The Canton Connection

AIR SHOW LOVERS will want to be at the Willow Run Airport this weekend to see the Navy Blue Angels and the Army Golden Knights, among other groups, fly and perform aerobatics, stunts and other skydiving tricks. Activities begin at 1 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday.

The event is sponsored by the Wayne County Road Commission. You know that group — it's the governmental unit that doesn't have enough money to pave or remove snow from your roads.

Canton Trustee Bob Padgett had a wistful thought when he found out the air show was sponsored by the road commission.

"I hope it's (the show) a fund-raiser so they can work on our streets."

GROWTH WORKS, the non-profit organization that offers social services for residents, primarily youth, received $6,000 from Canton Township last week, as the board renewed its annual contract with the group.

POLICE ARE looking for help in finding the owners of hubcaps that may have been stolen from a car at Lucille's bar on Michigan Avenue east of Sheldon May 26.

Police arrested a man who admitted taking the hubcaps, said Lt. Larry Stewart. However, charges cannot be filed unless someone files a complaint.

Persons with information about that case, as well as other thefts of hubcaps, should call the police at 397-3000.

DRIVERS IN the area of Geddes and Denton will see more prominent road markers at that intersection.

A new, larger stop sign will be erected closer to the roadway. In addition, markers denoting the approaching stop sign, and a new advance road name sign will be installed.

A recent, three-car accident prompted trustee Robert Padgett to request statistics on accidents at the intersection. Figures indicate there have been seven accidents at the corner since 1979, said Police Chief Jerry Cox.

A fatal accident occurred there last October.

Most accidents occur because persons run the stop sign, said Cox. In addition, the rural area has no illumination at night.

The air-show-sponsoring Wayne County Road Commission is expected to put up the new signs within a week.

SUSAN CARROLL, wife of Canton's grants coordinator, Terry Carroll, gave birth to son Kevin Edward Monday morning at 3:17 a.m. Kevin weighed 10 pounds, 10 ounces and was 21½ inches at birth. It's the couple's first child.

CANTON SENIOR Citizens are planning a trip to the Grand Rapids library named for former President Gerald Ford. The trip is sponsored by Canton's recreation department. The two-day excursion is June 14-15. Price is $63 per person, based on double occupancy. The trip includes round-trip transportation, one-night accommodations, all tours and one lunch. For more information on this activity, call 397-1000, Ext. 278.

MANY CANTON ARTISTS will have art and craft exhibits and other displays at the Dearborn Heights Family-A-Fair from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and noon to 8 p.m. Sunday at the Holy Innocents Academy, at 23601 Ann Arbor Trail, just east of Telegraph. The public is invited to attend.

BOY SCOUT Troop 1738 from Hulding Elementary School participated in a bike-a-thon last month that raised money for future summer campouts. The boys rode 60-90 miles.

Teacher contests evaluation, firing

By Dennis O'Connor
staff writer

ported the decision of Patrick O'Donnell, supervisor of special education programs and services, not to grant Smith's tenure.

The board, on its option, also did not grant Smith third-year probation or a hearing on the case.

SMITH FEELS frustrated because she has given extra effort and time in a difficult job and position, she said. She teaches emotionally-impaired students in a self-contained classroom situation.

Of her four evaluations, three include "satisfactory" rankings. The fourth and final evaluation last February resulted in a "needs improvement" ranking, Smith said.

Teachers receive three possible rankings during probation — satisfactory, needs improvement or unsatisfactory.

Smith believes she was fired for not completing paperwork on time. Her classroom work has received praise from many administrators within the building.

The paperwork task was a program design and graduation plan that was supposed to be done by the end of this school year, Smith said.

"The paperwork he (O'Donnell) wanted is done," Smith said. "When he looked at it (after the dismissal) in a rough draft, he said there was a lot of work here, and it looked good."

"The work I've done for the district outweighs anything I've done, anyway," Smith said.

"I think that should be the priority here — my work with the kids."

SUPERINTENDENT JOHN Hoben and Board President Carol Davis question whether Smith has any rights to deal with the state tenure commission because she is a probationary teacher. Both defended O'Donnell's decision.

"In the judgment of the evaluator (O'Donnell), we have a marginal teacher," Hoben said. "The board has to rely on its people to make these decisions and administer the district. As far as I'm concerned, it's a closed issue."

"She (Smith) just wasn't a top-notch teacher," Davis said. "There wasn't anything especially bad, but there wasn't anything especially good either."

Hoben declined comment on the specifics of the evaluation, but stressed no bias was shown. He called the evaluation a "judgment call," and added O'Donnell's evaluating skills are among the best in the district.

O'Donnell would not comment on the evaluation. Ed Page, executive director of special programs and student services (O'Donnell's supervisor), was on vacation and unavailable for comment.

Norm Kee, administrative assistant for personnel, also was unavailable for comment Friday afternoon.

Men face charges in apartment break-in

A Honeytree Boulevard man and his Detroit companion are under suspicion of breaking and entering because of a microwave oven.

John Thompson of Honeytree and Derrick Miller of Grand River, Detroit, face a preliminary examination June 7 in 35th District Court on a breaking-and-entering charge.

Canton police believe the two 27-year-old men broke into an apartment at the Honeytree apartment complex about 8:20 a.m. May 27. A typewriter, television, jewelry, telephone recorder and microwave oven were stolen, police said.

A maintenance worker at the complex noticed two men carrying a sheet-covered object, said Cpl. Rob Cripe. They dropped the item, later identified as a microwave oven, on the grass and drove away.

The maintenance worker noted the car's license-plate number and called police. Police arrested the two men when they returned to the complex the next day.

Thompson and Miller were arraigned May 28 before 35th District Court Judge James Garber. Innocent pleas were entered in their behalf. They were sent to Wayne County Jail instead of $25,000 bond.

Breaking-and-entering carries a maximum penalty of 15 years upon conviction.

Nanci Blatt resigns post on college board

Six Schoolcraft College trustees are looking for someone to replace Vice Chairperson Nanci Blatt, who has resigned, effective July 31.

"I have accepted an employment offer and my family and I will be relocating our residence in the Chicago area," Mrs. Blatt said in her letter of resignation to Chairperson Harry Greenleaf.

Her husband, Martin, began working in Chicago in the family distributorship of Stewart Oxygen Service a year ago, commuting to Livonia on weekends. Mrs. Blatt recently was hired to manage a medical office in the Chicago area, and the Blatts are moving to a suburban Chicago townhouse.

July 28 is the target date for applicants to submit their resumes and cover letters to the board of trustees.

MRS. BLATT was appointed to the board Jan. 17, 1973, to succeed R. Robert Geake, who had just been elected to the state House of Representatives. Geake is now a state senator.

She was elected to full six-year terms in 1973 and 1979. The person appointed to replace her will serve until June 1983 and then could must run for the final two years of her term.

Blatt's specialty was contact with community college associations. She was trustee-president of the Michigan Community Colleges Association and a trustee at-large in the Association of Community College Trustees, a national group.

She was influential in setting up the hiring procedures under which the Schoolcraft board appointed its current president, Dr. Richard McDowell.

Blatt was also active in the Democratic Party, winning the nomination for state representative one year.

APPLICANTS for trustee must be eligible voters — that is, 18 years of age, an American citizen and registered to vote. They must be residents of the college district, which includes the K-12 districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth-Canton.

The board is asking for a cover letter and resume by July 28, when it will meet to review the applications. Greenleaf said the board plans to interview all applicants at that meeting.

Four votes will be needed to make the appointment.

The resume should cover these items of information: Name, current address, home and business telephone numbers, educational background, current occupation, honors or awards, civic activities or involvement (last five years), professional activities and memberships, current social issues of personal interest and involvement, experience on a board of directors or trusteeship, current and past associations with Schoolcraft College, and specific areas of interest or expertise which could be of value to the college.

Family members safe after gas explosion

"People outside said it was total flame inside (the motor home)," said Bethan.

Family members were wearing shorts and sandals, said Bethan. Jennifer, a first-grade student at Field Elementary School, suffered the most serious injury, he added.

Jennifer's clothing ignited, Bethan said. She suffered second-degree burns over 25 percent of her body, he said.

Thomas suffered first- and second-degree burns on 12 percent of his body, said Bethan. Mrs. Bethan suffered second-degree burns on her legs.

Bethan suffered burned fingertips. Another son, Frank, 8, a second-grade pupil at Field, was outside the motor-home and suffered no injuries.

ANOTHER CAMPER extinguished the fire, said Rapson. The injured were first taken to a hospital in the Lapeer area, then transferred to Hurley Hospital in Flint. They later were taken to the Detroit hospitals.

Bethan said his wife probably will be hospitalized two to four weeks, and the children about a month. Mrs. Bethan's mother, a nurse's aide from Calumet, is staying in Canton to help care for Frank.

The family has faced stress in the past when Frank was treated for cancer at the age of 3, said Bethan.

"We're a very Christian family and have a lot of trust we will pull through this," said Bethan. "I just want the people to know everybody is doing fine."

"It's a matter of time."

DIFFERENT TYPES OF FILLINGS
QUESTION: What are the different materials used for fillings and where would each be used?
ANSWER: The "silver amalgam filling" is, by far, the most common. It is used primarily for routine fillings of the back teeth.
The "tooth colored filling" is used primarily for front teeth because it looks better. These newer composite resins can be bonded directly to the enamel, and are stronger than the older type of white fillings called silicates. Some day, they may make silver fillings obsolete.
The gold casting restoration, however, derives its great advantage from its more desirable physical properties, particularly with respect to its great strength and resistance to breakage under chewing stress. Because of this property, gold is used mainly to support weakened tooth structure. Also, the absence of mercury means that there will be no "allergy discoloration."

Roland J. Thomas Jr.

Candidates who are former teachers include Marilyn Rickard, Janis Draper, and Lynn Hoehn.

The school board presently includes two former teachers, Carol Davis and Sylvia Stetz, and a current educator — Tom Yack who is employed by Wayne-Westland Community Schools.

Two other candidates — Arthur Leib and Roland Thomas — also share something in common. They are both employed by Ford Motor Co. Glenn Schroeder, a current trustee, also is a Ford employee.

Of the 10 candidates, Elaine Kirchgatter is an incumbent while McClendon has served as a trustee in the past. Ernest Rumsby and Rickard are past candidates for the school board while Thomas, Dave Artley, Hoehn, Draper, Hosman, and Leib are running for the first time.

Beyond the above similarities, there is a wide diversity in background among the 10 candidates for the school board in the June 14 annual election.

ONLY ONE candidate, Thomas, was raised in Plymouth.

Thomas graduated from Plymouth High School and earned a BBA and MBA from Eastern Michigan University. He has been employed since 1966 by Ford Motor in production scheduling.

