The Canton Connection

NEGOTIATIONS between Canton Township and Omnicom cable company have ended. Trustee Steve Larson, head of a cable subcommittee, will meet with Omnicom Vice President Betsy Seeley at lunch Tuesday to receive the cable company's latest service proposal. Larson then plans to respond to the proposal and report back to the board with a recommendation on further action at the Sept. 28 regular meeting.

Canton officials want Omnicom to clarify its commitment to the community, based on the company's original franchise proposal to the township three years ago.

SCHOOL BOARD members may decide to hire a "coach" to help develop evaluation skills for principals at tonight's regular board meeting at 454 Harvey, Plymouth.

FLODIN PARK seeding now may become a reality this fall after Recreation Director Mike Gouin met Wednesday night with homeowners of the McIntyre Gardens organization. Residents were worried about the $12,000, guaranteed-seeding proposal. Some homeowners passed petitions to try to stop the action. However, Gouin said board members of the subdivision group now are pleased with the proposal. It goes before the Township Board tomorrow night for approval.

LOCAL CABLE programming last week featured a taped presentation of the Hamtramck Labor Day parade. Is that local programming for Canton residents?

2 held in cocaine sale

Canton police have charged a Westland man and his companion with possession of cocaine.

Arrested early Sunday at Super Bowl bowling lanes on Ford Road were Kenneth McCloud, 23, of Vanlawn, Westland, and Cliff Radke, 24, of Temple Hills, Mich.

Police say the pair offered a "snort" of cocaine to a waitress. She refused, then called police. A packet of white powder and a razor blade were confiscated.

The powder will be sent to the Michigan State Police crime lab in Northville for analysis.

The two men were arraigned Sunday before Westland Judge Evan Callanan at the outcounty branch of the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office.

The court entered innocent pleas in their behalf.

The pair were sent to Wayne County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond. Preliminary examination in 35th District Court will be Sept. 13.

Possession of cocaine is a felony which carries a maximum penalty of four years in prison upon conviction.

Woman pleads guilty in traffic death

A Plymouth Township woman pleaded guilty to charges of attempted reckless driving in connection with the July traffic death of school principal Ed Kleinsmith.

Sherry M. Snyder, 17, of Joy Road, entered a guilty plea during a preliminary examination Thursday at 35th District Court. Judge James Garber deferred sentencing until Snyder meets with the court's probation department.

Attempted reckless driving carries a maximum penalty of two points on a motorist's driving record, a $50 fine and/or 45 days in jail.

Snyder was originally charged with negligent homicide, which carries a maximum penalty of two years in prison.

The negligent homicide charge was dropped to attempted reckless driving after almost one hour of closed-door deliberations between her attorney and the assistant county prosecutor.

The preliminary exam was being held to determine if there was sufficient evidence to bind Snyder over to Wayne County Circuit Court on the negligent homicide charge.

"I have discussed this matter at length with my client and her parents," said attorney John Ashton. "She has agreed to enter a guilty plea to the new charge."

Garber asked if the Kleinsmith family would object to the lower charge.

"The attorney for the Kleinsmith family indicated their desire is not to intercede in the criminal matter," said Ashton.

Assistant Prosecutor Varskin Baydarian and Plymouth traffic officer Robert Henry agreed the Kleinsmith's wouldn't object.

"My understanding is she (Carolyn Kleinsmith) has an attorney and they aren't going to get involved in this," Baydarian said.

Snyder was traveling east on Joy Road between Beck and McClumpha on the morning of July 22, she told the court.

The early morning sun was shining in her eyes, prohibiting her from seeing any pedestrian traffic, she said.

Snyder was driving down the center of the road when her car hit the 46-

STERLINI MAINTAINS she has had to make needed changes in the treasurer's department. She says she is hampered by staff shortages and interference in her department.

The board is considering hiring an office manager to work under the treasurer's supervision, Sterlini said. The person would handle personnel matters, forming a buffer between the workers and Sterlini.

Finance director Mike Gorman currently is fulfilling that role, while the board has been exploring other options.

"The board probably will be bringing a resolution," said Sterlini. "They are considering hiring an assessing clerk, and also an office-manager type. We aren't talking about an increased budget or any more real dollars."

THE CONTROVERSY centers on Sterlini's relationship with her clerical staff.

See related editorial on page 5A

In late August, three employees from the treasurer's office asked Poole to arrange a meeting with the township board to discuss personnel problems with Sterlini.

On Aug. 26, the three filed a grievance against Sterlini, charging that "inconsistencies" in the treasurer's management were causing great anxiety among the staff, according to Cheryl Holliday, chairperson of the clerical unit.

The three employees have been on medication for nervous problems because of the situation, said Holliday.

Last Friday, Sterlini denied the grievance on the grounds it was too general. Under contract guidelines, the decision has been appealed to Clerk

John Flodin, who must meet with the union and employees within five days.

THE ISSUE has sparked several closed township board meetings. Sterlini had requested that the meetings be closed. The state Open Meetings Act allows closed meetings when discussing personnel issues and charges against a public officer.

Last week, dozens of residents came to the board meeting in support of Sterlini.

"Too much time, too much money has been wasted on this," said Sterlini. "If this (discussion) went open, it would look political."

Former treasurer James Danahue appointed Sterlini his full-time deputy. She served in that position about two years, then ran and was elected to the treasurer's post in 1980. Sterlini says she isn't anti-union, but the guidelines in the contract "tie" her hands. As elected treasurer, she believes she answers only to residents.

Lorene Haack, one of the employees involved in the dispute, believes Sterlini denies problems "until things reflect (badly) on her."

"We tried to sit down and talk to her," said Haack. "Staff members don't know where they stand. You may think (that) things are going great, but underneath, they aren't."

Connie Carman, who preceded Holliday as chairperson of the clerical unit, said the employees' problem has been going on for a long time.

"This particular problem has been going on since they became full-time employees, and members of the union," said Carman. "The facts should be clarified. I don't want to knock Maria. She is a nice lady. I just don't think she has the management skills to run the department."

Omnicom hires new programming director

By Dennis O'Connor
staff writer

Omnicom of Michigan hired a new staff person last week to direct and promote local programming produced by the cable company.

Suzanne Skubick joins Omnicom today as community affairs and program director. Her primary responsibilities include entire direction of the studio operations, community liaison, and the company's local programming operations.

Shawn Bredin, of Plymouth, Omnicom's former program director, now is the director of program operations and will report directly to Skubick, according to Betsy Seeley, vice president and general manager of Omnicom.

Omnicom's local programming studio will serve cable subscribers in Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Hamtramck and Belleville. Plymouth-Canton residents view local programming on cable Channel 8.

Skubick is a former staff person to the state Senate Special Committee on Cable Television. She is the wife of Tim Skubick, Lansing correspondent for WWJ-AM radio.

"Suzanne has had extensive experience working with communities in their efforts to understand cable television," Seeley said in a prepared statement.

"She has a thorough knowledge of the cable television industry, as well as an understanding of communities' concerns."

