'Chip selection leads to potential cheating

Random assignment — what is it, how does it work, what are the rules, and how does it affect extra curricular activities at the unique Centennial Educational Park (CEP)? The system is used by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools to assign students to the two high schools at the CEP site. Staff members Dennis O'Connor and Brad Emons explore this innovative system in a three-part series. This second installment discusses the sibling-rule exception, post-placement rules/exceptions and alleged cheating in random assignment.

Random assignment, a process which tries to insure fair distribution of high school students at Centennial Educational Park (CEP), is more than just a computer printout.

Many persons are involved behind the scenes to guarantee proper placement after the computer program initially assigns students.

Ginnie Murdoch, coordinator of pupil accounting, receives the initial computer results from David Rodwell, administrative assistant for research and data processing. The computer program assigns students to Plymouth Canton or Plymouth Salem High School as impartially as possible, Rodwell said.

Eighth-grade students are notified, by letter, of their school placement, through Murdoch's office each December. Currently, students enter Canton or Salem in the 10th grade. A two-year period between the assignment and actual high-school entry gives students a chance to develop building loyalties, Murdoch said.

'People have come to me and asked, "Can you help me out?" They get a very short answer — no.'
— David Rodwell research and data processing

ARE THERE any exceptions to random-assignment placements? School officials say only one exists — the sibling rule.

Younger brothers or sisters have the option of attending the same high school or a different high school — regardless of the computer placement — if an older sibling currently attends class at the CEP.

However, if a four-year difference exists between siblings, then the younger brother or sister must go through the computer process without exception. For example, it's possible that the younger sibling of a graduating senior this June will not attend the same school in the fall that the brother or sister graduated from.

Although many residents appeal placements, the board of education always turns down requests because "they'd be opening a can of worms," Murdoch said. School officals clearly state the sibling rule is the only placement exception under random selection.

"No one, to my knowledge, has violated the procedure," Rodwell said. "If there have been some changes, I'd like to know what's happening."

For the 1982-83 school year, 37 appeals have been denied by the board, Murdoch said. Twenty-five students were denied placement from Canton to Salem, while 12 were denied placement from Salem to Canton.

WHAT HAPPENS with middle-school or high-school students who transfer into the district after the computer placement, which occurs in late fall of each school year?

Each new transfer must certify and register at the central office on Harvey Street in Plymouth, Murdoch said. Students then set up an appointment with Murdoch to blindly draw a red (for Canton) or blue (for Salem) poker chip out of a plastic green container to determine their placement.

Each draw is certified by two witnesses, Murdoch and another office worker, so parents can't accuse someone of typing the wrong school name on the enrollment form, Murdoch added.

IS IT POSSIBLE to cheat under the "chip process?" Murdoch guards against cheating, but admits she has caught students trying to beat the system.

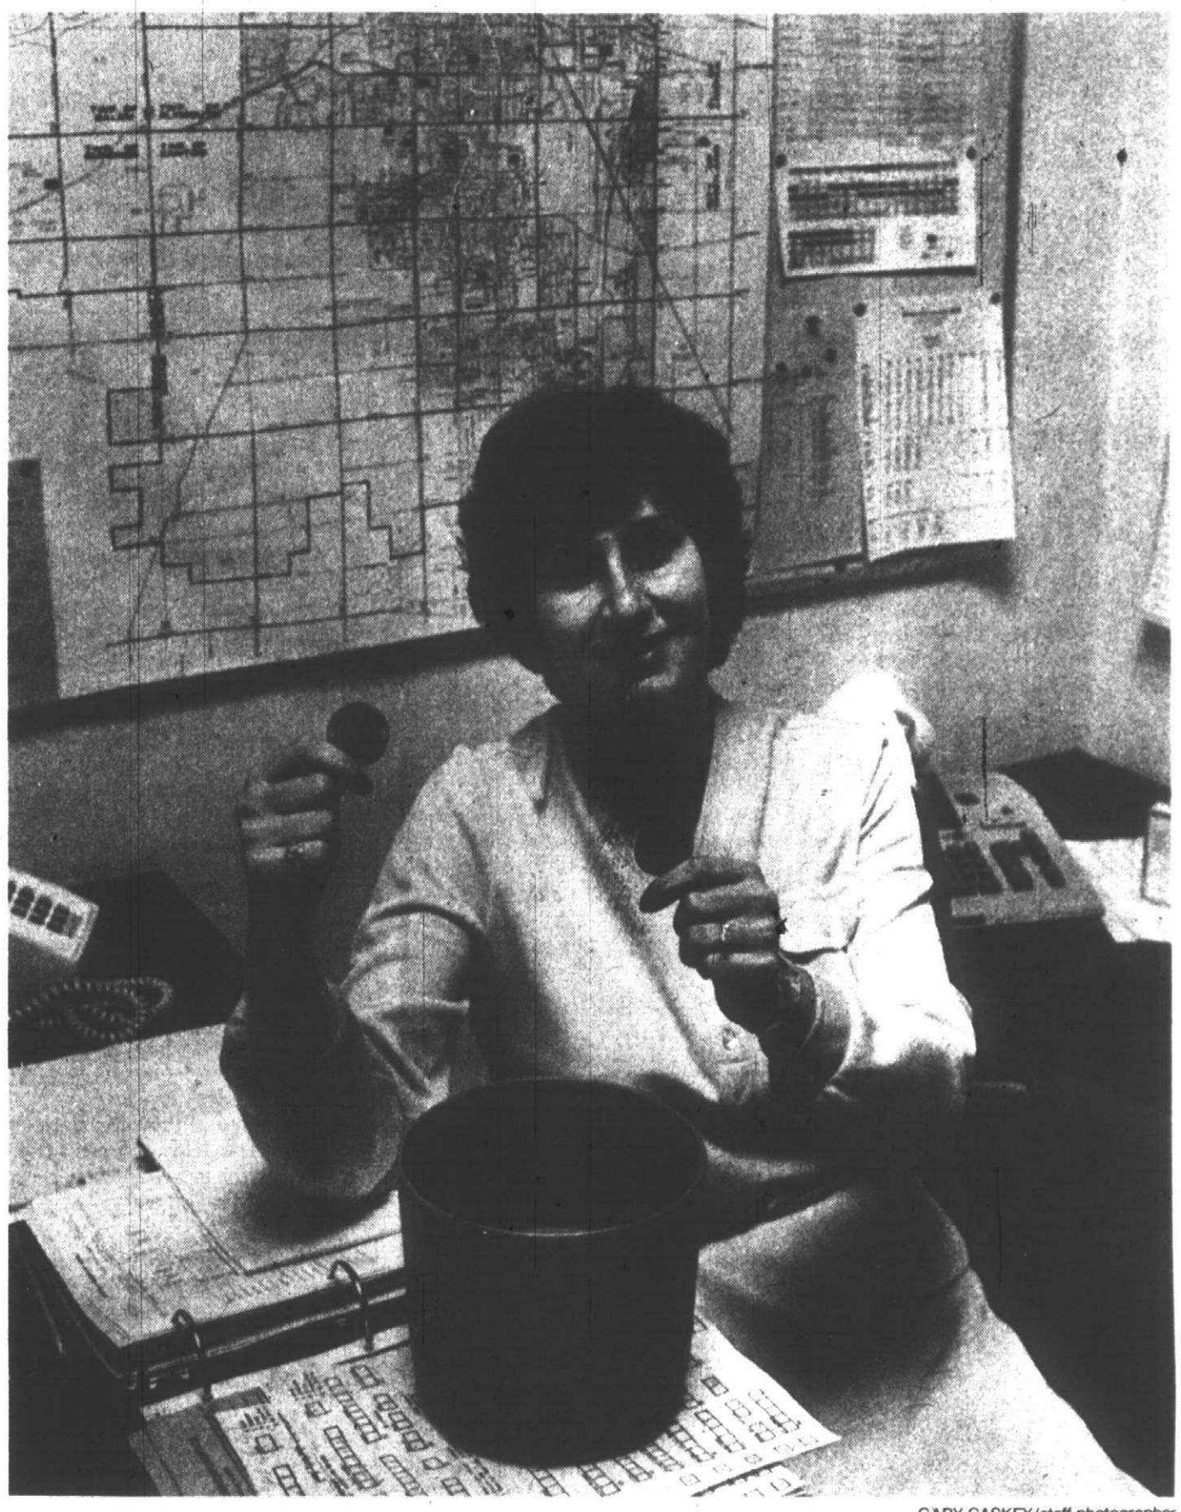

At one time, Murdoch kept 24 blue and 24 red chips in the container. Currently, only one of each chip is placed in the container.

"We went to that (one chip each) because I caught someone trying to cheat," said Murdoch. "He had a blue chip in his hand before he drew."

The transfer student was practicing with a coach before drawing a chip, Murdoch said. The parent and student then came into the central office and demanded to count the chips, she added.

After the student counted the chips, Murdoch recalled, she noticed he went to draw a chip with a closed fist. Murdoch caught him withholding a blue chip in his hand just before he drew from the container.

There are exceptions to random- assignment rule

By Brad Emons and Dennis O'Connor

Communication lines seem to cross between Plymouth-Canton school administrators when discussing various exceptions to random-assignment placements.

Administrators agree "severe medical" conditions are sufficient grounds to change building assignments.

How often these changes occur, however, is anyone's guess.

Superintendent John Hoben says there should be no exceptions — only the sibling rule — when it comes to placement changes.

David Rodwell, administrative assistant for research and data processing, says he knows of only one medical exception to his computerized placement system.

Ginnie Murdoch, coordinator of pupil accounting, however, said she knows of five or six exceptions.

And then there's Patrick O'Donnell, supervisor of special education programs and services, who says special education students have been reassigned "about 12" times between Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem after the computer placement.

State provisions for special education students force O'Donnell to "balance the case load" of classes at Canton and Salem, he said. O'Donnell's recommendations have been approved by John Telford, executive director for secondary education.

SO WHAT happens when a state-certified special education student excels in an extra-curricular activity? Should the student be placed for extraccurricular reasons or educational reasons?

School officials recently faced these issues with a middle-school student.

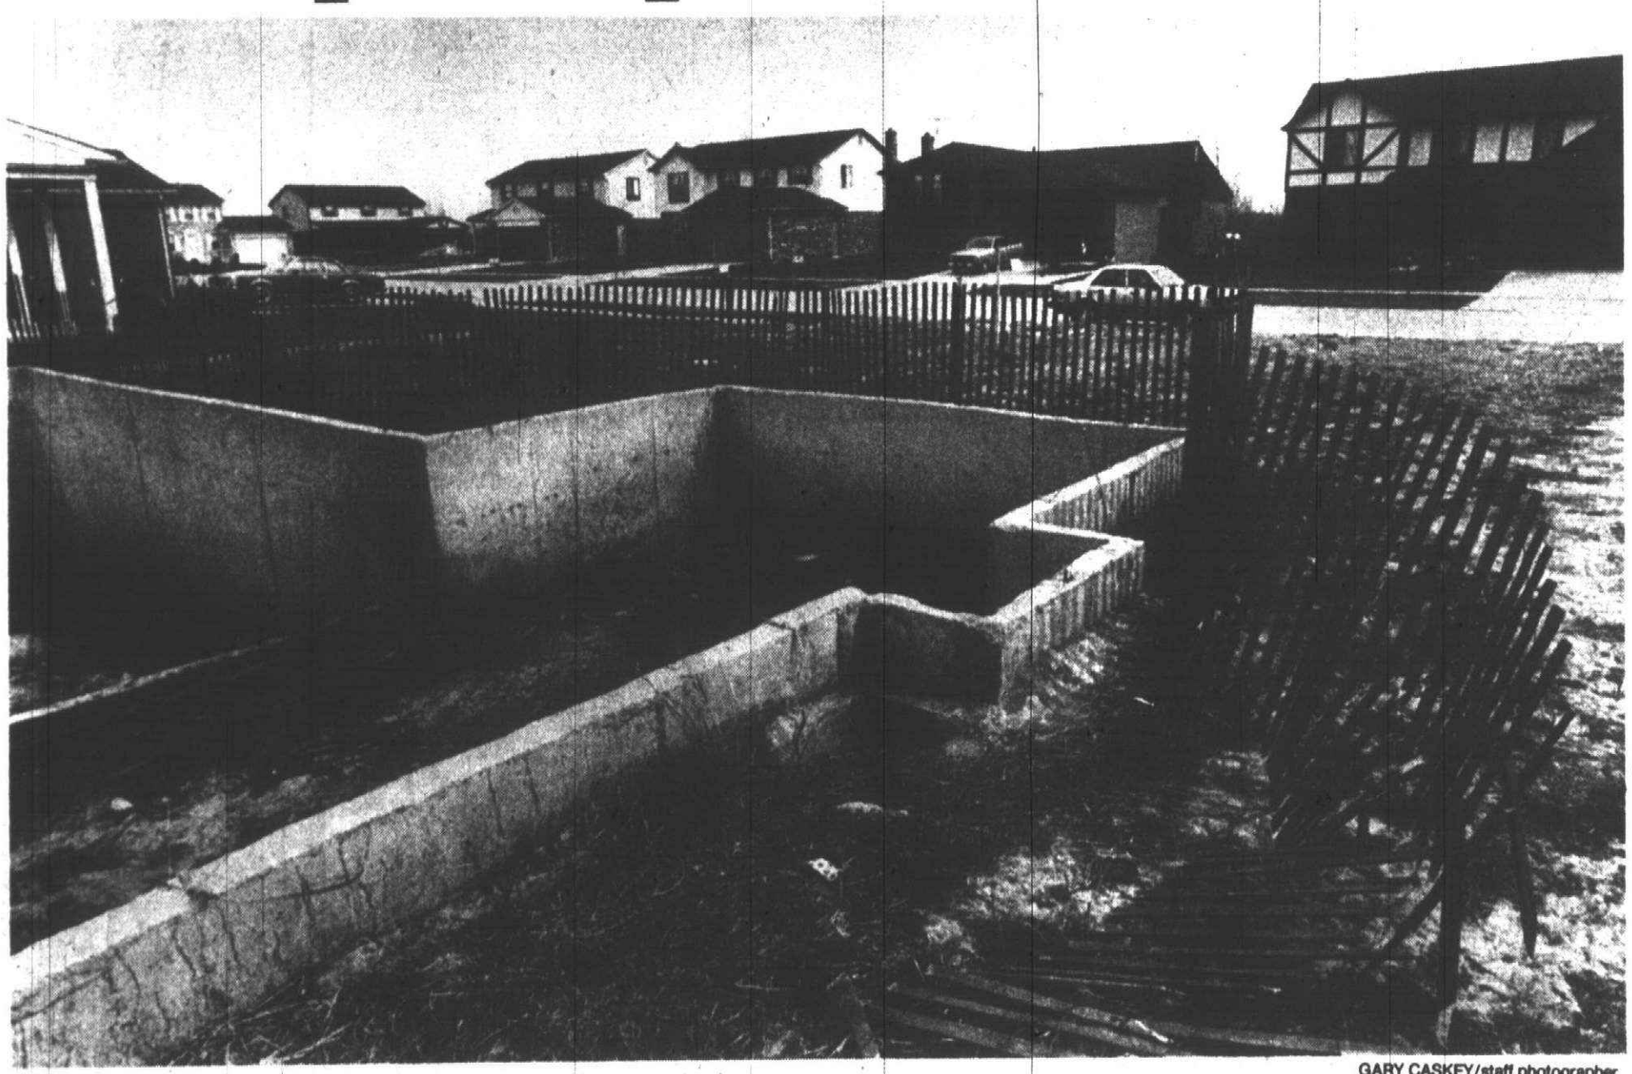

Last year, a special education student, with exceptional baseball skills, was assigned to Salem for the 1982-83 school year.

The Observer then learned through a Dec. 9, 1981 letter from Telford to the student's mother that the student was reassigned to Canton for "educational reasons" upon the parents' request. The request was based on the presence of a psychologist who serves particular special ed students' needs at Canton.

After a school investigation, prompted by a coach's complaint, the student was placed at Salem by an "administrative decision." According to administrators, many students who attend CEP take classes in both the Canton and Salem buildings.

Fire sparks probe of home hazards

A fire started by children playing in an open basement on Brunswick Drive last week has township officials cracking down on potential safety hazards in partially-constructed homes.

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Township officials have started a campaign to tighten up on potential hazards in partially built houses.

Children playing in an open basement on Brunswick Drive, near Canton Center and Warren roads, last week apparently started a fire in straw and debris that were in the basement.

No one was hurt and the blaze was quickly extinguished, but the incident prompted Carol Bollman to get in touch with officials. She urged some sort of an educational effort.

"A youngster could have gotten burned," said Bollman, who lives on Claymore. "It was a potential. The biggest concern is for the welfare of the children. They were trespassing on private property. The curiosity — they can't stay away."

THE BRUNSWICK open basement had fencing around it. But Bollman said children can — and do — get through the barrier.

Chief building official Aaron Machnik says the problem stems from homes that were started, then have been abandoned during the building slump and poor economy.

The building department is conducting a survey to find out how many of the partially-constructed houses there are in Canton, he said.

So far, the check indicates 32 open basements. There are some basements with floors which have been "capped" or covered over.

In addition, Machnik said some other homes are in more advanced stages of construction.

"THERE ISN'T anybody who would believe we would have open basements around for as long as we have," said Machnik.

There have been some other problems with children getting into these sites, but "this is the most serious one that I am aware of."

The building department also is getting in touch with owners of these partially-built houses, to make sure they restore or repair any broken fences or barriers.

In some cases, the owners are developers, banks or private individuals, some of whom only keep "minimal" track of the property, said Machnik.

THE DEPARTMENT of public works (DPW) has pumped out one open basement that was filled with water.

Owners may be ticketed for maintaining a hazardous site, said Machnik. However, there are no provisions for ticketing parents who allow their children to get into the sites.

"The point we want to emphasize is that warm weather is here," said Machnik. "We want to keep the hazard down. We need the help of residents — extra watchfulness."

Board stalls arcade-law revamp

Proposed changes to the township's mechanical-amusement ordinance have been reviewed "by practically the whole world" in recent months.

But the Township Board still isn't ready to make those changes official. After a lengthy discussion last week, trustees voted to seek additional advice from attorneys.

"This ordinance has been reviewed by practically the whole world," said Aaron Machnik, chief building official, in his cover letter to the board.

Machnik enclosed a stack of letters, memos and comments from attorneys, police and fire officials, and other administrators.

THE ORDINANCE applies to businesses equipped with coin operated mechanical devices such as pinball or other similar games. Possible changes have been under consideration since last December.

"I detect a lack of consensus," said Supervisor James Poole. "We have had fun with this (revision) for six months or more."

Some trustees believe the current law is unrealistic, and possibly unconstitutional.

For example, the ordinance now says children under 17 must be accompanied by parents to play video games in Canton. It is proposed to ease that guideline, requiring a parent or guardian only after 10 p.m.

Currently, arcades are required to have a uniformed guard on duty. That provision is eliminated from the newly proposed guidelines.

Under the ordinance, applications for licenses must go through the building department. The police department conducts a background check of the licensee, and the fire department makes a safety inspection of the premises.

Each prospective licensee must notify all residents or businesses within 1,000 feet of the proposed location.

CHURCHES, FRATERNAL and other non-profit organizations are exempt from the guidelines. Some trustees wanted a more concise definition of the non-profit designation.

Other board members expressed concerns over wording which states that the "owner" must apply for a license. In the case of a corporation, who would be listed as the owner? Who would be the subject of the background check?

Fees are proposed at $100 per year for the first device, and $50 for each additional machine.

Businesses with four or more machines would be defined as "arcades," and carry a $500 licensing fee for the first year, and $200 for succeeding years.

Establishments with a Class C liquor license would be allowed to have up to 10 mechanical devices without falling under the arcade classification.

TRANSFER FEES are proposed to be $10 for each device. All licenses would be renewable each Jan. 1, and there would be no pro-rating of fees.

After further consideration by attorneys, the proposed ordinance changes will be back on the Township Board's agenda.

The approval process calls for the board to introduce the new ordinance. The amendment then is published in a newspaper. The board formally adopts the ordinance at a later meeting.

New Schoolcraft tradition

Student speakers show they learned outside classroom

By Tim Richard
staff writer

SCHOOLCRAFT College's 17th annual commencement may have started a new tradition — the student as commencement orator.

The ice was broken Sunday as David Shaw received an associate of arts degree, a Phi Beta Kappa stole, an award for outstanding service to student activities and two state awards for his work as editor of the Campus Globe.

One of those awards was a first place for an editorial knocking Schoolcraft President Richard McDowell for failure to involve students in the college's decision making process.

Shaw was the first of three student commencement speakers in the traditional ceremony before 225 graduates, families, friends, faculty and politicos.

"GARBAGE COLLECTING as a career had positive arguments," Shaw recollected of the days after he had dropped out of Michigan State University. "Even in a recession, business was always picking up, and I would always have all I could eat."

The Livonia Stevenson graduate made a second try at higher education, at Schoolcraft, and "decided to become a life-long learner," which is different from being "a career college student."

Overcoming stage fright, Shaw kept on stabbing sacred cows. "Look at the current need for engineers and computer programmers. For all we know, in 10 years the computers may be doing the programming and engineering that people are needed for today.

"All of those successful people will suddenly be unemployed. I hope for their sakes they are life-long learners," he said, to the delight of the arts and sciences graduates.

MARI-ANN McQuater, of Clawson, picked up a business degree and confessed she had learned as much on a college committee as in classes.

"On the college marketing committee, I learned to work with people. We had those days where we had to work around people. I learned my way wasn't the only way. Sometimes it wasn't even the best way," she said.

"The right lane for me," added Robert Lowry, associate in arts from Novi, "was becoming involved with the college in extra-curricular activites."

After one unsuccessful start, Lowry gave Schoolcraft a second try and was "able to put together the right combination of class load, student activities, social life and community involvement."

A Phi Beta Kappa member, Lowry served on the search committee which helped select Dr. Conway Jeffress for vice-president of instruction. McDowell and Jeffress made their first appearances Sunday at a Schoolcraft commencement.

