Board snubs plan for change in trustee pay

By DARLENE STINSON

A proposal to place township trustees on a monthly salary has been squashed by the Township Board.

The pay method was suggested by Trustee Robert Padgett, who contended that more study sessions and special meetings could be held if the board would approve his proposal.

The idea was met with stiff opposition from two of Padgett's fellow trustees — Carol Bodenmiller and Stephen Larson.

The township's four trustees now receive $75 for each board meeting they attend. Full-time elected administrators receive no additional pay for the three regular meetings which are held each month or any special sessions.

Under Padgett's proposal, a $300 monthly salary would have replaced the per-meeting pay of trustees. Any meeting missed by a trustee — no matter how many were held that month — would have mandated a $75 deduction from the $300 check.

In addition, Padgett suggested the scheduling of a study session each month in addition to the three regular meetings.

'In my opinion, Canton boards have been predominately reactionary as opposed to planning for future events and making things happen. (This) allows us to better serve the public.'

— Trustee Robert Padgett

"It allows us to better serve the public," maintained Padgett in reference to his own proposal.

'Do the people out there expect us to serve them by rejecting compensation we earned? How many people will want to serve on the board under those terms?'

— Trustee Stephen Larson

"It gives you cost predictability," he said. "It creates meeting flexibility. I think we have a tremendous number of things we should be studying — such as a review of township ordinances, industrial development strategies, growth control. It may create minor savings, but not substantial."

MRS. BODENMILLER, however, called the proposal "punitive." Larson maintained that few persons would run for the trustee position if the pay idea was implemented.

Their objections may have contributed to the board's rejection of the idea. Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz, for example, said she could not vote for any change in the method of computing trustees' pay without full endorsement from all four of those officials.

Only one other board member — Trustee Loren Bennett — joined Padgett in voting to implement the salary idea.

A major objection of Mrs. Bodenmiller and Larson involved the mandatory deduction of $75 from trustees' monthly checks in the event of a missed board meeting.

Padgett included that stipulation in his proposal in order to maintain a benefit of the current per-meeting-pay system.

But Mrs. Bodenmiller pointed out that the system could eliminate all compensation for a trustee during a given month. A trustee could attend three meetings and then miss four because of a vacation or illness, she said. The deduction of $75 per meeting would leave the $300 monthly salary at zero.

"What we're talking about is more meetings — maybe seven or eight in a month," Larson said. "Do the people out there expect us to serve them by rejecting the compensation we earned? Will that make us better administrators?"

"How many people will want to serve on the board under those terms? It's exclusionary," Larson said. "And I don't think government should operate that way."

Padgett's proposal would remove all restraints from the calling of meetings.

Who's driving the bus?

That question is being asked of elementary kids by Jack Seward and Barb Voss to demonstrate that bus drivers can't watch the road and unruly passengers at the same time. The two from Western Michigan University's transportation department visited eight elementaries in Canton and Plymouth and plan to visit other district schools next fall. Schools visited last week included Hulsing and Miller. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey.)

They truly 'go fer' gymnastics

By ARLENE FUNKE

Cindy Goddard and Ron Westerman are literally jumping for joy over their new business.

Cindy and Ron, both of Westland, will open a gymnastics club on Joy Road, east of Lilley in Canton, this weekend.

Gymnastics is a sport which combines coordination and physical fitness through tumbling and working exercises on bars. Three areas of development are strength, skills (including dance) and bar tricks.

The club will debut Saturday with tryouts from 1-4 p.m. for a competitive gymnastics team. Regular classes will begin March 23.

"THERE IS a lot you can gain from gymnastics," said Ron, 22. "I love it and I want to give (the skills) to kids."

"But if you're going to compete, you have to start early," he added.

Ron says he has wanted to have his own business since he was about 16. Teaming up with him in the venture is Cindy, 23.

The two also plan to be married. They are calling their business the 'Go-Fers' Gymnastics Club because, as Ron puts it, "a lot of people say 'go for it' (words of encouragement) during gymnastics."

Ron is a relative newcomer to gymnastics, having discovered the sport around three years ago. For Cindy, starting a gymnastics club was a natural progression after years of training and teaching.

Cindy had been teaching gymnastics through the Westland Parks and Recreation Department for the last five years. She also had been training a group of girls, now aged 9-10, for gymnastics competition.

She said the parks and recreation competition group — called the Westland Bendables — became affiliated with the United States Gymnastics Federation (USGF), a group which is involved in training for Olympics competition.

"The city program can give the basics," said Cindy. "But (it) is limited by time and budget."

"We have some kids that need to go on," she added. "They needed a private club. A lot of kids are looking for that."

CINDY began studying ballet at age 4. By the time she was 12, she added gymnastics to her list of activities.

Later, at Wayne Memorial High School, Cindy became interested in speech and dramatics, and "I was really sure I wanted to be an actress."

Cindy won the Junior Miss competition in Westland in 1975, and went on to graduate from Eastern Michigan University with a major in speech and drama. She had roles in "Barefoot in the Park" and other productions and was part of the Dancing Dominos group.

Officials scratch heads over local meaning of cuts

Supervisor James Poole says a massive cut in federal spending could jeopardize the jobs of a few township employees and hinder the proposed transformation of Dye Brothers subdivision into an industrial park.

Poole has hoped the Economic Development Administration (EDA) — a proposed victim of the federal budget ax — would provide funds for water and sewer improvements in Dye Brothers.

And the salaries of a handful of township employees are funded with money from the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program, which also is targeted for elimination under President Reagan's proposals to cut more than $44 billion from the federal budget.

Poole has asked Washington consultant Ron Linton to assess the possible impact of the cuts on Canton. However, Linton is not expected to complete his report until Congress acts on the president's proposal.

MEANWHILE, township officials say they can only guess on what the federal budget cuts could mean to Canton.

"Really, the impact of the proposed cuts haven't filtered down yet," said Clerk John Flodin. "Canton Township seems to have a distinct advantage in that we haven't relied on CETA funds as heavily as other communities."

According to Poole, the salaries of four township employees — two secretaries and two police cadets — currently are funded through CETA. This year's monies from the CETA program run out in July.

Flodin said the Township Board next summer will have to determine whether the two secretaries should stay on the payroll with township funds. The two police cadets will stay on the payroll after July, according to a resolution passed by the Township Board last week.

Poole said the budget cuts also could

Police charge neighbor with break-in of home

A Canton man is being held in Wayne County Jail on a charge that he broke into the home of his next door neighbor about a month ago.

David Dreher, 22, of Lynn in Canton, and Thomas Erb, 21, of Middlebelt in Livonia, were arrested and arraigned last Wednesday following a tip from an informant to Livonia police.

They stood mute to charges of breaking-and-entering and 35th District Court Judge Dunbar Davis entered pleas of innocent on their behalf.

Examinations on the charges will be held in the district court March 9.

Dreher was sent to the Wayne County Jail in lieu of $2,500 cash bond. Erb was released on $5,000 personal bond.

Citizens pack meeting

Poole pledges study of foster homes

Does Canton have more group homes for the mentally retarded than other western Wayne County communities?

Supervisor James Poole believes that the township may be getting more than its fair share. According to the supervisor, eight applications for homes for the mentally retarded already have been approved by the Michigan Department of Social Services. Four more applications are pending.

State workers who appeared before the Township Board last week estimated that six group homes have been approved for Livonia, one for Garden City and one for Westland. An application is pending for one home in Plymouth Township.

Poole plans to write letters to Canton's representatives on the Michigan

Legislature, the Department of Social Services and the Michigan Mental Health Department in pursuit of the issue.

"I want to know why we have so many and others don't," he said.

Poole also plans to schedule a special Township Board meeting to discuss the group home issue.

HE MADE THOSE promises at last week's regular meeting of the Canton Township Board.

About 150 residents packed the meeting hall to ask questions and hear comments from representatives of the Department of Social Services, the Northville Residential Training Center and the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz asked the state employees to attend the meeting because of the number of questions she has received from residents about the group home matter.

A drive of the Michigan Mental Health Department calls for the placement of many institution residents in neighborhood group homes. Experts in the field believe that the mentally retarded and mentally ill can learn better in a neighborhood environment.

At last week's board meeting, residents stood up row-by-row to ask questions of the state employees.

One man said an application for a group home in his neighborhood was submitted by a 23-year-old woman with little experience in the field of mental retardation. He was told that submission of an application simply begins a state review process for licensing. Such an application probably would be turned down.

Another citizen asked about security precautions taken in group homes. He was told that two staff members are on duty at each home at all times.

One woman asked for the history of the entire group home issue, while a man contended that group homes would adversely affect property values in his neighborhood. A state employee pointed to a study of a Lansing neighborhood which failed to show a relationship between group homes and neighborhood property values.

"What do you do to prevent (the mentally retarded) from attacking?" one woman asked.

Board makes offers on Dye Brothers homes

The first purchase offers on houses in Dye Brothers subdivision were mailed to four families on Washburn last week.

When it has bought all 200 lots and 18 houses in Dye Brothers, the township plans to turn the sparsely populated subdivision into an industrial park.

Residents will be given a 90-day notice to leave the houses after the title transfer to the township, said Terry Carroll, township grant coordinator.

However, township officials may lease houses to residents who want to stay in Dye Brothers after the sale.

The entire 40-acre subdivision near Michigan and Sheldon may be bought by the township with a federal community block grant.

IN DECEMBER, officials extended purchase offers on unimproved lots on Washburn. No timetable has been established for acquiring the rest of the subdivision, Carroll said.

Last week's action was township officials' first step to force the residents to move.

Displaced homeowners will be eligible for up to $15,000. That money would compensate homeowners for a loss of favorable interest rates, moving expenses, rent payments and the differential between the cost of their former house and a comparable house, Carroll said.

Money for homeowner compensation will come from $300,000 block grant already received from the federal government. Homeowner payments are indictated in the federal Uniform Acquisition and Relocation Act.

THE MONEY would be paid in addition to the purchase price of a house. The four houses slated for acquisition on Washburn have been appraised, but Carroll would not give out the appraisal amounts.

Township officials must give homeowners three choices of houses that are comparable in size to their houses in Dye Brothers.

Resident reaction has been mixed. On several occasions, homeowners have appeared before the Township Board to protest the plan that will transform their neighborhood into an industrial park.

But other residents have indicated a desire to sell their houses to the township as soon as possible. Those residents say Canton's three-year-old proposal for Dye Brothers have interfered with home improvement plans and other matters.

The move to make purchase offers on Washburn houses was authorized last week by a unanimous vote of the Township Board.

Summer kids' program is topic of public hearing

Would you like a recreation program for kids in your neighborhood next summer?

Representatives of homeowner groups with subdivision parks are asked to attend a hearing Thursday, March 5, on the 1981 summer park and playground program. Interested persons may attend the meeting of the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, which begins at 7 p.m. in Township Hall.

A primary topic of the meeting will be the location of program sites next summer.

In Canton, the program is held primarily in subdivision parks because of the shortage of developed, township-owned facilities and the Extended School Year (ESY) schedule. Most communities hold similar programs in municipal parks and in schools.

THE PROGRAM for kids offers organized sports, arts and crafts, field trips and other recreational activities. Two temporary township employees supervise children at each program site.

Last year's sites included the township-owned Griffin Park in addition to recreational areas in a number of subdivisions, such as Stonegate, Windsor Park, Willow Creek, Pickwick and Carriage Hills. Other programs were held at Fiegel School, Canton Commons, Canterbury Mews and the Honey Tree apartment complex.

Gouin said some program sites, such as Fiegel School, will be eliminated this summer because of poor attendance records.

"WE'D LIKE to know if homeowner groups have other parks where they'd like to see an organized playground program," Gouin said.

The recreation department wants public comment on programming and scheduling.

Last year, the program was held 1-4 p.m., 5-8 p.m. or both. The late hours accommodated children on the ESY schedule.

Gouin has proposed only half-day sessions this year.

"The trend has been changing," Gouin said of recreational programs for children.

"You should have special activities going on all the time. To do that eight hours a day is difficult."

"Any suggestion people have to improve the program will be welcome. Maybe people would like to see more field trips, or maybe they don't like them at all."

Gouin said $26,000 is budgeted for this summer's program.

A park of horror

Area novelist bases grisly tale on Hines Park

By ARLENE FUNKE

Peter Worthington, a wealthy Plymouth mortician, isn't exactly a friendly fellow.

Peter, 24, becomes insane with grief when his older sister Ginny dies suddenly. In order to "keep his sister's image alive," he prowls nearby Hines Park, subduing and kidnapping young women.

Sound spine-tingling? Hang on, there's more.

The mortician then embalsms the women (while they're still alive). The procedure kills the women, and Peter keeps the dead bodies around for several weeks.

In the meantime, the ghost of dead Ginny comes back to haunt her brother. She's angry because she sacrificed her life raising him.

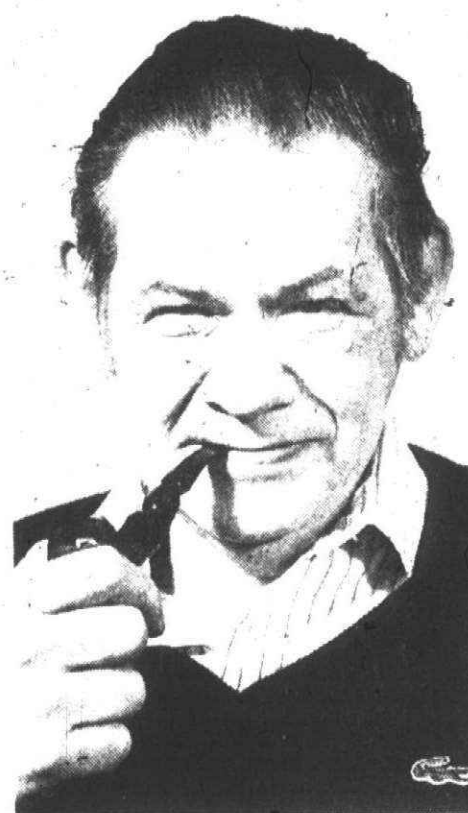

Peter and Ginny aren't real people, of course. They spring from the fertile imagination of Dick Gessler, 53, a part-time novelist from Plymouth Township. He has written a novel called "The 17-Mile Horror," which will be published in March.

GRESSLER, an experimental parts inspector for Ford Motor Co.'s transmission plant in Livonia, says he based the "17-Mile Horror" title on the fact that Hines Parkway runs 17 miles along the Rouge River basin from Northville east to Dearborn Heights.

In recent years, Hines has been at the center of controversy over several well-publicized, unsolved rape cases. Residents in communities along the parkway have complained about alleged drug use, drinking and nudity in the park.

'I do have to say I don't lack ideas. The big difference is keeping it in perspective. No one is pushing you.'

—author Dick Gessler

DICK GESSLER

"I thought that's one hell of a good idea for a story," said Gessler, who had read newspaper articles about Hines.

"My wife won't read the book — she's afraid of the supernatural," added Gessler.

The budding novelist researched his book for about eight months, talking to local persons and brushing up on local history and color at the Plymouth Historical Museum.

The novel is peppered with local references. For example, the character Peter Worthington attended Plymouth Salem High School.

There he became friendly with fictitious Bob Kline, who later became a reporter for the Community Crier before working his way up to the Plymouth Observer.

Gessler modeled the Worthington funeral home after a rambling, white building on Penniman Avenue in Plymouth. And he researched the embalming procedure by talking with the employee of a Plymouth funeral home (Gessler declined to say which one).

Gessler said the hardest part was capturing the flavor of Hines Park activities.

"This is authentic," said Gessler. "You have to be careful. I didn't use any real names of people."

To get his book published, Gessler has employed the services of a so-called "vanity press" in Oregon.

That means he had to put up $2,500 to pay the cost of printing 1,000 copies of the soft-cover book. In turn, he also must promote his novel and persuade bookstores to stock it.

If a major book publishing company were handling the account, all those details would be taken care of.

Gessler estimates he will break even if he sells 600 copies at $6.95 each. He also plans to form his own publishing company.

"I went to vanity presses in New York," Gessler explained. "No matter what trash you write, they love your book."