Skubick has advised many municipalities around the state involved with franchising and re-franchising, Seeley added. Skubick authored the publication "Citizen's Guide to Cable Television Franchising," published by the senate's cable committee.

"I have always been an access advocate on the state level, and am excited to work with Omnicom communities toward establishing a noteworthy local programming operation," Skubick said in the release.

OMNICOM, owned by Capital Cities Corp., has been criticized for its lack of quality local programming. Last week, for example, channel 8 presented only three different programs the entire week.

Omnicom believes expanded programming and additional studio staffing is a "tangible goal," Seeley said, although no specifics were given.

"Obviously, we are bringing her (Skubick) on with mandates to evaluate and structure the local programming," Seeley said.

Bredin will continue to oversee the direct operations of the studio, Seeley added.

"I've been delighted with Shawn's performance," Seeley said.

Bredin currently is interviewing candidates for an assistant program director to replace Michelle McHale, who recently resigned, Seeley said.

The staff also includes one part-time staffer. Omnicom will work with high schools and colleges to hire additional interim help for the studio, Seeley said.

Police investigate rash of obscene phone calls

More than 30 residents have complained to police of receiving obscene phone calls in the last 1 1/2 weeks, said police Cpl. Rob Cripe. In each case, an effeminate-sounding male caller made sexual comments

Thief cleans out apartment

Police are investigating a break-in of a Honeytree Boulevard apartment Aug. 26 in which more than $11,000 worth of goods were taken.

According to a police report, someone entered a sliding-glass window of a unit at the Honeytree Apartments, off Joy Road.

Among the items reported stolen were small appliances, a fur coat, cash, stereo equipment, a video recorder and television sets. Two long guns and swords also were stolen.

Also reported missing were rings and jewelry, cash. Total value of the listed goods was $11,300.

about spanking women. All the calls were logged in areas between Ford and Cherry Hill, in the vicinity of Haggerty, said Cripe. The complaints came from a 981-telephone exchange. "We've had cases of obscene phone calls before," said Cripe. "This is the largest scale. We're working with Michigan Bell (on the investigation)."

IT IS a misdemeanor to use obscene, malicious, threatening or abusive language on the telephone. Maximum punishment is 90 days in jail or a $500 fine, or both.

Residents told police the caller sounded like a man in his late teens or early 20s, said Cripe. His voice was described as effeminate. "These phone callers are usually harmless," said Cripe. "He (caller) gets his excitement from the phone call and not from carrying out (behavior). I would suspect he lives in the area." Anyone with information about the calls should phone the police at 397-3000.

Sun smiles at fest

FESTIVAL-GOERS this weekend descended on the "Plymouth Gathering" — the new pavilion which quickly became the focus of this year's Plymouth Fall Festival.

The pavilion, located between the Penn Theatre and Masonic Temple, provided covering for diners, food preparers, and those in serving lines during the four days of the Festival.

Diners gathered under the pavilion Thursday to enjoy the ham and potato salad served by the Plymouth Theatre Guild.

Friday, the Plymouth Lions Club members used the pavilion as covering for its annual fish fry, and on Sunday the Plymouth Rotarians had their pits set up and barbecued chicken under the roof of the pavilion.

Now that Fall Festival is over, the pavilion will return to a more normal existence as a covered parking lot. Next spring it will again be the site of the Plymouth Chamber's Farmers Market.

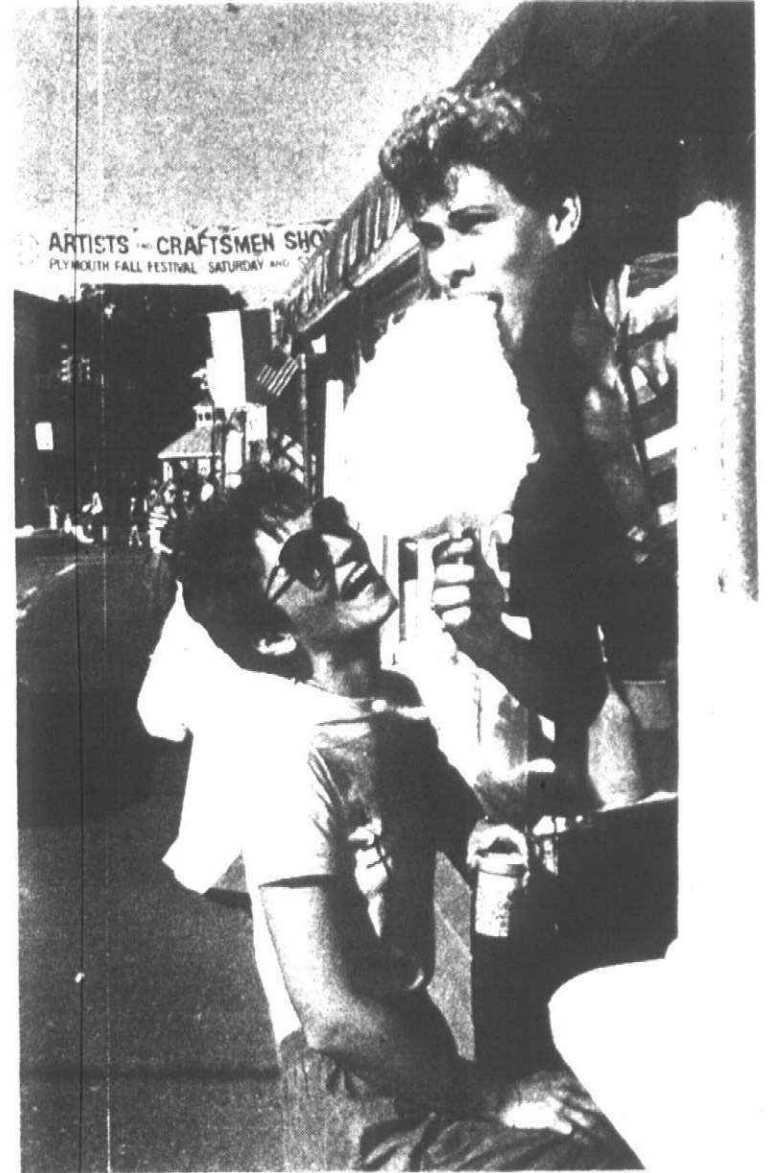

The Fall Festival opened Thursday with beautiful fall weather which continued on Friday as the crowds begin to increase.

Additions to the festival this year, beside the pavilion, were the ham dinner put on by the Theatre Guild, the Lebanese meat sandwich served up by the Plymouth Family Services, the serving of sausage instead of beef ribs by the Plymouth Jaycees, the deletion of the costume judging contest, and the appearance of bluegrass cloggers on the bandshell.

Voters to decide board recall issue

Tuesday's recall election campaign to remove four Wayne-Westland school board members will require voters to do a lot of advance reading or a lot of reading at the ballot box.

The ballot will include a three-sentence statement from those who instigated the recall election and separate 200-word responses from each of the four recall targets.

