Arcade approved-on certain conditions

By Dennis O'Connor

After four meetings - and a date in court - it looks like Canton will get its first arcade. Conditional approval for the facility came after nearly three hours of debate, when Canton's Township Board narrowly decided, 4-3, to grant special land use for the arcade at Tuesday night's regular board meeting.

There are numerous conditions which must be met before the arcade opens at the corner of Ford and Lilley, where The Nice Slice Delicatessan used to operate before vacating last year.

Township officials told the board

they still were extremely concerned over safety factors involved with opening the new business, which is expected to attract many youngsters.

TRUSTEE CAROL Bodenmiller made a motion for arcade approval, based on improving lighting around the building, installing bike racks, keeping a fire lane clear in the rear of the building and maintaining other safety conditions.

Ms. Bodenmiller said she was not in favor of arcades and hoped it would be a "top-notch operation."

She said she made the motion for approval based on attorney recommendations and a recent lawsuit against the township by the arcade operators.

"I feel we are backed into a corner," Ms. Bodenmiller said. "I don't like to be in that position."

JAMIL AKHTAR of Plymouth Township, the arcade operator who took Canton Township to court last week with partner Barbara Baldwin of Livonia, said he understood Ms. Bodenmiller's concern, but said his investment was at stake

"I signed my life away at $22,000 rent per year for 3,330 square feet," Akhtar told the board.

Aktar and Ms. Baldwin brought suit against Canton when the board delayed until Jan. 26 their request to open business after revisions of the Mechanical Amusement Device Ordinance were completed.

The operators' lease on the vacant building expired Dec. 31, which led to the court action. Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Jame Mies ruled last week that both Akhtar and Baldwin meet again with the board to get an immediate decision on the request

AKHTAR SAID he renewed his lease for one year after the judge's ruling, not knowing how the board would vote on the matter.

Ms. Bodenmiller, clerk John Flodin and trustees Robert Padget and Loren Bennett voted to grant special-land use for the arcade. Supervisor James Poole, treasurer Maria Falkiewicz and trustee Steve Larson dissented.

After the special-land use was granted, the board voted, 5-2, to grant Akhtar and Baldwin a license. Poole and Ms. Falkiewitz dissented There will be a maximum of 25 machines in the arcade, according to the Local pilot lands on I-275 freeway

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

A Farmington Hills pilot was forced to make an emergency landing on I-275 in Plymouth Township Friday night after his takeoff from Canton's Mettetal Airport.

Brian Brunt, 18, says the Cessna 172 he was flying lost its engine power at approximately 500 feet.

"We were too far away, too low and there wasn't enough power to make it back to Mettetal," says Brunt, who's been a pilot for six Traffic on I-275 was fairly light. I wasn't as worried about the traffic as I was about watching for power lines, expressway signs and bridges," Brunt says.

The plane slowed down to approximately 50 mph so it could merge with traffic while making the landing, he says.

Once on the ground, Brunt taxied down I-275 to the Ann Arbor

"I was looking for a place to get clear of the road. I was worried about a car hitting the plane because they couldn't see it," he says. The plane is owned by Larry Thompson and was on loan to Brunt and Thompson's son, Ken. Also on board were passengers Lynne Miles, 18, and Mary Ann Swanney, 17, both of West Bloomfield. After Brunt parked the plane on the exit ramp and contacted police, he was escorted back to Mettetal. Police blocked the roads and let the plane taxi back, rather than having it dismantled and transported back, Brunt says.

"We went back right through the streets. I never imagined I would be doing something like that. I got a lot of weird looks.

Brunt met with Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) officials

Tuesday, but doesn't expect any repercussions. The FAA is investigating the incident.

Metcalf was arrested by Plymouth police after firing six shots Monday afternoon from his house window toward city hall with a 30-30 rifle. There were no gun-related injuries during the approximately hour-long ordeal.

Three of the shots hit a fire department pick-up truck which was parked at the back of city hall. Two shots entered the building, penetrating walls and furniture.

Another shot was believed fired but missed nitting anything, according to Plymouth Police Chief Carl

W

The two shots which ripped through the back of city hall passed through the firefighters' living quarters and one ended up in the detective bureau's office, Berry said.

Metcalf's shooting spree, apparently sparked by drinking and discontent with the police department, brought Canton and state police officers to the aid of Plymouth

According to Berry, Metcalf had called the police department earlier in the day. Berry said Metcalf sounded intoxicated and made complaints about the department.

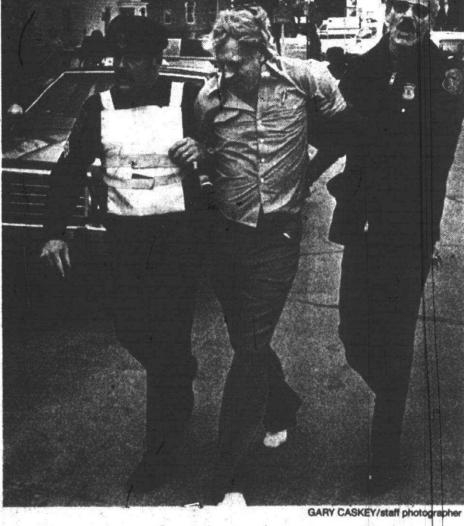

When the shooting started, Metcalf again called the police, Berry said. The back wing of city hall was evacuated, and the area around Metcalf's house and the library next to city hall were all secured.

Police officers equipped with flak jackets and carbine rifles took up positions inside city hall and throughout the neighborhood.

The officers were prepared to "wait him out," Berry said. This wasn't necessary, since Metcalf surrendered to Lt. Daniel Carpenter.

Singing mailman ready Don't to retire his voice

By Bill Casper staff writer

He croons tunes for people and brings tears to their eyes. He's not Frank Sinatra, but in the eyes and hearts of many Redford Township residents, he's the man with the golden voice.

He's their mailman and they love him. The feeling they have for him is mutual on the part of Vic Dell'Orco, a 67-year-old singing mail carrier whose 35-year career with the U.S. Post Office will end this month when he retires.

"You should have been with me earlier and you would have seen a moving sight," said Dell'Orco, who lives in Canton with his wife, Marge.

"I sang a birthday song for a woman on my route that brought tears to her eyes."

Dell'Orco sings in good voice and is well received by his public, about 300 homeowners on the route he has had for the last 33 years between Sarasota and Beech Daly on the north side of Schoolcraft to

He speaks with a degree of pride and satisfaction about his ability to move people through his sing-

"ALL MY birthday and anniversary songs are done with an honest, personal feeling I have for these people," he said.

For birthdays, he sings an Irish love song with the verse to "Happy Birthday." For anniversaries, he sings the song "Because."

If the first song doesn't bring tears, he makes a smooth transition into "When Irish Eves Are Smiling" and that "usually starts the tears flowing," he said.

The songs are classic tear jerkers, but the sincerity expressed in Dell'Orco's face and his performance combine to make the desired response practi-

"I've been singing on my route for about 30 years," said Dell'Orco, a native of St. Louis, Mo. "I could tell when someone was about to have a birthday or anniversary when they started getting cards.

"I never opened the cards, of course, but you can pretty much tell a card from other types of mail.

"Then I would make some inquiries around the neighborhood and most times I could come up with the exact date or come close enough. And I wrote them all down and kept them on file for future reference," Dell'Orco said.

WHEN HE'S not serenading someone on his route, he sings or hums a tune to himself to help relieve the daily monotony walking six miles, up and down about 300 sets of front porch steps on a route that takes him an average of five hours to

His efforts above and beyond the call of mail delivery developed into a relationship not many carriers share with the public.

"I have a lot of fun with the people on my route. I tease them and joke with them and they've always been very friendly with me. They offer me cold drinks when it's hot, warm drinks when it's cold. They've all been good to me and I can't kick," Dell'Orco said.

"I consider all of them my friends and I know they feel the same way about me. I play golf with

The party took place in Pierce Junior High School and was well attended by about 300 persons on his route, Dell'Orco said.

"They bought me a 24 carat gold-plated golf putter, which they tell me I can use on the course and I plan to do just that. They also gave me a nicesized check. They've always been generous like at Christmas time and they were very generous to me Wednesday night. I'll never forget them."

As testimony to his popularity as a singer, the residents requested he sing a couple Irish songs, a request he gladly honored. Asked if he was of Irish descent he replied with a smile, "Oh, a wee bit."

EVEN THOUGH Dell'Orco's mail delivering days will come to an end with his retirement next month, he anticipates to continue performing for his adoring public.

"I'm looking forward to retirement, relaxing, playing some golf and traveling, but I also want to continue singing for birthdays and anniversaries," Dell'Orco said. "I told the people on my route to call me if they would if they would like me to sing a birthday or anniversary greeting. I may even do some advertising to extend my service."

. The odds are good that Dell'Orco's crooning days are not over yet.

The Wyandotte man accused of the Dec. 3 rape and murder of Plymouth Township resident Janet Reynolds will be arraigned Jan. 19 on a charge of first degree murder during criminal sexual conduct.

Darol Wayne Holbrook, 31, was bound over to Wayne County Circuit Court Tuesday afternoon by District Court Judge James Garber.

A charge of premeditated first-degree murder was dropped in the case.

Garber's ruling followed Monday and Tuesday's pre-trial examination to determine if there was enough evidence to bind the case over to circuit

The two days of testimony centered on Miss Reynolds' last known appearance on Dec. 3 at Plaza Bowling Lanes with Holbrook, her subsequent death, Holbrook's arrest and introduction of evidence linking Holbrook to the alleged murder.

Of primary focus was blood found on Holbrook's shoes. The blood type was the same as that of Miss Reynolds.

Judge Garber's decision to have Holbrook stand trial was based on: Holbrook's statement to police that he walked to the parking lot with Miss Revnolds and saw her leave, yet her proximity of Miss Reynolds' death to the parking lot and the blood found on Holbrook's shoes.

WITNESSES TESTIFIED they had seen Miss Reynolds leave the bowling alley with Holbrook and that she later failed to meet them at a restuarant.

Police said they were called by Miss Reynolds' friends after the woman missed the restaurant meeting and also failed to show up at work.

Police suspected foul play after finding pecular evidence (purse items strewn around) in Miss Reynolds' car which was still parked at the bowling

An air search the next morning resulted in police finding the victim's battered, naked body in a Plymouth Township field at Joy and Lilley roads, close to the bowling alley.

Police then arrested Holbrook outside his Wyandotte home, and brought him to Plymouth for questioning. During the questioning the police seized Holbrook's blood stained shoes.

HOLBROOK'S ATTORNEY, Nicholas Smith, staunchly debated the legality of the arrest and subsequent seizure, saying police didn't have sufficent cause to arrest Holbrook.

Judge Garber ruled the arrest was car was found to have never left; the made with sufficent cause and done legally. Had the arrest been declared illegal, the shoes would not have been permitted to be submitted as evidence.

Police Lt. Daniel Carpenter told the court Holbrook made a statement during the time of the questioning.

According to Carpenter, Holbrook "said he had walked out to Miss Reynolds' car. The two talked and kissed before she told him she had a boyfriend and they couldn't be doing that. She then got in the car and left.

Holbrook said he last saw Miss Reynolds as she was backing the car out. He said he then went back into the bowling alley to go to the bathroom.

HOLBROOK NEVER took the stand during the pretrial examination.

There was additional testimony from State Police crime lab technicians about how they typed the blood found on the shoes, blood from Holbrook and blood from Miss Reynolds.

Dr. John Smialek from the Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office testified that Miss Reynolds had been raped and died from multiple injuries to the head, multiple stab wounds and strangulation. Smialek said it was apparent there had been a struggle prior Smialek also said a log given to him by police very well could have been the instrument used to beat Miss Reynolds.

School district analysis calls for long-range plan

Wayne-Westland school board members approved what administrators said was a "very good" audit report on the district's 1980-81 fiscal year.

But board members Fred Warmbier and David Moranty said their Mondaynight votes of acceptance could change depending on the contents of a letter sent by the auditing firm of Plante & Moran to the district administration. Board members had received a separate letter from the district's auditing firm summarizing suggestions made to the administration.

Warmbier said he was "qualifying his vote to reserve the right to ask further questions."

Supt. Timothy Dyer said he was concerned that remarks made by the board members "implies something is wrong." The auditors did make suggestions that are being implemented by the administration, Dyer said.

