Roller rink party delayed

By Dennis O'Connor staff writer

The grand-opening party for Skatin' Station, the new roller rink in the Plymouth-Canton community, is postponed to Sunday, Dec. 13. It originally was scheduled for this Sunday night.

Some unexpected things happened around here so we postponed it one week," said Jan Olson, Skatin' Station assistant manager.

Ms. Olson would not elaborate on the "unexpected things."

"Oh, you can buff it for us, can't you?" Ms. Olson asked the Observer.

Woody Lynch, owner of the $1.25 million facility on Joy Road between Lilley and Haggerty, was out of town and unavailable for comment.

The party now is scheduled from 7 p.m. to midnight Dec. 13. There will be prizes, entertainment, food and open skating at the event. Tickets are $10

THE PARTY, as originally planned, will serve as a fund raiser for Plymouth and Canton area recreational programs. Skatin' Station will donate revenue up to $10,000 from this party to the city of Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth Township for recreational use.

Tickets for the event were not received by the Plymouth or Canton recreation offices until Monday afternoon, however. A Plymouth Township official said Tuesday the township office had not received tickets for the event, although a Skatin' Station spokeman had contacted Supervisor Maurice Breen about the ticket sale.

Plymouth Township does not have a recreation department, but tickets are expected to be sold at the township office, on Ann Arbor Road at Lilley.

MIKE GOUIN and Chuck Skene, the respective Canton and Plymouth recreation directors, both said they received the tickets on Monday. The date on the tickets was crossed out from Dec. 6 to

Gouin said he received "about 500" tickets. Skene's office reported 340

Gouin added it may be difficult to sell the tickets during the holiday sea-

"This time of the year - it's going to be tough to sell," he said.

Funds from the ticket sales will be donated based on the percentage sold by each agency, Lynch said two weeks

The Plymouth recreation department is at the Cultural Center on Farmer in Plymouth. Canton recreation department is in the basement of Canton Township Hall, on Canton Center Road south of Cherry Hill.

Gouin said he will contact officials from the Plymouth-Canton junior league sports teams - asking for support in selling tickets. He added that any Canton tickets sold by the junior sports teams would result in 100 percent revenue for the respective league.

Canton's Township Board of Trustees went into closed session Tuesday night to discuss possible revisions of the current mechanical amusement ordinance.

Doors close on video-game discussions

By Dennis O'Connor

The growing popularity of Space Invaders forced Canton's Board of Trustees to close the door on public discussion during Tuesday night's regular meeting.

Trustees met for more than two hours in closed session with township attorney C. Gerald Hemming to discuss possible revision on the current mechancial device ordinance.

Although no formal decisions were made, Hemming was instructed by the board to rewrite the ordinance. It may appear on next week's agenda for board discussion.

Recently, many persons have approached Canton's board requesting to open businesses that include many popular video-electronic

Recession sparks holiday depression

By Gary M. Cates

The holidays are traditionally a time for emotional highs and lows. Many celebrate the joys of the season, while others are left to the personal reflections of lost loved ones and the joys of seasons past.

The number of persons being caught in the depths of depression this holiday season has increased according to Plymouth-Canton area counselors.

"There's no question the community is experiencing lots of stress. I know from my own patient load it was difficult even for Thanksgiving," says Lillian Lerman, a family counselor who practices in Canton.

The holidays are peak periods of depression, according to the Mental Health Association in Michigan.

"Although a source of happiness for many, Christmas and New Year's are also times of reflection and self-evaluation. To the depression-prone person, this often means looking back with disappointment at supposed failure and looking ahead with fear," says James F. Kipfer, executive director of the association. "It seems that for this year we are seeing an increase in persons feeling a sense of loss around the holidays," says Diane Farber of Plymouth Family Ser-

"Some of that has to do with the economic realities added to the emotional feelings. The economic conditions have put the damper on the festivities," says

Farber believes in the past persons have put a larger emphasis on the commercial aspects of the holidays, rather than focusing on the spirit of the cele-

Persons experiencing a less joyful holiday season this year can improve their feelings with some of the suggestions from the Plymouth-Canton area

"The first thing we should do is to admit that this is a more difficult year. Then use that to become more creative in our celebrations," says Farber.

Being honest with someone about the different feelings brought on by the holidays can be a big lift, says Lerman.

Fumes kill father, son

A Westland father and his young son died early Sunday morning, apparently from carbon monoxide fumes which seeped into their car stuck in a ditch on Yost in Canton

A third occupant of the car, also apparently unconscious from the fumes, was pulled from the still-running car Sunday morning by Canton police and taken to Wayne County General Hospital in Westland.

Nancy Kennedy, 30, of Northgate in Westland, was released from the hospital Monday morning. Doctors were unable to revive her husband, James, 30, or their 3-year-old son, Wesley.

According to Canton police Lt. Larry Stewart, a Yost street resident saw and heard a car late Saturday night struggling to get out of a roadside ditch. But by the time the unidentified resident went to investigate, the occupants had left the car, Stewart said.

The following morning, the same resident went back to the car, found it running and found the three occupants unconscious, according to police.

car briefly after it became mired at a dead-end street but came back to the car after walking to a main road and seeing "nothing but open fields."

The car, a 1972 Buick, probably was turned off and on throughout the night to fight the cold weather and exhaust fumes seeped in through drainholes, Stewart said.

Area cider lovers keep on sipping

By Arlene Funke staff writer

The apple trees have given their all, and harvest season is over.

But local folks still have another month or so to sip freshly pressed cider and munch donuts at the Plymouth Orchard on Warren Road west of Na-

The small fry (accompanied by parents) get a wagon ride to the orchard, a visit with farm animals and a snack of warm donuts and cold cider.

The Plymouth Orchard, now in its second year of operation, comprises about 100 acres on which nine varieties of apple are grown, The Emmetts have expanded their reception building, which also houses the cider press.

By next spring, the Emmetts hope to have 9,500 dwarf apple trees in the orchard - tiny trees which yield fruit and are easy to maintain.

The plan began in 1976, when the Emmetts bought an old farm and began clearing the land and planting the dwarf trees.

"WE HAD lived on Napier - around the corner," explained Mrs. Emmett, 35, a former dental hygienist. She was busy raising three children, but, "I didn't want to sit in the house for the rest

ON A recent visit, orchard employee Gale Blechschmidt of Plymouth talked to a group of excited toddlers and their parents from the Wayne Cooperative Nursery in Garden City.

Mrs. Blechschmidt explained that the orchard uses the small trees, which grow to a height of six or seven feet. The shorter trees make it easier for workers to pick apples and trim branches.

"The trunk tells the tree how tall to grow." Mrs. Blechschmidt said. "The branches tell what kind of apples are grown.

Hilltop decision postponed

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

Another chapter was added to the Hilltop Golf Course story Tuesday night when a final decision on the leasing agreement again was postponed. However, the Plymouth Township Board of Trustee' Trustees' decision didn't come before a few sparks flew amid the discussion of the tentative agreement.

While the details of the agreement reached by attorneys representing the township and course manager John Jawor weren't revealed, several points of interest were discussed before the tabl-

The issue was set aside because the trustees hadn't yet received the details of the attorney's Trustee Joe West was assured by township attorney Charles Bokos that the proposed admendment to the contract would be given to board members prior to the Dec. 15 meeting. This signals a possible end to the debate surrounding the course management and revenues paid to the township. . Jawor won the bid for leasing Hilltop in 1979.

He offered the township 50 percent of the green fees revenue while guaranteeing a $35,000 yearly

THE ORIGINAL lease with Jawor was based on the former nine-hole status of the course

Since then, the course has expanded to 18 holes and experienced other interruptions caused by the construction of a sewer line and the loss of the clubhouse due to fire.

Subsequently, Jawor sued the township and among the provisions granted in an out-of-court settlement was an extension on his lease options until 1993.

With the course ready for 18-hole play next spring, the leasing contract is being amended to encompass the expansion. The board has been waiting to take action on the contract addition while the attorneys hammered out a potential

DISCUSSION of the contract admendment focused on questions involving revenues and the addition of golf carts to the course.

Trustee Lee Fidge questioned the practicality of continuing the $35,000 minimum when the course has doubled in size. She also questioned the verification used in determining the total green

"I think there should be a better accountability of the receipts, more than just the reports he gives the township," said Fidge. Fidge suggested a monthly account of the gross receipts. Township Supervisor Maurice Breen said that would involve changing the original Bokos conceded that the original contract "could have used stronger language" when outlining the accountability of revenues.

SOME BOARD members didn't agree with Fidge's desire to ask for a higher yearly minimum, claiming it was not needed since the township is guaranteed 50 percent of the green fees, if the course revenues exceed the minimum.

The township has budgeted $100,000 in anticipation of the 1982 golf revenues. Yet Breen asked Jawor, who was seated in the back of the audience, if he would concede raising the minimum to $75,000 at Fidge's request. It was at this point the sparks flew "If it would satisfy Mrs. Fidge's ego," Jawor said, in conceding to the $75,000 minimum re-Fidge replied she wasn't asking for the increase because of her ego, but because she felt there were problems with the contract dating back to when the board ratified it.

"I saw that the board had acted on an agreement which was already in effect," said Fidge.

A house fire on Fredricksburg in Canton totally destroyed an attached garage last Tuesday.

Canton Fire Marshal Art Winkel said firefighters answered a call at 2:46 p.m. on Nov. 24 at the home owned by Gary Stull, north of Palmer and east of Sheldon.

"The fire went right through the roof (of the garage) and caused a lot of damage to the outside of the home, but only slight damage to the inside," Winkel said.

No one was injured, but Winkel said the fire spread to part of a neighboring house on the east side.

Winkel said the cause of the fire was unknown, but it started beyond the north wall of the garage.

Canton resident enjoys hobby

Layoff leads to new golf shop

By W.W. EDGAR staff writer

When Jim Paul of Canton was laid off by American Airlines after 15 years as an aircraft mechanic he refused to join the vast army of the unemployed. Instead he took the "walking papers" as an opportunity to become his own boss and at the same time continue a hobby he had enjoyed for years. As a result he has opened the Golf

Shop at 875 Wing St., Plymouth, and spends his time repairing golf clubs no matter what condition they may be " I have played golf for more than 15 shelves in the back room of the shop, "and I always repaired my own clubs. "Then I became a member of the Godwin Glen club in the Michigan Public Links Association, and played in all years," he said while preparing new sections of the state. "The other golfers looked at the job I had done for myself and they soon trusted me with repairing their clubs, too. And playing around the state in the public links affairs gave me the exposure I needed. So being laid off wasn't so much of a jolt it would have been to many of the others."

As he began building the shelves he to the ancient game. confided that he had been repairing golf clubs for some time. He did it as a part-time job while working for the air-

With a smile he admitted that he couldn't put extra yards on your drive or straighten out any of your wild putts, but he could put your club back in the shape it was when it was purchased.

Looking at a cluster of clubs waiting his attention Paul said that of all the clubs being manufactured he preferred to work on the McGregor products.

"Many of the people with whom I play became dissatisfied with their drivers. When this happens they want them wrapped differently. Others want the club head changed. But there is always work of repairing clubs. So, I figured being laid off from my mechanic's job was just the chance I needed to go into business for myself."

Although only 37, he recalls that wooden shafted clubs used to be the vogue. Then, some years ago, the steel shaft was introduced and he was emphatic in saying that the steel shaft was the greatest thing that ever happened to golf equipment. He didn't mention the wedge which also has been a boon

At the moment he is making old clubs look like new — and there is a large number awaiting his attention, now that the golf season is about at an

Arcade discussion closed

"I have a rather strong, personal objection to going into closed session," Padget said. "I don't like to go into closed session unless I'm convinced in my own mind to do so.

"In this case, in my opinion, I didn't see a clear need to go into a private session to discuss it.'

Padget said, however, that certain items discussed in the closed session "certainly were related to potential litigation" concerning an ordinance revision.

BEFORE THE MEETING, Township Supervisor James Poole told the Observer the board must make clear, important decisions on this ordinance - especially concerning the age of video operators, when they should play on these machines and how many machines businesses can operate.

"If they let up to 10 machines in Canton (for each business), this will be the arcade of the midwest," Poole said. "I have a big problem with 10year-old kids playing in an arcade until 10 p.m. And you know any parent who lets his kid out at that time isn't waiting to pick him up.

"They don't let a 10-year-old play the slot machines in Vegas, but at least, there, they'd have a chance to get their money back. The only purpose these machines have is to take the kid's money.

Residents caught in holiday woes

"Talk with a good friend or family member about the sadness or feelings of loss."

Taking part in the traditional celebrations which aren't expensive is a positive step, Lerman says.

"Preparing holiday foods, going to religious services together or visiting persons who would appreciate the visit can lift spirits.'

Getting out with other persons can be a big help, according to Dr. Douglas McClennan, a Plymouth psychologist. "The people who are really the sadest are the scrooges. But as you set that aside and take part in the festivities, everyone benefits," says McClen-

The counselors also suggest persons should be sensitive to those feeling low

"People who aren't depressed should make invitations to those not partaking in the joys. We should make an effort to understand those who might not seem to be enjoying the celebrations," says Lerman.

