Store suffers 3rd break-in

Police are investigating a lightningfast weekend break-in at Walter's Home Appliances on Michigan Avenue between Lotz and Hannan.

It took someone 54 seconds to break a window, climb over some washing machines and steal an $800 video recorder, said Police Lt. Larry Stewart.

THE INCIDENT, which took place shortly after 4 a.m. Sunday, was the third recent break-in at Walter's in which video recorders were taken. An alarm was triggered to the police station, and officers arrived in 11/2 min-

'No one was there," said Stewart.

"That's fast. They have it all plotted

A video-tape device in the store recorded the break-in, said Stewart. The thief is described as a 6-foot black man about 25 years old. He had a slim build and was wearing black clothing. The device also recorded sounds which included the sound of another man talking outside the window.

In an ealier case, thieves broke a window at Walter's about 4:15 a.m. Nov. 19 and took five $600 video recorders. A similar break-in was reported the following day, but nothing was tak-

Officials favor shopping center for Canton post office facility

By Arlene Funke staff writer

A site for Canton's new post office has been narrowed down to a few shopping centers - all with one or more vacant buildings.

Likely candidates are existing empty suites in Harvard Square and Kings Row shopping centers, according to Bill Matheson, customer services manager for the U.S. Postal Service.

Harvard Square is at Ford and Sheldon, while Kings Row is at Lilley and Warren. Officials also are considering a vacant building at Lilley and

By law, the Postal Service's real estate division must advertise for lease bids, said Matheson. That probably will be done within the next month, he

"Unless something comes out of the woodwork, it would probably be one of those three locations," explained Matheson. "We will go with the low bid." Township officials announced last July that federal funds had been approved for a Canton post office. Matheson hopes to have the site leased and ready to open by March.

The facility will sell stamps, rent postal boxes and process packages for mailing.

MATHESON said Supervisor James Poole was "kind enough" to point out some of the vacant buildings in Canton. Poole believes the post office will boost the business of nearby shops.

"The post office is going to be an anchor," said Poole. "It is going to bring a lot of business. There are a couple of places that could really use it."

A needs study recently completed recommended that the post office be in an existing structure, said grants coordinator Terry Carroll. The study was done by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) on behalf of the Postal Service.

The study also stated the post office should be in the more densely populated area, between Joy and Cherry Hill, and Haggerty and Canton Center roads. All the proposed sites fall within those boundaries

ACCORDING TO Matheson, the Postal Service is looking for a building between 2,250 and 3,200 square feet. The lease would be for at least 10

Poole declined to specify his preferred location. But he believes the smaller-sized building won't be adequate. "Within a year, they will need twice that size," said Poole.

Bowl means bucks for businesses

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

All the excitement, expense and extravaganza of a Super Bowl is in store for the Plymouth-Canton community, as the eyes of the nation turn to Detroit for the annual football classic on Jan. 24.

It could be compared to the 1980 Republican National Convention, but many are expecting the Super Bowl XVI crowd to exceed the Republicans in their outlay of money and partying hoopla.

Estimates claim 65,000 visitors will come to the Detroit area, where they will directly spend $60 million and indirectly spend another $30 million.

"I went through the Republican Convention working at the Troy Hilton. I expect the Super Bowl to be a real trip," says Mike Haggerty, Plymouth Hilton manager.

The Plymouth Hilton is going to be the temporary home of the Houston Oilers and company for the Super Bowl weekend. Also staying at the Hilton will be executives and guests of cable television's Home Box Office (HBO) Corp.

Although the Mayflower hasn't announced who is staying at the downtown Plymouth hotel, they have assured some prominent sports and business figures will be among the guests.

"The difference with the Super Bowl is that we are having top executives from national firms coming in to stay," says Scott Lorenz, hotel manager.

"These people have money and will be spending money before they leave," says Lorenz.

The Mayflower expects to be operating with its new motel units, now under construction, before the big weekend. All of the rooms, new and old, have been booked for the bowl weekend, says Lorenz.

THE RED ROOF INN has booked 50 of its 109 rooms on Ann Arbor Road to the convention bureau, says Kathy Simmons, motel manager.

The Red Roof Inn has reserved other rooms and expects to sell out the remaining rooms by the time the Super Bowl hits town.

The Knight's Inn, on Ford Road in Canton, reports the motel is approximately half-booked for the weekend of Jan. 24.

"We expect to sell out all 107 of our rooms for the Super Bowl," says Marge Taddia, desk manager at Knight's Inn.

Regardless of where the bowl visitors stay, they will all be here to party. "The Super Bowl is one big party and the game is just a commercial to that party," says Haggerty. "The host committee is looking into getting an extension to 4 a.m. for selling liquor that weekend.

The Plymouth Hilton ballroom will be the site of a large tailgating victory party after the game.

"Regardless of who wins, they are going to have a victory bash in the ballroom," Haggerty says.

The Hilton plans to bring vintage cars and trucks into the ballroom and serve the food from the trunks and fenders. The setting is going to be casual but comfortable, says Haggerty.

In the days preceeding the game, the Hilton guests, along with visitors from all motels and hotels, will be shopping and touring Plymouth, Canton and other areas around metro Detroit.

Omnicom has almost finished putting in the $10 million Plymouth-Canton-Northville cable system which was started earlier this year.

When the company was granted the cable franchise for the Plymouth area, it agreed to provide the basic cable service for a one-year discounted rate of $6.95 a month. The rate moves to $7.95 after the Additional television services are available for an extra $7.95 a month per service. According to Newell, "The additional services are Home Channel, Home Theater Network, Satelite programs, Modern Satelite Network, Arts and WOR from New

The price of the basic service is controlled by the local governments while additional service costs are determined by the cable company.

Dr. Hoben said the administration was not directly involved in the discussions, except to suggest to Stremich and Sparling to pursue the talks and to let the board know if the Rotary Club

"We told them to pursue the idea and come back to the board if anything firms up. Beyond that, administration has had no official involvement," Hoben said.

The idea had been talked about among Rotarians and what was involved in those talks was reported by the press, added Hoben.

Yack commented that maybe those involved should be "cautioned to stay away from making public pronouncements until they have all their ducks in order."

Mrs. Krichgatter added that "it's a dead issue as far as the school farm location is concerned.

Earlier this year Plymouth Rotary made a proposal to finance part of the expense of keeping the school farm open. When the board denied that proposal, some club members began talks about alternative use of the farm site which led to the idea of an amphitheatre for Plymouth-Canton residents.

Plymouth Rotary members maintain an interest in the school farm because the club originally put up the seed money which helped the farm get establish-

Omnicom is to add a 24-hour contemporary music channel in the near future, with the Movie Channel broadcasting in stereo after Jan. 1.

It is also planning to offer a homeprotection service, based on the twoway capability of the cable.

The service would monitor a customer's home, checking the security of windows, doors or other openings. The service compares to other alarm services. In addition to checking all the windows and doors every seven seconds, the system would provide each home with a police, fire and medical alarm.

"We are dealing with protection service companies. We are in the cable business, so we would provide the cable and computer. The protection service would do the installations and monitoring," says Newell.

The service, to be in effect by the middle of 1982, will have a projected monthly cost of $120 plus a one-time installation cost of about $400 to $500.

for meter readers," says the company president.

The test will be completed in March, with possibilities for gas and electric meter reading to follow. If cities subscribe to the water meter reading service, they can bill more frequently and thus increase their cash flow, he says.

"Eventually we are going to see banking on the cable. The customers would pull data from the banks through the cable computer.

"We expect to to be inner connected with all the cables serving the Detroit area."

This would also provide an alternative to telephones for businesses to exchange data. "Our network could eventually be as extensive as the phone network, but our competition will be for data communication, not voice."

"The technology is available right now. It just hasn't proven to be economically right now. As the subscriber base raises, it will become economically possible.

'What people are buying right now is just the beginning," Newell says.

"What we knew about cable two years ago is out of date. It's a rapidly changing field.'

Vigilante group may start Plymouth patrol

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

He calls himself the warlord of Detroit and says he's bringing his angels to Plymouth to rid the city of crime and corruption.

Baptist minister Keith Harvey who says, "I'm different than most Baptist ministers because I advocate civil rights and smoking marijuana," announced he is starting a Plymouth chapter of the Detroit Alliance of Guardian Angels and Ex-Offenders at the invitation of an unidentified Plymouth attorney and Plymouth government official.

"The people who contacted us are concerned about the corruption in Plymouth. There's something going on under the surface. I don't think the people know about the corruption going on," said the leader of the incorporated group.

"We are currently working with the persons that invited us to find a place to open our office," said Harvey, who claims some of his members have been trained to carry and use shotguns and automatic weapons.

The group coming to Plymouth probably will be using attack dogs on patrol. Some members also are trained in physical self-defense and street fighting, Harvey said.

'We will be looking at the government and the police department along with patrolling the streets."

DETROIT POLICE say they have no idea if the group has access to firearms or attack dogs, or if they carry weap-

"Depending on how the weapons were carried or used, they could be committing a crime," said Detroit police officer Wayne Roberts of the information office.

Roberts said the group hasn't used dogs to attack anyone in Detroit.

"If they did have the dogs, they would have to have them under control when walking the streets," said Rob-

THE ALLIANCE, which is privately financed, has recently started patrolling the streets of Detroit, but Harvey is no stranger to fighting crime.

He said in 1979 he received the 'Spirit of Detroit" award for work with his group, Total Action Against Crime.

Harvey also said he was involved with the investigations of the Detroit Police 10th Precinct. He said he worked as an intermediary between police and Detroit street gangs when he brought an end to the east-side gang warfare.

The spotlight once again was on Harvey when Curtis Sliwa recently brought his Guardian Angels from New York to Detroit. Harvey warned Sliwa to keep out of Detroit, since his group was capable of handling the problems.

"I CALL the shots in the streets," said Harvey, also minister of the Martin Luther King Baptist Church in De-

State economic recovery is predicted for 1983

By Marie Chestney staff writer

If the national recession ends next spring, Michigan slowly will begin to recover, regaining its economic health

But until rosier days come, the state will have to swallow a 13:3 percent unemployment rate, according to University of Michigan economist Joan Crary. Speaking at a U-M economic outlook conference Thursday, Ms. Crary predicted the Michigan economy will limp along through much of next year, lagging behind the rest of the country as the nation begins its spring climb out of the economic doldrums. A 1983 recovery for Michigan will give the state "breathing space" to restructure its sagging economic base, she added.

"VIEWED IN terms of year-to-year changes, the state outlook appears to be nothing but bleak," said Ms. Crary who, along with U-M economists Saul Hymans and Harold Shapiro, authored the "Michigan Economy in 1982" research paper presented at the university's 29th Annual Conference on the Economic Outlook.

"Yet there will be a substantial difference between the second half (of 1982) compared with the first. It will take until the end (of 1982) to regain 1981 employment levels and until the spring of 1983 to surpass the pre-recession peak of 1979.'

Once into 1983, she predicted the economy would show "considerable. vigor," even setting a new employment record by that year's end.

But while seeing better days ahead, the economist cautioned against viewing the 1983 recovery as "the end of our long-term problem in Michigan."

"Michigan does not yet have the growth base that will be needed for the

"The recovery should be thought of as providing us with breathing space in which all concerned parties - workers, employers, the universities and the officials of the state - must jointly intensify their efforts to provide an environment which will attract those economic activities which will provide the necessary base for robust growth in the years ahead."

MS. CRARY NAMED four economic factors that were part of the forecast: rates of unemployment, rates of inflation, personal income and real disposal

Of the four, she said the projected 1982 unemployment rate of 13.3 percent casts the darkest long-range shadow across Michigan's economy. The state's manufacturing companies will bear the jobless brunt by losing more than 30,000 more jobs in 1982, according to her projection.

Judge Andrews wins top circuit court post

Judge Steven N. Andrews was elected chief judge for the Oakland County Circuit Court.

He begins his duties Jan. 1. This is the third time in four years Andrews' peers selected him as a leader. In 1978, less than two years after his appointment by Gov. William Milliken to the bench, Andrews was elected chief judge. A year later he was elected by the court to serve as a one-man grand

As chief judge, Andrews will be the official spokesman for Michigan's second-largest circuit. In addition to public administrative and financial responsibilities, Andrews will represent the court in the state Legislature, state and local bar associations, the Michigan Supreme Court and the state Court of Appeals.

Prior to his appointment as judge, Andrews was in private practice for 16 years. He represented the city of Clawson, police unions, financial institutions and local corporations.

A graduate of Adrian College and a former member of its board of trustees, he is past president of the Oakland County Bar Association and of the South Oakland Bar Association.

He received his law degree from Cumberland University Law School and is a graduate of the University of Nevada's National College of State Judiciary.

Working: Changes and Choices

Once a unifier, work now tears apart families

This is the ninth of 15 articles exploring "Working: Changes and Choices. This series was written for Courses by Newspaper, an extension program of the University of California, San Diego, with funding from the National Endowment for the Humanities. 1981 by the Regents of the University of Califor-

By Robert Coles staff writer

This country was settled by families for whom work was a shared experi-

Mothers, fathers, children, relatives and neighbors all joined hands in the struggle to obtain shetler, make clothing, survive the ravages of illness, and win food from an often unyielding land.

There was no great antagonism between family life and work. Families worked as a unit in agriculture, and later in crafts and commerce.