S&Ls seek bank-like powers from Congress

staff writer

Officials at area thrift institutions hope 1982 is the year when they can expand their financial powers.

They have thrown their support behind Congressional bills which would broaden the scope of the federally chartered savings and loan associations and other depository institutions beyond home mortgages. If successful, they will have many of the powers of commercial banks.

"We really need to expand," said Pete Eichinger, vice president of marketing at Metropolitan Savings Association. "The basic starting point for S&Ls was that people would put their money there, at a higher interest rate than offered by the bank, so the S&Ls would have enough money for housing mortgages.

"But now investing has become sophisticated and mortgages aren't big business."

FEDERAL HOME Loan Bank Board Chairman Richard T. Pratt has proposed a Thrift Institutions Restructuring Act.

It would give S&Ls and mutual savings banks more leeway to invest in other securities besides residential mortgages, their traditional investments.

Senate Banking Committee Chairman Jake Garn, R-Utah, has introduced similar legislation, and the House Banking Committee is studying the issue.

The Congressional proposals would give S&Ls nearly all the powers of banks. The President's Commission on Housing recently supported the Reagan administration's plan to broaden the powers of the nation's thrift institutions. The housing commission's report recommended that

S&Ls be permitted to offer corporate checking accounts; to invest in secured and unsecured commercial, consumer and farm loans; and to invest in municipal securities. Under certain circumstances, thrift institutions also would be alllowed to invest directly in real estate ventures and to lease equipment.

WHILE SEVERAL bankers surveyed didn't object to thrift institutions' receiving broader based powers, they said it was imperative they live by the same restrictions

"All the (proposed) changes are fine, providing everyone on the playing field is on the 50-yard line at the same level," said Lowell Perry, executive director of the Michigan Bankers Association.

One major difference between banks and thrifts is that banks are required to have a federal reserve fund, while thrifts aren't, Perry explained.

Eichinger noted that when S&Ls were first established in 1830, their sole purpose was to provide home mortgages. They could offer depositors slightly higher interest rates on savings accounts than banks, but could not compete in other financial areas.

DURING 1980 thrifts gained the right to offer checking accounts to consumers, and state-chartered savings and loans won the right to offer commercial checking accounts. "When the consumer checking account law was passed, we found a loophole that allows us to offer accounts to businesses, because we're a Michigan-chartered savings and loan and get our regulations from Lansing, not Washington," Eichinger said. "But even that gives us problems. We can offer ABC

Tool Co. a checking account but not a loan on machinery. So that makes it hard for us to compete with banks," he

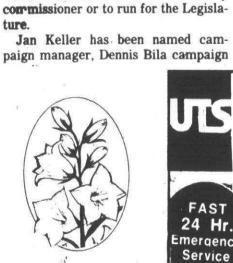

He noted that with the rise of such "near banks" as Sears, American Express and Baldwin Piano, companies which have entered the financial circuit, expanded powers are even more necessary for survival of S&Ls.

The new tax law provides that every working person under age 701/2 can contribute to an Individual Retirement Account for taxable years beginning in 1982. You can have an IRA Account even if you are covered by another retirement plan. Your contributions to an IRA Account are tax deductible. This allows you to accumulate more money with an IRA Account than with a taxable investment.

Regular IRA

Allows a working person to contribute up to a maximum of $2,000 per year. A husband and wife who are both working may each contribute up to a maximum amount of $2,000 from their annual income.

Spousal IRA

A working person with a non-working spouse may contribute up to $2,250 per year.

IMPORTANT: at Standard Federal Savings...

- · YOU CAN transfer ("roll-over") the funds you receive as a lump sum distribution from a qualified retirement fund and defer taxation on the transferred funds until your retirement years.
- · YOU CAN transfer funds from an IRA Account established elsewhere.
- YOUR EMPLOYER CAN also contribute funds to employee IRA Accounts by establishing a Simplified Employee Pension Plan (SEP).

IRA Accounts are insured to $100,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

Interest is paid at a rate equal to the average auction rate on a discount basis for 13-week U.S. Treasury Bills. Each Tuesday during the 11/2 year term, the rate will change on your account based on this Treasury Bill rate.

Additions in amounts of $10 or more can be made to your variable rate account at any time without extending the account term. If your employer has a payroll deduction plan with Standard Federal Savings, your IRA contribution can be made automatically each pay period and deposited to this account.

Also Available for IRA Accounts:

When you withdraw the money in your IRA Account at retirement after age 591/2, your withdrawals will be taxed as ordinary income at a time when your tax rate is likely to be lower.

Working: Changes and Choices Workforce in 2000: More women, fewer unionists

This is the last of 15 articles exploring "Working: Changes and Choices." This series was written for Courses by Newspaper, an extension program of the University of California, San Diego, with funding from the National Endowment for the Humanities, 1981 by the Regents of the University of Califor-

By Isabel V. Sawhill special writer

The year 2000 is gaining on us. Almost everyone who will be in the workforce then has already been born.

Thus, as Americans attempt to plan careers, businesses, and families, they are not being unduly "futuristic" when they wonder what work opportunities will exist at the dawn of the second millennia. What kind of jobs will be available? And in what number?

Crystal-ball gazing is risky business. One never knows what unexpected developments may occur, or how people will react to social and economic changes. Nevertheless, one can make some informed guesses based, in part, on existing trends.

LET'S BEGIN with what we know about the future with greatest certain-

First of all, apart from some real demographic "surprise" - such as a sudden surge in immigration or sharp drop in mortality rates - we already know approximately how many men and women will be of working age at the turn of the century.

But the size of the workforce is more difficult to predict; it will depend on how people will divide their time between work and other activities, such as school, homemaking, and leisure.

Historically, teen-agers, women and the elderly have been less likely to work than adult men, but these patterns appear to be changing. We cannot assume that the future will repeat the past.

IN RECENT years there has been a large influx of women and teen-agers into the job market, while adult men, especially blacks and those over 55, have been working less.

More than half of all adult women, including many married women with young children, are now in the labor force. The marked rise in their propensity to work is usualy attributed to smaller families, more education, higher wages (which increase the cost of staying home) and the revolution in attitudes toward women's roles.

Men, in turn, are working less because of greater affluence and the adults 25 years or over that has comavailability of more generous Social Security benefits, pensions and disability insurance.

Whether these trends continue will depend on how many new jobs the economy produces, evolving social mores and shifts in government policy.

There is currently no hard evidence to support the belief of "supply side" economists that reducing people's taxes, and thereby increasing their takehome pay, unleashes a flood-tide of

BUT GOVERNMENT policies can affect the decision of whether or not to

For example, retirement decisions often depend on the; age at which one becomes eligible for Social Security. That age is likely to be raised in response to the fiscal squeeze a greying America will be putting on the system.

This change in policy together with such factors as greater longevity and continued inflation which erodes people's savings could easily reverse the present trend toward earlier retire-

Taking some (although not all) of these factors into consideration, government statisticians estimate that, by the year 2000, the labor force will be alomst one-third (about 31 million people) larger than it is today.

It will also be older, with the average age increasing from 35 to 38 yers as the baby boom generation matures.

Finally, it will be more diverse, with much higher proportions of women (because more of them will work) and of minorities (because of higher birth rates among most minority groups).

WHAT KINDS of jobs will be available to this larger workforce?

In the past, education qualifications have been a major determinant of the kind of work one secured, and the educational level of Americaas has risen steadily. Since 1960, for example the average number of years of education of the workforce as a whole rose from 12.0 to 12.6, and the proportion of pleted high school increased from 41 to 68 percent. But the proportion of 18- to 19-yearsolds going to college has dropped since the early 1970s, and the government projects only a marginal improvement in educational attainment in the next

WHY HAS the American drive toward ever-higher levels of schooling slowed down?

Currently, an oversupply of educated young people has lowered the extra earnings to be expected from attending college and has bumped college-educated youth down the occupational lad-

Over the past decade, for example, the proportion of employed college graduates working professional and technical jobs fell by 9 percent among men and 16 percent among women. Job opportunities in these occupations simply have not kept pace with the number of college-trained workers.

Moreover, with the exception of a few fields such as engineering and nursing, professional and technical job opportunities are not expected to grow particularly rapidly over the next dec-

Clerical, sales, and service jobs, on the other hand, are projected to increase at an above-average rate. But these are not the kinds of jobs to which college gradutates have traditionally

STILL ANOTHER significant trend is the decline in unionization since the

Today, only about one-fifth of the labor force is unionized. While there has been a sharp increase in unionism among public employees, this has been more than offset by declines in the private sector.

This trend is partly related to the changing demographic and industrial composition of the labor force. Women and educated workers are notoriously difficult to organize. Blue-collar workers are more willing to organize than white-collar workers.

A reversal of this trend seems unlikely, barring labor law reforms which have recently had little political sup-

OF MAJOR significance for both work and family life is the tremendous rise in the number of two-earner and single-parent households, a phenomenon that is related to the influx of women into the labor market.

In 1960, 43 percent of all households consisted of a married couple with only one spouse in the labor force. By 1975, this had dropped to 25 percent, and by 1980, it is projected to be only 14 per-

When both parents work ouside the home, they want jobs that offer shorter or more flexible hours, that are closer to home, and that make provision for the inevitable conflicts that arise when home repairs, shopping, or sick children compete for their attention

In the future, employers may thus be forced to offer more paid time off for these activities, day care, "flexitime," and similar working conditions.

Even so, families of the future will have a much harder time juggling their multiple responsibilities. Young couples will have to choose between the higher income that two paychecks proyide and the possible benefits to chilthen of having one parent at home.

ANOTHER PROBLEM will be the difficulties that job-related transfers from one city to another pose for twocareer families.

Firms that have traditionally moved managers around the country may find that younger professionals are unwilling to jeopardize a spouse's career by frequent moves.

Finally, there are crucial questions of whether there will be enough jobs for all those who want to work, whether they will be satisfying jobs, and whether they will pay enough to keep intact the American dream of ever-rising standards of living.

Here our crystal ball becomes expecially cloudy. Yet if one squints, there is some reason for offering an optimistic forecast.

CURRENT DIFFICULTIES including high rates of both inflation and unemployment coupled with a slowdown in the growth of productivity and in the standard of living cannot be ignored.

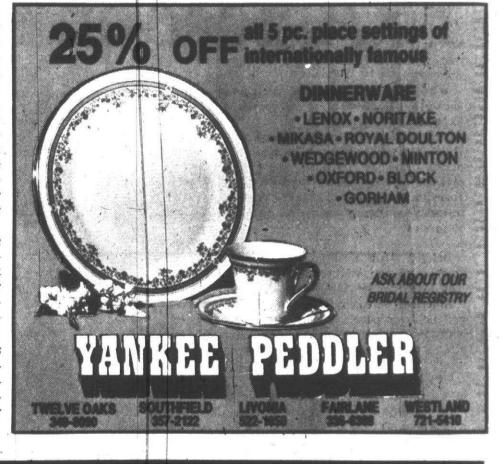

Neverthless, history suggests that, over the longer run, the economy eventually adjusts to absorb a growing population and labor force. Moreover, each generation has been better off than the previous one, as rising levels of educational attainment together with better technology have improved productivity and eliminated the least desirable jobs.

Over this longer period, the basic limits on what our economy can produce and consume are set by the talent and training of the population and their desire to work, not by short-run fluctuations in the level of spending and pric-

Picture phone for business is introduced

Michigan Bell is reaching out and touching the pocketbooks of telephone customers - some heavily, some lightly. In two announcements last week, the telephone company said:

• It proposes to change installation rates for single-family residences, eliminating the flat installation fee. Customers would pay only for an employee's time spent at the home.

• It's introducing picture phones for businesses in the Detroit area. The pitch: Face-to-face phone meetings are less expensive than long-distance travel.

NEW INSTALLATION charges to homeowners would be repriced and based strictly on the time it takes to do the work.

"Today we charge every residental customer the same amount for installing a telephone, even though we may have to spend hours putting in one customer's phone and only minutes connecting another one," said Donald M. Lambe, Michigan Bell assistant vice president.

Under changes Bell proposed to the Michigan Public Service Commission, simple business and residence installations would be $18 for the first 15 minutes of work on a customer's premises, plus $10.50 for each additional 15-minute increment.

