Recommendation bans area hunting during off-season

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

"A step in the right direction" is how Supervisor James Poole describes a committee's recommendation of a partial ban on hunting in three largely rural areas of Canton.

The committee last week recommended that hunting be banned between March 1 and Oct. 19. In addition, only shotgun and fine shot weaponry would be permitted under the recommendation.

Bruce Andrews of the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) said the limited ban would discourage illegal shooting during the off-season.

Oct. 20 is the opening of the general small game season, which includes rabbit and pheasant.

The proposal still faces a lengthy review process at the township and state levels before it could go into effect.

The areas in question are section five (bounded by Warren, Joy, Ridge and Beck roads); the northern half of section six (bounded by Napier and Ridge, to a half-mile south of Joy); and section nine (bounded by Warren, Ford, Canton Center and Beck roads).

UNDER state law, persons may hunt in open areas if they have permission of the property-owner. They may not fire a weapon within 450 feet of an occupied dwelling.

But some residents say those laws are difficult to enforce. They want a total ban.

The committee's recommendation is a "reasonable compromise" between the rights of hunters and safety concerns, said Poole, chairman of the four-member committee.

Other members of the committee are representatives of the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Michigan State Police and Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

"Next year or the year after, maybe we'll get (the areas) closed," added Poole. "This is a great improvement."

The committee's vote came after an April 8 public hearing at Canton Township Hall. Sponsoring the hearing was the DNR, which is responsible for closing areas to hunting.

About a dozen residents made comments. Several said they were aftraid of being struck by a hunter's stray bullet. Others complained about hunters wandering onto their property.

State tax plan 'freezes' drop in millage rate

By Darlene Stinson
editor

A May 19 ballot proposition for Michigan tax reform would freeze Canton's operating millage at less than half the rate currently allowed by law.

Any increase — even to a level now under sole jurisdiction of the Township Board — would require a nod of approval from voters. The current tax rate for operations is 2.39 mills ($2.39 per $1,000 of assessed property valuation) — less than half of Canton's five-mill charter limit.

In general, the constitutional amendment proposed by the Michigan Legislature reduces property taxes on homes and farms by slightly less than 50 percent. Most revenues lost by local units of government would be reimbursed by the state through a 1½ percent hike in the sales tax.

Finance director Mike Gorman says those general provisions of the tax proposal would wield a minimum impact on Canton finances next year.

He figures that Canton would lose $250,000 or more as a result of the plan's implementation. The estimated loss is equitable to a half-mill tax cut proposed for next year by Supervisor James Poole prior to submission of the Legislature's tax plan.

But another provision — not slated for print on the May ballot — would discourage municipal officials from lowering the millage rate for the further benefit of tax-weary property owners, Gorman predicts.

Last September, the former Township Board tightened its fiscal belt in order to give property owners a net, half-mill decrease.

That decrease, coupled with a juggling of millage rates for operation, police and fire, sliced the tax rate for operations from the charter five-mill limit to only 2.39 mills.

IF THE LEGISLATURE'S tax plan is approved on May 19, Canton's operating millage rate will be frozen at 2.39 mills unless voters approve an increase.

That's because of a stipulation which limits a municipality's millage rate to no higher than the rate levied the previous year.

Gorman said that provision could create problems for Canton in the future, if additional tax dollars are needed. The stipulation may also apply to the township's two special assessment taxes for police and fire protection.

This year, the township levied 3.25 mills for both police and fire. The special assessment propositions approved by voters some years ago authorizes the Township Board to levy any amount of millage for those services.

If Proposition A's millage ceiling applies to special assessment taxes — and Gorman said he believes it does, voters would have to approve a millage increase for police and fire in addition to an increase for general operations.

"We wouldn't be able to do anything without going to the people for a vote. But that's not all that bad either," Gorman said in reference to the increased tax control which Proposition A would place in the hands of voters.

Tying the millage rate to that of the previous year, however, would discourage local efforts for additional tax relief, Gorman said. It would punish communities like Canton which lowered their millage rates last year.

"Those governments that are trying to listen to the economic times and lower the millages when they can will

Kids lined up for the grand opening of a new sporting-goods shop last Friday to get an autograph from one of the shop's owners — Tiger pitcher Milt Wilcox.

Opening day!

Kids cram store for Tiger autographs

By Arlene Funke

The bright orange decorative tiger looks like he's poised to leap from his spot on the wall.

A baseball bat featured in a prominent place contains a small engraving: Cincinnati Reds, World Series 1970.

A uniform hangs nearby, emblazoned with the number 39. And people are sitting in tiny, green seats that look exactly like the ones you used to occupy when visiting Tiger Stadium.

Best of all, a smiling, tanned man in a blue T-shirt is signing "Milt Wilcox" on "genuine, Detroit Tigers" baseballs.

"Come back later and see Champ Summers and Lance Parrish," he tells the clusters of boys.

The autographs were a one-day special, given with the purchase of a pair of running shoes.

Wow! Heady stuff for baseball fans.

THE SCENE last Friday was opening day. Not opening day of baseball, mind you — but the grand opening of Milt Wilcox's Runner's Unlimited shop. It is located in King's Row shopping center at Warren and Lilley in Canton.

Co-owner of the shop is Milt Wilcox, 30, Canton resident for the past two years and pitcher for the Detroit Tigers.

Runner's Unlimited sells running and jogging shoes, shorts, T-shirts and other merchandise geared to running. Wilcox's partner in the store is Jack Schoenborn, his neighbor in Canton. Wilcox was born in Hawaii. His family moved to Oklahoma City when he was 3 years old. He met his wife Wanda while the two were attending high school in that city.

He has been in professional baseball for 14 years — five with the Tigers. He also has played for Cincinnati, Cleveland and Chicago.

The family moved to Canton two years ago. Their two children are Stacy, 10, and Brian, 4.

WHY open a sports shoe store?

"Pitching is fragile," Wilcox said. "I've seen too many other players get out of the game.

"We live in Canton — we plan on staying here," he added. "We felt a running shoe store is needed. In the long run, it is going to help me. And I think it will be good for the community."

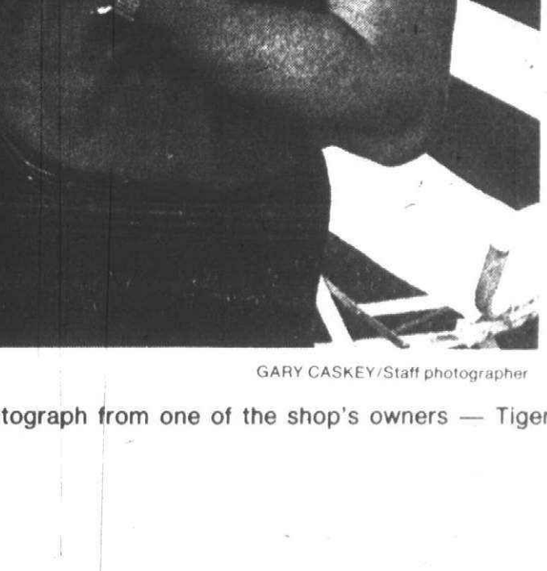
The Wilcoxes have another sports-related business. About 1½ years ago, they formed Galaxy Sports Service, a speaker's bureau featuring professional athletes who appear at bar mitzvahs, parties, banquets and mall openings, Mrs. Wilcox said.

During the six-month baseball season, Wilcox is in town only for home games. That averages out to about three months.

Mrs. Wilcox said she and the children enjoy going to Lakeland, Fla., for spring training.

During that period, Stacy is excused from her classes at Allen Elementary School in Canton. She attends a school in Lakeland and does special reports to send to her classmates back home.

"I'm sure there are kids who see her (as the daughter of a celebrity)," Mrs. Wilcox said. "(But) girls her age aren't into baseball."



It was a busy day for Milt Wilcox, part owner of Runners Unlimited.

Easter egg hunt is Saturday

The Canton Parks and Recreation Department will sponsor its annual Easter egg hunt for kids 10 and under on Saturday, April 18.

The hunt begins at 10 a.m. on the grounds of Township Hall on Canton Center at Proctor.

Children will be divided into age groups to search the grounds for candy and special eggs worth prizes. Each participant will receive a treat.

Parents are urged to transport their children via carpools, because parking is limited. For further information, call the recreation department at 397-1000 between 8:30 a.m and 5 p.m.

Board eyes pink slips for teachers

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education will be asked tonight to issue layoff notices to more than 140 teachers.

The issuing of layoff notices, informally referred to as "pink slips," is a tentative notification required by law to be issued in mid-April if the district intends later in the year to reduce the size of the faculty.

Although the administration now expects some teachers will be laid off in the future, it doesn't expect that all 140 will lose their jobs.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the upstairs board room at 454 S. Harvey.

Other agenda items will include approval of the 1981-82 county allocation budget, purchase of air conditioning and storage cabinets, placing Bird and Fiegel on Extended School Year (ESY) and extending the superintendent's contract through June 1984.

IF THE DISTRICT does plan to lay off any teachers in 1981-82 it must, by law, issue layoff notices by April 15.

In some districts, particularly those with declining enrollment, pink slips are routinely issued each year. Plymouth-Canton, with its rising enrollment each year, has not issued pink slips in recent years.

The school board tonight will be given a list of 142 certified and licensed teachers and four term substitutes that administration is recommending for notification of termination at this time.

The reason for the notices, Superintendent John M. Hoben said, is the uncertainty at this time of funding for school year 1981-82.

If the Smith-Brown (Proposal A) tax-reform issue is approved on the May 19 ballot, Hoben said, the district could face an increased deficit of $1.5 to $2.2 million.

The district already is facing a deficit for the coming year, Hoben added, so the total deficit could climb to $4 to $5 million if Proposal A is approved.

Sam Natoli wants job back

After petitioning board

Natoli waits for word on old constable job

Sam Natoli isn't holding his breath waiting for the township to reinstate him as constable.

He says he's willing to serve in another capacity.

Members of the Township Board recently said they want more information before deciding whether the elected position of constable should be brought back. A former board eliminated the slot last year because of limited space on the ballot.

"I'm disappointed," said Natoli. "It isn't just that I want my old job back. I want to serve. I'll do anything."

Natoli, 56, had taken his case to the Township Board.

CANTON formerly had four elected constables whose chief function was to collect delinquent ambulance fees. For that service, they kept half the outstanding fee.

Constables also performed other chores, such as serving subpoenas through private arrangements with attorneys in court cases.

The board in February 1980 eliminated the constable's position because there wasn't room on the ballot with continued growth in the number of candidates and propositions. Some officials also felt the position had become less meaningful in recent years, due to changes in state law.

A few months ago, the township treasurer's office took over the task of collecting delinquent ambulance fees. Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz said she needs 2-3 months to evaluate the new collection plan.

Some board members discussed the merits of reinstating the constable's slot. Others felt it shouldn't be done for one person — that other candidates should be allowed to compete for the job.

Trustee Robert Padget speculated that reinstated Natoli might be "creating a position." He asked for guidelines from the administration.

"SAM Natoli has done a good job," said Ms. Falkiewicz. "I feel we should open up the job to others."

"How are you going to advertise for people to collect ambulance fees?" questioned Clerk John Flodin.

"We can't take an application from you or anybody else for a position that doesn't exist," said Supervisor James Poole.

In recent years, the constable job had deteriorated.

A state law which took effect in 1972 stipulated certification and minimum training levels for police officers. Until that time, constables also were permitted to make arrests for misdemeanors.

Natoli, who retired from Ford Motor Co. last year, currently is employed by SuperBowl bowling alley in Canton. He also is a reserve police officer.

State's tax plan 'freezes' millage at lowered rate

no longer do it," Gorman said. "They may be able to afford it one year but the not the next."

Supervisor Poole said he has temporarily dropped plans for a half-mill tax cut next year because of Proposition A.

"This will do what I was trying to do," he said of the Legislature's tax plan. "I was trying to put money back in people's pockets."

He is exploring the idea of granting a tax credit if Proposition A fails. Poole expresses concern about lowering the millage rate in case a future tax proposal would punish Canton for the move.

HIS SUGGESTION for a half-mill tax cut would have diminished potential 1982 revenues by approximately $240,000, Gorman said.

If Proposition A passes, Canton would lose $250,000 or more because of a formula which caps annual rises in tax revenues resulting from property-assessment hikes.

The cap allows an average 6-percent increase in tax revenues due to assessment hikes for each property class — residential, agricultural, commercial and industrial. This year, home assessments rose 19 percent.

Under Proposition A the state would not reimburse communities for the difference between the 6-percent cap and the total revenues which would have been generated by assessment increases.

Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz expresses concerns about possible tax-flow problems under Proposition A. Township taxes currently are collected in December of each year. Tax investments last year generated $1 million in interest.

Under the Legislature's plan, tax revenues would be cut almost in half. The state would reimburse Canton for most of the loss through an increase in the state sales tax.

"It's because of the (current) tax flow that I'm able to do what I'm doing with investments. But how do you know when you're going to get reimbursement from the state? It's a gray area," she said.

DESPITE CONCERNS regarding Proposition A, Gorman said something must be done to curb rising property-tax bills.

"As a finance director, I think it will put hardship on government," he said. "But I also think it's time that government do something about taxes."

Gorman added, however, that Proposition A does not offer "as large a tax break as some people think."

Ms. Falkiewicz said she was concerned about losing "local control."

"If it turns out to be just a tax shift (to the sales tax), I have some real problems with it. I'd like to have control, so we can lower the millage," the treasurer said.

Student loan program wins renewal

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, reports a compromise has been reached which should allow immediate processing of Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (Pell Grants) for college undergraduates.

Pursell said he was not satisified with the compromise and would work for improvements.

"But the critical job is to break the logjam, shake loose the federal funds, and get these grants moving for our students. It is unfair for the government to jeopardize the future plans of students while deciding policy."

The Pell Grants have been stalled since February while proposed changes in the program were under consideration in Washington.

The compromise leaves intact some proposals to reduce program costs, such as increasing the contribution a family must make in determining qualification for a grant. The plan would, however, wipe out a proposed requirement that students make an additional $750 "self-help" contribution in order to qualify.

How will it work?

Proposal A complex, but it does cut taxes

By Mike Scanlon
staff writer

It's hideously complex — as many as two dozen new laws may be required to make it work. But the May 19 tax reform proposal appears to offer some savings to most Michigan residents.

Many governmental units from Lansing to Livonia will have less money to spend as a result, but they think the alternative is much worse.

"Compared to Tisch, we've never had it so good," said William Davis, who, as associate director of the Michigan Municipal League, is lobbyist for an organization of cities and villages.

"That's the bottom line — Tisch."

DAVIS WAS joined Thursday in a forum for Observer & Eccentric editors and reporters by Douglas Roberts, deputy director of the state Department of Management and Budget, and Gerald Dunn, executive secretary of a group of 10 suburban school districts called the Metropolitan Association for Improved School Legislation (MAISL).

They mutually agreed that, taken a whole, Proposal A is a good idea.

Initiated by Gov. William Milliken and the bipartisan "quadrant" of state legislators, the plan was substantially changed in a state House subcommittee.

As it now stands, the measure would cut property tax bills for most homeowners nearly in half with a maximum $1,400 cut, cap the average future property tax increase at 6 percent a year and raise the state sales tax (see box).

Tisch, in contrast, would include business and industry in cutting property assessments in half with no maximum. Tisch would put a 2 percent cap on future increases and provide no offsetting tax increase.

Other details of the May 19 plan:

That 6 percent annual cap applies to average future residential property tax increases within a taxing area such as a city or school district. Taxes on some houses will be higher, others lower.

People who own expensive houses — say, $100,000 and up — would get an added benefit, since the 6 percent limit is not linked to the $1,400 ceiling. The ceiling is tied directly to property values. When real estate prices rise dramatically, so would the maximum benefit.

SMALLER GROUPS also get help.

Persons who live or work in the 11 Michigan cities that impose income taxes benefit from a new ceiling of $100 per ½ percent of tax rate.

Low-income senior citizens will enjoy greater property tax reductions, and those earning $5,000 a year or less will pay no property tax at all.

All state lottery income will go to education under the plan, which should end a lot of grousing at coffee klatches and bars. But it's no promise of more money for schools, because other education funds may be cut.

LESS AGREEABLE effects include higher federal income taxes for many residents. Dunn estimated 20 to 25 percent of the total state tax cut will end up in Washington.

Also, the measure doesn't affect property taxes local government uses to pay off debt, although those taxes are relatively small (10 percent of the average bill).

To offset the money local governments would lose by these cuts, Proposal A will raise the sales tax from 4 percent to 5.5 percent. The revenue hike will go to local losers, mostly school districts, which collect about 60 percent of all property taxes.

But the sales tax isn't expected to make up the whole difference. State government will lose about $250 million outright, and many cities, villages, townships and school districts are likely to also experience a drop in income, the panelists agreed.

That's all pretty straightforward.

THE COMPLEXITY will start — as it often does — in the state Legislature, which must draw up rules to make the plan work. Dunn estimated some 25 pieces of enabling legislation are already pending.

Davis predicted some will still be pending when the proposal is due to take effect July 4.

The legislature's maneuvering will have little impact on the payments for taxpayers, but panelists agreed it could matter a great deal to schools and local governments.

Most school districts, for instance, receive state aid through a formula that divides the total value of taxed buildings and land by the number of students. Many districts are highly dependent on aid assigned through the formula.

But districts can also price themselves out of that aid formula when the value of land and buildings rises too high compared to student numbers.

Districts, Dunn said, are worried about what those 25 pending laws will have to say on the subject. If districts are limited to 6 percent annual increases in property tax — but faced with building and land values that may skyrocket — some school districts that now receive state aid could find themselves on the outside looking in when state aid is handed out — without receiving enough local tax to offset it.

Dunn said it's likely many taxing units, perhaps by year's end, will ask voters to waive the 6 percent cap or approve tax increases — or both.

TAXING UNITS will likely lose interest money, too.

They now collect huge sums of cash on the tax due date, but they take all year to spend it. With a double-digit prime interest rate, the money makes a lot of money in the meantime. The annual influx of property tax money will be severely reduced by the reform proposal, and interest earnings will likely suffer.

Those are two examples of the questions that have to be resolved. Dunn estimated there might be more than two dozen others.

"This is not going to be a simple program to administer," Roberts admitted.

ESPECIALLY VEXING are "very, very serious administrative problems" in revamping tax records in time to include reform provisions in July tax bills, Davis said.

Speedy record revamping may be the goal of one of those 25 pending bills, he said. The bill would require a May 1 mailing to millions of Michigan addresses in an effort to identify homesteads, or houses used as principal residences. Only homesteads of Michigan residents will qualify for the 50 percent reduction.

Since the proposed mailing date is less than three weeks before the election date, it could be interpreted as a tax-paid lobbying effort on behalf of the proposal. Davis said it will mean "the governor and the legislature have taken that political hotseat on themselves" if the notices are mailed.

WHY REFORM NOW?

"There are two very important reasons. The first is a very political reason," said Roberts, citing the impact of legislative reapportionment and next year's elections, with many lawmakers in new districts.

Tisch is the second reason, although Roberts stopped short of spelling the Shiawassee drain commissioner's name.

