CANTON IS the 26th-largest community in this state, according to population figures released by the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG). Canton also is the fourth-largest township in the state, behind Clinton, Waterford and Redford. Canton's population is approximately 48,000.

A PUBLIC HEARING on Canton Township's sign ordinance will take place during the planning commission meeting at 7:30 p.m. next Monday at Township Hall, on Canton Center south of Cherry Hill. Many Canton businessmen and businesswomen are expected to attend this meeting. The hearing is open to the public.

There were no strollers with packages stacked high, no people balancing boxes of gifts. But the cash registers are still ringing.

"Sales have increased this year," Jane Fornero, mall manager, said. "We're 4 percent ahead of last year.

Officers find body of missing woman

The naked body of a young woman was found in Plymouth Township Friday by Plymouth police officers.

The body, tentatively identified as that of 27-year-old Janet Reynolds of Plymouth, was found in the field on the north side of Joy, east of Lilley.

Positive identification of the body hadn't been made as of Friday evening, however police notified Miss Reynolds' parents they believed the body to be their daughter's.

Miss Reynolds was an employee of Burroughs Corp., and her parents live in Garden City, according to police. The woman had been physically assaulted, Plymouth Police Chief Carl Berry said. Police are waiting for test results to determine if the woman also had been sexually assaulted.

AS OF Friday, police had no suspects and declined to say if there were any clues or possible leads to the investigation.

Berry said they were notified of Miss Reynolds' disappearance early Friday morning by a friend she was bowling with.

"At 1:03 a.m. officers responded to Plaza Lanes (42001 E. Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth) to check on a missing person," said Berry.

The officers checked on Miss Revnolds' car, which was in the parking lot, and unsuccessfully tried to have her paged.

Officer Michael Gardner continued the investigation in the morning. "Suspicious things," including finding Miss Reynolds' coat with the arms inside-out, indicated to him there was "more than met the eye."

Gardner then obtained a helicopter from Renaissance Air, on Lilley in Canton, and searched the area by air with the help of Canton police officer John Sherwin.

While flying at 300 feet, Gardner spotted a body in the small field with a clump of trees.

"Our officers did a good job looking around, contacting family and friends and searching the area," said Berry.

Hawthorne Valley Country Club, bought Oct. 12 by a four-person syndicate, will be developed into a familyoriented entertainment center called Westworld.

The property, Merriman and Warren roads in Westland, is now owned by a group registered as Westland Recreation Center Inc. A certificate of incorporation was filed in Lansing Oct. 26, 1981.

Irving Glancy, who identified himself as one of the owners, said the group plans to spend $1 million to renovate the clubhouse and build a miniature golf course and go-cart track on the 60 acres of land.

THE REGULATION nine-hole golf course will remain intact, Glancy said. "We're going to give a minimum of 100 jobs - maybe 150," Glancy said.

Glancy and Alex Bardy, general manager of Westworld and another owner, announced the following plans:

Tuition tax credits: A boon to parents or a costly tax drain?

By Suzie Rollins Singer staff writer

Opponents of a tuition tax credit bill say it would drain billions from the federal treasury during the next few

Supporters argue, however, that parents who send their children to private schools are paying twice — high tuition and local property taxes for public schools. The bill they support would give parents a federal income tax credit for private school tuition they pay.

Educators from public and private schools Monday debated the merits of thebill in Birmingham's Seaholm High School.

Their topic was the Packwood-Movnihan Bill, S-550, presently before the U.S. Senate. Sponsors are Republican Robert Packwood of Oregon and Democrat Daniel P. Moynihan of New York.

"IT WOULD BE a phase-in bill that would begin with a $250 tax credit in 1982 and $500 credit in 1983," said Robert Tyrell, director of counseling at Oakland Intermediate School District.

"And then in 1984, the $500 credit would go to graduate students and halftime students as well as the full time students." he said.

"In 1982, the net loss to the federal government would be $40 million, in 1983 it would be $2.6 billion, in 1984 $5 billion, in 1985 $6.3 bilion, and in 1986 the loss would be $6.8 billion," he add-

If passed, it would provide a federal income tax credit of 50 percent up to a $500 maximum to persons paying college, vocational, elementary and secondary tuitions. The credit would be given to the person who pays the tuition, not to the education facility.

"The credit goes to the parents. There is no provision at all that calls for the schools to get the money. That has been a deliberate distortion by opponents (of the bill)," said Etta Fielek, press secretary Sen. Packwood.

JOHN PAGEN, superintendent of Waterford School District, said a tuition tax credit would "destroy public schools as we know them today.

"Private schools enroll over 10 percent of the nation's students, and tuition tax credit would benefit only those attending private schools."

Richard Schlegel, headmaster at Detroit County Day School, said he favors the tax bill on principle, but the credit-or lack of it-won't affect students attending private schools.

"Tuition to our school is over $5,000 a year, and wealthy families are five times as likely to use private schools as less affluent people," Schlegel said. "The tax credit won't make any difference to the parents who send their children to our school."

Disagreeing with Schlegel, Karl Bernlmaier, director of counseling at Brother Rice High School in Birmingham, said a tuition tax credit would aid parents of private school students.

"Parents tell me they pay twice for private education. This tax credit could make it possible for a parent not to take a second job to send his child to private school," he said.

Clinic gives smokers help in kicking the habit

By Marie Chestney staff writer

"I notice some of you smell a lot better tonight."

With these words, Dr. Arthur Weaver, associate professor of surgery at Wayne State University and a long-time critic of smoking, opened session four of the five-session "kick the habit" clinic last week at Plymouth Canton High School.

"In fact," Weaver said, "I think I see a lot more smiles tonight. And I bet some of you can now taste your food for the first time in a long time and can now even smell how awful your car smells."

Across the school's little theater, 70 audience members laughed and nodded knowingly at Weaver's warm-up exaggerations. For many, it had been a long, tough week.

THE ORDEAL began Monday night when the smokers had trekked to the free clinic, sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist Church-supported Better Living Seminars and had been given their regimen for the week:

No cigarettes, liquor or caffeine. Cool showers. Lots of water and fruit juices. Plenty of exercise.

Now, four days later, there were some who found it easy, some who didn't go the whole route, some who had not yet started and some who had cheated and backslid even before the first day ended.

"How has your week been going?"
Weaver asked Jeffrey Fordell, a 29year-old Canton resident who said he had smoked since college.

"I think about smoking all the time, and then I go and get a glass of water," answered Fordell, sitting beside his non-smoking wife, Kathy, who had come with him to some of the sessions.

Friends of his who had quit smoking, a desire to live longer and a wife who had shown him an ad for the clinic all had prompted Fordell to try to kick the habit

He said he hadn't smoked once since the clinic began and was determined to keep it up once he was on his own.

FOR RITA Turner, a 17-year smoker from Farmington, the cold showers and liquid diet were the hardest part of the week. Both Mrs. Turner and husband Jim, a 22-year smoker, had tried to stop before but couldn't. Now both were trying to get rid of cigarettes together.

"On the first day we had to go without food and drinks, and it was great to sink my teeth into real food again," Mrs. Turner said.

Jim Childs, a 22-year smoker from Livonia, said he had cheated on the first day, got mad at himself and hadn't smoked since.

When Stan Mish, a 14-year smoker from Northville Township, walked into the clinic the first night he said he thought his chances were slim for giving up his pipe.

"But when I walked out of here Monday night, I threw my pipe away. I've suffered this week, but I'm going to stick with it."

According to Mrs. Turner, "Most smokers really want to quit but don't know how."

THROUGH FILM strips, pep talks, humor, group therapy and the five-day program, Weaver said he trys to supply the "how."

He is aided in the sessions by Canton Township resident John Swanson, coordinator for Better Living Seminars. Sessions are held periodically throughout Michigan through Better Living Seminars, Box 574, Plymouth 48170.

Weaver, in his job as cancer surgeon at Harper Hospital and the Allen Park Veterans' Medical Center, said he sees every day what happens to the heart, lungs and mouth of smokers.

And participants at this Thursday session got to see pictures of what Weaver called some of the "less ghastly" results. It was a true medical horror show, complete with black lungs, fat-filled arteries and gaping cancereaten mouths.

Such pictures, Weaver said, have just a short-term effect on smokers and are shown only to motivate those who need an extra push.

"Most smokers assume those things happen to someone else," he said.

WEAVER AND Swanson rely, instead, on getting smokers to make long-term lifestyle changes.

This includes daily exercise and diet changes. It also includes getting smokers to change those daily situations that trigger the urge to smoke.

tions that trigger the urge to smoke.
 For the final Friday session, each participant was asked to come up with such a "trigger" list.

High on his list, Fordell said, were taking work breaks, talking on the telephone and driving.

Weaver admitted that "over the long haul, smoking is the toughest habit to break and the hardest habit to stay away from.

"Once those cells have learned to like nicotine, they need it."

To keep the "dragons from snatching you back," Weaver gave his audience some cigarette-fighting tips: Don't try to be a part-time smoker, don't reach for a cigarette when the stress level rises, and don't think lighting up a cigarette solves any of life's problems.

Sometimes, Weaver said, smokers need to go through the clinic three or four times before these three messages finally sink in.

"The first time, they really don't want to go," he said. "The second time they want to do it their own way.

"On the third try, they start saying 'I guess he's right." For some people, the only way to learn is through failure."