For example, a typical new-order installation in a single-family home may require an average of 45 minutes of installer time on the customer premises. Under the present system, the customer is billed for following items separately: $3.15 for each jack, $3.15 for handling for each Bell-supplied phone, $9.43 for each inside wire and $12.56 in service order/premise work charges. The charges are the same regardless of the amount of time it takes to complete the job.

UNDER PROPOSED changes, the customer would pay for the minutes spent on the premises, or $39 ($18 for the first 15 minutes plus $21 for an additional 30 minutes).

Customers would continue to have the option of picking up their phones from company locations.

Other proposed changes include: • Elimination of the monthly charge for wiring and jacks for single-line telephones. Instead these costs would be paid for at the time service is in-

• Increasing the customer credit for returning Michigan Bell phones to the company from $2.50 to Separating the current monthly rate for TouchTone service into two distinct charges — one monthly rate for TouchTone line facilities and a separate rate for each TouchTone phone. Touch-Tone line charges would be reduced to $1.15 for residence customers and would remain $2.39 for DETROIT AREA businesses by mid-1982 will be among firms in 16 cities to be linked in a digital video teleconferencing network.

With Picturephone Meeting Service (PMS), businesses are able to conduct meetings and share visual information with participants in distant cities without having to travel any farther than a PMS teleconference room.

The service would transmit in full color over a network of satellite and land facilities.

AT&T SAID it would make the service available to customers in two ways.

A customer could use a public room, which AT&T plans to build in each of the 42 cities it will service.

Or customers could choose to build private video teleconference rooms on their own premises. Any room, public or private could be used. Besides enabling meeting participants to see and talk to each other,/each video teleconference room would be equipped with cameras to display charts, slides and other graphic materials, a copy machine to reproduce copies of images displayed on the incoming monitor and a video tape recorder to record incoming or outgoing picture and sound.

TYPICAL CHARGES for a customer using two AT&T rooms to conduct a one-hour meeting between Detroit and Chicago would be $970. A similar one-hour meeting between Detroit and Los Angeles would cost the user $1,770.

Charges for call's placed from private customer rooms would be lower: $600 for a one-hour Detroit-Chicago meetings and $1,400 for one-hour Detroit-Los Angeles sessions.

Customers installing private rooms would pay one-time Bell system installation charges of $124,800, as well as monthly equipment rental and access fee of $13,420. In addition, there would be a monthly charge of $250 per mile to connect each room to Bell system.

VARIABLE-RATE IRA ACCOUNT

The interest rate on this 18-month certificate account is indexed to the 13-week 🖟 🖫 Treasury Bill average discount rate and is adjusted to match each weekly auction, allowing you to earn the most current market rate available.

The minimum deposit for this account is just $100. But you can add as much as you like (up to the allowable limits) at any time without extending the maturity date, and the interest your extra deposits earn will be at the rate available when those deposits are made.

FIXED-RATE IRA ACCOUNTS

The interest rate on this account is established when it is opened and stays in effect during the entire term of the certificate. It is opened for a fixed amount of as little as $100. Additional fixed-rate acdounts may be opened at any time

The bite your income tax takes out of your earnings every year can be pretty painful. But First Federal Savings of Detroit can help make your tax bite hurt a whole lot less. in future years

We can do this with three kinds of tax shelters— Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA), Keogh Accounts and the Tax-Free All Savers Certificate

When you open an IRA or Keogh Account, you take your deposits right off the top of your gross income. By reducing your gross income, you reduce your taxes. Then, your IRA and Keogh deposits and the interest they earn are tax sheltered until you retire, which can be as early as age 59 . At which time you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket. How's that for taking the edge off your tax bite?

In addition, First Federal does not charge a service or maintenance fee for any of these accounts, and at First Federal you don't need to make your IRA or Keogh deposit in a lump sum. You can do it in installments as your finances allow. Remember, your retirement plan at First Federal is insured to $100,000 by FSLIC.

The Oval Room is where the foreign visitors attending state dinners are received. The Kennedys restored this room to its original formality. This look has been maintained, but two sofas have been added. A painted settee and two armchairs, decorated with scrollwork and female figures once belonging to President Monroe highlight the room.

John Adams, the first president to live in the White House, used the Oval Room for receptions. Later presidents used the room for their personal studies, libraries or additional family space. The last president to use it for personal use was Dwight Eisenhower, who displayed his military decorations there. The room is shown as it was during the Truman administration.

Until the turn of the century the West Sitting Hall was little more than a glorified stair landing, sparsely furnished and at one time covered by what one observer described as a "rich but frightfully ugly carpet." The stairs were ripped out in 1902 when presidential families began decorating the room with their own furnishings. It has been described as the most cheery spot in the White House. This is what it looked like when the Herbert Hoover family occupied the presidential mansion.

The Reagans, like first families before them, chose to decorate the West Sitting Hall with their own furniture. Among the furnishings are red chintz-covered sofas, English antiques, collections of jade objects and Chinese porcelains, paintings, miniature Chippendale chairs, plants and flowers, and a needlepoint pillow with the initials "RR."

The White House

Renovations reflect changing of the guard

By David M. Maxfield staff writer

Times change, presidents change, and in the White House and public and family rooms, stlyes and furnishings change, too.

Fifty years ago, the mansions' second-floor West Sitting Hall, used then and now by the president's family as a private living room, resembled a lush garden setting. Wicker furniture was arranged on a checkerboard-patterned grass rug, and long copper trays containing ferns and blossoming plants bordered the palm-lined walls. The deep, fan topped-window had been screened to make an aviary for Lou Henry Hoover's canaries. Inside, a tree provided a place for the birds to perch and sing.

Today, what was once the airy sun room is Preisdent and Mrs. Reagan's pale yellow sitting room, which contains the family's own furniture, collections, photographs and art shipped from California.

Throughout the family quarters on the White House second and third floors, extensively refurbished rooms and halls reflect the Regans' twin goals of making 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. a place to call home as well as a showcase for the valuable historic furnishings collected by their predecessors.

"I believe very strongly that the WHite House is a special place and shold represent the best our nation has to offer," Nancy reagan said in response to questions submitted by the Smithsonian News Service about the refurbishing project. "I think people want it that way."

UNTIL RECENTLY, many of the valuable and historic antiques dating back to the republic's earliest decades 'were sitting in the warehouse," Mrs. Reagan said. "Insufficient funds did not permit renovating and restoring them to their proper condition," she added. Many pieces were "deteriorating" while reproductions were substituted throughout the living quarters.

After the election, Mrs. Reagan decided that the historical pieces should be removed from the warehouse, restored and returned to the White House, where they could be used and preserved. But the $50,000 allowance that is allocated to an incoming administration for redecorating was considered insufficient for repairing, reupholstering and regilding the furniture as well as for maintenance work throughout the White House.

"So many things needed to be done, but the funds weren't there," Peter McCoy, deputy assistant to the president and director of staff for the first lady, said. The Reagans subsequently raised $822,640 in private donations for the now completed work which included furniture restoration, painting, sanding and refinishing floors for the first time in 20 years, and replacing worn and sun-damaged carpets, wall coverings, curtains and upholstery.

Today, White House usher Rex Scouten estimates that "95 percent" of the "important items in the WHite House collection are in use.'

The Reagans returned the $50,000 allotted decorating allowance.

With several exceptions, such as painting certain state and ground floor rooms, adding a priceless sofa to the Blue Room and cleaning the mansions marble fireplaces, the project was confined to the family quarters. The state rooms had been extensively restored during the Kennedy and Nixon administrations.

IN THE 16 decades since the White House was burned by the British in 1814 and reconstructed, it has undergone five major changes - not counting the Reagans' alterations - beginning with the Monroe presidency (1817-25) and covering projects by Presidents Arthur, Theodore Roosevelt, Truman and Kennedy.

When President and Mrs. Monroe rhoved into the rebuilt residence in the fall of 1817 — its exterior had been painted a gleaming white for the first time - they decorated the "large oval room" on the first floor with fashionable French Empire furniture, elegantly carved and gilded pieces they had ordered from France.

On view once again in the oval Blue Room are seven chairs and a sofa from that collectio. The sofa had been sold at auction in 1860 but returned to the White House in 1978. Mrs. Reagan had it removed from storage, regilded and recoverd in blue silk upholstery to match the chairs.

The White House now represents all periods of American history, with the focus on Federal-period furnishings of the late 18th and early 19th centuries. On display are tables, chairs, prints, paintings, sofas, objects d'art, candelabra and sculpture.

"The walls are groaning with things we recoverd from storage," said Ted Graber, the Reagans' decorator. "We really ended up having a treasure hunt. We found eagle carvings, eagle brackets, engraving - things in every nook "and cranny."

William Seale, who is working on a two-volume history of the executive mansion, recently said that "the house has to be reshaped constantly to refect various lifestyles.

"The White House is an environment of run-run-run." The Reagans, he said, "like the informal approach - an environment in which they can work and relax. That is what's been done."

THE RECENT WORK completed by the Reagans is built on preservatins and restoration traditions followed by , remind us of earlier days." 20th-century White House residents. Until the early 1900s, most first families were conscious of keeping up with the latest furnishing styles and would pay for new acquisitions by selling at auction the items bought by previous

This practice reached an extreme when President Chester Arthur in 1881 removed and sold 24 wagonloads of household goods, including al the furniture in the East Room and Green Room and part from the Red Room.

"I will not live like this," he said, filling the White House with the latest ornate Victorian styles.

But Teddy Roosevelt would have none of that. Appalled by what he considered Victorian excesses - rooms filled with bric-a-brac, beaded-fringed lampshades, clumsy furdishings, gilt and shiny varnish - he brought in the well known architectural firm of McKim, Meade and White to restore the house to its original early 19th-century classicism. The theme has remained thoughout this century. The search for period furniture for the White House was pioneered in the 1920s by Grace Coolidge who successfully urged Congress to pass a resolution authorizing the president to accept "rare old pieces" as gifts for the White House. Though the antiques only trickled in, the Green Room was refurnished before the Coolidges left. In turn, Mrs. Herbert Hoover grouped the few remaining pices from the Monroe era in an upstairs room and had some other original Monroe pieces copied for the White House.

Mamie Eisenhower launched a refurnishing program in 1959, and two years later, at the beginning of the Kennedy administration, Congress passed legislation providing that White House furniture of "historic or artistic interest" was "inalienable" property to be used onlty there or loaned to the Smithsoni-

With the arrival of the Kennedys, the decorating emphasis on both the state and family floors went into high gear to locate and display original period furnishings.

"It's been 20 years since Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis began her restoration project in the White House," Mrs. Reagan said. "She did not have time to complete her work. I found there was a great deal to be done."

UNTIL THE TURN of the century. the West Sitting Hall, which the Reagans now call home, was little more than a glorified stair landing, sparsely furnished and at one time covered by what one observer described as a "rich but frightfully ugly carpet." The stairs were ripped out in 1902, and since presidential families have arranged the rooms with their favorite furnishings. The space has been described as themost cheery spot in the White House.

"I wanted the room to be as homelike and comfortable as possible," Mrs. reagan said, "and I think I have achieved that with my own furniture."

The room has a "very personal look," Graber said. Among furnishings are red chintz-covered sofas, English antiques, collections of jade objects and Chinese porcelains, paintings, miniature Chippendale chairs, plants, flowers and a needlepoint sofa pillow with the initials "RR."

"My husband's study on the second floor is also furnished with personal furniture amd mementos," Mrs. Reagan said. "The desk is his own, as are the two upholstered chairs and a cleaned and repaired and it now sits in butler's table. Everywhere in our home the third-floor Center Hall. It is beautithere are special family photographs to

It is in the adjoining long Center Hall where Nancy Reagan's desire to display furnishings acquired and used by earlier presidential families is evident. Centered in the hall is an octagonalshaped, 19th-century English partners desk used during the Kennedy years but later sent to storage.

Along the walls are rare pieces of American Federal furniture, most of them acquired during the Kennedy presidency: a Sheraton-style (1800-15) settee, two matching chairs and Pembroke tables with drop leaves in the Hepplewhite style. To one side is a 12fold Chinese Coromandel screen given to the White House in 1964.

In the room's bookgases, Mrs. Reagan has placed a collection of flower patterned plates from the china collections of the Polk and Grant administrations. The hall has become "an elongated drawing," according to Graber, "divided like an old Victorian house into two receiving rooms by the partners desk.

