

Schools postpone decision on Lowell lease

A decision will not be made until at least January on whether to lease Lowell Junior High from Livonia Public Schools.

Monday night the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education voted to postpone authorizing its administration to sign a lease with Livonia Public Schools. Key issue holding up the lease was the question of who would provide custodial service to Lowell: Plymouth or Livonia.

The item will come back on the board's agenda at its Jan. 12 meeting.

The administration had asked the board to approve a five-year lease with Livonia Public Schools to use Lowell as a middle school (grades 7-9) beginning in the fall, 1981.

The proposal was to rent the building, almost the same size as Pioneer Middle School, for $8,000 a month or $96,000 a year.

Some trustees balked at the idea that Livonia would be providing its own employees as custodians for the building.

Other board members were confused as to what Plymouth-Canton's obligation would be for normal maintenance of Lowell and what Livonia would take care of in terms of major capital repairs.

The administration indicated it would have the information desired by the Jan. 12 meeting, and urged action be taken as soon as possible so Livonia would not be left hanging and so Plymouth-Canton's intentions would be clear.

EARLIER IN THE meeting, Charles "Trav" Griffin, leader of the custodian/maintenance employees union for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, objected that the proposed lease violated the contract with his union.

Griffin argued the proposal for Livonia school custodians to work at the school once it was leased to Plymouth-Canton violated a clause restricting the administration's ability to subcontract out work.

Griffin said if Lowell is used for Plymouth-Canton students then it should be cleaned and maintained by employees in his union.

Griffin told the board that the Livonia custodial union contract had a clause which required that any building leased by the district be cleaned by Livonia employees. He argued that Lowell violated his union's contract and was not valid under law.

"Given present economic conditions the lease agreement could result in a reduction in the size of our work group."

Industry push Township makes offers on land in Dye Brothers

Township officials will extend purchase offers this week on some 80 lots in Dye Brothers subdivision.

Steps to begin acquiring the property are part of a three-year-old plan to convert the sparsely populated subdivision south of Michigan and east of Sheldon into an industrial park.

The township already has received approximately $300,000 in federal community block grants to buy the 40-acre residential area. Officials hope to build the township's tax base by converting the old subdivision to industrial use.

Unimproved lots on Washburn are targeted for the program's first acquisition phase, according to grant coordinator Terry Carroll. Officials plan to extend purchase offers for four homes on the street sometime next year.

Carroll said the remainder of the 40-acre subdivision will be purchased in phases over the next three or four years. The subdivision contains 200 lots of approximately 40-by-60 feet in all.

CARROLL SAID the township must take steps to buy some of the Dye Brothers properties by Dec. 31 or risk the loss of $117,000 in federal community block grant funds.

Unimproved lots on Washburn were appraised at $124,000 in October. But Carroll hopes to whittle the purchase price for those lots to $113,000.

He said eight of the lots now are owned by the state of Michigan because of the land owners' failure to pay property taxes. According to Carroll, a state law allows municipalities to buy such parcels for $1 each.

In October, the township spent $4,600 for an appraisal of the properties and a review of the appraiser's findings. Carroll said that expenditure will be coupled with the purchase of Washburn lots to meet the federal government's spending deadline.

He expects to return to the Township Board in January to report the response of land owners to the township's purchase offers.

Most of the land in Dye Brothers subdivision is vacant. Only 18 existing homes are occupied.

The federal Uniform Acquisition and Relocation Act of 1970 will require the township to pay moving costs for uprooted families and propose three housing choices comparable to their residence in Dye Brothers.

ALTHOUGH THE township plans to convert the subdivision into an industrial area, Carroll said specific plans have not been formulated to accomplish the change.

Officials have talked of installing water and sewer lines in the subdivision, which now is mainly served by wells and septic tanks. Carroll said the cost of those improvements was estimated at $1.5 million.

Canton man is shot

A 22-year-old Canton man underwent stomach surgery last Sunday after apparently being shot by a female impersonator on Detroit's near east side.

John Genrich, who was shot in the 300 block of Rosedale about 8 a.m. on Sunday, was listed in fair condition at Henry Ford Hospital on Monday afternoon.

Lt. Fred Williams of the Detroit Police Department said a witness described Genrich's assailant as a man wearing a wig, a woman's coat and high heels. The witness said the man fled on foot with a small handgun after the shooting.

According to police, the assailant was sitting in Genrich's car at the time of the shooting.

Detroit police still are investigating the incident.

Be the perfect host - serve 'pretender' drinks

Everyone knows that New Year's Eve is a time to drink and be merry. Right? Well, not quite. Those concerned with drunk driving traffic fatalities would like you to get a different picture of the holiday celebrations.

Cutting down on alcohol consumption with the use of non-alcoholic beverages is a big promotional push by the Automobile Club of Michigan this season.

And to help the "perfect" host remain a conscientious host, the auto club is offering several recipes for non-alcoholic drinks called "The Great Pretenders."

They look like actual mixed drinks, but with a different twist. A "pretender" called the Perky Mary, for instance, has the texture and color of tomato juice with vodka, but it is without the alcohol. The "pretender" is even served with a celery stalk for added color.

Other zero-proof drinks for holiday festivities include the pina (a take-off from the pina colada), the Demure Daiquiri and Spunky Eggnog.

Brochures containing recipes for these non-alcoholic drinks and others are available at all branch offices of AAA. The Plymouth branch, also serving Canton residents, is at 44511 Ann Arbor Road near Sheldon.

"Some recipes are as simple as spicing up non-alcoholic drink mixes or substituting extract flavors for liquor," said Heinz Topol, the auto club's Plymouth branch manager. "Garnished with fresh fruit and served in fancy cocktail glasses, they can be just as festive but less risky for motorists than traditional mixed drinks."

ACCORDING TO the auto club's estimates, some 80 percent of Michigan motorists this season will drink alcohol over the Christmas-New Year's holidays.

"Our studies have shown that caution by both the party host and the driver does help reduce traffic deaths," added Topol. "Since this program began in 1965, the death toll over the Christmas-New Year's holidays has been cut from a daily average of 10 in 1965 to less than six last year."

While Topol said it's not the intent of the auto club to "fool" people into believing what they're sipping is an alcoholic drink, some alternatives to the sauce should be provided.

"They taste pretty good," he said. "The Perky Mary has the spicy taste of a Bloody Mary and the Demure Daiquiri has the sour taste of a Daiquiri."

To insure that one's guests do not leave a party in a dangerous drunken state, the club also advises hosts to keep in mind the "ABC's" of partygiving.

Recipes for non-alcoholic drinks are on Page 4A.

Included in this list is the importance of serving food during the party. Starchy foods such as beans and mashed potatoes are best for retarding the flow of alcohol into one's blood.

Contrary to popular belief, coffee and cold showers do not sober a drunk. It takes one hour for the body to burn off each ounce of alcohol consumed.

Party games also are useful for detecting whether one's driving state is impaired by alcohol. Some of the suggested party games include: Three Coins on the Carpet, Stagger Line, Stand Tall and Lock Around the Clock.

Hall stays open for tax bills

Property owners who wish to deduct property taxes from the 1980 income-tax statement must pay the taxes on their homes, businesses and land by Dec. 31.

Employees of the Canton Township tax department will accept the property-tax payments from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Dec. 31 in Township Hall. All other township departments will be closed that day.

By law, property taxes are not due until Feb. 14. Payments made after Dec. 31, however, cannot be deducted from 1980 income-tax statements.

Township Hall will be closed for all business on Dec. 24, Dec. 25 and Jan. 1.

Accused bomber wins jail release

By TERI BANAS

After a week in the Wayne County Jail following her arrest on a bombing charge, Eileen Anita Roths of Canton will spend Christmas at home with her family.

Mrs. Roths, 50, a Detroit school teacher, is accused of setting off an explosive in the vestibule of the Plymouth Navy Recruiting Station Dec. 15. She was moved from the Plymouth jail to the county jail Dec. 16 after she was apprehended by Canton police near her home in Holiday Park Subdivision.

At a preliminary exam before Judge James Garber of the 35th District Court Monday afternoon, her $100,000 cash bond was reduced to a personal bond, and she was released on her own recognizance to the custody of her daughter, Joanne, 22, and Joanne's husband, Michael Davis, of Ann Arbor, a well-known rock musician in the area.

Mrs. Roths is expected back in court as charged, this time at an arraignment in the Wayne County Circuit Court on Jan. 23. Her attorney is Mark J. Kriger of Detroit.

Kruger was successful in petitioning the court for her release Monday afternoon after saying "The Wayne County Jail is no place for her."

"She's charged with a criminal offense, but it's our position that she doesn't pose a danger to society," he said.

KRIGER ADDED he hopes to "ultimately have the charge dismissed in this case."

Mrs. Roths had been a patient at the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital for about a month before the incident in downtown Plymouth took place, said her son, Randy Roths, 18. When the incident occurred about 9 a.m. that Monday, she was expected back at the hospital following a weekend pass home.

"It's our feeling that this can be resolved without Mrs. Roths having a criminal record of any kind," Kriger added.

"Everyone I have talked to has only nice things to say about her. She's a humanitarian who has dedicated her whole life to teaching kids in the inner city."

The court also ordered that Roths continue counseling in the interim period before her circuit court hearing. Kriger suggested she see Dr. Beverly Howzer, who worked with Roths on an out-patient basis while Howzer was employed at an area suburban clinic.

Leaving the courtroom Monday afternoon, Mrs. Roths, flanked by her daughter and son-in-law, said she was happy to be going home for the holidays. Dressed in slacks and a sweater, she was otherwise silent, and managed only a slight smile.

"We're just happy that it's over," said Davis, apparently referring to Mrs. Roths' release. "The Wayne County Jail is no place for someone to spend a week."

Commissioners mull over raises

By TOM LONERGAN

Will Wayne County commissioners refuse a $1,500 pay raise effective in 1982?

The county board left that a possibility last week by scheduling a special meeting Dec. 29 to consider the issue.

The County Officers Compensation Commission has recommended the $1,500 base salary increase in 1982 for the 27-member Board of Commissioners and nine countywide elected administrators. The recommendation will stand unless a two-thirds majority (18 votes) of the county board overturns it prior to Jan. 1.

REGARDLESS OF what the commissioners do with the 1982 raise, they and the elected administrators will continue to collect quarterly cost-of-living allowances next year. Their base salaries were last increased in 1977.

Commissioners opposed to the $1,500 raise fell one vote short of putting the issue on last Thursday's board agenda.

After the matter was referred to a committee, Commissioner Arthur Carter, D-Detroit, circulated a petition signed by 12 commissioners calling for a special board meeting Dec. 29 for a vote on the raises.

Among the signers were western Wayne Commissioners Kay L. Beard, D-Inkster/Westland, R. William Joyner, D-Plymouth, and Thomas Presnell, D-Garden City/Westland.

Whether 18 opponents can be recruited to attend the special meeting, in the midst of many commissioners' holiday vacations, is very much in question.

Ervin A. Steiner Jr., R-Grosse Pointe, who supports the elected administrators' raises, said opponents were "showboating for the TV and newspapers."

"If I showboat... and then take it, there's no rule that I couldn't give it back," Steiner said.

Carter replied: "If this passes, I'm going to give my raise back."

MINIMUM SALARIES for county elected officials now range from $16,190 for the part-time commissioners to $43,990 for Prosecutor William L. Cahalan. However, the additional $6,274 each elected official will collect in COLA this year, amounts to raises ranging from 14 percent for Cahalan to 38 percent for 25 of the commissioners.

The county board chairman and vice chairman have higher base salaries of $22,690 and $17,190 respectively. This year COLA added 27.6 percent to Chairman Samuel Turner's, D-Detroit, base salary and 36 percent to vice chairman Clemens E. Bykowski's, D-Detroit.

The $31,450 base salaries of county auditors Richard Kelly, Leonard Proctor and Ted Mrozowski; Drain Commissioner Charles Youngblood; Treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz and Register of Deeds Forest Youngblood were increased by 20 percent through the $6,274 in COLA.

That same COLA meant a 17 percent increase this year to the $35,630 base salaries paid Clerk James Killeen and Sheriff William Lucas.

IN OTHER ACTION, the commissioners Thursday approved payment of $212,500 to settle three negligence lawsuits and one malpractice suit brought by former patients of Wayne County General Hospital.

The board also seated recently elected county commissioner Arthur B. Blackwell III, D-Highland Park, to fill out the remainder of former commissioner Martha Scott's term. Commissioners earlier this month appointed Scott to the county Civil Service Commission.

Blackwell, 27, is the son of Highland Park Mayor Robert Blackwell. The county board seat is the younger Blackwell's first public office. He said he has no occupation other than county commissioner.

'Someone has to be here to help'

By MAURIE WALKER

"People don't pick a time to be sick. Someone has to be here to help them."

Marcia Wallace, a laboratory medical technician at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital, summed up the feeling of the hospital staff, many of whom have to work the holidays.

"It's part of the job," she said. "We know when we go into this field we will probably have to work either Christmas day or New Year's, maybe both."

Ms. Wallace, who has been a laboratory technician three years and at Garden City Hospital three months, said in her case, she usually has to work one of the holidays or the other.

Even though her husband is a teacher and has the usual winter vacation, she said she doesn't mind working a holiday.

"We have no children. Our family lives in Upper Michigan so we visit them on weekends. I've adjusted to working holidays."

REGISTERED Nurse Judy Brist of Westland said the holiday schedule at the hospital rotates from year to year.

Mrs. Brist, who has worked at the hospital six years and was a nurses aide prior to that, would like to be with her two sons on Christmas Day.

"But we know we will have to work either Christmas or New Year's day. We get our schedule in advance so we can make arrangements. It works out even for everyone."

Surgical patients who are scheduled to leave the hospital within a day or so, are released early so they can be home for the holiday, she added.

"For those who can't leave, we have special dinners and decorations. This is the only time children are allowed to visit patients, too."

New-born babies scheduled to be released with their mothers are sent home in Christmas bunting.

For Janie Miller, a housekeeper at the hospital, working holidays is nothing new.

"I've been here 12 years and always work one ployee, said she will be working both Christmas and New Year's.

"The only time I didn't work a holiday in my nine years here, was last year when I was sick myself," she said.

"I live with my daughter so really we have Christmas every day."

She said she doesn't mind working the holidays. "It's a pleasure to be able to serve people less fortunate than me on a holiday."

Mitch Nimmoor, administrative assistant in charge of personnel at the hospital, said that 40 percent of the staff is off for the holidays.

"This is the same as on weekends. Of course, there are always some others who are on call in the event of an emergency," he said.

No sign-off for airwaves

The air waves don't go silent during the holidays. Radio Station WCAR in Garden City will keep its daily broadcasting schedule of 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. on both holidays.

The office staff of some eight persons will have Christmas Day and New Year's day off, but will be back on the job on the next day.

For the engineering staff and some of the announcers, the holidays simply means business as usual.

Although some announcers tape in advance in order to get the days off, most, including WCAR personality Bob Allison, report for work.

"I guess our job is like those in the newspaper business," the spokesperson said. "We don't get the long holidays like some do."

holiday or the other," she said. "This is my year to work Christmas."

She said the staff has a choice of which holiday they want to work.

"This is very nice. I prefer to have New Year's off. My two boys are grown up and gone so it doesn't bother me to work Christmas."

Christmas is just another day on the job

A cop's Dec. 25 out on the road

By MIKE SCANLON

There are any number of reasons why George Harper doesn't really mind having to work on Christmas Day, but let's try these on for size first.

The Harper family doesn't celebrate Christmas on Christmas Day, and Harper isn't the only one in the family who has to work.

"I could've had this one off if I insisted on it, but we celebrate Christmas on Christmas Eve," said Harper.

Asked how his wife, Marlene, an office manager at an answering service, feels about his Christmas labors, Harper replied "She's working too."

So is Harper's son, James, a police cadet, who has it even worse—the midnight shift.