Bardy is thinking of a price around $5.95 for the family-style, all-you-can-eat dinners, he said. ADDITIONALLY, PLAY areas will be constructed off the wings of the restaurants to occupy young children if their parents choose to linger over dinner.

Target date for the opening of the restaurant is

• Renovation of a storage building on the grounds into an old-fashioned ice-cream parlor. A spring opening is projected.

• Construction of a miniature golf course and a go-cart track in spring. A baseball batting cage also

Other improvements planned include an expanded, asphalted parking lot, a pizza cafe and landscaping on the roof of the 12-lane bowling alley to improve the view from the proposed restaurant.

The venture is apparently well capitalized. Glancy, a real-estate developer and a builder, said it won't be necessary to borrow from a bank to finance Westworld.

"WE HAVE done lots of thinking and lots of feasibility studies," Glancy said. "We are not here to throw out money. This area is ripe for things like Westworld will attempt to attract people from a wide area, Glancy said.

"We can draw people from the west side and all parts of Wayne County and part of Washtenaw County," he said. "We're aiming for working people who live around here."

Because of Glancy's involvement in real estate for 30 years, he was attracted by the possibilities of the Hawthorne Valley property, he said.

"I KNOW a good site. I can smell it. It's beautiful, nice to look at.

"This is what I would call an under-utilized facility. Two ladies owned it and didn't know what to do with it. You're going to see 10,000 children happy

"Everything was so old fashioned. Nowadays, it's so modern. You can do so much."

For years, many people in the area mistakenly thought Hawthorne was a private club, they both said. They want to dispel that image.

To do so, they will promote Westworld more actively. Beginning this winter, for example, they will open up the golf course for cross country skiing. Even though many changes will be made, golf and bowling leagues at the facility will continue to be welcomed, Glancy said. WHILE NOTING all the enjoyment that may come to individuals and the community from Westworld, Glancy acknowledged one reason so much money is being poured into the project is to make money. "I'm doing it to make a buck. But I like to pro-

The property was sold by the Donald E. Brown Trust, Bardy said. Neither Bardy nor Glancy would say how much they paid.

However, land similar to that at Hawthorne Valley would probably fetch $10,000 to $15,000 on the market, Glancy said.

Views on Dental Health

Philip Meizels, D.D.S., P.C.

THE ABCESSED TOOTH When an abcess hits you, you'll know it! The pain is severe and constant, with the side of the face swelling in a few days. This is an emergency. The abcess normally starts with a cavity which is left untreated. The bacteria begin their treacherous work by destroying the outer case of enamel, then the inner (more sensitive) part of the tooth called the dentin. Eventually, the cavity will invade the innermost part of the tooth, called the pulp where the nerves and blood vessels are. Now, you've got trouble and you'll know by the pain. It is caused by the swelling of the blood vessels against the nerves since the pulp is surrounded by rigid walls.

The pulp loses the battle and slowly dies, leaving the tooth full of decomposed tissue and swarming with germs. When the germs reach the tip they will set about making an abcess. Then they will proceed to gradually destroy the surrounding jawbone and tissue.

A filling will not help a root abcess. The decision now (after the infection is treated) is whether to save the tooth by root canal therapy or have it extracted. This pain and possible tooth loss can be prevented by having cavities filled early A public service to promote better

Economist says GNP should rise

By Tim Richard staff writer

Economically, the first half of 1982 will continue to be a "downer," but federal Reaganomics and overdue business investment will bring real gains in the gross national product in the second

That was how Patricia Shontz Longe, professor of business administration at the University of Michigan, described the overall economic outlook for the Economic Club of Detroit and Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce.

"The consumer spends more freely, interest rates have come down and could stay down, the federal budget is expansionary but less so as the private economy recovers, and significant investment spending - long overdue begins to come on stream," Dr. Longe predicted for the last half of 1982.

THE FORMER newspaper columnist and editorialist split sharply with fellow economists who say the Reagan administration's tax cut would be infla-"Such advice looks rather silly in the current economic 'dowher,'" she said, borrowing the last term from Treasury Secretary Donald Regan.

"Instead of what the critics expected, the tax cuts are like manna from heaven. A ballooning deficit is not a problem in a recession, and I'd rather see a deficit caused by a tax cut than by an increase in government spending, because every short run becomes a long run, and in the long run, we've already learned how permanent government spending becomes.

Specifically, she predicted:

• Real GNP will increase 1.5 percent, all in the second half of '82.

• Consumer prices will increase 8 percent compared to 10 percent this year and 13.5 percent in 1980.

• Housing starts will be up 10 percent to 1.1 million, which is "still very

• Domestic auto sales will reach 7.1 million units, compared to 6.6 million in 1980 and 6.4 million in '81 - "if U.S. makers hold the line on costs and pric-

DR. LONGE had warm praise for Paul Volcker, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, for "hanging tough" and restraining the flow of money and credit under pressure.

Proof that Volcker was correct, she said, is that "gold prices are dropping into, the unspectacular under-$400 range, a sure sign that the world's 'smart money' people believe the monetary causes of inflation are finally well in hand."

Dr. Longe also had warm praise for the Reagan economic program's orientation to the long run.

"Its whole orientation is for the long run: To increase the incentives for investment and to shift U.S. resources away from government and toward the private sector.

UAW flexes muscle

County picks 4 to regional planning council

By Tim Richard staff writer

As the United Auto Workers union flexed its political muscle, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners selected four suburban members to the board of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority.

"It was very low key. One of our colleagues let it be known last week the two the UAW wanted," said Commissioner R. William Joyner, D-Plymouth, prior to Thursday's vote.

Joyner had nominated Canton Township Supervisor James Poole, but Poole withdrew before the voting, fearing the outcome was prearranged.

Except for a procedural question, there was not a word of debate on any of the eight candidates.

WINNERS WERE:

• Edward J. Plawecki Jr., 28, backed by the UAW. Joyner saw this as the union's effort to soothe two of Plawecki's relatives - state Sen. David, whose gubernatorial candidacy will not receive UAW support, and Edward Sr., chairman of the 15th Congressional District Democratic organization and a UAW staff official.

• Vincent Fordell, 49, mayor of Garden City and also backed by the • Dewitt J. Henry, 52, incumbent SEMTA board member, executive director of the Downriver Community Conference and former supervisor of Grosse Ile Township.

• Lorenzo D. Browning, 67, Grosse Pointe councilman and delegate to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. He is executive vice president and a director of Datavision Inc. and a former president of the Island of Bob-Lo Co.

Browning was the eastern suburbs' choice to replace Dwight Havens, former president of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and a resident of Grosse Pointe Woods. No reason was given for the Pointes' desire to dump ELIMINATED in the voting were Robert Bennett, Livonia councilman and a Michigan Bell district manager; Havens; and Wilma Healy, Harper Woods mayor pro tem and president of her own air freight business.

Mrs. Healy, the only woman among the eight original nominees, was edged out by Browning for the fourth seat.

Only the 14 suburban members of the Wayne County board were eligible to vote. Detroit SEMTA board members are named by Mayor Coleman A.

Commissioner Richard Manning, D-Redford, was absent and did not vote.

Commissioner Mary Dumas, R-Livonia, supported Livonian Bennett until it became apparent he had no chance. Her votes went to Henry, Plawecki, Browning and Mrs. Healy.

Joyner supported Bennett, too, until he was out of the race. Joyner's votes went for Fordell, Henry, Plawecki and Mrs. Healy.

Commissioner Tom Presnell, D-Westland, supported Fordell, Plawecki, Henry and Browning.

SUBURBAN Wayne County's SEM-TA representation was increased from three to four effective Jan. 1, 1982, because of population shifts from Detroit to the suburbs. Detroit's membership is shaved from five to four.

Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara chose not to seek re-appointment to the SEMTA board, thus assuring Wayne County suburbs would have at least two new faces.

Perhaps significantly, Mayor For-dell, one of the new SEMTA members, is slated to be McNamara's campaign manager in the 1982 race for the Democratic nomination for Wayne County executive. McNamara did not openly campaign for Fordell, however.

Fordell, who is a part-time mayor under Garden City's council-manager charter, is staff manager for personnel business operations for Michigan Bell Telephone Co., for whom McNamara worked prior to becoming Livonia's full-time mayor.

PLAWECKI, in an interview after his election, said he realized it looked as if he were the UAW's candidate but felt he deserved the post on his merits.

He is an attorney with the firm of Berry, Hopson, Francis, Mack & Seifman. The firm is headed by Michael Berry, a powerful figure on the Wayne County Road Commission.

Plaweeki said he specializes in labor work and does some general practice. The firm serves UAW Local 600, among other unions, and Garden City. Plawecki handles labor negotiations, employment discrimination cases and workers compensation cases.

"I WORK pretty hard," he said. "I have a background as a math major (Central Michigan University) and handled budget preparations for the city of Dearborn Heights when I was administrative assistant to the late Mayor Frank Swapka.'

"I taught math at Franklin Junior High in the Wayne Westland School District and coached baseball at Garden City East High while going to law school (Detroit College of Law) at

"SEMTA has some very serious problems. We don't know what kind of federal funding is going to be available. I might be of some use lobbying. It helps to know a lot of people in politics," Plawecki said.

