Board looks at cutting middle school safety busing

The elimination of safety busing for all middle school students for the coming school year has been recommended by the safety committee of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The committee also is suggesting that safety busing for all elementary pupils be ended by the 1983-84 school year.

That would effectively eliminate safety busing entirely as the practice was halted for high schoolers during the current

The board tentatively has agreed to discuss the proposal at a workshop meeting in July. Dale Goby, transportation and safety director, said he believes it is unlikely middle school safety busing will be changed during the coming year as he doesn't feel the board will act on the report quick enough to get the new routes into the computer.

Safety busing refers to providing transportation to students for reasons of safety who otherwise would be ineligible

By state law, anyone living 1.5 miles or further from school must be bused. The district does not receive any financial reimbursement for students who live within 1.5 miles of their neighborhood school but are bused.

By school district policy, pupils in grades K-2 who live one mile or more from school are bused.

Safety busing is when the school board provides for busing within 1.5 miles for grades 3 and higher on a temporary basis up to one year because of hazardous areas which exist between the student's home and school.

Hazardous areas are defined by the school board in cooperation with the safety committee and administration. Last week, the school board received from the safety committee its "temporary busing recommendations" for school

The main recommendations were that safety busing for middle school students be discontinued as of the fall of 1982 and that the recommendations for removing elementary safety busing be implemented in the fall of 1983.

AT THE ELEMENTARY level, the safety committee recommended that safety busing at the following schools:

Eriksson School:

Bedford Village condominiums, north of the school, south of Ford and west of Haggerty; Sawmill Creek area west of Haggerty, north of Cherry Hill, and east of Lilley south of the school; Cherry Hill east of Haggerty; and area south of Ford/McIntyre;

• Field School:

West side of Haggerty north of school; Northwind/ Southwind on east side of Haggerty. • Gallimore School:

Area south of the school, north of Warren and west of For Field, the committee recommended stopping safety busing for Northwind/Southwind only upon placement of a crossing guard at Haggerty and Southwind. For other areas now receiving elementary safety busing this year, the committee is recommending continuation for the coming school year.

Committee members include: residents Jeanette Wines,

Marilyn Rickard, Camile Van Kirk, Betty Nanney, and Nancy Stephenson; Dale Goby, director of transportation and safety; Dan Minghine, director of building and grounds; Walter Bartnick, assistant director of labor relations; Earl Gibson, principal at Farrand School; Harold Weiner, director of elementary special education; Dave Dursum, assistant director of community education; Johnie Belcher, crossing guard; Carl Berry, police chief, Plymouth Police Department; and Lt. Dennis Joker, Canton Police Department.

In its report, the committee repeated its observation from last year that more sidewalks are needed in Canton and Plymouth townships.

"Once again, little improvement in the availability of paved pedestrian walking areas was observed. As a committee, however, the recommendations were based on the availability of reasonably adequate walking areas rather than sidewalks."

Criteria considered by the committee included age of the students, adequacy of the walking area, and traffic condi-

"We spend a tremendous amount of time with stray animals," said Cox. "People allow them to run loose.

"Vaccination is my main objective," added Cox. "Plus, there has been an increase in requests for services. We need to do something about it, and we need to do it now."

Lunch program still losing money

By Dennis O'Connor editor

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools food-service operation will lose money again this year.

Officials are projecting a $60,000 loss in the lunch program, managed this past school year by Interstate United Corp., an outside food-service

Currently, the schools have lost $71,000 under the system, but expect about $11,000 from Extended School Year (ESY) buildings which will be in session this summer, explains Dan White, the district's finance director.

The board examined different food service proposals at Monday's workshop meeting, looking for a cure for the program's long-standing financial ills.

The board wants a system which will at least break even. Interstate was contracted for one year last August and wants a renewal of its contract and another chance to solve the cost problems. Cafeteria workers, however, proposed hiring an in-house director to coordinate the lunch program.

FIVE ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS, all middle schools and both high schools are losing money with their lunch programs, White said. Some elementary schools, however, recorded a profit.

Jack Chandler, food service director for Interstate, proposed that all elementary-school lunches be prepared and transported, or "satellited," from a central kitchen at Plymouth Salem High School.

Chandler also proposed investigating an a la carte system for middle schools, with results of the investigation reported to the board by this No-Under the satellite program, Chan-

The major savings under satelliting is a reduction of more than $65,000 in labor costs.

"We feel this is the best way for the district to go," Chandler said. "We feel we have to make a major impact on production, first. The satellite (plan) gets us close to break-even while we look at the other problems."

BOARD TREASURER Glenn Schroeder questioned Interstate's proposal. He said to forget satelliting and attack the problem at the middle schools and high schools. He didn't believe the problem was severe at the elementary level because some schools made a profit. 'B' can do it," Schroeder said. "If one tion (PCCA), the cafeteria workers' unschool can make money, I don't see any reason why all the schools can't make money, or at least break even."

Canton man takes N'ville school post

A Canton educator has been named superintendent of the Northville School District.

George Bell, 54, will assume the superintendent's position July 1. The Northville Board of Education approved a three-year, $50,000 contract

Currently Bell is superintendent of the Van Dyke Public Schools district in Warren, a post he has held since 1980. Previously, he had been affiliated with the Wayne-Westland district for 29

Bell named his goals as continuing quality education and improving services in the 3,535-student Northville district, which also has a substantial special-education program.

"It's (Northville) a lot closer to home, and that has to be a factor," said Bell, a 14-year resident of Canton.

"It's my feeling that the only thing that happens in the school district is what happens to kids in the classroom," added Bell. "All districts have problems - mostly financial."

BELL WILL replace Lawrence Nichols, who resigned in April. About 100 applications were received for the Northville superintendent's position.

During interview proceedings with the Northville school board, Bell requested permission to remain living in Canton. He cited the current slump in the housing market and his youngest son's status as a junior at John Glenn High School in Westland.

Bell told the board he would prefer that his son not attend school in the same district he is administering.

THE NEW superintendent began his career in 1951 as an instrumental music instructor in the Wayne-Westland district. In 1959, he was named that district's music coordinator.

In 1966, Bell was named principal of Wavne Memorial High School, serving until his selection for the Van Dyke dis-

Charlie's spirit lives on at store

By W.W. Edgar staff writer

The spirit of old Charlie Hewer lives on.

Six years have passed since the man who operated the feed store on Canton Center Road, across from Plymouth Canton High School, died - but his little feed store still is alive and well.

Several years before Charlie died, a friend bought the building that had been a haven for bird lovers and cattlemen. He allowed Hewer to remain in the little frame building that had been there for

Then, when the master of the feed supply no longer was there, the new owner turned the place over to three daughters of a friend with hopes of keeping Charlie's spirit alive.

And they are doing a grand job.

serve his long-time customers," Rita Thompson, one of the sisters, explained.

HELPING HER IN the task of operating the store are Catherine Foege and Mary Perlongo. They take turns in handling the customers and supervising the business.

Nothing has been done in an architectural way to change the building, but the number of bins and shelves has been increased and the sale of plants and flowers have been added to the stock.

"We haven't neglected the seed business and we have food for all kinds of animals from pigs to horses," Thompson explained.

The women didn't find it difficult to take over the store six years ago. The family had lived in Canton, and still does. On the family plot they raised vegetables and other varieties of garden favorites.

"We sold them to friends and neighbors as they passed by and we soon learned something about business. We often came up to the store and we knew Hewer very well.

"So when we took over, it looked like a big job but we wanted to help the old man's memory live and we are doing fine."

They recalled that when the store was opened years ago it was known as the Country Place Feed Store. They've kept the name. In those early days, the area was wide open and had a good many

THE AREA HAS changed now. Canton has grown. No longer are there many farms. But there are plenty of birds and other animals that need food. So business has continued on a high level.

The only change from the old days is the addition of plants and flowers. They add a bit of color to the exterior, keeping pace with the interior that has brightly printed feed bags stacked to the ceiling.

Old Charlie Hewer would be pleased.

Magic team brings smiles to listeners

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

The morning music really isn't the magic on WMJC. The true magicians are the morning airpersonalities of Jerry St. James and Jeff Elliot.

St. James' and Elliot's "sleight of hand" starts with grumpy, sleepy listeners and ends with getting them to work in a cheerful, awakened mood.

Like similar shows on WNIC and WRIF, St. James and Elliot surround themselves with a cast of imaginary characters. The characters regularly accompany listeners on the way to work, many times bringing a laugh or two.

Elliot and St. James, who does the array of voices, claim most of the show is spontaneous, only with a general sense of where they want to end up.

Although the skits are based on stereotypes and often are predictable, they easily lend to the lighthearted nature of the show.

THE HUMOR is mostly satirical, but never is you're the one passing you can't look at the other driver, but if you're the one being passed it's OK to look at the driver," says St. James.

"We notice those types of things and then use them on the show. Everyone who drives can relate to something like that," he says.

The Jeff and Jer Show is built around people being themselves, the two claim.