"Somebody's got to do it," said Harper. "I knew when I took the job I was going to have to work my share."

Like most workplaces, the louisiest jobs in the Livonia Police Department often go to the least-senior employees. Harper, with 14 years on the department following seven years as a Detroit police officer, doesn't fit the pattern, but he doesn't mind.

"I haven't worked a Christmas in three or four years," said Harper. "But you've got to have some seniority out on the road. It can't be all rookies."

Harper said Christmas Day is usually quiet from a police standpoint, but added that whatever events do occur are magnified by the holiday.

"Anything is either made better or worse because it's Christmas," he said. "You get there and Mom's having a baby, that's great—it's Christmas. Grandpa's having a heart attack, that's terrible—it's Christmas."

Death won't take a holiday

It's not something we like to think about, especially during the holiday season.

We hear of many persons who have to work, facilities that are manned around the clock the year around.

One of these is the funeral home.

Like a hospital, the staff of a funeral home has to be ready at all times.

The John Santieu and Son Funeral Home in Garden City is open Christmas and New Year's Days but with a reduced staff, said Tom Gross.

"We have persons on two different shifts during the holiday. There is a person on duty from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. and another from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m.," Gross said.

It's not just a staff on duty either.

John Santieu and his wife stay at home over the holiday in case they are needed, according to Gross.

Custodian cares—every day of year

It's easy to assume that a custodian might like to get away from the shop for the holidays.

Not so for Donald McDonald, the 53-year-old live-in janitor for Tonquish Creek Manor in Plymouth, a senior citizens center.

Even getting called out at 2 a.m. on New Year's Eve doesn't faze McDonald.

"I worked in maintenance for Allied Supermarkets for 28 years, and all you were was a number on the wall. They gave you your time card and a pay check and that was it."

"But here, every contribution, regardless of how small it is, is so appreciated."

McDONALD and his wife, Rita, moved to Plymouth from Livonia in 1978. As a live-in janitorial crew, he says they still have time to sneak away for family get-togethers on Christmas and New Year's Day. But they also find time to spend with the 60 residents of Tonquish Creek.

"The first Christmas Eve I spent here, I got another call from a lady whose smoke alarm was sounding. When I got up there, she was biting her fingernails. It had a dying battery and was on alert."

He recalls another Christmas at the center when a female resident reached him in his apartment. She had fallen and was alone.

"My wife and I went up to help her get back into her chair. She wasn't hurt, just a little upset and embarrassed."

"I don't want to give the impression that I'm denied my family dinner on a holiday because of my work here. We still get out to my children's houses during the day. But I manage to be in and out here on Christmas Day."

"Ever since I took the job here, my wife and I have enjoyed it. I like being here when someone needs assistance."

This pastor cherishes his job on Christmas

By JIM HOLLY

Most people who have to work on Christmas Eve would really rather not.

But the Rev. Archie H. Donigan cherishes every moment of his big evening's work, which always last until the wee hours of Christmas morning.

The senior minister of Aldersgate United Methodist Church in Redford Township is for the first time in his ministry leading three Christmas Eve services, scheduled at 7, 9 and 11 p.m. His family will attend the late service.

"They have always gone to the 11 o'clock service," said the clergyman, who came to Aldersgate last June after several other church appointments. "It's one of the highlights of the year for them. They have always enjoyed it."

Although it's the first time around for three services Christmas Eve, he doesn't expect to be too fatigued.

"The services will last about an hour, which will leave an hour for rest and refreshments," he said. "And Christmas Eve is a very joyous occasion. I won't be tired."

"I'll be up early on Christmas day to open packages with my family. I've always been an early riser."

ALL THE SERVICES will have traditional scripture, a candlelighting service and meditation, he continued. There will be three different choirs present during the evening.

The Epworth Choir, composed of children, will sing at the 7 p.m. service, while the adult Chancel Choir will sing at 9 p.m. The Wesley Choir, featuring junior and senior high students, will voice the hymns and carols during the late service.

"The music is just outstanding," said Rev. Donigan. "The general theme of the services was planned in October. This gave the choirs time to rehearse and gave me time to write and prepare the meditation."

REV. ARCHIE DONIGAN

The shows go on...and on

By C.J. RISAK

Bright lights and applause. Crowds of fans and the attention they give their heroes. The chance to make a lot of people happy, to entertain them for an evening, to help them forget their problems for a short while.

That's the thrill of show business. The glamour and recognition that are part of being a movie star.

Of course, not all parts of the entertainment business are that exciting.

Oh, sure, there's still the bright lights and applause, the fans and the attention. There's even the recognition.

The bright lights stream down from the marquis, which displays the titles of tonight's show, or from a flashlight that illuminates a blackened studio.

The crowds spill forward, their attention riveted on you. After all, you're the one taking tickets or serving popcorn.

There's applause and satisfied fans — if the movie was good.

For the people who work bringing the public the movies they've been waiting to see — ushers, candy-counter workers, cashiers, theater managers — there is little glamour.

What they do get is a lot of work when most people are off, and little to do when most people are working.

"We have to work the reverse of society," said Michael Butler, a manager at the Quo Vadis Theater in Westland. "When other people are working, we're off."

THAT INCLUDES the holidays. While most people take their last vacation days of the year to spend time with their families and relax, movie people are busy with four or five shows a day.

"Ordinarily, we're pretty busy because so many people are off work," Butler said. "It gives them a chance to see a movie when they normally can't."

"Traditionally, from Christmas to New Year's is by far the busiest week of the year."

Christmas is also one of the two biggest release times of the year for movie producers (June is the other). The strategy is simple: Distributors know there will be lots of people vacationing at Christmas time, so they hold their best releases for then.

Consequently, the crowds are even bigger and the holiday season is the most profitable of the year for movie theaters.

The Quo Vadis, like most movie houses, will have matinees every day starting Christmas week and continuing through New Year's. New Year's Eve is "one of the three biggest days of the year," said Butler (along with Mother's Day and Valentine's Day).

On a busy day in the theater, the Quo Vadis staff will consist of one manager, two persons in each of the two theater bars, three cashiers, 10-to-12 ushers and six candy-counter workers.

In addition, the Quo Vadis has a restaurant in the building which employs 11 persons on a crowded evening.

BUTLER SAID most of the theater employees, outside of the management, are minors. They are told when they are hired what the holiday hours will be.

That includes working Christmas and New Year's days. The staff held a meeting last week to discuss the holiday scheduling.

"We try to work with them so that they can spend some time with their families," Butler said. "We'll work a lot of short shifts."

Butler expects big business in the next two weeks at the Quo Vadis ticket window. "Last year we were selling the movies out and they weren't as good as the ones we have this year," he said.

At this time last year, the theater was showing "Kramer vs. Kramer," "The Rose," "Going in Style" and "10." Although all four films turned out to be big box-office attractions, none generated the interest of the four Christmas films the theater will be showing this holiday season.

The Quo Vadis' current features are "Popeye," "The Formula," "Seems Like Old Times" and "Any Which Way You Can."

If all do as well as Butler predicts, the theater staff will spend a lot of its holiday time working.

How to make a holiday punch without the spike

Here are some recipes for the "Great Pretenders," compiled by the Automobile Club of Michigan for those hosts who want to serve an alternative to guests during the holiday season. All drinks are zero-proof, devoid of any alcohol. It's suggested that they be served in the standard cocktail glasses with garnishes to provide the visual appeal of an alcoholic drink.

PINA PIZZAZZ

2 tbsp. canned cream of coconut

1/2 cup fresh pineapple cubes
4 oz. unsweetened pineapple juice
1 tsp. lemon juice
6 1/2 oz. chilled sparkling mineral water

Whirl the first four ingredients to a puree in a blender. Divide between two tall, chilled glasses and top each with half a 6 1/2 oz. bottle of mineral water, and then stir. Garnish with a fresh pineapple stick or two.

DEMURE DAIQUIRI
4 tbsp. frozen limeade concentrate, thawed
1 cup crushed ice
1 drop mint extract
maraschino cherry

Blend limeade, ice and mint extract in blender for a few seconds on high speed. If vortex is formed, stop motor and move ingredients from side of glass with a rubber spatula. Blend again until fine "snow" is formed.

Serve in a chilled, cocktail glass with a short straw. Garnish with a cherry.

PERKY MARY

3 oz. tomato juice
Juice of 1/2 lemon pinch of salt
pinch of pepper
pinch of celery salt
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce cracked ice
sprig of mint or celery stick

Shake all ingredients well with cracked ice. Strain into a chilled, old-fashioned glass with ice cube. Garnish with mint or celery stick.

PLEASIN' PUNCH

1 qt. cold milk
3 pt. orange, lime or raspberry sherbet

1 qt. bottle lime-grapefruit carbonated beverage
Combine milk and two pints sherbet. Beat until smooth. Add chilled carbonated beverage and stir gently, until just blended. Scoop or spoon remaining sherbet on top. It produces 28 half-cup servings.

Accused bomber wins release

DAVIS is one of the original members of the MC-5, a Detroit area rock group, and now plays bass guitar for Destroy All Monsters, a local punk rock group.

Mrs. Roths was most recently employed at Nolan Junior High in Detroit as a science and math teacher until Oct. 31, when she took a leave for personal reasons, still unexplained. She has been employed as a schoolteacher for Garden City Schools as well, Kriger said.

The bombing at the local Navy Recruiting Station caused minor damage. One window was cracked and a few floor tiles in the vestibule were dislodged.

Plymouth police said the explosion was caused by a "hurriedly made home-made bomb." The two-quart glass jar contained a fuse, gun powder, muzzle loading pellets and .32 caliber bullets.

An eye-witness, Recruiter Patrick

Lambert, 21, claims Mrs. Roths entered the vestibule and said she had a "present for my son." As she lit the fuse, Lambert ran outside and later noted the license plate number on the Plymouth-Horizon she was driving.

Less than an hour later, Mrs. Roths was arrested by a Canton police officer near her home on Hillary Drive.

Action delayed in lease of Livonia junior high

Norman Kee, director of personnel for the district, said the lease agreement did not violate the contract with custodians. "Because we put students in the building does not mean it must be cleaned with people on our payroll. We are not displacing any of our own people, and, therefore, the subcontracting clause does not apply."

Kee said the issue had been reviewed the district's general labor counsel but trustee Tom Yack suggested the question should be reviewed by the district's labor attorneys as well.

Kee also said present plans are to hire a principal for Lowell by sometime March but that staff would be selected before that time.

Yack objected that a principal should be appointed first and then teachers hired. Kee, however, said the contract provisions on transfers were such that a principal wouldn't have that much leeway in choosing a staff.

TRUSTEE STEVE HARPER said he was concerned about the requirement that Livonia custodians be used at Lowell rather than Plymouth-Canton employees.

Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business, said that is Livonia's requirement for any building it leases, and that was made known to Plymouth-Canton at the very beginning of talks six to eight months ago.

"I think there are some unresolved labor issues not adequately discussed with our labor attorneys and I'd like those issues discussed now rather than waiting for them to go to arbitration," said Harper.

On maintenance, Hoedel explained that Livonia would pay for the expense of major items like replacing a boiler or fixing a leaky roof.

Trustee Glenn Schroeder, however, felt the lease agreement didn't clearly specify what kinds of items Plymouth-Canton would be responsible for and what Livonia would maintain.

Earlier Hoedel estimated utility expense at Lowell next year would be about $70,000 and that Livonia's bill to Plymouth-Canton for custodial expense would be about $115,000.

He added that similar lease agreements have been worked out by Livonia with Northville School District, the Michigan State Police and with Wayne County.

Hoedel said the total cost to the school district for use of Lowell would be about $299,000 a year or $3 per square foot. The going rate for renting similar facilities, Hoedel added, is from $9 to $12 a square foot.

Livonia wants to protect its investment because it may want to use Lowell again as a school, Hoedel added, and so it wants to employ its own custodians to maintain the building.

CITY OF PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN

ORDINANCE NO. 80-13

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 5.120 OF CHAPTER 52, ZONING, OF TITLE V OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH

THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS:

Section 1. Section 5.120 of Chapter 52, Zoning, of the Code of the City of Plymouth is hereby amended to read as follows, and the present Item (6) is renumbered to Item (7) and the following is the new Item (6):

(6) Row houses which are composed of two or more attached one-family dwellings, each of which extends from the basement or foundation to the roof, may be permitted in multiple zoning districts at development standards which differ from these normally applicable, subject to the following requirements:

- The site shall be zoned for multiple-family usage. In addition, any such sites shall be reviewed in relation to existing and potential land use patterns. It is the intent of these provisions that the use serve as a proper transitional use and not represent an illogical intrusion of a higher density use in an otherwise lower density residential area.
- The site shall contain at least five thousand (5,000) square feet of land area and a minimum of at least two (2) dwelling units.
- When seeking approval of a developmental plan which differs from those contained in this Ordinance, the following standards shall be applicable:
 - Front yards shall be so arranged and required as to avoid improper vehicular and/or pedestrian conflicts and shall also provide continuity with setbacks of future land use developments on adjacent properties.
 - A setback of at least twenty (20) feet shall be provided between any living unit or patio area and any rear property line, unless existing or potential development patterns would permit a reduction.
 - A setback of at least ten (10) feet to any interior side lot line shall be provided. However, this setback requirement shall be increased by one (1) foot for each two (2) feet for buildings exceeding twenty-five (25) feet in height, unless otherwise modified when it is found no good purpose would be served by such a setback requirement. The maximum height of any such building shall be limited to forty (40) feet.
 - Setbacks between buildings on the site shall be so arranged as to provide adequate light and air to residents. Buildings shall also be arranged so as to permit proper servicing by emergency vehicles.
 - Each dwelling unit shall be provided with a private outdoor patio or balcony area containing at least three hundred (300) square feet of usable area. The patio area shall be suitably enclosed or located so as to provide suitable privacy. Any walled or enclosed area shall meet the setbacks required of the main structure.
 - Off-street parking shall be provided based on the following formula of two (2) spaces for each dwelling unit, plus one-quarter (1/4) space for each bedroom or other extra rooms which may be used as a bedroom. The fractional requirement may be modified when a designated administrative official finds that such space is available in a municipal lot within three hundred (300) feet and a permit is issued therefore. One enclosed garage space shall be provided for each dwelling unit.
 - Architectural elevations of the buildings shall be submitted together with the site plan for review and approval. Attached dwellings shall have a staggered setback to avoid a continuous facade on one straight line and shall also be coordinated to reflect building(s) on adjacent properties as well as with other buildings on the site.
 - Any such plans shall require a public hearing by the Planning Commission and shall conform with the requirements and procedures set forth in Section 5.223 for Planned Unit Developments.

Section 2. This ordinance shall become operative and effective on the 26th day of December, 1980.
Made, passed and adopted by the City Commission of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, this 1st day of December, A.D., 1980.

Shopping Survey

Do you shop in Canton for clothing, home furnishings and the hundreds of other items which you buy each week? If you don't, is it because of small signs, a skimpy selection of goods or some other factor?

The task force will make a recommendation to the Township Board on ways to improve the business climate.

mated at $750,000 in 1977. A financing method has not been determined.

Township officials submitted a grant application for the purchase of Dye Brothers land after receiving a 1977 petition from subdivision residents for water and sewer services.

Canton planners feared approving the request would spur development of more single-family homes in the old subdivision, which is one of the first platted in Canton Township. They said the subdivision was better suited for industrial use because of its proximity to railroad lines and Willow Run Airport.

Carroll expects to receive an additional $120,000 in federal community block grant funds next year for the purchase of Dye Brothers land.

A slick plan for a rainy day.

Some people manage to go through life without ever having a rainy day. But most people run into a storm now and then.

So it pays to plan for a storm and then hope it never happens.

The Payroll Savings Plan is one sure, safe, easy way to force yourself to start saving. And savings are a must to keep any financial plan from going on the skids.