THREE HONORARY degrees were awarded by Chairman Harry Greenleaf and the board of trustees.

Jennifer Chandler, 18, accepted a posthumous honorary degree for her father who died when she was 1½ years old — state Sen.-elect Paul Chandler of Livonia. Chandler put together the Observer Newspapers group in the 1950s and served in the State House of Representatives until his death in December of 1964.

(Miss Chandler reported afterwards that her mother, Myra, who had been active with Mr. Chandler in the Observers, married Arthur Hass three years ago. He is editor of Bee Publications on Florida's Gulf Coast.)

Gene Hirs, founder of Hydromation Co. of Livonia in 1955, received an honorary associate in applied sciences. Hirs accepted many Schoolcraft students as cooperative students, established a scholarship fund for the college's vocational-technical programs, and in 1975 distributed $1 million-plus in gifts to 32 school districts, the University of Michigan and Schoolcraft.

W.W. Edgar, who left high school at 13 more than seven decades ago, received an honorary associate in arts for "contributing to and taking leadership roles in virtually every significant undertaking and event in his community's development." Edgar was sports editor of the Detroit Free Press, executive secretary of the Bowling Proprietors of Greater Detroit and columnist and feature writer for Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. (The Stroller tells of his emotions on receiving this honor on today's editorial page.)

McDOWELL REPORTED that Schoolcraft's 755 graduates of the class of '82 were as non-traditional as the commencement speeches.

"Average age of the winter semester graduates is 26.3. Only 33 percent are between the ages of 20-22; 14 percent are 40 years of age or above, and 4 percent are 51 or above," said McDowell.

Twenty-three persons received two degrees simultaneously, and 20 others were receiving their second Schoolcraft degree, the president said.

The class of '82 brings Schoolcraft's total alumni list to 8,915 in the 20 years since it was founded. The winter semester list will be published as soon as it is officially processed by the college, in three to four weeks.

BARBARA GEIL, vice-president for student affairs, announced other honors accorded to Schoolcraft students:

Science award — Michael Cosgrove, Ann Hewett, Robert Slater.

Rita J. Sherline award for excellence in clinical nursing — Patricia Casey.

Scholarships — Cheryl Bell, Gerald Davis, Rick Karaschin and Craig Smith; all University of Michigan Community College Scholarships, $500 each; Russell Gans, U-M engineering scholarship, $1,000; Leigh Feenstra, Ferris State College volleyball scholarship; Phil Blivens, Eastern Michigan University basketball scholarship.

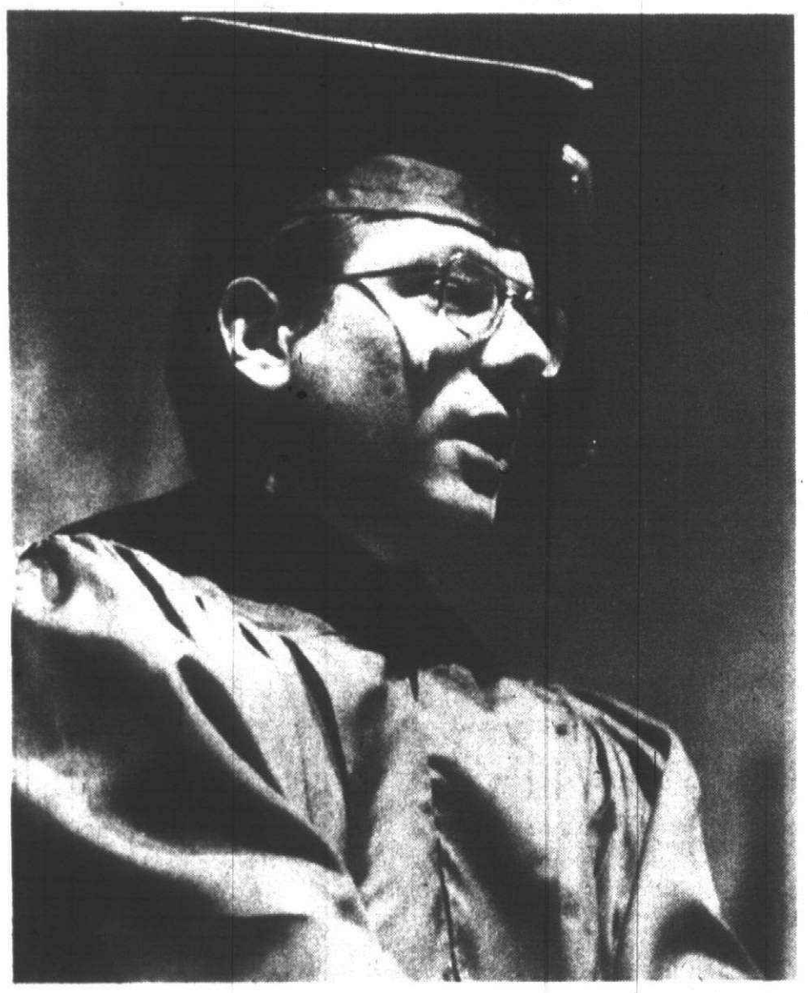

Harold Fortney award for scholarship and athletic achievement — Russell Gans, who earned a 3.9 average and was an all-regional soccer player.

Outstanding music student — Karen Moody.

Outstanding service to student activities — David Shaw, Oliver Lindsay.

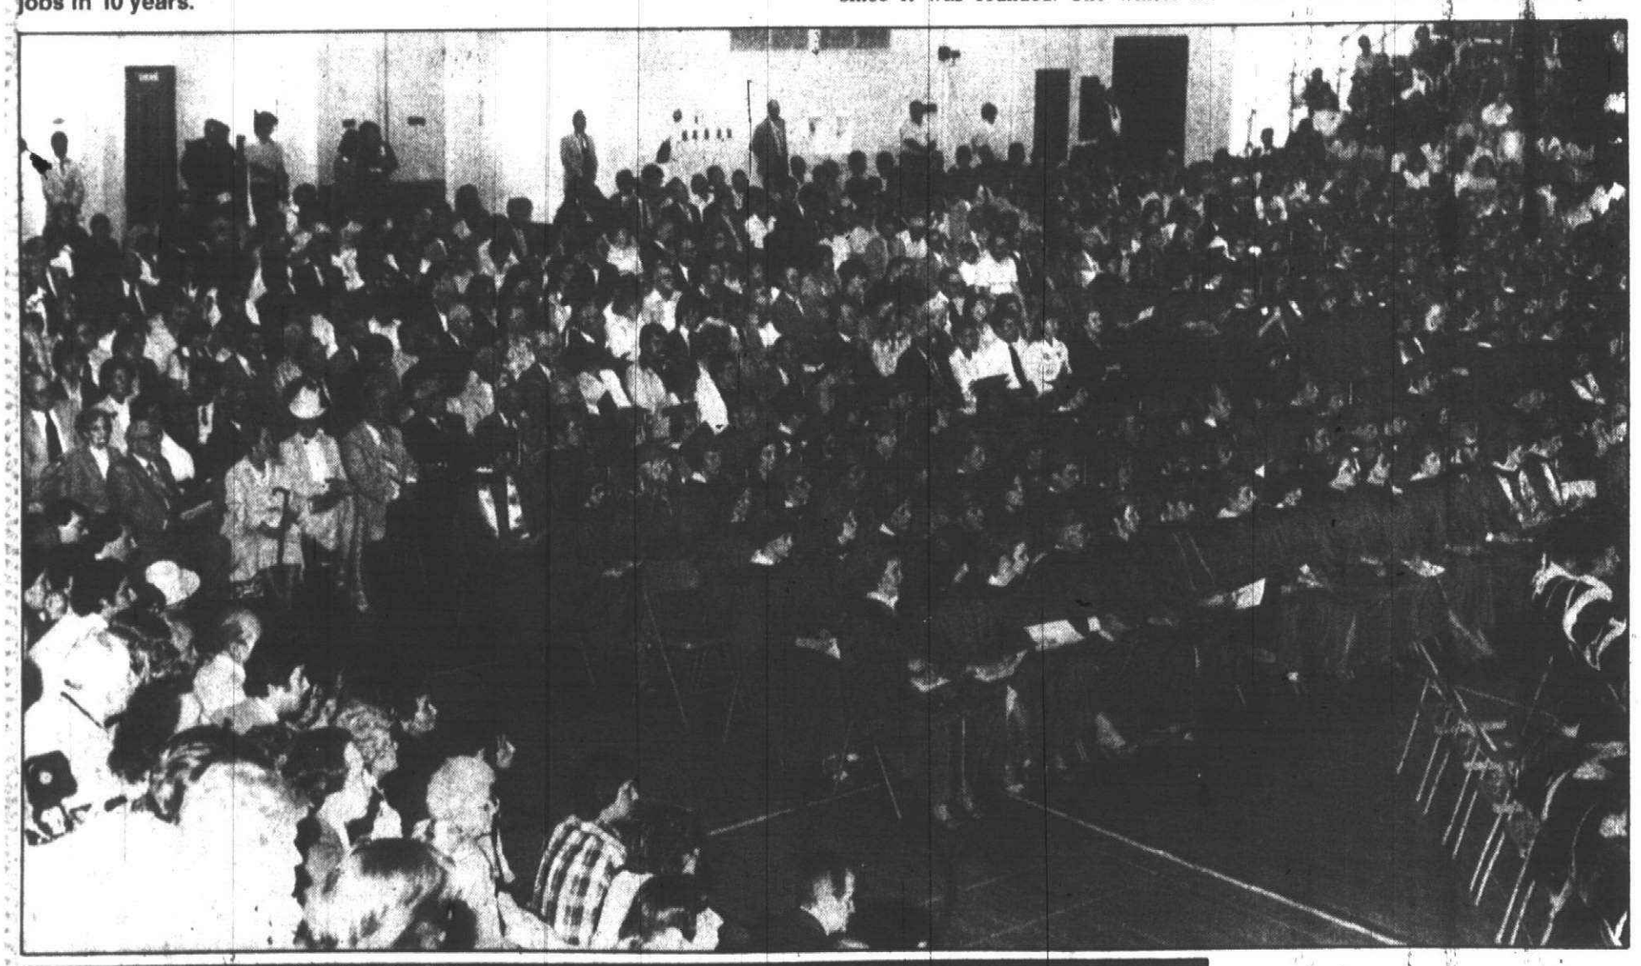

Jennifer Chandler, whose father died when she was an infant, tearfully accepted an honorary associate in arts degree in the name of publisher-legislator Paul Chandler. Schoolcraft board Chairman Harry Greenleaf (left) made the presentation, aided by President Richard McDowell.

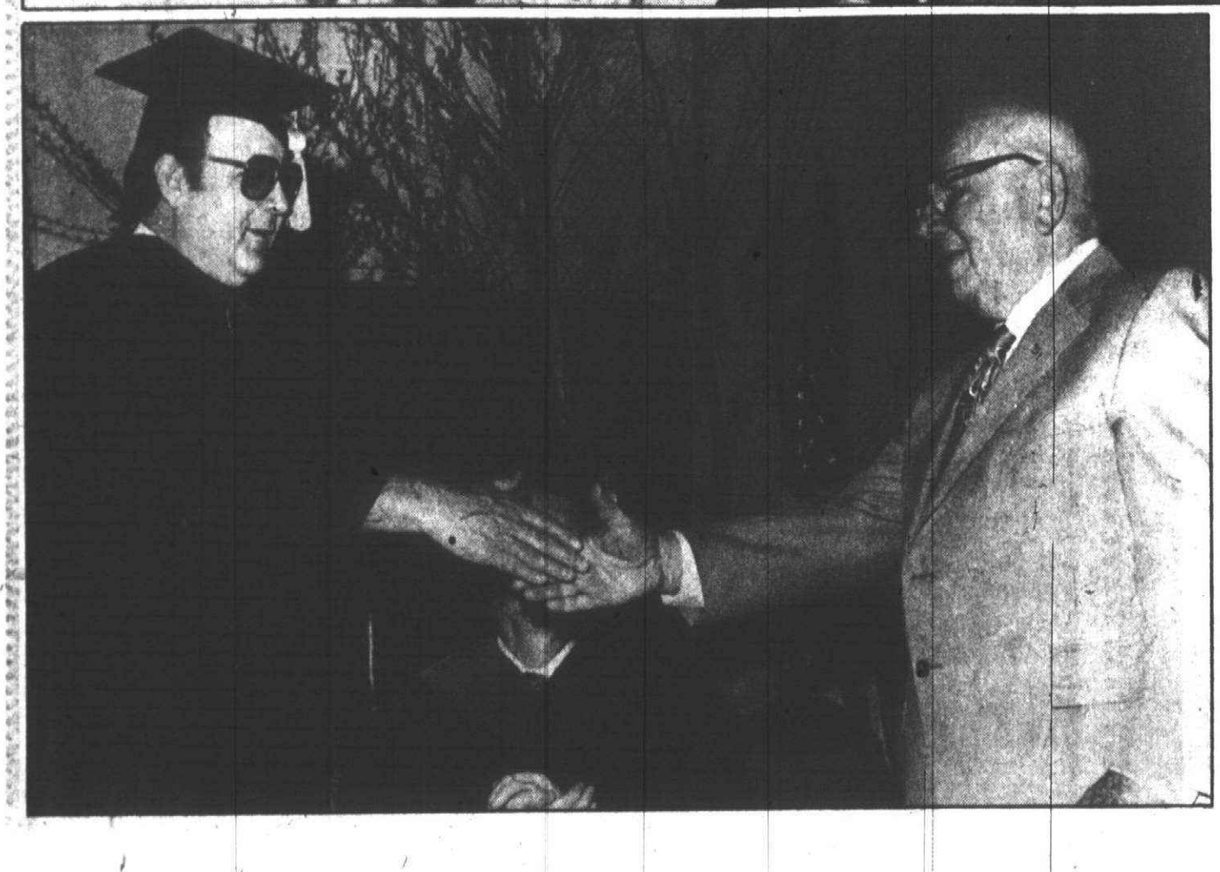

David Shaw, the first Schoolcraft student to be a commencement speaker, advised even engineers and computer programmers to become "life-long learners" — just in case computers are doing their jobs in 10 years.

Industrialist Gene Hirs said he is as proud of his honorary degree from Schoolcraft as his two university degrees.

Traditional ceremonies in May honor 755 people who earned Schoolcraft College degrees in the last year. About one-third attended and, with families, packed the college gym. Light stoles indicate Phi Beta Kappa members.

W.W. Edgar, who quit high school 71 years ago, was greeted on the platform by another former Pennsylvanian, Dr. Richard McDowell, president of Schoolcraft College, which awarded Edgar an honorary degree.

Physician is friend of kids with asthma

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Dr. David Seaman knows how tough it can be for a kid with asthma to take part in strenuous games or sports.

Seaman, of Plymouth Township, is an allergist with offices in Canton Township. Many of his patients are children who suffer breathing difficulties because of asthma.

This summer, Seaman will begin his third year of volunteering time to a YMCA-sponsored camp for children with asthma. The camp — called Michi-Mac — is one of two such camps in Michigan (the other is the American Lung Association).

Unlike some specialty camps, Michi-Mac "mainstreams" the asthmatic children into activities with non-asthmatic children.

"The main aim was to go and have a good time," said Seaman, 39. "They realize they can compete. I think it was an eye-opener for the other kids — for both groups."

ASTHMA IS an obstruction of the air passages, which causes wheezing and difficulty in breathing.

It is characterized by irritability of the air passage, spasms in muscles around bronchial tubes, excessive mucous, and swelling of the lining of the bronchial tubes.

Nine million Americans have asthma, said Seaman. Symptoms can be triggered by respiratory infections, allergies, changes in weather, too much exertion and stress.

Asthma can be treated by avoiding irritants or situations that trigger attacks, through medication and through allergy shots, said Seaman.

THE PLYMOUTH Rotary Club recently donated $300 so a local child could attend Camp Michi-Mac. Last

Colored chip is key to school selection

"He ended up drawing a red chip — not blue," Murdoch recalled.

Murdoch added she's been asked to cheat on different occasions.

"I say, 'no way,' look at my witness right here," said the pupil accountant.

Rodwell also said he has been approached by parents for "favors," but he considers it fraud.

"People have come to me and asked 'can you help me out?' " Rodwell said. "They get a very short answer — No.

"I don't get into that — I stay away from it. People don't have access to the system because I'm responsible for the consequences. The two schools are the same."

IN 1982-83, an estimated 40 to 50 students went through the "chip process." Originally, as many as 300 students drew chips when random assignment began in 1977.

"We were booked two weeks in advance when we were growing — it was amazing," Murdoch said.

In 1977, red chips outnumbered blue chips 4-to-1 because approximately 500 more students attended Salem. Currently, students have 50-50 chance a red chip or blue chip because enrollments now are balanced at both high schools.

Assignments stir anger

The investigation uncovered recruiting allegations and a lot of hard feelings among school personnel. Officials now report that the student will leave the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and enroll in another school district, instead of attending Salem and playing baseball for the Rocks.

BRIAN GILLES, Salem baseball coach, filed a complaint after learning the student was reassigned to Canton. Objections by parents of Salem athletes philosophical concerns over placement rules led Gilles, along with two other Salem coaches, to complain.

"I'm not happy that people are trying to sway and pull strings behind the scenes to go one school or another," Gilles said. "I'm not going to go behind the scenes, but they are doing it."

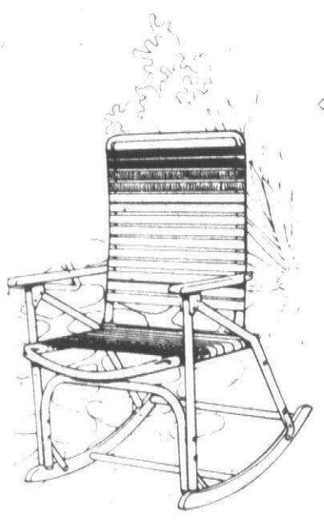

The computer placement should be the determining factor, Gilles stressed.

Dr. David Seaman and Janice Shough, R.N., display posters promoting registration of Camp Michi-Mac for asthmatic children.

Camps signing up kids with asthma

Applications are available for two camps in Michigan which serve children with asthma.

One charges a fee, while the other is free.

Camp Sun Deer is a free summer camp at the Battle Creek Outdoor Education Center on Clear Lake, near Dowling, Mich.

It is sponsored by the Michigan Society for Respiratory Therapy, and supported by fund-raising efforts of the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan.

CAMP SESSIONS are June 27-July 3. Deadline for applications is May 17.

Enrollment is limited to 75 children, aged 9 to 12 who live in Michigan.

Camp Sun Deer provides regular camp activities, with medical support to treat asthma episodes. Asthmatic children also will learn to cope with the disease.

In addition to campers, the American Lung Association also is seeking qualified medical volunteers to staff the week-long camp, especially respiratory therapists, nurses and pharmacists to serve as counselors.

Volunteers with special skills in arts and crafts, archery, sports and games and boating also are needed.

For information about Camp Sun Deer, call Carol Vick at the American Lung Association, 961-1697.

A CAMP called Michi-Mac is sponsored by the Michigan Allergy Society and the Michigan chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics, in conjunction with the YMCA of Metropolitan Detroit.

Michi-Mac "mainstreams" asthmatic children with regular campers in the program. The program is geared to children aged 7-14.

"We're taking registrations now," said Dr. David Seaman, an allergist who donates his time for the camp.

Sessions for children 10 to 14 are July 24-Aug. 7 at Camp Nissokone, near Oscoda.

Children 7 to 10 attend camp Aug. 1-7 at Camp Ohiyesa, near Milford.

For information about Camp Michi-Mac, contact the Detroit YMCA Camping Services at 2020 Witherall, Detroit 48226, phone 963-1726.

year, the group gave about $125, said Seaman.

Besides the usual camp activities of swimming, biking, and hiking, the asthmatic children have educational sessions in which they learn the relationships between activity, medication and their asthma.

"We actively encourage that the children not be put into a closet, but to participate," said Seaman.

However, some children must adapt their activities and medication to allow for physical limitations. "It's an eye-opener to see what the parents have to live with," added F Seaman. He believes the camp is good for both the asthmatic child and the parent.

"It frees both," said Freeman.

JAN SHOUGH, a nurse-practitioner in Seaman's office, also donates her time to the camp. She knows the effects of asthma — first hand.

Most asthma patients develop the disease before the age of 17, said Seaman. Some improve as they grow older. With treatment, fatal asthma attacks are "relatively uncommon," said Seaman.

"I had allergies and asthma as a child," said Shough, of Ypsilanti. "I was a camper as a kid. I donate my time camp because I think it's worthwhile."

Shough has a 10-year-old daughter with asthma, who also attends the summer camp (asthma tends to run in families).

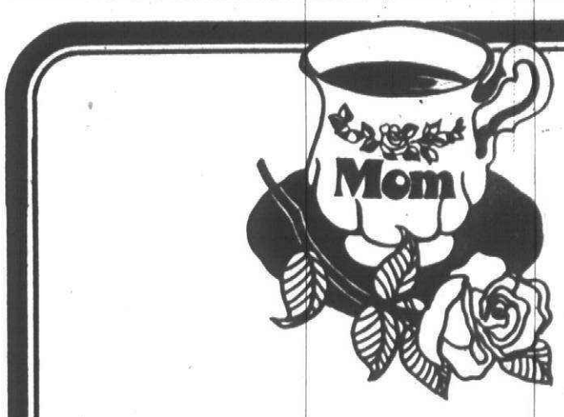

"The parents are very responsive to the education," said Shough.

Speakers, displays and even a pantomime performance during the lunch break highlighted the gifted and talented conference last weekend at Plymouth Salem High School.

Gifted youth perform

Nearly 250 gifted and talented students in Wayne County, grades 5-8, received a rare opportunity to communicate with peers and display projects at a conference called "The Interactions of Minds and Energies" (TIME).