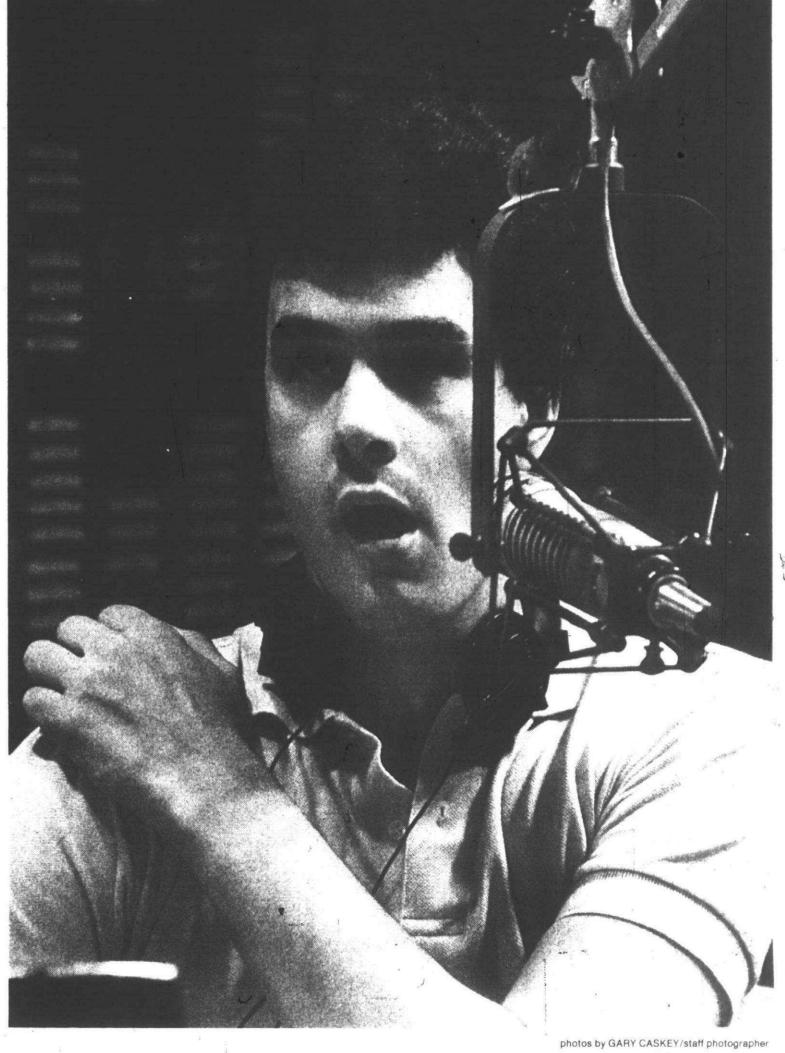

"That's the reason the show works. It's not something you put on and take off like a shirt," says St. James.

'I'm not labor's pawn or big spender'

By Suzie Rollins Singer staff writer

U.S. Rep. James Blanchard, D-Pleasant Ridge, recruited more than 100 western Wayne County elected officials and asked that they spread the word that he's the best candidate for governor.

"Endorsements are nice, but they don't win elections - people do," Blanchard told a small group of officials Friday at Livonia's Holiday Inn.

"We need you people to tell the activists in your communities that you support me," he added.

Blanchard's campaign workers had a list of supporters from Wayne County city and school districts including Canton Township trustee Carol A. Bodenmiller; Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, Clerk Robert Nash and Council member Alice M. Gundersen; and Redford Township Supervisor James P. Kelly, Treasurer Edward T. Kennedy and trustee Marilyn L. Heldenbrand.

IN HIS efforts to avoid being labelled a "labor candidate," Blanchard established a Blanchard Business Council, a group of key members of Michigan's business communi-

"I have the support of a blue ribbion group of business men and women - both small and large," he said.

"We share a common belief that the serious troubles confronting Michigan can only be solved by a cooperative effort between business, labor and government," he

Republicans have long criticized Democrats as big spenders, an image that might be tough to handle in light of Michigan's current fiscal crisis. "I look at spending as an investment in people and the quality of life in the state, the congressman said. "I'm for spending money on student loans and solar energy. Investing in the future, not in keep paying for the past.

"But I'm also a believer in scaled-back government. I'll probably be the first Democratic governor to have to cut back government positions. But that's required today. It's a financial reality.'

HIGHER EDUCATION is one area Blanchard doesn't want to cut, but wants to see it pared down to size.

"We've got to have a comprehensive scale back and consolidate our institutions,' he explained.

"By 1990, the higher education populatio. will be half what it was in 1970. Because of the current financial situation in Michigan, we're forced to cut down on size or raise tuition. We can't keep raising taxes, so I believe we'll have to start combining resources.'

Blanchard said it's imperative the state have an independent audit and that all the financial facts be laid on the table.

Rather than contracting an outside firm, Strebbing believes an "open campus" system at the high school, an "offer" rather than serve system, or the possibility of a "family-style" pass-around lunch at some elementary schools could increase student participation and interest, and cut down on food waste.

Strebbing's proposal is modeled after a system used in South Lyon, where, on one day, at one school, workers fed 250 students at a total food cost of only

At public hearing

Board discusses new budget

Wayne-Westland school officials would be required to take a $1.1-million chunk out of cash reserves to balance a proposed 1982-83 operating budget scheduled for a public hearing Monday.

It sets spending at $62.1 million, income at $60.9 million and would make up the difference from reserves built up over the past several years, said John M. Baracy, school district business manager.

The hearing is scheduled for 6 p.m. in the Wayne-Westland school board offices, 36745 Marquette, west of Wayne Road.

The board is expected to approve the budget in a business meeting immediately following the hearing.

The reserves Baracy cited were $527,500 for projected maintenance and roof repairs, $191,000 for book replacements and a $300,000 contingency for possible executive order cuts from the governor's office.

INCLUDED in the new spending plan is a $2.6-million increase in outlays over levels in the current fiscal year ending on June 30. Baracy said latest figures show income of $59.4 million, spending of $59.8 million and a finishing surplus of $400,000 to $600,000

Wayne-Westland School District

The district serves southeast depending on final state aid and spending adjustments.

A big piece of the proposed $2.6-million spending increase, about $1.4 million, would be for employee salary and wage increases, Baracy said. Of the rest, $277,000 would be for utilities, $200,000 for lunch-room programs and $708,000 for insurance.

For the second straight year, costs of paying unemployment benefits are pegged at $300,000, a sign of the economic recession and employees layoffs. Baracy said the teacher ranks alone will be thinned by the equivalent of 42 net positions, and many of those will collect unemployment compensa-

School district employees are covered under two health insurance programs, one with Blue Cross-Blue Shield and the other with the Michigan Educational Special Service Association.

The district is feeling a financial pinch in those two areas, Baracy said, with Blue Cross premiums up 24 percent and association premiums 16 percent.

THE BUDGET is based on an operating tax rate of 40.65 mills ($40.65 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation), same as the current rate. The district also levies 7 mills for debt retirement.

The final tax rate will be set later in the summer, Baracy said, "because there are too many unknowns in the budget to recommend anything other than the current rate."

Baracy outlined the preliminary budget proposals for the school board in a threehour study meeting Monday night. The board met in a short executive session afterwards to discuss the status of contract negotiations with its seven employee unions.

Baracy said he preferred not to comment on the effects of the contract negotiations on the budget because the talks are "in a delicate stage."

Cab, bus fares to increase July 1

Fares for subsidized taxi cabs and large and small buses will be increasing July 1 for users in northwestern

Wayne County. Livonia, Plymouth and Plymouth Township users of the subsidized cab service will pay $1.80 per trip compared to the current rate of $1.50.

Senior and handicapped residents will pay 90 cents compared to the current 75-cents-per-trip fare they now

The new fares are equivalent to those charged on the SEMTA Connector which provides small bus service throughout the region through the Transportation Authority.

A $4-per-trip fare-rate ceiling has been in effect for the subsidized taxi cab service as of February and is not changed by this fare increase.

Beyond the ceiling, individual riders pay the actual cost of the taxi ride. Those who share their trips are not affected by the $4 fare ceiling.

The higher rates (21-percent increase) on all SEMTA bus services have been necessitated by escalating operating expenses and are an essential part of SEMTA's overall strategy to maintain as much service as possible subsidies, a SEMTA spokesman said.

SEMTA board approval of the new fares was preceded by a series of 10 public hearings held throughout the region, including five in Wayne County. Modifications to the originally proposed increases were made after analyzing passengers' and public officials' comments and suggestions.

Besides the public hearings, SEMTA surveyed 6,000 commuters by mail to find out whether they supported or opposed the fare increases as proposed.

One-fourth of the commuters queried returned completed questionnaires.

auspices of the Southeastern Michigan despite diminishing federal and state Nearly 80 percent of those who responded said they were willing to pay a higher fare if it meant that services on their route would be maintained

> Fares for students were not increased and, in an effort to lessen the gap between commuter rail and bus fares and thus encourage passengers on crowded Woodward buses to use commuter rail service, there also was no increase in commuter rail fare.

In fact, a change in the commuter rail zone charge actually will result in a 5-cent decrease in commuter rail

Police unions split on McNamara, Lucas

Police unions are going different routes in backing candidates for Wayne County executive.

The Police Officers Association of Michigan (POAM), representing law-enforcement officers in 15 Wayne County communities, this week endorsed Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, a Democrat, for the new

Last week the Detroit Police Officers Association endorsed Sheriff William Lucas, who is also seeking the Democratic nomination.

"FROM THE point of view of professional police, Ed McNamara is the clear choice to provide strong leadership to Wayne County," said Carl Parsell, POAM executive director.

"More than any other candidate, McNamara combines the ability to administer efficiently with an understanding of the importance of good law enforcement," said Parsell.

McNamara is also endorsed by 23 Wayne County mayors and township supervisors; two U.S. congressmen; the Greater Detroit Building Trades Council, AFL-CIO; Teamsters Local 299; Stan Arnold, secretary-treasurer of the Michigan Building Trades Council, AFL-CIO; UAW Regional Directors Bard Young and Robert (Buddy) Battle; and several UAW locals.