Some of the indicators to look for, according to Farber, are persons who are isolated, withdrawn or not talking about holiday plans.

"Reach out to these people, so that everyone has an enjoyable holiday,' says Farber.

Mon.-Sat. 10-5

A court ruling against southeastern ecutives of the 96 suburban communi-Michigan suburbs in the longstanding dispute with the Detroit Water Board "definitely should be appealed," said Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara.

McNamara, who has fought since 1975 against rates charged 96 suburban communities which buy their water from Detroit, declared "we continue to regard the imposition of higher water rates for non-Detroit residents, who pay two-thirds of the total revenue for this vital service, as unnecessary, unfair and illegal."

He said he would convene a meeting in mid-December of all mayors and ex-

The ruling, according to McNamara. "overlooks the inherent injustice of a 35 percent rate increase amounting to $14 million per year voted by the four Detroit commissioners in 1975. At that time, the water budget showed a $15 million surplus, and a balanced budget was passed by the board without the necessity of a rate increase."

McNAMARA WAS the Wayne County suburban representative on the Water Board until he was fired on Oct. 2, 1975 by Mayor Coleman Young for Afterwards, McNamara enlisted the support of more than 90 suburban communities to file a class-action suit challenging Detroit's action in establishing water rates on a so-called "utility basis." which includes a "return on investment" - or profit.

The suit sought to require the Detroit Metro Water Department to develop standards for further rate increases, claiming the 1976 increase was unnecessary and represented overcharges to suburban users.

Working: Changes and choices

Growing work force seeks more flexible schedules

This is the 10th of 15 articles exploring Working. This series was written for Courses by Newspaper, an extension program of the University of California, San Diego, with money from the National Endowment for the Humanities. © 1981 by the Regents of the University of California.

By Fred Best special writer

Have you ever felt you were on a treadmill going from school to work to retirement with no stops along the way?

Have you ever wished you could arrange you life differently, to include more vacation time or leaves for further education or travel?

Have you ever had to cope with overly rigid worktime arrangements to accomplish family or personal chores?

If you have these feelings, you are not alone. Such concerns have become, commonplace. As a result, major changes in the ways we distribute work over the days, weeks and years of our lives are already occurring.

WORKTIME arrangements in the future are likely to be considerably more diverse and flexible than in the past, allowing individuals to work in ways that better meet their needs and preferences.

Traditionally, if one held a job, one worked 40 hours a week for approximately 40 years sandwiched between schooling during youth and retirement

Today, managers and employees alike are questioning the viability of such standardized worktime arrangements and our prevalent educationwork-retirement lockstep.

THIS MOVE toward more worktime flexibility is rooted in fundamental social changes in education, family life, retirement and employment.

Less and less do we follow the tradiitional practice of gaining all of our education during youth. A 20-year-old today can expect to live another 55 years, Fred Best directs research on work-sharing at the California Employment Development. A sociologist, he formerly held positions with the National Commission for Employment Policy and various federal agencies. His books include "Flexible Life Scheduling," "Work Sharing" and "The Future of Work."

as compared to 42 years in 1900. Thus the idea of recurrent education throughout life has become increasingly reasonable.

In addition, almost one-third of today's workers change their occupations every four years. The need to adjust skills in response to social and technological changes - coupled with growing interest in recreational education and the recognition that "real world" experience augments formal school is encouraging youth to interrupt school with employment and adults to break from work for education.

CHANGING FAMILY patterns are also increasing the demand for worktime changes.

Until recently, traditional family values encouraged men to hold fulltime jobs as "breadwinners" and women to forego or minimize employment in order to perform full-time "homemaking" duties.

Today, husbands and wives are increasingly sharing income-earning and, to some extent, homekeeping responsibilities as couples have fewer children and women pursue careers or take jobs to help meet family expenses.

As more of us become members of dual-earner households, the task of juggling home and career will necessitate more work-scheduling flexibility in order to meet individual needs.

Additionally, family time constraints when both spouses are employed will foster a desire to forego earnings in exchange for time off. Despite the pressures of inflation, increased earnings from two pay checks will commonly create the financial discretion to trade, earnings for time.

ANOTHER LIKELY change will be the flexible extension of employment

Other studies indicate overwhelming desire for more individual choice in scheduling daily and weekly work

One survey found that 79 percent favored overall life scheduling that would mix schooling and leisure into mid-life rather than compartmentalize such non-work time into youth and old

WHILE STANDARDIZED worktime routines continue to dominate the world of work, innovations that were unheard of a decade ago have become commonplace.

The proportion of employees voluntarily working part-time has increased from 11 to 19 percent between 1954 and 1977. In the past, most part-time jobs were temporary, low-skilled posi-

Today, increasing numbers are career-track jobs tht allow individuals to fluctuate between full- and part-time while gaining seniority and promotion.

"Job-splitting," where two persons share one full-time position, has become common and has proven successful for high school principals, line administrators, and other positions requiring complex tasks.

FLEXTIME, which allows employees to arrive at and leave their jobs late or early as long as they put in a full day's work, is used by an estimated 13 percent of American employers.

Although comparatively rare, sabbaticals and leave-of-absence rights have emerged outside the academic

Many private firms in the laborcompetitive electronics industries have developed three- to six-month paid sabbaticals as an effective means of recruiting and retaining employees. Leave-of-absence rights up to one year are now common in the public sector.

AMONG THE MOST interesting innovations are voluntary worktime reduction programs.

One California county allows individuals employees to forego 5, 10 or 20 percent of their annual earnings for 10, 20, or 40 days of additional vacation.

This popular program was originally started as a voluntary work-sharing scheme to avoid layoffs. During its in our society, but across the days and first year, 18 percent of the county's

10,000 employees freely exchanged pay for time, thus reducing overall labor costs and avoiding layoffs

In some cases, similar programs have actually increased the number of jobs by making it necessary to hire replacement workers.

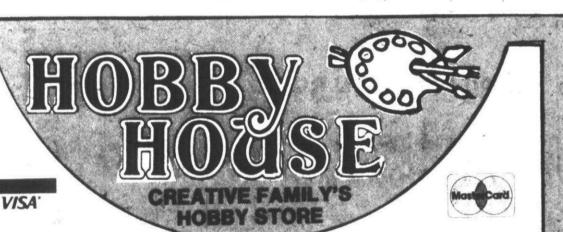

ANOTHER NOTABLE approach to combating joblessness is Work Sharing Unemployment Insurance.

This program, which has been used for 50 years in Germany and was recently initiated in California, allows payment of partial unemployment insurance for employees who go on shorter workweeks to prevent lavoffs.

No one is laid off, workers retain most of their take-home pay and fringe benefits, and employers avoid expensive recruitment and training costs.

Like all changes, these worktime innovations have costs as well as bene-

Nonetheless, these institutional changes are gradually redistributing work, not only among different groups years of our lives.

Firm publishes workbook with tips on re-employment

A three-volume workbook has been published by a Plymouth consulting firm on on how to assist employees about to be laid off and how individuals may prepare for re-employment.

The workbooks cover the subject of outplacement management, an emerging topic in human resource management dealing with terminated employ-

The material is being published by Fred DeRoche, vice president, and Mary McDougall, senior associate, at Odiorne International, Inc. - a Plymouth-based management consulting

Volume I is "The Career Transition Workbook: A Guide for Outplaced Em-

Volume II, "The Outplacement Administrator's Manual," is geared to the on-site program administrator.

Volume III, "Human Resource Planning for Consolidation," is designed for the human resource planning special-

"Our goal was to fill a void we perceive in the human resource management literature," said DeRoche. "There is very little published other than a recent surge of journal articles. Little material is available to assist the terminated or outplaced employee in becoming successfully re-employed.

Program administrators and human resource planners have been forced to meet the economic conditions of the past few years without preparation or practice," added DeRoche.

Included are suggestions on staffing and orientation training, preparation of terminated employees, training sessions for salaried and hourly employees, marketing of employees, using recruiters, and evaluating program re-

Volume III on human resource planning consolidation presents an action plan to be used by the human resource specialist when the manpower supply is high and the demand is low.

The major activities outlined include manpower demand/supply forecast, review of termination policies, decision analysis to reduce, close or maintain operations, staffing of outplacement/ retirement program, security system analysis, internal relocations and reassignments, identification of employees for termination and retirement, announcement of plant closing/work force reduction, implementation of outplacement/retirement counseling training center, utilization of government and community agencies, marketing assistance for outplaced employees, and program evaluation.

Volume I on career transition was not intended to duplicate existing job hunting materials, said DeRoche, but deals with specific needs of the terminated employee as identified in the firm's counseling program.

Besides seeking a new job, said DeRoche, the laid-off individual must cope with the issues of forced unemployment. That person may consider early retirement as an option.

If the person involved is a partner in a two-career family, added DeRoche, another set of issues are present.

Geographic relocation may become a necessity for unemployment depending on conditions of the local job markets. Finally, the employee must learn how to establish and maintain a new career position.

"The book was designed to be used by the individual as a practical selfhelp workbook where little or no assistance is provided by the employer. It also can be used by trainers/counselors as a text in conducting a training program," said McDougall.

McDougall said that the second volume is a practical hands-on guide for the manager who coordinates the inhouse outplacement/retirement counseling/training program. It demonstrates how to plan and implement a successful program by using proven materials, she added.

"We are convinced that outplacement as a newly accepted human resource management practice will grow dramatically in the next few years,' said DeRoche.

"As an industry the growth is forecasted at $25 million in 1980 to more than $100 million by 1985. Our efforts in this new discipline have been sys-

Two state records for one angler

By Lem Mesee staff writer

Q. What do you call a master angler with two masters' awards? A. Michael Miller, 25, of West-

The local fisherman has collected two state fishing records in the past year, according to Ron Spitler, district fishery biologist for the state Department of Natural Resources.

One was for a five-pound, fourounce gar pike which Miller caught May 25 on a silver jig at Newburgh Lake, Livonia. The other was a 14pound dogfish he took July 19 on a Mepps spinner at Crooked Lake, Brighton.

Granted, the gar and the dogfish are "rough" species and not considered the most palatable. But you' may remember the name of Mike Miller, 34233 Spring Valley, from a couple of seasons ago, when we reported he was awarded two Mepps certificates. One was for a sevenpound largemouth bass taken from Newburgh Lake, the other for a 53pound salmon taken below the AuSable River dam in Oscoda.

"About 100 times a year," he said when asked how often he fishes.

That way, he said, he learns the "really good spots" on any lake or river he tries.

His other secrets are hardly earth-shattering. "Evening and early morning," he said about fishing times. "Fishing Facts magazine" was the answer to where he gets his best information.

Miller likes Newburgh, the local impoundment of the Middle Rouge River, for crappies; Island Lake near Brighton for perch during winter; Woodland, also near Brighton; and other local spots:

One favorite catch was the 371/2pound muskie he extracted from the Detroit River last year using a twopound-test line.

Question: How do you land a 371/22 pound muskie on a two-pound-test

Answer from a double master angler: "Very carefully."

HURON-CLINTON Metroparks are selling 1982 vehicle entry permits, and the price hasn't changed.

The annual permit is $7, the same since 1979, according to James J. Pompo, deputy director. For senior citizens, the annual price is $2.

If you want your window sticker right away, you can pick it up at Stony Creek Metropark near Rochester, Kensington Metropark near Milford, Hudson Mills Metropark near Dexter, Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville, or HCMA'S main office at 3050 Penobscot Building, Detroit.

A one-day permit is $2 per vehicle. A daily or annual permit is required for the five above-mentioned parks and the other six seasonal metroparks.

THREE NATURE programs are being offered at nearby metroparks this weekend.

 "All about Snow," a family program, begins at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 5 at Kensington's nature center. Peggy Lubahn, a volunteer, will explain the effect of snow on wildlife and tell how to make a permanent collection of snow crysals. Register in advance with the park office at 685-1561.

• "Feeding Winter Birds" starts at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, Dec. 6 at the Kensington nature center. Naturalist Bob Hotaling will discuss types of bird feeds and placement. Bring binoculars and dress for an outdoors walk. Call in advance to register.

· "Snowshoe Tying Workshop" runs from 1-5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 6 at Oakwoods Metropark, south on I-275 near Flat Rock. Naturalists Bob Wittersheim and Mike George will supervise. Prices are $34 and $39 for a kit of the Ojibway (Chippewa) Indian design, which features ash wood frames and nylon cord webbing. Bindings are not included. Preregistration and a $10 deposit are necessary. Call the nature center at 697-9181 for registration informa-

COULD YOU take a one-third pay

The state DNR is doing it in this recession year. You have to plow through a lot of dry numbers in the Natural Resources Register to figure it out, but that is the fact.

Of DNR's total of $158 million, about 32 percent comes from general fund revenues. That amounts to a bit more than $50 million.

Century 21's Cutright dies suddenly at 49

Richard L. Cutright, the man responsible for building Century 21 Real Estate into the largest real estate franchise operation in Michigan, died unexpectedly Sunday. He was 49.