The seminar, hosted last Saturday at Plymouth Salem High School, was the first effort of its kind, in recognition of Gifted Child Week in Michigan, April 25 to May 1.

"Evaluation on the conference was very positive," says Cheryl Johnson, coordinator iof Talented and Gifted (TAG) program for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. "It was the overwhelming opinion that we should do it again next year."

The conference included speakers and seminars on project displays in many categories for both parents and students.

No awards were given to the students.

Staff photos by Gary Caskey

"This was not a competitive situation; that was not the objective," Johnson says. "Each student received a certificate of accomplishment for participation.

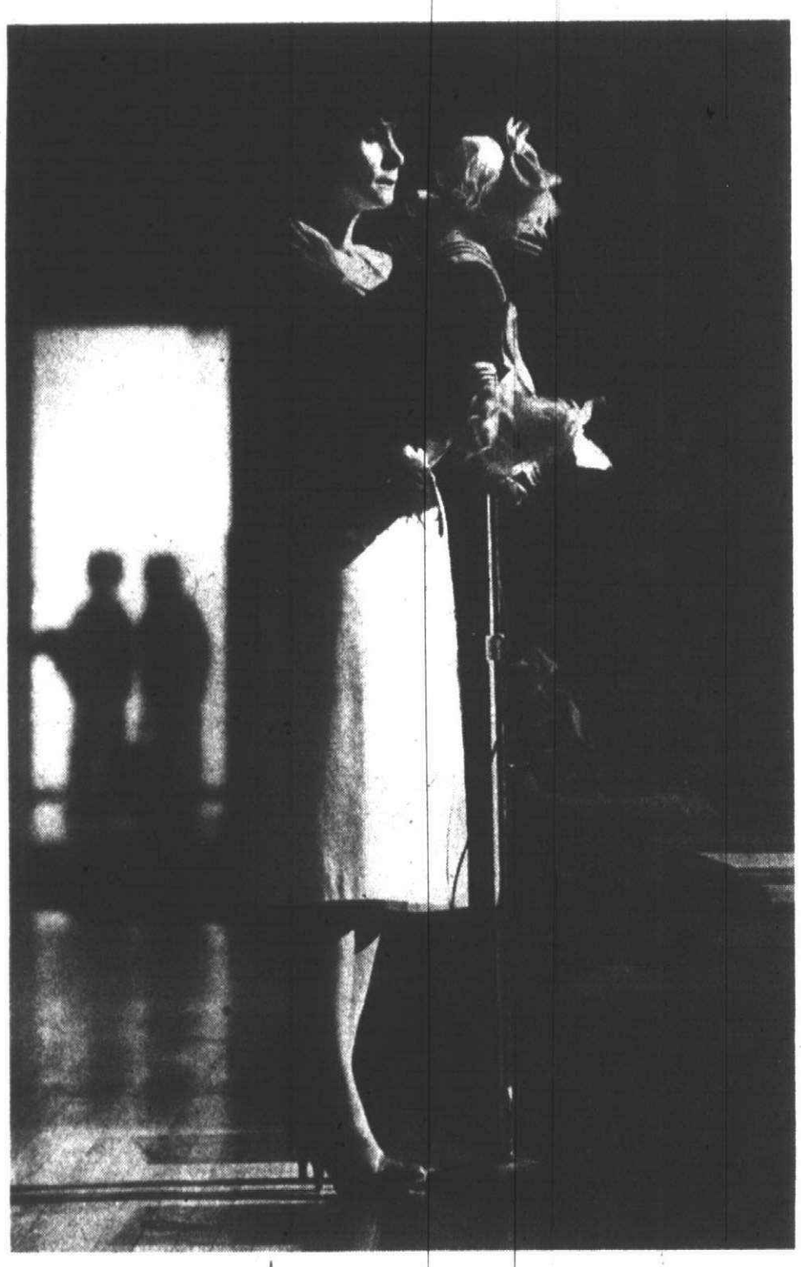

"It was an exchange and sharing of ideas."

Students were asked to submit projects under different guidelines, ranging from a presentation of an original paper to demonstrating or performing an original concept in particular categories.

Categories included computers, creative writing, design, engineering, architecture, futuristics, mathematics, performing arts, inventions, sciences, social sciences, and visual arts.

Eric Schleuning, (left) 12, Christian Draper, 11, and David Dawes, 12, take a break after the keynote address.

Sharon Newman of Bloomfield Hills, with Lisel the "Grumpet," speaks to more than 250 gifted and talented students. Two students (silhouetted left) listen to Newman from back stage.

The science group, under the direction of Lonnie Hayes, studies a display of Soloman Island shells.

C-C hosts gala 'Monterey' preview and after glow

The town turned out for a preview of the new musical, "Monterey" at the Marquis Theater in Northville. The evening was sponsored by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce which hosted a champagne afterglow at Hillside Inn after the show.

Theater-goers had an opportunity to meet and toast the cast. They also toasted the author, Plymouth attorney Ed Draugelis, and Andrew Henderson, who wrote the musical score and directed the orchestra. Plymouth Mayor Bud Martin and Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurie Breen had presented special commendations to the author and composer on stage at the theater.

Last to leave the party were members of the cast who are enthusiastic about "Monterey" which had its official first night Wednesday.

Ed Draugelis wrote the musical.

Margaret Wilson is a member of Plymouth Productions Inc., the company producing "Monterey."

Julia Broxholm, who has the lead role of Meg, and Woody Lynch, C-C president, toasted the new musical.

Doug Kerr (left), who plays Ted, his wife, Fran Kerr, Russ Collins general manager of Plymouth Productions, and Ruth Barney, theater-goer, discussed the play.

Cynthia Betley (left), her husband Bob, and Janis Kadela struck a pose at the party. The women play the roles of prostitutes in "Monterey."

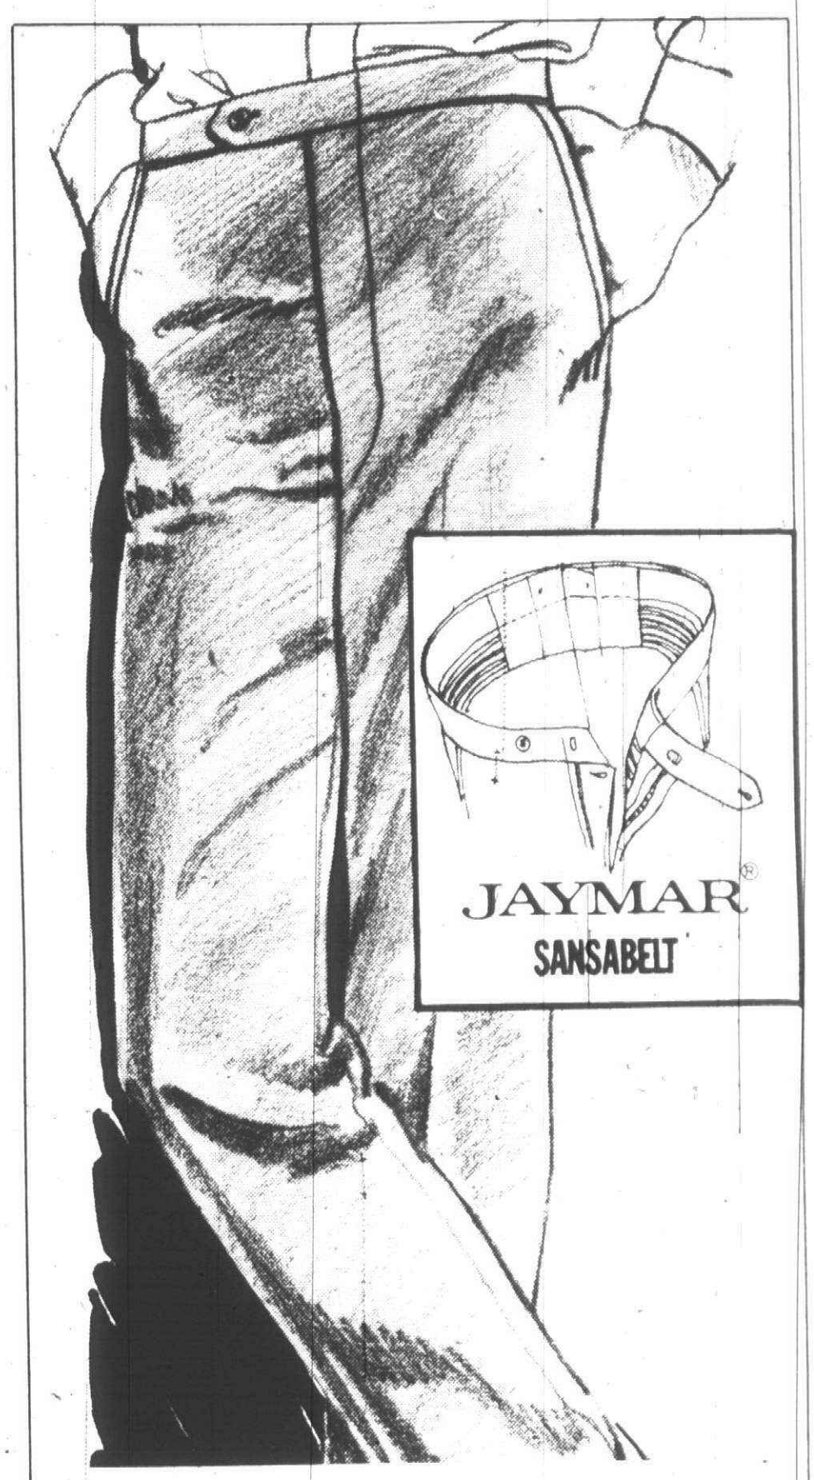

SYLVIA and Tim Alonzo of Canton enjoyed the afterglow. Tim plays Pablo in tbe musical.

Plymouth Salem makes plans for graduation festivities

Graduation ceremonies for Plymouth Salem High will be held at 8 p.m. June 17 at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Football Stadium.

In case of bad weather, the ceremonies will be moved inside to the gymnasium of Salem High on Joy just west of Canton Center Road.

The football stadium is on Canton Center south of Joy on the south side of Plymouth Canton High.

Activities for seniors at Salem will begin with the Senior Prom, 8 p.m. to midnight Saturday in the Book Cadillac Hotel on Washington Boulevard in downtown Detroit. Tickets are $18 per couple and are on sale during the fourth hour during the Upper Commons.

The Senior Honors Convocation will begin 7:30 p.m. May 25, in the auditorium of Salem High. The awards and recognition ceremony is arranged by the senior class honors committee, the guidance department, and by the faculty. Attendance is for seniors and invited guests only. Parents of students to be honored will be notified about one week in advance.

Individual churches in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are being asked to hold a recognition Sunday, in leiu of baccalaureate, on June 13 to honor the graduating classes of Salem and Canton high schools.

A potluck dinner and skit night will be featured for Senior Skit Night beginning 6:30 June 1 in the cafeteria of Canton High.

The Senior Party will be immediately after graduation ceremonies on June 17 in the physical education facility of Salem High. The party theme is "Medieval Madness."

Tickets for the party is $9 per student if purchased in advance, and $11 at the door. Tickets will be on sale during fourth hour, June 2-9.

This is a closed party, open only to 1982 graduates of Salem High. Anyone leaving before the end of the party will not be allowed to re-enter and no one will be admitted after 11 p.m. The party is sponsored by parents of seniors.

For graduation, each senior will be given 10 tickets for the ceremony. If there is bad weather and ceremonies are moved inside, only five tickets per senior will be honored.

Rehearsal for graduation will be 10:30 a.m. June 17. The blue and white caps and gowns will be issued on June 9. Gowns will be turned in immediately after ceremonies, while caps will be kept by the graduates.

Measurements for caps and gowns were taken in December and February. The final day for measurements, for those who the earlier sessions, will be Friday during fourth hour in the office of area coordinator Patrick Fitzpatrick. Rental fee of $10 is due at time of measurement. Anyone not measured by May 7 must drive to Willsie's in Detroit and pay $20.

Free cheese is available

Free surplus cheese still is available to needy families in the Canton, Northville, Plymouth area.

The Plymouth Salvation Army began to distribute May's allocation of U.S. Department of Agriculture surplus cheese on May 1.

Of the anticipated families, only about 25 percent received their cheese, says Lt. William Harfoot, commander of the corps.

The Salvation Army plans to continue to distribute the surplus cheese to Canton, Plymouth and Northville residents as soon as possible.

Individuals and families who qualify for the free cheese should contact the Salvation Army by phone at 453-5464 from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday for an appointment to receive their allocation.

Cheese will be distributed by appointment only, stresses Harfoot.

Families and individuals are eligible for free cheese on the basis of income only, adds Harfoot, who added that earlier information was wrong that persons 60 or older automatically qualified for free cheese.

The eligibility requirements are: one person in household, income of $5,388 or less; two persons, $7,113 or less; three persons, $8,838 or less; four persons, $10,563 or less; five persons, $12,288 or less; or a household of six persons with an income of $14,013 or less. For each additional member more than six add $1,725 in income to determine eligiblity.

The necessary proof of income may be one of the following: Food stamp card; a Medicaid card; WIC card; any Department of Social Services identification or an SSI award letter; or unemployment card if income levels are met.

Northville will sport new downtown look soon

Northville, that idyllic slice of hilly land which once was part of Plymouth, is sporting a charming new downtown dress today — thanks to some imaginative planning three years ago.

First city in Michigan to use a unique self-help financing statue, Northville has pumped some $1.6 million of public improvement into the downtown area to shore up its tax base and safeguard its business community.

And all of that effort bears fruit officially May 20-22 when the city dedicates the project with a host of activities characteristic of this feisty little town which won separation from Plymouth just prior to the turn of the century.

"We fought like tigers 85 years ago to win our 'independence'," muses Mayor Paul Vernon, chairman of the Downtown Development Authority, "and we are just as determined now, with the completion of our rejuvenation project,to make our downtown a winner.

"If you haven't visited Northville in a year or two you are in for a 'pleasant surprise'," he says, pointing to the amenities which enhance the town's Victorian storefronts.

Just a hop-skip-and-jump from the soon to be re-opened Ford Motor water wheel factory and the community spring which was made famous by the Nebbs cartoon strip of the 1930s, the downtown has undergone a real facelift.

Gone — or soon to disappear — are all of the above-ground utility lines and poles. They've gone underground. And in their place, topside, are handsome repaved streets and curbs.

Sidewalks have been widened, with portions accented with brickwork. Two downtown park areas have been created, and throughout the area trees and shrubs have been planted in attractive landscaped mini-gardens.

To emphasize the Victorian theme of the downtown area, the trees are protected by Victorian metal skirts, Victorian benches have been erected, and the streets have been lined with Victorian lamp posts.

Street parking meters were removed, and the municipal parking lots have been rebuilt, resurfaced, and landscaped.

And in the center of Main Street, between the town's refurbished Victorian theater and the new town square park, a four-sided Victorian clock now stands in a landscaped median.

ALL OF THESE public improvements are doing just what city fathers hoped they would do — inspire downtown property owners to improve the appearance of the store buildings, both front and rear.

Some of the property owners didn't wait until the public improvements were completed.

As old street and sidewalk concrete was ripped away to expose remnants of the old interurban railroad, wood water mains, and shoe leather from 19th century cobbler shops, some building owners began sprucing up their buildings, carefully preserving their Victorian architecture.

And new businesses were attracted to town by the changes taking place.

Plans for improving the facades of other buildings, all aimed at preserving the old, are on the drawing boards and several owners anticipate completion of the work before the year is out, says the mayor.

Improvements to downtown buildings are financed entirely by owners and tenants. Only public improvements are financed by the city and by contributions from citizens and organizations of the community.

It's too early to tell, says Vernon, given the general state of the economy, if the improvements will solidify business by recapturing those shoppers who earlier were being lured away by neighboring shopping centers. But city officials are confidentally predicting renewed downtown business vigor.

MEANWHILE, increasing value of downtown properties is completely paying for the public improvements.

With approval of other taxing units, such as Wayne County and Schoolcraft College, the city has been "capturing" those taxes represented by the difference between the 1978 assessed valuation of downtown properties and their current valuation.

These captured taxes are being used by the city to pay off the $1.6 million debt.

(When the city borrowed the money in 1979 it generally was considered a "poor market" for bonding. By today's standard, however, the interest rate charged by the bank in '79 was a gift — 6.6 percent.)

City Manager Steven Walters calculates that the city will repay the loan as scheduled without raising taxes. And if the valuation of downtown properties increases faster than anticipated, because of the public and private improvements, the city will return surplus monies to the other taxing units.

TO CELEBRATE the completion of the project, city officials are planning three days of activities — ranging from a luncheon salute to special contributors on May 20, a dedication luncheon and ceremony on May 21, and a family fun day on Saturday, May 22.

The streets will be blocked off Saturday to permit a variety of entertainment and things to do for residents and guests.

Guest speakers will include Oscar Frenette of WJR Radio's "Sketches," and perhaps Gov. William Milliken. Arrangements also are being made to have WJR's "Focus" program originate from the dedication site.

Birmingham guilty, awaits sentence in racial bias suit

By Alice Collins and Karen Hermes Smith
staff writers

Hours after a federal judge found the city of Birmingham guilty of racism in housing Monday, local officials began considering the city's next moves.

A decision on whether to appeal Judge Robert DeMascio's ruling will not be made until the court decides what the city must do to remedy the problem, according to Mayor Geoffrey Hockman.

That may come at 9 a.m. May 24 in federal District Court in Detroit, when attorneys for the U.S. Department of Justice and the city are to appear before DeMascio. DeMascio may then announce his order, or he may require the parties to confer.

DeMascio Monday found that Birmingham blocked a proposal for low-income senior citizen and family housing in 1978, "in part because of its desire to exclude black people from the city."

The court's ruling came six months after the end of a trial in a housing discrimination lawsuit filed against the city in March 1980 by the federal government.

ATTORNEY WILLIAM Saxton, hired to lead the city's defense, said Tuesday that DeMascio's decision "is not supported by the evidence as a whole."

"I think it's based on very fragile and unsupported incidences which are contrary to the evidence," he said.

Saxton said he will recommend appealing to the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati after DeMascio determines the remedy.

THE HIGHLY publicized lawsuit was initiated after the city's 10-year-old plans to provide low-income housing for senior citizens were dropped.

"I really don't know what this means," said former Birmingham Mayor Dorothy Conrad, "but I hope it means we're going to have senior citizen housing."

Conrad lost her City Council seat in a recall election because she favored the housing proposal and was a witness for the government during the trial.

"I thought about saying 'I told you so.' But, no, I decided I didn't really want to say that," she said.

"All that went on four years ago and should be put in the past and we should work toward senior housing. I guess that's my gut reaction . . . how I really feel."

Hockman said he believes the city is innocent of the charges leveled by the government and found by the court.

THE LAWSUIT filed by the government against Birmingham on March 7, 1980, charged the city with violating the U.S. Fair Housing Act of 1968.

In March 1976, the city authorized negotiations with Baldwin House, a nonprofit corporation, to design, build and manage a senior-citizen development on the downtown former Baldwin school property.

After the corporation applied for state construction financing and federal rent subsidies, it learned that in order to acquire those funds it would also have to provide low-income family housing.

THE COMBINED project was dropped after an April 3, 1978, city election in which voters overwhelmingly rejected the project.

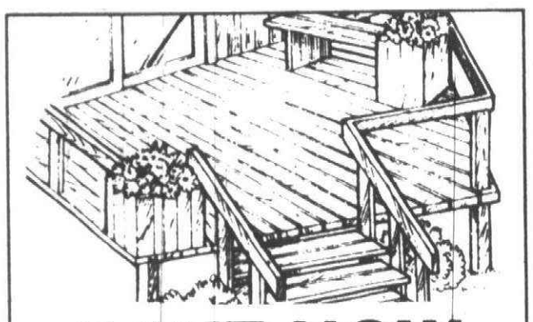

The project was placed on the ballot after the city was informed by the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA), the state funding agency, that it would have to provide one unit of low-income family housing for every two units of senior housing in order to meet the financing requirements.

In the midst of the controversy in 1978, Birmingham voters defeated three pro-plan city commissioners running for re-election and recalled three other commissioners, including Mayor Conrad, who favored the proposal.

Only commissioner and former mayor Robert Kelly, who was outspoken in his opposition to the proposed housing plan, survived the political upheaval. He was later defeated in his 1980 bid for re-election.

Because of the advisory vote and the ousting of the pro-Baldwin plan commissioners, the new commission never renewed its contract with Baldwin House Corp. and the housing plan died.

IN HIS JUDGMENT against the city, DeMascio found "that the city's interference with the Baldwin House/MSHDA negotiations" precluded construction of racially integrated family housing in Birmingham "by simply doing nothing."

Radio auction successful

WSDP-FM raised $9,200 in its third annual radio action last weekend, said coordinator Jeff Cardinal. Although the station's goal was to raise $12,000 at this auction, the $9,200 was much better than last year's $6,000. WSDP, 88.1 on the FM dial, is the student-operated radio station for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Bill Hogg, 15, was up early Saturday mornings working as an engineer for the radio auction.

Crappies and trout are beginning to bite in area holes

By Lem Mosee
outdoors writer

The doldrums are over. That's the period between the thaw of the ice and the beginning of spring fishing.

Crappies were reported hitting well on Kent Lake in western Oakland County. We checked it out, and even my crochety companion, C.O. Jones, was pleased with the results.

We had to work hard to find them last weekend, exploring one shoreline and bay after another before we located the green and silver cousins of the bass.

C.O. noted the water is still pretty cold, and the bites we got weren't very aggressive. Eggs and spawn in the fish we took were small. It means the season is still early, and the best angling is still to come.

outdoors

Another hot crappie spot, we hear, is the Huron River just below the Milford dam. Those have tended to be small, in my experience.

THE DEPARTMENT of Natural Resources reports a lot of happy trout anglers on the Huron River in the Proud Lake State Recreation Area.

But you'd better be careful about where you fish. That entire stretch of the Huron, from the three-foot Moss Lake dam to Milford Road, is a "designated trout stream." You'd better buy your trout stamp before dropping in a line.