This is different from most elections where there are just names of candidates or a ballot proposal with yes and no boxes.

A group called Taxpayers' United Together (TUT) started the recall drive against Mary Arbour, Mildred Batterson, Kenneth Marshall and Donald Rusnock.

WHILE THE four responses are different, all the board members focused on their past community service and the school district's major accomplishments in recent years.

Only one, Rusnock, went beyond the educational issues and said that recalls are "political footballs which tear communities apart." He said, "Schools should be free of politics. Though we may not agree on every issue, we can continue to improve and to be proud of the Wayne-Westland educational program by working together." He and his colleagues cited the progress as measured in achievement test scores and the William Ford vocational-technical training center as examples of accomplishments of the district.

Wayne-Westland School District

The district serves southeast Canton

THE RECALL supporters, who solicited more than 5,300 signatures on petitions this spring, are focusing on the board's action of last fall to reopen the teachers' union contract and approve salary raises of 7-9 percent.

"We feel that (the board member) did not act in the best interests of the people in the Wayne-Westland School District by voting 'yes' on Monday, Oct. 26, 1981 to grant a 7 to 9 percent raise to Wayne-Westland teachers," the TUT group said in its ballot statement.

"The 7 to 9 percent raise was approved more than 10 months prior to the termination of the existing contract and without any visible employee-management negotiations.

"The financial and high-tax conditions of the district and its taxpayers were not considered."

FOR THOSE who don't want to do all their reading in the voting booth, sample ballots are available at the Wayne-Westland school board office, on Marquette a half-mile west of Wayne Road.

Arbour defended her vote on the teachers' union contract by saying that "labor negotiations have been conducted within the parameters set by the total board and held in accordance with board policies and applicable state laws."

On other issues, her ballot statement said she has acted in good faith to "preserve the high quality of our educational programs; secure solid educational programs for all students, promote wise use of taxpayer dollars; demand accountability for tax dollars spent from local, state and federal sources; respond to individual concerns or problems; and vote on every issue with an objective viewpoint to sustain educational excellence with an eye on fiscal integrity."

Batterson said she acts on issues based on "careful deliberation and much thought as how it affects our entire school community.

"Each decision is made with the ultimate goal of providing a quality education for our children."

She cited college prep courses, vocational-technical classes, athletics and fine arts classes as addressing the needs of students and fulfilling their goals.

"Is it logical to abandon these goals because there is disagreement on one issue?" she asked in her ballot statement.

"Is it in the best interest our children and ultimately of the community to potentially destroy the quality educational programs that we, the citizens of this community, have worked so long and so hard to develop?"

MARSHALL, current board president and vice-president when the recall campaign began, stressed his 18 years of community service and the progress made of the school district during his term.

He cited improvements in math and reading scores, updated textbooks, uniform requirements in the secondary schools, a teacher evaluation system and the new vocational-technical program.

In special education, the district has provided services to all handicapped students, he added.

"Our adult education program is the third largest in Michigan with over 8,000 citizens per year participating" with leisure-time classes taken by 3,700 people.

Poor management — not politics — sparks the turmoil

IT'S NOT POLITICS, but it sure is one big management mess. Canton officials plan to meet tonight — behind closed doors — for a fifth time in the past three weeks. They are trying to hammer out a solution to an on-going, two-year-old personnel problem between Treasurer Maria Sterlini and her employees.

It is hoped, after more than 25 hours of previous testimony and negotiations, that the board will draft, discuss and act on a resolution and solution at Tuesday's open meeting.

Many Canton residents view this problem as yet another political struggle at Township Hall, similar to the constant unrest of a once-growing community in the 1970s. And many observers are frustrated to think the board of trustees would rekindle such chaos — characteristic of a young community which has suffered a negative image with past political problems.

ON THE SURFACE, it's easy to perceive political problems as Sterlini and Supervisor James Poole, on the opposite side of the political spectrum, continue to exchange barbs in the township's offices at 1150 S. Canton Center.

But this is not the case at all. There is nothing political about the squabble at Township Hall. It strictly is an administrative problem between Sterlini and her employees. Poole is involved in this rift because he oversees all administrative activities in the building.

The Township Board likely will be forced to hire a full-time manager who can act as a buffer between Sterlini and her employees.

This way, Sterlini will continue her duly constituted treasurer's duties, while the newly-hired person manages her employees.

THIS SCENARIO isn't politically motivated, but it sounds foolish and childish.

These problems can surface when elected officials are placed in a management position and are asked to run the administrative functions of the township.

And, like it or not, it's human nature when different personalities with different philosophies clash in a management setting.

At times, it truly makes sense that monies should be allocated to give such elected officials a quick Dale Carnegie course before taking office.

Poole, for example, can be abrasive. His gruff personality turns off many residents and his off-the-wall comments about township issues are enough to make his administrative staff cringe.

Long-time Clerk John Flodin has a "laid back" personality. He wishes to stay in the background during controversies, which, at times, isn't the best policy to pursue.

And it doesn't help when Poole and Flodin sit in the clerk's offices and gripe about the treasurer in front of other employees.

AND THEN there's Sterlini — the subject of many management problems at Township Hall.

Frankly, her management methods are inexcusable.

Current full-time employees in her department say they are nervous wrecks. Some of her workers are on medication, have gone home sick or in tears.

Yet, Sterlini doesn't feel it is a problem. She believes she runs her department efficiently and is fair to her employees.

Sterlini has a lot of "grassroots" support from many residents and admirers. She is an effective treasurer with money matters. She invests funds well and is responsive to the voters.

But there is another side.

Sterlini is a poor manager. No one at Township Hall wants to work for her and she apparently is unable to adapt to the management structure dictated by a negotiated union agreement.

She refuses to be a team player to get the job done.

Unfortunately, Sterlini doesn't believe she's wrong. She doesn't believe her actions have caused problems in her department.

Sterlini also puts herself above the problems, above the supervisor, above the clerk and above the board.

It's really hard to understand. It's as if she were on a personal mission to try to prove something to herself.

Sterlini says the only people she has to report to are the voters who elected her to office.

But that's wrong. The board, as a whole, decides the staffing patterns for her operation. And the supervisor has final input on all personnel hirings and firings.

The treasurer's department, like all township departments, must run on the budget guidelines passed by the elected board.

Sterlini still doesn't understand this — and she isn't willing to compromise her position. Now, the board must hire a full-time manager to supervise Sterlini's department because she's improperly managing her personnel.

The extra person will be a true waste of taxpayers' money.

It's a shame Sterlini doesn't realize it's a disservice to her followers when she fails to adapt to the management structure of the township.

Her uncompromising attitude can only cause her personal mission to end in defeat.

Resident OKs Sterlini's actions

To the editor:

I am writing this letter as a resident and taxpayer of the township of Canton. During the last local election, I helped to elect people who were, I thought, individuals capable of overseeing the smooth operation of our township, resulting in, I hoped, a township of which we could all be proud.