The little you set aside each payday for U.S. Savings Bonds will grow. And help to keep you covered come rain or come shine.

And if you're lucky enough to miss the rain, it might help you plant a few shade trees.

When you put part of your savings into U.S. Savings Bonds you're helping to build a brighter future for your country and for yourself.

What are the UFO's? How Santa checks on kids

For the needy

High school students at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) recently collected canned goods and donated them to the Plymouth Salvation Army, which will be distributing them to a needy family in the Plymouth-Canton community for Christmas. Helping to pack the cans are juniors Anne Dillon and Paul Mills. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

By JIM HOLLY

With all the sightings of unidentified flying objects (UFOs) these days, I figured there must be something to it.

Not all could be explained away as just airplanes carrying neon-flashing signs or as swamp mist rising. There have been too many sightings.

Let's take a sample 100 sightings. Maybe 20 can be explained away as airplanes far off moving toward the viewer with their landing lights on. The viewer sees a bright light "hovering" in the night sky and immediately thinks it's a UFO.

Twenty can be explained away as shooting stars or comets. Twenty can be explained away as swamp gas creating optical illusions, and 20 more explained away as weather balloons.

This leaves 20 sightings unexplained. Not even Carl Sagan, noted astronomer and UFO skeptic, can effectively explain them away. Of these, let us look at one. Mine.

WALKING THROUGH an outer section of town a couple of summers ago, I gazed up at the stars. A shooting star appeared and slowly made its way across the sky. It was beautiful.

Suddenly it made a right angle turn and increased speed. Then it made another sharp turn and in an instant zipped across the length of the heavens and disappeared.

Could it have been an asteroid, Mr. Sagan? An asteroid colliding with two other asteroids and picking up all that angular momentum without shattering? I doubt it.

Could it have been an alien space craft filled with the extras from "Close Encounters of the Third Kind"? No.

It took me two years to figure out what I had seen. Just a couple of weeks ago, infested with the holiday spirit, it came to me in a moment of revelation.

It was Santa Claus!

OF COURSE! It all fit. I mean, who else could it have been?

Who else would need so much speed and maneuverability to zip around the sky like that? Santa is the only one who needs it, having to visit almost every house in the world in a single night.

So many sleighfuls of toys must have required several trips from his shop at the North Pole, not just one. That's no small task.

And how many unexplainable sightings are cigar-shaped with a red light at one end? A lot. That can only be Santa's sleigh and reindeer, with Rudolf leading the way.

Yes, it nearly all fit.

But there was one problem. Many UFO sightings occur in the summer, as mine did.

THERE IS a logical answer. Santa doesn't come down from the North Pole only at Christmas time. He must be coming down intermittently during the year.

He'd have to, when you think about it. How do think he can find out who's naughty and who's nice if he doesn't pop in now and then? He compiles his list throughout the year.

Near Christmas time he tallies his data, checks it twice and knows without a doubt who's naughty and who's nice.

Santa's a pretty smart old fella, and a lot more mobile than we ever suspected.

Yes, Virginia, it's confirmed. There is a Santa Claus. And he'll be delivering presents Christmas Eve.

Wow, he visits every house in the world on Christmas Eve! It's a staggering thought. I wonder if his reindeer are turbocharged or if Santa's using — dare I think — ion power?

Eye injuries linked to fun and games

When shopping for children's holiday gifts, beware of those that pose threats to eyes, cautions the National Society to Prevent Blindness.

The society reports that some 5,000 injuries to children resulted from toy-use accidents, almost two-thirds of which involved children under 15. BB guns, darts, and bows and arrows were linked to another 1,100 eye-related injuries among youngsters in this age group.

"Ninety percent of all eye injuries are preventable," said Virginia Boyce, executive director for the national society. "Safety conscious adults can protect children from eye damage — and in some cases the loss of an eye — by picking toys and games carefully, and by teaching youngsters how to play wisely."

Now, stop the great heat escape!

Window Quilt™

Reduces window heat loss as much as 79%

Your home is well insulated, your doors weatherstripped, and you have storm windows and doors. Your home is as tight as it could be, right?

Wrong!

As much as half of your home heat is lost through even the best double-glazed windows. And the biggest offenders in the average home are sliding glass doors.

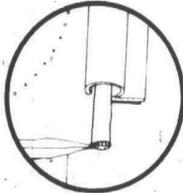

Window Quilt™ — an exciting new breakthrough in energy conservation — can greatly reduce this costly heat loss.

What is Window Quilt? It's an attractive, insulating window shade that shuts out cold and seals in heat. It cuts heat loss through windows and sliding glass doors by as much as 79%.

Air Seal on Top

At the core of the rolled-up quilt is the take-up roller, oversized to insure stability and long life. As the quilt unrolls it follows a path over and behind the seal roller. The seal roller presses the quilt against the upper window trim, forming an effective air seal. Should you desire, you can easily conceal the entire roller assembly under an attractive valance.

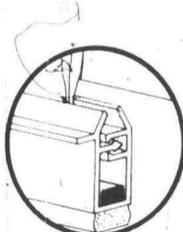

Air Seal at the Sill

The bottom batten weights the quilt. A strip of soft foam on the batten's underside seals against, and protects the sill. The batten can be opened to remove the quilt for easy washing.

Five layers to insulate

The quilt is a five-layer sandwich. The outside layers are decorative polyester rayon blend resistant to sunlight and weathering. Next, 1/2" thick layers of polyester batting provide insulation. The center layer, a reflective vapor barrier, prevents condensation and reflects heat. The layers are laminated by an ultrasonic bonding process which doesn't perforate the vapor barrier.

Air Seal at the Sides

Both edges of the quilt are finished with a flexible edge bead of braided cord, securely bound to the material. Tracks hold the edge beads securely, yet allow them to glide easily. The tracks mount to the window frame with a strong pre-applied adhesive.

Can be handwashed or dry cleaned.
Available in four decorator colors.

This house was equipped with a drawn Window Quilt on the left window only. The other windows are double-glazed.

This photo of the same house was taken with a camera designed to record an image made by infra red heat rather than light. As you see, much of the house interior heat is escaping through the non-insulated windows (the white squares) yet heat loss is effectively resisted by Window Quilt.

Some startling facts about heat loss in your home:

Houses with large windows do not necessarily consume more energy than houses with small windows. In a properly designed home, windows can actually reduce heating and cooling costs.

The sun through windows is a free source of heat. But most homeowners lose more heat at night than they gain during the day.

Even windows with storms lose heat eight times faster than an equal area of well insulated wall and can account for more than 50% of your heating cost. Half the cost is due to the window glass, half to cracks around the window.

A typical home may lose approximately $450 every winter on an annual fuel bill of $700 as heat loss through windows.

About 75% of all window heat loss occurs at night. Using window insulators at night can effectively reduce heating costs.

WINDOW QUILT actually reduces heat loss through glass by 79% for a single pane and 64% for double panes. It brings your window heat resistance up to a respectable R factor of 4.25 single pane and 5.15 double pane.

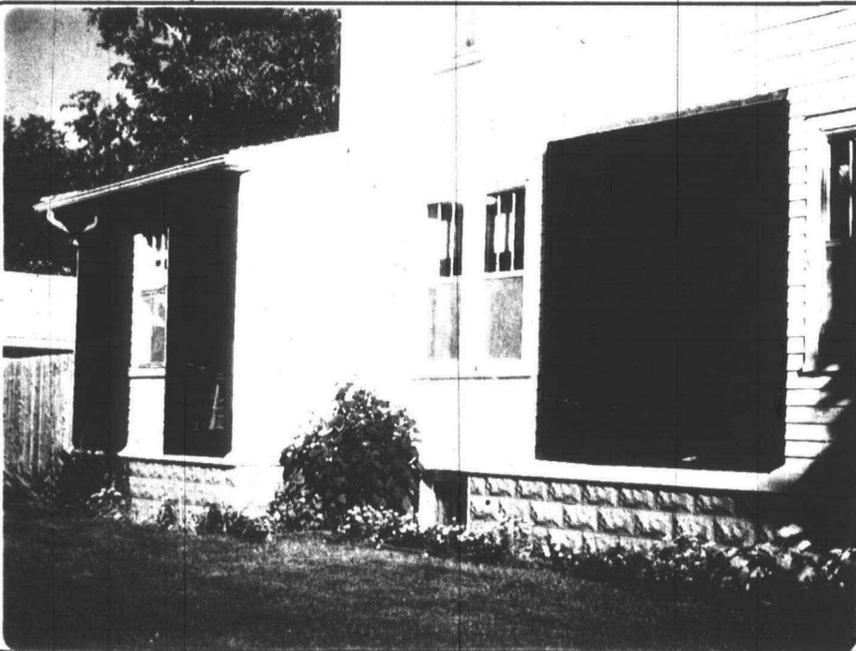

Window Quilt insulating shades let you open your home up to the free warmth of the winter sun, then effectively block heat loss through your windows at night. Insulates four times better than storm windows. Keeps the heat in during the winter and out in summer.

From a report called Energy Conservation and Window Systems by the American Physical Society.

From a systematic study by William Shurcliff, Senior Research Associate, Physics Department, Harvard University.

From independent tests of Window Quilts by Architectural Testing Inc. for Appropriate Technology Corporation. A copy of the report is available from the manufacturer.

State lawmakers file '80 campaign expense reports

By TOM LONERGAN

Five state representatives from Garden City, Livonia, Redford and Westland spent a combined $71,767 in re-election campaigns this fall.

Top spender, according to campaign finance reports filed with the Michigan Secretary of State's office earlier this month was Sylvia Skrel, R-Livonia, who spent $31,617 to defeat Democrat Robert Ficano, a Livonia attorney.

Although unopposed, state Rep. Thomas Brown, D-Westland, spent nearly $8,500 in his fall re-election campaign.

Between September 1979 and November 1980, Brown transferred $4,175 in campaign contributions to the 37th District Century Club, his officeholder's account. Brown reported receiving $12,775 in campaign contributions for the Nov. 4 election.

CAMPAIGN SPENDING among other western Wayne County state legislators included:

- $12,455 by William Keith, D-Garden City, re-elected to his fifth term.

- $10,167 by Jack Kirksey, R-Livonia, re-elected to a third term.
- $9,040 by John Bennett, D-Redford Township, re-elected to a ninth term.

Bank balances reported by the incumbents as of late November, included $11,288 by Kirksey; $7,023 by Bennett; $3,400 by Skrel, and $2,952 by Keith.

The only close race among area state representatives was between Skrel and Ficano, who re-ran the special March 1980 house election, won by Skrel.

Ficano spent $22,275 in the fall campaign. For the August primary, Ficano reported spending about $3,000 compared to Skrel's $5,800. Skrel had raised $15,000 for the primary election compared to Ficano's $5,350.

Corporate and trade union political action committees (PAC) provided the bulk of campaign money to area legislators.

Based on three campaign finance reports — the post general election, pre-general and post primary election — Skrel received the most PAC contributions, about $25,000.

HER LARGEST contributor during the 1980 election year was the Michigan Realtors PAC, $4,000, followed by several builders and contractors PACs, $2,550; Consumers Power Employees for Better Government, $2,500; three chambers of commerce, $1,550; Michigan Beer & Wine Wholesalers PAC, $1,025; and Industrial Michigan PAC of Lansing, $1,000.

Ficano received $20,230 from PACs. Half ($10,000) came from the United Auto Workers Union between April and September; $5,000 from the Michigan AFL-CIO during the election year, $2,500 from the Michigan Education Association and $1,000 each from Teamsters DRIVE and United Steelworkers District 29.

Ficano's largest non-union contributors were two lawyers association PACs which gave him a combined $350.

THE 36th DISTRICT race between Skrel and Ficano also received the lion's share of political party funds.

During the election year, Skrel received $5,075 from a variety of Republican Party sources. The largest portions were sent by the Committee to Elect a Republican House, $2,500, and the House Republican Campaign Committee, $1,700.

Ficano's campaign treasury was aided by $5,690 from various Democratic Party sources and $2,400 in services from the 2nd Congressional District-Wayne.

The Democratic State Central Committee and the House Democratic Office Fund each chipped in $2,500 to Ficano's losing effort.

Only Kirksey's opponent, Barbara Sowers, a Livonia high school counselor, spent a substantial sum in the campaign. Sowers spent $6,610 for the November election and reported contributions of $4,827. She reported raising $2,300 for the August primary, while spending a little more than $500.

Sowers' main contributors were the Michigan Education Association, $3,500, and the UAW, $500.

Neither James Walter, the Republican candidate in Keith's 33rd District, nor Gerald McBean, the GOP standard bearer in the 34th, received or spent more than $500 during the campaign. Both filed for reporting waivers in June and dissolved their committees in November.

Candidates with reporting waivers don't have to disclose contributors.

A NUMBER of corporate and organization PACs donated to all five western Wayne County incumbents.

They include the Realtors, who provided $3,000 to Republican Kirksey's campaign; and the rest to incumbent Democrats — $1,000 to Keith, $750 to Bennett, and $500 to Brown. A combination of builders and contractors PACs gave Brown and Bennett $500 each, Keith $450 and Kirksey $400.

Consumers Power Employees for Better Government, of Jackson, provided Keith $600, Kirksey $300, Bennett $200 and Brown $100.

The combined contributions from the Detroit Auto Dealers and Michigan Auto Dealers PACs totaled $1,500 to Skrel; $1,200 to Keith; $1,000 to Kirksey; $900 to Bennett and $400 to Brown.

Among out-state groups, the Meijer's Management PAC of Grand Rapids (Meijer's Trifty Acres Department Stores) and Right To Life of Michigan

PAC, of Muskegon, made small contributions to area state representatives.

Keith received $250 from Right-to-Life. Kirksey, Brown and Bennett received $100 each.

Meijer chipped in $150 to the Kirksey, Skrel, and Keith campaigns; $200 to Brown and $100 to Bennett.

Combined, financial institution PACs were large contributors to Keith, a former banker and expert on financial legislation.

He received $800 from two savings and loan association PACs; $600 from the Michigan Bankers Association; $200 from the Mortgage Bankers Association and $500 from the Michigan Credit Union League Legislative Action Fund.

Divorcing checking account for irreconcilable differences

I've had it with the bank, and I'm sure the bank has had it with me! I want a divorce from my checking account on the ground of "irreconcilable differences."

I have just spent a nervous two hours laboring over a checkbook and a bank statement whose only common features were the fact that my name was at the top of each of them. You've heard of creative financing? I think I've discovered a new form of creative "checking." I doubt that it will catch on.

I always feel so tacky when one of my checks has the audacity to bounce. Unfortunately, I've had attacks of tackiness three times in the last month.

My dear husband is beginning to doubt my accounting skills, our creditors are beginning to doubt our fiscal intentions, and I'm beginning to doubt my sanity because I can't figure out why a check for $12 could be so rude as to have bounced twice when I know I had $47 in my checking account. At least, according to my records, I did. Why would I lie to my checkbook?

IT GETS worse. Recently I had a conversation with the 24-hour-bank machine that seemed like something out of "The Twilight Zone." It started out when I politely asked the friendly computer how much money was in my savings and checking accounts. ("Savings" seems such a superfluous word for that particular account — "Petty cash" would be more appropriate).

The computer very respectfully told me that I had $69.19 in savings, but refused to divulge the amount in checking. Undaunted, I proceeded to request that the computer turn over to me $50 from my savings and $50 from my checking accounts. This time the machine got a little testy as it handed over the $50 from checking, but rudely told me that I had "insufficient funds in savings."

"But you just told me I had $69.19 in savings!" I cried out. The machine refused to answer.

I was ready for just such an emergency. I took a second 24-hour-banker card from my purse and inserted it into the machine in order to continue our conversation.

"Now tell me again," I said, "how much do I have in checking and savings?"

"You have $19.19 in savings, but I won't tell you how much you have in checking," the machine answered.

