforms are in place, if then.

Indeed, the mere placing of Proposals J-M on the ballot can do nothing but make recession-weary voters angrier and push some of the more furious into the Tisch camp.

ALL FOUR county proposals reflect poorly on the politicians who put them there.

Proposal J, the brainchild of the three-member board of auditors, would raise the property tax limit three mills, marking off 1.2 mills for county government and 1.8 for education. The auditors, whose jobs would be abolished by a county executive, had wanted this proposal on the Aug. 5 ballot, when it would likely have helped defeat the charter commission proposal.

There was also some sly calculation that the school districts would get active and campaign for it, and county government could get a free ride. No such luck. The schools aren't supporting it.

PROPOSALS K, L and M are the work of the board of commissioners. Each asks for a half-mill. and each is earmarked for a different purpose the county hospital, mental health care and law enforcement.

The idea is that if enough folks vote for a favorite program (e.g., law enforcement), that proposal

It's probably a trick. What will likely happen is that the board will fund that activity out of the voted millage and then spread that activity's general fund money around to other activities.

Besides, earmarking millage for operating purposes is a bad idea in principle. Revenues should be considered as a package, and the budget should be considered as a whole.

We recommend rejection of all four Wayne County tax hike proposals. And let's hope the county gets the right message.

Excellent choices line trustee race

It would be difficult to find a better selection of candidates than those in the race for four Canton Township trustee positions.

Unfortunately, voters must choose no more than four of the eight contenders when they step in to the election booth Tuesday

It will be an extremely difficult decision. More than half of the eight promise excellent tenure as trustees. Those selected will make legislative policy for Canton during the next four years.

DESPITE THE excellence of all candidates, two contenders shine above the rest. They are Robert Padget, a Republican who now serves on the planning commission, and incumbent Trustee Carol Bodenmiller, a Democrat. Padget is a level-headed, independent thinker who has chaired planning commission meetings with fairness and impartiality. He refrains from the petty politicking which too often characterizes Canton Township government. Most important, Padget seems to study all sides of an issue before making a decision. His opinion would be respected on the Township Board.

Ms. Bodenmiller is equally qualified. She has worked hard during her four-year term as a trustee. Besides sitting on the Township Board, Ms. Bodenmiller has served on the planning commission, the farmland preservation committee and the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments. (SEMCOG). She views her trustee position as more than a three-evening-a-month job.

She is an independent thinker who, like Padget, studies all sides of an issue.

THAT LEAVES two remainding trustee vacancies and at least three exceptionally qualified can-

The Observer recommends Republicans Loren Bennett and Stephen Larson for those two posts, noting the solid qualifications of Democrat Larry Bowerman. Bennett, a newcomer to political campaigns, currently serves as chairman of the farmland preservation committee and a citizen delegate to $EM-COG.

He is a quiet, independent thinker who seems well-versed on all the issues facing Canton. He has lived in Canton his entire life and appears sinderely concerned about the township's future and an open government. Bennett would be a hard-working trustee.

Larson has served as a trustee since the summer of 1979 following a board appointment to fill the unexpired term of former Trustee Lynne Goldsmith

As a candidate, Larson paints himself as a fiscal conservative. As a board member, he has worked hard to place a lid on government spending. Larson has been a good trustee.

NOT FAR BEHIND in our estimation is Democratic candidate Bowerman.

Voters concerned about more recreational offerings may prefer Bowerman as a trustee. He views present economic conditions more optimistically than some other candidates and lists recreation as a funding priority Bowerman is well versed on all township issues. He has attended almost all Township Board meetings for the last several years.

THE OTHER TRUSTEE candidates are worthy of mention.

No one can question the active role of Democratic candidate Gary Roberts in township affairs. However, Roberts is probably the most political of all the trustee candidates. He may be a difficult to work with on the board.

Mary Dingeldey has been a constant audience member at Township Board meetings during the last several years. She would make a good trustee, but shows less grasp of township issues than some of the other candidates.

As a full-time farmer, Republican Duane Bordine could offer insight into the problems of the agricultural community. However, Bordine fails to offer meaningful suggestions on many of the issues and problems facing Canton Township.

The Observer recommends Robert Padget, Carol Bodenmiller, Loren Bennett and Stephen Larson as the best choices for the trustee jobs.

Did you know that route numbers and the highway road numbering system did not exist in the early days of motoring? The first route marking consisted of painting different colored bands on utility poles. William Bachman of the Auto Club wa the pioneer road marker and actually set out with paint can and brush to mark the route between Detroit and Jackson. The nationwide federal highway marking system was not set up until 1925.

Observer picks Ford for U.S. House seat

Fifteenth Congressional District voters should have an easy pick when it comes to voting on Tues-

The choice is between a liberal Democrat, in office for 16 years, a fighter for workers' causes, and Republican Gerald Carlson, an admitted racist.

Rep. William D. Ford has been a staunch supporter of the UAW's point of view, reflecting the current economic views of laidoff auto workers.

He has been active over the years in advocating more federal support for public education and extension of unemployment benefits for the jobless.

He has consistently increased his percentage of victory every election and last time out had 80 percent of the vote.

From time to time, he is adcused of failing to pay enough attention to all of his district, which includes Garden City, Westland, Canton Township, and two precincts in the southeast corner of Livonia.

In the early 1970s, he faced that type of criticism The result was a quick decision from the U.S. Department of the Post Office to put a new post office building in Westland.

Ford's record is not in question this year as he seeks a ninth term.

HIS REPUBLICAN opponent is Gerald Carlson a racist who has been disavowed by the GOP lead-

Carlson narrowly won the party's Aug. 5 nomination over James Caygill, Woodhaven public safety director, in an upset.

Carlson, of Dearborn Heights, blames blacks for just about everything except bad weather.

The GOP nominee was taken seriously by those who voted for him in the Aug. 5 primary. But the joke is over.

Carlson's campaign platform is an insult to decent people.

Ford's campaign strategy is to ignore his oppo-

But we believe the type of thinking behind Carlson's candidacy is too dangerous for us to do that.

Joyner merits re-election

When appointed Wayne County Commissioner, Bill Joyner, D-Plymouth, promised to serve full

And during his first term, Joyner travelled to town halls and city halls throughout Westland, Plymouth, Canton, Northville and other parts of the 27th District to keep abreast of problems.

After being elected to a two-year term, Joyner continued making the rounds to make sure there is no communication gap.

Joyner has battled to represent the best interests of the outcounty area, an effort best seen when he took on the Area Agency on Aging and helped in the formation of a suburban group.

Somewhere a Republican exists whose name will appear on on the ballot Tuesday as Joyner's opponent. But he has not been seen in Westland, Canton or Plymouth. We, therefore, cannot consider his candidacy.

In spite of that kind of nominal opposition though, the Observer does not have any problem in recommending to its readers the candidacy of William Joyner.

A charter commission will be elected Tuesday to ganize Wayne County government. Among those willing to undertake that awesome task are Republican Bart Berg and Democrat Walter Hink in the 27th District, which includes Plymouth, Canton, parts of Westland and Northville.

draft a plan for subsequent voter approval to reor-

Berg is a likeable person with a record spanning more than two decades of involvement as a small businessman in Canton.

He has been president of the Canton Chamber and member of the Canton planning commission.

Berg knows a lot about Canton. But he doesn't know that much about Wayne County, which becomes apparent when he talks about reorganizing Hink, an attorney, has a much shorter record of involvement in local affairs but has been watching what is happening to Wayne County since before 1976. As a candidate on two occasions for Wayne County Commission, Hink has argued the need for reorganizing the county.

Hink has specific ideas for reform — such as replacing the board of auditors with a department of finance and electing a county administrator.

Besides a knowledge of the legal complexities involved in writing a charter, Hink also has an analytical mind and knowledge of what has gone wrong with the county.

