Residents up in arms over proposed park

By DARLENE STINSON

Residents of an isolated subdivision in rural northwest Canton are infuriated over a township proposal to develop a park near their homes.

Residents of Pilgrim Hills — an area of one-acre lots and $150,000 to $300,000 houses — say they don't want a public park near their neighborhood. Last week, they blasted the Township Board for making plans for the park "in secrecy."

Canton officials announced on Oct. 23 that a matching grant application for the purchase of a 40-acre parcel near Ann Arbor Road and Napier has been approved. The site is targeted for winter sports and summer picnicking. Canton Township will be obligated to pay half of the purchase price if the federal matching grant is accepted.

The township's plans for the acreage was not revealed publicly until Oct. 30. According to grant coordinator Terry Carroll, the Township Board approved submission of the grant application in closed session last March. Under Michigan's Open Meeting Act, elected officials may discuss the purchase of land away from the public's scrutiny.

"The fact that this is almost ready to go and we've heard nothing about it irritates us to no end," said Pilgrim Hills resident Jeanine Bahlow.

"Let's face it. We moved to the country for peace and quiet. If this goes in, there's no way they'll be able to keep snowmobiles and a lot of noise out."

LAST TUESDAY, at least a dozen neighbors of Ms. Bahlow blasted the Township Board with objections to the plan. They said the township should further develop existing recreational areas before buying a park which residents don't want.

Carroll said he has received a number of calls from irate Pilgrim Hills homeowners since the park plan was publicized.

"Most Canton residents are on the eastern side," objected one man at Tuesday's Township Board meeting. "That's where we need more parks."

"This is really on the edge of the township," added homeowner Martha Miller. "What would stop people from Plymouth Township, Salem and Superior from using a park that we don't even want?"

Carroll said the Township Board will hold public hearings on the proposed park purchase following an appraisal of the land and the submission of additional paperwork to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR). He expects the preliminary work will cost about $1,000.

Officials at Tuesday's meeting declined to specify details of the park plan or estimate a purchase price. Supervisor Noel Culbert said the decision to buy the land will be placed in the hands of the board elected Nov. 4.

Carroll said the federal Uniform Relocation and Property Acquisition Act of 1970 prohibits the release of specific details until owners of the property have been informed of their rights.

ACCORDING TO CARROLL, a tentative development plan has been formulated for the park. At this time, officials only will say that possible uses include cross country skiing, sledding, tobogganing and perhaps beginner downhill skiing. Jogging and nature trails, picnic tables and grills may be installed for use during spring, summer and fall.

"I think their fears (about the proposed park) are unfounded," said Carroll. "That's the problem when you can only release half of the information.

"I really didn't expect the kind of negative reaction that surfaced," he said. "But I don't want anyone to construe that we'll be making an irreversible decision to buy the park without public input."

'The fact that this is almost ready to go and we've heard nothing about it irritates us to no end.'
— Jeanine Bahlow

Carroll suspects that officials will hold a public hearing on the proposed park sometime between December and February.

He notes that all township residents — not just those from northwest Canton — will be invited to the hearing. Carroll suspects that residents from other areas of Canton will support the park concept.

"If that was the attitude taken by everyone, we wouldn't have any parks," he said of the objections hurled by Pilgrim Hills residents. "Maybe that is a bad location. But that will be a decision of the new board."

With the exception of Pilgrim Hills, most of the land in northwest Canton is zoned for agricultural purposes. The proposed park site is hilly and heavily wooded, according to township officials who have declined to pinpoint the exact location.

The grant for the park purchase comes from a program of the U.S. Department of Interior. The Michigan DNR administers the funds.

Illness stalls Flodin

The township clerk's office may be tabulating election results without one of its strongest resources.

John Flodin — township clerk since 1956 — is sidelined with hepatitis.

Flodin, who is running unopposed for his 12th term, said his physician has ordered him to stay in bed and to get plenty of rest.

Hepatitis is an inflammation of the liver, which leaves its patients weak, nauseated and jaundiced.

"I'M GOING to do what my doctor tells me," said Flodin. "I hate to let them down (on election returns)."

At Township Hall Flodin's secretary Doris Kelley was predicting a large voter turnout in Canton, including about 2,000 absentee ballots.

"Knowing John (Flodin), it will take a team of horses to keep him down," said Mrs. Kelley. "He is taking care of the things that only he can do. It's hard for him to rest with this (election) going on."

Canton Township's 16 polling places will be open from 7 a.m.-8 p.m. Tuesday.

Residents in Precinct 16, formerly at the fire station at Cherry Hill and Canton Center roads, will be casting their ballots at Township Hall.

Mrs. Kelley said the change was prompted by the expected large turnout and limited parking at the fire station.

Precinct 1 will remain at the fire station.

How to get vote results

The Observer will be publishing complete election results in its Thursday edition, but you won't have to wait until then to find out who are the winners.

The Observer news staff once again will be operating its Election Hotline for the benefit of readers anxious to know who their future public servants will be.

To find out merely call 459-2700 between 9 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Because a number of our readers use the election hotline service each year the phone may be busy when you call. If you are greeted by a busy signal, try again and your call will be answered quickly.

Results will be given for Canton Township supervisor, treasurer and board of trustees and Plymouth Township supervisor and board of trustees. Also reported will be the winners in the 2nd and 15th congressional districts, the 52nd House and 27th county commission districts, and the 27th charter commission race.

The results will be unofficial and uncertified and so exact vote totals will not be given out. Staff members, instead, will give the names of the projected winners or leaders for whatever race is requested by the caller.

Family stays tuned to India

By ARLENE FUNKE

Two top-of-the-charts musicians just completed a visit to Burgundy Drive in Canton Township.

There weren't any screaming, teen-aged fans hanging around hoping for a glimpse of the superstars. No autograph-seekers came either.

Rather, the two musicians — classical artists from southern India — relaxed and prepared for a "home" concert which was sponsored by Canton resident and businessman, N. Bali.

Bali, a mechanical engineer and president of DEC International, held the concert recently in a gymnasium next to his office. The office is in the former Sheldon School on Geddes.

Bali said the concert was pulled together at the last minute, when he found out the two musicians were passing through the midwest on a concert tour of 15 Canadian and American cities.

The musicians are Doreswamy Iyengar of Bangalore and Umayalpuram K. Sivaraman, of Madras in southern India.

"IT WAS like a home concert," explained Bali. "People came from Windsor, Ann Arbor, Sterling Heights and Flint. There were 50-60 people (attending).

"These are really top-flight people (musicians)," added Bali. "The Indian community has heard them before."

Bali and his wife Sraswathi (Sara) came to the United States from Madras about 10 years ago. They first settled in Chicago.

They moved to Canton Township in 1973, and currently live on Burgundy with two sons, aged 11 and 19 months.

"Every year I get a couple of visiting artists and try to arrange for some concert," said Bali. "It's one of the ways I keep in touch."

MRS. BALI said she and her family enjoy the musicians' visits. The Balis like to maintain close ties with their homeland "so the kids will know about Indian art and music.

"We go (to India) every 2-3 years," she added. "We eat Indian style."

The recently-visiting musicians are well-known in India and Europe for a classical Indian music called carnatic. The music evolved in southern India about 500 years ago, according to the two artists.

On his first visit to the United States is Iyengar, 60, who plays a stringed instrument called veena. The instrument — an ancient lute — evokes a restful, melodic sound.

Traveling with him on this concert tour is Sivaraman, 45, who last visited the United States in 1962.

Sivaraman plays a mridangam. This instrument is a drum, which skins of the goat, cow and buffalo. Sivaraman's hands fly over the taut hides, producing sounds with varied pressure and position of his fingers and hands.

The men wear wraparound, cotton shrouds called dhoti, topped by crisp white shirts. It is customary to squat on the floor during a performance, they explain.

"WE ARE free-lance musicians," explained Sivaraman. "We meet on the platform and immediately there is a rapport with any musician."

"Because the norms of the music are so established," added Iyengar.

Both men come from musical families and have been developing their skills since childhood. Both make recordings, perform in concerts in India and abroad, and appear on radio and television.

Sivaraman gives lectures on the mridangam and trains students.

"This is really an experience," said Iyengar. "People in the United States, Canada, Germany and England are taking a lot of interest in Indian music and culture. We are very encouraged."

Here's census tally

Canton Township has attracted natives of Korea and the Philippines, Czechoslovakia and West Germany.

There is at least one family from the Caribbean nation of Haiti and the island of Malta in the Mediterranean Sea.

Some 19 families have responded to a Canton Observer census, in which we asked residents to fill out a questionnaire giving information about their ethnic backgrounds.

While several described their ethnic background as American, others talked about customs and family traditions from all over the world.

In the weeks to come, you'll be reading stories about some of the interesting people who responded to our questionnaire.

Thanks to all the residents who took part.

State asks for only 1 tax hike—for prisons

By TIM RICHARD

"Help," say state prison officials as they ask for voter approval Tuesday of Proposal E.

"It's a hypocritical proposal on the part of the state legislature," answers Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, who says he'll vote no on E.

Proposal E is the only state tax increase on the ballot. It asks that the income tax be hiked one-tenth of 1 percent for five years (to 4.7 percent from 4.6 percent) with the money being earmarked for prison construction and programs.

TO TAXPAYERS, passage of Proposal E would mean an average increase of $11.85 per person a year.

To the state, it would mean an estimated $275 million to $360 million, depending on the health of the economy, over the tax hike's five-year life.

(To which Patterson retorts: "There's no such thing as a temporary tax.")

Proposal E revenues would buy:

- Four regional prisons of 550 beds each for $132 million.
- Demolition by 1990 of the 100-year-old state reformatory in Ionia, a facility described by corrections officials as "antiquated and overcrowded. . .(It) houses young offenders in conditions which are the worst in the prison system."
- Improved county jails, lockups and other facilities as determined by the legislature.

MIKE SMALE, school principal of the new Huron Valley women's prison in Ypsilanti, made the case for Proposal E to a Schoolcraft College audience.

"Our prisons today are 1,500 to 1,600 over capacity. Seventy percent of the bed space is substandard. The prison population has doubled since 1973."

How did prisons get so crowded? Smale gave four answers:

"In the 1970s, serious violent crime increased. There was a very angry, righteous, public demand for action. In 1970 the average prison sentence was 22 months. Today it is 32 months. There are 15,000 persons in prison today.

"'Good time' was eliminated by the voters in 1978. This will add 2,600 persons to the prison population." The so-called "good time" allowed a prisoner to be released in less than the minimum sentence imposed by the court if he/she behaved. Elimination of good time required a prisoner to serve his/her full minimum sentence.

"The firearms law tacked two years onto a prison sentence for a crime committed with a gun. That added 500 to the prison population.

"The number of women in the prison population has tripled in the last 10 years. It used to be that if a man and woman committed a bank robbery, the man got 30 years and the woman five. Today the judge gives them both 30 years," said Smale.

He added that federal courts are now protecting prisoners' rights to adequate prison conditions if the state fails to run prisons properly. "I hope we won't allow a court to impose its solutions on us."

PATTERSON, in an interview, had no argument over the number of persons in prisons. In fact, he led the 1978 petition drive to eliminate "good time."

But the Oakland prosecutor argued that the legislature should have found the money it needed within the existing state general-fund budget. Instead, lawmakers spotted a program they figured would be popular — prisons — and dumped on the State Corrections Department the job of selling it to the public.

Never saw track

New horse leader takes reins

By W.W. EDGAR

Gov. William Milliken has taken a page out of the baseball book in appointing the new racing commissioner who will take over the office in Plymouth in another month.

He chose Frederick S. Van Tiem, a Midland attorney who openly confesses he can't remember ever having been to a racetrack and who knows nothing about the workings of racing.

But there is a precedent for such a surprise choice.

It is just about 60 years ago when baseball was hit by a scandal that involved the alleged "throwing" of a game in the World Series.

Eager to get a man who could serve in an independent capacity, the baseball moguls chose Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

He had been serving as a judge in Chicago and eagerly took over the job as baseball's first commissioner. It wasn't long until the white-haired old jurist had made a name for himself and he still is rated the best commissioner baseball ever has had.

It is no secret that the racing program in Michigan has been in trouble. Some of the charges and countercharges are still unsettled.

These constant flare-ups are one of the reasons that Fedele Fauri, a renowned commissioner for the past few years, retired last week.

At the moment Van Tiem, the newly appointed commissioner, is chief assistant prosecutor of Midland County and has an outstanding record as an attorney.

But he has never been at a racetrack. At least he says he can't remember being at one when the horses were running.

The new commissioner was raised in Detroit and is a graduate of Wayne State University and the Detroit College of Law. He served in the U.S. Attorney's office under James H. Brickley, the present lieutenant governor, Ralph Guy and Philip Van Dam.

He was chief of the civil division under Guy and served as U.S. Attorney on an interim basis for three weeks.

He was in private law practice from 1972 to 1975. He also is a veteran of the army and Merchant Marine and now is a member of the U.S. Naval Reserve.

He plans to commute between Midland and Plymouth for several months because his children are in school.

And on one of those trips he will have a new experience — he will visit a race track.

S.T. victims form group

A self-help group has been formed for southeast Michigan residents with spasmadic torticollis.

Symptoms of the little-known disease include intermittent neck spasms and a jerking of the head to one side. Onset of the disease may be sudden or gradual.

The self-help group is seeking public awareness of the neurological disorder.

Members meet on the second Saturday of the month in Warren. For information on joining the group, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Project S.T., P.O. Box 3426, Center Line, Mich. 48015.

Lawyers look over 5 Circuit Court candidates

By TIM RICHARD

On paper the lawyers knew their qualifications. But what they really wanted was a chance to meet the candidates for Wayne Circuit Court face to face.

Five of the six candidates for three court vacancies showed up last week for a meeting with the Livonia Bar Association. (Eight current circuit judges are unopposed.)

What the 40 area lawyers saw was a range of ages, temperaments, types of experience and approaches. Only eight of the lawyers, however, chose to fill out a survey form assessing the candidates (see related story below).

Circuit court is a court of general jurisdiction, handling major civil cases (including divorces and other family matters) and all criminal cases originating outside Detroit.

Candidates were asked:

- What ideas do you have to speed up the crowded court docket?
- What do you bring to the court in the way of recognizing the problems of practicing attorneys?

MARIANNE BATTANI

RICHARD KAUFMAN

PATRICK McDONALD

HENRY SZYMANSKI

LUCILLE A. WATTS

MARIANNE BATTANI, a Detroit lawyer for nine years, cited the National Center for State Courts, which studied 23 court systems.

"Six of the top seven were individual docket courts (where one judge handles a case from beginning to end)," she said. "The slowest are central docket courts.

"In 1969, Wayne went to a central docket, and it's a disaster. But by good programming and use of a computer, we could get good use of a central docket. The mediation program has been quite successful and should be expanded."

Battani, 36, said she was a teacher in Detroit, worked as a systems engineer for International Business Machines and as a law student worked on a computer system in the Wayne court.

The past president of the Women Lawyers Association said half or more of her practice is family law — divorce, paternity, child custody.

On the question of lawyers' problems, Battani said she has observed a decline in "professional courtesy" lawyers extend to each other. If it appears a court opponent is going to default on a case, she said, "Don't default somebody unless you call first and ask what happened."

RICHARD KAUFMAN, a Detroit attorney, said, "Going back to individual dockets is better than general dockets. A judge should follow a case all the way through. . .

"The court should be departmentalized," he said, with some judges specializng in family law, others in personal injury cases, other in criminal cases.

Kaufman said judges must waste much time in "pro forma" proceedings with couples who want to be divorced, but added reform "will take legislation."

Kaufman, 29, is the son of Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman, "but I had nothing to do with that circumstance." He spent two years as a legal adviser to the Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force and three years in private practice, challenging the legality of auto insurance rates in a class action case.

"I thought it was unfair to charge more (for auto insurance) to unmarried people. I thought there was a violation of equal protection of the laws. I got 90 percent of the results I wanted. That's where I come from."

Kaufman said he has also handled anti-trust cases.

On the problems of lawyers, Kaufman said he was "upset at working on briefs, getting into court and having a judge not even read them. If I'm a judge, that won't happen in my court."

PATRICK McDONALD, an attorney in Redford Township, said, "Domestic relations have generated a tremendous number of divorces in the last 10 years. There is a problem in that area that could be addressed."

McDonald, 33, was supervisor of Redford Township for two terms, "an interesting experience for an attorney because you are the defendant in suits against the township. It changes your outlook, your perspective of how cases move through the system. You get the public's view."

On the problems of lawyers, McDonald said, "I've been given conflicting trial dates and have not been met by understanding judges. But I won't buy the story of a 'flat tire' too often."

McDonald is a former delegate to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments and trustee of Redford Community Hospital. He is a first lieutenant in the Army Reserve.

HENRY J. SZYMANSKI, a judge on the Detroit Common Pleas bench for 14 years, said the crowded docket question "is difficult. A single judge has nothing more to contribute than his own best efforts.

"I am amused by young candidates who say 'I'm doing to do this and that.'" said Szymanski, 56.

"The first ingredient is to be on time and be ready. Going back to the old blind draw can be the best of systems if the judges work at it. I'll work at it."

He has been alternate chief judge on the common pleas bench and a former member of the Commission on Community Relations.

"I know there's a time to be stern and unrelenting and a time to show consideration. If a judge is experienced, you don't need to have confrontations. I've never held any (attorney) in contempt in 14 years. I haven't had to."

LUCILLE A. WATTS, a judge on the Detroit Common Pleas Court for two years, said, "I don't have a whole lot of ideas" on speeding up the docket.

"I work a full day. When I say I want you in court at 9, I don't mean five minutes after 9."

Watts said most of her 16 years in practice as an attorney had been in circuit court. As a common pleas judge, she often found herself assigned to the circuit bench.

On the problems of attorneys, she said, "I haven't forgotten what it's like to be on the other side."