Failure to allow voters to decide on a tax reform package now, Roberts said, may "force people to take things into their own hands" through "a petition route (that) would be successful in '82. The proposal, in our judgment, would be less than acceptable."

No law required the tax reform measure face the voters, Dunn said. The legislature could have passed everything but the sales tax increase. Dunn saw the election as a manuever by the state to let voters express their dissatisfaction now instead of by voting for a Tisch-type cut next year.

How it looks on ballot

PROPOSAL A

Proposal to reduce property taxes, reduce city income taxes, limit growth of property tax revenues, return additional sales tax to local governments and schools and give state lottery profits to school aid fund.

The proposed amendment would:

1. Reduce by 50 percent homestead property taxes used for operating schools and local governments. Reduction limited to $1,400 in 1981 and changed yearly as home values change.

2. Reduce by 50 percent local individual income taxes on first $40,000 of taxable income.

3. Make state return to local governments all funds lost by above reductions.

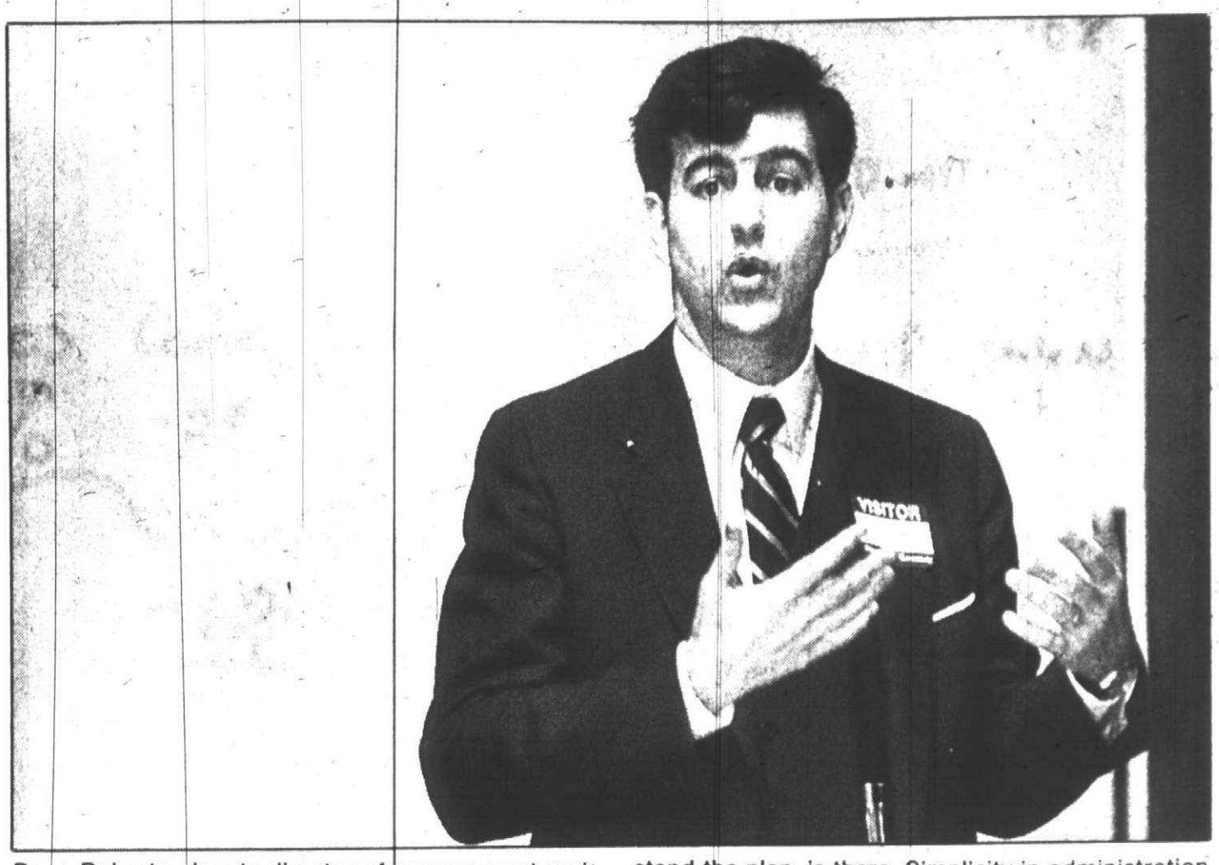
4. Limit yearly property tax revenue growth to 6 percent by property type unless raised by local voters.

5. Raise sales tax from 4 percent to 5.5 percent. Raise must be returned to local governments and schools.

6. Let farms and forests be assessed at use value.

7. Give state lottery profits to school aid fund.

Should this amendment by adopted?



Doug Roberts, deputy director of management and budget: "The objective where we really fell down is simplicity. Simplicity, in the sense people can understand the plan, is there. Simplicity in administration is not."

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

William Davis, Municipal League lobbyist: Local governments by May 1 must send every address a homestead tax exemption form — "a very serious administrative problem."

Committee recommends limited ban on hunting

THE COMMITTEE also toured the areas in question to check population density and locations of buildings. The recommendation must be based on whether or not there is a safety problem.

"We have to have facts to base it upon — that a reasonable person can't hunt (in those areas) safely," pointed out Andrews of the DNR, a member of the committee.

Dorothy Lough said she was unhappy about the committee's recommendation. Mrs. Lough and her husband said that shots presumably fired by hunters once hit a window and siding of the family home on Gyde Road.

The Loughs live in an area of northwest Canton which attracts hunters seeking small game. Field corn in an adjacent land parcel obstructs the Loughs' house.

The couple had led an earlier, unsuccessful fight for a hunting ban in their area.

"The (recommendation) isn't enough," said Mrs. Lough. Our problem is hunting season. (Hunters) come as close as 100 feet. There's a constant feeling of tension."

Frederick Leithe has lived on Joy Road between Beck and Ridge since 1952. He doesn't want hunting in the area, which has seen a population increase in recent years.

"They (hunters) don't come on my property, but they come all around," said Leithe. "They come in and shoot like it was their own."

Terry Randall took an different point of view. Randall of Westland, a member of the Canton Hunting Club, believes the homeowners' problems are caused by trespassers.

ACCORDING TO conservation officer Gregory Beulle of Northville, few calls about trespassers or hunting problems have been received from Canton. The state police and sheriff's department representatives made similar comments.

Canton Police Lt. Larry Stewart estimated the local police recorded about 35 complaints about trespassing or unlawful discharge of firearms during 1980.

Procedures call for the committee's recommendation to go to the Township Board. If the board agrees with the recommendation, it adopts a resolution to be sent to the state attorney general's office for review.

The resolution then goes to a 10-person committee of state legislators for review. The township board must also pass an ordinance. The process takes at least six months, and "more likely" a year, said Andrews.

Layoffs weighed

"It is felt that a number of the pink-slipped personnel will be recalled as quickly as the determination can be made as to the budget deficits," he said.

The superintendent said that about 60 teachers on the layoff list are in the area of special education and their jobs are protected. To reach the level of possible future layoffs, given the number of protected jobs, the number had to reach the 140 level.

"It is not a pleasant task, not is it one that we are particularly enamored with producing at this time," Hoben told the board.

AT ITS LAST regular meeting the school board approved the layoffs of several middle administrators in the districts.

The administrators who have received layoff notices have been reassigned to lesser positions in the district, so the real effect of these moves is to demote administrators into lower-paying positions.

Watching manufactured news is painful vigil

Almost wanted to bring in my shingle last week.

It's embarrassing to be a journalist during a national crisis and watch the media make a fool of itself.

But that was the burden many news people had to go through last week as they watched the networks, listened to the radio reports, and read the written reports of the wires concerning the shooting of Ronald Reagan and three other men.

One of the most painful experiences was to listen to some of the very stupid questions asked at the press conferences.

But also painful was watching the media manufacture stories in a desperate attempt to come up with "news" reports the competition didn't have.

THE SPECTACLE reached its peak during the same-day television coverage the network crews were producing, although the follow-up by the national newspapers wasn't much better.

Reporting a story live, while it still is unfolding, is a very challenging task. You stub your toes in front of millions of persons, and don't have a chance to give much thought or pre-planning to what you are reprorting.

But professional journalists are supposed to be prepared to handle breaking stories, and maintain objectivity in the midst of a big story. That is not asking too much — it is asking only wh: our profession demands.

I was embarrassed that the media went through that whole discussion about the line of succession in case Reagan could not carry out his duties.

At that moment, the president was fully conscious, discussing with doctors whether to undergo surgery. The surgery, while painful, was simple. His life was not in danger, and it was predictable the surgery would last about four hours.

Certainly it was obvious the surgery was not going to last eight to 10 hours. Did reporters forget that the president sleeps at night?

And then there was the reporter who asked the doctor whether the president would be given an anesthetic for the operation and would he be hooked up to an IV afterward?

Such questions are the types asked when an attempt is made to provide continuous coverage of a news event long after the news has ended.

THE NEWS CORPS did remember to refer to the young man charged with shooting the president as the "alleged assassin."

Until a person is convicted of a crime, objective reporters refer to them as an "alleged" criminal.

Yet almost every reporter who described the young man referred to him as "a sick, sick person" or a "very deranged" person, or used similar adjectives assuming the pre-existance of mental sickness.

In the same breath, however, these same journalists were reporting that the young man was charged with certain crimes and would now be examined by psychiatrists to see if he were mentally competent to stand trial.

Since the legal determination of mental competency had not yet been made, the description of the alleged assassin as being deranged was a bit premature. Objectivity requires that such findings be left to psychologists and psychiatrists, not newsmen.

The shooting of a president does not automatically qualify a person for commitment to a mental institution — any more than the slaying of any other human being. Mentally sound people, in time of emotional stress, sometimes kill other persons. We know that, yet insist upon calling an assassin mentally sick without having a bit of information to support that opinion.

ANOTHER PIECE of nonsense hit the news pages and airwaves Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning when the media reported some link between the family of George Bush and the family of John W. Hinckley, Jr.

There were two reports. One was that Bush's son Neal had a dinner engagement with Hinckley's brother to discuss business but broke it after hearing of the shooting. Another was that the Hinckley family had donated money to Bush's campaign for the presidency last year.

What offends me about all of this nonsense is that John W. Hinckley, Jr. is an adult and is responsible for his actions, whatever he did or didn't do. His brother is not responsible, and his father is not responsible.

The elder Hinckley is a Texas oilman, and Texas oilmen make contributions to Texas politicians. That's part of what it takes to be an oilman in Texas, and all but the most naive realize that.

What is silly about that kind of reporting is that it assumes John Jr. is still a child living at home under the protective custody of his parents, and, therefore, the family has some responsibility for what one member may have done.

The situation reached ridiculous proportions, though, when Neal Bush went on the air to hotly deny he was a friend of John Jr.'s brother, and to describe the report of the campaign gift as a "slander against my family."

After describing the allegation of a campaign gift to his father as a family slander, young Neal went on to say that it was his understanding the contribution was made to John Connelly (another Texas politician).

One final ridiculous game the media got itself into was the discussion whether Wayne Duke made the right decision to allow the Indiana/North Carolina game to be televised Monday night. By tip-off time, all America knew the president would survive. Why not return to our play?

By the middle of the week, the media was settling down and returning to a state of normalcy. After some hesitation, I decided to leave my shingle hanging out front. Not all journalists are crazy — only those who command the attention of millions of Americans at a time of national trauma.

Elderly face dilemma with shrinking dollar

Sherry Kahan

I was shocked when about 40 senior citizens declared that the elderly should not have to pay school taxes. And not only did they include this point among their demands at the recent regional White House Conference on Aging held in Westland, they made it a top priority.

There was the suggestion that such an exemption apply only to those with income of $10,000 or less. That was turned down. The feeling of that group was that no senior citizen should be taxed to pay for education of the young.

I was upset because I knew that down through the years, taxes for education have been shared by all generations. When they were in school, their grandparents paid along with their parents. When their children were in school, the generation that included their parents still was taxed and all segments of society helped pay the bill.

Now it was their turn to help younger generations, and they wanted out.

WERE THEY forgetting that tax-supported schools and colleges try to help them by offering them free courses?

Would the seniors be surprised to hear that young working people resent the high Social Security tax they pay to support retired people? These youthful workers believe that percentages are against them. There are fewer people entering the work force to pay for the large number of those retiring. The young feel they are going to be stuck with a very big bill.

As I let these thoughts wander around in my head, I came to a conclusion. Inflation is making us a worried people. The senior citizens on a fixed income are terrified that inflation is going to shoot out from under them everything they have — home, savings, whatever. And they have little earning power to get it back.

As they look around to see where their money is going, they find a large portion of it flowing into the educational system, carrying with it a hefty chunk of their shrinking fixed income.

It is their generation that can remember that terrible inflation in Germany in the 20s when stories crossed the ocean about Germans going out to buy a loaf of bread with a wheelbarrow full of almost valueless paper money.

And for all of them, the belt-buckling of the depression years have left their mark.

On the other hand, young people have their own worries. For one thing, they may never be able to afford a house. And even if a woman wants to stay home with her kids, the family may not be able to afford it. The young adults also have a lot of anger about all kinds of taxes.

THE TWO GROUPS should pool their fears.

One of the workshops at the Westland conference advocated more contact between generations. Participants went on record favoring some kind of program through which grandpa and grandma could begin to understand what is on the mind of their grandchildren. And it wouldn't be so bad if the grandchildren learned from the seniors why they are so nervous.

It certainly won't solve the problem of inflation. But a little contact may help one generation learn where the other is hurting.

Virginia Melcher, who led the seminar at which this issue was raised, thinks both groups would do better to approach the other and say, "I need; and what can I do for you?"

Putting a touch of sport into political coverage

Mike Scanlon

Imagine you're in a locked room with a thirsty alcoholic six days into a binge. You put a bottle of Aqua-Velva down in front of him.

What happens next is something like what's at work with politicians and publicity. Name recognition is a drug, and with politicians the drug of choice is television.

Now some politicians get plenty of television play, and their faces are well-known. But most politicians don't get plenty of television play. Most politicians don't get any television play.

Some of the more desperate think film at 11 means a newsletter snapshot of them and a den of preteen Cub Scouts.

IT'S A PITIFUL thing to see.

This is obviously no good as far as the politicians are concerned. It's not all that hot for the rest of us, either.

All sorts of public offices are held by people who are — at least to their constituents — as faceless as store detectives. And, as shoplifters know, this isn't good.

Recent reports on expense spending by some Wayne and Macomb county office holders point up one problem with anonymity. In fact, there's a potential drawback no matter what your point of view.

If, for example, you're a card-carrying member of Moral Majority, try this simple test: Drive 45 miles from home to an X-rated movie and bump into a guy in the peeled grape section at the snack counter. Is he your state representative? Can you be sure?

If you're an American for Democratic Action, attend a local gun swap meet and see if you can shoot the breeze with the drain commissioner. The guy with the fly fishing vest over in the Nuclear How-To section couldn't be the commissioner. Could it?

THE PUBLIC'S right to know is clearly involved here. Maybe we can't guarantee the drain commissioner 12 minutes of network news every night, but we ought to do something.

At a minimum, require restaurants to post politicians' pictures in the employee washrooms. If an elected official is going to spend $15,000 a year on lunches, I say waitresses have the right to memorize every pore in his face.

Also a problem — although obviously less serious — is: If you don't even know what people look like, most likely you know even less about what they do and how well they do it.

This all could change if we would just break up government. You know, the way Curt Flood and the reserve clause broke up baseball.

THROW POLITICIANS into a free-agent draft. Let the sports section run the coverage, because only sports headline writers get to use the great verbs. It's about time zoning board of appeals members "nipped" each other, and I've always wanted to see one "eked out" at the buzzer. More people will probably read about it in the sports section, too.

That'll generate a lot of public interest. Telephone operators at pro sports teams work overtime on draft day.

There's every reason to believe the same thing would happen with a politicians' draft. Good parliamentarians would be scarce as hen's teeth by the fifth round.

Already we've solved one big problem. Road commissioners will be as easily recognized as Steve Kemp. But there are further benefits at hand.

Can you, for instance, imagine what the bidding might reach for somebody as notorious as L. Brooks Patterson? Budget deficits would be a thing of the past.

And odd combinations are a virtual certainty.

Garden City, for example, has been revamping its downtown area for closing in on a decade now. Suppose the city drafted Coleman Young for mayor. They'd be shooting craps at Ford and Middlebelt inside of a month.

William Milliken, the aloof patrician, could play the straight man to the Wayne County Board of Commissioners. Make Robert Tisch a tax collector. Sheriffs Johannes Spreen and William Lucas could open a bail bond agency.

Oh, some nattering naysayers might knock the big salaries these newly desirable politicians would demand. But as Richard Daley was fond of saying, in baseball and politics both, you only get what you pay for.

National hunt begins for Schoolcraft's 3rd president

By Tim Richard
staff writer

By April 26, one of three Schoolcraft College vice-presidents will be appointed interim president to replace C. Nelson Grote, who is leaving the college July 31.

By May 26, a nationwide advertising campaign for a new president will have resulted in 150 to 300 applications. The seven-member board of trustees, a campus committee and very likely a consultant will begin the weeding-out process.

And by Dec. 1, the community college's third president will be behind his desk. Or hers. "We're an equal opportunity employer," said one college official solemnly.

The board last week spent more than two hours hammering out procedures and a list of publications in which it will advertise.

THE INTERIM PRESIDENT likely will come from the ranks of the three senior administrators who report to Grote — provided one is interested.

They are: Jewell E. Stindt, provost and vice-president for instructional affairs since 1979; W. Kenneth Lindner, vice-president for business affairs since the organizing days of the college in 1962; and Edward McNally, vice-president for student affairs since 1963.

As administrator in charge of the campus when Grote is away, Dr. Stindt is the ranking candidate, though she may well be a candidate for the presidency. The board unanimously decided it would be bad practice to appoint as interim president a person who would be a candidate for permanent appointment.

"All the literature I've read says, 'don't pick a candidate (for president) for your interim president,'" said board vice-chairwoman Nancie Blatt. "You'll rule out a lot of people who will say that person is a shoo-in."

Mrs. Blatt served as chair of a board committee which recommended presidential search procedures.

MRS. BLATT and trustees Len Wozniak and Michael Burley, who served with her, were emphatic that a consultant will be needed, and that the Association of Community College Trustees was the ideal organization.

"You need a consultant from the beginning," said Burley. "Don't bring them in at the end."

"Oakland Community College didn't use outside help when they hired two years ago," said Mrs. Blatt, "and they said they would never, ever do it that way again."

"There's no way we can be a board, hold jobs and have families and all of us read 300 applications," said Wozniak.

They recommended criteria for a new president be carefully drawn so that consultants would have little room for their own biases in screening applications.

THE USUAL procedure, said Mrs. Blatt, is for the screening committee and consultant to winnow down the flood of applications to 15-25 finalists. Then the board and consultant pare that list to 10.

"The 10 are brought to the board to interview. They're usually interviewed during the same visit by a committee of college groups," she said.

"The board screens them down to the three finalists. Those three are brought in again. Some trustees visit their campuses," she added.