He has been active in the school district as secretary of the Special Education Parent Advisory Committee as a member of the student housing committee, and as president of the Bird PTO.

An education instructor for St. John Neumann Catholic Church in Canton, Thomas served as a First Lieutenant in the U.S. Army Quartermaster Corps.

DRAPE, born and raised in southeastern Idaho, graduated from Brigham Young University with a degree in home economics. She taught home economics for four years and moved to Michigan in 1977.

She has been co-chairperson for the Bake Shop Booth for two years at the Plymouth Fall Festival. She is an active member of the Church of Latter Day Saints and has held several leadership and teaching positions in the church.

ANOTHER candidate with a degree in home economics is Kirchgatter who earned a BS in home economics from Iowa State University. Before coming here she served as a 4-H agent for Nassau County, N.Y.

A resident of the Plymouth-Canton community for 17 years, Kirchgatter has served as past president of the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC) and of the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

She also has served on the Plymouth Fall Festival Board, on the Plymouth Symphony League and Plymouth Symphony Society, the Plymouth Historical Society, Plymouth Study Club, Plymouth Rotary Anns, and is a member of St. John Episcopal Church.

Kirchgatter has been involved with the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce Farmers Market, with the Student Art Fest, and has been involved as a 4-H leader, with various community fund drives, and in various school parent groups and activities.

A member of the school board for five years, she currently serves as vice president.

A CHOCTAW, McClendon was born and raised in the old Choctaw Nation in southeastern Oklahoma.

He attended elementary school in an old tribal common school, attended Indian Boarding School at Chilocco, and then earned a BS degree in physiology, speech and social studies and a master's degree in guidance and counseling and school of health from the University of Oklahoma. He earned a doctorate degree in curriculum development and health education (public health) from Wayne State University.

He is chairperson of the Native American Education Grants for Michigan and represents American Indians on a variety of state and national committees.

McClendon has taught teacher education and health education at WSU, EMU, MSU and U-M in addition to the University of Oklahoma and University of Wisconsin. He has been an educator, public health worker, a director of secondary education, curriculum director, a superintendent of schools, and vice president of a college. He became a professor or at U-M in January 1972.

McClendon is author and co-author of numerous articles and of four books in school health and curriculum development, his latest being a high school text in public health published in 1981. He lives in Plymouth Township and is past president of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education, and has served on the Community Human Relations Commission, the Plymouth Township Ordinance Review Board, Reproductive Health Education Advisory Board and on the city-towmship committee on shared services.

HOSMAN, who has lived in Plymouth-Canton since 1976, earned his BS in microbiology and chemistry from U-M in 1971, an MS in science from EMU in 1974, an MA in educational administration from EMU in 1977.

Starting in 1971 he taught science and math at the junior high and high school levels for Van Buren Public Schools. He has coached football and wrestling and served as science department chairman and noon activities coordinator. Since 1978 Hosman has been principal of North Junior High.

Before entering the education field, Hosman worked as a line assembler for General Motors and Ford Motor from 1968-71.

RUMSBY, 28, has been employed by Expo Services at Cobo Hall. He has attended Schoolcraft College and is a graduate of the Criminal Justice Institute.

Active in community affairs, Rumsby is commander of American Legion Passage-Gayde Post No. 391 of Plymouth, is a director for the Plymouth Jaycees, a volunteer interpreter for the Canton Police Department, and is active in the Friends of Canton Library and Friends of Plymouth Library.

Rumsby is a member of Selective Service Adjudication Board No. 219 representing Plymouth-Canton and served on the citizens advisory committee on discipline and attendance and is a member of St. Thomas A'Becket Catholic Church in Canton.

A NATIVE Californian, Rickard attended elementary school in St. Louis, Mo., and went to junior and senior high school in Redlands, Calif.

She attended Harding College in Searcy, Ark., and earned a BA in 1966 from Western Michigan University and has done graduate work at WSU.

Kosteva seeks House seat

Jim Kosteva announced Monday that he is a Democratic candidate for the State House of Representative seat from the 37th district. He has served local governments in western Wayne County for eight years.

Kosteva, Canton Township planning director, considers his experience at the local level and his positive attitude about Michigan as his greatest assets.

"I spend every day working on the issues that are important to the people of western Wayne County: taxes and assessments, landfills, roads, mobile homes and job creation," Kosteva said. "This experience will help me to develop programs in Lansing which will be of practical value in dealing with problems at the local level."

If elected, Kosteva's priorities would include: utilizing the existing skilled labor force and other state resources to diversify Michigan's economy, spending money to improve education, and making sure that the proposed "New Federalism" provides a "fair shake" to local governments and the people in the street.

Kosteva, a resident of the area for 26 years, received his bachelors degree in metropolitan studies from North Central College in Naperville, Ill. His recent study has included masters work at the University of Michigan.

While in college, Kosteva was selected to participate in the Washington Urban Semester at the American University in Washington, D.C. He also served a term in Lansing as a legislative analyst.

In recent months, Kosteva has served on the Wayne County Planning Committee determining landfill policy. He also has worked on the Transportation Systems Management Committee, which helps determine road improvement priorities.

ny is spotted, it is sent directly to the Secret Service in Detroit. "They're very familiar with them," says Manufacturers Robert Foster.

So familiar, in fact, that in "any given week, we may receive $2,000 to $3,000 in counterfeit bills," says McNitt.

"So far," he continues, "we've had 60 or 70 notes appear. A lot of counterfeit, he adds, is associated with drugs.

IF ANYONE comes in contact with a counterfeit bill, McNitt says, "you should immediately try to get a description of the person." Storekeepers should get a license plate number, or try to detain the person while calling the police.

If a counterfeit is spotted at a bank, the first step is trying to trace it back to the customer, says Foster.

If they can be found, he says, "then obviously they lose out." Effort is usually made to trace the bill back even further, to see where the customer got it.

But with a counterfeit bill, Foster says, "somewhere along the way, someone loses out."

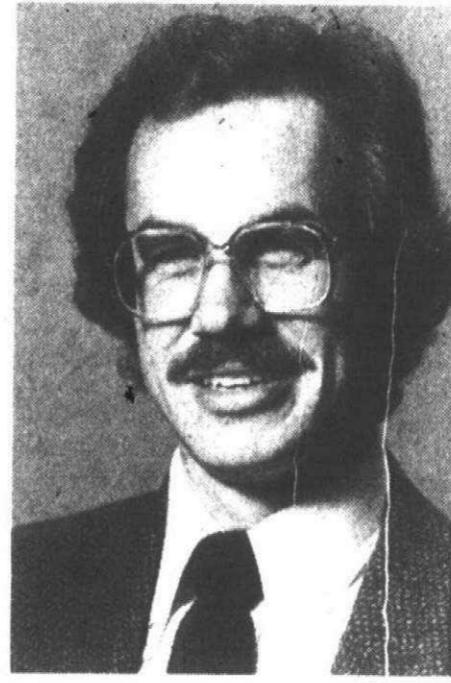

The post office is urging residents to keep dogs under control to prevent mail carriers and municipal employees from being injured.

Postmaster William Stottlemyer said the increase of larger dogs in neighborhoods has created a problem for his employees.

The fear of being burglarized has grown in the last few years due to unemployment" and other factors, he said.

"This, in turn, has caused a great influx of dogs for protection. Homeowners have turned away from the small, noise-making dog to the larger, attack-type dog."

"It has caused a great problem for Stottlemyer is asking residents for their help and cooperation in this problem.

"Please keep your own dog under control at all times. If you see a dog running loose in the neighborhood, call your dog warden. Please take that few minutes of your time to make the call."

He asks residents to keep handy the dog warden's telephone number. The Westland number is 728-1770. The number for Canton is 397-3350.

Canton cop shop by Arlene Funke

IT'S A GAS: A 19-year-old man who told police he "wanted to get enough gas to last two weeks" was arrested for siphoning gasoline from cars at Canton Commons apartment complex May 27. Kevin Patrick Lowe of Winifred, Wayne, pleaded guilty to a larceny charge at his arraignment before 35th District Court Judge James Garber. He was released on personal bond. Sentencing will be June 16, according to a police report. The siphoning occurred around 5 a.m. May 27. Police arrested Lowe at the apartment complex, keeping as evidence a gasoline container and a hose.

SLITHER AWAY: A thief broke into the Animal House shop on Lilley May 28. The store owner reported the theft of $270 in cash, a camera worth $40 and a seven-foot python snake valued at $175. The owner also told police she could "easily identify" the snake because of an unusual eyecap.

NICE DOGGIE: A Powderhorn resident complained that someone stole his lawnmower, and a "friendly" Afghan hound from the yard June 1. The dog is described as a 7-year-old blond-and-black male, worth $500. The lawnmower is valued at $200, according to the police report.

MALICIOUS DESTRUCTION: Someone caused $800 damage at the Colony Swim Club on Beck May 29.

A police report indicates someone threw blocks and shrubs into the pool and broke outdoor lights. About 60 lawn chairs also were tossed into the pool.

HEAVE-HO: A Mannington resident reported someone threw a fireplace-sized log into a basement window May 31. Damage to the window is estimated at $10.

CARS PILFERED: Several Canton car owners reported thefts of items in their cars May 26. In most cases, the cars were parked in driveways.

One family, on Brookline, reported two incidents. In one case, an AM-FM cassette was stolen after the car door had been pried open. In the other case, a movie camera and a toolbox were taken from a glove compartment.

A Hanford resident reported the theft of a drill and tool box from his unlocked car in the driveway. An Aberdeen resident reported the theft of a baseball glove and some tapes. And a thief took an AM-FM cassette, some speakers and spotlights from an Old Bridge resident.

BREAK-INS REPORTED: Residents of Ayshire and Wayside reported home break-ins.

A Wayside homeowner reported someone forced open a door May 30. Stolen were a television worth $75, a $300 camera, three shotguns valued at $580 and a ring valued at $300.

The Ayshire break-ins occurred May 30 and 31. In the first incident, the homeowner returned home, saw lights on in the house and hailed a passing police car.

A STIMULATING EXPERIENCE

When you brush your teeth, you clean only the outside surfaces. The toothbrush will not clean between the teeth very well. Gum stimulators are necessary to clean between the teeth to get where the toothbrush cannot and to keep your mouth clean.

The best gum stimulators are soft, wooden wedges that look like triangular tooth picks and are available in all drugstores. They are sold in matchbook types of containers—about fifty to a pack. If they are used with an in-and-out massaging movement, they do a fine job of cleaning the in-between spaces and of stimulating the gum margins.