WILLIAM C. HAGUE, a Detroit Recorders Court judge, did not attend the session, reportedly because of illness.

Hague, 67, has been the center of controversy over his refusal to issue warrants in prostitution cases.

Hague has been an Ecorse municipal judge one year, a member of the Michigan Employment Security Commission seven years and a traffic judge on the Recorders bench 12 years.

In a statement to the League of Women Voters, Hague said:

"Three black judges out of 35 judges is not a sufficient manifestation that the black community is involved in what is happening in Circuit Court. Involvement relieves tension and promotes respect for the law."

How 8 lawyers rate candidates

"Seventy percent of the persons who vote for president don't vote for judge," lamented a candidate for Wayne County Circuit Court.

The candidate was addressing 40 members of the Livonia Bar Association, a lawyers organization.

Observer Newspapers polled the 40 on their analysis of the candidates, but only eight replied to the survey. Some who didn't reply said they didn't have enough knowledge of the candidates. Most gave no reason.

The survey form was identical to one the Oakland County Bar Association uses to poll members. Lawyers are asked to rate each candidate on four qualities: legal ability, temperament, impartiality and industry.

The ratings are "superior," "average," "unacceptable" and "?" for unknown.

The results are not an endorsement by the association but an indication of how professionals in the field see the candidates.

Although a sample of eight responses is of little statistical significance, the survey did reveal some patterns. Here are the results:

MARIANNE BATTANI, Detroit attorney, received a total of 10 superior marks, 16 acceptables, no unacceptables and six unknowns. Her best marks were for temperament, with five superiors.

WILLIAM HAGUE, traffic judge in Detroit Recorders Court, received no superior ratings, seven acceptables, 15 unacceptables and 10 unknowns marks. His best marks were for legal ability, temperament and industry, where he received two acceptable marks. One respondent called Hague "racist."

RICHARD KAUFMAN, Detroit attorney, got a large spread of marks — six superiors, seven acceptables, six unacceptables and 13 unknowns. His age (29) and comparative lack of experience (three years) were apparently held against him. One respondent said Kaufman was "respected by his peers in law school."

PATRICK McDONALD, former Redford Township supervisor, got the most consistent marks — one superior, 18 acceptables, two unacceptables and 11 unknowns. His highest marks were in temperament and impartiality: five acceptables in each.

HENRY SZYMANSKI, Detroit Common Pleas judge, also received a large spread of marks — six superiors, 16 acceptables, eight unacceptables and two unknowns. One respondent called him "dull but OK."

LUCILLE WATTS, another Detroit Common Pleas judge, received seven superiors, 18 acceptables, one unacceptable and six unknowns. "Straight lady, adequate lawyer," one commented.

Growers' group starts to blossom

By ARLENE FUNKE

Until recently, few of Canton Township's vegetable farmers knew each other.

The challenge of tilling fields, harvesting crops and selling produce left little time for socializing.

But some of the farmers have had a taste of togetherness in recent months as they sold their fresh corn, tomatoes and squash at the Canton Farmers' Market, held on Saturdays in the parking lot of Kmart, on Ford Road.

THAT NEW bond — plus a desire to have a "bigger and better" market next year — has resulted in the formation of a growers' association.

Helping to develop the budding association are several truck farmers — men and women who raise vegetables for sale at local markets.

There have been several meetings in recent weeks. A representative of the Wayne County Extension Service will meet with farmers at 7:15 p.m. Nov. 5 at Township Hall to discuss ways in which they can pool their efforts.

The extension service, which is located in Wayne, provides information about gardening, home canning, 4-H and other topics related to agriculture. Much of the information comes from Michigan State University, which has a strong programs in those subjects.

"THERE ARE 19 (Canton) farm families actively involved in producing vegetables," said Jack Suddendorf, a part-time farmer who owns 20 acres of land off Saltz Road.

"They (farms) range from very tiny to a little bit bigger than small — nothing gigantic," he added. "We became very much aware that we have to provide bigger and better service if the market is going to grow."

Working with the farmers has been Gurdon Dennis, a horticulture agent with the extension service.

Dennis said options for the farmers include buying and selling cooperatively and various marketing techniques.

"Once they develop what they really want to accomplish," said Dennis, " I can call on almost any specialist in any (Michigan State University) department for guidance and assistance."

Suddendorf believes a farmers' association is a "natural spinoff" from the market. He points out that most of the farmers who grow vegetables for local markets have other jobs and need to share information about equipment and resources.

The immediate goal will be to improve the market next year, said Suddendorf.

"Farming is so incidental in this part of the world," said Suddendorf, who works full-time as a financial administrator for University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

"IF YOU find a kindred spirit, it makes you want to continue. It's a warming thing."

Both Suddendorf and other farmers who have taken part in the farmers' market have said that their fresh vegetables were in high demand by residents.

"We sold out week after week," said Suddendorf. "People were asking us for volume (of vegetables) that we couldn't supply.

"Truck farmers — that's the kind of farming that an urban setting needs," he added.

Suddendorf praised township officials for their assistance in developing both the market and the association.

Providing information have been members of the planning department, the farmland preservation committee and the grants coordinator.

OTHER long-range plans of the association may include developing a food cooperative, said Dianne Neihengen of the farmland preservation committee. Another is to explore the possibility of obtaining low-interest financing for agricultural purposes under the state economic development laws.

The state guidelines are designed to help develop industry. However, much of Canton's farmland areas lie in areas zoned AGI (agricultural-industrial), added Mrs. Neihengen.

Farmers have different needs based on their age, she continued. While some of the older farmers would like to sell their property and move, younger ones "desperately want to expand in Canton," said Mrs. Neihengen.

"We're going to concentrate on making the market better next year and developing the association," she added "We found you can't start big."

Election '80

Election nudges meeting

The Canton Township Board has canceled its regularly scheduled meeting of Nov. 4 because of election day.

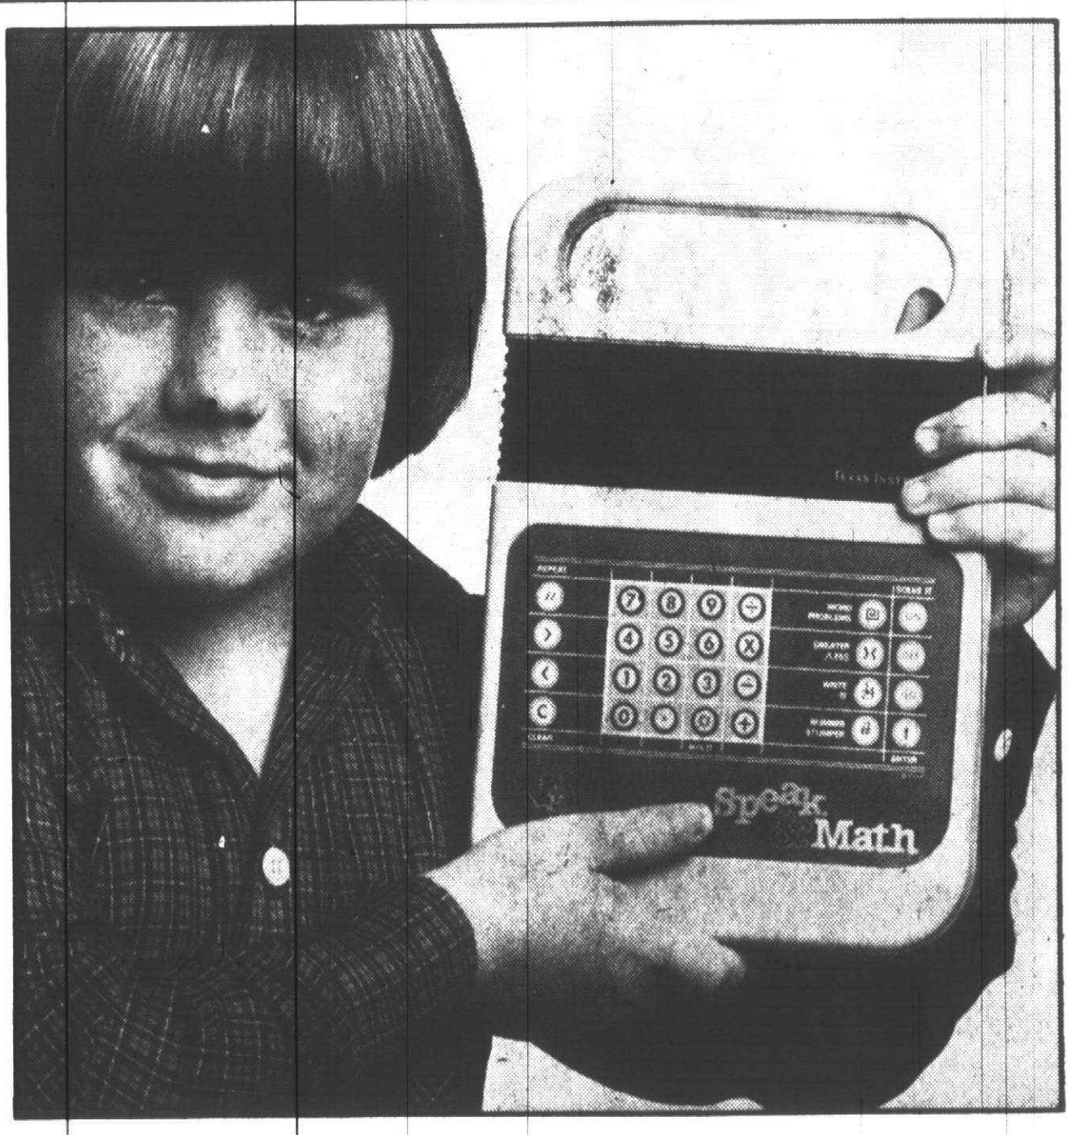

The board's next regular meeting normally is scheduled for the second Tuesday of the month. But because Nov. 11 also is Veteran's Day, the board will meet instead on Wednesday, Nov. 12. That meeting will begin at the regular time of 7 p.m. in Township Hall.

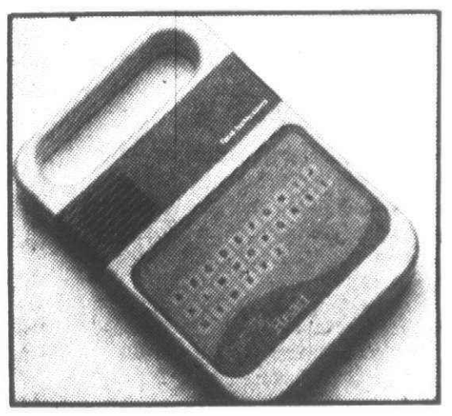

Unless an additional special meeting is scheduled, the Nov. 12 session will be the last meeting of the current Township Board.

Candidates tapped by voters Tuesday will be sworn in Nov. 20.

All members of the current board, with the exception of Clerk John Flodin, could be replaced in Tuesday's election. Flodin is the only official who is seeking re-election unopposed. Terms of all seven board members expire Nov. 20.

Treasurer James Donahue, Trustee Robert Greenstein and Trustee Eugene Daley will leave office regardless of the election outcome. Donahue is not seeking re-election, and Daley failed to win a trustee nomination in the Democratic primary.

Canton woman has 'dog's life'

By W.W. EDGAR

When it comes to unusual business enterprises it would be difficult to surpass the activity set up by Bina Perry, a recent settler in Canton Township.

She operates a mobile dog grooming activity.

Sounds unusual. And it really is.

Tired of hearing folks complaining of the long waits at pet shops while their dogs were being groomed, she has come to their rescue with a well-fitted van and does the grooming right in the driveway of your home. And you may be a guest while she works on your pet.

A 30-year-old native of the Minneapolis-St. Paul area, Mrs. Perry tells a rare story of how she got started and how her idea grew.

Some years ago, she noticed an advertisement in a pet magazine telling of a grooming van owned by a man in Arizona.

"It was so unusual that I went down to Arizona to see it. I liked it. But I knew I could improve on it. I came back to Minnesota and used my own ideas for the interior of the van.

"In my van I have a water heater and 55 gallons of water. I also have air conditioning and heating so that the pet dogs run no danger of catching cold or otherwise being exposed tp danger of their health."

By the time she was finished, the van was much like the interior of her home, complete with a full-sized bath tub and it had a white topper so that she, dressed as a nurse, can stand up to do the grooming.

So great was the success of this venture that she soon had five vans operating and she confided that for 12 years, she has been going from home to home taking care of the grooming.

"By the use of the van, I could cover an area of about 40 miles instead of having one location where you could bring your pet. And it was amazing how the idea caught the fancy of the pet owners."

What brought her to Canton?

"My husband was transferred here. He is the district manager for the Acme Chemical Company. We looked around and took a liking to the Plymouth-Canton community. So here we are."

Over the years Mrs. Perry, who is the mother of two sons, estimates that she has groomed 11,000 dogs that ranged from poodles to old English sheep dogs.

"One of the features of the mobile unit that caught the fancy of the pet owners is that the grooming is done on a personal basis. The pet owner is not required to sit in an outer office or leave the pet and call for it later. With the mobile unit, the work is done in the owner's driveway and they always are invited to be guests and watch the grooming."

Usually, as a starter, she said, the pet owners are just curious. They want to see how the mobile grooming set up works. So far it has proved successful and she is looking forward to the day when she can duplicate her Minnesota success and have five mobil units working out of her home in the Kingsley Court section of Canton.

Local channels are turned on

Ted Turner was in town last week to promote the availability of his Atlanta "Superstation" to local cable television subscribers.

Omnicom of Michigan brought in Turner as a major attraction for ceremonies held inside Plymouth City Hall Thursday afternoon.

The ceremonies were held to activate four local access channels for residents of the city now receiving cable service.

The channels also will be available in the future to residents of Canton and Plymouth Township when Omnicom moves into those communities.

The local access channels are assigned as follows: city of Plymouth (10), Plymouth-Canton Community Schools (11), Dunning-Hough Library (29, Schoolcraft College (27) and, in the future, Plymouth Township (13).

The programming for the local access channels will depend, in part, on suggestions made by citizen advisory committees. Plymouth's advisory committee met last Monday while Canton's committee met Tuesday.

The local access channels could be used to telecast such things as high school football and basketball games, plays and musicals, city commission and township board meetings.

TURNER and John Raines, president of Omnicom, both stressed the importance of local access channels as providing a greater variety of programming for residents.

Turner is chairman of the board of Turner Broadcasting Systems which operates the Cable News Network and Channel 17 Superstation in Atlanta.

Turner also owner of the Atlanta Braves baseball team and the Atlanta Hawks basketball team.

Channel 17 (WTBS) is on the air 24-hours a day and offers some 44 movies each week, most of them classics featuring performers such as Ann Sheridan, James Stewart, Charlton Heston, Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, Audrey Hepburn, etc.

The sports offerings this year include 100 Braves games, 40 Hawks games, 25 Atlanta Flames telecasts, 10 Atlanta Chiefs soccer games, 4 Atlanta Falcons pre-season games, 28 collegiate basketball games, Grand Prix tennis, and the following football bowl games — Garden State, Independence, Holiday, Tangerine, Hall of Fame, and Bluebonnet.

OMNICOM, headquartered in Plymouth, was formed in 1979 by Raines, Leo Hoarty and Jeff Dorn.

Omnicom is a subsidiary of Capital Cities Communications, Inc., a Fortune 400 company which owns WJR-Radio and the Oakland Press.

The company also has franchises in Northville, Northville Township, Westland and Hamtramck.

Plymouth Salem teens pick Reagan

If the preference of high school student is any indication, Ronald Reagan will carry Plymouth and Canton on Tuesday.

A mock election conducted in Plymouth Salem High School saw Reagan win impressively with 575 votes to 342 for Jimmy Carter, 184 for independent John Anderson, 21 for libertarian Ed Clark, 19 for Communist party candidate Gus Hall, and 13 for Barry Commoner of the Citizens Party.

Earlier, in a mock election conducted by Plymouth Canton High, Reagan earned 318 votes to Carter's 271 with Anderson collecting 101 votes.

For the entire Centennial Educational Park, then, Reagan placed first with 893 votes to Carter's 663 with Anderson collecting 285 votes.

The students at Salem High also voted on the statewide tax proposals (A, C and D) and the drinking age proposal (B).

On the tax proposals, the Salem students approved of Smith-Bullard (A) with 511 yes votes and 396 no votes. Proposal A lowers the property taxes and raises the state income tax, among other provisions.

The students defeated the so-called coalition proposal (C) with 570 no votes and 423 yes votes. Among other provisions, Proposal C lowers the property tax and raises the state sales tax.

The Tisch Amendment (D) was defeated by the largest margin of 707 no votes and 301 yes votes. Tisch would cut property tax revenues in half and require any new taxes to be approved by 60 percent of the electorate.

Scott Beaman, who teaches government and history at Salem, said some 1,190 students voted in the mock election Tuesday and Wednesday. That represents a voter turnout of about 45 percent.

The mock election was conducted by students in the government classes. Students in government and history classes had received explanations of what the state proposals were about. Literature on the proposals also was made available to all students.

District drafts plan to find gifted pupils

A new procedure has been adopted to identify gifted students who should receive special services from Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The new procedure will identify those students eligible to be enrolled in the Talented and Gifted (TAG) program of the school district.

The new identification criteria were developed to make sure all TAG students are properly identified and serviced, to the extent possible, explained Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction.

An impetus for drawing up new criteria, explained Homes, was a workshop held in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools last summer and led by Roger Taylor, a national expert on education for gifted children.

Lynn Parkllan, who headed up the committee which drafted the new identification steps, said the group relied heavily upon Dr. Taylor's advise and upon assistance from the University of Michigan.

The group, a subcommittee of the TAG Advisory Committee, also consisted of Marjane Baker, Deni Elliott, Marlyn Finch, Mary Griffard, Beverly Marshall and Jane Nichols.

Under the new procedure, the initial screening will begin by using a number of test scores to identify the top 20-30 percent in any given grade level, explained Ms. Parkllan.