Use of a consultant will cost $5,000, give or take $1,000, she said. The board's advertising campaign will cost another $6,800 and utilize the Wall Street Journal, the Chronicle of Higher Education, the Affirmative Action Register, the two Detroit daily newspaeprs, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and the Michigan Chronicle.

IN PRINT TODAY, according to college relations director David Heinzman, is a brochure inviting applicants and nominations. An applicant has until May 26 to return the forms.

Artfest donors are revealed

Planners for Student Artfest '81 have announced a fund-raising effort to collect $3,000 to pay for display booths and other expenses in conducting the upcoming student art festival in Kellogg Park.

The artfest will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, May 30, in the park. Student art work, visual and performing, from all levels in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, as well as Plymouth Christian Academy, will be displayed.

The committee for the artfest announced this week that it has almost reached the half-way mark in its fund-raising effort. Contributors so far include:

Parent/teacher/student organizations from West and Pioneer middle schools and Farrand, Allen, Bird, Fiegel, Isbister, Starkweather, Eriksson and Gallimore elementaries; the Lakepoint branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association; the Plymouth Community Arts Council; Plymouth Women's Club, and Rotary of Plymouth.

Contributions are tax deductible and may be made by sending a check made out to Student Artfest '81 to Dr. Michale Homes, Plymouth-Canton Board of Education, 474 S. Harvey, Plymouth 48170. For more information, contact Homes or Richard Egli, director of community relations for the school district, at 453-0200.

correction

The Finlan Building on Main Street in Plymouth no longer is owned by Lorenz Enterprises as mistakenly reported in the Observer on April 9.

The Finlan Building was sold by Chuck Finlan to Ralph Lorenz who, in turn, sold it in recent months to the present owner-occupants, the realty firm of Weir, Manuel, Snyder & Ranke, Inc., 498 S. Main.

Easter Tradition in Today's Tempo

The traditional Easter parade at the dinner table features a procession of elegant foods from appetizer through dessert. This challenge to the busy cook of the '80s can be met with ease when tradition is transformed into today's tempo. Shortcuts, simplification and prepare-ahead foods can make Easter dinner holiday-special yet everyday-easy.

Ideal for heading your parade of appetite-appealing culinary attractions is impressive Ham en Croûte, featuring the traditional Easter ham wrapped in a golden crust that also encloses a savory pimiento-olive-onion topping. Only the cook need know that a convenient hot roll mix was used to simplify and shorten preparation. Convenient, too, is the canned ham that can be purchased ahead of the holiday rush and relied upon to be juicy, lean and tender.

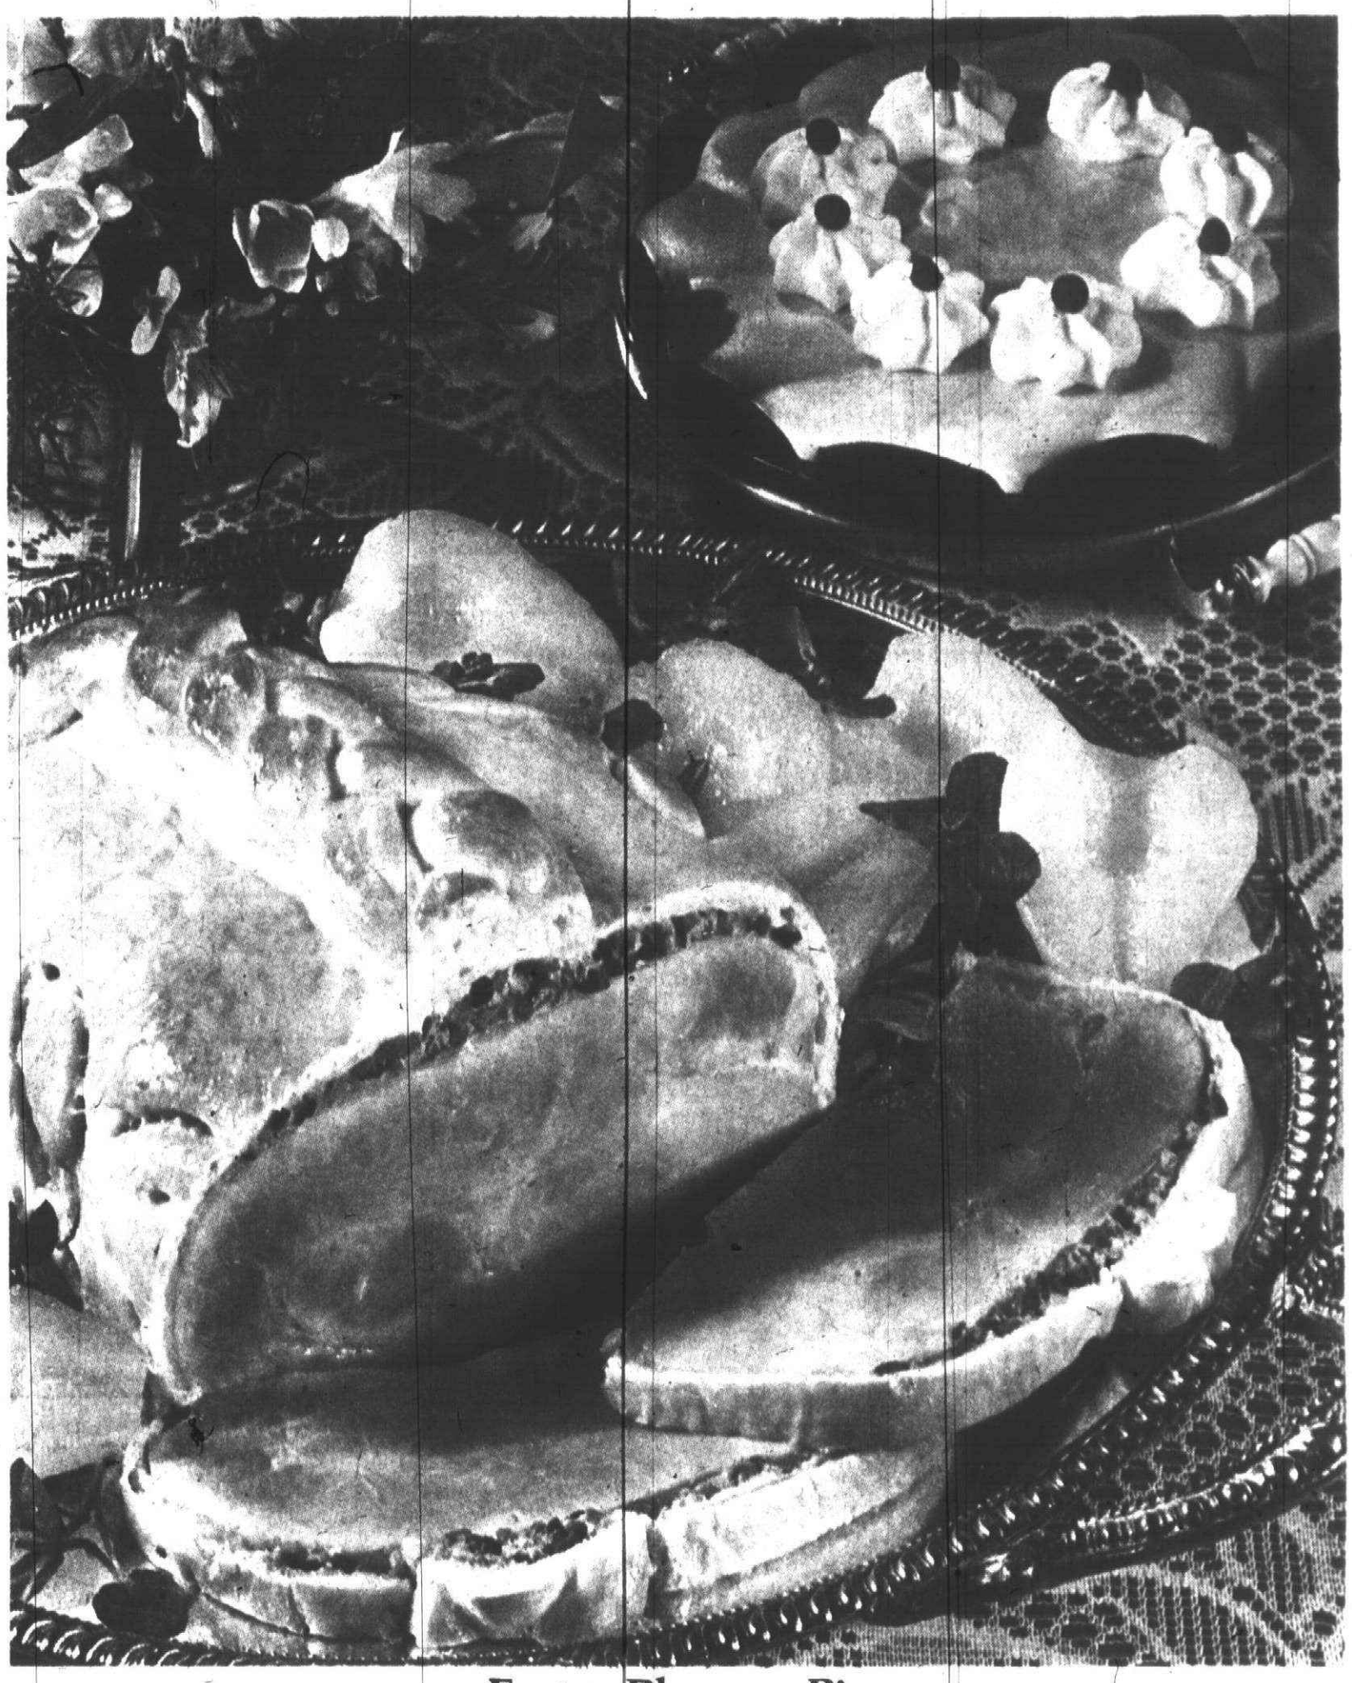
Pickled Pears make a flavorsome garnish. Always a welcome addition to a special meal, pears are especially tasty when pickled and aromatically spiced. Canned Bartlett pears make the preparation easy.

To end the feast on a triumphant note, serve Easter Blossom Pie. Fresh as a spring bouquet, it features a light and airy crème de menthe filling in an easy-to-make scalloped chocolate cooky crust. You can be confident of success, since the refreshing filling is easily made with versatile unflavored gelatine and can be prepared the day before serving.

Springtime often inspires the spirit of sharing an informal meal with friends. Designed to make a company buffet luncheon or supper a breeze are Pork Strip Stroganoff and Blushing Pear Salad. The simple-to-make, convenient-to-serve entree pairs pork and mushrooms in a wine-laced sour cream sauce. The pork strips can be cut with ease from blade steaks, an economical pork cut that is meaty, tender and flavorful.

Easter Menu

Molded Perfection Salad
Ham en Croûte — Pickled Pear Garnish
Baked Sweet Potatoes — Asparagus Spears
Easter Blossom Pie
Coffee — Tea — Milk



Ham en Croûte

- 5 to 8-pound canned ham
- 1 package (13-3/4 ounces) hot roll mix
- 1 cup fine soft bread crumbs
- 2 jars (4 ounces each) pimiento, drained and chopped
- 1/2 cup chopped ripe olives
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 tablespoon water
- Pickled Pear Garnish*

Place ham on rack in an open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb is centered in the thickest part. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325°F.) until meat thermometer registers 130°F. to 140°F. Allow approximately 15 to 18 minutes per pound. Let stand 15 minutes. Meanwhile prepare the hot roll mix according to package directions and the filling. For filling, combine bread crumbs, pimiento, ripe olives, onion and horseradish. Place ham on lightly greased jelly roll pan; spread filling over top, pressing lightly. Roll out dough on a lightly floured surface into a 16-inch square. Cut three 3/4 x 16-inch strips from one side; braid, cover and reserve. Drape remaining dough over ham; mold to shape of meat. Trim off extra dough at bottom. Cut slits in sides of dough. Place reserved braid lengthwise down center of ham. Combine egg with water; brush top, including braid, and sides with egg wash. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 minutes or until crust is browned. Serve Pickled Pears with ham.

*Pickled Pear Garnish

- 1 can (29 ounces) Bartlett pear halves
- 1 cup sugar
- 2/3 cup white vinegar
- 1/2 teaspoon finely sliced orange peel strips
- 8 whole allspice
- 6 whole cloves
- 1 cinnamon stick

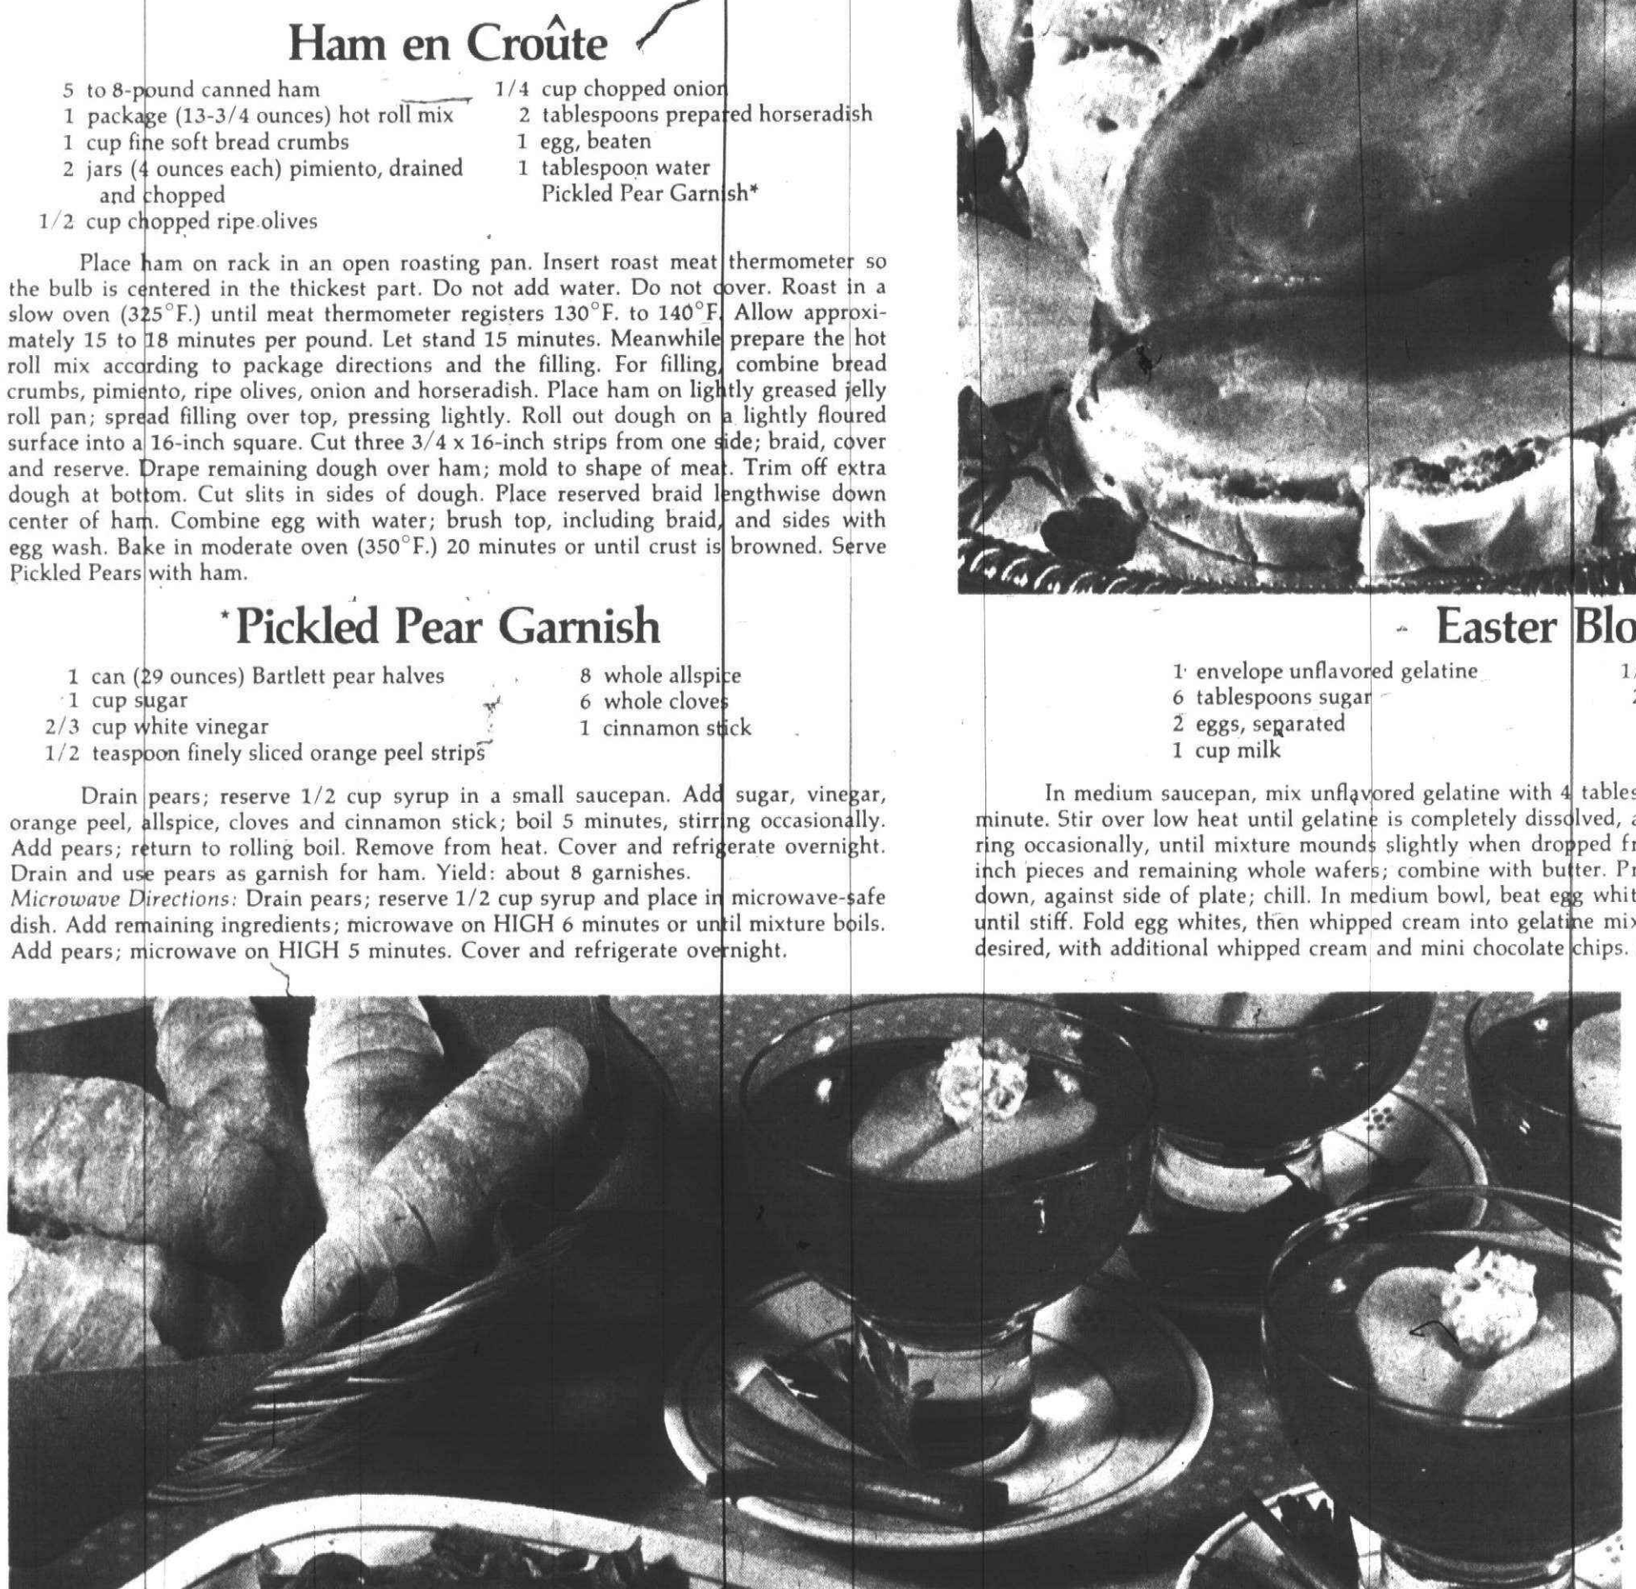
Drain pears; reserve 1/2 cup syrup in a small saucepan. Add sugar, vinegar, orange peel, allspice, cloves and cinnamon stick; boil 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add pears; return to rolling boil. Remove from heat. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Drain and use pears as garnish for ham. Yield: about 8 garnishes.