They provide one of the finest forms of home care available, and I cannot recommend them highly enough. Many dollars worth of dental care per year could be saved in most families if each member conscientiously used these little sticks once a day. The rubber tips on the ends of some toothbrushes just don't compare to the little wooden wedges sticks. They are simple but of great value.

Redfords defeated first try to establish college

(Part V)

Jack Edwards MacGriff of the Redford Township News, which opposed the establishment of Schoolcraft College in 1961, said he did not view "this college scheme as a genuine spontaneous arising from the residents, but more of a scheme devised originally by politicians and huge land developers to make the sale of new subdivisions more entrancing and residency in Livonia more desirable." His advice to the electorate was to vote no on June 12.

Not all of the opposition came from Redford Union and South Redford, however. In Plymouth, for example, an unsigned advertisement in the Plymouth Mail on June 7 asked residents to "avoid higher taxes, vote no on June 12." And over the weekend prior to the vote, an unsigned sheet was distributed in Plymouth urging a no vote "because it will mean higher taxes."

The leaflet went on to state that the college was not needed because another community college, available to Plymouth area students, would be ready for use by September 1963. The reference was to Concordia Lutheran College, later built on Geddes Road in Ann Arbor. But, as a Lutheran spokesman made clear at the time, the college was for preseminary work and not open to the general public.

ON THE DAY OF the election, Dr. Eric Bradner felt better when he heard from Merlin Roe, superintendent of schools in South Redford, that the schools in his district had sent letters home via the students urging a yes vote.

That night, Bradner and members of the executive committee held an election watch at their offices in the old Newburgh Schoolhouse. During the evening, almost 125 people were in and out, asking about the returns.

It was a night of suspense.

First results came from Garden City, where 2,652 voted for and 334 against. Then came Plymouth with 1,152 for and 518 against. Clarenceville was next with 344 for and 166 against.

The Livonia, the most heavily populated, came in with 5,089 for and 2,688 against. Those in the schoolhouse were jubilant. It appeared that the proposition was about to pass. Of the 12,943 votes cast in the four communities, 9,237 (or 71 percent) favored the establishment of the college.

The election watchers continued to wait for results to come in from Redford Union and South Redford. They arrived slowly because paper ballots were used in those districts. By 11 p.m., however, chins began to drop as it became apparent that the proposition past & present

Sam

was failing in both places.

Bradner's journal entry that evening sounded like a man whistling in the dark. "Everyone left disappointedly. But, still with a ray of hope that the votes not yet tabulated by the two districts would change the picture."

They didn't.

Final tabulations showed that of the total of 6,895 votes cast in the two Redford, 4,304 (or 61 percent) had rejected the proposition. Redford Union voted 1,880 against and 948 for. South Redford voted 2,424 against and 1,643 for.

Because a yes vote in every one of the six communities was necessary to establish the college, MacGriff and those who agreed with him and carried the day.

The Garden City Review summed it up on June 15, 1961: "Four out of six school districts voted decisively for the proposed community college Monday, but the whole program was torpedoed at least temporarily by negative votes in the two Redford Township districts."

HAROLD FISCHER, chairman of the executive committee, immediately called a meeting to decide what to do next.

The committee (now consisting of Elbert Hartom of Clarenceville, Raymond Kenyon of Garden City, Ward McCain of Livonia, Fischer and Esther Hulding of Plymouth) recommended to their respective school boards that the proposal be offered again in the four districts that had favored it provided, of course, that potential enrollment and financial figures made it practicable.

Dr. Raymond Young of the University of Michigan was asked to refigure the enrollment statistics, and Joe Crafton of Livonia agreed to recalculate the financial possibilities.

Young reported that the four districts did, indeed, have enough students to support a community college, that enrollment would be about 70 percent of the earlier six-district projection, and that a campus about two-thirds as large as originally planned would be required.

Crafton's study indicated that the four districts did have enough wealth to support a community college. The state equalized valuation for the four districts at the time was $478 million (as this is written, the assessed valuation of the college district, in 1982, is $3 billion).

BASED ON THIS information, the four school boards that had continued their financial support of the movement each petitioned the state superintendent of public instruction to authorize another election.

This was granted, and the executive committee set the second election for Oct. 24, 1961.

The late Paul Chandler, who owned the Livonia Observer and the Plymouth Mail at the time, had been in the opposite camp from MacGriff.

A strong supporter of the proposed college from the beginning, Chandler had come under fire in MacGriff's newspapers, which dubbed him "the publicity director" for the pro-college movement.

After the first election, Chandler began to fire back.

Beacham earns number two spot

Kay Beacham earned second place in the regional School Bus Roadeo at Schoolcraft College held recently.

Beacham, a bus driver in the Plymouth-Canton School District, will compete against 38 of Michigan's other top bus drivers for the state finals June 12. Saturday's contest will be held in Lansing.

Sponsored by the Auto Club and the Michigan Association for Pupil Transportation, the roadeos test a driver's ability to handle a standard school bus on a prescribed obstacle course.

Written and verbal tests on rules, regulations and equipment also are given to the contestants.

Snakes & toads really 'deece'

Nancy Walls Smith

I can honestly say I've never had too many "good" experiences with snakes or toads.

My two young sons, unfortunately, consider all reptiles and amphibians to be really "deece." (As far as I can figure out, "deece" is short for "decent," which I suppose is an updated version of "cool" or "hip").

I don't find snakes to be deece. I try not to find them at all. But, invariably, I do. They seemingly love to lounge in our bushes and sunbathe on our patio.

When we first moved here, every time I happened to find another of these repulsive, elongated critters, I would run to a neighbor squealing for help. I'm proud to say I've calmed down a little. It's taken me five years, but I don't scream any more. I know, now, that garter snakes have no intention whatsoever of wrapping themselves around my ankles and sinking their fangs into my calves. They don't care for my presence any more than I care for theirs.

I GIVE SNAKES plenty of room. They give me plenty of room. It works out fine.

My 7-year-old, "The Snake Handler," on the other hand, has been bitten twice by snakes this spring. He assures me that, "It doesn't hurt at all — just feels like a scratch." I'll have to take his word for it on that one.

I TRIED NOT to look too disgusted as I gingerly held it and said, "Hi, toad."

Next to acquiring snakes, the younger members of this household consider finding frogs or toads to be thrills beyond words — beyond any words that I can relate to the experience, anyway.

The first summer we lived here, I had a long talk with myself about toads. I told myself that, as an adult, I was perfectly aware that toads can't, and won't, hurt you. It took a long time to convince me, but I finally consented to actually hold a rather large and ugly specimen that my son had grown quite fond of. In those early days, it seemed important to me to show what a good mommy I was by sharing my son's interests.

Yesterday, the catch for the day was a rather round hog-nose snake. A few hours later the snake regurgitated the carcass of a thoroughly drained toad. My sons thought that was really deece.

I'm afraid I can't tell you what I thought it was.

I don't pick them up any more — not all interests have to be shared.

I've also had the unique experience of stepping on a rather large frog in our dark garage one evening. What made it even more thrilling was that I was bare foot. Did you know that frogs scream?

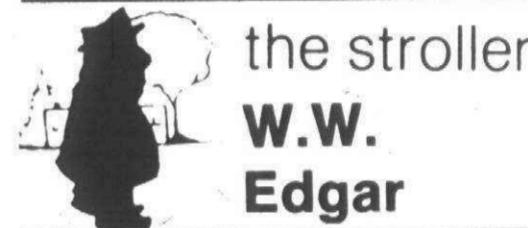

I scream louder.

So this, and more, is what I have to look forward to for the upcoming summer. My sons, the fledgling zoologists, will continue to collect toads, frogs, pollywogs, snakes, salamanders, crayfish, and every variety of insect imaginable. They're even thoughtful enough to bring each new find to Mom for praise and approval. Lucky Mom.

When movies first flickered

come so wrapped up in the play they slept in the saddest scenes.

The great step in this sort of entertainment came in the mid-twenties when color was added to the scenes. It was almost unbelievable that you could witness Al Jolson ad Eddie Cantor for living.

The first of these unbelievable movies was shown in the Fox Theater in downtown Detroit and the Michigan Theater was built in such stylish fashion as to attract the classier folks in town.

When the voice was added to the movies and they became known as "talkies" it was the miracle of the time. Folks gathered large numbers — at a nickel admission — to hear these folks on the screen talking. (Television wasn't even a dream in those days).

Many of the dramas portrayed on these talking movies do justice to the films being offered today. They were real dramas and often the viewers be-

SCHOOLCRAFT COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on June 16, 1982, at 7:00 o'clock p.m. EDST at the Board Room, in the Administration Building, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia, Michigan, the Board of Trustees of Schoolcraft Community College District will hold a public hearing on the levying in 1982 of an estimated additional proposed millage rate of 0.17 mills for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982.

The Board of Trustees has the complete authority to establish that 1.77 mills be levied in 1982 from within its present authorized millage rate.

The maximum additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property taxes levies in 1982 otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982, by an estimated ten and 6/10 percent (10.6%).

An additional millage rate of 0.17 mills represents an additional tax of 17¢ per $1,000 of SEV, hence a homeowner with a home having an SEV of $30,000 would pay an estimated $5.10 more in taxes.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of an additional millage rate as required under PA 5 (1982) and is not for the purpose of placing a millage proposal on the ballot.

Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing, the Board of Trustees may approve all or any portion of the proposed additional millage rate.

This notice is given by the Board of Trustees.

Michael W. Burley, Secretary

Geake announces plans to run for Senate

State Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, has announced he will run for another term in the Michigan Senate.

Geake will be a candidate in the new 6th senatorial district which includes the cities of Livonia, Plymouth and Northville and the townships of Canton, Redford, Plymouth and Northville.

The changes in the district include the addition of Canton and the deletion of a portion of the city of Westland.

Geake, a 10-year veteran of the Michigan Legislature, first was elected to the House in 1972 and served there for five years.

In March 1977 Geake waged a successful campaign in a special election to fill a vacancy in Michigan's 14th senatorial district. The vacancy was created when Carl Pursell was elected to U.S. Congress.

He was re-elected to a full four-year Senate term the following year and now is running for his second full term.

Since being elected to the Legislature in 1977 Geake has maintained a record of better than 99 percent in answering roll call votes.