"Quality" rules applied from April 1-24, which means flies only, catch-and-release. Now, regular trout rules apply, and worm anglers can try their hands.

How do you know when the fish are biting? The duffers consult weather and moon phase reports. Real pros will tell you that when your spouse says it's time to paint a bedroom or dig out the garden, that is when you should escape because the fish will be biting.

SOUTH OF here, Belleville Lake is producing a few crappies. "Occasional" steelhead are showing up in the Huron River at Flat Rock.

Nice perch are being taken from the Detroit River.

Lake Erie's tributaries are producing good spearing conditions for carp and suckers. Anglers are having fair luck with catfish, bullheads and perch.

THE UNIVERSITY of Michigan-Dearborn's environmental study area has several spring tours lined up.

Topics on May 8 and 15 will be birds and migrations. Guided tours start at 9 a.m. Bring binoculars and dress for muddy trails.

Tours assemble at the main entrance on the campus's Fair Lane Drive. The campus is on Evergreen between Ford Road and Michigan Avenue. Parking is free.

SCHOOLCRAFT College's fifth annual wildflower walk runs from 1-3 p.m. Sunday on the nature trails of Livonia's Bicentennial Park, Seven Mile between Newburgh and Farmington roads.

Free tours are led by faculty members and persons who have completed a wildflower class at Schoolcraft, according to biology instructor Roger Sutherland.

Bicentennial's trails have more than 35 species of wildflowers, expected to be at their peaks of beauty and color.

DUCKS UNLIMITED, a wildlife conservation group, will hold its second annual banquet for the Western Wayne chapter Wednesday, May 12 in the Plymouth Hilton, Northville at Five Mile roads, Plymouth.

Chairman John J. Nagy, known to us as Livonia planning director, expects a crowd of 400. Tickets at $30 include a $10 tax-deductible membership in DU.

On auction will be 30 art prints, six shotguns, a day-long walleye fishing trip for four, a muskie-fishing trip for two, electric outboard motor, hand-carved decoys and other items of sporting equipment.

Tickets are available from Harvey Miller at 422-0366 or Dr. Michael Rector at his veterinary clinic at 15200 Levan, Livonia.

Hearns not first to train here

When Tommy Hearns, the Detroit middleweight who meets Marvin Marvelous Hagler May 24, moves into the Plymouth Hilton to train, he will be taking a path first trod by the late Joe Louis.

When the "Brown Bomber" was training to defend his title against Bob Pastor in 1939, he did his boxing in a ring in the Northville Fair Grounds. And Pastor did his conditioning at Brighton.

Louis won the fight by a 15-round decision, which is a good omen for Hearns.

But when Hearns uses the Hilton ballroom, it will be another page out of Louis's training. In 1936, Louis did his boxing in the richly decorated ballroom of a hotel in Lakewood, N.J. It was a far cry from his regular camp in Pompton Lakes, where the ring was in a wooded area next to a barn.

And for Hearns' information, Louis was stopped in 12 rounds. Maybe this could be an omen, too, as Hearns is going to spar in the Hilton ballroom

Top achievers win slot in annals of school district

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

Selecting names for the buildings in the Plymouth-Canton Community School District was not an easy task.

"It wasn't done haphazardly," Esther Hulsing, long-time member of the board of education, explained. "We took great care that no one was slighted.

"Under the system, it was decided to name the elementary schools after persons who had made great contributions to the schools or the city.

"Next, we decided that the middle schools, of which there were only three, should be named by location — such as East, West, and Central. And the high schools were named by the townships in the district."

Exceptions to the rule came when a fourth middle school, Pioneer was built. (Currently, the board rents a middle school from Livonia, Lowell, after noted poet, James Russell Lowell).

AN EXCEPTION to the elementary schools being named for persons who had made great contributions to the schools was made when the name Starkweather was retained for the oldest among the elementary schools.

The building was named for one of the first families to settle Plymouth.

Two were named for school superintendents, George A. Smith, and Russell Isbister. Isbister's brain child is the present Centennial Educational Park where both high schools Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton are located.

Under the plan, if a third high school was to be built, it would be named Plymouth Superior. Under present conditions this school is not in the plans.

Among the principals honored in the elementary group were Nellie Bird, Edna Allen, Ruth Eriksson, Nancy Tanger and Mildred Field.

Field retired as principal of Starkweather school in 1972 after 45 years in education. She was an innovator and a strong believer in enforcing all the rules.

Allen served 38 years in the district as principal and teacher. When she retired, the school on Haggerty Road was named in her honor.

ERIKSSON, a native of Marquette, came to Plymouth in 1939. She was principal of Smith school for 21 years until she retired in 1950.

Bird, for whom the school on Sheldon Road is named, was principal at Central Elementary for 27 years, serving from 1923 to 1950.

Tanger devoted 34 years of service as a teacher and principal. She began in 1927 as a teacher in the fifth and sixth grades and was appointed the first principal at Bird.

James Gallimore was a member of the board of education. Esther Hulsing and husband, Kenneth, each served as presidents of the school board and Mrs. Hulsing held her seat on the board for 12 years. She now is serving as Plymouth Township clerk.

The others gave unselfishly of themselves and were considered logical choices to be honored. They were longtime teachers Gertrude Fiegel, Dorothy Miller and Helen Farrand.

So, as Mrs. Hulsing points out, the system was designed to honor the school district's "doers."

It was never a hit and miss proposition.

SC honors retirees, accepts cash, gifts

Four Schoolcraft College faculty members were honored by the board of trustees on their retirements, effective April 30. In other action, the board last week accepted gifts totaling $1,450.

Dr. Ralph W. Atchley, a chemistry instructor since 1965, took early retirement after teaching 22 years and performing research for 10 years in such areas as industrial toxicology and chemical quality control.

Christine M. Covert, business instructor in secretarial science, retired after nearly 17 years at Schoolcraft. She had earlier taught at Detroit's Southwestern High School and Hubert Junior High.

James M. Mason, math instructor since 1964, took early retirement. He had previously been associate professor of mechanical engineering at Wayne State University and a research engineer at Ethyl Corp. research laboratories.

Phebe M. Woltz, accounting instructor since 1965, took early retirement. She previously had taught at Warren Fitzgerald and Redford Union high schools. She was also honored for being "a generous supporter of student scholarships through contributions to the Woltz-Marathon Scholarship Fund." In a separate resolution, she was granted emeritus status.

OTHER RETIRED Schoolcraft personnel granted emeritus status included:

John P. Bedford, who taught geology until early retirement in 1981 — instructor emeritus.

Edward V. McNally, vice-president for student affairs and acting president until his retirement at the end of 1981 — administrator emeritus.

Rex K. Moorhead, math instructor from 1968-81 — instructor emeritus.

Louise Huston, director of accounting until last Jan. 22 — director honoraire.

Clara Rousseau, administrative assistant to the president until last Sept. 1 — administrative assistant honoraire.

GIFTS ACCEPTED by the board included:

$500 cash from Bonanaza-Express Soccer League in appreciation for the use of Schoolcraft's soccer field.

$500 cash from the Detroit Neurosurgical Foundation as a grant for qualified students.

A heat engine worth $150 from Nicholas G. Orlich of Westland for use in the climate systems technology program.

A 1½-hp water-cooled condensing unit worth $200 from Bill Knapp's of Michigan, Inc., also for the climate systems program.

$100 from counselor Richard Tomalty in honor of his parents' 50th wedding anniversary, to establish the Lyall and Gladys Tomalty Music Scholarship Fund.

Psychologist defends CEP

To the editor:

Reliable representation of reality is an essential responsibility of a free press and a democracy. Editorial opinions may be expressed, but must be generated within a framework of truth and accuracy.

Therefore, it was with considerable dismay that I read the April 22 editorial opinion written by Dennis O'Connor regarding the conditions existing at the Centennial Educational Park high schools, and the functions and responsibilities of the area coordinators.

As the Plymouth Canton High School psychologist for the past two years, I have acquired first-hand knowledge of the importance of the role of the area coordinator. While it may be true that many in the community do not know what an area coordinator does, O'Connor's editorial does nothing to increase community awareness.

Two primary tasks of the area coordinator center around teacher evaluation and the maintenance of student discipline. However, it is not ture, as O'Connor asserted, that discipline at the CEP is "nonexistent." This latter assertion is not only false but serves as inflammatory rhetoric which increases concern in the minds of parents of school-age children who have yet to enter the high school.

I wish to inform the parents of the Plymouth-Canton community, unequivocally, that in spite of the fact that Canton High School alone houses 1,714 adolescents, the atmosphere is orderly and a first-class education takes place.

As a public institution, it is mandatory that we provide educational opportunities for all students regardless of their capabilities, emotional and behavioral instabilities, or even their desire to be educated. In spite of the diversity of the student body, the classrooms, halls, lunchrooms and entire campus are remarkably well run.

Discipline policies are clearly elucidated for faculty, parents and students and consequences are concrete and directly applied, primarily by the area coordinators.

In fact, I would dread with trepidation the deterioration of control should O'Connor's rash suggestion to cut the number of coordinators from eight to four be implemented.

Area coordinators act as liaison with parents regarding discipline infractions, maintain order in the halls and lunchrooms, mete out consequences to students, counsel students on more appropriate behaviors, coordinate referrals to ancillary staff and outside agencies, and ensure that students' due process rights are observed in all proceedings.

In addition, when necessary, they expedite information to the Board of Education in order that the board be able to impose sanctions in severe cases. Area coordinators mediate and resolve interpersonal conflicts among students and between students and faculty.

If the community is unaware of the necessary skills and abilities of the area coordinators in the high schools, accurate accounts of their performances should be made public. To dispel the damage created by inaccurate reports, it is incumbent that other professionals within the schools share their respect and regard for these public employees.

Objects to plan for trash bids

To the editor:

Next Tuesday the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees will consider bids on the proposed solid waste disposal contract. I object to the proposal, and I'd like you to know why.

Right now, I'm paying $6 per month for once-a-week service. That seems pretty reasonable, but if I could get the same service for less, I'd probably take it. I now have the options of not using the service (and not paying for it), discontinuing it for vacations, or buying it from someone else.

Under the proposed contract, my present waste hauler will be effectively forced out of business, and I'll have to pay whether I want the service or not. I fail to see the difference between that and a tax. And the bids on the proposed contract range from about $3 to $4 per month, which is very competitive. Why haven't these contractors tried to compete before when there was no monopoly franchise being offered?

Four of the seven board members, including the supervisor, voted in favor of this proposal which amounts to another small increase in government control over our lives. Given the political events of the last several years, it would seem they're moving in exactly the wrong direction.

Reader defends sheriff's budget

To the editor:

Mayor McNamara's statement against Sheriff William Lucas is the pinnacle of underhanded political tactics.

There are many facts he failed to mention. The deputies themselves paid back the overtime monies from last winter and there were many deputies who were laid-off and worked who never got paid. They were, however, able to receive some compensation. The overtime presently at the jail is due to additional lay-offs by the commissioners. The sheriff is bound by state law to provide manpower for a designated population, therefore, he must order overtime.

Many of the service previously provided by the sheriff brought in an additional form of revenue to the area. The metro squad was self-existant and the road patrol serviced an area larger than the city of Detroit.

Every department in the county sets a budget and I am sure through these inflationary years they have all increased.

Sheriff Lucas does not have control over the tax base but he does have the responsibility of providing security for certain areas of the county.

He has been up against a hierarchy, namely the Wayne County Board of Commissioners. The problems stemming from these battles have thrown him into a series of unrealistic frustrations. The sheriff has backed his men the best he could and fought with a deep concern for the county.

We, as taxpayers, should recognize a man of integrity and stamina. I will contemplate each candidate carefully for qualities essential to assume the "helm of this desperate county."

Owens is a 1972 graduate of Plymouth High School.

SC picks Baker to 'knock on doors' for jobs courses

Dr. Richard McDowell has moved to put his mark on the organization of Schoolcraft College, where he has been president since last September.

For his top priority — reaching out to train workers in industry — he tapped Stuart Baker, previously a publicist in the college relations office.

Baker Monday became coordinator of business and industry programs, "knocking on doors," in McDowell's words, to sell contract education. Baker will report to Ron Griffith, the dean of continuing education.

McDOWELL'S reorganization plan received unanimous approval from the board of trustees last week. His earlier efforts at selling on-the-job training in Allegheny County, Pa., were a prime reason the jobs-conscious board selected him as Schoolcraft's third president.

Another element of the plan, however, has raised female eyebrows. The Women's Resource Center was shifted out of the community services office and assigned to the vice president for student services.

Jean Christensen, formerly director of the WRC, was assigned to program community service courses for the entire college population within the community services division.

IN OTHER changes, McDowell's reorganization plan:

- Shifted the Learning Assistance Center from the VP for student affairs to the VP for instruction.
- Assigned the athletic director to report solely to the VP for instruction. Previously, AD Marvin Gans had reported to the VP of instruction for academic purposes and to the VP for business for athletics purposes.
- Shifted Midge Ellis, coordinator of special events, from the community services office to the college relations office, where she will report to David Heinzman.
- Assigned Ted Diebel, dean of the Garden City Center, the task of programming all non-campus centers. Diebel will have the new title of dean of college centers.

TWO CHANGES were made in the placing of campus offices.

- The career planning and placement center will be relocated in the lower level of the Waterman Campus Center. It will vacate a house on Haggerty Road. Placement director Ronald Monfette will be shifted to the post of director of evening instruction on June 1.

During summer, the purchasing division will be moved to the house vacated by the placement office. "This new location should provide better coordination with the purchasing and accounting functions of the business operations of the college," McDowell said.

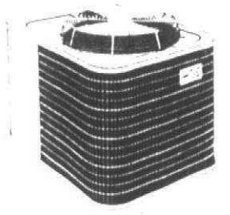

Finally, the admissions and financial aid services will take over space currently occupied by purchasing in a service building near the Waterman Center.

Ad Council's story

Free advertising firm reports boom in business

By Suzie Rollins Singer
staff writer

Picture a 14-year-old boy in a three-piece business suit, seated behind a large walnut desk. A man in his mid-50s sits across from the boy, explaining why he's qualified for a job.

"I'm aggressive, well trained and eager to learn," the man tells the boy whose feet are propped up on his desk.

"Sorry," the teenager replies. "We don't hire grown-ups."

THAT FILMED vignette, presented Monday to the Economic Club of Detroit audience, is part of the Advertising Council's "Give a Teenager a Job" campaign.

Patricia Carbine, national chairperson of the Ad Council, told the local audience about the workings of the non-profit organization.

"We're a public service organization. We tackle national problems that affect every community. And right now, our business is booming," she said.

The Ad Council receives requests to prepare major ad programs from private organizations and government agencies. Special council committee members analyze and review the requests then forward them to a board of directors.

After reviews by the board, the ideas are sent to advisory committees on public policy, industry and media. From there, a volunteer ad agency is selected to create the campaign.

Once created, the campaign is sent to council staff for final approval, then distributed to the media.

"FOR EVERY $1,000 the Ad Council invests in accounts, it generates over $8,000 in donated air and print space," Carbine said.

Some campaigns for which the Ad Council is responsible are "Don't be Fuelish," "If We Can Get People Walking on the Moon, Surely We Can Get Them Working Here on Earth," "Join the Future, Give to the College of Your Choice," "Why Do You Think They Call it Dope?"

"We accept requests that are non-commercial, non-partisan and non-political," Carbine said.

In 1976, the Detroit firm of Campbell-Ewald designed the campaign to fight child abuse called, "It shouldn't hurt to be a child."

Through posters, radio and television spots, it has promoted anti-abuse messages across the country.

"In 1976, there were 413,000 reported cases of child abuse. In 1980 there were 788,000 cases reported," she added. "We've made headway."

THE AD COUNCIL began in the '40s, during World War II. Its first campaign showed a fighter ship sinking into the ocean, accompanied by the phrase, "A Slip of the Lip Will Sink a Ship."

In the '50s the council created a campaign to help fight polio. It showed two toddlers hugging each other and said, "Neglected or Protected? For Polio Protection There's Only One Weapon — Polio Shots. Don't Delay, Start Today."

During the Kennedy era, the council designed "Better Schools Build Better Communities," and "Help Them Help Themselves, Serve in the Peace Corps."

PRESIDENT REAGAN has asked the council to aim its efforts toward beefing up productivity in America.

"We will be coming to Detroit for input on the campaign. We're working with 50 companies and have learned that management is our prime target," Carbine said.

"We have to convince management groups that they have a role to place in increasing productivity," she added.

Before closing, Carbine shared what she called a compliment of the Ad Council.

"Several of the Ad Council members have been invited to Japan," she said, "to tell them how the program works and why it's so successful."

Professional secretary exam this weekend

The Dearborn campus of Detroit College of Business will serve as an examination center for the 1982 certified professional secretary examination Friday and Saturday.

Detroit College of Business will be one of more than 276 centers for the two-day, six-part examination, said President Frank Parone. Some 5,700 secretaries will take the test throughout the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico and Jamaica.

To date, 14,960 have earned the right to use the CPS designation by passing the six parts of the examination: behavioral science in business, business law, economics and management, accounting, secretarial skills and decision making, and office procedures and administration.

The examination is open to all secretaries who meet the specific educational requirements in combination with specified years of verified secretarial experience. Applications for the 1983 CPS examination are now being accepted by: Institute for Certifying Secretaries, 2440 Pershing Road, Suite G-10, Kansas City, Mo. 64108.

Musicians must respond to community needs

Doc's corner

Dennis O'Connor

BOARD OF EDUCATION President Carol Davis sent a letter to James Griffith last week asking his support in coordinating student musicians to march in the second-annual Canton Country Festival in August.

It will be interesting to see how Griffith responds to this letter because of the overwhelming support the Plymouth-Canton community has given to the high school music programs over the years.

Griffith, a Plymouth Township resident, is the director of the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) bands. He is the leader of the marching band which, historically, has given immense pride to this community with national appearances in the Rose Bowl and Orange Bowl.

The problem however, is trying to get the marching band to participate at important events at the local level.

We all enjoy seeing our local band perform on television before national audiences. However, we have difficulty seeing our musicians — live — at important community parades during the summer months.

Doesn't that seem strange? We think so — especially because we believe the majority of student musicians would like to play before parents and relatives at community parades.

We believe the band should take a more active role in supporting and responding to community activities.

FOUR MAJOR EVENTS take place in the Plymouth-Canton community each year — Plymouth's Fall Festival, Plymouth's Memorial Day parade, Canton's Country Festival and Plymouth's Fourth of July parade.

The CEP band performs at only two of the four events — the Fall Festival and on Memorial Day. Both events occur during the school calendar year, between September and June.

The other two activities occur in the summer months — without a marching band. The Plymouth Jaycees are snubbed on July 4th, and Canton politicos, volunteers and merchants are ignored during the first week of August.

Why can't the band perform at these two summer events? That's a question many Plymouth Jaycees and Canton volunteers have wanted answered for years.

Superintendent John Hoben says he can't force Griffith to volunteer to direct the band in the summer activities because he's not under school contract during that time. Some board members believe the band should participate in these parades, but say their hands are tied because of Griffith's contract.

Hoben adds he surveyed 22 school districts in the area and only two have summer bands.

THE OBSERVER REALLY doesn't care how 22 other school districts contract with their band directors. We also don't think whether Griffith decides — or doesn't decide — to direct the band this summer is the real issue.

We believe someone — somewhere — in the schools' music program should step forward and begin an honest effort to help coordinate a summer marching band to participate in these two major community events.

The Observer, past school boards and residents of Plymouth and Canton have been extremely supportive in fund-raisers — and publicity — when the band needed funds and exposure for numerous national activities.

Now it's time the band shares its pride at the local level by participating in BOTH summer parades.

TV meets its severest critic yet

Back in the 1960s, a member of the Federal Communications Commission branded television "a vast wasteland." The widely quoted remark was considered a serious indictment of the boob tube.

Well, a couple of weeks ago, Edward N. Ney topped that "vast wasteland" remark. Ney is chairman and president of Young & Rubicam Inc., an ad agency which reportedly places more dollars of TV advertising for clients than any firm in the country.

Ney spoke to the Economic Club of Detroit about the future of advertising, commercial TV and pay-cable TV. It wasn't flashy oratory, but when you study what he said, it was stunning stuff.

Although commercial TV is essentially free once you buy the receiver, Ney finds "a willingness on the part of that same video-indoctrinated public to pay a good of money to get much of the same sort of fare (on cable) that they have been getting, and still can get, for free."

Despite commercial TV's being free, Ney said, one cable firm has found 60 percent of the homes it solicited were willing to sign up.

THEN CAME a series of numbers so shocking that Ney eased into them gradually:

"Homes with cable tend to watch even more than the average U.S. television home.

"Those with just basic cable watch 6 percent more than the U.S. average. But those with pay-cable watch 22 percent more!

"And just to stretch credulity, try this statistic: In late night fringe time, homes with pay cable watch 48 percent more than the average non-cable household."

What it means is that commercial TV is doing such a miserable job of programming that people are turning to pay-cable in droves.

ANYONE WITH even the most casual knowledge of the TV business is aware of what controls programming.

Much of the nation's buying — the kind which can be influenced by advertising — is done by women in the 19-49 age group. Therefore, what advertisers want to reach is women in the 19-49 age group.

The sheer volume of viewers is less important than the number of buyers who watch. Do you recall the late afternoon program "World Advernture Series?" Until its demise, it was perhaps the most popular local program ever produced in metro Detroit. Why did it die? Because old people watched it, and they simply aren't susceptible to soap commercials.

There are dozens of similar examples.

The point is that commercial TV has produced vast volumes of drivel. If good entertainment is available, people will turn to it — even if they have to pay.

NEY'S COMPANION speaker was Frederick S. Pierce, executive vice president of American Broadcasting Companies Inc., "the world's largest advertising medium."

Well, it seems ABC is getting into the cable act. One of its four cable services is called "Arts" and is "a three-hour nightly service which provides high quality programming in areas from dramatic theater to the symphony, opera, ballet or French impressionistic painting," Pierce said.

