State approves 5-lane Ford with bike path

Bicycle trails on the north side of Ford Road are included in plans of the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) for a five-lane widening project in 1983.

On Wednesday, the MDOT's Transportation Commission voted unanimously to give final approval to the

The commission's decision coincides with a staff recommendation for a fivelane improvement project on Ford between Sheldon and Haggerty. It rejects a five-year lobbying effort of Canton Township officials for construction of a boulevard on that stretch of Ford.

Supervisor James Poole, who met with MDOT officials earlier last week, had expected defeat of the boulevard concept at Wednesday's meeting because of the higher cost.

THE STATE'S PLANS also call for construction of an eight-foot, paved bicycle path on the north side of Ford from Sheldon to Interstate 275. The state will utilize existing sidewalks while constructing the off-road trail.

Terry Eldred, an MDOT transportation planner, said the bike path will way funds available for that use.

connect with an existing trail which runs on the east side of I-275. The freeway path joins another bicycle trail in Edward Hines Park.

Guillaume Schins, a route location engineer for the MDOT, said some type of bicycle trails always were included in Ford Road widening plans.

But that portion of the plan received little publicity. Mike Gouin, superintendent of Canton's Parks and Recreation Department, said he was unaware of the bike trail proposal.

"We've seen them on the plans all along. It's something we expected," said assistant township planner Dave Nicholson. "That's probably why no one

"After all, it's the Department of Transportation - not the Department of Highways. We anticipate (the trails) will make pedestrian movement much safer than now along Ford Road and encourage bicycle use.'

ELDRED SAID the state routinely has considered bicycle path construction as part of highway widening projects since a 1973 state law made high-

Census appeal may fall short of 50,000 goal

Canton Township may have to conduct its own census within the next few years in order to qualify for millions of dollars in state and federal monies during the next decade.

A preliminary response to the township's appeal of last spring's federal census indicates that Canton will not reach the "magic" population figure of 50,000, said township grant coordinator

Terry Carroll. Tentative figures released by the U.S. Census Bureau in July pegged Canton's population at 47,977. Township officials quickly appealed the preliminary results in hopes of "finding" 2,023 more residents. Proving a 50,000 population would qualify Canton for an additional $15 to $20 million in state and federal monies over the next decade, Carroll estimates. Communities of that size receive fatter shares of federal community block grant funds, more federal revenue sharing and increased eligibility for other kinds of grants.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS will not receive final census figures until next spring or summer.

But Carroll said that a recent communication from the U.S. Census Bureau "pretty well dashes" hopes to reach the 50,000 figure during the federal census process.

A preliminary revision of the original figures show that Canton has "picked up" only 383 residents as a result of the appeal. Revised figures peg Canton's population at 48,360 - still 1,640 short of the 50,000 figure.

Carroll guesses that the figure will not change substantially between now and mid-1981, when census results are finalized

"I bet we'll be darn close to that 48,360 figure," he said.

"The letter (from the U.S. Census Bureau) wasn't detailed. It was just several short paragraphs, saying, 'Best of luck in the future. Your number is such and such.

"We're looking at a few things now, so when we think those extra 1,600 people move in, we'll do our own census," Carroll said.

sometimes reject statistics collected in a local census. Revenue-sharing monies must be distributed on the basis of federal head counts. In Michigan, the governor retains the authority to recognize or reject population figures compiled in a local census for purposes of disbursing those funds. This year, for example, Canton received an additional $322,000 in state revenue-sharing monies because of a township census conducted in 1975. But finance director Mike Gorman expects that allocation to be cut next year as a result of Gov. William Milliken's budget-slashing proposal.

Canton conducted its own census in 1975 following the start of a home-construction boom in the early 70s.

In the 1970 federal census, predominately rural Canton registered a population of only 11,000. That figure more than doubled during the next five years. A township-sponsored census in 1975 pegged Canton's population at TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS estimated Canton's population in excess of 50,000 prior to last spring's census work.

In 1978, the township reported more housing starts than any other community in southeast Michigan. The township placed second in terms of housing starts from 1974 to 1977.

Officials believe that Canton would have easily topped the 50,000 figure in the census if the home-construction boom had continued. But an economic downturn in mid-1979 caused housing starts to plummet.

Officials reported only 50 housing starts from January through October of this year. That compares to 1,577 housing starts in 1978, when Canton topped all other southeast Michigan communities in terms of home-construction activity.

Bike paths also are included in a state plan to widen Ford from two to five lanes from I-275 to Venoy in Westland, he said. Implementation of the Westland widening project is scheduled for next spring.

Eldred said the existence of bike trails along I-275 contributed to the state's decision for paths on Ford. The Westland path will connect with a trail planned by the city behind the Westland Civic Center, he said.

"We feel people using the I-275 bike paths will have a chance to get off at Ford Road and frequent some of the businesses along there," explained Schins. "I think it's a good location for paths. It will increase the use of the I-275 trails.

Original plans for bike paths along Ford Road in Canton called for construction of two six-foot-wide trails on the north and south side of the highway.

Eldred said the plans were amended to show one eight-foot-wide trail on the north side of Ford as a cost-conserving Plans already approved for Ford Road widening in Westland call for bike paths on both sides of the highway. Schins said those plans also may be amended to show trails only on one side of Ford.

CANTON BICYCLISTS who live near Ford Road currently must ride on the shoulder of the highway in order to reach trails along I-275.

"The way it is right now, riding bikes along there is the worse thing in the world," said Gouin. "I-275 probably isn't used as much as people would like to, because they can't get to it."

Schins said the state will award the contract for the Ford Road widening and bike path construction in Canton in late 1982. Construction is expected to begin in the spring of 1983. In 1979, the cost of a Ford Road boulevard was estimated at $2.3 mil-

State nixes road test

Policy drives instructors to worry

Nervous teens who fear goofing up during the driving test for their first Michigan operator's license don't have to worry about that anymore.

If they've passed drivers' education with flying colors, they don't have to take the road test.

In recent budget-cutting, the Michigan Secretary of State eliminated the road-test requirement, claiming it would save Michigan taxpayers $600,000 annually by reducing the number of road examiners needed to give

Most youths on the threshold of earning their first license to drive are relieved by the change.

But professionals in the field of drivers' training are worried. They fear that the elimination of that final checkpoint will produce some student drivers who just aren't ready for the road.

In Plymouth-Canton Community Schools more than 1,000 student drivers are released on the road annually. The state's announcement, which took effect Oct. 1, has generated concern from Fred Meier, an area coordinator in charge of some 11 high school drivers' education instructors.

Meier says he'll be calling a staff meeting of those instructors tomorrow to discuss alternatives his department can undertake to balance the impact of the final road testing.

"MY REACTION is that we'd be seeing some kids on the road that wouldn't be there, otherwise," said Meier.

"The state test was like a final exam. It made the students more aware that this is the last thing they had to pass. Our concern now is - should we be doing more at the park to compensate for the lack of the state test?"

Under the new regulations, teenagers 16-to-18 years old who have completed an accredited driver-education course and received a certificate within the past 12 months, may obtain a driver's license after passing vision, road sign and written tests.

The previous regulations, in addition to these tests, called for a 30-day interim period of driving with a licensed adult or parent. After this month's time, the student would receive the Most instructors called this interim period a good time to work the bugs out of drivers' habits, and prepare them for driving alone. -

"The final was an incentive for the student to keep practicing," said Don Smith, a CEP driving instructor. "It was an incentive to keep working on their skills in various highway situations and polish those skills."

According to state regulations, high school students enrolled in school-sponsored driver's education programs said. need a minimum of 32 classroom hours hours driving time with an instructor.

"SOME KIDS needed this extra time, although there's nothing magical about 30 days," said Curt Perry, another CEP driving instructor.

"I guess what will happen is that the parents of young drivers will have to be more responsible for them. A lot of kids I have now do fairly well but there are others who need the extra practice.

"What really scares me are those parents who don't give their children access to the family car for practice." Eldon War, branch manager for the Canton Secretary of State office, cited statewide statistics that show as much as 12 percent of the first-time-out roadtest takers fail.

Statistics for the Canton branch. which serves most Plymouth Salem High and Plymouth Canton High students, are lower, about 10 percent, he

Although most high school instrucof learning as well as a minimum of six tors felt secure in the knowledge that a second opinion was available at the state office on a student's driving abilities, War says the road tests were "pretty simple anyways."

Derr ends 33 years with Michigan Bell

Charles F. Derr of Plymouth has announced plans to retire Dec. 6 from Michigan Bell, ending a 33-year career with the telephone company.

Derr, 58, has been an assistant vicepresident for network services since

He joined Michigan Bell as a traffic student in Detroit in 1947 shortly after earning a bachelor's degree in mechancal engineering from Michigan State University.

During his early career, Derr held a number of management positions in the company's traffic department in Detroit, Ann Arbor, Pontiac, Royal Oak and Southfield.

He also worked in Michigan Bell's comptroller's and marketing operations and was named general traffic manager in 1970, a position he held until he was appointed to his current job.

A native of Norristown, Pa., Derr served two and a half years in the U.S. Army Air Force during World War II and flew 26 combat missions over Europe. He was discharged with the rank of first lieutenant late in 1945.

A member of the Detroit Board of Commerce, Derr serves on the board of directors of the American Red Cross and on the executive council of Science and Engineering Fair, Metropolitan Detroit, Inc. Deer will continue to live in Plymouth after he retires.

Robert E. Willette of Plymouth has been named sales manager at Inter-Lakes Engineering Co. in Mount

He succeeds Michael Ferkany who has been appointed vice-president of engineering with the firm.

Before joining Inter-Lakes, Willette was district sales manager for Inteco Corp. in Harrison, Ohio, and vice-president of sales and marketing for KLT Industries in Ann Arbor.

The main function of Inter-Lakes is to design and manufacture custom assembly and test equipment.

BOLOGNA PRESENTS CRIME PAPER

Jack Bologna, president of George Odiorne Associates, Inc. of Plymouth, has been selected to present a paper entitled "The Psychology of Computer Crime" at the first International Computer Security and Privacy Symposium in Monte Carlo, Monaco.

The symposium is sponsored by Honeywell Information Systems and its French subsidiary and will be held Jan.

The symposium will feature 21 international authorities on computer security and will draw more than 400 people from throughout the world.

"The use and abuse of computers is a matter of great global concern," said Bologna. "We must assure the general public that new technologies are in their primary interests and that proper safeguards are designed into these wondrous products, before marketing begins.

"Computers, for home and business use, are here to stay

"Contrary to opinion in some quarters, computers have done much more to enrich life, eliminate drudgery and keep us competitively viable in world markets than any other tool, product or process of the 20th century.

"I earning the proper uses and the limitations of computer technology is a must, both for those of us who work in the field and for the mass public," added Bologna.

NAMED PRESIDENT

J.C. (John) Cochran has been named president and chief operating officer of N.W. Coughlin & Co., a Plymouth-based direct marketing firm located on General Drive.

N.W. Coughlin, with offices in Plymouth, Detroit and Santa Barbara, has served the automotive and related industries for 35 years in the areas of direct mail marketing, computer communication and packaging.

Cochran brings 20 years experience to the post with previous executive positions at the Sperry and Hutchinson Co., and Beurmann-Marshall Corp. of Lansing.