Nor were children regarded as helpless. At 8 or 9 they were, more likely than not, already workers themselves.

TODAY, TOO, work dominates the lives of millions of conscientious families, desirous of living a comfortable life. But the nature of both the family and work have changed, and with them the strains that work exerts on family

In the 19th century wealthy and upper-middle class families began to regard children as fragile, too easily influenced, and hence in need of continu-

Adolescence - a social and cultural phenomenon rather than a biological one - began to be recognized, and children become an experience of two decades rather than of five or so years. Certain children were taught and taught, at home and school. They did not work alongside their parents; nor were they fomally educated by them; nor were they necessarily expected to do similar type of work.

WATCHED OVER carefully by mothers, and often enough by maids and nurses, these boys and girls saw their fathers leave home for an office, a place of business, often a good distance away - to return only at night. In this century, this pattern became the dominant one.

To be sure, in the 19 century, and in this century as well, millions of American families have been poor, in one way or another broken - by illness and death, by divorce or separation.

The children of such families have quit school early, gone to work, or regularly assisted their parents at work. Among migrant families, tenant farm families, and certain urban, workingclass families, I have seen, even today, families for whom a common task (crops to be harvested, a store to be tended) is a thoroughy binding force; work is a major element in their family

FOR MOST Americans is the 1980s, however, work means something quite different, at least so far as family life

Let me draw upon a Cleveland factory worker I know for an appraisal of what is means these days for a man or a woman to be a member of a family and have a job:

"My wife and I both work, and we're both gone from the house by 7:30 a.m. We're lucky now; all our three kids are

"It used to be we had to take our youngest to a day-care center. We saw the effect on her. She was clutchy with us all the time when we got home. The doctor said she'd outgrow it, but we knew the reason for the trouble.

"But we had no choice: We both had to work, or we'd have had to give up

"My wife explained the whole story to the kids. She said we would give an arm and a leg to stay home, see them off to school, be there when they came home, and spend the day taking care of the house.

"But what can you do? These days a family needs money to pay the bills. Without money, a family becomes a bunch of beggars. Not us. We all pull together.

'On weekends we clean the house together and do the laundry. We work on the lawn and the garage. And we go shopping - we like doing errands together. It's one way of being a family.

"If you're both going to work a lot, you have to think twice about the time you spend at home. If you go running around the house, or driving off, and you leave your kids to take care of themselves - then they're on their way to becoming orphans. I mean, where's their family life? An hour in church on Sunday?

"It's hard. We're managing. We've become closer, actually - and much better organized, that's for sure."

ENTIRE TEXTBOOKS aren't likely to tell us much more than this about what it means to be a working man who is also a husband and father. This man, his wife and children - the five of them - are very much like millions of their fellow citizens.

The central fact of their collective life is work. Even their oldest child, a girl of 15, has begun work - at an ice cream parlor. Their middle child, a boy of 12, hopes to obtain a newspaper

They are individuals who "wake up with work on the mind and go to sleep exhausted from work.

To many of us, this a familiar observation. Our present economic situation, with its recessionary and inflationary pressures, has forced millions of Americans to hold onto jobs for dear life, or sturggle hard to find them, or, indeed, take on additional work, so that even weekends or evenings are longer inviolate - sacred time for oneslef, one's wife or husband, one's children.

A WOMAN who works as a bank teller told me:

"If I couldn't work, we'd sink financially. What will happen when inflation makes even my salary insufficient? My husband is looking for a second weekend job.

"Thank God, his mother helps with our kids. We're making it, so far. But it's tough on our family life.

Her experience has become rather common. Hard-pressed men and women are worrying about their children and paying a certain personal cost as members of a family, in order, ironically, to keep that same family in reasonably solid financial shape.

THE STRAINS are obvious, but they ought not be exaggerated. Many daycare centers are disgracefully inadequate, but a growing number are good.

Sleep may be lost and tempers may run shout, but stress can also bring out hidden resources in parents and chil-

It is no great news that in extremely well-off families, both the adults and the children sometimes seem sad. confused, aimless. We need not only money to pay bills, but also some sense of purpose in life. And for many millions of people work provides a large share of that purpose. Needless to say, this goes for women as well as men.

In our vairous communities, however, we ought to search for ways to help families who are under siege. At what point are repeated job transfers a threat to family stability?

How might neighbors and friends do more to help one another with chilzens be able to help working families and thereby also be helping them-

How might schools respond to the needs of families through an expansion or rotation of hours?

THESE ARE questions my wife and I have heard asked again and again by members of families we have come to know in our work.

And the question we have heard most the answer to which, one suspects, won't be quickly forthcoming - is this: 'What will it be like in this county if almost every family is such a slave to the cost of living that the children get a raw deal, the husband and wife become strangers, and for all the work everyone does, we still can't keep our heads above water?"

In other business the board voted to: replace and repair carpets at Central Middle, Isbister and Gallimore elementaries; deny a grievance from the teachers union involving set-up and take-down time for year-round schools; and name National Bank of Detroit, main office, as paying agent for the 1981 tax anticipation note.

Solemn school talk

There was some solemn talk recently when Dr. John M. Hoben (left), superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, met with state Rep. Roy Smith, R-Saline, whose 52nd District includes the city of Plymouth, Superior Township and part of Plymouth Township. Some 12 state lawmakers from Wayne County recently were guests of the Wayne County Association of School Administrators at a luncheon meeting. The legislators reported they are aware of the many financial problems facing schools but warned there are even more financial setbacks in the future. Several discussed plans they are considering which might help to alleviate some of the problems. Smith is the co-author of two major tax reform proposals in the past as well as the equalization by class legislation.

ESY pupils will start enrichment series

A series of enrichment activities, especially designed for pupils on Track D of Extended School Year (ESY) in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, will begin Monday.

The "Enrichment through Discovery" sessions are aimed at children in grades one-three who are enrolled in an ESY school

The activities, which begin Nov. 30 from 4-5 p.m., especially were scheduled for students assigned to Track D, although they are open to all ESY students. The sessions also are open to Plymouth-Canton students attending a traditional nine-month school.

The sessions, which focus on the arts and sciences, are held in St. John Episcopal Church at 574 S. Sheldon Road. Phone-in registrations are accepted by calling 459-3611.

Hunting season

Plentiful fall deer harvest expected

Deer hunters can expect to see many deer this fall, according to Glenn Dudderar, extension wildlife specialist at Michigan State

Two consecutive mild winters and excellent deer habitats in many areas have produced large herds, Dudderar says. The number of deer in Michigan is the largest in recent years. Based on estimates of herd size and composition, Department of Natural Resources wildlife biologists expect this year's deer harvest to be the largest ever. "The mild to moderate winter of 1979-80 gave us a good production of fawns that spring," Dudderar says. "Pregnant does were able to forage freely in many areas last winter, enabling them to produce many strong, healthy fawns last spring. As a result there

Many-permits for antlerless deer are being issued in almost all of the southern half of the Lower Peninsula, in most portions of the northern lower Michigan and in Menominee County in the Upper Peninsula Hunters in much of northern lower Michigan and the U.P. may see a lot of deer, many with nice sets of antlers. Also, because of the good fawn production in the spring of 1980, there should be a lot of two- to four-point bucks ("spikes" or "forkhorns") available this year.

"DNR WILDLIFE biologists, farmers and I are hoping for a large harvest of deer," Dudderar says. "In many areas, the herd is just too large - the deer are causing problems. If the size of the heard is not reduced deer could die in great numbers from starvation if the coming winter is severe.

DNR wildlife biologists are uneasy, though," Dudderar notes.

"If they recommend a large hunter's choice permit quota and there is a severe winter, they will have prevented mass starvation, but the fawn production will be reduced and the biologists will be blamed for the smaller herd next fall. If the winter is mild, fawn production will be high and the biologists will be blamed for the large herd the following summer and fall.

"Small hunter's choice quotas guarantee either mass starvation or an even larger herd next year, depending on the winter. There's no way they can satisfy the uninformed hunter or farmer.'

This year, deer hunting in the southern Lower Peninsula should be as good or better than usual. In the northern Lower Peninsula, success will be very high in some areas, especially for hunters with a hunter's choice permit.

In most of the Upper Peninsula, the harvest will probably be about the same or slightly larger thatn last year's. The exception is Menominee County, which is hosting a hunter's choice season again this year. There hunting is likely to be pretty good.

All these predictions assume the same number of hunters as last year and good weather during hunting season. An early snowstorm or hunter dissatisfaction with the new license system could mean fewer deer harvested.

Dudderar urges hunters who want to try their luck in southern Michigan this year to begin asking landowners now for permission to hunt their woods and fields. Ask even if land is posted, he sug-

"About 60 percent of owners of posted land will allow hunting if you ask politely ahead of time," he says. "A lot of landowners have suffered deer damage and welcome responsible hunters on their

Field dress a deer right after the kill

How you handle venison from the time you kill the deer until the meat is frozen is an important factor in insuring that the meat will be tender and good tasting.

Glenn Dudderar, extension wildlife specialist at Michigan State University, says the first step in good venison is a quick, clean kill.

"Don't chase a wounded deer," he advises. "A mortally wounded deer will not travel far before lying down to die unless you're crashing through the woods after it.

Dudderar says to kill a deer and immediately bleed the animal by cutting the large veins at the base of the neck. This process improves the flavor of the meat. In case of a trophy buck where a shoulder mount is desired, the skin should not be cut above the Field dress the animal at once. This involves slitting the deer from the throat to the vent and removing the internal organs. Then prop the body open to speed cooling. Cut away shot meat, wipe away as much blood as possible and keep the deer dry.

BACK AT CAMP, chill the carcass as rapidly as possible to about 35 degrees F. If the weather is much warmer that that, nove the deer to a commercial cooler, or quarter it and place the parts in a refrigerator, or butcher it and refrigerate or freeze. If the weather is cold and the carcass freezes, butcher it frozen - do not allow it to thaw and then refreeze it.

Transport deer quarters or venison cuts in a cooler with plenty of ice or dry ice to keep the meat cold. In cool weather, you can take the carcass home with the skin still on it. Wrap the carcass in canvas or similar material to prevent the sun from warming it and put the carcass on the vehicle where it will stay chilled. Inside the heated vehicle or anywhere near the engine are poor places.

Young deer — less than 2 to 4 years old — are usually tender enough that you can butcher and freeze the meat at once. Venison from older deer - unless it's to be ground for hamburger or sausage - will be more tender and flavorful if it's aged first.

If you can keep the meat at a constant 35 degrees, allow it to age for a week. If the temperature of the meat varies from 30-40 degrees, butcher and process it after three days. In warm weather, take the meat to a commercial firm for aging.

YOU CAN ALSO have your deer commercially butchered. The process will vary, depending on how you want the meat processed.

But if you decide to butcher the deer yourself, learn how to do it right. For improved flavor, cut away as much of the fat as you can. It's the fat that tends to make venison tast tallowy and strong or gamey

Make hamburger or sausage out of all the meat on the lower portions of the legs, flanks and the neck of an older deer, especially a buck. These parts tend to be well exercised and tough unless

The rump and shoulder and the upper hindquarters can be cut for roasts and steaks. Make steaks of the more tender portions just inside the hips, and along both sides of the backbone from the hips to the neck, and the upper hindquarters.

If you're going to have the deer hide tanned, scrape away all flesh and fat, slit the inside of the hide, and roll, not fold, the hide with the hair side out. Take the hide as soon as possible to a taxidermist or deer processor who can tan it or arrange to have it

Hunting mishaps can happen anytime

The best way to set yourself up for trouble is to believe that hunting accidents always happen to the other guy. If you think you're immune to getting lost or getting hurt when you're out in the wilds, you may take some chances that could get you into

Glenn Dudderar, extension wildlife specialist at Michigan State University, advises hunters and others heading for outdoor fun to play the game of "what it?" and go prepared to cope with what-

This doesn't mean loading yourself with so much gear that you can hardly waddle. A few pieces of survival equipment and the persence of mind not to panic are all that's necessary to get you through most wilderness emergencies. Don't let the term "wilderness emergencies" throw you. You. need to make the same preparations for an outing just down the road as for an expedition across the state.

The first and most important thing to do is to tell someone who loves you where you're going and when you intend to be back. Someone who loves you won't hesitate to send someone out looking for you if/she thinks you might be in trouble. To avoid the embarrassment of being rescued when you don't need it, you might establish how long that person will wait before calling the local police or sheriff's department.

If something changes your plans, take a moment to find a phone and let your loved one know of your new destination or time of return. It could save him/her hours of unnecessary worry and possibly save your life.

Dress appropriately for the current weather conditions but remind yourself of how quickly they can change. Wear layers of lightweight clothing so you can add or subtract garments as the weather and your activity level change

Text on this page provided by the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University.

Problems often begin when someone who has kept warm through strenuous activity has to slow down or stop. A person can quickly become so chilled that his fingers get clumsy and he can't think clearly. Proper clothing - including foootgear to keep your feet dry and warm; headgear, gloves or mittens, a moisutre-absorbing layer next to your skin to wick perspiration away and an exterior windbreaking layer - minimizes the danger of chilling.

Basic emergency equipment includes matches in a waterproof cantainer, a knife, some high energy food, a whistle, some string, a small flashlight, and perhaps a few bandages and a little antisep-

With the matches and kindling shaved with the knife, you can light a fire. The heat can warm you and dry out wet clothing. Making the fire gives you something meaninful to do and provides you with a means of signaling for help. There's also a psychological factor - a cozy fire takes some of the threat out of your predicament.