"No, I didn't want that," he added. "I wanted to be reasonably sure it would sell."

Gessler's dream is to sell his book to a paperback publisher or to a movie company.

In the meantime, he will concentrate on re-writing an earlier novel about a gas leak and explosion, a story which earlier garnered about a dozen "thanks but no thanks" rejection slips, said Gessler.

Board rejects idea for trustee pay

"Now there's a check and balance that says if you meet it better be for a good reason, because it's taxpayers' dollars. Without the check and balance, you could have two or three people who want to force the board down a course and force an issue."

PADGET SAID after the meeting, however, that "I didn't see this resulting in a substantial number of meetings at all."

A long-time advocate of study sessions, Padget said he will continue to push for more of such meetings despite continuation of per-meeting pay for trustees. The two-day orientation session which immediately followed swearing-in ceremonies last November was Padget's idea.

He said he may return to the board at some future date with an amended salary proposal for trustees. He said the idea allows the scheduling of special meetings to consider a short agenda.

"I think it's ludicrous to pay $75 a trustee for those kinds of meetings."

"In my opinion, Canton boards have been predominately reactionary as opposed to planning for future events and making things happen," he said in reference to study sessions. "Many of these things can be done by the administration. But I think we're farther ahead if we all (the entire Township Board) talk about it."

Padget's salary proposal is the second pay change suggested by a member of the new Township Board.

While campaigning for the supervisor position, Poole maintained that the administrator's pay of $32,500 is too high. He pledged to reduce the supervisor's salary to $26,000 a year.

BUT A JAN. 22 opinion from John Bauckman, an attorney for the Michigan Townships Association (MTA), said elected officials cannot hike or cut their salaries during the same term of office. Such changes can only take effect during the next term.

Poole said he would donate part of his salary to the library and other organizations.

The opinion also addressed Padget's idea for salaried trustees. Bauckman said trustees could be paid on a monthly basis and that deductions could be made for missed meetings.

At last week's session, however, board members questioned one statement in Bauckman's opinion as it related to Padget's proposal.

"There is nothing to prevent the Township Board from attending meetings without compensation provided this is determined prior to the term of office," the attorney said.

Padget's motion to adopt the salary system for trustees included a request for clarification of Bauckman's opinion. That motion was voted down 5-2.

Couple opens gym club

But she found her niche in gymnastics, where she could work closely with children.

"It (gymnastics) becomes addictive — happily so," she added.

IN THE MEANTIME, Ron had enrolled in electronics study at Schoolcraft College.

"I began watching the guys on the high bar," said Ron. "It's a very free exercise. It's exciting (and) I thought I'd love to do that."

Ron got involved in gymnastics and later switched his major to physical education and health. He said he hopes to see more boys sign up for gymnastics, which traditionally has appealed more to females.

The pair say they selected Canton for their business location because of its proximity to neighboring communities of Plymouth, Westland and Livonia. In addition, they hope to attract some customers from the Plymouth-Canton School District's two nearby high schools.

"Canton is really growing, yet there is nothing for little kids to do (competitively)," said Ron.

The Go-Fers policy will call for a ratio of eight students per coach, to ensure a high degree of safety and personal attention. Parents are encouraged to join in the activities with the preschool groups.

In addition, students must submit a physical examination form. And they must pay an annual $8.50 fee for insurance coverage through the USGR.

Impact of cuts is unclear affect the position of grant coordinator Terry Carroll, whose contract with the township expires next August. Poole hinted that Carroll's position may not be needed, if federal grant programs completely dry up.

Carroll prepares grant applications for the township and ensures that requirements of federal and state programs are met.

Flodin called Carroll's work to keep the township in compliance "a very technical and very necessary thing."

"IT'S SOMETHING I had expected for a long time," Poole said of the proposed cuts in federal spending. "But this goes a heck of a lot deeper than a few dollars. As far as I'm concerned, this will affect us all around."

"If they cut the EDA, where we will get money for improvements in Dye Brothers?"

The township already has received about $300,000 to acquire the subdivision near Michigan and Sheldon. Plans call for conversion of the sparsely populated residential area into an industrial park.

According to Carroll, the federal community block grant program does not appear in jeopardy. But Poole believes the EDA was a possible funding source for water and sewer improvements in Dye Brothers following acquisition of the land.

Conference on aging is in Westland

Anyone interested in the needs, concerns and well-being of older persons may attend a regional White House Conference on Aging.

The conference will begin at 10 a.m. Friday, March 6, in Whittier Center, 28550 Ann Arbor Trail, Westland.

The conference's purpose is to identify problems that force older people from the community, said Paul Petro, director of the Out-Wayne County Area Agency on Aging, which is sponsoring the event.

The conference provides an opportunity to comment on the formulation of governmental policies that will affect the elderly, said Julius Otten, chairman of the steering committee for the conference.

The regional conference is one of 14 such events sponsored around the state by the Area Agencies on Aging.

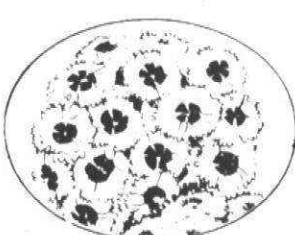

Participants at the event will have the opportunity to recommend policies and to elect delegates who will speak on behalf of this region at the state White House conference April 29-30 to be held at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn.

Cripe said burglars gained entry through a bathroom window and a doorwall and took three or four television sets, two floor lamps, a stereo, a movie projector and cash.

SC to survey district residents

By TOM LONERGAN

Schoolcraft College will pay a Southfield consulting firm $12,000 to survey district residents.

The survey will assess the school administration and full-time teaching staff, review college staff attitudes and ask residents and groups in the college district what the college should do.

A contract with Research Consulting Inc. was approved 6-1 last week by the Schoolcraft Board of Trustees. The college district includes the Livonia, Garden City, Plymouth-Canton, Clarenceville and Northville school districts.

Trustee Michael Burley of Plymouth opposed the contract after questioning why the survey couldn't be done by college personnel.

James Meznek, the college's instructional research director, said existing staff would have to be trained to do the survey.

THE BOARD approved an amendment made by Trustee Richard Hayward of Livonia that trustees review the survey questions.

The consulting firm plans to phone interview 800 Schoolcraft district residents, 200 students, 200 alumni, 100 employers and 90 heads of institutions and agencies. Individual or group interviews will be conducted with smaller groups in the same categories.

A spokeswoman for Research Consulting Inc. said the four-year-old firm has done similar surveys for the University of Detroit and the state's adult education program.

The survey will take about 4½ months to complete.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board adopted a resolution asking the Michigan Legislature to amend the state Open Meetings Act to allow closed-door evaluations of administrators, such as college President C. Nelson Grote.

Gov. William Milliken last month vetoed a bill allowing such closed sessions. A similar bill has since been re-introduced in the legislature.

Trustee Rosina Raymond of Livonia was the only board member who opposed the change.

"If nobody has anything to hide, let's have it out in the open," she said. "If there's anything to hide, then it shouldn't be there."

Board President Harry Greenleaf of Livonia said past evaluations of Grote have been conducted in closed meetings on the advice of the college's lawyers. In late 1979, Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley ruled that a public body may not meet in closed session to evaluate public officers and employees.

"I don't believe this (closed evaluations) is stated in the Open Meetings Act," Greenleaf said. "Otherwise we would not have the need for a bill."

If evaluations were open, Greenleaf said, "We would not have performance review. We would have a sham. If we are off the mark, it's reported... you can never retract it."

Board vice chairperson Nanci Blatt of Livonia added: "I don't think it serves the public to know that the person you're evaluating may be a shade less than what you'd like that person to be in a certain area."

The board also voted 5-2 to oppose closed interviews for college president and other public administrative jobs. Trustees Mark McQuesten of Plymouth and Leonard Wozniak of Livonia, were in the minority.

TRUSTEES VOTED 5-1, with Raymond abstaining, to send Blatt to an Association of Community College Trustees regional seminar in Osage Beach, Mo., Apr. 12-14, at a cost of $675.

McQuesten voted no and Raymond abstained because Missouri has not ratified the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Trustees unanimously approved sending Greenleaf and Mrs. Raymond to Washington, D.C. April 20-22 for the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges convention. The cost will be $1,138.

Sunday package booze sale stalled

"Never on Sunday" has been the tune to remember in Michigan when buying a bottle of booze.

But a new state law signed by Gov. William Milliken in January will allow stores to sell "package" (bottled) liquor between noon and 11 p.m. Sundays starting in April — with some conditions.

First, county governments must approve the practice.

Any local government ordinance prohibiting Sunday package liquor sales will remain in effect.

And those store owners licensed to sell liquor must have Sunday sales approved by the state Liquor Control Commission.

A WAYNE COUNTY Board of Commissioners committee last month voted against allowing Sunday liquor take-out sales. The matter is expected to be considered by the Oakland County board this month.

"We saw no benefit," said Wayne County Commissioner Paul Citkowski, D-Detroit, explaining a committee vote in February against going along with the state law change. Citkowski chairs the general government committee which considers state laws affecting the county.

"I really hope it doesn't go anywhere," Citkowski said. "A day-off Sunday is fine." The committee vote doesn't mean the full county board won't consider Sunday liquor sales in the future, he said.

BUT COMMISSIONER Thomas Presnell, D-Garden City/Westland, a member of the general government committee, says prohibiting Sunday liquor sales is "silly."

"If I wanted to drink whiskey on Sunday, I'd just buy it on Saturday," he said. Presnell, however, missed the committee's vote on the issue last month.

According to John Stora, deputy director of licensing for the state Liquor Control Commission, nearly one-third of the 3,500 package liquor licenses in the state are held by store owners in Wayne and Oakland counties. In Wayne County, there are 834 license holders. Oakland has 273.

New law cuts jury exemptions

Politicians, police officers, fire fighters, doctors, lawyers and dentists — all used to have something in common.

They were exempt from jury duty, due either to the nature of their jobs.

But a new state law which took effect Feb. 8 eliminated occupational exemptions. Now it's up to the attorneys or judge in a trial whether a lawyer, doctor, cop or public official will sit on the jury.

THE ONLY persons now exempt by law from jury duty are those older than 70, persons either physically or mentally incapable of being a juror and persons under a felony sentence.

The law change was passed by the Michigan Legislature three years ago, but first took effect this year.

The chief judge of a circuit court can excuse prospective jurors for hardship, according to Pat Jacobs, administrator of the Wayne County Circuit Court.

"The idea is that everybody should serve," said Jacobs, "and it's been made convenient so everybody can," Jacobs said. Wayne County has a one-day or one-trial jury system. If a person from a jury pool isn't selected for a trial, jury duty lasts only one day.

IN BOTH Wayne and Oakland circuit courts, jury pools are selected from registered voter lists.

Being picked for a trial depends on the luck of the draw in the courtroom, plus passing the scrutiny of the judge, prosecuting and defense attorneys.

The attorneys may request a person be pulled from the jury for cause or by "preemptory challenge," meaning the lawyer doesn't have to give a reason.

Self-curing

A practice that's growing by leaps and bounds

About eight months ago, I experienced a feeling of pain along my lower teeth. Then it moved to the upper ones, so I wasn't sure it was really a tooth pain.

About the same time, I learned that my daughter-in-law in Tuscon had visited her dentist with a similar kind of toothache. He told her it was really sinus trouble.

As the pain proved more troublesome, I tried to see my doctor, but was unable to, so took a substitute. I told him about the sinus theory, and he recommended X-rays of the sinus area.

Two X-rays had been taken when I suddenly said to myself, "What am I doing here? I am supposed to have six X-rays through the brain for sinus trouble!"

Apologizing to the technician, I shot out of there. I went home, and even though the outside temperature was 82, I turned on a vaporizer, something my doctor had not suggested.

In two hours, I was more comfortable. By the end of the day, I was cured. Ironically enough, when I informed the doctor of the miraculous cure and apologized about leaving the X-ray session, he told me the X-rays might not have been conclusive anyway.

IN BEING lucky enough to hit on the solution of my problem, I was not unusual. Self-curing is growing by leaps and bounds.

On their own, growing numbers of people are exercising, losing weight, wolfing down vitamins, altering their life and eating styles and researching their own medical problems.

I think one reason for this is that medicine, at one time considered so reliable, so certain and untestable, is now regarded as less reliable and somewhat uncertain. People are challenging its assertions all the time. They also are challenging their doctors.

I am the type who has always taken family members and myself to the doctor the minute anything looked serious, and I am beholden to a series of physicians. I also regard them as the segment of society best trained to make a diagnosis or perform an operation.

Yet what I have been hearing is that patients want to be told more than "take this." Many want to know why, and what it will do to them or for them?

They want to know about prevention. Will exercise or vitamins help?

They would like to sit down and have a real chat about the illness that is worrying them. They would like the doctor to consider both the mind and the body, and not think of them as merely as Mrs. Bladder Infection or Mr. Gout.

WHEN A FRIEND broke her leg, she read up on her problem and learned that it was important to exercise leg muscles to protect weak ligaments.

"After doing all this reading, I was upset that my doctor hadn't said anything about exercise," she said.

"I told him off. The main thing for a doctor to do is to help you understand what is going on. It's helpful to understand why."

An acquaintance went through a rough patch of bad health 20 years ago. She was uncomfortable enough to go to several large hospitals for checkups. But no answer was found for her, and the suggestion was made that it was all in her mind.

She decided to research her own problems. Later, she told her doctor she thought she had hypoglycemia, not as easily detected 20 years ago as today.

He gave her some test and agreed. Treatment began, and a great weight was lifted from her mind.

Another friend with a bladder infection was repeatedly given medicine by her physician and sent home. Looking for some prevention hints for this recurring problem, she went to the library, and found a slew of preventive suggestions from which she profited.

"Why didn't my doctor give me advice on how to prevent it?" she asked.

THESE ARE NOT earthshaking complaints, I know, but they are causing people to rethink their attitudes toward medicine.

Similarly, we are having to face our expectations of too many miracles of our medical establishment. It shakes our confidence a little when there are changes or internal differences.

For example, a few years ago the American Cancer Society, presumably on the advice of physicians, urged women to have a Pap test every year to see if they had cancer of the cervix.

Groups all over the country went to great trouble to set up local Pap testing so women could easily get their yearly test. Then suddenly something changed.

The society is now saying that a test every two or three years is satisfactory for women not in the high-risk category if two previous Pap tests have been negative. The American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology questions this.

X-rays, that much-used diagnostic tool, are now being seen in a new light. Into this office come U.S. government bulletins warnings people not to have too many X-rays because of the danger of radiation.

Good hospital food gets stories in the newspaper, forcing one to feel there must be plenty that is not so good. Some, like Norman Cousins, even say it is not very healthy.

A new word, nosocomial infection, was coined to cover hospital-acquired infections. Senior citizens are being cured of ailments by giving them a drug holiday. They were overmedicated, which is some cases was their own fault, in others not.

One has only to look at the burgeoning of health foods, health food stores and vitamins to know that some kind of revolution is taking place in health care.

EXPERIMENTATION is the key word in this trend. People are guessing at vitamin dosage. And they sometimes make mistake and overdose.

I don't think this happens as often as those opposed to vitamins would have us believe. However, a Lansing 3-year-old overdosed recently on vitamin A because her overzealous parents simply gave her too much.

In Prevention Magazine (circulation two million), people write about their successes with this vitamin or that. Vitamin E healed burns, one claimed. Vitamin C, bone meal and other supplements stopped bleeding gums, another wrote.

Zinc cleared up athlete's foot. Witchhazel in water cured hemorrhoids. Garlic tablets brought sinus relief. Lecithin ended psoriasis.

Even if you assume that most of Prevention's income comes from advertisements for vitamin supplements, the message comes through that some people are having success with them.

Born a man, not a legend

Shortly after I arrived to work that morning, my wife called with the news that Dean Spencer had been killed the night before when the plane he was piloting crashed at Oakland Airport.

The rest of the day was spent handling that news — struggling with the stark reality that the words were really true, that I'd never see Dean again.

Although the news took a while to really sink in, I was not shocked. Somehow I always felt Dean would not live to be an old man.