Does that cable service sound familiar to persons over 40, it should. Back in the 1950s, commercial TV had a program called "Omnibus." Commercial TV also used to broadcast concerts by the New York Philharmonic with narratives by its dynamic young conductor, Leonard Bernstein.

Commercial TV scrapped its arts broadcasting. The networks could have continued it, but they chose not to. They chose instead to beam out a vast wasteland to a waist-high culture because the good stuff didn't sell soap.

That is a pretty damning indictment of both commercial TV and commercials.

A dream comes true 70 years later

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

Into each life, so the sages tell us, comes one great moment. It is a moment filled with pride and emotion, and at times causes a huge lump in the throat. And the memory of such a moment never is forgotten.

That was the kind of moment The Stroller experienced last Sunday when he was escorted to the platform at Schoolcraft College and presented an honorary associate of arts degree — something he often had dreamed of but never thought would come true.

As he stood there listening to the citation being read to his family, relatives and a host of friends, he couldn't help thinking of the many frustrations, disappointments and moments of sadness he had experienced on the way to the big moment when Schoolcraft President Richard McDowell, board Chairman Harry Greenleaf and Trustee Rosina Raymond made the presentation.

FROM THE DAY The Stroller was born, more than eight decades ago, his father had planned a college education for him. He had envisioned his son graduating from Penn State and going on to great things.

At the time, he was a sickly man and eked out a living with a small lunch room back in the Dutch Country. And he took pride in his son being a good student.

But misfortune struck. He became victim of what was called "hasty consumption." When mother was left alone with five children, she often said, "There goes your college education."

She worked and worked to see that The Stroller got the kind of education available in the grade schools. Then, when he had been in high school only three months, she called her boy aside and advised him she no long could carry on without help. He would have to leave school.

Dreams of a great education faded.

THESE THOUGHTS came back as The Stroller stood on the platform at Schoolcraft.

Along the way, he had been honored several years ago when he was given an honorary high school diploma at Garden City West. That was a big moment. At last he had received a diploma, thanks to the work of Principal James Niland. But it was still a far cry from college.

Then a few days ago came the call from Schoolcraft College, an institution he had helped to make possible, that he was to be accorded an honorary degree.

Just the thought of it generated a feeling of emotion, and it caused cold chills to run up and down his spine. At last he was going to get a college citation.

As he was given the much-prized resolution, the moments of frustration and disappointments of his youth gave way to the joy of being recognized by an institution of higher learning.

AND HE WONDERED — and felt certain — that his father and mother, now long gone, were looking down on the ceremony and feeling proud that their boy, who didn't finish his first year of high school, was being honored by a college.

They say you can't take anything with you when you leave this vale of tears, but the memory of that moment at Schoolcraft will be taken by The Stroller beyond any grave.

Culture priced out of family budget

Nick Sharkey

The price for culture is going up.

Most concerned parents worry that a constant fare of situation comedies and cartoons on television will turn their children's minds into popcorn. They often try to expose them to other facets of life — the artistic, historical and scientific. For lack of a better word, let's call that "culture."

But have you considered the increase in the price of culture? It's enough to make inflation in other areas pale by comparison.

INTERESTED in seeing Henry Ford's birthplace or the Wrigh. Brothers' bicycle shop at Greenfield Village?

Assume you are in the traditional family of four — two adults and two children. A year ago, the fare for this trip would have been $13.50 ($4.50 for each adult and $2.25 for each child). The same trip today would cost $21 ($7 for per adult and $3.50 per child).

In June the rates will go up again, and the family will pay $24 ($8 per adult and $4 per child). That's a 78 percent hike in a little over a year. (Parking for Greenfield Village is free.)

Want to take the kiddies down to the Detroit Science Center to view a 180-degree image movie on the 67-foot domed screen? Make sure you take at least $13 in your wallet. The Science Center treats everyone 6 and older at the same rate — $3 per person. There's no free parking here. The charge is $1.

What about taking this family of four for a Sunday afternoon ride out to Cranbrook to visit the planetarium? Don't skimp on the cash here, either. It'll run you at least $12.

You have to pay two times at Cranbrook — once to enter the grounds and again to get into the Institute of Science (the site of the planetarium). It's $1.50 per adult and $1 per child to enter Cranbrook. Then its another $2.50 per adult and $1 per child at the science building. Parking is free.

Maybe you think it would be cheap to take the kids down to Saturday's performance of the Detroit Youtheatre in the Art Institute? Wrong again. It'll run you at least $11.50 ($2.50 per ticket for adults and children and at least $1.50 for parking in the underground garage).

YOU GET THE point. The day of tasting cultural delights at a relatively low price is gone.

Grants from government and foundations for cultural features are either gone or seriously reduced. Many agencies must now be self-supporting.

Cultural institutions face the same rising costs as the rest of society. Labor, material and utility charges have jumped dramatically.

Even the rapidly escalating admission charge at Greenfield Village has not made it self-supporting. Ross Callaway of the marketing and public relations staff said that each person entering Greenfield Village is still partially subsidized.

"We gain additional money through fund raisers, endowment funds, food services, gifts, souvenirs and the Dearborn Inn," he said.

Callaway said the $8 charge for Greenfield Village compares favorably to other historical attractions across the country — such as Williamsburg. "If you consider the $10 per person charged for some amusement parks, we are still economical," he said.

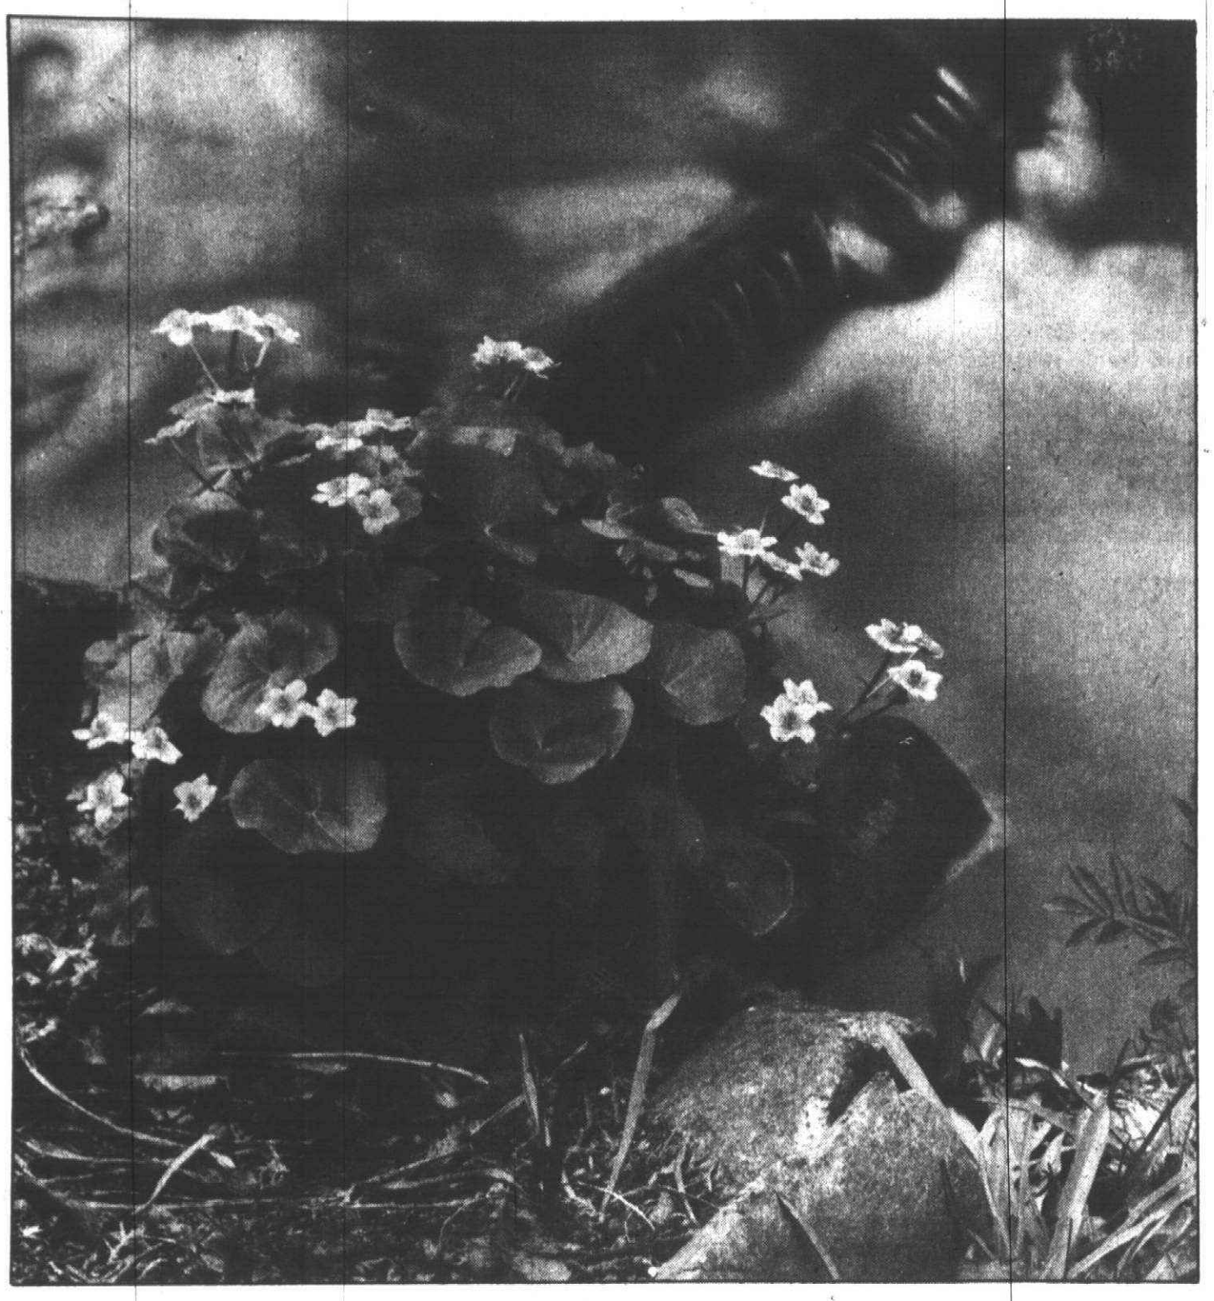

IT'S HARD to argue with the necessity of charging more money to try some hands-on scientific experiments (Detroit Science Center) or to view the chair President Abraham Lincoln sat in when he was assassinated (Henry Ford Museum).

But cultural opportunities are fast becoming limited only to those with money to spare. Middle-class people grump and complain about the rising price, but we can usually come up with the money.

And what of the future? How can the minds of bright, young, poor people be stimulated?

As government subsidies dwindle and inflation takes its toll, what will become of culture?

Our cultural heritage is too precious to be limited to the country club set.

Spring violets were shot by Monte Nagler in the oriental garden at Cranbrook. His lengthy time exposure — 15 seconds — results in a feeling of movement in the stream.

Time for wildflower pix

photography

Monte Nagler

Spring is here — at last! Aching backs from shoveling, frozen fingertips and streets piled with snow are gone, at least until next year.

Springtime livens our hearts, stimulates our senses, and serves as an incentive to get the camera out of winter hibernation.

Many exciting and challenging picture-taking opportunities are available in springtime. Now is the time to dust off the camera and get in gear for some rewarding photo-taking experiences.

IF YOUR camera has been sitting around all winter, make sure the batteries are fresh and that you brush up on your knowledge of all controls.

Ready to begin? There's alot of picture potential out there. Here are some ideas of what to shoot, where to go, and how to do it.

Perhaps the best place to begin your springtime photography is with the adundance of flowers and blossoms in the area.

Some flowers have vivid and bold colors, some soft and pastel, but all invite your camera to record their springtime serenade.

For best results, move in tight, using close-up equipment such as close-up filters, extension rings or a macro-lens.

You'll need to maximize depth of field by using a small aperture, so be prepared to take along your tripod to steady your camera for the required longer shutter speeds (see photo at left).

Carry a dark piece of poster board with you to place behind the flowers in order to eliminate distracting, out-of-focus backgrounds.

For blossoming trees, shoot by early morning or late afternoon light to get maximum texture and detail in the foliage. A polarizer filter will darken the sky, adding further impact to your shot.

AN EXCITING springtime locale is the Detroit Zoo located on 10 Mile Road in Royal Oak.

While the zoo offers year-round picture possibilities, it is especially attractive in spring. Many animal species — such as deer, sheep and goats — have their offspring this time of year.

The children's zoo is always alive with springtime activity, and the aviary offers excellent picture potential of the vivid spring colors of our feathered frends.

Bring your telephoto lens. And don't overlook the flowering trees, numerous tulips and other springtime plants that grow in abundance at the zoo.

MANY PARKS in the metro Detroit area provide excellent springtime picture potential. The Huron-Clinton Metroparks — such as Kensington, Stony Creek and Hudson Mills — can offer you such photo possibilities as wildlife, nature, and even dramatic shots of sailboats carving out the wind.

The parks have bike and nature trails, and Kensington in particular, along with its farm center, offers an excellent opportunity to photograph migrating Canada geese.

Maybury State Park west of Northville and Edward Hines Parkway in western Wayne County also are alive with activity.

For the more northerny residents, the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission offers exciting parks such as Addison Oaks, Independence Oaks and Groveland Oaks. For further information on their activities, including a springtime photo contest, phone the parks office at 858-0906.

PROBABLY ONE of the most enjoyable and colorful springtime photo opportunities will be happening soon at Detroit's Eastern Market.

It's the annual flower sale on May 23, to be repeated June 13. Never will you have a chance to photograph such as abundance and variety of flowers, and all in one place.

Short shots

- Cranbrook Institute of Science offers "The Creative Closeup: Spring Photograph" from 7-9 p.m. tonight, May 13 and 20 and June 6. Instructor Alan Lowy said the workshop will deal with both technical and creative elements of close-up photography in classroom and field. Fee is $40 for non-members. Participants will need a 35 mm single-lens reflex camera, tripod and cable release.
- Monte Nagler will hold a spring photo workshop Saturday, May 15 at the Detroit Zoo. For course information, call Henry Ford Community College's Center for New Directions at 271-2750 Ext. 330.

Hall comments on his career

The hot desire to be a firefighter can fizzle out

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

What would cause a young person to choose fire fighting as a career?

Could it be the love of excitement?

Would it be the chance to help unfortunate persons in time of trouble?

Could it be a young man's desire to wear a uniform?

These questions were put to Roy Hall, chief of the city of Plymouth Fire Department, and he was quick to discount many of them.

"The first thing that would attract a young person in these times," he said, "is the chance of having a steady position.

"THAT COMES first. After that, the excitement and the other things help him to grow on the job and make little of the danger that could confront him at a major fire."

After job security, Hall said, the young man soon learns that being a firefighter is all that he expected it to be.

"This realization comes early. You soon find out whether you are a firefighter or that you made a poor choice," the chief said.

While there always is a danger, especially when the flames flash in the taller buildings, the fire fighter learns how meet these challenges and he doesn't take unneccesary chances, Hall said.

At first glance, the long hours — in many cases the firefighters work 24-hour shifts — seem hard. But once a young settles in the job, these unusual hours and style of living become second nature, he said.

JOB SECURITY attracted Hall to the Redford Township Fire Department a quarter of a century ago, he said, and he'll never forget his first day on the job.

"We had two house fires, a garage fire, and two grass fires, he said. "And I was on the go from the time I checked in. It was an exciting day — one that I never will forget."

While he was reminiscing, Hall recalled the the worst fire he helped to fight. It was the blaze that made a shambles of the General Motors plant in Livonia. That fire still is rated the most costly fire in industrial history.

Being a firefighter helps to teach men to work together. Fighting fires is team work, and no where is it more important than at a major blaze.

HOW ABOUT the cold weather when the firefighters work around the clock with icicles hanging from the buildings and ice all around?

"A fellow learns to live with that, too," Hall said. "It becomes part of the job.

"What is on a firefighter's mind when he goes to a fire is to see how good a job he can do. Like anyone else, he likes to be told when a building or a home was saved without the loss of life.

"All these things are what cause a young person to choose fire fighting as a career."

CONGRATULATIONS to Dee and Bud Martin, a couple of Plymouth High School sweethearts who will mark their 35th wedding anniversary next week.

Derura De Planche and Eldon Martin were married May 10, 1947, in the Lutheran Church on Spring Street. They set up housekeeping in Plymouth and had two sons, Dave and Scott.

The Martins maintained an active interest in their community. Bud's civic involvement led to his present position as mayor of the city of Plymouth.

Dave and Scott are planning an early anniversary celebration for their parents. They have invited relatives from the area to share a family dinner at the Round Table Club Friday evening. They also have a few surprises in store for their mother.

THREE LOCAL artists are represented in the Ann Arbor Women Painters spring show. The exhibit will be in the Ann Arbor Public Library, Fifth Avenue, Ann Arbor, through May 28.

Johnny Crosby's "Shoreline, Gyamas, Mexico" and "Sheep Ranch in Winter;" Jessie Hudson's "Provencal Landscape" and Doreen Lawton's "Fence Row, Spring," all watercolors, were selected for the show.

Lin-Coln Lae, chairman of the art department at Schoolcraft College, was juror.

ELL DOHERTY, daughter of Mary and Richard Doherty of Plymouth, is going to spend two months in Finland this summer. She will live with a volunteer host family and take part in family and community activities.

Ellen received a full scholarship in the special program sponsored by Kellogg Co. and Youth for Understanding, one of the largest international student exchange programs in the world. She was selected from applicants throughout the United States.

A sophomore at Ladywood High School, Ellen was awarded the scholarship based on YFU's traditional selection criteria of academic achievement, personal maturity, quality of essay question answers, personal interview and involvement in extracurricular activities. Her written application was reviewed by YFU's independent admissions committee.

Ellen is active in Girl Scouts, enjoys reading, listening to music and writing in her spare time.

She will join 60 American students who will leave for Finland in June. Host-family living is stressed as the heart of the student exchange experience. Its purpose is to encourage a deeper appreciation and comprehension of world cultures through firsthand experience.

Youth for Understanding is a non-profit educational organization founded 30 years ago in Ann Arbor. It maintains its international headquarters in Washington, D.C. It has enabled more than 83,000 students from 53 countries and all 50 states to take part in the exchange experience. The program began as an effort to counteract the bitterness between Germany and the U.S. after World War II. More than 60 major corporations and numerous foundations provide financial support to YFU.

PLYMOUTH HIGH School class of 1?72 is planning its 10th reunion with a dinner-dance June 19 at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

There were 673 grads in 1972, and party planners are having difficulty in finding addresses for all of them. They had a five-year reunion, and even then some classmates complained afterwards that they hadn't heard a word about it. More than 100 persons still are on the "wanted list." Anyone who had a child, grandchild, niece, nephew or neighbor in the class of '72 is asked to call Diane Williams Bacon, 261-9815, or Becky Tillotson Krohn, 397-0089.

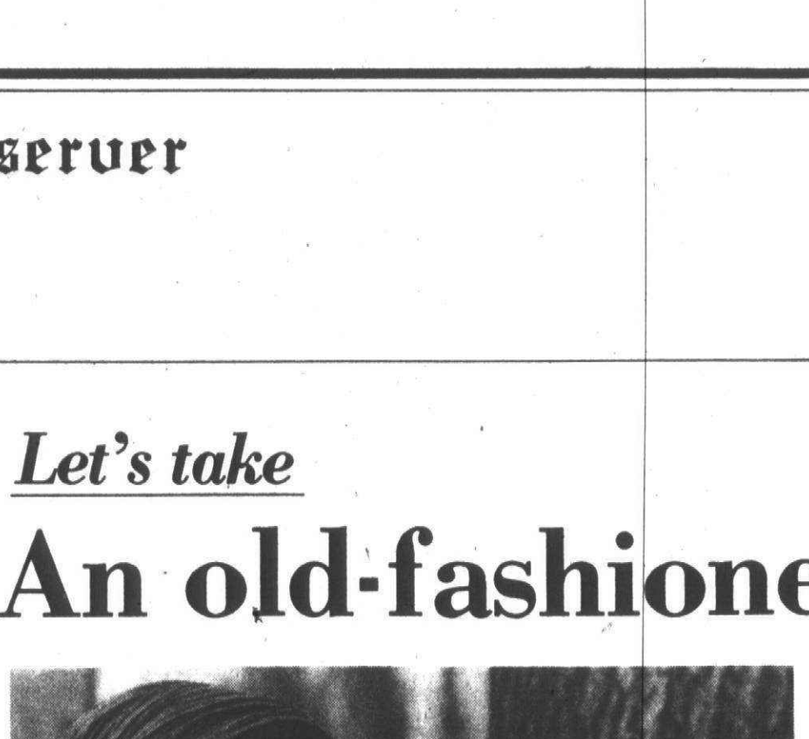

Deadline for reservations is June 1, and they don't want to miss anyone.

Grads are coming from California. Planning committee received regrets from a couple of classmates in Hawaii.

They must be a very interesting group, this class that graduated from what is now Plymouth Salem High School. Back then, it was the brand new Plymouth High. One of their members is now a port captain. Another was the first woman pipe-layer in Idaho.

Let's take

An old-fashioned walk into springtime

Tom Friedlander, Ann Arbor naturalist, is a Miller Woods enthusiast who conducts tours through the beech-maple climax forest.

The annual spring walk through Miller Woods marks the onset of spring for area nature enthusiasts who enjoy viewing the abundant collection of wildflowers in the woodlot.

Each year visitors have the opportunity to tour one of the most unusual natural sites in the Plymouth-Canton community — a beech-maple climax forest. Hepatica, spring beauties, wild ginger and trillium are but a few of the plants that bloom in rapid succession throughout the season.

This year's walk will be between 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Saturday, May 8.