A week to honor learned and learners

Last week was American Education Week.

It was a time not only to honor those who teach and those who learn — the learned and the

The week started in Plymouth-Canton school district with Observer photographer Gary Caskey observing, though his lens, a wide variety of learning activities in the schools.

That tour was arranged by Shirley Spaniel, executive director for elementary education, who stressed that learning is best accomplished by doing.

And that's what photographer Caskey saw through his lens: Pupils painting, playing musical instruments, working on Indian art, and absorbing knowledge through books in a group setting and one-to-one.

Also observed was a variety of teaching methods in use, each geared at the varying needs of individual students.

Calendars offer tips on energy

You can be a miser with energy next year but it doesn't mean reducing your standar of living - especially if you have an innovative calendar giving you handy tips.

The League of Women Voters of Plymouth, Canton. Northville and Novi and the American Association of University Women in Plymouth have created "The Miser's Touch," a 1981 calendar filled with energy-saving tips, word games for children and room for appointments.

Twelve pages are devoted to suggestions that help save energy. Beginning with turn down the thermostat and wear a sweater the day after New Year's, the calendar suggests dining by candlelight, planning a no-television day, laundering clothes in cold water one week, repairing bicycles in the spring, turning off your car when stopped longer than one minute.

In addition, the calendar shows how to read gas, electric and water meters, lists books about conservation, car maintenance tips, and word puzzles for Children's drawings are used to illustrate the calendar. A stick person is used as a symbol throughout the calendar to indicate suitability for children.

Young artists who contributed to the calendar include: Jimmy Ryan, 11; Brian Kline, 5; Melissa Uhl, 8; Michael Perez, 5; Bobby Wojciechowski, 10; Lori Allen, 10; and Julie Makowiec, 10.

The calendar was produced jointly by the LWV and the AAUW. Barbara Greenya, AAUW chairperson for natural resources, worked with members from both groups in the effort.

The calendars are $2.50 each and are available at the Harvard Book Store and the Chamber of Commerce in Canton.

In Plymouth, they are available at the Wine and Cheese Barn; Little Professor Book Center, Suntemp Energy Systems on Harvey Street, Plymouth Book World, The Art Gallery and at Lura's Patchwork on Mill in Old Village.

PERIODONTAL DISEASE EARLY DIAGNOSIS

You have just completed your regular dental checkup. You breath a deep sigh of relief. "No cavities, but your gums are in poor shape." You are mistakenly relieved. The sad fact is that more teeth are lost because of periodontal disease (gum disease) than from any other factor, including cavities. Fortunately, it can be treated successfully if it is diagnosed early. Unfortunately, you have no way of knowing of its onset other than by dental examination because there is normally no pain or other symptoms in

Once this silent disorder advances, though, the gums and even the jawbone may become inflamed and eventually break down. But this extreme can be avoided if the dentist reguarly examines your mouth both visually and with x-rays. He can determine whether there have been any changes in the mouth tissues or the bone around your teeth. He will also look for early tooth decay, impaction, tumors in the jaw area and abscesses in tooth roots. To insure healthy gums and teeth, you must combine regular dental examinations with effective brushing and flossing.

Pupils file suit over search policy

By SANDRA ARMBRUSTER

Three high school students have gone to court to fight a school district policy which they say violates their right to Attorneys for the American Civil Liberties Union filed suit Monday in U.S. District Court on behalf of Edward Wofford, Laura Homer and Beatrice Peak, students at Wayne Memorial High. The three are seniors who live in the city of Wayne.

The suit charges that the Wayne-Westland Board of Education, Wayne Memorial principal Francis Winters, and Dr. Timothy Dyer violated students' rights by asking them to sign forms which would allow their lockers and cars to be searched without their consent.

The suit claims that Wofford and Ms. Homer object to the car-search waivers and Ms. Peak claims she was denied a locker this year because she refused to sign the waiver.

However, school officials in the district, which includes southeast Canton, say that the locker-search waiver was abolished in the spring.

Winters said that when he found out that the waiver was being requested, he went on the public address system and announced that policy was being elimi-

The students filing the suit say the policy was not changed.

"I FEEL I might have something in my car that has nothing to do with the health, safety and welfare of students," said Wofford, who acted as spokesman for the students. "It's none of their (school officials') business what's in my cause, car."

Dan Slee, executive director of student activities for the district, said that the student code currently permits a search if the health, safety and welfare of students is threatened. He added that searched under suspicion of drugs or ment.

"Each case stands on its own merit. I know it isn't being abused," he added.

Dver, who had yet to be served with the suit Tuesday, called the legal action

"It's important that we maintain order," said Dyer. "We will obey the law, the Wayne-Westland case about six but we think we're obeying it right weeks ago.

manently prohibit the school district bus transportation is available. "Last from requiring that such waivers be signed. It also asks District Court some parking tickets. Judge Horace Gilmore, who will hear the case, to declare that the policy is a violation of the fourth amendment to something about it," he continued.

the U.S. Constitution and of the Michigan Constitution.

The Wayne-Westland parking waiver, which must be signed by a parent as well as a student, reads in part: . . I do agree and consent to the unlocking, opening and inspecting of the subject vehicle and of all the portions thereof including storage and engine areas. I do further agree and consent to the opening, examination and inspection of all items located in any such vehicle . . . and I agree to make any and all lock keys available to the principal or his representative for this pur-

Dyer said that the "question of transportation is legitimate. If they drive recklessly, they're going to lose their right to drive.'

Attorney for the students, Elizabeth Gleicher from the Detroit firm of Goodman, Eden, Millender and Bedrosian, said that federal courts may hear cases that also involve violation of state law. Also filing the brief was attorney Ronald Reosti from the Detroit firm of Reosti and Papakhian.

The school district has 20 days in which to respond, after which a schedule of hearings will be established. Ms. Gleicher predicted that the suit would be settled without a trial. She said that she expects the case to be settled within the next six months

Ms. Gleicher said that the ACLU has received frequent complaints about similar waivers from other students throughout the state. They said the policy to ask that waivers be signed actually began after a 1979 state attorney general's opnion that said searches were prohibited unless there was just

"It got to the point that so many cases were being handled that the ACLU decided that the next ones (students) who called in would be considered for a test case," explained Ms. Gleicher. For that reason, she said they prabably police are present when a locker is would decline any out-of-court settle-

> Ms. Gleicher said she expected to file a similar suit Thursday in U.S. District Court on behalf of two Roseville students. She said that suit may be joined with the Wayne-Westland complaint.

THE ACLU WAS first contacted in

"I needed to park in the student lot this year," said Wofford, who, accord-THE SUIT ASKS that the court pering to the suit, has an early class before year I parked on side streets and got

> "So I looked at the form and I said, 'You're kidding me.' I decided to do

That's when Wofford said he decided to talk with a former teacher of his, Lynn Ehrle, who is a member of the ACLU and teaches classes in consumer rights and remedies, American history and contemporary problems.

"I talked to him and asked if there was something I could do about it. He said yes," continued Wofford. "So he went out and asked a couple of other students if they felt the same way about it. He actually contacted the ACLU for us.'

Ehrle had complained to the board of education in a meeting last June about the policy. The board subsequently proposed that the a formal review of the student code be undertaken. A report on that review is expected in early De-

EHRLE SAID that "coercion" was used to get students to sign lockersearch waivers.

"They (students) couldn't get out until they registered. They couldn't register until they got a locker and they had to sign a waiver to get the locker," he said. "Morally and ethically this is not a good practice. It's a question of prior guilt and that's what I object to. The time when we could treat a student as a second-class citizen is long past."

Principal Winter denied that any coercion was used.

"A mistake was made and it was rectified," said assistant superintendent Dennis O'Neill about the locker permits. "But our attorneys have no problem with the student code."

District administrators have previously touted the code as having been a model for others in the state.

MS. GLEICHER said that she and Reosti decided against a class-action suit because it would be expensive and difficult to set up.

"We would have to notify all the members of that class (all students at Wayne Memorial) and that would be beyond the (financial) means of the ACLU," she added.

Instead, the suit seeks declaratory relief which would affect all students at the school and set a precedent. Other cases, however, which lie outside the southeastern Michigan jurisdiction of this U.S. District Court, probably would have to be litigated again, according to Ms. Gleicher.

"The principle here is that a citizen cannot be searched at random," she said. "An official must respect privacy before effecting a search or seizure. This applies to students as well as adults. Students don't shed their rights at the school-house door.

"An educational institution has to teach what is the law. That's its essential function. There's no doubt the law protects students. Our position is that it is unreasonable to request students to waive their fourth amendment rights," Ms. Gleicher continued.

"We're not saying never search, but you do when there is probable cause individually determined on the facts and circumstances of each case."

Holiday pitch arrives here before Santa

"It's here!" my friend, I.M. Idle, blurted as I opened my apartment door.

He rushed into the room and headed straight for the TV. I peered into the apartment hallway, halfexpecting something to be following him.

"I don't see anything," I said. It was apparent something was wrong - he was frantically switching television channels. His normal pattern was to examine the contents of the refrigerator before turning on the tube. "No, no, it's here, it's arrived!" he said again as he settled on a station.

"What is?"

"This," he replied proudly, pointing to the TV.

"This amazing device chops and chips, slices and dices, minces and mangles," the announcer said excitedly. "101 uses. Order yours today and you'll receive, at no extra cost, the cap snaffler. No more problems with stubborn bottle tops or jars that refuse to open. The cap snaffler opens it quickly and easily."

"And that's not all. I looked at I.M., waiting for an explanation.

"It's Christmas!" he yelled.

ONE WEEK after Halloween — that's when they slowly started slipping them in. The political advertisements were just ending when they started appearing. Christmas advertising.

It didn't take long to confirm I.M.'s proclamation that the holiday shopping season had indeed arrived. All the discount stores - Kmart, Meijer's Thrifty Acres — were rolling in the Christmas items to replace the unsold Halloween merchandise.

The idea struck me again later that day as I watched another TV Christmas commercial. The realization that seven weeks from now I would be seeing the same ads for the umpteenth time depressed me.

A few companies really cash in on the season, I thought while watching. Viewers are bombarded by their commercials advertising products which I don't either need or use. Remember Mood Rings? Hot shaving lather dispensers, too, had their holiday moment. So did Vegomatics, Home Winemaker kits, and Pocket Fishermans.

Ronco Teleproducts Inc. is a big seller of some of the more unique products devised by man.

"RONCO'S AUTO CUP. Has this ever happened to you (man pictured spills a half gallon of coffee on his suit while driving)? It will never happen with Ronco's Auto Cup. Turn it upside down, it won't spill. Handy handle makes it easy to carry anywhere - boating, golfing, skiing, anywhere. "The perfect gift."

Ronco will be marketing 14 products this Christmas, said the company spokeswoman who would identify herself only as "Dorey." The woman was very suspicious and asked more questions than she would answer. Apparently, she feared I might be a competitor wanting to steal one of Ronco's gift ideBuy it now!

Among the "perfect gifts" Ronco will be marketing this year, other than the Auto Cup, is the Miracle Broom, Miracle Sander, Roller Measure, Cellutrol, Battery Tester, Ornamental Ice and the Egg

Sorry, but the Bottle and Jar Cutter, and the Studsetter aren't scheduled for release, she told me. Any remaining on store shelves are leftovers from previous seasons.