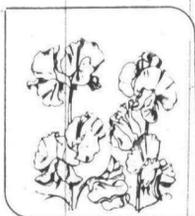

Nancy Walls Smith

"But you didn't give me any money out of savings!" I shouted. "It says right here on my little computer print-out receipt that the $40 you gave me came from my checking account! Now which is it?"

THE MACHINE was embarrassed. It couldn't explain itself. Neither could the woman who was in charge of the machine when I confronted her inside the bank the next day. It was difficult to get across the finer nuances of my tale since I was speaking through two panes of glass with a hidden sound vent.

I leaned over and talked under; I stood on my tiptoes and attempted to project my voice over. After a lot of calisthenics from me and several "WHAT?'s" from her, she finally began to understand my problem. As did everyone else in the bank who witnessed my performance. She looked perplexed for a moment, but then a final glaze went over her eyes as she replied, "You know, the computer has never done that before." Swell.

My countenance took on a definite droop as I heard her say that it would take approximately a week before she could find exactly what that tricky little machine had done. A week later, I would know if I had $50 more or less in my checking account.

Can America withstand another Valley Forge?

Two hundred years later, Gen. George Washington and his troops in their tri-corner hats, huddled in their miserable camp huts at Valley Forge, Pa., seem like remote figures in history.

Yet consider what Washington put up with in addition to the cold.

He had difficulty getting enlistments. American troops resented authority and mocked their officers.

The pacifist Quakers of Pennsylvania wouldn't take up arms.

In North Carolina, lowlanders and hill people were at odds.

Paper currency flooded the country. Barbershops literally papered the walls with nearly worthless bank notes.

The former colonies, now boasting of being "free and independent States," were jealous of the central government and vowed to resist giving it any power.

The Confederation and the 13 states ran up big debts to finance the war, then were unable to pay.

Philadelphia, the capital of the nation and seat of the Continental Congress, fell to the British, and the new nation's affairs had to be conducted for awhile in the boondocks of Lancaster, Pa.

The states would permit the national government no taxation powers. There was, in effect, a tax revolt even before there were any taxes to revolt against.

IN MANY WAYS, America today is in a similar position.

Inflation — that is, the amount of money chasing goods — has doubled in less than a decade.

The federal government is running up debts, while states and cities fight off the economic wolf at the door.

The industrial and urban Northeast and Midwest, the agribusinesses of the Plains, the oil and coal interests of the West, retirees pinched by inflation, the young people trying to get a start, the races — all seem indifferent to, or even brutally unconcerned, about each other's plight. National unity is weak.

Washington, D.C., is safe from enemy attack, but our embassy in Iran fell a year ago, and more than four dozen personnel are still held hostage.

There is a tax revolt. The economy is in shambles. There is an anti-Washington feeling in the land.

WE HAVE NO miracle cures, no quick-fixes to offer President-elect Ronald Reagan. But we do suggest a look at Washington and Valley Forge for some principles.

The new little nation sent a wise statesman named Ben Franklin as envoy to Paris, and won a major ally. France provided sea power to end the war's final siege at Yorktown. We need to cultivate allies.

Washington once put his entire military strategy into one sentence:

"Our hopes are not placed in any particular city or spot of ground, but in preserving a good army, furnished with proper necessities, to take advantage of favorable opportunities, and waste and defeat the enemy by piecemeal."

And so the Americans did, at relatively small engagements at Trenton, Princeton, Saratoga, Kings Mountain.

Quiet courage. Unwavering moral principle. Firm, fair discipline. Loyalty to the vision of a large nation. Vigorous administration. Sound finance. Orderly enforcement of laws, human rights, property rights. Bold decisions. The element of surprise. And faith in the Creator.

Washington didn't see the fruits of those applied principles overnight. For the young American nation, Valley Forge actually lasted some years.

May the spirit that brought the new nation out of the depths of Valley Forge two centuries ago rescue the mature nation again today.

Dems sharpen knives to slit their own throats

When it comes to capturing the state's executive office, this decade will be another disaster for the Michigan Democratic Party.

Already various Democratic factions are at one another's throats. The latest skirmish is between former Democratic State Chairman Morley Winograd and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

In a battle over representation on the Democratic National Committee, Winograd recently accused the state's black power structure of disloyalty in the last gubernatorial campaign.

In that forgettable affair, his eternal highness, Gov. William Milliken, was pitted against upstart state Sen. William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit.

The always controversial Winograd intimidated the Young forces were, in fact, Milliken allies who sat on their hands while Fitzgerald went down the tube and became just another asterisk in Michigan history.

Some blacks have countered that somehow Winograd is a racist. Such nonsense.

THROUGH THE YEARS Democrats have been proud to boast that while they scrap like a bunch of alley cats in primary battles, they unite in general elections to defeat the foe.

But this scrapping has aided in keeping them out of the governor's chair for the past 18 years. You can bet when votes are counted for the upcoming gubernatorial election, the Democrats once again will be out in the cold.

Consistently, the Democrats beat themselves. Over the years, when the primary fur stops flying, a weak, compromise Democratic candidate is fielded.

Certainly Milliken, and George Romney before him, have proven to be formidable candidates in their own right. But Democrats have done little in the way of candidates to counter the Republican grip on the state chief executive office.

Certainly, blacks weren't the only ones to be turned off by Fitzgerald's candidacy. Hordes of Democrats flocked to the Milliken bandwagon.

THE UNFORTUNATE beneficiaries of this Democratic squabbling are Michigan voters. Over the last two decades they have been offered lackluster Democratic gubernatorial candidates.

Recall the fallen: 1962, John Swainson; 1964, Neil Stabler; 1966, Zolton Ferency; 1970 and 1974, Sander Levin; 1978, William Fitzgerald.

Not exactly a roll call of charisma.

With Michigan's economy in near ruin, now — more than ever — it's the Democratic Party's obligation to field a candidate who offers some clear alternatives, who will be listened to by the Michigan electorate, and who has a chance to win.

But the future looks grim. Party regulars are looking to State Rep. Bobby Crim, D-Davison, house speaker. Crim is understandably reluctant to commit such political suicide.

Fitzgerald has been heard to mutter he may try again and U.S. Rep. William Brodhead, D-Detroit, has toyed with the thought.

BUT THE REAL race will be in the Republican primary, when insurance executive Richard Headlee will take on Milliken. The Farmington Hills resident is an eloquent spokesman for conservative causes.

He has a better chance, if there is such a thing, to knock off Milliken than any Democrat.

The Silverdome: pick, pick, pick

To hear some of the more vocal and ignorant sportscasters tell it, you'd think the $800,000 state subsidy for the Silverdome went into the pockets of William Clay Ford or the Detroit Lions.

No issue, not even the SEMTA rapid transit plan, is so badly misunderstood in Michigan.

One is driven to the almost paranoid conclusion that if the Silverdome Stadium had been built in Detroit, the subsidy voted again by the Michigan Legislature last week would have passed with only the barest fluttering of an eyelash.

THE SILVERDOME subsidy was approved in the so-called "Christmas tree" bill — a long list of state grants.

Aid to the Detroit Institute of Arts was part of the package. DIA is a department of the city of Detroit, but its existence is deemed to be of benefit to the entire state, so the entire state kicks into its operation.

Ditto with the Detroit Main Library.

All kinds of outside money was pumped into the Joe Louis Arena without any of the fuss attendant upon the Silverdome subsidy.

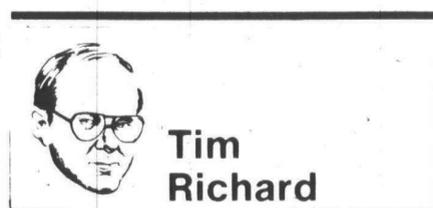

The state school aid bill is full of little gems — bilingual education comes to mind — that benefit only a few school districts, and one of them is always Detroit. Yet you never hear about those ornaments.

THE SILVERDOME subsidy goes to the city of Pontiac, which, if you haven't looked lately, is an aging, inner city — the county seat of Oakland — not an affluent suburb of manicured lawns.

Pontiac turns this money over to its stadium authority, which uses the grant to pay interest and principal to bondholders.

If the state subsidy were withdrawn, Pontiac would either have to hike its property tax rate three mills or default on the bonds.

A default would be havoc to Pontiac's credit rating and reflect badly on the state of Michigan's reputation, since local governments are creatures of the state.

Tim Richard

THE SILVERDOME subsidy is not a welfare measure to subsidize some bums. It's an economic stimulus, because the stadium has been a boon to the hotel, restaurant and convention business of southeast Michigan.

When Wayne County was talking about building a football stadium in Detroit, the state aid figure people were talking about was $3.2 million, which is 400 percent of what the Silverdome gets.

When the state legislature votes $800,000 to Pontiac, it is not taking bread from the mouths of schoolteachers and game wardens. The revenue comes from a racetrack tax — 16 cents on every $2 bet. The same revenue aids Hazel Park, Livonia, Northville and Jackson — sites of race tracks and crime problems.

USING GOVERNMENT money for economic stimulation is as traditional as apple pie and as old as Alexander Hamilton's 1791 "Report on the Manufactures."

Yet none of these other stimuli is subject to such nitpicking, sportscaster sneering and legislative demagoguery.

Only the Silverdome becomes the subject of political controversy every time the Christmas tree bill is lit up in Lansing.

Yes, it would be nice if Silverdome could pick up enough convention business to do without the state subsidy. In the meantime, however, if our friendly legislators in Lansing are going to pick on one subsidy, they should study all the other ornaments with equal diligence.

How we caught the true spirit

Every year along about this time, The Stroller's thoughts carry him back to the little white church on top of the hill back in Pennsylvania where he was introduced to the real spirit of Christmas — that it is more blessed to give than to receive.

He was just a young lad in knee breeches and had left the children's large class in Sunday school to join with a group a bit older in the main auditorium.

When Capt. Joseph Matchette, the kindly old superintendent, took him to his new location he introduced The Stroller to his new teacher, a young woman named Mary Evans.

It was just a few weeks before Christmas, and one of the first things she did was to gather us about her and suggest that we show the real Christmas spirit by adopting a poor family and making up a nice basket we could present on Christmas morning.

UP TO THAT time The Stroller and his sisters looked forward to Christmas morning with great enthusiasm, solely to find out what Santa had left in our stockings. There wasn't much thought of going out to give presents to anyone.

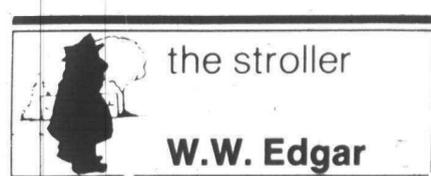

But after listening to our new Sunday School teacher, we agreed that we would help to prepare a basket of food and maybe some clothing for a needy family.

There was no trouble finding a poor family in our little town.

Miss Evans found a family of mother, dad and four children and the head of the house was too sickly to work.

At first it was suggested that we give our box of candy and the orange that was the traditional gift from the church. Fine, but we kids were imbued with the spirit and asked if we couldn't do better than that.

There were all sorts of suggestions, and we finally prevailed upon our mothers to provide cookies and other goodies that were popular for the season. All the Dutch women were good bakers, and in no time we had several large baskets.

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

WE MET on Christmas Eve after the regular church service to prepare the baskets. Some of the members even brought items of clothing.

You can imagine our thrill the next morning when Miss Evans joined us to play Santa Claus in the poorest district of our town.

When we reached the house and family we had selected, Miss Evans lead the way to the front door. When the mother opened the door, Miss Evans handed her the basket and said, "Merry Christmas from our Sunday School class."

The mother was taken aback, and soon tears came from her eyes. She invited us in for a cup of coffee and tried to thank us for "making" their Christmas. She told us there was not enough money for gifts so she just tied a bit of ribbon on a cake she had baked and that was going to be their Christmas gift.

When the children came in with their father, it was a scene that was heart rendering. The father choked back the tears, the mother lifted her apron to wipe her eyes and the children just stood dazed.

EVERY YEAR after that, we selected a family. The Stroller's mother, always a sentimentalist, went one further. She selected a few families not far from us and baked a batch of cookies for each of them. And as she would send us on our way she would say, "We haven't got much, but what we have we can share to help make someone else happy."

The Stroller never forgot that manifestation of The Christmas Spirit — that it is more blessed to give than receive.

Exercise in cold weather — with precautions

Question: Is it dangerous to continue exercising outdoors during the cold winter months? Can you suggest any extra precautions to prevent excessive exposure to cold?

M.S., West Bloomfield

Outdoor exercise during a cold winter usually presents fewer problems than you would expect. Adequate clothing promotes heat conservation while exercise actually serves as an "antidote" to cold, increasing body heat production.

Physiologically, the body acts to conserve its own heat by reducing blood flow to the skin (vasoconstriction). Thus, heat is conserved within its vital inner regions. If this first line of defense is inadequate, the body shivers, which adds to the metabolic heat production.

A few extra precautions will help prevent excessive exposure to cold to help you be comfortably and safely warm in winter weather:

- Be extra careful when the wind is blowing. Temperature alone is not a valid index of cold stress. The wind serves to remove the layer of air your body has heated around you to keep you warm. The "wind chill factor" measures the effective decrease in temperature resulting from moving air. For example, at 10 degrees Fahrenheit in a 20-mile-an-hour wind the cooling effect is equivalent to calm air at minus 24 degrees.

- Beware of wet clothing. Since water is an excellent conductor, damp clothing presents a problem because it extracts heat from your body up to 240 times as fast as dry clothing! For this reason,

fitness

you should change wet clothing, particularly socks and mittens, when they become excessively wet.

- Dress appropriately. Overdressing for exercise in the cold may result in overheating and excessive sweating. A handy rule for dressing for exercise in the cold is to wear several layers of light clothing that can be shed or replaced separately as body heat changes. Between each layer, there is trapped air which, when heated by the body, acts as an excellent insulator.

The insulating properties of wool are widely recognized. It is one material which, when wet, still keeps the body warm. Most other materials, when wet, actually draw heat from the body and pass it into the air.

- Stay moving. Because of the potential 10-20 fold increase in heat production during strenuous exercise, body temperature can be easily maintained even in subzero conditions, as long as one continues to exercise. Avoid standing still for too long when its cold. If you must stand around in the cold, move your arms and legs, walk, jog in place, anything reasonable to get the large muscles working.

- Protect certain body areas. Body heat is most

This wind chart can be used to determine equivalent temperatures. The column at left shows Fahrenheit degrees, the line across the top shows wind in miles per hour. For example, at 20 degrees Fahrenheit in a 20-mile-an-hour wind the feeling is equivalent to nine degrees below zero on a windless day.

Dr. Franklin is co-director of cardiac rehabilitation at Sinai Hospital and on the faculty of Wayne State University. Questions may be sent to him in care of this newspaper.

A tremendous loss of body heat can occur from an uncovered head. This is due to the skin's poor

Social action in tradition of Moses, Amos, Paul...

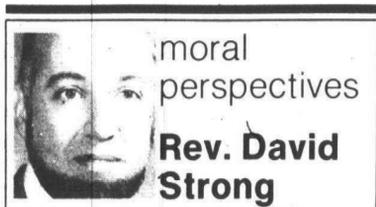

Some time ago, an article appeared with the title "Should the Churches Play it Safe?"

Reports from around the world indicate that religious persons are taking their convictions into the streets. They are not playing it safe.

Portraits of Pope John Paul II are used by the striking workers in Gdansk, Poland. Priests and laity from the churches of Rio De Janeiro confront police and government officials with their demands regarding slum housing. They carry posters with pictures of the Pope. In this country, the "Moral Majority" backs Reagan for President.

Many are not comfortable with religious groups who express such social action. Yet we must realize that social involvement comes out of the earliest of Christian and Jewish traditions.

FROM ANCIENT times, the prophets confronted moral perspectives

Rev. David Strong

those within their communities who neglected justice and mercy.