Until just recently, I felt this might be coming to pass. Within the past two weeks, however, I have become aware of problems — problems that involve personnel: a supervisor who doesn't seem able to supervise a disruption; four trustees who seem incapable of performing their duties (overseeing); and, six members of a board of trustees who, it would seem, would rather make a scapegoat of one member of that board than to deal effectively with three women employees.

In my opinion, personnel problems should be handled within the Township administration — not in the newspapers. There are definite union procedures which should be followed for these matters.

There was mention made of removal of some of the treasurer's duties and/or responsibilities from her. As far as I am concerned, the only ones who are able to do this are the people of the Township of Canton. They are the ones who elected her.

The people of Canton have expressed their confidence in (treasurer Maria) Sterlini by their vote. For the first time in Canton's history, the treasurer's department is functioning as it should be — profitably. In order for the treasurer to continue to function properly, she must be able to control her own department. The treasurer is a legislator as well as a department head.

She is the one administrator who said there would be — and always has had — an open door to any and all of the residents and business owners of this Township. She works for the people and has helped many who could not even get a phone call through to another administrator.

I am totally satisfied with what Sterlini has done as treasurer and wish her to continue in the same manner.

Should the board continue to suggest the removal of any of her duties, I suggest that perhaps there are other avenues to be explored. If the supervisor cannot supervise properly — then perhaps he should not continue as supervisor. If the trustees cannot effectively oversee the functions of this board — perhaps they are not the proper people for these positions.

I do hope that Canton politics is not rearing its ugly head again.

Parents group lack answers

To the editor:

I am a student at Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) responding to the article written on the newly-formed group, Parents Who Care.

I cannot believe parents standing up and making their opinions known when they really don't see what is going on inside the schools.

Barbara Timmerman (founder of Parents Who Care) says she is tired of seeing kids "ruling the society."

It's true that teachers don't have very much authority over students anymore, but I have learned in my years as a student that in education you have to make the student feel as an equal and not as an immature kid who fears his teachers.

The very thing to do is to build a friendship with the student. Knocking a student down in his chair is not the answer — this will make the person feel embarrassed and also will make him/her want to get back at the teacher.

Timmerman suggests that a truancy officer be hired to cut down on absenteeism. As far as I'm concerned, the community school budget cannot afford it, and keeping up on student attendance also is part of the area coordinators' job.

She also feels there should be a code of conduct. I have a suggestion: How about a code of morals too? She also is asking for a dress code. Ms. Timmerman, don't insult my intelligence. I have been told since I was young that this is a free country, and that we are all allowed to choose our own clothing.

Timmerman also stated that "You act this way, you will follow these rules or else." Or else what?

Have the area coordinator or teacher slap the student for not doing something he or she doesn't believe in?

As a student and a person I don't have the answers. It is true that something should be done about vandalism and other things of that nature. But I really don't feel that the organization Parents Who Care has the answers — at least not now.

WSDP radio is not failing

To the editor:

WSDP has thrived in the Plymouth-Canton community for more than 10 years. We at WSDP resent the implication that WSDP deserves a "second chance" to prove itself. We were not aware that we had not used our first chance wisely.

Except for the column Doc's Corner in the Sept. 2 issue of the Observer, nothing has been said or done to imply that WSDP is or was failing.

Clearly, the philosophy of public radio is misunderstood.

According to the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), the function of public radio is to provide alternative programming that cannot be received by citizens elsewhere on the radio.

Simply stated, WSDP tries to provide programs which can't be found on commercial radio stations, such as the National Radio Theatre, local sports broadcasts, school board meetings, local features and a variety of music.

Instead of trying to be similar to commercial stations, WSDP's goal is to provide programming that is not available on other stations. Educational radio provides the opportunity for alternative programming. We feel that WSDP should not become just another commercial radio station — a "carbon copy."

Public radio has many limitations and WSDP has more than most in the aspect that it is student-run. The students who work at the station are not part of a program but are full-time students working at the station on their own free time.

Working at WSDP gives students valuable experience in all areas of broadcasting — journalism, communications, English and leadership. Many former CEP students who worked at WSDP have gone on to successful careers in the communications field — proving that WSDP is more than just a "frill."

Despite its limitations, WSDP is not financially troubled and always has had the support of the community. This is exemplified by the $20,000 raised at the auctions held in the past three years, an active parent booster club, and by student interest and commitment.

The only issue that must be addressed is what is the long-range commitment of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education to WSDP and how committed is the administration to finding a qualified administrative leader.

WSDP is listened to and deserving of attention.

We believe that WSDP already has proved itself and does not need a second chance to prove its worth to the Plymouth-Canton community.

Beautiful, Bountiful Brunch

Whether it be a bridal breakfast, brunch for the bunch, welcome home frolic or graduation party, entertaining at home is one of the most rewarding ways to enjoy friendship. Try an elegant indoor brunch using grandma's lace tablecloth, or an outdoor buffet with easy informality and spectacular food. We've done the basic planning for you with these effortless, no-fail recipes made with convenience foods which cut down on kitchen capers and leave the host or hostess more time for hospitality.

Combine ease with elegance...

Turkey ham provides rich taste with less fat and fewer calories. For a flavor treat, combine cured, fully cooked Turkey Ham with California Mustard Sauce. A sprightly mustard flavor and colorful bits of fruit cocktail offer a sweet-sour combination that complements the ham and adds color and interest to the menu.

Vary a favorite French quiche by adding canned spaghetti rings in a rich tomatoey sauce with plenty of tiny meatballs. The result is a rosy colored quiche with plenty of substance.

SPINACH BUFFET QUICHE

French favorite unusually good with a canned pasta

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1/2 lb. bacon | 2 cups milk |
| 1/2 cup chopped onions | nutmeg |
| 4 slices Swiss cheese, cut in 1" slices | 4 tablespoons chopped pimento |
| 1 (10 oz.) package pie crust mix | 1 (10 oz.) package frozen chopped spinach, cooked, drained |
| 6 eggs | |
| 2 cans (15 oz.) canned spaghetti rings | |

Fry bacon slices; drain on absorbent toweling; crumble. Remove all fat except one tablespoon. Sauté onions in bacon fat. Sprinkle bacon crumbles, onions and cheese slices on bottom of pie shell. Beat eggs until light and lemony. Remove about 12 meatballs for topping. Stir in remaining spaghetti, milk and dash of nutmeg. Mix and roll out pie shell according to package directions to about 16" diameter. Arrange in 12" pie or quiche pan. Pour spaghetti mixture into pie shell. Garnish with pimento and meat balls. Bake in preheated 425° F. oven for 15 minutes. Reduce to 350° F. and continue baking for 30 minutes longer or until knife inserted in pie comes out clean. Arrange cooked, drained spinach around edge, garnish with meat balls. Allow to set for 5 minutes before cutting. Serves 8 to 10.

TURKEY HAM WITH CALIFORNIA MUSTARD SAUCE

Slice and serve hot with California Mustard Sauce.