Services for the Livonia resident were Wednesday at St. Maurice Catholic Church in Livonia. Burial was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Southfield.

Several persons who worked closely with Cutright throughout his career said the organization's state president and chief executive officer was a wonderful man with a huge heart.

"HE WAS A great guy who would help anyone get started," said Jim Courtney, one of Cutright's colleagues.

"When I started with him in 1967, he co-signed my first car loan. He was a person who was concerned and caring and never had a bad word to say about anyone," Courtney added.

"He helped me find a career in real

CUTRIGHT BEGAN his real estate career at 19. He opened an office called Hartford Real Estate Co. on Schoolcraft and Telegraph in Detroit, Court-

During the next 23 years, Cutright opened 12 Hartford offices in metropolitan Detroit. In 1974, he sold them to Century 21, a subsidiary of Trans World Corp.

"There are now over 290 Century 21 offices in Michigan, and Dick is responsible for founding all of them," said Harold Waldfogel, controller at the Southfield office where Cartright worked

There are more than 7,000 Century 21 offices in the nation.

A REGIONAL manager will assume Cartright's duties, Courtney said, but Waldfogel added that no one could replace Cartright.

Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers report taste bonus at low tar.

The most rigorous MERIT research to date has just been completed.

Result: MERIT smokers confirm taste a major factor in completing their successful switch from higher tar cigarettes.

MERIT Takes Taste Honors.

Nationwide survey reveals over 90% of MERIT smokers are glad they switched from higher tar cigarettes. In fact, 94% don't even miss their former brands.

Further Evidence: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Learning Disabled attend college

By Marie Chestney staff writer

Thirteen people came to the Schoolcraft College "rap" session. No one was visibly impaired. Yet three of the 13 who snuggled down into the comfortable armchairs had a hidden handicap.

Tim Slater, a second-year student at Schoolcraft, began to tell of the frustration of being a learning-disabled student. His face reddened as he talked.

"Teachers don't understand how a disabled student learns. Teachers think it is unfair to the other students to have a test read. They think they are giving away answers."

SLATER'S frustration, along with the frustration of all other learning-disabled students, was the main reason for the meeting of the 13.

College officials, instructors, a parent and three students had been brought together that morning by the Michigan Association for Children and Adults with Learning Disabilities (MACLD) and the Schoolcraft College Learning Assistance Center to talk over how colleges could help more fully the learning-disabled student.

Colleges represented at the meeting were Schoolcraft, Madonna College of Livonia and Henry Ford Community College, Dearborn. Association adviser Edith Gbur represented MACLD.

As snowflakes fell outside the window, first Slater, then Brian Gbur, Madonna College sophomore and son of Edith Gbur, and then Nancy Leeper, also a second-year Schoolcraft student, opened up to the group.

"Students don't have the courage to talk to teachers and tell them of their learning problem," Gbur said. "The learning-disabled are afraid. They know they are different from everyone else, so they keep everything inside. It only makes the problem worse. If Gbur halted, searching for other thoughts. Ms. Leeper came to his aid "People look upon you as being less of a student," she said.

TWENTY-TWO years ago, few educators knew much about learning disabilities. Those who had trouble reading were sometimes labeled "mentally retarded.

Then in 1959, the Berkley School District started the first class in Michgan for elementary students who had learning problems. The Birmingham and Farmington districts soon followed

Today, special help for the learning disabled in grade school, high school and college is written into federal law. Many colleges now operate learning centers, giving students help in reading, writing and note-taking.

But as the students' words slow, there is still a wide gap between students who have trouble learning in the traditional way and teachers who know only how to teach in the traditional

A LEARNING disabled studen is neither blind nor hearing-impaired He or she is neither mentally retarded nor emotionally impaired.

The learning problem lies "in sime area of the perceptual process," according to MACLD.

For the learning-disabled, "one or more of the basic processes involved in understanding or using spoken or written language" goes awry. The disalled may have normal or above-average intelligence. Some give the appearance of being hearing-impaired or having visual problems, but they are not.

William Baumgartner, a Schoolciaft electronics instructor, came to the meeting struggling with a question other teachers also probably struge

"As an instructor, I have to be fair to all students," Baumgartner said. "Do I put all students under the same requirements or set individual standards for each student?'

Sirkka Gudan, director of Schoolcraft's learning assistance center, told Baumgartner how learning-disabled students want to be treated.

"They don't want standards adjusted for them," she said. "They want teaching ways adjusted.

Some untraditional ways to teach the learning disabled suggested by the group were tape recorders, tutors, note takers and oral tests.

DR. HUGH WATSON, an assistant professor at Madonna, took Gudan's answer one step further:

"This is a problem the learning disabled deal with all through school. It relates to the degree of visibility of the handicapped.

"It's like the mother who always wondered why Johnny was not like everyone else and couldn't read," Watson said. Watson coordinates Madonna's dean's grant program of federal aid to comply with laws regarding education of the handicapped.

Slater can't read in the traditional way because he has dysgraphía. Written tests baffle him. If he must read, he puts so much effort into just getting through the words that he can't comprehend their meaning.

So his mother and his girlfriend read to him. He also sends textbooks for upcoming semesters to a New York firm for taping.

Yet Slater also flies an airplane and scuba dives, a sport which requires a knowledge of physics. His diving instructor read his diving test to him. But, Slater said, aviation officials won't do the same, so he has yet to get his pilot's license.

TO CAROL CHAPMAN, teacher consultant for the South Redford School District, not being able to read is a tough obstacle when the "whole school system is based on reading."

"To me," she said, "content is more important than how the student gets it. But teachers still want to put a student out on the farm if he is hard to teach. They ask, 'What are you doing here?'"

That is called "rigidity," responded Watson. "It's trying to get students to do things the way society or tradition demands."

The group agreed that a good way to change society's perception was to change the words learning-disabled. Watson suggested "special learner" or "learning different."

MS. LEEPER told the group she has

She recalled the day in junior high when someone told her she should not consider college. "That man made me more determined than ever," she said.

How much responsibility does a teacher have to turn a student away from a career he can't handle, Baumgartner asked

Teachers can't be paternalistic, Watson quickly responded. The learning disabled, he said "have as much right to try and fail as anyone who comes to school. We can guide, but we must preserve their right to reach out."

Slater, like Ms. Leeper, is fiercely determined to succeed. Yet he said one of his greatest fears was what would happen to him once he got out of school and got away from the special help given him at Schoolcraft.

Auto, construction chiefs talk tough on labor costs

By Suzie Rollins Singer staff writer

Getting labor costs in line is the automobile and construction ind ustries' top priority for 1982.

And the companies made it clear Monday they intend to do that during 1982 contract talks. Spoke smen for Ford Motor Co. and Associati on of General Contractors were at nong five speakers who appeared bef ore the Detroit Economic Club.

Contracts in both major industries expire in 1982 - constru ction in summer and autos in Septe mber. At full employment, automobile a manufacturing employs 390,000 Mi chiganians and construction 140,000.

in line with foreign producers and in line with the rest of the U.S. manufacturing sector," Ford Motor Co. President Donald E. Petersen said. Labor and management must "bite the bullet" 'together.

Petersen said top goals are 1) to reduce absenteeism, medical leave and paid personal holidays and 2) to get more productive work for the compan'y's money.

Petersen emphasized the necessity for U.S. car manufacturers to compete with the Japanese.

"We have to reduce the Japanese cost advantage, which is now $10 an hour. It's an advantage that allows the Japanese to produce and land an $1,400 less than we can make it here." Petersen said.

> FORD WANTS to provide jobs in this country. But if it can't compete on a worldwide basis and get labor costs in line, the industry will be forced to move its production lines elsewhere, he said, adding:

"That's not a threat, it's an economic reality.

"If we have the good will to work together, the long-term outlook is very promising. Management is willing to bring to the table some new ways of looking at employee compensation, so employes can share in the good times just as we ask them to sacrifice in bad

CONSTRUCTION MANAGERS look to unified baragining during 1982 negotiations with the major building trade

"We have it within our power to reform the collective bargaining process without the help of government," said O.L. Pfaffmann, president of the Association of General Contractors of

"What we need is intelligent local bargaining which will reflect the total cost of the contract and produce noninflationary settlements without strikes," he said.

During 1981, the Greater Detroit

Construction Employer Council, a construction managers association, restructured its bylaws, so its negotiators have power of attorney.

"Now they (negotiatiors) can make a decision for the whole industry right at the bargaining table. That makes it a unit and gives the council more clout," said Frank Kruce, council director.

THIS COLLECTIVE bargaining concept was enacted in 1970, but has never been as strong as projected for 1982, Kruce said. Contracts with 45 trades will expire this summer.

then let's have it industrywide. Then and Philadelphia people will stick together.'

At the luncheon, Pfaffmann quoted the national AGC president who said at a recent AFL-CIO meeting, "While the industry was changing rapidly, the institutions of labor and management have remained unchanged. We must realize that we are at a major turning point. The incentives of the past 10 years have all failed. The internal joint activities of labor and management needed to be streamlined and reformed."

We're working for reform, Kruce said and noted that the council-all "The real importance of this unit is trade bargaining technique is already to have solidarity. If we do have strike, widely practiced in Chicago, New York

Chiefs predicting auto industry survival

A leaner American auto industry will survive and prosper, but not in the first half of 1982, says the president of Ford Motor Co.

And a leading regional banker adds he can't call the economy "sick," despite continued high, longterm interest rates.

Ford President Donald E. Petersen and Detroitbank Corp. President Donald R. Mandich were among five speakers Monday who told the Detroit Economic Club the southeast Michigan economy wouldn't improve until the second six months of PETERSEN SAID the No. 2 auto maker has reduced salaried personnel levels 25 percent in its North American operations.

The key to auto recovery, he said, is whether interest rates drop sufficiently.

"If the economy is growing at a 4 to 5 percent rate, and if the prime (rate paid by strongest corporations) is below 15 percent, we should have a new car sales rate of over 10 million units and truck sales of more than three million units," he

"The potential longer-term outlook - beyond 1982 - could be much more encouraging. The tax cut will spur capital spending. And reduced government regulation will have an enormous longterm impact.

"Given a healthy economy, I believe that between now and 1985, we will see a more than 16 million combined new ear and truck sales year.'

BUT IF auto makers are looking to a big drop in interest rates next year, the banker wasn't predicting one.

"I believe the economy will be doing quite well in the third and fourth quarters of 1982. By late 1982 or early 1983, I would not be surprised to see the prime rate again at about 18.5 percent," said

His prediction of a good second half was for most segments of the economy, housing and autos

The new 1½ year Flex-Rate

Available for the first time, right now. A new high interest Retirement Savings Plan for the investment of Individual

Retirement Account funds. If you are eligible for an IRA, it allows you to shelter up to $1,500 from your Federal Income taxes in a brand new way. And, the Flex-Rate plan is fully insured by the F.D.I.C. It's new and different because its interest rate changes weekly with the auction rate on 13week U.S. Treasury Bills, which means it keeps pace with the short term money market. After 18 months it can automatically be renewed*

No Restrictions

Open a NBD Flex-Rate Retirement Savings Plan with any amount of money; and add any amount to it any time during its 18-month lifespan. Any deposits you make during this time will also mature at the end of that 18-month period.

At NBD, retirement savings can get you a tax deduction, a tax deferment and a whole lot more.

Any eligible contribution to your retirement savings plan is deductible from your income the year it's earned. The beauty of a tax-deferment is that, when you are taxed, at retirement, you probably will be in a lower tax bracket, and therefore you'll be taxed at a lower rate. But at NBD, you get a good deal more...because Retirement Savings Plans are part of The System and a balance of $1000 qualifies you for a no service charge Unibank Checking Account; a $5000 balance qualifies you for a no-service-charge Unibank Interest Checking/Now Account; and a deposit of $2000 or more qualifies for a waiver of the service fee on your NBD MasterCard/Visa

For construction, 1982 is still cloudy

The construction industry will most likely be the last to pull out from under the recession's dark clouds, and it probably won't be until 1983.

"Our industry is in real trouble," said O.L. Pfaffmann, president of the Detroit Chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America.

While most industries are projecting better times for the second half of 1982, construction leaders are more

"It is very questionable that any improvement will be realized during the first half of 1982, and not much significant change is anticipated in the second half," Pfaffmann said.

CHALLENGES WHICH builders face in 1982 are high financing costs, needed legislative reforms and government spending for public roads.

"Next year's biggest loser will continue to be public works," he said. Michigan's Department of Transportation confirms our highways and bridges are in need of repairs and maintenance. Michigan Road Builders Association has recommended some legislative action. By changing our road tax rates assessments system, it would bolster sagging revenues caused by decreased auto usage and better gas mileage," he added.

Pfaffmann looks to the state and federal government to help finance major public improvements, such as pipelines, waterways, sewers, utilities, bridges and highways.

"ALL OF THESE areas should be receiving some consideration from both state and federal governments, particularly now with the present economic condition," he said.

When builders talk about recovery, interest rates are always a topic.

"The big question in our mind is, what is the magic interest rate that will trigger construction activity acorss the board?" Pfaffmann asked.