We commend Berg's involvement in Canton but cannot recommend his candidacy. The job of helping reorganize the county can better be handled by Hink, who has better insight into the job that must be done. The Observer recommends a vote Tuesday for Walter Hink.

Rev. David Strong

Religions, tolerance, diversity are under attack

The now-famous remark by the president of the Southern Baptist Convention, the Rev. Bailey Smith, that "God Almighty does not hear the prayer of a Jew," has raised a furor. This is good, for such views need to be made public and exposed to the reactions of the public.

Religious tolerance and dialogue are values we need to uphold. Religious tolerance is of the essence of the American experience.

Many have come to America to escape tyranny and persecution. Much of the greatness and energy of this nation comes from this diversity and atmosphere of religious toleration.

IN RECENT times we hear this rich diversity and this tolerance challenged Communities seek to exclude religious groups and racial minorities. Protests are raised against assisting Vietnamese and Cuban refugees. A hard note has sounded from those who would wish the rest of the society to conform to their values.

Some would even argue that toleration implies support for the views and values of those tolerated. This is not a reasonable assumption.

We need to support a human search for God as long as it does not seek to destroy persons. At the same time, we need to carry out out dialogue and critical reflection concerning religious movements.

Some religious groups and leaders have come to believe that their way of faith is the only way. They may even feel that their religion does not need to acknowledge basic human values or rights. These make the fatal mistake of assuming they know the mind of God.

CHRISTIAN SCRIPTURE warns us that we are not to judge others, but we are to love those who do not accept us or who treat us as enemy. These two guidelines - the withholding of judgment and the decision to love your enemy - are the true bases of religious tolerance.

Without the presence of these two principles, religion becomes a destructive force within the world At the same time it is spiritually destructive to those who create intolerance and rejection of oth-

We are in the midst of religious awakenings across the world. It would be a great tragedy for mankind if these awakenings lead to the destruction of people rather than to their fulfillment and it is my feeling township officials still prefer to hassle instead of help.

Woodling Gallery is another example of a struggling new business in Canton which the township ordinance department has chosen to hassle over a sign.

Right next door is a factory which has brought in 20 ton presses (in this commercially zoned area) which vibrate surrounding buildings so badly that pictures fall off the wall and footings are beginning to crumble. Across the street is a sign much bigger and much higher, badly in need of repair and an eyesore.

Every so often the stench from the local dump is so bad it is nauseating. Instead of handling ordinance infractions that are detrimental the health of all and a danger to surrounding buildins, they choose to pick on two women who are struggling to nurture a new business which is unique and we feel an asset to the community.

A new business cannot afford an extra $100, nor should they have to, to appeal an ordinance that obviously does not fit the case in point in the first place. A task force was formed a month or two ago to supposedly help this ordinance situation with small businesses. (I believe there were a few large write ups in your paper to this effect.) A letter on our behalf was sent to the supervisor, the ordinance department head, and to every member of the task force committee. As of this date I have not heard from one of them.

We can't afford to pay citations, appeals board fees or lawyers, so I hope the township gets its act together and their priorities in perspective soon before more small businesses "hit the dust."

Reader writes of own handicap

I'm writting in response to Mrs. Trimble's letter about the physically and mentally handicapped persons: She feels they need a chance to be housed in community group homes other than being institutionalized and being "separate" from so-called "normal" people.

Who can really judge other than the Lord above and compassionate professionals who work hard to find out all they can? Who is "normal" as opposed to being "crazy" anyway? There are many people around us (even our neighbors) who with an intelligent brain and lack of a good heart destroy and hurt others mercilessly. Should we put all of them away and throw away

Should I have been put away? You see, I'm handicapped! I'm lucky, though, because I don't see it that way. I was born an RH factor baby, (the second child being open to many dangerous risks). I was lucky enough to only have severely crossed eyes, but had surgeries to correct them, (it's still noticeable, but so what!)

If I would have been born in early times I probably would of been put away, possessed by the devil or even killed. Thank goodness many people think like me and are trying to make this world a place for all human beings to live and love. My parents didn't blame me for not being "perfect." They felt hurt and guilty sometimes. I'm sure, but didn't let it change their love for me. They gave me what I "possess" today, a heart with compassion for people who are looked upon as simply "being different!"

Upset by doctors

I attend Schoolcraft College full time and have a part-time job on the side to help pay for my schooling and other needs.

One Monday morning, during school, I called my mother. Seeing as I hadn't talked with her, she questioned the hoarseness of my voice and suggested I see a doctor after my last class.

From school I went to one of the Evening Medical Clinics. I walked up to the receptionist's desk and told the nurse the problem with my throat. I then proceeded to hand her my parent's Blue Cross card. She looked up and very rudely said, "The charge is $22 and is payable before you see the doc-

I asked her, "You can't bill me? I don't have a very high income and I don't get my paycheck until Friday." She answered, "No, I'm sorry, there's nothing I can do." Very upset and not feeling well, I turned around and walked away.

There is only one question I have to ask all of you doctors and your ridiculous systems: "What would you do if an individual walked in without money and was dying? Turn him away like you did me?" I sure wouldn't want that on my conscience.

In my opinion, too many of the doctors don't care. They're just out for the

Canton owns longest win streak

Glenn, Ladywood keep rolling

Little movement occurred from last week's area girls' prep basketball poll.

The only major change was moving Livonia Stevenson up to the No. 5 spot in Class A in place of Redford Union, a 62-48 loser to Livonia Franklin. RU dropped down one notch to the No. 6

Westland John Glenn, winner of 10 straight, held onto the No. 1 spot after beating cross-town rival Wayne Tuesday night, 55-36.

Livonia Ladywood, ranked No. 2 in Class B by the Michigan High School Girls' Basketball Coaches' Poll. strengthened its hold for No. 1 in Class B-C-D with a lopsided win over a tough Dearborn Divine Child squad.

basketball rankings

Plymouth Canton owns the area's longest winning streak at 12. The Chiefs pounded Allen Park Tuesday, Livonia Bentley, leading the Suburban Eight League with a 7-0 mark, and second-place Plymouth Salem (7-1), continue to breath down Glenn's neck with two wins last week. Bentley struggled to beat Franklin, 43-38.

Stevenson, coached by Jim George, has been picking up steam of late after suffering early-season losses to Plymouth Canton and Farmington

The Spartans are paced by 6-foot senior center Karen Kelley and guard Beth Mueller.

Stevenson does not have an easy road in the state tournament. The Spartans may eventually face Inter-Lakes League foe Farmington again or stateranked Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy in the Northville Class A dis-

There is an old saying along the bowling front that bowlers never for-

This is especially true of the members the Detroit Women's Bowling Association who have continued a tradition of supporting the Michigan Cancer Foundation — this time with a gift of $1,500 for the training program.

In making the presentation Mrs. Agnes Ekstrom, president of the DWBA, asked that money be used for the programs now in the regional workshops to train volunteer workers.

-With this gift, the women bowlers' donations during the past 25 years has EDDIE LUBAN$KI now leads all Detroit bowlers over a 20-year period in the annual ABC tournaments. In figures released this week he is ranked in fourth place with an average of 207.7 for 30 tournaments. Next to him is Bob Strampe with a 201.55 average for 26 tournaments and Billy G. has an average of 200.50 for 25 tournaments.

THE PINS sure took a pounding in the mixed classic at Westland Bowl. When the firing ended, the sharpshooters set a new record when seven of them bettered 700.

To make the scoring all the better, two of them - Rick Lang and Larry Walker — tied for the pacemaking role at 729. Lang had a middle game of 289 and Walker opened with a 279.

The others in t?e select circle were Tom Wright with 738, Tom La Roue with 734, Bob Goike with 725, Bob Wright with 710 and Richard Hughes

To top it off, Pete Overaitis missed the 700 barrier by a single pin. He had a 260 in 699.