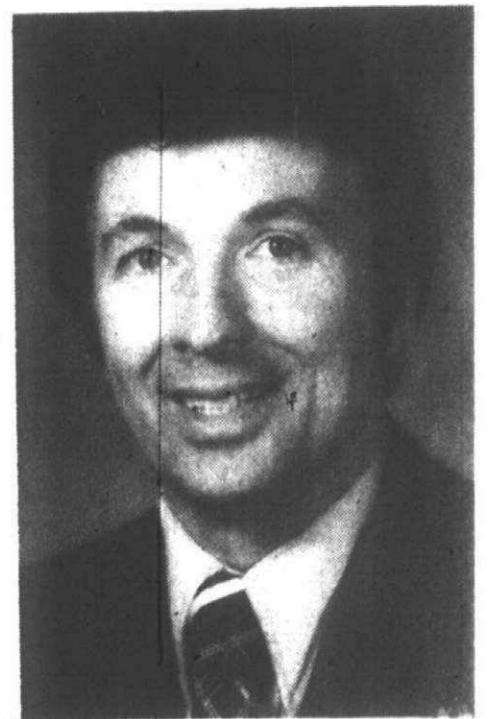

The senator serves on the Appropriations Committee and its subcommittees on colleges and universities, mental health, state police, and government data processing.

Among GOP senators on the committee planning to run for re-election, Geake leads in seniority. If Republicans gain control of the Senate in November, he points out, he will seek the chairmanship of the Appropriations Committee.

Geake also serves as the Senate's Assistant Republican Floor Leader and as chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee.

By background, Geake is an educational psychologist and former member and chairman of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

He is a life member of the National Education Association (NEA), American and Michigan Psychological Associations, a member of Rotary, and of several historical and genealogical societies.

Robert Geake

Make your cheesecake and eat it, too

CHEESECAKE . . . rich, creamy and sometimes even sinful. Yet it's very common, found in the finest restaurant in town to the local diner down the street.

Anybody who really loves cheesecake will tell you that all cheesecakes are not equal. I have one friend who travels to Traverse City and picks up several cheesecakes from a local bakery, takes the cakes home to freeze, and uses them for easy desserts when entertaining or when unexpected guests stop by. I know another family that lives in Michigan and orders cheesecake by the case from New York. Don't tell these people that cheesecake is just cheesecake.

Since I was about 7 years old, every birthday dinner consisted of spaghetti and cheesecake. And my mother would always save an extra piece for me to have the next day. Coming from a big family, this was a big treat.

There are many different styles and flavors of cheesecake. There is the famous New York-style cheesecake, which is baked; the easy gelatin-style cheesecake, which is great with fresh fruit; and a European style cheese cake, which is made with farmers or cottage cheese instead of traditional cream cheese.

Cheesecakes can be made in countless flavors, by using liquors, fresh fruit, nuts and chocolates. Just take a recipe and add your favorite flavoring.

CHEF DAN Rawlson, culinary arts instructor at Oakland Community College, gives a few hints on how to make a perfect cheesecake:

- When using a kitchen aid or similar product, use the paddle instead of the whip because the whip will cause the fats to separate — causing the cheesecake to taste gritty.

- Strain the cheesecake after you mix the batter, because the small lumps will cause the cheesecake to crack while baking.

- Bake cheesecake in a water bath to equalize temperatures. This will keep the cheesecake from rising too fast and then falling. When using a spring-form pan, place in a slightly larger pan, then place in the water bath to prevent leaking.

- When cheesecake is almost done, turn off the oven. Leave the cake in the oven for 20-30 minutes, letting it cool slowly so it won't fall or crack.

I ASKED several of my friends to share with us their favorite cheesecake recipes.

This is Neil Atkins' New York-style

Andrea Harrison

cheesecake. Whenever people have it, they beg Neil for the recipe so he usually has several copies on hand.

NEW YORK CHEESECAKE

Filling
2 1/2 lbs. cream cheese (room temp.)
1 1/4 cups sugar
5 Tbsp. flour
1 1/2 tsp. orange extract
1 tsp. lemon extract
1/2 tsp. vanilla
5 eggs
3 egg yolks
1/2 cup heavy whipping cream

Blend, cheese, sugar, flour, extract, vanilla until smooth. Add eggs and yolks one at a time, then blend in cream. Mix thoroughly.

Crust

1 1/4 cup sifted flour
1/4 cup sugar
1 tsp. lemon extract
1 egg yolk
1/2 cup butter (room temp.)
1/2 tsp. vanilla
2 Tbsp. vegetable oil

Cream sugar, extract, egg, butter, vanilla and oil. Add flour, work together until well blended.

- Pre-heat oven to 400 degrees.

- Roll out 1/4 of crust 1/8-inch thick. Fit over bottom of buttered 9-inch spring form pan. Trim and save extra dough. Bake circle of dough 8-10 minutes until golden brown.

- Cool.

- Butter sides of pan and place sides over bottom.

- Turn oven up to 500 degrees.

- Roll out remaining dough and line sides of spring-form pan.

- Pour filling into spring-form pan.

- Bake 10 minutes at 500.

- Turn oven down to 200 and bake 1 1/2-1 1/4 hours.

This is Dan Rawlson's recipe for cheesecake. While working at the Meeting Place, he used this recipe and it always sold out.

It's a good idea to make this early in the morning or one or two days ahead of time, or it may be frozen (cheesecakes freeze wonderfully) and thaw before serving.

3-LAYER CHEESECAKE

3 1/4 oz. blanched and peeled hazelnuts or almonds, walnuts or pecans
2 lbs. cream cheese (room temp.)
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1 1/4 cups granulated sugar
4 large eggs
1/2 tsp. almond extract
8 oz. heavy cream
2 oz. unsweetened chocolate
1/2 cup graham crackers (to be used after the cake is baked)

Use an 8-inch round one-piece cheesecake pan 3 inches deep. Butter it lightly all over the bottom, up to the rim, and around the inside of the rim or the cake will stick and will not rise evenly. Any unbuttered spots will prevent the finished cake from sliding out of the pan easily. Set the buttered pan aside.

The nuts must be finely chopped or ground. This may be done in a nut grinder, a food processor or a blender. If there are a few uneven or larger pieces, it is all right. Set the ground nuts aside.

In the large bowl of an electric mixer, beat the cream cheese until it is very smooth. Beat in the vanilla and the sugar very well, and then add eggs one at a time, scraping the bowl with a rubber spatula until it is very smooth after each addition. After adding the eggs, do not beat any more than necessary — this cheesecake should not be airy.

Remove 2 cups of the mixture and transfer it to a mixing bowl. (The remaining batter should be left at room temperature while the layers are being frozen.) Add the ground nuts and the almond extract to the two cups and stir in.

This will be the first layer. Pour it carefully into the middle of the pan. Very gently shake the pan to make the cheese mixture as smooth and level as possible. Keep the edges clean and straight.

Place the pan in the freezer for at least one hour, until the layer is firm enough to be covered with the next layer without losing shape.

Remove two more cups of the basic batter for the top layer.

Place the chocolate in the top of a small double boiler over hot water and moderate heat. Cover until melted. Then uncover and remove the top of the double boiler.

Mix the chocolate into the batter that is remaining in the mixing bowl.

Place the chocolate batter carefully by rounded teaspoons all over the cold no layer and very gently shake the pan to level the chocolate mixture. Keep the edges straight and clean.

Return the cake to the freezer. The chocolate layer will need only 15-20 minutes to become firm.

Adjust rack to the lowest position in the oven and preheat the oven to 350 degrees.

When the chocolate layer is firm enough, spoon the mixture or pour the white layer carefully and evenly over it. Level the top by briskly rotating the pan a bit first in one direction and then in another.

Place the cheesecake into a larger pan. The larger pan must not be deeper than the cake pan or touch the sides. Pour hot water into the larger pan to a little more than halfway up the side of the pan.

Bake for one hour and 50 minutes.

The top of the cake will be a rich golden brown and feel dry to the touch, but the cake will still be soft inside. (The cake will rise to or above the rim of the pan while baking but it will sink below the rim as it cools.)

Lift the cake pan out of the water and place it on a rack for about two hours until it is completely cooled. Do not chill the cake in the refrigerator or the butter will harden and the cake will stick to the pan.

When the bottom of the cake pan has reached room temperature, place a flat plate or board over the top of the pan and invert. Remove the cake pan.

Sprinkle the bottom of the cake evenly with the graham cracker crumbs. Carefully and quickly, invert to turn the cake right side up. Do this without pressing too hard or you will squash the cake, which is still soft.

Refrigerate for at least 5-6 hours or overnight, or freeze it. Wrap after freezing and unwrap after thawing.

Serve at room temperature.

melted butter, 2 tablespoons of the sugar and the cinnamon. Press into the bottom and side of a greased 8-inch round cake pan, reserving 2 tablespoons of the crumb mixture.

Beat the eggs, salt, lemon juice and rind together until well-mixed. Stir in the cream, cottage cheese and half the nuts. Spoon into the crumb mixture and remaining nuts.

Bake in a moderate oven for 35-45 minutes or until the filling is set. Turn off the oven and leave the cake inside, with the door open, for 10 minutes. Remove from the oven and allow to cool completely.

Serve cold. Serves 6-8.

RED CURRANT CHEESECAKE

3 cups crushed graham crackers
1/2 cup butter
1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
1 lb. cream cheese
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup light cream
5 cups red currants
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
2 Tbsp. water
1 pint heavy cream
1 egg white

Mix together the crushed crackers, melted butter and cinnamon.

Press into the bottom of a greased loose-bottomed 9-inch cake pan. Smooth the surface. Beat the cream cheese and sugar together until well mixed. Stir in the light cream and 4 cups of the red currants. Dissolve the gelatin in the water and strain into the red currant mixture. Stir well and spoon into the cake pan. Chill for at least 30 minutes or until it is completely set.

Meanwhile, whip the heavy cream until it is thick. Beat the egg white until it will hold a stiff peak. Fold the egg white into the whipped cream. Remove the sides from the cake pan and slide the cheesecake onto a serving plate. Spoon over the cream mixture and top with the remaining red currants.

Serves 6.

Asparagus harvest is in markets

It's about time for fresh Michigan asparagus to arrive at our markets, signaling that spring is really here.

Michigan ranks third among the states in asparagus production. The 1981 commercial harvest amounted to more than 17 million pounds, worth nearly $11 million, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

About 70 percent of the crop goes into processing with the remaining 30 percent available for fresh market. It's a short season crop, so enjoy it while you can.

Asparagus is an excellent source of vitamins A and C, iron, potassium and phosphorus. And there are just 35 calories in a cup of cooked asparagus — but remember that's not counting the butter or sauce you add.

Asparagus in Ambush is an adaptation of a James Beard recipe whose origin dates to early American cookbooks. Cooks like the fanciful name, and this is an attractive and unusual dish to serve for brunch.

Slice individual French rolls in half, scoop out most of the interior (saving the crumbs for another use), toast under the broiler until lightly browned, then brush with melted butter and keep warm.