Only a year older than I, his life was at least 30 years fuller than mine. He had packed into 38 years more than most of us think about doing.

I had met Dean for the first time about 10 years ago, and he became a fixture in my life — someone you expected to be there. He was someone I listened to very carefully because Dean wasted few words and because he had a much firmer grasp on the great issues of life than I do.

DEAN HAD ALL the makings of a myth — a modern Horatio Alger story.

A farmboy born and raised in Yale, a town of less than 2,000 northwest of Port Huron (he often kidded about being a "Yale graduate"), Dean learned to fly an airplane at age 18. His father owned a plane and taught Dean how to fly out in the fields.

He graduated from Wayne State University and, in a relatively short time, he became vice-president of marketing for Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Company in Farmington Hills.

And, then, within the past few months, he became chief operating officer of the Trinity Co. of Southfield.

As a young man he had escaped death in a boating accident in Alaska. And about three years ago, Dean escaped death again in a motel fire in Louisville, Ky.

Those are the kinds of things of which myths are made. But Dean Spencer was a man, not a myth.

He became what he was by individual effort, by building self-confidence, by searching for knowledge, by insisting on finding answers about things he didn't know about, and by chasing what looked like windmills to others.

Born the son of a farmer, he became by his own initiative, drive and skill a marketing genius.

And that's true of us all. We are not born what we become, but we become what we live.

Dean was not born a great man but became great because he placed few limits on his personal potential. He finished tasks and immediately sought others; he set lofty goals fully expecting to reach them.

HOW WELL I remember three years ago when Dean was almost killed — trapped in a motel engulfed with smoke, heat, and fire.

He suffered first-degree burns all over his body, had a broken neck, and had his lungs filled with black ashes. For weeks he lay in intensive care with the chances of his dying increasing daily.

But God and Dean Spencer decided otherwise.

After the recovery, Dean returned home and agreed to serve as chairman for the building committee for the church he belonged to — the Detroit First Church of the Nazarene. During those same months he wrote a book telling of his experience in facing death in the burning motel.

The book came out in August, the church was completed and dedicated the first week in February, and the accident was but a couple weeks afterwards. It was as if he chose when to die.

I REMEMBER many of stories Dean used to tell — about life on the farm in Yale, about his college days, about the family reunion picnics, and about his many experiences flying.

Many times before Dean had made instrument landings in heavy fog. I remember him telling about how you must have complete and absolute trust in the instruments because a pilot doesn't dare "second-guess" the readings.

Although you cannot see a thing, you learn to accept by faith that the runway is just a few hundred feet away and in another second you'll see the runway lights because that is what the instruments say.

And Dean lived the same way he flew — by placing the same kind of absolute faith in his maker as he did in his plane's instruments. Absolute trust is something few of us ever achieve, but Dean did — maybe because he had twice faced death and lived. After that, who else can you trust?

Some of us struggle with who God is, why he made us, what he wants to do with us, what he expects of us. But Dean knew all those answers. Dean knew because he asked God a lot of questions and insisted upon answers.

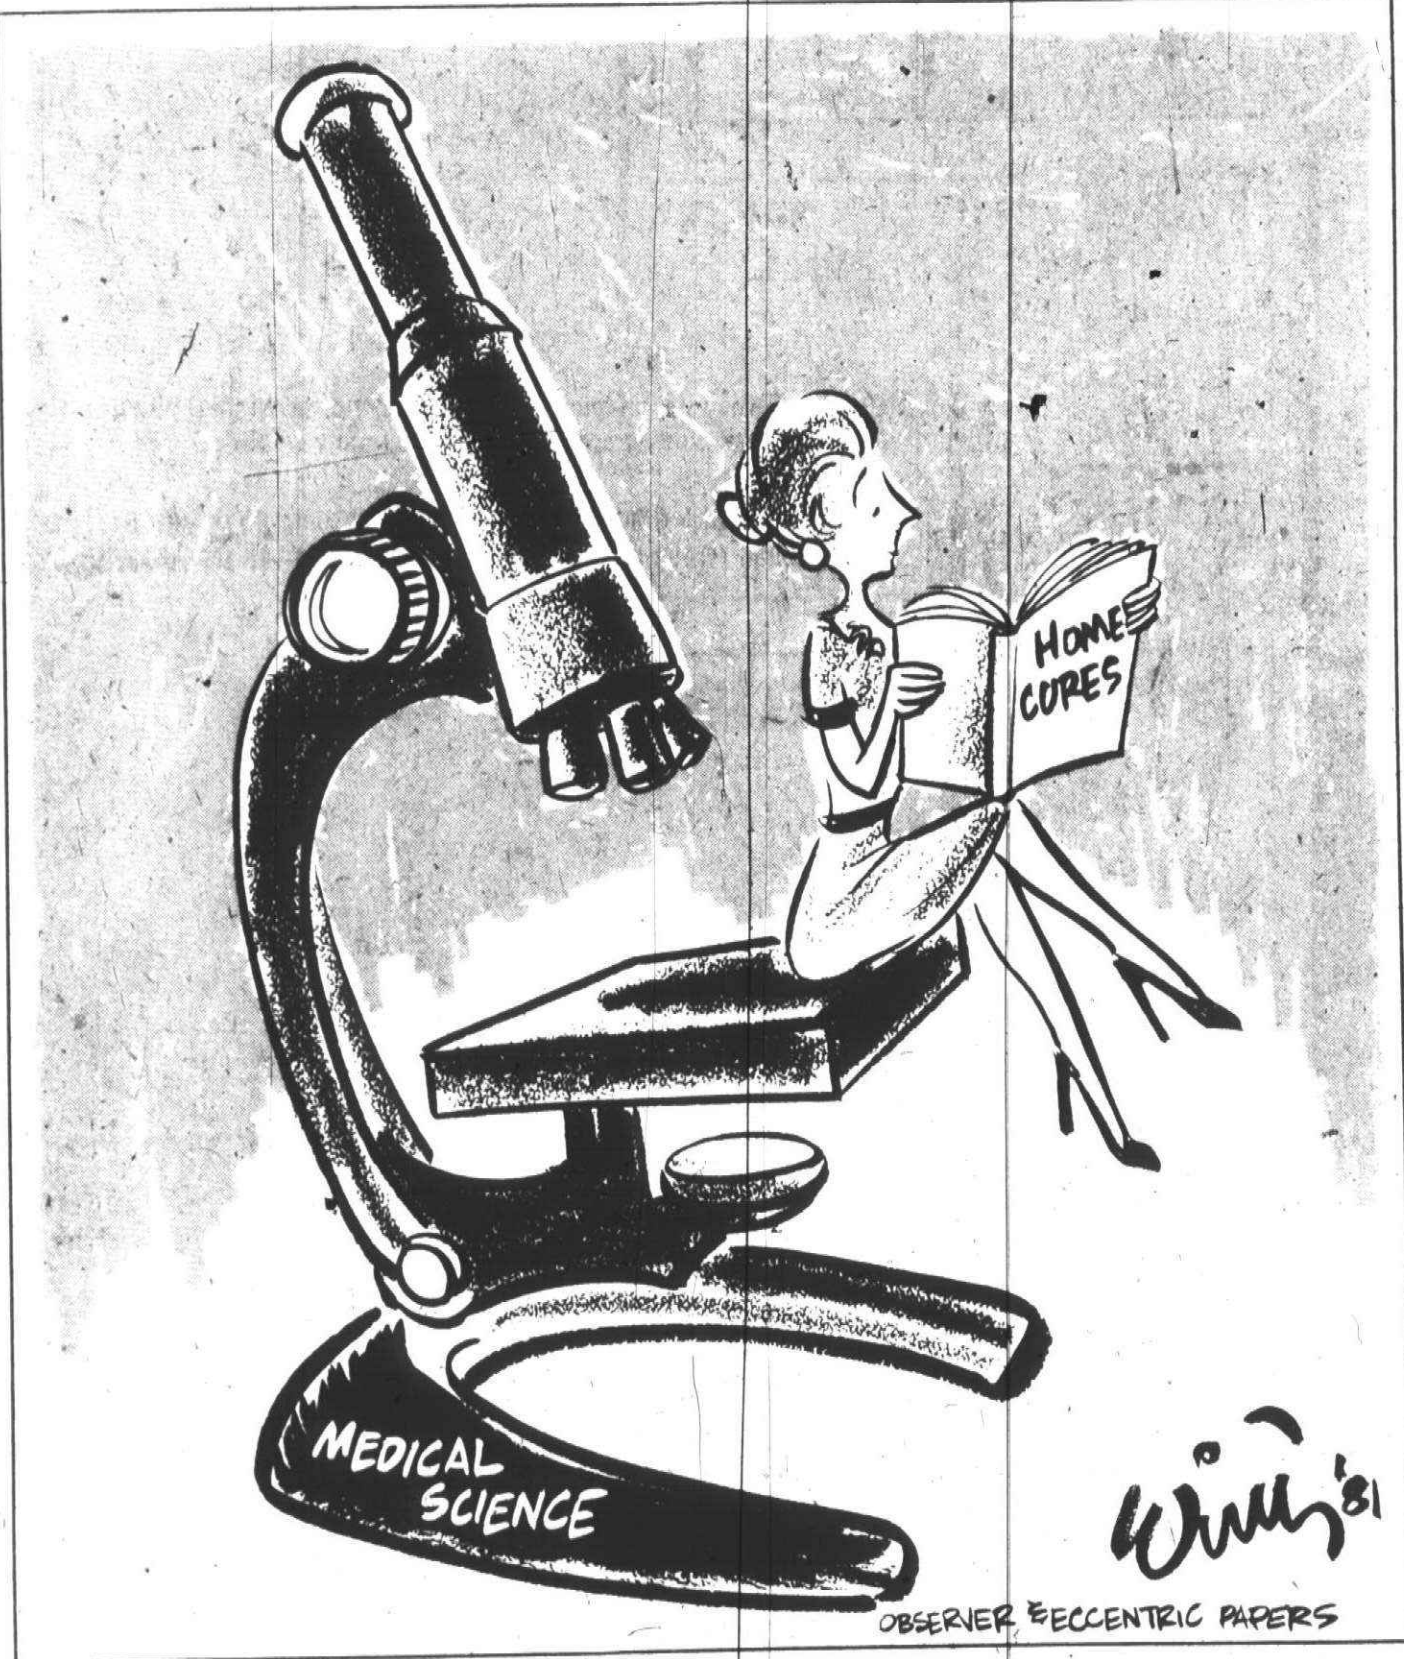

That's why I always listened closely to Dean because he knew a whole lot more about God and life than I.

And now what once was a fixture in my life is a collection of memories, and thoughts and truths. It's almost as if an era has passed, or as if I have just moved from one generation to another.

Last Wednesday night I sat in a memorial service and listened to his closest friends pay tribute to a great man. The word used most often was "extraordinary," and that's an accurate description because Dean Spencer had an affect on everyone who knew him.

Extraordinary, yes, but he was not a myth. He was a man who displayed excellence as a husband, a father, a brother's keeper, and as a teacher.

A private man, Dean kept to himself the deeds he did for others. But still we knew him as a Good Samaritan — as someone who loved and served God and man equally well.

Headline sparked memories

This pool game was elevating

While reading the paper at the breakfast table the other morning, The Stroller's eye caught a headline hidden on one of the inside pages that caused a flood of memories to come splashing through the years.

The headline proclaimed to the world that the ancient game of pool was being reincarnated and that there was a series of pool rooms being planned that would lead to a pool league.

What caused the memories to come rushing back was the fact that The Stroller cut his eye teeth on a pool table back home, and the first honor he ever won was to be crowned the pool champion of the volunteer fire companies in the Lehigh Valley and later the champion of the entire county.

His connection with pool came in a most unusual way back in our little town in the foothills of the Lehigh Mountains in Pennsylvania.

FOR YEARS The Stroller's father had been employed in the only factory in our town and then sickness overtook him and he had to quit. As a means of supporting our family he decided to open a lunch counter. In the rear of dining section, he had installed the only "public" pool table in town. It soon became quite a popular place for the young men seeking entertainment in the evenings.

The Stroller was so young at the time that he was sent home each evening at 7 o'clock.

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

But there came a day when his father took him aside and told him that he would have to learn the game in order to cater to the customers' desires for a partner on occasions. This was a big event in The Stroller's life. So he ardently went about the task of learning to "shoot" pool. For a year his father had refused to let him use a cue. Instead he had to roll the balls and watch how they moved.

Then came the big day — A Thanksgiving Day — when he was allowed to use a cue in an official game. Well, he remembers the thrill. And it wasn't long before he became known as the "house" man. And he was only eight years old.

ONE OF THE BIG thrills — and disappointments — came one night when he was paired with Ralph Greenleaf, a child prodigy from Illinois, and he lost by a single ball, 100 to 99. He never got over the "beating."

Years later when he was toiling in the sports department of the Detroit Free Press, this same Greenleaf, now the world champion, came to Detroit to defend his title at the long-gone Recreation Building.

After we renewed our acquaintance, The Stroller and Greenleaf practiced pool each afternoon. Then, one day, Greenleaf asked him to join an unusual exhibition. It was to play pool in one of Henry Ford's airplanes, still known affectionately as the "Tin Goose."

For more than hour we played an exhibition over the down-town area at midway just to prove that the plane was stable.

It was a thrill long to be remembered as our game in the air proved that the plane could carry weight and it was the early success of the airplane industry.

All these things came rolling back through the years when The Stroller noticed that small bit in the back pages of his morning paper.

And would you believe it — he still has the cue Greenleaf, the world champion, gave him as a gift that noon day away back little more than a half century ago.

Pursell seeks import limit

Against a backdrop of possibly favorable administration sentiment on auto import restrictions, Congressman Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, has introduced a proposal urging a limitation on Japanese imports.

Pursell's plan is the same one approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee late last year.

The Pursell resolution also seeks fairness from the Japanese on export subsidies and trade barriers for American products in the Japanese market.

Pursell said he believes the Reagan administration will be more receptive to import limits than the Carter administration because of remarks made recently in Detroit by Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis.

"I believe a temporary restriction on Japanese imports is a legitimate goal, considering the epidemic unemployment and financial losses in our domestic auto industry."

"In the interest of long-term trading relationships, a mutually agreed limitation would be much better than one imposed unilaterally by our government."

With more than 225,000 American auto workers laid off, Pursell added, and with Japanese imports at unprecedented levels, urgent action to reach an agreement is necessary.

Objections made to ESY

Editor:

After attending the open forums, I sense those involved parents are making a very strong effort to keep their input objective and factual, even though it is a very emotional issue in each household.

The following points (brought out during the forums) seem to have a great deal of logic and merit strong consideration during your deliberations:

- Most parents feel the current proposals don't logically address the problem — too much computer, too little humanizing.

- Major disruptions will result from the current plans, not minimum.

- Major questions on curriculums will remain, right up to the first day of school.

- Going to ESY does not in fact improve quality of education or cost less.

- The major problem is in fact at the high school and split sessions have not fully been investigated nor pursued to the state board.

- A lot of questions have been raised by parents — very few total answers have been forthcoming. How about some written fact sheets so we all can understand the strengths and weaknesses of possible solutions including potential costs.

- It seems logical, if not critical, to address the apparent upcoming 1981-82 $3 million budget deficit, making program reductions and decisions, prior to "turning the world upside down."

- Families in the district already on ESY seem to have mistakenly taken the position that "if it's good enough for them, it's good enough for everyone." Many of the families now possibly being affected weren't even living here nor had any vote in earlier decisions. "Sour grapes" label is not appropriate.

- The problems in this school district are becoming evident to outsiders and surely will affect decisions (negatively) to move into the Plymouth-Canton area.

from our readers

• The "West" proposal may not be the answer but the "philosophy" is what the public seems to desire — if it's too expensive, the board should prove it with facts.

• Family life is complicated enough without having some children in the same family unit in ESY and some in TS.

I hope the board recognizes there is an honest concern by all involved parents, that the proposals now being considered have had too little analysis regarding the overall negative effects which substantially outweigh the positives.