Off the hall and overlooking the Washington Monument is the gold-yellow Oval Room decorated with Louis XVI and American Empire furnishings made about 1800. Little changed in 20 years, the Yellow Oval Room is probably the most important room on the second floor of the White House, for it is here that the president receives foreign visitors attending state dinners.

JOHN ADAMS, the nation's second president, but first to live in the White House, also used the room for receptions, holding the first official party in the mansion here on Jan. 1, 1801. A few years later Dolley Madison trimmed the room in yellow, but all the early furnishings were lost in the 1814 fire. As the years passed, the Oval Room was taken over by later presidents for their personal studies, libraries or additional family living space. As late as the 1950s, President Eisenhower, displayed his military decorations in cases along the oval walls.

Change came with the Kennedys. who restored the room to its earlier color and formality. Mrs. Reagan has maintained this look but added two upholstered sofas.

"It is a perfectly beautiful room, but we wanted to break down some of the formality," Graber said. A painted settee and two armchairs, decorated with scrollwork and female figures that once belonged to President Monroe, are also in the room.

Among the most dramatic recent changes are those in the formerly forlorn thirdfloor Center Hall. The area now serves as a sitting room or "warm, large library" for the adjoining bedrooms, Graber said. "The choice was to leave the space empty or to furnish it. We chose the latter; it became a god place to put many of the things that were in storage.'

THE STORAGE areas hold a collection of furnishings and art that one White House staff member says "runs the gamut" of the mansion's history. Included are New York Empire tables, a Baltimore secretary-desk, Dutch ginger jars, Currier and Ives prints, 19th-century American painted chairs and a pair of comfortable English chairs.

"Among the wonderful items we discovered in storage," Mrs. Reagan said, 'was a 19th-century, French-made Benjamin Franklin clock," a timepiece highlighted by a figure of Franklin who was admired by the French. "We had t

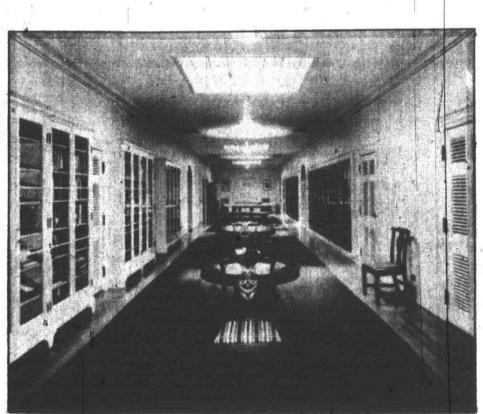

"There is an exquisite collection of painted and stencilled furniture we have used to good advantage on the third floor. We found an English Regency settee, circa 1820, and a pair of 19th-century English side table decorated in chinoiserie motifs, and a wonderful set of fine New England chairs made in the early 19th century. It was a shame to have these lovely pieces deteriorating in storage.

A few varads off the hall and overlookin the Washington Monument and the Jefferson Memorial, is a room special to the Reagans - the third-floor sun room where they often slip away for lunch. Added to the White House by Mrs. Coolidge and englarged by the Trumans, whose parakeets were housed in cages near the windowns, the room, Graber said "is like a garden setting, very quiet, with everything playing to the spectacular views. It is the only place in the White House where you get sun, sky and clouds."

The sofas have been covered h a green and white print, the walls textured, painted and glazed and Audubon prints selected for decoation.

Working on the White House project with the Reagans was an "exhilarating experience," Graber said, and as for the residence itself: "It has one of the kindest spirits + it is so warm and inviting.'

How a town gets its credit rating

By Suzie Rollins Singer staff writer

Like all borrewers, cities and townships depend on their credit ratings to get the lowest possible interest rate.

Credit ratings are necessary when municipalities want to sell bonds to build libraries, parking structures, city halls and sewers. Financial institutions eye the ratings to determine the muncipalities' ability to pay back bonds and what interest rate to charge.

Rating agencies, such as Standard & Poors and Moody's Investment Service, determine credit ratings for most local governments.

'Municipal credit ratings are done at the time bonds are issued," said Bob C. Bendzinski Sr., of Bendzinski and Co. Municipal Finance Advisors.

"They (rating agencies) judge the municipality's accountability, how frequently it reviews reports, its labor problems, how quickly it settles contracts, if it has professional administrators and outstanding debts," Bend-

Growth potential is also considered.

BENDZINSKI'S firm assists several cities, including Farmington Hills and Westland, by drafting their reports to be presented to underwriters.

'We don't sell bonds to the public, and we don't sell to underwriters. We're independent financial advisors who assist in marketing the city's bonds," he explained.

Most often municipalities seek general obligation bonds, which are voted for by the community residents. Once voters approve a bond sale for a library or other building, the bonds are placed on the competitive bid market. At that time, financial institutions, such as securities firms or banks, bid department vacancy immediately.

These costs are accurate as stated but everyone knows figures can lie and township residents by its apparent de- v in this case they do when offered to the public with no further explanation. Law has used these figures to best advantage for his report.

Let me counter with a quote taken from your managing editor's column also in the Dec. 17 issue of Plymouth Observer. Our system of democratic government requires that the public be fully informed. Please let me inform the public as to why there is this cost differential.

Canton Township ($2.47) has its own disposal site, a landfill. By providing a contractor with a dump site you can completely eliminate or greatly minimize one of the major costs of this type of business, namely dump fees.

Also, a followup on this figure by a . township board member who voted against the Maurice Breen, Law, Barbara Lynch proposal revealed that the cost to Canton residents will be substantially higher in 1982 (see minutes).

The city of Plymouth pays $3.80 but no mention was made that the city's contractor does not remove brush, leaves or construction materials (boards, drywall, etc.), thereby effectively lowering the volume of solid waste handled which again has the direct effect of lowering dump fees.

Now, let's look at the township with an average cost of $7 per month (Hornback Sanitation services approximate 1,200 residences at $6 including brush, leaves, construction materials and appliances and dispose of this waste in a Washtenaw County landfill where dump fees have increased 105 percent over the past two years with three raises in 1981 alone and extra charges for appliances.

The average township lot is larger that those in cities, generating more lawn-type refuse and placing pickup stops farther apart, resulting in higher fuel consumption. Private contractors do their own billing and have absorbed the five cents-per-mailing increase incurred in 1981. Most rates have not changed for 15 months.

When all the facts are presented, figures can sometimes tell a completely different story, and in light of these facts, I feel that the private contractors fare rather well.

Let me also make note of the fact that certain people in favor of the Breen, Law, Lynch proposal received special invitations to address the board (see minutes) while those of us opposed (residents and private contractors) had to find out that solid waste disposal was on the agenda via the grapevine. This accounts for why there were only 130 signatures on the petition mentioned in Cates' article. Ninety percent of those approached signed, but there simply was not time to contact any more residents. When people are fully informed they can better decide for themselves whether or not the Breen, Law, Lynch proposal is to their best advantage. Perhaps this is why Breen feels he can't always return questions to the voters. It may not be to his best advan-

In closing let me quote from a Plymouth Observer column by Tim Richard also dated Dec. 17.

"You need to understand you are getting a fraction of the story when you see a hearing covered by television. Newspapers are a whole lot better, as a generality, but you need to read carefully to see how many persons spoke at the hearing and how many are quoted. Follow rules for fun family skiing

If you approach skiing with your youngsters as a fun sport - rather than a complicated skill they must master - you can look forward to years of family excitement of the slopes.

I. William Berry, former executive editor of Ski magazine, explains how to go about it in the January Issue of Families. "You don't explain to a child how to play, and skiing is play," he advises. "A simple 'follow me," and they'll be there."

Be sensitive to a child's abilities. Children, because of their muscle development, are physically unable to execute subtle movements and adjustments like adults. Their coordination isn't as good as an adult's, either.

"Make style a fetish," warms Berry, and you'll take the fun out of your child's experience."

They also need scheduled sleep, meals, snacks and unstructured play time on ski days as much as on any

Tensions and hassles are reduced to a minimum if you are lucky enough to have an entire ski week. But with 'patience, a weekend or one-day venture can be rewarding. Remember that after a few lessons your child will be able to ski with you. "The worst problem that children face in skiing," cautions Berry, "is the feeling that Mom and Dad regard them as a drag."

To reduce the risk of serious injury, Berry feels that children should use ski brakes, not "safety straps." Bindings should be set a tad loosely, and rubber tips could be placed on metal ski-pole

LMOST 5 MILLION people answered the call of the slopes last year, proving that venturing outdoors during the snow season can be fun and exciting. However, before visions of the Olympics become a standard operating brain pattern, take time to get into shape with a few conditioning exercises. Jeane Claude Killy or Susie Chapman you won't become overnight, but with a little practice and some warmups, perfect style can REMEMBER THAT skiing demands coordination and staying power. A clean set of lungs is as important as well-conditioned thighs and calves. The first thing to do is extinguish the cigarettes and cut the alcohol consumption to the minimum. If you haven't yet had a yearly physical, this might be the appropriate time to visit the doctor. A proper diet also should be in effect to provide the necessary energy required on the slopes.

Listed below are a few simple exercises for general conditioning and limbering up some of the muscles you use for skiing. Exercise moderately at first, gradually increasing repetitions as fitness improves.

THERE IS NO better exercise for general conditioning than walking. Walk about five or six blocks each day on low heeled shoes. Walk up and down stairs. Doing this backwards is a good pre-skiing exercise but make sure feet are firmly planted as you move from step to step.

JOGGING, RUNNING or jumping rope not only condition the lower extremities but each improves the circulation, builds stamina and helps develop lung

To develop the calves and strengthen the ankles, stand on a 4-by-4 piece of wood, or on the edge of a step or bathtub, toes at the edge. Lift your weight first with both feet placed together, then with both feet facing out with heels touching, then with toes touching and heels facing out. Raise your body 10

HALF KNEE BENDS are better than deep knee bends for skiing. The part of the torso from the knee to the waist will be doing much of the work. To develop here, squat down as you would to sit on an 18-inch high stool. Repeat 10 times, eventually working up to 30 repetitions.

To strengthen the thighs and lower back, place your body against a wall and lower yourself into a sitting position as if to sit on a chair. Head, back and arms should be flat against the wall. Hold for 30 seconds. Repeat five times, eventually increasing the length of time from 30 to 45 to 60 seconds.

SIT-UPS strengthen not only the abdomen but also the lower back. Lie on your back with your knees bent, toes tucked under a piece of furniture or held down by another person. Clasp hands behind the neck and move your body up to a sitting position, exhaling as you raise yourself, inhaling on the return. Start with 10 repetitions, gradually work up to two sets of 25 repetitions.

LEG LIFTS will achieve similar results. Lie flat on the floor, hands clasped behind the head. Raise the head 6 inches off the floor. Then raise the legs 10 inches off the floor on the first count, spreading the legs on the second count, bringing them back together on the third count, and lowering them to 6 inches from the floor on the fourth count. Repeat 10 times, building to three sets of 10 repetitions.

TO HELP prevent ankle sprains or unnecessary stress in that region, sit and cross your feet and rock from left to right. Reverse the position of the feet and repeat 10 times. While still sitting, raise your legs about six inches off the floor and rotate the feet and ankles first in a clockwise direction then reversing the movement counterclockwise, 10 times each. Increase to three sets of 10 repetiequipment. It must fit properly and function efficiently under a variety of conditions. For the first time out you may want to rent your equipment from either a ski shop or ski area. This will give you an opportunity to determine if you like the sport and save you a considerable sum of money if you don't.

SKIS ARE made of more than just wood. Fiberglass, metal and plastic add flexibility and strength. Length will depend on your height, weight and ability, although most beginners find that shorter skis are more easily maneuvered than longer skis. Browse through ski publications and talk with longtime skiers and experienced store personnel to give you an idea on what est suits your needs

BOOTS ARE an important investent since a lot of the movement in iking places great demand on the ankles. Shop around and try on as many styles as possible. Remember that fit nes before color. When being fitted or boots, wear two pairs of heavy ocks or one pair and ski tights since hat is probably what you'll be wear-

BINDINGS MUST HOLD the ski

SKIER DEPENDS on his or her from shifting while skiing. To help prevent injury, bindings should release boot from the ski when the skier falls, twists a ski or hits something solid. Automatic full release bindings release in many directions. The wider the range of conditions under which the binding will release, the safer the binding. Ski brakes or ankle straps to prevent run-away skis should be used at all times.