DAVID WATROBA, president of the Detroit POA, said Lucas "will bring to county government the same first-class administrataive ability that he displayed for 14 years as sheriff. He has proven he has the temperament and toughness to handle the top job in county government.

"Since the position is new and Wayne County will be working with a new charter, it is extremely important that the county executive be somene who can bring the county's diverse interests together in a tough, positive manner. Bill Lucas, in working with the DPOA, has always been a positive influence."

Lucas' camp this week also announced the endorsements of a pair of infuential Oakland County Republican names - Max Fisher, Franklin Village financier, and Alan Schwartz, attorney from Bloomfield Hills.

That's the opinion of Helen Milliken, wife of Gov. William G. Milliken, and other women's rights activists. Mrs. Milliken shared her thoughts re-

Big Seven Lake near Holly is the largemouth bass hot spot of southeast Michigan.

Several limit catches were reported by state DNR officers, who add that "everyone is catching a few." Best baits: purple plastic worms and the Rapala artificial minnow.

Fish sizes range from 14-20 inches. Legal limit there is 14 inches.

Tiger Rick Leach at Harvard Square signs autographs for twins Hank (left) and Norman

Tiger fans meet Leach

By Rick Smith special writer

Baseball fans young and old flocked to the Harvard Square Shopping Center in Canton to meet Detroit Tiger first baseman Rick Leach Saturday.

Leach put in a special appearance on the corner of Ford and Sheldon, posing for photographs and signing baseballs, baseball cards, gloves, programs and flyers presented to him by eager fans.

Plagued by a shoulder injury, Leach has been on the disabled list most of the season. But he said that's all behind him now.

"This is the first time this year I can throw without pain," Leach said.

"I had some bad luck with injuries at the first of the season, but that's behind me now, and (manager) Sparky (Anderson) is going to give me a chance to prove myself."

Leach thinks the pennant is not an unrealistic goal for the Tigers in 1982. He points to the great depth on the bench and the good clutch hitters "that can come up with a hit when it counts to drive in that run from second base

Denne s

Well-known for his quarterbacking abilities with the University of Michigan, where he played 48 consecutive games, Leach was drafted by the National Football League's Denver Broncos during his last semester of college.

He turned down the Broncos and signed with the Tigers because baseball generally offers the opportunity for a longer career.

"I liked the idea of playing for the Tigers because they're a home team, and I could stay in the state near my friends and family," Leach said.

Leach is happy with the Tigers and hopes to have a long and prosperous career with the club. Originally from Flint, Leach was awarded a scholarship to U-M, where he and fellow Flint Southwestern player, split end Gene Johnson, teamed up to take the Wolverines to the Rose Bowl in 1978. Leach also played baseball during his college career.

Leach possesses a strong local appeal. He is the only man to throw a touchdown pass in the U-M football stadium and hit a home run in Tiger Stadi-

Citizens have responsibilities

To the editor:

Resolved: Before a citizen would be allowed to speak during the "Citizens Comments" segment of the school board meeting, their voting record should be checked. If the said citizen did not vote in the June 14 election (school-board-members-only election), the citizen should not be allowed to speak.

Those who are not sufficiently interested to carry out their responsibilities as citizens should forfeit their right to complain.

I think this should be applicable to other segments of government also. Janet Campbell Plymouth

Are all happy with schools?

To the editor:

I was disappointed in the election results of June 14. I find it hard to believe no new person was elected for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

This tells me that everyone is happy with the current board and its work. I believe the present board is stagnant and the only way we can create change in the school district is by placing new people with fresh ideas on the board.

The people who did not bother to vote are a disappointment as well. If we do not exercise our right to vote, we do not have any right to complain when the board starts playing with our children's lives.

Student against teacher shift

To the editor: I would like to call attention to a serious mistake in process at the Plymouth Canton Community Schools. This is a decision to transfer-Stephen Williams to a middle school in the district.

Williams is a social studies teacher at Plymouth Canton High School. He is currently the only philosophy teacher on the staff and for a good reason - he is best qualified. Williams has a bachelor's degree in political science and history, a master's degree in philosophy of education, and for the past three years has been working on his Ph.D. in the education of philosophy and education of psychology.

Williams' enthusiasm for teaching is unending. He has taught many sessions of summer school and night school besides regular school hours.

Those who know him personally realize his special ability to work with high-school students. He goes beyond the typically superficial relationship between teacher and student and helps students learn to think and get involved.

If Williams were to teach a conventional social studies class at middle school his abilities would be grossly under-used. A teacher who has devoted several years of enthusiasm and skill to Canton and developed personal relationships there deserves better.

I urge any citizens who want to show their support for quality education to write the school board or attend one of the meetings and voice your opinion of support for Stephen Williams.

Principal shuffle good, but Elston will be missed

ERALD ELSTON won't be at Pioneer Middle School next year.

That sounds strange, doesn't it? It just

That sounds strange, doesn't it? It just doesn't seem as if Pioneer will be the same without the popular principal.

Staff members had a going-away party for Elston last week. The 62-year-old leaves Pioneer and will return to the classroom this fall before retiring. This moves fulfills a promise made by the late Superintendent Russell Isbister, who told Elston more than 25 years ago that he eventually could return to teaching after his administrative duties for the district were finished.

Elston's love for the classroom is as deep as his love for staffers and students at Pioneer. It doesn't seem that long ago when I was an eighth-grader at Pioneer. I can remember "Mr. Elston" walking through the halls at the school on Ann Arbor Road. He always was soft-spoken but never was afraid to voice his opinion or to discipline a student who was misbehaving during class changes.

Elston was respected by students, but I couldn't fully appreciate, then, how well-liked he was by his staff. Most teachers I've talked to have nothing but kind words for this man.

He will be missed by many at Pioneer.

WHILE CHANGE often is difficult to accept, but inevitable, it was nice to see the Board of Education use this opportunity of Elston's semi-retirement to create some changes in the administrative structure at the middle-school level.

Elston's return to the classroom spurs a series of transfers which should benefit the curriculum in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Carl Taylor, the East Middle School principal, moves to Pioneer, while Central Middle School Principal Gus Gorguze moves to East. Central's assistant principal, Greg Owens, gains a promotion into Gorguze's slot.

These changes are long overdue and should be a boost to the educational environment at all three middle schools.

Doc's corner

Dennis
O'Connor

Often, when teachers and administrators are in the same position for a number of years, it is extremely hard to be creative and motivated by the challenges of education. It's one reason teachers frequently request to teach a variety of courses after a long period of time.

The board was wise in making these changes.

IT'S A SHAME, however, that the shuffle didn't involve Robert Smith, longtime principal at West Middle School. It was discussed by the administrative cabinet but never implemented. Superintendent John Hoben has alluded that more changes may occur at the middle schools in the next couple of years. It is to be hope that Smith will be involved at that time.

The administration also should look into completing principal shuffles at the elementary level and possibly re-examine the principal structure at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

Ron South, former Smith Elementary School principal, is returning from a leave of absence this fall, so it would be a perfect time to incorporate South's reassignment into finishing elementary-principal changes which began two years ago.

Few administrative changes have occurred at the CEP in recent years. It may be wise to begin look-a ing at possible shuffles there, as well.

Change is difficult to accept — especially in the case of Elston's farewell from Pioneer. But in the long-range goals for solid education, the board must be commended for shuffling middle-school principals

The board shouldn't stop now.

FitzPatrick unleashes cross-filing

B OB FITZPATRICK CHUCKLES when the going gets rough, and so the "Republocrat" candidate for Wayne County executive has been doing quite a bit of chuckling the last FitzPatrick, 48, won a Circuit Court decision Friday allowing him to run for both the Democratic and Republican nominations for county exec. You may ask, So what? Another election year lawsuit, isn't it? More of the old Wayne County politics?

Not so. County Clerk James Killeen, an expert in election law who ought to know, called it "a land-mark decision" that makes Michigan "a cross-filing state."

The implications are enormous. And while Bob FitzPatrick always has been a progressive and productive politician, as well as a genuinely lovable guy, I'm not sure I like Michigan's being "a crossfiling state"

CROSS-FILING in other states has had the effect of polarizing the parties.

In New York, let's say Candidate A runs for governor as a Democrat. If he's far enough to the left, the Liberal Party will nominate him, too, and Candidate A walks into the election with two blocks of votes.

Or let's say Candidate B is nominated by the Republicans, but the Conservative Party finds him too centrist. The Conservatives nominate a different candidate and split the right-of-center vote.

The effect is to give some minority parties to the left and right political leverage on the two major

I like an election where I can choose between a Blanchard and a Brickley. The Hubers and the Ferencys don't like it. And they have just won one.

JUDGE THEODORE Bohn said state law doesn't prohibit FitzPatrick from running for two nominations although, in the unlikely event he won both, he could appear only once on the November ballot.

Nevertheless, the damage of cross-filing has been done. Now the Michigan Legislature needs to clear up the permissive ambiguities in the election law which FitzPatrick's attorney found and the judge.

acknowledged.

Ironically, FitzPatrick's purpose isn't to polarize the parties. He himself is a moderate Democrat who, in many outstate towns, would be comfortable as a Milliken Republican.

FitzPatrick's ploy is clear: A Republican nomination in Wayne County will be worthless if Democrats nominate a progressive, competent reformer like Livonia Mayor Ed McNamara. But the GOP nod could become extremely valuable if Democrats nominate someone like Sheriff William Lucas, whose free-spending administrative incompetence and empire-building ego are the problems rather than the solutions.

FOR TWO YEARS, Wayne County has been on the right track — voting for a Charter Commission, overhwelmingly adopting a surprisingly good charter, and fielding a group of chief executive candidates only one of whom is frightfully bad.