Cool until mixture mounds on a spoon. Whip cream; fold in gelatin and all except 7 peach slices. Split lady fingers, cutting one rounded end off each. Butter the bottom only of a 9-inch spring-form pan and cover with cut-off ends. Line sides with lady fingers (rounded ends up). Carefully pour filling into pan. Pumpkin spice cheesecake?

Ginger Snap Crust (recipe follows)
3 pkgs. (8 oz. each) cream cheese, softened
¾ cup granulated sugar
¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 tsp. pumpkin pie spice
2 tsp. vanilla
6 eggs
1 can (16 oz.) pumpkin or 2 cups mashed cooked fresh pumpkin
Orange peel spiral, optional

Prepare Ginger Snap Crust. Chill. In large mixing bowl, beat together cream cheese, sugars, spice and vanilla at high speed until fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat in pumpkin until blended. Pour into chilled crust.

Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until knife inserted near center comes out clean, about 1 hour, 15 minutes.

Turn off oven. Allow cheesecake to cool in oven with door ajar 30 minutes. Continue to cool on wire rack. Refrigerate until firm, at least 8 hours or overnight. To serve, remove rim of pan and cut into wedges. Garnish with orange peel spiral, if desired. Serves 10 to 12.

GINGER SNAP CRUST

1 egg
1 tbsp. butter, melted
2 cups crushed ginger snaps (about 30 to 35 2-inch cookies)
1 tsp. grated orange peel

Beat together egg and butter until well blended. Stir in crushed ginger snaps and orange peel until thoroughly combined. Press firmly onto bottom and up sides of lightly greased 9-inch springform pan.

Zap those porkers

Microwave preparation is especially successful for some foods — processed meats among them. If you own a microwave oven, no doubt you're familiar with the magic of microwaves for bacon, ham and many sausages, including the popular hot dog. But how about smoked pork chops? Have you sampled this less familiar meat cut? If not, put smoked pork chops on the market list the next time you want to serve something special.

Both rib and loin smoked chops, cut from the pork loin section, are available. You'll note that especially choice, lean loins are selected for smoking. Although possessing a distinctive deliciousness of their own, smoked chops are somewhat similar in flavor to both ham and Canadian bacon, a boneless smoked cut from the loin.

Smoked chops take well to microwave preparation. The chops require minimal cooking time, the exact time depending upon the thickness of the chops, the number cooked, the amount of other food cooked with the chops and the wattage of the microwave oven used.

Because of the differences in microwave ovens and in the size of chops, exact cooking times cannot be given. However, consider the following times as a guide.

Two rib or loin smoked pork chops:

cut 1 inch thick, 7 to 8 minutes; cut ¾ inch thick, 5½ to 6½ minutes; cut ½ inch thick, 3 to 3½ minutes; four rib or loin smoked pork chops; cut 1 inch thick, 12 to 13 minutes; cut ¾ inch thick, 8½ to 10 minutes; cut ½ inch thick, 5 to 5½ minutes.

Although the appearance of the chops after microwaving was good, they were even more attractive when glazed during cooking, as in the following recipe for Plum-Glazed Smoked Pork Chops. The chops also can be cooked in combination with a variety of foods to provide a number of appetizing entrees. For starters, try Aloha Smoked Pork Chops and Smoked Pork Chops with Hot Cabbage Slaw.

PLUM-GLAZED SMOKED PORK CHOPS

4 smoked pork chops, cut 1 inch thick
¼ cup plum preserves
½ tsp. prepared mustard
½ tsp. ground ginger

Combine preserves, mustard and ginger in 1-cup glass measure. Microwave at high 1 minute. Place chops in 11½ x 7½-inch microwave-safe dish; brush with half of glaze. Microwave at high 6 minutes. Turn chops over and brush with remaining glaze. Rotate dish ¼ turn. Microwave at high 6 minutes. 4 servings.

Symphony League's portrayal of a Fourth of July celebration at the old Plymouth Fairgrounds was awarded first prize in the group category.

Christmas morning scene at Emma's Restaurant won a blue ribbon.

Fourth of July display at Plymouth Book World Volume I was awarded second prize in the individual class.

Shop windows dressed up for fall festival

Theme for the window displays for the 1982 Plymouth Fall Festival was "A National Holiday." The panel of judges had a difficult time making decisions, according to Pat Carne, a member of the Fall Festival Board and chairman of the committee.

Working with her were Janet Campbell, president of the Plymouth Community Arts Council; Pam Anderson, exhibits chairman, Plymouth Historical Museum; and Dennis Siegner, member of the festival board.

Twenty-two shop windows were decorated in time for the judging on Thursday. There were two categories — group and individual.

A special recognition award was given to Forest Place Mall. All the merchants cooperated in the overall decorations, which were coordinated by Sharon Rodman.

"ALL THE SHOPS in the mall participated and the displays are excellent," said Carne.

"The heartwarming part is that their work was in loving memory of Hazel Gibson, who was loved by many and who worked so hard on Fall Festivals and other areas of community life."

Winners in the group division were:

- First — Plymouth Symphony League for Fourth of July in Armbruster's Bootery.
- Second — Tonquish Creek Garden Club for Valentine's Day in me and mr jones.
- Third — New Morning School for Christmas in Wiltse's Pharmacy windows.

Honorable mention — Plymouth Family Services for Christmas in Plymouth Furniture window.

INDIVIDUAL honors went to:

- First — Emma's Christmas display.
- Second — Plymouth Book World Volume I, Fourth of July.
- Second — Pendleton Shop, Christmas display.
- Third — Put-Upon Shop, Valentine's Day.
- Honorable mention — Enchante, Easter (bonnets); Wayside, Memorial Day; Willow Tree, Thanksgiving then and now.

Valentine's Day display in me and mr jones was second in the group category.

Staff photos by Gary Caskey

Bremmer-Urbancic

Laurie Kay Urbancic and LaVern Michael Bremmer exchanged marriage vows Aug. 21 in a morning ceremony in St. Michael's Catholic Church, Indianapolis, Ind. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Urbancic of Indianapolis. The bridegroom's parents are retired U.S. Air Force Senior Master Sgt. and Mrs. Francis Bremmer of Canton Township.

The bride's old-fashioned beige gown had a high lace collar and was trimmed with lace and seed pearls. She wore a lace hat trimmed with pearls, with a long veil attached. The bride's sister, Mrs. Michael E. Vandever, was matron of honor. Her dusty rose gown had a matching lace jacket. Bridesmaids Wendy Davis, Julie Urbancic and Cheryl Bremmer wore soft blue gowns with matching lace jackets and wore wreaths of baby's breath in their hair.

Nicholas Perrino was best man. The bridegroom's twin brothers, Terrence and Thomas Bremmer, were groomsmen. Ushers were Michael Vandever and Mark Urbancic. A dinner-dance wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Following a Cape Cod honeymoon, the couple will live in Indianapolis.

The bride is a 1980 graduate of Crispus Attucks High School. She is a graduate of John Powers School of Modeling and is a freelance model. Her husband is a 1979 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and a 1981 graduate of Lincoln Technical School in Indianapolis. He attends Indianapolis University where he is working toward a degree in mechanical engineering. He is employed by Schwizer Co. as a laboratory technician.