The food will help you get warm and keep your spirits up.

The whistle is for signaling for help. It doesn't get hoarse or run out of ammunition or fuel, it will operate under all sorts of weather conditions, and it doesn't sound like anything else you're likely to hear in the woods. It won't be mistaken for any naturally occuring sounds or the sounds of someone hunting.

The string is helpful in first aid, emergency repairs, shelter building and a host of other chores. The bandages are a convenience to keep a small wound from becoming troublesome.

To this list of gear, add a compass - but only if you know how to use it. If you don't, it may just get you into more trouble. Heading in the wrong direction when you think you know where you're going can lead to disaster, and make you harder to find.

The key to getting out of trouble in the wilds is to keep your head. If you realize you're lost, or if you get hurt and can't get back on your own, stay calm. Find a dry, sheltered spot, if possible, and get busy making a fire. Then stay with it. You're less likely to get hurt and much easier to find if you're not charging around the woods in a blind panic.

Carne is the architect for manufacturing plant

Erick Carne of Carne Associates, Inc., of Plymouth is the architect who designed a 15,000 square-foot manufacturing facility which recently opened in Livonia.

Froude Engineering Inc., a U.S. subsidiary of Britain's Redman Heenan International group, is now operating from its new North American headquarters at 35525 Schoolcraft, Livonia.

The facility also includes a manufacturing plant which will begin production of engine test equipment for the automotive, aerospace, industrial and marine industries.

Froude recently was awarded substantial contracts by Ford Motor Co. and Volkswagen of America for production engine test stands.

From its new facility, Froude will design and manufacture test systems and sell its complete range of test equipment and dynamometers as well as maintaining a customer service center for parts, repairs and reconditioning of test plants.

Carne's firm also did the architectural work for the recently completed 35th District Courthouse, the design for the one-way systems on Forest and Penniman in the city of Plymouth, and work on the office complex under construction near the Hillside Inn.

Scott Lorenz of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth recently attended the annual convention of the National Tour Brokers Association in Phoenix.

The five-day event is the largest travel industry gathering in North America. It brings together persons who develop, package and market motor-coach tours with representatives of hotels, motels, restaurants, attractions, airlines, bus companies, water carriers, sightseeing services, and other travel industry suppliers.

A major feature of the NTBA convention was the market place, a series of one-on-one highly concentrated appointments between supplier members, and tour brokers.

Persons attending the conference also attended a full-range of educational seminars and heard speakers from every sector of the travel and tour industry at the convention.

Unhappy clients will shop elsewhere for service

Nearly everyone has an opinion on the value of education at a private school vs. a public school.

But that is not the main issue in recent discussions about the trend of some parents taking their children out of public schools and enrolling them in private schools.

Most parents are looking toward private schools as an alternative because, for one reason or another, they are disappointed in the performance of public school.

Public school administrators and legislators must examine the trend.

While the uneasy feelings about public education are beginning to appear in Plymouth-Canton, the response is much more evident and drastic in such areas as Taylor, Romulus and Alpena.

Obviously there is something going on in Michigan which goes beyond whether a parent prefers a private school over a public school education.

A CYCLE HAS BEEN set in motion which must be reversed or disaster will result.

Public educators must learn the lesson, if they have not already, that customers will shop elsewhere when they are dissatisfied with the quality of

In recent years, public school districts have been cutting costs to balance budgets. Each year another program was trimmed or eliminated. Each year another service was taken away. Each year the number of unhappy clients has increased.

And the cycle gained momentum. The more services were cut, the more unhappy the users became, and the less support existed for public education. Millage requests have been defeated as parents no longer feel good about they way school districts spend money. And they don't feel good because services have been taken away from their children.

While districts may be unable to restore services because the money is not available, they certainly will be unable to restore the confidence of customers by continually taking away services.

When you are in the mode of cutting services, eventually the economics reaches the point where it is feasible to enroll in a private school and pay more because you hope to get more in services. Of course, residents continue to pay property taxes and will get no educational services in return. But if the cuts are serious enough, there is plenty of motivation to jump ship.

Cutbacks in special education programs have been serious enough to force many parents of handicapped students to take a hard look at whether they can "afford" to allow their children to remain in public schools.

In Plymouth-Canton, it has been very clear that some parents of gifted students have given up on public schools because needed services have not been provided.

While the school board can explain why the budget does not allow continuation or expansion of programs, the explanation does nothing to restore confidence in parents backed up against the wall with little place to turn except to private schools.

The frustrating thing for many parents is that they do believe in public education but are not being served as they should.

The difficulty for the administration and board is that they have started the budget-cutting process. In so doing, the have lost enough clients so that it will be difficult to obtain passage of millage inrease to balance future budgets.

The only way to satisfy customers is to give them the services they desire. Once you do otherwise, it is very difficult to do anything but retreat and retrench. Take away services and you lose customers.

That may well be the main problem facing public education today - in Plymouth-Canton and throughout Michigan.

Our Yorktown of 1981 shows we can forge on

HANKSGIVING 1981 is something like the thanksgiving of 200 years ago. The problems ahead are immense, but the past has shown Americans have the ability to deal

At this season in 1781, word was circulating through the fledgling states that on Oct. 19 British Gen. Lord Cornwallis had surrendered his troops at the mouth of the York River in Virginia. The Battle of Yorktown had effectively ended Great Britain's attempts to regain her former colonies.

The young nation had tapped an amazing array of resources to win that victory.

Gen. George Washington, the Virginia planter who made many mistakes but never the same mistake twice, had marched 16,000 troops from the north in a lightning move.

As the French admiral, deGrasse, pinned in Cornwallis from the sea, the British general turned over his sword, his troops stacked their muskets, and the band played "The World Turned Upside DESPITE MANY disorganized defeats, the young nation had its share of heroes.

Nathan Hale, a teacher and spy, went to the gallows regretting only "that I have but one life to give for my country.

The elderly inventor, publisher, philosopher and roue. Ben Franklin had worked abroad to secure French loans, leaders, troops and ships for the cause. Spanish loans helped, too.

Francis (the Swamp Fox) Marion . . . George Rogers Clark on the Indiana frontier . . . Gates, the hero of Saratoga, where the Americans secured the Hudson River Valley . . . Robert Morris, the financier ... . Alexander Hamilton, the firebrand officer, secretary and financial aide to Wash-

Gen. Benjamin Lincoln, who accepted Cornwallis' sword . . . foreign names like LaFayette, Beaumarchais, Pulaski . . . Tom Paine, who wrote of "the times that try men's souls."

The conflict had burned many place names indelibly into the nation's history: Lexington, Concord, Bennington, Long Island, Oriskany, West Point, Princeton, Trenton, Monmouth, Brandywine, Kings

And, above all, Valley Forge.

AMERICA IN 1982 has just been through a new kind of Valley Forge.

It has survived an internal conflict between "hawks" and "doves" in the 1960s, a shocking battle between age groups, a cartel's increasing of oil prices that left many Americans literally shivering. severe dislocations in the economy, a raging infla-

Yet it is an undeniable fact, for which we must bow our heads in thanks, that this nation survived in an era during which many governments in South America, the Middle East and Asia crumpled to

THE AMERICANS of 1781 still faced immense problems despite the victory at Yorktown: a government that couldn't raise taxes and pay its debts, breakdowns in commerce between the states, a lack of solid currency. laws of primogeniture, the existence of an established church, a lack of industry, weaknesses on the frontier.

And Americans of 1981 face immense problems of inflation, economics, investment, defense, care of the poor, the abused, the physically handicapped, the mentally handicapped, water pollution, air pollution, land pollution, entertainment pollution.

The patriots of 1781 gave thanks, savored their victories and went on to solve their problems.

The patriots of 1981 can surely do the same

Meanwhile, back in the boardrooms

For years Gov. William G. Milliken and the "quadrant" — the four bipartisan leaders in both houses of the Michigan Legislature — have been able to cut

It's not working, however, with workers' compensation this year. That issue, above all others, is the one Michigan must deal with if it is to have any hope at all of diversifying the economy by luring new industry to take up the slack left by the shrinkage of auto manufacturing.

Last week's grotesque Senate Labor Committee hearing, on the Capitol floor rather than in a committee room, was evidence things are going awry.

AS BACKGROUND, let me share with you the experience of our own parent company, Suburban Communications Corp., with workers' comp rates. Shown here as the cost per $100 of benefits and then compared with other states:

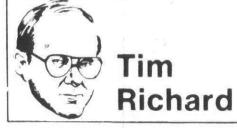

- Composing room, camera room, press room, mail and bindery: $5.31 in Michigan, 64 cents in Ohio, 60 cents in Indiana.
- Salespersons: 87 cents in Michigan, 33 cents in
- Ohio, 16 cents in Indiana. Clerical and newsroom: 87 cents in Michigan,
- 33 cents in Ohio, 16 cents in Indiana. • Drivers: $5.05 in Michigan, $6.11 in Ohio, 53 cents in Indiana. In three cases out of four, a company doing business in Michigan pays far, far more than the identical company doing business in Ohio. In four of four, it pays more than in Indiana. MILLIKEN PROPOSES a series of reforms.

One is to halt "double dipping" — the practice of an injured or ailing worker drawing workers' comp, Social Security and company pension totalling more than his or her working wage. Workers' comp would be reduced once Social Security and the pension plan kicked in.

Another would be a three-year review of a case after workers' comp benefits start. A person would be required to accept "regular, recognized or reasonable work" taking into account "physical condition, education and work experience.

DEMOCRATS in the legislature rarely assail those ideas directly.

Senate Majority Leader William Faust of Westland and Labor Committee Chairman David Plawecki of Dearborn Heights first challenged Milliken to appear personally at their circus-like public hearing. They sent copies of the letter to news media with a news release in case we didn't have time to read the letter. Then Faust and House Speaker Bobby Crim of Davison blistered Milliken in another letter, charging him with unwillingness to deal in detail with their hard questions.

than the substance of workers' comp reforms. IF YOU NEED a reminder, 1982 is a gubernato-

In each case, the attack was on Milliken rather rial election year.

Milliken, who will have completed a state record 14 years in office by the end of this term, hasn't announced his plan. Clearly, the kind of abuse he is taking must be disheartening.

Moreover, consider that Senate Labor Committee Chairman Plawecki is a candidate for governor.

On top of that, consider that the State Senate is full of actual or probable gubernatorial candidates - Corbin of Clio, Pierce of Ann Arbor, Kammer of Pontiac, even Faust himself.

Consider that House Democrats have their own workers' comp bills, one of which calls for a 20 percent decrease in premiums. The insurance industry brands it "an arbitrary attempt to deal with symptoms of the problem rather than the problem itself."

Note well that UAW Vice-President Donald Ephlin used the hearing to denounce the Milliken measure as "extremist," "frightening," "cold-hearted."

Meanwhile, back in the corporate boardrooms, companies must decide whether they want to invest in Michigan and hire some of our 13 percent unemployed or go to another state.

The Colonel always carved the turkey

Here we are at another Thanksgiving Day, and The Stroller would like nothing better than to return to the old days when family reunions were in vogue and the Colonel carved the bird.

The Colonel was The Stroller's maternal grandfather. His life revolved around just two days each year — Memorial Day and the day we gave thanks for our many blessings.

On Memorial Day, he would arise early, don the blue serge uniform of the Union Army complete with the black fedora and the gold band, and take part in all honors being paid to his fallen comrades.

BUT IT WAS on Thanksgiving Day that he really did a wonderful job of gathering the family together for the annual feast at which he was the leading

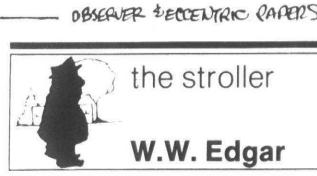

After the families gathered and the time came to sit at the festive board, he would take his place at the head of the table, and Grandmother, who had been working since early morning, would sit at the

At a given signal, she would rise and offer the prayer of Thanksgiving in the Pennsylvania Dutch language. As she said "Amen," she would turn, go to the kitchen, return with a bronze-hued roast turkey on a large platter and place it in front of the Colo-

Attired in a long white apron and chef's hat. The Colonel went to work. Deftly he carved the two legs from the body and placed them aside, just in case he ran out of the other meat for the family. One at a time, he took each plate, placed a portion of the meat on it and passed it along.

Naturally, we children (The Stroller was just a youth) kept a watchful eye in hopes he wouldn't run out of the white meat and we'd have to eat trimm-

The carving done, he would take his seat, glance over the family and heave a sigh as if to expect a word of thanks for the job he had done.

She had a reason for being up early — for she had baked the pumpkin pies. Now she calmly rose, went again to the kitchen, brought them out and saw to it that each of us got at least a taste.

She was quite a pie baker, and she smiled when she saw her handiwork being enjoyed all around the table. Finally the eating was finished. She arose. grasped a hand of the person on either side and asked all others to do likewise.

When all hands were linked, we sang "Blessed Be the Tie that Binds." And no two people were ever happier than The Stroller's grandparents. They had their family back home for a day, and that was something for which to be thankful.

THESE WERE the Thanksgiving days of old, and it is too bad the family reunion has been cast aside in many cases. It has given way to attending sports events. Many others dine out at the hotels or highly rated restaurants and feel that is the peak of the

But they never will surpass the old-fashioned family reunion when the Colonel carved the bird.