It's unfortunate the Lucas specter has driven FitzPatrick to the desperate step of cross-filing.

I wish instead Fitz had become an out-and-out Republican — or joined the McNamara camp.

Mideast crisis hits home

"My parents are under seige and I'm worried

These are the words, a cry of anguish, from a Lebanese-American who must stand helplessly by as his native land and his family are being destroyed.

He is only one of thousands who live day to day worrying and wondering about his family's fate. His tone of voice betrays his calm, outward exterior.

Outrage has passed him by. He seems almost resigned to the strife which tortures his homeland.

His 72-year-old father, a businessman/farmer, lives near Beirut on the road to Damascus where the heaviest fighting has taken place. One sister lives near the Beirut Airport, the one we see every night on television being bombarded.

Another sister lives in a town called Aley which has been "shelled everyday," he says.

Although he came to this country when he was 16, much of his heart remains with his family, the family he is unable to talk with either by mail or tele-

"I can't get through. But I know they're alive," he says. To find out about his family, he called a friend in Venezuela who was able to get through.

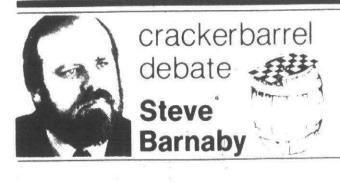

It's a long way from Beirut to the suburbs of Detroit. In the last month to Lebanese-Americans it might as well be Mars.

LEBANON HAS BEEN used as a Mideast punching bag for nearly a decade. Once known as the pearl of the Middle East because of its beautiful terrain and seaside resorts, it now has become a living hell.

But to most Americans it is just another war we watch on the evening news.

"I am disappointed in what the U.S. is doing. This country is the moral leader of the world. I would hope that President Reagan would step in with both feet," says the Lebanese-American man.

No, he isn't talking about troops or arms. As a matter of fact, this man deplores what he sees as saber-rattling by Israeli and Arabic leaders.

"All sides must be willing to sit down at the negotiating table. The PLO must realize that Israel is here to stay, and Israel must realize that Palestinians need a place to live. But the key operator in this whole thing is the president of the United States," he says

But the president will do something only when he realizes that American citizens are tired of spending millions of dollars on a cruel and brutal war.

Most importantly, it is the Jewish population in this country, which must start talking sense to its cousins, brothers and sisters in Israel.

"NEVER AGAIN," says Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, referring to the World War II Holocaust.

And what an irony, what a shame, that it is a Jewish nation which threatens the existence of an entire ethnic group. Palestinians won't go away because America or Israel pretends they don't exist

Neither will Israeli soldiers kill them all. The Lebanese invasion will only drive them to more militant action on an international scale.

Never again, Mr. Begin.

Not in Germany, not in Israel.

And not in Lebanon.

Reader says column gave only half the story

To the editor

In Tim Richard's column of June 17, "Troopers' proposal immodest," it appears he only got half of the story. This proposal would provide for a minimum number of troopers which would be based on the population at the time; thus, it would still be proportional in the 21st century.

Why have a proposal covering troopers and not the attorney general's office, toxic waste commission, or other state agencies, Richard asks?

Because troopers are a commodity to be shuffled back and forth and used to gain votes or threaten cutbacks or other shenanigans by politicians such as the governor.

What happens every time the poor taxpayer considers voting down a tax increase? Right away, he is threatened with police cuts. The fat in Lansing is never cut. The proposal would allow the citizen to have the tax cut and still keep essential services and hopefully force the governor to cut the wasteful portion of government.

And how could Richard obtain an impartial view from Col. Gerald Hough? Isn't he appointed by the governor—the same governor who would be losing some valuable pawns (troopers) in the political power struggle game?

If the governor and Legislature insist on letting our tax dollars go to waste on unnecessary programs, it's time we let them know what services we want.

John Pflaum Flat Rock

Reader criticizes pro-tax editorial

To the editor

In reading the article by Tim Richard, "Anti-tax attitude is shortsighted," I must once more voice my opinion on the way your writers (and I have come to use that term very loosely) always seem to take the side of the establishment and the way they feel things ought to be

Mr. Richard is obviously a wealthy man who feels that there should be no one who has the right to try to change the way taxes in all forms have been blatantly forced upon the people of Michigan.

Headlee was a mandate of the people — the Legislature only corrupted it. All forms of property taxes are a Catch 22 in this state.

NO MATTER what the economic conditions are, no matter what the values are, no matter what anyone tries to do about them on an individual basis, taxes always go up.

Why don't you write about the inadequacies of the system as it stands, instead of taking critical potshots at people and groups who are at least making an attempt to changing the laws?

Not once can I ever remember reading in the Observer that Lame Duck Milliken (thank God) constantly black-mailed the parents of Michigan with threats of more school money cutoffs if he didn't get his way to spend us further into debt.

JUST ONCE I'd like to hear from someone in the Observer be honest enough to lay the blame on the people who really deserve it instead of picking on the people who try to make things better. The anti-tax attitude is rather new in comparision to all of the old die-hard political way of raping the public.

Why don't you so-called reporters get off your indifferent, lazy behinds and try to find something that will help your readers from turning over more than half the money they earn to some government body that gives them little, or nothing, in return?

If we had more newspapers that were not totally devoted to the Republican and Democratic parties and would be willing to give everyone a chance at trying to make things better, maybe we could make some headway in the battle of runaway taxation.

AFTER ALL, the two major political parties put us where we are today — and unfortunately we the voting public are at fault for retaining this political structure.

So give the people who want to change things a break—they can't even cover all the bases like you think they should without a whole lot of help from the news media.

Solar energy field to be a big source of jobs

By Penny Wright special writer

"My goal is to create employment for my students," she said, in words smacking of bravado.

Yet Debbie Rowe, director of the Alternate Energies Technology Program at Oakland Community College's Auburn Hills Campus, believes her goal is attainable. More jobs will appear in solar applications, in particular, she said.

Her belief is buoyed by a nationwide solar profitability survey recently conducted by Energy Investment Research Inc., a consulting organization. The survey indicates the solar industry is healthy, growing and becoming more profitable as higher sales levels are being achieved.

ROWE SAID OCC anticipates a trend toward use of alternative energy technologies, which rely upon such energy sources as the sun, wind and plant material. OCC offers a degree program in the field.

"There are many types of jobs open to students graduating from our program," said Rowe in her office, "including positions in designing, marketing, and installing solar products, as well as energy auditing and energy management."

The two-year program is designed to prepare students as professionals in alternate energy applications. It combines general education requirements with courses in fluid dynamics, climate control, solar heating and cooling, wind energy, biomass and energy management.

Students are typically involved in such "handson" actitivites as building solar window collectors and installing solar panels.

"The program is not rigid and can accommodate a range of needs," said Rowe. "Some students are already employed in design and construction industries, and come to upgrade their skills in the alternate technology field."

OTHER SCHOOLS are responding to expected job opportunities in the energy field.

For instance, Oakland University in Rochester has a 28-credit concentration available to technically oriented students and those with limited technical knowledge.

Various departments offer energy-related work in such courses as "Energy and Environment," "Energy Conversion" and "Energy-Efficient Food Production."

"The idea is to provide a background in energy studies — not a full-fledged graduate program, but one geared to increase student options for getting jobs in government and the energy production industries," said Prof. Gottfried Brieger, coordinator of the Energy Studies Concentration Program.

"I believe that energy-related material ought to be a part of a student's education," said Brieger. "Even though public interest in the subject waxes and wanes with price fluctuations, this is the lull before the storm. It is the university's place to look ahead."

BRIEGÉR MAINTAINS that one crucial component of the energy concentration at Oakland University is the on-campus energy project. He proudly described a super-insulation greenhouse, complete with solar collectors, which his own students designed, and which he hopes to construct on the campus grounds.

Wayne State University and the University of Michigan also favor the inter-disciplinary approach to energy studies. They have courses available through numerous departments including physics, engineering and architecture.

Each institution maintains active technical laboratories which work with industry and government in energy research.

John A. Clark, professor of mechanical engineering at U-M, sees the alternate energy field and especially solar technology as a rapidly emerging discipline.

"It is an industry with an infrastructure that is almost doubling every year," said Clark, who directs research at the U-M solar lab. He finds the infrastructure complicated and full of opportunity.

Such upbeat observations about an industry are rare these days. Individuals seeking employment may do well to give the energy field consideration.

THOSE ?! $5%& HEALTH CARE COSTS!"

HOSPITALS...WHERE A ROOM AVERAGES $329 A DAY!

"Outrageous!" That's the usual reaction. But this charge is symptomatic of today's high cos	t of hospital treatment.

Last year a one-day hospital stay in Michigan averaged $329 — UP 15.8% over the year before. And for the two years from 1979-81 our payments to hospitals for services used by our subscribers were:

- UP 45% for medical supplies.UP 68.6% for pharmacy.
- UP 38.9% for the operating room.

UP 32% for laboratory tests.

These increases are significant because 57% of our total health care payments go to hospitals. But the picture is not entirely bleak. Recently the rate of cost increases for Michigan hospitals has been slower than the national average. Between 1979 and 1980 total hospital costs nationally soared 16.4% while Michigan's climbed only 11.9%. But the fact remains that Michigan still has one of the highest health care cost bases in the country.

Of the 50 states, Michigan ranked 10th highest in hospital costs per patient in 1980. Contributing to the high base is that Michigan is a high cost area:

- 1980 hospital payrolls per employee were 10.7% higher in Michigan than the U.S. average.
- The 1980 Michigan number of hospital staff per patient was 3.3% higher than U.S average.