Microwave Directions: Drain pears; reserve 1/2 cup syrup and place in microwave-safe dish. Add remaining ingredients; microwave on HIGH 6 minutes or until mixture boils. Add pears; microwave on HIGH 5 minutes. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

Easter Blossom Pie

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- 6 tablespoons sugar
- 2 eggs, separated
- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 cup green crème de menthe liqueur
- 24 chocolate wafers
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- 1 cup (1/2 pint) whipping or heavy cream, whipped

In medium saucepan, mix unflavored gelatine with 4 tablespoons sugar; blend in egg yolks beaten with milk. Let stand 1 minute. Stir over low heat until gelatine is completely dissolved, about 5 minutes; add liqueur. Pour into large bowl and chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon. Meanwhile, cut 1/4 inch from 11 wafers. Crush 1/4-inch pieces and remaining whole wafers; combine with butter. Press onto bottom of 9-inch pie plate. Stand cut wafers, cut side down, against side of plate; chill. In medium bowl, beat egg whites until soft peaks form; gradually add remaining sugar and beat until stiff. Fold egg whites, then whipped cream into gelatine mixture. Turn into prepared crust and chill until firm. Garnish, if desired, with additional whipped cream and mini chocolate chips. 8 servings.



Salute to Spring

Pork Strip Stroganoff

- 3 pounds pork blade steaks, cut 3/4 inch thick
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/8 teaspoon white pepper
- 3 tablespoons cooking fat
- 1 large clove garlic, minced
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme leaves
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/3 cup white or rosé wine
- 2 cups sliced mushrooms
- 1/2 cup sliced green onions, including tops
- 1 jar (4 ounces) pimiento, cut in strips
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- Cooked spinach noodles, if desired

Remove bones from pork steaks and cut meat into strips 1/2 inch wide and 3 inches long. Combine flour, salt and pepper; dredge pork strips and brown (1/2 at a time) in cooking fat in large frying-pan. Pour off drippings. Add garlic, thyme, water and wine to the meat. Cover tightly and cook slowly 30 minutes. Add mushrooms, onions and pimiento and continue cooking 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in sour cream and serve with cooked spinach noodles, if desired. 8 servings.

Blushing Pear Salad

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
- 2-1/2 cups rosé wine or cranberry juice
- 1 can (29 ounces) Bartlett pear halves, drained (reserve syrup)
- Cream cheese
- Chopped walnuts

In medium bowl, sprinkle unflavored gelatine over 1/2 cup wine; let stand 1 minute. Mix reserved syrup with enough water to equal 1-1/2 cups and bring to a boil; add to bowl and stir until gelatine is completely dissolved. Stir in remaining wine. Pour into 8 dessert dishes and place one pear half, cut side up, in each dish; chill until set. Garnish with cream cheese balls rolled in walnuts. 8 servings.

Eating and browsing are good companions

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

Two summers ago we took a family vacation to California. As with most trips, much of the fun was in the planning. My husband made arrangements to visit Disneyland, Yosemite, Universal Studios, Tijuana, San Francisco, the wine country.

Meanwhile, I made corresponding plans to visit every unusual restaurant and intriguing book store from San Diego to San Francisco. I reasoned that, since we had a full two weeks to explore the entire state, we would have plenty of time to indulge my two favorite avocations.

It was a delightful vacation during which we somehow managed to see and do everything on my husband's list. Since we ate only three meals a day, however, we missed most of the restaurants on my list. The closest I came to seeing the inside of a book store was a visit to the Pasa Robles library during a five-day lay-over in that town while our youngest recovered from a stomach flu which yielded to bronchitis.

I was especially disappointed at missing the establishments in Carmel which were combination book store/charming restaurants. My husband thought it bizarre that I would want to go 2,000 miles to sit and look at books, eat wedges of quiche, and drink tea.

WHAT STRIKES me as being even more absurd is the fact that I would have travelled that distance to indulge my two major weaknesses under one roof but had neglected to take advantage of the same type of establishment that is just a short drive from my home.

Located on Northwestern Highway in West Bloomfield, Eating By the Book is nestled in the iBrowse bookstore and specializes in natural foods. It is run by Mikki Malamud. His first name is spelled as it is because the letters add up to the numeral one, which is singular and upright. Even this small piece of information alerts you to the fact that here is an unusual man. Mikki taught philosophy, including Eastern philosophy, at Western Michigan University and is a meditation therapist.

His involvement in food springs from both of these vocations. He believes that what we eat is a vital part of what we are. He talks of particular herbs, teas, condiments, vegetables and other foods that are beneficial to the brain or soothing to the nervous system. He tries to enlighten the food he prepares, working energy into it.

HIS RECIPES are unique, developed in accord with nature. In the case of his eggless, cholesterol-free souffle, he claims that ature actually took his arm and led him to the discovery of the recipe. Another inspiration was his non-dairy cheese and cheese sauce, derived from seed and nut milk.

Unlike many restaurant kitchens, Mikki's is a joyous place to be. He feels it important to be happy when preparing food, explaining that you can actually interweave a smile into your cooking and the smile goes from the spoon to the mouth of the person eating.

This philosophy of food is not isolated but is part of a holistic approach to life. Mikki attempts to feed the body through non-food means as well. iBrowse functions as a center of culture and has featured chamber music, poetry readings, and art exhibits. Mikki would even like to somehow hold a meditation class there in the near future.

MUCH OF HIS time is currently tied up, however, in planning new dishes in anticipation of opening for dinners. (iBrowse currently serves lunch only — from 11:30 a.m. until 3 p.m.). This should be a boon to anyone whose schedule precludes a lunch-time visit to iBrowse or to those who simply would welcome a nutritious meal to end the day, a meal designed to soothe the spirit, stimulate the mind, fortify the body.

LIGHT AND GOLDEN TOFU PATE

1 lb. tofu
1 medium onion, minced
2 tbsp. safflower oil
2 tbsp. sesame seeds
2 carrots, grated
4 shakes turmeric, approximately
1 tsp. tamari (soy sauce)
½ tsp. vegetable sea salt (optional)
1 tbsp. natural molasses
dash of red pepper
2 tbsp. tahini
⅛ tsp. sea kelp
5 tbsp. nutritional yeast or
1 tsp. brewers' yeast extract
Herbs to taste (ex.: basil, marjoram, celery seeds)

Saute the onion and sesame seeds in the safflower oil. Stir in the grated carrots. Mash the tofu with a fork. Stir the mashed tofu into the vegetable mixture. Add remaining ingredients, stirring in just enough turmeric to impart a light golden color. Serve hot or cold as a sandwich spread, topped with salad greens, avocado, sprouts, or cheese.

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

Sunrise pound cake for breakfast

Any holiday morning can get busy and hectic, including Easter. Even in the midst of such activity, your family may want to start the day with a tasty breakfast they can linger over while reading the Sunday papers.

However, the family cook, or cooks (as is often the case these days), may be deep into planning dinner and not excited about preparing that big breakfast.

A little planning ahead can relieve the problem.

HONEY LOAF

2¼ cups all purpose flour
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
¾ tsp. soda
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. cloves
½ tsp. allspice
¼ tsp. ginger
1½ tsp. grated lemon peel
½ cup raisins
½ cup chopped walnuts
⅓ cup shortening
⅓ cup honey
½ cup strong cold coffee
2 eggs

Preheat oven to 350°. This recipe makes one loaf.

In a large mixing bowl, combine all ingredients. Blend until moistened. Beat two minutes at low speed. Turn into well-greased 9x5-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350° for 55 to 60 minutes, or until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean. Cool thoroughly before slicing.

APPLE BREAD

2 cups all purpose flour
⅔ cup sugar
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. soda
½ tsp. salt
½ cup shortening
2 eggs
1½ cups pared, shredded apple
½ cup shredded Cheddar cheese
½ cup chopped walnuts

In a large mixing bowl, combine flour, sugar, baking powder, soda, salt, shortening and eggs. Mix until well blended. Stir in shredded apple, Cheddar cheese and chopped walnuts; mix well. Turn into a well-greased 9x5-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350° for 50 to 60 minutes, or until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean. Remove from pan. Cool thoroughly before slicing.

SUNRISE POUND CAKE

1 loaf good quality pound cake, bought ready-made
½ cup orange juice
½ tsp. orange rind
1 cup sifted confectioner's sugar

Warm the cake in a 350° oven for 10 to 15 minutes. Punch holes in the surface of top with a fork. Mix the orange juice, orange rind and confectioners sugar. Carefully spoon onto warm cake. Glaze will soak into cake and give it a delightful orange flavor. Save a little to spoon over the top and to drip down sides of cake when it has cooled slightly.

Concert decor

Those colorful animals and posters at Saturday's Young People's Concert in Plymouth Salem High School auditorium were the work of students in Georgia Schutz's art classes at Pioneer Middle School. Dennis Varga (above) worked on a bird as Mrs. Schutz watched. Other sixth graders (right) painted their whimsical animals. The concert by the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, sponsored by the Symphony League, was a sell-out.

People's Church has its 3rd anniversary

People's Church of Canton Township will celebrate its third anniversary on April 16. The Rev. Harvey Heneveld held his first worship service for 16 persons on Sunday, April 16, 1978. He had been called to the area by the denomination, the Reformed Church of America, to establish a congregation in one of the fastest-growing communities in the country.

From a humble beginning, the church has grown steadily. Eighteen months after that first service, the church was organized officially as a congregation of the Reformed Church. Fifteen families became members on that day. With the admission of new members this week, the church will have doubled its membership.

Worship services are at 10 a.m. on Sundays in Plymouth Canton High School. There is a full range of education classes and opportunities for fellowship for all ages throughout the week.

"The hallmark of this church has been and will continue to be meeting the needs of the community at large," the Rev. Paul Hansen, assistant minister said. "We have endeavored to do this through the film series, 'Focus on the Family,' which featured James Dobson. We also have participated in numerous community events.

Dockery-Broxholm

Susan Elizabeth Broxholm and Arthur William Dockery exchanged marriage vows March 14 in the Karas House, Westland. Thomas Kayfes officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Broxholm Jr. of Plymouth Township. The bride wore her mother's satin and lace wedding gown and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and blue iris. Her attendants were Nancy Werner, matron of honor, and Nancy Broxholm, bridesmaid.

Rebecca Wilson, the bride's niece, was flower girl and Richard Dockery was ring bearer.

A reception in the Karas House followed the ceremony.

Craddock-Mattson

Ronald and Betty Craddock of Nantucket Street, Plymouth announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Lynn, to Derrick Edward Mattson, son of Edward and Betty Mattson of Farmington Hills. The bride-to-be graduated from Plymouth Salem High School and is a student at Eastern Michigan University. Her fiance graduated from Farmington High School in 1978 and from Ferris State College in 1980. He is employed by Glassman Oldsmobile.

They plan to be married in the spring of 1982 in Bethesda Missionary Temple.

Dear Dr. Forrest:
I am frequently troubled by Cold Sores, why?
M.E., LIVONIA

Herpes Simplex is the virus which causes the uncomfortable blisters commonly referred to as cold sores.
This virus may lay dormant for long periods of time, but when activated by stress, a cold or the flu, or excessive sun the sores appear.
New blisters usually appear for the first two days, then begin breaking and drying up. The virus usually runs its course in about 2 weeks and suggested treatment is application of an anesthetic ointment.
Secondary infection is rare but if the sores are still not cleared in 2 weeks your physician or dentist should be contacted.

SYMPHONY Leaguers had a busy weekend. Their Whale of a Sale in the Plymouth Grange Hall, a super-size garage sale, was a success. When they opened the doors at 9 a.m. on Friday the crowds flowed in and it was people-to-people on the lower floor of the Grange Hall.

League members were easily identified in their red-and-white-checked gingham aprons. They did what can be described only as a land-office business. Mary Haut and Fran Lang co-chaired the sale. Julius Wurm, a member of the Symphony Society Board of Directors, gave them some items from Laurel Furniture and these sold early in the morning.

The Whale of a Sale was a fund-raiser for the symphony, and it was a new project for the league. It may become an annual event.

THE CHILDREN'S concert on Saturday morning in the Plymouth Salem High School auditorium played to a full house. This was the second annual children's concert arranged by the league, and they could have sold twice as many tickets.

Eileen Miller and Linda Gasparrott chaired the concert. Judy Moore and Carolyn O'Keefe were responsible for the printing and posters.

The league arranged to have two grand pianos on stage for "The Carnival of the Animals." Arnholdt Williams tuned the pianos for them. Paul Boyland, dean of the School of Music at the University of Music, and Morris Risenhoover, his assistant, played duo pianos for the number while Dr. Charles Wells narrated the story.

John Roberts, a professional actor from Plymouth, narrated that perennial children's favorite, "Peter and the Wolf."

The young Suzuki String players also performed. The 35 children in the group, ages 3 to 14, are under the direction of Vicki Vorreiter. The Suzuki players come from Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Livonia and Farmington. Regular classes are in the orchestra room of Plymouth Salem High School. Instructors are Miss Vorreiter, violin, Cathy Keresztesi, violin, and Kathy Lee, cello.

These little kids start out with margarine boxes for instruments and straws for bows. Their performance at Saturday's concert included Bach's "Gavotte in B Minor," Paganini's "Witch's Dance," Bach's "Minuet," Shinichi Suzuki's "Allegro" and arrangement of "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star," and two folk songs.

It's an amazing teaching method.

FRANCES LaCombe and Alice Bilger had high scores at the Thursday afternoon party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Games start shortly after noon and are open to all bridge players.

THE ANNUAL AAUW used-book sale will be on May 1 and 2 at Westland Mall. Time to stock up on all those wonderful books at bargain prices.

AARON MACHNIK, head of the Canton Township Building Department for several years, has accepted a new job. He and his wife, Judy, and son, are moving to Palm Beach, Fla., where Aaron will be chief building official for the city.

Friday was his last work day in Canton.

TIM FORD, Plymouth's police chief, is on a 30- to 60-day medical leave from duty. The chief was hospitalized for a week due to to physical exhaustion and a heart condition.

He is now at home and under a physician's care. Police Inspector Carl Berry has been appointed acting chief during Tim's absence.

CRAIG LUSK, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne C. Lusk of Plymouth, gave his senior organ recital on Sunday in the chapel of Holy Trinity Church at Concordia College, Ann Arbor.

Craig is majoring in music at Concordia and will graduate in May. Friends, neighbors and relatives attended his recital.

He is choral director at Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Farmington. He was organist and choral director at Good Hope Lutheran Church in Garden City before going to Bethlehem Lutheran.

Duck stamps

The 1981 Michigan Duck Stamp entries have been judged and the top 10 entries will be on display in Plymouth through the end of April. A pair of buffleheads painted by Dietmar was given first-place honors in a field of 81 entries. The Upper Peninsula artist, who lives at Indian Lake near Manistique, was at Wildwings Gallery last weekend for an open house that attracted more than 1,000 persons. Dietmar's buffleheads will be on the state's duck hunting stamps in the fall. The original top 10 (there are 11 this year because there was a tie) will be at the gallery on Ann Arbor Trail near Harvey Street.

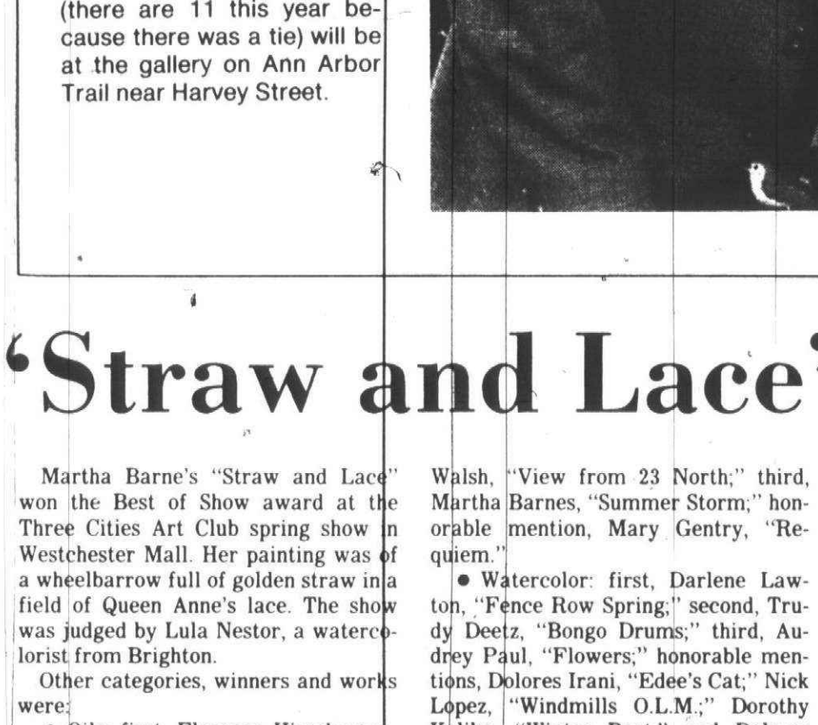
'Straw and Lace' judged best of show

Martha Barne's "Straw and Lace" won the Best of Show award at the Three Cities Art Club spring show in Westchester Mall. Her painting was of a wheelbarrow full of golden straw in a field of Queen Anne's lace. The show was judged by Lula Nestor, a watercolorist from Brighton.