Christmas madness is also economic madness

A herd of hogs lolled all day around a pond, sleeping and snuffling. Two hours before sunset, they all charged toward the pond at once to drink. They slurped up all the water they could, bumping each other, turning the pond to mud, ripping up the bank.

The notion of sipping water gradually throughout the day never occurred to them.

The hogs came to mind last week as P. Gerald Mills, president and chief executive officer of the J.L. Hudson Co., addressed the Detroit Economic Club on the forecast for retailers in 1982. Here are his exact

"At Hudson's we are gearing up for that expected last-minute spending splurge. We see real opportunity as we move into the heart of the holiday selling season, the biggest and best shopping time of the

"With 28 percent of total sales and 65 percent of a year's profits generated during November and December, effective advance planning pays rich divi-

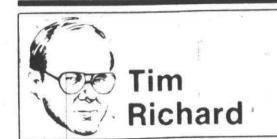

CONSIDER THE numbers: November and December are about 16 percent of the year; they produce 28 percent of the sales and 65 percent of the

William Lazer, marketing professor at Michigan State University, says retailers typically depend on Christmas shopping for 35 to 50 percent of their

And as if to shame the Hudson's president, Lazer adds that the notion of salvaging the season in the last few days is "just wishful thinking.

The point is not that our major retailers are doing good planning. Rather, they are doing excessively bad planning if they depend on two months of the year to trample up the shore of the pond, dirty the water and quench their thirsts.

Michigan's tourist industry 20 years ago saw the problem. Its big months were July and August. It wanted to make money all year long.

So tourist councils were organized. They promoted spring coho fishing, fall color tours, winter skiing and snowmobiling, strawberry festivals, potato festivals, mushroom festivals, frontier towns.

Turkey growers faced a big demand once a year. They began promoting turkey at other seasons and such turkey byproducts as sandwich meats and frankfurters. In short, tourism and turkeys took the opposite approach of the herd of hogs.

CONSIDER THE effect of a big Christmas shopping splurge on the economy. Instead of creating year-round, permanent, fulltime jobs, retailers create a batch of seasonal jobs by their overemphasis on Christmas. From a worker's point of view, that's extremely poor planning.

Did you ever go to a department store in July, pick out the item you wanted, stand there with the money in your sweaty palm and not be waited on? The poor planning by retailer managers meant there were no clerks to take your cash.

Did you ever see the chart of sales tax collections? It starts at bottom in January, rises slowly until Labor Day, then takes off toward the end of the year. Bad planning on the part of retail managers creates a cash-flow problem for government.

Did you ever notice the effect on children of the pre-Christmas hype? For two months they are tantalized, tempted, stimulated — and in one day it's all over. The psychologists have a name for it. I call it poor planning on the part of retail managers.

We in the media know the difficulty of disseminating news when you have page after page to fill one month and nothing the next. Television and radio broadcasters have similar problems. It's due to poor planning by retail managers.

The facts are that there is so much water in the pond and so much consumer disposable income. No good and much harm are done if all the hogs charge in at the same time.

CONSIDER THE reply of retailers: "We didn't create Christmas. We are just adjusting to society's traditions.

It's a lie. The Pilgrims and Puritans hardly observed Christmas. Jews don't observe Christmas, and the Jewish Hanukkah is a relatively minor festival compared to the other holy days.

Historically in Christian churches, the big three holy days are the Resurrection (Easter), Ascension and Pentecost. Christmas, marking the birth of Christ, has had more attention in recent years, possibly partly in reaction to the ever-increasing hype. "Get Christ back into Christmas" has been the cry, and the emphasis is on worship.

What Christians currently are observing is the time of Advent. Purple is the color for the season, and thoughtful expectancy the mood. Christmastide begins Dec. 25 and lasts until Jan. 6, Epiphany or Three Kings Day.

The Christmas shopping season is the commercial creation of planning by retail managers. There is nothing traditional about it. It has changed in a lifetime. When I was a kid, this exploitation began on Thanksgiving Day. By the '60s it started right after Halloween. Today the catalogs and even some displays are visible after Labor Day.

The tasteless display of Christmas ornamentation we are witnessing currently is an abomination to thinking Christians. I imagine non-Christians aren't too keen on it either.

Retail managers, if we are to take P. Gerald Mills at his word, planned it that way. And I call it mighty poor planning.

Are drinking and death as close as first cousins?

I watched a television newsman interview Tommy Thompson, the writer and friend of Robert Wagner and Natalie Wood, about Miss Wood's death.

Some people abuse themselves by the life that they lead and so you are not surprised when something happens and they die, Thompson said. He said Bill Holden's death was no surprise, but Natalie Wood's was different. She didn't live that way. It was unfair,

No doubt it was unfair that someone who did not live in a self-destructive manner died in such a fashion — an accidental drowning while intoxicated.

Yet the reports were disquieting. With all that the Wagners had — wealth, adulation, personal and professional achievement — they might not have been as happy as Joe and Betty Schmoe down the street. And despite everything that she had to live for, Miss Wood became a victim of America's most pervasive social problem and one of its biggest health problems.

Miss Wood's autopsy revealed that the alcohol content in her blood was .14 percent at her death. This is almost half again as much as is needed to convict a driver in Michigan of drunk driving.

AS I THOUGHT about this highly publicized tragedy. I recalled other barely-known tragedies - onetime friends and acquaintances, whose deaths were influenced by alcohol. It doesn't seem like too long ago that an ironworker I knew left a party at an eastside country club, got into his car for the long drive home and headed the wrong way on the freeway. He was in a crash within moments. A strong but gentle man, a congenial, friendly and boisterous man, he enjoyed life too much to have that happen. His death was unfair, I thought at the time.

Bob C.'s death, I thought, was unfair. We had dates, went to parties and went to bars together enjoying laughs, good times, unusual people and unusual experiences. One day I got a phone call and someone said he had gone up in a plane on a Sunday afternoon to attempt his first parachute jump.

The first jump was his last. The chute never opened. I heard the explanations later. Probably he panicked and couldn't get the secondary safety chute open. I heard that he was reluctant to go up but was talked into attempting the parachute jump after many drinks at a bar.

I REMEMBER others: someone who drowned in a hotel swimming pool in the early morning hours when no one was around, someone whose car went off a winding road and smashed into a tree, someone who drove into a bridge abutment, someone who was drinking in a parked car and was unaware of the carbon monoxide fumes seeping into the vehicle, someone who drank and then took too many pills, someone who was shot to death outside of a bar, someone who was shot to death inside a bar.

The more I think about it, the longer the list gets of those who I have known who have had their life shortened considerably by the effects of alcohol. I wonder if anyone can really say that we are without warning, that death while drinking is really so unex-

According to various authorities, alcohol is a factor in the majority of automobile fatalities, the majority of nonvehicular accidents and the majority of homicides. Men who used to live in prisons have told me that 75 percent of those in prison are there because of something they did while drinking. Alcohol consumption often contributes significantly to the debilitation of the victims of our leading diseases. A doctor tells me that anyone who regularly drinks more than 10 ounces of alcohol a week can expect to have health problems caused by such consumption.

I USED TO drink alcohol frequently and I thought it was something that I would always do. I spent a great deal of time with people who thought the same way. And then I became convinced it was something I

As time went on, I spent fewer and fewer nights in dimly-lit night spots having important and interesting conversations with witty, intelligent and important people and had fewer meals in chic restaurants noted for the variety and quality of their wine list. I went to fewer and fewer openings, parties, gatherings before I stopped drinking altogether. One of my friends tells me that while I used to be interesting. I am now a terrible bore.

I suppose I am. Instead of being the last to leave, I am among the first, that is, if I get there at all. I am more interested now in looking out the window to watch the squirrels, cardinals, bluejays and juncos compete for bird food and in reading books next to a fire in the fireplace than in going anywhere. I wake up every day feeling good. Boring or not, it's is better. I feel even better when I think that I have reduced the odds considerably that I will some day have a percentage of alcohol in my system of .14 percent and decide to go for some kind of ride.

Pearl Harbor: remembrances of Dec. 7, the 'day of infamy'

"When I get home, I'll have plenty of stories to tell," the young Marine wrote.

That was in 1942, months after the attack on Pearl Harbor. But the dive bomber pilot never came home. Instead, Marine Capt. Ruben Iden, 23, fell at Guadalcanal never to embrace his family again, never to swap war stories, never to be a husband or father.

Now, 40 years after the attack at Pearl Harbor, the memories flood back to those of us old enough to remember. I can remember clearly that Sunday afternoon. When the extras hit the street saying "Pearl Harbor bombed," I questioned my father.

And when he said it meant war, my stomach knotted up and I recall being frightened. But the war was far away from that little girl.

Years later, with the war over, I met Jack, my husband-to-be, and learned what it meant to experience Pearl Harbor Day and war very close up.

Ruben was the oldest of Bertha and Ben Iden's four boys. Jack, the youngest, was a 12 year old on Dec. 7, 1941. He hadn't seen his brother since the young Marine finished his flight training during 1940 and came home to Detroit in his impressive uniform.

FROM THERE, it was assignment to Pearl Harbor and Hickam Field.

Even before war came, Rube was Jack's personal hero. He had been an outstanding athlete in high school, at Detroit Institute of Technology, and as a Free Press Golden Gloves boxer.