Physicians also must share some responsibility. It is the physician who admits patients into hospitals, orders lab tests, performs surgery, and determines the length of stay.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan's health care payments are high because the costs of the services we cover are high.

However, NO ONE is doing more to hold down costs than Blue Cross and Blue Shield. And many hospitals and physicians are working with us to get the job done.

- Our more than 20 cost containment programs saved subscribers and customers more than $823 million last year.
- Our agreements with hospitals place a limit on annual budget increases.
- In high cost areas of the state, we've frozen maximum physician payments at 1978 levels.

We have established a toll-free anti-fraud telephone hotline
 — 1-800-482-3787 — to receive reports of illegal activity.

We've accomplished much, but we're not satisfied. We've begun new pilot cost containment programs, and others are on the drawing board.

Rising health care costs are everyone's responsibility — and everyone must do more — hospitals, physicians, and patients. Here's what you can do:

- If your physician recommends surgery, ask if it can be done on an outpatient basis. You'll be home the same day and avoid many costly hospital services.
- When you're a hospital inpatient, don't ask your physician to allow you to stay longer than medically necessary.
- Check all bills and statements to make certain you received all the medical services listed.
- ☐ Take good care of yourself! Exercise, and practice good health habits.

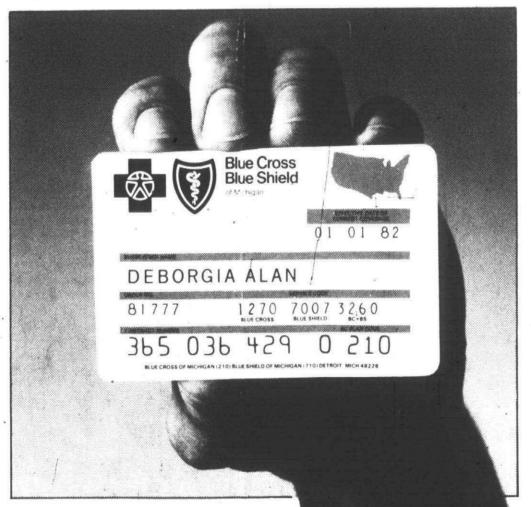

Remember, rising costs must show up in the premiums you or your group pay.

An ERA may end; a cause won't die

By Margaret Miller staff writer

The Equal Rights Amendment may die unratified when June 30 ticks into history

But to its backers, the battle isn't lost. Or ended.

"We are not sitting around and wringing our hands," said Laura Callow, Livonia homemaker who is co-chair for Michigan of ERAmerica. "We have won so much." And as for going down for the extended count, "They've been calling ERA dead for years," Callow said. "But it isn't dead until we who support it say it is." Callow and other feminist leaders are not even conceding that the deadline will pass without success. "The 19th Amendment (which gave women the vote) also was ratified in a cliff-hanger," Callow said. "One legislature was called into special session, and one representative changed his vote at the last minute on the plea of his mother.'

She hopes for some last-minute developments this time, too.

BUT EVEN IF it comes to the ERA vigil planned in Lansing and then time runs out, pro-ERA leaders can point to great gains that started with, in Callow's words, "the thesis that half the population is not being treated as

She ticked off some of them:

- Equal pay has become a "household word."
- Equal credit is required by law.
- People now know about battered women and displaced homemakers. There are shelters for the former and programs for the latter. · Schools are required by law to offer athletic competi-
- · Grass-roots organization is now well in hand, and there is more push to get women into lawmaking posts.

Just the growth of the women's movement that has rallied around the ERA banner is a victory, Callow said.

"When the idea of equal rights for women was first introduced, it was supported by one organization, the National Woman's Party, and maybe 15,000 people.

"Now there are more than 200 organizations, and supporters in the millions."

CALLOW HAS plenty of company in the twin views of disappointment and determination. "There is going to be a new day," said Janet Good, who has been involved with the feminist movement through her work with Michigan's Equal Employment Opportunity Commission "I am sad that the men in the legislatures have voted that 300-million of the citizens of the United States are not equal. What they are saying is: 'You're darned right we are going to discriminate against you because of your sex."

But much has been learned, she added: "We know better how to judge candidates, by votes instead of looks."

Joan McCotter of Livonia said it has been only in recent years that she has realized the importance of the amendment. After years in teaching, she now is involved in leadership of a business and an organization for women in construction

"I was sheltered in a profession that was largely women. I didn't realize until I went into business how pervasive are the attitudes that can shut women out.

"The nitty-gritty is the ability to survive, and that is where an amendment is needed.

CALLOW TALKED about the many reactions to the simply worded amendment as it moved, first to quick ratification by more than 30 states, then into sharp opposition and rescindings and finally into last-ditch struggle

She used the term "red herrings" to describe many arguments against passage of the amendment.

"The argument that women should not be drafted can be used against them in peacetime," she said. "And I have to say as a citizen that if there is a war, women must be involved. And a man or a woman with a gun is probably better off, from a protection standpoint, than a woman with a young baby.

ERA, Callow added, is an economic issue.

One of these is the possible drafting of women.

Equal pay for equal work now is required by law, she said, but the "comparable worth" of work done by men and women is an issue still unaddressed

"And pensions are clearly a part of pay," Callow said. "But in many states they are lower for women. Women cannot get disability insurance or they must pay a higher rate than men do.'

"Insurance companies now have equalized the premiums young men and young women pay for auto insurance, but have done nothing about the greater discrepancy in insurance payments for women farther along in life."

Opponents of ERA have backed some of the gains, Cal-

"But the agreement comes after the fact. They also are arguing for rights for women greater than those of men in some areas. That has to mean that men have rights better than women in other areas. This is a put-down for women.

"The argument is for the status quo. And that is discrimination."

WHAT LIES ahead?

"ERA is clearly going be be introduced. Ten years ago, we were not organized at the grass roots, but today we are. An artificial deadline has cut us off, but we will use other

Griffiths sees support base growing

Martha Griffiths, who authored the ERA, thinks it will pass in a different form.

By Suzie Rollins Singer staff writer

Anti-ERA groups may be surprised this time around when ERA is reintroduced and support thickens.

That's the assessment of former Congresswoman Martha Griffiths, who as a representative of Michigan's 17th district wrote the Equal Rights Amendment a decade ago. It will die June 30 unless three more states ratify by that date.

"The ERA will be reintroduced July 1 by Rep. Patricia Schroeder, (D-Colo)," said Griffiths in an interview after a recent talk in Detroit.

"But this time I hope it's reworded. Instead of asking for a 27th Amendment, I think this time they could amend the 14th Amendment to include women. If it's in a new form it will give everyone a break who wouldn't vote for it before. If the wording changes they could vote for it and not look like they were wrong all those years," she said.

GRIFFITHS, NOW in private practice and serving on a number of corporate boards, thinks it was the wording low or no alimony payments are makthat hurt the amendment.

Elaine Donnelly of STOP ERA hopes now for a spirit of cooperation.

Donnelly urges end to bitterness

By Sherry Kahan staff writer

Elaine Donnelly is hoping for a new beginning once it is clear on July 1 that the Equal Rights Amendment will not become part of the U.S. Constitution. She says she'd like to see "a more cooperative attitude among women."

"It's time to get over the bitterness," added the Livonia resident who heads Michigan STOP ERA and is the organization's national media chairman.

"I don't feel bitter. It's time to break the ice and find a way for those of us who agree on basic issues and positive things to stand together.

"The defeat of ERA doesn't mean women's rights are lost or anything taken away. It means the debate will continue in a more reasonable fashion.

"The fight has been worth the sacrifices we made. We won't allow another version of ERA to pass Congress. We've already counted votes. It won't get out of the judiciary committee."

disappears, what is next for a woman who has spent the past 10 years testifying before Congressional committees, battling with Federal Communications Commission officials, appearing on TV and radio, writing pamphlets and rounding up the vote of legislators? First she will celebrate the end of ERA at the "Over the Rainbow" party to be given in Washington, D.C. June 30 by Phyllis Schlafly, national chairwoman of STOP ERA. After that, Donnelly will continue to be political.

"I feel strongly women should be involved in politics," she said. "They are very bright. They have a lot to bring to political life.

"I am very involved with the Republican Party," she said, indicating she plans to continue this commitment.

"I wouldn't say I'd never run. But I'm not thinking of running at this time." Her interests lie in other directions.

SEEKING TO HAVE her side covered equally by the media in the ERA fight, she said she became "an expert more or less on the fairness doctrine." It requires that television broadcasters BUT WHEN the smoke of the battle present both viewpoints on major is-

"I've dealt with the Federal Communications Commission on rule-making procedures to insure that in the presentation of issues regarding women, both sides will be represented.

"I'm thinking of becoming a consultant in that area.

Donnelly has challenged the FCC, claiming it has not insisted that broadcasters observe the fairness doctrine, and she disagrees with Mark Fowler, the Reagan-appointed FCC head, who wants to get rid of this doctrine.

"My next challenge will be to defeat the efforts of Fowler to eliminate the fairness rules. I know a lot about them. I intend to testify for their defeat."

IRONICALLY. Donnelly favored ERA at first and then changed her mind. She said the change came because of statements made about the proposed amendment by Martha Griffiths, who introduced the Equal Rights Amendment and backed it actively.

At the time, Griffiths was a member of Congress representing the 19th Congressional District, a post now filled by Rep. William Brodhead.

"I am opposed to such notions as women being equally subject to the draft and combat," said Donnelly. "Griffiths was quite explicit about it. When Sen. Sam Irvin tried to attach to the amendment such exceptions as exemptions from the draft, she said they must make ERA absolute with no exceptions for draft or combat duty or else your daughters and granddaughters will curse your memory.'