> SKI POLES (wood, aluminum or fiberglass) assist beginners in maintaining balance. They should be about the length of the distance from upperto mid-waist to the ground, keeping in mind the added two to three inches from boots and skis. Poles are also useful to help a skier get up after a

CLOTHING INSULATES the skier gainst the cold and also serves as padding for those times when you make contact with the snow other than with the skis. Ski parkas are roomy across the back for easy movement. The outer shell should be wind and water-resistant. Ski pants should be cut to fit snugly but action styled for freedom of leg movement, in nug-fitting, water-repellent stretch fabrics or closely woven shell with foam insulation. Invest in a pair of OW THAT the fundamentals are out of the way, you're in condition and outfitted to try for the gold. Right? Wrong. Here are a few more tips that will help make your skiing that much more enjoyable.

TAKE INSTRUCTIONS. Skiing without proper instructions is foolhardy. Lessons from a certified ski instructor will build your self-confidence as well as help you develop proper skiing techniques. Veteran skiers also should take a few refresher lessons at the start of the season.

NEVER SKI ALONE. Skiing is more fun with someone. It's also safer. If an accident should occur the uninjured skier can report it either directly to the ski patrol or through the nearest lift attendant. Take an American Red Cross first aid class and ski patrol headquarters. you'll learn exactly what to do in case of emergency.

PICK A NICE DAY. If you are a beginner try to select a nice day for your first outing of the season. There is nothing more discouraging than sub-zero weather and icy sno. Fresh fallen, dry powder is ideal for skiing.

USE LIFTS PROPERLY. Read instructions posted on every lift. Ask lift attendant for help if you are not sure. While you wait in line watch how others ride. It's good ski etiquette to wait your turn in line. Avoid standing in the runout area at end of a trail. Swinging or bounding en any lift is dangerous. Hold poles by the shaft, leaving straps free from wrist. Always get off any lift smoothly. When riding chair lifts be sure to keep ski tips up when approaching the unloading platform.

SKI WHERE ABLE. Choose a slope or trail that matches your ability. Every area has maps to guide you. If in doubt, check with a ski instuctor or member of the National Ski Patrol. Observe the postings.

MAINTAIN CONTROL. After long lift ride, loosen up your muscle before beginning to ski. Look u and down hill before you start. Always give the moving skier below you the right of way. Know exactly what you want to do and where you want to go before you start down. Don't ski straight down the fall line. This can generate tremendous speeds which experts cannot handle. Most skiers ski across the hill (traverse). This allows you to control your speed. Slow down when you reach the bottom of the slope and move out of the way of other skiers as quickly as possible. If you are tired resit the temptation to take just one more run.

ASSISTANCE. If you fall be sure to fill in the hole in the snow. If someone gets hurt, cross ski (to form an X) well above the injured skier. This will pinpoint the accident for the ski patrol and warn other skiers to stay clear. Before leaving the scene of the accident be sure you know its location. Report exactly where the accident is and what kind of help is required. Some areas have telephones for reporting accidents. If not, report accident to nearest lift operator or ELOW IS A listing of resorts Ski Brul, Box 165; Iron River 49935; and runs arranged by area, with addresses, phone numbers and lift fees included.

Officials' closed attitude must change

HO WOULD THINK a township board, elected by the people, would close its doors to discuss whether or not it's moral for little Johnny to stuff quarters into a video-game machine?

That was the attitude of the Canton Township Board when it voted, 4-3, to hold a closed session on possible revisions of its electronic-games ordinance. The board closed its doors based on the advice of township Attorney C. Gerald Hemming.

Canton's board needs to make a mental commitment toward openness. The board misused the Open Meetings Act.

MANY WISE PEOPLE have said attorneys have the hardest time interpreting the Open Meetings Act because it is written in laymen's terms.

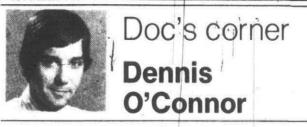

Trustees can read the act for themselves - and

It is absolutely ludicrous that any group of elected officials would close the doors - in the middle of a public meeting, no less — to discuss a videogames ordinance for more than two/hours.

HEMMING REQUESTED the closed session to avoid the risk of potential litigation related to any revision that may be made to the electronic-game ordinance. He felt closed doors were warranted by the attorney-client privilege.

It should be noted, however, that the thrust of that portion of the Open Meetings Act relates to protection of a public body from financial harm that may occur from a specific pending lawsuit, not an "iffy" one.

A meeting also may be closed to discuss a written opinion by an attorney, courts have held. But in this case, it seems Hemming and the board discussed policy changes in the ordinance — not a written opinion — in their two-hour closed session.

To close a meeting, the board needed a twothirds majority vote.

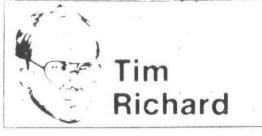

Supervisor James Poole, Clerk John Flodin, Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz and Trustee Carol Bd denmiller voted to move into closed session. Trustees Robert Padget, Steve Larson and Loren Bennett voted against the closed meeting.

It doesn't take a mathematical genius to know a 4-3 decision is not a two-thirds majority. The board needed five votes to move into closed session.

IT IS IMPORTANT to realize that even if the board had the discretion to close the public meeting. its discretion was misused. The board should have used that discretion in favor of openness, not in fafor of excluding the public, as the law suggests.

The attorney-client exemption is a flimsy excuse for a closed session - especially when talking about a public policy issue such as video games.

We hope the board will think twice the next time it faces a closed-session question. The board must immediately examine - and change - its attitude toward closing the doors.

Locals raise voices over block grants

SEMCOG, a colorless acronym for our regional planning agency, is creeping quietly back into the

To begin with, Wayne County, the fiscal bad boy of Michigan, has rejoined the ranks of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. Having put its red ink in order. Wayne County can now pay its $173,000 annual dues and resume its role in the regional planning process.

Next, SEMCOG Chairman Daniel T. Murphy has set his sights on persuading Macomb County to rejoin the fold. Murphy, whose elective job is Oakland County executive, may be just the person to persuade the snarling, foot-dragging Macombites to rejoin civilized society.

'Good, sound regional planning is important," said Murphy, "and participation by Macomb County will make that planning better.

ONE COULD quarrel with the second half of Murphy's sentence on elitist grounds.

For the past decade, Macomb's leading political lights have had a pretty bad attitude toward regional cooperation, as evidenced by their reactionary votes and amendments in the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority of which, by law, they

* For the 14 councils of government in Michigan, SEMCOG, which is voluntary, is one of only two with less than 100 percent of the population represented. Macomb County is the chief reason.

Frankly. I hold the view that SEMCOG will make fairly good decisions as long as the good ol' boys and girls run it, but if you let just anybody in, the overall tone could be lowered.

Nevertheless, if Dan Murphy says Macomb should be in, I will defer to him.

A THIRD reason SEMCOG is making news may seem pretty remote to the ordinary reader, but it's

At this point, I will borrow heavily from "Regionalism," a new study on local government cooperation by the League of Women Voters of Michigan. And let credit be given to Marietta Mezey of the Birmingham-Bloomfield LWV, who was one of the writers and editors, and Beverly McAninch of the Plymouth LWV, an editor.

By the mid-1960s, they say, "the federal government began to stipulate that all applications for federal grants would have to be reviewed by areawide planning and development organizations to assure that they did not conflict with other plans in the region.'

In short, Johnson, Nixon, Ford and Carter required regional planning to assure good use of fed-

This evolution of regional organizations is at a crossroads today," the LWV study goes on. "As the Reagan administration begins its efforts to dismantle many of the federal programs and to turn responsibilities over to the states, we are beginning to hear the term 'devolution.' That is, many federal programs administered directly with local and regional units of government may now be turned over to the states for administration.

THE FEAR has some practical meanings.

Who, for example, will administer what used to be the community development block grant program? SEMCOG Vice Chairman Don Shelton, mayor of Saline, voiced concern that local governments _ might have no voice if, as proposed, the program is administered entirely by the state.

The state's Office of Community Development proposal "provides virtually no input from local elected officials," Shelton complained recently. Moreover, it leaves uncertain what emphasis might be placed on economic development and other community development activities.

Michigan has a history of extremely vigorous local government. SEMCOG is run by local governments, and it is correct in seeking a piece of the block-grant action.

And all joshing aside, Macomb really should reojoin SEMCOG.

Knowing news is often misunderstood

OME PEOPLE HAVE problems knowing what news is and the kinds of news papers should be publishing.

News is not public relations. News is not history.

News is an event of interest to large numbers of

Sometimes that event takes the form of an announcement that papers report as "news" without really knowing whether what is announced will really occur at a later date - if ever. An example would be if the supervisor gave a state of the township address next week and announced that 1982 would be a very prosperous year

Most newspapers would report that announcement as "news" because many residents are interested in the supervisor's prognosis for the township's economy in the coming year.

FEW NEWSPAPERS, if any, would wait until the end of the year to determine for themselves whether 1982 actually ended up to be a prosperous The truth of an announcement is left for historians, not journalists, to determine. Journalists report events, happenings, announcements and pronouncements as they happen.

Most supervisors would expect a newspaper to print a state of the township address, including all those predictions that none of us really know will occur or not. Even our own supervisor, James Poole, would expect the Canton Observer to publish such beginning of the year predictions if he were prone to issue them, which so far he has wisely

The point is that newspapers report events without taking responsibility for the outcome of those

That is one of the major elements at work in determining what is news and what ought to be reported in any given issue of a newspaper.

THUS, IT seems rather odd that the other newspaper in town would accuse the Observer of making up news by reporting an announcement by a member of the Detroit Guardian Angels that they were going to organize a local chapter.

The announcement, indeed, was made and the announcement was "news." The announcement was just as newsworthy as the supervisor's end of the year predictions, and just as newsworthy as when the Canton Observer printed on Page Four the intentions of a local citizens group (PACT) to form a citizens patrol.

The fact that the Guardian Angels have not arrived in Plymouth has nothing to do, at all, with the newsworthiness of the initial announcement.

The Observer can not be held responsible for the truth of Keith Harvey's pronouncement any more than it can be held responsible for the truth of a supervisor's predictions. We report news; we don't

THE OBSERVER itself never stated the Guardian Angels would organize in Plymouth; we merely reported Harvey's announcement of his intent to do so. But to argue seriously that the announcement was not news is to suggest that Harvey did not come into Plymouth that day and declare what his plans

Right now, the daily newspapers and television stations are regularly reporting "news" of the intentions of the Guardian Angels from New York City to come to Detroit to form a chapter. These news agencies also believe such an announcement is news — even though the New York group has not yet, after all these months, set up a patrol on the streets of Detroit.

The Observer reports news; we place any value judgments about news as it occurs on our editorial page as an opinion. Objective reporting requires the separation of news reporting from making value judgments about those events.

The fact that the Observer regularly reports news is evident from the way the other paper in town (Community Crier) rewrites the news we report in earlier issues.

While we are flattered, in a sense, that the Community Crier chooses to rewrite our news stories. the fact it does so makes less credible its claim that we make news, not report news.

A record-breaking 3 days in sports

Traveling the sports trail through the years — as participant, spectator and later a writer — The Stroller has endured many unusual experiences. But none compared with the unusual happenings over the recent New Year's weekend when Mother Nature made him a prisoner in his own home, and he watched 10 football games. Years ago, on the rainy night when Jack Demsey lost the heavyweight title to Gene Tunney. The Stroller was forced to lie in the mud under the ring and dictate his story. He thought that would be the most unusual day of his career.

Later, while seeking inside information on the feelings of a driver being whisked around the track in the Indianapolis 500, he was taken for a ride around the oval at 130 miles per hour. And he nearly bit off his tongue as Wilbur Shaw, the three-time winner, breezed around the curves.

That, The Stroller thought, would be the one big moment of his career.

But it wasn't.

THERE CAME the morning in Algonac, Mich., when Gar Wood was preparing to make a bid for the world speedboat record with his famous Miss Knowing he would be hard-pressed for a story later in the day because the afternoon papers would carry the result of the trial, The Stroller asked Gar if he would be kind enough to detail his emotions when the trial was finished.

"You think that would be a good story?" he asked. "Well, you are going for a ride, too, and you can write about your own feelings.