It was his dedication to physical fitness that may have saved Rube's life on Pearl Harbor Day. When the Japanese attacked at 7 a.m. that morning, then Lt. Iden had long been gone from his barracks and was working out in a nearby gymnasium.

His barracks was strafed. When he went back, he found many of his friends were casualties, some

He also found several bullets in his own bed. He strung them on a key chain for a souvenir.

Today, lots of people are remembering Pearl Harbor. And so is Jack. There's a flood of memories, all w related to his brother and my parents. He'll never of forget that day. Home alone, listening to an opera on radio, he heard a news flash interrupt — "The Japanese have bombed Pearl Harbor. Details will follow.

In a few minutes the newscaster said a large Japanese fleet had attacked and an invasion of Hawaii

JACK LEFT the house and rushed to where his parents we e-at a meeting so they wouldn't have to hear the news from someone else. Then they all went home to stay near the radio.

Also in service in this country was Jack's brother, Isadore, and later, 17-year-old Sam quit high school to enlist

But that day, the critical thing was to hear from Ruben as reports of the 2,718 Navy casualties began to come through. Days were long and troubled before the family did hear four weeks later.

"Then, we got two things on the same day," Jack recalls. "We got a postcard, dated Saturday, Dec. 6 in which Rube said 'Something strange is happening here. If you don't hear from me, don't worry'. And a letter dated later that said he was fine."

ben Iden was reburied in the Punch Bowl Cemetery not far from Pearl Harbor where 1,102 American sailors lie still entombed in the USS Arizona, a war memorial.

The war that began with bombs ended with the big bomb that changed everyone's world. For many, the changes weren't only historical but deeply personal.

Spread out in the middle of the blue green Pacific Ocean are eight lovely, lazy windswept islands -

In the islands, you hear wind songs in the palm and flame trees and there's a South Seas magic in the air. Distant sounds and threats of war are lost to the laughter of the people, the soft strains of guitars, moonlight and tumbling clouds.

But the people of the most heavily populated island of Oahu are reminded daily of a troubled world. They can see the great Naval base at Pearl Harbor and the grim warships constantly clustered there.

Anyone who remembers Dec. 7, 1941, or has heard about it shouldn't leave the Hawaiian Islands without seeing Pearl Harbor.

Still in our minds is the Arizona Memorial — dedicated in 1962 — a covered white concrete bridge rising starkly above the hull of the battleship USS Arizona. It is surmounted by an American flag which flies day and night.

The ship was the victim of a direct hit on the day bombs fell on Hawaii. The Arizona is the tomb of 1,000 American servicemen. They were among the 2,335 killed that day.

THE OUTLINES of the ship shimmer just below the water. As a warning that the story is not yet finished, oil slicks still rise from the rusting hulk. It is a grim witness to the fury and folly of war.

The USS Utah remains at Pearl Harbor — the final resting place of 58 men. The ship rests on the bottom of the sea. No pretty hula girls with swaying hips toss flower leis of carnations at the burial battleships.

But the tour guide on our U.S. Navy boat threw flowers as we passed by the submarine base, destroyer piers, Naval shipyard and supply center and the Arizona Memorial. It's a tingly, misty-eyed tribute to those who died there 40 years ago.

You may never get a chance to see Pearl Harbor. But do you remember where you were when the bombs fell turning a peaceful Dec. 7, 1941, into

At 2:20 p.m. Washington time, 55 minutes after the attack started, White House press secretary Steve Early - at home in his pajamas - got the press services simultaneously on the phone and released that day in their book, "This Fabulous Century, 1940-1950." Following are excerpts from the books along with some personal recollections.

On that infamous Sunday, some radio listeners called a newsroom and asked, "Have you got any score on the game between the Chicago Bears and the Cardinals? Aren't you getting anything besides that war stuff?' Throughout the country, people continued to eat their chicken dinners and thought the shattering news was another Orson Welles hoax. A sergeant in the 27th Infantry at Pearl Harbor refused to issue ammunition. He pointed to a sign which said, "No ammunition without the captain's On the USS San Francisco, a young engineer came topside and said to an ensign, "Thought I'd come up and die with you." Gunners on the USS Argonne shot down their own antenna. A COMMANDER on the bridge of the USS Ramapo banged away at enemy planes with a pistol while tears laced his cheeks. A bosun's mate threw wrenches at the low-flying aircraft. From the ammunition storage room came a call asking what was needed. "Powder," the bosun's mate velled. "I can't keep throwing things at them."

A seaman boarded the USS Oklahoma which had taken six torpedoes below the waterline and was about to collapse. "I was terribly afraid," he said. "We were cutting through with acetylene torches. We found six naked men waist deep in the water. They were badly wounded, crying and moaning with pain. Never in American history was an event more anticipated and yet more surprising than the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

County bucks MSU Extension choice

Wayne County commissioners want Michigan State University to know they disapprove of its choice for director of the Cooperative Extension Service

Commissioner R. William Joyner, D-Plymouth, was the lone dissenter as the county board asked MSU to appoint Dr. June L. Sears, a black woman, longtime resident and veteran of the staff, to head the CES. MSU had proposed Illa Harris, a white woman from Maryland, for the position.

"It's the Cooperative Extension Service's position, not ours," Joyner said of the choice of Sears. The CES is funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and operated by MSU.

THE LOCAL office is at 5545 Wayne Road, Westland. The director's post previously was occupied by Donald Juchartz, who stepped down to return to staff work.

The proposal to ask for the appointment of Ms. Sears came from the human resources committee, chaired by Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Ink-

Joyner objected that the committee report failed even to list the names of the four candidates interviewed for the directorship, gave no reason for wanting to reject MSU's appointment and offered no rationale for substituting Mr. Sears.

The human resources committee learned of MSU's plan to appoint Ms. Harris Oct. 14, according to the committee report. The committee interviewed Ms. Harris, then asked to interview the other three finalists.

The committee report said it developed criteria for the best kind of director. The criteria included academic qualifications, experience in Cooperative Extension, knowledge of the county in light of the depressed economy and federal "affirmative action" guide-

THE BOARD resolution said the county board "does not concur" in MSU's appointment and would "approve" the appointment of Ms. Sears. After the floor vote, Mrs. Beard said in an interview: "Harris has a master's degree and has not worked in Cooperative Extension as long as Sears.

Harvey's last thing we need

I would like to express my grave concern about allowing a person like Keith Harvey and the Detroit Alliance to patrol the streets of Plymouth. ("Expanding from Detroit - Guardian Angels plan a local patrol," 9-26-81 edition, Plymouth Observer).

I have lived in the Plymouth area for 22 of my 26 years and pardon me if I do not consider Plymouth's crime rate noteworthy enough for attack dogs, shotguns and automatic weapons.

These "take the law into your own hands" groups which I see becoming more and more popular (i.e., Curtis Sliwa's Guardian Angels from New York) have no place in Plymouth. If there really is "corrpution under the surface" in Plymouth, it's most likely the fantasy of the person who called upon Harvey in the first place.

The streets of Detroit may belong to Mr. Harvey but the streets of Plymouth should belong to its citizens and, if the need arises, to the Plymouth Police. The last thing we need is Keith Harvey. John V. Hewett Jr.

Amphitheater not good idea

We were very relieved to read in the Nov. 26 edition of the Observer that the 90-acre parcel of land from the school farm most likely would not be used for an amphitheater/quasi "Pine Knob."

The intentions behind such a project are laudable, but we feel that there are far-reaching ramifications which were not fully thought out.

The overall interests of the Plymouth community would not be served by the increased automobile traffic on

To the editor:

I am writing in regards to an article written by Dennis O'Connor about Tony Coscia and his family.

Their plight can certainly be appreciated by myself and others in our community, who also have children with cerebral palsy. Having an impaired child can be an extremely emotional, frustrating and finacially expensive experience. We are all, at times, frantic yet the rewards are overwhelming because they are so deserved.

Neither of the articles about Tony mentioned his involvement in special

Dieting is full of fiction. Some people believe that because alcohol is a liquid, it can't hurt a diet. But alcohol is high is calories, and it may stimulate the appetite. education programs. Once a child has been determined to be impaired in at least one of seven catagories, he then is certified and the local school district has an obligation to educate and provide any necessary therapies needed in order for that child to reach his fullest

Plymouth-Canton's IPSEP has an outstanding reputation. The staff is composed of many talented and caring therapists and teachers, whose main concern is the welfare of each child. It was not shared in your article that Tony was removed from the IPSEP program at the parents' request. My son at 17 months could neither sit nor crawl; this past fall he started kindergarten with his "normal" twin sister. I feel I can say there must be some merit to this program.

Parents, especially with young or newly identified handicapped children, need contacts with other parents of handicapped children. IPSEP provides an effective means of parents sharing; insights, frustrations, fears, goals and everyday experiences.

This group of parents is relatively small, yet very closely tied together. I would hope that the Coscia's will reconsider joining the IPSEP group while utilizing the patterning techniques. One important feature is the parents willingness to share physicians and facilities whom we deal with, and since we all have seen countless, only the best are ever recommended. None of us have ever felt the need to travel so far when we have such good facilities either in Ann Arobr or in the Detroit

Sometimes in desperate search of a small miracle, we are forced to realize that goals of a handicapped child come in due time, usually when you've just about given up.