Sandy Lewis topped the ladies with 258 in 554 for high single and Sandy Yuhn had high series with 242 in 596. SCORES WERE on the upswing at Farmington Lanes where John Lapham paced the mixed doubles with a 254 in 681. Behind him in the top three were Fred Londo with 254 in 651 and Hip Paluch with 265 in 646.

In the Friday noon classic, ors went to Mary Lou Boylex who rolled a 221 in 597. Other high scores included Fred Neese's 232 in 633 in the Sunday high school loop and Bob Flowers' 278 in 654 to pace the Monday men for single-game honors while Doug De Marois took high series with TOM SMITH got the first 10 in a row in the pile drivers league at Plaza, but couldn't stand the pressure. He had to settle for a 289 that was followed by identical conts of 200 in his last two games for 689. Rich Seton was next in line with 665, while Dave Kauppi showed the way to the Pin Busters league with 665.

MADELINE DONAHUE took top honors in the Livonia Ladies Classic when she won the final of the threegame set with 187-46-233 and the series with 512-138-650. In the other games, Diane Gadsby won the first with 181-32-213 and Joan Lewis took the second with 191-34-225.

INTRODUCING THE CHECKING ACCOUNT THAT PAYS INTEREST

•On December 31, your present checking account at your bank becomes obsolete. Because on that day First Federal Savings of Detroit will begin offering a new concept in money management—the First Federal interest-earning checking account.

You II use this new type of account like any traditional checking account. But it will do something no checking account ever did before. It will pay you interest like a savings account—5%% per year daily interest, paid and compounded quarterly. Even when you write a check, the amount of that check keeps earning interest until the day the check is deducted from your account.

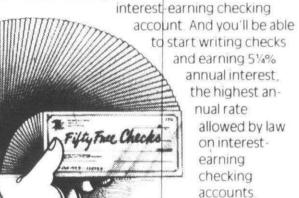

Your First Federal interest-parning checking account will require a low minimum balance of just $300. And as long as you maintain this balance, there is no monthly service charge. First Federal's low minimum balance requirement frees up more of your money for other needs.

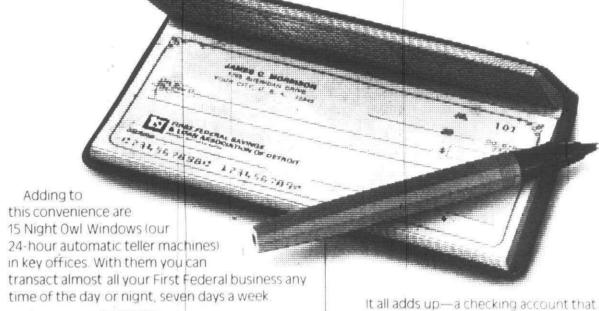

This optional feature of your interest-earning checking account helps protect you from the inconvenience of accidentally overdrawing the account. It provides you with peace of mind. Be sure to apply separately for this service. When accepted, you'll have a pre-approved line of credit available

You can sign up for your account right now with a minimum deposit of $300. For making this early deposit, you'll be entitled to 50 free personalized checks which will be sent to you after December 30, 1980. In addition, we'll put that deposit in a regular savings account until December 31, 1980, earning 51/2% per year, daily interest. On that date we'll automatically convert your account to an

First Federal's more than 60 offices mean you can have your interest-earning checking account close to where you live, work, or shop—which ever is most convenient for you

It all adds up—a checking account that pays interest, requires a low minimum balance, offers overdraft protection and 50 free checks. And, of course, each month we will return your cancelled checks along with your detailed statement. Apply for your account by sending in the coupon below. Or visit any office of First Federal Savings of Detroit. Your Center for Family Financial Matters.

WHO ARE THE Daughters of the American Revolution? What do they do?

Some people are convinced that they sit around comparing genealogies and fanning each other's patriotic fervor, but it just isn't so.

Ask any of the thousands of mountain children in the southeast who have received their elementary through college educations in DAR schools. Ask the men in the veterans hospitals whose handknit bed socks and lap robes were made by DAR members.

Maxine Willoughby and Gladys Deyo, members of the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter of the DAR, visited their schools earlier this month. They traveled by bus with other DAR members from Michigan.

"And there were six husbands who went along, too," said Mrs. Willoughby.
Their first school stop was at

Their first school stop was at Crossnore School in North Carolina. The second was Tamassee in South Carolina.

TAMASSEE DAR School is owned, operated and maintained by the DAR. It is both a day school and boarding school. Of the 145 students who live at the school, grades one through eight attend classes on campus. High schoolers attend Walhalla High School.

There are 34 buildings on the 1,000-acre campus.

"The campuses are beautiful," said Mrs. Willoughby. "The students are responsible for maintenance of grounds and buildings. They work before and after classes and on the weekends.

"October is a beautiful time of the year down there and we had a wonderful bus driver. There were no scares and those of us who drive were not 'putting on the brakes' all the time."

They also visited Martha Berry School in Georgia, a prep school and college, the Heindman Settlement School in Kentucky, and the Kate Duncan Smith School in Grant, Ala.

The latter has 42 buildings on its 240-acre campus. It is a day school, kindergarten through 12th grade — the only junior-senior high school in 100 square miles. The school also is owned by the DAR, which has invested more than $1 million in each of its schools.

Although the DAR owns just two of the schools, it supports four others with scholarships, clothing and gifts.

MRS. WILLOUGHBY explained the lost "pocket" settlements in the Appalachian area.

"Our students come from families whose grandparents and great-grandparents were educated. Over the years, because they did not have even roads leading to schools in the more-populated areas, the children never learned to read or write."

These are the people who benefit from the DAR schools.

They continue the old mountain crafts of spinning, weaving, pottery-making and wood-carving and the sale of their works helps finance their edudents.

"We already have sent our chapter donation toward the purchase of Christmas gifts for the students. It goes to our state treasurer, then to national headquarters before it goes back to the schools where the gifts are purchased," said Mrs. Willoughby. This way, each gift is bought with one person in mind. It adds a personal touch.

THE PLYMOUTH Police Officers Association dinner-dance was a success last Friday evening. Guests already were talking about next year's party. Mike Gardner and Barb Carpenter, who co-chaired the event, said they needed a week or two to recuperate from this one before they could even think about next year.

ANNE TRINITY and Sally Holmes had high scores at last Thursday's party bridge games in the Plymouth Cultural Center on Farmer Street.

JACKIE HENEGHAN of the Plymouth Theatre Guild tells of the mustache-shaving party hosted by Pat Bray Friday evening for the cast of

"You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Pat is directing the guild's season opener. Three of the cast, Mark Brzezinski (Charlie Brown), Jim Crawford (Snoopy) and David Ide (Schroeder), sat in front of mirrors, ceremoniously lathered up, and, with the encouragement of other members of the cast and crew, bravely took the plunge. They

More than 500 guests attended the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's annual benefit fashion show in the Plymouth Hilton.

They watched members of the club model a wide variety of loungewear, suits, street-length dresses, casual and formal wear. Autumn decorations provided by Karen LeGault set the background mood for show. There were wicker baskets filled with colorful autumn leaves and a pair of whimsical scarecrows.

Refreshments, a cash bar and a seemingly never-ending supply of prizes added to the evening's festivities.

Tracey Flora, Barbara Martin, Chris Rauttio, Grace Rix, Kathy Salla, Mary Ellen Eckler, Susan Light, Joanne Delaney and Marian Kehrl wore fashions from New Gal in Town and Van Dam's. Amy Guenter and Pat Hann, whose House of Glamour was responsible for the models' hair styling, were commentators. Patricia Molnar played musical accompaniment on an organ loaned by Arnoldt Williams Music.

The women noted the daytime dress lengths were just below the knee.