Staff photos by Gary Caskey

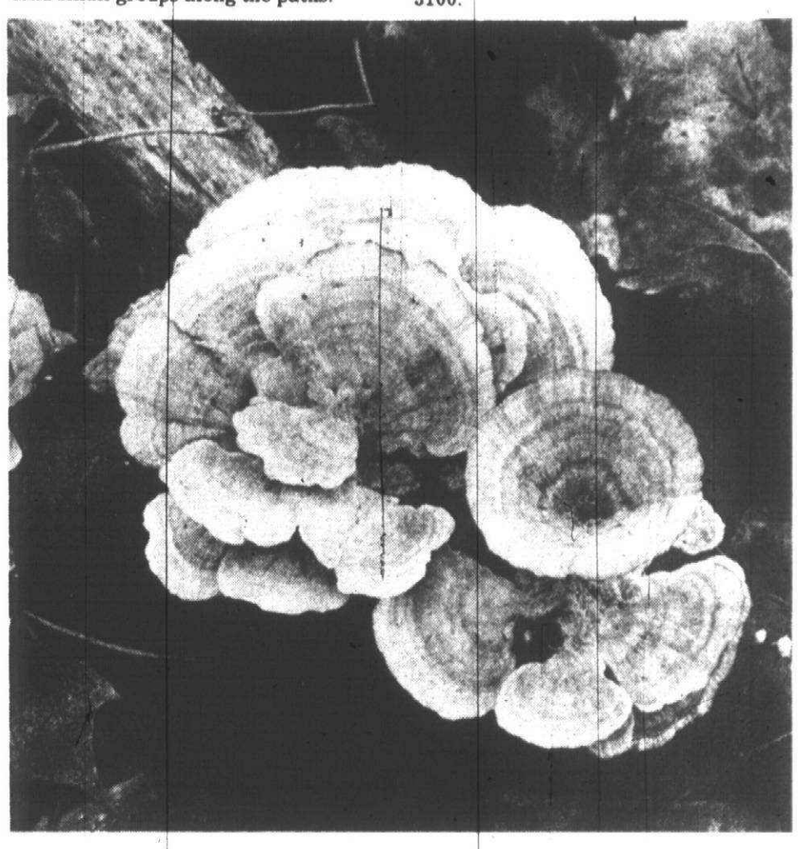

Hepaticas, with their fuzzy stems and mottled leaves from last season, are among the early bloomers.

"We are not sure what flowers will be blooming on the 8th," says Evelyn Edgar, a member of the Miller Woods Committee which sponsors the walk.

"The extended winter has caused very early flowers like harbinger-of-spring to bloom next to trillium and dutchman's breeches, later spring bloomers." Committee members Herb Conant, Evelyn Edgar, Pat Atchinson, Penny Wright, Ken Wright, and Ann Arbor naturalist Tom Friedlander will lead small groups along the paths.

They will identify the various plants, tress and shrubs as they go.

Persons interested in taking tbe tour can reach Miller Woods by following West Ann Arbor Trail to Powell Road, continuing on Powell for two miles until reaching the woods on the right side of the road. Those who wish more information, or if interested in joining the committee, can call the Plymouth Canton Board of Education Office, 453-3100.

These lacy blue fungi are among the many varieties found in Miller Woods.

St. Joe pays tribute to its volunteers

The small group that was the nucleus of the Hazel Larson Guild has grown.

What began as a memorial to a dear friend has developed into a necessary and integral part of health care at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The first few women who offered to serve as volunteers at the hospital met with only tentative acceptance.

All that has changed.

Pat Sage, administrative coordinator of volunteer services at St. Joe's, refers to the volunteers as "special people."

She explains why.

"They detect not only the needs of patients and families, but also of the staff and are there to help with those needs.

"Hospitalization can be a traumatic experience for patients. They often have doubts and fears as to if surgery is really necessary, do they have the best doctor, how long will they be hospitalized, is their family taken care of, and many more."

"Patients have time to think and to worry about things that normally wouldn't be a concern. A volunteer will lend an ear to listen and supply the needed support," she adds.

ST. JOE HONORED its volunteers recently at an awards dinner in the hospital dining room. Administrative staff and department representatives served a lovely dinner.

There were speeches and awards. The Canton Senior Kitchen Band under the direction of Delores Edwards provided entertainment.

Among the 200 volunteers honored at the dinner were a goodly number from the Plymouth Canton community.

Those who work in admitting are Virginia Bird, Margaret Fischer, Joyce Foust, Carolyn Jacobs, Joan Kindree, Phyllis Kordick, Marilyn Lynch, Marie West, Wanda Miller, Wilma Newton, Ann Taylor, Pat Prchlik and Phyllis VanWagoner.

These volunteers greet in-coming patients, escort them to their rooms and orient them to hospital procedures. The admitting procedure was started by the Hazel Larson Guild members.

The guild has extended its services to many other areas of the hospital.

VIRGINIA Breneman works in emergency. Patricia Gutherie delivers paper back, large print and talking books to the patients.

Eva Hatcher works in room scheduling, a very busy area in the hospital.

Theresa Johnson, Mary Kenny, Doris Stortors, Kellie Miller and Lynn Buda work on nursing units. They assist the nursing staff and also make the patients' hospital stays as comfortable as possible.

Marian Gotshall volunteers in the walk-in clinic where she assists the doctors and nurses. This is a very active outpatient area and the volunteer receives a great amount to training to work there.

Chorus tunes up for spring concert

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Chorus members Vicky Morrissey (left), Tim Joy and Joe Hopersberger check out the flowering crabs which will decorate the Plymouth Salem High School stage for their spring concerts.

"Let the Sun Shine In" will be the opening number of the Plymouth Community Chorus spring concert. Plymouth Salem High School auditorium will be filled with music the evenings of May 15 and 16 as the 100-voice choir, directed by Michael Gross, serenades the season.

The opener also is the title of the concert which will be performed in a spring setting, thanks to a member of the chorus. Bass Tim Joy, manager of Christensen's Nursery on Ann Arbor Road, has been keeping a close watch on some pink flowering crabs and other flowers to have them at their blooming best in mid-May.

The chorus gives two concerts a year — both to standing-room-only audiences. Advance sale tickets are available at Sideways on Forest Avenue in Plymouth and at Book Break on Ford Road in Canton Township. Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for senior citizens and students.

Starting time Saturday and Sunday will be 7 p.m. in the auditorium on Joy Road west of Canton Center Road.

GROSS HAS programmed favorites by Jerome Kern, Cole Porter and George Gershwin. There will be spirituals and a rousing American trilogy — "Dixie," "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "All My Trials."

The words of the poets will be sung in three numbers. "At the Round Earth's Imagined Corners" by John Donne was set to music by Williametta Spencer. "Choose Something Like a Star" has words by Robert Frost and music by Randall Thompson. Roy Ringwald wrote the music for John Greenleaf Whittier's "O Brother Man."

Members of the chorus will perform as soloists in the concert. Morand Zimmer and Gayle Lang will sing "Thine Alone." Earl Downing will sing "How to Handle a Woman" and will solo in "Planticide." Sherrie Northway will sing "Through the Eyes of Love" from "Ice Castles." Colleen Riggen will be soloist in "Don't Cry Out Loud," which was recorded by Melissa Manchester.

MARY EXARHOS, a soprano in the chorus, also is a pianist. She will play Chopin's Etude in G flat, and the theme from "Romeo and Juliet."

Carol Chen is assistant director and accompanist of the chorus.

Choral numbers will be accented by the addition of horns, timpani, chimes and a xylophone.

Full chorus will perform the closing song, "I Believe."

Pap, breast exam clinics scheduled

The Plymouth branch of the Michigan Cancer Foundation is sponsoring a pap test clinic May 12 and a breast screening clinic May 19. Hours will be 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Tonquish Creek Manor, 1160 Sheridan, Plymouth.

Appointments can be made by calling the branch office, from 1 to 3 p.m. weekdays at 453-3010. There is a minimal charge of $5 for the pap test and $10 for the breast exam to help defray the costs. Special arrangements can be made according to ability to pay. No one will be denied the service.

The Plymouth branch of the Michigan Cancer Foundation offers special services which include dressings, medical supplies and equipment. Professional counseling for individuals and groups, and nursing rehabilitation for patients who have undergone larengectomy, mastectomy and ostomy surgery are available through the Dearborn office. There is no charge for any of these services.

Residents' Hawaiian tour was trip of their dreams

Canton Chatter

By KATHY FREECE 981-2027

We save for months to take the trip of our dreams and always want to cram everything into two short weeks. Many times we arrive home a little disappointed because we just did not have that one extra day.

Marge and John Mogelnicki are back from their tour of the Hawaiian Islands and it was truly a vacation they will long remember.

They were met on the island of Hawaii by a friendly couple who greeted them with the traditional leis. A short scenic trip took them to Volcano National Park, where they picked up an 18-foot Mini Motor Home.

Many couples have to rent a car when they travel and then stay in various hotels along the way. Marge and John combined the two necessities for an unusual and economical trip.

The big island, Hawaii, is a draw because of the active volcano and the lava tubes that exist throughout the island. While spending their first night in Kamoamoa, they toured many fascinating aspects created by the previous lava flows.

Onward to Hapuna Beach for an inspection of the petroglyphs which depict the birth rites of the ancient Hawaiians.

THEY HAD A camper breakdown in Kapaau so the manager of the firm kindly delivered a 24-foot camper to compensate for their inconvenience. It was self-contained with hot water, shower and all of the comforts of home. Some people have all of the luck.

The most beautiful aspect of the big island is thought by many to be its graceful waterfalls. Akaka Falls is 420 feet high, Kahuna Falls, 400 feet, and Rainbow Falls, somewhat less. Marge and John found they were all as picturesque as many movies depict them.

Much of Hawaii's history stems from this island because it was the birthplace of their first King Kamehameha, the man who united the islands.

Just a short flight away is Maui and it was like going to another world. There was a new unit waiting for them at this airport along with specific instructions about the dangerous roads they might encounter. Lahina is the old whaling port Marge and John toured. They boarded the moored ship Carthagenian. A short stay and on to beautiful Kauai.

A must stop for them on this island was a visit to Lumahai Beach where the movie "South Pacific" was filmed. Their search was fruitless for the inviting slide that was a special part of that motion picture. The Fern Grotto in Anahola and the tea huts in Iao Gardens were a lovely side trip for they learned of the seven major cultures influencing the growth and development of the island.

The jaunt over to the island of Oahu brought them to the accommodations we all require at least once a year. Marge and John checked into the Sheraton Waikiki. John celebrated his birthday this year overlooking the white sands and golden sunset in the South Pacific.

They saw everything they wanted to see and toured all of the exciting cities Hawaii has to offer. John learned the act of music from a conch shell, so it is not a tuba you hear when you pass by their home these days. He is just reliving his glorious vacation with his wife Marge.

INEZ THOMPSON is back. She came for a visit to Canton four years ago from her homeland of Australia. Her daughter is Betty Hellmers who is just thrilled to have her return. Inez is a retired bartender with so many interesting stories of the exciting life she shares with her three other children in Queensland.

The flight time is 13 hours with a short stop to go through customs in Hawaii. It took Inez about two days to get caught up in the time change. We are 18 hours behind their time.

I really enjoy listening to her accent as she tries to catch us all up on the events since her last visit. Betty, her husband Joe, and their sons Andrew and Gregory will be sticking close to home while Inez shares her next eight weeks with them. Welcome to Canton, Inez.

It's Gershwin night at the pops

The music of george Gershwin will be featured Saturday evening when the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra presents its 26th annual pops concert.

Concert-goers will have an opportunity to participate in the traditional pops sing-alongs, but the mood and the music will be Gershwin.

Mike Randall, trombonist in the orchestra, arranged the special fanfare of Gershwin melodies that will open the concert. There will be "An American in Paris" medley. Richard Shaw and Constance Heidt will sing selections in the "Porgy and Bess" segment. Pianist Ruth Burczyk will play "Rhapsody in Blue" with the orchestra. She also will join the orchestra for the variations on "I Got Rhythm."

Johan van der Merwe will conduct the orchestra in a cabaret setting. Checked tablecloths centered with bright potted geraniums will add color to the gala evening in Pioneer Middle School.

VOCALISTS Connie Heidt and Richard Shaw are familiar to local audiences. Both have soloed in Arts Council productions. Both are solists in First United Church of Plymouth.

Heidt majored in music, with piano as the major instrument, as a student at Cass Technical High School in Detroit. She traveled the state singing and playing harp with the Cass Tech Harp and Vocal Ensemble. She earned a bachelor of music degree at Michigan State University. She has done solo work with the Mt. Clemens Community Chorus, the Plymouth Symphony and the Schoolcraft College Chorus.

She is a music specialist , teaching at Brookside School/Cranbrook in Bloomfield Hills. She and her husband, Charles Heidt have lived in Plymouth 16 years. They have two sons, Eric and Bob, ages 20 and 18.

Shaw is a graduate of Highland Park Junior College and Wayne State University where he majored in business administration. While at WSU, he sang under the direction of Dr. Harry Langsford and Prof. Harold Tallman. He studied voice privately with Muriel Deeks for four years and with Avery Crew for 11 years. He has been a church soloist for 30 years. Before coming to Plymouth, he sang at Calvary Methodist in Redford and Charter Oak First United Methodist in Greensburg, Pa.

He has done bass solo work in a number of the great oratorios.

BURCZYK has performed with the Detroit Symphony and on radio and television. She is a faculty member of the National Music Camp at Interlochen.

The pops concert arrangements have been made by the Allegro group of the Plymouth Symphony League. The Allegros are co-chaired by Doreen Volpe and Helen Bilyea.

Shirley Wold is general chairman of the concert. Committees are headed by Ann Arendsen, publicity; Mary Elizabeth Smith, programs; Meg Bombeck, decorations; Jan Gerish and Janet Brass, refreshments; Ruth Judd and Charlotte MacDonald, tickets; and Mary Bozell and Isabel Gerlach, setup and cleanup.

Concert-goers will be able to purchase the geraniums after the show for Mother's Day giving or for their gardens.

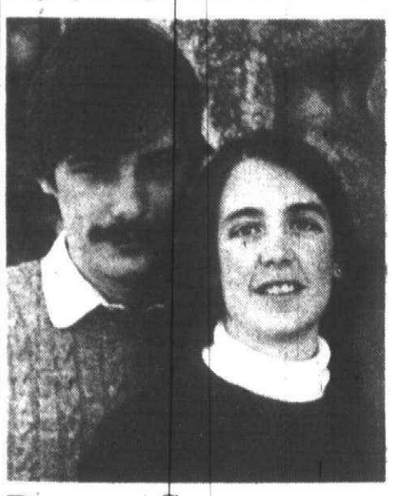

The Symphony League received a helping hand from Michael Gallmeier and the Plymouth Salem graphic arts department in printing the blue posters for the concert.

All proceeds from the concert, which has been a sell-out for two weeks, go to the support of the Plymouth Symphony.

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Connie Heidt and Richard Shaw will be soloists at the Plymouth Symphony's 26th annual pops concert.

The bride-elect is a 1978 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and attended the University of Michigan. She is employed by U-M Dearborn. Her fiance graduated from Churchill High School and the University of Michigan-Dearborn is employed by Boyle-Midway Inc.

Their wedding will take place June 26 in Nardin Park United Methodist Church, Farmington Hills.

Religious roots of sexism Now meeting topic

"The Religious Roots of Sexism" will be the topic at the May 12 meeting of the Northwest Wayne County chapter of the National Organization for Women. The meeting will be open to the public.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Joan Kahn-Schneider, minister at Universalist-Unitarian Church of Farmington. She earned her master of divinity degree from United Theological Seminary in Dayton.

The mother of four grown children and wife of a professor of chemistry at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, Kahn-Schneider owned and managed a small book shop before entering the seminary.

She is a professional psychotherapist and counseler. She received her training in both Gestaldt therapy and transactional analysis in Cleveland and Cincinnati.

The NOW chapter draws its membership from the communities of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Westland, Wayne Garden City, Livonia, Redford and Farmington. The group meets at Hoover Elementary School, Levan Road between Five and Six Mile, Livonia. The program will begin at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, following election of officers for the new year.

Anyone wishing more information or transportation may call the chapter president, Jan Evans, 476-3352, or Betty Kelley, 981-6117.

CAR BUYERS

SAVE AN AVERAGE OF $575 AND AS MUCH AS $1,100*

DRIVE HOME A BARGAIN WITH GMAC's LOW FINANCING RATE ON NEW GM CARS, LIGHT-DUTY TRUCKS AND VANS.

OFFER ENDS MAY 31.

12.8% ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE FINANCING

Yes, now is the time to really save on a great new GM car, light-duty truck or van with GMAC financing.

Qualified buyers can finance any new Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick, Cadillac, GMC or Chevrolet light-duty truck or van at a low, low 12.8% rate and save.

But hurry, time is running out on this special 12.8% rate offer.

Your participating GM Dealer is ready to help you select the stylish GM model of your choice and then offer you substantial savings on financing costs.

Remember, to drive home your bargain, you must take delivery by May 31, 1982.

*Michigan buyers' financing savings based on GMAC data for February, 1982 computed for all vehicles and full- and mid-size Cadillac vehicles. Actual savings will depend on the model selected, the amount financed and the length of contract. Dealer contribution may affect consumer cost.
Excludes vehicles ordered prior to April 1, 1982 which are eligible for the General Motors "Let's Get Moving" cash bonus plan, and fleet sales and leased units.

Music interns boost youth choirs at St. Paul

By Margaret Miller
staff writer

An active youth choir program gets a helping hand and young musicians get valuable experience in the choir internship program now ready for its third year at St. Paul Presbyterian Church of Livonia.

Don Stromberg, graduating next month from Bentley High School and heading for the University of Michigan as a voice performance major, will take with him considerable knowledge about directing young choirs because of the time he has spent this year working with Pat Hutchison, director of four choirs for various age youth at St. Paul.

Stromberg is the second intern to be chosen since the program had its beginnings early in 1980. Jeff Velas, a Bentley graduate, got things started during the 1980-81 school year, and Jon Findley, who will be a Bentley senior in the fall, recently was announced as the student who will fill the slot next.

Like his two predecessors, Findley will have a year of working with Hutchison to shape up the Cherub, Youth, Mid-High and Senior High choirs for their anthems for Sunday worship and special performances.

"They do some record keeping and other less-glamorous tasks," said Hutchison, "but they also take over directing when I have to be elsewhere, work on parts with small groups and organize projects."

INTERNSHIP at St. Paul began when Hutchison decided she needed some help but figured adding another choir director wasn't the answer.

She talked the matter over with Dr. William Whitledge, senior pastor, and they came up with the plan for a music intern.

"We figured an intern could work about 10 hours a week, although at some times of the year the hours are a lot longer," she said. The church currently budgets $1,200 for the intern, "so it makes a nice part-time job," said Hutchison."

In choosing an intern, the choir director and the pastor agreed, there would be some definite requirements. "We wanted someone who was a senior and associated with church music programs," she said. "It should also be someone who liked children and could learn to work well with them. And it had to be someone going into some branch of the arts as a career."

The money to be paid, she noted, "we saw really as a grant to help offset the expenses of being a music student, which are considerable."

VELAS, CHOSEN first, completed Bentley High and his internship a year ago and studied half a year at Westminster Choir College.

He now plans to go to the University of Michigan to major in music.

Stromberg also is planning to attend U-M and will go on a full scholarship.

Sent by the Livonia Youth Choir last summer to National Music Camp at Interlochen, Stromberg won a half-tuition scholarship for his work there. Then recently a competition among members of the Michigan Youth Chorus, a group he joins for rehearsals each Saturday in Ann Arbor, netted him another half scholarship.

At Bentley he was president of the concert choir, played saxophone with the concert band and the stage band, and participated in several school plays and the recent musical "Hello Dolly!"

"Don has sung with our choirs for 12 years," said Hutchison. "He has been in 'Ahmahl and the Night Visitors,' as Ahmahl and later in one of the adult parts, and also was Jesus when we put on 'Godspell' and has had major roles in a lot of other musical events.

"It's good to see someone go all the way through the choir program and sharpen skills as time goes on."

THE INTERN program is worthwhile from any perspective, Hutchison and Stromberg agree.

"It's good to work with a young person who has lots of enthusiasm and stamina," noted the church choir director, who also is assistant to Dr. Jerry Smith in the choir programs at Bentley High.

"Our interns have been willing learners and very flexible. I enjoy sharing knowledge with them.

"Working with an intern is a little like working with a student teacher. It's necessary to be aware of helping while teaching."

Stromberg, who this year directed the high-school choir in a cantata "Reason to Rejoice," said that experience was of great value as he heads for college.

Hutchison, he added, "has let me take over whole rehearsals, and then afterwards we talk about what I did right or wrong."

"And I've gained some patience working with little kids," he said. "I didn't have a whole lot before."

While Stromberg is going to Michigan as a performance major, his ultimate aim is choral conducting.

"First, I'd like to learn to sing as well as I can," he said. "The better I can sing, the better I'll be able to teach it."

Nuclear defense talk called political quackery

Any physician who attempts to peddle a useless cure would be quickly branded as a quack. Even more than calling him names, we would demand that his license to practice medicine be revoked.

Our reaction would be more than understandable in that, regardless of religious persuasion, most of us consider it morally reprehensible for one to mislead people in a way that causes them serious harm.

Those who are led to believe in useless cures are doomed to serious harm because they are led to ignore those actions which will, in fact, be to their benefit.

In this regard, Dr. Jack Geiger of Physicians for Social Responsiblity has suggested that any physician who becomes involved in programs for civil defense in the event of a nuclear war is acting unethically.

The doctor contends, as do many other physicians, that from a medical standpoint there is no such thing as effective defense of human society in the face of nuclear war. To take part in programs aimed at evacuation and other such ridiculous responses to the result of our nuclear madness is to mislead people in a way that will lead to their ultimate harm and destruction.

TO TALK OF or to plan for a defensive response to a nuclear attack is to lead people into thinking that we can win a nuclear war. Such thinking, in turn, blinds people to the fact that the only effective defense is to rid ourselves of the machinery that makes nuclear war likely.