"It struck one as unfair and highhanded, to say the least. I didn't feel she had the right to speak for me, my daughter and granddaughter.

"She also said it was needed for psychological uplift. But you don't amend the Constitution for uplift."

IN DONNELLY'S opinion, "ERA will do nothing to resolve problems women face today with sex discrimination."

"It will not add anything to laws already on the books. It is worse than useless. It will cause a lot of trouble for

An amendment prohibiting discrimination based on sex would not do anvthing to help women combat discrim

It was an attractive and prosperouslooking group that gathered Saturday to celebrate its 50th class reunion in the Miles Standish Room of the Mayflower Hotel. They claimed the prime rib dinner was the best ever. And as they reminisced, they agreed no generation of young people had enjoyed better times.

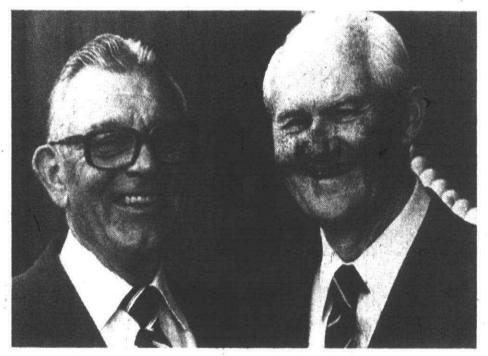

"We had a lot more fun than kids do nowadays" was the consensus.

Although they had come from all parts of the country for the reunion, this was a closely-knit class. Many of them had gone all through school together - kindergarten through 12th/ grade. Growing up in a small town also had a solidifying effect. There were three marriages among the classmates. Jack and Mary (Lorenz) Gilles graduated together.

Laestadians find a new home

By Margaret Miller staff writer

The Detroit Laestadian Congregation, with members espousing an old faith from a cold land, has a new church home in Plymouth.

The congregation, numbering 33 dues-paying members and 80 souls if you count all the children, has purchased and moved into the Salvation Army chapel on Fairgrounds.

The two groups will share the facilities, with the Salvation Army using it Sunday mornings and the Laestadians Sunday and Tuesday evenings, until the former owners complete renovation of their new home, the one-time Baptist curch on Main Street in Plymouth.

Led by Donald Lahti of Livonia, the mall congregation rented facilities at Rice Memorial United Methodist Church in Redford from 1973, when it was incorporated, until this spring when arrangements were made with the Salvation Army.

THE LAESTADIANS, of Lutheran origin, have had their present organization only since 1973, but their roots reach much farther back in history.

They take their name from Lars Levi Laestadius who lived in the north country of Europe in the late 1800s. An ordained minister in the Lutheran state church of Sweden, he had a conversion experience and began to preach what was known as "living Christianity" in northern Sweden and the Finnish Lap-

The faith drew many adherents, especially among the Finns, and early in this century many of them emigrated to the United States.

Large numbers of these found homes and work in Upper Michigan's Copper Country. There they took their faith, by then known as Apostolic Lutheran. They took it with them again when they moved south in search of better-paying jobs in industry.

The Apostolic Lutheran Congregation of Detroit was established in 1917 and moved to Thomson Avenue in Highland Park four years later. It put up a brick building there in 1945, and then in 1962 the congregation moved to Farmington Hills.

BUT A SPLIT which affected Apostolic Lutheran congregations across the United States did not miss this one.

Factions throughout the denomination differed about organization and doctrine. The headquarters of the Apostolic church in this country was at Calumet, Mich., but some wanted to continue instead in unity and fellowship with the church in Finland, known as Rauhanyhdistysten Suomen Keskusyhdistys. These established the Association of American Laestadian Congregations (AALC) which has headquarters and a camp in Minnesota.

Beyond the new organization, noted Lahti and others in the congregation now moving to Plymouth, were new emphases on certain aspects of the

"We cannot accept the permissiveness we have seen at some times," he said. "Laestadius did not believe in drinking; he dumped out the wine casks. We do not use alcohol either." Television and movies also are avoided by members of AALC congregations.

Another important aspect of this faith is belief that there is "forgiveness of sin by laying on of hands by any believer.'

And, while the congregation welcomes all believers, it does not join the ecumenical movement.

"We believe this is the one faith as described in the Bible," said Lahti, who was appointed by the congregation to preach in services that also include singing and prayer. "That is how we do it," he explained. "There are some ordained ministers in our denomination in Finland but none in America."

LAHTI, A native of Baraga in the Upper Peninsula and an accounting supervisor for the Ford Motor Co., also leads church school and Bible school

Ten members of the local congregation will be joining others in the nineyear-old denomination in a summer convention in August at Oulunsalo, Finland. Some 100,000 are expected to participate in that event. There will also be annual meetings and services at the denomination's camp at Stony Lake, Minn., July 18-28, and dedication service for the new church home on Fairgrounds Aug. 27-

"We will have two visitors from Finland and speakers from all over the United States," said Lahti.

The local Laestadian congregation has Bible classes at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays. Sunday school is at 5:15 p.m. each week, and Sunday worship is at 6:30. Lahti can be reach at 471-1316 and Hongisto at 476-1787.

Midland nips Canton in oddball game

Strange occurrence: Chiefs lose title game

By Brad Emons staff writer

Showings of "E.T.," "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," and "Poltergeist" all hit Mt. Pleasant at the same time Monday evening.

Under a bizarre set circumstances, Midland denied Plymouth Canton of its first state Class A baseball crown with a 5-4 victory at Central Michigan University.

The game almost seemed alien to 1,100 fans who turned out for the showdown as the contest was marred by a field conditions had something to do series of mishaps and strange occurrences. Midland used four pitchers and made eight pitching changes, taking advantage of the re-entry rule instituted nine years ago by the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA).

And play was concluded in near darkness with the start of a thunderstorm hammering the already soggy

"It's the worst game either of us has played in nine years," said Canton coach Fred Crissey, "and I think the

with it."

The two teams took the field 45 minutes after the scheduled 5:30 p.m. start because rain showered the finish of the preceeding game, the Class B final between Southgate Aguinas and Bay City

CANTON STARTING pitcher Mike Battaglia retired Midland in order in the first inning, but after that, things deteriorated for the Chiefs.

Canton came up in the bottom of the inning and let Midland starter Greg Money do the work as he walked Don Dombey, Scott Bricker and Marty McCarthy to load the bases.

But to the rescue came Rick Leppien, Midland's top pitcher. Leppien, who won 16 of 17 games for the Chemics this year, was being saved for later in the game because state rules allowed him only three innings of work for the final. He pitched seven in a semifinal win over Utica Ford. Ten innings is the limit for two games (semifinal and final).

Leppien, who jogged in from right field, got his team out of trouble by getting designated hitter Dan Smith to hit into a double play to end the inning.

In the top of the second, Leppien went on the offensive as he rocked Battaglia for a two-run homer.

Meanwhile, Money, despite control problems, returned to the mound and held Canton scoreless and hitless until MIDLAND PICKED up another run in the fourth.

Leppien singled off Battaglia and Greg Rapp sacrificed him to second. Canton's ace, Dan Smith, replaced Battaglia and threw wildly past second in an attempted pick-off play. Smith then walked Steve Smith, putting runners on first and third. The Chemics scored when Leppien and Smith pulled off a double steal.

The Chemics increased their lead to 5-0 in the fifth on two doubles and infield throwing error.

CANTON rebounded for three runs in the fifth. Money, whose only strikes came on curve balls, walked Mike Scarpello and pinch-hitter Jeff Cousino to start the inning. Bricker then reached base on an infield error, scoring Scarpello, who had moved up to third on a wild pitch. Bryan Capnerhurst followed with Canton's only hit of the game, a sharp single past second base to close the gap to two runs. Money then walked Marty McCarthy and Leppien ran in for an-

The two Canton runners moved up on a wild pitch.

Pat Tetreau, a left-hander, replaced Money on the mound - the fifth Midland pitching change. Pinch-hitter Mike Wall then hit a slow roller to second which was mishandled. Brian Cheesman, running for Rumberger, scored

Bentley, East dominate All-Area selections

By C.J. Risak and Brad Emons staff writers

Not surprisingly, this year's All-Observerland girls' softball team is dominated by two schools.

Livonia Bentley and Garden City East combined for 44 wins in 49 games this season, and Bentley went all the way to the semifinals before being ousted from the state Class A tournament by Grandville.

That is why when the coaches from Observerland teams gathered to choose the top players in the area they selected four from Bentley and three from East.

Bentley's success centered around its version of the New York Yankees' feared "Murderer's Row" of the Babe Ruth-Lou Gehrig era. Infielders Deneen Clark and Kim Archer and outfielder Lori Swanson combined for a batting average hovering near .500 as Bentley won its second straight Suburban Eight League crown.

EAST'S STRENGTH was in its battery catcher Sherri Look and pitcher Kim Lackey - and at shortstop with Linda Webb. The threesome was instrumental in leading the Panthers to the Northwest Suburban League (NSL) title.

The NSL is well represented on this year's first squad. Besides the three choices from East, Livonia Franklin's Julie Wilga, Redford Union's Sandy Carney and Westland John Glenn's Sandy Cockrum also were selected. Rosanne Oldford of Livonia Ladywood rounds out the first-team picks.

Here's a closer look at the 1982 All-Observerland girls' softball team, picked by the panel of local high-school coaches.