I would sincerely hope that by more fully realizing the local resources in conjunction with their other programs, some of the daily frustrations could be eliminated for the Coscia's.

Meals for your party at home

T-HOME ENTERTAINING is on the upswing, in part because of escalating dining-out prices, but also because of renewed interest in cooking and in trying new foods, new combinations, new ideas.

Experienced party-givers keep the menu simple yet elegant, with the emphasis on interesting foods, beautifully presented. The unexpected is always welcomed by guests.

For menus that surprise and delight the eye as well as the palate, look to tender, young lamb and flavorful rice accompaniments served with flair. This contemporary combination provides endless opportunities for intriguing dishes in the manner of many foreign cuisines, and meets a hostess' desire for less complicated preparation.

Fresh American lamb has changed to suit today's tastes. With so many people eating lighter, lamb has the much-appreciated bonus of not being marbelized with fat, and the outside fat is easily separated during preparation.

The delicate flavor of lamb is accommodating to all methods of meat preparation, and when lamb is substituted for other meats in traditional ethnic or diverse favorite dishes, the results add a new dimension to special recipes.

Versatile rice dishes are blissfully easy to prepare, and they harmonize beautifully with almost any main dish. Frequent party-givers know that dinner can't always be served on time, so they rely on rice.

Next time the party's at your home, think of tender, fresh lamb with rice accompaniments to make your party pleasurable and memorable.

OVEN-FRESH Nutty Donuts COUNT

Mr ar ani ilir i llinro inn ilr rankium i àili:

They go nuts over this in Hawaii

The Mauna Loa Macadamia Nut Corp. of Hawaii has announced the two grand prize-winning recipes in their first annual recipe contests.

The mainland grand-prize winner was Elizabeth T. Webster of Columbia, N.C., for her Macadamia Apple Alaska. Ms. Webster, 72, keeps busy "recipecontesting," gardening and flower arranging since her retirement after 41 years with the Department of Agricul-

Her recipe (which won her a microwave oven and a trip to Hawaii for two) is an elegant version of baked apples. They are stuffed with macadamias, fruit and brandy, coated with a syrupy pineapple mixture and baked. Then they're covered with a meringue, spirnkled with chopped macadamias and baked till golden. A truly spectacular dessert.

In Hawaii, home of the macadamias, the grand prize went to Margaret Freitas of Kailua, Oahu, for her Macadamia Creme Chantilly. This etheral creation is a melt-in-your-mouth macadamia and rum flavored custard, topped with a stiny macadamia-orange

MACADAMIA APPLE ALASKA

1 can (8 oz.) crushed pineapple in natural juice 3/4 cup chopped macadamia nuts, divid-

2 Tbsp. chopped maraschino cherries

4 medium-size tart cooking apples

1 Tbsp. butter or margarine

11/2 cup water 1 Tbsp. sugar

2 egg whites (at room temperature)

1/4 tsp. cream of tartar 1/4 tsp. pure vanilla extract 1/4 cup light brown sugar

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Drain pineapple, reserving juice. In a small bowl combine pineapple, all but 2 tablespoons of the nuts, brandy and cherries; set aside. Core each apple, enlarging cavity slightly. Pare about 1/4 of the way down from the stem end. Spoon an equal amount of the reserved

Place apples in an 8-by-8-by-2-inch baking pan. Combine water, sugar and reserved pineapple juice; pour over apples. Bake, uncovered, until apples are soft, about 1 hour. Baste with syrup mixture occasionally. Transfer apples to a baking sheet; let stand for 15 min-nut mixture into each cavity. Dot with

Two desserts, Macadamia Apple Alaska and Macadamia Creme Chantilly, won top prizes in recent recipe contests.

utes. Raise oven temperature to 500

In a large bowl beat egg whites with cream of tartar and vanilla until soft peaks form.Gradually add brown sugar; beat until stiff peaks form. Spread an equal amount of the meringue over each apple, coating apple completely. Sprinkle with remaining nuts. Bake until browned, about 3 minutes. Yield: 4 portions.

MACADAMIA CREME CHANTILLY 2 cups milk

1/2 cup sugar

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin

2 whole eggs 2 eggs yolks

2 Tbsp. dark rum or 1/2 tsp. rum flavor-

1 cup heavy cream

1/2 cup finely chopped macadamia nuts Macadamia Nut-Orange Sauce

Scald milk in the top of a double boiler over simmering water. In a small bowl combine sugar and gelatin; set aside. In another small bowl beat eggs and yolks. Add half of the scaldemilk to the egg mixture, beating constantly. Add to sugar mixture, beating until sugar is dissolved. Add to reamining milk in saucepan, stirring constant-

Place over simmering water in the bottom portion of the double boiler; stir constantly until mixture thickens slightly and lightly coats a metal spoon, about 5 minutes; remove from heat and stir in rum. Pour into a medium bowl. Cover and refrigerate, stirring occasionally, until mixture begins to thicken to the consistency of unbeaten egg white, about 11/4 hours. Whip cream until stiff. Fold into thickened mixture along with macadamia nuts. Cover lightly and refrigerate until mixture mounds on a spoon, about 30 min-

Spoon into dessert dishes. Chill until set, 1-2 hours or overnight, covered lightly. Serve topped with Macadamia Nut-Orange Sauce. Yield: 6 portions.

MACADAMIA NUT-ORANGE SAUCE 1 large orange

1/3 cup sugar

1/4 cup light corn syrup 1 1/2 tsp. lemon juice

1/4 cup finely chopped macadamia nuts

With a vegetable peeler remove only orange portion of peel from orange. Cut into very thin slivers to make 2 tablespoons; set aside. Squeeze juice from orange and strain (reserve 1/2 cup). In a small saucepan-combine reserved orange juice with sugar, corn syrup and lemon juice; stir until sugar

Simmer, uncovered, until a thin syrup is formed, about 12 minutes. Cool thoroughly; stir in macadamia nuts. Serve over Macadamia Creme Chantilly. Yield: 3/4 cup.

Venison

Some ideas from the 'Wildlife Chef'

With the firearm deer season shaping as one of the best if not the very best - in the state's history, Michigan families may well consume more vension this fall and winter than ever before.

The general impression of the state's wildlife biologists is that the buck kill is running about the same as last year or a little higher. And last year's kill of 108,250 bucks was the highest on record. So far this year, kill figures are up about 6 percent overall at highway deer-checking stations.

With all of that venison waiting to be prepared, household cooks will find a welcome ally in the "Wildlife Chef," the perennially popular cookbook published by the Michgian

United Conservation Clubs (MUCC). Among its nearly 400 recipes for game and fish, "Wildlife Chef" contains more than 50 for deer alone. In addition, the cookbook offers information on care of venison, butchering, freezing, and storage

Copies are available for $5.15 apiece, postage and tax included. They may be ordered by sending a check or money order to MUCC, Box 30235, Lansing, MI 48909. All proceeds from the sales are used to support MUCC's conservation and education programs.

Here is a sampling of vension recipes from "Wildlife

Here's some family ideas for the holidays

THE HOLIDAY SEASON means many good things to me. I know that it is not just my imagination that most everyone is a little friendlier than usual. More strangers say hello to each other these days.

Christmas lights have begun to pop up on houses around the neighborhood. Filling those empty corner lots are more and more Christmas trees just begging to be taken home and decorated. While I have not seen my first Santa Claus yet, I am sure that he is out there watching over my every move.

The college football bowl games will be starting soon, giving me a chance to watch many of the good teams that I have not yet seen play this year.

Shopping this year takes on a new dimension with my 15month-old son to buy for. I have always looked for excuses to roam the aisles of Toys-R-Us, and now I have the best excuse of AN ACTIVITY that has always coincided with these first signs of Christmas is the making of Christmas cookies. As far back as I can remember, my mom has always knocked herself out baking for Christmas.

Two or three types of cookies each night for a week would be prepared and carefully placed in department store gift boxes for storage in the basement until they were needed to serve to the many friends and relatives who would stop by unannounced for a holiday visit. And, of course, anytime our family went visiting during this season, we would take along a plateful of cookies as a gift to the friends we would pop in on.

While mom did the majority of the work, we kids usually pitched in when we were able. I can remember many hours of filling lady fingers, icing cut-out sugar cookies, and placing the Hershey's kisses on top of the peanut butter blossoms. I think we helped just so we could eat our fill as we went along.

Mom always knew to make plenty of extras, because what we didn't eat while helping, we would get later by sneaking into the basement and quietly munching a couple dozen before going to bed. As a matter of fact, last Christmas I caught brother Tom in mom's basement after everyone was in bed; don't ask me what I was doing down there.

I AM CONVINCED that the reason I gain so much weight during the holiday season is not a result of the big meals but because of the always-full plate of cookies on the dining room table just looking up at me pleading to dig in. I completely lose my self-control and pay for it the entire month of January.

Kathe and I have made cookie baking a very important part of our Christmas tradition. This year is our eighth holiday season together and we are looking forward to baking just as much this year as we did during that first year of marriage.

We certainly don't bake as many different varieties of cookies as my mom does, but we do have our favorites that we will continue to make and store away until Christmas.

Kathe has found her own way of storing our cookies. All year she saves our empty vegetable shortening cans. They make great cookie tins for keeping our cookies around the house or for a gift for a friend by wrapping some holiday gift wrap around the outside and placing a bow on top.