Moses acted with great personal risk to prevent the mistreatment of a slave. Jesus made it very clear that God's judgment would fall upon those who lived in comfort and ignored the poor, the captives and the oppressed.

Many religious people have limited themselves to the relatively comfortable social service types of assistance. We hear no objections to collecting used clothing, food baskets or calling upon the sick. Such actions do not require that we confront anyone.

We are uncomfortable when issues are raised that require confrontation and conflict. This is particularly true when it involves confronting the state. A friend of mine saw a policeman beating up a teen-ager. He hesitated to confront the city with the issue.

A successful minister promotes the idea that clergy should not preach on social issues. "This is not what people come to church to hear" he says.

I BELIEVE there are a significant number of religious people, however, who will support social stands. Recently, a survey of why people join churches indicated that a number of people will join a church precisely because it is relevant to the problems of society.

This is not a time of great social involvement. Yet religious persons and institutions were affected by the Holocaust and by Vietnam. We are not the same. We also must face the fact that to be true to our heritage we must be socially relevant.

Taking a socially controversial stand is still a risky business within American religious groups. Yet I believe there is more support for such stands than one would guess from appearances.

I will predict that not only in Poland or South America, but in this country, the potential for religiously motivated social action is great. When this happens, we will again hear the names of the founders, Moses, Isaiah, Amos, Jeremiah, Jesus and Paul.

It comes from the best of our tradition.

Editor:

My wife and I attended the Christmas concert by the Plymouth Community Chorus held on Sunday, Dec. 14, at the Plymouth Salem High School auditorium. We were treated to a most enjoyable evening save for one annoyance — the OMNICOM television crew.

Throughout the concert, an OMNICOM crew member stationed in the balcony communicated with his counterparts on the auditorium floor as if he were using tin cans and a string rather than the Star Wars-like equipment he was operating. Hearing his intermittent chatter was most disturbing and detracted from an otherwise superb concert.

After the performance a member of the chorus expressed a similar annoyance as the crewman's chatter was heard on stage as well.

If such unprofessional conduct is typical of the entire OMNICOM organization, I certainly have no intention of utilizing their service in my home.

Books always are nice gifts

By LYNN ORR

The only better present than a book for those who love to read would be a panelled library complete with fireplace and English butler. And since that's out of the question, we settle for books.

Fortunately, this year's holiday harvest of books again promises to be a bumper crop. And iBrowse bookseller in West Bloomfield is the perfect place to indulge your friends — or make your own list.

iBrowse is the kind of shop that allows customers to walk around for hours, sip tea, have a snack or ogle the newest calendars. If you're in a hurry or simply don't have the slightest idea of what to get for your favorite booklover, the shop's affable co-owner, Marc Winkelman, supplied a generous list of new and old favorites.

FOR THOSE who dearly want to show their affection to friends or relatives, "The Treasures of the Library of Congress" at $50 is a bargain. With 439 illustrations and 156 color plates, the book traces the library's massive collection since it was established in 1800.

Map-lovers will adore "The Times Atlas," a new revised edition of the famous atlas presented by the New York Times and London Times. If you balk at the $125 price-tag, remember that someone has had to catalogue all those changes in the world. "The Times Atlas of World History" is a companion piece filled with historical maps, priced at $70.

For opera-art fans, a German baron known as Ul de Rico has illustrated Richard Wagner's "Ring of the Niebelung," a beautiful book at $39.95.

For those who are more interested in the cerebral side of culture, New York Times critic John Canady has written "What is Art?" a "superlative study of art criticism," according to Winkelman. The book is $30.

"Literary San Francisco," by Lawrence Ferlinghetti and Nancy Peters is a short course, at $15.95, in the pictorial history of the artists who made famous the City of Lights.

STOCKING STUFFERS — Where would we be without them?

John Train, a writer for Forbes whose serious side produced "The Money Masters," a study in financial investing for $11.95, also gets down to earth in a collection of little books, each at $5.95, about real-life stuff, titled, appropriately enough, "Remarkable Names of Real People" and "True Remarkable Occurrences."

Among the remarkable names are T. Fud Pucker Tucker, Anil Shitole and Dr. E.Z. Filler, a dentist. One of the true, remarkable incidents is titled "Eating Democrats":

"Alfred Packer ate five prospectors whom he was guiding over a high Colorado plateau in 1874. The judge who sentenced Packer to hang indignantly pointed out that 'there were only six Democrats in all of Hinsdale County and you ate five of them.'"

Nicole Hollander's feminist cartoonery "I'm in Training to be Tall and Blonde" could be a best, cheap bet at $3.95 for a feminist friend. For the not-so-literary who like to keep up, Maurice Sagoff's "Shrinklets" is a $3.95 study of 75 of the world's towering classics cut down to size.

BUSINESS BOOKS may be the bonanza of the 1980s for business writers. "Everybody's Business," by Milton Moskowitz, a writer for the Washington Post, is, at $9.95, a poor man's Standard & Poor's — an almanac of businesses and what they own.

This book points out such "triumphs of corporate alchemy" as Cheeseborough Pond's Inc., which manufactures Health-Text clothes, Wind Song perfume, Ragu spaghetti sauce, Bass shoes and Vaseline.

William Nickerson has revised his earlier real estate study to update his sales in "How I Turned $1,000 into Five Million in Real Estate," a $14.95 bonus for the land entrepreneur, while popular author Venita Van-Caspel has another new one, "Money Dynamics in the 1980s."

For anyone who got bit by the "Shogun" bug, Viking Press in cooperation with the Metropolitan Museum of Art is bringing out "The Tale of the Shining Princess," a collection of Japanese fairy tales, priced at $10.95.

In the how-to corner along the same lines is "The Tea Ceremony" by Seno Tanaka for $7.95. The book includes history as well as step-by-step instruction of Chan-no-yu, the ancient tea ceremony.

Gourmet fans will find the ultimate chocolate book in Maida Heatter's "Great Chocolate Desserts." The $15 cookbook is the third in Ms. Heatter's series of "Great" books. Elizabeth David's long-awaited "English Bread and Yeast Cookery," was just published in the U.S. and may be a serious rival to James Beard's "Beard on Bread."

ONE OF THE happiest Christmas stories is news of the marriage of Dr. John M. Hoben, superintendent of the Plymouth-Canton schools, and Nancy Soper, assistant superintendent of Northville schools. Mike and Nancy were married Friday evening at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church with about 15 members of their families and close friends in attendance.

The ceremony was followed by a wedding reception for 30 persons at Hillside Inn. The couple is off on a Christmas cruise to the Caribbean Islands and South America.

Just a small percentage of the people at the school administration offices knew about the upcoming event. When Mike went in to the office Friday morning to pick up his mail, his secretary, Joan Egner, asked, "When can I make the announcement?"

He responded, "Sometime this afternoon."

Plans were immediately under way for a reception for the Hobens early in the new year.

THE PEOPLE at Geneva United Presbyterian Church honored Oliver Wagner Dec. 14. The long-time choir

by ELLIE GRAHAM

director at Geneva is on everyone's favorite-people list.

Although he has "officially" retired as choral director and former accompanist Janie Trudgeon has taken over, Ollie continues his interest in the choir.

"He has been a fantastic help," said Janie. "This is my first choir job and he has gone through all the music with me, has chosen the music and the soloists. He has been invaluable in helping me work into the program."

The church service was dedicated to Ollie with the choir singing four of his favorite songs. Between the two morning services there was a reception and coffee hour. He received a plaque bearing an inscription from Corinthians, "Love is patient, Love is kind," and some albums.

Ollie is a member of the Plymouth Symphony Society Board of Directors and serves as publicity person for the society.

CONGRATULATIONS to Paula Joyner for being included in the 1980 edition of Outstanding Young Women Of America.

Those listed in the book are exceptional young women between the ages of 21 and 36 who have distinguished themselves in their homes, their professions and their communities.

Paula and her husband, Bill Joyner, live in Plymouth Township.

MERRY CHRISTMAS to the Plymouth Area REACT people. These volunteers will be stepping up their duty watches over the holidays in their continuing highway safety effort.

The REACT team has had a good year, receiving deserved recognition from the communities it serves.

The city of Plymouth has included the team in its Tornado Warning System. Plymouth Township, Canton Township and the city of Plymouth have a skywarn contract with the team.

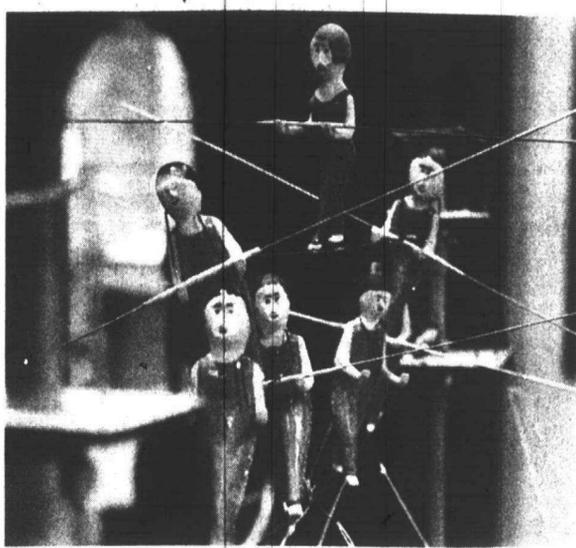

The Wayne County sheriff is assisting with the team's mobile patrol training. The Michigan State Police have expressed their appreciation for the holiday weekend coffee breaks conducted by the team.

Active membership reached an all-time high. Central base monitoring hours were increased to include weekdays during the afternoon rush hours.

The central base station in the Plymouth Hilton Inn has been updated with the purchase of much-needed equipment. The first remote receiver has been installed and this has increased capabilities.

As well as serving regular watches, the year's activities included 10 skywarn operations, three safety breaks, Walk for Mankind for the Canton Jaycees, Canton Jaycees Fair parking, Wayne County Fair parking, Apple Festival parking at New Baltimore and the YMCA Park Run.

Every member of the team deserves a special pat on back but as we can't list all of them, here are the members of the board: Chuck VanVleck, president/commander; John Kubiel, vice president/executive officer; Paul Cook, field operations; Richard Merrill, membership/liaison; Don Russell, technical officer; John Hermann; treasurer/trustee; Helen Runge, secretary/trustee; and Floyd Riley, entertainment.

Circus at museum for Christmas

Two circuses have come to the Plymouth Historical Museum, and they feature little wood carvings of the Flying Wallendas (left), animals, circus wagons and clowns, all on special loan for the holiday season. Hours will be 1-4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Faith observes Christmas Eve by candlelight

Faith Community Church is once again inviting the community to share its annual Christmas Eve Moravian candlelight service. This year the service will be in Faith's new building at 46001 Warren Road, just west of Canton Center Road in Canton Township. The congregation moved into the new structure on Dec. 7 for the first worship service.

The Rev. Darryl Bell, pastor of the young congregation, describes the tradition as one of the oldest, if not in fact the oldest, candlelight service in any church. It began in 1747 as an object lesson for children and caught on as an instant favorite.

He said, "The room dances in the warm, orangy glow of candlelight, and the nostalgic scent of pure beeswax candles fills the air. As eyes gaze in wonder at the flames on the hand-wrapped candles, young soloists sing, 'Morning Star, O cheering sight, Fill my heart with light divine.'"

The service will begin at 6 p.m., Dec. 24. It will feature Christmas carols, vocal and instrumental music, and a retelling of the Christmas story. Each worshipper will receive a lighted candle, symbolizing the coming of Christ, the "light of the World."

THE NEW CHURCH building, designed by R.J. Happle of Dearborn, includes a sanctuary, nursery and offices, as well as a kitchen and fellowship hall which may be divided into six classrooms.

Faith Community is a mission congregation sponsored by the Moravian Church, the oldest organized Protestant denomination in the world, organized in 1457. Although the ethnic character of the church disappeared long ago, Bell said, it still benefits from its rich heritage as it holds to the affirmations of faith of most Protestant churches.

Faith Community congregation is composed of families from a variety of Christian backgrounds — Methodist, Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, Baptist, Lutheran and others.

"We are finding that many people who have been away from the church for years are now giving it another chance," the pastor said. "They are liking what they find. They are discovering an experience that is relevant to their needs and seeks to make practical application of the Christian faith to everyday living."

Regular Sunday services are at 10:30 a.m. and a Sunday school meets at 9:15 a.m. Nursery care is available and each service includes a special children's time in which pastor and children sit together on the floor for a child's-level talk.

There are an active Women's Fellowship, Youth Fellowship, men's breakfasts, summer church camps, adult discussion series and other activities for the church and community.

Persons interested in learning more about the church may call the pastor, 455-7700, or attend one of the services.

Holiday drinking is hard on people on the wagon

By SHERRY KAHAN

"I'm going to be insulted if you don't have at least one drink."

This comment was made during a holiday party to a woman named Beth, a member of a group called Women for Sobriety. To join this organization means she has faced her alcoholism problem and wants to stay sober.

But during the Christmas and New Year holidays it is not always easy.

"All I said to the woman was 'Why?'" noted Beth, who like all members of Women for Sobriety keeps her last name to herself. "She became flustered, and realized what she had said."

Beth picked the holidays as a time to advise women that her organization is ready to offer them year-round support when they take up the battle against alcoholism.

"Last March we had only two groups," she said. Now we have six.

Among the communities where groups meet are Redford Township, Garden City, Royal Oak and Troy.

Beth advises recovering alcoholics to walk around with glasses in their hands at holiday parties. "Just say you don't feel like drinking," she counseled. "Say you're on medication or your ulcers have flared up. Most people are pretty good about it and don't push.

"BUT AT THE same time alcohol is like momma's cookies. You are urged to have one more. They don't do it to get you drunk, but to be hospitable."

She pictures an alternative kind of hospitality. It would consist mainly of a friendly smile, coffee or soft drinks.

"Coffee and pop is cheaper in the long run," she observed.

To insistent hosts and hostess, she would say, "Don't be upset if a guest refuses a drink. They've shown they wanted to be with you by merely being there. It is easier for a reformed alcoholic not to go. The reformed drinkers will be tempted. They'll be struggling, and it's harder to struggle with glasses all around. It would be easier for them never to go to parties."

She added: "Relax. 'Give them the option to drink or not. Don't fuss.'"

ANOTHER ASPECT of the holidays that can send drinkers on the downward path is the expectation that everything will be great.

"It's a childlike belief," said Beth. "When they realize it's really not that great, the disappointment may start them drinking."

She believes that Women for Sobriety is a good place for a woman to take her problems.

"She can get anger off her chest," she commented. "She doesn't have to worry about people understanding. Everyone is there for the same reason. There is immediate rapport. No judging, just understanding.

"Our main goal is to help each other with positive reinforcement so as to improve our own self-image. We're a self-help group working to improve ourselves."

She flung out a challenge: "Quit beating your head against a brick wall, and get going."

One area meeting place is in the Redford Counseling and Information Center, 25945 Seven Mile, Redford Township. Sessions are at 7 p.m. Mondays. For information contact Marilyn at 538-9520. Another group meets at 8 p.m. Fridays in Garden City Osteopathic Hospital, 6245 Inkster, Garden City. Contact Sue at 595-6983 for details.

Women for Sobriety also gather at 10 a.m. Saturdays in the therapeutic radiology conference room in Beaumont Hospital, 13 Mile and Woodward, Royal Oak. Contact person is Chris at 546-6738.

Sessions are also held at 7 p.m. Mondays in the Henry Ford Hospital Troy Clinic, 2849 Cattermole, Troy. Call Frances at 689-7476.

"Taking that first step to make a call about coming to a meeting is hard," observed Beth. "But after you get there, you realize they are there to help you."

Canton Chatter

By KATHY FREECE 981-2027

Neighbors share Christmas cheer

Krista and Stephen Freece are two patient children.

Ever since I started writing this column, my children wanted to know when their names would appear. Both are avid readers so to these beautiful people, I dedicate this Canton Chatter.