Steam asparagus spears, which you have previously washed and trimmed, until just tender. Arrange the well-drained asparagus in the halves of rolls (you may have to cut to fit). Just before serving, top with hollandaise sauce, sprinkle lightly with paprika. Figure on about three pounds of asparagus to fill six split rolls, serving 12 people.

Asparagus Vinaigrette can be served either hot or cold, dressed with oil and vinegar seasoned with herbs and salt. Or try mayonnaise to which you've added a little prepared mustard. Another choice could be sour cream flavored with dill or chives. Hard-cooked egg, mashed and blended with a little mustard, oil and seasonings, is another complementary dressing.

Supernatural spirits are after Carol Anne Freeling (Heather O'Rourke) in "Poltergeist."

the movies
Louise Snider

Spielberg's effects provide excitement in poltergeist tale

Recently, a Hollywood flap has erupted over just who was the creative force behind "Poltergeist" (PG). Steven Spielberg, the co-producer and co-writer, or Tobe Hooper, the director?

The evidence, that is the movie, points toward Spielberg as the dominant influence. His participation really shows in the overall conception of the movie with its succession of special effects, humorous incidents and shocking jolts.

These were achieved without the grisliness associated with Hooper who directed "The Texas Chainsaw Massacre."

Spielberg's hand is evident, especially in the first half of the film which presents a vignette of family life that is rich in anecdote and detail. The family in focus is a middle-class suburban household consisting of mother, father, older daughter, middle son, younger daughter, dog and, briefly, a bird.

THE DOG ADDS an extra dimension of interest to the movie whenever he appears. He is a wonderfully laid-back, California canine with the most doggy personality (as opposed to cute, noble or smart movie dogs) I've ever seen in a film.

He is the kind of nighttime prowler who lopes through the house nibbling potato chips and polishing off leftovers wherever he finds them.

Suddenly, this contented, mock-ordinary household is disrupted by a series of strange experiences. At first, what happens is just odd and amusing, but the frequency and intensity of the supernatural occurrences increase rapidly and the amusement quickly turns to fear and terror.

The youngest child disappears, although her voice can be heard calling to her mother to come and get her.

The family brings in experts in supernatural phenomena to help retrieve the daughter. It is at this point that the movie loses what coherence it has. We might say, the more impressive the special effects, the less coherent the story.

RUN TO THE light, the missing child is told. No, don't run to the light, it's dangerous. Run, don't run. No wonder the kid's in limbo when her parents always give her contradictory instructions. But that's not the worst of it. The end of the film has a loophole big enough to drive a subdivision through.

As a moving van is shown loading furniture from the house, the father goes off to work saying he will try to get home early and take the family to a motel for the night. Yet, we see the mother sending the children off to bed for the night — and in a house which still seems chock-full of furniture.

For many people, however, what matters about a movie like this is not the logic of it but the look. The story is simply a skeletal framework (pun intended) for hanging a passel of special effects.

The effects are marvelous — inanimate objects in a flurry of motion, twisting forms of light gliding down a staircase. Shiver and shriek time.

With all these wonders and all this expertise, why the inconsistencies? Is this an instance of too many people directing the film or is it just a poltergeist playing tricks on us?

Steve Freeling (Craig T. Nelson) defies the spirits in an attempt to rescue his wife and daughter.

A savvy star: Patrice Munsel

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

IT'S A GLAMOROUS life for singing star Patrice Munsel — years filled with a whirl of shows, concerts and attendant publicity. And if it all sounds a little hectic, well it isn't really, because this performing artist has so much show-business savvy.

The musical revue "Tintypes" was adapted to focus on her considerable singing talents, and she's the name in the ensemble company of five appearing at the Birmingham Theatre.

"Tintypes" is a witty and nostalgic show recapturing the tunes and times of the early 1900s in New York City.

Playing the Birmingham Theatre through Sunday, the production then goes East to Hartford, Conn., and Hyannis, Mass., and next to Toronto. In September, it moves along to the Northeast and the Southeast.

"IT WILL BE quite a long tour," Munsel said, during an interview in the living room of the Birmingham apartment where she is staying during the show's Detroit-area run.

"I'll be in and out of it through April."

In between, she will be able to enjoy her homes in New York City and in the country. "We have a house in the Adirondacks on the lake. The baby ducks go by with Mama. There are about 18 teams of ducks," she said, smiling at the image.

Munsel has been married for 29 years to Robert Charles Schuler, who has produced her shows on television and in Las Vegas. They have four grown children — two boys and two girls.

The youngest son still lives at home, and there are frequent opportunities to get together with the other children.

Her husband was here for the previews of the show, Munsel said. A son manages Trackside Souvenirs for the Grand Prix and was in Detroit last weekend. The youngest daughter, an artist, just graduated in Spokane, Wash. (where Munsel was born), and stopped out recently. The oldest daughter is in Las Vegas.

"WE JUST GOT back with our youngest son from a tour to Italy, Bombay and South Africa," Munsel said.

The years when the children were growing up were not ones of family hardship and separation. The entire family packed up and traveled together, along with the help — a couple, a secretary and a nanny — and a turtle and hamsters.

Munsel is strong in her praise for her husband, Robert. "He understands theater and my needs to be continuing in it," she said. They share common interests. "We're both tourists, and we see things the same way."

Schuler also has the knack of smoothing the way. "My husband is German. He's very well-organized, and also funny, a nice combination," she said.

Munsel was only 17 when she auditioned for the Metropolitan Opera and was signed to a contract. She sang with the Met for 15 years and recalls those days with affection. "The years at the Met were very exciting, very demanding. But there's nothing like an operatic audience."

AMONG HER favorite roles were "Lucia de Lammermoor," "Die Fledermaus," and "La Perichole." Some of her singing co-stars were Jan Pierce ("He was and is an absolutely wonderful man"), James (Jimmy) Melba and Nino Martini.

One night when she came offstage at the Met, she decided she would be her last season. She wanted time to play, to be with her husband and to travel.

And although that was her last season, Munsel said, "Nothing's changed since I left the Met." She had done shows during the summers while she was at the Met and has continued to perform in musical productions.

DINNER FOR TWO

WE'RE THE BIGGEST

75 years great.

GM has been serving Americans with great products for almost seventy-five years.

Robert D. Sexton
Quality Control

But even so, some of you might be asking, "What have they done for me lately?"

Well, GM's done a lot. In fact, we're not only the best, we're the best GM ever.

First in technology.

Start with technology. Nobody in the world spends as much as GM ($10 billion in 1981 alone) trying to make your car better. This includes new products, plants, and manufacturing processes, as well as advances in metallurgy and aerodynamics, new power train concepts, and precision workmanship through the use of the latest computers, lasers, and robots.

Best sellers.

The result is that now GM has seven of the top ten best-selling cars in the U.S.*

Chevrolet's Chevette, Citation, Impala/Caprice, and Camaro, Buick's Skylark, and Oldsmobile's 88 and Cutlass Supreme Coupe are all winners, but they're just the tip of the iceberg, so to speak, of GM value.

We make all kinds of cars for all kinds of people. With all kinds of needs.

THE BEST GM EVER

Fuel economy, plus.

Everybody needs fuel economy, and GM has done something about that, too. What with all the technological breakthroughs we've made, we think we now offer the optimum balance of room, comfort and mileage that people want.

Industry leader.

We're very proud that in the latest report of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, GM had the eleven top-rated cars.**

The report ranked cars according to the frequency with which they were involved in accident injury claims and covered 1978-80 models.

We believe these results reflect not only our cars—their quality, size, weight, and design—but how and where they are driven. It shows that our cars and customers go well together.

A new kind of excellence.

And there's something else. We believe GM stands for something else in the eyes of the American public.

It stands for excellence. And continued excellence. So that now, next year, and the years after that, we need always to be: the best GM ever.

We have the commitment to quality, the resources, and the track record. And because of these, we just happen to think we're the one company that can continue to meet the transportation needs of a changing world better than anyone else.

NOW names young feminists of year

The Northwest Wayne County National Organization for Women will honor this year's Young Feminists of the Year Wednesday evening. The young women will be formally presented to the chapter and receive their scholarship checks.

Co-winners are Lezlie Luceus of Plymouth Canton High School and Ruth Sample of Plymouth Salem High School. The dual winners were selected from applicants from 13 area high schools in the Plymouth, Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Livonia, Redford, Farmington and Northville communities.

This is the fifth year the award and $100 scholarship has been given "to an outstanding senior high school graduate who already has been accepted to an institution for higher learning."

Scholastic achievement, feminist involve ment and leadership ability are the most important qualifications for receiving the award.

LEZLIE LUCEUS is features editor for the Plymouth Educational Park school newspaper. A talented musician, she has given a piano recital at the Henry Ford mansion.

She is a newscaster for WSDP, the high schools' radio station, and is a general office worker for the Plymouth Canton Schools Board of Education.

Her research and writing have involved strong feminist support. She has varied work experience.

She plans to attend Earlham College in Richmond, Ind., and has not set her career goals.

RUTH SAMPLE also has an interest in journalism. She served on the editorial board of the school paper and won an award in the Schoolcraft College journalism contest.

Lezlie Luceus

Ruth Sample

She was a state qualifier in both track and cross country and received varsity letters in track, cross country and karate. She won a local cooking contest and has worked as a clerk and a typist.

McCoy has been there herself. She knows all about coping.

A victim of spouse abuse, which left her with a broken back, she recovered both physically and emotionally. She is raising two children by herself and is preparing for a career in social work. She has a bachelor of arts degree and a teaching certificate.

Her goal is to be in a position to give therapeutic counseling to those who can't afford to pay for it.

With school, family, and work, she finds time to serve as a western Wayne County Hospice volunteer.

SOROPTIMIST is a service organization with more than 66,000 women in 2,200 local clubs in 60 countries.

Albert Zack, principal of Livonia Franklin High School, followed the theme of service in his talk at the awards banquet. His topic was "Improving the Quality of Life Through Service."

The Soroptimists have two projects in which they recognize and give financial aid to worthy individuals. The Training Awards program enables women to upgrade their economic status through education. Each year, more than $50,000 is given throughout the federation, which includes North and South America, Japan, Korea and the Philippines.

The Youth Citizenship Awards program recognizes high school seniors who have demonstrated responsible citizenship in school and community. More than $22,000 in merit awards are presented annually.

This year's merit award went to Kathleen Bielaczyc of Livonia Franklin High.

Annual rose show June 20

Rose growers who have never entered their blooms in a judged show can be briefed by experts. They are invited to attend a meeting of the Huron Valley Rose Society at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 8, in the auditorium of the Matthaei Botanical Gardens, 1800 N. Dixboro, between Plymouth and Geddes roads.

The program is planned in anticipation of the annual Father's Day Rose Show sponsored by the society. Gary Housman of Plymouth is chairing the rose show in the Botanical Gardens.