"We manufacture and distribute products sold during the Christmas season," Dorey said. The slogan reminded me of a chubby guy in a red suit who used to give away presents at Christmas.

ONLY THE white-bearded fellow wasn't interested in making a profit. To Ronco and other similiar companies, Christmas means making money.

"K-tel started in a guy's house in Winnipeg, Canada," said Bill McMahon, national sales manager for K-tel International. K-tel got its start selling the same type of merchandise Ronco sells - lowpriced Christmas gifts. The company now restricts its business to record album sales.

"Last year, we did $170 million worth of business," McMahon said, adding that the company has now spread into 19 countries. One-third of its profits came from the U.S. last year, and 70 percent of those were between July 1 and Christmas.

Television promotion of their albums has always been a key to K-tel's success. This year the ads started earlier than ever, with Christmas commercials hitting the airwaves on Oct. 20 in parts of the

"We used to start in the middle of November," McMahon said. Last year, the company decided to make the promotion date earlier.

"And you know," McMahon said, "we found we got a great deal of sales."

This holiday season, the company will market seven albums, ranging from new wave rock to country. Most are combinations of greatest hits from several artists.

Without doubt, each will be aired right up until

"SO WHAT DO you think?" I asked I.M. as we viewed the tube. An album cover displaying the "Greatest of County Western" was the K-tel product currently being peddled.

"About what?" he responded, emerging from a semicomatose state.

"About this stuff," I said, waving my arm toward the TV screen. "We've got 'junk food' and 'trash sports,' like 'Superstars' and 'Battle of the NFL Cheerleaders.' We also have 'gimmick gifts.' If you can't think of anything else, spend $9.95 for one of "Whadda mean, 'gimmick gifts'?" I.M. said with renewed interest. "I've been on both the giving and receiving end of these things, and I think they're pretty good."

"Yeah?" I shot back. "Do you still use any of

"Sure," he answered sarcastically. "How many bottles can you turn into glasses? How much ornamental ice can you use? How many times do you want to hear the 'Top 40 Hits of 1976'?"

"Then what good are they?" I inquired.

"They save you a helluva headache in finding the right gift when you're Christmas shopping," he mumbled, his attention once again riveted on the screen in front of him.

Partying raised Pilgrims' hackles

By SHERRY KAHAN

Imagine this. You are a Pilgrim. You have crossed a stormy ocean in a small boat called the Mayflower with others of your ilk. You survive a winter with little food. You invent Thanksgiving.

After five years of struggle, you begin to think you've successfully escaped the sinful bawdiness of old England. You are building up the kind of strict religious community you wanted.

Then from a point several miles away comes the sound of music, definitely not hymns. People are laughing and drinking. They are even prancing around the maypole in the tradition of their homeland. A colony of hippies has moved next door.

The place was Ma-re Mount, called Merry Mount by historians. Its leader was Thomas Morton, an Englishman of good family who trained for the law and could read Latin.

In the year 1625 the phrase "alternative culture" was a long way in the future. But it was clear that this man marched to a different drummer.

AFTER HIS arrival, the group of non-Pilgrims with whom he was associated had a falling out Some of the partners left.

Morton then started an early American revolution by urging the servants who had been left behind to leave their few remaining masters and throw in with him.

In his book "Saints and Strangers," George Willison pointed out that a number of indentured servants in those days had been taken by Englishmen and sold as virtual slaves in Virginia. Having heard about this, the servants needed little persuasion to join Morton.

The party began.

In his diary, Pilgrim governor William Bradford unloaded his feelings about this social event of the year. The spelling is his.

"After this, they fell to great licenciousness, and led a dissolute life, powering out them selves into all profaneness. And Morton became lord of misrule, and maitained (as it were) a school of Athisme. And after they had gott some good into their hands, and gott much by trading with the Indeans, they spent it as vainly, in quaffing and drinking both wine and strong waters in great excess . . .

"They also set up a May-pole, drinking and dancing aboute togeather, inviting the Indean women, for their consorts, dancing and frisking together (like so many fairies, or furies rather,) and worse

Bradford also was pretty uncomfortable with Morton's poetry, saying he composed "sundry rimes and verses, some tending to lasciviousness."

THE PILGRIMS were worried their own members might join in the quaffing and worse practices. Their own indentured servants might leave.

They were also nervous about Morton's success in the beaver trade. He hired Indians to help him and was cutting into the Pilgrims' beaver take. They counted on selling the skins in England to obtain supplies they needed to sustain them.

And they accused him of selling liquor and guns to the Indians.

So they managed to get him deported back to

BUT LIKE A BAD halfpenny, he returned a year later. In the meantime, in England he wrote a satire on the Pilgrims called New England Canaan, which Willison describes as "one of the liveliest, wittiest and most informative books of the day."

He also worked to end the patents that gave the Pilgrims and Puritans the right to their land.

Once he was back in this country, the battles started all over again. But eventually the Pilgrims managed to removed Morton again.

He was tried on a charge of harming the Indians. Williston reports. The historian added, however, that "The plain truth was that he got along with them only too well."

Again he was returned to England, and did not come back until 1643. But the Pilgrims and Puritans were persistent and jailed him in Massachu-

When released, he went to Maine and lived out his life in poverty. Willison includes a comment from someone who saw him before he died. The word was that hehad fallen so low he was "content to drinke water.

Morton's opinion of the Pilgrims was that they "made a great shewe of religion, but no humanity."

Every year at Thanksgiving, schoolchildren get. to color in pictures of brave and heroic pilgrims with their blue wool capes blowing in the cold winter wind, taking their first tentative steps onto these

The women are always dark-haired and darkeved - probably drawn to vaguely resemble Jennifer Jones.

The men are always strong-chinned, chiseledcheeked and blue eyed - the surfer look before California was fully settled.

Then there's Plymouth Rock, itself. It's dark and craggy like all good historic rocks. It's also always depicted as a large beacon in the white-capped

It's a picture that was in all the school texts when I was a kid. If you gaze on it long enough, you could almost hear dainty Priscilla admonishing, "Speak for yourself, John.

You could almost wish that John had spoken sooner for himself, thus sparking schoolchildren another poem to learn and possibly keeping the rest of us from the sight of several more New England tourist traps.

Plymouth, Mass., could have preserved that illusion if it hadn't decided to turn the Rock into a tourist attraction.

TOURIST ATTRACTION or not, I'm irresistably drawn to anything any little town wants to call historic. Sometimes it pays off, as it did the time I visited a little museum located inside an old court-u house in Nova Scotia. The caretaker, a woman who lived there all her life, took special delight in showing off the vintage wedding dress which couldn't have been worn by a woman taller than five feet.

"Weren't they small, then?" my guide cooed. Then, she directed my attention to the place in the ceiling which had supported the rope for the town's only hanging, which occured shortly after the town's only murder.

"Terrible, wasn't it?" my guide said. So it was absolutely necessary that I finally get to see this craggy, rugged rock which had once supported the delicate and dainty Priscilla and the rest of the Mayflower crew.

In the middle of the still little town of Plymouth, Mass., there stands a little gazebo near the bay where the respectful and the curious come to finally eye the Rock. Most of them, I'm sure, come to this spot expecting to see a piece of granite resembling the logo used in the Mutual of Omaha commercials. Next to the rock, itself, are tourist guides dressed up as Mayflower passengers might have dressed, waiting to answer questions and give directions.

THE ROCK ITSELF stands in a little cell dug out of the earth so the visitor must look downward to

There, on the bottom of this pit, held together mainly by plaster - in fact, I dare say it is mostly plaster — is what passes these days for Plymouth

No great craggy monument to will and determination. No moment of drama or poignant rememberance of those in other times who have come here for the same reasons as these, the first immigrants. Not even one old-time resident dressed in everyday clothes to point to the places made memorable to local history.

Instead, just to make sure you recognize the piece of plaster for what it is, there is the date 1620 stamped on it.

The little booklet tourists get when they visit this little chip off the old rock prudently shies away from actually saying that this is the Pilgrim's rock. Instead, it confesses that a few generations after the Pilgrims settled, a grizzled old man who claimed to remember such hallowed traditions, pointed his finger at this little rock and informed the town that, 'yes, this was the very rock their forebearers had touched.

Just in case all of this hasn't touched you, the final note in this scenario takes place, not near the tourist site, but across the street where the John Alden Ice Cream Stand does business.

YOU CAN'T miss it. It's the only ice cream place in town that has John Alden's hat, head and shoulders resting larger than life on its roof.

Anyone for an Aldenburger?

Your Advent Cooking Calendar calls for a bubbling cauldron of Merrie Olde Brandied Mincemeat along with other brandied baubles.

There's an old saying in the little English village of Shropshire that the twelve days of Christmas are a mirror of the year. For each brandied mincemeat treat eaten at a hospitable neighbor's house during that period, you're destined to have one happy month. To insure your good luck, you'd best supply your neighbors well in advance — there's a lot of Christmas baking to be done and much of it begins with a crock of homemade mincemeat

This old Victorian recipe is bright with the flavor of a whole orange and lemon with an abundance of candied fruits and raisins. The brandy is the catalyst that marries the flavors and preserves them for months to come.

MERRIE OLDE BRANDIED MINCEMEAT

1 small navel orange 1 small lemon 8 cups finely diced unpeeled apples 1-1/2 cups golden raisins 1-1/2 cups seedless raisins I cup mixed diced candied fruits

1 cup orange juice

about 2-1/2 quarts.

1/2 teaspoon salt 1-1/2 cups flour

4 cups packed brown sugar 1 tablespoon cinnamon 1-1/2 teaspoons each ground nutmeg, cloves and allspice 1-1/2 teaspoons salt

Quarter and seed orange and lemon. Grind in food grinder or food processor fitted with steel blade. In Dutch oven combine ground orange and lemon, apples, raisins, candied fruits and orange juice. Bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add sugar, spices and salt. Simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add 1 cup of the brandy. Simmer, stirring occasionally, until mixture is thick like jam, about 1 hour. Remove from heat. Stir in remaining brandy. Store covered in refrigerator up to 2 months. Makes

1-1/4 cups Brandy

BRANDY-GLAZED MINCEMEAT BARS

3/4 cup butter or margarine, softened 3/4 cup packed brown sugar 1/4 cup molasses 1 teaspoon ginger 1 teaspoon baking soda

1-1/2 cups rolled oats 1/3 cup chopped walnuts 2 cups Merrie Olde Brandied Mincemeat

1 cup powdered sugar 1 tablespoon milk 1 tablespoon Brandy

In large bowl combine butter, sugar and molasses. Beat until fluffy. Beat in egg. Beat in ginger, baking soda and salt. Add flour, oats and walnuts. Mix to blend thoroughly. Spread half of dough evenly in bottom of greased 9 x 13. inch baking pan. Spread evenly with mincemeat, and then with remaining dough. Bake in 350 degree oven 35 to 45 minutes until lightly browned and springy to the touch. Cool on wire rack. In small bowl beat together powdered sugar, milk and brandy until smooth. Drizzle over cooled cake. Cut into bars about 1 x 2-inches. Makes 4 dozen bars.

Note: After cooling and cutting, bars may be securely wrapped and frozen up to 1 month. Drizzle with glaze after bars are thawed.