There are many things that make me smile and one of them is my wonderful neighbors. As a group, they are thrifty, kind, caring, sharing, dependable, energetic and concerned. No, they are not all Boy Scouts.

We decided to have a Christmas walk in our subdivision. There were 12 couples interested in getting together. When winter comes to our area, many people never venture outside to smile at their friends on the street.

It is exactly opposite where I live.

SHANNON AND JIM Kromberg were the first hosts for the group. Betty Hellmers and Carol Dugan made delicious taste treats for all to enjoy. Kromberg had a problem with his mailbox mysteriously falling down periodically. There also were strange tire tracks all over his lawn. The problem has been solved with Jim's genius.

Kathy and Tom Buccichop cordially opened their home as the second stop of the evening. Carol Luelleman and Tammy Kistemaker handled the appetizers in a lovely way. Being a little fussy about serving a new recipe, Tammy tried it out on her family twice in the same week. Gary told us he thought that they were great but he couldn't eat even one.

By the time we reached the home of Kathy and Bruce Radabaugh the group was ready for something different. Being the hosts of the third home and knowing how clever many of their guests were, there was a guessing game. As we walked in the door everyone had a name taped to their backs. You had to ask the person next to you questions in order to guess what was hidden from you. Then you had to find your partner. Someone was "Frosty" and their partner was a "Snowflake." Sue Crosby and Cheryl Dietel were the assistants with scrumptious finger food to enjoy. Kathy had a unique ice carving of a porpoise accenting her punch bowl.

THE LAST stop of the evening was at the home of Loretta and Joe Sobditch. Karen Braun and myself gave Loretta a helping hand with the hors d'oeuvres.

What do you do after spending three hours talking to the same people? There just happened to be some forethought on this subject and a few interesting games were planned. We decided to start with charades. After tasting the contents of four punch bowls you can embarrass yourself in various ways. I am proud that both teams tried very hard to do their best.

The second game was quite different. Just drop a potato into a leg of a pair of pantyhose. You then use the empty leg to tie around your waist. There is a potato on the floor that you have to move a certain distance by trying to get the potato hanging from your body to push it. Confusing? You should have been there. Try it sometime.

It was a totally unusual night for all of us. Just being together with the people you care about is important.

A FEW OTHER subdivisions had the same idea, and one of them was Windemere. The homes there opened their doors to 19 couples. Those generous hosts were Debbie and Craig Camalo, Judy and Ken Plunka, Mark and Kathy Parise, Lis and Endre Mesa and Jerry and Ron Subnell.

Many of the families did not know each other so several hours were spent just getting acquainted. Each one of the hostesses had two helpers who brought part of the munchies for all to snack on. This was a great help in planning the evening's activities. There was no punch provided. Soft drinks were just one of the many thirst quenchers on hand.

Manning Balatico started to sing at the second house. By the time everyone reached the fifth home it was catching. There was a sing-along of holiday tunes and anything else that they could think of.

As the new year approaches I wish happiness and love to all who reside in our community. I am always looking to improve the contents of my list of people to call for a story, don't be shy when you have some news or views to share, call me. HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

Consumer movement making gains

By SUSAN DEITZ

Sometime along the way Phyllis Eliasberg was afflicted with an acute case of "underdogitis." In her case it wasn't fatal, just directed her to a career as a consumer counselor.

Educated in the law, Mrs. Eliasberg has been a consumer reporter since 1976. Currently she is consumer counselor for Channel 7 in Southfield.

On Monday, Oct. 13 she told a large audience at Congregation Shaarey Zedek in Southfield how to "Fight Back and Don't Get Ripped Off." The occasion was the 75th birthday celebration of the congregation's sisterhood.

Always interested in the individual in society, Mrs. Eliasberg contends that large corporations have enough representation in legislative matters and in the marketplace.

Her emphasis is on consumers fighting back when they have been shortchanged.

"When I became a lawyer," she said, "I found that lawyers in general were overcharging their clients. So I advocated the 'Do it Yourself Divorce'."

Thus began the interest in consumerism that once won her an Emmy nomination.

NEXT TO lawyers and doctors, insurance companies are the worst offenders in abusing consumers, she said. "Have you ever tried to read one of your insurance policies?," she asked. "It's time they started to write them in terms that everyone can understand."

Despite the fact that many small businesses are being swamped by unnecessary and unwarranted restrictions, Mrs. Eliasberg believes that, on the individual level, the consumer movement is moving ahead.

"People don't feel helpless anymore," she said. "However, there is the feeling of, why bother, instead."

"I'm having a go around with Bank Americard now that you wouldn't believe."

She is certain she'll win, not because of who she is, but because she will use the most powerful asset the consumer has: the Small Claims Court.

"There isn't a judge in the world that will rule against the little guy whose fighting a giant like Blue Cross or Bank Americard," she said.

DETOURING to the subject of energy, she stressed the need for consumers to save energy, adding that cutting down on the use of items made from oil, such as plastics, and recycling those items, will pay off in the long run.

Europeans have known this and done this for years, she said, but Americans have become spoiled and complacent.

Energy saving in small amount can add up to significant totals, she contends, and the current inflation is eating into incomes of those who are in higher brackets.

"I'm well paid, but I also have to cut on basic costs to spend more on what I really want," she said.

To do that, she buys generic label groceries and finds them as good or better than the name brands.

"Bleach is bleach," she said. Adding if there's one thing she would urge that consumers do it would be to break any addition to name brands.

Mrs. Eliasberg's idea of a savvy consumer is one who with imagination and assertiveness can protect himself in the marketplace.

CONSUMERS should watch advertisements very carefully. They should compute cost per ounce of products.

"If you shop in any market that doesn't have unit pricing, you should walk out," she said.

Questioned about coupons, she responded that they are "an absolute fraud" on the public.

"There's no way that all that advertising and everything involved can do anything but raise the price of an item."

Another consumer ripoff in her lexicon is mail order fraud, which she called "rampant" in this country.

"If you buy by mail from other than a reputable catalog company it is the greatest risk you can take," she said.

On where to go for help, she named several agencies such as the city department of consumer affairs, the state Insurance Commissioner, and the Federal Trade Commission (in mail order disputes).

Mrs. Eliasberg says generic drugs are the same as brand name ones with 95 percent of all aspirin actually being manufactured by one company and then repackaged.

"DRUGGISTS are offenders too," she says. "The consumer has to ask the names and compare prices, but druggists are often reluctant to tell."

On lightbulbs, she urges consumers to read the "teeny tiny" print on what the lumens are, rather than wattage. And if shopping the discount stores, "you just have to know bargains."

Concerning the recent revelations about tampons and their connection with Toxic Shock Syndrome, she said the diagnosis was made only recently and the relationship remains unproved.

Many doctors, she asserts, tend to dismiss illness in women as related to menopausal or mental problems.

"I think we should have more women gynecologists," she says. "A woman doctor would never have invented an infertility pill that results in giving birth to five babies."

Bennett-Fox

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Jay Bennett are now living in Plymouth following their wedding in First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fox of Northern Street, Plymouth. The parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bennett of Gray Avenue, Westland.

The bride wore a dress of silk organza trimmed with lace over acetate rayon. She carried silk white roses. The matron of honor was Patricia Gay. The best man was Nelson Griffith. Ushers were Bill Kerr and Matt Colosky. Ringbearer was Robert Willnow.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of Plymouth High School, and graduated in 1969 from Plymouth Beauty College. The bridegroom is a 1962 graduate of Bentley High School.

Hoben-Soper

Nancy Jane Soper of Farmington Hills and John Michael Hoben of Plymouth exchanged marriage vows on Dec. 19 in Our Lady Of Good Counsel Catholic Church, Plymouth. The Rev. Kenneth McKinnon officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Willard Osbourne of Winchester, Ky. She was attended by her sister, Lou Wyman. Richard Hoben, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Following a reception at Hillside Inn, the couple honeymooned in the Caribbean and South America. They will make their home, temporarily, in Farmington Hills.

The bride is assistant superintendent for instruction for the Northville Schools. The bridegroom is superintendent of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Rowe-Foster

Heidi Janine Foster and Darrell Allen Rowe exchanged marriage vows Oct. 11. The fireside ceremony was performed by candlelight in the Foster family lodge on the Boardman River, Traverse City. The Rev. Robert Brubaker officiated.

The bride is the daughter of H. Oliver and Janice Foster of West Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth. The bridegroom's parents are George H. and Shirley Rowe of N. Canton Center Road, Plymouth. The bride's white Qiana gown featured a Queen Anne neckline with embroidered Venetian lace on the bodice, skirt and sleeves. It had a moderate oval train. Her fingertip veil, a gift from her sister, had a Juliet cap trimmed with Venetian lace, and tiny silk lilies of the valley which complemented her bouquet of cascading silk flowers.

The bride's sisters, Sharon Foster and Beverly and Christie Foster, served as matron of honor and maid of honor. Their floor length gowns highlighted the fall theme of the bouquets, corsages and table arrangements, which had been handcrafted by the bride from rich, autumn-hued silk flowers.

Following a brief champagne reception at the lodge, the wedding party, their families and close friends attended an evening reception in Taverse City.

Madonna graduate

Jordanian faces difficult test

Classes have ended. Tests are over and grades are in.

But for Alia Nimeh, a recent graduate of Madonna College, the real test is just beginning. She will soon carry her American education home and put it to use in her native Jordan.

"I will struggle, that is positive," said the demure former student, who laces her polished English with American slang. "But even though women are still considered far from equal to men, people are more willing now to accept change. Every year that change is more evident."

Miss Nimeh left her home in the capital city of Amman three years ago in search of a dream she has held since childhood.

"We always think American education best," she said, "and although my parents were at first concerned, I know now they are very pleased."

The changes in her country in the past 50 years which allowed an unaccompanied girl to travel to a foreign land are also responsible for her career plans.

With a bachelor of arts degree in business administration from Madonna, Miss Nimeh plans to build a career in the Jordanian fashion industry. Later, she will pursue a graduate degree in finance.

THE HASHEMITE Kingdom of Jordan is a young nation sitting on ancient land, a microcosm of the divisions and frustrations of the large Arab world. Ninety-four percent Sunni Moslem, Jordan is the birthplace of Christ, a neighbor to Israel, a hotbed of Arab hostility and a homeland to thousands of Palestinian refugees.

It is now perched on the brink of involvement in the Iran-Iraq war.

According to Miss Nimeh, the result has been a tension-filled atmosphere where people have learned to live with fear.

"It is sad, really, the strain is always present," she says. Then after a pause she recovered her optimism.

"We are not so different," she continued. "My dad is an executive, my mother a housewife. We want mostly what Americans want — nice home, nice family, nice clothes."

She regards her years at Madonna as productive, even though they involved a struggle to do school work in a foreign tongue and social ways at odds with her own. As if rehearsed, the differences between the culture of the United States and Jordan were quickly ticked off.

About food, she said: "So bland compared to our spices." The countryside? "So big and so dependent on cars." As for television, "The news, I don't bother to watch. It is all so much drama, not truth."

WHERE WE REALLY differ, she said with her large opaque eyes flashing, is in family relationships.

"We are very traditional and very close," she said. She added that a casual relationship between men and women is "totally unacceptable in Jordan." We don't even date until we're engaged. I think it's funny how well I've adjusted to it here. But I expect it to be all different at home."

She shudders at the thought of America's fervent feminism reaching Jordan.

"I support it here," she said. "I think it's wonderful how far women have come, and so free. But I think it's gone overboard. Now women are just taken for granted. It will never work in Jordan."

Birth of Christ to be joyfully celebrated in area churches

Churches will be flooded with candlelight and the sound of music tonight and tomorrow as local churches crowd in to observe Christmas.

Candlelight ceremonies and carol singing have been scheduled tonight in many churches while the doors of many churches will be open on Christmas day.

At First United Methodist Church of Plymouth, the Christmas observances will be entirely on Christmas eve. Three candlelight services are planned at 6, 8 and 10 p.m., with the voices of the children's, youth and adult choirs singing traditional music.

"A Gift, Burning Bright" will be the theme discussed by the Rev. John Grenfell and The Rev. Frank Lyman, ministers. The ceremonies will close with an enactment of a living creche posed by members of the congregation. There will then be a family recessional with everyone holding candles.

Other church's plans for Christmas services are listed below.

CHRIST OUR SAVIOR LUTHERAN CHURCH, 14175 Farmington, Livonia, will celebrate the nativity of Christ with two services on Christmas Eve. One will occur at 7 p.m. and will involve lessons and carols, tracing the Christmas message from its Old Testament prophecies to its fulfillment when Jesus was born in Bethlehem. The message, "Coming with Haste," will focus on the shepherds' response as it relates to Christians today.

The traditional candlelight service will take place at 11 p.m. Special music will be provided by choirs, instrumentalists and the handbell choir. Among the musical selections will the newly published "Gloria in Excelsis" by Jolly.

The message, "Coming with Haste," will focus on the shepherds' response as it relates to Christians today.

The Christmas service at 10:30 a.m. Thursday will be celebrated by the singing of communion liturgy set to Christmas melodies. Choir selections will also be presented. The theme will be "Christmas is Forever."

ST. ROBERT BELLARMINE CATHOLIC CHURCH, 27101 W. Chicago, Redford Township, will have a children's mass at 5 p.m. Christmas Eve. A midnight mass will take place followed by a mass at 1:30 a.m. Daytime masses will be held at 8, 9:30 and 11 a.m. and at 12:30 p.m. on Christmas.

SALEM EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH, 32430 Ann Arbor Trail, Westland, will have a candlelight service at 7:30 p.m. Christmas Eve. At the 10 a.m. service the following day the choir will sing the cantata, "Down From His Glory."

ST. DUNSTAN CATHOLIC CHURCH, 1646 Belton, Garden City, will have its Christmas Eve services at 6, 10, 11:30 p.m., followed by midnight mass. There will be a Christmas pageant just before the midnight ceremony. The Christmas Day masses will be at 8, 9:30 and 11 a.m.

FAITH LUTHERAN CHURCH, 30000 Five Mile, Livonia, has scheduled "for those who love to sing the carols of Christmas" a carol eucharist at 7 p.m. Dec. 24. A festival eucharist will follow the same night at 11 p.m. Nursery care will be provided at both.

On Christmas Day the congregation will participate in a joint worship service at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, 39020 Five Mile, Livonia.

NEWBURG UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 36500 Ann Arbor Trail, Livonia, has planned a service of carols and candlelighting at 6:30 p.m. Christmas Eve. The sacrament of baptism will be added to the program at 8:30 p.m. At 11 p.m. carols will be sung, candles will be lit and Holy Communion will be served.

PARKWAY HEIGHTS' FREE METHODIST CHURCH, 23705 Plymouth, Redford Township, will feature a musical program at its candlelight service at 6 p.m. Wednesday. Vocalists and musicians are Terri Delorey, Sally Munding, Harry Stimson, Pat Cox, Lorna Milos, Laura Tandy and the Rev. and Mrs. Warren Sherman.

NATIVITY UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST, 9435 Henry Ruff, Livonia, will present to its Christmas Eve churchgoers a colorful candlelight pageant at 11 p.m. It will include carols, anthems and narration as the first Christmas is re-enacted.

WARD PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Farmington and Six Mile, Livonia, will have three services on Christmas Eve. Dr. Bartlett Hess will speak on "A Baby Is Born; It's A Boy" at 5 and 7 p.m. services Wednesday. The 80-voice Chancel Choir will sing

Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" at these services as well as the one at 11 p.m.

Dr. L. Edward Davis will talk on "With Dawn Comes Christmas" at the 11 p.m. service. The adult Bell Choir will perform "A Christmas Tapestry," a medley of traditional carols.

Just before each of the Christmas Eve services Onita Sanders, harpist and vocalist, will give a brief concert. She has sung with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

UNITY OF LIVONIA, 28660 Five Mile, Livonia, will hold a candlelight and prayer service at 7:30 p.m. Christmas Eve.