I urge the board to take some temporary measures and allow for a more complete review of all potential solutions. Give your public the credit it deserves for wanting a clear direction before making any long-range decisions which are irreversible.

We are not campaigning against ESY, we are campaigning for the best possible solution for our children's education.

ROBERT E. BERG
Plymouth

Earlier protests also were made

To the editor:

I take pen in hand before I scream. Please save me from the parents of the children that attend schools on ESY. The parents that ask, "Where were we when their children went on ESY?"

My question is where were they? Did they not protest, attend board meetings, and try to create a more workable solution?

And when you did exercise your rights as a citizen, did we call your children the fortunate ones? Did we condemn you for searching for alternatives? I sincerely hope we did not. I hope we let you fight your battle without harassing you.

You are right, the ball is in our court now and we are playing the best we know how. We are playing by the rules that this democracy was founded upon. And we pray that by playing by the rules, and perhaps even working together instead of as enemies, we can eliminate this ESY nonsense altogether.

But first of all we are going to have to be on the same team, together at the same time.

To the editor:

We were extremely pleased with the coverage you gave the Plymouth Rock and Mineral Society's Feb. 15 Open House before the fact, but the "photo essay" in the Feb. 19 edition has overwhelmed us!

The open house was a huge success — due in no small way to the cooperation you gave us.

We also are writing to thank photographer Gary Caskey and let him know how much we appreciate all he did for us.

Thank you again for all your support.

Canton should control growth

To the editor:

As a parent in the Farrand-Central school boundaries, I resent the comments made by Canton parents and I resent the possibility of having my household disrupted because Canton Township will not control its growth.

I do not want my children in split classes due to ESY. That is not quality education.

We bought our house in Lake Pointe seven years ago, after doing some research as to where our children would attend school. We bought where there was a school. More Canton parents should have done their homework.

If their children's education was a main concern, why did so many Canton parents buy into an area that already was overcrowded? The problem of overcrowding is in Canton, not Plymouth or Plymouth Township and I resent being told to share the burden.

Why have so many Plymouth and Plymouth Township taxpayers said "no" to the board's request for new money? Take a look throughout the school district and see who enjoys the new schools, equipment, etc.

We in Plymouth and Plymouth Township are tired of paying for someone else's real estate mistakes. I suggest Canton Township adopt some growth control and do it now.

FREE CONTOUR ANALYSIS EXAMINATION FOR VICTIMS OF CHRONIC OR ACUTE PAIN

A free Contour Analysis examination is being offered for people with acute or chronic pain by the chiropractic office listed below. People who suffer with backache, bursitis, arthritis, neuralgia, nerve pain, neck pain, muscle pain, bone pain, etc., are invited to receive this free examination.

Contour Analysis, enables taking a three-dimensional picture (called Moire photography) of the topography of the surface of the spine to detect spinal stress deviations. This analysis will be correlated with leg deficiency, patient symptomatology, and levels of spinal tenderness. An analysis of this type can reveal such things as normal and abnormal stress patterns, spinal curvature, muscle spasms, muscle imbalance, spinal distortion, and scoliosis. This analysis, including consultation with the doctor is being offered to the public at no charge for the next 30 days. Anyone wishing to receive this free examination may telephone for information or an appointment.

Don't Gamble With Your Life

Have you ever stopped to think for a minute just what we here in Michigan must go through during a normal winter season?

There are literally thousands of severe skiing, snowmobile, and auto accidents each year. There are even more falls and fender benders, like being hit from the rear, that we do not give very much thought to, but we should. These traumatic accidents definitely have an effect on our health.

Even if we are not involved in any accidents while we are driving, the fact that we are traveling on ice and snow makes it very stressful just going to and from work each day.

Then there is the job of removing all that heavy snow so that we can at least get our cars in and out of the driveway without getting stuck or ending up in a snow bank. Once you have reached your destination, it is a still greater challenge walking on all that snow and ice trying not to slip or fall going to and from your car.

Out of the four seasons, winter takes it's worst toll on all of us, causing unforeseen problems with our health. Unfortunately, many of these injuries may or may not be associated with pain.

Accidents, no matter how minor in severity should not be taken lightly, for much damage could already have been done. You see, these accidents may have caused the bones of your spine to misalign, causing severe injury and damage to the vital spinal nerves which leave the spinal cord between the vertebrae of the spine. If left unchecked, these disturbances in your nervous system can and will lower your bodies resistance, disrupt organic functions within your body, weaken tissues, and allow disease to develop.

If caught in time these processes can be reversed and your health can be restored through regular Chiropractic Care.

DON'T GAMBLE WITH YOUR HEALTH!

Millions of people have regained their Health through Chiropractic Care after other methods had failed. Right now is the time to get yourself back to what you should be, Healthy, Naturally, and that means Regular Chiropractic Care.

IMMEDIATE DENTURES

— One of the cosmetic miracles of modern dentistry is the "immediate denture". These are constructed BEFORE all remaining natural teeth are removed and inserted as soon as the final teeth are extracted. Naturally, they will need some adjustments as your swollen gums recede back to normal, but it's a darn sight better than facing the public with no teeth while your dentures are being constructed in the laboratory.

— In this procedure, the back teeth are removed but the front teeth are allowed to remain. When the gums are healed, impressions are taken with the front teeth still in place and dentures are prepared. When the day of reckoning arrives, the front teeth (and perhaps a few others which may have remained) are extracted and your "immediate dentures" are inserted at the same appointment.

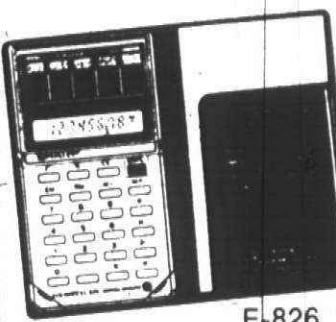

— Healing beneath the immediate denture is usually uneventful. One might expect pain to result from wearing a denture over an area from which teeth have been extracted, but just the opposite occurs. The immediate denture acts as a protective covering for the jaw as it is healing.

Cheeses: Mild and Mellow

Bring more of the exciting "new American cuisine" into your home with recipes that blend natural ingredients with a fresh approach to dining and entertaining.

In your kitchen, as in internationally-acclaimed restaurants, the new American cuisine brings to the table the best of our cooking heritage served with your new skills and interests. Your recipes can now combine native flavors—European, Oriental, Latin—with the most natural American ingredients and products.

Mild, American-made natural cheeses are a popular part of the new American cuisine—a cooking adventure that lets you experiment with tastes and textures, that insists only on very fresh, very fine ingredients.

Consider the old-world flavor of natural mozzarella cheese blended with pasta, fresh vegetables and natural herbs in tasty Primavera Squares... the subtle texture of Monterey Jack cheese with the western tang of barbecue sauce in Monterey Jack Filled Beef Rolls... the sophisticated taste of natural Swiss cheese brightly fused with the flavors of salmon, lemon and herbs in Petite Salmon Soufflés. Cheese is important to today's innovative American cook, and a variety of cheese tastes and textures is an important part of American family dining and entertaining.

In the past 10 years, American cheese consumption has increased by 60 percent, especially as we discover the range of American-made natural cheeses. With our increased knowledge of international cuisines, and our increased skills, we have discovered what international households have known for centuries—that natural cheese is delicious, nutritious and versatile. And that natural cheese is an economical source of high-quality protein.

Pennywise and Protein Rich

First, consider the per-pound price of natural cheese and the amount of protein it contains, the number of servings it yields, and the great variety of meals it makes for any occasion.

Since all cheese is made from milk (mostly cow's milk, whole or partly skimmed), it's a top source of protein and calcium—with other vitamins and minerals. A pound of cheese goes a long way for main dishes, snacks, sandwiches, side dishes, desserts. Or you can quickly cube it for the hors d'oeuvres tray... or slice it to brighten up a buffet. And extra pieces of natural cheese can be shredded for tasty toppings or sauces.

Cheese for Everyday and Everybody

When it comes to taste, a sharp, pungent cheese—much like a heady, aged wine—is a great gustatory experience once in a while. But a steady diet of palate-shocking flavors can tire even the greatest connoisseur. That's why mild, all-purpose natural cheeses can be served as everyday cheeses. They satisfy your hunger for variety in cheeses, serve you in many ways as you cook, sustain the snacker in a family, and appeal universally to adults and children, to sophisticated and simple tastes. Among today's cheese favorites are:

- Mellow Monterey Jack—A mild cheese with a growing popularity due to a creamy white color, wholesome flavor, and soft and moist texture that is great for snacking and cooking. Monterey Jack takes its name from Monterey, California, where it was first made by monks, and it's a good example of an American-made natural cheese carrying traditional tastes into today's kitchens.

- Melting Mozzarella—A native Italian cheese familiar to all pizza and lasagna lovers. In the Old Country, it was first made from buffalo milk. Today, most Italian-produced and popular American-made natural mozzarellas are cow's milk cheeses.

- Buttery Gouda—A familiar sight with its flattened wheel shape and protective, distinctive red wax covering. The cheese originated in the Dutch town of Gouda in the 13th century. Its color is creamy, its texture buttery, its flavor rich and mild.

- Smooth Muenster—Originally a German favorite, French and German muensters are pungent and sharp-tasting, while American and Danish muensters are smooth and mild. All muensters are semi-soft, and they shred beautifully for cooking.

- Mild Brick—Like Monterey Jack, brick is a native U.S. cheese. It was first made in the 1870s in Wisconsin in the traditional bricklike shape that gives it its name, and it is one of the most popular all-purpose cheeses for slicing, snacking and cooking.

- Nutlike Swiss—A perennial favorite, this flavorful cheese with its distinctive holes (which develop during the ripening period) came to us first from Switzerland. It is now made in America—milder, but wildly popular.

Natural Cheese in Your Kitchen

For centuries, mild natural cheese has been the creative cook's great, good friend. It adds, and can be the sole source of, protein in main dishes. It enhances, but never overwhelms, the flavors of other ingredients and its own flavor is heightened by melting.

The variety of cheese recipes is vast—and exciting. Say cheese and think of soups, salads, sauces, soufflés, main dishes, side dishes, desserts, and snacks.

Try Primavera Squares for a creative variation on the Italian theme—baked fettuccine and mozzarella, cut in squares, and topped with Italian sausage and a colorful garden array of vegetables.

Monterey Jack Filled Beef Rolls combine ground beef with a rich natural cheese filling, rolled up like a jelly roll, then sliced and baked in savory pinwheels.

And for a quick, deliciously different supper, make Petite Salmon Soufflés—salmon-topped English muffins, crowned by a mild, natural Swiss cheese-enriched soufflé and baked to a crusty golden perfection.

Cooking with cheese is a grand culinary adventure, yours for the doing in your kitchen. You begin with good mild cheese, a unique recipe and a few helpful hints. You'll find out more in a free booklet highlighting additional natural cheese recipes. Just send your name and address to:

Blazing fire makes convivial setting for meal

I have always wanted to picnic in the snow. Some hardy souls actually do that. It must be invigorating and bracing. The cold must do wonderful things for the appetite, as well as for the soul.

These people bury their bottles of wine in deep snowbanks to chill while they build a fire or uncup thermoses full of steaming, thick stews or hearty soups. After enjoying a marvelous repast, seated on log stumps, they work off their meals by tromping for miles through picturesque snowy fields or woods.

Actually, it wasn't quite accurate to say this is something I have "always" wanted to do. There are really only a few, blazing-hot weeks in August when it sounds irresistible. From about November on, I don't even want to set foot outside the door to bring in the newspaper. The idea of eating out in the snow sounds miserably cold and masochistic.

The closest I have ever come to an outdoor winter picnic was eating meals huddled in front of a blazing fire when the power was out for two weeks after an ice storm a few years ago. Other than the absence of snow, we might as well have been outside. In fact, it felt warmer outside. A house without heat takes on a peculiar, stone-cold all of its own.

HAD IT BEEN about 50 degrees warmer inside, eating this way would have been fun. Spreading a blanket or tablecloth on the floor in front of a blazing fire makes a delightful setting for a meal. As with any picnic, the menu possibilities are endless — roasted hot dogs, hero sandwiches, or a quiche would all be wonderful.

The best-tasting foods, however, seem to be those cooked by the fire.

The Swiss have a meal, closely related to fondue, custom-made for an open fire. This dish, Raclette, is made up of cheese toasted by the fire and then scraped, as it melts, onto a platter of various vegetables. There is actually a device available for toasting the cheese. Any flat, heat-proof dish, however, could be substituted.

I used a pewter plate with good results. Just be careful not to burn yourself on the hot plate — keep a hot pad handy. Also, be sure to use hard wood in building your fire. Soft woods tend to spit out sparks as they burn and should be surrounded by a screen — which makes it difficult to get at the cheese.

SET THE PLATTER with the cheese wedge on something heat-proof which will raise it slightly so that it receives the benefit of the heat being thrown off. Since heat rises, simply setting the platter on the same level as the fire is likely to be unsatisfactory.

I improvised a "stand" by stacking a few bricks to the desired height. Again, for safety's sake, be sure that whatever arrangement you devise is very stable.

As the cheese melts, it is scraped off and spread on an assortment of vegetables. Potatoes, onions, and cornichons (sour French pickles) are traditional

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

but this is a very flexible dish. Substitute or add whatever you wish.

Since cornichons can be difficult to find, you could either make your own or substitute your own favorite pickles — sweet or tart. The onions could be marinated raw, roasted, or sauteed. Broccoli or cauliflower could be cooked along with the potatoes and are at their best masked with the freshly melted cheese.

A crunchy loaf of French bread would make a pleasant accompaniment, as would a salad with a sharp dressing to contrast with the mellow cheese. Actually, very little accompaniment — if any — is called for since this is a surprisingly heavy, rich meal.

There are actually a group of semi-soft Swiss cheeses specifically designated for Raclette because of their fine melting qualities. The two most commonly found in the United States are Bagnes and Appenzel. New York State cheddar, with an optional sprinkle of Worcestershire sauce, may also be used with excellent results.

Accompanied by glasses of hot wine or hot cider with rum this makes a most convivial meal to share with a group of friends or someone special.

Cook the potatoes, unpeeled, in a small amount of boiling water until tender. Keep warm in a pan by the fire.

Thinly slice the onions and place in a medium bowl. Add the wine vinegar, salt, and sugar. Chill for at least one hour, stirring occasionally.

Place the cheese on a heat-proof platter (a stainless steel platter, a piece of plywood covered with aluminum foil or a cookie sheet). Place the platter on a stand (a cement block or bricks) so that the cheese is raised to the level of the fire and is about one foot away from it.

As the cheese melts, scrape off the melted portion and spoon it over the potatoes, onions, and the broccoli or cauliflower. Sprinkle with freshly ground pepper. Serve with the pickles.

Annie's Potatoes, a breakfast or supper dish

Eggs, cheese and vegetables can add up to a tasty combination for a one-dish supper. Such dishes are a breeze to prepare as well as being easy on the food budget.

Annie's Favorite Potatoes comes out crispy browned around the edges. Its top crunches with crumbled bacon, yet the middle section is smooth and creamy with the eggs that get poured over the other ingredients and cooked only until set.

Serve this dish in wedges, like pie or quiche though it does not qualify as a quiche, with a vegetable alongside for a light supper. Additionally, it works well as a "breakfast for supper" dish. Just add toast.

Even with Popeye's many years of promotion, spinach is still one of those foods, like liver, that many people think of as something they should be eating but one that doesn't appeal to their palates. Spinach Rice Frittata could dispel some of that lack of appeal. Spinach, rice, eggs, parmesan and mozzarella cheeses each provide some essential nutrients. Together, they bake into a delicious lunch or light supper dish.

FOR USE AS a luncheon dish, try baking the frittata in an undecorated circular mold. Turn out onto a platter and continue with one of the following:

- Fill center with watercress and line ripe cherry tomato halves, cut side

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

down, around the edges.

- Fill the center with steamed carrot coins, then decorate the edges with edible greenery, such as parsley.
- Fill the center with a compatible seafood, chicken or ham concoction.

- Fill the center with green peas tossed with a tablespoon of finely chopped pimiento.