He has been gone these many years, but the memory of him wil remain green, especially at Thanksgiving

Did you know that the original name of Clare County was "Kaykakee"? It was the Chippewa name for a pigeon hawk. When the time came for the residents to settle on a permanent name, they went 'way over to a county in western Ireland to borrow the name "Clare."

The womens' movement is struggling harder than ever to stay afloat and move ahead, Sarah Goddard Power told a group of feminists Monday at Schoolcraft College.

"We're still second-class citizens. We've come a long way, but we still have an enormously long way to go, and now we're at an impasse," the University of Michigan regent said.

Mrs. Power spoke to about 25 women. The former Carter Administration official criticized the Reagan Administration for stifling women's rights. She cited program cuts for poor women and lack of education avenues for teenage mothers.

"Budget cuts are affecting poor women and seriously aggravating women's problems. Cuts in food programs for needy mothers and cuts in ADC are hurting the women in our society," she said.

"THE COST of teenage pregnancy is very high to society," she said, adding that one in 10 teenage girls becomes

"There is an overwhelming majority of people who want sex education in schools, but most states don't require it and few encourage it.'

Aside from shirking its responsiblities to poor women, Mrs. Power blamed the Reagan administration for trying to hold back all women.

"They are drafting proposals to ease job descriptions. They are weakening the guidelines to protect women against sexual harassment, and the vice-president is reviewing 30 regulations regarding sexual harassment in schools," she said.

'These overt measures show that the administration is not committed to enforcing rules that protect women."

MRS. POWER has been active in the women's movement on a state and national level for many years.

She recently completed a year with

She was responsible for formulating U.S. policy on several specialized agencies of the United Nations. She is a member of the Board of the Project on Equal Rights, and was a delegate to the World Conference for the UN Decade for Women in Copenhagen in 1980:

She served on the Commission for Women as associate director at the Institute for the Administrative Advancement of Women at the University of Michigan. She was elected to the U-M Board of Regents in 1974 and is due to seek re-election in 1982.

Recently, Mrs. Power received the Michigan Edcuation Association's distinguished service award. She has campaigned with Michigan's First Lady Helen Milliken here and in and Washington for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Her husband is Philip H. Power, owner and board chairman of Suburban Communications Corp.

IF ERA isn't ratified next year, women will most likely be faced with the Human Life amendment, Mrs. Power said.

"It took us 72 years to get the vote, and we're in our 58th year struggling to get the ERA ratified.

"The Human Life amendment is moving faster. It is supported by the president and claims the backing of 200 representatives. If it passes, it will oulaw many birth control devices and abortion in any circumstance. It will remove a woman's control over her own body," she said.

"The amendment must be ratified by 34 states and 21 states have already passed it."

WHILE WOMEN fight for passage of ERA, they also keep plugging for equal pay in the job market, Mrs. Power said. "Women are still underprivileged and girls are still being ill-prepared for their adult life.

"School counseling still stereotypes womens' roles, and schools haven't developed programs to enable young mothers to finish school.

"The chief cause of economic problems for women is their lack of preparation. I think if women continue their fight and pressures to their government leaders, there will be significant changes in the next decade. We're moving toward equality, but we have so far to go."

Following the lecture, most of the women, who appeared to be in their early 40s, crowded Mrs. Power, telling her they constantly send petitions to President Reagan. Some said they have sent mailgrams.

One woman, who asked not to be identified, said she attended the meeting against her husband's wishes. "I'm interested in women's rights and getting ERA passsed. I don't want to fight with my husband, but he has to understand I'm not staying home forever."

Firefighters oppose unification

To the editor:

In response to your article-concerning police/fire consolidation in Canton Township, we, the executive board of Canton Firefighters Local 2289, are directly opposed to the principle as are the International Association of Fire Chiefs, the International Association of Fire Fighters, the National Fire Protection Association and Michigan's Attorney General, Frank Kelley.

In theory, the Public Safety Officer (PSO) concept appears to have some advantages but, in practice, most cities have found numerous disadvantages.

Responsibilities of the PSO are difficult to define. When do you stop being a police officer and become a firefighter?

Supervision and responsibility at fire scenes have suffered due to confusion. Equipment costs increase because more people need to be equipped due to more people using fire apparatus, maintenance costs have increased.

In actual fact, there is no similarity between the duties and responsibilities of the policeman and firefighters to justify them being combined into one force other than the fact they are employed by Canton Township and wear the township's uniforms.

To quote Michigan's Attorney General Frank Kelley: "The unification of local fire and police departments may satisfy those who like a simplified organizational chart, but the result is a dangerous weakening of law enforcement and a hazardous reduction in fire protection."

What we need today is not the mixing of two unmixable components of local government, but the strengthening of each so that they may perform their absolutely necessary functions for the benefit of the community that they

Canton firefighters, in the interest of the public that we serve, will spare no cost or effort to defeat police/fire consolidation in Canton Township.

Pumpkin trip was delightful

To the editor:

Last year my daughter's school -Hines Park Montessori - had a designated day and time to visit the "Pumpkin Patch" owned by Winfred Bunyea.

Wouldn't you know, it rained the night before.

Holly Persyn, the class teacher, phoned the farm before the children and volunteer drivers - myself included - left the school. She was advised not to bring the children because of the muddy field and to reschedule for another day.

Naturally, the children were disappointed but children adjust - and these were 3-5 year olds - not first

On the rescheduled day, the weather was beautiful, sunny and the field was

The children were delighted with their pumpkins they personally select-

The class went again this year and, once again, the children loved picking their own pumpkins. I urge the Bunyeas to continue the trips to the pumpkin farm and to ignore people like that first grade teacher who brought her class out in the rain and didn't call first

Those kind of people can ruin it for others just because a little common sense was not used

Conference was worthwhile

To the editor:

Every so often a community finds itself pulling together in a common

Such was the situation with the recently completed Parent Reading Conference in the Plymouth-Canton area.

From the service clubs to Don Massey Cadillac, from teachers to parents, from board members to administration, from our public libraries to the ^AUW — all pulled together to create an excellent and worthwhile investment of few hours on a Saturday morning.

To those who worked so hard and gave so freely of their time and money thank you! To the teachers of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools who led the various sessions, thank you for a job well done.

I end with a quote from a parent who attended the conference, "I believe so strongly that parents need to be educated and brought along with what is happening in the schools and how to help their child, Please continue with conferences such as this one.

Don't tamper with safety

It is beyond belief that any elected official or appointed employee of the city of Plymouth would for an instant consider removal or tampering with the traffic light at Penniman and Main.

Main Street from Church to Ann Arbor Trail would result in much more of a speedway than it is at present, and pedestrians would have to jog across the widest street in town.

Change for change's sake is not always the best, so let's implore the city fathers to halt this zany idea

School graduates were married Oct. 24. The autumn wedding of Oscar Luttermoser of Sunset Street, Plymouth, and Miriam Jolliffe Kovall of Binghamton, N.Y., took place at Jolli-Lodge in Leland on Lake Michigan. The lodge is the home of the bride's brother Keith Jolliffe and his wife, Ruth.

TWO PLYMOUTH High

This is not the story of a high school romance; although the bride and groom were longtime friends. They were members of the PHS class of 1934. After graduation 45 years ago, Oscar attended the University of Michigan, and Miriam attended what is now Eastern Michigan University. Each was married, and the couples met very occasionally at class reunions. Both were widowed. A sympathy note after the death of Oscar's wife started a correspondence which led to the wedding more than a year

The couple's attendants were Douglas Luttermoser of Fenton, the bridegroom's son, and Patricia Kovall of Columbus, Ohio, the bride's daughter.

Oscar's sister, Viola, and her husband. Niels Pedersen of Plymouth, were there as well as his daughters and their husbands -Carol and Jerry Doolin of Livonia and Julie and Jack Pierce of Holt. Miriam's family was represented by her sister and brother-in-law Jean and Robert Champe of Livonia; brothers and their wives Keith and Ruth Jolliffe of Leland and Larry and Judy Jolliffe of Kalamazoo; and nieces and nephews Charles and Becky Champe of Livonia and Pamela and Gregory Jolliffe.

Oscar retired in February 1978. He worked at the Wayne County Training School and as a probation officer. Miriam was a real estate agent with Century 21 in Binghamton. They plan to winter in Arizona and spend the summers in Michigan.

GLADYS DEYO, Maxine Willoughby and Margaret Roberts of Plymouth attended the Michigan Society of Dames of the Court of Honor meeting in Fenton. Mrs. Deyo is a new member of the society.

MARY JO Rothfuss, who lives on Evergreen in Plymouth, was honored recently for her 30 years with the Wayne County Department of Social Services. Miss Rothfuss is office manager of the department's office in Inkster. Her award was presented by the director of the department.

STEVE ASHTON, a sophomore at Kalamazoo College, is a member of the college's 18-piece wind ensemble. The ensemble performed Monday evening in the Dalton Theatre on campus in a joint concert with the chamber orchestra and choral groups.

SUSAN SHARP, daughter of Patrick and Nancy Sharp of Plymouth, was initiated recently into Kappa Alpha Pi, junior Honor Council at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. Membership is based on scholarship, leadership and BOYD SHAFFER and Luella Cook had high scores at last Thursday's party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

ROSS AND LILLIAN Hauk of Canton Township celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Nov. 15 with a dinner party at Weber's Restaurant in Ann Arbor. The Hauks were married Nov. 10, 1956.

More than 45 members of their family and friends attended the party. The Hauks are longtime farmers in Canton. Lillian is president of the township's historical commission.

They have six children - Jimmy, Sonja, Richard, Mary, Colleen and Ross Jr.

MEMBERS OF the Trailwood Garden Club will be selling luminary kits for the holiday season. They are available for residents of Woodgate, Trailwood I, Beacon Trail, Hill Creek and

Quartets bring back '40s tunes

A number of residents are involved in planning for the upcoming "Boogie-Woogie Barbershop" musical evening to be staged jointly by a men's and a women's barbership music group.

The show will be performed by the Wayne Wonderland chorus of SPEBSQ-SA, national men's barbership singing organization, and by the We-Way-Co chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., an international group devoted to four-part harmony for women, barbershop style.

The show is scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Dec. 4, 5, in the auditorium of Our Lady of Mercy at 11 Mile and Middlebelt in Farmington Hills. The musical is being planned by Claudia Swisher of Plymouth, show cochairwoman. Others involved in the planning include Tom Pollard, Mary Ann MacMurray and Sharon Himebaugh of Plymouth, and Pat Martin and Pat Daubenmier of Canton.

Tickets are $6 and on Dec. 4 only are $3 for senior citizens and students.

THE THREE-HOUR musical show is based on the songs and situations of World War II.

The show's name comes from one of its major songs, "Boogie-Woogie Bugle

"The music is alive and has meaning for today," says Ms. Swisher who cochairs the show with her husband Jim.

"It's hard to get through a rehearsal with dry eyes. And combining men's and women's barbershop choruses in one show is quite unusual.

"We are looking forward to two spectacular evenings of excellent family entertainment."

MORE THAN 120 voices are involved, singing such songs as: "I Left My Heart at the Stage Door Canteen," "I'll Be Home for Christmas," "White Cliffs of Dover," "When the Lights Go on Again All Over the World," "This is the Army, Mr. Jones," "Chattanooga Choo Choo," "God Bless America," and "May the Good Lord

Residents 'on the road again'

Are we really alert when we drive? How often do we drive the same roads day after day and never notice what has been there all of the time?

Greg and Andrea Anderson aided by Bill and Nancy Pritchard put together a super time-element road rally recently. There were no clues to hunt for. The drivers and passengers had to pay attention and calculate their time and miles while following the directions given to them. At every interval there were questions to answer about the local landmarks.

The entrants know Bill and Greg so well they were looking for some obscure clue that would surely throw everyone off track and lose points.

While traveling down Ann Arbor Road they were looking for the "Big G." Can you think of something that comes to your mind? There just happened to be a person having target practice in an adjacent field and the ralliers thought that the gun was the Big G. It wasn't that at all. In fact, if the cars had turned one more corner there was a huge billboard waiting for ons, coming out of retirement especially for "Boogie-Woogie Barbershop,"; Jim Swisher's quartet, "Crosstown Express," as well as "Touch of Magic," the 1981 women's first-place quartet from Michigan and Ontario. Also featured will be Claudia Swisher's quartet, "Yes, Indeed," a third-place women's foursome for 1981.

Another highlight will be a trio, an unusual combination for barbershoppers, doing the Andrew Sisters' "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree."

The distance traveled was 40 miles and the instructions specified 30 miles per hour. After 11/2 hours of frustration, the 15 cars turned into the Anderson driveway to tally up. Each car started out with 100 points and received minus five points for every

the longest name or the mother-in-law of Ruth?

There were a few tricky ones that even Pastor Ken Gruebel had a tough time remembering.

The page was blank except for a few scrambled letters. What to do now? Most participants tried to unscramble them but that was too easy for these professionals. They had to use the reverse alphabet to solve this clue. They ended up at the flagpole in Kellogg Park. Out came the flashlights for answers were etched in the sidewalk in the very same park.