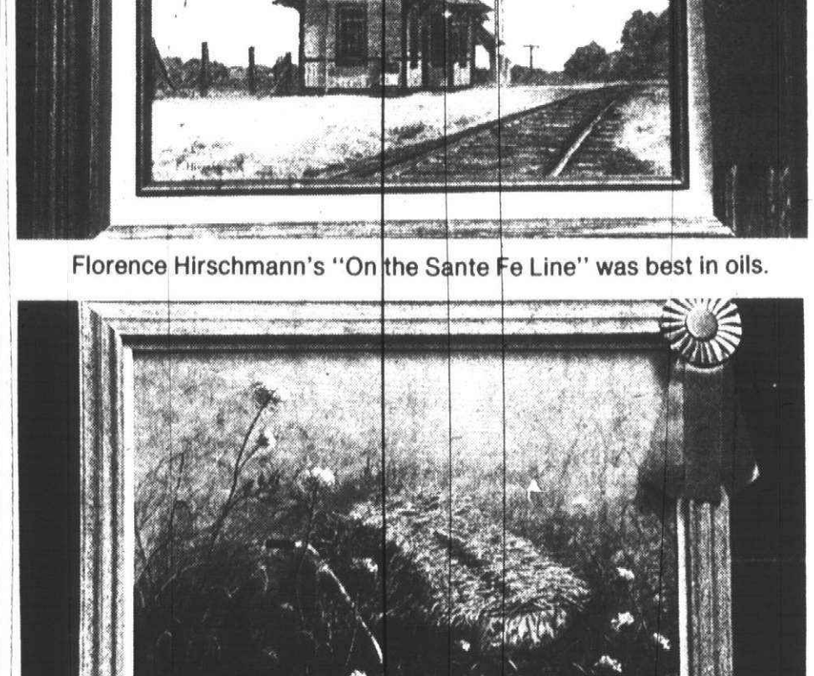
Other categories, winners and works were:

- Oils: first, Florence Hirschmann, "On the Sante Fe Line;" second, David Lamb, "Mt. Blackiston;" third (a tie), Lorene Vives, "Dad's Favorites," and Okemo Lee, "Old-Fashioned Flowers;" honorable mentions, Florence Hirschmann, "Spring Bouquet;" Trudy Deetz, "Old Flower Lady;" Joyce Frederick, "Old Creek;" David Lamb, "Mountain Elk;" Millie Lyke, "Snow Birds;" Okema Lee, "Pansies."
- Acrylic: first, Ellen Kenney, "Woodland — 1930;" second, Marilyn Walsh, "View from 23 North;" third, Martha Barnes, "Summer Storm;" honorable mention, Mary Gentry, "Requiem."
- Watercolor: first, Darlene Lawton, "Fence Row Spring;" second, Trudy Deetz, "Bongo Drums;" third, Audrey Paul, "Flowers;" honorable mentions, Dolores Irani, "Edee's Cat;" Nick Lopez, "Windmills O.L.M.;" Dorothy Koliba, "Winter Beet;" and Dolores Irani, "House."
- Mixed media: first, Martha Barnes, "Dried Arrangement;" second, Betty Manthey's batik, "A Boat for Mark;" honorable mention, Audrey Paul, "Summit."
- Graphics: first, Ann Gentry, "Barn Window;" second, Betty Manthey, "Nose Bodies Party;" third, A Gentry, "Sheep and Goats;" honorable mention, Kathleen Montgomery, "Disadvantages of a Baby Brother."



Florence Hirschmann's "On the Sante Fe Line" was best in oils.

Martha Barnes' "Straw and Lace" was judged best of show.



Doreen Lawton's "Fence Row Spring" earned a first-prize ribbon in the watercolor class.

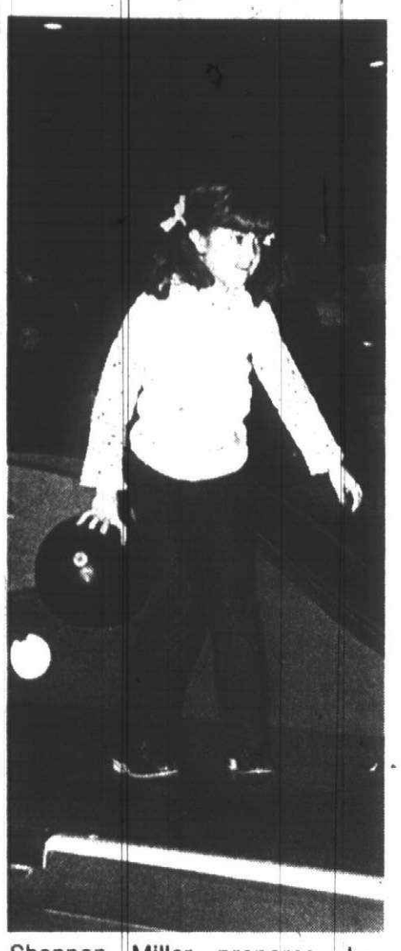
Bowling?

It's all in the way you hold your mouth



Shannon Miller prepares, he hopes, to roll a strike.

Tommy McCarthy displays his rare form.

Eric Dooley uses a little tongue action.

The game was Scotch doubles and there wasn't an Indian headdress in sight as 200 braves and maidens from the YMCA Indian programs took over the Plymouth Bowl.

The Creek Maiden Indians were the host tribe for the outing. Each tribe had its own lane. The child rolled the first ball and the parent the second. There were many gutter balls and much frustration but everyone had fun. The scores ranged from a high of 129 to a low of 39. Nearest thing to an accident was when Federation Chief Rick Messerly lost his footing and bowled himself down the alley.

Each child who participated received a bowling patch.

All residents of the Plymouth-Canton area are eligible to join the YMCA-sponsored Indian program, which involves both parents and children. Persons interested in joining may call Cathy Fillion, 455-7181, or Rick Messerly, 459-2098.

The braves and maidens are looking forward to their track meet in May and their spring campout in June.

Plymouth Salem coach Brian Gilles was looking for a stopper Friday and found one in lefty Billy Culver.

The junior pitcher scattered four hits in going the distance, struck out four and walked two to lift the Rocks to their first victory of the season, 1-0, over Suburban Eight League baseball foe Dearborn Edsel Ford.

"Excellent," said Gilles. "He threw 81 pitches and picked off three guys at first base.

"He was getting them to hit the ball on the ground."

Salem scored the game's only run in the top of the seventh inning when catcher Mark Kitz ripped a single up the middle. He went to second on a perfect sacrifice bunt by teammate Mickey Madsen.

Senior second baseman Mitch Wilcox then came through with a double down the right field line to bring home Kitz.

Offensively, Kitz was the hitting star. He went three-for-three.

In the bottom of the seventh, shortstop John Hetkowski robbed the leadoff batter of a base hit as he made a diving stab, throwing the runner out from his knees.

Culver's performance was a welcome sight, especially after the Salem pitchers gave up a total of 26 runs in the first two games.

"Billy pitched with a lot of heart and a lot of guts," said Gilles. "Somebody has come to the front."

Before the game, assistant coach Tom Willette, who led Salem to the 1975 state Class A crown, gave the staff a much-needed pep talk.

"We'll have to give the credit to Willette I guess," laughed Gilles.

SALEM-THURSTON

Redford Thurston's Emil Majeski, now in his 16th season, called it "Our biggest opening day since I've been coaching."

There was no question about it as the Eagles blasted Salem Thursday afternoon in a non-league game, 13-0.

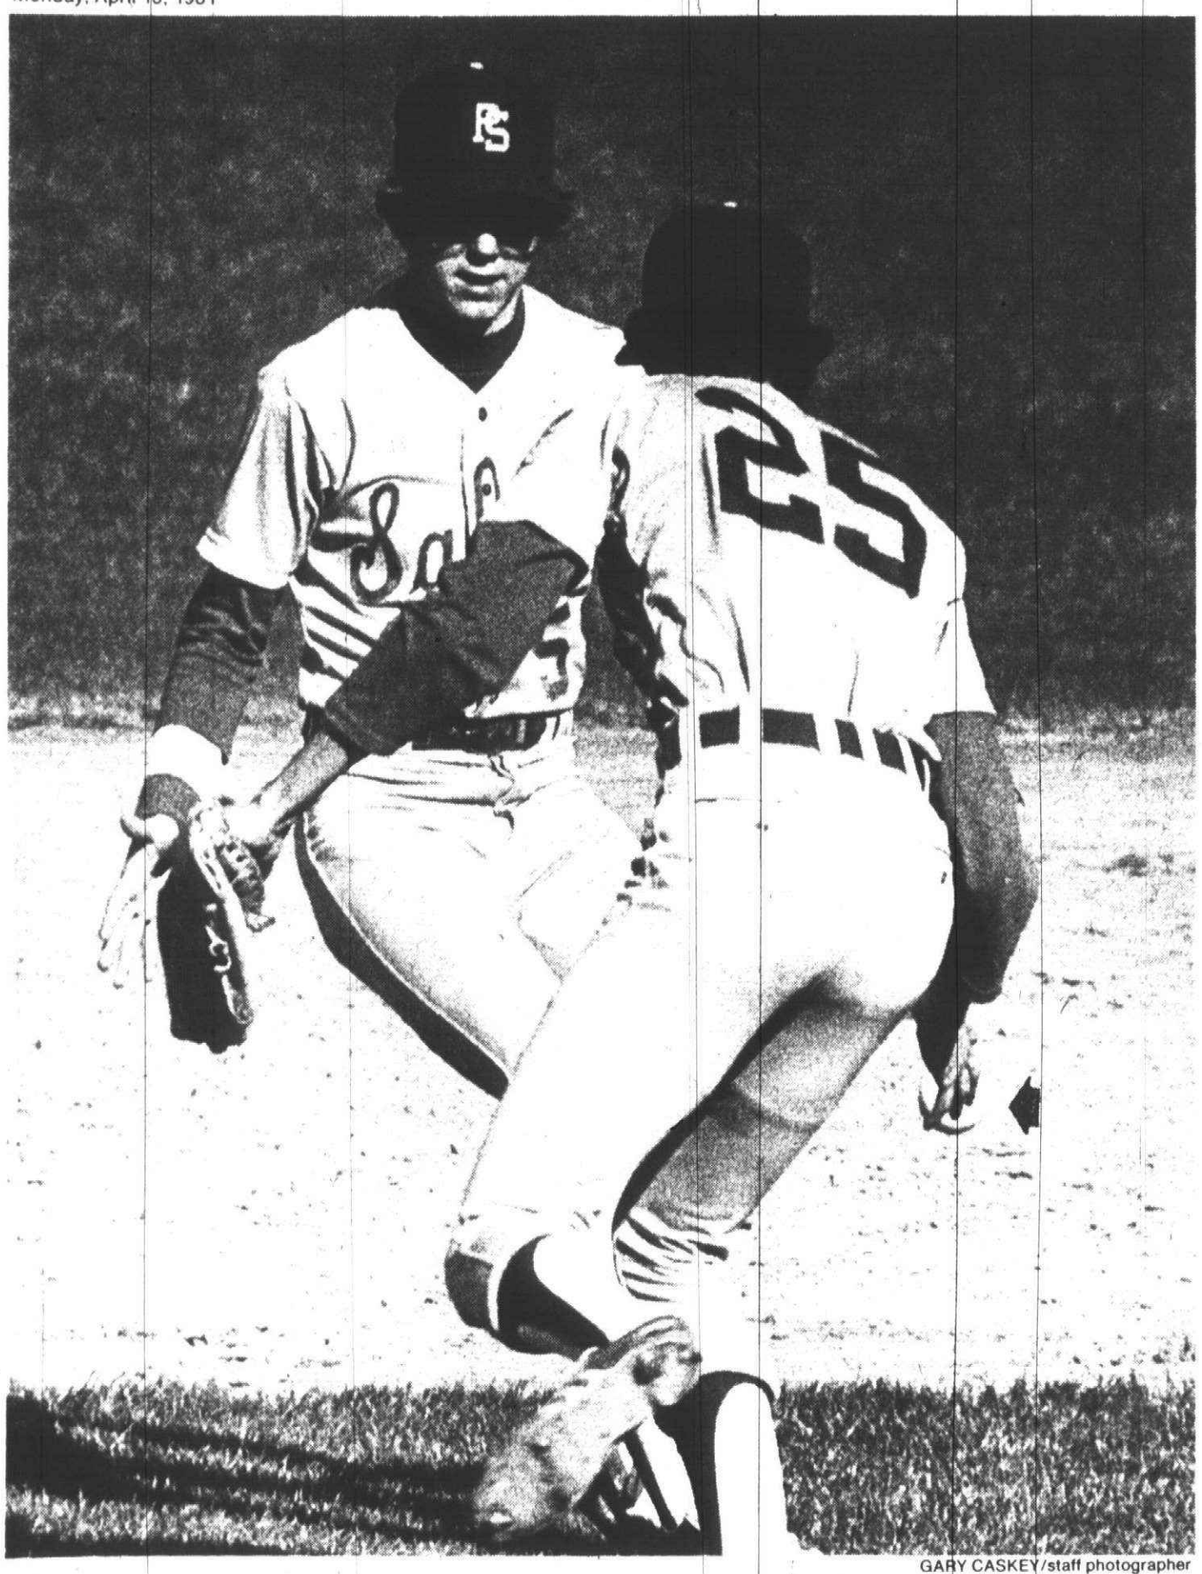
Senior righthander Gary Beggs beat the Rocks almost single-handedly as he tossed a one-hitter over seven innings. He fanned 11 and allowed four walks.

The Thurston standout also had a hot day offensively, going two-for-three, including a triple.

Salem's Joe Humphries ruined Beggs' no-hit bid in the sixth inning when he blooped a Texas League single to left field.

Meanwhile, Thurston ripped four Salem pitchers for nine hits. John McDowell, the starter, suffered the loss.

"Gary was a spot starter for us last year," said Majeski. "Today he pitched an excellent game."



GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Second baseman Mitch Wilcox (left) and pitcher John McDowell stand by helplessly as a pop fly drops in the middle of the infield because of a bright sun. Things didn't shine for the Rocks Tuesday as Thursday came away with a 13-0 triumph.

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

John Hetkowski (left) of Salem makes the force play at second base and throws for the double play. Greg Latour is the Thurston runner.

Canton, Salem golfers all set

The cast virtually remains the same for the Plymouth Salem and Canton girls' golf squads.

Salem, coached by Jim Stevens, is coming off an impressive 11-1 dual meet season. The Rocks also won their league and finished seventh in the state finals.

Marino turned a few heads with her stellar play last year as a freshman.

The next three positions are up for grabs between juniors Yvette Totzke and Beth Miller, sophomore Julie Kenny and freshman Monica Farhat.

"The fourth spot is still up in the air," said Stevens.

The Rocks and Chiefs will be playing on a new course this year — Salem Hills.

"The girls are very pleased to be where they are," said Stevens. "It's a long course, but I think it will be to our advantage.

"Our top three girls hit pretty long off the tee."

According to Stevens, Salem Hills is rated one of the top 50 public courses in the United States by Golf Digest Magazine.

CANTON WON five dual matches a year ago and is expected to better that figure with the return of several veterans.

Senior Janis McGlone is the top returnee. She is an Evans Scholar, given to area high school seniors annually, who have served as caddies and have show high academic and athletic abilities.

She is joined by senior veterans Cindy Sochacki, Karen Mullen, Debbie Nurmi and Kim Massey. Junior Debbie Dickinson also is back.

Also fighting for spots are three freshmen — Sue Jarvis, Michelle Harrison and Amy Emerson. Senior Jeanne Phillips is also contesting.

"We should win more because the kids have more experience," said Canton fourth-year coach Ann Buie. "We've been outside since the last week in March.

"The kids are scoring about what I expected so far."

Roy Gaddey, a member of the Canton faculty, is assisting Buie this year.

Canton opens the season Monday against Brighton at Burroughs Farms.

Chiefs press Western in track debut

Plymouth Canton came up a a little short in its boys' track opener on Thursday afternoon.

Walled Lake Western edged the Chiefs in a Western Six League dual meet, 69-59.

"It was real close," Canton coach Mike Spitz said. "This is the best we've ever run against them.

"Coming out of the field events we were way behind, but we dominated the running events."

Senior Jack Pacente led a late Canton surge in the running events with victories in the mile (4:47.0) and two-mile (10:23.4).

"It was a good double for Jack," Spitz said. "He had to run a tough race in the mile to win it."

Other Canton first places were garnered by Mark Kowalczyk, 220-yard dash, 23.9; Dennis Simms, 440 dash, 54.0; Scott Hand, 880 run, 2:06.0; and Dan Malin, 330 low hurdles, 42.6.

Kowalczyk, Scott Brookhouse, Ken Jayroe and Brian Rogers teamed up to capture first place in the 800 relay with a time of 3:40.9.

In the mile relay, Canton took first with a clocking of 3:40.9. That team consisted of Dan Inloes, Ken Jayroe, Hand and Simms.

"We made a couple of mental mistakes," Spitz said, "but we ran well despite those sophomore-type errors."

Malin placed twice in the field events. He was second in the high jump (5 feet 10 inches) and third in the discus (100-6). The only other Canton competitor to place in the field events was Frank Asis, who gained second in the long jump (18-3).

STU LIGHT, a sophomore, long jumped 18-2, but did not figure in the scoring because he was listed only to compete for exhibition.

"He was kind of a surprise," Spitz said. "I had no idea he could jump that far."

Canton runners grabbing second-place spots included Simms, 100 dash, 10.5; Jay Malin, 880 run, 2:10.1; and Dan Henry, mile run, 4:52.0.

Third-place finishers included Brookhouse, 220, 24.5; Rob Reed, 120 hurdles, 17.1; and Dan Schacht, 440 run, 56.1.

Brian Jones, a freshman, gained fourth in the two-mile with a time of 10:51.4.

The Chiefs will meet Waterford Mott at 3:30 p.m. on Wednesday at Centennial Educational Park.

Boxing gets 'Young' contender

By Brad Emons
staff writer

John Young doesn't need a bat to make contact.

The 1977 Plymouth Canton graduate puts most of his power these days into two 14-ounce boxing gloves.

Young, a junior at the U.S. Air Force Academy, now prefers to mix it up in the ring rather than play baseball — his original love. In fact, he may never put on his catcher's garb again.

Young recently returned to base (Colorado Springs) from a successful campaign in the National Collegiate Boxing Association (NCBA) championships in Reno, Nev.

He reached the finals of the 165-pound weight class before losing to West Chester State's (Pa.) Ben Smith on a third-round TKO.

It was quite rewarding for Young, who was a member of the championship team. (Air Force has won the title two years in a row.) He received All-American status as a reward for his performance.

"Every male is required to take boxing as a class," explained Young, whose matinee-idol looks make him a rarity in a sport dominated by characters with busted noses, facial scars and cauliflower ears. "I didn't do too well. I think I got a C.

"Things weren't going too well in baseball, so I decided to try intramural boxing. A buddy of mine did really well and I said, 'It sounds really good.' "

Boxing is taken seriously at the Air Force Academy.

"We have over 40 squadrons competing in the Wing Open Championships," said Young. "It's one of the biggest sporting attractions in Colorado.

"We had over 6,200 spectators there this year."

BECOMING more proficient each day, Young went on to win the Wing Open crown, thus qualifying for the NCBA Midwest Tournament at Xavier University in Cincinnati.