"Those who have never entered roses in any exhibit are encouraged to come to the meeting if possible. In any case, they should enter their roses in the June 20 show," said Housman.

FEATURED as guest speaker will be Stanley Larson of the Grand Rapids Rose Society, one of Michigan's outstanding rose growers.

Larson is a life judge certified by the American Rose Society and an experienced and successful rose grower and exhibitor.

The program will be devoted to describing the selection and care of rose blossoms to be entered in the rose exhibit.

For the benefit of those interested in entering their roses in the show, schedules describing that event will be distributed. These list the classes in which roses may be entered, entering procedures, and the point system used for judging roses.

Entries may be made by amateur rose growers who have grown the roses in their gardens for 60 days.

SPECIAL classes are open only to those who have never before exhibited roses. The only requirement is that the name of the individual rose variety be known.

Knowledgeable rose growers will assist growers entering roses for the first time. There is no entry fee.

Roses are to be entered 7:10 a.m. Sunday, June 20. Judging will take place between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The show will be open to the public free of charge from 2:7 p.m.

It's still Canton Newcomers Club

FIVE DAYS at Ipperwash produced very few good painting days. The weather did not cooperate. When the rains came the newly applied barn red trim spattered, leaving freckle-like splotches on the cream paint around the windows.

The five days did produce a ridged bottom (mine), and the feeling of being an interloper — a voyeur. I spent hours perched on an old trunk, peering out (not in) a bedroom window. I was bird watching.

It all started when I threw out chunks of toast, left over from breakfast.

A PAIR of blue jays shouted the news that the toast was out and were the first to arrive. They crammed so much in their beaks that their jaws must have ached — if they have jaws.

A whole procession of birds followed. There were a pair of house sparrows, a red-winged blackbird, an American goldfinch, a bobolink, a catbird and glossy-headed blackbirds.

There was a bright orange bird with a brown-striped breast and a warbler-like tail that I couldn't find in my bird book. I was, as the saying goes, almost beside myself.

I had to put on my glasses to get a good look at the bird and had to take them off to see the bird book. There always was the terrible worry that the bird would fly away while I was looking at the book.

I WAS wishing Bill and Evelyn Edgar were there to see that bird and identify it. I described it to them the other day, and Evelyn suggested that it could be a variant of the scarlet tanager.

A brown thrasher did not feed with the others but provided great entertainment. It would swoop through the pines, land on the sand and with sideways motions of its head, throw sand with its beak like crazy. Then it would peer in the hole and never seem to find anything.

The chipmunk would arrive with a thin little face and leave with bulging cheeks.

One morning, a pair of rabbits came hopping through the trees. I thought, "Well, the cottontails still live here." We always used to sidestep the entrance to their burrow out back.

SUDDENLY IT dawned on me: "My gosh, those aren't cottontails, they're jack rabbits."

They hopped around as if they owned the place. They would roll in the sand, sit on their hind legs and quickly brush the sand off their forepaws before smoothing their whiskers.

Sometimes they would leap into the air and frolic around. First time they did it, the thought crossed my mind that these might be rabid rabbits. But they were just having a good time.

They kind of kept an eye on the birds' comings and goings and finally, curiosity got the better of one of them. It hopped up the steps and onto the back porch, took a look at the menu, and left.

A NOTE FROM Estelle Gurney contained another bird story. She wrote:

"A robin built her nest in my husband's tractor — right by the motor. He tried to discourage her, but she started over and over, and one night she built it up so high, my husband didn't have the heart to tear it down. Finally, she laid an egg, and he decided there was no way she could hatch the egg.

"So, he carefully put on gloves, moved the nest to the nearest tree, but she wouldn't go near it. To show him how mad she was, she laid another egg right on the bare metal. Again he took the gloves, put the nest back into the tractor and put the other egg inside. She showed her approval by laying another egg.

"And that's where she is right now, sitting on the nest. The only trouble is that we have the golf range (Arbor-Joy), and he has to use the tractor to pick up golf balls every day. When she sees him coming, she flies away. But when he brings the tractor back, she's right there, really bawling him out. And she jumps right back on the nest."

"The 'blessed event' should be this week. We shall see!"

"There's a sad epilogue to this tale. The three eggs hatched and the nestlings were all feathered out when catastrophe struck. Bill Gurney went out one morning to find disaster. The nest was wrecked and the birds gone."

Members of the Canton Newcomers Club completed the 1981-82 season with a dinner meeting at Cyprus Gardens Restaurant in Canton.

Retiring president Arlene Caron turned over the gavel to the new president, Deborah Czap. Serving on the executive board will be Lynn Spielman, vice president; Sharon Ballios, secretary; and Carleen VanderBok, treasurer.

A slowdown in building in Canton and an upswing in women returning to the job market resulted in a decrease in club membership. Although the members opted to retain the title Canton Newcomers, they voted to open the membership to all residents of Canton, regardless of the length of their residency.

EACH YEAR, the club members select philanthropic projects. Donations were made to First Step, an organization which helps victims of domestic assault, and to the new Oakwood Hospital center in Canton. The club also gave food baskets at Easter to several needy families in the township.

The new officers voiced their intention "to continue the charitable contributions as well as the social functions of the club. We hope to see an increase in club membership and participation in activities this upcoming year."

The change was made in an effort to widen the scope of the club's service to longtime residents as well the newcomers to the community.

The season's activities included social as well as charitable projects.

Major events were a millionaires party, road rallies and a spring fashion show. In addition, the club had its annual pre-Christmas craft auction. All items were handmade by the members, and both the club and the individuals shared the profits.

Exchange students need host families

Hopkins at 459-8645 or 453-4233 for more information.

All kinds of families become host families. Most often they include two parents and children. But single-parent families, young couples with no children, and older couples whose children are gone, have opened their homes to exchange students.

They have different incomes, occupations, and represent many different faiths.

PERSONS DO NOT have to be wealthy to host a student. They do take on the expense of feeding a healthy teen-ager. To offset these expenses, the IRS permits a $50-per-month deduction as a charitable contribution.

Persons who would be interested in hosting an exchange student may call

Students will have their own spending money provided by their families at home. They have been chosen after a thorough screening in their homelands.

They have been personally interviewed, and their school and medical records have been carefully reviewed.

Educational Foundation exchange students have above average academic records and all speak good English. They are mature, conscientious and friendly. They are eager to participate in family, school and community life.

The students share responsibilities just as other members of the family do. They are expected to make their beds, take care of the their rooms, and cooperate in performing household chores.

The foundation has a code of conduct concerning academic and social matters, to which all students are expected to adhere.

LENA SVANLUND has studied English for seven years. She is an only child and lives with her mother and step-father in Lidingo, Sweden, in what she describes as "a nice neighborhood."

With her application, Lena sent along photos of the interior and exterior of her home. Students filled out four-page questionnaires in which they were required to describe themselves, their homes, school, hobbies, interests, career plans, likes and dislikes.

These questionnaires reveal the personality and background of the exchange student and may be read by prospective host parents.

Jani Spennhoff is looking forward to expanding her sports participation in a United States high school. In her questionnaire, she wrote that she has been fencing for seven years and enjoys the tournaments.

"I play badminton, too, but that is only a hobby. I think I can do more sports there than at home."

She wrote: "I don't want to live in a family where girls always have to wear dresses."

Neither of the girls smokes, and both like animals.

Hopkins has school, medical and teacher recommendations of the candidates and will answer all questions about the responsibilities of a host family.

Parents turn back the clock for 'Medieval Madness' party

Plymouth Salem High School Class of '82 will remember graduation night as the good old, old days.

Before the graduates venture out into their brave new world, they have an opportunity to go way back and indulge in a little medieval madness. That's the theme of this year's graduation party — an all-night celebration scheduled to follow the June 17 commencement ceremonies.

On that night, from 9 p.m. until 4 a.m., the high school main hallway, gymnasium and cafeteria will be turned into a medieval kingdom, complete with castle, dungeon and even a dragon. Heraldic banners will decorate the walls and a replica of an ancient stone fireplace will grace the castle banquet hall.

Although the decor will be medieval, the food and the entertainment will be strictly modern.

INSTEAD OF listening to tunes sung by a wandering minstrel, Salem seniors will dance to the music of the rock band "Contraband."

Rather than jousting tournaments, there will be Las Vegas-type games with chances to win numerous prizes.

In place of Merlin and his magic, a hypnotist and a palm reader will amaze and predict. Souvenirs will include free instant photographs and large buttons designed for the Class of '82.

The food will be popular teen-age fare — pizza, chicken, pop, cookies and ice cream — all served throughout the evening.

Everything is included in the admission price of $9 in advance or $10 at the door. Only Salem seniors will be admitted to the party. They may buy advance sale tickets at the school cafeteria June 7-9. Tickets also will be on sale at graduation rehearsal and at the door the night of the party.

"MEDIEVAL Madness" will be the 18th classwide graduation party arranged by the parents of seniors. It has become a successful tradition.

Many parents on this year's planning committee have worked on previous parties. Beryl Brandt, who is chairing entertainment, recalled her experience with an older son's party.

"It was so much fun working on it, and work, too. But it all paid off when my son said, 'Mom, that was the best party I've ever been to.'