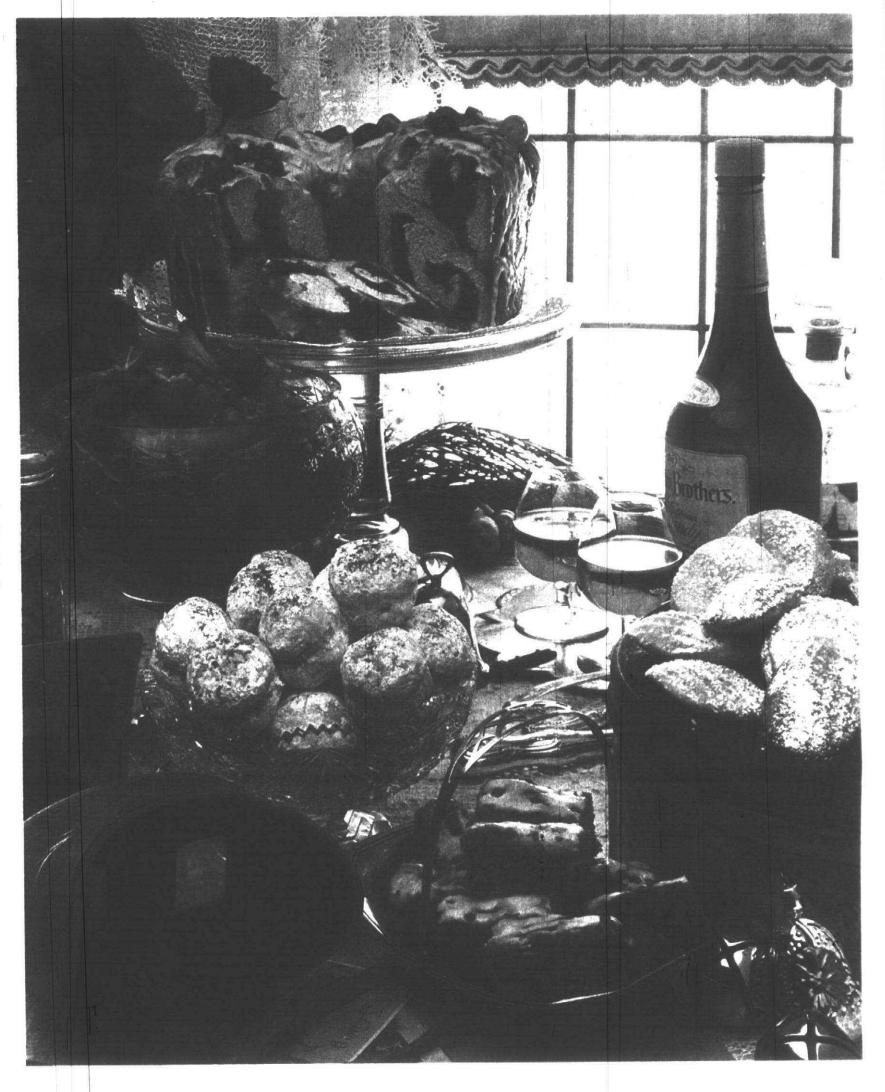

BRANDIED MINCEMEAT COFFEE CAKE

2 packages active dry yeast 1/2 cup warm water (110 to 115 degrees) 1 cup milk 1/4 cup butter or margarine 1/2 cup sugar 1 teaspoon salt 1-1/2 teaspoons mace

6 to 6-1/2 cups flour 3 cups Merrie Olde Brandied Mincemeat 1 cup powdered sugar, sifted

1 teaspoon grated lemon peel 2 to 3 tablespoons Brandy

In small bowl dissolve yeast in warm water; set aside. In small saucepan scald milk. Stir in butter, sugar, salt and mace. Cool to lukewarm. Blend in eggs and yeast mixture. In large bowl beat yeast mixture with 5-1/2 cups of the flour. Turn out onto board and knead in enough of the remaining flour to make a smooth and satiny dough, kneading about 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, 1 to 1-1/2 hours. Punch down. Divide dough into two equal portions. On floured board roll one portion into a 10 x 20 inch rectangle. Cover evenly with 1-1/2 cups of the mincemeat to within 1/2 inch of edges. From long side, roll as for jelly roll. Pinch seam to seal. Fit into greased deep 10-inch tube pan, seam-side up. On floured board roll remaining dough into a 10 x 12 inch rectangle. Cover evenly with remaining 1-1/2 cups of the mincemeat to within 1/2 inch of edges. From long side, roll as for jelly roll. Pinch seam to seal. With sharp knife, cut into 8 equal slices. Brush ring in pan lightly with water. Arrange slices over ring, cut-sides facing up. Cover and let rise in warm place until cake reaches top of pan, 1 to 1-1/2 hours. Bake on lower rack of 375 degree oven 45 to 55 minutes until browned and springy to the touch. (When top becomes sufficiently brown, cover lightly with foil.) Cool on rack 15 minutes. Remove from pan; cool on rack upright. In small bowl mix powdered sugar, lemon peel and brandy until smooth. Drizzle over cake. Makes 1 cake (12 to 16 servings).

BRANDY SNOWBALLS

3/4 cup butter or margarine, softened 1/3 cup milk 3 tablespoons Brandy 1 cup granulated sugar 2 eggs 3/4 teaspoon baking powder 3-3/4 cups flour

Brandy Chocolate Filling (recipe follows) 2 tablespoons light corn syrup 1 tablespoon Brandy Powdered sugar

In large bowl combine butter, milk, 3 tablespoons brandy, the granulated sugar, eggs, baking powder and 2-1/2 cups of the flour. Beat with electric mixer at low speed 2 minutes, scraping sides of bowl as needed. Mix in remaining flour to form a soft dough. With lightly floured hands form dough into 96 smooth 3/4-inch balls. Place 1 inch apart on greased baking sheets. Bake in 325 degree oven 15 to 20 minutes until bottoms of cookies are lightly browned. While cookies are warm, hollow out from flat sides with small pointed knife. Reserve crumbs. Prepare Brandy Chocolate Filling. Fill each cookie with filling mixture. Press two filled cookies together to form a ball. Repeat with remaining cookies. In small bowl combine corn syrup and 1 tablespoon brandy. Brush each ball with brandy mixture and immediately roll in powdered sugar to coat heavily. Sprinkle with colored sugar, if desired. (Cookies may be made in advance and frozen up to the point of brushing with brandy mixture and rolling in sugar.) Makes 4 dozen cookies.

BRANDY CHOCOLATE FILLING

Crumbs (from hollowed-out cookies) 1/4 cup Brandy 1/4 cup raspherry preserves 1/4 cup finely chopped nuts 2 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa

In medium bowl mix all ingredients to make a thoroughly blended

BRANDIED APRICOT LOAVES

1-1/2 cups (8 ounces) coarsely chopped dried apricots 2/3 cup Brandy 1/3 cup water 1 cup sugar 2 eggs 1/3 cup vegetable oil

1/2 teaspoon baking soda 1 tablespoon baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt 2-3/4 cups flour 1 cup chopped nuts Brandied Cream Cheese (recipe follows) In 1-quart saucepan combine apricots, brandy and water. Bring just to boil. Remove from heat and set aside 10 minutes. In large bowl combine sugar, eggs, oil, baking soda and liquid drained from apricots. Beat 2 minutes. Mix in baking powder, salt, flour and apricots just to blend. Fold in nuts. Turn equally into 2 greased and floured 8-1/2 x 4-1/2 x 2-5/8inch loaf pans. Bake in 350 degree oven 35 to 45 minutes until tops are browned and loaves are springy to the touch. Cool 5 minutes. Turn out on wire racks. Wrap in aluminum foil while still slightly warm. Store 24 hours before slicing. Serve with Brandied Cream Cheese. Makes 2 loaves (about 1-1/4 pounds each).

Note: Brandied Apricot Loaves may be securely wrapped and frozen up to 1 month.

BRANDIED CREAM CHEESE

2 packages (3 ounces each) cream cheese, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened 3 tablespoons Brandy softened 3 tablespoons powdered sugar

Combine all ingredients in small bowl. Beat until smooth. Chill. Store in refrigerator 24 hours before serving. Makes about 3/4 cup.

BRANDY HOLIDAY MADELEINES 3/4 cup butter or margarine

3/4 cup sugar 4 eggs 2-2/3 cups flour 3-3/4 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 cup milk Brandied Lime Syrup (recipe follows) Powdered sugar

In mixing bowl cream butter and sugar until fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating to blend well. Combine flour, baking powder and salt. Stir into creamed mixture alternately with milk. Measure tablespoonfuls of batter into greased madeleine molds or muffin tin cups (2-3/4-inch). Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 15 to 18 minutes, until edges are browned and cakes are springy to the touch. Loosen and remove from molds; cool on wire racks. Clean and regrease molds as needed to bake remaining batter. Dip cakes, a few at a time, in Brandied Lime Syrup; drain. Dust generously with powdered sugar. Makes about 4-1/2 dozen.

BRANDIED LIME SYRUP: Dissolve 1/3 cup sugar in 2/3 cup Brandy.

Stir in 1/3 cup strained lime juice.

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

It's a far cry from a Norman Rockwell painting

In early October I served a turkey dinner. It was a sort of dry run for Thanksgiving. There are still a few wrinkles to be ironed out even after years of this kind of an ordeal.

Most of these wrinkles have to do with the chaos that ensues in the half hour between the time dinner is scheduled and the actual time it is all together on the table.

By this time everyone over the age of reason (or tall enough to reach a kitchen counter) has been pressed into service - mashing potatoes, stirring gravy, slicing the meat, running platters and bowls from kitchen to dining room. At least half of the food is stone cold. I am dressed in old jeans and a sweater. Cooking in good clothes would be foolhardy given the exorbitant cost of dry cleaning.

The total picture is a far cry from the photographs of holiday meals in women's magazines or in Norman Rockwell paintings. Rafts of steaminghot dishes, artistically arranged, grace a long harvest table ringed by a congenial three-generation family dressed in their Sunday best. They are preparing to invoke a lengthy blessing - a luxury they can afford since the food is still piping hot and dinner is on sched-

I ATTRIBUTE part of my failure to reach this ideal to the gap between the number of last-minute, top-of-the-stove dishes I attempt and the number of burners on my stove.

Given the limitations of a four-burner stove, the only question was which vegetables would suffer the least from sitting out for 15 minutes while the rest

After years of hoping that this dilemma would resolve itself, I have determined to attempt another approach this Thanksgiving. Since some vegetables will be served cold anyway, I will capitulate and serve them well-chilled. in a marinade.

The other half of the vegetables those to be served hot - will be prepared ahead of time in dishes which can bake during the crucial half-hour before dinner. The turkey should be allowed to "rest," outside of the oven during this half hour anyway so the reserved heat of the oven can be put to good use and the top of the stove clutter and scramble reduced to manageable proportions.

WITH THIS GOAL in mind, I have assembled some of my favorite baked vegetable recipes.

If broccoli is being served, it can appear in a festive, hot molded shape, baked in a creamy Swiss-cheese flavored custard.

Carrots can retain their crisp texture and sweet flavor when cooked quickly on top of the stove and then baked, blanketed by an unusual sauce, sparked by horseradish. An alternative presentation for carrots teams them with brussels sprouts in a rich veloute sauce. Although this last dish does not require baking, it could be prepared early in the day and reheated at serving time.