He won all three of his bouts there to advance to the national finals, where he was seeded No. 1.

"My dad (John Sr.) is really happy for me," said Young. "He asked me, 'Do you really want to do it,' and I said, 'Why not.' He told me to be careful.

"I kept doing it and doing it. My family thinks it's super now."

Young said he learned a lot in his loss to Smith.

"I had never fought a lefty," he said, "and it was like starting all over again. I was doing everything backwards."

Young has a different outlook on his sports life now.

"My intention was to play intercollegiate baseball," he said. "I was already accepted at West Point and Annapolis.

"Mr. (Fred) Crissey, my baseball coach at Canton, had a lot to do with getting me into the Air Force Academy. I talked to him over Easter vacation and he was kind of surprised. He said as long as I'm in some kind of athletics, he didn't mind."

Young's coach at the Academy is Ed Weichers, who moved to Colorado six years ago from West Chester State.

"He brought their program here," said Young. "He's just an excellent coach.

"I'd like to have a shot at the United States national team if I can win the national championship next year. But I have a ton of stuff to learn. The coach said I won this year because I hit hard.

"I'm going to concentrate more and more on boxing. I was pleased this year, even though I broke my nose twice."

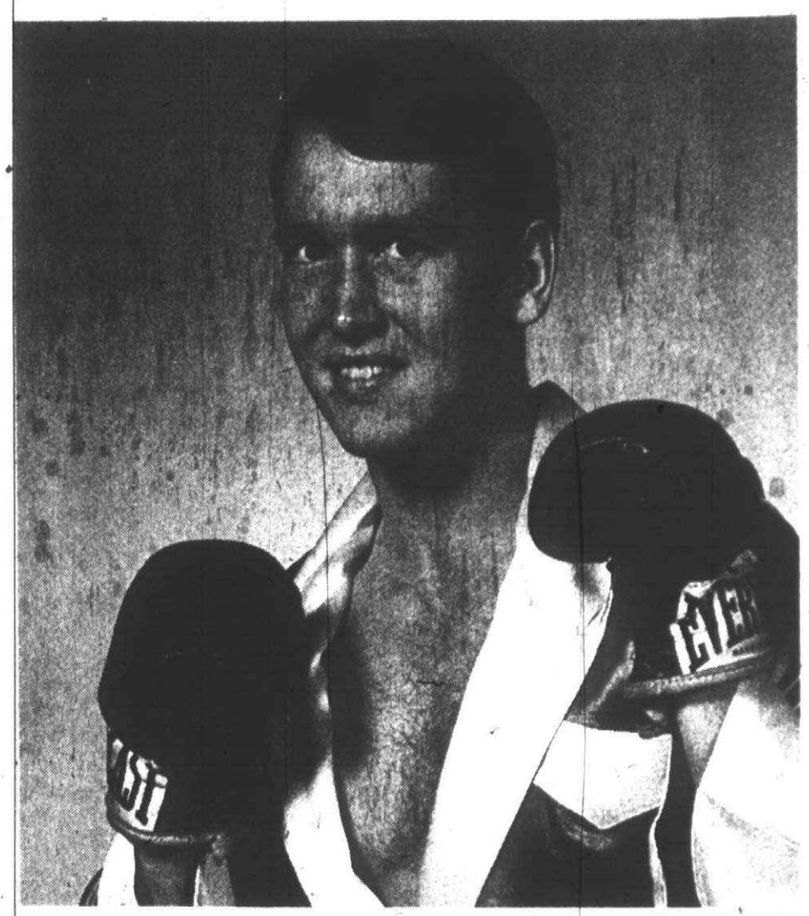
YOUNG SAID he chose the Air Force over the Army and Naval academies because "flying was the biggest thing."

The political science major hopes to start his pilot training next fall after spending six weeks this summer at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas.

Young's final bout will be shown next month on Home Box Office, a pay television entertainment channel.

"Sugar Ray Leonard was doing the commentary," Young recalls.

Tony Kubek or Joe Garigiola were nowhere to be seen.



John Young does not give the appearance of a boxer. Those hands, however, pack some powerful punches. His opponents will testify.

Rocks back on Suburban 8 track

Just about everybody got into the act as Plymouth Salem destroyed Allen Park Thursday in a Suburban Eight League boys' track meet Thursday, 112½-19½.

The victory evens Salem's league and overall dual-meet record at 1-1.

The Rocks won 15 of 16 events in flying past the undermanned Jaguars.

"One of our goals was to run as many kids as we could," said Salem coach Gary Balconi. "We ran a lot of people and everyone had fun."

Salem senior Bob Pittaway and Scott Bublin were the meet's only double winners. Pittaway, a senior, took first in the discus with a noteworthy toss of 158-feet-1-inch. He also won the 100-yard dash in 10.37 and anchored the winning 880 relay squad (1:36.0), getting help from Bublin, Leigh Langkabel and Brian Lewandowski.

Pittaway also took a stab in the 880 run where he finished third with a time of 2:17.5. Teammate Geoff Baker won the race with a clocking of 2:11.3.

Bublin, a junior, long jumped 19-2 to win and came back to triumph in the 120 high hurdles (15.9).

Other Salem first place finishers included Scott Fuller, high jump, 5-10; Chris Kopach, mile run, 4:47.9; Langkabel, 440 dash, 53.8; Mike Sharp, 330 low hurdles, 43.1; Lewandowski, 220, 24.0; Frank Brosnan, two mile, 10:57.9; and Dave Skone, pole vault, 12-3.

Steve Schafer, Pat Tortora, Ron Brewer and Kopach teamed up to win the mile relay with a time of 3:46.6.

The Rocks also finished first in the 440 relay with Brewer, Jim Spooner, Brian Azelborn and Tom Kelliher posting a time of 46.4.

"Bublin did a real nice job for the first time in the high hurdles," said Balconi, "and it was nice to win all the relays.

"We improved in the lows (hurdles) and overall it was a good performance by our kids."

SECOND-PLACE finishers for the Rocks included Mark Tanski, discus, 135-0; Paul Hood, long jump, 18-9½; Scott Raymer, high jump, 5-8; Mike Perkowski, pole vault, 11-6; Schafer, 120 hurdles, 16.0, and 330 lows, 43.1; Leland Chang, mile, 4:49.8; Tortora, 440 run, 56.2; Skip Whittaker, two mile, 11:02.0.

Rob Hanschu placed second in the shot put with a toss of 42-4. Teammates Darrell Bartkowiak and Pat Tortora finished in a tie for third at 40-3 each.

Salem will resume action Tuesday at home against Redford Thurston.

Allen Park girls avert shutout

Salem thinclads romp, 116-6

No, it's not a misprint.

Plymouth Salem dominated almost every event in downing Suburban Eight League foe Allen Park Thursday, 116-6, in a girls' track meet.

It was almost a shutout. The Rocks yielded five points in the 440-yard relay on an illegal baton exchange outside the designated zone. That resulted in a disqualification.

An Allen Park runner scored the other point with a third-place finish in the two mile.

"We didn't do anything different," said Salem coach Scott Kurtz, whose team evened its record at 1-1. "We ran our regular races. Our times weren't particularly good."

Sherry Muneio, Linda Lybarger, Kelly Bemiss and Cindy McSurely each won two events for Salem.

McSurely placed first in the 110-yard hurdles with a time of 16.6. She followed by winning the 220 lows (34.5).

Meanwhile, Muneio captured first in the discus (84-feet-1-inch) and shot put (24-1½).

Lybarger, a junior co-captain, won the 100 dash (12.8) and 440 run (1:06.3).

Bemiss, just a freshman, took the long jump (15-1) and 220 dash (29.4). Other Salem individual firsts were recorded by Jeanine Gray, high jump, 4-8; Ruth Sample, mile run, 6:11.6; Carol Lindsay, 880 run, 2:37.0; Pam Hodge, two-mile run, 15:07.0.

Shelly Simons, Lindsay, McSurely and Bemiss combined to win the 880 relay with a clocking of 2:01.3.

SALEM ALSO WON the mile relay with a time of 4:44.4. That team consisted of Simons, Lybarger, Lindsay and Lori Grissom.

Second place finishers for the Rocks included Karen Tanski, discus, 82-½; Sue Remer, shot put, 24-½; McSurely, high jumper, 4-6; Dawn Johnson, long jump, 15-1; Lindsay, 110 hurdles, 19.2; Beth Moskal, 100 dash, 12.85 and 220 dash, 30.0; April McCall, mile, 6:34.4; Colleen O'Connor, 440 run, 1:10.6; Judy Davis, 220 lows, 2:42.0; Lynn Hasely, two mile, 15:13.0.

The Rocks, who travel Tuesday to Wayne Memorial, also had a host of third place finishers: Remer, discus, 60-9; Tanski, shot put, 21-½; Sue Roach, high jump, 4-6; Shelly Staszel, long jump, 13-7, and 220 dash, 30.5; Davis, 110 hurdles, 20.6; O'Connor, 100 dash, 12.9; Kim Lybarger, mile, 6:41.2; McCall, 220 lows, 41.3; Grissom, 880 run, 2:54.0.

Doubles duo spur net victory

Rob Rowland and Mark Pursell won a pivotal match at No. 2 doubles to lift Plymouth Salem to a 4-3 boys' tennis win Friday over Dearborn Edsel Ford.

With the score tied at 3-all, only the one match remained. Rowland and Pursell, both juniors, posted a 3-6, 6-4, 7-5 triumph over Tim Godin and John Lukomski.

"They really came through for us," said Salem coach Tom Williams. "It was a real fight. I'm pleased with those two."

The Rocks also won at No. 1 doubles when Jack Thomas and Doug Baker downed Paul Lankford and Dan Terry, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

Scott Crespo, a senior, won his match at No. 1 singles with a 6-1, 7-6 victory over Edsel's Mike O'Leary. The Rocks' other point came at No. 2 singles when junior David Goodsir beat Paul Soper, 7-6, 6-2.

"Scott and David played real well," said Williams. "They did a real nice job as did Thomas and Baker."

Softball comeback keeps Rocks rolling

Plymouth Salem won its second straight Suburban Eight League softball game Friday at home by edging Dearborn Edsel Ford, 7-6.

The Rocks won the game in the bottom of the seventh when Midori Yoshii's grounder slipped by the third baseman to score teammate Chris Brennan from second.

Salem tied the game in the sixth at 6-all when Yoshii, a foreign-exchange student from Japan, led off with a walk and stole second base.

She went to third on Denise Zonca's bloop double. Jeanine Papa followed with a sacrifice fly.

Sophomore pitcher Leslie Etienne went all seven innings for the Rocks. She walked only five and gave up six hits.

Salem collected 10 hits.

Zonca, a senior second baseman, collected two doubles and a single. Teammates Bonnie Southerland, Eileen Moore and Cheryl Sobkow added two hits apiece.

"IMPROVEMENT," questioned Salem coach Rob Willette. "You better believe it.

"Our pitching was 100 percent better and our defense came around a lot better, too.

"We left some runners on, but at least we're getting them on."

Brennan, a senior co-captain, started the winning rally with a walk. Moore followed by reaching first safely on a bunt. An error was charged to the Edsel Ford catcher on the play.

The Rocks, 2-0 overall, will travel on Tuesday to meet Dearborn.

Views on Dental Health
Kenneth A. Fox D.D.S.
TEETH ARE TOUGH...BUT...
Teeth are tough! Did you know that the outside layer of teeth (the enamel) is the second hardest naturally occurring substance. Only diamond is harder. That's one reason why more human teeth are found as prehistoric relics than any other part of the body.
It seems paridoxical that such a fabulously hard substance should be such easy prey to decay. It's amazing how teeth can decay in short order from contact with sugar and its eventual change into enamel-eating acid.
Another thing to be careful of is eating extremely hot and cold foods together. For example, drinking hot coffee while eating ice cream is liable to make teeth crack, because tooth enamel and the dentin underneath it expand and contject at different rates as they react to temperature changes. Tooth enamel is not damaged by hot liquids, but if something cold is consumed immediately afterward, the enamel contracts and could crack. Hot drinks are usually about 140 degrees Fahrenheit, ice cream is about 35 degrees. That much sudden change can be harmful to teeth.

Renato Baldi (Ugo Tognazzi, right) and Albin (Michel Serrault) become embroiled in an international espionage plot in "La Cage Aux Folles II."

the movies

Louise Snider

Sequel lacking bright humor of original film

"La Cage aux Folles II" (R) probably seems more entertaining to those who haven't seen the first movie than to those who have. Otherwise, it's a letdown, as sequels usually are.

The original was delightfully funny for two reasons. First, it benefited from the novelty and freshness of the characters and the situation. We suddenly were audience to the colorful and crazy lives of a middle-aged homosexual couple in southern France: Albin (Michel Serrault), a transvestite, and Renato (Ugo Tognazzi), the owner of a Riviera nightclub where Albin and other female impersonators performed.

Second, the comedy developed naturally out of the couple's unique, semi-hysterical relationship. Sorely testing that relationship was the need to keep up appearances before the straight world because of the impending marriage of Renato's son to the daughter of a conservative politician.

While we laughed at their posturings and life style, we developed some sympathy for Albin and Renato and even shared a poignant moment or two with them.

IN THE SEQUEL, the emphasis is on externals. Their relationship and feelings are secondary to a shopworn, trivial plot involving spies and counterspies.

Quite by accident and without knowing it, Albin comes into possession of a capsule containing top-secret microfilmed data. Spies trying to retrieve the capsule are after Albin, and the French authorities are after the spies.

Renato and Albin try to elude everyone by going to Renato's farm home in a small Italian village. Life here, with Albin posing as Renato's wife, presents one of the funniest and most pointed sequences in the movie. Albin works his fingers to the bone under the watchful eye of Renato's dominating mother.

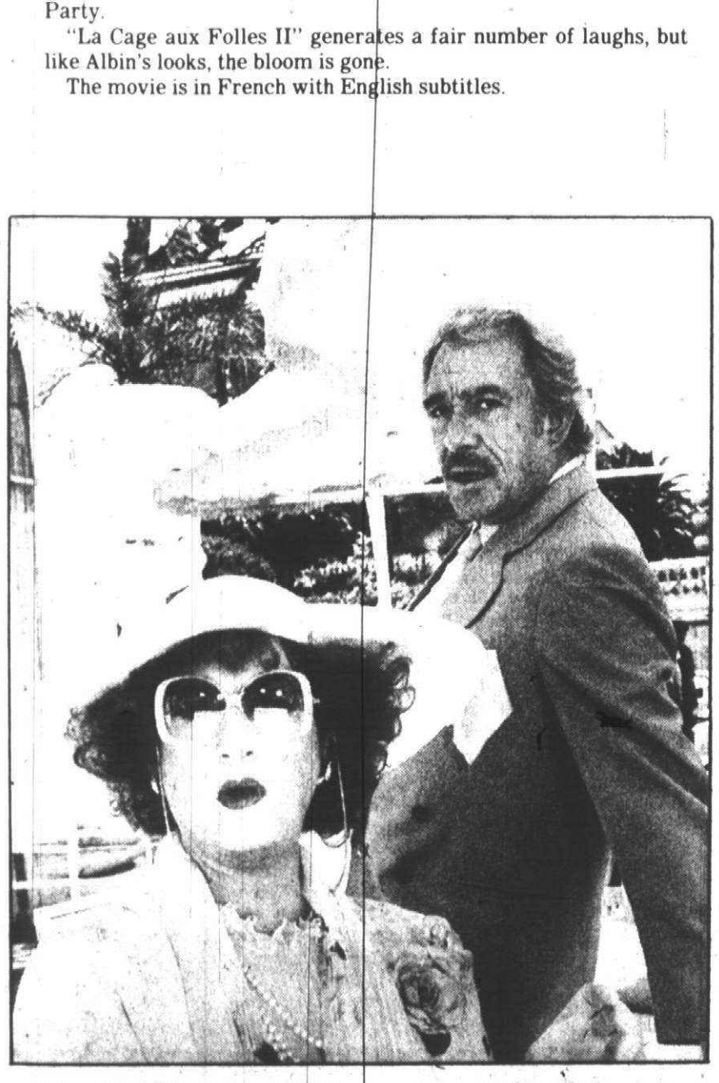
Things get so bad that he is even willing to give up his female clothing and persona. Being a woman in Italy, he says, is no fun. Laboring in the fields during the day, then cooking, cleaning and waiting on the men at night is just too hard.

While the spy chase is going on, there is friction between Albin and Renato because Renato wants to replace Albin in one of the show's numbers. Albin is growing too old to play Marlene Dietrich, but his vanity is as strong as ever. He can't admit that his looks are fading while his figure is growing plumper.

BENNY LUKE who made such a hit as the saucy, barefooted houseboy IN the first movie is back again in fanciful costume. Also, Michel Galabru returns as the head of the Moral Reform Party.

"La Cage aux Folles II" generates a fair number of laughs, but like Albin's looks, the bloom is gone.

The movie is in French with English subtitles.



A terrified Albin pleads with secret agent Milan (Giovanni Vettorazzo) not to arrest him.

what's at the movies

ALL NIGHT LONG (R). Gene Hackman and Barbra Streisand in romantic comedy about a man going through a mid-life crisis who perks up after losing his job and his wife.

HARDLY WORKING (PG). Slapstick comedy with Jerry Lewis as middle-aged, unemployed circus clown creating havoc in a variety of jobs.

LA CAGE AUX FOLLES II (R). Albin and Renato get involved with spies in this sequel to "La Cage aux Folles." It's not as funny as the first, but it does offer some sharp commentary on sex roles and expectations.

Chateaubriand is not a fine wine.

It's an extraordinary entree served for two. A center cut of beef tenderloin amid a bouquetiere of vegetables, Sauce Bearnaise. Carved at your table. But like a vintage wine, Chateaubriand is at its best when shared.

FIELD ENGINEER
(FOR SOUTHFIELD)
At DATA GENERAL we build our systems from the smallest micro-processor chip to the largest computer. These systems are serviced by one of the most extensive field operations in our industry and we are continually expanding our field service staff. In the U.S. alone we have more than 2000 people with varying skills working out of some 200 service centers.

As we continue to devote more money to the development of computer systems that will best serve our customer's needs, our field service group must grow in capability and in numbers. We have immediate openings for Engineers with 3-5 years of proven trouble-shooting experience for CPU memories and peripheral devices such as mag tapes, disks and line printers.

If you have a strong electronics aptitude and are familiar with computers in the areas mentioned above, we'd like to talk with you. An Associates Degree from a technical school will also be an asset.

We can offer you a good salary with excellent advancement potential and the opportunity to work in a state-of-the-art environment. IT'S THE SELLING SEASON!

Spring brings puffy white clouds, tulips, robins and cleaning.

This is the season that finds us on step ladders cleaning gutters, washing winter's grime from the windows and cleaning garages and basements and closets and attics. What do we do with all the things we've stored but never found time to use? Things that are just a bit too good to toss in the trash but not exactly treasure.

Well, they may not be treasure to you, but they could have great appeal to your neighbors—the people in your hometown and the

Planning An Addition

Adding a room is a good way to get extra living space. When the addition is planned to serve more than one function, you get a bonus in diversity.