This selected group of students would then be further evaluated to identify the top 5 percent of the initial group. The 5 percent of the initial 20-30 percent would then be identified as eligible for the TAG program, she said, and would receive services to the extent money is available.

When the TAG program started in 1977 the initial screening identified the top 15 percent of a grade level from which the top two percent were selected to be enrolled in the TAG program.

Because a full battery of test results are not available for students in the early grades, Parkllan said, the new procedure will only select the top 2 percent in grades 1-3 and the top 5 percent in grades 4-12.

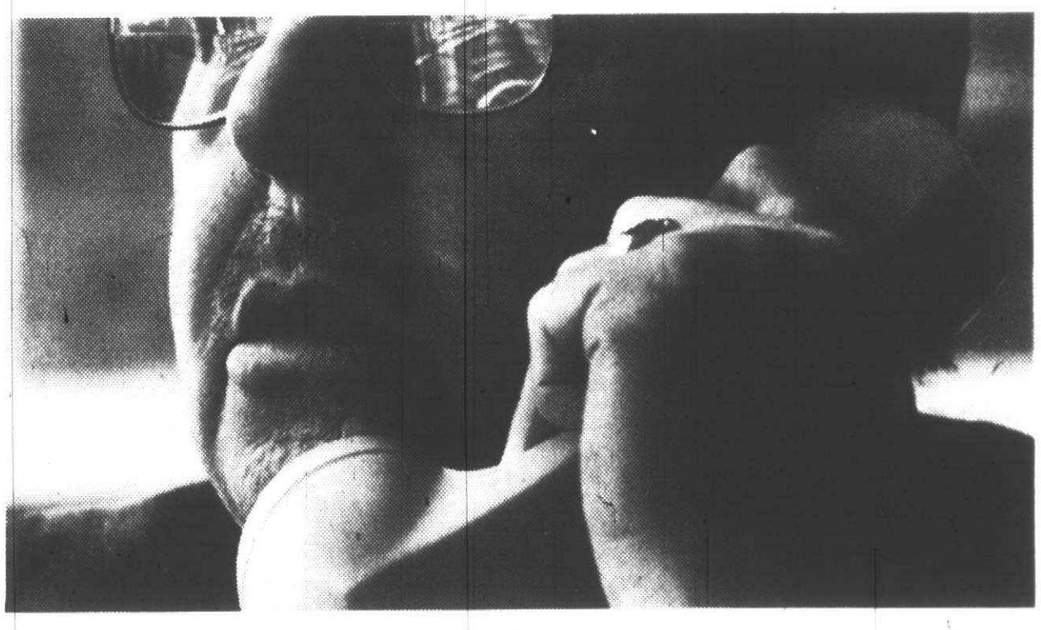

In response to a question from trustee Elaine Kirchgatter, Ms. Parkllan acknowledged the criteria at present only identified students who were academically talented and was not designed to identify those who were gifted in the arts.

In the initial identification, students are placed on the screening list by different methods, including parent recommendation, teacher recommendation, test scores, peer or self-recommendation, or past placement in a TAG program — depending on the grade level involved.

Outcounty outnumbers city Tuesday

By TOM LONERGAN

More than 800,000 voters in Wayne County are expected to cast ballots Tuesday.

Besides the usual national, state and local offices, voters will decide on county charter commissioners, seven state ballot issues, four county tax proposals and three new circuit judges.

County Clerk James Killeen estimates "somewhere around 60 percent" of the county's 1,347,000 registered voters will go to the polls. In 1976 about 65 percent voted. In 1972, the turnout was 66.5 percent.

There are 93,000 fewer eligible voters for this year's presidential election than in 1976. Total registration four years ago was 1.4 million, some 52,000 less than in 1972.

For the first time in a presidential election, there are more registered voters in out-county areas than in Detroit. There are 712,277 registered in the suburbs, including Highland Park and Hamtramck, compared with 634,731 in the city.

There are nearly 128,000 fewer eligible Detroit voters than in 1976.

POLLS WILL be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday. "I suspect we're going to have lines," Killeen said. The ballot includes seven statewide and four countywide referendums in addition to some local questions, such as a special two-mill tax increase in Westland.

An expected close presidential race in Michigan and the three major state tax referendums will get most of the voter's attention, Killeen said.

Past ballot "fall-off" for statewide offices like Supreme Court Justice has been as much as 40 percent, Killeen said.

Besides the presidential race and the tax issues, voters will elect five countywide office holders, county commissioners and representatives to a county charter comission, state representatives, two supreme court justices, three county circuit court judges and two members each on the state board of education and the three major state university governing bodies.

WAYNE COUNTY has the distinction of offering the tax-minded voter a contrast.

Each of the three state tax referendums — Proposals A, C and D — propose either some property tax relief or, in the case of D, a cut. The four county referendums seek property tax increases for the general fund budget.

County Proposal J, placed on the ballot by the county Tax Allocation Board, proposes a three-mill increase in a 15-mill countywide tax rate shared by the county, school districts, some townships and Wayne County Community College.

The county and school districts would share the bulk of the increase. As it is worded on the ballot, Proposal J doesn't indicate a tax increase. Three mills means $3 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation. On a house with a market value of $60,000, the gross tax would be $90 a year (minus income tax deductions).

The county Board of Commissioners placed three separate half-mill tax increase questions on the ballot. Revenues from the special five-year tax hikes would be earmarked for County General Hospital in Westland, mental health services and the sheriff's and prosecutor's offices.

A half-mill would raise about $8 million.

ONE BACKER of Proposal L, the half-mill increase for mental health services, gave the referendum a "one in three" chance of passing.

"I would be foolish to say I'm optimistic," said Mel Ravitz, director of the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Board. "But it's worth a try."

New programs probably wouldn't be added if the millage passes, Ravitz said. "We've managed to squeak by" with what the county now provides for mental health, he added.

The added revenue would support nearly 50 community mental health centers throughout the county and would be used toward the county's share of state mental institution care of county residents. The latter is 90 percent state-funded.

Proposal K on the ballot is an extra half-mill for County General Hospital. Proposal M is a similar tax hike for the sheriff's and prosecutor's offices.

COUNTYWIDE candidates, all Democrats, unopposed for re-election Tuesday include Posecutor William Cahalan, Clerk Killeen, Treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz, Register of Deeds Forest Youngblood and Board of Auditors Chairman Richard Kelly.

Sheriff William Lucas (D) of Detroit is opposed by Republican Julius Vida of Trenton. Drain Commissioner Charles Youngblood of Harper Woods is opposed by Republican George Cully of Trenton.

Six candidates seek three Wayne County Circuit Court seats. They include three practicing attorneys, two Detroit Common Pleas Court judges and one Detroit Traffic Court Judge.

The candidates are attyorneys Patrick J. McDonald of Redford Township, Marianne O. Battani of Detroit and Richard C. Kaufman of Detroit. Common Pleas Judges Lucille Watts and Henry Szymanski and Traffic Court Judge William Hague are also hopeful's for six-year circuit court seats.

The three election winners will replace retiring Judges James Montante, Neal Fitzgerald and Andrew D. DiMaggio.

SEMTA bus strike affects 1,200 riders

A month-long strike continues to keep some small buses off the streets in Oakland and Wayne counties.

An estimated 1,200 daily users of the Oakland and Wayne Advanced Reservation Transit Systems are affected by the walkout, which began Oct. 3.

Users are primarily elderly and handicapped.

The strike is against Transit Management Inc., which operates the small bus service under contract with the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA).

The strike, by 105 drivers and clerks represented by Teamsters Local 247, has not affected SEMTA's Dial-A-Ride service in several Oakland County communities, including Birmingham.

Likewise, Nankin Transportation Commission service in Westland, Garden City and Canton Township is not affected. Redford Township's Dial-A-Ride is also still in service.

SPOKESMAN FOR both sides said last week little progress has been made in bargaining since the strike began. Both federal and state mediators have been participating in negotiations.

"We're still a long way apart on quite a few issues," said David Schuler, Teamsters negotiator. "The company has made us two offers, but they say they haven't made a final offer. I don't know what the hell the hold-up is."

There's reason why voters are apathetic

Editor:

After attending the League of Women Voters "Candidates Night," I can better understand the extremely low attendance and why people become apathetic about voting. The LWV and members of the Jaycees screened all question presented to candidates.

Candidates Robert Padget, Loren Bennett and Bill Joyner have very strong ties with the Jaycees, according to their own campaign literature. We had submitted four questions on their 3 x 5 cards to their panel. None of them were asked. We left the meeting in disgust at 9:45 p.m. and two other parties were leaving the meeting for this same reason.

Two years ago the Jaycees were accused of not treating all the candidates fairly, and it appears that they have done it again and with apparent LWV approval.

Also, I though it was interesting that LWV, through the newspapers, came down extremely hard on a legal political flyer signed by a Canton citizens group before the primary election because they used their LWV name in their flyer. Yet not a word was said about an illegal unsigned political flyer which was paid for and circulated throughout the township by a former Jaycee member. To maintain credibility of LWV, I would recommend that they disassociate themselves from the Canton Jaycees.

MARTHA MILLER,
Canton

Consider 'J' with care

Editor:

On Nov. 4, the voters of Wayne County will be faced with many decisions regarding a great number of proposals. As in the past, the proposals are written in such a way as to confuse the average voter.

One such proposal is Proposal J. It is identified as a "tax limitation" requesting the limitation to be set at 18 mills. Presently, there is a 15-mill limitation; therefore, a "yes" vote for Proposal J will, in reality, be a three-mill increase.

I understand the position of Wayne County and their financial situation; however, I feel there should have been a clearly worded three-mill increase proposal.

The state Legislature has passed a bill which will make Proposal J effective this year, if approved by voters. In Redford Township, we would be faced with a particularly unique situation.

We presently receive two mills of the 15 mills allocated to Wayne County. Proposal J would cut our allocation to 1.1 mills or approximately $500,000 in 1980. Our budget has been approved and in effect since April 1980.

Consequently, Redford Township would have to make up the $500,000 within a four-month period. This would be disasterous to the services we currently provide.

The people have a right to know that a "yes" vote for Proposal J will be increasing their taxes by three mills.

JAMES P. KELLY,
Supervisor, Redford Township

Jim Poole responds to editorial

James Poole, Republican candidate for Canton Township Supervisor, is responding to a recent Observer editorial.

Editor:

You say that "Poole showed a failure to study the issues during the latter part of his term."

FACT: In the last four months I introduced legislation or resolutions that recommended or resulted in:

1) sidewalks on Sheldon Road and on Ford Road (at developers' expense) when people were walking or pushing strollers in the street and mud; 2) stopping the developer of Windemere subdivision from usurping back yards of Plymouth Park residents; 3) traffic light at Hanford and Sheldon after an accident and mothers were going to lie down in the street to slow traffic.

4) Revealing to taxpayers that the one mill for fire and police was actually an authorization for the board to levy 10 mills (some still don't realize it); 5) authorizing the clerk to buy traffic signs for subdivisions indicating handicapped children were in the area; 6) the taping of township meetings; 7) mobile home tie-down requirements similar to Florida and Texas state laws.

8) An ordinance for storage of recreational vehicle's; 9) lease recreation property from Edison for $1 per year; 10) reducing sewer and water rates.

You also write "Poole seldom introduced legislation." The above items certainly repute that.

I sponsored resolutions and ordinances such as 1) agendas in 1973 (can you believe there were none until I asked for them); 2) anti-porno ordinance; 3) peddler ordinance; 4) free garbage pickup; 5) cancelled a cable TV contract with a group who gave the township very little; 6) the berm at Kmart in 1974 prior to the ordinance in March '75.

7) Fences on Sheldon by Travis drain to protect pedestrians; 8) a fence around Gallimore nature center at developers' expense; 9) pedestrian overpasses at three schools; 10) stop signs and flashers at Miller and Gallimore; 11) stop lights at Ford and Sheldon, Lilley and Haggerty.

All of this can be verified in the public record of the meeting.

JAMES POOLE,
Canton

CARL PURSELL
MAKING A REAL DIFFERENCE

MAKING A REAL DIFFERENCE
ON INFLATION/EMPLOYMENT/TAXES

INFLATION AND JOBS ARE THE BIGGEST PROBLEMS WE FACE
CONGRESSMAN CARL PURSELL IS WORKING EFFECTIVELY ON BOTH

TO CONTROL INFLATION. Public enemy #1 for all Americans, especially senior citizens. Representing us on the influential House Appropriations Committee, Carl is a leader for balancing the federal budget, a critical first step in controlling inflation and restoring the value of our dollars.

TO REDUCE TAXES. Congressman Pursell wants to leave more of your hard-earned dollars in your pocket—for savings, retirement, and to increase your purchasing power for a home, car or other necessities. The Pursell difference: while others push "quick-fix" tax cuts, Carl is sponsoring his own responsible, bipartisan plan to reduce federal income tax rates 30% over five years—to help revive the economy and create new jobs.

TO CREATE JOBS. Congressman Pursell recently led the northern states to a major victory in the House, on a vote to direct more existing government contracts to high unemployment areas—like Michigan. Others had tried and failed on this issue for 27 years, until our Congressman took the lead.

TO BUILD A BETTER FUTURE. Carl isn't just dealing with today's problems—he's leading tomorrow's solutions. Our Congressman is initiating an innovative "Leadership Conference on Michigan's Future". His goal is to bring together leaders from all walks of life to develop long range plans to diversify Michigan's economy and job opportunities—to build a better future for our state and its people.

FLUORIDE FACTS

Dental literature is repleat with facts on the effectiveness of fluoride in preventing tooth decay. How does it work? Sugars in the mouth set up a favorable environment for the growth and development of germs. These germs produce acids that cause decay and leave behind deposits that injure the gums. One of the big defenses against this process if fluoride which builds up the resistance of teeth to these acids. It should be in your child's drinking water so it can be absorbed in his growing teeth; it should also be in your child's toothpaste, and applied regularly on his teeth by the family dentist.

Chicago (the first big city to fluoridate its water supply) reports that tooth decay has been cut in half among its school children, and credits fluoride for this improvement. As an added plus, Chicago parents are saving an estimated $20 million a year in dental bills.

In areas where the water is not fluoridated, children's teeth can be substantially protected against cavities by fluoride in drop or tablet form.

Chiropractic Life Center

DR. GRASSAM SAYS:

CHIROPRACTIC HEALTH CARE Let's You Enjoy It!

The Natural Way To Good Health

Like every Doctor of Chiropractic, Dr. Ian Grassam has a committment to the health care of the community.

"You must let people know that you care about them as people and that you have their best health interests at heart," says Dr. Grassam. "You must answer all of their questions with understanding and not with a lot of sophisticated language."

Dr. Grassam is always ready to explain health problems in simple, down-to-earth terms. He'll inform you, not confuse you.

And he'll fully explain the chiropractic principle which details how the brain generates powerful life-giving energy and sends it down the spinal cord, which is housed by the spinal column. The energy then is sent out the spinal nerves to all parts of the body. These life-giving nerve impulses supply the energy required by the body to carry on its normal functional activities.

The body functions properly only if the nerve channels are free and unobstructed. Nerve interference is caused when one or more of the 24 moveable vertebrae is thrown out of its normal alignment.

This misalignment, known as a subluxation, can be caused by a sudden jar or jerk. Even nervous tension can twist and contort the spine, causing an interrupted flow of nerve energy.

The Grassam Chiropractic Life Center is a multi-faceted complex designed to meet the varied health needs of today.

Progressive diagnostic tools and x-ray equipment are an important part of the facilities provided for the thorough examination of each patient. Up-to-date adjusting rooms and equipment enable Dr. Grassam to do the most for each patient.

For the victims of acute injuries or illness, the day care facility is always available. The waiting area also serves as a resource center where patients share their progress and take advantage of the materials available to learn about chiropractic and natural health care.

ARTHRITIS PAIN RELIEVED

My husband and I both suffered from sinus trouble and arthritis which were disrupting our lives. In addition my husband has a hiatal hernia that has caused him gas pains and nervous tension that kept him awake at night.

A friend of ours, who also had a painful arthritic problem, told us how much better she felt after a few chiropractic adjustments from Dr. Grassam, so we tried chiropractic too.

And are we happy we did! After three adjustments we both felt much better. I found that after five years of constant pain I could sit up or sleep soundly at night. All this with no pain! And our sinuses are much better. My husband has very few problems with gas and we're both feeling much better generally.

I definitely recommend chiropractic to others. I've told most of our friends how much better we feel after coming to see Dr. Grassam.

Arthritis, Chiropractic And You!

DR IAN A GRASSAM

Often the arthritic patient has a poorly functioning nervous system, causing direct or indirect spinal problems. The joints of the body need a strong, normal nerve supply to function properly. When arthritis involves the spinal column or the nervous system, chiropractic helps. Chiropractic is a natural healing science which maintains and restores good health by keeping nerve impulses flowing freely.

How does Chiropractic work?

Electrical change along a nerve membrance is called a nerve impulse. Nerve impulses transmitted along the nerve membrances generate body reactions that control proper body function.

Communication between the brain and the body is transmitted through the spinal cord and then into the individual nerve endings. The spine is composed of 24 bones, which when misaligned, can interfere with the normal flow of power through the body.

Chiropractors are specialists in locating and correcting the abnormal bone misalignment, which eventually affect the body's functions. These are factors that are considered in the case of arthritis.

See your chiropractor when arthritis attacks. Spinal adjustments will have you feeling better soon.

Carter vs. Reagan: I am compelled to speak out

We vote tomorrow.

Today is the day for summing up, for reflecting on what this flawed, shambling campaign has been all about.

By now we have had heard all the speeches, seen all the ads on TV, tested all the charges and counter-charges, evaluated the debate.

The result? Much confusion, little clear result.

Most Democrats feel President Carter deserves another term; most Republicans believe Gov. Reagan can straighten this country out. Most partisans of John B. Anderson have concluded their man has no chance at all.