The hot Broccoli Mold and Company Carrots can be prepared early in the day and baked just prior to serving.

BROCCOLI MOLD 1 bunch broccoli, well trimmed, flowerets broken into small pieces Boiling, salted water

1/4 cup chicken broth 3 tbsp. butter

1/4 cup chopped scallions 3 tbsp. flour 1 cup sour cream

3 eggs, lightly beaten 1/3 cup grated Swiss cheese

1 tsp. salt 1/4 tsp. freshly ground black pepper

½ tsp. grated nutmeg

1/4 cup finely chapped toasted almonds

1) Place broccoli in a saucepan and cover with boiling salted water. Cover, bring to a boil and boil rapidly about eight minutes or until crisp-tender. Drain well. 2) Preheat oven to 350 degrees. 3) Chop broccoli finely and add the chicken broth. 4) Melt the butter, add scallions and saute until tender. Stir in the flour and cook, stirring, one minute. 5) Blend in the sour cream and cook, stirring constantly, until thick, but don't allow to boil. Remove from heat and stir in the eggs. 6) Stir in the broccoli mixture and remaining ingredients and turn into a wellgreased 5-cup ring mold. Set in a shallow pan of boiling water and bake 45 minutes. 7) Let stand 5 minutes. Run a knife around edges and unmold onto warm platter. Makes 6-8 servings.

COMPANY CARROTS 21/2 lb. whole carrots

1/2 cup mayonnaise 1 tbsp. minced onion

1 tbsp. prepared horseradish

Salt and pepper to taste 1/4 cup finely crushed saltine crackers Parsley, chopped Paprika

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Cook carrots in boiling salted water until fork-tender. Reserve ¼ cup cooking row strips. Arrange in a 9-inch square baking dish; set aside.

Combine reserved cooking liquid with mayonnaise, onion, horseradish, salt, and pepper. (The sauce may be done ahead and refrigerated.) Pour sauce over carrots. Sprinkle cracker crumbs on top. Sprinkle with parsley and paprika. Bake for 20 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

BRUSSELS SPROUTS AND CARROTS A LA POULETTE

1/2 lb. carrots 1/2 lb. small or medium Brussels sprouts 1/4 cup butter pepper 3/4 cup veloute sauce (recipe follows)

1 egg yolk 1/2 cup heavy cream parsley

In a saucepan, blanch the carrots, trimmed into olive shapes, in boiling salted water to cover for 5 minutes and drain them. Cook the Brussels sprouts. boiling them for only 8 minutes. In a skillet, toss the carrots and Brussels liquid. Cut carrots lengthwise in nar- sprouts in the butter with salt and pepper to taste over moderate heat until they are coated with the butter. Add the veloute sauce and simmer, covered, 10 minutes. Remove from the heat and stir in the egg yolk, lightly beaten with the heavy cream. Return to the heat and cook over moderate heat, stirring, until the sauce just thickens. Season with salt and pepper and ssprinkle with minced parsley. Serves 4.

VELOUTE SAUCE

11/2 tsp. minced onion 11/2 tsp. butter 2 tbsp. flour 11/2 cups chicken stock 1/8 tsp. salt White pepper

In a saucepan, saute the onion in the butter until it is softened. Stir in the flour and cook the roux over low heat, stirring for 3 minutes. Remove from the heat and pour in the chicken stock, scalded, whisking vigorously until mixture is thick and smooth. Add the salt and white pepper to taste and simmer 15 minutes. Strain the sauce through a fine sieve and cover it with a buttered round of wax paper to prevent a film from forming. Makes 1 1/8 cups.

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

Thanksgiving menu combined old and new traditions

The Lauretti family is part Italian, part Sicilian. Italy and Sicily each contributed one pair of grandparents, who immigrated to Connecticut some years ago. My sister Sharon married into their family.

On a holiday visit with them in 1978, we were served the following Thanksgiving dinner:

Stuffed Artichokes Escarole Soup Lasagna Roast Turkey with Herb Stuffing Whole Cranberry Sauce Corn Souffle

Fresh Green Beans in Butter Sauce Fresh Italian Bread and Rolls Tossed Green Salad Cannoli

course, in the European manner, an arrangement designed to allow for clearing of the palate between the main course and dessert. Wine accompanied

Chocolate Cake Coffee and Tea The salad was served after the main well as dishes of candies and mints. It was a sumptuous meal that successfully combined a Mediterranean heritage with American tradition.

The grownups remained at the dining-room table through all the courses, but the youngsters would disappear to the basement playroom during the courses which did not interest them. Everything served, except the bread and rolls, was homemade. The Escarole Soup was prepared with a chicken-stock base, to which dumplings and fresh escarole had been added

Artichokes, which had been stuffed with garlic, cheese and bread crumbs, were then steamed until tender. Their aroma wafted through the house, drawing all the family to the kitchen.

The weather that weekend was cold, crisp and breezy, lit by a bright fall sun, the kind of weather that clears out the cobwebs from the mind and sharpens memories, particularly poignant

For the Laurettis, it was the first the dinner and brandy was offered with major holiday since the death of their the coffee, along with bowls of nuts, as mother. All the children, the two young grandchildren, and assorted visitors, had gathered at the father's home. As each family member was reminded of a dish the mother had always prepared for Thanksgiving, the dish was added to

> The artichokes were remembered only the night before, necessitating a lastminute search through local grocery stores. Six or eight artichokes were finally found and purchased. Though they were a smaller size than usually would have been chosen, they were the only artichokes to be found in the area. Trimmed and prepared, the vegetables' appearance improved greatly, adding to the considerable success of the meal.

STUFFED ARTICHOKES LAURETTI

To prepare the vegetable:

Cut the stem from the artichoke, leaving the bottom flat. Slice off the top of the vegetable as well. Snip the points from the lower leaves with scissors. Rub the cuts briefly with lemon juice to prevent discoloration.

Press the artichoke, top side down, against the counter-top to open up the inside for the stuffing. Soak for a few minutes in cold water and then drain.

STUFFING For each artichoke, you will need: 1 or 2 small cloves chopped garlic 1/2 tsp. chopped parsley 1 or 2 tsp. grated Parmesan cheese

1 or 2 tsp. bread crumbs or package 2 or 3 cured black olives (optional) 1 tsp. salad oil (or olive oil, if you prefer the taste)

Alternate amounts are given above as the size of the artichoke (small, medium or large) will determine the amount needed for stuffing.

Stuff the garlic and parsley into the center and between the outer leaves of the artichoke. Sprinkle the cheese and the stuffing into the center and outer leaves. If necessary, pu'll the leaves out to do this. Arrange the olives in the same manner, if you are using the olives. Sprinkle the salad oil (or olive oil) on top of each artichoke to keep it from drying out during the cooking process and for additional flavor.

Steam over a small amount of water 1024, Birmingham, 48012 come out easily. Can be served warm, at room temperature or cold, as an appetizer or a vegetable side dish.

Note: The cheese and olives add salt, but you may wish to add salt (slight at medium heat until the outer leaves amount) before stuffing. Correspondence should be ad-

WINIFRED AND GEORGE Schoenneman, love their retirement home and life in Pequaming on Keewanaw Bay in the Upper Peninsula. Their daughter, Annemarie, says her dad is out fishing every day. The good fishing in sheltered waters was the reason they chose Pequaming.

George is former fire chief of the city of Plymouth. When they lived on Harvey Street, he usually had his smoker going out in the garage, smoking up a batch of chicken, fish or cheese. He had the process down to a fine art.

"He's still smoking it up every day," said Annemarie. "The latest I heard, he'd been catching trout. They have joined the Eagles Club, a fraternal organization, and enjoy that. My mother has been working on fundraisers for the volunteer fire department."

She said that her parents' property fronts on Lake Superior and their neighbors are old Finnish families, "wonderful people who think Schoenneman is a very strange name."

Their lifestyle sounds idyllic - berry picking in the summer, beautiful country, and watching wild animals in their own back yard.

ANNEMARIE has been working in surgical intensive care at University Hospital, Ann Arbor. She still lives in Plymouth. She went back to school and earned her bachelor of science degree in nursing, graduating summa cum laude. She plans to go to grad school to continue her education.

THE NORTHVILLE Lions Club has decided to disband because they could not recruit enough interested members. An item in "The Tail Twister," the Plymouth Lions newsletter, reveals the Northville club president, Ron Martin, plans to join the Plymouth Club and 'hopefully, bring some of his faithful along with him."

The local Lions have inherited the Northville club's arrangement with Northville Downs to sell Christmas candy at the race track. They hope to get the candy in time for a two-day sale this year.

The Lions will have their Christmas Party Thursday, Dec 4 in the Mayflower Meeting House. Don Hay is chairing the party.

LOOKING FOR a special Christmas program for your club or group?

Kling-mar Inc., a furniture store on Ford Road in Canton Township, offers an hour-long slide and tape presentation of Christmas past with recipes and a talk on how to decorate inexpensively for the holidays. A representative of the store will take the program to the club meeting, and there is no charge.

A preview of the presentation will be given at 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 1; Thursday, Dec. 4; and Friday, Dec. 5, in the store at 45500 Ford.

Anyone interested in the program can call 459-6550 to make reservations.

REGISTRATION deadline is Nov. 16 for the senior citizens trip to Frankenmuth on Tuesday, Dec 4. The bus will leave the Plymouth Cultural center at 8:30 a.m. for a tour of Bronner's, lunch at Zehnder's, a tour of Carling Brewery or a browse through the Christmas Cost is $18 per person. This pays for transportation and lunch. The trip is sponsored by the Plymouth Recreation Department. Call 455-6627 for information.

NATIONAL Geographic magazine January issue will have an article about Plymouth's infra red photos that show heat loss areas in houses.

It was Dec. 13, 1926 that Mrs. Frederick A. Lendrum had a luncheon in her home in Plymouth. In attendance were eight DAR members at large and six new members who had met to organize a DAR chapter.

In February of the following year, the members decided to invite the women of Northville who were eligible for membership to join the chapter. When the charter was granted in March 8, 1928, there were 24 members.

THE NEW CHAPTER was named for Sarah Ann Cochrane, daughter of a pioneer Michigan family and direct descendant of five Revolutionary War soldiers.

She had come to Northville in 1843 when her father, the Rev. Sylvester Cochrane, became minister of the new Presbyterian church in the village. In 1845, he founded the Northville Academy, where Sarah and her brother Lyman, who later became a judge in Detroit, were teachers.

History notes that the Cochranes were the first family in Northville to own a kerosene lamp, which the Northville Historical Society has in its collec-

After the death of her parents, Sarah Ann Cochrane became associated with the Detroit Public Library, where she supervised the introduction of the Dewey decimal system. All members of the Cochrane family are buried in Northville.

THE CHAPTER continues to grow with the addition of young members, maintaining a membership of 100 or more women.

As well as many local projects working closely with and making contributions to the Northville, Plymouth and Livonia historical societies and their projects; presenting good citizenship awards to students; conducting annual essay contests; and doing volunteer work in Veterans Hospitals - the chapter supports national endeavors.