The Judge Davis Court House was the last hiding place for the weary wanderers. Solving the puzzle in the envelope brought them back to the church

Ken and Sue Gruebel, Joan Wilson, Ralph and Bevis Richardson were in the winning car. Ron and Mary Kay Frey, Ginny and Mike Koon were a close second. The rally consisted of 35 miles in and about Plymouth and Canton. The rally fee was to bring a dessert to share at the end. The prizes were given by the church to encourage all members to come out and enjoy an evening together. Everyone shared in laughter and sweet treats at the end of the fun evening.

Happy Thanksgiving to all!

Marianne DeBoer, who is Dutch, has invited the Dieps, who are Vietnamese, to her Westland home for Thanksgiving because she wants them to have a good introduction to what she calls "a uniquely American holiday."

Twenty-five years ago she spent her own first Thanksgiving in the hospital after her arrival from Holland. It was the day after she gave birth to her daughter MaryAnn.

"The original idea appealed to me, thanking God for all the good things," said Mrs. DeBoer. "Just being in this country and free is a big thing for the Diep family which escaped from Vitenam by boat. They really were oppressed over there.

She feels a kind of connection with the Dieps. She and her husband received help when they were new arrivals. Now she and many others are aiding the four Dieps.

The exception is the group aiding the Vu family now living in Northville. It is made up of teachers and students at Franklin High School, Livonia, spearheaded by Peg Olson, Bob Marks and Jim English, of the faculty.

Probably the question most often asked committee members is "How is it working out?" While there have been problems in some locatities, none were reported in this one except difficulty in finding work for the wage earner. Spokemen were enthusiastic about how well their family seems to be adapting. Comments mention how hard they are working to make life a success.

Despite the grim employment picvoyled in helping strangers set down ture, several of the men have found jobs, either full- or part-time, so several families are either completely selfsupporiting or partially so.

"It is a very proud time for us to see someone come in their circumstances and take the help you give and go so far," said Livonian Millie Dreisbach, a member of the support group of Rosedale Church. It established the Quack family in an apartment complex in Canton Township.

"I still feel the most benefit for this work comes to us. It gives us such pleasure to see them thriving.'

wife makes her own clothes." Their daughter, Man, is an outstanding student, according to her fifthgrade techer at Gallimore Elementary.

The family has an extra reason to be thankful. Their autistic son is making progress in the autistic program at Marquette School in Garden City.

"They would not have been allowed to come unless our church took responsibility for this boy," said Mrs. Garm-

Madonna group taking Thanksgiving to hungry

When you're hungry, a gift of food is priceless.

So members of Madonna College's Social Work Association are taking 15 turkeys for a Thanksgiving Day feast to the hungry and unemployed who live near St. Peter Episcopal Church in inner-city Detroit.

And they are doing it up brown both the gesture and the turkeys.

Early Thursday morning, while their families still slept, the students will pack their cars with turkeys, roasted and complete with dressing and homemade pies to the volunteer-run soup kitchen in the church at Michigan and Trumbull. There will be enough to feed 100 people.

WHY ALL THIS extra work on a day known for relaxation?

"Students who visited the kitchen doing field work were struck by the dire needs of the kitchen's clients and were impressed by the young women who organize and run it on a daily basis," explained association president Kathy Carter, a senior social work major from Milford.

"The kitchen immediately came to mind when we were considering a community project for Thanksgiving."

The Soup Kitchen feeds hundreds of Cass Corridor area residents everyday and, said Social Work Association advisor Dee Thornberry, who is an assistant professor at Madonna, "many more are expected this Thanksgiving because of the high unemployment in De-

IN PAST YEARS, members of the association have worked at the kitchen on Thanksgiving Day but, said Thornberry, this is the first year the students havve brought down food all cooked and prepared. The project was coordinated by Carter and fellow social work student Huguette Rairigh, a junior from Novi.

The club is an outgrowth of the undergraduate degree program in social work at Madonna College. Students at the liberal arts college may earn an associate or bachelor degree in the fouryear program.

Bagpipes Sunday

The sound of Scottish bagpipes will fill Plymouth's First United Presbyterian Church, 701 Church, on Sunday, Nov. 29, as the church observes the day of the patron saint of Scotland, St. Andrew.

During both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services, communion will be observed in the Scottish manner. Those attending the two services are encouraged to wear tartans and plaids. A group of Scottish dancers from Alma College will perform during coffee hour following the 11 a.m. service.

The Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee will preach on the theme "How Free Is a Presbyterian Pulpit?".

In a special 7:30 p.m. service Thanksgiving eve, Faith Lutheran Church, 30000 Five Mile Road, Livonia, will celebrate a Holy Eucharist. The evening will feature hymns of Isaac Watts, which include "O, God, Our Help in Ages Past," "From All That Dwells Below the Skies" and "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross.

A Thanksgiving eve service joining two Westland Lutheran congregations, Holy Cross and Prince of Peace, will feature a multi-media presentation entitled "Day By Day." The presentation, based on the life of Jesus Christ, will be given at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Prince of Peace, 37775 Palm-

Thanksgiving eve services will also be held at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 25 at Newburg United Methodist Church, 36500 Ann Arbor Trail,

Two Thanksgiving Day services, featuring a 150-voice choir singing "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" with brass accompaniment, will be held at Ward Presbyterian Church, 17000 Farmington Road, Livo-

The services, held at 9 and 11 a.m., willbe televised at 7 p.m. on Thanksgiving Day over channel 62.

Dr. Bartlett L. Hess, pastor, will preach on "Our Daily Bread." Nursery care will be provided for preschool children during both

First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1100 Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, plans an hour long Thanksgiving service beginning at 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

In addition to readings and the presentation of the president's Thanksgiving proclamation, there will be silent prayer, sharin. of the Lord's Prayer, hymns and spontaneous expressions of gratitude.

Christ Our Savior marks 5 years

Dr. Paul Maier, lecturer, author, chaplain and professor of ancient history at Western Michigan University, will be the guest speaker as Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church of Livonia marks its fifth anniversary Sunday, Nov. 29.

The visitor will preach at the 8 and 10:30 a.m. services at the Missouri Synod church at 14175 Farmington Road.

Also included in the celebration will be the 3 p.m. ordination of Steven Eggers son of Gerald and Mary Lou Eggers of Livonia.

A banquet open to members and friends will be held at 5:30 p.m. in Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 30650 Six Mile, Livonia.

DR. MAIER is a graduate of Harvard University and St. Louis' Concordia Seminary. Awarded a Fulbright scholarship, he pursued graduate studies at the University of Heidelberg.

The biography he wrote of his late father, Dr. Walter Maier, founder of "The Lutheran Hour" radio program, is in its 10th printing.

Since 1968 he has published five books. He lectures widely and in October appeared locally on J. P. McCarthy's radio program "Focus."

EGGERS, who was born in Marshaltown, Iowa, on Jan. 18, 1955, attended Livonia public schools and was graduated from Stevenson High School in 1974.

After graduating from Ann Arbor's Concordia College in 1978, he entered Concordia Seminary in St. Louis. He earned his master of divinity degree in 1981, after completing a year's vicarage at St. Paul Lutheran Church, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan.

Married to the former Sandra Gosciniak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gosciniak of Livonia, he will be installed as pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, Shellsburg, Iowa on Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church began in 1976 with 100 members and now has a current membership of more than 700. Meeting at first in a school and later in a funeral home, the congregation built its present sanctuary three years ago. The Rev. Ralph G. Schmidt is pastor.

The public is invited to both the Sunday morning anniversary services and the ordination service.

'Faith-view' needed in our vision

I started wearing bifocals a year and a half ago. I decided it was easier to wear bifocals than to carry single-lens glasses in my pocket and keep putting them on and taking them off. I'm very satisfied with my bifocals, but I had to learn how to wear them. Reading book titles on a bookshelf or in a library still gives me some pain in the neck, and after missing a few steps because of smudges on my glasses. I am remembering to clean them at least once a day.

Perhaps that is what we need to do in our celebration of Thanksgiving Day. To deliberately and intentionally incorporate a faith-view in our practice of Thanksgiving Day that lifts it above our limited nationalistic experience.

The persistence of the Thanksgiving experience surely attests to a basic desire to respond to life's graces. If we had not ascribed it to the Pilgrims, we would have found someone else. We are responding to a deeper human need in our Thanksgiving celebration than merely continuing an old time-honored custom. WE NEED TO BE, therefore, ever more sensitive to basic human needs and recognize God's judgments as well as God's blessings in our Thanksgiving celebration. We need to acknowledge deliberately, and intentionally, what our blessings have extracted from the providence of God.

The surplus of foodstuffs in our land, the extravagant and lavish lifestyles and the sheer magnitude of our creature comforts far exceed our legitimate needs. We enjoy them all at the same time that countless others barely maintain their breath of life.

THE THANKSGIVING Day of our national experience is rooted in our history. We have turned it into an affirmation of our own self-worth, a testimony to our creativity and resourcefulness. We know how to take charge and make things happen, and on Thanksgiving Day we pay our PLACING OUR individual and collective experience under the judgments of God would not be completely out of our character. It would be our willingness to stand with integrity and honesty before God and pledge our resources for the universal experience of love and mercy that we have known.

There's enough greed and avarice and everything else selfish and divisive within. each one of us to keep us from making Thanksgiving our day of judgment.

But with a little more effort we can make our extragavant use of God's providence an occasion of judgment even as we have made our experience of God's providence an occasion of Thanksgiving.

The French don't stop the trains, they speed 'em up

Wheels a'rolling but less and less are keeping track

Shirley Dow Marthey of Bloomfield Hills, a regular traveler to Paris, reports on the new French supertrain elsewhere on this page. So while your minds are on trains, I would like to tell you what else is going on in railroading these days.

You can buy a Eurailpass through any travel agent, who will ask you to wait about two weeks for its delivery from Chicago. If you don't want to wait, Imacom Travel, 30161 Southfield Road in Southfield, keeps the passes on hand for immediate issue.

According to Diana Deluca Socha of Farmington Hills, who is manager of Imacom, this is an exclusive service in the Detroit metropolitan area, because of an arrangement made with Eurailpass. Other agents could probably do it as well if they were willing to struggle through the

As far as I know, we are the only agents in Michigan that offer this service," Socha said

AMTRAK ADDED some new services and discontinued others as a result of cutbacks made by Congress in October. The Washington-Pittsburgh-Chicago train, called the Capitol Limited, saves 90 minutes by being rerouted through Cumberland, Md. The train merges with the New York to Chicago line at Pittsburg.

The Chicago-Texas run, now called the Eagle, lost the San Antonio-Laredo and the Temple-Houston legs of its tri-weekly run, but added new through cars to New Mexico, Arizona and California.

The Chicago-Seattle Empire Builder runs daily now between Chicago and St. Paul, with tri-weekly service going west from there: the train splits at Spokane to go either to Seattle or Portland.

Discontinued trains include: the Seattle-Vancouver Pacific International; Washington D.C.-Cincinnati Shenandoah; Boston-New Haven Beacon Hill; Saturday and Sunday service on the Washington Martinsburg, Va., Blue Ridge and two of the four daily round trips between Chicago and Milwaukee.

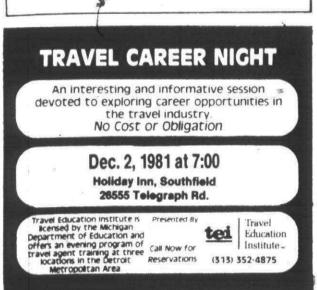

ALSO MARKED for elimination: Chicago-Dubuque Black Hawk; Chicago-Peoria Prairie Marksman; three of the weekday Metroliner round trips from Washington to New York; one New York-Boston round trip daily; and five of 13 daily New Haven-Springfield trips.

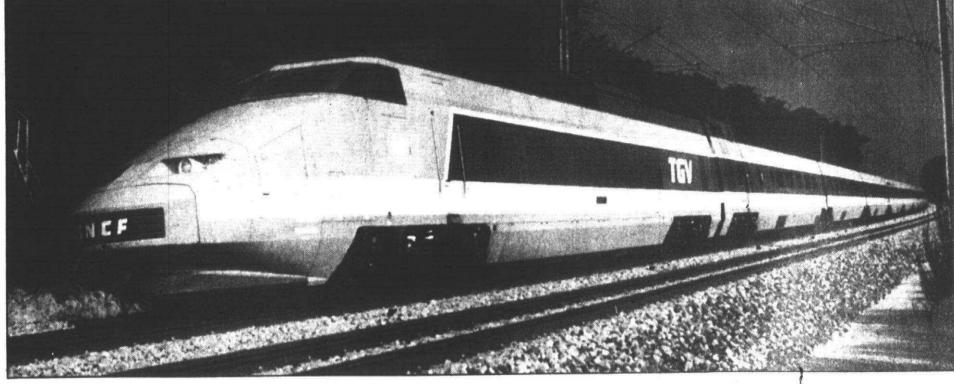

The Chicago-related routes are particularly important to Detroit-area travelers, since our Amtrak routes were long ago reduced to Detroit-Chicago runs.

Amtrak offered an unusual rail/ motorhome package to New England during the fall color season, and will offer other interesting combinations to keep your

Through Dec. 27, for example, an Amtrak ticket stub or receipt will get you two nights in a Chicago hotel for the price of one, plus a free bottle of champagne. PARIS - To the farmer watching as it speeds past, the Train a Grande Vitesse (TGV) is an orange streak against distant green hills. To the travelers aboard it, France's ultra-swift new train is a smooth, quiet and pleasant ride from Paris through the southeast corridor of France.