The director of Michigan's Crisis Relocation Plan has admitted that the plan is "lunatic." And yet the plan continues to the tune of billions of dollars (Reagon has asked for $4.2 billion), and worse yet, to the tune of lulling people into thinking that it is viable.

SOME HAVE SUGGESTED that those in favor of a nuclear freeze are acting out of fear and ignoring a rational approach to the question of nuclear war. The fact is that any belief in the effectiveness in civil defense programs against the horrors of nuclear confrontation can be influenced by nothing but fear. And to prepare for offensive capability is to act out of a sick sense of power.

Federal authorities have indicated that the evaculation program they propose could cut the death toll to a mere 25 million. This is called survival. These authorities, who run the Federal Emergency Survival Agency, plan on moving those of us who live in metropolitan Detroit to outstate counties.

A fact that seems to be ignored is that one nuclear warhead would make an aera as large as the state of New York uninhabitable for a period of 33 days. The liklihood of only one warhead in the event of a nuclear attack is ludicrous. It would seem that the people who are vaporized at the first instant would have it all over those who are moved to the north woods to die of starvation or radiation sickness a few weeks later.

This same agency prides itself on believing that they could execute their evacuation plans in only eight days. Somehow this time frame is not too impressive considering that we could hope for little more than five to 15 minutes warning of an impending attack.

IN THE FACE of these realities it would seem that is is misleading, to say the least, to continue an arms race which will allow us to obliterate the people of the Soviet Union 20 or 30 times over when we have the fire power to destroy them many times already or to waste our time on the game of evacuation planning.

It is too bad that we do not demand the same ethical standards of those in government as we do of those in the medical profession. The former group, perhaps more than the latter, holds our lives and those of our children in its hand. It may be time to insist upon accountablity or to revoke the license they were issued at the voting booth.

Postscript: A program on the medical realities of nuclear confrontation and the economic considerations of nuclear buildup will be held at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Liberal Arts Theater at Schoolcraft College.

The northwest Suburban Nuclear Freeze Committee and the Newman House at Schoolcraft will be sponsors.

More oil exploration threat to Great Lakes

Will oil exploration in Michigan extend to the Great Lakes? Would this drilling damage the lakes?
Edward W., Troy

In the Great Lakes basin, more than 80 percent of drilling for oil and gas since 1975 has occurred in Michigan. Geologists believe that some of the formations which contain oil and gas extend out into the lakes.

Michigan's laws do not ban oil and gas drilling in the Great Lakes. Current law authorizes the Natural Resources Commission (NRC), whose seven members are appointed by the governor, to decide on Great Lakes oil and gas drilling.

While the commission's policy is against such drilling at this time, pressure for change will certainly build as oil companies find it financially worthwhile to increase exploration in environmentally sensitive areas.

Legislation to prohibit oil and gas development in the Great Lakes has been introduced in the Michigan Senate.

A legislative ban on drilling in the Great Lakes is necessary to insure their future. NRC policy is just not dependable. Authority to drill ought to reside with elected officials who are directly responsible to and elected by Michigan's citizens, not with seven appointed commissioners.

The Great Lakes provide one-fifth of the world's fresh water.

A letter to your state senator and representative urging them to support such legislation would be a step in the right direction.

Letters should be sent to the legislators at the State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

Research Results Conclusive:

Merit Taste Stands Alone.

Extensive research confirms MERIT proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking.

Landmark smoker study confirms that the majority of higher tar smokers who have switched to MERIT have one thing in common —Praise for MERIT taste.

Yes!

Nationwide survey reveals over 90% of MERIT smokers who switched from higher tar are glad they did. In fact, 94% don't even miss their former brands.

Further Evidence: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Taste Verdict: MERIT.

Further, extensive unmarked-pack tests confirm that MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar when compared with higher tar leaders.

Confirmed: The overwhelming majority of smokers reported MERIT taste equal to—or better than —leading higher tar brands.

Confirmed: When tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.

Mangan sprint duel

The 100-yard dash was a race to the wire, as Salem's Scott Bubin (left) nips Canton's David Simms. The sixth annual Mangan Relays, pitting the boys' and girls' teams at Plymouth Canton against Plymouth Salem, were held Tuesday at Centennial Educational Park. For a complete summary, turn to page 2C.

Rock batters keep rolling with 4-1 Sub 8 victory

Plymouth Salem kept a firm lock on first place in the Suburban Eight Baseball League Monday afternoon with a 4-1 victory over visiting Belleville.

The Rocks are all alone at the top of the standings with a 5-0 league record. They are 12-0 overall.

Senior lefty Bill Culver gave the Rocks a lift when he worked himself out of a bases-loaded jam in the fifth after replacing starter Joe Humphries.

Humphries got credit for the win while Culver took the save.

Belleville scored a run in the first, but Salem came storming back with single runs in the third and fourth innings.

John Blanchard tripled and Larry Lanphear drove him home with a sacrifice fly in the fourth, giving the Rocks a lead they never relinquished.

The Rocks added two insurance runs in the fifth as Dan Carlson led off with a single and was replaced by pinch runner Mike Cindrich, who stole second. Pete Steyeart then reached base on an error. Both runners moved up on a passed ball. Mickey Madsen then walked to load the bases.

Dave Slavin drew a walk, forcing home Cindrich to make it 3-1. Steyeart then scored on a passed ball.

ALLEN PARK 1

Culver pitched six scoreless innings Friday to lift Salem to an 8-1 Suburban Eight League baseball triumph over Allen Park.

The senior standout, now sporting a 4-0 record, helped his own cause by going two-for-three, including a two-run homer. Humphries added a two-run shot while teammate Riedel, a junior second baseman, added two hits, including a triple.

Canton drills Northville, Fraser

Plymouth Canton continued its winning ways Monday with a 7-3 Western Six League baseball win over Northville.

It was the Chiefs' ninth straight victory after dropping a season-opening double-header to Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher, the defending state Class A champions.

Canton, which met Livonia Churchill yesterday in another league encounter, got off to a roaring start against the Mustangs.

In the first inning, lead-off man Scott Bricker doubled. Junior shortstop Don Dombey followed with his second homer of the season to give the Chiefs a 2-0 lead. They added another run in the inning thanks to a Northville infield miscue to make it 3-0.

The Mustangs struck back in the fourth, as catcher Andy Dimitroff slammed a two-run homer off Canton starting pitcher Jamie Chilcoff.

In the bottom of the fourth, designated hitter Dan Smith came through with a two-run single to increase Canton's lead to 5-2.

Smith, known more for his pitching exploits, provided some additional offense in the sixth inning when he drilled a solo homer.

CANTON'S FINAL run came in the sixth when Dombey collected his third RBI on the day as he slapped a single.

Smith then took over for Chilcoff in the seventh inning to preserve Canton's second league victory and pick up a save.

Canton will meet rival Plymouth Salem, unbeaten in 12 starts, in a double-header beginning at noon Saturday at Canton.

The Chiefs won both meetings against the Rocks last season. The second victory came in the district final. Canton eventually reached the semifinals in Class A before losing to Gallagher.

Canton and Salem are both entered in the Salem district tournament which begins later this month. Salem travels tomorrow to meet Trenton in a key Suburban Eight League double-header.

CANTON 5-16
FRASER 1-1

Fraser, expected to make a run at the state Class A championship, fell victim Saturday to another Canton offensive assault.

Canton rolled to a 5-1 victory in the opener and then blasted the Ramblers in the nightcap, 16-1.

The Chiefs gave pitcher Marty McCarthy all the support he needed in the opener. The junior right-hander started and earned his first win of the year as he hurled three scoreless innings.

Bob Wascenski, a sophomore recently called up from the junior varsity ranks, was the winning pitcher in the second game.

Summer tennis club hosts open house

An open house, free to the public, kicks off the summer season of the Schoolcraft College Tennis Club from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday, May 16 at the college courts.

Door prizes will be raffled off to the participants. Also, a junior skills contest will be held 1-4 p.m.

An individual season pass is available for $25. A family membership is $45.

Individual and family passes enables members to participate in all club activities and the privilege of reserving court time.

Chuck Volland, a teaching pro at Square Lake Racquet Club in Bloomfield Township, is the Schoolcraft College tennis director.

Schoolcraft College has 12 windscreened plexipave courts, eight of which are lighted.

Hearns suspends Hilton camp

C.J. Risak

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Manager Emanuel Steward ponders Thomas Hearns' fate. A sore little finger forced a postponement of the Hearns-Hagler fight.

Thomas Hearns opened training camp Monday at the Plymouth Hilton. He closed it Tuesday.

The Detroit boxer was supposed to meet middleweight champion Marvelous Marvin Hagler at Windsor Arena May 24. But that's all been changed because of a loose shoelace.

That's what Hearns tripped over about two weeks ago. He had just finished his running when the seemingly innocent accident occurred. When Hearns stumbled, he fell and bent the pinky of his right hand.

Crazy, isn't it? The finger just never got better, and so a fight expected to gross $8-10 million will be postponed. All because of a loose shoelace and a sprained pinky.

"AS MUCH AS I want the fight to go on, I think it should be pushed back a couple of weeks," Hearns told a small gathering in the Plymouth Hilton Tuesday.

It will be up to promoter Bob Arum to officially cancel the fight, but Emanuel Steward, Hearns' manager, and Hearns were both certain there would be no fight, whatever the promoter said. At least not on May 24.

"Hagler's doctors can examine it, but they can't tell me I have to fight," Hearns said. "I'm not going to go in there with my injuries." He also complained of a sore hip.

THAT'S THAT — no fight. But be prepared, Tommy Hearns. The criticisms are about to be unleashed.

A dodge, a stall, Hearns is worried. He didn't look worried Monday. And the hand was slightly swollen. A ploy, then.

Maybe. More than a few boxing fans think Hearns is making a mistake stepping into the ring opposite Marvelous Marvin. They saw Hearns take a couple of Ray Leonard shots on the jaw last September. The vision of Hearns backed helplessly against the ropes, the referee waving him out, is all too vivid.

Hagler is a more experienced fighter than either Hearns or Leonard. And he's considered a heavier puncher. Perhaps Hearns needs more time to prepare, doubters will say.

"People are always going to think what they want to think," Hearns said when asked about criticisms on the delay. "Really, I don't have to stall. Whenever I get into the ring, I'm in good shape."

STRANGELY, both Hearns and Steward admitted that the delay could help Tommy and hurt Hagler, lending justification to those who would call the injury a ploy.

Hagler, Steward said, trains and prepares in a pattern. Disrupting that regimen could bother Hagler.

Hearns, meanwhile, needs the time. He's a welterweight trying to put on pounds for a middleweight title fight. The more time he has to put on weight and get used to it, the better.

Because of other worldwide sporting events that will tie up the television satellites, Steward estimated that the fight would be postponed until at least July 15. The site and most of the other particulars will remain the same.

That extra seven weeks could be a boon to Hearns.

BUT WILL IT be enough? It depends. Mainly, it depends on how Hearns chooses to fight Hagler.

Hagler is 5-foot-7. Hearns is over 6-1. Hearns will have a great reach advantage, making his jab that much more effective.

Hearns used that same jab with great success against Leonard. He lost only because he got greedy and went for a knockout. Instead, it was Leonard who did the knocking.

Should Hearns keep to Steward's plan and box Hagler, try to frustrate him, he will have a solid chance. Should he try to outpunch Hagler, he might end up leaning helplessly against the ropes again.

Whatever becomes of the delays and postponement, whatever the reasons, you can rest assured the fight will happen, sooner or later (probably later). If you were planning on going to the Plymouth Hilton to see Hearns train, don't worry.

According to sales manager Mike Haggerty, Steward was impressed with the facilities. So impressed that he was Dick Scott's Plymouth High School "PLAYERS OF THE WEEK" feature continues this week. Each week one Salem and one Canton player will be saluted for their effort the previous week, with their names engraved on a trophy for display at the high schools. Players will be selected by the coaching staffs of the respective schools. Look for this ad every Thursday. For that "Winning Deal" on a new or used car, see Dick Scott Buick.

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL FLASHBACK

The first week of May, 1975 saw the Plymouth Salem Rocks record 2 key baseball wins. The first, a 7-6 non-league victory over Ypsilanti featured a fine hitting and pitching performance by John DenHouter. Chuck Thomas picked up the save. Charlie Johnson, Dave Pierce, Brian Wolcott and Tim Dillon all delivered key run-scoring base hits. Against Belleville later in the week, Tom Willette pitched the first 5 innings allowing just one hit while striking out 12 in a 10-0 Salem bombardment. Hitting heroes included Dan Moore, Doug Tripp and Howard Inch. The Rocks took a 5-2 league mark into a Tuesday showdown with Redford Union.

Salem continues mastery of Mangan event

By Jay Keenan
special writer

In boys' and girls' track, it's Plymouth Salem which has had the upper hand over rival Plymouth Canton.

The tradition continued Tuesday night as the Rock boys trimmed Canton for the sixth consecutive time, 98-34, at the Mangan Relays at Centennial Educational Park.

Meanwhile, the lady Rocks, who have also ruled this meet each time during its six years of existence, trounced the Chiefs, 84-39.

"I thought our total squad gave a real fine effort," said Salem boys' coach Gary Balconi. "We got some good performances out of our kids.

"We always have the desire to run hard against Canton because we run with them on the track during practice."

Balconi's squad, which has a larger force than Canton, won 14 of 16 events. Canton's lone firsts were recorded in the mile relay and 880 yard run.

"THE BIG difference was our depth," explained Balconi. "But Canton is a much better team than the score indicated. They have fine relay teams and we have a lot of respect for them. We got a big jump on them in the field events."

That was an understatement. Eleven Rocks scored in the field events compared with four for Canton. Salem swept both the shot put and high jump events.

"I thought we'd do better today," said Canton coach Mike Spitz. "But we'll have to live with what we've got. Depth makes a big difference — numbers do.

"We tried to spread our guys out the best we could to make the meet as close as possible, but it wasn't there.

"But we work our butts off with what we've got. This is the best team we've ever had at Canton."

As expected, it was Scott Bublin who orchestrated Salem's performance in the sprint events as he paced a Rock sweep in the 220 dash (22.9). He then nipped Canton's Dave Simms in the 100 dash and was a member of two winning relay teams.

Marvin Zurek was Salem's other double winner as he claimed first in both hurdles events.

One of the biggest improvements for Salem came in the 440 dash as senior Mike McBride blazed to clocking of 51.5, certain to rank high in next week's area listings.

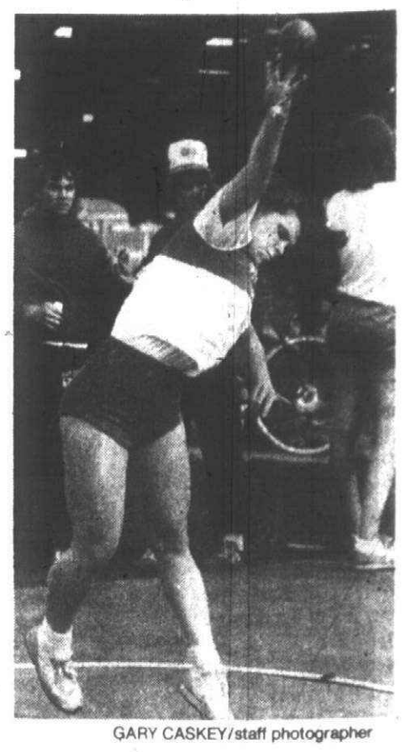

THE MOST INTERESTING duels occurred when the Salem and Canton boys squared off in the 440 and 880 relays. The Canton quartet of Simms, Tom Harris, Mark Ritchey and Frank Asis won last weekend's Observerland Relays, but this time Salem handled the baton more efficiently as Bublin, Scott Smith, Mark Tindall and Marc Davis raced to first place in 44.8. Canton's time was 45.23.

Salem also edged the Chiefs in the 880 relay.

The much improved Salem girls' team, led by sophomore standout Dawn Johnson, won impressively to remain unbeaten in five dual meets. The Rocks have also won an invitational.

Johnson finished first in 100 dash in 11.73 and came back to set a school record in the 220 with a clocking of 26.3. Salem also captured all three relay events as Johnson was a part of two of them.

Equally impressive was junior Cindy McSurely who took the the 110 and 220 hurdles, to go along with a winning high jump effort.

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Lisa Bundarin earned two of Canton's three first places on the night. She won the shot put (shown here) and the discus.

Rock kickers falter in soccer match

Livonia Churchill overcame an early 1-0 deficit Monday to beat Plymouth Salem in non-division Western Suburban Soccer League girls' match, 3-1.

Salem, which fell to 2-1-2 overall, took a one-goal advantage 15 minutes into the game when Shelly Staszel scored on a pass from Kathy Prochazka.

Churchill, however, tied the game up one minute later on a goal by Bev Brown. Dorene Dudek then put the Chargers ahead to stay with another goal four minutes later.

"They were just too fast," said Salem coach Ken Johnson. "Churchill is a real good team — a young and skillful team."

"We took away a lot of their momentum with that quick goal by Brown," said Charger coach Ed Dudek.

Teri Zeches added Churchill's final goal midway through the second half and goalie Sarah provided flawless goalkeeping the rest of the way.

The win gives Churchill a 5-0-1 overall mark.

SALEM 7
N. FARMINGTON 0

The Rocks broke away from a 1-0 halftime lead Friday to bury the hapless Raiders, who have yet to score this season.

Jacque Merrifield, who tallied her fourth goal in four games, staked Salem to the halftime advantage.

Staszel, Prochazka, Jill Sturdy, Sarah Wallman, Pam McBride and Julie Casler added goals in the second half.

Tourney gives owners new incentive

Because of a new twist in tournament promotion, the Bowling Proprietors Association of Greater Detroit expects to establish an all-time record for the Champion of Champions Tournament which gets underway in another week.

The new format gives each proprietor, who obtains at least 30 entries in his or her house, the right to run a qualifying event. In the past, the preliminaries were held in 10 houses and the total entry amounted to at least 3,000 teams.

Under the new plan, entries are certain to reach the 6,000 mark, running well into June. It will be the largest city-wide tournament in the country.

ED LUBANSKI, who was the first bowler in the country to roll back-to-back perfect games, now must share the honor in Michigan.

Last week, a 18-year-old bowler, Marty LaVignee, rolled games of 181, 300 and 300 during his regular league turn at the Mortel Lanes in Monroe. It is the first time that a 700 was bowled without a 200 game.

FRED WRIGHT, the circulation manager of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, has good reason to be all smiles after bowling in the Great Lakes Shrine Tournament over the weekend.

With a "spot" of 103 pins, Wright rolled games of 275, 191 and 192 for a 716 and first place in singles.

The event has one more week to run and Fred is hopeful that his count — a career high — will survive to give him the championship.

THERE WAS an unusual finish in the Wonderland Classic as three bowlers shared the high-average title for the season. The trio includes John Wodarski, Ed Lubanski and John Dunlap. They each finished with a 214 average.

IN OTHER GOOD performances, Pam Robinson, competing in the Bowlerettes League at Westland Bowl, converted the "impossible" 4-6-7-10 split. And like most others, she doesn't know how she did it.

In the Teachers League at Westland, Bev Robertson and Ilene Maas shared high game honors with a 235. Kathy Kellinbeck had the high series with a 561.

At the Super Bowl in Canton Township, Bob Watson had an odd series. He started with a 281 followed by a 211 and closed with a 256 for 478.

Grand slam burns Chief softballers

Hard times have greeted Plymouth Canton's softball team.

The Chiefs fell to 1-4 overall on Monday when Northville rallied for four runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to post a 14-13 Western Six League victory.

"We came out of our hitting slump," said Canton coach Max Sommerville, whose team pounded out 15 hits. "It looked like in the beginning that we were going to mercy them. We had a 5-0 lead."

Canton scored six runs in the sixth inning to take a 13-10 advantage. The Chiefs, however, couldn't hold the three-run margin in the bottom of the seventh as relief pitcher Jeanine Carpenter was victimized by a grand slam homer.

Pearly Cunningham hurled the first five innings before giving way to Carpenter.

"Our pitchers were a little wild," said Sommerville. "We had 10 walks and six scored. That hurt. A couple of misplays hurt us, too.

Ranae Edwards, Rhonda Stoner and Cunningham each had three hits in a losing cause. Denise Wright added a triple.

In a non-league game played last week, Walled Lake Central downed the Chiefs, 7-3.

BELLEVILLE 7
SALEM 5

Plymouth Salem's softball team slipped to 3-2 in Suburban Eight League play after losing Monday afternoon to Belleville, 7-5.

The Rocks, now 6-2 overall, committed three errors.

Diane Murphy, the losing pitcher, gave up five earned runs and walked one.

Senior outfielder Bonnie Southerland had two of Salem's six hits.

Belleville had a total of nine hits.

SALEM 31
ROMULUS 2

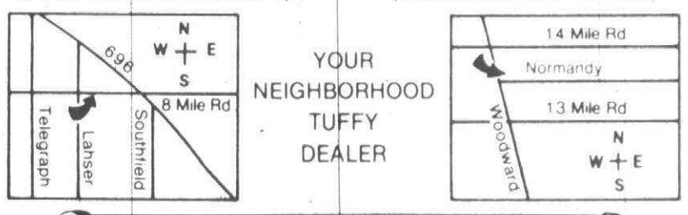

The Rocks batted around in every inning except the first in this non-league game played Saturday.

Mary Kay Mundinger led the Salem attack with four hits.

MERRILL LYNCH LIFE AGENCY INC. AND THE CHARTER SECURITY LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES INVITE YOU TO INVESTIGATE A TAX ADVANTAGED ANNUITY CALLED "THE CHARTER PLAN."

"THE CHARTER PLAN" enables you to lock in a 14.25% rate for the next 12 months. If the rate drops below 13.75% in any subsequent contract year, you may withdraw all principal and interest, without a surrender charge.