ST. MICHAEL CATHOLIC CHURCH, Hubbard and Plymouth roads, Livonia, has scheduled a program of carols by the Youth Choir at 4:45 p.m. Wednesday before the 5 p.m. Children's Eve mass.

At 11:30 p.m. the same evening the Adult Choir will sing a several traditional hymn before the midnight mass.

The mass schedule for Christmas Day is 7:30, 9, and 10:30 a.m. and noon.

Yule feast gathers those living alone

For the seventh year members of the congregation of St. Dunstan Church in Garden City will set the table for about 125 persons who would otherwise be alone on Christmas.

Instead they will be joined by about 125 volunteers at a 2 p.m. meal at the church, provided to a considerable extent by merchants in the area. There is no charge for the dinner.

"People think this is charity, but it's not, said Mary Shurge, who for four years has directed the program. "These people live alone and want some companionship on Christmas. They are people of all faiths."

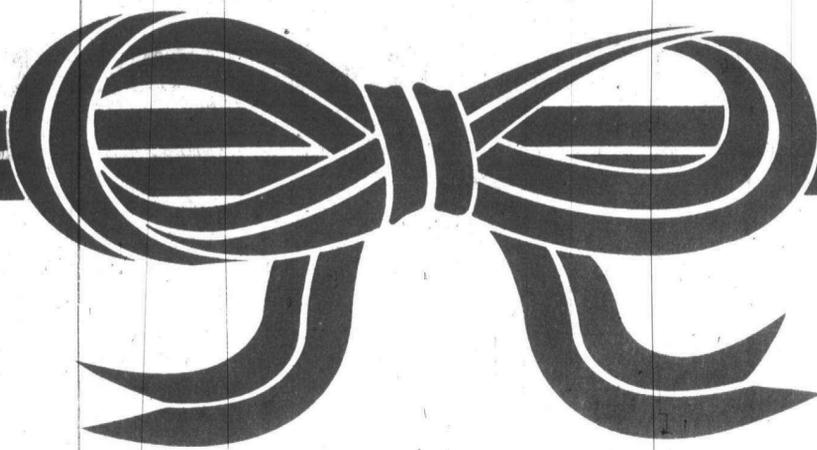

She added that volunteers from throughout the area have come to the church at 1515 Belton to pitch in on the project. At the present time the guest list is full. Mrs. Shurge, however, pointed out there are sometimes last-minute cancellations.

Those wishing to contact her may call 425-3282.

Pleased as punch

Proud of their efforts to collect toys for the Helping Hand project for needy children, three children at St. Damien Catholic Church in Westland show off the presents. They are Jennifer Simecek (left), 7; Siobhan Groleau, 9, and Tom Stemen, 7. Behind them is Florence Klein, a representative of Helping Hand. At right is the Rev. Richard Dorr, pastor of St. Damien. The toys were collected by children in both the St. Damien school and after-school programs. (Staff photo by Bill Bresler)

Stevenson grabs early yuletide gift

By BRAD EMONS

Livonia Stevenson coach George Van Waggoner said "someone was smiling." Indeed somebody was as his Spartan cagers held on to beat Plymouth Salem, 45-44, to win the Livonia Churchill Christmas Classic Tuesday night. It was the second straight one-point victory in as many nights for the Spartans, now 5-1 overall. Salem suffered its first loss in six games. Stevenson had advanced to the championship with a 44-43 triumph the night before over host Churchill. "I feel very good about tonight," said the veteran Spartan coach, who has more than 400 victories in his prep career. "We had it together defensively and were good enough to win it offensively." In the consolation final, Plymouth Canton defeated Churchill for the second straight time this year, 52-41. Bill Keyes, a 6-foot-3 swingman, scored 18 points to lead Stevenson to the championship. Center Rich Sanders added 10. They supplied most of the offense while guard Jon Huddy took charge of the defense. "I felt if we could score," said Van Waggoner, "we could beat Salem."

"If we execute, our kids will do a super job." The Spartan coach also singled out the play of Brian Altenberger, making his first start of the year, guard Kevin Spala and reserve Greg Berkey. "This is a super bunch of kids," said Van Waggoner. "I think they're going to be all right." Stevenson seemed to have the game well in hand with 4:47 left as Huddy put the Spartans ahead by seven, 45-38, by sinking two free throws. Salem, however, scrapped back and actually had the last opportunity to score.

RESERVE Dave Miller was fouled with only seven seconds left and the Spartans leading by one. He missed the first of a one-and-one free throw as the ball caromed off the rim. A furious scramble ensued as two Salem players threw up desperation shots which were partially deflected. The horn then sounded as Stevenson's players went into a small celebration. "We were right there," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "We've had four games in eight days and I was pretty pleased we were right there in this game." "This is a pretty gutsy group of kids. We don't have guys who can do it all."

"We have to do by bits and pieces." Stevenson held the upper hand by pressuring the Salem backcourt near the mid-court line. "Their guards caused us a lot of problems in the first half," said Thomann. "I thought we adjusted against it in the second half. Close games are becoming a trademark for the Rocks. It took three overtimes the previous night as Salem edged Canton, 57-56. Miller paced Salem in scoring with eight points. In the opener, Canton outscored Churchill 23-15 in the second half to win going away.

Matt Thomas, a left-handed shooting forward, led the Chiefs (4-2) with 16 points. Center Sean Houle and guard Dave Malek each added 13. Kelsey Thayer had 12 for Churchill, now 2-5 overall. "We stepped out with our man-to-man," said Canton coach Craig Bell, "and we found it was our best defense to use against them." "This was a good maturing factor to step back and play hard two nights in a row." Named to the All-Tournament squad were Keyes, Houle, Malek, Mike McBride (Salem) and Mike Sharp (Salem) as selected by the coaches.

Chiefs fall in 3 overtimes, 57-56

McBride's clutch shooting lifts Rocks

By BRAD EMONS

Mike McBride was relatively quiet most of the evening. But when it counted the most, McBride came through with flying colors. The 6-foot-3 junior guard hit a 18-foot jumper with only two seconds left to lead Plymouth Salem past rival Plymouth Canton, 57-56, in three overtimes Monday night at the Livonia Churchill Christmas Basketball Tournament. McBride, who finished with nine points, also saved the Rocks in the second overtime by hitting two free throws to knot the score with time expired. "This was a tremendous victory for us to come from behind," said Salem coach Fred Thomann, whose team ran its record to 5-0. Canton never trailed in the three extra periods until McBride's game-winning. The Chiefs, in fact, had several chances to win it. In the second overtime, Bill Childs hit two free throws with 1:11 left to put Canton ahead, 51-47. The pesky Rocks, however, refused to fold. "I think they had us on the ropes, too," said Canton coach Craig Bell. "I'm super proud of the way we played. We got beat on an 18-foot shot that could have gone in-and-out. That could have gone either way. "The kids did a fine job in the overtime and they were very patient on offense."

Canton led at halftime, 20-19, on the stellar play of 6-5 Sean Houle and 6-6 Steve Tuttle. Both had 10 points at the half. Salem took command in the third quarter and took a five-point lead when Leigh Langkabel connected on a free throw with 2:48 to go. CANTON, though, came roaring back in the final period behind the hot outside shooting of Houle, who ripped home some big baskets down the stretch. The Chief senior led all scorers with 27 points. Tuttle added 19. But that was almost the extent of the Chiefs' scoring. Houle and Tuttle had done all the scoring until 52 seconds left in the third quarter when Malek dropped on a medium-range jumper. Salem's scoring was more balanced. Junior forward Scott Bublin had 18 points, with some key buckets also in the overtime. Center Paul Horton had 11 and Langkabel seven. "I thought our whole team played well," said Thomann. "I thought at times defensively we were very good. We played eight players and they played six. That may have made a difference down the stretch. "Canton is a good basketball team. I know every time we play them they are going to give it their best shot. "At times tonight we couldn't deal with Houle or Tuttle." Two Canton turnovers in the final minute almost enabled Salem to go away with a win in regulation time. The Rocks worked for the last shot. Bublin's try from the corner hit the back of the rim and fell off. The two teams went into the first overtime, tied at 42-41. Thomann credited reserve Dave Miller with doing yeoman's work on defense in the overtimes.

Bill Keyes pumped in 22 points to power Livonia Stevenson to a 44-43 triumph over crosstown rival Livonia Churchill Monday night in the Churchill Christmas Basketball Classic. Stevenson raised its record to 4-1 with the win, while Churchill slipped to 2-4. In the opener, Plymouth Salem edged Plymouth Canton in three overtimes, 57-56. Keyes, a senior, kept the host Chargers at bay most of the night. The 6-3 forward also added six rebounds. Churchill missed four free throws in the final 14 seconds, blowing an opportunity to win the nightcap. The Chargers' zone seemed to bother Stevenson. Chris Harvath's basket with 1:55 left in the third quarter gave Churchill its biggest lead of the night, 35-30. Stevenson answered in the final quarter as Keyes' tip one in with 4:35 to play to give the Spartans its final margin of victory, 44-43. With just over four minutes to play, Stevenson went into a stall and held onto the ball for almost three minutes. The Spartans, however, turned it over with 53 seconds remaining, giving Churchill new life. Stevenson prevailed as Churchill went ice cold, blowing three scoring opportunities in the final minute. "Maybe because it's Monday or the holidays," said Stevenson coach George Van Waggoner, "we were lethargic and didn't move the ball against their zone. "Give Churchill credit. They keep improving each time out." Churchill coach Don Alburtson was pleased with his team's showing. "We can't do any better than we did today," he said. "We gave Livonia Stevenson all they could handle. I feel real positive about this game." "A LOT OF good things are happening." Churchill committed an average of 32 turnovers in each of its first three losses. Against Stevenson, Charger statisticians had their team down for 15.

"That's a drastic improvement," said Alburtson. "I still feel we can contend right down the stretch and in our district." Churchill surrendered to Stevenson's full court pressure in the final quarter as Van Waggoner went with a quicker lineup. "We used the smaller guys against them for pressure," he said. Leading the defense was guard John Huddy, who came up with four steals and nine assists. "We held them to 43 points," Van Waggoner said. "We must have been playing some defense." Ron Reed paced the Chargers in scoring with 11 points, two coming a breakaway slam dunk late in the second quarter. Joe Powless, Scott Conrad and Harvath each had eight points. Reed and Harvath each collected 10 rebounds. Churchill held the advantage overall, 35-30.

Temple quintet stays unbeaten

Kernie Gilliam scored 15 points to lead four players in double figures as Redford Temple Christian won its sixth straight basketball game, 71-56, over Toledo Staline Christian Monday night in the first round of the Inter-City Christian Christmas Tournament in A-len Park. Following Gilliam were John Weiss (13 points), John Knight (12) and Jim Weiss (11). Trailing by one point after the first quarter, 16-15, Temple took control of the game, outscoring Staline 24-12 in the second period. The victory propelled Temple into the finals Tuesday night. Complete results will appear in Monday's Observer.

State finalists dominate All-Area team

By BRAD EMONS and DOUG FUNKE

swimming

FIRST TEAM

Look no further than Livonia Stevenson High School and you'll get a pretty good idea what this year's All-Area Girls' Swim Team is all about.

The Spartans, coached by Lois McDonald, once again dominate the 1980 squad.

Stevenson is represented in six of 11 first team spots. Livonia Bentley, champs of the Suburban Eight League, landed three tankers on the first team.

McDonald's team gained sixth recently in the Class A finals at Michigan State University in East Lansing. That secured the highest finish by an area school.

Stevenson has a tradition of producing team — both girls and boys. McDonald, in fact, coaches the two squads and works 12 months a year.

Most of the Spartans have been with her, swimming in AAU programs, since their early elementary school days.

Area coaches gathered recently to select the top swimmers in the Observer Wayne County sports area.

Three at-large swimmers are mentioned in addition to the first team picks.

Sue Hollman, Stevenson, 200-yard freestyle. Just a sophomore, Hollman qualified for the Class A state meet in the 200 freestyle and 100 butterfly, but did not place.

She was a member of Stevenson's record setting 400-freestyle relay squad, which posted a time of 3:48.9.

Hollman, who swims for Dearborn AAU in the off season, posted the area's best time in the 200 freestyle (1:59.9).

"Sue is a good athlete who will progressively get better with experience," said McDonald.

Jenny Fedor, Bentley, 200 IM. Only a freshman, Fedor set school records in the 200 IM, 100 freestyle and 100 backstroke.

She was also a member of the school record 200-medley and 400-freestyle relay.

Fedor set Suburban Eight League marks in the 200 IM and 100 backstroke as Bentley won the team crown.

She placed seventh in the IM at the state meet and eighth in the butterfly. The Bulldog freshman had the area's best time in the 200 IM (2:14.1) and was high up in the rankings in several other events.

Mary Rozman, Stevenson, 50 freestyle. The Spartan 10th grader placed in three events at the state Class A meet.

Her best finish was fifth place in the 50 freestyle. She led the area with a time of 24.6.

She placed ninth in the 100 freestyle (55.02) at the state meet and set a school record in the process.

She also is a member of record-setting relay teams in the 400-freestyle and 200-medley events.

"She has raw ability to be great at state," said McDonald. "Mary is a good student who sets goals for herself."

Rozman swims for McDonald on the Spartan AAU team.

Chris Wennerberg, Plymouth Canton, diving. A member of the Canton varsity for four years, Wennerberg fought back to have a stellar season after suffering a broken eardrum early in the year.

She won the Western Six League diving crown with 330.15 points (11 dives). In the Class A regional she topped all area divers with a 14th place finish.

Wennerberg has competed in the off season for the AAU Southfield Civic Center Divers and has attended Indiana University's Diving School.

The Chief senior is a member of the National Honor Society.

Julia Westhaus, Bentley, 100 butterfly. The Rock junior posted the second best 100 butterfly time in the area (1:02.3).

A two-time Suburban Eight League champ and state finalist, she has been selected on the All-Observer three consecutive years.

Terri Eudy, Plymouth Salem, 100 freestyle. The Rock junior qualified for the state meet at MSU in three races — 50, 100 and 200-yard freestyle events.

Her best time in the 100 freestyle this season was 55.7. She placed second to Dearborn's Patty Sabo in that event at the Suburban Eight meet.

Salem swimmers gain 2nd at Rotary

The second annual Plymouth-Canton Rotary Boys' Swim Invitational has a new champion.

Brighton came away with the crown Saturday afternoon, scoring 269 points, edging last year's champ Plymouth Salem by 11.

The Bulldogs had only one enough points to come away with the team trophy.

Westland John Glenn was a surprising third with 221 points followed by fellow Northwest Suburban League member Livonia Franklin in fourth with 160.

Northville and Plymouth Canton, members of the Western Six League, finished fifth and sixth, respectively.

The team championship was not decided until the final race, the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Brighton placed third in that event to clinch the title and was helped when Salem's No. 2 team was disqualified.

"I thought our guys swam real well," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "Considering we had three meets in one week. Some of the guys were a little bit tired. Brighton had a similar problem also."

Olson described the meet as "real competitive."

"I thought John Glenn swam real well."

One of the reasons for Glenn's third place finish was junior Greg Dawkins, who won the 200- and 500-freestyle events.

Dawkins also anchored Glenn to victory in the 400 freestyle relay.

Salem won the 200 medley relay, 50 freestyle (Paul Perkowski), diving (Joe Rudelic) and 200 individual medley (Russ Shaffer).

Canton was hampered by injuries to two standouts — John Simone and Ron Hurley. Both did not compete.

A crowd of more than 300 watched the meet.

Stevenson girls lead All-Area

Eudy was honored by her teammates as Salem's Most Valuable Swimmer for 1980.

She ranked second in the area in the 500 freestyle with a clocking of 25.7.

Ann MacIntyre, Bentley, 500 freestyle. Only a junior, MacIntyre was one of the most consistent swimmers in the area.