Among the more striking outfits were a black V-neck top over white pants modeled by Susan Light suitable for evening wear; a black dress with a floral print on the bottom of the skirt worn by Marian Kehrl; and a flannel jersey loungewear item modeled by Mary Ellen Eckler. The latter was navy with a turle neck that just slipped over the head. It had blue and white collar and cuffs.

Glamorous holiday attire was applauded by the guests.

Elaine Love and Gerri Wireman, co-chaired the affair.

Mr. Toad and colleagues recreated in shop window

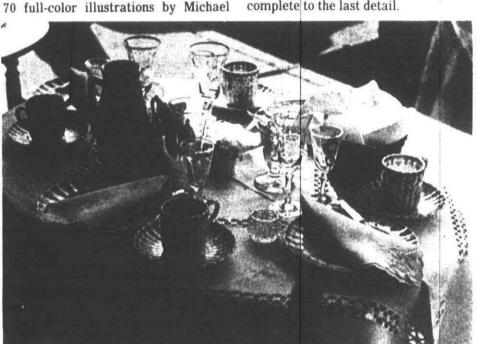

It's not often that a window decoration is an entry in a contest with a grand prize of a trip to England.

For those passersby who have been recognizing their old friends Messrs. Toad, Mole Badger and Rat in the window at the Iron Gate, next to the Plymouth Post Office on Penniman Avenue, the display is a contest entry.

Since its original publication more than 70 years ago, Kenneth Grahame's classic, "The Wind in the Willows," has enchanted generations of children. A new edition has been published by Holt, Rhinehart and Winston with more than Hague. The young artist was introduced to the book by his grandfather. The publishing company will award the prize to the display which best reproduces one of Hague's illustrations.

Garey Beglinger, Marion Gotshall and Hazel Gibson recreated a scene from the book. The figures of the four animal characters were handmade by a woman in Ann Arbor. The women found many of the background pieces in their own homes. The Early American Shop contributed a chair, the demitasse tea service is Mrs. Gotshall's. After hours of work and borrowing (the chandelier is on loan), the window was complete to the last detail.

The tea table is set with proper English china and linens.

Field School Talents unlimited at Rotary Club show read-a-thon for UNICEF

They have been keeping the reading chairs warm at Field Elementary School with their second annual UNI-CEF Read-a-thon.

The read-a-thon began Oct. 20 and ends at 3:30 p.m. today. The amount earned for UNICEF will be announced at an assembly Friday with students in Halloween costumes.

Students, kindergarten through fifth grade, parents, teachers, school board members and staff members were invited to participate. Six chairs were set up in the Read-a-thon Arena, one chair for each grade. Each chair earned two cents for each minute it was occupied by a child or an adult Hours were 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Luan Brownlee, learning specialist at the school, organized the marathon event. "If all the chairs are filled with readers all day long, we can earn $360 to give to UNICEF," she said.

"SIX CANTON Township businesses each sponsored a chair for $60 each." Sponsors are the Rusty Nail, Parkway Veterinary Clinic, Schwartz Greenhouse Shop, McCurdy Optometric, Super Bowl and Arnoldt Williams Music.

Before making their commitment to help children in the world community. the students studied the needs of underprivileged children. They learned that eight cents can provide penicillin to cure a child's infection; 27 cents can Immunize three children against polio; 49 cents buys a book to train a villager in first aid; and $1 buys a pound of pea seeds for a school vegetable garden.

The Canton Rotary Club is sponsoring a professional and semi-professional talent show. There will be a chorus of 50, and an 18-piece band provided by the Performing Artists Unlimited of Farmington. Dickie Lee will appear and surprise us with a premiere song. Other vocalists will be Judy and Bill Premin, and Nancy O'Sullivan. Gary Redfern dancing with Lynn Henderson are just two of the local talents. Four Wheel Drive and the Senior Citizens Kitchen Band offer musical specialties in unique fashions.

Schinker and Company of 12 illusionists, and magicians Andy Hoover and Jeff Krobicki, two 10-year-olds, will astonish you beyond belief. All artists are donating the proceeds to the Plymouth Salvation Army Building Fund. The show will be in Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 1. Tickets are $3 at the door, or you can call Andy Henderson at 453-games, puzzles, and brain teasers to be figured out before anyone could obtain the answer of the point of destination. Then there was the Bonus Clue that only Glen Ponte could figure out. We all know why out of a 100 people Glen would come up with the solution. He had his wife Bekki to help him.

The winners of the exciting rally were Connie and Larry Tiano accompanied by Debra and David Druce. The misfortune of winning is having to plan the next years rally. For the $20 they received for being first, all four have a lot of hard work ahead of them, Let's not forget the last place car. Mary and Tom Wroblewski asked Sharon and Bob Stewart to join them. After four hours in a car, most of the time in total frustration, they claimed the last place prize. It was several books on puzzles and games to be studied over the coming year.

The important thing in the 25 participating cars is that everyone had a terrific time!

IT JUST SO HAPPENED that the golf outing planned by Carol and Bob Shaw turned out to be one of the loveliest Saturdays in October.

Twelve couples met at the Shaws' for hors d'oeuvres and refreshments at 1 p.m. Then off to Fox Hills Golf Club they drove. Husbands and wives were not permitted on the same team, no explanation necessary, I'm sure. Carts were provided and they had a very interesting day. Mike Wesner claimed longest drive on No. 1 hole while Craig Camalo won closest to the pin on the sixth. Helen Wesner took both prizes away from all the ladies entered.

While everyone was enjoying their scramble, Carol and Bob Shaw were driving throughout the course with their own cart full of thirst quenchers.

IN THE MIDDLE of the nine holes. Sherm Moore and Bill Soules headed back to the clubhouse. While there, they somehow lost their golf cart and had to return to their teammates with no clubs. That did not stop these two avid golfers. They joined another foursome

Child care center has openings

Eastern Michigan University's Child Care Center now offers an afterschool and evening child care program from 3:45-10:15 p.m. Mondays-Fridays.

The program, designed to meet parental class, study and work scheduling needs, is available for children between the ages of 2 and 12, whose parents are EMU students, faculty or staff

The Child Care Center, on the ground floor of Snow Health Center, contains four well-equipped rooms for the children, a Parents' Room, and the Child Care Center office. Also, there is a large outdoor play yard adjacent to the Child Care Center entrance.

The staff is headed by three early education professionals. They include: Tobi Bartlett, coordinator, and Debora Romeo and Bertha Thomas, assistant coordinators. The remainder of the Child Care Center staff is comprised of graduate students, student teachers and student volunteers.

The cost of child care service is $1.25 an hour for the first child in a family. Reduced rates are offered for additional children in the same family. Normally, child care is paid by the month, in advance, but other payment schedules can be arranged.

For further information, contact Tobi Bartlett or Bertha Thomas at the Child Care Center, at 487-1126.

John Roberts

Local actor at Ren Cen

Plymouth actor John Roberts has received rave reviews for his performances as Big Daddy in Tennessee Williams' "Cat on A Hot Tin Roof." The drama is being presented Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays by the Actors Renaissance Theatre in the RenCen. Roberts has appeared in several productions with the Plymouth Theater Guild and the Greenfield Village play-

Theater critics in the Detroit daily newspapers have described Roberts' performance as: "When the best of the cast has the stage to himself, the thing soars," and "The dead-on sense of pacing he brings to the second act soliloquy makes it the play's finest moment." These quotes are from Susan Slobojan in the Detroit News.

Lawrence DeVine in the Detroit Free Press wrote: "He's an actor with a cavernous deep voice (and a consistent Delta accent unique to the cast), and creates inordinate sympathy for this great vulgarian with his defensive bragging about his '28,000 acres of the richest land this side of the Valley Nile.' " He also refers to Roberts' "marvelous tour de force in Act II."

ROBERTS SAID, "This is probably the most demanding of all the exciting roles I have been privileged to do."