WE HAVE FOUND ways to make baking cookies fun. The primary method is to make cookies that involve more than just mixing ingredients in a bowl and plopping them into the oven.

Making cookies that take a joint effort can result in an enjoyable evening spent together doing something quite productive that will be enjoyed for the entire holiday season. Two of our favorites in this category are cut-out sugar cookies and cookie

Another way to make baking enjoyable is to bake cookies that you love to eat. Two of our favorites in this category are M&M cookies (recipe can be found on any large bag of M&M's this time of the year) and peanut butter blossoms.

The recipes that follow are a few of our favorite holiday-time cookies. Get the family together one evening and try one as a

PEANUT BUTTER BLOSSOMS

13/4 cups flour

1 tsp. baking soda 1/2 tsp. salt

½ cup sugar

1/2 cup peanut putter 1 egg

2 tbsp. milk

1 tsp. vanilla 1 bag Hershey kisses

Extra sugar

In large mixing bowl, combine all ingredients except kisses, blend well. Shape into balls, using a rounded teaspoon for each. Roll in sugar. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 10-12 minutes.

Remove from oven and top each with a kiss, pressing firmly until cookie cracks around edges. Makes 4 dozen.

PECAN TASSIES

Dough: 3 oz. cream cheese

1 cup flour

1 stick of butter, softened Filling: 34 cup brown sugar

2 tsp. Karo syrup

1 tsp. vanilla 3 tsp. soft butter

1 egg

Dash of salt

% cup of pecans, cut up

Mix ingredients for dough until well blended. In a separate bowl, mix all filling ingredients well, adding pecans last.

MOM ROSS' NUT ROLL

Dough:

1/2 cake yeast

5 Tbsp. sugar 1/2 lb. batter

3 eggs

1/4 pint sour cream

1/4 cup warm milk

1/4 Tbsp. salt 1 Tbsp. baking powder

5 cups flour

1 lb. ground walnuts

3/4 cup sugar

1 tsp. vanilla Warm milk (enough to make a soft mixture)

Mix yeast, sugar and butter with hands. Beat 3 whole eggs with mixer and add to mixture. Let stand for 20 minutes, then add sour cream and milk. While sifting, gradually add the salt, baking powder and flour mixing. Let stand for one hour.

Meanwhile, mix all filling ingredients together to form a moist paste.

After one hour, shape the dough into four balls. Roll balls out flat on powdered sugar. Spread filling evenly over the rolledout dough. Roll up to form a loaf. Truck ends in and pierce sides and top with a fork sipped in powdered sugar. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet for 35 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes four loaves (if less filling per loaf is desired, split dough into 5 balls and make 5 loaves).

Stir-fry for teriyaki with rice

The ancient Chinese concept of stir-frying is gaining in popularity in preparing foods here. Try this recipe for Beef Tariyaki accompanied by flavorful fried rice.

It's ducky in apricot sauce

Budget-wise, duckling is a perfect main course for holiday entertaining, and when it appears in company with a thick, summer-sweet sauce of ripe, juicy apricots, mounds of mashed potatoes and your favorite vegetable, nothing could be finer for a feast or celebration.

COOKING A DUCKLING

Thaw duckling pieces slowly, preferably in the refrigerator. Place thawed duckling quarters on sheet pan, skin-side down. Season to your taste. Turn over and brush skin-side with soy sauce. Roast or bake skin-side up in oven pre-heated to 350 degrees. Bake 1 hour and 45 minutes, or until tender. If duckling quarters are not available in your area, full-body duckling may be used and quartered or sliced after cooking, and served with sauce.

But every week is autistic children's week for Carol Shepard and Colleen Presley of Plymouth. As they drive to and from work at Marquette School in Garden City, their conversations actually are conferences concerning autism.

The sisters are teachers at Marquette, the school for autistic children. ages 2-12, from all of Wayne County. Vogel Center on Henry Ruff in Garden City is for 12-26-year-olds who are victims of autism.

They describe autism as a severely incapacitating, life-long disability that usually appears during the first three years of life. In most cases, the causes are unknown.

Because there are no medical tests for autism, the diagnosis must be based on observations of the child's behavior.

"AT FIRST, parents think they are deaf. But a child who ignores voice contact yet responds to sound of a candy bar wrapper being opened is not deaf,"... said Mrs. Shephard.

"They don't talk. There is no eye contact, no peer interaction. They do not play with toys. They seem to look right through you," said Mrs. Presley.

Autistic children all look normal. "They are very attractive children."

A checklist for autism includes: makes little or no eye contact, echoes speech, spins objects, lacks of fear of real danger, forms inappropriate attachments to objects, covers ears at many sounds, whirls, rocks or flips hands, laughs or crys at the wrong times, and resists change in routine.

CAROL SHEPARD has been at Marquette School for eight years. She majored in education for the emotionally impaired at Eastern Michigan University and attended the Judevine Center for Autistic in St. Louis, Mo.

She did her practice teaching at the Deiter Center in Redford.

"It's awfully hard for a parent to admit that their beautiful child is autistic. The syndrome cannot be pin-pointed by a brain scan. Neurological tests can't pin-point it. It is a developmental disability," said Ms. Presley.

The teachers work very closely with the children's parents, Ms. Shepard said. They write logs each day on each child. Parents are encouraged to visit the school and help.

"Autism is such an overwhelming thing for a parent to accept," she said. "But the earlier we get them, the more we can do. There was a time that they were just left in a locked room, to an hour with overtime after 40 hours," she said. "Sunday we got double time. couldn't make that kind of money anywhere else. At that time a retail clerk made about 32 cents an hour. We saved money. Gas was 32 cents a gallon."

She rode to work in a car pool, and like the other women, wore slacks or jeans at the request of the company. (In the Navy she pulled on olive drab coveralls each day). She and her friends could well be responsible for the movement of women toward slacks. But at the time she didn't approve of them outside the factory.

"I only wore them to work, never anywhere else," she said.

Because it was wartime, employees were searched by factory guards each day in a manner similar to an airport search today, but without the X-ray.

"You had to open your lunchpail and your purse," she said. "You couldn't take a camera into the air base or the factory.

The women ate lunch together. "My sister, Faye Levere, who has passed away, worked with me," said Mrs. Tway. "The women made it pleasant. Sometimes we had potluck lunches. It was a friendly atmosphere.'

BUT THE AMBIENCE soured somewhat when the war was over and the men returned.

"The men gave us a lot of problems," she said. "They told us woman's place is in the home. I know how women were treated then. I got the full treatment after the war. We showed we were capable of doing the job, and when they needed us, they used us. But after the war they were very discriminating against us."

Bentley's Ann Roy. Salem's pressure resulted in 27 Bulldog turnovers.

Encore!

Salem girls oust Bentley

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Carbon copy.

History repeated itself Thursday night. Just like a year ago, when Plymouth Salem and Livonia Bentley split during the regular girls' basketball season and then Salem beat the Bulldogs in the state tournament.

It happened again — Bentley lost the lead in the third quarter and couldn't regain it, falling to the Rocks in the regional final, 40-38, at Redford Thurs-

Salem moves on to the state quarterfinals against the Detroit Cass Tech-Trenton winner at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Lincoln Park High School.

If there was one player that made the difference in the contest, it was Salem's Ann Glomski. A junior, Glomski stands only 5-foot-4, but she leaps so well she takes the jump balls at the beginning of each quarter.

Salem coach Bob Blohm said he sent Glomski into the game in the first quarter because of her "quickness and defense", and he stuck with her in the final, hectic minutes because of those

BUT IT was her offense that proved to be the difference in the contest. Glomski, eight inches shorter than Bentley center Lori Swanson, nevertheless battled her way inside to score 13 points in the contest, including all nine of her team's final quarter points.

Five of those nine came following offensive rebounds. The key play of the game came with 5:24 left to play and the Rocks ahead, 35-32. Glomski beat Swanson to claim an offensive rebound, banked it in and was fouled by Swanson. She converted the free throw to double Salem's advantage, 38-32.

Bentley never caught the Rocks after that. Laurie Day popped in a short jumper to cut the margin to four, but Salem then went into its four-corner offense and ran 21/2 minutes off the clock before the Bulldogs got the ball back.

Kim Archer got a bucket for Bentley with 2:18 left to cut the lead to 38-36. After turnovers by each side, Glomski put the game away by stealing the ball from Tina Ostach and dribbling the length of the floor before being fouled by Swanson. She sank both free throws to provide the winning margin.

"SHE'S DONE that for us all year," Blohm said of Glomski's play off the bench. "We don't have five starters, we count her as one."

Both teams lived up to their nicknames. Salem never wavered, remaining steady as a Rock and always playing under control.

Bentley was as tenacious as a bulldog, using a box-and-one zone defense to pressure Salem sharpshooter Jan MacKenzie. It worked, as MacKenzie failed to score in the contest - she managed just three shots.

But Blohm felt the strategy also aided the Rocks.

"It opened spaces for us on the court," he said. "We're not a big team. We have a hard time penetrating. The box-and-one gave us more opportunities. Eileen (Moore) can operate if you give her some room."

It was Bentley that did the operating early in the game. The Bulldogs had an 8-2 lead with 3:31 left in the opening quarter, but Salem cut that margin to 10-8 by quarter's end.