The TGV, the fastest passenger train in the world, was launched between Paris and Lyon this fall by the Societe Nationale des Chemins de Fer Francais (SNCF), or the French National Railroads.

It travels at 260 km, or 162.5 mph, on 18 daily runs along the Paris-Southeast line. The supertrain reached record speeds of 380 km, or 237.5 mph on trial runs last February, passing the world record set by another French train in 1955.

The Train a Grande Vitesse - train of great speed — is expected to set standards for future rail travel because of its harmonious combination of rolling stock, track and electric traction installations:

The train is so new that the SNCF clerk at the rail station nearest my Paris hotel knew almost nothing about it. I encountered a much different attitude at the train's home station, the Gare de Lyon, at 7:30 the next morning, 45 minutes before the third run of the day to Lyon.

There the SNCF personnel were both knowledgeable and helpful. They made my reservation on the spot, at a computer terminal near the gate, after first explaining that I could save a supplemental fare by waiting an hour for the next departure.

First class fare is $45 one-way, three seats across; second class is $30, four seats across, in a seating arrangement similar to an airplane. There is a $10 and $6 supplement, respectively, for traveling at peak times.

Reservations are made for meals served at your seat: breakfast, a plate of the day or grilled meats for lunch, a set menu for dinner. There is also a stand up bar car for snacks and a walking waiter to take your order.

The trains run from 6:15 a.m. to 9:15 p.m. daily. In addition, there are two trains each day for Macon/Geneva and three for Dijon, one of which continues on to Besancon.

A SEAT reservation is required. However, the SNCF has made it easy for the traveler to book ahead or, as I did, just prior to departure. One may purchase a ticket and make a seat reservation by mail six months before departure, at the station or through a travel agent within two months, or by telephone to the station within nine days.

The SNCF has also provided a Reservation Rapide computer terminal on the platform alongside the TGV, where the last-minute traveler may determine his own seat assignment. This service, appropriately termed the "derniere minute," literally last minute, is free, whereas an advance reservation entails an eight-franc charge (approximate-

The high-tech spirit of the Reservation Rapide is repeated in the large digital clocks that stretch overhead on the platform flicking off in neon numbers the minutes and seconds until departure time.

The mounting excitement as the travelers hurry along the platform take one back to the days when the departure of the Chief or the Twentieth Century Limited created an electricity of anticipation in America that airplane travel has never matched.

THIRTY SECONDS after our scheduled departure time, the TGV eased quietly and smoothly into motion. By the time it passed Vergigny, we were settled into an ambience conducive to relaxation or work, hardly aware we were traveling at more than 200 km, or 120 mph.

The train's route takes it through some of the loveliest areas of France, a region of rolling hills and fields of pale greens broken only here and there by a copse of darker green trees.

This is Burgundy, the region of Chablis, Pouilly, Fuisse, Saint-Amour, and Julienas.

It is also the home of the cream-colored Charolaise cattle which provide the best beef of the French cuisine.

BECAUSE OF the great speed of the electrically powered train, the TGV does not go through cities nor come close to villages. The right-of-way is like an expressway, so there are no tunnels, no level crossings, and no use of conventional signals along the tracks.

Information is transmitted through track circuits, picked up by sensors in the power cars, and displayed in the driver's cab. Radio-telephone equipment enables the driver to stay in constant communication with the central traffic-control station. A combination of three types of brakes allow the train to slow smoothly from its top speed to a complete stop in 1.9 miles.

The train runs non-stop to the Lyon-Brotteaux station, reaching it two hours and 40 minutes after leaving Paris, a trip that used to take three hours and 50 minutes. Ten minutes later, we arrive at its terminal point at the Perrache station in Lyon.

Currently, only the southern portion - more than half — of the new system is complete. When construction is completed in 1983, the time to Lyon will be shortened to a flat two hours, and the distance will be cut by 56 miles. The new line will cover 244 miles.

By 1983, when the TGV will go beyond Lyon to the south of France, it will be possible for the tourist to spend the morning sightseeing in Paris and the afternoon skiing in the Alps.

MEANWHILE, the new train has brought Lyon, the country's third largest city and the culinary center of France, within easy reach of the business or pleasure traveler in Paris.

For information or reservations on the TGV contact French National Railroads, 11 E. Adams, Chicago, Ill., 60603. Both Eurailpass and France Vacance pass are accepted on this train.

The Train a Grande Vitesse is expected to set standards for future rail travel because of its combination of rolling stock, track and electric traction installations. It travels at 260 km, or 162.5 mph, on 18 daily runs along the Paris-Southeast line. Record speeds of 380 km, or 237.5 mph were reached on trial runs last February. 6

When construction of the TGV is completed in 1983, the time between Paris and Lyon will be shortened to a flat two hours and the distance cut by 56 miles. Routes will be extended beyond Lyon to the south of France and it will be possible for the tourist to spend the morning sightseeing in Paris and the afternoon skiing in the Alps.

By Brad Emons staff writer

Plymouth Salem insured a trip to the regional girls' basketball tourney for the third straight year with a hardfought 52-47 victory last night over Ann Arbor Huron in the Class A district final at Canton.

The Rocks withstood a Huron rally in the fourth quarter to post their 19th victory of the season in 22 tries.

"It's a great victory for our girls," said Salem coach Bob Blohm, who always seems to get his team primed for the tournament. "They deserved it. They've put a lot of time and effort this year. I'm really pleased for our team to be back in the regional.

"They hung in there tonight. We've got a gutty group of kids."

The victory avenged a two-point loss to the River Rats earlier in the season.

"Ann Arbor Huron gave us a great challenge," added Blohm, "We had a chance to blow them out, but they came back and played hard."

Salem, which destroyed a good Plymouth Canton team Saturday to reach the final, continued their stellar play for three quarters against Huron.

THE ROCKS controlled the tempo lead as senior Eileen Moore scored six

Salem increased that margin to 12 at halftime, 28-16, as sharpshooters Carol Ross and Jan MacKenzie combined for eight second-quarter points.

A basket by MacKenzie with 1:29 left in the third quarter gave Salem its biggest lead of the night, 38-24.

Huron, however, scored five unanswered points to close the gap to nine, 38-29, entering the final quarter.

The River Rats applied full-court pressure in the fourth quarter and narrowed the gap to four points with 5:19 left on Felicia Mullice's second straight

Mullice, on the verge of getting cranked up, fouled out only 14 seconds

Pam McBride's shot, which hung on the rim and fell through, increased the Rocks' lead back to six, 43-37, with 4:53

HURON was unable to get any closer than four points as Salem executed its semi-delay game.

Jacque Merrifield hit four straight free throws and Moore added two down the stretch to put the game away.

"Any time you come off a big win (Canton)," said Blohm, "it's tough to early and built a 16-10 first-quarter come back and play that well again. Our kids were tired after the Canton game."

Moore, who seems to save her best games for tournament time, led all scorers with 16 points. MacKenzie had 10, and Merrifield added eight.

Ja'Vette Starks paced Huron with 15 points, and Essie Smith chipped in with 14, six coming in the final quarter. Center Sharlene Deskins had 10 points and 11 rebounds

"I thought we really had some good perimeter shots," said Blohm, who has 89 victories since he started at Salem four years ago. "In the second half, I thought sometimes we got in too big of a hurry. But when we get a lead we like to use the clock. And if there's time on the clock, our kids will play."

Joe

Joe Taylor is a teaching tennis professional at the Livonia Athletic Club in Livonia (formerly Western Racquet Club) and Centaur Racquet Club in West Bloomfield. He is a member of the United States Tennis Assocation (USTA) and will of fer tips on the basic strokes anu strategies of tennis.

The volley is defined as any ball struck in the air. It is used primarily between the service line and the net. It should be used as an offensive shot.

It can be a relatively easy shot if you keep things simple.

The difficulty arises when a player adds too much swing to the stroke, either too much backswing or a wristy followthrough. The volley should be a short, aggressive stroke.

Remember, your time is limited at the net to almost half the time you would normally have at the baseline.

A large backswing is a sure sign of If someone threw a ball at you, your first reaction would be to extend your arm and hand forward to catch it.

The same is true with the volley. You must first think forward and meet the ball in front of the body.

all that is needed before driving for-The wrist on the volley should be kept firm. Try supplying the power from stepping forward with a fixed

A SLIGHT TURN of the shoulders is wrist, not slapping at the volley with a loose wrist. Most players players who use a twohanded backhand grip on groundstrokes will get more power using both hands for the volley even though reach is limited. If you use a continental grip and have ample power on both sides, stay with it. I usually find one side is weaker than the other. If this is the case, start switching grips between the forehand and backhand volley. It is a misconception there is no time to switch grips. It has to be done repeatedly so it becomes a reflex action.

MOST ERRORS off the volley go into the net, especially off the low shots. If you find yourself in this category, make sure to lead slightly with the racket handle, not the racket head. Bend your knees for a low volley, not the waist. The racket head should always be above wrist level. The racket face should be open for low volleys. It should also be open for long-reaching

In addition, make sure you're not running through the volley.

Confidence at the net is a must. It creates aggressiveness. Lack of confidence creates tentativeness and usually results in stepping back for a volley instead of the necessary forward motion.

To acquire confidence at the net, force yourself to practice the shot as you would a normal stroke from the baseline. The only way to get over your anxiety at the net is to practice it, letting your partner drill balls at you.

My pupils are constantly telling me that when they come up to the net, they get either passed on both sides or lobbed for winners.

Try to read your opponent's return. If the racquet opens up, be ready for a lob. Don't stand cement-footed; be on your toes at all times.

Remember, keep your racket head up on the volley. Step forward into volley — left foot forward on the forehand (for a righthander) and right foot up on the backhand. The step is opposite for lefthanders. Bend with the knees, keep the wrist firm and most of all, volley aggressively with confidence.

Canton's Wolfram wins 7-mile race

Family Y Run draws crowd

From 4-year-old Jean Roy to 74year-old James Ramsey, runners of all ages turned out recently for the third annual Hines Park "Run for Youth" event, sponsored by the Livonia Family

Y and 7-up distributers. Some 500 runners participated in three different races, which winded through the scenic route along Hines Drive. Proceeds from the run went to "Invest-In Youth," an organization which provides programs for handicapped and underprivileged young-

Beginning runners competed in the one-mile "Fun Run." Advanced runners races, earning honors in the following age divisions (male and female): 17 years and under, 18-23, 24-29, 30-34, 40-49, and 50 and over.

THE OVERALL winner in the threemile event was Pete Rosser, who recorded a first place time of 15:08.1. He was followed by Jeff Bristow (15:38.1) and Rex Perrine (16:17.8).

On the momen's side, Colleen Lee crossed the finish line first in 19:22.2. She was followed by Jenny Duckworth (21:12.4) and Rachelle Simons (21:13.4).

Canton's Gary Wolfram, who finished 199th in last spring's Boston Marathon, led the field in the seven-Peruski was second (39:38.8) and Tony Pauza third (40:14.0).

DONNA THIBERT was first on the women's side with a time of 44:35.2. Aimee Snively was second (45:36.4) and Pamela Lotdell third (47:20.4).

Age group winners in the men's three-mile race included Dave Ciaverella, 17 and under; Bristow, 18-23; Steven Miller, 24-29; George Blom, 30-34; Richard Brown, 35-39; Perrine, 40-49, and Charlie Weimer, 50 and over.

Duckworth, who was second overall in the women's three mile race, won the 17 and under age division. Other first places went to Angela May, 18-23; entered the three- and seven-mile road mile run with a clr king of 38.18.1. Len Mary Wade, 24-29; Carole McGunnen, Dean, 35-39, and Mary Lund, 40-49.

30-34; Maureen Augustine, 35-39; Janet Cherry, 40-49, and Marge Sayles, over

IN THE SEVEN-mile race, Wolfram, the overall winner, also topped the 30-34 year-old runners.

Other men's age group winners included Mark Anderson, 17 and under; Peruski, 18-23; Pauza, 24-29; Larry Strang, second, 30-34; Victor Sipes, 35-39; David Emery, 40-49, and Jack Hoskins, 50 and over.

Canton wrestlers gear up to defend crown

Steve Hamblin veteran grappler By Brad Emons staff writer

It's easy to pin down coach Dan Chrenko about his upcoming wrestling team at Plymouth Canton.

"We look like a real solid team," he said. "We're more experienced. "Last year we knew we would have an exciting team, but we didn't have much experience."

Canton's matmen reached their goal last season, grabbing the Western Six League title for the first time in the school's history.

"Winning the championship last year made us realize that hard work will pay off," said the Canton coach.

Canton, however, faltered after winning the league crown. The Chiefs were surprised in their final dual meet by Livonia Stevenson and qualified just one wrestler for the regional.

"We matured well last year," Chrenko said. "Now we have to set our sights higher. We have more quality people. We should be a better tourney team."

CANTON is strong in the lower weight divisions once again.

Senior Steve Hamblin, an All-Observer choice at 145 pounds, returns to lead the Chiefs. He was second in the league last year and sported a record

"Steve was in a tough weight class last year," said Chrenko. "He lost to the kid from Belleville (Lonnie Renfroe), 8-6, in the districts, who went on to place second in the state. I think Steve should have a super year."

League champ Kevin Santilli has departed at 138, but another experienced senior, Brian Lee, will step into the slot. He was the Western Six champ at 132 last year and won 21 of 31 matches.