EMERGENCY MEASURES

Restorations (fillings, caps, bridges, etc.) have a way of breaking or getting lost at the most inconvenient time — like when you want to look your best. The only permanent kind of repair is that made by your dentist, but here are a few emergency measures.

If a filling falls out (and it happens in the best of families) it has to be replaced by the dentist. You can ease some of the discomfort by rinsing with luke-warm water and then placing a piece of cotton dipped in oil of cloves in the cavity.

If a crown, jacket or cap pops out, don't put it back with commercial glue. If you can leave it out until you see your dentist — do so. If you must have it in place for appearance's sake, vaseline or denture cream will hold it in place temporarily.

Don't try to repair a broken denture or bridge yourself. It could damage both the appliance and the tissue against which it rests. A broken denture is a real emergency and can be repaired quickly by the dentist. A single fractured tooth in a denture can also be replaced quickly by the dentist.

'Concrete Jungle' filled with cliches on life behind bars

If there is an original idea in "The Concrete Jungle" (R), it must be encased in the concrete.

This movie about a women's prison repeats every cliché you've ever seen in prison movies. The only showman incident that is missing is the prison break. Maybe omitting it constitutes an original idea.

Nothing clicks in this movie and nothing holds up to scrutiny. Tracy Bregman plays the supposedly innocent victim of a frame-up. "Innocent" because, without her knowledge, her boyfriend hid cocaine in her skis as a way of getting the drug carried into the United States.

She was caught going through customs and quicker than you can say "track," she landed in prison.

"SUPPOSEDLY INNOCENT," because you have to wonder about how easily she accepts the fact that her boyfriend is smuggling cocaine. How did she think he was earning a living? There is nothing to suggest he had a job.

Nevertheless, we are supposed to regard her as a noble person because she will not reveal her boyfriend's name to the authorities. The result is that she gets the slammer and he gets to roam free, pick up other girls and try again. He does visit her now and then, just to continue professing his love while urging her not to reveal his name.

All this time, she is being abused and mistreated by other inmates and the prison staff. Heading the prison staff is Jill St. John as the warden.

This has to be the worst miscasting of the year, maybe the decade. Wardrobe has dressed her in mannish clothes and given her glasses, but to no avail. She looks like a warden the way Marlon Brando looks like a ballet dancer.

Perhaps such offbeat casting was meant to be comical; the movie does flirt with the comic. Unfortunately, I don't believe laughter was really intended. For example, there is the time that Elizabeth (Bregman) is assaulted by two inmates. She dispatches them with an amazing display of martial arts prowess.

WHERE DID THIS sweet innocent person learn to fight like that? There isn't a hint that she possesses such knowledge, skill or physical fitness. Also, she doesn't ever do anything to make anyone think she is smart, yet in this movie she is always referred to as smart. On the contrary, everything she is involved in, from her boyfriend's deceitfulness to her scrapes inside prison, suggest someone whose cornflakes have gone soggy.

At the center of all illegal and immoral activity within the prison is an inmate known as Cat (Barbara Luna). She and the corrupt warden are working together to make big bucks off drug traffic within the prison.

Cat struts around amid an entourage of nervous underlings. She doesn't seem to do anything more demanding than lighting a cigarette, yet when she is attacked, she also reveals all kinds of skills in hand-to-hand combat.

Whether "The Concrete Jungle" was meant to be an action-exploitation movie or a social drama about the need for prison reform, it is so trite it fails on both levels. Where it succeeds is in bringing together poor writing, poor acting, poor directing and poor editing.

The result is a poor movie.

● NEVER SAY DIE

Positions such as the one in the diagram occur fairly often. They arise most often when white is holding the black 1 point and black is bearing off.

Black bears off until he is down to three checkers remaining on his own 2 point and white has one checker on the black 1 point. Black then rolls a number that includes a 1 (except double 1) and is forced to take one checker off and hit with his 1, thereby leaving his last two men open. White then hits one of black's loose men and suddenly white is right back in the game.

In the diagram, white has rolled a 3-1. Before examining the various plays open to white, we should realize that white will be able to advance his prime (six points in a row) and ultimately close his board with black on the bar.

Black, with 13 checkers already off, still will be an overwhelming favorite to win the game. On the other hand, if white is able to hit the second black checker and then close out his board, the tables will have turned and white will be a substantial favorite to actually win the game.

Since white would like to get hit for a chance to pick up black's second checker, it would be reasonable for him to play his 3-1 from his 6 point to his 2 point and hope that black then rolls a two or double ones and is forced to hit back. The chances of this happening are one in three. Now let's see if white can improve upon those odds without increasing his risk.

First, white must maintain six points in a row so black doesn't have a chance to roll a magic number that will enable him to get away with the one checker that is already trapped. There is nothing that says white must keep the same prime he already has. By playing his three from his 12 to the 9 point, white can build seven points in a row.

By adding on to the back of his prime, white is now able to break in the front. In other words, white should play his 3 from the 12 to the 9 point and his 1 by breaking his 3 point to hit on the 2 point. White will still have six points in a row, but black now has all twos and threes as well as double ones to hit back. This adds up to a total of 21 numbers out of 36 possible rolls for black. So this play is clearly superior, as it almost doubles white's chances of getting a shot at the second checker.

Backing up the prime serves another worthwhile function. Even if white is hit on the next roll, he is not very likely to roll the necessary one that would hit the second checker; it may be necessary for white to repeat this process a number of times. By reducing his home board from four closed points down to three, white substantially improves the chances that black will come in from the bar. Looking at it from black's point of view, it is clear that when he gets hit, he would dearly love to stay on the bar and have white advance and close the board. So it must be right for white to improve his opponent's chances of re-entering.

Monday, September 13, 1982 O&E

The correct play of backing up the prime not only almost doubles white's chances of being hit on the next roll, but also gives white the chance to repeat this process a number of times until he is able to pick up the second checker.

Gallo-Taylor war may be amusing

Wars are horrible. Nearly all of them.

But there is one, here in the United States, that is going to be a lot of fun to watch. There will be bloodshed, but not the usual kind. This will be corporate blood, and it will be fun only because we, most of us, will not be a part of it. Except as possible beneficiaries.

The scenario is this. Gallo has for years dominated the sale of wines in this country, its share being about 25 percent of all wines sold. It has consistently outsold its three largest competitors combined — United Vintners (Inglenook, Colony, Bonet, etc.) with 10 percent, Almaden with 6 percent and the Wine Group (bulk producers at 4 percent).

The relative positioning of these four giants has been stable for years, each content with gradually expanding wine sales and leading orderly business lives.

ENTER THE Wine Spectrum, an association parented by Coca-Cola of Atlanta. It quickly defined the market into three areas (standard, premium and super-premium) and attacked them all. It forced Gallo to broaden its scope to two levels (premium varietal and standard issues), did the same to Almaden (note Le Franc as a premium) and leap-frogged over the mini-giants Paul Masson and Sebastiani in only a couple of years.