Before he knew it, The Stroller was in the boat and survived a ride at 124.85 miles per hour new world record.

What an experience that was for a fellow who is deathly afraid of water and can't swim.

Along about that time, too, The Stroller had the unusual thrill of playing pocket billiards with world champion Ralph Greenleaf in a Ford Tri-Motor plane for more than an hour over downtown Detroit to prove the stability of the aircraft. Talk about the unusual — that was it.

Somehow or other, all these unusual happenings faded on the morning of Jan. 1, 1982.

AFTER WATCHING the University of Michigan conquer UCLA in the Bluebonnet Bowl on New Year's Eve, The Stroller thought he'd had enough of football until the Rose Bowl game later on New Year's Day.

But when he awoke on New Year's morning, he saw long icicles dangling from the roof of the white house with the green shutters, the sidewalks and driveway wheet of ice, and a road that was just about unpassable. The Stroller realized it would be folly to attempt any travel out-of-doors.

He watched and waited. Finally, it dawned on him that he was a prisoner, and there was nothing left to do but make the most of it.

He started by turning to the TV, and there, in living color, he saw the Cotton Bowl parade, then the first of the five bowl games on the air.

He switched from the Cotton Bowl to the Sugar Bowl to the Fiesta Bowl to the Rose Bowl, and on r into the night while nestled in his big green easy

In between, he saw fragments of the other bowl games, and he tallied six by the time he retired.

THE SECOND day of the year broke the same

Accustomed to the role of prisoner, he watched the four games in the pro football playoffs on Sunday. That made a total of 10 games in three days the equivalent of an entire season's play under ordinary circumstances.

But this was not ordinary, and 1982's arrival takes rank as one of the most unusual in memory Hereafter, The Stroller will take his cereal from a cereal dish. No more bowls!

Cross country skiing is the way to see nature best

By Lem Mesee staff writer

You don't hear as much about cross country skiing as you do about downhill skiing — for a reason.

The reason is that businesses which operate ski lifts and the tourism agen- a state park annual vehicle permit for cies to which they pay dues don't make $10. money off cross country skiers.

And yet from the point of view of the outdoors' lover, cross country is the way to ski. Not only is it cheaper, but you can be close to nature. You see deer tracks - and even deer - and hear bird songs you never hear on the commercial slopes.

Maybury State Park and the Huron-Clinton Metroparks are two fine spots for cross country skiing. (In the past, we've seen many cross country zealots in the Island Lake State Recreation Area woods near New Hudson, but they've been fewer this year with all the snowmobiles racing around there.)

"IT'S GREAT. We have seven; to eight miles of cross country trails marked," said Tony Klain, manager of Maybury State Park on Eight Mile Road, a few miles west of Northville.

"One is quite easy. Others go through the woods," said Klain. Maybury's ski trails follow its hiking trails and bicycle paths. The park also has a sledding hill and a rentable picnic shelter with a

THE SEVEN Huron-Clinton Metroparks have cross country skiing.

Leading the parade is Kensington, near Milford, with 15 miles of trails. To the northeast is Stony Creek, near Rochester, with 1.7 miles.

In southern Wayne County, there are Willow, near New Boston, with 4.5 miles, and Oakwoods, near Flat Rock, with three miles of marked trails.

Kensington, Stony Creek and Willow also have rental concessions. The concessionaire is Raupp Campfitters Inc., which also offers lessons. Call one of their stores in Royal Oak, Redford Township or Ann Arbor for informa-

If you want to blaze your own trail, try Metro Beach, near Mt. Clemens; Hudson Mills, northwest of Ann Arbor on North Territorial Road; or Lower Huron, near Belleville.

Vehicle permits are $2 for the day and $7 for the year.

MAYBURY is offering another new feature this year - hayrides in a horse-drawn sleigh. The 20-minute rides start every half-hour from noon to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays and cost $1.50 a person or $5 a family.

Groups of up to 20 may make reservations for Friday, Saturday or Sunday evenings. Call concessionaire Dean

UPCOMING programs at Kensington Metropark are:

 A quilting demonstration at 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 7, by Ann Wiersma in the Farm Center at the north end of the park. There is a $1 charge. If you're into early American crafts, we recommend these farm programs. Register in advance by calling the Farm Center at 685-9105 or the park office at 685-1561.

· A nature cross country ski tour starts at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 10, from the Nature Center on the west side of the park. Naturalist Mark Szabo will lead the 21/2-hour trek, stopping to examine activities and survival tactics of plants and animals. Call the park office to register.

LAST WEEK'S story about the 50th anniversary of the invention of Scrabble, the nation's top-selling game, does have a local connection. And is has nothing to do with the number of Scrabble players in the Plymouth-Canton community.

Ruth Blomberg of Plymouth Township was a high school classmate of Alfred Butts, the inventor of Scrabble. Mrs. Blomberg, the former Ruth DuBois, and Butts were members of the Ploughkeepsie (N.Y.) High School class of 1917.

Classmates have kept in touch over the years with class reunions. The last was hosted by Butts and his wife at their farm in Duchess County which once belonged to his grandfather.

After graduation in 1917, Ruth attended business college. She was employed by the Ford Motor Co. plant in Ploughkeepsie and was asked to come to Michigan to work at the Waterford plant. She and her mother moved to Plymouth. Later she was secretary for Floyd Kehrl, president of First National Bank of Plymouth, and in time, at National Bank of Detroit.

Her husband, Halvar Blomberg, was born in Sweden. Because of his expertise in the manufacture of gauges, he came to Ploughkeepsie and later to Plymouth. The Blombergs have lived here since

Mrs. Blomberg is not exactly an avid Scrabble player. She tried it TRADITION and family involvement are "dear to the hearts" of people at Geer and Starkweather elementary schools. Perhaps because of their 100-year and 50-year plus records as part of the school system, there is a keen sense of history at both schools.

The tradition of the annual Christmas sing at Starkweather went off as planned. Children, parents, teachers and friends gathered round the living Christmas tree in front of the school on Holbrook. The tree was a gift to the school from Elizabeth Donnelly, longtime teacher at Starkweather, who presented the evergreen when

Mrs. Donnelly missed the sing because of illness. Lowanda Jarvis, PTO president, gave the poinsettia plant intended for Mrs. Donnelly to Starkweather principal John Howe, who delivered it to the retired

Refreshments were served in the school gymnasium and everyone had an opportunity to see the results of the PTO food drive. Four huge boxes of canned goods donated by the students were delivered by John Howe to Geneva United Presbyterian Church. These were included in Geneva's Christmas boxes to needy families.

CONNIE FREEH, 1978 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School, starts a new job tomorrow. She will be working in the office of the University of Michigan (U-M) Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Tuesday was Connie's last day as deputy treasurer of Northville Township, a position she regards as an "opportunity to work for and be able to meet so many nice people."

Along with her full-time work week, she made time to attend Madonna College where she recently received an associate degree in business. The 22-year-old plans to continue her education at

Lawyer finds letting go is toughest job in divorce

By Carol Carpenter staff writer

During the death of a marriage, legal questions multiply, The answers may well determine a woman's future.

Women may find some answers at the four-week Open Forum Series on family law being offered by the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College. The talks will start Tuesday,

"Most women (getting a divorce) want to know way ahead of time exactly what they can expect," said Livonia attorney Margaret Barton, speaker for the series. "They just want to know | what they're entitled to.

"It's the worst turmoil of their lives and yet they're expected to make rational decisions."

Ms. Barton's topics for the sessions are: "Nature of No-Fault Divorce," Jan. 12; 'Finances and the Property Settlement," Jan. 19; "Establishing and Enforcing Child Custody Agreements," Jan. 26; and "Protecting Yourself and Your Children." Feb. 2.

Each forum will be held from 7-9 p.m.in room B430 in the Liberal Arts Building. There is no charge and reservations aren't necessary. For more information, call the center at 591-6400, ext. 430.

DIVORCES ARE often traumatic for both men and women, said Ms. Barton, who worked with Nicholas Smith, a Westland attorney, after she graduated from Detroit College of Law in 1978.

In June 1980, she opened her own office in Livonia. She estimated that 60-70 percent of her cases are in the area of family law although she also handles other types of cases such as real estate and personal injury. She now gets about 10-15 new divorce cases each month.

"In a divorce, both people end up losing a lot financially and emotionally," Ms. Barton said. "You can only divide what you have, not the years lost in the job market. And divorce means a drastic life-style change."

The state no-fault divorce law went into effect in January 1972, Ms. Barton

"It was supposed to make things easier for people to get a divorce because the court doesn't determine who is at. fault," Ms. Barton said. "And it works fine if there are no problems.

"I suppose it has eliminated some animosity," she said, "but people who are going to fight end up fighting anyway."

Many people misunderstand the nofault divorce law, Ms. Barton said. In Michigan, the property is not split 50-

"FAULT CAN BE considered when you get the property settlement.

"The law favors settlement, having the couples make the decision. The judges will endorse almost any settlement (worked out between the couple), especially if they have attorneys.

When seeing an attorney about a divorce, clients "should be extremely well informed about their finances. They should know what and where the finances are," said the lawyer, adding that some women don't-know how much their husbands earn or which bank the husband uses for the savings and checking accounts.

Most people have a hard time accepting the fact that divorce means they'll be on their own, Ms. Barton

"People have a hard time letting go of relationships," she said. "There's an overwhelming feeling when they're first alone. They ask, 'What am I going

Ms. Barton understands this feeling. Married shortly after high school, she was divorced at 21 and had a one-yearold daughter to support but no skills.

"It's a scary feeling to have a small child who's dependent on you when you have no education or job," Ms. Barton said. "And the court system didn't care if I got my child support or not.)

I have had calls from California, Texas, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Florida from long-lost friends who think I have some way of getting my hands on a few Super Bowl tickets.

I do believe that the tickets will be harder to get than most people could conceive. The Renaissance City has attracted so many tourists in the past few years, everyone wants to come our way these days.

I have seen two professional football games live - and I still cannot understand how one game a year can create such a fantastic party-like atmosphere.

The activities begin Saturday, Jan. 9, at Briarwood Mall. For free admission your family can see varsity-style entertainment, historic uniforms, fashions and join in a drawing for two Super Bowl tickets.

For you outdoor buffs, WJR-AM is sponsoring/a family day at Pine Knob ski resort. Activities will start at 9 a.m. and end with a torchlight run, a bonfire and a pep rally.

The Shrine Circus will also be in town so our guests from around the world will have plenty to do.

It is going to be an exciting month for every one of us whether we get caught in the Sunday Pigskin Syndrome

If you just happen to come across a few tickets you don't know what to do with, call me. I know a person in Philadelphia who would like eight of them.

By the way, my response to him was, "Are you crazy or just plain stupid?

Help, Lord

Fat club fights against the devil

By Carol Carpenter staff writer

The Livonia Pentecostal Church of God is starting a program to help overweight people control their eating.

"Help Lord, the Devil Wants Me Fat Club" will use fasting and prayer as a scriptural approach to a trim and attractive body, said program director James Beatty.

"The devil-wants you fat, wants to hinder the work of God, wants you to doubt God's word so you will not prosper," said Beatty, who was born in Livonia, and has been a member of the pentecostal religion since 1947. For years he traveled throughout the United States as an evangelist, using drugless therapy.

"AS CHILDREN of God, we can fight that (devil) influence," said Beatty, 51. "If we walk according to God's word, we will prosper in health as it says in the Bible."

The Help Lord Club will teach people how the devil influences their eating, how to deal with appetite and how to deprogram themselves from bad eating habits, said Beatty, a clerk at a 7-Eleven store.

Beatty has a doctor's degree in naturopathy from Lincoln College of Naturopathic in Indiana. Michigan doesn't license this practice that cures through herbs and manipulation, Beatty said. People have poor eating habits, Beatty said. They snack between meals and become "foodaholics."

"I used to have a slim body until I was 35," Beatty said, "But then I really became addicted to junk food and began to crave it.

"People have problems and concerns in life, and they grab something to eat," Beatty said, "For me it's chips and pop. I can go through a two-pound bag of chips in a half hour."

ON DEC. 9, Beatty said, he started to watch his weight.

A 24-hour fast cleansed his body, he said. Then he started eating smaller portions and stuck to eating three balanced meals a day with no snacking.

Already, he has gone from 279 pounds to 263 pounds, he said, and plans to lose 60 more pounds.