Add some interesting small rolls or muffins and a light salad for a delightful menu.

Broccoli in Cheese Custard also does double-duty as a luncheon or dinner dish. At dinner, small portions of meat, such as half a chicken breast or small rib lamb chops, will complete an appetizing meal.

ANNIE'S FAVORITE POTATOES

Serves 4

6 medium-sized boiling potatoes, peeled
6 slices bacon
1/2 cup finely chopped onions
4 eggs
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. freshly ground black pepper
Parsley, if desired set and firm to the touch. Serve at once, directly from the skillet.

SPINACH RICE FRITTATA

Serves 6 or 8

1/2 cup finely chopped onions
2 tbsp. margarine or butter
1 1/2 cups drained, cooked chopped spinach
1/4 tsp. garlic powder
3 cups cooked white rice
1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese
4 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 cup milk
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese

Saute onions in the margarine until tender but not brown. Add the spinach, garlic powder, rice and Parmesan cheese. Mix well. In a separate bowl, combine the eggs, milk and seasonings. Stir into the rice mixture. Turn into a well-greased shallow 2-quart casserole. Top with the mozzarella cheese. Bake at 350-degrees for 30 minutes or until set.

BROCCOLI IN CHEESE CUSTARD

Serves 6

2 cups chopped cooked broccoli
3/4 cup grated Cheddar cheese
3 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk or light cream
3/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. freshly ground pepper

Preheat oven to 350-degrees. Butter a 1 1/2 quart baking dish, put the broccoli into it and sprinkle with the cheese. Beat the eggs lightly in a bowl and stir in the milk or cream, salt and pepper. Stir into the broccoli-cheese mixture. Put the baking dish in a shallow pan with hot water halfway up its sides. Bake for 45-60 minutes, or until the custard is set.

South-of-the-border cooking without tacos

South of the border dining is not limited to tacos and corn chips. Fish In Orange Juice and a Flan dessert are elegant and easy recipes from a microwave oven cookbook. The fish is a light nutritious dish for family or guests, and the Flan is a delicious caramel custard which makes an eye-catching dessert for any Mexican meal. FLAN

Total cooking time: 25 min. 45 sec.

1/2 cup sugar
1 tsp. water
2 13-oz. cans evaporated milk
4 beaten eggs
1/2 cup sugar
2 tsp. vanilla

In 1-cup glass measure, thoroughly combine the 1/2 cup sugar and the water. Cook at high for 1 1/2 minutes or till sugar is caramelized. Quickly pour syrup into bottom of a 1 1/2-quart microwave ring mold or four 6-oz. custard cups. (For custard cups, repeat this step using another 1/2 cup sugar and 1 teaspoon water. Quickly pour syrup into bottom of four more custard cups.) In a 4-cup glass measure, cook milk at high for 4 to 5 minutes or till very hot.

In mixing bowl, combine eggs, remaining sugar, and vanilla. Gradually stir in the hot milk. Pour over syrup in mold or cups. Place ring mold or four custard cups in 8x8x2-inch baking dish. Pour hot water into dish to depth of 1-inch.

Cook ring mold at medium for 20 minutes, giving dish a quarter turn every 5 minutes, till custard is nearly set and knife inserted off-center comes out clean. The center of the custard will finish cooking while standing. (Cook custard cups at medium for 14 to 16 minutes, giving dish a quarter turn every 2 minutes. Repeat with remaining custard cups.) Chill flan. Carefully loosen custard from sides and invert onto serving dish or dessert plates. Makes 8 servings.

FISH IN ORANGE JUICE

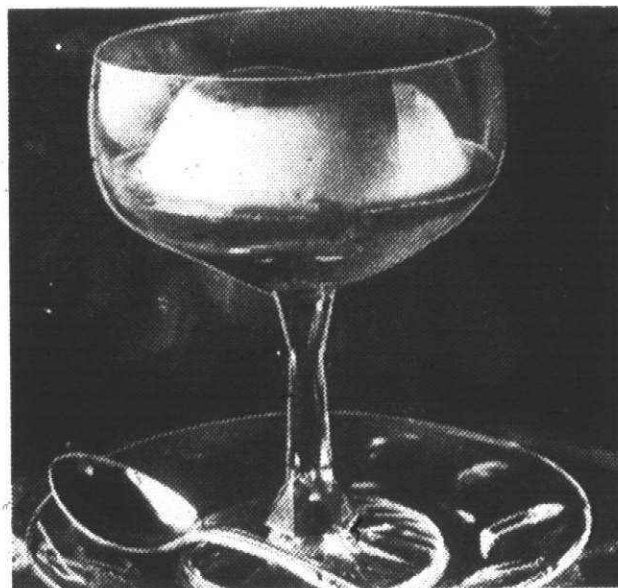

Total cooking time: 11 minutes

2 lbs. fresh or frozen halibut steaks
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 tbsp. cooking oil
2 tbsp. snipped cilantro or parsley
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1/2 cup orange juice
1 tbsp. lemon juice
1/2 tsp. shredded orange peel
1 hard-cooked egg, cut in wedges

Thaw fish if frozen. Arrange fish steaks in 12x7 1/2 x2-inch baking dish. In small bowl, cook onion and garlic in oil at high for 2 minutes or till tender, stirring once. Stir in cilantro, salt, and pepper; spread over fish. Combine orange juice, lemon juice, and orange peel; pour evenly over all.

Cook, covered, at medium high for 9 to 10 minutes or till fish flakes easily with a fork, rearranging fish once. Top with egg wedges. Sprinkle with paprika. Makes 6 servings.

Micro Tip: Nachos make a great snack for TV or playing cards. Place whole tortilla chips on a serving plate. Top each with a generous 1/2 teaspoon jalapeno bean dip. Cut process American cheese slices into 1-inch squares; place one atop each and add a bit of green chili pepper. Cook, uncovered, at high, turning plate once. Cook 10 seconds longer if Flan, a delicious caramel dessert, makes an eye-catching dessert.

Nachos are chilled. 6 Nachos — 25 to 30 seconds; 12 Nachos — 40 to 45 seconds.

REMEMBER BILL Harding who was principal of East Middle School? Bill was the first principal of the then Junior High East, as it was called when it was built. Carl Taylor succeeded Bill at East, as he moved up to an assistant superintendent.

In 1968, Bill became superintendent of the Mt. Clemens School District. Last Thursday night he received the Brotherhood/Sisterhood award for his efforts in integrating the school district while at the same time preserving the neighborhood school concept. And because his operating credo is "dignity for all."

The ninth annual award was presented at the South Campus of Macomb County Community College in Warren.

by ELLIE GRAHAM

The award is given each year to someone who fosters racial harmony and human relations in the community.

PLYMOUTH OPTIMISTS had their annual girls oratorical contest recently. There were 10 candidates and the theme for their talks was "A Commitment to Share."

Julie Sparling was first place winner and Trisha Hilfinger was second. Both are students at West Middle School. Ingrid Erickson of Pioneer Middle School was third.

Bill Baumgartner introduced the speakers.

FOUR MEMBERS of Cub Scout Pack 898 received the Arrow of Light, Cub Scouting's highest award.

Trevor Boyd, Gary Golchuck, Mark Gould and James Swieki Jr. received their awards Thursday evening at the pack's annual Blue and Gold banquet at Eriksson Elementary School.

KALAMAZOO College Jazz Ensemble will present its winter concert at 9 p.m. Friday in Dalton Theater of the Light Fine Arts Building on the college campus.

Steve Ashton, son of John Ashton of Beacon Hill Drive, and Bob Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Young Sr. of Aspen Drive, are members of the 16-piece ensemble. Steve plays saxophone and Bob plays trumpet.

The ensemble has programmed a wide variety of tunes including "Tuxedo Junction," "The Raven Speaks," "Goodby Pork Pie Hat," "Johnny's Theme," a collaboration by Johnny Carson and Paul Anka, as well as Spike Jones' version of "Cocktails for Two," and Maynard Ferguson's arrangement of "Gonna Fly Now."

The concert is free and open to the public.

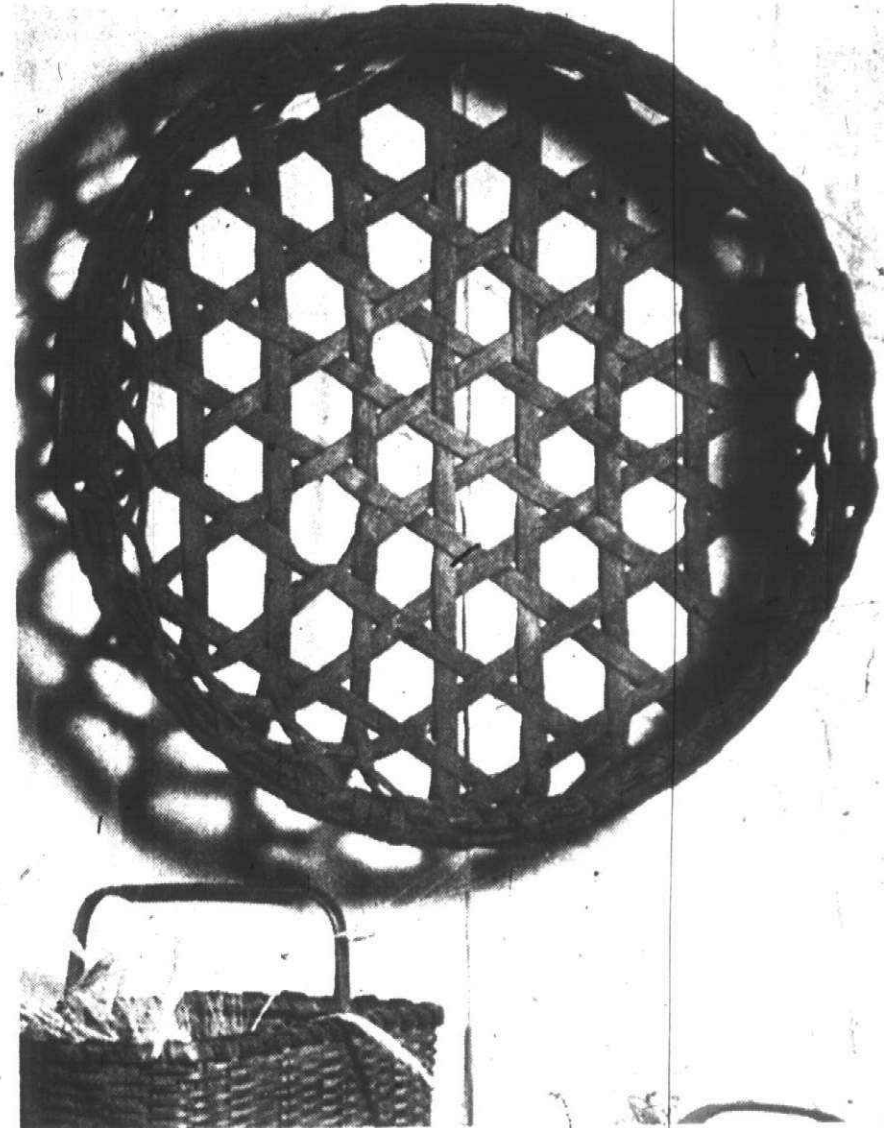

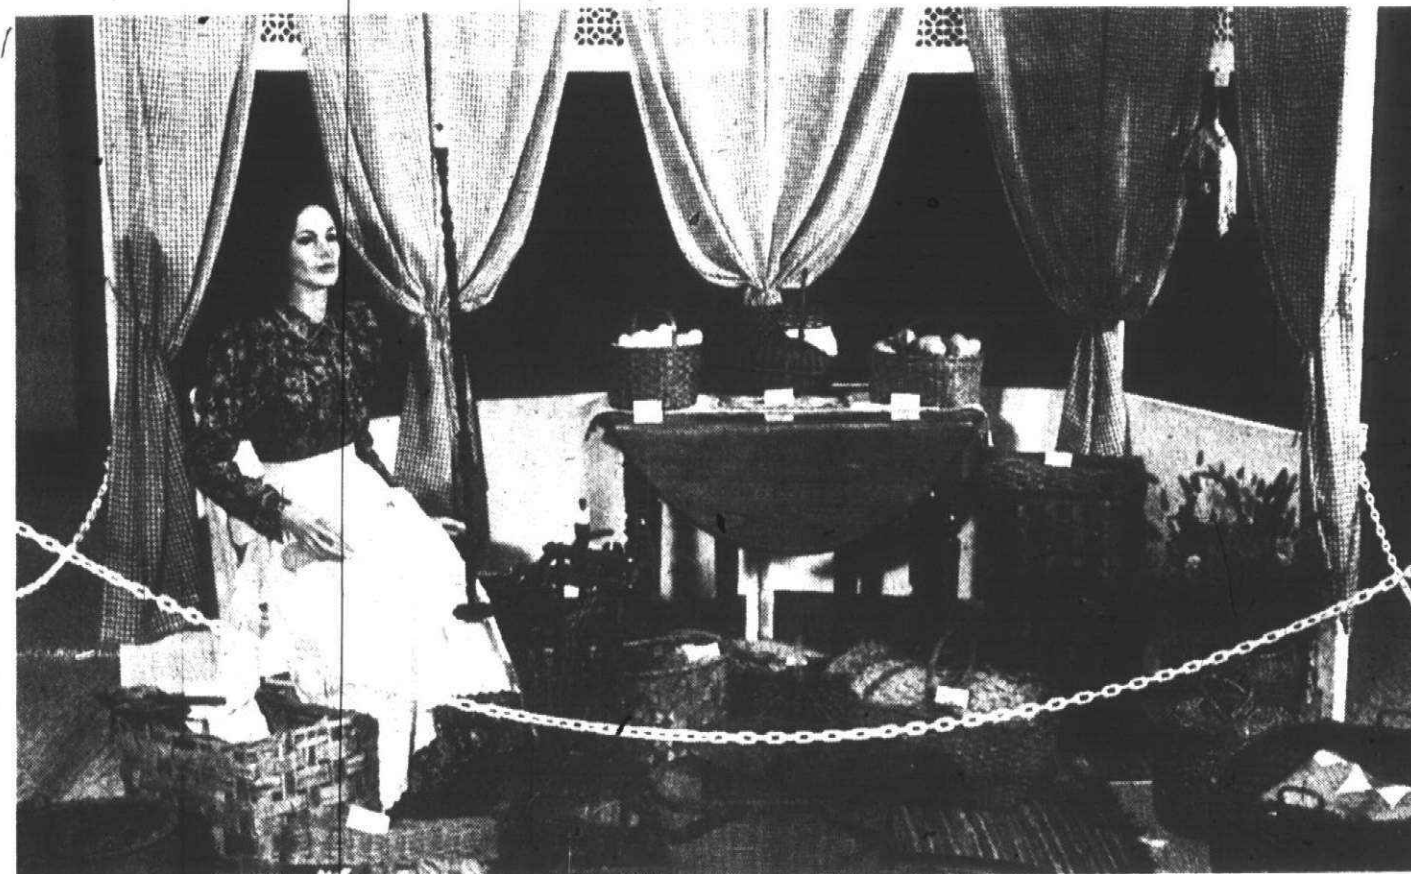

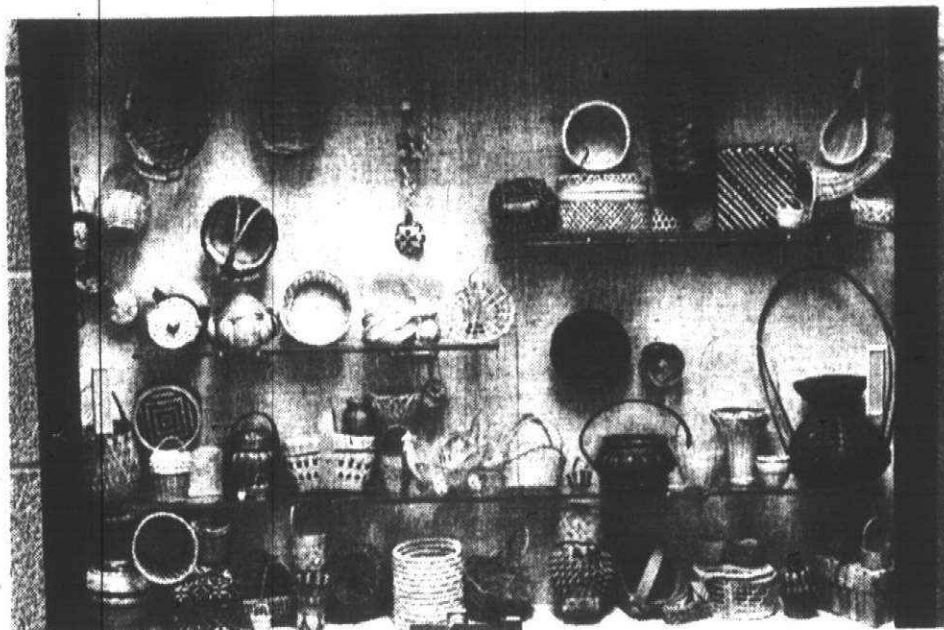

JESSIE HUDSON is playing bridge with the natives in Biarritz, France. She and Sam are down in Basque country. Sam, our Plymouth Past and Present columnist, is editing the second volume of his History of Plymouth. On their way home, they plan to visit Frank and Peggy Vovare in Holland. Peggy was an art teacher at Plymouth High school.