FIRST TEAM INFIELDERS

Sherri Look, GC East, catcher - Look, a senior, was a dangerous offensive threat, but her defense may have been an even greater asset. She was behind the plate for all 26 of East's games, committing just four errors and throwing out 25 of 32 attempted base stealers.

At the plate, Look batted .400 with 34 hits, including seven doubles, three triples and a homer. She scored 25 runs and knocked in a dozen, contributing nine sacrifices while striking out only once all season. Her teammates voted her the Golden Glove

Award for her outstanding defense. Sandy Carney, Redford Union, catcher -Carney, a senior, was a first-team All-NSL pick and tied with Look in first-team All-Observerland balloting. Carney rapped 31 hits for a .462 batting average and collected 21 walks, enabling her to score 37 runs during the season.

She collected three doubles, five triples and three homers and drove in 18 runs. Carney has accepted a scholarship to play softball at Western Michigan University in the

Quicker West All-Stars shoot down East

By Jay Keenan special writer

A group of Michigan's most gifted high-school girls' basketball players put on a final encore at Michigan State's Jenison Fieldhouse before abandoning their prep careers for good Saturday afternoon.

Twenty senior girls were showcased in the first annual Michigan High School Basketball Coaches Association (MHSBCA) All-Star game.

The West, featuring All-Observer performer Mary Kay McNall of Livonia Franklin, capitalized on its quickness and slick perimeter shooting to

> "Speed and quickness did it for us," said West coach Larry Glass, who guided Leland to the Class D title last season. "They were bigger, but we were quicker."

Plymouth Salem's Eileen Moore and

Livonia Ladywood's Ronna Greenberg,

Glass, who guided the West squad along with Ron Mott of Class B champion Okemos, saw his team fall behind 17-11 with 10:25 left in the first half.

EAST COACHES Dottie Kukulka (Flint Northern) and Bill DeLong (Saginaw Carrollton) opted to substitute their starting five, and the lead quickly evaporated as the West tallied eight unanswered points to lead at the half

"WE DIDN'T play bad, but we didn't play great," said Greenberg, "but I think if we had more practices, we would have played better. We're supposed to be like the best in Michigan, and we're supposed to be able to play but that goes back to the practices."

Moore's assessment was similar. "We just learned the plays," she said. "And also, we haven't played together. We didn't know each other too well, but once we got going, it ran a little smoother. When you're playing with a lot of different people, it's kind of hard because you're all putting in your own game plan."

McNall, however, was surprised how her teammates worked together. "All the different styles everybody played fit in pretty good," said the Franklin center. "It wasn't hard because everybody was so good, you had confidence in each other. It was hard at first, but I got along with everybody on and off the court "

All three area players agreed that the game was a great experience.

Stephanie Hancock converted a Veronica Guerin pass into the gametying goal to lift the Sportventure Saints to a 1-1 tie with the Canton Wildcats in a Great Lakes Women's Soccer League contest Sunday at Canton High School.

The game started in a driving rainstorm and, although the downpour subsided by the midpoint of the opening half, the slippery conditions plagued players for both teams.

The Wildcats bounced in a shot off Saint goalie Therese Pelchat in the first half to take the early lead. But the Saints put the pressure on throughout the second half and got the equalizer fered on the field, a loss that certainly hampered the Bulldogs' chances for a state championship.

Kim Archer, Bentley, shortstop, -Few people could argue that Archer is the best athlete in the Observer's coverage area. A junior, this is her third straight year on the All-Area softball first team. She was also on the All-Observer All-Area basketball and volleyball squads this year.

Archer had a .968 fielding average as a shortstop for the Bulldogs, showing great range and a rifle of an arm. Her offensive statistics were awesome: 48 hits in 80 at bats for a .600 average, including nine doubles, six triples and 11 home runs. She knocked in 47 runs and stole 17 bases. In a four-game span, Archer belted six homers.

Linda Webb, GC East, shortstop — A junior. Webb excelled both in the field and at the plate. She topped the Panthers with a .604 batting average and was a first-team All-NSL choice, playing in all 26 games for East.

Webb collected 55 hits for East, including four doubles, five triples and five homers. She drove in 37 runs and scored 35. She displayed her ability to hit in the clutch by batting .611 in tournament play and went 7-for-10, with five RBI and four runs scored, in the districts. Webb also sparkled defensively, making only two errors all season.

Julie Wilga, Franklin, shortstop — A senior co-captain, Wilga was Franklin's sparkplug and team leader, qualities that helped her to All-NSL berths during the past two years. Of course, a .477 batting average in league play this season and a sound defensive game aided her as well.

Wilga is headed for Henry Ford Community College in the fall and play both softball and basketball.

PITCHERS

Kim Lackey, GC East — Lackey was the winning pitcher in 17 of East's 24 victories and earned a save in another. The junior hurler lost just once, pitching 116 innings over the season, striking out 67 in regular-season play and allowing just 1.93 earned runs per Lackey was nearly as effective with the bat, hitting for a .435 average and leading the team in runs scored with 37. She finished with 37 hits, including six doubles, six triples, two homers and 24 RBI.

Chris Schultz, Bentley - Schultz finished with 17 wins in 19 decisions for the Bulldogs with a 2.70 earned run average. The senior pitcher hurled 119 innings, allowing 80 hits while striking

At the plate, Schultz contributed heavily with a .344 batting average, and in the field she was errorless for the season. Schultz was a unanimous choice as All-Region first-team pitcher.

OUTFIELDERS

Lori Swanson, Bentley, center field - Swanson's speed, arm and glove aided her in controlling play for Bentley in the outfield, but it was at the plate that the senior excelled. She finished with 36 hits and a .506 batting average, 12 doubles, three triples, one home run and 31 rups batted in.

A first-team selection on the All-Sub 8 squad, Swanson has already accepted a volleyball scholarship from Central field - A devastating hitter, Oldford was named to All-Catholic League and All-Region teams. In her four seasons at Ladywood, Oldford batted over .475.

This season, Oldford led the Blazers in all offensive categories with 32 hits and a .533 batting average, six doubles, three triples, three homers, 20 runs scored and 20 stolen bases. Sandy Cockrum, John Glenn, outfield

- A class player with a strong arm, Rosanne Oldford, Ladywood, out- Cockrum threw out four runners this season. At the plate, she batted .462 over a three-year varsity career.

The senior finished this season with a .423 batting average, scoring 33 runs, walking 27 times and stealing 25 bases.

First-place Livonia Adray scored eight runs in the sixth inning to finish off Wendy's of Ann Arbor in a Livonia Adray League baseball game Sunday at Ford Field, 18-5.

Mark Grabowski has been working vigorously in preparation for the Detroit Lions training camp. The ex-Wayne State gridder is a defensive tackle.

Lineman seeks Lions den

By Brad Emons staff writer

All Mark Grabowski has been asking for is a shot.

Starting on July 12 at Oakland University, the 6-foot-2, 250-pound defensive lineman will try to impress the Detroit Lions coaching staff.

"They're looking for one or two spots to back somebody up," said the Wayne State University and Westland John Glenn grad. "All I wanted was to get the pads on. Now I have to show'em that I can hit."

The last Grabowski to make it big in the NFL was Jim, a bruising fullback from the University of Illinois who played for the Green Bay Packers during their triumphs on the 1960s.

This Grabowski, who made the Observer's 1976 All-Area team as a 180pound lineman, hopes to "stay as long as possible and hopefully be among the last 45." Grabowski received numerous accolades in high school and decided on

At WSU, Grabowski played the defensive nose spot and did the longsnapping for punts and kicks.

After finishing at Wayne, Grabowski wrote letters to a number of NFL teams. The New England Patriots asked him to report for a mini-camp as free agent, but he never tried out.

Instead, Grabowski reported to the Charleston (W.Va.) Rockets of the American Football Association (AFA), a semi-pro circuit.

Terry Rusin, a defensive back and ex-teammate of Grabowkski at WSU. told Charleston coach Lonnie Warwick about the tackle.

At 8 p.m. Friday at Ford Field, Oasis will take on Motor City Prescription, formerly the Metro Merchants of Walled Lake.

IN THE MICHIGAN Majors women's fast-pitch circuit, Finlan Insurance maintained its first-place lead after dividing a twin bill with the second place Lansing Lassies.

In the opener, Boyd and McDowell were the heroines as Finlan won the opener, 1-0, in 13 innings. Lansing came back to win the nightcap, 4-2.

Boyd bested Lansing ace Gloria Becksford to earn her seventh victory without a loss.

Becksford held Finlan to just two hits through 12 innings.

But Finlan pushed across the winning run in the 13th. Morris led off with her second single of the game and moved to second on a sacrifice by Teri Dixon. McDowell then came through with a clutch single to center, scoring

Bowling champs await crowning

With all the pomp and ceremony attached to the crowning of monarchs in any sport, bowlers from the Detroit area will honor their champions tonight.

More than 600 bowlers who competed in various championship tournaments will gather at the Polish Century Club on Detroit's east side to crown their new leaders. It is by far the largest bowling awards dinner anywhere.

But there will be added interest in this year's affair. Tom McKay, executive secretary of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association, will represent the American Bowling Congress as its 10th vice president.

in the pocket

by W.W. Edgar

CONTRARY TO the theory that bowling scores always decline with the coming of hot weather, the pins have fallen in record numbers since the winter leagues ended their season.

Most of the high scoring came in the trio leagues, in which bowlers roll four games. But even their three-game totals have been surprising.

One bowler who found the pocket was Lew Amisara, who posted a 912 four-game series at Wonderland Bowl. His closest rival was Bob Hinson with an 893. Jan Piewowar topped the women with a 693.