The DAR National Headquarters in Washington, D.C. covers an entire city block. There are three adjoining buildings on 17th Street near the White House - Memorial Continental Hall, Constitution Hall and Administration Building. This is the largest group of buildings in the world owned and maintained exclusively by women. Threefold objectives are historic preservation, promotion of education and patriotic endeavor. Sarah Ann Cochrane and other chapters contribute to the funds that keep the DAR and schools, and Indian school and scholarships going; the conservation projects; the publication of Manuals for Citizenship; student loans and scholarships; lineage research; and the thousands of flags and flag codes (many in Braille) donated each year.

By JEAN DAY

Terry Hekker says she's one of an endangered species - a housewife. But she had a roomful of company at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

The author of "Ever Since Adam and Eve," a witty book that defends "the world's second oldest but most obsolete profession," proved to be a woman with whom her audience could relate.

She drew applause as she admitted liking being a woman, declaring, "Women are a wonderful species - we can hold any job, but our most important job is raising the next generation."

She lists as qualifications for writing her book the fact that she "has been married for 24 years to a man toward whom I have a cheap physical attraction and I have five children.

"I was beginning to feel I was like a carton of vogurt with an expiration date stamped on my bottom," she told her audience of more than 500, "so I wrote a letter to my newspaper (The New York Times) about my frustrations, it was printed on the Op Ed page and picked up by other papers around the country.

"I was surprised to receive thousands of letters in response.

MRS. HEKKER draws on experiences of her family, which in addition to four sons and a daughter included a mother and an Irish grandmother with "common sense that is not so common.

"When my daughter was born after I had three sons," she said, my grandmother told me, "There's no such thing as little girls, they're just short women, but men are always tall boys.

"A woman can re-do the whole living , quite a shelf."

sexual revolution, observed that "you don't prove yourself by going to bed with a man — it's getting up with him

She recalled working on her town's library sale with a 52-year-old friend who looked at a copy of "Joy of Sex" and asked if Mrs. Hekker had read it. The friend admitted she had but confided that she had hidden it from her husband. "He would be so upset if he found out what he's missed," she explained.

Terry Hekker told of marrying her husband when he was entering law school and of having the five children, now ranging from 21 to 11 years old. Her tour to publicize the books was a chance to have him accompany her, she says, adding that a family always helps keep things in perspective.

She said she had been asked if she missed adult conversation when home with children all day.

· "Now nothing is so overrated as adult conversation," she said. "I had a boss who had two conversation topics - the deplorable state of the Long Island Railroad and the state of his digestive system. "Now children ask wonderful questons, like, 'Why do you give a plant a drink when it has no mouth?' "I remember telling one child he had his shoes on the wrong feet and his reply was 'They're the only feet I have.' "

BUT MRS. HEKKER can be serious, too. "Teenagers need a lot more love and understanding than they'd like to let you think." she noted. She left no doubt that she supports ERA, saying she feels it does need dif-

Mrs. Hekker, commenting on the ferent leaders. ERA is needed, she declares, because in some states, such as New Jersey, children not the wife, inherit the husband's property unless there's a will stating otherwise.

"I think some of this 'chairperson' thing has gone too far, however, I was sure of it when I saw the sign in a hospital that read: 'This lounge reserved for pregnant persons."

WET the BED?

FREE INFORMATION ON BEDWETTING Information on Bedwetting-send for a FREE book on how to stop bedwetting in the privacy of your home.

"Bedwetting is Serious and Harmful"

If you have a bedwetter in your home, I strongly urge you to take steps at once to end it. The correction of bedwetting is an important mental health aid. It is very harmful to the child, distressing to the parents and can lead to very serious complications later on in life. Don't be blind to this problem no matter what you have been told by anyone else. Do something about it and do it

Joseph G. Malner, M.D. Master Public Health

BEDWETTING IS CORRECTABLE

Many procedures such as restricting liquids, taking a child to the bathroom on a schedule, scolding, etc. do not end bedwetting. It can be stopped as early as 3 years of age. It should definitely be stopped before school age. For the same reasons you would not think of waiting for your child to outgrow dapers, you also should not wait for your child to outgrow bedwetting. Millions of adults never outgrow it.

NEW RELEASES

AIRPLANE (PG). A picture that takes off. This spoof of all those "Airport" movies is one of the zaniest films around.

THE AWAKENING (R). Silly film about archaeologist and curse of longdead Egyptian queen.

BAD TIMING/A SENSUAL OBSESSION. Nicholas Roeg's adult drama of pain-inflicting relationship between psychoanalyst (Art Garfunkel) and his lover (Theresa Russell).

DIVINE MADNESS (R). Energetic and electrifying Bette Midler in film version of the Broadway show.

THE ELEPHANT MAN (PG). Largely true story of grossly deformed man rescued from sordid life by compassionate doctor. Fine acting by John Hurt, Anthony Hopkins and John Gielgud balances out directorial shortcomings.

FADE TO BLACK (R). Terror as deranged young man dresses as his movie favorites to re-enact their scenes.

FIRST DEADLY SIN (R). Cop searches out killer responsible for series of bizarre murders. Frank Sinatra and Faye Dunaway star GLORIA (PG). Gena Rowlands plays it straight as ex-mobster's girlfriend who knows how to handle a gun, which she uses to protect boy whose parents have been murdered.

THE GREAT SANTINI (PG). Robert Duvall as Air Force pilot and dominating father in strong story of family conflict and love.

HOPSCOTCH (R). Chemistry of Matthau/Jackson pairing works again, but we don't see them together often enough in this halfway humorous (first half) film.

IT'S MY TURN (R). Jill Clayburgh in humorous story as independent woman (again) who falls in love with ex-baseball player during weekend in New York. LOVING COUPLES (PG). A comic look at foibles of contemporary relationships, focusing on the love lives of four sophisticates.

MIDDLE AGE CRAZY (R). Turmoil in the family as Bruce Dern turns 40 and goes through midlife crisis that finds him pursuing his youthful OH, GOD! BOOK II (PG). George Burns returns as the Almighty with a new message, Luanne, as "Tracey," to deliver his words.

'Wizard of Oz' presented on stage

"The Wizard of Oz," a musical staged by Eric's Puppet Theatre, will be the Thanksgiving week offering at the Music Hall Center in Detroit, with five evening and seven daytime perfor-

On Thanksgiving Day, there will be a special performance at noon, following the annual Hudson parade.

Dorothy, the Tin Man, the Cowardly Lion, the Scarecrow and what seems like thousands of Munchkins will be portrayed by puppets of all kinds. There are wire-operated marionettes, Muppet-style characters, rod puppets, giant-sized glove puppets and even lifesize puppets in the Japanese Bunraku tradition.

All the highly expressive puppets were hand-carved by Eric Smith, an African artist and set director who immigrated to Tel Aviv, where he founded the Puppet Theatre of Israel. Like the Muppets, Smith's company has its own television show "Tamari's Hut."

The Israeli government youth theater supports Eric's Puppet Theatre.

ON ITS FIRST tour of the United States, Eric's Puppet Company will be the premiere attraction of the 1980-81 Family Series. Other family shows this season are a musical version of "A Christmas Carol," comedian-pianist Victor Borge and "Mummenchanz."

"The Wizard of Oz" performances are at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. Daytime performances are at noon Thanksgiving Day; 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Friday and Saturday; and 2 and 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

The Music Hall box office at 350 Madison is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Saturday. Tickets also can be purchased at any CTC outlet.

Telephone purchases can be made by calling 963-7680 and using a Visa or MasterCard charge. Group discounts are available through Joan Hedit at 963-7622.

Predictability describes what future holds in travel

BY IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Chances are that in the next 10 years you will seriously consider buying a vacation home, as an investment and a status symbol. If you live in one of the new households added to the United States during the past decade, there is a one-infive chance that you are single and that your travel habits reflect that.

If you are married, you probably have at least two wage-earners in your family, prompting you to explore more and shorter vacation trips, sometimes with your spouse and sometimes alone

And if you are a kid, tough luck; there aren't as many of you around anymore and your parents won't necessarily take you with them when they travel.

Music is in their blood

The flags of 36 nations hang above the bust of Chopin during the international Chopin competition here in Warsaw. On the stage, the grand piano bristles with microphones as a young man from France begins to play.

He is the only moving object in the concert hall. In the audience rapt music lovers face forward across the parquet floor and over the pol-

This is no high school competition of young pianists but a kind of world series of young concert pianists in the making.

The 180 contestants play five pieces of music each in recitals that spread across several evenings. Thirty-four of them were from the U.S., but none of the Americans were playing during the evening I attended, the third of the competition.

I am here by accident. I knew this prestigious piano competition was on in Warsaw but it never occurred to me that I could get tickets so I

Tonight, when our tour bus returned from Zelazowa Wola, Chopin's birthplace, I walked into the concert hall just in case. There were no regular tickets but, reluctant to give up, I followed the beckoning finger of a ticket collector up the white marble staircase.

With a little German and a little French. I learned there were tickets for standing room. Upstairs, another firm but kindly ticket collector used his hands and his feet to tell me in Polish that I could enter the hall until the next con-

He directed me to a nearby television set, where I watched the contestant, a Rumanian, finish the last half of his recital.

INSIDE, WHERE we lined single file against the wall, we watched and listened as a young Frenchman played. Even good music can't compete with aching feet and an armload of coats and bags, however, so at intermission I moved to the doors facing the large center aisle. I staked out a place where I could lean comfortably against the doorframe.

Within minutes I noticed that a Polish woman was beckoning to me from a nearby seat. When I did not understand her, she wordlessly extracted a folding camp stool from her large purse. I set it up gratefully in the aisle.

By the next contestant, a young man from Taiwan, I was waved to seat by another friendly Pole whose companion was leaving.

I sit her now with all those perfectly still heads in front of me, while a Chinese woman pianist makes deep velvet sounds on the piano. The audience, which is rapt and silent during the music, does not move at all until she pauses between pieces; during the pause, they all clear their throats and move their feet for the few seconds of silence. There is no clapping until her entire recital is finished.

I cannot judge the quality of this exquisite music. Nor do I want to. The flowing blouse on the arms of the Chinese pianist make a composition of its own as the sleeves move back and forth across the polished piano. All those 36 flags fly above the respectful affectionate attention of the people of Warsaw whose musical standards are among the highest in the world.

The next time you make a disparaging Polish joke, come with me in your mind to this concert hall in Warsaw, rebuilt here in the 35 years since World War II by a people who love and understand music.

is getting older, less married and less child-centered.

Changing economics means we are investing more time and money in our residences. The vacation home not only is back, it is becoming a status symbol. Entirely new kinds of families are taking more and shorter vacations.

THE NUCLEAR family describes a unit consisting of a husband who brings home the bacon, a wife who stays home and two or more children. That family was once 70 percent of the population; today it is 17 percent.

There was a 9 percent increase in the population between 1970 and 1979, but single households made up 20 percent of the increase in households during that decade.

Yankelovich, Skelly & White learned that only 4 percent of the people questioned wanted to get rid of the family, however. Most of them just wanted a new kind of fmaily. The future will hold more childless marriages, a smaller number of children in the average family, more transient households, more homes with two wage-earners and less focus on the homemaker role by women.

Most of the people in those new kinds of housholds wanted a new kind of leisure, vacations without the children, different friends, separate social functions, separate vacations and separate bank accounts. Peole will still travel in couples, and with children, but they will travel separately as well.