That leaves a remarkably large number of persons who are undecided, genuinely torn between a troubled administration and a flawed challenger. This group tends not to be partisan in its politics; it tends to vote for the man, not the party. It will decide this election.

FOR THIS GROUP the core issue is which of these two men — Carter or Reagan — is the better equipped as a person to lead this country in times of trouble in a way that is thoughtful, sensible and wise.

I believe that President Carter is so equipped.

By contrast, I believe that Gov. Reagan's human resources are so inadequate to meet the demands of being president that I am compelled to speak out in this personal column, on this particular day, after a silence of more than two years.

My reasons:

● The vast bulk of Reagan's training and experience is as an actor and public speaker. Certainly the means by which a president leads are often theatric. But how can we be certain that Reagan as president will be little more than a performer mouthing his lines without understanding the play? This question is made all the sharper by the system devised by Reagan's campaign to keep him in a tightly-controlled cocoon, isolated from any real-life contact with the people or the press for fear he might say something to embarrass himself.

● Reagan himself admits he has little depth of substance on the issues. He goes on to argue, however, that as president he would depend on knowledgeable advisers. This, however, raises the kinds of questions we learned to fear in the days of Nixon: What kind of advisers? How selected? How honorable? These questions were brought to focus last Friday when Richard V. Allen, Reagan's senior foreign policy adviser, was forced to resign from the campaign by reports that called into question his personal integrity.

● With direct political experience limited entirely to being governor of California, Reagan is almost totally untested and inexperienced in national and international affairs. How can we be sure that as president he would have the knowledge and guts to tell a delegation of four-star generals to get lost when they recommend the U.S. move a division in tomorrow? Reagan's historic tendency to shoot from the hip, especially in foreign policy matters, makes this question all the more pointed.

THE INQUIRY at the heart of these concerns — I regret having to put it so bluntly, but there is no other way — was best set out a few weeks ago by Time Magazine's senior correspondent, Laurence J. Barrett:

"Put starkly, that question is whether he is smart enough to be president. . .The evidence about Reagan is at best mixed."

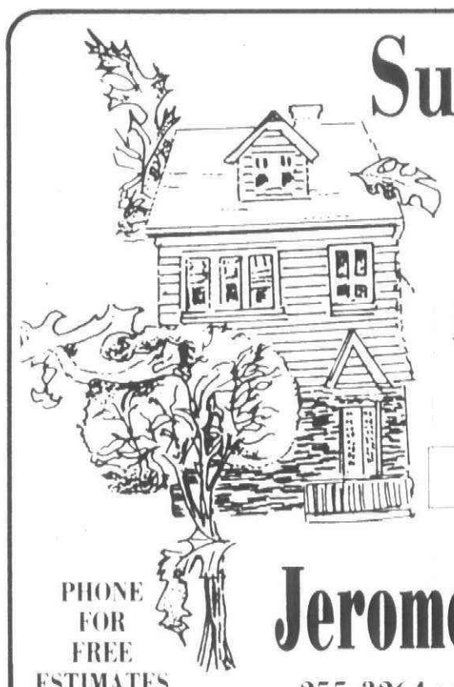

Certainly the record of the Carter administration is also mixed, to put it mildly. But the president is a highly intelligent man, very decently instincted, with his judgment and savvy very much improved by four years on the job. My judgment is that President Carter has laid down the foundation for a successful second term — in energy, economic revitalization, defense, in foreign policy.

I may well carp and complain about another Carter presidency, but I will sleep well at night. With Reagan in the White House, I'm not all that sure.

'Certainly the record of the Carter Administration is mixed. . . But the president is a highly intelligent man, very decently instincted, with his judgment and savvy very much improved by four years on the job.'

Goblin tale has lesson

I visited several haunted houses as a reporter, but wound up as a participant. A group of girls seized upon me in Garden City, Redford Township and Livonia haunted houses as their protection against the dark forces ahead of them.

They clung to me like barnacles. Very quickly I was no longer the keen-eyed reporter watching for details of gore and gruesomeness. I was a mother seeing the kids through a swamp or jungle.

Standing outside the Jaycees' haunted trailer at the Wonderland Shopping Center, I fell in with several girls about 9-12. They talked about how frightened they had been on previous occasions. At one point I made a remark. It wasn't long after that one said, "I want to go with her."

As we made our way forward in line one girl dropped out, came back, and talked about dropping out until we were on the very threshold of the haunted house.

I finally interjected my opinion. "It wouldn't hurt if you didn't go," I told her.

"My mother will kill me if I don't," she said. But, brave in another way, she finally held back.

ENTERING I found a pair of arms tight around my waist. It was too dark to see which child was holding on. I think there was another child at her waist and possibly a third behind her. I quickly understood why the girls had been arguing earlier about who would go first. I was the first person to meet a towering figure dressed all in black.

It was then I heard the first of many screams from my girls. We brushed past him and soon found ourselves passing a gruesome scene I had no time to examine. Hands reached out to grab us. More screams and the first sobs.

I decided to warn my flock to watch out each time we came to a corner. That was when, with wild cries, somber figures leaped out at us. But just as I felt confident that the forces of darkness had given up their tactic of surprise, there would be a horrifying shout as an unknown force came at us. More places where people threatened us followed in a confusion of chaos. I concentrated solely on getting on with it because my girls were screaming and crying.

Finally we came to the end. There was Darth Vader to see us out. The girls greeted him like an old friend, then exited into the night.

At the Redford haunted house, a girl clamped onto me. Her father was the point man in front. I was to guard the rear. A couple of times she let go of me, and I realized I had enjoyed the company. We made it by the witch (Jan Potter), goblin (Jason Potter) wormlady (Jennifer Hopp) and Frankenstein and the mad monk (Mark Nickita and Tom Wilfong), whom I had met earlier as a reporter.

Having been backstage, I was feeling pretty cozy about this particular bunch of haunts. Other participants, however, were doing their share of screeching.

THEN IT WAS on to Garden City. Here I had in tow two girls, screaming and crying as the others had. I couldn't seemed to get used to it. In this place one section was total blackness. I had to feel my way around the bends of the narrow corridor as best I could with one hand. I worried about a young child who might be there without a parent. You needed a lot of cool to get through that spot. My other hand at that moment was held by Little White Riding Hood, who at one point covered her face completely with her hood and flew only with the help of her automatic pilot, who was me. Her friend was hanging on behind.

Again there was the shattering sequence of lurkers springing out or brushing by. I was so happy when it was all over.

Like many of the kids I had seen emerging from haunted houses, Little Miss Hood pulled a metamorphosis once the danger was over. Out in the open she was no longer the clinging, screaming, sobbing child. As she, her father and her friend moved off, she capered around him asking, "Can we go again, Daddy, can we go again?"

I suspected it was bravado designed to restore her self-esteem because she gave way to her fears. But who knows. At least she seemed to be okay.

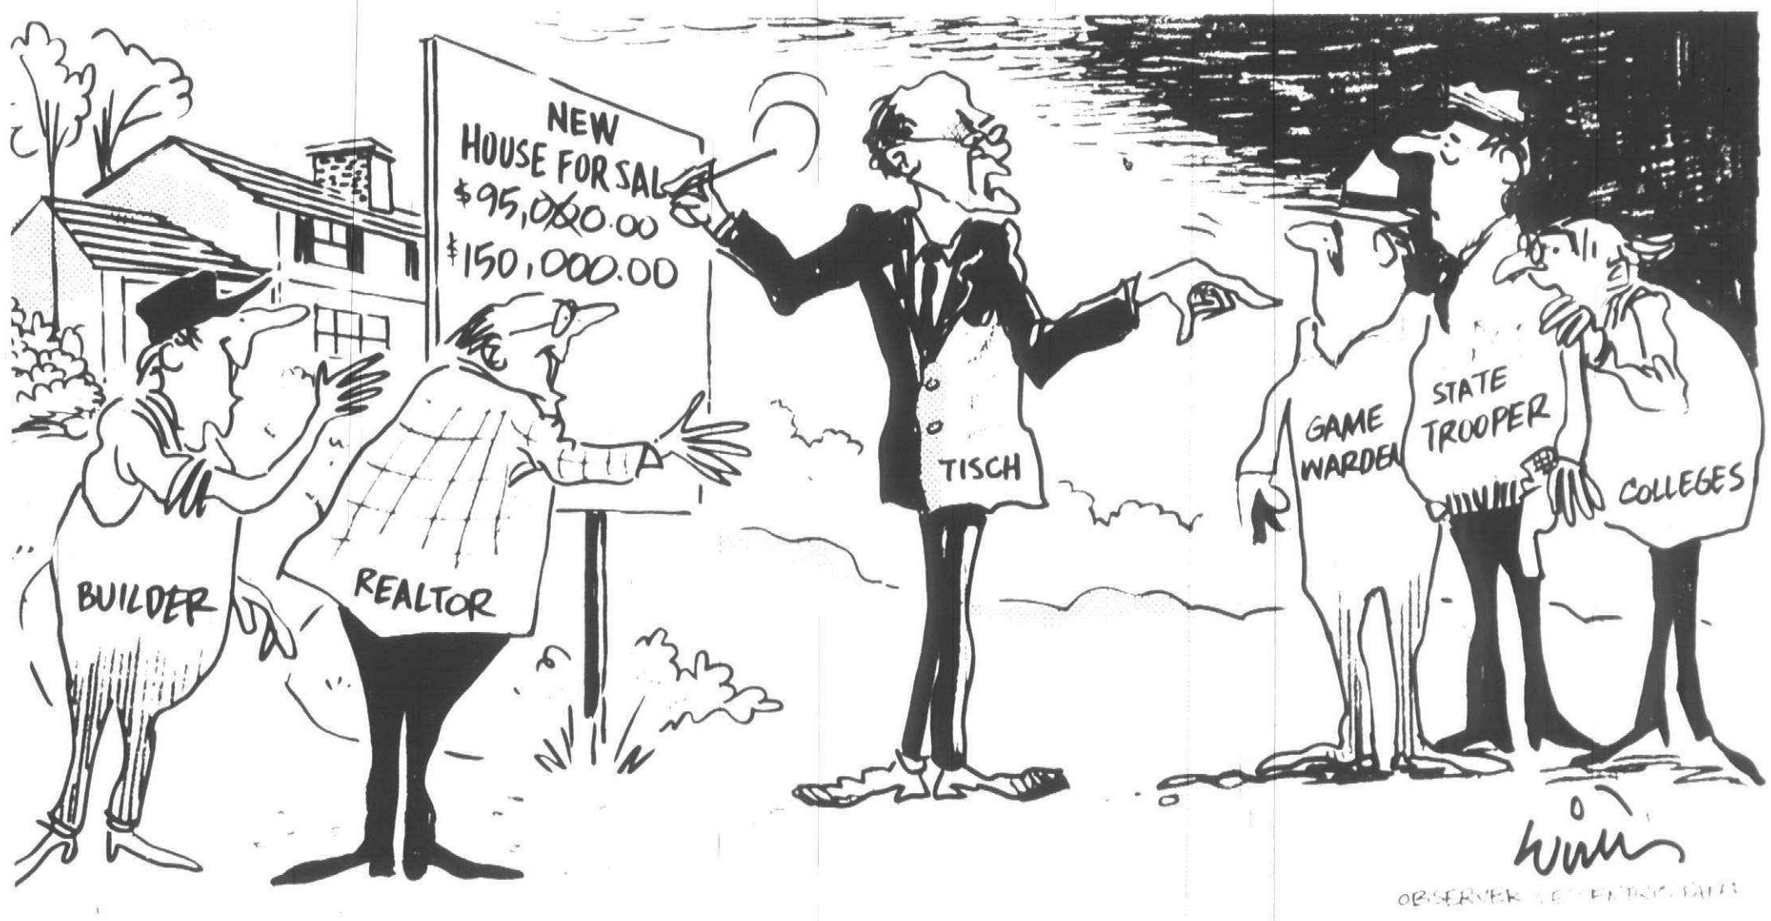

I, on the other hand, returned home a bundle of nerves, not understanding the haunted house syndrome at all.

I do, however, have some comments. Parents of young children would do well to try a haunted house themselves before they send in their children. I think also I would set an age limit for admission at around 12. This might raise the age when children start challenging each other to prove their courage by placing themselves in a situation where they are jumped at, roared at, grabbed at and otherwise spooked.

One psychologist I talked to about this situation said at first that children 1, 2, and 3 should not be allowed to go to a haunted house. As I described what goes on there, he escalated the figure to 5 or 6. By the time our conversation was over it was up to 8. In my opinion, if he went through one of these houses with a group of children, he might raise his estimate again.

Some believe the impetus to go through a haunted house is to prove our ability to conquer the unknown. But it might be better for kids if they could postpone this until they were older.

'Price controls for YOU'

Truth revealed: Tisch is liberal plot

Tim Richard

My newsroom colleagues have been having a giant laugh. Howling supporters of the Tisch minority-rule plan have been calling the office to fume about our opposition to Proposal D and calling me a "liberal."

Can you imagine that? Me — a liberal!

If there is anything on the ballot that can be called "liberal" in political philosophy, it's the Tisch plan doctrine.

First, Tisch panders to the "vote yourself a living" crowd. It proposes that we a) vote ourselves a local property-tax cut and b) raid the state treasury of $2 billion to pay for our tax cut.

It is precisely the same mechanics that liberals use when they say, "Elect this congressman because he will vote aid for your city, aid for your ethnic group, aid for your teachers' group."

SECOND, TISCH is liberal because it seeks to impose price controls. Price controls are advocated mostly by liberals who have a childlike faith in government's ability to control the economy.

The Tisch proposal calls for rolling back one set of prices (assessments) to 1978 levels, then cutting them in half. Then it would limit future price increases to 2 percent a year.

Thus, one element of the economy would be frozen, but everyone else would be free to jack up prices and wages and rents.

Actually, the Tisch amendment would be a backwards way to accomplish the control of rising property taxes. There's a better way to control property taxes. Look at it logically:

WHY DO ASSESSMENTS rise? Because house prices rise.

Why do house prices rise? Because builders raise them.

Now, that's OK if you are living off property taxes or if you are in the business of selling houses. But if you are a taxpayer or home buyer, it's murder.

So the logical thing to do would be to roll back housing prices to their 1978 level, roll back building-trades wages to their 1978 level, roll back materials prices to their 1978 level, and roll back real-estate commission rates to their 1978 level — then cut all of them in half.

We would not only cut our property taxes every bit as much as Tisch wants, but we would also open up the purchase of homes to young couples who have been forced out of the market.

As it is, Tisch does nothing but play into the hands of the people who sell houses. And that is why his best-financed group of supporters are real estate agents.

Actually, that solution is only theoretical. Not being a liberal, I will not advocate price controls, and I do not advocate the Tisch assessment-juggling scheme.

THIRD, TISCH would mean more of our money would go to Washington and the bureaucrats there.

Figure it out by looking at your income-tax returns. You get a nice break on your income tax through your property tax. If you save yourself $500 or $1,000 by voting for the Tisch property-tax cut, you'll pay a portion of that back in your income tax.

Liberals like that kind of government finance.

Then do you know what will happen? All the local and state teachers and bureaucrats whose salaries are hurt because the state treasury is $2 billion short will run to Washington and "demand" more federal aid.

The liberals' hearts will bleed, and the money will be voted. And there will be nothing the voters can do about it because federal appropriations and taxes aren't subject to referendums, the way Michigan and local actions are.

FOURTH, TISCH is liberal because it would allow an elite minority to contol tax actions.

Proposal D require future tax actions to receive a 60-percent vote of the public and an 80-percent vote in the state legislature. That would mean an elitist 41 percent of the voters and 21 percent of the state legislators could call the shots.

That kind of government by an elite is typical of liberal rule.

Fifth, Tisch is liberal in the way it grants total exemption from property taxes. All persons over age 62 are exempted, a provision that applies to Henry Ford II, Tom Murphy, Max Fisher and Walker Cisler. It's typical of a liberal solution that it indiscriminately applies to those who don't need help as well as the persons it is supposed to help.

I plead emphatically "not guilty" to being a liberal. And the Tisch proposal is raging, flaming, undisguised, elitist, minority-rule liberalism.

Election '80 is a different animal

Voting booths will be the center of attention tomorrow as millions of America's registered voters punch, pull and mark ballots for candidates.

There are only a few shopping hours left before the big election.

You still have time to pick a candidate. But it appears there'll be a host of last-minute shoppers in yet another race in which — as election day dawns — voters are still deciding between the "lesser of two evils."

This is reminiscent of the 1972 election when Democrats were singing "It's too late baby" for George McGovern early on in the election. And political wags were making jokes about the Richard Nixon doll who talks and talks and runs and runs and runs.

The attitude now seems to prevail that Jimmy Carter is a known who has done an underwhelming job and Ronald Reagan is an unknown who could screw up. America's on the firing line, but the campaign lacks any real firepower.

The 1976 runoff was a lot more fun. Among dominant issues were lust, adultery and affairs both foreign and domestic. You didn't need a Mary Cunningham and William Agee to make for lively reading. Voters four years ago may have been undecided, but they were seldom bored.

When you were alone with your conscience inside the sacred voting booth, you might have been thinking "lust in my heart," or "ethnic purity."

In retrospect, the Watergate era spawned a language of its own. Those now-overworked terms were common in the daily press or news magazines.

IN ELECTION year 1976, for the hottest info on Jimmy Carter your best bets were "Playboy" and "Penthouse" magazines. In "Penthouse" you read that the peanut populist from Georgia may be the latest reincarnation of Tricky Dick. And of course, all that lust and adultery stuff was in "Playboy."

Gerry Ford might have made the centerfold of "Sports Illustrated" as he stumbled, fumbled and fell on golf courses and tennis courts. But he was still the All-American boy who did nothing except pardon Nixon to generate the wagging of tongues.