Why economic picture is so confused

Not until 1983 will the Michigan economy recover. At least that's the view of University of Michigan economist Joan Crary.

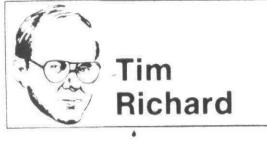

Her pessimistic predictions continued with the comment, "The state outlook appears nothing but bleak." She was one of the co-authors of a research paper called "Michigan Economy in 1982" which was presented at the University of Michigan's 29th Annual Conference on the Economic Outlook.

At the same time, stories have been appearing in newspapers indicating that interest rates are dropping. The inflation rate is falling. Home sales are

SO WHAT the hell is going on? Is the economy getting better or worse?

The truth is that no one knows. Sometimes it seems professional economists are the most confused.

People make the mistake of thinking that economics is a science. That is, if A and B happen, then C will result. But economics is an art, not a science.

Here's lesson from poll and Chaucer

The best research, they say, confirms what you already knew. Three samples came my way in the

One was a poll published Oct. 11 by the Des Moines Register of 1,022 persons aged 18 and older, which makes them voting age.

The pollster showed the persons five paragraphs, including articles from the U.S. Constitution on the right to bear arms, freedom of speech and the right to be secure in one's home, along with the proposed Equal Rights Amendment.

ERA, you'll recall, has been bogged down in the process of being ratified by two-thirds of the state legislatures. Offhand, you might guess ERA would

Not so. Those three little lines drew the most support of the pollster's five samples. Something like eight persons in 10 supported equality of rights without regard to sex.

I FOR ONE was not surprised. The notion of equal rights makes such inherent sense that one wonders what the debate is about.

But I note a little ruefully that from time to time high school kids take similar polls and show people sections of the Constitution protecting the freedom of the press. In those polls, freedom of the press doesn't do well.

The existing Bill of Rights, including freedom of religion and press, was passed in the 18th century, the most enlightened and progressive the world has ever known.

It's too bad the supporters of ERA didn't raise the issue in 1787. It would have passed a whole lot faster than it's moving today.

THE SECOND bit of research came in the Courses by Newspaper series we are running on "Working changes and choices." In part 7 (Nov. 19), Barbara Lazarus wrote: In 1928, the average woman worker was 28, single and a high school graduate. Today she is 36, married, and the more education she has, the more likely she is to be working for pay.

By the end of the 1980s, it is expected that close to 70 percent of all women will be working . . . . "Most women today work in the lowest-paying occupations. The average woman's earnings are less than three-fifths of the average man's.

More than 400 occupations are listed by the Bureau of the Census, but most women are employed in 20. One-fourth of all women work as secretariesstenographers, bookkeepers, elementary school teachers or waitresses.'

Paragraph after paragraph follows in the same

THE FINAL reading came from a 14th century gem called "Canterbury Tales" by Geoffrey Chaucer. Each character gives a personal spiel, called a prologue, before telling a story.

One of the most lovable characters is the fivetimes-married Wife of Bath. For six centuries, she has brought smiles to readers with her forthright defenses of marriage, remarriage and the marriage bed, as well as with her ability to manipulate her successive husbands:

In wifehood I will use my instrument As freely as my Maker has it sent. If I be niggardly, God give me sorrow! My husband he shall have it, eve and morrow, When he's pleased to come forth and pay his

In the real world of today, it seems to me, women would be better off with a little constitutional protection than by emulating the medieval Wife of Anything can happen.

There's a self-fulfilling prophecy aspect to economic forecasting. If people think a recession will get worse, they won't buy. That makes the recession deepen. If they believe things are going to improve, they will buy. A recession is then ended earlier.

Joan Crary said the improvement will provide breathing space in which workers, employers, the universities and officials of the state can jointly work for a stable state economic base.

That sounds fine. But so far, people in this state have not demonstrated an ability to work together.

Forgive me, but I'm pessimistic about workers. employers, etc., all working together to improve the state's economic climate. For decades, people have realized that the state must diversify its dependence on the automobile industry. So far there has been much sound and fury, but little action.

Let Dallas be welcome in Super Bowl

Up until this week. I thought the impending Super Bowl was one of the more inconsequential events to grace Southeastern Michigan

But I've made a 180-degree turn in attitude

Not only should all self-respecting southeast Michigan residents be glad the Super Bowl is being played at the Pontiae Silverdome, they should pray real hard the Dallas Cowboys are one of the teams participating.

Now, in other years I might root for another team. But this year is different. very different.

THE LAST COUPLE of years have been those of the great migration from the industrial North to the Sunbelt mostly Houston and Dallas

Recently, an article has been floating around these parts which appeared in the magazine section of the Dallas Times Herald It was authored by some guy who has spent all of two years living in the Detroit area.

On his excursions to the Big D, many persons wanted to know if Detroit's really as bad as they hear. The author, who is about to move to Dallas good-naturedly reassures his new neighbors that

He goes on to tell how we all are down-in-themouth survivalists, who won't even speak to long time acquaintances when passing in the crime-rid-

DETROIT is compared to East Berlin and the last days of Pompeii. We are described as a pack of predatory animals fighting our way out of a prison

What a bunch of baloney! But that's the kind of garbage being written about our area. Certainly, we all realize that we are in a less than enviable economic position.

But East Berlin? C'mon.

Obviously, we've got a big job ahead of us to sell our fine state to outsiders, especially when you've got some guy floating around who thinks Dallas is better than Detroit because he got a free bag of hamburgers down yonder.

Sure, lots of us are leaving for better climes both economic and environmental. So what?

FRANKLY, I'M glad to see residents who need to leave, departing. No sense in having a lot of people hanging around doing nothing. It wouldn't be the first time this country has experienced migrations.

Recall, please, how in the '40s millions migrated north to work in the auto plants. The rest of the country survived — it really did.

Even better, recall how folks in the '60s ran from Detroit to Phoenix. Now look at that place. It's a mess. Pollution is high and crime is rampant. But I wouldn't say it's another Pompeii. Phoenix, like many other parts of the nation, is joining the community of cities which has problems.

Certainly, it will take Southeast Michigan another decade to recover from our present economic hardships. But just think what a nightmare it will be to live in Dallas or Houston in another 10 years.

All those people and all those police to pay to protect them from each other will cost a pretty penny. And we all know what happen to cities which are without zoning laws — urban havoc.

Even I shudder at the thought of all those unregulated highrises.

So welcome, Texans, to Michigan, I promise. we'll all smile while were taking your money.

I might even go out and buy a Stetson and a pair of Dingos, thank y'all.

Camera can be artist's tool if you see ahead

Even though photography has been around for about 150 years, only within the past decade has it been accepted as a true art from with collections to be found in major museums throughout the world.

This is proven not only by public appreciation of a photograph but by the economic impact of photography in the marketplace.

For instance, Ansel Adams' photographs, which today sell for many thousands of dollars, commanded only $100-$200 a decade ago. Why does his work demand such high prices? Because the public accepts fine photography and people are willing to buy it.

OBVIOUSLY, not all photographs are considered great works of art and are worth little except perhaps to the person who shot them.

But the important thing I want to convey to you is to develop a state of mind that your photography can be important, that taking pictures can be an art, and that as a person deeply interested in photography, you are an artist. You paint with light, and your subject is life itself. What a wonderful opportunity to create!

How can you begin to think of yourself as an artist? First, by likening yourself to a sculptor. A sculptor begins with a block of stone, his whole. By chipping away with a chisel, he ends up with his finished work. Thus, by process of elimination, a sculptor derives his completed art.

Similarly, a photographer, too, derives his finished work by process of elimination and by zeroing in on his subject. An initial look at the subject is the photographer's "whole." Then by proper lens selection, camera angle, light direction, selective focusing, time of day, et cetera, the photographer "chips away," like the sculptor, and ends up with his finished art.

Even film choice and paper selection are important for the photographer to express himself artistically. Remember, also, that it isn't the chisel carving the stone — it's the sculptor. Similarly, bear in mind that it's not the camera making the photograph - it's really

ONE OF THE MOST colorful Christmas trees in town appears each December in the Detroit Edison office on the corner of Main Street and Ann Arbor Trail.

Its green boughs are laden with bright mittens and scarves donated by members of the community. On Christmas morning they will be among the treasures in Salvation Army baskets distributed to needyfamilies.

The tree is an annual project of the Woman's Club of Plymouth. Club members get the mitten tree off to a running start with their own array of warm scarves and mittens.

Marianne Garber is chairing the mitten tree caper this Christmas. It will be put up Friday afternoon.

ANN ARENDSEN has been doing some very interesting interviews on her AM/PM talk show on Cable 13 cable television. Among her interviewees have been Carole Brandt, president of the Plymouth Newcomers Club, arts and crafters Dawn Riemma and Terry Strait, Bonnie Crow of Vital Options Spa and Jean Christensen, head of the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College.

Nutritionists Beth Stringham and Sue Crosby will on this week.

Fran Lang, president of the Plymouth Symphony Society will co-host the show with Ann next week, beginning Dec. 7. Fran will interview Johan van der Merwe, conductor of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra. Mary Uhl, president of the local branch of the American Association of University Women will be Ann's guest during the first half of the show.

The AM/PM show is aired weekdays at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Ann describes it as a community service show. Any non-profit group planning a special event or fundaiser may have a representative nterviewed for television. She also welcomes co-hosts on the show.

Suggestions can be mailed to AM/ PM, PO Box 452, Plymouth, Mich. 18170. Ann is keeping the show local which means the Canton, Northville and Plymouth communities, Channel 13's broadcast area.

FRIENDS OF the Canton Public Library is planning a used book sale in April. They would welcome donations of books. Hard cover, paperback, reference, all types of books can be dropped off at the Canton Library for the sale.

Miniatures star in museum's Christmas show has been converted to a magical Christmas village. Victorian rooms and shops present a pageant of the holidays - as they were.

Visitors will walk through Plymouth of an earlier age, with horses and sleighs coming up Main Street and children dressed in long coats and caps. A peek through shop windows reveals toys of long ago - miniature steam engines, wooden rocking horses and fragile porcelain-head dolls.

Popcorn and candy canes, gingerbread men and colorful ribbons brighten evergreen trees and boughs throughout the museum. Christmas wreaths museum, 155 S. Main Street, the Green hang in quaint shop windows and doors. An occasional stocking can be seen hanging by a fireplace.

SPECIAL EXHIBIT for the season is a collection of doll houses and minia-

On loan for the holidays are the wonderful miniatures of Judy Shellhaus of Plymouth Township and Winnie Arnault of Plymouth. Their miniatures usually highlight displays at the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village where they teach the art of recreating scale models of antique furniture. Each piece has an original.

"All of the originals exist somewhere," said Mrs. Shellhaus as she pointed out a bed modeled from one in a London museum. All her wood carvings are done with just two tools, a jigsaw and an Exacto knife. All the spindles are hand-carved.

They weave cane seats from dental floss. They make their own miniature wicker furniture.

Arnaut and Shellhaus have been making miniatures for seven years. Each is a limited edition.

THE DOLL HOUSE village represents the work of several area residents.

The gazebo in the town square represents more than 200 hours of work so far. Mrs. Shellhaus says it isn't finished. She also has a saloon and a Victorian house in the exhibit. The Tudor house belongs to Jan Cummings. Connie and Don Masson of Canton have loaned their doll house to the collection. The church was made for a Chicago bishop about 40 years ago. Charles Schaffer of Drummond Island made

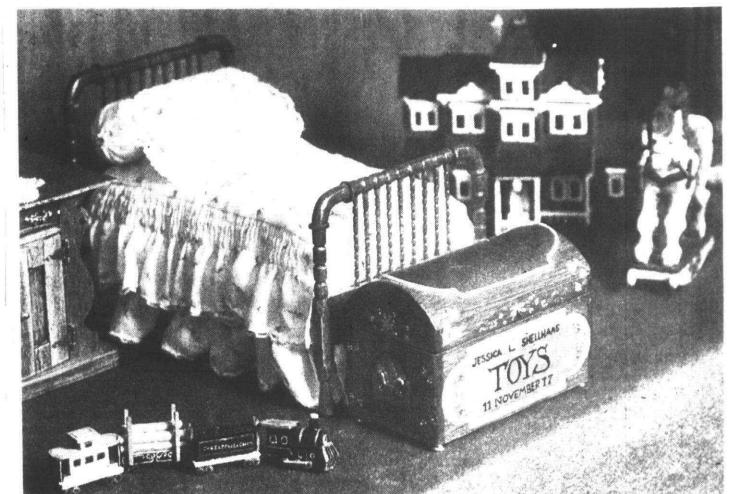

The Plymouth Historical Museum the two stone houses for his granddaughters.

There are all styles of houses in the village, from southern plantation to cupboard style. There is an exact replica of a local Hough Woods house.

THE MUSEUM has arranged a special Christmas walk from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday, Dec. 11. Walkers will visit three historical houses in Plymouth before going to the museum for a tour and refreshments.

Limited tickets are available for $4 advance sale and $5 at the door. Tickets may be purchased in advance at the Thumb, 470 Forest Place Mall; and Lorraine's Dolls, 615 N. Mill Street, Plymouth.