He listed the wide range of emotions called for in the part of Big Daddy from super-high to abject despair and finally resignation mixed with love, hatred, anguish and an old man's sexual

"Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" takes place in a bedroom of a large plantation in Louisiana. The plantation is owned by Big Daddy, a rough, self-made man with a seamy beginning. The story unfolds as 'Maggie the Cat" contrives to inherit the lion's share of the estate and also to satisfy her pent-up longings for her husband, Brick

Brick, one of Big Daddy's two sons, is an alcoholic with a dark sexual hangup. His prolific brother and sister-in-law demonstrate their own designs on the estate. Elizabeth Taylor was Maggie and Paul Newman was Brick in one movie version of the play.

It will run through Nov. 29. Persons wishing reservations and information about reduced parking fee arrangements can call the theater, 563-2525.

Experienced NURSE ASSISTANTS and HOME HEALTH AIDES are some of our most valued employees at Upjohn Health Care Services. Their special training and abilities help us to accomplish one of our most important goals: to offer the private duty care that will allow people the chance to convalence where they're happiest and most secure - in their own homes. They assist with light housekeeping, like making meals, washing dishes, doing the laundry.

They do the kinds of things the aged or ill can no longer do for themselves.

NURSE ASSISTANTS and HOME HEALTH AIDES have two strong qualifications, ones that can't be taught: concern for others and the ability to help them in times of need.

If you like what you've heard or if you feel you need more information, please call Upjohn Health Care Services.

National winner

Mark Gladden was a national award winner for his charcoal drawing of a reddish orange MG. He is a senior at Plymouth Salem High School and a student in Heinz Dittmar's vocational design class. He was a junior last spring when his illustration earned a gold key at an area display at Tel-12 Mall. It went on to win a regional blue ribbon and then to New York City for the national judging where it earned a blue ribbon, a walnut plaque for Gladden, and an award for his school, naming it one of the top school art departments in the country. Hibbs-Michael Susan Jean Michael and Kevin Michael Hibbs exchanged marriage vows Sept. 12 in St. John Neumann Catholic Church in Canton Township. The Rev. Edward J. Baldwin officiated. The bride is the daughter of Alfred and Beverly Michael of Whitmore Lake. The bridegroom's parents are Leon and Mable Hibbs of Farmington Hills.

The bride wore a white organza gown which featured a stand-up collar and panels of chantilly lace and a chapel-length train. She carried a bouquet of silk lilies of the valley and miniature white carnations. Her sister, Ginger Pierce, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Terri Kolocoski, Beth Ann Bradburn, Donna Michael, Linda Michael and Karyl Hibbs. Stacey Pierce was flower girl and Teddy Haarz was ringbearer. The matron of honor carried a bouquet of white daisies and vellow carnations; the bridesmaids carried two long-stemmed yellow roses; and the flower girl carried a basket of white and yellow daisies.

Jim Jankovic was best man. Groomsmen were Joe Barta, Jim Hamlin, Tom Balone, Ken Hibbs and Randy Tobel. Ushers were John Michael and Doug Michael.

Following a wedding reception in the Knights of Columbus Hall, the couple honeymooned in Toronto and Niagara Falls. They are living in Canton Township.

CONGRESSMAN CARL PURSELL MAKING A REAL DIFFERENCE

MAKING A REAL DIFFERENCE ON INFLATION/EMPLOYMENT/TAXES

INFLATION AND JOBS ARE THE BIGGEST PROBLEMS WE FACE CONGRESSMAN CARL PURSELL IS WORKING EFFECTIVELY ON BOTH

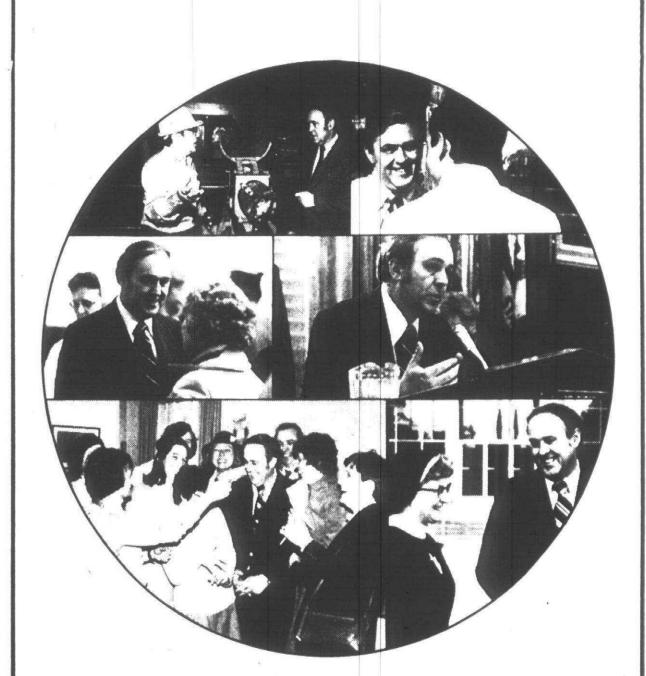

TO CONTROL INFLATION. Public enemy #1 for all Americans, especially senior citizens. Representing us on the influential House Appropriations Committee, Carl is a leader for balancing the federal budget, a critical first step in controlling inflation and restoring the value of our dollars.

TO REDUCE TAXES. Congressman Pursell wants to leave more of your hard-earned dollars in your pocket—for savings, retirement, and to increase your purchasing power for a home, car or other necessities. The Pursell difference: while others push "quick-fix" tax cuts, Carl is sponsoring his own responsible, bipartisan plan to reduce federal income tax rates 30% over five years—to help revive the economy and create new jobs.

TO CREATE JOBS. Congressman Pursell recently led the northern states to a major victory in the House, on a vote to direct more existing government contracts to high unemployment areas—like Michigan. Others had tried and failed on this issue for 27 years, until our Congressman took the lead.

TO BUILD A BETTER FUTURE. Carl isn't just dealing with today's problems—he's leading tomorrow's solutions. Our Congressman is initiating an innovative "Leadership Conference on Michigan's Future". His goal is to bring together leaders from all walks of life to develop long range plans to diversify Michigan's economy and job opportunities—to build a better future for our state and its people.

CONGRESSMAN CARL PURSELL IS A LEADER WHO GETS THINGS DONE.

For witches, Oct. 31 is soul-searching

October is perhaps the most beautiful month of the year. Nature wears her most falmboyant colors. There are still some balmy days, and even the cooler ones are not so bad when taken with warm doughnuts and fresh cider.

But October is also a melancholy month, for underneath the gaiety of walking through the leaves and carving pumpkins, lies the knowledge that all this beauty marks the end of another

The productive seasons are past.

Lovely as it may be, October is a prelude to winter, the long cold sleep of the earth, much akin to death.

For traditional witches, Oct. 31 is the last major sabbath of the year. It is the time for taking inventory. Looking back over the year just past, a witch must search her soul, and make a list.

This is not a joyful list of blessings and accomplishments, as she makes on Aug. 1. Instead, she makes a list of all she has left undone that should have been completed, and of things she did

time

that would have been better left un-

A WITCH must list at this time all of her mistakes and uncharitable acts in the last three seasons. It is a time of reflection, shame, remorse, and confes-

From 5 p.m. until midnight she will fast, taking neither food nor drink, nor any foreign matter into her body. Between 10 and 11 p.m. she will bathe her body in a ritual bath water to which hyssop has been added.

From 11 p.m. until midnight, she will sit in silence and meditate on the year that is coming to a close and on her list of of transgressions.

At midnight, these lists are burned in a ritual fire, accompanied by mournful

Then the leader of the group will call for the mourning to cease, and command each witch to use the winter months ahead to rejuvenate her spirit, and look ahead to the new year and be ready to avoid the pitfalls of the one that is over.