STILL, BENTLEY was in command throughout the first half, never trailing but never able to pull away

At the start of the third quarter, it appeared as if the Bulldogs might start to roll. They scored the first four points to take a 24-19 lead, but their advantage melted away on the hot hand of Moore

The senior guard hit three baskets, including a field goal with 5:24 left in the period to give Salem its first lead, 25-24. Bentley was outscored 12-4 in the last 61/2 minutes of the quarter and trailed by three going into the last peri-

Turnovers plagued the Bulldogs throughout the contest (they committed 27 to Salem's 15), but it was especially evident in the third quarter when they committed 11.

"We just didn't make the shots," said Bentley coach Tom Lang. "We had our chances but we didn't make them."

Lang defended his decision to overplay MacKenzie, remarking, "How many points did she get?" But it did allow things to open up for Moore, no slouch of an outside shooter either. She finished with 14 points to lead all Swanson, who played a strong, physical game inside, topped Bentley with 11 points. Ostach scored 10.

Bentley finished with a 22-2 record.

Canton cagers to battle for title?

"We played pretty good for the most part against four real good teams," he said. "I'm optimistic about the season and I think we're ready."

Graduation claimed starters Sean Houle and Dave Malek, who guided Canton's offense. Houle, who averaged 20.6 points and 11.2 rebounds a game, is playing this year for Northwood In-

Returning, however, are senior tricaptains Steve Tuttle, Matt Thomas and Tommy Harris. All three started a year ago. Tuttle, Canton's biggest player at 6-foot-6, will play the pivot, with a pair of 6-4 juniors, Mark Tuttle and Greg Jacobs, backing him up.

Thomas will play forward though he is just 6-1, while Harris is a fleet, though small (5-9), point guard.

THE OTHER TWO starting spots are up for grabs, with senior Ron King (6-2), junior Pat Murphy (6-3) and junior Ron Rienas (6-1) doing the grab-

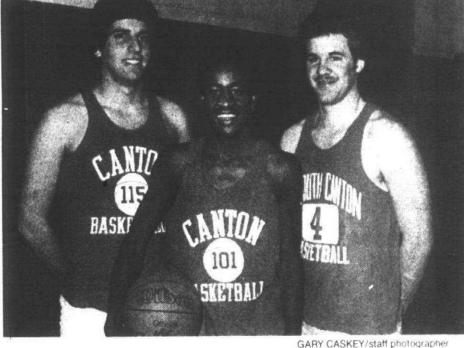

The open guard position is being contested by senior Al Blascak (6-0) and juniors Don Dombey (5-10), Mike Scarpello (5-8) and Tim McFarland (5-9).

"Our guards are really doing a nice job for us and our centers and forwards are good and quick," beamed Van Wagoner. "So, far, our five seniors on this team have shown tremendous leadership. We'll need that leadership from them in order to be successful."

Defensively, the Chiefs will play a pressure man-to-man and a 2-3 zone. Offensively, "we'll take whatever offense the opposing team's defense gives us," explained Van Wagoner.

"One thing I'm going to emphasize is that this team has fun," he added. "If we have fun and combine that with the other things that need to be done, we'll not only be successful, but we'll have fun being successful."

Assisting Wagoner will be JV coach Dave Greenwood and former Salem star Rob Nue, who graduated in 1980.

Salem wallops Walled Lake Central

By Jay Keenan special writer

Bobby Knight would have loved watching the Plymouth Salem basketball team Friday night.

The Indiana University coach, who strongly emphasizes a man-to-man defense, wouldn't have had anything against the way the Rocks played in their season opener.

The Rocks used their pressure defense to pierce Walled Lake Central,

"Our team defense was real good tonight," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "I think that's going to be our strength this year. If we get better in that phase of the game as the season progresses, I think we'll be in good shape."

THE ROCKS WERE a bit rusty in the opening minutes as the Vikings ran out to a 7-0 lead. But in the final minutes of the first quarter, the Rocks came out firing like a shotgun.

Salem pulled to within a point with 1:45 remaining in the period on a basket by Dave Miller. The senior guard then put the Rocks in front 11 seconds later on a fast-break layup.

Scott Bublin's inside shot gave Salem a 10-7 advantage at the end of the peri-

Jeff Sewell took game-high scoring honors with 12 points.

"I had a chance to look at a lot of people tonight," said Thomann. "I'm still searching for right combinations. At times, some of them would look good and then it would break down and I'd have to alternate."

Canton's in the swim, again

By Tom Henderson staff writer

Bill McCord, Plymouth Canton's swimming coach, isn't the shy type. He believes in calling a spade a spade and a powerhouse a powerhouse.

"Almost certainly we should be the favorites in the Western '6'," he says, "unless one of the other schools did an amazing recruiting job, pulled people out of nowhere . . . If we have a halfway decent season, we'll win the league without much trouble. I might end up eating those words, but I don't think

McCord has reason to be cocky. His team won the league meet last year by more than 130 points and he didn't lose anyone to graduation. Steve Gaggi, his champion diver, quit the team to pursue other interests, but everyone else is

"We've got a lot of seniors who are real versatile and swim a lot of strokes and different distances," said McCord. "That's going to help me with the lineup. I can stick them just about anywhere I need them."

LAST YEAR, McCord used his dualmeet season as a series of practices building toward the league and state meets. This year, he is going all-out in the duals, too. "Last year, I didn't pay much atten-

Can Rock matmen be No. 1?

By Brad Emons staff writer

The Plymouth Salem wrestling team finished third in the Suburban '8' League last season, but if coach Ron Krueger has his way this year, the Rocks will be threatening for the league title and a state championship.

"We have three or four people back who had some success last season, and others who will get it," says Krueger. "We will get tougher as we go along. We are bonafide challengers for the state championship."

Krueger lost star Steve Szilagyi, a 167-pounder, through graduation, but he has two stars coming back to provide leadership, not to mention wins

Marty Piper is star No. 1. His natural body weight is 198 pounds but Piper may have to wrestle heavyweight this year. He was only third in the league, but he was the district champion, regional titlist and fourth in the state

The other star of the team is little junior Jeff Vojcek, a 98-pounder who was district champ, second in the regionals and fifth in the state.

THERE IS FAIR DEPTH after those

Scott Wickens, for example, was third in the regional a year ago at 185 pounds and he will wrestle this year at 185 or 198, depending on what Krueger does with Piper.

Replacing Szilagyi at 167 pounds is senior Randy Beaudoin, who was third in the Suburban '8' a year ago.

Krueger has depth at 155 pounds, with a pair of juniors, John Woochuck and Jay Roberts, battling it out for the top spot.

Bruce Bachman, a senior, and John Beaudoin, a junior, will wrestle either at 145 pounds or 138 pounds, depending on where Krueger wants them.

Set at 132 pounds is Rob McDonald, a senior who was fourth in the district a year ago and third in the league. "He could surprise a lot of people," says

Set also at 126 is Dave Leist, a sen-

George Condash is only a sophomore, but he is versatile enough to wrestle at either 119 pounds or 112 pounds. Another sophomore, John Jeannotte, is battling with Condash for those positions. "I'm working both pretty hard," admits Adding some depth at 119 pounds is Dan Lingg, who has wrestled before but who sat out last season.

At 105 pounds, if he gets his weight down, will be Mike Dournanian, a junior, while Greg Dudash, a sophomore, will wrestle at 105 or 98, and Rick Bershave, a sophomore transfer student from Monroe Catholic Central, will grapple at 98 pounds.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST problems for the Rocks, who consistently have one of the toughest wrestling schedules in the state, is the lack of a ninth-grade program.

"That hurts our program more than anything," admits Krueger. "It takes two or three years to develop a good wrestler, unless some 10th grader is

"Right now, we've got little pebbles," said Krueger, making a punny reference to his school's nickname. "They're kind of inexperienced, but we'll conceivably be better than last year."

PLYMOUTH SALEM'S 1981-82 Wrestling schedule

JAN. - 7, Allen Park; 9, Salem Invitational (10:30 a.m.); 12, at Walled Lake Western; 16, at N. Farmington Inv. (time to be announced), 21, at Dearborn; 23, at Monroe Inv. (time to be announced); 23, Salem Double Dual (Hazel Park and Temperance-Bedford, 6 p.m.); 28, Belleville.

Salem grapplers too tough

Plymouth Salem opened its mat season with only one problem Thursday -Dave Leist, the team's 126-pound wrestler, failed to make his weight.

So Rock coach Ron Kreuger had to throw sophomore junior varsity wrestler John Jennette, normally a 119pounder, into the breech to fill in.

Jennette didn't fare too well - he lost both his matches on decisions. But the rest of the Rocks made up for the loss of Leist — they didn't lose another match in a double-dual meet with Northville and Garden City West, winning both by 66-5 margins at North-

Salem had 10 pins against Northville and 10 more against West. Double pin winners included Rick Verschave (98), Jeff Vojcek (105), Mike Doumanian (112), John Beaudoin (139), Randy Beaudoin (155), Tom Walkley (185) and Scott Wickens (198).

Other double winners for Salem were George Condash (119), Rob McDonald (132) and Bruce Bachman (145). John Woochuk and Jay Roberts combined for two wins on pins in the 167-pound

ABC honors area pin teams

Ever since the American Bowling Congress offered awards for high single-game team scores, four-member teams have become popular in the daylight hours.