JEAN AND SMITH Horton are going to have two sons in the Military Academy at West Point. Paul received word last week that he had been appointed to the academy. U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell had nominated Paul earlier this year. Paul is a senior at Plymouth Salem High School. He was co-captain of the basketball team and attended Boys State last summer.

Paul will report to West Point July 1. He will be in the Beast Barracks while his older brother Steven will be a "Firtie," a senior class member. The "Firties" traditionally "lean on" the newcomers.

Steven graduated from Plymouth Salem high in 1978. He is now a junior, a "Cow" at the academy. He has been on the dean's list each semester since he has been there. He also has encouraged brother Paul to make every effort to go to West Point.

Congratulations. The Hortons have every right to be proud of their two sons.

A-tisket, a-tasket

The museum is full of baskets. Not really full of baskets, but the new exhibit has just about every type of basket imaginable. There are clothes baskets, drying baskets, a feather basket, cheese baskets, egg baskets, picnic baskets, market baskets, sewing baskets and even a little thimble basket. There is the collection of miniature baskets (left) on loan to the Plymouth Historical Museum by Betty Norman. The museum is open from 1-4 p.m. Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays. Trombonist Dennis Smith will solo with orchestra

The Plymouth Symphony will welcome home a professional trombonist Sunday.

No stranger to this area, Dennis Smith served as principal trombonist in the Detroit Symphony Orchestra for three years. Presently associate professor of trombone at the University of Michigan School of Music, he has been in demand throughout the country.

Starting with the New York City Opera Company, he later performed with the Utah, Detroit and Los Angeles orchestras. It was during his California stint that he did so much of his recording for motion picture and television productions.

The music he has selected for Sunday's concert is a contemporary but important work, Paul Creston's "Fantasy for Trombone and Orchestra." It may be unfamiliar to many members of the audience, but plans are under way to coax him into a more familiar encore.

IN ANY CASE, the audience will have little difficulty with the rest of the program. Conductor Johan van der Merwe has chosen one of the best known and most popular concert pieces as an opener.

"Overture to Oberon" by von Weber takes the listener through a wonderland of elves and faeries not unlike Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Once again, there will be a single work of monumental proportions after intermission. (Last month, it was the Tchaikovsky 4th.)

Schubert's Symphony No. 9 in C is usually referred to as his "Great C Major Symphony." The ideas come with a breadth usually associated more with Beethoven — a clue as to how far he might have gone had he not lived such a short life.

The work, full of energy and drama, should not be confused with Schubert's shorter and more lyrical piece popularly known as his "Unfinished Symphony."

TICKETS FOR the concert will be available at the door. Tickets may be bought in advance in Plymouth at Beitner Jewelry on Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth Book World on Forest Street and Heide's Flowers, Ann Arbor Trail at Harvey. In Canton Township, tickets are available at Harvard Book in Harvard Square Shopping Center and at Arnoldt Williams Music on Dennis Smith, trombonist, will be soloist Sunday afternoon with the Plymouth Symphony orchestra.

Canton Center Road near Ford.

Concert time is 4 p.m. Sunday in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School, Joy west of Canton Center Road.

Admission is $4 for adults and $2 for senior citizens and fulltime college students. Students kindergarten through 12th grade are admitted free.

A Girl Scout troop will provide for baby-sitting for preschoolers during the concert. Free transportation is provided for senior citizens from Tonquish Creek Manor at 3:15 p.m.

This concert is made possible with the support of the state of Michigan through a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

How to win state fair prize

Those interested in trying to win a blue ribbon at the Michigan State Fair may participate in a one-day seminar.

The seminar will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, March 7, in the Community Arts Auditorium of the Michigan State Fairgrounds, Woodward and Eight Mile, Detroit.

The seminar will feature lectures and demonstrations by state fair judges, home economists and business professionals. They will offer insight into what factors lead to a prize-winning entry in baking, canning, sewing and crafts.

Program topics include hints for quilters, dollmaking, canning procedures and baking entries. Participants should bring a bag lunch. Coffee and tea will be provided.

Director is here, 'Shenanigans' countdown begins

Ed Horner, professional director of the arts council's musical revue, is in town "for the duration."

He will spend the next two weeks with the community's talented and not-too-talented in concentrated rehearsals for "Shenanigans," which will open Friday, March 13, for a two-night run.

"Shenanigans" is the third Community Arts Council show, and Horner is the third Cargill Productions representative contracted to produce, choreograph, direct and stage manage the PCAC "follies."

Horner was born in Minnesota. By the time he was 10, he knew exactly what he wanted to be when he grew up — an entertainer. From the time he was 11, he was involved in hometown amateur productions, singing, dancing and acting.

"I attended a parochial high school and was the only kid who appeared in both my high school's and the public high school's presentations," he said.

HIS FATHER was in the military, and the Horners did some moving around, from Texas to Louisiana to Ohio. Whenever an Army base concert was in the planning, young Ed's father would volunteer, "I have a son who can sing and dance."

Later, he served in the Army himself.

"But I was stationed stateside and spent every weekend I could in New York, studying ballet and drama." Later, he attended the University of Minnesota.

"Remember that old movie, 'Seven Brides for Seven Brothers?'" he asked.

"I saw that, and I loved it. Russ Tamblyn played the part of the wood-chopper, and he was my hero. I wanted to be like him."

"He later played in the movie version of 'West Side Story.'"

Horner has been with the New York-based company for 16 years. Peak seasons are January through May and September through November.

their own renovation work, a room at a time. Gradually, the old cracked plaster has been replaced and coats of paint removed from the old oak wood-work.

Horner has confined his working year to just one company.

"Actually, I spend more time at home than most men. I'll be home for Easter, all summer, and for Thanksgiving and Christmas."

HORNER WROTE "Shenanigans," and put it all together.

He said some of numbers that usually "bring down the house" are the Has-Beens, a country-rock-disco-swing segment, and the second-act opening, "New York, New York."

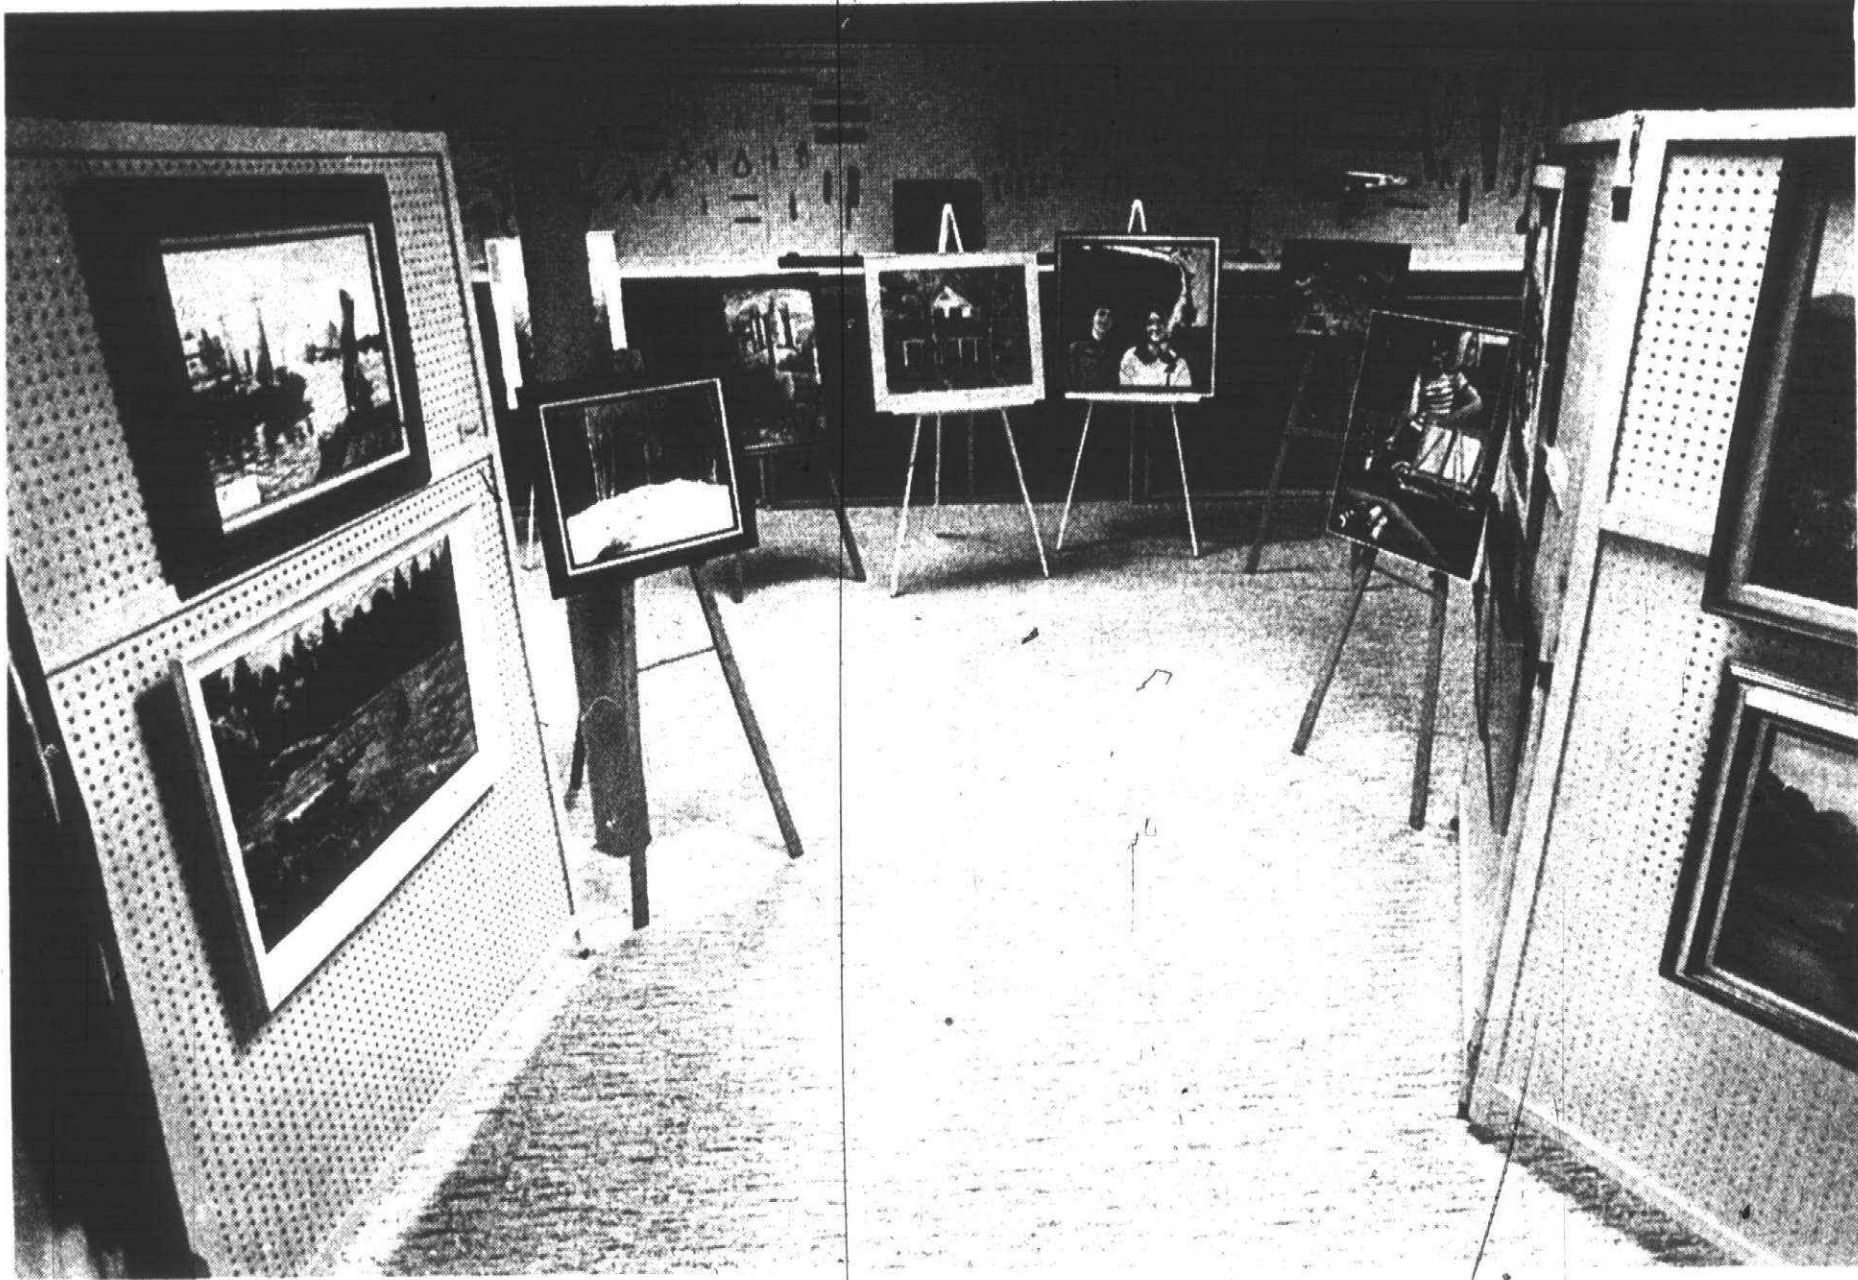

The two-act musical revue with all local talent will be presented Friday, Feb. 13/ and Saturday, Feb. 14, in Plymouth Salem High School auditorium.

Tickets will go on sale at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Plymouth Furniture, Main Street, Plymouth. Box office hours will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. through Feb. 14. Admission is $6 for main floor seats and $3 for balcony.

Horner came here from Rome, Ga., where "Shenanigans" was sponsored by the Rome Junior Service League.

"Down South, it's the Junior Service League," he said. "It's the same thing as the Junior League up here."

The show was a sell-out down there. Proceeds from the show go to community projects sponsored by the arts council.

Art show

Moreen Lawton's watercolor (right) was awarded best of show at the art exhibit at the Plymouth Historical Museum. It was juried by area artists Hazel Begole, Marian Sober and Carolyn Dunphy. Ellen Kenny's oil of a circus won second place, and a batik by Jessie Hudson earned third place. The paintings will be on display on the lower level of the museum until mid-March. auditions

The Plymouth Theatre Guild will be holding auditions for its next production, "Chapter Two" by Neil Simon, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 11, and Thursday, March 12, in Central Middle School, Church and Main streets, Plymouth. The play will be directed by Ves Spindler and will run April 24-25 and May 1-2. It will be the first presentation of the play by a community theater group in Michigan. For tickets, call Karen Groves, 420-2161.

District basketball confrontation slated

Brothers highlight Chief-Rock duel

By BRAD EMONS

The Canton-Salem district basketball game Tuesday night is not the only confrontation taking place.