The witches will be cautioned to remember that any pain they cause another to suffer, be it physical or emotional, will eventually be visited upon them threefold, whether in this life or the next.

With this knowledge, they are told to go forth and, "in perfect love, do what thou wilt."

Diet not new and unsafe

Two weeks ago, a full-page ad appeared in one of the Detroit daily newspapers advertising a "new" diet - The Cambridge Diet.

It was billed as "the incredible super diet." In banner headlines, claims of weight losses of up to "15 pounds in just 72 hours" were promoted. Further claims statet that the "ultimate weight-loss formula would reduce body fat virtually as fast as fasting or complete starvation.'

But there was some small print at the lower left corner of the ad, which indicated an improvement in governmental watchfulness.

This "ultimate weight-loss formula" is none other than liquid protein, a pre-digested animal protein, which was implicated in the deaths of 52 Americans in 1976. It is the same product - only with new packaging.

This time, however, the U.S. government jumped in to halt not only false advertising, but the sale of the product as well.

LAST MARCH, when the product reappeared on the market, the U.S. Postal Service started mail fraud proceedings against officers in the company promoting the Cambridge Diet. In July, governmental agencies reached tentative agreements with the company to modify advertising claims.

So a warning was printed, in fine print. It reads: "Consult your doctor before starting this diet, in particular individuals who have heart and cardiovascular conditions, stroke, kidney disease, diabetes, gout, hypoglycemia, chronic infections, the very elderly, growing children, adolescents, or anyone under medical care for any other conditition should diet only under medical supervision.

Agreements also led to the advertisement statement that Cambridge Diet product will fill only 75 percent of the U.S. recommended daily allowance of essential nutrients. That information is hard to find - it's in a parenthetical conclusion to a long paragraph.

THE IMMINENT DANGERS of the diet are not diminished. I fear, as before, that people will disregard the warnings of the FDA, and the warning issued to those who suffer various health problems.

This life-threatening diet is no different from the one implicated in those 52 deaths four years ago.

The product is, as it was then; pre-digested animal protein. As the sole nourishment and calorie intake of an individual, it cannot fill the body's daily needs for complete protein, carboydrate and fat. Because of this, the body will feed on other parts of it's systems, including lean body tissue. This could include the heart muscle and other vital organs.

Overweight people are always looking for a fast way to lose weight. They overlook warnings from the medical community, and often ignore signals their own body may be sending them.

Surprisingly, even those who undertake the diet regimen under the superivison of a physician may still risk their health and well-being.

MOST PHYSICIANS are not properly trained in treating obesity, and particularly in monitoring starvation-type diets.

Dr. George Blackburn, chief of nutrition metabolism at New England Deaconess Hospital in Boston, says that he feels most physicians aren't qualified to supervise this drastic diet.

"American doctors are not trained in metabolism and nutrition involved with semi-starvation and cannot and should not approve of its use," he stated in an affidavit.

A significant number of people who died while on the "last chance diet" had no known health problems. Death was without warning in some cases. Cause of death was listed as heart attack

IT IS theorized by researchers that lean body tissue (heart muscle) was used to fill the body's need Another theory supported by the U.S. Department of Public Health is the bodies of some who diet lacked necessary trace elements in the body's metabolism. In researching the deaths of dieters using liquid protein, the department found that in many cases there was a distinct lowering of a specific trace element and this may, in fact, have caused the heart to stop.

Electrolyte imbalances, as well as nausea, cramping, diarrhea, fatigue, and irritibility, are some of the other side effects which resulted in hundreds of people being hospitalized. They were among the survivors, some of whom still have side effects for having tried this diet.

The Cambridge Diet is not new, is not fantastic, is not safe, and does not promote permanent weight loss. It is not nutritionally balanced, does not fill the body's daily need for protein requirements, and can cause permanent damage to the body, including

Robert Eliason of the Henry Ford Museum shows off the Steinway Duo-Art reproducing piano featured in a Nov. 9 concert in the museum theater.

Museum's classy player piano ready for its concert debut

By CORINNE ABATT

Player pianos are frequently associated with tinkling sounds, barroom comedies, old-time parties and ragtime

Yet these images are only one aspect of a total mechanical-music phenomenon which was popular in the early part of this century.

Henry Ford Museum, which has a sizable collection of mechanical instruments, recently received a gift that represents the top of the line reproducing grand piano.

The Steinway Duo-Art 6-foot grand will one of the stars of a performance in the Historical Concert Series at the museum along with violinist Bruce

Simpson will be accompanied by the piano in Chopin's Valse in G major, Kreisler's "Liebesleid" and Borowski's duce works of George Gershwin Ar- late Dr. Jacobson, sat in the museum

The concert, at 3:30 p.m. Nov. 9 in the Henry Ford Museum Theater, is free after regular museum admission ($4.25 for adults, $2.25 for children).

The piano was given to the museum by Judith Jacobson of West Bloomfield as a gift from the family of Dr. Samuel D. Jacobson.

Miss Jacobson and her aunt. Beatrice Miller of Beverly Hills sister of the auditorium recently to hear how the piano sounded since it had been refurbished and moved to its new home.

Simpson was there to play "Adoration," accompanied by the piano. Simpson, a Ford executive, performs as a soloist and is a member of the Dearborn Symphony Orchestra

"It is nice for the collection to have landinark pieces," said Robert E. Eliason, curator of musical instruments for Greenfield Village and the museum "This represents the finest level mechanical pianos reached

According to Elfason, the sound reproduction of the instrument is closer to the original than even modern re cordings

To be able to hear rolls made by some of the world's foremost concert pianists - George Enesco, Andre Benoist and Paderewski and many others is a unique opportunity, he said.

Free dance series starts at Music Hall

Four free lecture-performances will be held as part of Music Hall Center's Dance Awareness Series, starting at 1 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 6, with a talk by Arnold Spohr, artistic director of the Royal Winni-

This series of programs was instituted last season for the benefit of our dance audience to enhance their knowledge, and therefore their enjoyment, of ballet and other dance forms says producing director J. Roland Wilson

"Music Hall season ticket holders, dance students and other interested individuals are invited to see and hear some of the leading dance figures of the world demonstrate and comment on their style and repertoire. Future programs in the series include senior dancers from the Laura Dean Dancers and Musicians leading a "dance spinning workshop" at 1:30 p.m. Nov. 20, with the audience invited to participate. All lectures will include a question-and-answer period. At most, the audience will be invited to stay while the company rehearses or takes its own dance classes

Persons wishing to attend the free programs must make reservations by calling 963-7622 at least a day in advance of the lecture.

Clowning around

Chrissie the Clown is host of the children's hour at noon and 2 p.m. Saturday in the central court of Westland Center, Warren and Wayne roads. Clowns will perform tricks and slapstick routines with music and balloons.

THE DUO-ART ROLL mechanism, one of three major brands, Eliason said, "is capable of accenting one note of a chord and you can hear a single melody line against all the chords." The piano was built by Steinway for use with Duo-Art piano rolls.

When Simpson finished playing and the hall was quiet, Mrs. Miller said, "Many a lovely hour we spent with this piano. Everything I associate with it is family and friends gathering around

The piano had been in Miss Jacobson's family since before she was born and was passed from one family member to another - whoever had room

All of the members of the Jacobson family were raised with a musical heritage. Dr. Jacobson, in whose memory the gift was given, was chief of staff of Wayne County General Hospital, but he also organized and played in a string quartet made up of physicians.

Miss Jacobson studied piano and remembers playing the Steinway grand, of the Nov. 9 concert, the final one in both mechanically and manually. REPRODUCING pianos were popular before and after World War I. This one was made in 1931; the Steinway Co. stopped making them in 1942.