He could be back at 132. That depends on what senior Brett Haarala (25-17), a regional qualifier last year at

"Those two are both the same size and are good wrestlers," explained Chrenko. "They're both battling. They could interchange at the two spots."

Senior Kevin Decker (21-9) also returns for his second straight year on the varsity. He will wrestle at 126 along with three-year veteran Bob Parks, a junior.

Greg Everson and Craig Sirola each collected the hat trick Monday as Livonia Bentley drilled Milford Lakeland in a non-league hockey game 9-3.

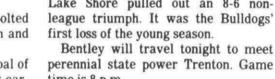

The Bulldogs, now 2-1 overall, got two first period goals from Bobby Jones, both unassisted. Jones' first score came just 10 seconds into the game, played at Edgar Arena.

In the second period, Bentley bolted out to a 6-2 advantage as Everson and Sirola each found the net twice.

Everson collected his seventh goal of the year and hat trick for the night early in the third period. Ken Schmidt followed with a shot from the blue line, his first goal of the year. Sirola then scored his third goal to close the Bent-

Rock swimmers ready

Chuck Olson, guru of swimming at Plymouth Salem, sees more improvement for his 1981-82 boys' team.

And if the Rocks, indeed, are better, it could be a banner year.

Olson who is still involved with the girls' swim season at Salem, has been able to evaluate his tankers in practice and the forecast is bright. And that means his team could jump up a notch or two in the Suburban Eight League.

"Realistically we have a shot at the league," he said. "I think we should have that much ability. I'd say we're in the top three - Trenton is up there, Dearborn and ourselves.'

Olson's biggest concern is depth.

"We're quite a bit smaller in numbers because of the ninth graders (back in the junior highs)," added the Salem coach. "It's the smallest team I've ever worked with. We have 24. Usually it's around 40. It's different."

THE SALEM COACH may not have much quantity, but he is certainly optimistic about the team's quality.

"I'm confident our seniors can do even better than last year," said Olson, whose team finished fourth last season in the league and posted a 9-2-1 overall dual meet mark. Senior tri-captains Russ Shaffer, Jeff Kleinsmith and Joe Rudelic have piled up enough points in the past to give Olson a comfortable feeling.

Shaffer, who has been a standout since his sophomore season, is "capable of swimming everything," according to Salem coach.

Kleinsmith will concentrate on the 100 butterfly and freestyle events. His brother, Doug, was one of five swimmers who graduated. Others moving elsewhere include Bruce Harwood, an All-Observer at-large choice last year, Gary Workman, Brian McAinich and Paul Perkowski.

Rudelic should reap higher honors this year in diving. He was also an All-Observer at-large pick after finishing third in the league.

OTHER SENIOR veterans include Paul Neschich, a valuable performer in the backstroke and individual medley, Scott Stinebaugh, Duncan Moshimer, Pat McMann and Jeff Walker.

Mark Roehrig, who swims all the strokes, joins veteran juniors Ashley Long and Tim Harwood.

"We have a few other upperclassmen out for the first time that could do real well," said Olson. "We're also looking for help from our sophomores."

The Rocks will open their 1981-82 season Tuesday, Dec. 8 at Redford Un-

Mixed Classic draws rave reviews

By W.W. Edgar staff writer

Friendly conversations with your neighbor on the back porch during a summer evening sometimes can lead to an unusual turn in a person's life.

It was such a chat that opened the way for Maureen Osiecki and Mary Ellen King to form a partnership and open what they have called the "Okay Village," a shop on Mill Street at Liberty in Plymouth that deals in used sporting goods, such as uniforms and even football shoulder pads and golf clubs.

"Each of us is married and has a family," Mrs. Osiecki said the other afternoon as the looked over a plentiful supply of stack, "and we got to chatting about our futures.

Bluegrass show proves a pleasure

Performances of the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford production of the musical "The Robber Bridegroom" continue at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, 2:30 p.m. Sunday and 8:30 p.m. Dec. 4-5 at the Theatre Guild Building, 15138 Beech Daly Road, just south of Five Mile Road, Redford. Tickets are $6. For reservations, call 522-1526.

By Dan Greenberg special writer

It is remarkable how much top-quality entertainment the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford is able to pack into its Beech-Daly Road Playhouse in Livonia.

Its current offering "The Robber Bridegroom" is a rip-roaring bluegrass musical. If you like bluegrass, musicals or good entertainment, "The Robber Bridegroom" will make your evening successful.

The high-energy cast, led by Steve Mattar's fine stage presence and Sandi Martin's lyric voice, performs with obvious enjoyment. Its enthusiasm and high spirits, perfect for such a show, quickly spreads to the audience.

The guild does not have a very large area with which to work, but it certainly gets 110 percent from every inch and every performer. That sort of dediction is at the heart of exciting and entertaining community theater.

THE SET for "The Robber Bridegroom" is an attractively designed (by Bob Oris) and executed (by the company) multi-purpose setting. Its style communicates the appropriate bluegrass atmosphere, with wall-to-wall construction across the front of the auditorium highlighting the fine staging by James Posante, ably assisted by Clif

By continually rearranging planks and boxes, the basic setting serves as numerous locales. Combined with the great mobility and flexibility of the cast, it provides far more images than one would imagine possible in such a restricted space.

The set and staging open up the audience's view, as theater should, and carries the audience beyond the building's physical bounds.

The cast's flexibility in moving from role to role (person to tree to door to person, for example) almost instantaneously and very humorously underlies the show's comedy. Its broad caricature studies were well-drawn and great fun to watch, although ocasionally Pat Dorrian Sandbothe (Salome) was too broad and Ronald J., Otulakowski (Clement Musgrove) was not broad

Part of the problem may be that the guild is so small that some of the normal muting of action by distance that occurs in a full-sized theater does not happen here. Salome's makeup is another example of this, as its exaggerations bordered on the grotesque rather than the satiric.

Dick Purtan acts up in television special

Dick Purtan and his guest star Bill Kennedy rehearse for the comedy special to be seen Wednesday night on WDIV-TV, Channel 4.

By Ethel Simmons staff writer

F CKLW radio personality Dick Purtan "always thought I would be a lousy actor on radio or television," then how did he find himself doing a TV special?

Purtan, a resident of Bloomfield Township, will star on "The Dick Purtan Comedy Special" on WDIV-TV, Channel 4, at 9 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 2. His guest will be TV movie host Bill Kennedy and Purtan's six daughters.

In a recent phone interview after his morning radio show from CKLW, Purtan talked about the upcoming special. He said he was approached by WDIV to do a comedy show but quickly turned the idea down.

Six months later, he decided he would be stupid not to take advantage of the opportunity, and that's how this show was born.

PURTAN'S humor is the kind best described as "zany." To give you an idea, the show opens with Purtan playing Cadillac discovering Detroit. It's a real metro-Detroit kind of production, featuring locales that range from Belle Isle and the American Coney Island downtown to Tally Hall, the food center in Farmington Hills.

"Radio is the theater of the mind. You don't need all the props," Purtan said, pointing out the difference between working in radio and television. Purtan said he "did a modicum degree of acting," for the TV special. "I read lines on cue cards and ad libbed what was not on cue cards.

The entertainer, whose fans are legion, doesn't take himself - or his acting too seriously. "I just chuckle my way through life. Any acting called for was light-hearted comedy stuff," he

A song "Loving You Has Made Me Bananas" opens the show. "It's really a bizarre song," Purtan said.

HE LIP-SYNCS the lyrics, while singing and dancing, in the opening number as Cadillac. Purtan's/Cadillac's wardrobe includes a red scarf, a vital accessory that is found in the Later, in the coney island, Purtan is wearing an apron when he sings and dances with four waiters. At Tally Hall, he is in a white tuxedo to again sing about going bananas.

Purtan is joined in another number with his six daughters, also dressed in white tuxes.

The daughters, ranging in age from 6-20, perform with Purtan at the close of the show. "What my youngest daughter, Julie, does inadventently, we couldn't have planned," he said. "When five turn to the left, she turns to the

The other five are Jennifer, 20; Jackie, 18; Jill, 15, JoAnne, 12, and Jessica,

Purtan said he has one "son" — a pet Schnauzer

"The Dick Purtan Comedy Special" was produced by Tom'deLisle, who was also the head writer, and Henry Maldonado, executive producer. Tom Ryan of CKLW, who wrote the show along with deLisle and Purtan, is another program guest.

OTHER BILLING goes to The Ptirtan Players, who double as the Ferndale Philharmonic, and special guest star Mel Farr.

Bill Kennedy's role on the show is similar to his one as TV movie host. He appears showing movies to the Indians of Detroit's history Mel Farr, ex-football player who is seen in TV commercials, is east as the sponsor of the first TV commercial and the trappers back in the early days

Purtan said he's already engaged in discussions with WDIV to do another comedy special. But he said, "I'm definitely going to stick with radio It's my bread and butter. TV is famous for those firm, 13-week, no cut hand

Classic tale turns comic

The classic fairy tale "Sleeping Beauty" is given a comic twist in a special Christmas season production opening Dec. 5 at Henry Ford Museum Theater in Greenfield Village, Dearborn.

The children's play will be presented at 2 p.m. Dec. 5, 12, 19, 26-31, Jan. 2, 9 and 16. Tickets are $2. Special performances for school groups will be presented Dec. 7-11 and 15-16.

It pays to listen to WCXI Radio, Detroit's Best Country

On October 13th at 9:30 AM, Susan Gilman of Madison Heights won her first prize as a WCXI Radio "Country Lover," a gift certificate redeemable for the country music album of her choice at Harmony House. Susan also qualified to win a Caribbean cruise by calling Uncle Deano back after hearing her name on the air. On October 30th, at 8:30 AM, Susan won her second "Country Lover" prize, the Caribbean cruise. She and a guest will be travelling to Miami via Delta Air Lines, the airline run by professionals, boarding the elegant S.S. Doric and travelling to St. Thomas, Martinique, Barbados, St. Kitts and San Juan. All of Susan's transportation, food, beverage and entertainment are included! And the cruise entertainment is something special--country star Margo Smith will entertain nightly along with the dazzling country group, "Sunshine Express." A very special "Country Lover" prize for a special "Country Lover." Congratulations, Susan, enjoy your trip.

Susan Gilman is going to the Caribbean, Compliments of WCXI and Home Line Cruises, Inc.

Join Susan & Margo Smith on this "Country Lover" Caribbean Cruise

You could travel with Margo Smith for 10 days to 5 ports on the elegant S.S. Doric for only $1,44° per person sharing an outside cabin. Your cost from Detroit includes:

- Round trip airfare Detroit/Ft. Lauderdale/Detroit via Delta Air Lines
- Round trip transfers between airport & pier
- Outside cabins, two lower beds, private bathroom All meals on board,
- breakfast, luncheons,

dinners, midnight buffet, and snacks in between

- All port taxes
- All shipboard facilities and entertainment, including all shows, gaming rooms, decksports,

sauna & gym

Captain's cocktail party

This special cruise leaves Ft. Lauderdale November 29th. For more information contact Towne House Travel, 2314 Monroe, Dearborn, Michigan 48124 or call 565-3300.

rewards. Kate Dickens was expecting their fifth child. He was supporting indigent relatives and his father, the lovable spendthrift philosopher who was the inspiration for Wilkins Micawber in "David Copperfield." lecture covetous old sinner' grasping, clutching, By Don Freeman special writer squeezing, wrenching,

tour that brought

HARLES JOHN Huffam Dickens was a genius for all seasons, but his view of Christmas is a special legacy, and "A Christmas Carol" holds our enduring affection. It is a masterpiece in miniature, the one great Christmas ry WAS a terrible year for Dickens. He had borrowed heavily. He had taken a huge advance from his publishers with whom he was feuding.

And then, one day as he rode in a railway carriage to give a speech in Manchester, he was intrigued by the deepening shadowns that enveloped the countryside at dusk. He became fascinated by writing a ghost story. Returning to London and his study overlooking the brick-walled garden at Regent's Park, he gegan to write — slowly, painfully but with a curious sense of urgency.

He would act out each part as he gestured in front of the gilt-edged mirror. First he would capmyth of modern literature.

Dickens was fond of mimicking all the voices in his Christmas parable, savoring in his stage readings the delicious absurdities of his robust characters.

ALL OF THIS came easily to Dickens, who was an actor at heart. Not simply because he conceived the characters — all of them, in some measure, were a part of him.