For the infamous words of Earl Butz, former secretary of agriculture, you might have read

Jackie Klein

"Rolling Stone." And you could peruse almost any publication to find the latest gossip on Don Reigle and his female friend. That didn't stop voters from putting him in the U.S. Senate.

The language of election '76 made Watergate seem like Sesame Street. But the juicy, lurid, lascivious graphic details splattered all over the front pages didn't persuade many voters to abandon their favorite candidates.

AS ONE VOTER put it, "If you want to make a big deal about every politician who ever fooled around, we'd have self-government for sure."

But 1980 is an elephant and a donkey of a different color. Reagan and Carter aren't lusting in their hearts or anyplace else — at least not verbally. It's Mr. Clean versus Mr. Clean. Carter has Billy and Reagan has B movies but the skeletons aren't rattling now.

You can be sure neither Carter nor Reagan would put a Fanny Fox or a Virginia Ray in the White House or the Supreme Court. That's one of the few things that could stop Rosalyn and Nancy from smiling.

Carter and Reagan, as well as their spouses, keep on grinning through a crucial election campaign. But voters don't think there's very much to be happy about. They have to make some pretty tough choices Nov. 4.

The 1980 campaign is scandal-free. The sham of 1976 has been stripped away. But the undecideds are still around and their numbers are soaring. The theme song is, "Every silver lining must have a cloud."

GREAT AMERICAN FEASTING

Home entertaining takes an upturn in the fall and the holiday season. What's the best direction in which to look for new menu ideas for special meals? North, south, east and west!

Americans across this wide and varied land have a rich tradition of regional foods and as a nation we are rediscovering the diversity of our own unique food heritage. For truly distinctive and memorable meals, consider planning the menus around American regional specialties.

Duckling and rice are important parts of our food heritage which lend an aura of elegance to an occasion and yet are deceptively easy to prepare. The flavor combination can span the nation in its versatility and appeal.

Succulent duckling has always been a favorite restaurant entree, and its use at home is becoming increasingly popular as cooks everywhere discover its amazing affordability, availability and ease of preparation. Duckling can roast indoors or grill outdoors virtually unwatched for the greater part of its cooking time, freeing up the cook to prepare the rest of the meal. With a wide range of glazes, sauces and accompaniments, duckling can be served in endless variety for entertaining.

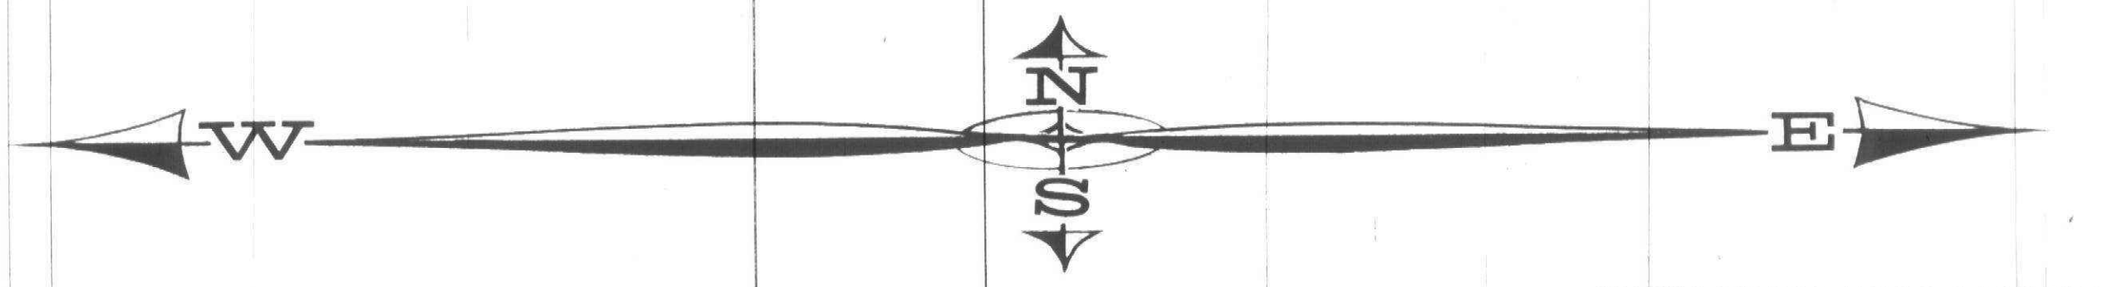

Rice has long been a part of America's food heritage, whether it is long grain rice, so traditional in classic Southern cooking, or wild rice from the Great Lakes region, grown and harvested today in much the same way our Indian forebears found it. Wild rice has always been considered a scarce luxury food, requiring tedious preparation.

Duckling and Long Grain & Wild Rice combine beautifully for a taste tour of the U.S.A. Show guests what's wild about the West these days by serving easy-to-fix West Coast Honey-Lime Duckling on a bed of Chinatown Wild Rice. The duckling is quartered before roasting and glazed with a sweet-tart honey mixture during the last half hour of roasting. Crunchy pea pods, water chestnuts and toasted almonds add color and delightful flavor to Long Grain & Wild Rice.

Combine the historic flavors of the New England coast in a special dinner by glazing a brace of ducklings with maple syrup and cooking Long Grain & Wild Rice with whole berry cranberry sauce for a savory-sweet-tart flavor combination. New England Cranberry Wild Rice is prepared in a skillet while Vermont Style Duckling roasts, to save time and steps for the cook who then has more time to devote to the remainder of the menu.

Treat guests to a bit of Southern hospitality with Plantation Roast Duckling and Sweet Georgia Wild Rice. This special duckling entree and Long Grain & Wild Rice accompaniment embodies the special flavors that the South is famed for — peaches, pecans and bourbon!

Try the following regional menus or create your own, and share your pride in America's culinary heritage with family and friends.

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

That voluptuous vegetable—the eggplant

With its voluptuous shape and the beautiful sheen of its deep purple skin, eggplant is one of the most visually appealing of all vegetables.

It may well be that its singular appearance, along with its peculiar name, makes conservative eaters approach this vegetable with misgivings — if they sample it at all. It simply doesn't fit their image of what a vegetable should look like, regardless of its taste.

The taste of eggplant is actually somewhat unusual — almost bitter. While this delights some fans, others may find it objectionable — or at least an acquired taste.

For those who wish to eliminate this bitter flavor, there is a solution, Slice the eggplant at least one-half inch thick. Salt both sides of the slices and allow them to sit for at least 30 minutes.

Rinse the slices well and pat dry. The bitterness will have been drawn out, and you can continue with your recipe.

SALTED OR unsalted, part of the appeal of eggplant is its somewhat bland flavor which combines so well with other, more assertive foods.

In the popular Eggplant Parmesan, the eggplant performs the function that would otherwise be fulfilled by pasta. It acts as a bland, but hearty, backdrop to a spicy tomato sauce and rich cheeses. The contrast it provides is one of texture rather than competing with the strong tomato-oregano flavor.

The eggplant is prized for its creamy texture. When served as a hot side dish, a pleasant contrast may be provided by a crunchy coating of bread crumbs. Left-over eggplant (uncoated) can even be pureed into a smooth dip or spread.

You might try serving this as an unusual hors d'oeuvre with crackers or pita bread at your next party if your guests are at all adventurous. With the addition of sesame paste and herbs, this becomes the traditional Eastern dish known as Baba Ghanouj, which is becoming more popular in this country.

IN ADDITION to its piquant flavor and creamy texture, eggplant has another virtue that should make it welcome in most American homes. It is low in calories. One cup of boiled eggplant contains only 38 calories.

This is actually somewhat misleading, however. Eggplant is rarely boiled. It is more likely to be fried and, because it acts somewhat like a blotter, it can absorb an enormous amount of oil.

If calories are a problem, you might choose broiling instead. Brush the eggplant slices with a light coating of oil flavored with garlic and broil just until tender.

If, on the other hand, you have no need or desire to count calories, fry the eggplant in a good, fruity olive oil to take advantage of its rich flavor. Although it is usually fried in olive oil, butter provides a delicious change of pace.

The butter and lemon combination suggested by Dione Lucas transforms eggplant into an entirely different vegetable from the conventional Italian treatments.

Eggplant assumes yet another character when it appears in a salad. It is superb in the cold Italian dish, caponato.

Tomatoes, olives, onion, and eggplant combine in an oil-rich marinade to make a peerless accompaniment for almost any sandwich.

WITH SUCH A WIDE variety of approaches available, it is reassuring to note that eggplant is available virtually year-round.

You can adapt its presentation according to the temperature (perhaps a hearty baked entree in winter), the availability of seasonal produce (combining it with fresh tomatoes and peppers in summer), or to suit the occasion (as an unusual vegetarian hors d'ouevre for holiday parties).

For anyone unfamiliar with eggplant, I hope that at least one of the following recipes will tempt you to experiment. For those who already enjoy cooking with eggplant, I hope they will pprovide a fresh approach to this most versatile food.

CRISPY EGGPLANT

½ cup mayonnaise
1 tbsp. dried minced onion
¼ tsp. salt

cup fine dry bread crumbs
⅓ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
½ tsp. Italian seasoning
1 medium eggplant

Combine mayonnaise, dried onion, and salt. Stir together bread crumbs, Parmesan cheese, and Italian seasoning. Slice eggplant crosswise into ½-inch slices. Brush both sides of the eggplant with the mayonnaise mixture and coat with the bread crumb mixture. Place slices on a cookie sheet. Bake in a preheated 425 degree oven for 15 to 17 minutes or until browned. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

EGGPLANT SLICES SAUTEED IN BUTTER

2 medium-size eggplants
Salt
8 tbsp. salt butter
Juice of 1 lemon
Freshly cracked white pepper
Thin half-slices from 1 whole lemon
A little all-purpose flour (to dust the eggplant)

Skin the eggplants with a potato peeler and cut off the stems. Cut them lengthwise into ½-inch slices. Sprinkle the slices well with salt, spread them out on a platter, and let stand 20 minutes. Drain the water and salt that forms, dry the slices well on paper towels, and dust them lightly with flour. Heat some of the butter in a saute pan, and brown the eggplant slices on each side to a golden brown. Do a few at a time, adding more butter as needed.

Drain the fried slices on paper towels and arrange them on a flat serving dish. When all the slices have been browned and arranged on the serving dish, sprinkle with the lemon juice and pepper. Reheat the butter left in the frypan, dribble it over the eggplant in the serving dish. Place half a slice of lemon on each eggplant slice. Makes 4 servings.

CAPONATA

1½ lb. eggplant (baby eggplants are especially nice)
1 tbsp. salt
3 ribs celery
3 medium onions
½ cup olive oil (or more)
1½ lb. tomatoes, peeled, cored, seeded, and diced
¼ cup capers
½ cup sliced black olives
2 tbsp. pine nuts (optional)
¼ cup red wine vinegar
1 tsp. sugar
Freshly ground pepper to taste

Cut unpeeled eggplant into cubes about ½ to ¾-inch square. Put in a colander, sprinkle with salt, and allow to stand for about half an hour.

Meanwhile, dice celery and chop onions. Saute them in ½ cup oil in a large skillet over low heat until onions are soft but only slightly browned. Remove from skillet with a slotted spoon.

Pat and squeeze eggplant cubes dry with paper towel and saute in the oil remaining in the skillet, adding a little more oil if necessary, until lightly browned. Add tomatoes and sauteed onion and celery; cook over low heat about 10 minutes, stirring often. Add capers, olives, pine nuts, vinegar, sugar, and pepper. Mix well, cover, lower heat, and simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. If mixture becomes too dry, add a few drops of water during cooking. Taste and correct for seasoning. Cool.

Spoon into glass jars or non-plastic bowl. Cover tightly and chill well before serving. This best made a day or two before you plan to serve it. Makes about 5 cups. Use as sandwich accompaniment — especially nice with egg sandwiches, sandwiches made on Italian or French bread, and tuna sandwiches.

Pennywise pinwheels

PENNYWISE STEAK PINWHEELS

1¼ to 1¾ lbs. boneless chuck blade roast
1½ tbsp. sesame seed
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ cup oil
¼ cup soy sauce
2 tbsp. lemon juice
2 tsp. sugar
1 small onion, thinly sliced
1 bag (10 oz.) fresh spinach, washed

Chill meat and cut (parallel to surface of the pot roast) into ½-inch thick steaks. Roll up each steak and cut each in half to make 2 pinwheels, securing each with skewer or small round wooden picks. Lightly brown sesame seed and garlic in oil in large frying pan; cool. Add soy sauce, lemon juice and sugar, stirring to combine.

Place steak pinwheels in utility dish and pour marinade over them, turning to coat. Cover dish and marinate in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours (or overnight), turning meat at least once. Place steak pinwheels on rack in broiler pan so top of meat is 4 inches from heat. Broil at moderate temperature 7 to 9 minutes on each side, depending upon degree of doneness desired (rare or medium). Brush meat with marinade occasionally while broiling. Heat 2 tbsp. of marinade in large frying pan; add onion and cook 2 to 3 minutes. Add spinach, lifting gently to coat with sauce, cover tightly and cook 3 to 4 minutes. Serve with broiled steak pinwheels. 4 servings.

The Warming Oven
by Emily Watson

Venison stars in these dishes

When your hunter is home from the hills with his rack of venison, it's important to know how to prepare it properly for the freezer.

The meat of all members of the deer family — moose, elk, caribou — is referred to as venison, and most of its gamey flavor is in the fat. You can minimize the gamey flavor by trimming away all the fat possible before cooking.

Mix venison with other meat for storage and add suet to prolong storage time.

The Cooperative Extension Service suggests venison can be used in ways similar to beef. The flank, breast, hind and fore shanks are best used for stews, soup or ground meat. Loin and rib make the best frying steaks and extra choice roasts. The best pot roasts come from the shoulder and rump. Round is usually cut into steaks.

Persons can call the Food Preservation/Food Safety Hotline, 858-0904, for more information on venison or request bulletin E-657, "Venison Upper Peninsula Style" from the extension service, North Office Building, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac 48053.

Those packages of ground venison can be used for deerburgers, chili, or meat loaf. The recipes for Jugged Venison and Moose Meat Wallops are from the Canadian woods.

DEERBURGERS

2 lbs. lean venison, ground
¼ lb. suet
Handful of moist bread
Sliced onion
Salt
Pepper

Mix well and fry. Top with sliced onion.

CHILI

½ cup beef suet
2 lbs. ground venison
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tsp. paprika
2 tbsp. chili powder
1 tbsp. salt
1 tbsp. white pepper
1 tbsp. diced chili pod
1 quart water

Fry suet in heavy kettle, add meat and brown, add seasonings, add enough water to cover meat. Cover and cook slowly four to five hours, stirring occasionally. Add remaining water as needed. Serves 8.

MEAT LOAF

1 lb. ground venison
½ lb. ground pork
1 egg
½ cup dried bread crumbs
1 cup milk
½ tbsp. onion, chopped
1½ tsp. salt

Beat egg. Add crumbs and milk; mix thoroughly with meat. Add onion and salt. Put in greased pan and bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Tomato and green pepper may be added for seasoning.

JUGGED VENISON

2 lb. venison, trimmed and cut into serving pieces
½ cup seasoned flour
1 cup port wine
½ cup vegetable oil
2 sliced onions
1 tsp. flour
4 cups stock or prepared bouillon cubes, hot
1 tsp. maple or brown sugar
Bouquet of mixed herbs, tied
Mace
2 peppercorns
2 slices bacon

Place the meat in an earthenware bowl and marinate in two cups vinegar, one cup water, two bay leaves, a few peppercorns, a coarsely sliced green pepper and a teaspoon of allspice. Cover and refrigerate for one or two days, turning the meat from time to time.

Remove the meat and let drain. Pat dry with a towel.

Heat oil in frying pan. Dredge the meat in the seasoned flour and brown in hot oil. Remove meat to deep casserole and pour half a cup of the wine over the meat. Brown onions in hot frying pan, add flour and stir until browned. Gradually add the hot stock, stirring until smoothly blended and thickened. Add sugar and stir. Pour the sauce over the meat in the casserole. Add seasonings. Lay the bacon over the meat. Closely seal with a paste made of flour and water.

Bake in a slow 300-degree oven for 2½ to 3 hours. Unseal, remove herbs and spices. Add the remaining wine and reheat. Serve in the casserole.

To jug meat in the traditional manner, place in a sealed crock in a pan of water and boil on top of the stove for about four hours, replacing water loss if necessary.

MOOSE MEAT WALLOPS

1½ lb. minced moose meat from neck or shoulder
Juice of one lemon
1 slice white bread, finely crumbled
1 beaten egg
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. Worchestershire sauce
2 tbsp. tomato paste

Sprinkle meat with lemon juice and let stand for two hours. Combine with other ingredients and mix well
Form into small meat balls, and roll each one in flour.

SAUCE

2 tbsp. olive oil
1 small onion, diced
¼ tsp. powdered garlic
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. dry mustard
¼ tsp. ground sage
½ tsp. sugar
1 tsp. flour
1 cup brown meat stock or 1 bouillon cube dissolved in one cup hot water
6 ounces whisky

Heat the olive oil in a large frying pan and brown the meat balls well on all sides. Remove them from the pan. Saute the onion in the pan until translucent. Add remaining ingredients except the whiskey, and bring to a boil. Cook and stir over brisk heat until sauce begins to thicken. Stir in whisky.

Add the meat balls. Cover the pan, turn down the heat and let simmer for about five minutes. Serve immediately. It can be refrigerated and served the next day.
It's even better then.

Did you know we can find a breast cancer as small as the head of a pin?