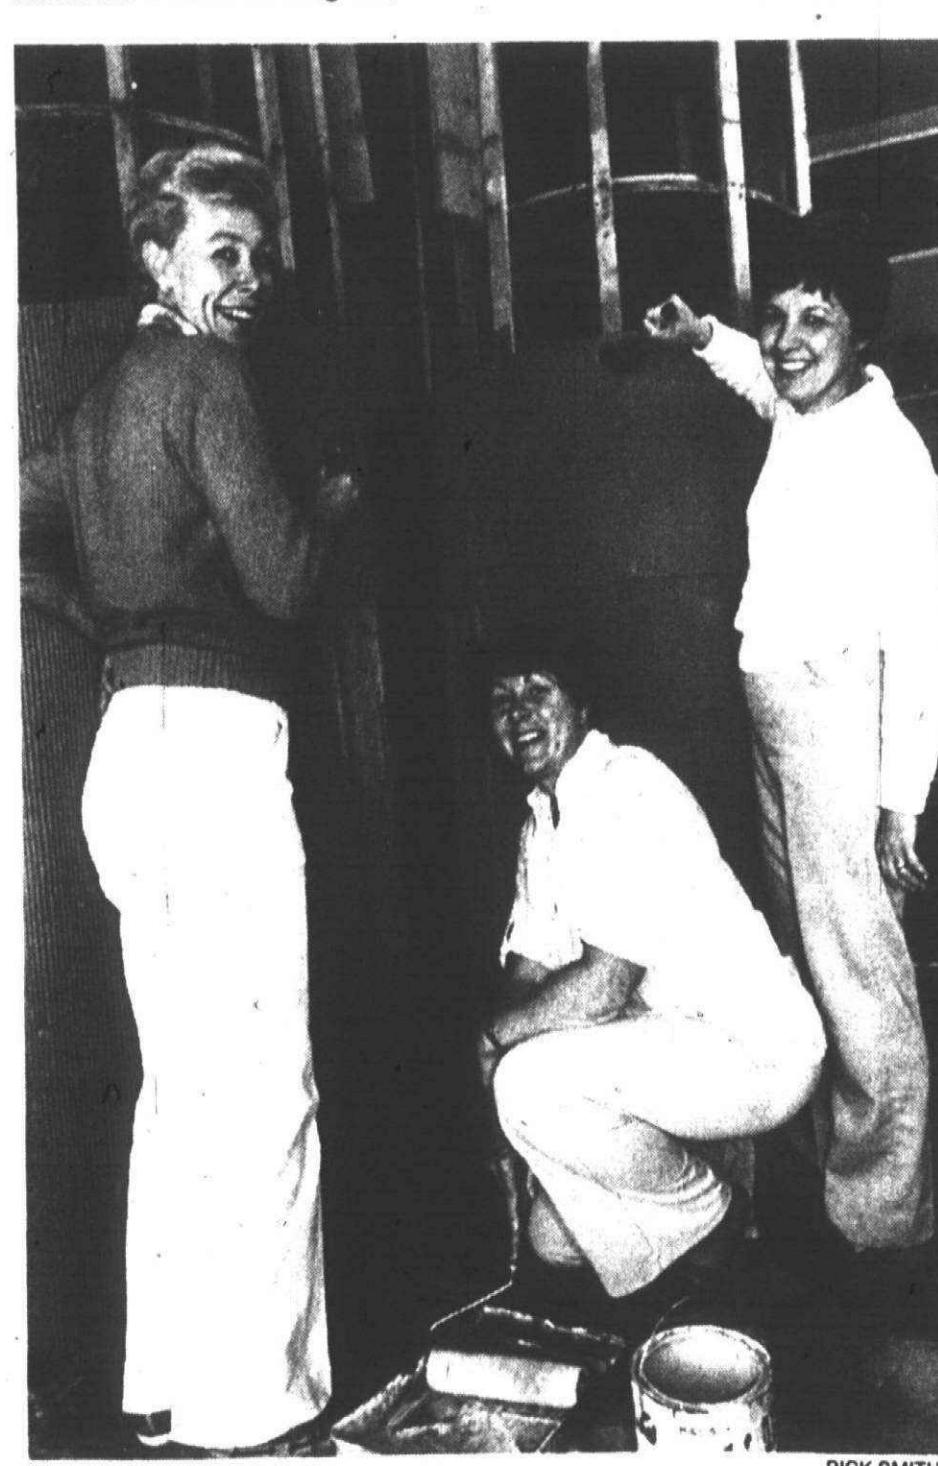

Carolyn Kleinsmith, co-chairman of the party, anticipates a like response this year.

"I know it will be a success, because of the kids. They're a great group of seniors — such enthusiasm. They're bound to have fun."

Barbara McBride is working on her first graduation party, and she's impressed with the community cooperation.

"PEOPLE HAVE come through with great prizes," she said. "There will be two $50 cash prizes, a month at a health club, certificates for fine dinners and fast food snacks, free hair cuts and many more."

Parents working on the party are: Ed and Carolyn Kleinsmith, and Donald and Jan Mckenzie, co-chairmen; Fred and Judy Clement, chaperones; Bob and Sally Evans, decorations; Ken and Beryl Brandt, entertainment; Tom and Mary Jo Workman, food; David and Barbara McBride, prizes; Peggy Fisher, publicity; Bob and Ellen Thompson, tickets; Jim and Ruth McMahon, treasurer; and Jay and Marlyn Finch, evening's end.

Salem slips in Suburban 8 meet

By Jay Keenan
special writer

An injury to a key participant or a sub-par performance in one event during a league track and field meet can ruin a team's finish.

And when the final league standings are based solely on that league meet while none of the previous dual meets are taken into consideration, the effects can be damaging.

Unfortunately for the Plymouth Salem girls' and boys' track teams, that's precisely what happened in the Suburban Eight league meet Wednesday at Salem.

The lady Rocks, 7-0 in duals during the season and 6-0 in the league, settled for third place with 97 points. Trenton unseated defending champ Dearborn with a first-place total of 115, followed by the Pioneers' 109.

In the boys' meet, a heavily favored

Dearborn team took the team title in a cakewalk with 132 points. City rival Edsel Ford was second with 81, followed by Belleville (76). The Rocks, 7-1 in dual meets and expected to finish second in the meet, wound up with a fourth-place total of 71 points.

"Dearborn was awesome," Salem coach Gary Balconi said. "They were every bit as tough as we expected — and more."

In the girls' meet — through the first seven of 15 events — it looked as though the meet would be a tight duel between Salem and Dearborn. At that time, the Rocks were in front with 63 points and the Pioneers had 61. Trenton was a distant third with 37.

But a couple of injuries and a sheepish performance in the mile and two-mile runs began to take its toll on Salem.

'...it was going to be a tight duel all the way. I have no idea why they didn't come through. Only they know that.'

—Scott Kurtz
Salem girls' coach

IRONICALLY, Trenton received heavy support in the distance events, as the Trojans collected 18 points in both the mile and two mile. Salem and Dearborn, on the other hand, managed just two points apiece.

"We started out real well," Salem coach Scott Kurtz said. "We talked to the girls the night before and everybody agreed what we had to do. We were all excited and we were doing well through the field events and it continued right up through the sprinting events."

"And it was going to be a tight duel all the way. I have no idea why they didn't come through. Only they know that."

It could have been the injuries. Linda Lybarger, a key performer throughout the season, ran in the 440- and 880-yard runs despite a strained hamstring, but failed to place. Lybarger, also a promising sprinter, was pulled out of the mile relay prior to the race.

Ann Glomski ran with a leg injury throughout the meet, but still "did a real good job," Kurtz said.

Glomski was a member of Salem's state-qualifying 440 and 880 relay teams along with Mary Dazer, Kelly Berniss and Dawn Johnson.

Both teams, comprised of the same girls, played second fiddle to Dearborn in the league meet, with times of 51.33 and 1:48.24, respectively.

Glomski's day, however, wasn't in vain as she recorded a first in the long jump with a leap of 17 feet, 8½ inches to set a new school and league meet record.

"Other than that, we weren't too badly injured," said Kurtz. "It was just a matter of . . . everybody had their own weight to pull, and we almost did it."

Cindy McSurely took top honors in the 110 hurdles with a clocking of 15.63. But in the 220 hurdles (the fifth-from-final event), she finished sixth.

That's when the Rocks lost the lead, as Dearborn stepped in front with 87 points, followed by Trenton's 81 and Salem's 78.

Trenton then overtook the lead and put Salem out of sight when it tallied 18 points in the two-mile run by virtue of a second-, third- and fourth-place finish.

"We were expecting some points out of the (220) low hurdles," Kurtz said, "especially after McSurely did so well in the 110. So we figured she would come back in the (220) lows, but she didn't."

"And, in the two mile, we didn't get much help. All the Trenton girls finished ahead of us and that killed us right there."

The Rocks received a fine performance from Johnson, who finished second in the 220 with a time of 26.0, which tied her own school record. Johnson also was second in the long jump (17-1 1/2).

Also taking second was Cheri Muneio in the discus (106-9) and Shelly Simons in the 880 (2:31.88).

Muneio was third in the shot put (31-4), and McSurely was third in the high jump (5-1).

"I have no complaints about the season," Kurtz said. "Any time you're 7-0, you shouldn't be complaining. I'm very proud of the team, and we had some real fine accomplishments."

"I would have liked to have seen us be a little bit more competitive at the end, because we started out so well. It's disappointing seeing the other teams getting all the points right there in the end when you need them."

THE SALEM BOYS lost a lot of potential points, largely due to the fact they were without the likes of Scott Fuller, a state-qualifier and defending league champ in the high jump. Fuller missed the meet due to a death in the family.

Salem, however, did receive some good performances from Scott Bublin, who won the 120 high hurdles with a time of 14.4. The time broke Bob Steele's old record of 14.5.

Bublin then won the 100 in a time of 10.0, which eclipsed the school's previous record of 10.1, which he shared with Ed LaRoche.

The Rocks could muster just one other league champ → Dan Lingg in the pole vault (13-6).

"We expected to finish second," Balconi said. "We thought Dearborn might be out of our reach. But we had a couple of unfortunate things happen. When you're in a league that's as tough as ours, that's what happens. We couldn't score in certain races."