Her time of 5:38.6 was fourth best in the area 500 freestyle ranking.

She is the Bentley pool record holder in the 200 freestyle (2:03.8).

MacIntyre was Suburban Eight champ last year in the 200 and 500 freestyle events. She was a member of Bentley's record-setting 400-freestyle relay squad this season.

The Bulldog standout was a state qualifier this year.

Sally Rozman, Stevenson, 100 backstroke. The Spartan captain took fourth place at the state meet in the 100 backstroke with a time of 1:01.9.

She also gained ninth in the 200 IM with a time of 2:17.21.

She was a member of Stevenson's 200-yard medley relay team, which set pool and school records this year.

McDonald said the Spartan senior is being recruited by numerous Big 10 schools including Michigan State.

Rozman was Stevenson's Most Valuable Swimmer as a sophomore and senior.

She is also a member of the Spartan AAU Club.

Jackie Cogo, Stevenson, 100 breaststroke. The Spartan 11th grader holds pool records in the 200 IM (2:15.3), 500 freestyle (5:22.3) and set a school mark recently in the 100 breaststroke (1:09.9).

She was also a member of Stevenson's record-setting relay squads.

Her best finish in the state meet was sixth in the 200 IM. She also placed eighth in the 100 breaststroke, to break the school record.

"Jackie is a versatile swimmer with lots of drive," said McDonald, who has coached Cogo at the Spartan AAU Club.

Sally Rozman, Polly Adzema, Jackie Cogo and Mary Rozman, Livonia Stevenson, 200-medley relay. This group lowered their time with a third-place finish in the state meet (1:53.14).

The four Spartan swimmers also set school and area bests with that clocking.

Adzema is joined on the squad by Observer first-teamers Sally Rozman, Jackie Cogo and Mary Rozman.

A junior, Adzema has been elected Stevenson's co-captain for 1981. She swam in the 100-breaststroke and relay events at the state meet.

Sue Hollman, Karen Biermann, Karen Walter and Beth Nolan, Livonia Stevenson, 400-freestyle relay. This quartet paced all area teams with a time of 3:48.9.

The Spartan swimmers qualified for the state meet, but did not place.

Biermann is a 10th grader who swims in the off season for Clarenceville AAU.

Nolan, also a sophomore, finished 12th at the state meet in the 100 backstroke (1:03.64).

Walter, a junior, was an alternate for both relays at the state meet. She will captain the team next season along with Adzema. The Spartan standout was hampered the first part of the season by tendonitis of the elbow.

AT-LARGE PICKS

Kim Dorsey, Garden City West. Only a freshman, Dorsey did just about everything for the Tigers.

She ranked in seven area events and set school records in the 200 and 500 freestyle relay squads. She also anchored West's 200-medley and 400-freestyle relay squads.

Dorsey won the 200 IM and 500 freestyle at the Tri-River League meet.

In the 500 freestyle, Dorsey posted an outstanding time of 5:42.1.

Shelly Morse, Redford Thurston. Morse, a senior, won the 100 breaststroke at the Northwest Suburban League meet (1:11.29) and set a league mark in the process.

The team captain, Morse also finished second at the league meet in the 200 IM.

An honor roll student, Morse anchored Thurston's 400-freestyle relay team.

Patty Larson, Plymouth Salem. The Rock senior enjoyed a fine season, placing seventh in the tough Suburban Eight League meet with 307 points.

She also qualified for the diving regionals, placing 21st.

She had the highest dual-meet average in the area, 202.12.

Spartan wrestlers win tourney

BY SCOTT ADLER

Livonia Stevenson, despite not having an individual champion, won its first wrestling tournament at the 16-team Dearborn Heights Robichaud Invitational with a total of 159½ points Saturday, besting second-place Dearborn Annapolis by six points. Dearborn Heights Crestwood was third with 136½ points.

Phil Shannon, the 98-pound champion from Annapolis, was selected as Most Valuable Wrestler. Shannon pinned every one of his opponents.

Heavyweight champion Brian Hess of Southgate Aquinas earned the Hustler Award by pinning all of his opponents in the shortest amount of time.

Jim Cousins of Stevenson was runnerup at 98 pounds. He was pinned by Shannon in the championship match.

At 167 pounds, Paul Hubbard (Dearborn Fordson) pinned Mike Petchoff of Stevenson at 3:35.

The Spartans only other second-place finisher, Alex Rahill (185), was decided by Tony Brisker of Robichaud, 15-10.

Third-place finishers for Stevenson included Joe Parent (105), Joe Bidomenico (126) and Tim Templeton (145). Tom Baucus (155) finished fourth for the Spartans.

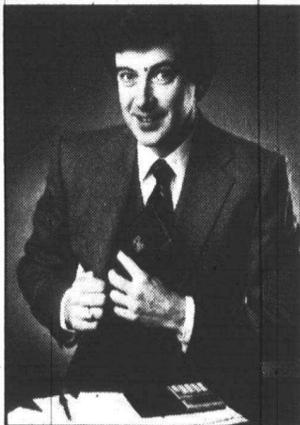

First-year coach Larry Ruzsas credits overall team balance to the first tourney victory.

"We are an excellent tournament team," said Ruzsas, whose club finished third in the Westland John Glenn Tournament earlier this month. "We are getting a lot of placing (finishing in the top six). We aren't getting a lot of firsts, but we have great team balance and that is what won it for us."

Ruzsas is looking forward to his team's first appearance in the Schoolcraft Invitational Wrestling Tournament next month.

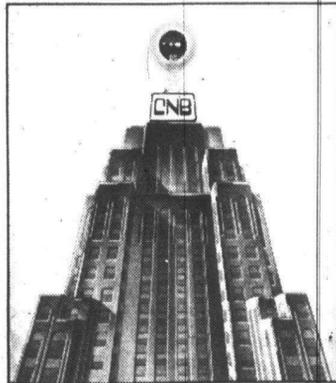

In the Robichaud event, Redford Bishop Borgess placed 12th with 49½ points.

Actor talks about 'Elephant Man'

By ETHEL SIMMONS

Courtney Burr, the star of "Elephant Man," was fresh-voiced and friendly, as he spoke by phone from New York on a recent afternoon.

The versatile actor-producer is back on stage again, after recent stints producing successful Broadway runs of "Harold and Maude" and "The Effects of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds."

He's returning to the role of the grotesque "elephant man," continuing the tour that resumes Friday when the American Theatre Productions version of the Broadway hit opens at the Birmingham Theatre.

The play by Bernard Pomerance won a Tony Award and the New York drama Critics' Circle Award. It continues at the Birmingham Theatre through Jan. 4.

Burr said the tour had begun in the East and the South, playing a lot of university towns and other cities. Audience response has been "extremely favorable" and the cast has played to some standing-room-only houses.

THE SHOW has been touring for about 10 weeks. The company broke after Thanksgiving for four weeks, and "Birmingham is the first date after the break," he said. The Midwest and West Coast will comprise the rest of the tour.

A movie also called "The Elephant Man," but not based on the play, has been playing approximately at the same time of the touring production.

Burr said the movie doesn't seem to have deterred attendance at the play. The film is a good work and many people who have seen it are seeing the play as well, he commented.

While the movie depends strongly on make-up and visuals, the stage production offers "more structure to the actual play," he said. "The magic of theater live" is another facet of the drama.

The real-life "elephant man," John Merrick, was a hideously deformed man who toured as a circus freak before a medical doctor rescued him in Victorian England. Merrick was a brilliant, magnetic personality who became the rage of London society.

BLOND, SQUARE-JAWED and handsome Burr relies on "a simple contortion" to help the audience imagine the grotesque creature. During the play, real photos of Merrick are flashed on a screen for a scene at a lecture.

"I do contort my body, in a pose I sustain through the show. And I walk with a cane," Burr said. The actual deformity is "suggested rather than gruesome."

Burr said he suspects people will cry, "Oh, My God!" upon hearing his description of the character and play. "In point of fact, 'The Elephant Man' has a great deal of comedy and is very moving."

Philip Anglim, an American actor, discovered the play while he was in England. There, he originated the role of "the elephant man" and brought it to Broadway.

Bruce Davidson played the role next, and rock star David Bowie is currently starring as "the elephant man" in New York. Courtney said he saw Anglim in the role and the first act of Bowie's performance, which he attended to study technical aspects.

BOWIE IS "androgynous, ethereal. His quality — which he uses in rock performances — is startling." In contrast, "My emotional life is much more on the surface of the work," Burr said.

Theater audiences identify easily with "the elephant man," Burr said, because of the character's strength and courage. "There's a line from the play and real-life in which the doctor, Sir Frederick Trees, says, 'His character is that of an upstanding, handsome young man.' We're focusing in on the soul of this man."

Before going onstage for a performance, Burr does 40 minutes of exercise for his back, neck and shoulders. "To get extremely relaxed, limber and warm." Following the show, he looks for "a warm restaurant. I take hot baths after for the bones."

He also keeps in shape with massages and a choreographer. "Exercise is always a very good preparation. It helps me get into the mental work of the character as well," Burr said.

Besides the physical movement, the actor uses voice changes in his role of "the elephant man."

"I WORKED ON a form of impediment, then refined it. You see a slight change in his talking pattern. There's a moment in the play when the voice changes. People say, 'Oh, I liked the other character so much!'"

Born in Manhattan, Burr comes from a family with a long history in theater and all the arts. His grandfather, Courtney Burr, was a theatrical producer for 40 years. His grandmother wrote popular song hits.

Because he is both a producer and actor, Burr is able to talk about both professions knowledgeably. "I'm enjoying going back to the acting," he said. "To be a producer is so grueling and time consuming. Months and years go into each production."

"A producer has to be more of a merchant, an actor more of an artist."

Courtney Burr, grandson of the late theatrical producer of the same name, stars in the American Theatre Productions national touring company of "The Elephant Man."

Actresses Ruth Palmer (left) and Dee Andrus are appearing in the Detroit Repertory Theater Production of "Catsplay." The show runs through Dec. 31. Survey shows diners avoid dining alone

Going it alone for lunch or dinner in a restaurant can be intimidating and uncomfortable — enough to influence any adult man or woman to avoid doing it as often as possible.

This conclusion is drawn from the results of a new study that investigates attitudes about the dining-alone experience in table-service restaurants.

It reveals some interesting comparisons and differences between the sexes as reported by men and women across the country who are 25 years and older and in professional, business and non-professional white collar occupations. The survey was conducted by the Gallup Organization Inc.

On the average, men eat both lunch and dinner out alone slightly more often than women. However, men become much more frequent solo diners than women when business reasons influence the dining alone occasion.

WHERE ABOUT half of the men eat lunches and dinners out alone due to business, only one-third of the women eat lunch alone and one-fifth eat dinner alone for business reasons.

It appears, however, that women actually like dining alone more than men do. Where 52 percent of the women like dining alone for lunch, only 40 percent of the men like it. At dinner, women are slightly more inclined to enjoy eating out alone.

Generally both men and women find reading is one thing they can do to feel more comfortable about eating alone, whether for lunch or dinner. Women differ from men at lunchtime, saying that they take interest in watching the view or people to feel more comfortable.

None of the men mentioned this. To feel comfortable at dinner, more men than women order a drink, according to the study, which was commissioned by the Magic Pan restaurants.

When selecting a lunchtime restaurant, the location and type of food a restaurant offers are important to both men and women. However, price of the luncheon meal is a greater consideration for men than women. It was cited by 14 percent of the men compared to only 3 percent of the women.

IN ADDITION, the type of food is more important in choosing a restaurant for dinner among men than women.

WHEN NOT TO LEAVE A SHOT

In this position, white rolls 2-2. Having several interesting options but only one good move, how would you play it?

Whenever you are in a similar situation, your priority is to get home safely and fast. Occasionally, it would be correct to leave your opponent a voluntary shot — especially if the shot is inevitable (as it will be in this position) and before your opponent has the opportunity to solidify his home board.

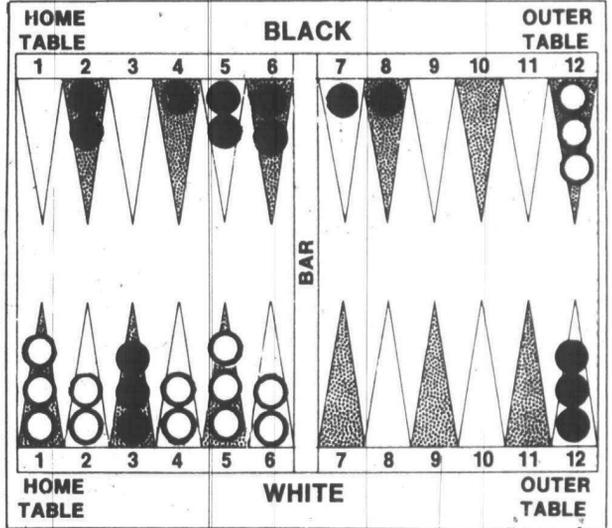

However, black has three men back. If white left the voluntary shot (three checkers from the 12 to the 11 point and one checker to the 9 point), black would be forced to hit with the third checker and be allowed to maintain his security point in white's home board.

Because of that third black checker on the 3 point, and since black's home board will have two points open after the 12 to the 5 point is favorable.

If, on the next roll, white rolls anything with a six, he must leave the direct one and indirect 10 shot for a total of 14 out of 36 ways to hit. Not too bad.

White could also roll any double (except ones) and come home safely. Also with this move, white may win on his next roll, forcing black out of the game by offering the doubling cube.

For more information, contact the American Backgammon Club at 459-5776 or write to Box 599, Plymouth 48170.

Tom Panzenhagen

"Doctor Zhivago" (1965), 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday at the Redford Theatre, 17360 Lahser at Grand River, 537-2560, $2. Running time 197 minutes.

"Zhivago," Russian Boris Pasternak's only novel, was embraced by the West as a work that revealed the truth about the 1917 Russian revolution. Written in the '20s but not published until 1957 (in Italy), Pasternak's book was turned into an American film by screenwriter Robert Bolt and director David Lean, reunited three years after their enormously successful "Lawrence of Arabia."

Despite this promise, "Zhivago" is an overly burdensome and complex film that's difficult to understand. The plot is too big and the characters too enigmatic, although Julie Christie, Omar Sharif, Rod Steiger, Alec Guinness, Geraldine Chaplin and others do fine jobs with difficult roles. Of course, you really can't go wrong with "Zhivago," not if you're content to just sit back and absorb the beauty of Frederick Young's wonderful cinematography while tuning in the dulcet tones of Maurice Jarre's music. Rating: $3.30.

St. Nick who sells toys in a department store, Janet Leigh as the object of his affections, and Wendell Corey as her fiancé. Mitchum pops into widow Leigh's life and disrupts her plans while befriending her son. Without being mushy, the film is neatly sentimental and heartwarming in the end. Rating: $3.05.

"Say One For Me" (1959), 3 p.m. Friday on Ch. 9. Originally 119 minutes.

If you can picture Bing Crosby as a priest on Broadway and Debbie Reynolds as the chorus girl in his life (don't all priests on Broadway have chorus girls in their lives?), then you'll want to watch this picture. Unless you'd rather play with the toys your kids got from Santa. Rating: $1.19.

"Man Behind the Gun" (1953), 11:45 p.m. Tuesday on Ch. 9. Originally 82 minutes.

Randolph Scott once said, "They told me I couldn't act, and I made 50 films to prove it." Randy couldn't act, but he did epitomize the frontier lawman in more than a dozen films during the '40s and '50s. Some of those titles — "Bad-man's Territory," "Abeline Town," "Fighting Man of the Plains," "The Stranger Wore a Gun," "Ride Lonesome," "Tall Man Riding" — by themselves evoke images of Randy Russell or Karen Steele, usually with Gabby Hayes not far behind. Often as not, Lee Marvin played the villain. No, these aren't great films, but it wasn't so bad growing up on a steady supply of them, either. Rating: $2.50.