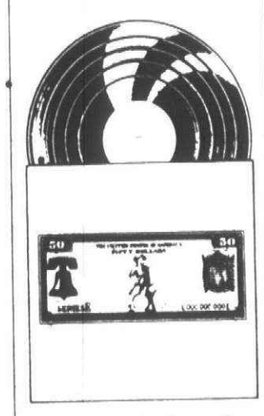

Such a tiny cancer can almost always be cured. A cancer of this size can best be found by mammography —a technique of low-dose breast x-rays. Using far less radiation than ever before, mammography can detect a cancer long before a lump can be felt. While the cancer is still highly curable.

Not every woman needs mammography. But for those women over 50 or with special reasons to be concerned, like those with symptoms or a strong family history of breast cancer, mammography can find a tiny cancer before it has spread. Ask your doctor about mammography.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

by ELLIE GRAHAM

THREE PROMINENT Egyptian women were Sunday evening dinner guests of the EA Chapter of PEO. Joann Lundberg hosted the gathering in her Clare Boulevard home in Plymouth Township. Their Plymouth dinner preceded dinners at the Governor's Mansion in Lansing and the White House in Washington, D.C.

The visitors were in this country for three weeks as guests of the Delegation for Friendship Among Women.

Dr. Zenab El Sobky, a professor of medicine whose field is blood transfusion, is director of Red Crescent, which she said is the Egyptian Red Cross. She also is a member of the Council of Egyptian Cancer Society and the personal representative of Mrs. Answar Sadat on the tour.

She gave much credit to Jehan Sadat for the improved conditions in Egypt today. She described the wife of President Sadat as "very modest, very kind-hearted and very keen to work for the benefit of Egypt.

"When she started working with the Red Crescent, she spent a whole day each week visiting patients and families. She is working very hard and attends most of our meetings."

She told of Mrs. Sadat's interest in bettering economic conditions for girls on farms, telling how she started a sewing project with 25 machines for girls from farms who learned to write and read and then to sew. Their output was sold in the cities and the project has expanded to 250 machines and a woolen machine.

HEKMAT MAHFOUZ, another member of the group, is a Cairo businesswoman and is close to Mrs. Sadat, serving as a sounding board and observer of women's activities abroad. Dr. Fatma El Gohary, a professor of biology and chairwoman of the Department of Water Pollution Research Council of the Egyptian Academy of Science, was the third guest at the PEO dinner party.

Merwat Tallawy, the fourth of the visiting Egyptian women, did not arrive until after the local dinner. She is a member of the Egyptian consulate at the United Nations.

The women were in the area as guests of Betty Lennox, Northville city comptroller, who is also a PEO member. Her sister, Mary Pomeroy of St. Paul, Minn., is delegation secretar treasurer and was touring with the visitors.

Mrs. Lennox was instrumental in arranging a reception for the Egyptian women hosted by the Northville Women's Club. They also visited the Northville Rotary Club.

Dr. Sobky said that Mrs. Sadat is head of the Egyptian Council for Family Planning.

"We are increasing by 1,200,000 a year. Since 1960 we have had a family planning program. Historically, we have been increasing for many reasons.

"Men used to marry one or two women, and women had children so he could not afford to marry again. For five years we have been fighting to change family law. Parliament signed this year a law that a man cannot marry again without the consent of the first wife.

"If he divorces her, she keeps the flat and the children until they are 21. When he steps out, a special bank will send the money for the wife and take it from him later."

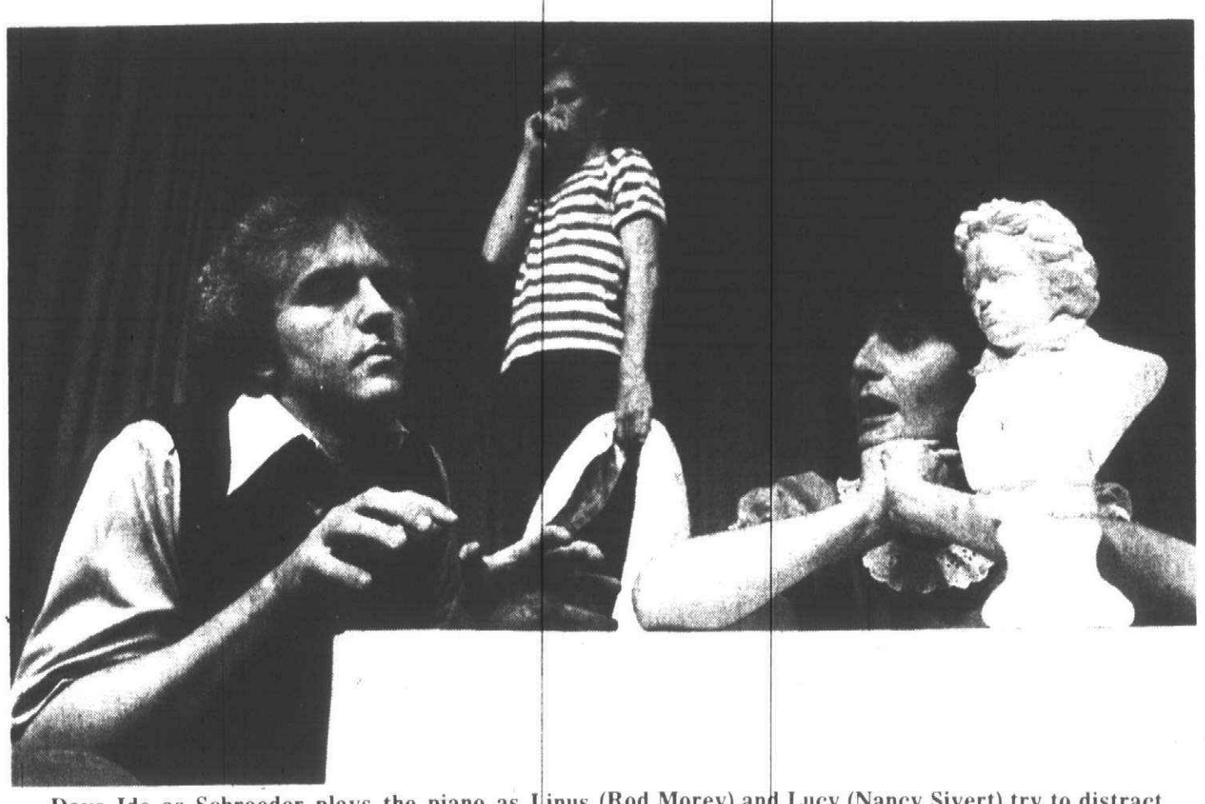

She said Egyptian women were obtaining equality.

"Women who have the same job (as a man) have the same salary. If they have a baby, they have a two-month leave with salary, or a year without, if they choose."

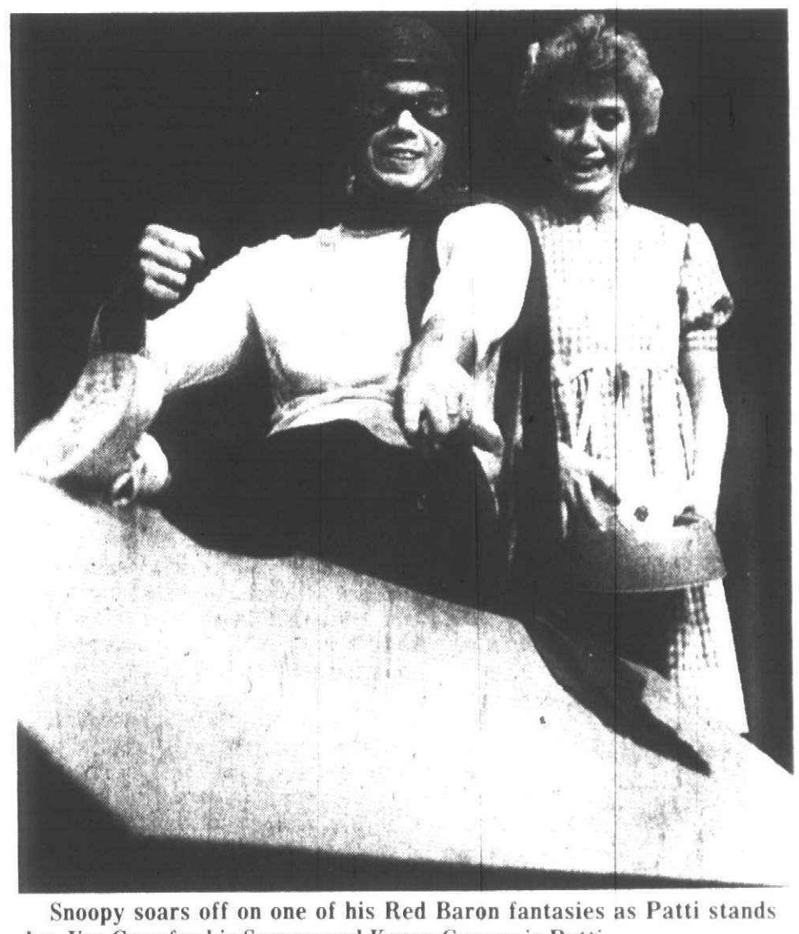

Dr. Sobky, herself a member of Parliament, said there used to be eight women members. Now there are 34.

The PEO members enjoyed the exchange of ideas with the women, who wore elegant long Egyptian gowns to the party. For their area tour of Greenfield Village, downtown Detroit, and daytime gatherings, the visitors were dressed in the stylish international fashion of successful businesswomen.

HIGH SCORERS at Thursday's party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center were Norma Symmonds and Frances LaCombe. There were seven tables in play.

It's the Peanuts gang in theater guild opener

"You're a Good Man Charlie Brown," the musical which played to full houses in New York for four years, opens Friday evening in Central Middle School, Plymouth. The Plymouth Theatre Guild will present the show at 8 p.m. Nov. 7, 8, 14 and 15.

The Charles M. Schultz comic strip, "Peanuts," read by millions of persons daily in more than 900 newspapers, is the basis for the tuneful musical. Six of the most engaging characters of the Peanuts gang are brought to life in the show.

They are Charlie Brown, played by Mark Brzezinski, shrewish Lucy (Nancy Sievert); Snoopy, the dog with dreams of grandeur (Jim Crawford); Linus, who is inseparable from his blanket (Rod Morey); Schroeder (David Ide), who loves Beethoven; and Patty the rope-skipper (Karen Groves).

The show, under the direction of Patricia Bray, represents an average day in the life of Charlie Brown. Joe Marsh is producer and Karen Moomey is both assistant director and stage manager.

THE 13 MUSICAL numbers are accompanied by Margaret Racer on the piano. Leona Glossinger is choreographer and the scenery is designed by Dolan Sievert.

Others in the crew are Martin Keasal, lighting; Richard Brown, sound; Ed Nuemaier, props; and Jan Sigmon, costumes and make-up.

Producer Joe Marsh has been on the PTG board for two years and is currently vice president. This is his first time as producer although he has worked extensively on lighting and scenery in past productions. His involvement in theater began in high school and continued through college when he worked in lighting. Before joining the guild, he was a charter member and past president of the South Lyon Players. Marsh lives in Northville with his wife, Sharon, and children, Wendy and Jay. He is a Ford Motor Company employee in the Auto Safety Center.

PATRICIA BRAY, president of PTG, was last on stage as Widow Hopewell in "Love Rides the Rails."

She produced and played the lead in the Mayflower Dinner Theater production of "Mary, Mary." She is experienced in all areas of theater and her directing credits include "Under the Yum Yum Tree," "We Have Always Lived in the Castle" and "Play It Again, Sam."

Bray has a long association with the Plymouth Theatre Guild.

She said, "I am thrilled to be directing 'You're a Good Man Charlie Brown,' which is my favorite musical."

Kirsten Moomey is a student at Madonna College majoring in performing arts. As a hearing-impaired person, Miss Moomey has acted in plays for the hearing-impaired including "The Wizard of Oz" and "Peter Pan" and has appeared in more than 50 performances of "Travelling Hands." She was recently in "Family," a show performed for the Illinois State Legislature.

This will be her third production with PTG. She was assistant director and stage manager for "The Sunshine Boys" and worked on make-up for "Godspell." She was involved with theater for four years in high school. Her credits include "Once Upon a Mattress" and "Look Homeward Angel," for which she won an award.

CHARLIE BROWN will be played by Mark Brzezinski, who spent the summer working in repertory theater with the Rosier Players Tent Show. He plays acoustic guitar and bass guitar for the Derelict Dixie Band.

He first worked with the guild as a lighting technician for "Tom Sawyer." Following a role with the Garden City Civic Theater in "A Christmas Carol," he returned to PTG as Dick Christie in "Play It Again, Sam" and was last seen with the guild in "Godspell." Other credits are "The Good Doctor" and "Company."

Snoopy will be played by Jim Crawford, whose first appearance with PTG was last spring in "Godspell." He started out in 1972 with Taylor Community Theatre when he was Bellamy in "The Fantasticks." Since then he has had roles in "Fiddler on the Roof" for Southgate and "Cabaret" "The Odd Couple" and "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" for Allen Park Community Theater. He is a Ford Motor Company employee.

KAREN GROVES, who will be Patty, made her PTG debut in "Love Rides the Rails" and last performed in "Godspell."

She is a member of the Canton Singers and formerly sang with the Schoolcraft Community Chorus and the Suburban Chorale. She had the lead in "The Fantasticks," "Once Upon a Mattress," "Lil' Abner" and "Plain and Fancy."

David Ide, a Canton Township resident, will be Schroeder. Ide received the drama key for his work in theater at Plymouth Salem High School and was president of the Thespian Society. He has worked in almost every aspect of theater including set construction, lighting, crew and directing for PTG. He has served on the guild's board for two years. He works as a foreman for Chesley Ind. Inc., and he is a part-time model.

Another Canton resident, Rod Morey, plays Linus. He played the lead in "Ransom of the Red Chief," and appeared in "Tom Sawyer" and "Cheaper by the Dozen" for PTG. The young actor has worked in a puppet show as one of the character's voices and has helped the guild backstage with crew and make-up.

Nancy Sievert, whose talents include ballet dancing and playing the guitar, will be Lucy. Nancy majored in speech and drama at Central Michigan University where she earned a bachelor's degree in education. She has appeared in the musicals "Good News," "The King and I," "Pajama Game," "My Fair Lady" and "Music Man." Among her drama credits are "House of Bernarda Alba" and "Junkyard." She lives in Northville with her husband, Dolan, and 6-year-old twin sons, Anthony and Gabriel.

CHOREOGRAPHER Leona Pohlonski Glossinger is director of the Young People's Center for Performing Arts in Westland. She has choreographed productions for high schools and elementary schools in the Cherry Hill School District, Taylor Community Theatre, Livonia Youth Chorus, Eastern Michigan University Players, University of Wisconsin, Henry Ford Community College and Fortuna Dance Studios.

She first worked with PTG in "Cheaper by the Dozen." She lives in Westland and has studied performing arts at the University of Wisconsin and EMU.

Accompanist Margaret Racer is making her first appearance in a guild production. She has played piano for South Redford Schools for several years. She works with the Livonia Churchill High School choirs. She lives in Plymouth and gives private piano lessons.

Admission to the musical is $4 for adults and $3 for senior citizens and students under 18. Tickets can be ordered in advance by calling 261-2875. Central Middle School is on the corner of Main Street and Church in Plymouth.

Hawks make playoffs, 38-15

Farmington Harrison crushes Rocks in finale

By BRAD EMONS

Small in stature, but playing with a lot of heart, Farmington Harrison mowed down its ninth consecutive Class A football foe Saturday afternoon with a 38-15 victory over Plymouth Salem.

The win assures the Hawks a spot in the Class B playoffs this Saturday at Riverview High School. Defending state champ Jackson Lumen Christi will most likely be the opponent.

The unbeaten Hawks also set an unofficial Class B mark for most playoff points in one season (115).

Harrison coach John Herrington could not make a comparison to his 1976 squad which reached the Class A finals at the Pontiac Silverdome.

"I don't like to compare," said the happy Harrison coach. "These kids like to play pretty bad."

Harrison fell behind 7-0 midway through the first quarter when Salem mounted a 13-play, 54-yard drive. Brian Lewandowski scored on a one-yard run and kicked the extra point.

With junior quarterback Jeff Hubert running the wishbone, Salem drove down the Hawk 37-yard line, but were stopped when linebacker Dan Kehagias knifed in and threw Lewandowski for an eight-yard loss.

THE MOMENTUM quickly changed as Harrison began to take control.

Quarterback Jim Macielak began to connect and Kopko took it in for Harrison's first touchdown just before the half. Dave Blackmer's extra point made it 7-all.

Harrison quickly got the ball back on a short Salem punt and Macielak hooked up with the multi-talented Reggie Upshaw on a 44-yard TD strike to stun the Rocks just before intermission.

"We just blew our coverage on that play," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "We lost the momentum and couldn't make the big play. They did and that was the difference."

"They (Salem) hurt us on first down with those traps to (Darrel) Bartkowiak," said Herrington, "we went with the defenses we had prepared for during the week."

It was all Harrison in the second half as Upshaw and Kopko, both seniors, went to work.

Upshaw, a 6-foot-2, 180-pound safety, broke up an important Salem third down pass near the Rocks' 40.

Harrison, with Kopko carrying most of the load, marched 73 yards in 10 plays. Kopko made it 20-7 on an 11-yard dash and Blackmer's extra point increased the lead to 21-7 early in the third quarter.

"I FELT IT was ours at that point," said Herrington. "Things started to go our way after the first touchdown.

"Defense was the key. That's as good as we've ever done against the wishbone."

A 36-yard field goal by Blackmer on Harrison's next possession made it 24-7.

The Hawks then put a nail in Salem's coffin with 7:01 to play when Upshaw, leaping high over blanket coverage by safety Joe Garcia, made a spectacular 43-yard TD catch.

"Upshaw hurt us," said Moshimer, whose team ended the year with a 4-5 record. "Our back had perfect position on him. The quarterback threw it right in there.

"No question they're a good ball club. In Class B they could very well win it all."

Kopko gained 101 yards in 23 carries while Upshaw hauled in four passes for 117 yards.