For those who cannot attend the walk, the museum is open from 1 to 4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. Admission is $1 for adults, 50 cents for 12- to 17-year-olds, and 25 cents for children 5 to 11.

A closeup look at the spindle bed shows the detail involved in the miniatures.

Treed?

What's Jack Dean, president of the Plymouth Community Chorus doing in a spruce tree? Dean and other members of the chorus took to the woods last weekend to choose the perfect trees for their Christmas concert this weekend in Plymouth Salem High School auditorium. Saturday and Sunday performances begin at 7 p.m. with tickets priced at $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for seniors available at the door.

Letter signaled Annapolis reunion

The tradition, the pride and the history of the U.S. Naval Academy are unknown quantities to the average "man on the street." Only those men and women (and their families), who have graduated from Annapolis, comprehend the pomp and circumstance and the loyalties inspired at the 136year-old naval college.

Jim Brick was in the class of 1971. Jim and his wife, Marsha, knew that they would return to Annapolis for his 10-year class reunion.

It was a very special time for both of them and Marsha decided to make it special for all of their long lost classmates. Earlier this year, Marsha contacted the class secretary and found out bits of scarce information. There were a few more calls made to the right people and she was on her way to developing a newsletter to the former midshipmen. This was a forerunner to the October homecoming weekend.

The academy singles out classes celebrating 10- and 20-year reunions during this special event. The weekend starts off with a rendezvous at a hall where 4,000 people enjoy a cocktail party. Banners are hung to identify classes. How else could you find anyone in a group that size?

The bonds are very strong at the famed halls. The reunion was a huge success as is the one every year. The work Marsha completed beforehand made it come alive even before the classmates came together. Beth and Ed Ammons, Bob and Carol Adkins, Ed and Sue Kaiser from our area all joined in the October festivities in Maryland.

What am I leading up to, of course, is the Army-Navy football game that will be played in a few days.

These men, their dates and families will converge on my home town of Philadelphia and history will repeat itself again. It was always an exciting weekend with handsome young men all over the streets with their crisp uniforms, anxious for another great game. The pre-game rivalry is usually better than the final score this special after-

Many men and women who served in the armed forces in past years find themselves rooting during this game because they feel that they are part of the legend that surrounds these two schools.

This year Navy has a good winning record and will play Ohio State in the Liberty Bowl within a few weeks. I don't know if you have to be good to beat Ohio - you have to be consistent. In the words of a famed author:

If you think you are beaten, you

If you think you dare not, you don't; If you would like to win and don't think you can, It's almost a cinch you won't.

THERE ARE PLENTY of boutiques and bazaars around now for the holidays. It is often good to go alone, without the children, but it is not always

St. John's Episcopal Church on Sheldon Road came up with an answer to this problem. While we are browsing through their crafts this coming Saturday, the children will be in a mini-class that will be called Make It and Take It.

All crafts will be less than $1 and that includes the supplies.

The younger children will be handling "Shrinky Dinks." The older youngsters will have an option of making a candy cane or Christmas tree macrame ornament, or Christmas balls. It is a great idea to combine fun and shopping for the entire family

Iannessa-Muenchen

Maureen Rita Muenchen and Vincent Nick Iannessa exchanged marriage vows recently in Our Lady of Peace Catholic Church in Conway. The Rev. John Petrikovic officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bodo C. Muenchen of Glenview Drive, Plymouth. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Domenic Iannessa of Conway.

The bride's Victorian-style wedding gown was made by her mother. It was made of white lace with the bodice trimmed with seed pearls and layers of ruffles on the skirt that fell to a cathedral train. A pearl and sequin crown held her fingertip-length veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and pink roses, lilies of the valley, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Barbara Dimond. Maid of honor was Melissa Neofes. Bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sisters, Gemma, Cindy and Carol Iannessa. Jaime Dimond was flower girl.

The winner of the state pageant will receive a $500 cash scholarship, a full modeling scholarship, and an all-excompete with 51 other winners for the Miss National Teen-Ager title for 1983.

AMONG THE seven judges who evaluated the contestants for overall achievement, personality, poise and appearance, was Mike Haggerty.

Haggerty is director of sales at the Plymouth Hilton. The 1972 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School was selected as a judge because of his ability to pick a winner.

During the 1981 state pageant at the Plymouth Hilton, Haggerty chose Re-

Scarborough said later that it was then he decided to ask Haggerty to be a judge at a future pageant.

RN Association opens membership

The Plymouth Registered Nurses Association has opened its membership to any registered nurse who lives in and around the Plymouth-Canton community. This is a first for the organization which has adhered to its policy of limiting memberships to residents of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools

The association meets the third Monday of alternate months during the traditional school year. Meetings are in Plymouth Township Hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Road, and begin at 7:30 p.m. Dues are minimal.

Members serve the community as volunteers in any instance of health need or medical emergency. PNRs have served at health-o-ramas, disease detection clinics, immunization programs, educational workshops, Red Cross disaster shelters, and first aid programs.

THE ASSOCIATION'S tours of medical facilities, lectures on new medical and nursing techniques benefit PNR members. Seminars and classes give continuing education credits and em- chairman Diane Brand, 420-2249.

Guest speaker at the November meeting was Kathy Fulkerson, RN, a student of gerontology. Her presentation, "Attitudes on Aging," described how society recognizes its older citizens in negative terms. She told how those attitudes are changing slowly for Fulkerson stressd that nurses have the opportunity in their profession to encourage the aging to function in more positive ways. "They also can point out to the younger generation that their elders have to offer a great source of wisdom and willingness to share.

For additional information, registered nurses can call PNR president Pat Lawrenz, 453-9248, or membership

The floor is several feet down as Jerry Jumba executes a jump for a Carpatho-Rusyn dance.

Search for roots begins in mountains

By Margaret Miller staff writer

It's a long way - in both miles and experience - from the harsh Carpathian Mountains of western Czechoslovakia to the sanctuary of Sacred Heart Byzantine Catholic Church of Livo-

But the cultural gap, at least, has been closed a bit since Jerry Jumba visited the local congregation. Its members now have some knowledge of water sprites and wooden churches and Holy Supper and the pysanky of the eastern mountain people who were their church's forefathers.

Jumba is a Carpatho-Rusyn and tremendously proud of his heritage. Some of those in Sacred Heart parish also are of that ethnic group, but don't know much about their heritage. At least, they didn't until Jumba came recently as an emissary from Bishop Emil Mihalik to conduct for the Sacred Heart people a week of workshops about their little-understood, often misnamed and misspelled ethnic group.

One of the frequent mistakes is to translate Rusyn into Russian. The ethnic groups are not the same, although they have similar origins, according to Jumba.

Some 50-60 church members and friends attended the seven workshop he led concerning Carpatho-Rusyn language, background, crafts, dances, folk songs and holiday customs of the Slavic group.

Among them were Nick and Mary Nagrant of Farmington Hills, Rose Kobylanz of Livonia, Ailene Karlewski of Redford and Detroiters Mary Lejer, Richard and Elain Baranko and Stefan Klinczak.

And all feel a little closer now to the heritage that tends in this country to be glossed over or forgotten because it isn't understood.

SOME OF WHAT they learned from Jumba was history. The Carpatho-Rusyns, he explained, have lived for some 11 centuries in the rugged mountains that are found, as he put it, "where East meets West."

"Theirs is an amazing story," Jumba told the present-day representatives of those people. "They could not defend themselves from all sides, so they had to be stoic and accept their political fate."

But through pride in their heritage they kept alive customs and language, he added.

Primarily shepherds, farmers, loggers and farmers, they endured a rugged land and resisted constant pressure for political assimilation.

In the late 19th and early 20th centuries, many of them joined the Slavic migration to the United States. The settlements' were mainly in Pennsylvania, New York,

New Jersey and Ohio, but some came to the Detroit area where St. Nicholas Byzantine Catholic Church was their worship place. That church eventually moved to the east side of the city, and in the 1960s, Sacred Heart found its place in Livonia.

OF COURSE, noted the Rev. Thomas Chelema, current pastor of Sacred Heart, the congregation now isn't all of Carpatho-Rusyn heritage. "With moving around and intermarriage, it's probably a small percentage," he said.

"But everyone has enjoyed learning about the ethnic beginnings of the church and the Carpatho-Rusyns.

Jumba, who comes from Pennsylvania and is a music teacher by profession, is visiting various churches in the Byzantine Catholic Diocese of Parma.

Coming from a family that "enjoyed and shared its ethnicity," he called himself "the only professional Carpatho-Rusyn cultural worker in the United States.' Interest and years of study have given him the knowledge to lead the bishop's cultural roots program. He noted that information about the Carpatho-Rusyn heritage is so diffuse that most people don't even try to understand

"They will say 'I'm Slavic,' or 'My ancesters lived in the Carpathian mountains," he said. "But there is a distinct culture here, although for centuries it was always dominated politically, and now at last we are able to make a presentation and share it. "If people can find the roots of their heritage and express it more clearly, hopefully they can pass it on to their children. Americanization is a fine thing, but we're trying to achieve a

IN GIVING seminars in Byzantine churches, Jumba showed crafts and taught songs and simple dances. He also demonstrated the more taxing leaps and jumps that find thei way into Rusyn folk dancing, and he showed the people of Sacred Heart pictured examples of the wooden churches their

CANTON CALVARY ASSEMBLY OF GOD

The Rev. Rnnald Iwasko, personal secretary for the Assemblies of God Division of Foreign Missions, will speak at the 11 a.m. service Sunday at Canton Calvary Assembly of God, 7933 Sheldon.

The Rev. Iwasko is reponsible for missionary candidate selection and processing. He also monitors continuing education programs to the church's 1,200 missionaries and he shares responsibility for daily management of the foreign missions enterprise of the Assemblies of God.

The denomination has missionaries in 99 foreign countries working with 29,000 national workers at 33,000 churches and outstations in 187 Bible schools. A missionary to Brazil for four years, Iwasko founded a Bible institute and theological education extension program. At the close of his term, 270 Brazillian pastors and workers were studying in 12 training cen-

CLARENCEVILLE UNITED

METHODIST

The Clarenceville United Methodist Church, 20300 Middlebelt, Livonia, will be dedicated and its mortgage burned in a ceremony at 3 p.m. Sunday. Following services refreshments will be served in fellowship hall.

Originally located on Grand River and Collingham, the church was first pastored by the Rev. Elsie Johns. The congregation moved its present location in November

At that time only the education unit was built. It was used for all church activities. In five years the indebtedness was paid and a mortgage burning was held. It was followed by a ground breaking for the sanctuary and chapel addition.

After the death of the Rev. Johns in 1974, the present pastor, the Rev. Gerald Fisher, was appointed. Also on the staff are Cynthia Ziemba, director of religious education; Jeff Langdon, minister of music; Vivian Pray, secretary; Dorothy Edmiston, financial secretary, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kutschke, custodians.

WARD PRESBYTERIAN

"My Adventures in India" is the title of a lecture to be presented by Dr. Bartlett Hess at 7 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 6, in Ward Presbyterian Church, Six Mile and Farmington, Livonia. In a pre-service concert, the 38-piece Ward Church Orchestra under the direction of Alex Drobish will perform such selections as "Billy Sunday Overture" and Franz Schubert's "Moment Musical." The Ward Ensemble under the direction of Dr. Jerry Smith will sing a medley of traditional Christmas arrangements.

Dr. Hess' report will be on the trip he made as part of the Third World Pastorsseminar, sponsored by Bible for India, a Grand Rapids organization. The trip was aimed at providing ministers from many denominations with first hand knowledge of conditions in the Third World.

Tuesday, Dec. 8. Fred Nelson, chancel choir director, has arranged an evening of entertainment featuring the Urquhart Family Band which will present a program of singing and instrumental music.

• FAIRLANE ASSEMBLY

A children's musical and a monologue presented by the drama department are both part of a 7 p.m. praise celebration service on Sunday at Fairlane Assembly, 22575 Ann Arbor Trail, Dearborn Heights.

"And That's the Truth," is a musical centered around a young boy named Peter, who learns the importance of telling the truth. "No Final Prison Here" is a monologue about the Biblical account of the death and resurrection of Jairus's daughter. Amy Reitz of Redford plays the part of the daughter.

ST. JOHN EPISCOPAL

The Outreach Committee of St. John Episcopal Church, 555 S. Wayne, Westland, will have a spaghetti dinner from 5:30-7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 4. Proceeds will be used to fund a Christmas project for the needy in Wayne and Westland. Tickets are $4 for adults, $3 for senior citizens and $2.50 for children.

FAITH COMMUNITY MORAVIAN

James Anthony, a clinical social worker of the Willow Creek Clinic in Canton, will talk on grief and bereavement from 7-9:30 o.m. Sunday in Faith Community Moravian Church, 46001 Warren, Canton, The program will focus on dealing with the death of a loved one and offer some help in explaining death to children.

• ST. MICHAEL LUTHERAN

Diane Hull, a Canton resident, will present a program of songs at the 7:30 p.m. advent service on Wednesday, Dec. 9, at St. Michael Lutheran Church, 7000 Sheldon, Canton. She was born in England and brought to this country as an infant.

By Iris Sanderson Jones special writer

HRISTMAS LIGHTS began to twinkle along the Lincoln Heritage Trail (LHT) this week, as the holiday season was launched nationwide. Yuletide attractions along the trail are only a few of the seasonal events that travelers can use to light up their lives on the road between now and the New Year.

The Lincoln Heritage Trail is a 2,200-mile marked route that meanders through the most importation locations in Abraham Lincoln's life, from his birth in Kentucky, through his boyhood in Indiana to his grave in Illinois.

The LHT is marked along regular highways by large reproductions of a Lincoln penny. These signs are posted by the Lincoln Heritage Trail Founda-historic and commercial tourist attractions along the route. A main trail and an alternate route are marked in each Kentucky's main trail includes yearround attractions such as the Lincoln Birthplace State Park in Hodgenville, My Old Kentucky Home State Park in Bardstown, Shakertown at Pleasant Hill, and the Mary Todd Lincoln House in Lexington, as well as the cities of Frankfort, Lexington and Louisville.

Louisville has a bang-up Christmas celebration this weekend, Dec. 3-6, including a downtown schedule of treetrimming, caroling, ice skating, a Christmas ball and house tours.

A holiday market, featuring Phyllis George Brown and the Kentucky Guild of Artists, will be held in Lexington tion, a non-profit group promoting both Nov. 14-16 at the Lexington Center, Heritage Hall East.

THE LINCOLN HERITAGE Trail is normally traveled in summer, but many of its historic attractions are

Cefebrate Christmas along the way

From boyhood log cabin to grave site

On the Indiana main trail, you can visit the Lincoln Boyhood National Memorial and State Park, with its living farm, in Lincoln City; the Lincoln Museum, with, its collection of original Lincoln photographs, and more than 10,000 Lincoln books, in Fort-Wayne; Lincoln Pioneer Village in Rockport; Santa Claus Land in Santa Claus, near Evansville; and the cities of Fort Wayne and Indianapolis.

At this time of year, many of the Christmas attractions are in the cities. Indianapolis celebrates Christmas at the Zoo Dec. 4-11, and Christmas at the Indiana State Museum Dec. 6, with an Ethnic Christmas at the Children's Museum through Jan. 3.

THE INDIANAPOLIS Museum of Art sponsors Christmas at Oldfields, a 19th century celebration, Dec. 11-27. A Christmas Candlelight Tour of eight decorated historic buildings takes place in the city, 4-8 p.m. on Dec. 13.

You are also invited to the Christmas Ball in historic New Harmony, 4-8 p.m. on Dec. 13.

The Lincoln Trail Monument, just across the Wabash River, which forms the southern border of Indiana, is one of the most interesting of many monuments along the Lincoln Heritage Trail.

It marks the place where the Lincoln family entered Illinois during Abe's boyhood and points towards two historic sites: the Lincoln Log Cabin State Park and the Lincoln Douglas Debate Site in Charleston; and the Lincoln Trail Homestead State Park in Decatur with its replica of the cabin where the Lincolns first lived in Illinois.

ONE OF the most colorful Christmas attractions occurs Dec. 5-6 at Lincoln's New Salem Historic Site in Petersburg, where a New Salem Christmas is celebrated in a restored village where Lincoln once lived.

The ladies bake, churn and spin; the cooper tends his barrels; the blacksmith pounds his shoes. School is in session and the carolers wander the village

This weekend also launches the Annual Christams Poinsettia Show at Glen Oak Conservatory in Peoria, which continues through December. Candlelight tours in Peoria also, Dec. 4-6 and 11-13.

Everything on the Lincoln Heritage Trail points towards Springfield, of course, where Abraham Lincoln lived, practiced law and is buried.

THE LINCOLN Depot Museum, and the sound and light show, are available only in summer, but you can visit the old and new state capitols, Lincoln Home Area, law offices and grave year-round.

Lincoln's Tomb State Memorial seem like a fitting end to the trail. Here the children have rubbed the bronze statue of Abe Lincoln to a shine. They leave pennies in the bronze vests of small Lincoln statues around the grave site.

For information and maps of the LRT, contact the Lincoln Heritage Trail Foundation, 702 Bloomington Road, Champaign, IL 61820.

- ual return). The amount excluded is also not taxed by the State of Michigan.
- Your All Savers Certificate is insured to $100,000.00 by the FSLIC.
- Your interest rate is quaranteed for the full term of the certificate, unlike other investments such as money market funds where rates fluctuate daily.
- You can participate with a deposit of $500.00 or more.
- Funds in your Standard Federal 26-Week Money Market Certificate can be transferred to an All Savers Certificate without any early withdrawal penalty on the transferred

If you elect to receive interest at maturity there is no compounding and the interest rate on your All Savers Certificate will be 8.34%. If you wish to have interest payable monthly or quarterly, the annual simple interest rate on your All Savers Certificate will be 8.010% and interest retained in your All Savers Certificate will be continuously compounded for an effective annual yield of 8,34%. These rates are available for All Savers Certificates opened through December 24, 1981. Rates for accounts opened after December 24, 1981, will be announced later. However, the rate established at the time an All Savers Certificate is opened is the rate in effect for the full one-year term of the account. You should also know that in the event of early withdrawal from an All Savers Certificate federal law and regulations require a substantial early withdrawal penalty and loss of the interest exclusion for federal income tax purposes. The All Savers rate of 8.34% is equivalent to the yields for taxable investments shown in the table. This table demonstrates how the All Savers Certificates can provide you with a higher after-tax yield than you may be earning from a money market mutual fund or on other investments. The deposit needed in your All Savers Certificate to achieve the maximum allowable deduction is $23,980.82 for a joint . return, and $11,990.41 for an individual return.

So much balance, in fact, that for the first time in years, no area team was able to reach the playoffs.

Westland John Glenn, co-champion of the Northwest Suburban League, had the area's best record at 8-1. The Rockets' undefeated season and shot at a Class A quarterfinal berth, however, were dashed by North Farmington.

One area team, Garden City West, showed dramatic improvement under rookie coach Dean Shipman. The Tigers finished second in the Tri-River League and concluded the year with a respectable 6-3 record. West, however, won't be able to improve on that next year. School doors will close in June. Students from West will be in the halls of Garden City East next year.

Detroit Catholic Central made it to the Silverdome as a wild card team and didn't disappoint its fans in the Catholic League Championships with a shutout victory over Allen Park Cabri-

Rocks roll Mighty Salem mangles RU

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Redford Union's Cinderella story ended abruptly, even rudely Tuesday.

The Panthers were outmatched and outgunned by superior basketball talent - Plymouth Salem in the girls' basketball state regional semifinal game at Redford Thurston, losing 61-27.

The Salem victory sets up a third match with Livonia Bentley, this one to decide the regional championship. Bentley's only loss this season was to Salem, a setback the Bulldogs avenged later in the season by defeating the Rocks. The regional final will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Thurston.

The outcome of the RU-Salem game was never in doubt. Salem methodically chewed up RU, scoring the first five points. By the 3:50 mark of the first quarter, all five Salem starters had scored to give the Rocks an 11-2 advantage.

The Rockslide never let up until RU was buried deep in a 20-point disadvantage at the half and 34 points after three quarters.

"PLYMOUTH SALEM is the best team we've played all season," said RU coach Terri Ann Anthony. "They're very disciplined. Speedwise and fundamentally, they're the best in the state."

RU was not expected to give Salem much of a tussle. The Panthers won only four of 19 regular season contests but surprised everyone by winning their district. Still, Salem coach Bob Blohm said his team wasn't looking past the game to the matchup with Bentley.

"When you get this far into the state tournament, you have to play each game before thinking about the next one," Blohm said.

If Blohm hasn't thought of a way to beat Bentley, he won't have much time to do it. He admitted, "I don't know how we're going to do it - but it'll be

"I don't think there is a better team in the state," Blohm said of Bentley. "(Kim) Archer, (Lori) Swanson and (Ann) Roy are tremendous rebounders. It's hard to keep them off the glass.

"It'll take a tremendous defensive effort."

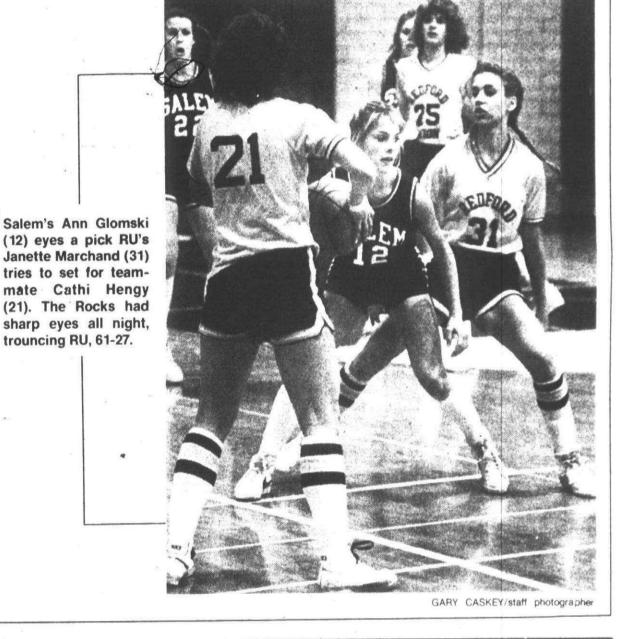

SALEM ISN'T going into the Bentley game without hot hands of its own. Blohm said his team was "really at the top of their game" against RU.

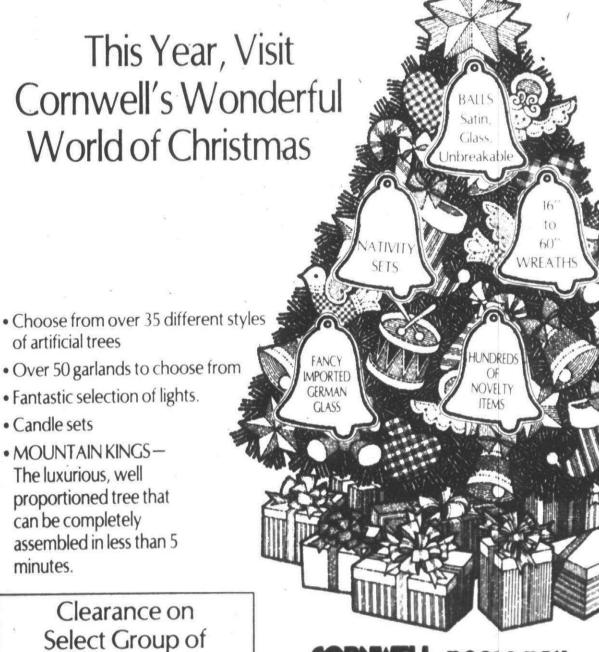

One of the interesting features of the game was that it pitted two of the area's best shooters against each other - Cathi Hengy of RU and Jan MacKenzie of Salem.

But that showdown fizzled, as neither played more than 21/2 quarters, although for different reasons. MacKenzie was red hot from the outside, canning eight-of-13 field goal attempts to lead Salem with 18 points. She left when Blohm went to the bench midway through the third quarter. Hengy had a different type of night. It was an inglorious finish for the sharpshooting senior guard she hit on only one of 12 floor shots, scoring five points before fouling out midway through the third Jacque Merrifield added 11 points for Salem. RU was led by Wreni Mountford and Lori Pagoda, each with six markers.

Designer genes fit future tennis queens

It was hard to tell which was better - the pedigrees or the tennis - the last few days at the Franklin Racquet Club in Southfield

The club hosted the United States Tennis Association's national indoor championships for 12- and 13-year-old girls, which is why the tennis was so good. After all, these are, or hope to be, the Tracy Austins of the future, (though when Tracy won the title in '74 and '75, everyone was trying to be the new Chrissy Evert.)

As for the pedigrees, well, tournament tennis may not be the sport of kings, but neither is it the sport of peasants or knaves.

Though a Korean-American named Grace Kim won the tournament, and there was an occasional black on the court or a name like Raka Raychaudhuri on the tournament board, this event seemed largely a gathering of next-generation preppie leaders, from Palos Verdes, Calif., to West Bloomfield, to West Palm Beach.

THEY CAME FROM around the country - 96 of the best young girls in the U.S., to spend Thanksgiving vacation kicking off the 1982 tennis season. Many came with parents or coaches.

They came with reputations and computer rankings based on careful scrutiny of their performances as 10 and 11 year olds.

They came with two-fisted backhands, calves muscled like weightlifters, precision strokes, blistering serves and enough gear to start a mailorder tennis business

They came with solid histories as overachievers and superkids who are mostly the children of overachievers. Wonderful genes beget wonderful genes, whether you're talking apples or

Her are some passages from the USTA's program:

"Melissa Brown, Scarsdale, New York. Melissa . . . participates in the girls recreational soccer, basketball and softball leagues. Melissa enjoys downhill skiiing and her ceramic sculptures have been shown in local exhibits.