Kloian competed in the recent 1980 Black & White Chicago Classic tournament. He continues a review of moves which arose in tornament

• DECLINING A DOUBLE

As I watched another duel of wits between two top players, this position came up.

White, on roll, has a 5-1 to play. White moved a checker from the 12 point to the 7 point. Black, before rolling his dice, doubled the cube to 2. White declined the double, this giving black a one-point win.

Dide white make a good play? Why did black double? What is your suggested play?

White didn't necessarily make a terrible play. He just moved the wrong checker. I'm sure white's move was intended to duplicate 5s for black, although a 5-6 roll can hit both checkers.

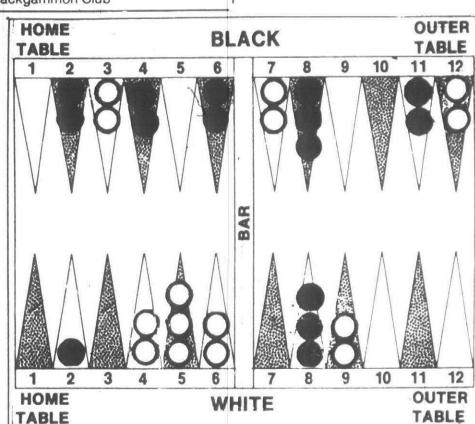

Duplicating a number your opponent needs in order to hit is excellent - if he doesn't roll the number you're on. If he hits, you go to the bar.

The incorrect play on white's part was breaking the mid-point (12 point) prematurely. Without the mid-point, there is on direct pressure on black's checkers on the white 8 point. Black would be able to move freely at his own will. Also, the mid-point serves as a safe landing spot for white as he attempts to run home.

If white wanted to duplicate a number, he could have moved a checker from the 9 point to the 3 point, giving black a direct 1 shot (11 out of 36 ways) and a 1-6 for a double hit.

This move is far superior since white could cover the blot on his next roll if black doesn't hit and fortify his home board. With this move, if black offered the cube, white would definitely have a Black was correct in offering the cube since white played incorrectly.

Flick or treat: Halloween at the movies

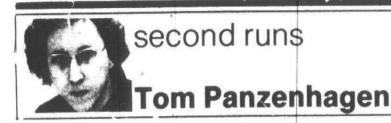

"Night of the Hunter" (1955), 7:30 and 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday at Cass City Cinema in the First Unitarian Church, 4605 Cass at Forest, phone 832-6309, $2. Running time 91 minutes.

Charles Laughton's only work as a director is an allegorical tale of love and hate, which are the words tattooed on either hand of a maniacal, backwoods preacher played by Robert Mitchum. The preacher tracks two children, who hold the key to a cache of stolen money, and he lets nothing stand in his way. Shelley Winters, Lillian Gish, James Gleason and Peter Graves also star in this eerie, atmospheric film. Unrated.

"The Night of the Living Dead" (1968) and "Invasion of the Body Snatchers" (1956), 11 p.m. Friday in the Liberal Arts Theater at Schoolcraft College, Livonia, phone 591-6400, $1. Running times 90 and 80 minutes. "Invasion of the Body Snatchers" also being shown Saturday at the Michigan Theatre, Ann Arbor, call 995-9066 for show times and ticket prices.

Dehumanization is the theme common to these two workhorse horror films. George Romero's "Living Dead," made on the slimmest of budgets and fated for the shortest of drive-in movie lives, has survived all pessimistic prognoses and become a very popular cult, sci-fi film. In between its lurid shots of flesh-eating zombies in action, "Living Dead" tackles themes of isolationism and racism as they apply to dehumanization. Only one professional actor was employed in the making, and it shows, yet that's a large part of the charm of this anti-establishment

"Invasion" recreates McCarthyism feelings of paranoia common to the early '50s when "Who Do You Trust?" was as much a way of life as it was a game show. Some people feared Communists were taking over government, others feared they would be accused of being communists unless they conformed to rigid patterns of behavior. Either way, individualism loses out. Kevin McCarthy (no relation) and Dana Wynter star in this Don Siegel film. Rating: $3.25 each.

"Frankenstein" (1932), 1 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 2. Originally 71 min-

You have to understand that when "Frankenstein" debuted, it terrified audiences as "The Exorcist" scared us just a few years ago. Children had nightmares, adults shuddered, projectionists wore blindfolds. Dr. Frankenstein's monster has since become a joke, of course, thanks to films like Abbott and Costello Meet Frankenstein" and "Frankenstein Meets the Space Monster." But in 1932, when KARLOFF (as Boris was then known) backed into his first scene, turned and exposed the monster's gruesome, deathless face, hell broke loose from coast to coast. The film is stilted in ways common to early '30s productions, but it's still one of the classics.

"Son of Kong" (1933), 12:30 Saturday night on Ch. 50. Originally 70

The sequel to "King Kong," like "Bride of Frankenstein," was played for laughs, but not nearly as effectively. Starchy Robert Armstrong was back, but peekaboo-sexy Fay Wray had been replaced by Helen Mack, and the Willis Cooper special effects and Franz Waxman musical score had lost some luster. Rating: $1.25.

"I'm All Right, Jack" (1960), 7 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday at Detroit Film Theatre in the Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward, phone 832-2730, $2. Running time 104 minutes.

John and Roy Boulton, British filmnakers of the Monte Python-Benny Hill School, created this risque satire of English politics and mores with a superb cast: Peter Sellers, Terry-Thomas, Richard Attenborough, Margaret Rutherford and Ian Carmichael. Very funny stuff, if you understand British humor. Unrated.

"A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" (1966), 8 p.m. Monday on Ch. 50. Originally 99 minutes.

The late, great Zero Mostel plays a conniving slave in this frenetic Stephen Sondheim musical set in ancient Rome. A smash on Broadway, "Funny Thing" the film leaves something to be desired as the frenzy is stretched a bit thin for the screen. But Mostel and co-star Jack Gilford are excellent and the song "Everybody Ought to Have a Maid" is worth the price of admission. Also starring Phil Silvers, Michael Crawford and Buster Keaton as you don't want to remember him. Rating: $2.50.

"La Strada" (1954), midnight Monday on Ch. 20. Originally 115 min-

Federico Fellini's first great film, like so many of his others, utilizes a carnival motif as a parable on life. Anthony Quinn, a transient sideshow strongman, abuses his "assistant," Giulietta Masina (Fellini's real-life wife), and is taunted by Richard Basehart, who plays a clown/fool in the Shakespearean sense. Masina is brilliant as the wide-eyed concubine who despises Quinn but loves life. Nino Rota's laconically inspiring score, with its variations on circus themes, is the earmark of Fellini films Rating: $3.75.

"Knute Rockne, All American" (1940), 1 p.m. Wednesday on Ch. 50. Originally 98 minutes.

If George Gipp — er, Ronnie Reagan wins on Tuesday, Bill Kennedy will be the first matinee movie host to run a film starring the President of the United States. If that's not enough to make you vote for Carter, Anderson or Pat O'Brien - anybody but Reagan! nothing is. Let's lose one for the Gipper. Rating: $1.98.

New political roles for women in '80s

Women outnumber — and outvote men in the American population, which means that if this year's election is as close as predicted, women may hold the victory margin.

This is one of the possibilities investigated in "Women and Politics: The Invisible Majority," a book scheduled for publication next month by University of Michigan Press.

Its authors are Marjorie Lansing, professor of political science at Eastern Michigan University, and Sandra Baxter, a Washington, D.C., research methodologist.

"Women and Politics" is considered a landmark study of the important changes in the voting behavior of women during the past 25 years.

The authors note that in the last decade — for the first time since winning the vote in 1920 - more women than men have gone to the polls to vote for president.

Additionally, significant numbers of women have entered politics as candidates, party workers and lobbyists.

The study examines issues related to active political participation by women, such as what women believe about politics, how they view candidates and parties, relatively high voting rates among black women, and voting patterns of men both in the United States and abroad.