"No," laughed Herrington. "I never thought we'd be 9-0. We had only three returning starters, all on offense. We knew we could score points. We can do both — make the big play and go ball control.

"We're extremely small defensively. We play with a lot heart, though. Those seniors were 1-6 on the junior varsity. They've come a long way."

Tigers outlast Canton in 4 overtimes

By BRAD EMONS

Those dedicated football souls who decided to forego Halloween were treated to something special Friday night at Centennial Educational Park.

It took four overtimes before Belleville defeated Plymouth Canton, 42-35, in a thrilling season finale for both teams.

The game finally ended when an exhausted Belleville defense stopped Chief quarterback Billy Childs on fourth down at the one-yard line.

It was another heartbreaking loss for first-year coach Richard Barr, whose team seemingly had the game won in regulation time.

"I think the people got their money's worth," said Barr. "The kids played one heck of a game. Not one gave up. It's too bad we had to lose.

"The seniors wanted this one so bad. They played their hearts out. God bless them all."

Canton ended the season with a 1-8 record, five of those losses were decided by less than a touchdown. Belleville finished with a 4-5 mark, its best record in years.

"Canton is a damn good football team," said the emotional Belleville coach Mike Colletta. "That coach (Barr) is doing a helluva job. After three overtimes if he had agreed, I would have called it a tie."

Belleville, which gained possession first in the fourth overtime, scored the go-ahead TD when fullback Steve Cook bolted across the goal-line from 10 yards out. Sam Villa's extra point gave the Tigers a seven-point advantage.

CANTON THEN took over and got down to the three after a pass interference call which steamed the volatile Colletta.

The Chiefs tried two successive quarterback sneaks at the one and were snuffed out.

Colletta, who scolded officials all night long, was glad to get past stubborn Canton.

"I'm very excitable," said Colletta, waving his arms wildly. "I love my kids. My heart is in the game."

The Chiefs, too played with a lot of heart. They went into the lockerroom at intermission fortunate to be in a scoreless deadlock.

Belleville's Keith Gates, who rushed for 230 yards against Salem three weeks ago, had runs of 68 and 67 yards called back because of penalties. The Chief defense limited him to 45 in the first half.

He was shaken up on a hard it early in the second quarter and his effectiveness was taken away. A leg problem caused the junior to run tentatively the rest of the way.

He finished with 77, however, to break 1,000 yards for the year.

Canton got on the board first with 10:16 left in the third quarter as junior Chris Susock directed the offense 66 yards in five plays. He ran 23 yards for a first down and junior halfback Dave Simms scooted 29 yards.

Susock then took it in from the one-yard stripe with the help of a crunching block from center Mike Dupuis and Dennis O'Flynn's extra point made it, 7-0.

Tackle Dan Jurek stopped a Belleville drive midway through the third quarter when he recovered a fumble.

The Chiefs then marched 64 yards in 12 plays for their second score. Susock hit tight end Craig Gearns, who was a standout both ways, with a big first down pass for 25 yards to keep the drive going.

Susock scored on a one-yard plunge with 9:57 to go to give his team a 13-0 advantage. O'Flynn upped the lead to 14-0.

Belleville senior quarterback Mike Sampson connected on two big passes to set up the Tigers' first score. Gates scored the TD on a one-yard run with 7:19 left in regulation time.

The Tigers got the ball back and scored with 1:37 remaining when Villa hit Rod Meister with a 43-yard flea-flicker pass. The extra point sent the game into OT, 14-all.

IN THE FIRST overtime, Simms scored for Canton and Sampson hit Greg Brinkerhoff with a miracle pass on third down just over the goalline.

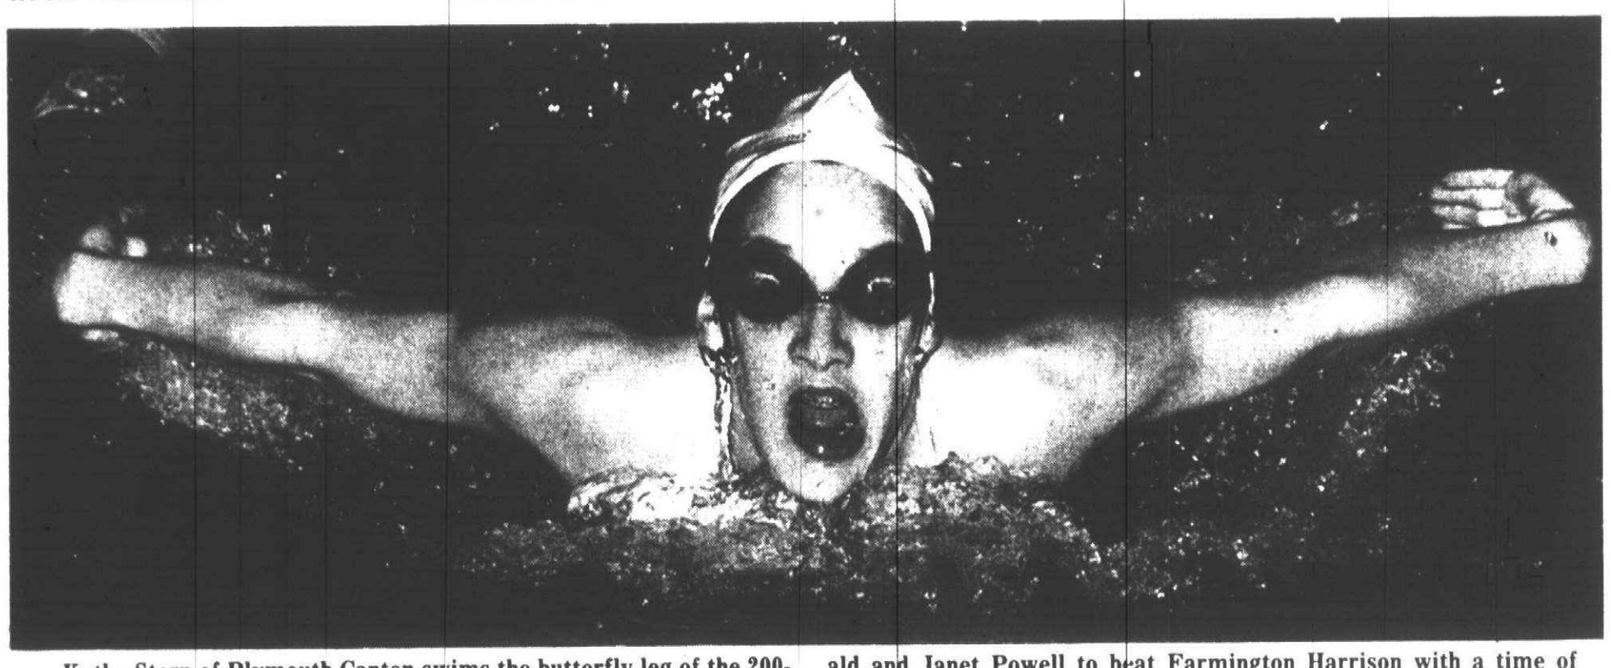

The Chiefs scored first in the second overtime when Chuck Davis dashed four yards. Steve Donaldson countered on a four-yard jaunt for Belleville. O'Flynn and Villa traded extra points to make it 28-all.

Childs gave Canton the lead 34-28 in the third extra period on a one-yard sneak and Cook, a 6-foot-1, 210-pound fullback, ran three yards and Villa's kick tied it back up.

"Take nothing away from our kids," said Barr, "They never quit.

"We're 1-8, but we easily could have won more games."

"I can't believe they've won only one game," said Colletta, "They (Canton) can play. I went over an hugged their players after the game."

4th period rally lifts Chief cagers

Plymouth Canton's 40th straight girls' basketball win in the Western Six League did not come easy.

The Chiefs overcame a 10-point deficit in the third quarter to beat Walled Lake Western on the road, 62-52.

It was the 13th straight win this season for Canton, now 14-2 overall.

Coach Mike McCauley's team used a 24-6 blitz in the final period to secure its seventh league win without a loss.

"In the first half we had problems around the hoop," said McCauley. "They had a fan-shaped backboard and we're not used to that. We missed a lot of five-foot shots inside. We shot about 25 percent."

Canton trailed at halftime, 27-26, as Cindy Hart tallied 10 of her game-high 16 points.

"We played real lackadaisical and then the girls said 'Let's do it,' " said McCauley. "I think the old Plymouth Canton pride came through tonight."

Supersub Pearly Cunningham led the Chiefs with 12 points. Colleen Crissey and Jean Timlin each added 10. Reserve center Robyn Hudgins added eight.

Timlin fouled out early in the final quarter.

"This was a real good game for us," said McCauley. "Walled Lake Western has a good team."

The Chiefs shot 50 percent, according to McCauley, in the second half. They connected on eight of 10 free throws down the stretch.

In the junior varsity game, Canton trailed 23-7 after one quarter but rallied to defeat Western in a thriller, 51-50.

Canton tankers splash Harrison

Old Rock standards fall

Plymouth Canton made it a happy "Parents Night" Thursday with a 94-78 girls' swim victory over Farmington Harrison.

The Chiefs, sporting a 5-4 dual-meet mark, won eight of 11 events in beating Harrison for the second time this season.

"We were in high spirits," said Canton coach Mark Griffith, "but it was a lot closer this time."

Senior Kim Massey captured two individual events to lead Canton to its third Western Six League victory. She won the 200-yard freestyle (2:09.9) and 100-yard backstroke (1:09.3).

Harrison's Nancy Whittemore was also a double winner. She grabbed first in the 50-yard freestyle (27.1) and 100-yard butterfly (1:08.4).

Chris Wennerberg continued to make an impressive comeback from an early season injury by taking first place for Canton in diving with a total of 199.6 points.

Other Canton first place finishes were recorded by Missy McMurray, 200-yard individual medley, 2:34.8; Debbie Dickinson, 100-yard freestyle, 1:03.5; Mary Reardon, 500-yard freestyle, 6:11.5; and Bronwyn Fitzgerald, 100-yard breaststroke, 1:21.8.

Fitzgerald, Kris Burns, Kathy Stern and Janet Powell combined to win the 200-yard medley relay with a time of 2:13.9. Teammates Jennifer Blair, Karen Mullen, Lisa Godre and Kelly Salyer finished third (2:29.4).

Canton settled for second place in the 400-yard freestyle relay. Powell, Dickinson, Stern and Reardon posted a time of 4:18.1. Massey, McMurray, Lissa Potter and Jenny Anderson were one spot behind (4:35.6).

Dickinson gained second in the 50-freestyle (28.36) and McMurray did likewise in the 100-butterfly (1:08.7).

Canton swimmers gaining third places included Ellie Wagner, diving, 180.6; Stern, 100-butterfly, 1:12.5; Powell, 100-freestyle, 1:04.7; Burns, 100-backstroke, 1:16.2; and Mullen, 100-breaststroke, 1:26.7.

Canton will close out its regular season Thursday at winless Livonia Churchill.

SALEM-TRENTON

Two school records were set as Plymouth Salem dunked Suburban Eight League foe Trenton, 117-51, Thursday night.

Junior Terri Eudy set a new standard in the 50-freestyle with a first-place time of 25.8. Teammate Corinne Cabadas, a sophomore, tied Eudy's school mark of 1:15.5 in the 100-breaststroke.

"It was encouraging tonight," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "I thought we swam pretty well after coming off the Stevenson meet (112½-58½ loss)."

Sophomore Kelly Brandt took first in the 500-freestyle with an improved time of 6:04.6.

Linda Wochna led a Salem sweep in the 100-backstroke with a first-place time of 1:09.0. Teammates Debbie Darlington (1:12.5) and B.J. Bing (1:16.3) finished second and third, respectively.

Other Salem firsts were recorded by Brandt, 200-freestyle, 2:16.1; Eudy, 100-butterfly, 1:09.4; and Nancy Lazarus, 100-freestyle, 1:03.2.

Wochna, Bing, Cabadas and Eudy took first in the 200-medley relay with a time of 2:04.3, a Salem season best. Teammates Kathy Prochazka, Karen Kohler, Darlington and Lazarus finished second (2:10.3).

Tennis info omitted in Salem summary

The Observer sports staff regrets omitting several names in Thursday's story regarding Plymouth Salem's fifth place finish Oct. 27 in the state Class A girls' tennis finals which was concluded at Eastpointe Racquet Club in Grosse Pointe.

Salem junior Sue Dobel won one of two matches at No. 4 singles during her stint in the tournament. The No. 2 doubles squad of Vickie Sterling and Lisa Maggio captured their first round match and were then ousted in the second round.

Lynn Hathaway and Beth Baker, Salem's No. 3 doubles duo, were eliminated in their first round match.

The future appears bright for Salem with the return of singles players Chris Gilles, Carol Gillespie, Carol Hathaway and Dobel.

"I don't think you've seen the last of us," said Salem coach Judy Braun, who coached the Rocks to a Suburban Eight League crown, a third place finish in the regional and a perfect dual meet season.

"We have some players on the junior varsity who might develop," she said. "We might be able to make it next year."

Rocks sink Belleville cagers

By BRAD EMONS

There were no shenanigans on Devil's Night as Plymouth Salem whipped Belleville Thursday, 49-30, in a Suburban Eight League girls' basketball game.

The visiting Tigers couldn't even put a scare into the Rocks, who increased their league record to 8-1 and 14-1 overall.

"Salem plays excellent defense and are a disciplined team," said Belleville coach Wayne Stevens. "I tell my players to look at that."

It was the second win over the Tigers this season for Salem. Stevens said he believes the Rocks are improving.

"We concentrated on stopping (Cheryl) Sobkow," he said. "And she got less points when our first stringers were out there. We put a box-and-one to try to stop her, but they have more balance now.

"It's just my opinion, but I think they've improved more than Bentley."

Salem trails the Bulldogs by one game in the loss column. The two teams will meet in another showdown Tuesday, Nov. 11 at Bentley. Salem lost the first encounter, 41-40.

Salem outscored Belleville 24-14 in the second half to win going away.

Sobkow, a 5-foot-9 senior center, made her relentless work pay off to lead all scorers with 17 points and 14 rebounds. She scored eight of those points in the final quarter.

Junior forwards Eileen Moore and Jan MacKenzie each tallied 10 points. Moore dished out seven assists.

"It was a nice victory," said Salem coach Bob Blohm. "It really was.

"Overall we played pretty consistent defense and offensively we moved the ball. I'm pleased with the fact we have the ability to pass to the open player at the right time."

SALEM, HOWEVER, wins with a strong man-to-man defense and Thursday's pre-Halloween showing was no exception. The Rocks forced numerous turnovers against Belleville in the backcourt. In the first quarter they allowed only three points.

Through the first 15 games, Salem has allowed an average of 31.3 points points per game.

"We've been working hard in practice," Blohm said. "I thought we looked a little tired tonight, but overall I'm pleased with our improvement. The home stretch is coming up."

The Rocks will travel to Brighton Tuesday and then return home Thursday to face Dearborn Edsel Ford.

Stevens, who replaced Tom Niemi this year as coach, has altered his lineup constantly during the season.

"We're going with the youth movement," he said. "We have seven seniors on the team. Right now we're trying to fit our personnel. It's hard, though, following Tom's footsteps."

Salem dented the Tigers' zone defense with some sharp passing to grab a 13-3 first-quarter lead. That set the tone for the rest of the evening.

MacKenzie scored the Rocks' first six points and then Sobkow and Moore took over.

"When Eileen penetrates she really hits the open man," said Blohm. "She made some nice passes to Cheryl. I thought everybody played hard. Jacque (Merrifield) is coming on. She had a nice game tonight."

Off the bench, freshman Pam McBride and junior Bonnie Southerland combined for eight points.

Salem's junior varsity won, 35-28, as Ann Glomski, Mary Pryslak and Terri Lesniak each tallied 10 points for the victors.

Canton players boost team

Sparks dribble to national honors

By DOUG FUNKE

The Westland Sparks lost only three of 48 basketball games last season.

But one of those defeats came in the semifinals of the National Wheelchair Basketball Tournament.

A seventh national championship will be on the Sparks' minds when they open their 1980-81 campaign this weekend in Pittsburgh against the Steelwheelers.

The Sparks' first home games will be played the weekend of Dec. 6-7 against the Cleveland Comets and the Steelwheelers, doubleheaders both dates.

All of the Sparks' home games will be played at the Melvin Bailey Recreation Center, 36651 Ford Road between Wayne and Newburgh Roads in Westland.

Tickets are $1. Persons in wheelchairs are admitted without charge.

The Sparks will be further motivated to succeed by the knowledge that they will be hosting the 33rd annual National Wheelchair Basketball Tournament April 3-4 at Westland John Glenn High School.

Two of the 14 players for the Sparks have local ties. Chuck Dillon, a forward, and Denver Branum, a guard, reside in Canton.

Bud Rumple, the coach who also plays guard, lives in Wayne, as does Leon Sturtz, a forward.

It is not necessary to be confined to a wheelchair in order to play wheelchair basketball.

"Only four guys (on the team) actually stay in it all the time," Rumple said. "The rest can walk by themselves or with the aid of crutches.

"To say it simple, if the guy can't play regular basketball, he can play (wheelchair). He may have a pin in the hip, a pin in the knee or a pin in the ankle," Rumple added.

There are only a few rules changes to accommodate the wheelchairs.

A lane violation occurs in five seconds rather than three.

A player is allowed two pushes of the wheels on the chair when he has possession of the ball. He then must dribble, pass or shoot.

A player must remain seated at all times. "If the butt rises off the seat, it's a technical foul," Rumple said.

Most other rules are the same as used by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

A game consists of two 20-minute halves. The wheelchair is considered to be part of the body for purposes of fouling. The ball must be moved over the midcourt line in 10 seconds.

The Sparks are good, but they work at it. They practice twice a week, three hours at a stretch.

"The league we're in — I'm not bragging — no team in our conference can look up to us," Rumple said. "It's not so much difference in talent than the way we play. If we don't have as much togetherness or play as a team, we won't win."