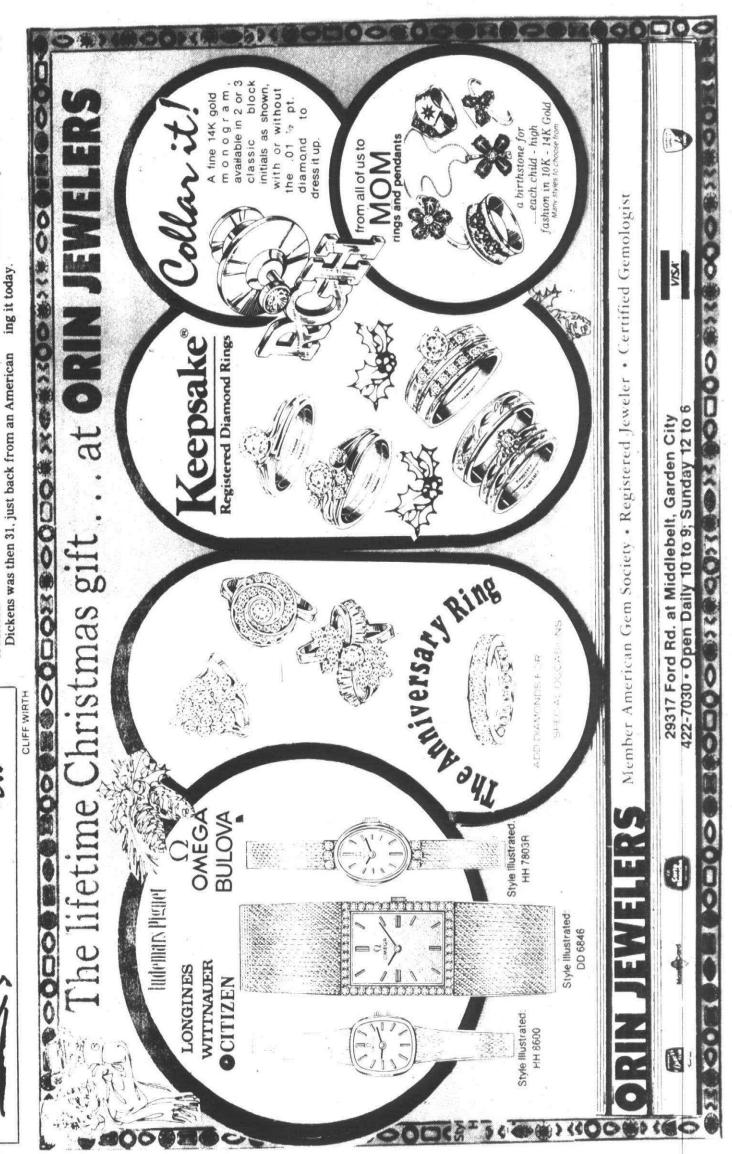

He was, beyond all else, Ebenezer Scrooge — "a squeezing, wrenching, grasping, clutching, covetous old sinner." Like Scrooge, Dickens was capable of great extremes. Pandhandlers found him a soft mark. Penniless actors sought him out on the London strets. But he was a tyrant over family budgets, and he created ugly scenes over the payment of hotel bills.

Surely, he was also Cratchit, the impoverished clerk, when he wrote "A Christmas Carol." He wrote it not to appease the muse but to satisfy his ture the precise expression that he sought in his character and then he would give it words in ink.

As he walked the streets of Old London, his author's keen eye plucked out the characters and settings for his story. Tiny Tim and his crutches and the grim tavern where Scrooge, in his miserliness, took his dinner.

Within a month, Dickens had finished "A Christmas Carol." And after 138 years, we are still enjoying it today.

the corner, it's time to dust off your camera and prepare to capture the joy of the season on film.

Whether you're the official family photographer or just breaking into your first roll of film, some advance planning can help pave the way for better photographic results.

That's the advice of Jack LaDuke, who's best known for overseeing the photographic coverage of the 1980 Olympic Games.

LaDuke says. The events leading up to Christmas, Hanukkah or winter solstice make good photo possibilities. The trimming of the tree, the wrapping of presents, the baking of specialty foods and winter scenes such as the building of snowmen make for subjects the family will want to remember.

LaDuke stresses the importance of having plenty of film on hand. He recommends a medium-speed film such as Kodacolor II, which has a speed of ASA 100, ideal for both indoor and out-"IT'S PROBABLY not too late to

By using the flash, you can be sure there is plenty of light available for your pictures." pher to study the surroundings. Windows and mirrors can ruin your pictures if the flash is aimed directly at either. It's always best to aim the flash at a reflective surface on an angle. The many reflections will not come back directly to the camera lens.

Not getting close enough to capture the expressions on happy faces is another mistake many photographerrs

"Instead of taking one step back, you should take two steps forward," LaDuke advises. "You should see your photography step forward in improvement as a result."

LaDuke also advises photographers to sit down before the holiday and preplan the pictures. Make a list of the picrtures you want to be sure to get, such as those of the kids with their gifts. Then tape this list to the back of the camera.

This practically insures you will get all the pictures you want. Otherwise, you might forget in the excitement of the moment.

THE HOLIDAY dinner offers a variety of photographic possibilities. Try to keep the picture as simple as possible because putting too much in one photograph makes it look cluttered and not as interesting," LaDuke says.

The trick is to take several pictures, zero in on a single activity at a time and try to take the picture before the turkey is carved.

I'M WALKING, YES INDEED, I'M WALKING

A Christmas walk at your own house might last, oh, maybe five minutes. But at a house that has 100 rooms? Now that's a different story. The 1981 Christmas Walk at Meadow Brook Hall, which has about 100 rooms, give or take a broom closet, will take place daily, Dec. 2-7.

Some of Michigan's finest floral artists have created Christmas decorations for the mansion. Rooms will be filled with collectors' exhibits and oneof-a-kind displays. Santa Claus will return for his annual stay at Knole Cottage, a child's mansion adjacent to the real thing. And the Carriage House will food and beverages. Even without his costume, Charlie looked like Santa Claus, and although I no longer believe in Santa, I still looked forward to his visits every Christmas Eve. I would like to nominate Charlie Ostrom as the world's best Santa Claus. My other memories of Christmas e center on food. Family traditions especially holiday traditions — of revolve around meals. Christmas-cut out round sections of dough using the rim of an old aluminum measuring cup, I would place a small amount of the filling on top of one of the cutouts, and brother Tom and sister Peggy would place another cutout piece of dough on top and press the two pieces of dough together around the edges with a fork (be careful not to puncture the dough). It sure was great fun.

Making the ravioli is a part of the tradition I miss now that I live away Mom would make the dough and fill-ing, the dough into thin sheets, dad would the dough into thin sheets, dad would the ravioli when I was younger. It was an all-day family affair Mom would make the

• CONCEPTUALIZING
CHRISTMAS IN A 19TH
CENTURY TIME FRAME
Greenfield Village/Henry Ford Museum is trying a different approach to Christmas this year. The Village will "focus in depth on how the development of industrialization in America gradually affected the evolution of the American Christmas celebration." If that sounds like a doctoral thesis, be reminded that it in actuality means such things as an 1870s rural family Christmas, a demonstration of fireplace cooking, an exhibit of Thomas Nast Christmas drawings and a recreation of the New Year's Eve 1879 demonstration of Thomas Edison's electric light. And visting choral groups still will sing carols, and sleighs will be jingling their bells, weather permitting.

pave the way to success. Pre-party planning can

By Pat Phillips special writer

Whether you're thinking of an inti-mate gathering for four or an extrava-ganza for 400, pre-party planning can pave the way to guarantee your event

Here are some tips on party etis a success.

• Get your party off on the right foot. Replace the casual telephone invitation with the thoughtfulness of a written, mailed version. They're fun to create and fun to receive.

• Size up your party room. Consider the size of your room relative to the size of your guest list. It's always better to fill the room with too many people rather than too few, but know your • Engage sufficient, competent staff. As a general rule of thumb, hire a bartender for a party of 16 or more and a caterer when guests number more than 25. A caterer can help you plan a menu, saving you aggravation and imitations.

You'll have more time for your guests and not be faced with cleanup doing the food preparation yourself, fix food ahead and refrigerate. Just warm dishes when guests arrive.

• You are the cruise director. Check continuously on the pleasure and welfare of your guests. Be sure there is plenty of ice and plenty of conversation. When introducing guests, mention more than names — try to find a common bond between them. And you needn't adhere to the old rule of inviting the same number of men and women. After all, you're entertaining, not running a dating service.

• Map out your party. Create a traffic pattern for bar and food. Locate the bar away from the food to avoid congestion and encourage movement • Take proper care of drinks. Use fresh glasses for each round. A drop or two of the stale drink can spoil the flavor of the new one. Fresh ice is a must. and mingling.

or taped music bolsters the party atmosphere. Adequate parking and seating are necessities. Use plenty of candles — their effect helps disperse cigarette smoke in a room. Refrigerate your candles before using — they will cubes, sprinkle them with lukewarm water. Or serve packaged ice — it's free of chemicals, impurities and air bubbles. ## holidays serve us, people often serve the holidays. Instead of letting the

By Renee Quirk-Haas special writer

Christmas as a religious celebration and time for family togetherness, for others it has become a month-long headache.

The latter are overwhelmed by the thought of spending long hours fighting for their lives in crowded shopping centers, paying astronomical prices for presents their children will destroy or tire of the day after Christmas, suffering cramped fingers after addressing scores of Christmas cards and planning parties with food and drink for 50-plus

The secrets to avoiding this kind of holiday overload are recognizing your limits, planning ahead, sharing responsibilities and doing only what you feel comfortable doing — not what you think you should do, therapists say.

"I SEE THE holidays as symbols," said Ed Harmon, who directs seminars on self-esteem and stress management. "Maybe one day the human race will be able to fully enjoy every day, but until then, the holidays can serve to help us

"But instead of letting the holidays serve us, people often serve the holidays. They get trapped in the structure and don't see the holidays as an opportunity to be grateful for what life has to focus on impressing others with extravagant parties and presents, rather than setting their own standards for the holi-Harmón said many people's holiday days.

"If you have a real sense of your own worth, you don't have to impress others to gain acceptance. And if you really feel good about yourself, you can share those good feelings with others, which is what the holidays are all about," he said.

Then you can buy someone a present because you care for him, not because he spent so much on you last year and you can send Christmas cards in order to share and communicate with your friends, not out of obligation."

scious choices about activities he undertakes, Harmon said. Then, even if a task is vaguely unpleasant, he knows he chose to do it and wasn't pressured into

When people only do something because they think it's expected, they end up feeling resentful and seeing the holiday as a burden, Harmon said.

"We really don't have to do anything and if we choose to do something rather than face the consequences, that was a choice on our part," he noted.

Women are often under the most pressure around the holidays since the season is family-oriented and women are generally seen as being in charge of family activities, said Jonelle Jerram, director of a women's center in director of a Orange, Calif.

"There is the pressure to perform and the accompanying fear of failure to deal with, such as with the wife who's entertaining her husband's business associates or the one who's expecting her mother-in-law to come over and give everthing the white-glove treatment," Jerman said. to come over

"When you're trying to live up to other people's expectations, your self-esteem can take a nose dive if everything isn't right.

"Women are often afraid to assert themselves and tell others what their needs are," Jerram said.

"But to really enjoy the holidays, a woman must be able to tell her husband that she's operating on overload, that she needs help or that they'll have to cut the number of party guests from 40 to 20.

won't be too brushy. After all danger of frost is past in the late spring, sink the pot to its rim outdoors with morning sun only, and keep watered and fed trough the summer.

And here is where the crunch comes in the culture of the poinsettia: the process of bringing it indoors in the fall.

It is absolutely essential that the plant receives up to 12-14 hours of unbroken darkness every night, starting the first to second week of October. Now repot your freshly pruned poin-settia into fresh soil, water lightly and place in a sunny but cool window and when new shoots sprout from the stubs,

WHEN YOUR household gets back to normal following the festive season, place your poinsettia in a sunny window but make certain it dosen't suffer temperatures lower than 62 degrees by night nor higher than 72 degrees by ments in its new home without going into any detail on its year-round care, particularly with respect to bringing it back into bloom for next Christmas.

If you can't be certain it won't be too chilly at night, then move your plant back into the room. Similarly, use warm tap water to moisten the soil thoroughly, but only when the soil feels dry to the touch.

When the colored bracts start falling, sometime in the next six weeks or so, don't fret; this is the plant's natural resting period and a very crucial time for as caring for it. It should be moved

Your poinsettia will need lots of sunshine during the day but it must have the Dracula treatment after the sun sets — keep it in a room where no lights are turned on even momentarily, because this would create an artificially long day and would delay blooming.

Given this careful tending and given freedom from pest infestations or other adverse conditions, your poinsettia should give you the same amount of pleasure next Christmas it did this

Once again, the Christmas mail crunch is upon us.

THE RULE of thumb for mailing

• Use strong cardboard boxes (the kind with reinforced ridges built into the sides) and sufficient packaging. Either wadded up newspaper or popcorn is ideal for packaging. (Padded envelopes, various boxes and tape for mailing are available at local stores and post office branches.)

• To help speed processing and avoid problems, place both the address you are mailing to and the return address on the same side — and on one side only. The postage will go or that side, too. If you place your address and return address on several sides, you will increase the probability that a postal clerk will see an address without postage and return it "postage due."

• Before sealing a package, be sure to enclose the address and return ad-dress; sometimes both are destroyed outside the package during processing.

mas celebrations where candy plays a starring role is Mexico's Posadas, a nine-day festival in memory of Joseph and Mary's search for lodgings in Bethmoment centers around a large, fragile clay container — a pinata — which is hung by a long rope from the ceiling. Covered or decorated with papier-On each of the nine nights, mache and streamers, the pinata can be almost any shape — a boat, a doll, a plane — and can be made entirely of papier-mache. Naturally, youngsters know it is full of candies and other treats. And they line up happily to be blindfolded, spun around and sent flailing, stick in hand, trying to hit the pinata and break it. The littlest child is invariably steered to the pinata and "allowed" the honor of breaking it.

The sound of the pinata cracking is a signal for all to start scrambling for the treasures that spill to the floor.

It's one of the most delightful celebrations imaginable, and popular in North America as the highlight of any party that includes young children.