The most fundamental social change seen in the 1970s, the role of women, will have the most effect upon travel. Male-female roles are blurring and the new questions are Who has the time to clean the house? And who has the times to go on vacation?

ALL OF THAT makes us look like a very experimental, pioneering people, but the survey shows that we are actually getting more cautious in a way that affects travel. We are less inclined to the exotic destination, more inclined to the well-known place.

We want low-cost experiences and less pioneering, which means more value for less risk: extended bus trips, more vacations with friends, more package tours.

At the same time, we have a new sense of our own sophistication. Elitism used to mean the difference between the haves and the have nots, but it now means the difference between the blue collar worker and the new rich.

We want to be sophisticated but we don't want to work very hard at it. We are inclined to affluence and education, not to love of learning or indepth culture.

So here we are, folks. We are older: between 1975 and 1985 there will be 8 million less people between 5 and 19 years of age. We mistrust institutions, including travel agents and the travel industry.

The role of children has changed.

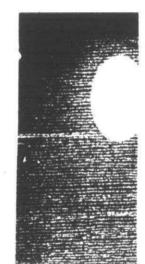

We're more sophisticated, or so we think, and more cautious. We have more money, because both mates often work, but we don't have time to spend it except in short spurts. When we were asked our opinion, 68 percent said credit cards should be controlled because we are all too weak to control ourselves. At the same time, 50 percent of us favored buying now because it will be more expensive later.

If that is contradictory, contradiction is also part of the changing American character, according to the Yankelovich accounting.

"One of the most important things we learned about the American people is that the same people are watching both 'Charlie's Angels' and the 'Lehrer Report' on television," Shapiro said.

The survey shows that we are actually getting more cautious in a way that affects travel. We are less inclined to the exotic destination, more inclined to the well-known place. We want lowcost experiences and less pioneering . . . more vacations with friends, more package tours.

District final pits Rocks against Glenn

By BRAD EMONS

Host Plymouth Salem and Westland John Glenn posted lopsided semifinal wins Saturday night and will meet for the district girls' basketball crown.

In the opener, Glenn dominated Garden City West, 83-26, while Salem handled an improved Livonia Churchill quintet, 43-26.

Glenn, now sporting a 19-1 mark, will square off against the Rocks (18-4) at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

"I thought we played a pretty good game after beating Canton the other night (37-36)," said Salem coach Bob Blohm. "We were still a little tired because we played so hard.

"You have to be concerned about playing Glenn. They are physically strong and can score in a lot of ways."

end of the third quarter as Canton fell back into a zone defense. A key play occurred when Jan

Canton, however, came back 18 seconds later on a basket by Jean Timlin and a free throw by Pearly Cunning-

Both teams traded misses until the 4:02 mark when Moore banked in a rebound shot to put Salem up, 36-34.

With 2:49 left, Salem went into a semi-stall and held possession for almost two minutes.

Canton got the ball back on a turnover, but forward Reggie Ruggiero was called for a charging foul with 53 seconds left. Moore went down to the other end and missed the free throw, giving the Chiefs another chance. McCauley called timeout with 35

Moore in the backcourt, setting up the game-winner. Moore, after canning the first shot, missed the second as Pierce grabbed the rebound. McCauley then called another timeout, his last, to set up a play.

That was proceeded by another timeout, this time by Blohm, who wanted to check Canton's out-of-bounds alignment.

All three Canton divers have qualified for the Class A regionals.

The closest individual race of the night came in the 100-yard backstroke when Northville's Kathy Bainbridge edged Kim Massey of Canton.

Another league record was set in the 100yard breaststrope when Allyson Farquhar posted a time of 1:08.5. Churchill stand-out Sue Cox placed second (1:19.9).

Kathy Curtiss, who gained fifth in the 200-yard individual medley, was the only other Churchill swimmer to place.

Massey took third place in the 200-IM. Teammate Missy McMurray grabbed second in the 100-yard freestyle.

Other Canton swimmers to place included Janet Powell, 50-freestyle, third; Mary Reardon, 500-freestyle, third, and 100-butterfly, fifth; Debbie Dickinson, 100-freestyle, fourth; Bronwyn Fitzgerald, 100breaststroke, fourth; Kathy Stern, 100-butterfly, fourth.

"We did real well as far as taking the right places," said Canton coach Mark Griffith. "Our competition was Harrison and we beat them by almost 100 points.

"I'm real pleased. This is the best finish ever for Plymouth Canton. We had a lot of depth that helped."

team fired a 3433 series to take the Dorothy Pashenar with 205 finish. lead in the scoring duel. A week later, the Bonanza Restaurant team rolled a 3561 series to take over as the leader

And now comes word from Cleveland that the Buddy Simon Sign Co. league posted a 3595 series to take over the national leadership. The new high came with games of 1131, 1329 and 1135. The 1329 also is a new national high.

Now the race is on in full force, and the burden now lies with the Detroit sharpshooters.

SCORING DROPPED off a bit in the western suburbs during the week as only four bowlers broke the 700 barrier. High among the trio was Jerry Hietstadt, who fired a 734 in the Wonderland Senior House league. This came on games of 222, 267 and 245. A second cropped up in the same league when Hugh O'Neil posted a 709 made possible by a 256 finishing game.

The third came in the senior house league at Bel-Aire when Ron Randy used a 279 game for a 713 count, and the fourth was the work of Dave Frickman, who rolled 708 in the Vinco League at Garden Lanes.

THE GIRLS in the senior house league at Wonderland turned in some grand bowling and when the

The keen rivalry between Michi-firing ceased, Barb Marelich was gan and Ohio isn't confined to the out in front with 663 that included a gridiron. It now has extended into 243 middle game. Next to her came the top bowling leagues in the two Georgina Bickshaw, who finished with a 279 for 639. Third place went Several weeks ago, Billy Golem- to Mary Hastings with 606 where biewski and his Bayview Electric she had to share the position with > RANDY SMITH, bowling in the municipal league at Merri Bowl, missed the 700 barrier by a single pin. He opened with 190, folowed 279 and closed with 230 for his 699.

IN THE ladies classic at Bel-Aire, Darlene Morrow had an unusual 616 to set the pace. After games of 214 and 221, she dipped to 181. There were 16 200 series in the ladies loop.

DAVE KAUPPI had an unusual experience in the business and industrial league at Plaza Lanes. After opening with 237 and following with 278 with a 700 series in sight, he slipped to 138 and settled for 653 where he was tied with Mike Cieliczka. Dennis Kolaakowski showed the way with 673.

AT WESTLAND BOWL, Jack Teichman paced the Cherry Hill teachers with a 666. Meanwhile, Randy Paige was high in the Twin Parish loop with 675 and Jack Thompson had a 269 in 564.

IN OTHER GOOD PERFOR-MANCES, Philip Bode fired a 613 in the strike and spare league at Super Bowl and this came with a 257 mid-

Chief forwards get All-Western 6 nod

As expected, first-place Plymouth Canton landed two players on the All-Western Six League girls' basketball

Senior forward Jean Timlin and junior supersub Pearly Cunningham of Canton were named to the first team.

The Chiefs, who went undefeated (10-0) in league play, were also represented on the second team by junior forward Reggie Ruggiero.

Others named to the first team included Carrie Scarr, junior, Livonia Churchill; Jacque Nixon, junior, Northville; Tracy Grubb, senior, Walled Lake Western, and Judy Coxen, senior, Waterford Mott

Others named to the second team in-Sue Ferguson, sophomore, Farmington Harrison; Julie Steadman, senior, Churchill; Linda House, junior, Northville; Bridget Brennan, junior, Waterford Mott; and Kris Mellema, senior, Western. Canton, which has won 43 straight league games over four years, is represented by three players on honorable mention - Colleen Crissey, junior; Susie Pierce, junior, and Joni Sommerville, senior.

Cori Winkel and Sue Solomon, a pair of juniors from Harrison, also made honorable mention as did Churchill sophomore Janine Cerroni.

Suburban 8 records tumble

By BRAD EMONS

It was another record-setting Suburban Eight League girls' swim meet. Livonia Bentley, coached by Keith

Wright, claimed its second straight crown Friday night at the Plymouth Salem pool. The victorious Bulldogs totaled 268 team points to Dearborn's 242. The two squads shared the title last year. Six league marks were shattered. Freshman standout Jenny Fedor showed the way with first-place finishes in the 200-yard individual medley (2:14.16) and 100-yard backstroke

(1:04.47). Both times established new league marks. Dearborn sophomore sensation Patty Sabo, cranked out records in the 100and 200-yard freestyle events with times of 54.49 and 1:54.26. Bentley's quartet of Fedor, Ann MacIntyre, Alice Schlaepfer and Laura Pomerov clipped six seconds off the old mark in the 400-yard freestyle relay with a clocking of 3:50.34.

"We were eight points down after the preliminaries," said Bentley coach Keith Wright, "and it was kind of tight.

"Our winning the first relay was especially important. That was pivotal swimming and kind of set the tone for us emotion-

Bentley's foursome of Westhaus, Dee Powell, Nancy Malesky and Julie Baird came through in the opening event, the 200-yard medley relay, to edge Dear-

SALEM COACH Chuck Olson was pleased with his team's fourth-place finish (155). Dearborn Edsel Ford (173), which routed the Rocks in a dual meet earlier this season, found itself in a struggle for third.

"There aren't many leagues in the state better than this one," said Olson. "I'm pretty pleased overall. They (Edsel Ford) blew us away, and we came back tonight pretty good."

In one of the most exciting races of the night, Edsel's Penny Currie nipped Salem's Terri Eudy at the end in the 100-yard freestyle. Both girls snapped the old mark, only to have Sabo break it on the opening leg (54.49) of the 400yard freestyle relay.

"I'm not surprised all these records were broken," said the Salem coach.

Like too many parts on a car, the brakes are often neglected because they are so reliable and durable

After a car has been slowed and stopped many thousands of times, the brake linings or disc pads will wear out, but this happens so gradually that the driver may not be sensitive to the changes that

Therefore, brakes should be inspected at least once a year, and the fluid level in the master cylinder should be checked at least every 5,000 miles, says the Automotive Information Council.

If a lining is allowed to wear through, the metal rivets or a portion of the brake shoe may scrape or score the brake drum. This will result in the need for reconditioning or replacement.

More than any other factor, your driving habits affect the life of your car's brakes, so unless you have to make a sudden stop as a safety precaution, don't slam on the brakes. Also, try to anticipate stops, not only to save the wear on the brakes but on the tires as well.

Don't "ride" the brakes when driving. That practice also causes premature wear. It does nothing for fuel mileage, either.