The opener at Salem's gym will also pit an unusual matchup between two brothers — Sean Houle, a senior at Canton, and brother Dave, a sophomore at Salem.

Sean has been Canton's scoring and rebounding leader all season, the 6-foot-5 center averaging close to 20 points per game. Dave, 6-3 forward, has cracked the starting lineup in recent weeks and pumped in 14 points in a heartbreaking defeat against Dearborn two weeks ago.

For their parents, Pat and Rose, the season has been hectic.

"It's been difficult for my husband and I," said Rose. "We've had to run back and forth. We go to one half of one game and go one half to the other."

"The boys are two different personalities. They're both happy in their own schools and this has probably worked out best for the both of them."

"We have no arguments about basketball. They're businesslike about it.

"It hurts a mother because we have to cope with a winner and a loser."

In the first meeting between the two teams in the Churchill Holiday Classic, Salem won in triple overtime, 57-56. Sean led all scorers in that game with 28 points. Dave, a member of the varsity at the time, did not play.

The two also crossed paths last year in the district final, won by Canton, 68-54. Sean had 12 points and Dave did not play, having just been brought up from the junior varsity squad.

"THERE WAS a lot of tension before that game last year," remembers Dave. "It was mostly a lot of kidding."

"We didn't say much after the Christmas game," said Sean. "but sometimes we talk about basketball."

The two brothers "have their own friends," according to Mrs. Houle. But the two have played together at camps and during the summer months at a nearby elementary school.

"I feel I know his game and he knows mine," said Dave. "Basically what we have to do is shut down him (Sean) and make their other guys have a bad shooting night."

"I've noticed Salem has been going more inside," said the Canton senior. "We have to stop their inside game and hold down their shooters."

Both Hoyles are looking forward to the challenge.

"It's going to be just like a regular game," Dave said. "I might be a little more nervous because it's Canton."

"I think it's turned out for the best," said Sean, who transferred to Canton two years ago from Redford Catholic Central. "If we had played together, we'd have probably gotten in a few arguments on the court."

After Sean had enrolled at Canton, Dave was randomly selected by a computer to attend Salem, like all the other students entering the ninth grade.

TUESDAY'S game will be broadcast by WSDP-Radio (88.1 FM). Ross Rhinehart and Rick Johnson will provide the commentary, beginning at 7:25 p.m. WSDP will also broadcast Thursday's doubleheader starting at 6:25 p.m. with the Westland John Glenn-Garden City East battle. In the second game, Wayne Memorial will take on the winner of the Canton-Salem clash. Rick Johnson, Dave Callahan and Jim Heller will be courtside with the play-by-play.

The championship game broadcast will begin at 1:25 p.m. Saturday.

Glenn, 15-5 overall, appears to have the easiest road into the final. The Rockets have already beaten East twice, both by wide margins.

The senior-dominated squad is led by Kevin Thweatt, Dave Ward and Rob Sisson — all of whom are averaging close to 12 points per game.

Guards Tony Dalimonte, a defensive specialist, and Steve Hodges round out the starting lineup.

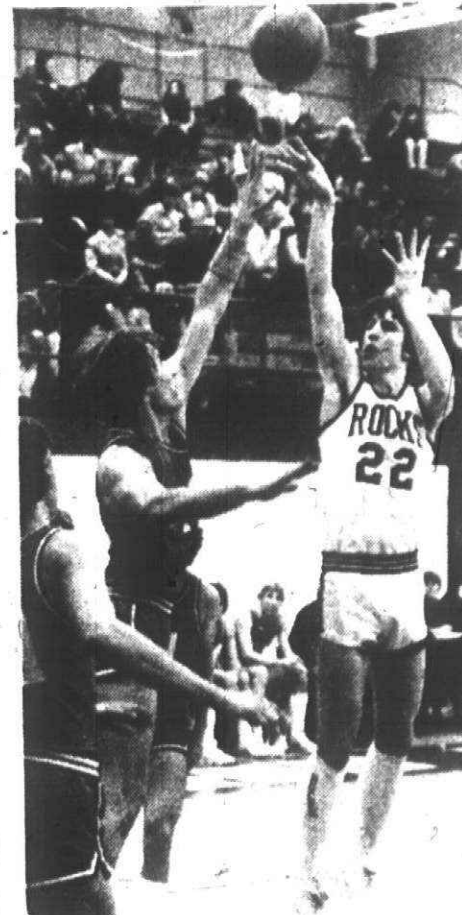

Wayne Memorial relies on the power front line of 6-7 Bill Hargraves, 6-5 Alfred Russell and 6-3 swingman Rick Rogers.

East, which finished the regular season at 2-17 under first year coach Rick Brewis, is led by Roger Ferguson and Bob Kosowski.

Tickets for all games are $1.50 each.

Dearborn swimmers clinch Sub 8 crown

Dearborn is the new boys' swim champion in the Suburban Eight League.

The Pioneers, who posted a 5-0-1 dual record, succeed Belleville as 1981 titlists.

"It was no surprise," said Plymouth Salem swim coach Chuck Olson. "They have too many good swimmers at the top."

"They're tough. Some people were saying the league was supposed to be down this year. It didn't look down to me tonight."

Dearborn racked up 260 points for first spot Friday night. The was held at Schoolcraft College. Trenton took second (200) followed by Belleville, third, 199; Salem, fourth, 181; Edsel Ford, fifth, 154; Livonia Bentley, sixth, 126; Allen Park, seventh, 28.

Bentley senior Paul Dudley capped an outstanding three-year career with victories in the 200-yard freestyle (1:49.84) and the 100 freestyle (48.835).

It was his seventh league title (including one relay) for the Bulldog standout. Even more remarkable was the fact that Dudley has missed most of the season with a dislocated knee.

"I was out for seven weeks," explained Dudley. "I just got my brace off and swam last Tuesday."

"After the prelims I felt good. The year has been kind of a disappointment, but tonight was it."

Salem's Bruce Harwood, a senior, also had an outstanding night. He finished a surprising second in the 100 backstroke with a time of 59.097. He was also a member of Salem's second place 200 medley relay squad which lowered their time considerably (1:44.072). Other members of that team included Jeff Kleinsmith, Gary Workman and Paul Perkowski.

"BRUCE gave us good senior leadership," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "His fifth in the (100) butterfly (57.964) was a bit of a surprise. I was hoping two guys would make it there into the finals."

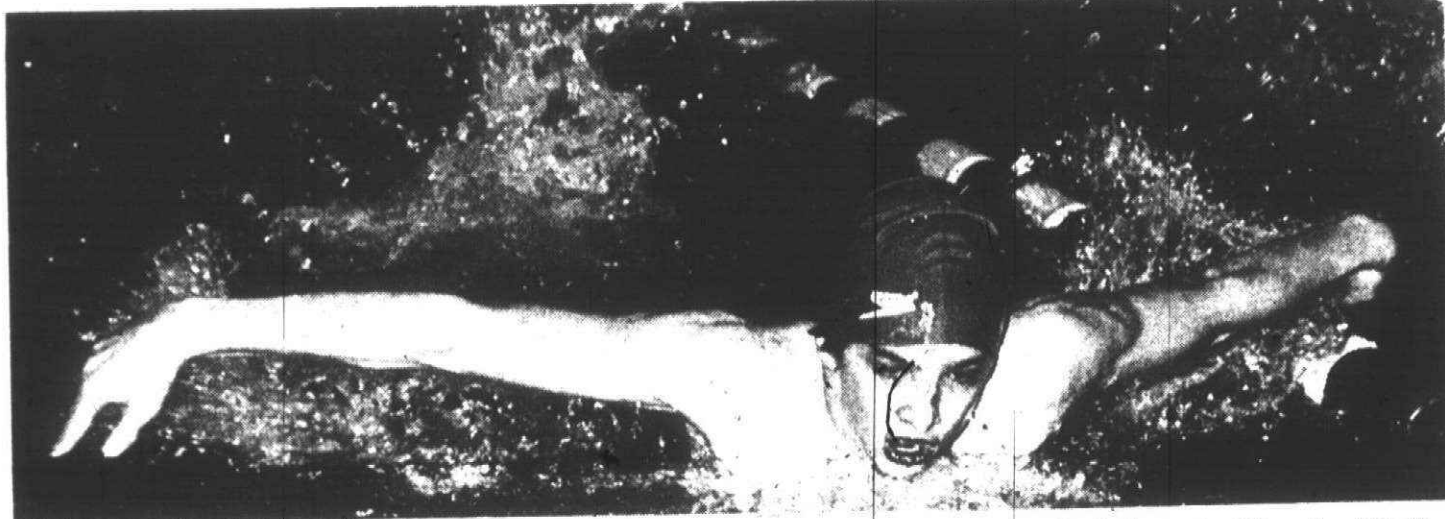

In the butterfly, Bentley's Gary Pomeroy finished third followed by Kleinsmith in fourth. Tim Harwood placed sixth.

Salem's 400 freestyle relay squad of John Thompson, Doug Kleinsmith, Tim Harwood and Russ Shaffer gained third with their best clocking of the year, 3:22.4.

The only league record was set by Belleville diver Pat McClelland. He totaled 461.95 points, besting the old mark (449.55) set by Edsel Ford's Doug Zantop in 1978. Salem's Joe Rudelic, a junior, finished a strong third with 377.2. He secured that spot with a final front-1 1/2-full-twist, which received high marks from the judges. Teammate Todd Riedel was seventh.

Bentley's Phil Wojcik took third in the 100 breaststroke with a time of 1:04.007. Salem senior Gary Workman was fourth (1:04.239).

Canton forces spike clash

A Western Six League volleyball title still remains a possibility for the women of Plymouth Canton.

The Chiefs can realize a league championship Monday night by beating league leader Livonia Churchill.

The showdown was set up by Canton's convincing 15-12, 15-6 victory Wednesday over Walled Lake Western.

With only one game remaining, Churchill is assured of a co-title. The Chargers, who have won the crown four consecutive years, sport a 7-2 record. Canton and Western stand at 6-3.

"This is the thing we've been all looking forward to," said Canton coach Cyndi Burnstein. "It's kind of dramatic since we're down to the last game."

The game is a make-up from Feb. 11, when the Churchill-Canton clash was snowed out. Monday's game will begin at 8 p.m.

"We'll see if that old Churchill psyche will wear on us again," laughed Burnstein, whose team has not beaten the Chargers in four years.

"The last game (in December) was very close. We got beat 15-13. They had the edge since it was Parent's Night and the home situation, of course."

The last title Canton won came in 1975. Northville was champion in 1976. Churchill has dominated since.

Canton's victory against Western avenged a loss earlier in the year.

"I think we were more relaxed this time," said the Canton coach. "I think it's the tournaments we've been in. We know we could play against good teams."

Western could never get going against the Chiefs, now 7-5 overall.

"In the second game Western made a million mistakes," said Burnstein. "They got down on each other a little bit. They're a momentum kind of team."

"We did not do as much spiking. That's why I thought we could have played better."

JUNIOR Robyn Hudgins played a key role in Canton's win, according to Burnstein.

"Robyn plays the front row and had a couple of good blocks. She also had three or four good dinks."

"She's getting a lot more aggressive at the net and it's starting to pay off. She's coming along well."

Bentley seizes volleyball title

Rocks end year with win

Plymouth Salem avenged an earlier season volley ball loss by downing Suburban Eight League foe Trenton on Thursday night, 6-15, 15-10, 15-9.

The Rocks ended the regular season with a 6-5 league and overall record.

After losing the first game, Salem rallied in the next game by overcoming a 7-2 deficit.

"Linda made some tremendous saves," said the Salem coach. "She also did some nice passing."

Himes also praised the play of setter Lisa Granger, Cheryl Sobkow and the defense of Mary Van Dusen.

In the final game, Salem broke a 3-3 tie to win going away.

SALEM-BENTLEY

The Bulldogs of Livonia Bentley rallied to defeat Salem Wednesday night, 8-15, 15-4, 15-9.

"In the first game we played really well," said Himes, "then we got down and couldn't come back. And I just couldn't seem to motivate the kids after that."

"Our passes started getting better in the third game, but we had a few calls go against us that hurt."

Himes said the Rocks played well offensively in the first game.

"Mary (Van Dusen) served excellent and Cheryl (Sobkow) had some good spikes." Bentley's Ann Roy, however, served 14 consecutive points in the second game. Eight of those serves went for aces. The Rocks were leading 4-1 when she stepped up to serve.

She was serving really tough," said Bentley coach Dana Harwidge. "It was a hard floater."

"That really got everything back on track for us. That gave us confidence."

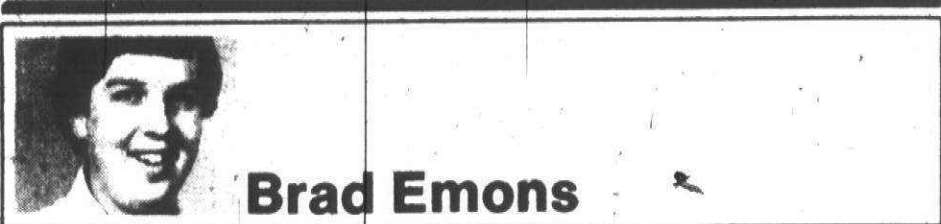

The win clinched an outright Suburban Eight League championship for Bentley. It's the fourth straight year that the Bulldogs have either won or tied for the crown.

Bentley finished the league season at 11-1.

Bronze medalist likes facility

Jim Millns does not give you the standard Dick Vitale sales pitch. But the former Olympic figure skater and bronze medalist in the 1976 games is enthusiastic, goal-oriented and a workaholic, just like the ex-Piston and University of Detroit basketball coach.

And according to Chuck Skene, director of the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department, Millns will be given the title of director of skating operations at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

"I met Jim at the regionals (Eastern Great Lakes) when he was here in December," said Skene. "He has a whole list of ideas to give us maximum use of our facility."

"The regionals were very successful," said Millns, 32, who competed in international pairs competition with long-time partner Colleen O'Connor. "They're still talking about it at the national office. I'm interested in updating the program here. My big goal is to reach everyone in the community, no matter what age or skill level."

"I'll be a little more active in higher level skating, too. We might have exhibitions every week. We want to shotgun the whole community."

Millns, born in Toledo, started skating when he was 13 years old. He began to skate competitively at age 17 in Chicago. He seriously took up the sport while attending the University of Illinois, where he met O'Connor.

He and O'Connor then moved to the Broadmoor complex in Colorado Springs, Colo., to receive intensive training.

Millns and O'Connor won their first national pairs title in 1974 and repeated twice more before competing in the Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria.

"The biggest thrill I got from competing at the Olympics was going back to the village and visiting with the athletes from all over the world," he said. "It was very rewarding. That's what I'll remember the most."

MILLNS turned professional shortly after, joining Toller Cranston's The Ice Show, along with O'Connor and Olymp-pic performer Gordon McKellen Jr.

"I toured for two years," Millns said. "We played Broadway and appeared on television specials on all three major networks."

Millns, who grew up in East Lansing, recently competed in the Team Professional Skating Championships, which were aired last month on NBC's "Sportsworld."

He began teaching pro experience two years ago at the National Academy of Skating in Rockwood, Mich.

"This facility (the Cultural Center) has everything you want," he said. "It has tremendous off-ice offerings. I can see drama, dance, exercise and nutritional classes. It goes beyond the ice surface. We want to make it a total program."

Millns, who already has started his new job, is planning summer skating programs at the present time.

"Jim will develop programs for the dead hours during the day, so we can utilize the building more effectively," said Skene.

The new pro is already mapping out programs to improve skating techniques for hockey players, lunch-hour sessions for businessmen and classes for senior citizens.

DOWN THE ROAD. Millns would like to develop skaters to compete on a national level. His star pupil right now is Tracy Moore of Dearborn, the only female skater from the Midwest to compete in the United State Figure Skating Association (USFSA) nationals, Feb. 3-7 in San Diego.

Millns was recommended to Skene by the Plymouth Figure Skating Club, the host of the Great Lakes Regionals.