"Bloc voting by women could well tip the scales in a tight election," Professor Lansing said in a recent New York Times article.

"Historically, women have not constituted anything like a visible voting bloc. The stereotype has been that politically women don't differ from men; they just participate less. In 1980, this view is out of date.

"The emerging organizational unity of women surprised politicians at both national conventions. Republican women made the Equal Rights Amendment a leading issue; Democratic women defied the Carter convention machine to gain unprecedented platform planks on the Equal Rights Amendment and

"There will be a feminist vote in the 1980 election. That majorities of women and men support feminist issues (equal rights, abortion, pay) is supported by Harris poll findings. However, it is the way women voted on non-feminist issues that may play a key role in Professor Lansing said that "the message is clear; in foreign policy, women as a group are more peace-oriepted than men.

"Neither the individual voter, nor the army of researchers, completely understands why people vote as they do. Nevertheless, considerable evidence suggests that women as a group will support the candidate whom they perceive to be the most trustworthy to be a peacemaker," she said.

Both women were honored recently at a reception in Washington by Philip and Sarah Goddard Power. Power is owner of Suburban Communications Corp. in suburban Detroit and Mrs. Power is a U-M Regent and Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights and Social Affairs.

Caution keeps buzz saw from going out on a limb

A chain saw can be a wood burner's best friend when used properly. If not, it cna turn on you viciously.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, chain saws in 1979 accounted for about 51,000 injuries that required hospital emergency room treatment. Howard J. Doss, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service agricultural safety specialist, said safe the cutting," said Doss. "This helps woodcutting requires maintenance of two systems: the first is mechanical, the second, human.

To fulfill the first requirement, certain tools beyond the chain saw are a must. These include items like ear muffs or ear plugs for hearing protection, a hardhat (falling limbs less than 3 inches in diameter have killed nonbelievers), proper fuel and oil containers, wedges, tools for chain saw adjust-

Proper clothing is equally important. "Garments should be comfortable and allow you full mobility, but they should not be baggy or floppy," Doss said. "You don't want them to get in the way of your saw or get snagged on a limb or brush at a crucial time.

It is possible to overequip yourself so that you spend the greater share of your time carrying tools into and out of the woods. But is will make the job a lot easier — and safer — if you have the necessary equipment to do an efficient cutting job.

If you have the right tools for splitting wood, for instance, you won't use an axe when you should use a wedge.

The other component of efficiency and safety is the chain saw operator.

"Cutting wood — whether it's cutting face cord lengths or dropping a tree is tough work, requiring strength and stamina," Doss said.

Whether you are an experienced cutter or a novice, it is important to work steadily and deliberately.

"The most important requirement in chain saw operation is to let the saw do minimize fatigue. Don't try to force the equipment beyond what it is designed to do. Taking shortcuts and hurrying around increase the chance of acci-

. Felling and cutting trees leaves little margin for error, so it pays to know what to do and when to do it. Anticipation and planning are important parts of accident prevention, Doss said.

"When preparing to fell a tree, size it up to determine on which side it is weighted so that it will fall where you want it to go," Doss advised. "Make sure the area where it will fall is clear of brush or obstacles that might pose a danger when the tree is being trimmed

"More importantly, make sure that you have cleared a wide area in the direction opposite that the tree will fall. This is your escape route. Be prepared to use it - quickly - in case something goes wrong," he added.

Take frequent rest breaks. Use these to look for possible hazards you might not otherwise see in the course of continued operation. If you become overly tired, call it a day. Fatigue is a dangerous partner when cutting wood.

Research clearing the air surrounding emphysema

For years, researchers have known that smoking is the major cause of emphysema. Now they are beginning to find out why

According to the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan (ALASEM), the lungs function normally if there is a vital balance between two substances-two enzymes.

One enzyme called elastase actually digests the rubbery fibers that make the tiny air sacs in the lungs elastic. The other enzyme inhibits the first so that it doesn't get out of control and severely damages the fibers.

Among emphysema victims, a very small fraction inherit the disease and develop emphysema even if they do not smoke. Most patients, however, have smoked heavily for many years.

Those who inherit the disease have a deficiency of the second enzyme. As a result, the uninhibited elastase enzyme devours the tissues of the air sacs. The air sacs cannot exchange oxygen and carbon dioxide properly. The emphysema patient must struggle to breathe 20-25 times a minute instead of the normal 15. In its advanced stages, the disease is agonizing.

In smoker's emphysema the problem is more complicated, according to research from the National Institute of Health. By comparing lung fluid from heavy smokers with fluid from nonsmokers, investigators found that the second — the inhibiting — enzyme was present but it was not doing its job. A chemical in smoke called an oxidant apparently turns off the second en-

"Every individual who smokes shows some signs of emphysema," said Oscar Auerbach, M.D., who recently was awarded the Trudeau Medal from the American Lung Association for this study that documented the correlation between the amount of lung damage and the amount of smoking.

Reading conference at EMU

The fourth annual Reading and Language Arts Conference for elementary school teachers will be held at Eastern Michigan University Saturday, Nov. 15, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Pray-Harrold Classroom Building.

Dr. Leland Jacobs, nationally known speaker, writer and professor emeitus from Columbial Teachers College, will deliver the keynote address at the conference titled "Reflections on Poetry." Participants will have an opportunity to attend several samll group sesu sions on children's literature, individualizing in the classroom, creative writing, vocabulary development and creative teaching. All of the goup sessions will be led by prominen consultants noted for their in-service work.

One credit hour of graduate credit may be obtained for attending the conference and a follow-up session to be held Dec. 13. For credit information, contact Dr. Mary Bigler in the Depart ment of Teacher Education at EMU at tax proposals in a nutshell

PROPOSAL A ("Smith-Bullard") calls for cutting property taxes (residential and agricultural) for schools. Requires state to make up the loss to school districts. State income tax would have to be raised to 6 percent or more from current 4.6 percent to fund school sytems. To be phased in over five-year period under a complicated formula.

PROPOSAL C ("Coalition Plan") advanced by Gov. Milliken and bipartisan leaders in the legislature: Would cut property taxes by exempting first $7,100 of residential property assessment. Loss to be made up by increasing state sales tax to 5.5 percent from 4 percent.

PROPOSAL D ("Tisch") would roll back property assessments to 19/78 level and then cut in half, resulting in 60 percent cut in property taxes. Would then require state to pay local governments for some of the lost revenue. Any new state taxes would require approval of 60

Funds fight famine

Preventing famine and easing hunger in a dozen developing nations is the intent of a five-year, $16.7 million research program being administered by the Michigan State University Agricultural Experiment Station (AES).

If you believe a handshake is still the most binding contract of all and are seriously considering selling your house, we urge you to call us.

We're your local CENTURY 21® Neighborhood Professionals.® When we agree to sell your house, we provide you with a written document called the CENTURY 21 Action Warranty. It spells out in clear, concise language 10 important services we must perform or you can cancel your listing. But even more important to us than the document, is our handshake. That handshake is a binding personal contract.

We take it very seriously. That's why when we say "We'll Give Our Word To You" it has two meanings. And we

OPENING In West Bloomfield

Extraordinary 1, 2 and 3 bedroom rental residences that feature up to 2,800 square feet in a community of exceptional character and charm. Thru-unit design of all of these terrace and towne homes provides private entry, double or triple exposures, kitchens with window views, in-unit storage and private laundry rooms, patios and balconies Each of the 8 different Aldingbrooke plans is distinguished by the unexpected; a one bedroom with 2 baths and a great room/den for example, a two bedroom 2 bath with a private dining room that is elegantly separated from the living room; a three bedroom with 21/2 or 3 baths with a great room and den or with a great room and fireplace. A great deal from which to choose! Attached garages, monitored gate house, club house, swimming