In many cases, these leagues boast mixed teams, two men and two women, and the competition has grown keener than ever.

Because of this keen competition, two area teams qualified for ABC awards during the past week. The best of these was in the mixed league at Super Bowl, where the mixed team posted a 922 single game. The members were Gail Harvey with 241, Phil Wood with 266, Marge Brothers with 188 and Tom Romej with 227.

This showing was six pins better than the allmale team did at Westland Bowl. Bob Grenier paced the men with 256. He was followed by Rich Bregner with 254, John Hurley weith 210 and Larry Taylor with 196.

"IT IS EITHER feast or famine with us here at Wonderland Lanes," said George Brashara. Only one 700 series was turned in during the week.

"Last week we had a bunch of 700s," he commented, "and this week it was a much different story."

by W.W. Edgar

The lone 700 was posted by Joe Bogden, who opened with 258, followed with 256 and closed with 212 for 726. While he was breaking the barrier, the Ex-Cel Products team, captained by Sterg Charles, was high with 3172 that included an 1109 middle

Much of the Wonderland spotlight was reserved for Marilynn Sanders, who showed the way in the ladies classic for the second week in a row. She rolled a 610 and is averaging 204, one of the highest among the lasdies leagues in the house.

THE 700 BARRIER was broken at Woodland Lanes when T.H. Moore, bowling in the men's trio loop, linked counts of 265, 238 and 208 for 711. His nearest rival was Tom Shoen with a 258 in 650. Bob Wicker landed third with 614.

Z-serves: they're off wall

By Mike Yellen staff writer

Mike Yellen, a Southfield native, is the second-ranked professional racquetball player in the country. He has been a member of the Ektelon-sponsored team for six years. His column on racquetball will appear periodically in the Observer & Eccentric sports pages.

So much of racquetball today is the power game that we sometimes forget the importance of finesse in overcoming an oppo-

Sure, gone are the days when players lobbed balls around the court until someone collapsed from exhaustion.

But what do you do if your drive serve doesn't happen to be "on" for a tournament? The one-shot-Johnnies take early showers, but the consistent winners are able to reach into their bag of tricks and pull something out that gets them over the rough spots.

THAT SOMETHING is very often a Zserve. Even a renowned power player like Marty Hogan has a well-developed Z-serve that he can call on when a change of pace is required.

It's a serve I rely on a lot and one which I teach my students early in their lessons.

There are three types of Z-serves - the drive Z, the lob Z and the garbage Z. All of them are served to your opponent's backhand corner from the same spot in the service zone and use the same execution. The only real difference among these shots is the height of the ball. All follow the same trajectory from the front wall to the side wall to the opposite side wall and out into the court parallel to the back wall.

The Z is a difficult shot to execute. But when done correctly, you can tie your opponent up in knots because the spin that the ball acquires from the walls makes it do crazy things.

TO SIMPLIFY THE SHOT, I use a fourstep method.

First, position yourself in the service zone about halfway between the left side wall and the middle of the court. (To simplify this, let's assume you are a right-hander serving to a right-hander.)

Second, align your left shoulder so that it is just to the left of the seam between the front wall and the right side wall. Align the shoulder of your racquet hand with the opposite rear corner and your stance will follow naturally.

Third, imagine that the toes of your left foot are pointing to high noon on a clock and drop the ball 12 to 18 inches in front at the 11 o'clock position.

Fourth, the ball will bounce and begin to fall again. Step into it toward the right front corner wall and contact the ball, leading with your racquet handle, snapping your wrist and following through. You should contact the ball off your front foot and it should contact the front wall - for all types of Z-serves — about a foot from the front wall-side wall seam.

THE DRIVE SHOT should be hit about knee level and strike the front wall at about the same height. It will then contact the right side wall and bounce just over the short line behind you. It will contact the left side wall and bounce out parallel to the back wall, and is a very difficult ball to get a racquet on.

The garbage Z should hit the front wall waist high, follow the same trajectory as the drive Z but angle into the back wall behind your opponent rather than come off

The lob Z should hit the front wall only about five feet down from the ceiling, come back in a high arc and bounce deeper into the back left-hand corner where it will just bounce around and die. It never takes the same bounce twice.

Still, the lob Z and garbage Z are much more dangerous shots than the drive Z. There is a good chance that your opponent will step in and cut them off before they bounce on the floor and drive the ball across court while you are pinned on the left side of the court. For this reason, you will hardly ever see the pros using the garbage Z or lob Z but they can be very effective against amateurs even if they don't work perfectly.

WHILE YOU SERVE Z-balls, you will be giving up center court position, so remember to jump over there as quickly as possible after the ball passes the short line. If your opponent is cutting off your shots though, you may not have time, and this is a definite disadvantage to the Z-serve.

If you hit the ball correctly though, he won't even have a chance at it. It can be a very confusing shot. When Marty Hogan hits a Z-serve, he gets way over to the left wall, so his opponent knows exactly what's coming. Even the audience knows that Marty is about to hit a Z-serve. Then he aces his opponent, so what does he care who knows? You'll find it helps, though, to camouflage your Zs by mixing them up with a crosscourt drive serve occasionally.

While it does have its drawbacks, a Zserve can be very effective. It may be the only thing that gets you through a match with a hard-hitting opponent like Hogan. There is no way you will be able to survive a shooting match with him, but he is susceptible to the change of pace that a Z-serve

Mostly 'unknowns' triumph in drama of settling the West

"Heartland" (PG) is a survival drama about those who homesteaded the West at the turn of the century. There are no Indian raids or cavalry patrols. This is a drama of man versus nature, of the stouthearted people who suffered the hardships, braved the failures and endured.

If the movie has more of a sincere and authentic ring than most movies about settlers, perhaps that's because its production was a survival drama in itself, beginning with the financing. This is not your usual big-budget, big-hype commercial movie. It was funded primarily by a grant from the National Endowment for the

There are no major box office names associated with the venture. The cast is relatively unknown with the exception of the male lead, Rip Torn, who is a fine actor, but not one who draws audienc-

"Heartland" was directed by Richard Pearce, who can be credited for maintaining the integrity of the project and capturing that same integrity on film. Pearce has been associated with other independent and award-winning work, including the Vietnam war documentary "Hearts and Minds."

TWO FLEDGLING producers, Annick Smith and Beth Ferris, brought Pearce the script, which was based on the true-life experiences of Elinor Pruitt Stewart.

Ms. Stewart, a widow with a young daughter, came to Wyoming in 1910 to homestead and then wrote about her experiences in "Letters of a Woman Homesteader."

The movie was based on this personal, first-hand account. Conchata Ferrell plays the brave and determined woman who answers a newspaper advertisement for a housekeeper which takes her and her daughter from Denver to a small ranch near Burntfork, Wyo. (The movie actually was filmed in Montana.)

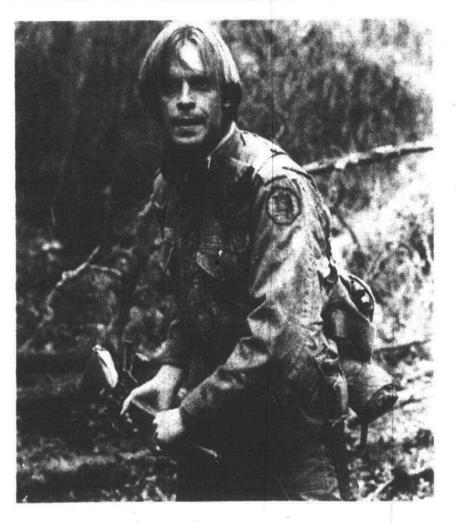

Her employer is a taciturn Scot, superbly realized by Rip Torn. What begins as a cut-and-dried working arrangement between them develops into mutual respect and love.

Megan Folson is the devoted daughter who gradually comes around to accepting her stepfather.

TOGETHER THE family struggles through a series of calamities. Life is not just hard, it is nearly impossible. The bitter cold, the scarcity of food, the tragedy of illness - all these things and ' more continually test their fortitude.

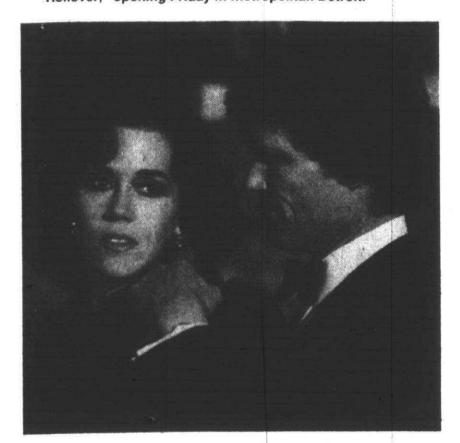

The film's naturalistic approach drives home the tough realities of ranch life as no other movie has done. But it also gives rise to one criticism of "Heartland." The movie's persistent emphasis on the hardships and deprivations the homesteaders suffered does be-

Difficult as their lives were, they also had their joys, their moments of happiness, neighborliness and love to sustain them. Pearce has kept these kinds of moments and emotions restrained. but he has not held back when it comes to infusing the work with his own dedication and craftsmanship. "Heartland" is a remark-

Keith Carradine is an easy-going banker caught up in a life-or-death struggle when his National Guard unit ventures into a Louisiana bayou on a weekend maneuver in "Southern Comfort," at Detroit-area theaters.