That's guaranteed. If the rate is above 13.75%, there is a disappearing surrender charge applicable to withdrawals (those exceeding 10% of accumulated value) of your money during the first 7 years. There is no sales charge — 100% of your money starts to work immediately. At retirement you can choose how you want your annuity payments: lump sum; for a limited number of years or perhaps for the rest of your life.

So mail the coupon or call today for information on The Charter Plan's timely and attractive benefits.

Rocks sweep 2 in RU twin bill

By Jay Keenan
special writer

The wooden banner attached to Redford Union's backstop couldn't intimidate Plymouth Salem's baseball team Saturday.

That old pennant, which inscribes a number of championships won by the Panthers, was virtually ignored by the Rocks.

After all, you have to go back more than a decade to learn that RU won six Suburban Eight League titles (1964-72).

And the Rocks had little trouble with RU, sweeping a double-header against their former Suburban Eight League foes, 12-0 and 7-0.

RU, yet to win a Northwest Suburban League crown since joining the circuit in 1977, is an inexperienced team using six sophomores as regulars, including two pitchers.

The winners hit the ball hard all afternoon, raising their season mark to 11-0.

"We're real satisfied with the way the kids are playing," said Salem coach Brian Gilles. "We hit the ball when we needed to.

"I'm happy that they're still coming out hungry and doing the things we have to do to win. I just hope they keep it up."

RU COACH Stu Rose said his young squad was simply overmatched.

"We've got six sophomores playing, and we're going to take our lumps," he said. "Plymouth Salem has a very established program. We're hoping to rebuild this thing (at RU), and that's why we're going with our sophomores. We think our sophomore class is a pretty good baseball class, and I think if we learn from taking our lumps this year, we're going to have a pretty good team in the next few years to come.

In the nightcap, junior hurler Barry McNamara handcuffed the Panthers through six innings before giving way to fireman Brian Kelly in the seventh.

The Rocks, who pecked away at RU throughout the game, were led by Mickey Madsen and John Blanchard with three hits apiece. Todd Riedel added two hits and two RBIs while Pete Steyeart batted in three runs.

Brian Johnson was the Panthers' lone bright spot at the plate. He went two-for-five.

Tom Williams, the losing pitcher, gave up four runs before leaving in the fourth inning. Rob Zajac and Silvio Picano also saw action in relief.

Salem clubbed 13 hits in the opener, which was stopped after five innings because of the mercy rule.

DAVE SLAVIN drilled three hits to pace the Salem express, and Joe Humphries added two, including three RBIs. Slavin, Mike Cindrich and Steyeart each had two RBIs.

Ken Vermeulen, who gave up just two hits in four innings of work, was the winning pitcher. Greg Chappell came on in the final frame and fanned all four batters he faced (one reached base safely on a wild throw by the catcher after a dropped third strike).

Mike Harte started on the mound for RU and was bombarded for 11 runs in just two innings. Ron Griffin finished up.

The Rocks jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the top of the first, the key hit coming off the bat of Humphries for a two-run triple. Salem sent 12 batters to the plate in the third inning in tallying seven runs.

backgammon

of the Cavendish North backgammon club

● DUPLICATING THE NUMBERS

In the example, white rolls a 3-1. White is substantially ahead in the race and is threatening to advance his back men for an easy win. He would, of course, prefer to have rolled a two to hit on the black 3 point or to bring his other man on the black 7 point past the opponent's outpost on the 12 point. But with 3-1, these plays are impossible.

Essentially, there are three plausible lines of play, one of which we should discard right away. That is playing the man on our 6 point to the 3 point and then playing any 1. This play is bad because we would be killing a prospective builder for our 4 point.

A second play is worth considering — to clear the 8 point entirely by moving to the 7 and 5 points. This would give us an extra man on the 7, 6 and 5 points with which to close out the 4 point on a subsequent roll. The main drawback to this line lies in the prospect of black hitting one of our loose men. If we must play the next roll from the bar, the outcome of the game will be largely determined by whether black can cover his 3 point before white hits him and escapes.

The third play, advancing the man on black's 7 point, will reduce the chances of being hit by coming closer to the threatening opponent. Because white must avoid being hit to maintain his lead in the race, he adopts this last line. The only question is how far he should advance from black's 7 point. By coming all the way to black's 11 point, we leave only twos and double ones to hit. By coming to the black 10 point, we leave threes, 2-1 and double ones to hit.

However, you will see that black needs threes to cover his loose man on his 3 point and also to advance in white's board. In other words, threes will play well for black no matter what white does. By staying on the black 10 point, white can completely duplicate his opponent's good numbers. If black rolls a three, he would be faced with the Hobson's choice of either hitting or covering his 3 point.

After finding the duplication of threes, most backgammon players would congratulate themselves and push the one from the 6 to the 5 point. A truly fine player would play from his 8 to his 7 point for his one. This play gives white an extra builder for his 4 point in case he doesn't get hit on the next roll.

Open reds will keep safe several nights on shelf

wine

Richard Watson

Wine writers are asked a lot of questions by people who are generally interested in upgrading their own appreciation. While some questions are quite esoteric, others are common to many. Let's tackle the more-frequently-asked queries.

How long can wine be kept once opened? If refrigerated, three or four overnights will be safe. If kept on the kitchen shelf, as most reds are, two are safe and three probalby okay, presuming the top is firmly sealed. All wines will soften and lessen in time, of course, but these parameters are usually dependable.

What are the best red and white ordinary wines to buy? Presuming the word "jug" means availability in 1.5 liter bottles, I would today recommend the new August Sebastiani Mountain Chablis (about $4.50) as my white and, easy choice, the Monterey Vineyards '78 Classic Red Wine (about $8) for a red.

Why is wine so expensive? Compared to what? Actually, the cost of wine today has risen less than our rate of inflation.

But wine is hard to make, requiring a huge initial investment before any return is realized. Land, labor, buildings, massive equipment, barrels, sales and many more things contribute, and all are subject to the spiraling of our economy.

However, when all is said and done, some wine clearly is too expensive. To explain these, try "ego" and "greed." This business has those elements in it, too.

What are the best wineries to visit in California? Mondavi (best tour), Beringer (most interesting history and caves) and Sterling (good self-conducted tour), all from Napa. In Sonoma, Sebastiani, Buena Vista, Simi and Pedroncelli get my vote.

How should wine be stored and for how long? Store wine on its side (to keep the cork moist and firm), in a cool, relatively stable environment. The most critical element in wine storage is the absence of temperature fluctuation. Continued warmth is better than alternate warmth and cold. Heat merely accelerates aging while dramatic temperature change tires wine out.

Drink wines no more than two years beyond their vintage date, except three or four for Chardonnay. Drink reds as follows: Beaujolais (1-2 years), Zinfandel (2-4 years), Pinot Noir and Burgundy (3-7 years), Petite Sirah and Rhones (5-8 years), Cabernet Sauvignon and Bordeaux (5-10 years), and any Italian wines made from the Nebbiolo grape, i.e. Barolo, Spanna, Gattinara and Barbaresco (6-10 years).

What Michigan wines do you recommend? The only winery that makes wine competitive with the French, German and California standards in the southwestern corner is Tabor Hill. (Note: "competitive" does not mean "equal to.") In the Traverse City-Leelanau area, Mawby and Good Harbor are both worth drinking, and sometimes Boskydel can be. Close by, though hard to find, are the very promising efforts from Kalkaska Mountain.

St. Julian, Warner and Bronte, all big producers in the southwestern corner, serve only a regionalized, rather feral-tasting group of wines.

Area men team on 'Monterey'

theater

The new musical comedy "Monterey," written and produced by Plymouth-Canton residents Edward Draugelis and Andrew Henderson, is being staged through May 23 in Northville's Marquis Theater.

The show previewed April 28 to May 1 to service clubs, and public performances started Wednesday. Curtain is at 8 p.m. Wednesdays-Saturdays and 3 p.m. Sundays. For more information or reservations call 453-3017.

'Monterey" is set on the Monterey peninsula of California and tells the love story of Meg, a graduate marine biologist, and Ted, captain of a small fishing trawler.

The show features Doug Kerr as the sea captain Ted and Julia Broxholm as the marine biologist Meg. Kerr is a performer whom may area residents may recognize as lead vocalist for the big band the Ambassadors.

JULIA BROXHOLM has appeared on stage professionally with the Michigan Opera Theatre and Arbecoll Theatrics in Ann Arbor.

Edward Draugelis, author of the story and the lyricist, is a trial lawyer who has made Plymouth his home since 1961. He served as the city attorney and a municipal judge in addition to starting his own law firm.

He has been a writer for many years. "Writing is my passion," he said.

In high school Draugelis wrote his senior class play. He was a published poet while in the Armed Forces and college and worked as a reporter with the Grand Rapids Herald. He also has written several short stories.

This is his first script for a musical play, and he is already at work writing his second show.

Andrew Henderson is the composer for "Monterey." He has been very active in producing theater in the Western Wayne County area. As a composer, Henderson has worked in a broad rate of styles. He is noted for his award-winning opera "Masque of the Red Death."

HE HAS WRITTEN scores for National Educational Television and for "Reflections," a John Prusick film, rated by the American Film Festival as one of the 10 best short films of 1980. He has a number of orchestral and choral compositions to his credit.

Henderson has worked as conductor and music director with a number of area groups including the Oakway Symphony Orchestra, Dearborn Civic Theater and the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford.

'Coppelia' ends concert season

Oakway Symphony Orchestra's final concert of the season will feature Delibe's "Coppelia," performed by the Contemporary Civic Ballet Company, at 3 p.m. May 16 at Harrison High School (12 Mile Road west of Middlebelt) in Farmington Hills.

Tickets at $5 for single admission and $2.50 for students or senior citizens are available at Madonna College or Hammell Music in Livonia, the symphony office phone (476-6544) or at the performance.

The program will begin with the symphony directed by Francesco Di Blasi, presenting Warlock's "Capriol," and Debussy's "Afternoon of the Faun" featuring harpist Patricia Terry and flutist Pamela Hill.

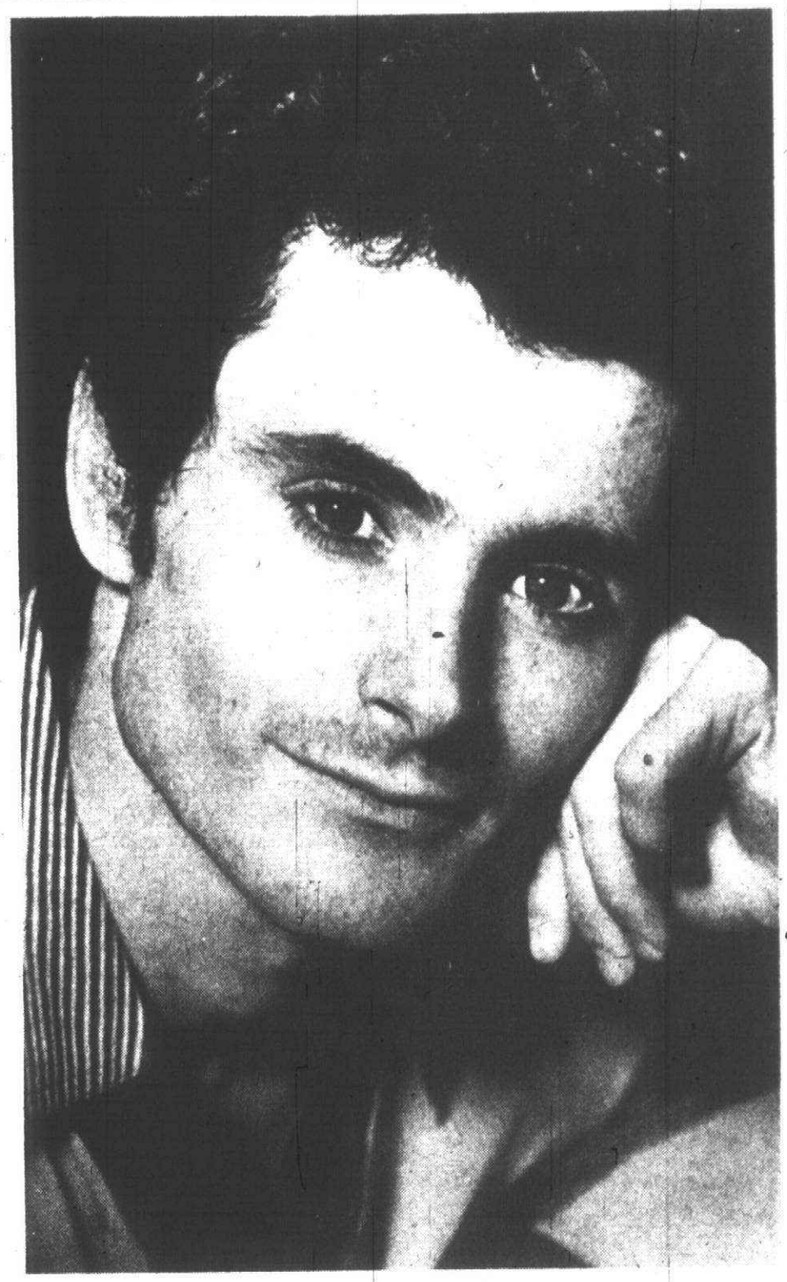

The ballet "Coppelia" will be performed just short of its entirety by members of Rose Marie Floyd's company.

FEATURED IN the role of Frantz is James Dunne, whose background boasts a variety of dance experience ranging from Broadway in Bob Fosse's "Dancin" to featured performances with the Boston, Harkness and Irish Ballet Companies.

Floyd has served as arts director and choreographer of her company since its inception. A graduate of Wayne State University, she holds a fellow membership with the Imperial Society of London and is recipient of the Advanced Maestro Cecchetti Diploma, an honor shared by only one other performed in the United States.

Featured performer in "Afternoon of the Faun," Pamela Hill holds music degrees from the University of Michigan and Wayne State. She has served at various public schools as director and teacher.

Principle flutist with the Michigan Opera Theatre, she has also played with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, in addition to her performances with the Oakway Symphony.

James Dunne, ballet star who has danced on Broadway, will appear in the role of Frantz in "Coppelia."

Ford Chorus puts on 'Cole'

The Ford Chorus will present its production of "Cole," an entertainment based on the words and music of Cole Porter, at 8 p.m. May 6-8 at the Ford World Headquarters Building auditorium at Michigan Avenue and Southfield Road in Dearborn.

Tickets must be purchased in advance, from any Ford Chorus member or by calling 435-0834.

Gazebos are definitely in down to earth

Alice Burlingame

One of the nicest things about springtime is "looking forward." There are those of us whgo feel the day can't begin without a walk around the garden and yard. This habit sort of takes care of those right and left turns in life.

Near your back door you might like to secure a few chimney pots and fill individually with herbs which have spreading root habits while at the ground level you could plant lettuce, onions and radishes. Marigolds planted as a border along the outside edge ought to scare the insects away.

If you have a plain wall near where you have some lounge chairs, you might like to attach a shelf and have some flower pots attached to the wall with posey clay. The choice of flowers would be dependent upon the light factor. Varigated vinca vine is good, also two compatible colors of geraniums. Just make it have style with the plant choice.

MANY OF you live in condos where you have small intimate enclosed gardens. Secure a large, old fashioned washtub and fill with water. Irregular flat patio blocks are nice along the perimeter to give a natural effect. Place some rocks in the bottom the size of a fist for interest. You may wish to have some goldfish if you can keep the raccoons and cats out of the area.

If you have give hours of sun a day you can have waterlilies (Three Springs Fisheries, Lilypons, Md. 21717). You can buy a pump inexpensively and enjoy active water in your pool. For the best effect, don't overcrowd — so the sky can be reflected. Remember fish have to be fed.

A pool painted black or midnight blue has style. As a backdrop, if the location has space, you might like to have an upright plant, not too tall, but to give a sort of three foot curtain to the pool composition.

GAZEBOS ARE "in" folks. Not that we are following the trend of a civic gazebo like Franklin Village, but every flower show I've attended this year has pushed this artistic accent which offers a pleasant site for relaxing on lazy summer days. They can be bought in kits or made by a carpenter. Can't you see, we are getting back to Victorian accents in our gardens.

Some people have been inquiring about growing vegetables where full sun isn't available. Leafy vegetables such as lettuce, spinach, endive, etc and vegetables grown for their roots eeem to do fine in partial shade. Guess we who have been in the country think there isn't anything like full sun, but Michigan State sanctions the above guide.

You have probably noticed that there's a new world in the use of coleus in your garden. Here you have an annual which can give the colors of an oriental rug.

WHAT'S IT WORTH?
A ratings guide to the movies

Bad	$1
Fair	$2
Good	$3
Excellent	$4

"Bedtime for Bonzo" (1951), 8:30 a.m. on Ch. 20. Originally 82 minutes.

Ronald Reagan once said of the movies he made: "They didn't want them good, they wanted them Tuesday." He later amended that statement to: "They didn't want the budget good, they wanted it Tuesday, Mommy." The relative success of both projects forms a sad commentary on the tastes of the American public, which, as someone else — David Stockman? — once said, should never be underestimated. Clarification: It was Stockman who said American school children couldn't taste the difference between vegetables and catsup. Walter Slezak and Diana Lynn also star. Rating: $1.

"Forty-Second Street" (1933), 1 p.m. Friday on Ch. 50. Originally 85 minutes.

Director Lloyd Bacon and choreographer Busby Berkeley's lullaby to old Broadway is as uplifting today as the first day it was hoofed. The performances are large-than-life, the sets expressionistically sublime, the camera movements fluid, and the whole, toe-tapping film just a bit surreal.

Bebe Daniels breaks a leg, and Ruby Keeler fills in. Warner Baxter, George Brent, Dick Powell and Ginger Rogers also star. Rating: $3.25.

"Chinatown" (1974), 8 p.m. Friday on Ch. 50. Originally 130 minutes.

Screenwriter Robert Towne recaptures the cheap-scotch, bare-light-bulb nimbus of '40s-film gumshoes, and director Roman Polanski harnesses the oft-erratic acting talents of Jack Nicholson, Faye Dunaway and John Huston to craft this into one of the finest films of the '70s. Nicholson's shamus, J.J. Gittes, exhibits moral turpitude evenly mixed with basic honesty in the finest tradition of a Phillip Marlowe. Rating: $3.70.

"Tarzan's New York Adventure" (1942), 11:30 a.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 71 minutes.

Tarzan (Johhny Weissmuller, that is) is back, and the Big Apple's got him. In his own words: "New York — concrete — conrete jungle." Maureen O'Sullivan also stars. Rating: $2.90.

Pianist wins $200 in state competition

University of Michigan graduate Laura Kargul, who attended Redford Union High School, has received an award of $200 in the recent second annual statewide Piano Competition of the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival. She was one of five finalists who participated in the last stage of the competition at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Fries Auditorium.

Kargul, 26, began her musical studies at the age of 8 with Rebecca Frohman. She spent two summers (1974-75) studying at the Interlochen Center for the Arts National Music Camp with Nelita True.

After graduating from high school, she entered the University of Michigan School of Music where she studied with Marian Owen-Hunt and Theodore Lettvin. Her other studies included chamber music with Eugene Bossart and opera and orchestral conducting with Gustav Meier.

She attended master classes conducted by Andre Watts, Garry Graffman and Anthony Di Bonaventura. Kargul earned her bachelor of music degree in 1978 and her master of music degree in piano performance in 1980, both at U-M.

IN MAY 1981, Kargul was pianist with the University of Michigan Symphony during its European tour. She appeared as soloist as well as in chamber music performances in Geneva, Lyon, at the Festival of American Chamber Music in Evian, and over the French National Radio.

Last January, Kargul was winner of the U-M Graduate Concerto Competition. She played the Brahms Concerto No. 2 in B-flat Major, which she also performed with the U-M Symphony under Gustav Meier in Hill Auditorium.

From 1981-82 she appeared regularly on the DMA Recital Series in Ann Arbor's Rackham Assembly Hall.

Laura Kargul has been awarded $200 in the Piano Competition of the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival.

Spring brings puffy white clouds, tulips, robins and cleaning.

This is the season that finds us on step ladders cleaning gutters, washing winter's grime from the windows and cleaning garages and basements and closets and atties. What do we do with all the things we've stored but never found time to use? Things that are just a bit too good to toss in the trash but not exactly treasure.

Well, they may not be treasure to you, but they could have great appeal to your neighbors—the people in your hometown and the surrounding area that are looking for bargains and ways to beat inflation.

Your old records, tables, lamps, clothes, dinnerware—well, you get the idea—may find new owners as soon as they respond to your Observer & Eccentric classified garage sale ad.

Don't be timid about having a garage sale. Once you've had one, they get in your blood. They are a really neat way to put some folding money in your budget. In fact, when you stop in the office and place your ad, we will give you a free folder that contains two signs, two arrows, a handy ledger, 14 tips for a successful sale and nine important things to include in your ad.

Remember, it's not only the cleaning season, it's the selling season!

A home of your own...it's a lot more than a roof over your head.

Besides being the largest purchase you'll probably ever make, a home of your own represents a lot more than a roof over your head.

It's living in a neighborhood of your own choosing...having access to good recreational, health, and educational facilities...and having a hedge against inflation.

When you own your own home, its value will increase...as much as 10% in the coming year, experts are predicting. For people who don't own, it's the cost that will be going up.

To find the home you want, talk to an Observer & Eccentric area Realtor. Realtors belong to the National Association of Realtors —a group of real estate professionals working to reduce inflation and mortgage interest rates so more Americans can become home owners.

Fight inflation with a home of your own. Call a Realtor today.

Is tomorrow a better time than today to buy your home?

The fact is, the better time is right now. Certainly, home prices are high, and so are mortgage rates. But consider that the value of housing in the 1970's appreciated at the rate of 9.2% a year. And when you add in the increasing demand for housing, the shortage that now exists, and the rising costs of land and materials, it's possible the figure could be even higher in the years ahead.

With an investment opportunity like that, there's no time like the present. To find out more, there's only one person to see. A Realtor can furnish you with good ideas on down payments and financing, and answer all your questions about real estate.