It is now fourth nationally in sales (5½ percent) and moving up rapidly on the strength of a massive advertising and promotion campaign, new issues, excellent distribution (long Gallo's strength) and new packaging strategies.

The acquisition and developments in the last couple of years that have made this all possible include Sterling Vineyards, Monterey Vineyards, Great Western and Taylor (the latter two from New York).

These afforded it established coverage in the super and premium domains. To carry the load in the massive everyday wine field, it created Taylor California Cellars, taking over the huge processing plant in Gonzales formerly used by Monterey Vineyards to make these wines.

wine

Using highly unconventional advertising strategies has been one mechanism used to advance itself. Announcing results of tastings showing Taylor California Cellars or Monterey Vineyards wines outperforming other named wines, as well as Steven Spurrier's endorsements, have both violated the old mores of the trade.

HITTING EARLY and hard into the new "light" wine field also has helped. (Gallo has yet to issue its light). Packaging in large containers and small tins, promoting the relaxing of consumption laws (i.e., packaging with McDonald's hamburgers), and arranging industry-wide sales (i.e., airlines and hotel chains) are all varying stages of marketing development.

Almaden and Inglenook are within easy striking distance, both showing signs of stress anyway. If plans hold, only Gallo will be ahead of Coke of Atlanta. A few more acquisitions (which Gallo presumably will not do, its only alternate label being the Carlo Rossi), another marketing innovation and some advertising that takes and anything seems possible.

The giant Gallo may have to relinquish its present stranglehold on the market. The old association of Gallo with ordinary wines may come back to haunt it in spite of its present efforts to upgrade its image. The Taylor California Cellars label is fresh and new and can be shaped as its owners wish.

It will be quite a battle as we move into the mid-1980s.

Big plays boost Canton gridders to win in opener

Compute all the statistics you want — passing yards, rushing yards, interceptions, fumbles — but after the score, the most important of all comes under the heading of "Big Plays".

It was Plymouth Canton that made the big plays Friday night in a 14-12 squeaker over Livonia Bentley at Bentley.

Never mind that Bentley rolled up

219 yards total offense to 105 for Canton. Forget the fact that the Chiefs managed only 27 yards rushing.

When they needed the play, they got it.

TWICE IT WAS quarterback Pat Murphy who delivered. Murphy, a senior, fired a 7-yard scoring strike to senior split end Ron Rienas in the second quarter. Rienas then came through with Big Play No. 2, booting the extra point to give the Chiefs a 7-0 lead.

Bentley struck back before halftime on a 48-yard halfback option pass from Keith Percin to Ken Matthews. But the extra point kick failed, and that proved to be a costly error for the Bulldogs.

Murphy got the Chiefs on the board again with his second and the team's third Big Play of the game: a 46-yard scoring bomb to tight end Bob Wasczenski in the third quarter. Again Rienas kicked the extra point, and it was 14-6, Canton.

But it wasn't over yet. With 1:27 left in the game, Bentley quarterback Steve Gregor squirmed into the end zone from 2-yards out, cutting the Chief's advantage to 14-12.

IT WAS TIME for Big Play No. 4. Percin took the handoff on the Bulldogs' two-point try and rolled out, searching for a receiver. There were none open, so the slippery tailback dashed for the end zone. He didn't make it, as Dan Schacht, Canton's senior co-captain, met him a yard short of paydirt.

"That," Barr said in describing Schacht's play, "was a game-saver."

"We had to win this one," Barr said, referring back to a statement made during the pre-season: "If we can't beat Bentley, we won't be able to beat Salem."

Murphy finished with five completions in 13 attempts and 78 yards passing. It wasn't a lot, but it was enough. As Barr put it:

"We got two TD passes from him. We were pleased."

Airborne Rocks

Salem strikes from long range in blanking North Farmington

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Football scouting report.

Team: Plymouth Salem.

Coach: Tom Moshimer.

Offense: Option. Run-oriented, seldom pass. In one of Moshimer's more successful years, threw just 25 passes — all season.

THAT MAY have been the book on Salem before Friday's game. Not anymore. Ask North Farmington coach Ron Holland.

The Rocks used a weapon they seldom used in the past — the forward pass — to knock off North, 12-0, in both team's season opener at Salem.

The Rocks scored three times in the first half, one which was called back on a penalty, then relied on a defense that stuffed North's rushing attack all night to record the victory.

"There defense was just too quick for us," Holland said after the loss. "They just beat us off the ball."

That the Rocks did. North running back Eric Collier must have felt as if a few of the Salem linemen were lining up in his backfield, they were on him so quick. Collier carried the ball 11 times for minus one yard rushing.

BUT THE RAIDERS were nearly as tough on defense. Other than two long pass plays, North stopped Salem's option offense effectively, limiting the Rocks to 106 yards rushing on 45 carries.

"We really didn't get outside much," Moshimer said. "They did a good job defending us."

So, instead of keeping the ball on the ground, the Rocks went to the air, and did so with precision. Moshimer, keeping with his pre-season promise, used both Dave Haut and Pete Steyaert at quarterback. Haut worked the first and third quarters, Steyaert the second and fourth.

Salem's first touchdown came on a superb interception by Jim Sinclair, who dodged a couple of Raiders in weaving his way 54-yards to the end zone early in the opening quarter.

Ooops. It was a touchdown, at least until the referee's flag hit the ground in North's offensive backfield. Roughing the passer was the penalty, and instead of six points for Salem, it was North's ball at the Rocks' 39.

THE DRIVE stalled and a fake punt on fourth down failed. Salem grinded out a pair of first downs before being forced to punt. But Collier couldn't handle the kick, and Jeff Arnold recovered his bobble at North's 24.

Two plays later, Haut fired a 27-yard strike to a diving Tom Schmidt for the touchdown. A two-point try failed, and it was 6-0 Salem.

Haut was three-for-three in the opening quarter for 49 yards and a touchdown, but Moshimer stuck to his game plan and summoned Steyaert in the second period.

The move paid off when Steyaert fired a 45-yard bomb to Bob DeBenedet on a third-down-and-eight play from the Salem 32. Five plays moved the ball from North's 23 to the one, and, with 18 seconds left in the half, Scott Jurek dove in for the touchdown and a 12-0 Rock advantage.

"THEY PUT the passes in there at the right time," Holland admitted. "Our coverage just broke down."

Moshimer said his option offense opened up the pass. "If we can make the fullback go, they got to bunch to the inside," the Salem coach explained. "Then we can go outside, and they got to bring their deep men up, and that opens up the long pass."

Haut finished with four completions in seven attempts for 56 yards and a touchdown. Steyaert completed three of six for 60 yards, with two intercepted. Jurek led the Salem runners with 44 yards on 13 tries.

Matt Shepard connected on four of nine passes for 32 yards. Brian Hood's 21 yards in six attempts topped the Raiders' rushing offense.