When thinking about adding a room, the National Home Improvement Council suggests you make a list of the activities that will take place in the room.

An adult bedroom, for example, ought to do double duty as a quiet retreat for reading, sewing or just relaxing. A dining room might also serve as a library, sitting room or music room.

Another thing to consider, adds the Council, is the mood you wish to express. Should the new room be formal or informal? Should it serve as a quiet background for people, or as a strong reflection of your personality?

Once the decision has been made regarding function and mood, draw a simple floor plan using graph paper and patterns of your furniture cut to scale.

In laying our room arrangements, adds NHIC, keep in mind open traffic areas, a center of interest, conversation groupings, adequate lighting and storage space.

our cure for spring fever
EQUI-LOAN

Have the urge to remodel your house?
Need additional room for your family?

EQUI-LOAN could be the answer!

Want a fresh start for summer?
Consolidate all your bills into one smaller payment,
let us help you fight inflations effect on your budget.

As a homeowner you may qualify for an EQUI-LOAN

WHAT IS AN EQUI-LOAN?
An Equi-Loan is a second mortgage secured by the equity in your home. By using your home equity, you can borrow $5,000 or more with liberal repayment terms at *simple interest rates. An Equi-Loan is not a remortgage, but a second mortgage; it will therefore not alter your present mortgage or its rate.

The amount of equity in your home, by the way, is the difference between its appraised value and your first mortgage (if any). This equity provides the basis for borrowing a large amount of money at established simple interest rates with the maximum amount of the loan being determined by the size of your equity.

HERE'S AN EXAMPLE OF THE AMOUNT YOU CAN EXPECT TO BORROW.

Each transaction is different and subject to credit approval, however, we are flexible in our lending policy. In general, you can expect that the total of your first and second mortgage will amount to 70% of our valuation of your home. For Example:

Appraised Valuation	$80,000
	70%
Total Loan Value	$56,000
1st Mortgage Bal.	12,000
Available for 2nd Mortgage	$44,000

HERE'S HOW TO APPLY FOR AN EQUI-LOAN.

The procedure is much the same as it is for a personal loan. Simply take this letter to the Installment Loan Department of Michigan National Bank West Metro or any one of the branches listed below. Or you can phone us at 471-0560 and discuss your plans with a trained loan executive. An appointment can be made if you like.

* WITH A SIMPLE INTEREST EQUI-LOAN YOU HAVE THE OPTION OF SIGNIFICANTLY REDUCING THE AMOUNT OF INTEREST YOU PAY.
The earlier you pay back a simple interest loan, the less you'll pay in interest charges. So every time you make an early payment, or an additional payment, you are actually reducing the amount of interest you pay for your loan.

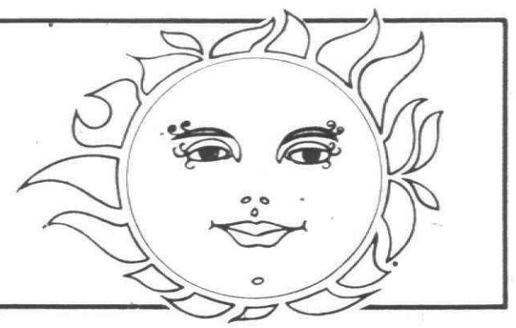
A Dream Landscape Can Be Yours



Stop dreaming of the beautiful landscapes you see in house and gardening magazines. You can enjoy a landscape that's uniquely yours if you design it yourself.

The key to a good landscape is a good design. According to the Ortho book "All About Landscaping," design begins when you start looking at your yard in a new way. You should understand exactly what your landscape is before you can think about what it will be.

There are three steps that lead to understanding your present landscape. First, survey the basic construction of your yard, including its plants, walks, buildings and other features.

Next, evaluate the job you are undertaking by deciding what must be done now and what can wait. Then sift through this information to determine what best satisfies your needs and tastes.

With a firm grasp on the possibilities your landscape holds, you are ready to start your design. Think of your landscape as a real-life stage show designed, produced and executed to please one audience—you.

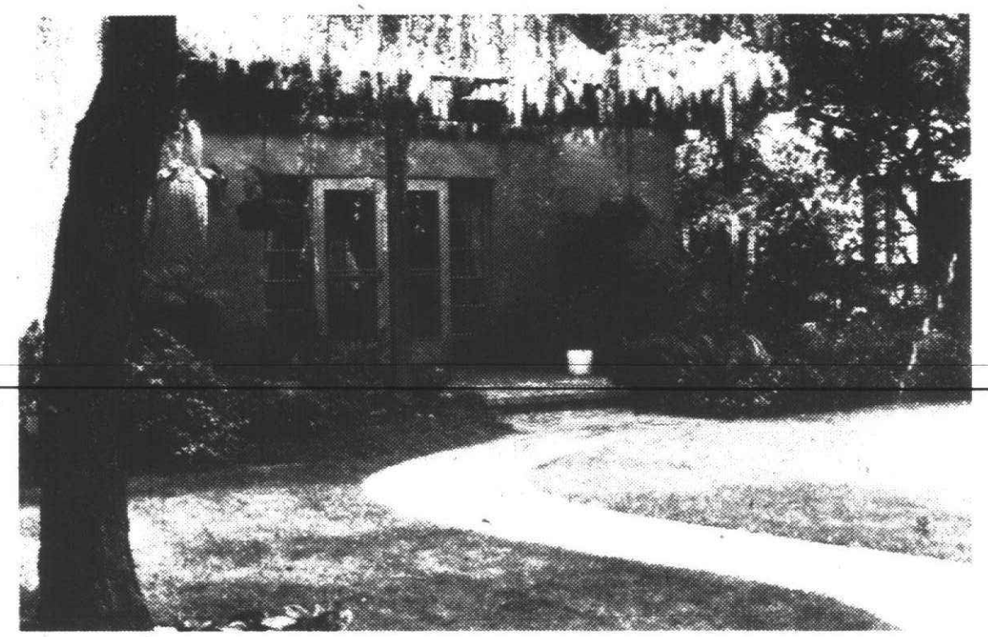
Start thinking of places you've been or areas you've seen that you want to include in your new landscape. Start a scrap book or file of ideas that appeal to you.

One of the most popular styles is the cottage garden with its white picket fence. Originating in New England, it has become a favorite with plant collectors because of its variety of flower beds, vegetables and climbing vines.

If your tastes are more contemporary, the art nouveau landscape may be for you. Noted for its patios, verandas and obscure walkways, it has a distinctively private quality.

Some of the other landscape styles include foundation plantings, Japanese gardens, oasis landscapes, variations on the walled garden and abstract landscapes.

You may want to borrow some ideas from these classic styles or find a direction that is completely your own. Whatever you choose, don't be afraid to experiment. Each spring you have another chance to try new ideas.



THE SWEEP OF this path and the balance of the landscape are the products of careful planning. The key to good landscape is good design. Design begins when you start looking at your yard in a new way. You should understand exactly what your landscape is before you can begin to plan what it will be.

Equal Work For Equal Pay That's the Name of This Tune

"Man Power!" Is it a new washday miracle, the rallying cry of a men's rights organization or a solution to the energy crisis? Actually, it's none of the above. It is, however, one solution to another kind of energy crisis—the superwoman's constant pressure to juggle home, family and job.

With 51 percent of American women now in the work force and more en route, this spring will find more men cleaning up around the house—supplying some of the power needed to scrub the tub and wax the floors.

Establishing a timetable that corresponds to a spring cleaning plan is key to an orderly household. With this advice in mind, Bon Ami, the cleaning product that has scrubbed up American homes for almost a century, offers these suggestions to the duo who find "togetherness" one way to stamp out grime more efficiently.

Concentrate your efforts. Do one room at a time before moving on. However, before getting down to the nitty-gritty, first remove the messy clutter. Start by emptying wastebaskets and clearing furniture tops, then proceed to dust, wash or shampoo.

Although housework should be a shared affair, try keeping out of one another's hair by taking on your "own" rooms. You'll be less tempted to criticize your partner's cleaning methods.

A good rule is to start at the top. Clean chandeliers, light fixtures and pictures first, then work your way down to tables, chairs, window sills and finally the floor.

Gather together all the cleaning supplies ahead of time. A large bucket is ideal for holding cleaners, rags, sponges and other essentials.

To make the job more economical as well as easier, use a multi-purpose cleaner such as Bon Ami Polishing Cleanser, that cleans and shines everything from chrome to porcelain without leaving a scratch or streak.

Rather than shuffling furniture from one room to another in an effort to shampoo the carpet, save time and back-breaking effort by covering each furniture leg with a small plastic bag. Then, simply move the furniture aside to clean the area and then return to its original spot.

Pick a day and time that's convenient for the two of you. While some prefer a Saturday morning blitz, others unwind by conquering one major mess per night.

When the husband pitches in, he not only saves his working wife precious time and effort but also helps create the cooperative household spirit that's crucial when both partners work. Using Bon Ami, a household friend since 1886, a good amount of elbow grease and these handy tips is one plan that's hard to beat.

Exciting Ground Cover Ideas

The exciting ideas that ground covers offer a creative person can turn a nondescript yard into a one-of-a-kind expression of a gardener's skills and talents.

Any planting that covers the ground in hard-to-get-at places is a ground cover. Ground covers can accent exisiting trees and shrubs, tying them all together in a flowing visual design.

Planning a ground cover can be a fun experience since it calls upon the best creative skills of a gardener.

Look at your outdoor space with a fresh perspective. Where are the gaps? What are the small eyesores? For imstance, note the ugly brown areas where the grass refuses to grow under the shade tree.

Before planting a ground cover under a large leafy tree, remember that selective pruning will let some of that needed light through. Ortho's book "All About Pruning" can provide helpful hints and techniques that do not require expensive professional help.

Choose a site and select a ground cover that offers a good balance and fits your grand design. Prepare the soil well.

Organic material, such as peat moss, should be mixed on the surface to let in air. Two inches should be spread over the surface, then mixed 6 inches deep. For larger areas, add the mulch only to the soil near the plant.

All-purpose fertilizers help ensure the initial success of a ground cover. According to Ortho's book "All About Ground Covers," fertilizer with a 5-10-10 formula for nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium is best. A 5-pound bag should be sufficient for an area of 100 square feet.

Know What to Look for When Hiring a Contractor

A wise consumer takes the guesswork out of shopping by knowing what to look for.

When it comes to shopping for a capable and reliable remodeling contractor, a wise homeowner does the same.

Because your home is probably the largest investment you'll ever make, you should take as much care in selecting the contractor as you do in planning the remodeling.

Know what to look for and what to avoid. In the long run it will mean savings in time, worry and —above all—money.

Beware of a contractor touting a "bargain." His low bid could be either a result of low-quality building materials or the addition of "extra" costs once the job is underway.

Avoid someone who moonlights as a contractor. A person who does remodeling "on the side" may be less expensive, but he may also be less professional and able.

To eliminate the guesswork in selecting a professional remodeling contractor, the National Home Improvement Council offers the following suggestions:

• Since professional contractors have established their reputations on satisfied customers and longevity in business, one of the best sources of information could be word of mouth.

Ask friends and neighbors who've recently completed a remodeling project. They should be an excellent source for leads and you'll be able to inspect the work that was done.

• If you've hired an architect or designer to plan your home improvement, ask them for the names of several contractors.

• Once you've compiled a list of prospective contractors, check their references with local building or planning departments, the Chamber of Commerce and the Better Business Bureau.

Reputable contractors should be willing to provide you with references. Those who hesitate probably have something to hide.

• Another good source is local chapters of professional contractors' associations. The National Home Improvement Council, for example, is comprised of more than 3,000 professionals nationwide. Contractors belonging to NHIC pledge to observe the "highest standards of integrity, frankness and responsibility in dealing with the public."

• Before you decide on any one contractor, request preliminary bids from a few likely candidates. Make sure, however, that all are bidding on the same job—specify the materials to be used, labor requirements, the time it will take to complete the project, and other pertinent factors.

Creative Landscape Design begins with a PLAN

The proper use of your landscape dollars can bring you results that are almost as good as growing money. An important part of our landscape service is providing our customers with ideas that are designed to keep maintenance low, provide beauty, and most important of all... satisfy your landscape dreams.

Keep Your Veggies Free From Critters

If you're looking forward to some tasty munching from your own vegetable garden — or if a lush green lawn is your landscaping goal — now is the time to apply a multi-purpose insecticide effective against the many common bugs that are eagerly waiting to attack the roots and blossoms.

Apply a broad-spectrum insecticide such as SPECTRACIDE 6000 containing Diazinon. This bug killer, is effective against a wide range of lawn and garden pests. Available at local garden supply outlets in economical 12½ lb. bags.

For your free copy of the new full-color bug chart (the kids will love it) to help you identify tree, shrub, rose, flower, turf, vegetable, nuisance, fruit and nut bugs in the garden write to Spectrum Home and Garden Products, Direct Mail Dept., Greensboro NC 27409.

SNAPPER MOWERS CAN REMOVE AND BAG THE THATCH THAT STRANGLES YOUR LAWN... IN ONE EASY OPERATION.

The optional Thatcherizer quickly attaches to SNAPPER riding mowers and self-propelled walk mowers. The spring-loaded tines loosen the tightly interwoven dead plant material which prevents your lawn from getting the air, food and water necessary for healthy growth. When used with a rear mounted grass catcher or Bag-N-Wagon, thatch is bagged as it is removed and tedious raking is eliminated. It's another exclusive from SNAPPER. SNAPPER mowers are worth more because they do more and their price is competitive with other quality mowers.

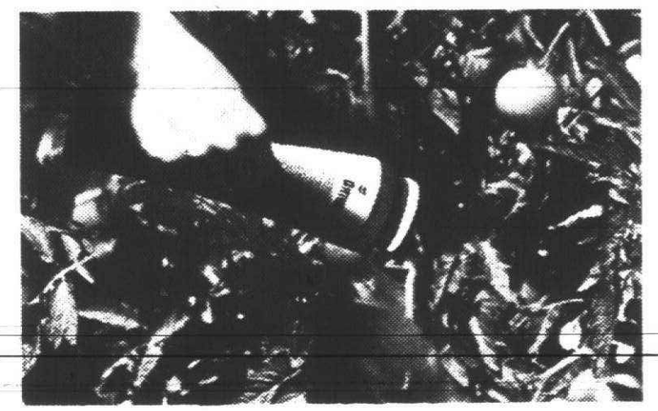
Growing Better Tomatoes



DUSTING YOUR tomatoes regularly with a general multipurpose insecticide/fungicide is critical for their protection. When selecting a garden dust, choose one that spreads evenly to ensure that the plant is fully protected.

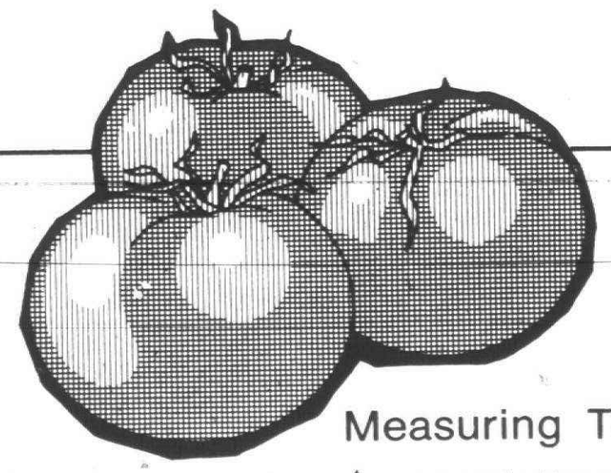
Six fundamental rules will help you produce top-quality tomatoes:

1. Moisture: Apply continuously, but not too much or too little. Too much can drown a plant, while too little stunts growth.
2. Nutrients: Also apply continuously. The daily requirement is low, but nutrients should be there when the plant needs them.
3. Air in the soil: Loosen the soil to let the roots breathe. This is the most important rule of all.
4. Sunlight. For the best results, plant your tomatoes so that they get eight hours a day of continuous sunlight. Tomato plants can get along on less, however.
5. Temperatures: Tomato plants need cool air, from 55 degrees to 75 degrees Fahrenheit, at least part of the night. This speeds flowering and the settling of fruit.
6. Protection. Guard your plants against both large and small threats. Shelter from extreme temperatures, strong winds and wandering pets. Insects and disease can destroy the leaves and fruit quickly, especially without the proper protection.

Dusting your tomato plants regularly with a general multi-purpose insecticide/fungicide is critical for their protection. Garden dust should be applied as a preventative, before the telltale signs of attack.

Garden dust should be spread evenly on the plant. When squeezed, an applicator bottle will send out a cloud of dust that will settle on leaves, stems and fruit.

The six rules outlined here are vital to a successful tomato patch. A general-purpose insecticide/fungicide increases the odds for that success.



Measuring Tomatoes

When measuring tomatoes, either fresh or canned, remember this handy guide from Ortho's book "All About Tomatoes." Tuck it away in your recipe book.

• One pound of tomatoes consists of one very large, three medium (2x2½ inches) or four small tomatoes.

• An eight-ounce can equals 1 cup cooked tomatoes.

• A 12-ounce can equals 1½ cups cooked tomatoes.

• A 28-ounce can equals 3½ cups cooked tomatoes.

• A 46-ounce can of juice equals 5¾ cups.

• One bushel of tomatoes (50 pounds) will make 20 quarts of cooked tomatoes.

Grow Your Own Flowers For Dry Bouquets

A dried winter bouquet makes a wonderful remembrance of the glory of last summer's garden. Now is the time to plan for next winter by checking seed catalogs and selecting some special plants suitable for drying.

They are no more difficult to grow than the familiar and fool-proof marigolds and zinnias, which also dry well, and the drying process is amazingly simple.

Among annuals, celosia maintains its brilliant red, orange or yellow particularly well.

Strawflower (Helichrysum) is a natural for drying because, as the name implies, the flowers are somewhat straw-like in texture even before they are dried. The shiny petals come in dazzling colors—copper, fiery red, purple, yellow and white.

Ornamental grasses add drama and contrast to flower arrangements. Among the easy-to-grow grasses are the descriptively named "cloud grass" and "hare's tail grass."

Also usually listed with grasses is Job's tears (Croix lacryma), named such because of its glistening tear-like seed pods that hang gracefully from its stems. Job's tears is a perennial in mild climates, but can be grown as an annual because it blooms the first year.

Scarlet sage, also known as salvia, has red spiked flowers that last for weeks in the garden. Less familiar is the Salvia farinacea, one of the few blue-flowered annuals. Even when dried, the colors of these salvia flowers remain remarkably true.

The glistening, silvery round seed pods of biennial lunaria, also called "honesty" and "money plant," are unusual accents in dried flower arrangements.

In addition, there are veronica in blue, purple and white; statice in pink, yellow and purple; yarrow in pink, white and yellow; and chrysanthemums in all colors.

A particularly good source for seeds of plants that dry well, including all of the above, is Herbst Seedsmen, Inc. For their free brochure write to: Herbst Seedsmen, Inc., 860 North Main Street, Brewster, NY 10509.