"We sat down and said 'Where do we go from here to try to improve membership?'" said Skene. "There are a lot of good skaters in the Plymouth area alone. We want to upgrade our whole program."

Skene is confident Millns is the right man for the job. The former Olympic star also believes "he can turn Plymouth around."

Stevenson nips Chief tankers

John Simone and Bob Simrak of Plymouth Canton each won two events, but it wasn't enough as Livonia Stevenson beat the Chiefs Thursday, 93-79.

The loss gave Canton an 8-3 overall dual-meet record.

Simone, Canton's hottest swimmer of late, won the 200-yard and 500 freestyle events with times of 1:56.6 and 5:15.08, respectively.

Simrak grabbed a pair of firsts in the 200 individual medley (2:13.2) and 100 backstroke (1:01.49).

Mats Mared, a foreign exchange student from Sweden, captured first in the 50 freestyle (23.74) and 100 freestyle (51.45) for Stevenson.

The Spartans' Dave Stranquist set a Canton pool record in diving. He totaled 278.45 points. Canton's Steve Gaggi was second with 181.85.

Canton's 200 medley relay team of Simrak, Jim Luce, Ron Hurley and Pete Stern posted their best time of the season (1:46.9), but settled for second spot behind Stevenson's foursome of Pat Schoff, John Ravenna, Rob Pavlic and Richard Schwedt.

"We had some good swims," said

Canton coach Bill McCord, "I'm really pleased for the most part. We knew we had to have a great meet to beat them. This performance is more up than down."

Canton swimmers gaining second place finishes included Hurley, 100 butterfly, 59.91; Stern, 100 freestyle, 51.99; and Luce, 100 breaststroke, 1:08.29.

CHIEF tankers who placed third included Tom McKercher, 200 freestyle, 2:03.5, and 500 freestyle, 5:44.08; Joe Gibbons, 100 freestyle, 54.85; Bob Lewelling, 100 backstroke, 1:09.9; and Greg Schnurstein, 100 breaststroke, 1:11.92.

Canton trailed by only four points entering the final race. The Stevenson 400 freestyle relay squad of Mared, Schoff, Pavlic and Schwedt, however, wrapped up the meet with a first place finish in 3:30.6.

Canton, which is unbeaten in Western Six League duals, will compete Thursday in the league meet beginning at 4 p.m. at Farmington Harrison. The Chiefs will be seeking their third straight league crown.

Rusty Nail upsets Mayflower

Upsets are becoming more common in the Plymouth Recreation Adult Basketball League.

The Rusty Nail '76ers came from behind last week to upset Mayflower Hotel, 64-63.

The winners overcame a 14-point deficit.

Ernie Thornsby hit the go-ahead basket and teammate John Everard made one free throw to clinch it for the '76ers.

Hoop victories brighten outlook

It almost seems ironic that Plymouth Salem, which had problems scoring points in many outings this basketball season, had everyone on the team break into the scoring column Friday during the regular-season finale. Maybe that was unexpected. What was expected was a good defensive effort and that's exactly what the Rocks' turned in while routing Trenton, 63-41.

Amazingly, no one scored in double figures for the Rocks. Dave Houle and Mike McBride led the way with nine points each. Leigh Langkabel contributed eight.

Salem, playing in front of a home crowd, led 14-2 at the end of the first quarter and 27-7 at the half. Salem limited Trenton to just 10 field goals during the entire game.

The victory was the eighth in 12 Suburban Eight League outings for the Rocks, who finished with an overall regular-season record of 12-8.

Now, it's state tournament time and Salem will have its hands full tomorrow when it hosts intra-district rival Canton. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

ern Six League record at 5-5 with a 72-42 pasting of Walled Lake Western.

Craig Bell, coach of the Chiefs, said he had a couple of specific goals in mind entering the game.

"Obviously we wanted to win so we could finish 5-5 in the league and finish 10-9 overall and have a winning season," he said. "And certainly we wanted to get momentum going into the tournament."

The outcome was hardly in doubt after the Chiefs thundered to a 17-8 lead after the first quarter and 36-17 at the half.

Canton continued to stay hot during the second half, outscoring Western 18-11 in the third quarter and 18-14 in the fourth.

Sean Houle and Dave Malek scored 25 and 20 points, respectively, for the Chiefs. "Malek and Houle carried us in the first quarter when they (Western) used a zone defense," Bell said.

'Write Write' produces images of success

If what children see is what teachers get in their student's writing, then an experimental television show being developed at the University of Michigan is a new approach to improving literacy.

"Many writers lack an image of how successful writers proceed," says Barbara Morris, producer of the animated series "Write Write."

The show is being made under the auspices of the English Composition Board (ECB) — founded in 1976 to upgrade students' writing skills — of the U-M's College of Literature, Science, and the Arts (LSA). Financing for the pilot half-hour of "Write Write" is being provided by the Comprehensive Program Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education, a national agency.

The writing task as described in "Write Write," Morris explains, is divided into major activities: the composing of the text from the authors' point of view; and the revising of that draft based on the author's perceptions of how their audience will react to it.

In "Write Write," these stages in writing are dramatized through the lack of communication between two imaginary worlds: that of the "line people," who thrive in their world of words; and the "block people" — who communicate through computers.

The "lines" write their letter of appeal to the "blocks" requesting help when a freak snow storm paralyzed the line world. However, the letter is misunderstood by the block people, who return it.

Finally, the line people are assisted by what Morris characterizes as a "bridge character," — who helps in the reshaping of the letter so that it becomes understandable to the block people.

The line people are cartoon characters created by art director Susan LeVan, a U-M alumna who authored "The Vegetable Parade" (1978). The block people are animated clay figures created by Michael Frierson.

The ECB has received funding to produce supplementary classroom materials, to accompany the program. "Write Write" is projected to consist of 10 half-hour programs which can be broadcast individually or as a whole series.

W. SECTION 1307.2.2. PART II. The 1977 Building Code of the Township of Plymouth, Ordinance No. 52, is hereby amended by amending Part VII (S) Section 1500 5 (xx), Article 1100 - Fees

Moving of building permit requirements are that before a permit for the moving of any building or structure may be issued, the applicant shall file with the Township Treasurer a cash or surety bond, in form and with sufficient sureties acceptable to the Township Treasurer, in the penal sum of not less than Ten Thousand Dollars, saving and protecting the Township of Plymouth harmless from all damages to private property and to pay for all damages to public property that may arise from the use of any streets, alleys, boulevards, parks or other public places in the moving of said building structure, and the applicant shall file with the Township Treasurer a public liability and property damage insurance policy, naming the applicant and the Township of Plymouth as the insured; and providing for the payment of any liability imposed by law upon such applicant or the Township of Plymouth to the extent of Ten Thousand Dollars for injury to or death of any one person and Twenty Thousand Dollars for injuries to or deaths of more than one person and for damage to property in the amount of Two Thousand Dollars, and the applicant shall file with the Township Treasurer a cash or surety bond in form and with sufficient sureties acceptable to the Township Treasurer, in the penal sum of not less than One Thousand Dollars, the condition of which bond shall be that the applicant guarantees to the Township of Plymouth that the moving of the building or structure will not cause, or allow as the result of such moving, the collecting of stagnant water or leaving of the land in a condition determined by the Department of Building and Code Enforcement to be unsuitable or to be unfit for the growing of turf or for other land uses permitted in the zoning district in which such moving occurs. In addition, the applicant shall file with the Department of Building and Code Enforcement a specification of the route over which the building or structure is to be moved and the time allowed for such moving as approved by the Fire Chief of the Township of Plymouth. The foregoing requirements shall not be applicable in the case of the moving of a building or structure within the limits of the property on which it is located.

Further, the applicant shall provide such security personnel and public safety precautions as the Building Official and the Fire Chief may direct or require. In no event shall a permit to move a building or structure be issued by the Department of Building and Code Enforcement unless and until the Department of Building and Code Enforcement finds that under the facts the applicant has sufficient knowledge, experience, equipment and facilities to properly conduct such moving and that the structure and the use thereof at the proposed location thereof within the Township of Plymouth would be lawful and not injurious to the contiguous property and surrounding neighborhood; provided, that upon denial of said permit and within thirty (30) days of such denial, the applicant may appeal such denial to the Board of Trustees, whereupon that body may approve the issuance of a permit.

The moving of building permit fee shall be a sum computed upon the basis of the cost of moving of the building in accordance with the schedule contained in subsection (A), Building Permit Fee, hereinbefore. In addition to the foregoing permits, requirements and fees, the owner of the premises in the Township of Plymouth to and upon which a building or structure is to be placed shall apply for a building permit for all on site foundation, completion, restoration and other work or material to be performed upon or supplied to the relocated building or structure in the same manner as for new construction.

PART XV. If any clause, sentence, section, paragraph or part of this Ordinance, or the application thereof to any person, firm, corporation, legal entity or circumstance, shall be for any reason adjudged by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional or invalid, said judgment shall not affect, impair or invalidate the remainder of this Ordinance and the application of such provision to other persons, firms, corporations, legal entities or circumstance, but said judgment shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, section, paragraph or part of this Ordinance thereof directly involved in the case and controversy in which said judgment shall have been rendered and to the person, firm, corporation and circumstance then and there involved. It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent of the body that this Ordinance would have been adopted had such invalid or unconstitutional provision not been included in this Ordinance.

PART XVI. This Ordinance is declared effective on March 1st, 1981, which in no event shall be sooner than thirty (30) days after its publication.

PART XVII. This Ordinance was adopted by the Township Board of the Charter Township of Plymouth, Wayne County, Michigan, at its Regular meeting duly called and held on the 25th day of February, 1981, and ordered to be given publication in the manner prescribed by law.

Hometown grocer meets hometown newspaper. And a four-year romance begins.

IF YOU DON'T SEE IT
ASK FOR IT
IF WE HAVEN'T GOT
WE'LL GET IT

Larry Downey, Meat Manager (right)

We don't know if it was love at first ad, but Joe Agemy has some very nice things to say about the results he gets each week from Shopping Cart, our colorful Monday food section.

Four years ago Agemy & Sons opened in Livonia on Five Mile at Farmington Road. The goal at Agemy's was and is to give people good old fashioned personal service. Like the sign behind the meat counter says, "If you don't see it, ask for it. If we haven't got it, we'll get it."

There's a lot of friendliness that goes on at Agemy's -- greetings called to customers as they pick and choose from the many good food items displayed.

"The Observer is sort of like my store--friendly, local," says Joe.

We think Shopping Cart and Agemy's were made for each other and as Joe says, "You don't have to search for my ads," he likes the fact that they're right where they're supposed to be along with good food-related features and recipes that appeal to his friends--his customers and our readers

Five pounds of coupons may not sound like a lot to the average coupon clipper, but the more than 8,000 that make up the pile that weighs nearly five pounds is enough to make a grown grocer's heart miss a beat. That's how many Joe has received as a result of a recent Shopping Cart ad and they're still coming.

If you don't have a hefty handful of coupons sitting around, maybe it's time you made a date with your Observer & Eccentric ad rep.

A little romance never hurt anybody.

Nastassia Kinski plays the title role in "Tess," based on the Thomas Hardy novel "Tess of the d'Urbervilles."

the movies

Louise Snider

Camera captures strong imagery with film 'Tess'

Roman Polanski's "Tess" (PG), from Thomas Hardy's 19th century novel, "Tess of the d'Urbervilles," is one of the few exceptions to the rule that serious literary works don't adapt well to the screen.

What irony that this terror of a director, responsible for "Chinatown," "Repulsion," "The Tenant," should have made such an eminently respectable, stately film about repressed passion, guilt and violence.

If anything, Polanski has shown too much respect for Hardy's novel. The movie, three hours long, progresses like a pavan with measured movements and turnings and great restraint. It may be that Polanski relies too much on establishing atmosphere and slights the development of character.

Tess is a beautiful, but poor and odd simple country girl. When she is 16, she is raped by her employer, a wealthy landowner. She returns home to bear his child, who dies while still an infant.

TESS LATER MARRIES a proper young gentleman in a true love match. However, when she confesses her experience to him, his Victorian standards don't allow him to accept a tarnished wife, so he abandons her.

The deserted woman labors for years like a beast in the field, awaiting her husband's forgiveness and return. Her torment and suppressed hatred eventually lead to her destruction.

Nastassia Kinski, a European beauty who is the daughter of German actor Klaus Kinski, plays Tess. She vividly conveys the childlike innocence and sensual attractiveness but not much emotion, even allowing for the restraint of the period.

Leigh Lawson as the seducer and Peter Firth as her husband give greater range to their expressions, but we still learn little about their motivations and feelings.

By the last half of the film, therefore, one becomes weary of Tess martyring herself waiting for her self-righteous husband to return. When her seducer tries to coax her back to him and away from her drudgery, he says, "There is a point at which stubbornness becomes stupidity."

By then, we've seen enough to agree.

THE FLAWS ARE there, but they are imperfections on a large and handsome canvas. With the help of the late cinematographer Geoffrey Unsworth, and Ghislain Cloquet who replaced him, Polanski has created a masterpiece.

The imagery might well be a survey of the palettes of great artists. It ranges from the golden tones of a Rembrandt to the atmospheric effects of English watercolorists to the fresh, direct hues of the Impressionists.

It catches the contrasts of newly mechanized agriculture and pastoral settings, of crisp, richly textured interiors and soft, shadowy forests.

"Tess" is a film that rewards the patient viewer with a succession of beautiful, resonant images.

Leigh Lawson plays Alec d'Urberville, whose illegitimate child Tess bears.

You can cut cost of gas

You can do something about the high cost of gasoline.

Sensible driving measures could save the typical consumer 26 cents on each gallon, according to U.S. Department of Energy figures.

These savings apply to you if you're the typical American driver who's averaging 15 miles per gallon, driving 11,000 miles a year and paying more than $700 each year for gasoline.

Your gasoline bill could be cut drastically without much inconvenience if you just adjust your driving habits. Here's how:

Save up to five cents per gallon by driving more efficiently. For instance, warm up the engine by driving slowly. Never idle for more than one minute to warm up or while waiting in line.

Drive at a moderate but steady pace. Don't pump the accelerator and continually speed up and slow down. Anticipate the flow of traffic ahead and adjust speed accordingly.

Use the most efficient speeds of 35-45 where allowed. Fifty-five may be necessary on the highway or freeway, but going just 10 miles per hour faster wastes 18 percent more gasoline.

Save up to 13 cents a gallon by planning ahead to combine or eliminate trips. Carpool to and from work or shopping. Combine several errands into one trip to cut down on expensive stop-and-go driving.

Save up to eight cents a gallon by keeping your car in good shape. Tires should be kept inflated to the highest recommended pressure. (If they're down just four pounds, you lose a couple of pennies per gallon.)

These and other steps can add up to money in your pocket, as much as 26 cents per gallon. It's not impossible.

When it's time to trade in your current car, get one that averages 10 more miles per gallon and add radial tires. You could save the equivalent of another 20 cents per gallon over your current gas bill.

One of every two cars in America is at least six years old, according to industry sources. If you're driving an older car, here's what owning a 1981 model could give you:

- 57 percent better gasoline mileage. The average new 1974 car got less than 14 miles per gallon. The average 1980 car gets 22 miles per gallon.

- A saving of $300-$450 a year in gasoline alone. This assumes you drive 10,000-12,000 miles a year and gasoline costs less than $1.50 per gallon.

- Additional savings on maintenance. New car owners will save hundreds of dollars because of fewer oil changes, lubrication jobs and routine maintenance checks.

- The knowledge that you're doing something to help ease the energy crisis. If one of every four owners of median-age cars bought a 1981 model, we would save as much oil as we imported from Iran in a year.

Ford's EXP

The 1982 front-wheel-drive Ford EXP sport coupe will be introduced in April. It has projected fuel-economy estimates of 29 mpg city and 45 mpg highway. The EXP has fully independent front and rear suspension systems, and its standard instrumentation includes a tachometer, ammeter and gauges for oil pressure, engine temperature and fuel. Reclining bucket seats and halogen headlights also are standard. Optional suspension includes special wheels and tires and a larger-diameter front stabilizer bar for a firmer ride and tighter handling.