Fasting is important, he said, because "in our church people, fast periodically. The Bible tells us we regain strength and power through fasting."

The Help Lord club will begin to fight the battle of the bulge at 10 a.m. Jan. 9 at the church, 11663 Arcola, just north of Plymouth Road. Meetings will be held every Saturday for two months.

Anyone may join. Dues are 25 cents for those who gain weight and five cents for those who lose weight.

TO REGISTER for the program, call the church at 425-6360.

Before joining the club, a person should have a medical checkup and get a doctor's approval, Beatty said.

The devil tempts people to eat too much by making food look attractive in advertisements, Beatty said.

"We've been programmed to eat constantly," he added. "And with the economy being what it is, people begin to worry and get the desire to eat."

Many of the young people are obese, he said.

"I have a niece who's 10 years old, and I think she'll join up," Beatty said "She's addicted to chocolate."

SEVEN MEMBERS of the 50-member Livonia Pentecostal Church of God have already signed up for the Help

Lord club, Beatty said. The informal meetings will begin with prayer, he said. Then he'll lecture and invite questions. Unlike Weight Watchers, he said, his group will neither follow any specials diet nor weigh their food. But members will weigh in every week, he said, because "when a person loses even one pound, he's encouraged:" Members will have to admit to themselves that they are foodaholics, Beatty

"Then they can call one another and say, 'Pray for me. I'm tempted to eat,"

he said. "And prayer changes things "We'll stress the need for health, that obesity causes physical damage to the temple of the Lord," Beatty said. 'We need to be shocked into the fact that we are obese and that pills and fad diets aren't going to help.

Rev. Charles Erickson

We need leaders, not candle lighting

Events in Poland scream for response and our president asks us to light a candle. Light is an important symbol and candles are beautiful, but I have never been convinced anyone is saved by wax.

There are hints in the news that various governments are working hard behind the scenes. How much more helpful it would have been if our president has assured us he was in constant touch with diplomats and staying close to his phone to be personally involved.

It is quite clear that the Polish people have a problem. Our problem is similar but not so obvious. The problem is lack of trust in one's own government. Lighting a candle is an admission that we are not in personal contact. We feel powerless and our faith in our own government diminishes.

Candles suggest we are in an ideological struggle which will be decided by mass opinion. Widespread support is important but the truth is that we are in a power struggle. The enemy is barbarism not belief.

BARBARISM IS a universal threat. The desire to control by brute force is in all of us. Armies conquer territories while seemingly unaware of the people who are the real reason for the confrontation. Government exists for people and we need assurance that our leaders are involved in crisis so world community is not destroyed. Violence and terrorism are the tools of barbarians. When we give up on the ability of government of govern we attack. Barbarians caused the dark ages by destroying governments across Europe. Nationalism overcame barbast rism and now nations fall back intel rule by terror. Civilization is carried by culture, no by armed force. We admire the Poles for great fame in the arts. We join them in promoting beauty and abhoring crudeness. The cheap and trivial is crowded out by devotion to values. The power struggle is about people, not about political doctrines or armaments. The power in people is measured in what they value and how they honor truth and beauty

We can help the Polish people by helping ourselves. The weapons are in cathedrals and museums, in concert halls and auditoriums. Flowers and picket fences tamed the American frontier so opera houses could be built and morals lifted by cultivated consci-

THE ISSUE IS people and the weapons are personal. People are known one by one, not in litters. We need to trust our government to enlist skilled diplomats who give their total personal power to pursuing peace. We need to know civilizing forces are being used in crisis.

Tax-Deferred Retirement Savings.

There's just one place with a department of experts ready to help you.

Why you should have a Tax-Deferred IRA.

there's never been a better time than right now to start saving for the future. Thanks to a new tax law effective January 1, 1982, it is possible for anyone with a wage or salary income to open a tax-deferred Retirement Savings Account ... even those who are already covered by qualified pension plans. The new rules allow a working couple, filing jointly, to tax-defer up to $4,000 of their 1982 income. These investments and any earnings on them are tax-free until retirement. Then, because income probably will be reduced from what it is right now, it's likely taxes will be assessed at a lower rate.

Here's a chance to supplement your company's pension plan as well as your Social Security benefits, and receive both a tax deduction and a tax deferment at the same time.

Why it should be at NBD

Only National Bank of Detroit has a Retirement Savings Department staffed by experts in the field. A department that's knowledgeable about the regulations and conditions relating to various retirement savings programs

This insures that NBD customers have the most current information necessary to make the right choices with regard to their specific retirement needs. Why is NBD the only bank in town with a Retirement Savings Department? Because NBD thinks your retirement security is that important. NBD has a variety of retirement savings accounts—all protected by the FDIC—as well as the expertise to help you choose the best plan. Let NBD simplify the complexities of retirement savings for you?

At NBD, an IRA can get you more than retirement savings and a tax-deferment.

NBD is the preferred bank for tax-deferred retirement savings. And no wonder When you open an IRA at NBD you get the benefits of the Unibank System that can make your banking more efficient and economical. With a specified minimum deposit, you'll be eligible for noservice-charge checking, no annual fee on charge cards, and no-service-charge Interest Checking. Plus, you have access to more branches throughout metropolitan Detroit and more convenient 24-Hour Bankers than with any other bank in town. If you're thinking about opening a tax-deferred Retirement Savings Account, it's time you did something about it. Come see our experts at your nearest NBD branch today and find out which NBD Retirement Savings Account will fit into your future.

Super Bowl becomes bad dream

The sweat still oozed from my forehead as I lay in the still darkness. Had I been working too hard? Was the ton of information I had received over countless Super Bowl events getting to me, even during my hours of rest?

Did I deserve to have my sleep tormented by Chuck Alug nightmares?

Only the most savage of dreams remains intact in the memory. I recalled every terrible scene, with Chuck Alug's presence dominating each.

SO MANY events planned for the metro-Detroit area and, in my nightmare, Chuck, the partier extraordinare, was at each

There was Chuck at the Super Drink contest, being congratulated for concocting the beverage best suited to make the 70,000 or so Super Bowl visitors feel good about Detroit.

And there was a grinning Chuck, dressed in gym shorts, T-shirt and tennis shoes all emblazoned with "Super Bowl '82", horrifying the Super Drink crowd by showing them how his drink was to be consumed - by sticking the head into the half-gallon mixture and slurping it down in one gulp and a belch.

Chuck, always looking for a way to cash in, did just that in another part of my dream. Super visitors who thought "Super Crawl" was just a visit to several local watering holes found out differ-

CHUCK HAD managed to put his house on the Super Crawl tour. A dozen busses were parked up and down Chuck's street, and as Chuck ushered the tourists into the basement he dared them by saying, "You can buy the official Super Drink here — one for $2 or two for $1. But you can't leave without finishing them.'

Those who thought they were taking advantage of some dumb Detroiter were finding out differently. As fast as the guests piled in the front door, Chuck's brother rode herd over another bunch leaving through the back. With the aid of an electric cattle prod and a dog, he jammed the crawling tourists into the Alugs' garage. Each were charged $25 for one night's NEXT, CHUCK became a Super athlete. Darting out from behind a bush a to write about Detroit?" la Rosie Ruiz in a secluded spot near the finish of the NFL Alumni's Winterfest 4-Mile Run, Chuck proclaimed was the worst. There was Chuck beamhimself winner.

He beamed as he collected the firstplace trophy before a crowd of suspicious runners who wondered how such a pot-bellied slug could outrun everyone - especially with a six-pack hanging from his belt.

As my nightmare progressed, so did Chuck's antics. Halftime at the Super Bowl exploded into a frenzied mob scene as the party man led hundreds of drunken bus drivers onto the field. They stormed beer stands and made off with several kegs, grabbing a few cheerleaders on their way back to their party room beneath the Silverdome

Chuck next appeared in a bus that spun wildly around and around, doing donuts in the frozen Silverdome parking lot. Chuck, naturally, was at the wheel. As a group of frightened sportswriters clung to whatever they could in the back of the bus, Chuck, with a menacing gleam in his eye, screamed, "Now WHAT are you going

THE LAST scene of the nightmare ing as a Michigan Host Committee dignitary presented him a medal "for a great service performed in the best interests of our state."

Chuck stepped to the microphone and snarled, "I'd do it again. Imagine, those Alcoholics Anonymous guys trying to schedule a big convention in town right in the middle of Super Bowl week. What were they trying to do, ruin all Chuck went on (and on and on) to explain how he convinced the Guardian Angels that these "communists" were just going to try and cause trouble. The Angels were enraged, and with Chuck's organizational help cordoned off the entire metro area to prevent the AA in-

"It's a good thing we didn't have to get tough with them, thuck said, gripping the pearl-handled beer mugs sticking from his holster. Then he led the excited crowd in reciting his two slogans: "The ends justify the means" and "Anything for the sake of the par-

I SLOWLY rolled out of bed to splash some water on my face, just to make sure I was awake. The phone rang. I knew who it was before I answered it.

"How'd you know it was me?" Chuck's voice crackled over the receiver. "Hey, listen, do you know anyone who works down at the Stroh's brewery?"

"Why?" I asked.

"Well, I just got a tip. I heard that AA is planning on having a convention in town Super Bowl week. Can you imagine? It'll ruin everything.

Koss layup gives Christian victory

Close games are becoming the trademark of the Plymouth Christian Academy basketball team.

And for a change a tight duel went the Eagles' way as they nipped Farmington Lutheran Northwest Tuesday night, 31-29, in a Michigan Independent Athletic Association contest.

Christian is now 3-4 overall and 2-2 in league play, Northwest slipped to 1-5 overall.

Sophomore Brian Spicer's two free throws with 50 seconds left gave Plymouth a 29-27 advantage. Lutheran's Mike Aumann, however, knotted the score with two free throws of his own.

But Plymouth won it with six seconds remaining as Jim Koss converted a layup on a back-door play. He finished with nine points.

John Koss was the game's high scorer with 12 points, all coming in the first half as he connected on eight of 10 from the free-throw line. Aumann had nine to lead Luther-

"They came off the bench, went after a lot of foose balls," said DeRenzo. "We picked up the tempo and had the (fast) break going real well."

Ron Landry and John Silbish shared game-high scoring honors for the winners with 16 each.

The bonspiel, or tournament, is expected to attract 36 teams, most of them Canadian, according to Dave Ruopp, the club's publicity director.

Two four-man teams, called "rinks", stand at one end of the ice lane, or "sheet". Using small brooms, the players attempt to slide polished, 42-pound "stones" onto selected spots on a target at the opposite end of the ice.

The competition begins at 9 a.m. each day and continues throughout the day, according to Ruopp. No admission will be charged.

New methods aimed at beginners

A new mental dimension has appeared on the skiing horizon this winter. Most skiers are familiar with NASTAR, the NAtional STAndard Race, developedby a commercial ski publication and a brewery, to give skiers incentive to race against a national pacesetter's best time and improve their own downhill racing skills.

Even non-racers find more adrenalin coursing through their bodies as . their bodies weave through the courses charted on local hills almost everywhere that Alpine skiing exists in this country. NASTAR competition is offered around southeast Michigan at Mt. Brighton, Alpine Valley and Pine

But the new dimension appearing at ski areas across the nation this winter was obviously developed as an adjunct to NASTAR, this time by the PSIA (Professional Ski Instructors of America), headquartered in Boulder, Colo., and another ski publication. But its target participants are new skiers, the ones who need the most encouragement, as anyone who has ever skied can vividly remember. Personally, I was ready to give up after the first 15 minutes!

THE NEW DIMENSION is one added to ski instruction, and it's called STAR Test. It is being offered at 51 PSIA ski schools nationwide. Ron Brown, Pine Knob's ski school director, and one of the founding fathers of the PSIA, told me this week that the area with which he works, near Clarkston, will offer the STAR Test next season.

Because of Ron's precarious health situation this past fall, his hospitalization precluded his ability to do the legwork necessary to get the program started there this year. Happily, Brown is back on the slopes now, and STAR Test will be part of Pine Knob's program next season, as stated. Brown did mention that Sugar Loaf near Mancelona, is the only area in the state offering the STAR Test this year.

How does it work? STAR Test challenges skiers with three levels of skiing maneuvers to master. Under the guidance of a certified PSIA instructor, skiing skills are not only evaluated, but skiers receive professional pointers toward improvement. And the test does not take much time from a regular skiing day.