Because brake wear is so gradual, the following items may tip you off to the need for brake repair or inspection:

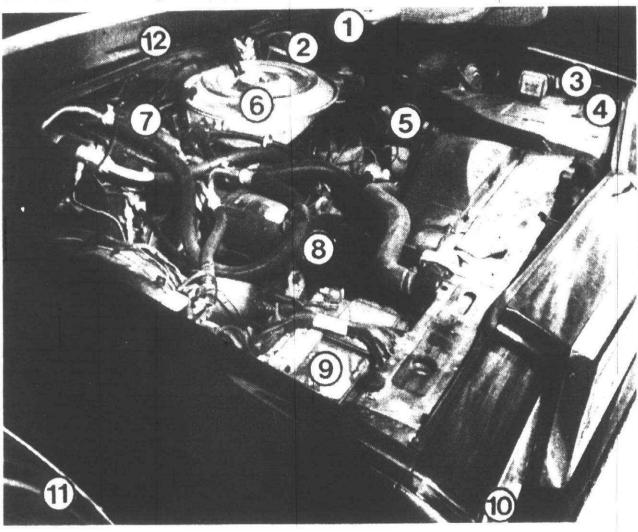

• Brakes pull car to one side - This indicates worn linings, fluid on the linings or worn suspension

Brakes chatter — A drum is out-of-round, a lining is loose or a disc is warped. Metallic grinding when stopping — Brake shoes or pads worn completely through.

• Spongy brake pedal - The brake system is low on fluid or there is air in the hydralic lines.

 Pedal goes almost to the floor — The brake system needs more brake fluid.

Winter checkpoints

A good winter check list includes these 12 items: 1. Motor oil dipstick — check level. 2. Master cylinder — check brake fluid level. 3. Windshield washer reservoir — keep it full. 4. Radiator - check coolant level and antifreeze strength. 5. Power steering fluid dipstick - check level. 6. Air filter - replace if dirty. 7. Automatic transmission fluid dip-stick — check level with motor running. 8. Belts — test tension and replace if frayed or cracked. 9. Battery - clean terminals and check fluid level. 10. Lights, turn signals — be sure they work. 11. Tires — check pressure and wear. 12. Windshield wipers — replace if tradition in Plymouth iwanis fruitcake sale,

By TERI BANAS

It takes a lot of friends to sell a lot of fruitcakes — and Clarence Moore, 85, has had the fortune to charm enough friends over the years to remain the Plymouth Kiwanis Club's top salesman in its annual Christmas Drive.

Beginning Nov. 1 of each year, the evening Kiwanis group of the Plymouth community kicks off its two-month drive to sell enough cakes to keep its club humming throughout the year.

Moore, a 43-year member of that club, has sold an estimated 20,750 since the group began promoting its cakes 21 years

CLARENCE MOORE

A retired sheep farmer in Plymouth, who was one of the main founders of a local metal stamping company (1932-72), Moore can boost that he's sold as many as cakes in one season alone.

"First of all you have to have a good product," says Moore. "Then you have to have a certain personality, and then you have to make contacts."

The part about making "contacts," apparently comes easy for the less-thanbashful sheep farmer.

Just recently Moore was entering a store in Plymouth, carrying a fruitcake in each hand, when he tapped an unsuspecting potential customer. She bought both.

ne people say - 'I can't ask some-buy a fruitcake. I say: why can't you?

"Like this lady. If I hadn't spoken up, she wouldn't have asked for them."
Proceeds from the Kiwanis fruitcake sale are used year-round for special proj-

The brick sidewalk surrounding Kellogg Park was paid for with Kiwanis contributions as was the sprinkler system and shrubbery around Central Middle School. Those proceeds were also used to send boys and girls from the community to Boy's State in Lansing. The club has been able to purchase a truck at $7,000 for the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps as well as one for the Salvation Army.

The cakes, which sold for $$3.25 20 years ago, sell for $5.25 today. And if you ask Moore, he'll tell you that's a bargain. s. The service organization's work can witnessed around the community.

The fruitcakes, baked in Athens, Ga., are sold only to service clubs at wholesale "I've even had people, two-three months after

The City of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department will sponsor its annual Christmas Arts and Crafts Show this coming weekend.

This year's show will be the largest ever with more than 80 exhibitors, explains Chuck Skene, recreation director. Admission is free to the show which is held in the Plymouth Community Cultural Center at 525 Farmer near the 2&O Railroad tracks.

Shoppers can expect to see the wood originals of Louis Kish of Southfield who will bring his famous chess tables as well as candle holders and plant stands.

Will Shomin is expected to bring his woodworks from Petoskey as well as a wide array of antique replica cabinets, breadboxes, and plant holders.

Robert Staron of Canton will show his wood clocks while Jennie Frew of Ann Street in Plymouth will display many hand-made crochet items like doll clowns, Christmas ornaments, and hot pads.

William and Elaine Doughty of Plymouth Township will have hand-made wooden toys as well as knitted items.

Linda Zick, who also lives in Plymouth Township, will have music boxes and miniatures for sale during the three sons showing stained glass works of art.

The Plymouth Christmas Arts and Crafts Show will be held from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Nov. 28, 29 and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. day show. Bonnie Andrews of Plymouth will be one of several per-

For all those frustrated individuals who have dreamed of singing "The Messiah" in a large chorus backed up by a full symphony orchestra Dec. 7, will be their day.

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's Christmas concert at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School will include the Christmas portion of Handel's Messiah. And — the audience will be invited to join in singing the chorus.

A Messiah sing-along has been contemplated for many years as part of the December concert. Orchestra conductor, Johan van der Merwe, has programmed the event for this year's confor students kindergarten through 12th grade; $4 for adults; and $2 for senior citizens and full-time college students. Plymouth Gift Guide

Monday, November 24, 1980

Christmas is celebrated in most of the nations of the world — even in China where Oriental Christians call it Sheng Dan Jieh (Holy Birth Festival).

Here's a glimpse of how the holiday is observed in some other countries:

England: The family searches the forest for a yule log for the fireplace. Children throw their gift list, addressed to Father Christmas, into the flames. If it's carried up the chimney by the draft, they know their requests will be fulfilled.

Ireland: A lighted candle is placed in the window and the door is left open so the Holy Family may stop to rest on their journey to Bethlehem.

Germany: In many homes, a young girl dresses as an angel in a white robe with golden wings and a crown. She carries a smell Christmas tree.

Holland: Children here beleive that St. Nicholas rides a white horse to deliver presents on his Feast Day, celebrated on Nicholas Sweden: Christmas begins on Dec. 12, she feast day of St. Lucia. She is so admired that, to honor her, Swedish families fress the eldest daughter in a white dress with a red sash. Wearing a crown of canes, she sings carols.

Italy: Befana is the bearer of Christmas gifts. According to legend, she was cleaning the floors when the Three Kings passed on their way to see the Christ Child. They would not wait for her to finish. So today, children believe that she rides on a broomstick trying to find and worship the Holy Infant.

Mexico: Youngsters here love the pinata, a jug or figure filled with candy, nuts and toys. Children are blindfolded and given a stick to try and break the pinata which dangles from the ceiling.

Spain: Spanish children fill their shoes with carrots and hay. They leave them outside on Epiphany Eve to refresh the samels of the Three Kings on their jour-

Poland: A meal is prepared with a place left for the Christ Child. After the meal, the Star Man (usually the village priest disguised or a well-informed neighbor) quizzes the children on their catechism. Correct answers win a gift.

China: There are many religions practiced here, including Buddhism, Taoism, Confucianism and Christianity. In the Christian tradition, children decorate a tree with lantern lights. Children hang up stockings and hope that Sheng Dan Lao Ren (Christmas Old Man) will fill them with toys, candy and fruit.

Plymouth Mayor Mary Childs will welcome Santa to Plymouth and present him with a key to the hearts of the children of the community.

After presentation of the key, Santa and Mayor Childs will then light the official Christmas tree in the park.

And, of course, for those who want to be sure of getting their orders correct, Santa has a big mailbox in his home for those speical letters to be placed into.

The ceremony is sponsored by the Caroling will begin at about 6:15 p.m. The caroling will be led by Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Band students in the band shell with help from Girl Scout Troop 641.

The carriage bring Santa to Plymouth has been arranged by Banbury Cross of Plymouth, a company started by John Hopkins of Plymouth, a former French teacher at Plymouth Salem High.

After the ceremony is completed Santa will become a resident of Plymouth in his After the ceremony in the park every-one will be invited to visit the local busi-nesses for Christmas cordials.

The ceremony is sponsored by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce with cooperation of the city of Plymouth. Santa's stay is sponsored by the chamber and its cetail committee.

The arrival of Santa also marks the inistation of holiday hours in downtown Plymouth. From Nov. 28 through Dec. 23 shops in the central business district will be open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturdays and from noon to 5 p.m. on Sun-

shopper's catalogs Christmas

I realize this may seem a bit out of character coming from a person who refuses to stand in a line comprised of more than two people and has to sedate herself to go to the grocery store. But what I love about Christmas shopping is the fact that it is I love Christmas shopping! I realize this may seem so easy.

Before you begin to have serious doubts about my sanity, let me explain. As my husband so succinctly puts it, "They know about you!"

derful people who send me dozens of catalogs every fall. Spiegel and Aldens love me. Who else do you know that has a combined "credit limit" large enough for a down payment on a new house. If only it were cash they were offering instead of "buying power," our financial woes would be over. The "they" he is referring to are all of those won-

In fact, the only one who has complained is my husband. And that's only when he happens to get his hands on the multitude of paperwork enclosed with one of the many packages that arrives at our house between Halloween and Christmas.

Every year, starting in early October, I spend many blissful hours thumbing through the catalogs, making lists, and filling out order forms. It's the only way to shop!

There are a few problems, I admit. Co-ordinating

I never tell him how much I have spent on a particular item. I think it's better for our marriage that I don't. But occassionally the Parcel Post man slips up and delivers a package when my husband is at home. The first thing my nosey spouse goes for is the invoice. The cost of the items alone is enough to put him in a snit, but when he gets to the "Delivery & Handling Charges" his face takes on a purple hue and his teeth begin to clench. It's difficult to justify to a man enraged why we must spend $1.62 to have a $5 item delivered. colors is one of them. Very seldom do you find a F shirt, sweater, or pair of slacks to be the same color a when it arrives as it had looked in the catalog.

Sometimes a brilliant red turns out to be a ghast-a I y orange, or a pictured vibrant blue is in reality a murky turquoise. I can live with that — I don't have to wear the stuff. The relatives on our gift list do, W and for all they know, I purposely decided to give we them ghastly and/or murky colors. No one's comfetence of the stuff.

It's at times like this when I fear that he's going to cut off my catalogs. And then where would I be? Without them I'd be forced to shop in the cold cruel world of actual stores. Shopping is one of my least favorite things in the world — it falls somewhere between going to the dentist and taking the dog to the vet.

Not only that, I look forward so each year to my frequent visits from the Parcel Post man. How often does a housewife get to strike up a friendship with a charming and handsome man who comes bearing gifts two or three times a week. Things like that can really perk up your day!

So take it from one who knows. If you're having trouble mustering up the courage and enthusiasm required to confront those holiday crowds, try a few hours at home with the catalogs. It's loads of fun! Just don't tell your husband.

For eight years, ever-increasing crowds of people have discovered the Old Village Christmas Walk as a sure cure for pre-holiday blahs. The old complaint of "I haven't the slightest idea what to give mother or Uncle Dan," and "I'm just not in the Christmas mood," disappear on the Sunday afternoon of the walk.

Persons who have made up their minds to give practical gifts this year will find a wide assortment of ideas. Those seeking the unusual present will have a field day. And their tour of the attractive Old Village shops will be accompanied by the sounds of sleighbells and Christmas carolers. Santa Claus will be there, and children can have their pictures taken with him when they give him their Christmas gift list.

Most of the merchants will have special treats to offer the walkers.