"Cammy MacGregor, Palos Verdes, Calif. Cammy . . . loves all competitive sports as well as horseback riding, skiing, golf and bike riding. As a member of the National Charity League, she spends many volunteer hours participating in philanthropic activities.

"KRISTIN LYNCH, West Bloomfield. Kristin . . . is an honor student whose favorite school activity is drama. Kristin enjoys . . . basketball, gymnastics and softball. Kristin has a younger brother who plays tennis and baseball and a dog named Nipper." (How one plays a dog, I have no idea).

"Kathy Mulvehal, San Diego. Kathy . is a straight A student, whose favorite subject is mathematics. Kathy is a member of the Citizenship and Scholarship clubs at school. She has taken three years of French and plans to take a trip to France this summer with her school. In her spare time, Kathy plays the piano." (Spare time?)

"Grace Kim, Ridgewood, N.J. She is an honor student in the eighth grade, but most of her subjects are of ninthgrade skill. Skiing and playing the piano are her alternate hobbies . . . Grace envisions herself as a mixture of doctor, veterinarian, tennis pro and even an author in future years."

Tom Henderson

THESE GIRLS DIDN'T get to the nationals because of money, though many of them wouldn't have gotten there without it. The silver plates for the winners go nicely with the silver spoons many of them were born with. The lessons, court time and travelexpenses to tournaments take plenty of

But It also takes tremendous dedication to be as good as these girls are as voung as they are. Two-fisted backhands the way tiny Melissa Gurney, the runner-up to Kim, hits them are a product of thousands or repetitions.

Melissa, a tiny 12-year-old Californian who is a competitive middle distance runner in her spare time, has been hitting backhands since she was

"Now all she needs is to grow," said mom of Melissa, who gave up five inches and a year and a half to Grace. "We didn't expect her to win. But she played with composure. She is young in the body, but not in the head."

Maybe that's what is disconcerting about these kids. They all seem so young in the body but so old in the head. So mature. Maybe that's a product of having a goal early in life and working hard to achieve it. Or maybe it's from growing up watching Chris like machines.

Kim, in particular. She is certainly a millionaire of the future on the women's tour. She hits a driving serve that is nearly impossible to follow and plays with confidence, savvy and killer inof her opponent and of herself. Kim, the 13-year-old No. 1 seed who finished 13th a year ago, won six Troy; and Kristin Lynch of West straight matches in the tournament Bloomfield.

without losing a set. Remember the name: Grace Kim.

is the younger sister of Chris Gilles, who played in this tourney last year and finished the 1981 season as the nation's 21st-ranked player. Wendy, 13, was ranked 24th after last season and was seeded No. 2 to Kim in the Franklin tournament

Gilles won two matches, then lost to Melissa Brown, the No. 9 seed who ended up third. Gilles finished 17th in singles and, with partner Kathleen Monczka of Okemos, fifth in doubles.

Evert play. Whatever, these girls play gor and Stephanie London, who went on to the doubles title. Gilles is better than she showed, though she'll have to wait till next July to get another shot at a national title.

Michigan was well represented, with 13 players, including Kristin Ashare, stinct. She is in total control out there, the younger sister of Erin, the state's Class A singles champion from Bloomfield Hills Lahser; Paige Pluymers of

THEN THERE WAS Clare Evert. She's Chris' sister and she would have WENDY GILLES. Remember that been No. 2 ranked except she does most name, too. Gilles is from Plymouth and of her playing in Florida and doesn't come north to tournaments.

All of which helped Kim, though the way she played, it's hard to imagine anyone beating her. Kim had extra incentive. Daddy, who stayed back in Ridgeway, promised her an early Christmas present of $1,000 if she won the national tournament.

That "and a week off," added Grace. "A week off, that's what I want more than anything.

"I gotta play tomorrow," answered a Gilles and Monczka were eliminated friend enviously. The $1,000 hadn't imin the semifinals by Cammy MacGre- pressed her. Clearly, the week off had.

Rick Wilson, Westland John Glenn, quarterback. Several schools are after the 6-2, 185-pound senior, who demonstrated both the ability to run and pass.

He was voted the Northwest Suburban League's Outstanding Back. He accounted for 17 TD's, 10 by passing (school record) and seven rushing. Two is his TD runs were over 70 yards.

"Rick had a super year for us," said Glenn coach Chuck Gordon. "He's a hard worker, very dedicated and had game-breaker potential."

Tom Redilla, Redford Union, end. "Our best ballplayer," according to RU coach Harvey Heitman, Redilla was the only Northwest Suburban player to make all-league on both offense and de-

A two-way starter at both tight end and linebacker, Redilla led the Panthers with 31 catches for 521 yards and seven TD's. Three of his TD catches were game-winners. On defense, the 6-3, 207-pound linebacker led the team in tackles and interceptions (four).

Steve Tracy, Livonia Churchill, end. Only 5-8, 155 pounds, Tracy made up for his lack of size with hustle and quickness. He caught 35 passes for 652 yards and four TD's. He averaged 21.6 yards per catch and was named the Chargers' co-MVP this season.

He also intercepted 12 passes in his high school career, kicked off, kicked extra points, and returned punts and kickoffs.

Darrell Bartkowiak, Plymouth Salem, back. "He's the best wishbone fullback we've had since Scott Agnew (1974 All-Stater)," said his coach, Tom Moshimer. "He was our best all-around player."

The 5-11, 213-pound Bartkowiak rushed for 594 yards in 85 carries and scored seven TD's. The senior linebacker and co-captain led a sturdy Salem defense which nearly pulled off the upset of the year against No. 1 ranked Dearborn Fordson.

John Bielis, Livonia Churchill, back. The senior co-captain and All-Western Six League pick led the Chargers in rushing with 789 yards in 124 carries. He scored eight TD's and threw for another from the tailback slot.

In his career, Bielis rushed for 1,512 vards and 22 TD's. The 6-0, 185-pound Bielis also played defensive back and led Churchill in tackles and "hitters" points

"He is a complete player," said coach Ken Kaestner. "John played with a lot of determination and pride."

Salem cagers a power, again

By Jay Keenan special writer

Though Plymouth Salem's boys basketball team finished with a respectable record of 13-9 last season, most of its fans figure it has nowhere to go but

After all, the Rocks failed to finish atop the Suburban '8' League for the first time since the basketball program began in 1972, and while 13-9 is a cause for rejoicing in many places, it was nothing special for Salem.

Last year was a rebuilding year, and what was built looks just fine to Salem coach Fred Thomann.

"We have a good amount of size and experience," said Thomann, who has yet to suffer through a losing season in his nine years at Salem. "We've a good nucleus of veterans and that has to be one of our strengths. Everybody that's back has improved.

"We've playing real good right now as a group," he continued. "The key is going to be how well we play against someone different . . . I hope we can handle each situation better each day throught the season. Hopefully, they'll mature and grow as the season goes

TRI-CAPTAIN MIKE McBRIDE, Salem's top returnee, is going after his third varsity letter at the guard spot. The 6-foot-3 senior was a third-team All-Observer selection last year and a clutch performer all season long. Mc-Bride was also the Rocks' leading Joining him in the backcourt is senior tri-captain Dave Miller, an all-purpose player who transferred from Redford Bishop Borgess at the beginning of last season. Miller, 6-foot-3, was a starter most of the year.

Speedy senior Scott Bublin is the other tri-captain, a 6-foot-2 forward Junior cornermen John Cohen and Dave Houle, both 6-4, will be main cogs in Salem's contingent up front, according to Thomann. Both saw considerable playing time last season.

Senior Norm Haygood is the biggest Rock at 6-foot-7, and he will likely start at center. Haygood, a part-timer last year, is in his third year on the var-

John Kelliher, a 6-1 guard, rounds out Thomann's list of veterans.

THOMANN SAID Marvin Zurek, a 6-4 junior, a forward-guard up from the JV, may see a lot of action.

Other newcomers include Glenn Medalle, a 6-1 forward, Matt Broderick, a 5-11 guard, Greg Trim, a 5-8 guard, and Rick Berberet, who at 6foot-5 is the only sophomore on the var-

"We have a lot of players who can play," said Thomann. "We have a lot of skill in many of our positions from top to bottom. I feel that a lot of players who might be sitting on the bench could be starters for many other teams.

"Right now, I'm trying to work on what I think our lineups are going to be and I'm trying many different combinations to see which group blends together the best."

Salem's tri-captains for the upcoming basketball season: Scott Bublin (left), Dave Miller and Mike McBride.

THOMANN, WHO was Michigan State University's basketball MVP in 1964, said that his team will basically use a man-to-man defense. However, the coach plans to modify his team's offensive strategy depending on the caliber of competition.

"Offensively, we'll be doing whatever the opposing team's defense allows us to do. It all depends on who we're playing against. We'll play inside if they let us go in, but if they take our inside game away, we'll have to go to the perimeter."

Thomann believes almost any team could contend for the Suburban 8 title "It's going to be one of those years where just about everyone in our league is going to be very competitive," said the Salem coach.

Thomann praised his rugged nonleague competition. "We've got a real good schedule. As we go through this season, it's going to be a real challenge for this team to step into the gym and see how we can play against some realgood teams,"

You want to strike it rich?

Can you imagine winning a singles bowling tournament and being rewarded with the top prize of $1 million?

Well, that's the opportunity awaiting the bowlers who enter what is being called the High Roller tournament at Showboat Lanes in Las Vegas.

It is being promoted by a group of tenpin officials known as International Promotions Inc., and it will be held next August in a bold attempt to gain world-wide recognition for the old game of bowling.

The entry fee for this event will be $1,000 and it is being suggested that preliminary events be held in establishments across the country to determine house winners, who will be sent to the

With total prize fund of $4,505,600, it has the richest prize list offered in any singles sport.

IT WAS a quiet week along the bowling front as far as the 700 Club was concerned. Only two bowlers broke the barrier to become eligible for member-

Fred Dolson, bowling in the mixed league at Woodland Lanes, linked games of 257, 267 and 230 for 754. It was his first 700 series.

The second barrier breaker occurred

BILLY GOLEMBIEWSKI, one of the veteran all-stars, just missed hte barrier-breaking gropul. Bowling in the Pile Drivers League at Plaza Lanes, he dropped to 192 in his final game after counts of 243, 253 and settled for a 688.

For the first time in a while, there were no 700 series at Westland Bowl, but it was a close call. Bob Shonce missed by a single pin when he laced games of 243, 209 and 247 for a 699. Right behind him came Mike Chadwick with 681 and Bob Cummings with 672. The high game of the week was a 279 rolled by Dan Pintar in the Monday men's league.

Roger Antatset the pace in the Vinco League at Garden Lanes with 673 and Ed Kujawa was high in the senior house loop with 640.

IN OTHER GOOD PERFORMANC-ES, Gloria Mertz won the Merri-Bowl doubles with a 609 and John Foley paced the junior house loop with 648. Barb Robinson showed the way in the Merri-Bowl ladies classic with a 640

Greenfield Village presents Victorian Holiday'

The candy cane and holly traditions of Christmas took shape in the 19th century. And advances in manufacturing and mass communications turned a predominantly religious observance into the secular and family holiday cel-

Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village illustrate these origins of the modern Christmas with a "Victorian Holiday" Saturday through Jan. 3.

The modern Christmas season is rich with traditions that have little to do with the Christian observance of Jesus' birth. The year-end, winter holiday that we celebrate is part religious, part Dickens' warmth, a dash of Moore's and Nast's Santa Claus, a variety of ethnic dishes and quite a bit of commercial enterprise. It took its present form in the 19th century.

Greenfield Village's 19th-century buildings are a set for this colorful Christmas. The homes, shops and industries all contribute to the holiday fes-

At the village print shop visitors see Irish traditions. an exhibit of Thomas Nast's famous Christmas pictures. It was Nast, a noted political cartoonist, who created our vision of Santa Claus in numerous holiday pictures for Harper's Weekly. A printer uses a steam operated press to print a guide of the Christmas tour, a 19th century candy ad (available at the Heinz house) and candy labels.

The steam-operated gristmill makes cornmeal for holiday cooking at the Ford home. Cornmeal recipes are discussed and available for visitors.

THE TRADITIONAL rural Christmas of the 1870s is the focus of activity at the Ford home. The period is shortly after the 1876 centennial. The cooking activity reflects an interest that developed at that time in early American cooking with cornmeal dumplings and muffins and various kinds of sausage. The decorating themes are patriotic, including a tree festooned with flags. The family activities reflect the Scot-

The Wright house, by contrast, is an urban home of the early 20th century. Christmas is becoming standardized. The decorations are from the Ladies' Home Journal. Christmas cards decorate a table. Recorded Christmas music is played on a cylinder recorder. Activities include tree decorating with popcorn strings, strudel making (reflecting the German background of the home) and household chores of the peri-

Canadian and English traditions are illustrated at the Edison Homestead, representing grandpa and grandma's house. The period is the 1870s in Canada. Decorations include a kissing ball and Christmas lamps. Activities include grandmother making plum pudding and grandfather whittling a Noah's ark for the grandchildren.