"Our defense did a tremendous job," Holland said. "They beat us on two long passes. (On offense), we're starting from scratch — zero. No one back there is a (returning) starter."

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

The season's first touchdown for Plymouth Salem came midway through the first quarter as wide receiver Tom Schmidt (dark jersey) split the North Farmington defense and made a diving catch of Dave Haut's pass in the end zone.

Rocks on a roll with 2nd win

The word eked out long before the first basketball arched toward the basket: "Salem lacks size," critics said. "And they lost their top two scorers, their best players."

"It's going to be difficult for them to have a successful season in that new league."

It may be too early to accurately gauge this year's edition of Rocks' girls' basketball, but by early indications it looks like another banner season is in the making.

Certainly no one can argue with the team's start. Salem knocked off Farmington Harrison Thursday, 53-36, to raise its record to 2-0.

THE VICTORY came relatively easy, as Salem led from beginning to end. What made it impressive was that it was the second straight win over a team that was expected to contend for the Western Division title in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA). Salem is a member of the Lakes Division.

Last Tuesday, the Rocks disposed of rival Plymouth Canton, another Western Division title favorite, by a 43-26 margin.

"This was a good victory for us," Salem coach Bob Blohm said after defeating Harrison. "It was one of our biggest wins in five years."

Strong words for an early-season contest, considering Salem's successful record. But this team isn't like its predecessors. Gone is the sharpshooting of Jan MacKenzie and the leadership of Eileen Moore.

What the Rocks do have is speed and quickness, some raw (if yet undeveloped) athletic ability, and, of course, that defense. Always that rugged, man-to-man defense.

IF THERE IS a trademark of a Salem cage team, its solid defense. That again was the difference against Harrison, as the Rocks bottled up 5-10 Alice Short, allowing her just six points.

Who was responsible for stopping Short, expected to be one of the WLAA's top players? Senior Jacque Merrifield, who at 5-7 is the tallest Salem starter, covered Short in the early going until getting into foul trouble. So Ann Glonski, a 5-4 senior leaper, took over the responsibility and, as Blohm put it, "gave her (Short) problems."

"Overall, I'm pleased with their start," Blohm said of his team. "I'm encouraged with the start we have had, considering our inexperience."

"WE DIDN'T allow them (Harrison) too many second shots, and that was a real important aspect. It was a physical game, but we held in there nicely."

Merrifield and Glonski contributed more than defense for the Rocks, combining for 24 points (12 each). Pam McBride led Salem with 13.

Sue Ferguson topped Harrison with 11 points.

Salem had a narrow 12-10 lead after one quarter, increasing it to seven (27-20) at the half. A 14-6 third quarter boosted the Rocks lead to 15.

If this Rock team follows the pattern of its ancestors, it will improve and jell as the season progresses.

And that spells trouble for the rest of the WLAA.

Chiefs improve but fall to 0-2

There were certainly some bright spots for Plymouth Canton's girls' basketball team Thursday night.

"We played better," coach Phyllis Cunningham said. "We overcame a 10-point deficit in the second quarter (22-12) to tie it up at the half (25-25)."

Unfortunately, the improvement wasn't quite enough, as the Chiefs fell to Walled Lake Central, 47-45, at Canton.

It was the second straight setback for Canton, as Cunningham searched for her first win as varsity coach. Last Tuesday, the Chiefs committed 37 turnovers in falling to rival Plymouth Salem, 43-26, at Canton.

THE MISTAKES were cut to 20 against Central, and Canton had its chances to overtake the taller Vikings. Twice in the final 2½ minutes, the Chiefs pulled to within two points, but couldn't tie it.

Canton forced a jump ball late in the contest with Central ahead, 47-45, but couldn't control the tip.

Cunningham blamed "key turnovers down the stretch" for the club's second defeat. Still, progress was evident in the team's second-quarter comeback.

"More than anything, they're not clicking yet as a team," Cunningham said. "They played hard, very intense."

What caused Canton the biggest problem was actually a pair of BIG problems: bookends Patty Fitzgerald and Shauna Anderson. Both are close to 6-feet tall, allowing the Vikings to play a double-pivot and giving them a solid one-two rebounding punch.

THE TOWERING tandem combined for 26 points against Canton, Anderson popping in 14 and Fitzgerald 12. Caryn Lamb added 10 points.

Missy Aiken, a 5-10 senior who plays the pivot for the Chiefs, countered with 12 points and 11 rebounds, including two clutch free throws late in the game that narrowed Central's lead to two points. Lou Ann Hamblin added 10 points and Sue Gerke eight.

After tying the score at halftime, Canton dropped behind by three (39-36) after three quarters and trailed by five in the final period.

"We're off to a slow start, but people shouldn't rule us out yet," Cunningham said, noting that the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) season is longer (13 games) with a better caliber of competition.

"There are no easy teams in this league," the Canton coach added. "Salem and (Livonia) Bentley are still the teams to beat, but I don't think any team is going to get through the season without a defeat."

Which is why Cunningham is hoping her Chiefs garner experience quickly. It looks like it will be a long, difficult trip to the top of the WLAA's Western Division.

Eddie Hintz popped in a pair of goals, Tom Wright notched a goal and added three assists and Mike Mitton added a single tally to lead Plymouth Canton to a 4-0 season-opening win over North Farmington Thursday at Canton's field.

The Chiefs controlled the game all the way, scoring twice in the first half and twice in the second. Canton blasted 30 shots at the North goalie, while the Raiders managed just nine.

The loss dropped North to 1-1 on the season. The Raiders were forced to play the last 35 minutes short a man because Todd Prey was red-carded, earning him an ejection from the match and a one-game suspension.

A second-half Plymouth Salem scoring avalanche buried Farmington Harrison Friday at Harrison.

The game was scoreless until senior left wing Tom Skrobecki scored in the 42nd minute. Two minutes later, Randy Johnson found the net, and the rout was on.

Mark Flowers notched the next two goals in an 11-minute span. Tim Greenhalge, Salem's sweeper-back, capped the spree with a goal at the 70 minute mark.

Eagles earn tie

Rock goalie Todd Chatman made eight saves in recording the shutout. Salem fired 32 shots at the Harrison goal.

YPSILANTI 7 PLY. CHRISTIAN 1

It wasn't a good way to open the season for Plymouth Christian. Ypsilanti built up a 5-0 advantage after one half in pasting the Eagles in their opening game of the season. Brian Spicer tallied Christian's only goal five minutes into the second half to cut the lead to 5-1, but it was all his team could manage.

PLY. CHRISTIAN 1 OAKLAND CHRISTIAN 1

Christian's Brian Spicer, assisted by Kent Butler, knotted the score at 1-1 midway through the second half after Pontiac Oakland Christian took the lead at the 45:30 mark in a Michigan Independent Athletic Conference (MIAC) match.

The Eagles were outshot, 12-8, but goalie Steve Hoover fought off Pontiac for the tie.

Christian is 0-1-1 overall, 0-0-1 in the MIAC. Their next match is Sept. 17 at home against Southfield Christian.