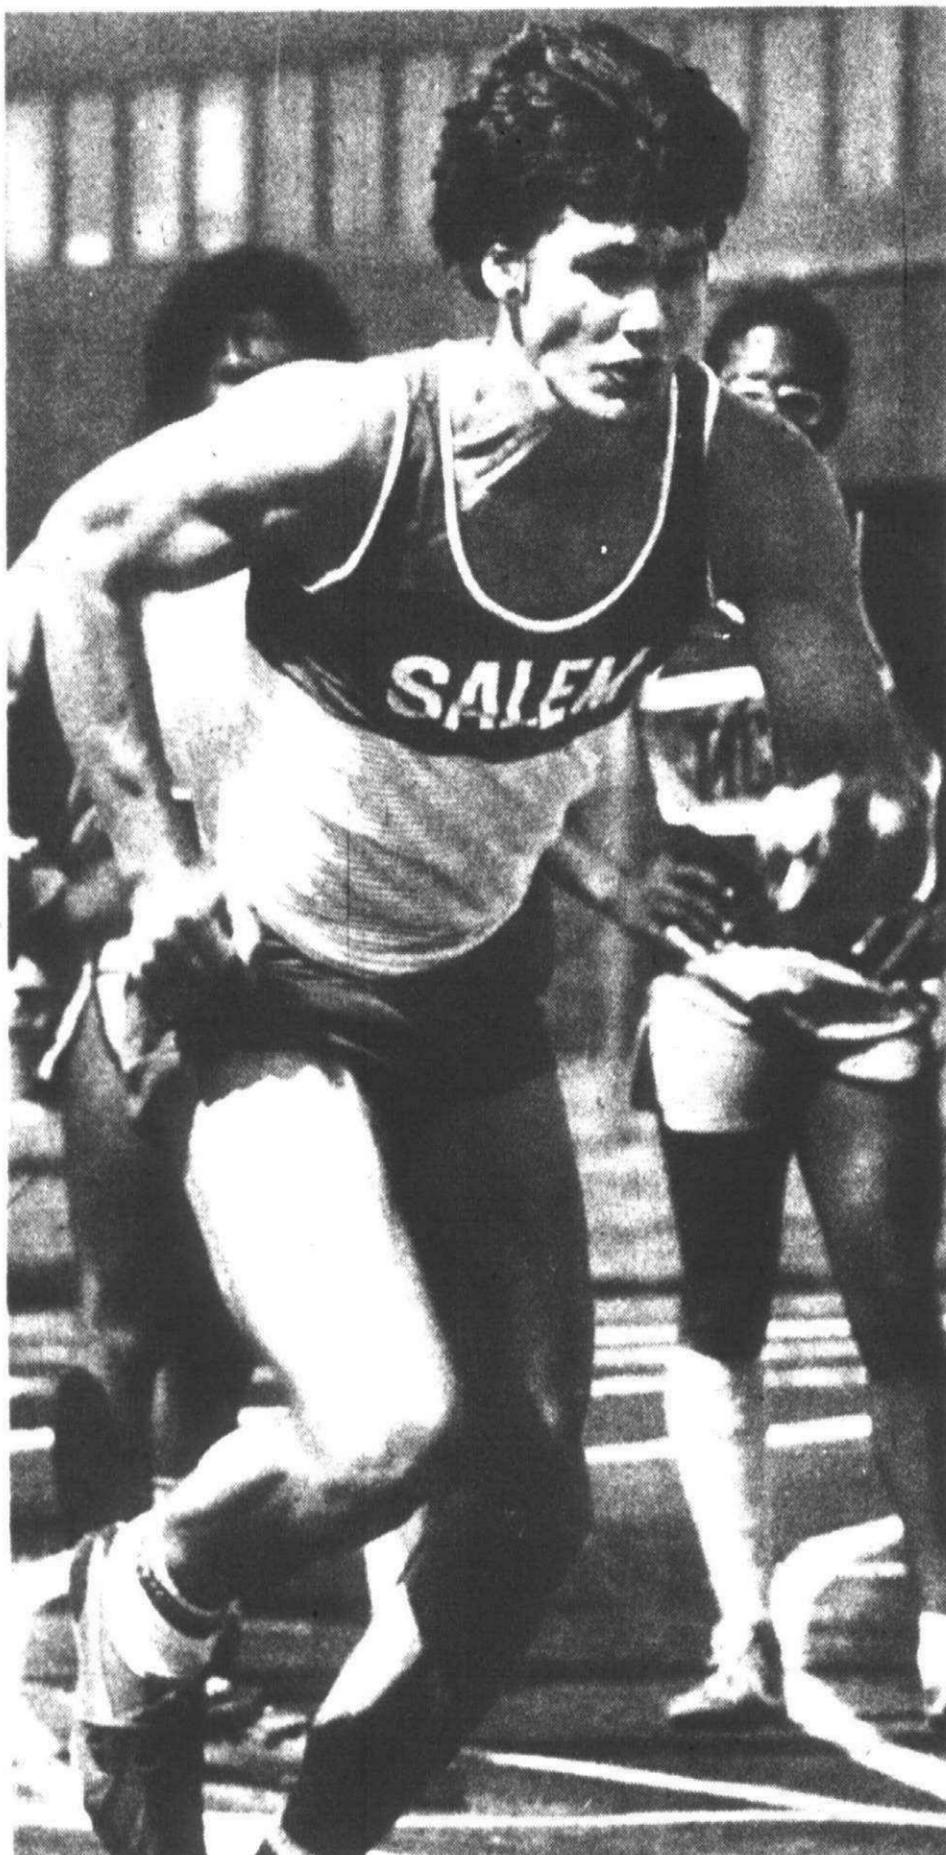

One unfortunate incident that occurred was when Bublin, a favorite in the 330 lows, tripped going over a hurdle.

Tortora in the discus (144-4), Lingg in the long jump (21-6 1/4), Mike Perkowski in the pole vault (13-3), and the 440 relay team of Bublin, Mark Tindall, Marc Davis and Scott Smith (44.76).

Notching thirds were Mike McBride in the 440 (51.97), the 880 relay team of Davis, Tindall, Smith and McBride (1:34.11) and the mile relay of Marvin Zurek, Tindall, Smith and McBride (3:37.56).

Engines galore

Racing one of many facets

By Brad Emons
staff writer

You can't judge a book by its cover. And the same holds true for McLaren Engines, Inc. on Eight Mile Road in Livonia. You'd be surprised to find what goes on inside from what appears on the outer decor.

Let's examine the particulars.

McLaren Engines of Livonia is a sister company of the English firm McLaren International of London. It is an engineering firm with 30 employees which does high-performance engine testing. Employees test the engines of race cars, diesel trucks, American passenger cars and even helicopters.

Last week, McLaren International's race team was in Detroit for the Grand Prix. Austrian Nikki Lauda, a Formula 1 champ in 1975 and 1977, drives for the McLaren team. John Watson of England is the team's other driver.

The Livonia company is involved in Indy-car-type racing, the rival of the Grand Prix circuit. It receives Cosworth engines and rebuilds them here.

McLaren of Livonia had only a week to rebuild Bill Whittington's car, which crashed during a practice lap a day after qualifying for the Indianapolis 500 (May 31). The Livonia crew had Whittington back on the track in 2½ days.

McLaren now services the engines of several Indy teams including the Whittington brothers, Pancho Carter, Howdy Holmes, Chip Ganassi and Josele Garza.

THREE YEARS ago, McLaren of Livonia removed itself from Indianapolis racing. Driver Johnny Rutherford headed the last McLaren team to be based in Livonia.

It was then that team manager Tyler Alexander went to England to work on the Formula 1 project for McLaren. Hassles with the United States Auto Club (USAC), the governing body for Indianapolis, made the decision to switch to Grand Prix racing an easy one.

"We'll help them (McLaren International) during the Grand Prix with local logistics if they need it because they all used to work here," said Wiley McCoy, general manager of the Livonia operation. "We've been growing since the race teams left."

"What goes on here changes daily, but we'll always keep involved in racing."

McLaren, who lives in Livonia, also has done some groundwork in the development of Grand Prix racing for BMW.

"We located here by accident," said McCoy. "Back in 1969 we used to run in the Can-Am Series. We worked closely with Chevrolet, and we tried California, but Detroit was the place to come."

"This building was brand new, and we were the first tenant. We've been here ever since."

THE INTERIOR makeup of the Livonia building has undergone numerous changes. McLaren has branched out from modifying Cosworth engines to turbo development, fuel-ignition testing and high-performance diesel development.

"Business is pretty good," McCoy said. "We find a reasonable amount of work to do. Some test work here is cheaper than in-house."

The dynamometers at McLaren get little rest. The sound of so much power inside is rarely heard by any of the neighbors.

11 straight for Chargers

Churchill rules Western Six league meet

Livonia Churchill, the perennial Western Six League boys' track and field powerhouse, continued its reign over conference foes Wednesday as the Chargers chalked up their 11th consecutive crown.

In the girls' meet, Churchill won its second consecutive title.

The Charger boys outdistanced their nearest competitor by 58 points as they scored 105 points in the five-team gathering. Walled Lake Western was second with 47 points, followed by Plymouth Canton (45), Northville (38) and Farmington Harrison (16).

"One conference championship is just as important as the others," Churchill coach Fred Price said. "I thought our kids who participated performed very well. Many of them turned in their personal bests."

The Chargers tallied seven first-place finishes, including a triple-winning performance from Dave Anderson. Anderson was first in the 110-meter high hurdles (14.6), the 300-meter low hurdles (39.4), and participated on the winning 800 relay team. Anderson teamed with Bill Crawford, Paul DeFlorio and Steve Tracy to win the 800 relay in 1:31.7.

Tim Luch was a double-winner for Churchill as he was first in both heavy field events. Luch won the shot put with a heave of 46-11 and the discuss with a toss of 140-8.

Other Charger firsts included Brian Luallen in the pole vault (12-10) and Steve O'Hara in the high jump (6-4).

David Simms was a double-winner for Canton in individual events as he was first in the 400 and 100 dashes. He clocked in at 11.2 in the 100 and 50.7 in the 400. Teammate Mark Ritchey was first in the 200 (22.9).

Canton's mile relay team of Simms, Frank Asis, Brian Rogers and Tom Harris checked in with a first-place time of 3:30.1.

THE GIRLS' FINAL Western Six track and field league meet saw Churchill successfully defend its championship as the Chargers topped the five-team field Wednesday at Northville.

The Western Six and Inter-Lakes leagues will disband next year, and the two conferences will join forces to form the West Lakes Activities Association.

The last league meet for Western Six members resulted in Churchill tallying 95 points to claim the title, while Walled Lake Western finished second with 91.

Plymouth-Canton and Northville tied for third with 18 points each, and Farmington Harrison was last with 5.

Churchill parlayed 10 first-place finishes and four seconds into a championship performance. All three Churchill relays teams finished in the top spot.

Canton girls fall; Salem soars on

The Plymouth Canton girls' softball team, winners of 11 of its last 12 games, was bounced from Class A state play Tuesday after a 7-1 predistrict loss at Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Canton committed six errors against Pioneer and failed to make up for it at the plate. Pioneer pitcher Debbie Copp allowed just four hits in the seven-inning game. Copp struck out seven and walked four.

"Even though the errors were hurting us, we didn't hit the ball very well," Canton coach Max Sommerville said. "We hit a lot of pop ups. We played like we did at the beginning of the year."

Janine Carpenter, who Sommerville said "didn't pitch that badly," suffered the loss as she allowed eight hits.

Canton finished with a 12-6 overall record.

On May 24, the Chiefs defeated Farmington Harrison, which put them into a first-place tie with Walled Lake Western in the Western Six league. Both Canton and Western finished with league records of 6-2.

PLYMOUTH SALEM qualified for Saturday's district tournament after blanking Ypsilanti, 13-0 in predistrict play.

Diane Murphy fired a two-hitter past Ypsilanti to record the win.

Salem (14-9) banged out 11 hits in the five-inning, mercy rule-terminated contest. Sarah McKenna slapped three hits in four trips to the plate, while Mary Kay Mundinger was two-for-two.

Dawn Henning had two doubles, and Kelly Strautz hit a two-run triple. Amy Sidorsky collected one hit and two RBI.

GARAGE SALE

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN...

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own . . . but it takes a bit of planning.

Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item . . . and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers . . . so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

One more thing . . . get up early the day of your sale! When people read about a Garage Sale in Classified, they shop early.

Have fun with your little business adventure!