The roots of Chirstmas traditions are discussed at the Foster house while preparations are made for a party. The period is the 1840s in the Pittsburgh area. Clement Moore's "A Visit from St. Nicholas" is discussed. The German tree and the English yule log are also exhibited and discussed. Flute and guitar music is performed.

COOKIES ARE the center of attraction at the Adams house, an 1870s house with decorations from the period. Making gingerbread and springerle cookies for use as food and decoration is demonstrated. Egg shells are gilted for tree decorating. Other decorations are made of popcorn balls and paper.

In addition to the home activities, the village shows other aspects of the holiday season. At the Heinz house, a commercial confection operation demonstrates the making and packaging of various kinds of confections. At Menlo Park, the year is 1879 and preparations are under way for the first incandescent lighting demonstration on New Year's Eve. The power system is operating, and the early lighting system demonstrated.

Down Christie Street, the Sarah Jordan Boarding House was the first home to be lit with incandescent lamps. The early lighting is in operation. Activities include fancy work and dress making on a sewing machine.

The McGill Shop, formerly a jewelry shop, has been turned into a late 19th century millinery and fancy goods shop. The building was once used as a millinery shop. The front window features lavish holiday dressing. The shop is decordated in authentic style. The building has been renamed Mrs. D. Cohen's Millinery and Fancy Goods

Christmas as an official holiday came late to many states. The official marking of the holiday started in most states soon after the Civil War but wasn't national until well into the 20th century. This theme is presented at the Scotch Settlement School where a "teacher" discusses the fact that students were required to go to school on Christmas in the 19th century.

Many of our traditional Christmas carols are also a product of the late 19th century. A comic rehearsal of organist and choir demonstrates this theme at the Martha-Mary Chapel. A holiday feast is being prepared in the colonial kitchen of the Clinton Inn. Foods include roast turkey, sauces and soda bread. Visitors may sample free cider and buy cookies at the Town Hall.

HENRY FORD Museum continues the theme of 19th century Christmas with a wide variety of activities throughout the museum. The front hallways are brightly decorated. A large Christmas tree greets visitors at the main entrance to the Hall of Technolo-

Three 19th century businesses are open along the row of store front galleries. In the drug store visitors learn about 19th century cold remedies. In the milinery they see a display of fancy headwear. At the blacksmith shop, a wheelwright makes spokes and other wheel parts.

The Fontana Ensemble will sing at "Sounds on a Sunday" Dec. 13 at Westland Center.

Holiday sounds fill mall

December at Westland Center will be a month of musical activity and festive programs for the entire family.

The Center's "Kids Fun Factory" will feature a duet from the Detroit Community Music School at noon and 2 p.m. Saturday in the Central Court. On flute and harp, the duet will play songs for Tunes from favorite TV shows, songs for Christmas and many old favorites will be offered by Detroit Community Music School instructors Cindy Ferris on flute and Ruth Meyers on harp.

The annual "Christmas Sing-A-Long" will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in the Central Court. CKLW's Dick Purtan will lead Westland shoppers in the sing-along, assisted by the Canton Singers. Song sheets will be passed out to the audience, for the hour-long activity. Santa Claus also plans to be there. WESTLAND CENTER'S "Sounds on a Sunday" program will feature Fontana from 1-2 p.m. Dec. 13 in the Central Court.

Three members of the ensemble will perform familiar classics, as well as works of avant-garde composers.

The Fontana Ensemble's home is a 100-year-old general store converted into an art gallery in Shelbyville, Mich., which also serves as a concert hall and center for a summer music festival.

Local community music groups are performing in the Central Court every Monday-Friday during the holidays. In addition to Purtan and the Canton Singers, upcoming programs feature the Plymouth Choir at 7 p.m., Tuesday, Metro West Big Band at 7 p.m., Wednesday; Livonia Civic Chorus at 7 p.m., Dec. 10; Child Development Day Care at 5 p.m., Dec. 11; The Lords House Singers at 7 p.m., Dec. 11; Canton Seniors Kitchen Band at 2 p.m., Dec. 14; Bentley High Concert Choir at 7 p.m., Dec. 14; Garden City West Senior High Mixed Chorus at 10:30 a.m., Dec. 15; Gregory's Performers at 7 p.m., Dec. 15.

Also, the Plymouth Community Band at 7 p.m., Dec. 16; We-Wy-Co Sweet Adelines at 7 p.m., Dec. 17; Westland Church of the Nazarene performing the "King of Love" Cantata at 7 p.m., Dec. 18; Salvation Army Dearborn Heights Citadel Band at 7 p.m., Dec. 21 and Ward Presbyterian Teen Choir at 7 p.m., Dec. 22.

Livonia man joins graduate repertory

William Akey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Akey of Livonia, has begun his first year at the Hillberry Theatre in Detroit as a member of Wayne State University's Graduate Repertory Com-

Akey has performed in numerous roles as an undergrduate at WSU. The dimension of his performance ranges from dance and song to acting and was demonstrated in his most recent roles as Grumio in the Bonstelle's "The Taming of the Shrew" and as a performer at Opryland USA in Nashville.

This year his roles include Jodelet in 'Cyrano de Bergerac,' Thomas Diafoirus in "The Imaginary Invalid" and Richard in "Ah, Wilderness!"

WSU's Graduate Repertory Company program offers advanced training and the opportunity to participate actively in a 32-week repertory season while the student simultaneously works toward a graduate degree in theater.

THIS YEAR'S company is composed of 23 actors, 17 technicians and seven management personnel representing 19 states. Together they hold 55 degrees from nearly 40 colleges and universities throughout the nation.

The Hillberry Theatre officially celebrated its 19th season Saturday with the President's Preview performance of "The Imaginary Invalid."

The President's Preview for the invited black-tie audience was preceded by dinner and followed by a champagne reception.

Music that bounces

The Blades, a band of rock musicians who define their sound as "bounce music," recently released their first record, a 12-inch EP (extended play) of their original music for Universal Records. Michael Gordon, who is originally from Southfield, plays guitars and does vocals with the band. Gordon said the EP record "Blades" is not a full album but contains seven songs and sells for less, $3.99. The Blades were started about two years ago as a new wave band. Other band members are Don Walker, bass, vocals, also from Southfield (Gordon and Walker both went to Southfield High School); Allen Irwin, drums, formerly a Lathrup Village resident; and Chas Boone (who started the band), lead vocals, of Detroit. Gordon said bounce music is "the kind of music that makes you want to move." The Blades have been performing in Los Angeles and plan a tour after the first of the year that will extend from California to the East and to Detroit. In the past the band has played many Detroit-area spots including Uncle Sam's (now Nitro's) in Redford Township and the Second Chance in Ann Arbor. The Blades once were the house band at Center Stage in Canton.

Comedy hit opening at Win Schuler's

The Metropolitan Repertory Company production of "I Ought to be in Pictures," a Neil Simon comedy, will open Sunday in dinner theater at Win Schuler's restaurant in Ann Arbor.

The cast includes Robert Casemore, Katie Coleman and Kathryn Sutton. "I Ought to be in Pictures" is produced by Eric Jones and directed by Jack

Performances will be presented Sundays, with dinner at 4:30 and the play at 6:30 p.m. Win Schuler's is at the US-23 Plymouth Road exit. For more information or reservations, call 769-

The show launches the restaurant's fall-winter dinner theater season. It's the story of a down-on-his-luck Hollywood script writer suddenly faced with the unexpected visit of his 19-year-old daughter from New York, who he hasn't seen for 16 years.

Play stars deaf, hearing actors iday attraction at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit, running six weeks through Jan.

The 1981 Tony-Award-winning Best Play became a Broadway milestone last season when it introduced to the American theater an unusual mixture of hearing and deaf actors. It's a love ist." story of two people whose relationship was never "made in heaven."

This is the second attraction of the current Fisher Playgoer Subscription series. For information about the holiday playing schedule and prices call

James Stephens and Linda Bove star in Mark Medoff's story of a marriage between a deaf woman who refuses to read lips and a man who learns to speak her "sign" language but can never enter her world of silence.

STEPHENS CAN currently be seen on WTVS, Channel 56, in the leading role of a law student in the critically acclaimed series "The Paper Chase." He made his film debut portraying a young law clerk for the Supreme Court

Linda Bove has appeared in numerous roles for the National Theatre for the Deaf. She has appeared on Broadway in "Gianni Schicci" and "Under Milkwood." She is a regular performer on the program "Sesame Street" and played a continuing role in the daytime series "Search for Tomorrow."

Ms: Bove's book "Sign Language Fun," created for young people and featuring the "Sesame Street" Muppetts, has been recently published.

The cast of "Children of a Lesser God" is a mixture of hearing and hearing-impaired actors. Nanci J. Kendall and her husband Richard Kendall, both hearing impaired, play the roles of students. Jo Farwell, Stanjza Lowe and Gwil Richards are all hearing people.

WTVS wants phone helpers

WTVS Channel 56 needs volunteers to answer pledge studio telephones during "Winterfest," the station's 16-day public' awareness and fund-raising campaigan.

Individuals, block clubs, company groups, community organizations and others are needed mornings, evenings and nights now through Dec. 13.

James N. Stephens portrays James Leeds in Mark Medoff's Tonyaward-winning play "Children of a Lesser God" at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit.

"Public Enemy" (1931), 7:30 and 10 p.m. Friday and "White Heat" (1949), 7:30 and 10 p.m. Saturday at Cass City Cinema, 4605 Cass, phone 832-6309, $2. Running times 84 and 114 minutes.

Oh, what a generation did to gangster films. In the '30s, "Scarface," "Little Caesar" and Tom Powers (Cagney in "Enemy") were on top of the world. A Depression-weary public adored them, even though the motion picture academy and pro-censorship leagues abhored them. Films about anti-establishment thugs who battled, and sometimes beat, the system were as popular as the Eastwood-Bronson revenge pictures of the '70s. Cagney, Robinson and Bogart were catapulted to stardom in such films, and Warner Brothers became the preeminent sound studio by producing these.

In the post-war '40s, however, there was little room for glorified criminals. Cagney in "White Heat" is reduced to a simpering, oedipal psychotic. His Cody Jarrett is a ruthless, friendless, unsympathetic killer. Society didn't drive Cody to a life a crime - his own, demented mind did that.

Tom Power's and Cody Jarrett's crimes are the same, but Tom is allowed a rough upbringing, a war-vet brother who can't make ends meet, a loving mother and a faithful pal. Tom serves time without finking on his pal, and he dies revenging that pal's death. Cody gets headaches; he provides air for a hostage whom he has stuffed in a trunk by shooting the trunk full of holes. Tom dies, while society frolics to the gay strains of "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles.

An unrepentant Cody goes up with a smirk on his face in a blazing inferno.

Doing my homework the other night for a column, I reread Frank Prial's piece in Wine Talk on St. Emilion.

His comparisons between this region, so naturally lovely and hospitable, and Medoc, so uninteresting and formal, are fascinating. He compares at great length the atmospheres around the wineries of these two rival regions.

The Medoc is formal dinners, austerity and a generally cultured and refined environment. St. Emilion, on the "other" side of the Gironde, is farm country.

There the dinners are in the kitchen, the wine in inelegant cups or glasses, and the winemakers simple folk. These are farm people; the Medocs winemakers are city-based. St. Emilion wines are softer, more approachable, less austere than the hard Medocs, like the

IT OCCURRED to me that this is the exact distinction I have felt for years working back and forth between Napa and Sonoma counties, especially the larger Russian River area to the north in the latter.

Compared to Sonoma, Napa is intensively developed, platted and civilized. The wineries are clean, the tasting rooms commercial for the many tourists that go through each day, and one rather gets a feeling of standaradization and regimen.

2 wine regions contrast styles

There is a cloistered feeling at Mondavio Inglenook and Christian Brothers reflect the feeling of big business (and they are). There is a specific order to the events at Beringer, and at Hans Kornell you get a speech and one glass of champagne. That's it.

Sterling is antiseptic. Beaulieu very smooth and orderly. There are many exceptions, of course, but in geneal the major wine producers of Napa have developed a set of mechanisms to formalize the procedure of wine tasting.

Even Charlie Wagner of Caymus has put in a tasting room. In Napa, many do not even post "No Smoking" signs. One knows that is something that is not

BUT IN THE Russian River area above Santa Rose, it is all different. There you sit in Amerigo Raffanelli's kitchen and sip Zinfandel, drink Chardonnay around the pool at Stemmler, stand in a barn at Mill Creek, Pedron-

Organized tours do not exist, but they will "show you around" if you like, all the while enjoying a glass filled time and again from the wooden casks. Some have tasting rooms, but here the winery dogs go in and out of them along with the guests. Winery dogs (a special kind of breed) simply do not mix with the public in Napa.

Napa itself was a more informal place before the tourists began to overrun it a decade ago. And the area around Sonoma City to the south, inchuding Kenwood and Chateau St. Jean. is moving that way, alas.

In time, the Russian River will need to standardize to cope with the tourists who spill out of Napa. But not yet.

Then the way to find the farmers and winegrowers of St. Emilion here will force us to go to Ukiah, Gold Country and San Luis Obispo. In these regions, the warmth and friendship of the old days still exist, even among the newer