THE REGISTRATION fee is $3 for one of each test (bronze, silver or gold pins to be awarded for completion of each). The instructor then takes aspirants to the degree of terrain designated for each test on a designated hill, demonstrates the maneuvers upon which the candidate will be evaluated and explains what the instructor will be looking for in each skill performed. Then the candidate tries to emulate what the instructor did.

The candidate will be judged on ability to do what was required. Upon completion of the test, the instructor will offer suggestions and give the candidate an ability rating. If the score is high enough, the candidate may move on to the next level of testing, and so on, until a gold pin is the prize.

The procedure is simple, but it is up to the skier to discover if the skills are easy. STAR Tests three level allow people to ski from the beginner novice stage through the advanced/expert level.

Driving through the beautiful Michigan snow

Despite the lure of the southern sun, winter in Michigan has its better side.

Along the cross country trail: Nordic tours debut in Ontario

 A new concept in cross country ski vacations, which include overnight accommodations and hot meals along the trail, is being introduced this winter in northern Ontario.

Nordic ski touring, traditional in Norway and available for several years in Vermont, will be offered in Algonquin Provincial Park, north of Toronto, and in Temagami area resorts around North Algonquin Nordic Ski Touring will sponsor tours lasting from two to seven days along the 85 kilometers (53 miles) of groomed trails in the southern portion of Algonquin Park.

It is called hut-to-hut skiing, because five camps are situated along the trails, each with an insulated sleeping tent and separate dining tents.

Groups are limited to eight skiers per guide. Food and supplies are transported so that skiers need only carry personal gear. Hot meals are served on the trail.

A typical five- to seven-day tour begins and ends at Algonquin Nordic Ski Lodge in the southeast corner of the park. The midweek interval is spent skiing between camps.

A weekend at Base Camp is also available, starting at noon Saturday and including five meals and unguided use of trails. It is ideal for families with small children and costs $96 per person.

Lodge-to-lodge skiing in the Temagami area focuses on 62 miles of North Bay trails, leading to White Gables Lodge, Ravenscroft Lodge and O-Pee-Chee Lake Lodge.

For information contact Algonquin Nordic Ski Touring, 40 Dixington Cr., Suite 404, Weston, Ontario M9P 2K8; Lodge-to-Lodge Skiing, Box. 21, Temagami, Ontario, POH 2H0; or call the Canadian Government Office of Tourism in Detroit, 963-8686.

T IS THE TIME of year for headline wars. The Florida papers usually fire the opening shot with a headline such as: BLIZZARD BURIES THE MIDWEST. The Midwest newspapers respond: FROST KILLS FLORI-

This annual battle used to puzzle me, because newspapers are traditionally interested in what happens close-to-home and not in what is going on thousands of miles away.

Now that I understand the psychology of the matter, however, it makes perfect sense.

Midwesterners who spend time and money traveling south for the winter love to congratulate themselves on their wise decision. There they are, basking in the sunshine while their friends and neighbors are buried in snow at home in Detroit. Those of you who are the "friends and neighbors" are not going to let the snowbirds get away with it, and your newspaper headline writer knows it. So, when it snows in Disneyland or rains on the beach parade, we all stand back and clap our hands with glee.

Serves them right for leaving us here, up to our armpits in snow. I write a lot of winter words about warm-weather getaways, where sun and sand meet emerald seas, but I can get just as excited about cold-weather getaways, where bright red barns, mounded with snow, make postcard scenes against a winter-blue sky.

This page includes some snow-white memories, culled from my notebooks, for those of you who have forgotten that we live in a winter wonderland

Driving through Michigan

We are driving north on Interstate 75 under a Michigan-blue sky. The trees are bare, but the green highway signs and the red brick farmhouses make bright patches against the snow-white, sky-blue day. Ice fishing shacks are frozen in place on the lake. Small mounds of winter snow cap the billboard signs. We are still two hours from Clare, but I can already picture the Sunday buffet table at Doherty's, with a huge bowl of blue cheese glistening luxuriously on the salad table nearby.

Children's faces, surrounded by comic books and games, grin from the back window of a passing car. Six horses huddle brown and beige against the snowy evergreens beside the road.

Near Flint, the first roofs of an auto plant make acres of snow-capped chimneys against a smoky sky. Red brick condos and the roofs of tract houses mound the hills on either side.

The billboards march us past Flint to the Mount Morris exit, where we plan to amble through Frankenmuth before moving on to dinner at Clare.

Toward Frankenmuth

Now we are off the interstate, following signs that read "Seven miles to Huckleberry Railway and Crossroads Village." Snow-laden houses hug the road through Mount Morris. Icicles hang from the eaves and verandas of Victorian houses. Snow mounds the gravestones and frosts the roofs along Genesee Street.

snowman

Bronner's in Franken-

We drive past modern ranch houses and the red-barn shape of Dutch Village, and turn right at Bray Road. The longest seven miles in Michigan finally leads us to the locked gate. The railroad and village is, of course, closed for the winter, but we don't care. This is just a winter ramble, and we are content to read the signs: "Snowmobiles prohibited" and "For sale, ducks, geese, rabbits,

I am the navigator. "According to the map, we go north on Highways 54 and 83 to Frankenmuth.

"All we need to find are Highways 54 and 83." It is a familiar

The winter trees are spiked and brown against the sky. Only the graceful droop of yellowing weeping willow branches color the tree line here, except for an occasional evergreen.

-$37.81 per person,

The landscape begins to acquire that fairy tale look when we are still five miles from Frankenmuth. The sun sidelights neat farmhouses, snow-topped grain silos and Christmas tree farms.

Signs: Beer . . . Bavarian Inn . . . Schnitzelbank story Bronner's. The Christmas decorations are still on the lampposts. Camels are frozen midstride in the snow. The huge snowman looms above the white hill at Bronner's.

The Alpine fronts and the network of this little Bavarian town are appropriately clothed in snow. Sun shines through the "new" 19th century covered bridge.

This may be the best time of year to come to Frankenmuth,

The winter sun is already beginning to slant across the snow carpet of Michigan when we drive slowly, slowly downhill past icicled eaves and snow-mounded rooftops into Clare

There is a lull in the Sunday traffic at Doherty's but business is still brisk at the buffet, with its meat balls, chicken, roast beef, bread pudding and salad bar.

Paul West, one of the managers, sends a boy scurrying to replace the dwindling chicken and stops long enough to recommend the bread pudding. As usual, the dining room is full of families, in suits and weekend jeans, in grandmother hats and children's caps.

Without the people, the lights, the food and the tender loving care, this is just another old hotel dining room, with a mirrored central pillar and four large murals on the wall, one for each

In the recess near the kitchen, near the winter mural, a large family gathers down the 20-foot length of a table to celebrate Grandpa's 75th birthday.

I have seen families like this in hidden neighborhood restaurants in Aosta, Italy, it is refreshing to remember that such families still gather in Michigan.

SAFE PLAY OR BOLD PLAY?

Ken W. of Canton writes:

During a recent game, this position came up. As black, I rolled a 2-1. White owns the doubling cube at the 2 level. I had only two options - a safe play by moving the 5 and 6 point to the 4 point, or a bold play by moving a checker from the 5 point to hit white on the 2

I chose to hit white since, if white hit me back, he would be very vulnerable to another hit in his home board. After missing the hit and staying on the bar for several rolls and losing the game, my opponent argued that my move was risky and unnecessary.

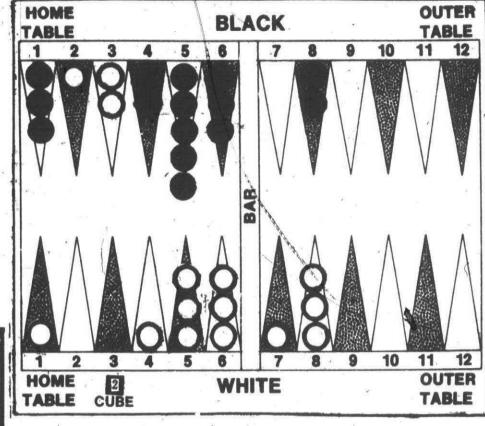

I would appreciate your views on this controversy.

Your opponent may have argued that your move was incorrect, but that's only because he didn't come in from the bar immediately and hit you. I like your move for this position because of white's weak home board and three loose blots in case you are hit.

You could have played safe. But that move is fruitless and unproductive since you would strip your only spare checker from the 6 point and allow white freedom on his next roll to cover his blots and build his home board. What black doesn't need is a tougher white home board if black, on his next roll, leaves a forced slot and gets hit.

Another reason why your move is the best play: White owns the doubling cube. White has the power to turn the cube to 4 if some unforeseen disaster strikes black later in the game.

• "My Brilliant Career" (1980), 7:30 and 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday at Cass City Cinema, Forest at Cass, phone 832-6309, $2. Running time 101 minutes.

In the mold of "Breaker Morant" and "Gallipoli," this is another fine Australian film that manages to unite beautiful cinematography, splendid acting and direction, and a plausible, sophisticated script. Judy Davis, who portrays a young woman from the outback who aspires to a life a letters, has been compared to a young Katharine Hepburn. Suffice it to say she shrilliant.

Gilliam Armstrong (a woman) directs the true story based on a novel written in 1900 by a woman who wrote under the name Miles Franklin.

But "My Brilliant Career" is hardly a "woman's" film. It's a dreamer's film. It's a film of resolve, ambition, hope, humor, love and one women's not-always-so-brilliant career. Gloria Steinem would like this picture, but so would Nancy Reagan. Rating: $3.50.

 "The Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean" (1972), 11:45 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 7. Originally 120 minutes.

Oddly enough, we get the same kind of portrait of the fabled Roy Beamfrom Paul Newman that Walter Brennan gave us in a much different film, William Wyler's "The Westerner" (1940). John Huston directs Newman and a great cast: Ava Gardner, Jacqueline Bisset, Anthony Perkins, Stacy Keach, Roddy McDowall, Tab Hunter and Victoria Principal. "Life and Times" is an uneven film - a bit more miss than hit. But Newman's always interesting to watch when he's playing a role (like Buffalo Bill in the 1975 Robert Altman film) that undercuts his macho image. Rating: $2.85.

Actor creates funniest faces

Performances of Neil Simon's "I Ought to Be in Pictures" continue through Jan. 24 at the Birmingham Theatre, 215 S. Woodward, Birmingham. For ticket information call the box offfice at 644-3533.

By Ethel Simmons staff writer

Dick Latessa makes the most of his role as a hapless Hollywood character in "I Ought to Be in Pictures" at the Birmingham Theatre.

He plays the part with kind of a hangdog expression. Besides nicely turning out his lines, Latessa creates the funniest faces, not mugging but subtlety conveying the character's reaction to the events swirling around

"I Ought to Be in Pictures" is another Neil Simon comedy. It's built around the theme of a TV scriptwriter who is suddenly confronted with a 19-year-old daughter he hasn't seen since she was age 3.

The spunky kid arrives from Brooklyn, where she lives with her brother and the mother her father deserted

In the meantime, he has married and divorced twice more and currently has a girlfriend he has been seeing for the last two years.

HE ALSO is suffering from writer's block - and writer's shock when his daughter appears unexpectedly on his

In the Simon tradition, the funny lines wrap around a story that has warmth and explores human relation-actress. She says she has been compared to "a female Dustin Hoffman." With a Brooklyn accent and plain-Jane face, Ms. Warriner definitely looks the part (although she's not the overweight person that some of her lines in the script imply).

Her performance assert overgrown tomboy is appealing. She smoothly makes the called-for transition from a display of outward confidence to revealing inner anxieties

Mimi Cozzens as the writer's girlfriend has all the straight lines, which leaves her role in a somewhat lackluster state. The girlfriend is a make-up artist for a Hollywood studio. She has children at home and isn't in a rush to

MS. COZZENS' character is thoroughly likeable, but you wonder why she puts up with this, at times, hairbrained guy. Even when she takes a firm stand to move their relationship ahead, the scene doesn't get really live-

Frank Marino directed the comedy The first act is pleasant, but the second half picks up the action, bringing out audience laughs.

The main idea behind the story is that the daughter really wants to get some loving care from her father. She comes to Hollywood claiming she wants him to help her get into pictures (thus the play's title), but isn't really overly concerned about show business.