The simplest method of drying flowers is to hang them. Pick the flowers or pods before they are fully open or ripe, and hang them in a dry, well ventilated place, such as an attic. Be sure to strip off the leaves before drying.

Large flowers can be hung singly; small flowers are best tied together in small bunches.

When the flowers are thoroughly dry, make them into arrangements or store them in boxes. If they become brittle, you can create artificial stems by using wire covered with florist's tape.

Hold stems in place by filling tall containers with sand or setting modeling clay at the bottom of shallow containers.

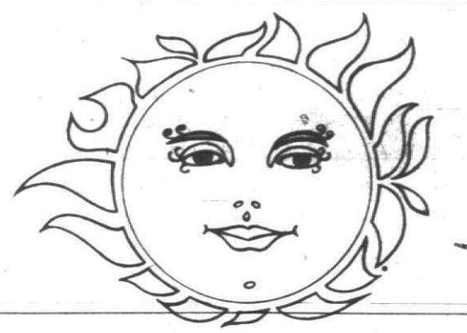
Silica gel or sand is convenient for drying individual flowers. Place a layer of either medium in the bottom of a sturdy container—such as a tin or cardboard box at least three inches deep.

Place the flowers on the medium and then cover them with more of it, making sure it gets in between the petals.

Drying time can vary from a few days to a week depending on the moisture in the flowers. The drying medium can be reused year after year.

Silica gel is available at plant shops and garden centers. Herbst Seedsmen, Inc., offers the gel, as well as a complete kit for drying flowers that contains all the materials necessary for creating beautiful dry flower displays.

Build Wood Planters For Summer Beauty



Now is the time to "plant ahead" for a colorful show in your backyard this summer. And, there's no lovelier way to display your flowers or ornamental trees and shrubs than in a handsome wood planter.

There are probably as many shapes and sizes of planters as there are species of flowers. Building the special outdoor planter that's perfect for your needs is easy and fun. The plans shown here can help you get started.

There are also some building basics to keep in mind. Planters should be sturdy enough to hold up outdoors, and tightly constructed so that excess moisture will seep through drainage holes and not joints. It is most important to protect the wood from soil contact hazards.

A solid choice for almost any outdoor building project is pressure treated lumber, available from lumber suppliers.

Pressure treated lumber resists insects and decay with minimum maintenance. It is also economical, easy to work with, and can be stained, painted or left to weather naturally.

If using redwood, cedar or another species of wood, it's a good idea to protect the planter by lining the inside with a sheet of plastic or painting soil contact areas with asphaltum.

You can improve the durability of your planter by using a waterproof glue in the joints, along with galvanized nails. For the best job, make all cuts carefully.

Use the right glue, reinforce with proper fasteners, then seal inside joint lines with a caulking compound.

Good drainage is important, too. Excess moisture can damage your plants. To provide drainage, drill $\frac{3}{8}$ or $\frac{1}{2}$" holes through the buttom of the planter, spaced 5" to 6" apart.

Cover the holes with some pieces of aluminum or copper insect screen so soil won't fall through the bottom. If a plastic liner is used, drill the holes before placing the liner. Then slit the plastic over each hole before placing the screen.

Place a layer of small stones in the bottom of the planter before filling with soil. This provides even better drainage. And don't completely fill the planter with soil.

Allow about 1" of space from the top of the soil to the top of the planter. This will make watering easier and prevent soil from spilling out.

Now you're ready to watch your garden grow!

New Film Gets Rave Reviews

The same see-through metallized film that protected astronauts on the moon from the heat of intense sun is now available here to lower heating and cooling costs for homeowners and businesses.

Marketed with the brand name NUNSUN, the film is applied directly to the expanse of window glass where most heat transfer takes place, said Greg Mack, the Controlled Energy Products dealer in the area.

"Saving money—and keeping cozier in winter and cooler in summer is what it's all about," said Mack of the guaranteed and easily cleaned film.

"You still have your view through the window," he said, "but you don't feel the curtain of cold air in winter and you don't get the heat buildup in summer."

While the film eliminates the low solar heat gain in winter, he said, the 30-40% retention of the internal heat generated by furnaces, cooking, etc., more than makes up for the 5% potential solar benefit.

Where it's been installed in offices and schools in the Grand Rapids area, he said, "office workers and students who sit close to windows appreciate having so little glare." They also don't have to wear extra clothing because of drafts, he added.

Owners of apartment, office and other large buildings like lowering the load on their mechanical systems, he said, "plus the film gives a more uniform look to the exterior."

Available in several shadings, reflectiveness and densities ("some people like the darker for privacy"), the film has met ASHRAEA and ASTM standards and is included in the architects' Sweet's catalog.

The clear film, however, is appropriate for large windows in retail stores, auto dealerships and homes, when the additional thermal properties aren't top priority.

Like the tinted film, the clear film also screens out the ultra-violet rays that cause fading of carpets, drapes and furniture, according to Mack.

Then, too, all films prevent shattered glass from flying. "That's quite a safety and security factor, particularly for sliding doors and picture windows," he said.

One of the most popular products offered, though, said Mack, lets warm, moist — but lint-free — dryer heat into the basement or laundry room.

The product, In-O-Vent, uses a standard furnace filter. Since it doesn't interfere in any way with dryer operations, several manufacturers have stated they will maintain their warranty if it is used.

Spring Clean-Up's the Time To Make the Home Fire-Safe

Spring Clean-up—an annual tradition—began more than a half-century ago in Cleveland, Ohio, Bertha Chapman, a school teacher, convinced a student from the slums to care more about her appearance. This inspired the young girl to carry this new respect for cleanliness into her home.

As neighbors watched her family cleaning their house, they soon were caught up in the spirit—the result being the first spring clean-up campaign, which eventually caught on nationwide!

This annual event should be for more than awsthetic reasons, however. It's the perfect time to go through the home, checking for fire hazards which might normally be otherwise overlooked.

INDOORS

- Have the furnace checked and cleaned every year.
- Arrange for professional care of chimney, pipes and flues. After heavy winter use, cresosote buildup can easily start a fire in the chimney.
- If painting is on the cleaning agenda, store paints in metal containers (not glass) with tight-fitting lids away from heat, sparks and children. Remember, fumes are as dangerous as the liquid—fires can ignite just from the fumes! Throw out paint and solvent when the job is finished.
- After painting, check to make sure the windows aren't painted shut, and that there's a key within arm's reach if windows have locks.
- Check for frayed wires. Remove any cords running underneath carpeting, under doorways and along walls.
- Install smoke detectors on each floor, as well as between sleeping areas and the rest of the house. Periodically check to make sure they're in working order.
- Clear closets, basement and attic of combustibles such as paper, oil-soaked rags, old furniture.

OUTDOORS

- Move lawn mower away from gasoline fumes before starting. Cool engine before refueling.
- Install a lighting protection system on the roof.
- Cover the roof with a fire retardant.

Start Your Tomato Plants Early

The scene is a summertime meal. Your guests are seated around the table. Before them is a large salad platter, rimmed with slices of large, ripe, red, beautiful tomatoes.

A guest admires the tomatoes, and you proudly say that you raised them yourself—from scratch. Raising tomatoes from scratch is not difficult, but it does entail planning and a little care.

Start about eight weeks before the optimum planting time for your area. Five to seven days are needed for seed germination and five to seven weeks for the plant to grow to transplant size.

Since seed is inexpensive, and because all seeds may not germinate, begin with several more small containers than necessary. Four to eight plants should provide a family with garden-fresh tomatoes all summer long with enough left over to can for winter consumption.

Plant the seed directly into 3- or 4-inch clay, plastic or peat pots. Fill them with sterilized potting medium to within a half-inch of the rims.

Plant one to three seeds in each pot, all at a uniform depth (⅛ to ½ of an inch) so that they will germinate at the same time. Moisten the soil before planting and keep the pots in the warmest place you can find. According to the Ortho book "All About Tomatoes," fast germination will occur when the soil is between 75 and 85 degrees Fahrenheit.

Slip the pots into a plastic bag or under a paper cover to prevent drying. There should be no need to water the seedlings until after they have sprouted. Once the seedlings emerge, keep them in sunlight a full 12 hours a day if possible. Thin out the seedlings to one per pot.

When the plants are 4 to 6 inches tall, "harden them" by placing the pots outdoors. This reduces the shock from exposure to the elements they will experience in final planting. Be sure to protect them from too much sun, wind and cool temperatures. Watch the weather carefully and plant the tomatoes only when warmer air has settled into your area.

Transplanting is simple. Level and smooth the ground for your tomato patch. Spread organic matter and a pelleted tomato food over the planting area and work 4 to 6 inches into the soil.

With a trowel, dig a hole for each plant deep enough to bury the tomato stem as far as the first leaves. Soak each hole with about a cup of starter solution a half hour before planting.

Starting from scratch

There are many different methods for starting tomato plants from seed. The simple one-step method illustrated here utilizes peat cubes as containers.

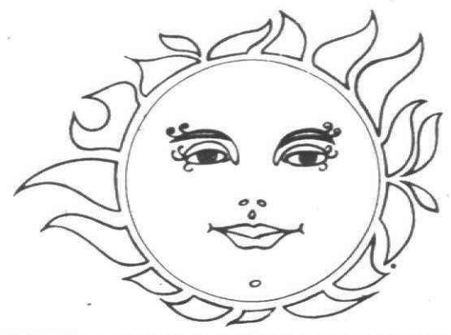
Reduce Energy Waste This Summer



It need not be wintertime for homeowners to concern themselves with finding new and better ways to conserve energy. There are a number of steps which can be taken during the summer months as well to help reduce energy waste.

Consider, for example, the hot water heater. It is the second largest user of energy in the home and, at the same time, one of the most inefficient users of energy.

By properly insulating the outer portion of the heater, however, enough energy will be saved to amount to $25 to $45 savings each year.

The U.S. Department of Energy recommends adding external insulation to all gas, electric and oil water heaters for the following reasons:

• The energy used to heat water in the average home is greater than the combined uses for lighting, cooking, refrigeration, television and air conditioning.

• Virtually all water heaters are manufactured with insufficient insulation.

An estimated 25 to 35 percent of the total water heater operating cost is actually the cost of energy used to replace heat lost as a result of a poorly insulated tank.

Touching the outside of a water heater to feel if it is warm is not a true test to determine whether or not insulation is needed.

The surface temperature of a standard electric water heater is about 85°F or 90°F, which will feel cool to the touch. At this temperature, however, the tank is losing energy at a steady rate.

Some homeowners attempt to insulate their water heaters with ordinary building insulation. Not only is this material inefficient, but the Department of Energy warns that, for reasons of safety, ordinary insulation should not be applied to gas heaters.

They do, however, recommend the use of specially designed water heater insulation kits.

Here are some additional conservation measures that will help to reduce your home energy bills this summer:

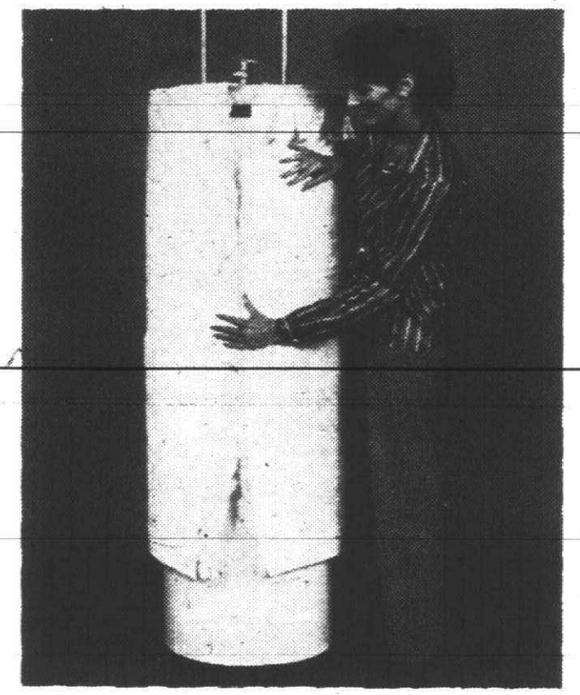
• Lower your water heater thermostat setting to 120°F. This will reduce operating costs by about 20 percent. If you own a dishwasher, set the thermostat at 140°F.

• Reduce your family's usage of hot water by washing clothes in cold water and by taking showers instead of baths.

• Install water-saving aerators and flow-reducers to all faucets and showerheads.

• Use a clock thermostat with a double set back so that you can turn off the heat when you go to sleep and to work, and have it turn on automatically an hour or two before you wake up or return home.

• Inspect all outside home surface and appliance insulation for wear and tear. Replace if necessary.



KEEP THE heat under wraps and increase the energy efficiency of your hot water heater by insulating it against heat loss.

Add Spice To Life

Herbs can really spice up your repertoire of foods and teas. The varieties are infinite. Perhaps the most difficult decision you'll have to make is which ones to grow.

Decide what the primary purpose of your garden will be—cooking, teas, cosmetics, natural dyes, fragrances, a beautiful yard or magical potions.

Herbs and spices used in food are very nutritious and, because the essential oils are so potent, the herbs can be used in small quantities. For this reason, they appeal to the gardener with limited space and to the cook on a budget.

The history of herbs and spices carries an aura of mystique, but growing them is quite easy. They can be grown along with any other flowers or vegetables in your garden.

They are practically immune to disease and pests and can be grown in most types of soil. The more care you give the plants, the greater the rewards you'll reap.

The first step in growing herbs is to select the best location—one which receives five to eight hours of full sunlight per day. The soil needs to have good drainage, so the ideal planting site should be gently sloped with sandy soil.

If such an area is not possible, you can build a raised bed. The bed needs to hold about 6 inches of soil above the normal ground level.

Railroad ties, fence posts, cement blocks or stones can be used for bed walls. You can even attach a wooden railing to the bed wall, so you can sit down while gardening.

The bed should next be filled with the appropriate soil. For small beds, packaged synthetic soils can be used.

When planting the herbs, you have two options: seeds or transplants. If you desire only a few plants, it is easiest to buy small ones to transplant.

To remove the plant from its container, place the stem between two fingers, turn the pot upside down and tap the edge against a bench or table.

Make sure the soil is well watered and place the root ball in the ground so that the soil comes up to the same level on the plant as it did in the container. Add more soil to prevent air pockets.

The area should be well watered. If you use a hand-held hose, let the water run for a couple of hours each time you water. To test the soil, insert a finger ½ of an inch into the soil; if your finger is dry, the soil needs more water.

Themes for herb gardene and hundreds of uses for herbs and spices are suggested in Ortho's book "The World of Herbs & Spicec." The book also details techniques for growing indoors.

Tree Planting Tips

Spring is a good time of year to add new trees and shrubs to the yard. If you plan to add a new tree or shrub, here are some tips which will help you provide the best possible growing conditions to help them thrive:

Dig a hole about twice the diameter of the root ball, placing the soil to one side (preferably on a large tarp to protect the lawn).

Next, fill the hole with water and let drain. Then, mix an equal part of Canadian sphagnum peat moss with the soil which has been removed from the hole.

The sphagnum peat moss conditions the soil assuring that water and nutrients stay at root level where they are needed.

Fill the hole halfway with the peat moss/soil mixture and water thoroughly. Set the tree or shrub in the hole making sure the original soil line matches the soil level of the new location.

Loosen the burlap around the root ball and fill the hole with the remaining soil/sphagnum peat moss mixture. Tamp the soil and water thoroughly. Leave a slight depression to collect rainfall.

Increase the Value of Your Home With Paint

ARCHITECTURAL features of a house can be highlighted by painting trim, doors and eves in contrasting colors.

Paint has always been an economical way to increase the value of a house and that is still true today. Despite being an industry greatly affected by petroleum price fluctuations, paint has remained a bargain buy.

Consider that you can buy one gallon of paint for $14.16 (when it's not on sale) and cover about 400 square feet an average room. Less than eight gallons of paint will cover the entire exterior of an average house.

And, yet, the increased value to a home's worth as a result of a new coat of paint is incredible. Any realtor will tell you that a freshly painted house is easier to sell (and at a higher price).

Thoughtful selection of paint colors can help minimize the architectural problems of your home, as well as emphasize its best features.

White or very light colors make a house seem larger than it really is, and so can extending the color of the house to all adjoining areas-garages, decks, foundations, etc.

Dark tones will make a large house appear smaller and give it a more "earthy" look. A house that is too tall can be visually lowered with a two-tone treatment, painting the half above architectural breaks a deeper color.

A "long, low look can be achieved by painting the body of the house a color strongly contrasting with the color of the roof line, as in the house pictured, to highlight horizontal lines.

Accent trim and doors with a contrasting color; minimize excessive detail by painting it the same color as the house or a darker shade.

Not only is a freshly painted house more attractive, but paints today provide considerable surface protection. Many interior paints are warranted for up to eight years, exterior paints up to five years, with proper surface preparation.

Proper surface preparation is the key. That means scraping loose paint, caulking cracks, sanding glossy spots, cleaning the surface and priming the surface. Primers must be completely dry before the final coat of paint is applied, usually two to three days later.

Five main problems strike painted exteriors-blistering and peeling, chalking, cracking, "alligatoring," and mildew.

Blistering and peeling are usually caused by moisture, trapped beneath the surface, that evaporates, pushing the paint away from the surface with it.

Scrape the affected areas, then wire brush or sand. Bare spots should be primed with an exterior primer. Let dry, then apply a finish coat.

However, the problem of blistering and peeling will reappear unless the moisture problem is alleviated. Repair loose caulking and install vents on exhaust fans, especially in the kitchen, bathroom and laundry areas. Consider dehumidifiers and attic louvers.

Chalking is caused by inadequately primed and sealed porous surfaces, overthinning of paint or spreading paint too thin.

This powdery material should be wire brushed away and the surface washed thoroughly, then primed with an exterior oil base primer. Allow the primer to dry two or three days, then finish with paint.

Cracking an "alligatoring" are caused by application of a top coat before the undercoat is dry, applying too many coats, or painting over a glossy surface. Corrective action begins with removal of the old paint film.

If this cannot be done, sand the surface smooth, apply an exterior primer, dry thoroughly, then paint.

Mildew looks like dirt, but is actually a fungus growth which, if left on your walls, will grow right through a new coat of paint.

It should be removed with diluted bleach, dried, then primed. Wait two or three days before applying a finish coat.

Interior problems can also be helped with paint. Painting a small room with light, bright colors can create the illusion that the space is larger than it really is.

A large room can be made to appear smaller and cozier with the use of deeper, darker tones.

Surface preparation for interior painting means cleaning away dirt, grime and wax build-up, patching cracks and holes, dulling glossy surfaces and priming new plaster to prevent chalking.

Wallpaper should be removed with steam, removing all glue and sizing as well. Where wallpaper cannot be removed, consult a professional paint dealer for advice.

The most common interior painting problem is peeling. Improper surface preparation is usually the cause-grease, wax polishes or dirt were present or gloss was not removed by sanding or wiping with gloss remover. Remove all loose paint, sand smooth, wash, prime, dry and repaint.

Peeling paint will also occur on plaster or masonry subjected to moisture. Find and stop the source of moisture entering the walls.

Remove the paint and neutralize the area with a weak acid. Prime with an oil base primer, let dry thoroughly and paint.