Among the national records compiled by the Sparks over the years are:

- Highest scoring average for a season — 100.9 points.
- Most points in a tournament game — 92.
- Most points in a championship game — 76.
- Highest scoring average in tournament play — 70.

Rumple said that the Sparks do not have a sponsor. "We do some fund-raising and sell ads through our book," he said.

Rumple said that he hoped more people would come out and watch the Sparks play, not out of pity or to view a freak show, but to see a group of athletes do their thing.

"I can't blame the people for not wanting to see a 90-26 game, but we get tired of playing before a few people," he said. "I still would like more support."

RACQUETBALL LESSONS OPEN TO NOVICES

A racquetball league for beginners is being offered by the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department.

The league will meet from 10 to 11 a.m. each Monday, beginning Nov. 3 at Rose Shores of Canton Racquetball Club.

A registration fee of $20 per person is required. That includes all court time and instruction fees.

The class will teach basic rules, strokes and court play.

Persons can register in person or by mail to Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton, Mich. 48188.

For more information, call 397-1000.

TIGERS AVAILABLE FOR CHARITY CAGE GAMES

The baseball season is over for the Detroit Tigers, but that doesn't mean the players go into hibernation.

Some Tiger players have formed a basketball team to perform in charity games. Boosters clubs and athletic departments are usually contracted. A faculty all-star team from the Plymouth-Canton School district last year played against the likes of Milt Wilcox, Mickey Stanley, Dave Rozema, Rick Leach and Lynn Jones. Detroiters Jim Essian and Steve McCatty, members of the Oakland A's, also show their skills.

For more information, call 453-2162.

Registration for figure skating lessons, sponsored by the city of Plymouth Department of Parks and Recreation, will be held this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Cultural Center, 525 Farmer Street.

Classes are available to beginners and advanced skaters for both after school and evening sessions.

Bowling can be a puzzling recreation. If you don't think so just ask Cora Feibig, one of the long-time stars in the women's all-star leagues and a former bowling queen.

Last Wednesday night in the Ladies Major League at Beech Lanes, she had the unusual experience of rolling a 255 game and yet did not have a 600 series.

The reason? She somehow lost the range and slipped to a 155 which gave her a 594 series. She still can't tell you how she could have slipped 100 pins between games. While Cora was being puzzled, Cheryl Daniels took top honors for the night with a 630 series,

SEVERAL NEW NAMES came to the fore in the Wonderland Classic in another evening of high scoring in the classic.

Showing the way was Al Colcer, who fashioned a 785 on games of 247, 300 and 238. His perfect game in the middle was one of the first rolled this year in the western suburbs.

Behind him came Marv Holly with 726 brought about by counts of 246, 235 and 245. And next in line to round out the breakers of the 700 barrier was Tom Baranski, who had a 278 middle game in a 717 series.

JOHN HURLEY, who ran up a string of 700 series last year in the men's trio league at Westland Bowl, returned to the morning competition last week and turned the trick again. His first three games of the four-game set gave him 715.

He opened with 245, followed with 237 and then rolled 233 for the 715 before registering a fourth-game count of 203 for a 918 series.

Lil Vandervemett is also puzzled by her performance. She posted a 243 game in the ladies' junior house league and yet had a 556 series. Meanwhile in the Queens league at Westland Sue Holcomb fared much better. She put together games of 213, 221 and 222 for 656.

CORY NESSER and Jerry Smith joined the ranks of those who broke the 700 barrier at Bel-Aire Lanes. Bowling in the classic Nesser posted a 767 on games of 269, 254 and 244 while Smith opened with 259 and followed with games of 259, 256 and 219 for 734.

In the mixed classic Max Lynch was high with a 278 single game and Paul Reame paced e Family twosomes with a 620 that included a 238 middle game.

Ladywood girls roll

Ladywood made its basketball debut in the Silverdome a successful one last week, defeating Riverview Gabriel Richard 63-33.

The win enabled the Blazers to clinch the championship of the AA Division in the Catholic League.

Leslie Nadeau scored 23 points for Ladywood, Ronna Greenberg 11.

"Both teams were a little nervous in the first quarter, but we relaxed in the second quarter and got our full-court zone press into gear," said Ed Kavanaugh, coach of the Blazers.

Free Contour Analysis Helps Determine If You Really Have To!

In a recent research program Contour Analysis screening tests disclosed 94% of the scoliosis cases found to be positive by x-ray examination.

Contour Analysis involves taking a "three dimensional" picture (Called Moire photography) of the surface of the back to help detect postural distortions. This analysis will be correlated with leg deficiency, patient symptomotology, and levels of spinal tenderness. Such composite examinations may indicate such things as normal and abnormal stress patterns, spinal curvature, muscle spasms, muscle imbalance, spinal distortion and scoliosis.

A free Contour Analysis screening test is also being offered for people with acute or chronic pain by the chiropractic office listed below. People who suffer with backache, bursitis, arthritis, neuralgia, nerve pain, neck pain, muscle pain, bone pain, etc are also invited to receive this free examination.

These tests, including consultation with the doctor, are being offered to the public at no charge, or obligation, for the next 30 days. Anyone wishing to receive this free examination may telephone the participating office directly for information or an appointment. If treatment, or additional examination, is indicated, almost all health insurance policies cover chiropractic care. All fees thoroughly explained prior to any additional service being rendered.

2 proposals few oppose

By TIM RICHARD

Two age-old provisions of the Michigan Constitution would be changed if Proposals G and H are approved Tuesday by voters.

Leaders of both political parties support them. It's hard to find anyone against them — or excited about them.

Fred Anderson, an aide to Senate Democratic leader William Faust, last week outlined both to two dozen persons in a Schoolcraft College audience.

Proposal G would allow changes in the ground rules for legislators' immunity from civil arrest, and H would change the ground rules for the lieutenant governor's office.

PROPOSAL G has roots in British law, said Anderson, an attorney.

"The king of England used to have the sheriff arrest members of Parliament if he thought they were unfavorable to him," he said. "There are attorneys who would bring suit to harass legislators."

Proposal G would add the words "except as provided by law" to the section of the Michigan Constitution which now says:

"Senators and representatives shall be privileged from civil arrest and civil process during sessions of the legislature and for five days next before the commencement and after the termination thereof."

Now that the Michigan Legislature is technically in session all year, legislators are almost totally immune from civil proceedings.

What brought the situation to light was a 1978 law decriminalizing many misdemeanors, including many traffic offenses. The result: State police have been ordered not to ticket legislators.

PROPOSAL H, which Lt. Gov. James Brickley also supports, would amend the constitution to:

- Remove the lieutenant governor as presiding officer of the State Senate. "Sen. Faust felt that having an executive officer as the presiding officer of the senate and casting a tie-breaking vote was violating the principle of separation of executive and legislative powers. This gives the senate the right to elect its own presiding officer," said Anderson, adding that Ohio and Wisconsin have recently adopted a similar provision.
- Allow the governor to appoint a new lieutenant governor in case of a vacancy. The house and senate would have to approve the appointment. This provision is the same as the 25th amendment to the U.S. Constitution, under which Gerald Ford in 1973 and Nelson Rockefeller in 1974 were appointed vice president.
- Allow a state legislator to be appointed lieutenant governor. At present, a legislator cannot accept a civil appointment during his term of office.

One questioner said the amendment would assure that the presiding officer of the senate would be from the same party as the senate majority. Currently the lieutenant governor is a Republican and the senate majority is Democratic.

Louise Snider

Peter O'Toole stars as the brilliantly gifted director of a World War I action epic in "The Stunt Man."

'The Stunt Man' teases audience with perceptions

"Ordinary People" is one of the most exemplary and dramatically moving films to brighten the screens this year, but "The Stunt Man" (R) is one of the most refreshing, certainly the most audacious.

The impact of "The Stunt Man" is comparable to that of a surrealist painting. We recognize the forms, but our equilibrium is jolted because the associations are unexpected.

The elements we are familiar with from our movie experiences are all present — mystery, adventure, action, comedy. Which one dominates? Hard to say, because things aren't what they seem to be.

Richard Rush, the film's producer and director, suggests "The Stunt Man" is about paranoia, in the sense that we take a limited view. As an audience, we share, or fall into the trap of sharing, the hero's point of view.

UNLIKE MANY FILMS which tip off viewers while the hero dumbly stumbles about trying to solve his problem, viewers are not subject to favoritism here. We stumble about like the herd.

Steve Railsback is the protagonist and a mystery man himself. He is a fugitive, but we don't know whether he's wanted for murder or for neglecting to pay parking tickets. For some unknown reason, while he is walking on a bridge a man tries to run him down. Railsback jumps aside, and the man and car hurtle over the rail.

The man who died in the car crash, Burt, was a stunt man, and now the director (Peter O'Toole) has hired Railsback to replace Burt.

The director is making some kind of pacifist World War I epic, using the beach and setting of San Diego's histroic Hotel del Coronado. Given only three days in which to finish location shooting, he can't afford the delay that an investigation of the accident would cause. Consequently, the substitution.

O'Toole takes complete charge of his role as the director Eli Cross in one of the brightest performances he's given in years. Is Cross a genius or a maniac? A pacifist or a hypocrite? Is he using Railsback, setting him up for another fatal accident?

THE PEOPLE AROUND Cross cater to his whims. He expects personal loyalty and he badgers those who are loyal to the studio, i.e., those who follow the studio's dictates.

"What would you do," he asks his scriptwriter, "if the studio said your daughter would look better with five fingers cut off?" "Being an insecure writer," the man replies, "I'd get a second opinion."

There's a witty intelligence at work in this film playing games with our perceptions of reality and illusion and keeping us guessing to the end.

If this sounds too abstract for enjoyment, let me assure you that cinematic values and action have not been neglected. "The Stunt Man" crackles with energy and activity — explosions, fires, perilous rooftop chases, crashes. You'll long for a calm moment in which to catch your breath.

All these qualities make "The Stunt Man" an exceptional film, immensely entertaining.

NEW RELEASES

THE ELEPHANT MAN (PG). Largely true story of grossly deformed man rescued from sordid life by compassionate doctor. Fine acting by John Hurt, Anthony Hopkins and John Gielgud balances out directorial shortcomings.

FIRST DEADLY SIN (R). Cop searches out killer responsible for series of bizarre murders. Frank Sinatra and Faye Dunaway star.

THE GREAT SANTINI (PG) Robert Duvall as air force pilot and dominating father in strong story of family conflict and love.

HOPSCOTCH (R) Chemistry of Matthau/Jackson pairing works again, but we don't see them together often enough in this halfway humorous (first half) film.

IT'S MY TURN (R). Jill Clayburgh in humorous story as independent woman (again) who falls in love with ex-baseball player during a weekend in New York.

LOVING COUPLES (PG). A comic look at foibles of contemporary relationships, focusing on the love lives of four sophisticates.

ORDINARY PEOPLE (R) Robert Redford's directorial debut is a smash in this extraordinarily well-acted, moving film about a "perfect" family trying to cope with a son's mental illness.

PRIVATE BENJAMIN (R) Goldie Hawn joins the army to escape and find herself.

The resurrection of Warsaw, a city that almost died

The Poles rebuilt historic Old Town from sketches, plans and Italian paintings in which every cornice and doorway was shown in miraculous detail. They restored the grand old palaces and elegant homes along the royal road that leads to Wilanow Palace on the outskirts of town.

The German army nearly destroyed Warsaw at the end of Warld War II. For several months Nazis exploded every house, office building, cathedral and statue in the capital city of Poland. Old Town, shown above, is testament to the restoration process that has been going on ever since. (Photos by Micky Jones)

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

WARSAW, Poland — Warsaw is a miracle. The German army tried to kill it at the end of Warld War II by destroying every building in the city. For several months they worked their way through the city streets with explosives, blowing up every house, office building, cathedral and statue in this capital city of Poland.

When the Russians crossed the Vistula River in 1945 there was literally nothing left of the cut, except for a few outlying palaces where the Nazis had lived; they didn't have time to blow them up before they left.

A film in the city museum shows in black and white what the eyes find hard to believe: a flat sea of rubble to the horizon, with only an occasional wall left to mock the survivors who came back in the cold snows of January.

The miracle is that the survivors rebuilt the city you see today.

THEY REBUILT the historic Old Town from old sketches, plans and Italian paintings in which every cornice and doorway was miraculously shown in detail.

They restored the grand old palaces and elegant homes along the royal road that leads out of the Old Town to Wilanow Palace on the outskirts of town.

Over the years they built the new downtown city: department stores, railway stations, hotels and all the bus and street car lines needed to hold the growing city together.

And they built hundreds of apartment buildings to house the population of the city — reduced from 1,350,000 to 200,000 during the War — and now at 1.5 million.

They have done all that in 35 years, starting from that moment when the survivors came down from the hills and from the Nazi concentration camps in 1945 and said, "Warsaw is still the capital city of Poland."

ON A WALKING tour of the Old Town, you will see fresh flowers placed every day beneath the plaques memorializing the martyrs and heros of World War II. You must force yourself to remember that this historical cathedral of all of these ancient buildings, sagging gracefuly over the market square, are reproductions. The great palace, with its ceiling layered with gold leaf, is just now being opened again to the public.

Walking around the new town gives you an entirely different feeling. Here there are crowds of people, acres of small shiny cars and buses turning every corner near the Palace of Science and Culture, built by the Soviets as a gift to the Poles. It dominates the downtown area and is a regular source of jokes among local people.

Four huge state department stores dominate one side of the main street; a collection of small private stores dominates the other. Visitors see how difficult it is for local people to go about their daily living, standing in line at every food store and for almost every need in their lives. There is an eight-year wait for apartments.

On the other hand, the Polish people look well-fed and well-dressed. They move about rapidly in buses, street cars and private cars.

A bus tour of Warsaw goes inevitably to the site of the old Warsaw Ghetto, where the Jews who made up one-third of the city population were walled in, starved and shipped to concentration camps.

Apartment buildings and schools cover the area now, but Mila street is still there, where the last survivors dug their way into the sewer system at Mila 18.

And in a large open space, a final irony, two large black bas-reliefs stand in memory of the ghetto uprising. They are carved from stone intended by the Germans for a monument to Adolf Hitler.

You cannot escape World War II in Warsaw, but there are other more cheerful things to experience there, especially if you love music. This is the land of Chopin. The land where the standards of music are much higher than they are in most places in the world.

Old world meets the new in modern-day Poland

WARSAW, Poland — Images of Poland. A high-rise city built on a sea of rubble. Costumed folk dancers around a barbecued pig in a mountain meadow. Great glossy mounds of good food. Lineups at the supermarket. Black market currency. Women and children kneeling in front of glorious altars. Hay carts. Buses and street cars and . . .

I really did not know what to expect of Poland, a country shrouded in history and the Iron Curtain, unknown to most Detroit-area travelers. Polish Americans go there sometimes, but Poland has only recently become a developing travel destination for Americans.

It is a good destination if you are the right kind of traveler, and if you go either in a group or with someone who speaks Polish. The right traveler is the one who loves history, music, pageantry, folk arts and watching people live and work in ancient settings.

I would not recommend it for Americans who like to travel alone, unless they speak Polish. English is spoken extensively, but you need the language and an understanding of the rules to travel comfortably outside the big cities.

I visited Poland as part of the annual convention of the Society of American Travel Writers on a tour organized by the state travel organization ORBIS. Most people travel on such tours, which are well organized and help to avoid the bureaucratic irritations common to Eastern European countries.

Such tours may go south to the wonderful little city of Cracow, up into the Tatra mountain resorts near Zakopane, north to the seaports around Gdansk (once called Danzig) or into many hisotric villages and towns. Wherever they go, they almost always start in Warsaw.

You need a visa for a stated number of days, and you must convert $15 a day into Polish currency, spelled zloty, pronounced zwoty.

Currency, hard and soft, dominates a trip to Poland as it dominates Polish life. Hard currency includes the dollars, pounds, marks, francs etc. that come from Western Europe and North America. Poland needs such currency badly. Polish people routinely buy it on the black market because there are some things they can't buy without it.

The law says you must buy your zloties at the official exchange rate of 33 to a dollar. Tourists are offered 150 zloties to a dollar regularly on the street, but those who accept the challenge are usually cheated by money-dealers with magic fingers. Somehow, half the money disappears, but you can't complain to the police.

Smart travelers take dollars with them in small denominations: ones, fives, 10s. You can give them to taxi drivers, waiters and other service people who are happy to see you pay your bill in hard currency. Your bill will be less than it would be in zloties converted at the official rate.

Ice age returns in new exhibit

Michigan history "comes alive" in a display at the Michigan Historical Museum's new location at 208 N. Capitol Ave. in Lansing. A chronological arrangement of photographs, artifacts and drawings takes visitors from the present back through the state's history.

The display covers the development of the automobile, the logging, pharmaceutical, furniture and breakfast food industries, the Civil War, the American Revolution, fur trappers, French voyageurs, the British, Indians and early settlers in Michigan. These are all represented by photographs and artifacts.

The museum is operated by the History Division of the Department of State and is open from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from noon to 4:30 p.m. Saturdya and Sunday. Admission is free.

Our Dynamite Dozen...

Actually, all of our carriers are dynamite but these twelve just happen to be winners of our annual "Carrier of the Year" award, which means they've done a "bang-up job."

We base our selection for this honor on the length of service, amount of collections, prompt settling of an account, least number of customer complaints, neat organization of a carrier's route book and proper up-to-date record-keeping. In addition, all trophy-winners must be a former "Carrier of the Month."

Now you have an idea why we're proud of these twelve young people. If you'd like us to be proud of your son or daughter look into our carrier program. It will teach your child to run a business, handle money, and offers an opportunity to win prizes in healthy competition with other young people.

There's a lot to be said for being an Observer or Eccentric newspaper carrier — just ask our dynamite dozen.