Rick Stoneburner provided one of the surprises of the warm weather trend by rolling a perfect game at Bel-Aire Lanes. Stoneburner's 300 game came in the first of his series. He was up to 792 after three games and finished at 983. Tom Banks was next at Bel-Aire with a 284 game in an 891 series.

Dick Clark had an exceptional outing at Woodland Lanes, posting games of 243 and 249 to finish with a 946. His closest challenger was Gordon Tesarz, who finished with an 886.

RICK CAPALDI of Oak Lanes topped the Guys and Dolls League with

Songwriter sticks with struggle for fame

By Craig Piechura staff writer

Thursday, June 24, 1982 O&E

In the heart of an itinerant computer programmer beats the soul of a

Bill Schoen, a 35-year-old Farmington Hills resident, makes a good living job-hopping as a computer specialist with clients such as Detroit Diesel Allison, Federal-Mogul and Kmart.

But he has set out to become a successful songwriter by doing more than just daydreaming.

"I've got $8,000 riding on a millionto-one shot," Schoen said.

Two songs penned by Schoen -"Roll, Roll, Roll" and the "B-Side Blues" appear on a local single released on Schoen's own label - Newsic which he hopes will catapult singer Donna Watton of Birmingham to national attention. Nothing will deter Schoen from his dream, he said. Not even the year he spent in Nashville living in a boarding house with his wife, Maureen, trying in vain to sell his songs.

"We spent a year low-lifing it," Schoen said. "I drove a cab for the Yellow Cab Co. in Nashville. It's a good job for a songwriter. You get a vignette of people's lives. You get the shrewishness of a woman who thinks you're short-changing her one minute, and the next ride is a nice old man who tells, you all about his old Model T."

SCHOEN IS NOTHING if not enthusiastic about his latest project. He is prone to making hyperbolic statements such as "Linda Ronstadt, hell no, I'll take Donna Watton. Olivia Newton-John, hell no, I'll take Donna Watton."

He is convinced he's on to the next big thing and is tireless telling others about it.

"I figure even if I can't get this record going I've still got two masterquality records in my control of Donna Watton, and one day Donna Watton is going to make it. And when she does, I'll be making my money back. It's a business venture that makes business sense."

Schoen admitted he gets carried away at times but said "hyper" is just the way he is. His "hippie days are over," he said. He and his wife are raising a 7-year-old son, Charley, who shows visitors his Pac-Man watch that beeps, and an 8-year-old daughter, Marlayna, who takes swimming lessons. He's a responsible parent but still not a button-down corporate computer

"Everybody's weird to a certain extent," Schoen said. "I might be surface weird but down deep I'm normal. I'm creative. I'm always thinking of inventions, ideas, songs. My mind is someplace else. When everybody else in a room is talking business, I'm usually the guy who says something off the Business ventures Schoen has pursued aren't limited to the music business. There was the pressure-activated Christmas tree stand he worked on a while back but never got around to patenting. Sure enough, last Christmas he saw the same principle on sale in a hardware store.

'I'm always thinking of inventions. ideas, songs. My mind is someplace else. When everybody else in a room is talking business, I'm usually the guy who says something off the wall."

FRIENDS AND FAMILY members say Schoen's unbridled enthusiasm is refreshing in a time when cynicism is

"He's definitely high-energy," said singer Watton. "He is funny about it, but what's nice is all that enthusiasm is genuine. All that money he's spending on this project (the record) he and his wife could be using to take a vacation in Hawaii. But he believes in me, and I think that's nice.'

Schoen's wife, Maureen, said the record was her husband's idea, his dream, "but his enthusiasm is conta-

The whole family gathered around the television set Monday evening when Channel 7 did a feature story about the singer and the songwriter be-

After fidgeting with the volume dial and calling his kids indoors to see the segment, Schoen said he looked a little nervous on TV but was glad the message was getting out.

Every record has to have a gimmick, Schoen said, and his is no different. Each record of "Roll, Roll, Roll" is numbered in a limited edition of 1,000 records. With the record comes a post card promising the buyer that "If this record is successful enough to launch NEWSIC as an ongoing business, a celebration will be in order.

IF THE RECORD clicks, a party for everyone who bought the first 1,000 copies will be held, probably on the Boblo boat, Schoen said, and he's footing the bill. Seven-year-old Charley's already asking his dad if he can bring a friend along for the boat ride even if he never bought a record.

The other gimmick of the record is its flip side. Unlike most records, the artist on the B-side isn't the same as the one on the side they're pushing. Schoen doesn't want to waste the second song he's had Watton record because he wants a follow-up if "Roll, Roll, Roll" is the big hit he hopes it be-

The flip side song is titled, appropriately enough, the "B-Side Blues" and the performer is identified only as "Mystery Bluesman." Mystery's message is a mournful one about how nobody listens to him because he comes from the wrong side of a hit record.

The country A-side was recorded at Sound Patterns in Farmington while the blues song was recorded in a basement studio in Berkley. They had to finish the blues song by 11 p.m. because the producer had to get up for work at 5 in the morning and barely made the deadline because Schoen locked his keys in his car outside a Clock Restaurant, where he met Mystery Bluesman'

Putting a white, female, country artist on one side of a record backed by an unidentified blues singer is unconventional marketing, to say the least. But then Schoen is almost as convinced that Mystery will be as big as Miss Watton. Schoen, you see, doesn't have what you'd call a confidence problem

backgammon

of the Cavendish North backgammon club

AN AGGRESSIVE STANCE

White rolls a six-three. Since he has a man on the bar, he must enter on the black 3 point. His six is not quite so obvious, but with only four possible alternatives, at least he won't drive himself dizzy with the choices.

We can immediately eliminate from consideration the play of white 8 to white 2. It is almost always unwise to play men deep into your home board in the early part of the game because your game plan should be to block the opponent's back men; building the 2 point doesn't further that plan.

The viable alternatives for white's six can be reduced to moving one of his men from the black home table into black's outer table or moving from the black 12 point to the white 7 point.

The main advantage of moving either from the black 1 or 3 points is that the resulting position leaves white with only two loose checkers that might be hit. Such thinking on white's part would be faulty, since moving either of his back checkers would create a position where black would have at least three men bearing directly on the piece white just moved. This would mean that black would be at least a 3-to-1 favorite to hit on his roll.

Being hit on the next roll would certainly not be the end of white's hopes. White would be almost guaranteed of entering on black's board, however he will have to use half of his next roll to

After that, black, with his builders diversified in his outer table, will be almost certain of building his 4, 5 or 7 point on his next roll. Black would then have a decided advantage since his blocking position would be at least as good as white's and black would have only one man to escape to white's 2.

By looking at this unlikely scenario, white must come to the conclusion that now is the time to play a man to his 7 point. Fewer than half of black's possible rolls will enable him to hit this man on the white 7 point. If black fails to hit, then white will have excellent prospects of making this point on his next roll and thereby place a great deal of pressure on his opponent.

It is often the case that you should take extra risks to make your 7 point once your oppoent has escaped with one of his back men, especially early in the game before the opponent has had a chance to build his board.

Questions about backgammon can be sent to Mike Giordano, c/o the Observer & Eccentric, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150. All questions will receive a personal reply, and those suitable for publication will appear in this column.

second runs Tom Panzenhagen

"Too Much, Too Soon" (1958) 11:35 tonight on Ch. 9. Originally 121

Diana Barrymore is the focus of this largely exploitive yet uninteresting film, but Errol Flynn as Diana's father, John Barrymore, steals the show. In his book "Bring on the Empty Horses," longtime Flynn friend David Niven wrote of the aging star: "He was not playing a beautiful young sex symbol anymore. He was playing himself, a middle-aged rake with the remains of elegance stamped on a face that had been lived in." And the critics loved it. Incidentally, Niven maintians that the infamous story of cronies purloining the body of the deceased John Barrymore from a funeral home and propping it up in Fynn's house for a besotted Errol to stumble across is wholly untrue. Too bad. Rating: $2.

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" (1941), in two parts at 1 p.m. Monday and Tuesday on Ch. 50. Originally 127 minutes.

Several film versions of the Robert Louis Stevenson classic have been produced, but this issue, directed by Victor Fleming and starring Spencer Tracy, Ingrid Bergman and Lana Turner, is by far the best. Bergman has never appeared more wanton, Turner more pristine nor Tracy more grotesque as he terrorizes both women + but Bergman especially - with unrelenting virulence and glee. The scene in which-Tracy's Mr. Hyde taunts and twists kept-woman Bergman about taking her out on the town is one of the most intellectually or metaphysically violent scenes ever played. Here's where psychological terror was born in American 2 R-O-L-A-I-D-S.

WHAT'S IT WORTH? A ratings guide to the movies film. Donald Crisp, Barton MacLance and C. Aubrey Smith also star. Footnote: Bergman and Turner switched roles on the eve of production at the former's insistence. Rating: $3.40.

"Madigan" (1968), 11:35 p.m. Tuesday on Ch. 9. Originally 101 minutes.

Master craftsman Don Siegel was the first director to present a cop who broke the law to keep the law. Siegel's own "Dirty Harry," as well as the first of Charles Bronson films, didn't appear for two more years. Richard Widmark is maverick detective Madigan, NYPD. Henry Fonda and Inger Stevens also star. Rating: $2.90.

second-rate

"Monster of Piedras Blancas" (1958), 8:30 a.m. Wednesday on Ch. 20 Originally 71 minutes.

"Lighthouse keeper, convinced that legendary monster lives in cave near light, puts food out for him. After several murders, monster is forced from cave and creeps up on lighthouse keeper's daughters." Les Tremayne stars. Rating:
