The Canton Connection

COW CHIP Queen contestants are being sought to preside over the Canton Country Festival, which starts June 12. Prospective candidates must be 18 or older, and either live or work in Canton.

Interested persons should write to Art Winkel, 47935 Hanford, explaining why they want to be considered. Applications will be appearing soon in the Observer. (Both President Ronald Reagan and Governor James Blanchard have received invitations to Canton's summer celebration.)

ALLEN PARKER of Canton, a safety patrolman at Field Elementary School, will tour the state capitol in Lansing May 24-26.

The youth, 10, will be among 107 of the state's top patrolmen on the tour, sponsored by the Automobile Club of Michigan. Each patrolman participating was selected by his or her school district.

THE DETROIT LIONS will challenge McDonald's to a basketball game at 7:30 p.m., Monday, May 23, at the Phase III gym at Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

The Muscular Dystrophy Association benefit is being sponsored by both McDonald's of Canton, and the MDA. The CEP is located at Canton Center and Joy Roads.

Tickets, at $3 each, can be purchased at the door, Canton Sporting Goods, Skatin' Station, the Canton Township Recreation Department, McDonald's and other locations.

Call 459-3313 for more information.

Sponsored by the Canton Business and Professional Women's Club, the cost is $8. Included are a buffet dinner at 6 p.m., and the opportunity to consult with cosmetics, wardrobe, and hair experts. Shopping and traveling tips also will be featured.

For tickets, contact Tricia Ahern at 453-4315 or Pat Gresock at 455-8148.

GOVERNOR JIM Blanchard's summer jobs program hasn't correlated the support of state Rep. Gerald H. Law, (R-Plymouth).

"It falls short of addressing the serious long-term unemployment problems of some 640,000 jobless men and women," he said.

"While I support the program as far as it goes, I believe the only way to tackle the root problem of unemployment in this state is to address the problems that make doing business in Michigan too costly. Governor Blanchard has not addressed those problems and is proposing, I'm afraid, a costly stop-gap plan that may not assure a single permanent job."

Cop cleared in shooting investigation

No disciplinary action will be taken against a Canton police officer who lost his gun to a man who then used it to commit suicide in the 35th District Court building two weeks ago.

According to Canton police, Guy Jackson, 23, of Plymouth grabbed Canton patrolman Bruce Sutzer's gun in the men's room at the courthouse May 2. During a struggle, Jackson kicked Sutzer in the groin, knocking the officer to the floor.

Jackson then fatally shot himself in the head with Sutzer's .357 Magnum, according to police.

There was no negligence on the part of Sutzer, who was cleaning his eye-glasses when Jackson grabbed the gun, said Canton Police Chief Jerry Cox.

"The facts seem pretty clear," Cox said.

Jackson, who was more than six feet tall and weighed about 185 pounds, was taller and heavier than Sutzer, Cox said.

"He outweighed Sutzer by 20-30 pounds and, of course, he had the element of surprise," Cox added.

ACCORDING TO court records, Jackson was sentenced to two years probation last September on an aggravated assault conviction. He wasn't scheduled to be in court on the day of the shooting, and officials aren't sure why he was there.

The incident was investigated by the Plymouth police department. The Canton department gave Sutzer a few days off work to recover and launched its own investigation.

Sutzer, a five-year veteran of the Canton department, is back at work.

This was the first shooting at the court. There have been no moves to have police turn in their guns while in the courthouse to prevent a recurrence.

"That's up to the court, and the court hasn't made any recommendations, to my knowledge," said Plymouth Police Chief Carl Berry.

Joy, fears await adopting parents

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Jim and Terry Allor of Plymouth Township beam with joy when their 2-year-old adopted son Noah scampers into the room.

The Allors — who waited for a child for years — treasure their curly-haired toddler. But the couple also have experienced anxiety, despair and anger over the adoption process.

Now the Allors, both 37, are working hard to ease adoption worries for other couples.

Jim Allor recently finished a stint as president of the Michigan Adoptive Parents Association (MA-PA), a support group for parents of adopted children. Terry, a nursing instructor at the University of Michigan, recently developed a series of child-care classes for prospective adoptive parents.

The classes, sponsored by Catholic Social Services of Wayne County and funded by a grant from the state health department, are geared toward couples already approved by a licensed adoption agency and waiting for an infant up to 2 years of age.

ADOPTION CAN be a tough, traumatic experience for many couples, Jim said. Mixed with the joy are fears about adjustment and uncertainty over the lengthy screening period and wait.

"Adoption — for the couple — is in a sad state of affairs," said Jim, a manufacturer's representative. "They want to be a parent so badly, and the wait is frustrating. They feel powerless."

Few healthy, white babies are being placed for adoption now, due to the availability of abortion and overwhelming tendency of unmarried pregnant women (including teens) to keep their babies.

As a result, prospective adoptive parents face long waits or choose options which include adopting foreign-born babies, school-age children and children with "special needs," such as mental, physical or psychological impairments.

The Allors, married in 1970, began considering adoption in the early years after Terry failed to conceive. Meanwhile, they were traveling extensively and continuing their career plans.

Once they decided to apply for adoption, the waiting period of less than

Adopting a hard-won battle

By Arlene Funke

Couples hoping to adopt a healthy, white baby will face a "long, hard fight," says Julie Horn, an adoption specialist with the Michigan Department of Social Services.

"Only the very arduous survive the challenge," Horn said.

The Department of Social Services (DSS) placed 1,000 children for adoption statewide from October 1981 to September 1982, Horn said. Most were school-age children who became wards

Township tackles dust County to treat main roads only

By M.B. Dillon Ward
staff writer

Irate residents who claim Canton's dusty roads jeopardize their health and safety were placated by Canton Township Clerk John Flodin Tuesday.

The board unanimously approved his motion to apply a dust control agent on portions of Sheldon, Lilley, Lotz and Palmer Roads.

The one-time application will cost Canton about $4,200 — money that will come out of the township's general fund. Supervisor James Poole estimates the cost of three applications of chloride for the township's 60 miles of gravel roads at $90,000. Where the funding will come from hasn't been determined.

Board members have been bombarded with resident's complaints at recent legislative sessions. Motorists blinded by dust have nearly struck pedestrians and other cars, children in the area have become ill or experienced breathing problems, and homeowners must keep their windows shut because of the dust, according to residents.

"Dust in Canton is a serious health, safety and welfare problem, deemed particularly hazardous with regard to vision on the roads," said Flodin, emphasizing the one-time application "is a temporary remedy to the problem."

"I don't think the dispute between the county and township has been resolved."

Wayne County Road Commission officials recently informed Canton that

Suspects sought in 2 rapes

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Police are looking for tips in investigating two forcible rapes in a four-day period last week.

A 23-year-old Canton woman jogger was threatened with a sharpened screwdriver, then raped on Lotz Road north of Michigan Avenue about 7:40 p.m. last Wednesday, police said.

The previous Sunday, a 22-year-old Canton woman was raped at gunpoint as she walked along sparsely-populated Michigan Avenue west of Beck shortly before 1:30 a.m., according to reports.

The locations are about two miles apart.

"We're looking for any information anyone can provide us," said Canton Police Chief Jerry Cox. "We really aren't sure if the incidents are related. They should call Cpl. (Rob) Cripe at 397-3000."

Cox said he was concerned about women being out alone.

"It's unfortunate but there are two in a week," Cox said. "The bottom line on this whole thing is that women should try to avoid being out alone at late hours."

IN THE incident involving the jogger, the assailant ran up, put the screwdriver to the woman's throat and threatened to kill her, Cox said. She struggled and ran away, but he caught her and dragged her off the road into an embankment.

She suffered bruises and marks on her throat, according to the report. The man is described as 5-9, 180 pounds, with dark brown hair and brown eyes.

In the earlier case, the attacker carried a short-barrelled handgun, forcing the woman into some bushes, police reports said.

The woman, enroute to her Mott Road home, had left a Canton bar on foot after arguing with her boyfriend, police said.

Someone may have seen or heard the attack, since the victim yelled for help at passing cars, Cox said. The assailant is described as about 25 years old, 5-7 and weighing about 165 pounds. The man, who had dark, collar-length hair, was wearing a brown jacket and jeans.

Urban deer eludes cops

A deer led Canton officers on a merry chase through the Sunflower subdivision late last week before escaping.

The deer, which apparently wandered into the subdivision, was found on a front porch on Memorial Drive early Thursday morning. Several residents spotted the animal and called police.

"He was lying there," said animal control officer John Swalley. "When we got there, he took off."

The Sunflower sub, south of Joy and west of Canton Center is bordered by open fields and wooded areas. Some people said they saw the animal running down Warren Road.

THE OFFICERS tried for more than an hour to catch up with the frightened deer, estimated by Swalley to be younger than a year old.

"It was the funniest thing to see (the chase)," said Karen Carter of Admiralty.

"We would get within 10 feet, and it would take off again," Swalley said.

Swalley wanted to capture the deer so he could take it to a wooded area and turn it loose.

Officials tackle dust problem

budget cutbacks mandate the scaling down of the dust control program.

The commission will continue applying calcium chloride (a dust control agent) to Warren, Beck, Haggerty and Joy — all county roads — as often as required, according to Jake Dingledey, director of Canton's Department of Public Works.

The chloriding of local roads has become the township's responsibility. However, Canton lacks both the equipment and the funding to completely take over.

THE DPW tomorrow morning will apply chloride on unpaved portions of Sheldon Road between Michigan Avenue and Cherry Hill, on Lotz from Michigan to Palmer, on Lilley Road from Michigan to Cherry Hill, on Palmer from Haggerty to Canton Center Road.

The locations have been targeted because they've been of the greatest concern to residents, Dingledey said.

"If residents elsewhere in the township feel improperly treated, I'm sure they'll make their feelings known to the board. Situations will be dealt with as they come up."

The county has applied dust retardant on Warren, and parts of Haggerty, with Beck Road next in line, he added.

The exclusion of local roads from the commission dust control program is due to declining gasoline and weight tax revenue, which funds road work, according to Dingledey.

Spring pickings a tasty treat

These spring mornings as The Stroller drives along the highways the sight of the long strips of golden yellow dandelion flowers carries him back to the days of his youth in the Pennsylvania Dutch country.

Most fellows, as they grow older, delight in telling tales of the fun they had at the old swimming hole (there were no fancy pools in these days) or the hot coconuts they had on the makeshift baseball diamonds at the edge of town.

But The Stroller enjoyed none of these. His mother had been left a widow with five children, and The Stroller, being the only boy, had to carry on the tasks of helping to raise the girls. So he had to spend his after-school hours in the little business his father had left, and he was there until dusk each day. That is until the dandelion season.

You see, his mother, being of the old-fashioned Dutch traditions, didn't have time to enjoy such things as a vegetable garden, so we didn't have such tasty items as lettuce.

But when dandelion season came along it was a different story. No sooner did the golden yellow heads rise above the ground than The Stroller was sent out to pick the dandelion plants — and to watch for those just beginning to bloom.

He would hasten to the roads at the edge of our little town and walk the banks until he found the stretches of dandelion. When he had what he thought was enough he'd hasten home. Mother would take one look and then tell us youngsters that we were going to have a treat for dinner. We would have mashed potatoes and dandelion greens.

At first The Stroller thought she was kidding. But instead, Mother, being a resourceful woman, really had a treat. She

"We're doing this (chloriding) reluctantly," added Dingledey, "but we understand that for people with asthma and breathing problems the dust has a severe affect."

"It becomes a nuisance to live in an area where the dust continually blows into the houses. You have to close the windows, and it makes living very uncomfortable. Sometimes you don't want to take a deep breath," said Dingledey.

Though the county has treated both primary and local roads in the past, dust has been a perennial problem in Canton.

Efforts initiated within the township have failed to improve the situation.

The motion passed last week by Flodin received no support when introduced in 1982. Last August, Canton residents narrowly rejected a ballot proposal to increase taxes to pave about 6½ miles of gravel roads in residential areas.

Because Canton is unequipped to apply the chloride, Bay Dust Control — also retained by Plymouth Township and Wayne County — was contracted. Its $4,200 bill includes two spreaders needed to apply the agent, said Dingledey.

DISSATISFIED RESIDENTS who have been encouraged to call the Wayne County Health Department with dust complaints are better off airing their concerns before the Canton board, Dingledey said.

"I don't think their position there (exerts) as much pressure as before the people on the board."

cleaned the dandelions roughly, then prepared what she called a "German sour" dressing. That dressing beat anything The Stroller had later in life.

And as he sits here recalling that day his mouth waters for another meal like that. We youngsters became so fond of dandelion greens and German sour dressing that we hated to see summer come.

Then one morning when the young Stroller left for his dandelion picking, the Irish neighbor asked if he would pick some for her. She had heard of Mother's favorite dish, and she wanted to try it.

On this particular morning the dandelions along the road seemed plentiful and it wasn't long until he had a large basket filled. On his return he divided the pickings, and the neighbor not only thanked him in words but gave him 15 cents in payment for his work.

That was The Stroller's start in to the business world. If the neighbor would pay for what was called a "mess" in those days, so might others. So the Stroller set himself up in business as a dandelion picker.

To this day, he recalls the thrill of picking dandelion for profit and helping his Mother in the trying task of raising five children.

All these memories come rolling back each morning now, many years later, and the thrill still lives on. The dandelion not only became a delightful meal, but it started The Stroller on a business career.

The plants that are cursed when they appear in some of our lawns today will never be criticized or hated by The Stroller. And for a good reason. It was the dandelion that played an important part in his youth — a part that will live forever.

Even rotting logs in Miller Woods nourish the soil. A dandelion grows from a rotting stump (at left). Other spring flowers include this jack-in-the-pulpit (center).

How nature blooms in May

NATURE BURSTS with activity during May in Miller Woods.

Wildflowers bloom in quick succession. First the harbinger-of-spring followed closely by bloodroot, yellow and white adder's tongue, and then ginger leaves.

Miller Woods is a beech-maple climax forest operated by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools on Powell Road between Ridge and Beck Roads. As an untouched forest, Miller Woods remains as a mini-fragment of the Michigan Territory — a glimpse at what southeastern Michigan was like when the settlers from the East first arrived via the Erie Canal.

THE SCHOOL district acquired 40 acres of the Miller Farm at the northeast corner of Ridge and Powell in 1968, and seven years later a group of residents formed the Miller Woods Committee to help protect and preserve the forest for the enjoyment and education of school district residents — young and old.

Some of the trees and shrubs in the forest include sugar maple, American beech, ironwood, blue beech, wild cherry, American elm, papaw, spice bush, and red-barked elder.

Committee members include: Herb Conant, Evelyn Edgar, Pat Atchinson, Penny Wright, Ken Wright, and Ann Arbor naturalist Tom Friedlander.

Couples seeking to adopt experience joys, fears

three years was a "terrible time" of anxiety and anticipation, Terry said. Should she begin new projects, knowing she planned to quit when the baby arrived?

"You have a real sadness about being childless," she added. "People, say things. They don't know how much it hurts."

BY THE time couples successfully complete the lengthy screening (medical records, physical exams, references and home studies) they feel like "super parents," Jim said.

Later, fears crop up. How to tell the child he or she is adopted? What if the agency decided to take the baby away? What if the child wants to track down his or her birth parents?

These issues are addressed in the MA-PA group and the expectant-adoptive parent classes.

Terry starts a new set of classes today. The next group will begin Thursday, July 7, and class size is limited to eight couples. Topics cover the first two years of growth and development.

"Adoptive parents try, too hard," Terry said. "We work on this in the class."

The Allors are writing a diary for Noah, telling him of their hopes and feelings. Jim thinks about Noah's birth mother, wanting her to know her son is safe and well.

Adoption begins a series of adjustments, according to Jim.

"Biologically, they aren't (yours), but in your heart and soul, they are," he added. "Adoption is different from raising a child biologically, however, it is an option."

MICHELLE POTTS of Canton agrees.

Potts, a 35-year-old legal researcher, and her husband, John, 38, a physics professor at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, are members of the MA-PA group.

The couple have an adopted daughter, Jessica, 5, and a biological son, Kevin, 3. The blend of adopted and biological is just what the Potts wanted.

MA-PA gives them friends, it tackles pertinent issues, and it gives Jessica a chance to be with other adoptive kids, Michelle said.

"People think it's common for adoptive parents to later conceive," she added. "It's actually very rare — less than 5 percent of the cases."

The Potts waited a little over two years for Jessica. Now, couples can expect a wait of several years.

"I don't discourage people from applying," Potts said. "It's easy for me — I don't have to wait any more. It's (adoption) very difficult, but it's worth it. There is no way to describe the joy when you get that baby."

Potts also wants pregnant teens to think more about adoption and less about abortion or keeping their babies.

Many teens don't have personal and financial resources necessary to be good mothers, Potts said, citing an editorial in Adopted Child, a newsletter published in Idaho.

Yet, Potts said, American society glorifies motherhood — women who don't seek custody of their children are viewed as selfish and cold.

"We, as a society, make it impossible for these mothers to make a decision," Potts said. "They are being pulled in two directions. They should see both sides more balanced."

Dogs scare off burglars

DOGS FOIL BURGLARS: A Barr resident can give his pet dog an extra pat on the head for chasing away a pair of suspected burglars.

According to police, the intended burglary victim heard his dogs barking May 8. He went out to investigate.

Firing three shots from a .38 caliber revolver into the ground, the resident warned two "short males" to stop running. They ran toward a field, with the resident's dog in pursuit for some distance.

JOKE BACKFIRES: A youthful prank went awry May 6, when a 14-year-old Canton boy and his friend tied a rope across New England, south of Cape Cod. A driver, who bumped his car into the rope, got out and "roughed up" the youths, police said.

DOG TAKES TRIP: When you're lost, go to the police. Right?

A stray dog who marched into the Canton police station won a fast trip to the Michigan Humane Society animal shelter in Westland May 7. The animal had no identifying tags or license.

WHERE'S THE FIRE: A volunteer firefighter on Geddes is without his CB radio and flashing red light. The man reported the items stolen from his unlocked car May 7.

TRICKY SWITCH: A 63-year-old Belleville woman was arrested for larceny after allegedly switching some price tags on pillows at Meijer Thrift Store May 10.

According to police, a security guard also saw the woman hide a $150 phone, a $40 plaque and an $8 blouse in her purse.

SORRY, LADY: Nothing can separate her from her Calvins — except an eagle-eyed security guard.

A 27-year-old Detroit woman was ticketed for larceny May 2 after a Meijer Thrift Store guard saw her trying to leave the store without paying for two Calvin Klein mini skirts valued at $24.

BIG KICK: A burglar kicked open a door on Willow Creek May 8 and made off with several appliances and tools.

The items reported stolen included a $330 snowthrower, a microwave valued at $450, two TV sets worth a total of $750 and assorted tools.

NOT VERY SAFE: A safe containing $600 and $170 worth of jewelry was reported stolen in a Brookline break-in May 10. A $350 AM-FM cassette and a $350 TV also were taken.

Pops concert huge success

to the editor:

Bravo! The 1983 Pops Concert was a huge success. On behalf of the Sonata Group of the Plymouth Symphony League, Plymouth Symphony Society board members, and Johan van der Merwe and the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, a great debt of gratitude is extended to Ken Windsor and the very fine staff of the Plymouth Hilton Inn for so graciously providing the perfect location for our outstanding pops concert.

We applaud all those who offered their very generous assistance and support of the Pops and express our great appreciation to all. As always, the Observer kindly presented much needed pre-publicity highlighting our excellent guest soloists and the return of Wayne Dunlap, former conductor of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra — for this we are very grateful.

One supporter was omitted

To the editor:

On May 9 you published a letter from our organization, the Canton Newcomers, expressing thanks to the local merchants for donations to our annual Millionaire's Party.

One merchant's name was inadvertently omitted from this list, and we'd like to apologize and publicly express our gratitude to Poplin's Fresh Pies for its contribution to this fund-raiser.

They and all the other local merchants, previously mentioned, were very generous, and therefore we urge the Canton and Plymouth communities to support them in return. We thank you all again.

Adopting a challenge

of the state because they were abused or parents.

"This doesn't include the bouncy, blue-eyed babies," Horn said.

Couples seeking to adopt healthy infants can expect a wait of five years or more, according to Horn. Many adoption agencies with long lists of applicants aren't even taking names.

In Wayne County, more than 75 percent of the children waiting for adoption placement are black, Horn said. Most of these children will be placed with black adoptive parents, because agencies generally prefer placement in homes with similar racial makeup, Horn said.

Horn was unable to provide placement figures for the private adoption agencies.

SHE ATTRIBUTES the lack of available babies for adoption to abortions and the tendencies of unmarried pregnant women and teens to keep their babies.

Many couples are experiencing fertility problems or starting their families late, creating more demand for adoption, Horn said.

"These placements need more time and care," Horn said. "There are fewer dollars (for screening and follow-up)," she added. "Staff and support aren't there. Placing a child with a family is only the beginning."

"The demand is greater, as well as the supply being smaller," Horn said.

Couples are turning to adoption of older children with "special needs," such as physical, mental or psychological impairments, and to adoptions from foreign countries, such as Korea and Colombia.

HORN ADVISES prospective adoptive parents to check their phone directories under social services for the names of adoption agencies, and someone who is willing to take the time.

"I don't know any spoon-fed method, but be persistent and ask for somebody's time," Horn said.

"Sometimes adoptive parents take more time to talk to parents and they have a lot more tips," she added. "People should call the DSS in their county and explore (options) with them."

Adoption support groups also can be helpful, Horn said.

Placing older or handicapped children requires more screening and follow-up, but more of these children are being successfully placed in adoptive homes, Horn said.

Message for hit-&-run driver

To the editor:

To the hit-and-run woman driver who injured my son:

When you hit my son, on his bike, with your blue Maverick with the rack last 10-speed bike that he worked and on back early Thursday evening, May 12, in the driveway of Famous Fried Chicken on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth.

did you think he was all right just because he got up?

do you wonder about his injuries (since you didn't stay around to find out)?

do you wonder if anyone helped him (since you didn't)?

do you wonder how far he had to go to get home?

do you have a conscience?

how do you sleep at night?

And lastly (a minor detail), his Eng-lish 10-speed bike that he worked and saved for is a total loss.

from our readers

Guns needed to deter criminals

To the Editor:

In the Monday, May 9, issue there appears an opinion by Observer staff writer, Gary M. Cates. While I appreciate the viewpoints expressed by Cates in his article, I do not agree with them. Unfortunately, firearms are a necessary part of the police officer's equipment for proper and effective service to this or any other community. Service weapons become the balance between effective law enforcement and criminal elements, not unlike the nuclear balance this country is so acutely aware of today.

Having officers surrender their weapons, or having lockers for such weapons, is on the surface a good idea in order to prevent similar situations as the one that occurred last week.

However, unless the public at large is searched for offensive weapons, the public could easily become the victim of criminal elements in that they, the criminal element, could be illegally armed in the court and not the police. Aiding prisoner escape, assaults on judges, jurors, police officers, complainants, witnesses, and prosecutors is not unheard of in our society.

Should we announce our vulnerability by taking firearms from officers, then we open ourselves to the potential of more difficult situations with conceivably devastating results.

Mr. Cates is right — the court does have people who are charged with serious offenses walking the halls. The logic behind his argument is as equally strong for the arming of police officers as it is for the disarming of police officers.

There is the advantage of the psychological controlling of these people with the mere presence of armed officers. The fact that an individual, for whatever reason, became so desperate that he took his own life should not reflect on the necessity of the carrying of firearms by police officers from this department, from Plymouth, from Northville, the state police, or any other agency in the district.

This is, unfortunately, a society that requires officers to be able to protect themselves and the public from the awesome consequences of firearm use. Wouldn't it be delightful if it were otherwise?

Jerry Cox,
Canton Chief of Police

oral quarrel

Today's Oral Quarrel question asked readers what they felt was the biggest eyesore in the community. Watch Thursday's Observer for our next question. Following are the replies on community eyesores.

The dirty, dusty roads that are being graded by Wayne County in the rain. Every time it rains they grade the roads and waste our money and it should be paved.

Yes, my bet for the worst eyesore in this community is that car repair that leaves cars parked all over the streets.

How about the unpainted fences. I think they would look nice with a coat of paint.

Yellow, yellow everywhere watch the little white parachutes float through the air. I'm so sick of dandelions I could sneeze.

All of the ticky tacky suburban boxes along everyone of our community streets.

All the different kinds of fences. And the second biggest eyesore is Canton itself.

The poor condition of the railroad tracks in Plymouth.

The chuck holes on the dirt roads, the dust that's accumulated and the burned down barns.

My vote is on the middle of your front page. It's a train that's blocking Farmer street as it switches to make a longer train.

The bad railroad tracks around Plymouth.

Got to be the unpaved road in Sheldon. They are a crime, they are sinful, and they are making these cars fall apart. You name any one of them — Sheldon Road south of Cherry Hill, Palmer, Warren Avenue. It's like living on the frontier without the benefit of the good times.

I consider Tonguish Creek on Byron Street between McKinley and S. Harvey one of the worse eyesores.

The worst eyesore in this community is Tonguish Creek on Byron between Harvey and McKinley. Yesterday I was escorted across the creek by two rats. The city is up and down this street all the time and still this creek is a mess. That's the biggest eyesore.

The dust clouds over our dirt roads.

Some of the statements we received had to be edited.

Blimphood blues

Recently arriving on the threshold of "middle age" has been a definite downer. Immediately gaining approximately 15 pounds while stumbling through the traumas of being 36 years old has led to despair that only another "chubby" woman can appreciate.

For those of you who still have waist, let me enlighten you.

To me, the most distressing part of blimphood is that my clothes no longer fit. I didn't have that extensive wardrobe to start with, but now I find it somewhat ridiculous that I must plan my entire social calendar around that one pair of jeans that fits.

Being a child of the '60s, I still find that a really comfortable pair of blue jeans best expresses my personal philosophy — "casual" is my life.

Sadly enough, in the past few months there has been only one pair of "good" jeans that I can still stuff my plump self into — the process is not unlike putting casings on sausages. And, as a finale to this ordeal, I have to lie down on the bed on my back in order to zip them up.

When I stand up, all that flesh that has been displaced due to the tightness of the jeans makes my waist look like a scoop of ice cream that's overlapping the cone. We're talking heavy-duty mid-drift bulge here! The next step is to find a suitable blouse in my closet which will disguise this unsightly bulge. The blouses virtually fly around my bedroom as I try them on and reject them if they don't bag where I do. This can be very depressing.

It's at times like this that I finally walk into the living room where my husband has been waiting (it takes him 3½ minutes to get ready to go anywhere) and announce to him that "this evening off has been cancelled on account of FAT!"

I've even had to postpone tushion engagements because I had to stay home and wash my jeans. One feels a lad silly standing in the basement in only undies coaxing the washer and dryer to "hurry up!"

Tis a sad, sad state to be in. I know that I should be on a very strict diet, and I am — sort of. In the olden days of my youth, it was relatively easy to lose 10 or 15 pounds when the situation warranted. But now that "middle-aged spread" has sneaked upon me, I get the feeling that nothing short of a few sticks of strategically placed dynamite is going to get it off!

I also know that I should be participating in some sort of rigorous exercise program. Since I don't seem to have a muscle in my entire body, I plan on thinking about that alternative tomorrow.

Did you know that in the early 1900s the corpulent chubbos of the day were thought to be sensual, sexy and even desirable? I think I've missed my era by about 80 years. Darn!

Learned to take shots

Old Beau overcame his fear

BEAU, OUR late, beloved Head Poodle, had four stars next to his name on the veterinarian's records. It meant he was the most difficult kind of patient to handle.

Beau had had a painful experience at a vet during puppyhood, and for the next dozen years screamed like a banshee whenever a needle touched him. It was part of his "high strung" act.

Old Beau was a cocky predator. He caught field mice, muskrat, moles, chipmunks, ground squirrels, rabbit and even a foot-long Norway rat.

He nailed sparrows before they could get off the ground, briefly nabbed a duck, chased and was chased by a goose, dug for groundhog, faced off with a raccoon and an opossum, tangled with two skunks (wild) and made sexual advances to a timber wolf (tame). On trout streams in Michigan, Colorado and Montana, Beau's jaws were often my landing net. He sniffed the trails of foxes and coyotes.

ON ONE upper peninsula camping trip, a bat got into our camper. On another, Beau decided to challenge two bears in a picnic grove garbage can, but his 21 pounds of fang and sinew were insufficient to enable him to crash through the windshield of my Chevy and attack. The point is not to boast about Beau's virility and lionine courage but to introduce the subject of rabies.

By now you know a 5-year-old in Hillsdale County died this year of rabies. You may not know that the Chicago area has reported eight positive cases of rabies in dogs and cats this year. The mid-Atlantic region also reports a major outbreak.

The Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta report that in 1981 for the first time, rabies in cats out-paced rabies in dogs by 32 percent nationwide. So reports dvm, the vets' newsmagazine, in its April edition.

Dr. Maurice Becker, former chief of the virology division of the Michigan Department of Public Health, wrote about rabies in the May/June issue of Michigan Natural Resources. "Unprovoked attacks on humans by rabid wild animals occur 10 to 15 times a year in Michigan," he said.

THE DPH in Lansing tested 17,502 specimens during the decade of 1970-80. Becker went on, and reported 156 positive cases of rabies: 63 bats, 29 skunks, 25 foxes, 11 bobcats, 10 cats, nine horses, seven dogs, a raccoon and a bobcat.

Compare that list of species with confirmed rabies to the animals Beau came in contact with in paragraphs 2-4. Most of those contacts were in his own yard or within walking distance of his subdivision.

Yep, old Beau could have been exposed.

"Rabies" comes from the Latin verb rabere, meaning "to rage." Rabies infects salivary glands and nerve cells of the brain and spinal cord. A biting animal transmits rabies with its virus-laden saliva.

But rabies is slow-working, and humans can be cured by a post-exposure vaccination. Modern treatment requires only five shots and produces only mild adverse reactions, said Dr. Becker.

WHEN BEAU shuffled off this mortal coil in his 17th year, it was due to a blinger of a stroke, not disease or battle.

The Head Poodle always was protected against rabies, distemper, parvovirus and heartworm. After a dozen years, he overcame his fear of the vet's office and even acted like he owned the place.

Headlee has new tax petition drive

Richard Headlee has returned to the public eye, this time heading a petition drive supporting voter approval for new taxes, tax increases or tax shifts.

Calling his petition the "Voter's Choice" petition, the Farmington Hills insurance executive and 1982 Republican candidate hopes to garner 304,000 valid signatures by June 1984 to put his plan on the November '84 ballot.

Headlee's petition drive is in retaliation of the state budget by fixing the ratio between the budget for fiscal year 1978-79 and the total personal income in Michigan for the calendar year 1977.

It also provides for a reduction of property tax millage rates when the increase in community state equalized property valuations exceeds the increase in the consumer price index for the previous year.

In addition, the ratio between state and local spending cannot fall below 41 percent of state spending going to local governments.

Nuclear expert coming May 27

A doctor who appeared in the film "The Last Epidemic" will be speaking May 27 before the Western Wayne Nuclear Weapons Freeze Campaign.

He will be in Detroit the last weekend in May to speak on education and nuclear war at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

HE WILL speak on "The Nuclear Weapons Dilemma" when he appears before the Western Wayne nuclear freeze committee beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday, May 27, in the Liberal Arts Theater at Schoolcraft College, Haggerty Road north of 6 Mile in Livonia.

Dr. Tsipis is a frequent contributor to the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists, and a well-known expert on the technological aspects of nuclear weapons.

SALADS AND SANDWICHES

... Classic and Contemporary

Both sandwiches and salads began as food trends, and both went on to become American institutions. Plain or fancy, versatile and imaginative sandwiches and salads are staples in today's daily diets, but this wasn't always the case.

The Earl of Sandwich is generally credited with having invented his namesake over three centuries ago, but by contrast, salads have been a part of the American scene for only fifty years. Until the early Thirties, salads were unfamiliar foods in this country, appearing infrequently as a novelty on special formal occasions. With the introduction of Miracle Whip salad dressing in 1933, a "salad revolution" ensued. Created at a time when the nutritional importance of fruits, vegetables and other salad ingredients was first realized, the one-of-a-kind product quickly captivated the taste of a nation. Miracle Whip salad dressing helped to educate the American public about how to serve salads and the importance of good nutrition.

This year, Miracle Whip salad dressing fans can satisfy their appetite for this venerable product with over 200 recipes in a new 160-page cookbook. Cooking With MIRACLE WHIP Salad Dressing is a "soup to nuts" collection which contains both newly created recipes reflecting the Eighties cooking styles, such as those pictured here, and time-honored "Classics." Chapters highlight international and American regional cuisin<sup>re</sup>, ideas for casual entertaining, recipes which shortcut preparation time with food processors and microwave ovens, recipes for two, and much more. Liberally sprinkled with recipe tips and hints, the book is illustrated with more than two dozen color photographs. To order your copy, simply send a check or money order for $3.95 to: Miracle Whip 50th Anniversary Cookbook, P.O. Box 854, Dept. P, South Holland, IL 60473. Be sure to enclose your name, address and zip code, and allow six to eight weeks for delivery.

CHICKEN SALAD CREAM PUFF RING

- |                   |                                  |
|-------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1 cup water       | 1/2 cup raisins                  |
| 1/2 cup margarine | 1/2 cup chopped celery           |
| 1 cup flour       | 2 tablespoons green onion slices |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | 3/4 cup salad dressing           |
| 4 eggs            | 1/2 teaspoon curry powder        |
- 2-1/2 cups chopped cooked chicken

Bring water and margarine to boil. Add flour and salt; stir vigorously over low heat until mixture forms a ball. Remove from heat. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Drop rounded tablespoonfuls of batter onto ungreased cookie sheet to form 10-inch ring. Bake at 400°, 45 to 50 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from cookie sheet immediately; cool.

Combine chicken, raisins and vegetables. Add combined salad dressing and curry; mix lightly. Chill. Cut top from ring; fill with chicken salad. Replace top; slice to serve. 8 to 10 servings.

Manhattan Lamb Grill is the perfect meal for spring's first barbecue.

Broiled lamb is a special supper

A one-dish meal, or a one-broiler-pan meal in this case, is a perfect way to have a special supper for your family in a matter of minutes. And you can spend more time with them after the meal, because the clean-up is short, too.

Thick, juicy lamb loin chops, stuffed mushroom caps and zesty tomatoes — ah — what a combination! The chops may be broiled indoors while the weather is still chilly. But, this is a great recipe to try on your grill as soon as it's barbecue season again.

Complete the last-minute preparation on the mushroom caps and tomatoes while the chops are cooking on the first side. Then, turn the lamb with tongs to avoid piercing the meat. Place a mushroom cap in the "tail" of each chop, put the tomato halves on the broiler rack beside the chops and finish cooking. Just add a salad and warm bread, and your meal is complete.

"Manhattan Lamb Grill" — a quick and easy meal that makes a special occasion out of an ordinary evening.

MANHATTAN LAMB GRILL

(2 servings)
4 loin lamb chops, cut 1-inch thick
1 clove garlic, halved
Salt, pepper, butter
4 large mushrooms, stems removed
1/4 cup chopped pimiento-stuffed olives
1 tbsp. fine dry bread crumbs
2 medium tomatoes, halved
2 tbsp. finely chopped onion

Rub lamb chops with the cut side of garlic, then discard clove; sprinkle chops with salt and pepper. Broil chops 3 to 4 inches from source of heat 5 to 7 minutes. Place 1/4 teaspoon butter in each mushroom cap; mix olives, bread crumbs and salt and pepper to taste. Fill mushroom caps with olive mixture; dot with additional butter. Sprinkle salt, pepper and the chopped onion on tomato halves. When chops are turned, place a mushroom cap in tail of each chop, place tomatoes on broiler rack with lamb and broil 5 to 7 minutes longer, or until meat reaches desired degree of doneness.

Solar tea is best under the sun

I could have entitled it Dr. Tea's Solar Journal: notes and formulas scrawled in ballpoint pen over 13 months.

After 15 experiments, 51 hours of sunlight, nearly 29 quarts of water and 110 tea bags, I've come up with the best iced tea under the sun.

The refreshing results didn't come easy. The sun didn't always cooperate and Mother Nature sometimes drizzled on my parade of tea concoctions. I often drank my mistakes when they weren't dribbled down the kitchen sink.

Each experiment began the same way: wide-mouth solar tea jar filled with water, from 30 ounces to just under two quarts, tea bags immersed in water, tags removed, jar placed in back yard under sun, from four to six hours.

Each experiment ended the same way: tea bags squeezed against inside of jar, then discarded; cold tap water added, except on several occasions; ice cubes popped into tall glass, followed by tea, sugar or sweetener and lemon juice, except on several occasions, stirred.

I used regular and family-size tea bags. I used all three types of tea, but mostly relied on the plain black tea available at every store: orange pekoe.

I tried flavored tea, the mint variety. I even sampled expensive herbal tea, which for years has been popular in Europe.

BY EXPERIMENT No. 7, I arrived at the correct amount of water to use: one quart for the tea to brew in, one quart to stir in.

By experiment No. 8, I had the solar time down pat: 4 1/2 hours. I learned that constant bright sunlight wasn't required. While an overcast sky that produced cool breezes inhibited brewing, passing clouds didn't — as long as the temperature was warm.

By experiment No. 12, I deduced that nine regular-size tea bags produced the best results.

By experiment No. 15, I was sure I had the correct blend of tea for the best flavor: orange pekoe and mint.

I also made several other discoveries: The best time to brew solar tea is between noon and 5 p.m. Family-size tea bags offer less leeway to experiment for taste. It takes less artificial sweetener to sweeten tea than sugar. There's no need to refrigerate tea until retiring for the night. Good iced tea shouldn't cost more than three cents a glass.

The biggest disappointment came during experiments No. 10 and No. 11. I tried herbal tea for the first time. I purchased a brand that promised to be especially nice over ice. The ingredients included hibiscus and chamomile flowers, spearmint and peppermint leaves, orange and lemon peel, rose hips and cinnamon.

Nice Over Ice contained no artificial coloring, no artificial flavoring, no preservatives and no caffeine. Unfortunately, it didn't taste like tea.

I TRIED herbal tea alone. The reddish liquid tasted medicinal with cinnamon overtones. I tried it combined with orange pekoe and dispatched the whole batch down the drain.

But success was doubly rewarding: Experiment No. 9 suited me to a T and cost less than 20 cents for two quarts of iced tea since I bought a box of 100 regular-size plain tea bags for $1.99.

Experiment No. 15 I dubbed Hint of Mint and cost about 25 cents for two quarts because flavored tea is a bit more expensive.

Now, without further glowing reports, I present the best iced tea under the sun:

Fill wide-mouth jar with one quart cold tap water, immerse nine tagless regular-size tea bags — nine orange pekoe or one mint flavored and eight orange pekoe — screw on lid and place under sun 4 1/2 hours. Remove lid, squeeze tea bags against inside of jar and discard. Stir in one quart cold tap water and let stand five minutes. Fill iced tea glass three-quarters full with ice cubes and pour in tea, leaving space for several more cubes. For plain tea, stir in sugar or sweetener and lemon juice. For mint-flavored tea, just stir in sugar or sweetener.

Girl Scout council honors 3 volunteers

Three local women were among the adult volunteers honored recently by the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council. Barbara Jean Eckles, Mae Lewelling and Kay Williams received special recognition at a dinner at Weber's Inn, Ann Arbor.

Eckles was given the Fran Bauer Humanitarian Award, the second highest award presented by the council. It is given for kindness, dedication, consideration and humanness. The recipient has been active in Girl Scouting for 38 years. She has served as a troop leader for the handicapped for the past eight years. Eckles is leader of Troop 406 of Our Lady of Providence School.

LEWELLING received one of four council adult appreciation pins awarded at the recognition dinner. She has been Girl Scout Cadette leader in the Plymouth/Northville/Canton area for more than 10 years. She is a junior consultant and director of junior encampment, an activity that has grown from six troops to 31 troops during her six-year involvement.

Barbara Jean Eckles is winner of the Fran Bauer Humanitarian award.

OUTER SPACE DENTISTRY

—If you were an astronaut, you'd be getting some of the most thorough dental care in the world. Your teeth would be checked a lot more often than the regular checkups twice a year, especially if you were scheduled for a flight soon.

—Even though an astronaut's teeth might be as perfect as his dentist can make them, he still may need special care once he leaves earth's orbit. That's why astronauts are trained in the use of an in-flight dental emergency kit.

—Now with the space shuttle planning hundreds of flights in the future, the same kind of attention will be paid to dental care before the shuttle leaves and when it's way up there in space for long periods of time.

—You may not have any plans to become an astronaut or to book passage on the space shuttle, but you probably value your dental health, just like other earthbound creatures do.

—An ounce of prevention is worth a lot more than a pound of cure. Maybe it's time for you to have your teeth and gums checked.

MENTAL ILLNESS MYTHS Myth #3

People in Mental Hospitals Have NO Civil Rights

Civil rights. We all have them, even when we are receiving mental health treatment.

Michigan's Mental Health Code of 1975 protects patients' constitutional rights. Psychiatric hospitals require staff to act as patient advocates to inform patients of their rights and guard against violation.

Know your civil rights—in sickness and in health.

Salem outshoots Canton to take city championship

By Paul King
special writer

Exciting scoring was the key feature of the Centennial Educational Park cross-field rivalry contest as Plymouth Salem battled to a 3-1 victory over Plymouth Canton, Wednesday.

Salem co-captain Shelly Staszal opened the scoring in the first half with a goal assisted by Tracy Greenhalge. One minute later, Canton's Kendra Whitely evened up the score to make a 1-1 tie at the half.

At the 62-minute mark, Rock sophomore fullback Ruth Knoerle booted in her first goal, unassisted from 20 yards out. Greenhalge added to the excitement with Salem's next goal, on a header from a Staszal pass.

Livonia Churchill's girls' soccer squad continued along the winner's path Friday, routing Livonia Franklin 6-0 at Franklin.

The win boosted the Chargers' overall record to 10-3-1 through Friday. Franklin slipped to 2-8.

Five different players accounted for all the Churchill scoring. Amy Brow netted a pair, while Jennifer Huegli, Jessie Miller, Dorene Dudek and Jenny Sawicki added one each. Terry Groat turned aside seven shots to earn her fourth shutout.

STEVENSON 5 FARMINGTON 0

Two goals by Mary Kay Hussey and a superb defense that did not allow a shot on goal pushed Livonia Stevenson to victory Friday at Farmington.

Stephanie Riddle, Leasa Klix and Marci Jamrog added single tallies for the Spartans, now 9-3 overall. Karen Rice got the shutout, her fourth, but went unchallenged in the nets.

NORTHVILLE 3 PLY. CANTON 1

Plymouth Canton started slowly Friday and it cost the Chiefs at home against Northville.

Northville scored three times in the first half. Kim Reeves connected on a penalty kick in the second half to bring the Chiefs to within two, but that was as close as they could come.

The loss dropped Canton to 3-6-1 overall. Northville is 11-1-1.

LADYWOOD 5 G.P. UNIV. LIGGETT 0

The Moylan sisters combined for three of Livonia Ladywood's goals Thursday as the Blazers won easily at Grosse Pointe University Liggett.

soccer

Sophomore Julie Moylan netted two goals and sister Jane had one. Denise Durr and Shannon Bowler added single tallies for Ladywood, now 3-2-1 overall.

Donna Schlacter recorded her second shutout.

BENTLEY 5 SAG. EISENHOWER 1

Five different goal scorers and a 40-4 shot advantage were all the reasons Livonia Bentley needed Thursday at home against Saginaw Eisenhower.

Amy Eichhorn got the only goal of the first half. Teammates Colleen McQueen, Kim Paterson, Lisa Rigstad and Cathy Long tallied in the second.

Bentley is now 9-0-1 overall.

Last Wednesday's Bentley-Northville matchup was a fairly even one, with both teams nearly equalling each other in shooting and saves as well as scoring.

Bentley's only goal was seven minutes into the first half, when junior forward Lisa Rigstad took a corner kick from Amy Finzel.

Northville's lone point was in the second half on a goal by junior forward Lisa Cahill on an assist from Sue Terwin.

Bentley goalie Cathy Grige had 10 saves on 11 shots; Northville's Jenny Gans made 12 saves on 13 shots.

LIV. STEVENSON 5 LIV. CHURCHILL 1

Stevenson senior striker Mary Kay Hussey contributed the bulk of her team's point tally against the Chargers last Wednesday, scoring one goal in the first half and another three in the second.

Hussey knocked in one goal on a header, and three on dribble passes. Leasa Klix was the Spartans' other kicker in the scoring column. Assists were made by Tina Galindo (2), Kathleen Berry (2) and Marci Jamrog (1). Center fullback Lisa Broccardo, filling in for the injured Cheryl Galindo, was credited with an outstanding game by coach N. Divens.

Churchill's lone goal came almost 20 minutes into the second half on a header by Amy Brow. Dorothy Brown got the assist on the Charger score.

Stevenson's winning goalie was Doreen Deagle. Churchill had a pair of goalies; Terry Groat retired after 60 minutes and was relieved by Jenny Sawicki.

Stevenson's win avenges a 3-0 loss to Churchill on April 22.

LIV. FRANKLIN 2 N. FARMINGTON 0

Freshman Laura Alcala sparked the Patriots in their shutout over the Raiders, garnering both her team's goals.

Alcala connected with a net shot once in each half to send Franklin's squad to the state qualifying heats.

SALEM 16 FRANKLIN 1

The Plymouth Salem bats were booming Wednesday, pounding out 15 hits in an easy non-league romp at home over Livonia Franklin.

Pam McBride led the offensive assault with three hits and four RBI. Debbie Glomski, Cindy Runge and Terri Lesniak each chipped in two hits, as Rock coach Rob Willette played everybody.

Sue Carlson surrendered five hits and six walks, taking the win for Salem. Franklin fielders didn't help pitcher Jill Phillips, committing five errors.

softball

day ended with the same score as the first — 6-1.

Only three Rocks managed hits, with Debbie Glomski driving in their only run. For Stevenson, Liz Gargaro went three-for-three and scored a run, Karen Kraly had two hits and an RBI and Lisa Bokovoy collected two hits, including a double, and two RBI.

Bokovoy got the win for the Spartans.

Bad luck! Salem stalls, 6-1

The Friday the 13th jinx.

Diane Murphy made her return to the mound for Plymouth Salem with the odds stacked against her Friday (the 13th). And the superstitious legends attached to the date found new believers, as Livonia Stevenson prevailed, 6-1 at Salem.

It wasn't so surprising that Stevenson won. After all, the victory gave the Spartans a 7-3 Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) record, a 10-3 mark overall.

Besides that, Stevenson had beaten Salem before. But that's where the eeriness lies.

The last time the two teams met was the last time Murphy pitched. She reached out to snare a grounder and broke a finger on her pitching hand. Her first game back Fri-

McNamara gem goes for naught

The clutch. Statistics are nice, but they rarely reflect how a player performs when he has to come through.

Livonia Stevenson and Plymouth Salem baseball teams were locked in battle Friday. Through six innings the game was scoreless. Moreover, Stevenson had failed to get a hit off Salem hurler Barry McNamara.

But the Spartans did in the seventh — they got a hit. Just one, but it was all they needed to slip past Salem, 2-1, in a game played at Stevenson.

McNAMARA AND Stevenson's Don McGinlay dueled on the mound through the first six innings, refusing to allow a run. McGinlay was nicked in the top half of the seventh, though, as Mike Cindrich singled, stole second and, with two outs, tried to steal third. The overthrown ball sailed past the third baseman and Cindrich got up and raced home with the game's first run.

In their half of the inning, the Spartans got a walk to Pete Rose. Rose promptly stole second and scored when the shortstop threw to third on Bill Ulle's grounder and overthrew the bag. Ulle took second base on the play.

On McNamara's next pitch, Dan Gilmartin laced a single that scored Ulle with the winning run. A clutch single, indeed.

McGinlay struck out 10 and walked none in getting the win. McNamara deserved better: one hit, three walks, five strikeouts in 6½ innings.

Canton's Kendra Whitely (left) and Salem's Kelly Clarke mix it up during the CEP soccer showdown last Wednesday.

Rocks, RU split doubleheader

Catcher Dave Slavin belted a three-run homer in the fourth inning last Wednesday to speed Plymouth Salem on its way to a 9-3 victory over Redford Union in the first game of a doubleheader.

RU didn't sit still, however — the team bounced back in the second game with a 5-4 win of its own.

In the first contest, RU and the Rocks battled to a 3-3 standstill by the end of the third inning. Salem forged ahead by four runs in the fourth, largely on Slavin's successful swinging.

Redford Union couldn't reciprocate, and fell further and further behind. Pitcher Mike Harte took the loss, with three and a third innings on the mound.

RICK BERBERET gets the win for Churchill, after relieving starter Dave Haut.

Redford almost ended up with a loss in the second game, but pulled out the win with a daring seventh-inning performance.

Down 4-3 in the seventh inning, RU's Brian Johnson tripled and was batted in by Don Taylor (who was three for four during the game) on a single. Taylor stole second and scored Redford's final run on a single by Dennis Geratty.

Winning pitcher was Pat Lowney, who relieved starter Rich Williams.

Salem's Berberet got the loss, after relieving Chris Mowees.

Patriot singles beat Thurston

Slow and steady wins the race, so the saying goes.

Livonia Franklin batters must have had that in mind when they punched a total of 17 hits into Thurston territory last Friday — all of them singles.

Intentional or not, all four hits spelled the difference in Franklin's 4-0 overtime win over Thurston.

The Eagles drew first blood, scoring in the second inning, with Franklin catching up in the fourth. The Patriots pulled ahead in the fifth, but Thurston tied up the game in the seventh to send the contest into overtime.

After one stalemated inning, Franklin opened up with a string of singles to drive in the winning two runs.

The list of Patriot hitters read like the team roster: Steve Willbanks and Mike Johnson both went three for five with an RBI apiece; Bob Copiak was three for four; Rich Popp, Jeff Malek and winning pitcher Mike Wilkins were all two for four.

The victory puts Franklin's overall record at an even 6-6.

REDFORD UNION 6
N. FARMINGTON 3

Winning pitcher Keith Manus had a no-hitter going for five innings before Farmington spoiled RU's shutout last Friday.

On the way to the victory, slugger Kevin Schwanz went four for four, including a three-run homer in the fourth inning and four RBIs. Dave Balaka also walked a homer, a solo shot in the fourth inning. Don Taylor went two for four during the afternoon.

Manus' no-hitter progressed until the sixth, when North Farmington scored three times to cut RU's lead to three runs.

RU's record stands at 9-6, 3-4 in the North-west Suburban League.

JOHN GLENN 10
GARDEN CITY 9

Pinch hitter Doug Brown singled in the winning run for John Glenn during their victory last Friday over Garden City.

Brown knocked in Glenn Belcher to break the tie at Garden City. Other Glenn sluggers included Tim Filary, who went two for three (his hitting streak stands at 10 in a row); Cass Simpson, who went two for four; and Belcher, who went three for four.

Don Wolfe takes the win for Glenn, with six strikeouts and five walks.

LIV. CLARENCEVILLE 11
THURSTON 6

Churchill brought out its big bats for the Harrison game last Friday, knocking out 12 hits and a slew of RBIs.

The Chargers led the way almost from the beginning, opening up an 8-2 lead by the bottom of the first inning.

Churchill's top sluggers included Miguel Contreras, who hit three for four with a pair of RBIs; Dave Munson, two for two; and Mike Hachigian and sophomore catcher Scott Papich, who both hit two for four with three RBIs apiece.

Todd Smith led the way for Harrison batter, smacking a two-run homer in the first inning.

Relief pitcher Chris Semik gets credit for the win. Bob Wasczewski takes the loss.

Calling all stats

Observant-area baseball coaches, take notice! Here's a chance to see how your players rate in the area.

Chris Priebe and Mike George of Redford Bishop Borgess have volunteered to list the top pitchers and hitters in our coverage area. The pair will take phone calls from coaches 8-10 p.m. Sundays at 255-1100.

Batting statistics should include times at-bat, average and number of hits, homers and runs batted in. Pitching stats to be compiled are won-lost record, strikeouts, innings pitched, earned run average and walks.

Errors plague Borgess

Redford Bishop Borgess saw a golden opportunity slip away against Redford Catholic Central Wednesday at Thurston's field.

Or perhaps "given away" would more aptly describe it.

The CC Shamrocks remained undefeated in the Catholic League by edging the Spartans, 69-58.

The score doesn't indicate how close the meet was. In fact, Borgess should have won. All the Spartans had to do was run their relays and they would have.

But they didn't.

CC false-started in the 800-meter relay and was disqualified. All the Borgess team had to do was finish, but they handed off outside their zone and so they, too, were disqualified.

In the 400-meter relay, a Borgess strongpoint, the Spartans' anchor runner crossed out of his lane and cut off CC's Kevin Kral. The result: another DQ.

The disqualifications cost Borgess a possible 10 points and gave CC five.

CC winners were led by Paul Buchanan, who won both the 1500 (1:58.6) and 5000 (25:6.1) in the field, the Shamrocks' John Rakoczy was first in the high jump (6-2) and Chris Kindred was best in the pole vault (12-6).

On the track, CC firsts were run by Rick Pater in the 110 high hurdles (15.0), Greg Page in the 300 low hurdles (39.6) and Marty Hegarty in the 3,200 (9:55.1).

Ken Gendjar, Dave Green, Mark Renkiewicz and Kevin Kral teamed to capture the 400 relay (4:53).

For Borgess, Fred Owens won a pair — the 100 (11.2) and 200 (22.8) dashes. Milt Thompson took the 400 for the Spartans (51.6), while in the field events Borgess had three wins: Tim Walton in the shot put (45.4), Jim McDonald in the discus (132-7) and Tim Hanks in the long jump (20-24).

Steve Bassett, Marion Montgomery, Hanks and Thompson finished on top in the 1,600 relay for Borgess (3:26.8).

CATHOLIC CENTRAL 97
DELASALLE 35

John Rakoczy claimed three individual firsts and Mike Fris added a pair as CC recorded its fourth dual meet without a loss Thursday at Macomb Community College.

Rakoczy's win came in the high jump (6-1), the long jump (18-7) and the 300-meter hurdles (41.5). Fris was best in the shot put (43-2) and discus (126-5).

Other winners for CC were Chris Kindred in the high pole vault (11-6), Matt Wilczewski in the 110 high pole vault (11-6), Matt Wilczewski in the 110 high pole vault (11-6), Matt Wilczewski in the 110 high pole vault (11-6).

Eagles barely squeeze by Catholic Central

Redford Thurston took advantage of a big third inning to get by Redford Catholic Central by a one-run margin last Thursday.

The Eagles' 4-3 home field victory stretches the team win record to 10-2 overall.

David Kress took over pitching duties from Al Dumas (who had relieved starter Greg Somerville) with two and a third innings remaining in the game.

The award is made monthly on a plan that calls for one point for every 10 pins over average for the entire month and one point for each 15 pins for most pins over his average for one game. All the figuring is based on his entering average on the night of bowling.

And during the month his average jumped from 184 to 167.

The previous winner was Al La Bourais, a fellow member in the Good Timers league.

This latest award is considered the top award offered for seniors in the metropolitan area.

According to Super Bowl spokeswoman Marge Brothers, the league has drawn 58 teams and as she put it, "we only have 60 lanes," so we couldn't do much better."

Thurston's winning run came in the bottom of the sixth, set up by a Bob Rousseau double that put Bob Foley (who had been walked) on third. Foley streaked down the last lane on a suicide squeeze bunt by Jeff Valdez.

Catholic Central slugger Jeff Gatt accounted for nearly half of CC's seven hits, contributing a double and two singles. Rich Muller took the loss as Central's pitcher.

LIV. FRANKLIN 4
BISHOP BORGESS 0 — 1

Catholic Central's pitching staff got a satisfying workout against Bishop Borgess last Wednesday, sweeping a double-header with a shutout and a near-shutout.

John Nissen, a junior right hander, takes credit for the Shamrock's no-hitter in the first game of the twinbill at Capitol Park.

Nissen tallied 10 strikeouts and four hits to blank the Spartans in a game that featured very little batting action.

Wood smacked a solid single, followed by another off the bat of Nick Colletta. Steve Willbanks followed suit.

Finishes at the Canton recreation complex. There are six age divisions for both male and female.

Price is $5 before June 16 ($6 after). The first 400 entrants will receive either a Canton Country Festival Run hat or visor. Awards will be presented to the first three finishers in each age group.

For more information, contact the Canton Parks and Recreation department between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. at 397-1000.

Later registration will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on June 11 in Canton High's Phase III lobby. Birth certificates are required as registration. For more information, contact Karen Welling (981-3842) or Vic Gustafson (455-4189).

• RUSSIANS CAGED
Schoolcraft College will be the site of an international conflict at 8 p.m. Sunday, May 22.

That's when the Russians are coming. The Russians are the Soviet Union's men's basketball team. They'll be playing the Michigan AAU junior men's team, winners of the recent All-Star tournament at Calihan Hall.

Preliminary games include the Detroit AAU Junior Women's team battling the Suburban AAU junior women's squad at 4 p.m., and the Detroit AAU junior men's team playing the Suburban AAU junior men's team at 6 p.m.

All games will be played by intercollegiate rules. Tickets are $5, with proceeds subsidizing Schoolcraft College athletics and paying travel expenses for the Michigan AAU team to the national AAU championships June 27-July 1.

• EMILY-MIDAS RUN
It's that time of year again. Emily's and Midas mufflers are the top sponsors of a 10-kilometer (6.2 mile) run on June 11 which finishes at a party, complete with dancing, food and beer right at the finish line (Washington and Congress in downtown Detroit).

The run starts and ends at the same spot as the party, which begins when the run ends. Got that? Anyway, cost is $8, which includes a T-shirt, beer, parking and a race number — whether you run or not.

Entries are available at: Emily's, 171 W. Congress in Detroit; Midas dealers, any of the 10 Health Alliance Centers, Ford Dealerships, Vic Tanny's, or most sporting goods shops.

There's a definite goal for this year's event: to make it the biggest in the country. Last year's ranked fifth. Will this year's be first? Pay the eight bucks and find out.

• THEUS THIRD AT ROAD AT LANTA
Russ Theus of Garden City edged a third place in Road Atlanta National auto racing in Flowery Branch, Ga. on May 8.

He drove his GT 3 Toyota Corolla around the 2.5 mile track in 1:40.8, for an average speed of 89.3 mph.

Theus will try to improve his Sports Car Club of America national standing at the next event — the Nelson Ledges National on May 22 in Warren, Ohio.

• THURSTON CAGER SIGNED
George Sibel, a 6-2 guard from Redford Thurston, has been signed to the Siena Heights College basketball team.

Sibel averaged 23 points per game (including a school record 39 points against Eccore) for Thurston, leading with a single to drive Wood home. Mike Johnson trapped yet another runner to bring Colletta home, and Franklin's Cinderella story was completed with a triple walked by Chris Lewis that brought Willborn and Johnson across one plate.

Wood also got the win, with 12 strikeouts and three walks.

single by Tim Michalik.

Paul Fontelle takes the loss for Borgess, which had a clean slate in the box score.

Borgess batters fared better in the second game, giving CC starting pitcher Rich Muller fits. Muller left the mound in the third inning, relieved by winner Dan Michaels (who was relieved by Michalik after 1 1/2 innings).

The Spartans managed five hits in the game but still couldn't overcome CC's 12. Catholic Central second baseman Chris Parsons slammed a two-run homer in the top of the third inning, followed by another homer by Michalik in the sixth.

Losing pitcher John Martindale hurled all seven innings for Borgess.

Rick Rozman led Stevenson to a Western Lakes Activities Association victory over Farmington, to place the Spartans at the top of the divisional heap.

Harper Woods Notre Dame can do without seeing the likes of CC's pitching staff again this year.

The Shamrocks' starting duo of John Rogers and Dan Michaels limited Notre Dame to five hits in two games last Monday in sweeping a double-header at Livonia's Ford Field.

Rogers allowed four hits in the opener, a 10-inning affair that ended on Chris Parsons' two-run scoring double. Rogers fanned 12 and walked one in earning the victory, while Jeff Gatt collected a triple and a single and Parsons had two doubles to pace CC's offense.

'Tender Mercies': an uncanny slice of Americana

When a movie whispers, pay attention. That's a good indication that the filmmakers care more about integrity than flash and glitz.

"Tender Mercies" (PG) opts for integrity. The style is quiet, low key, unpretentious. It's a superior example of how engrossing a film can be when it puts its trust in people — how they talk, act, relate to each other — instead of in action for action's sake.

The principal characters are Robert Duvall and Tess Harper (in her film debut). Duvall plays Mac Sledge, a once-great country Western singer and composer. Twice married and the father of an 18-year-old daughter, Mac lost his family and his career to alcohol. Harper plays Rosa Lee, a young woman who grew up quickly. L. She married at 16, was a mother at 17 and a widow at 18 when her husband was killed in Vietnam. She has remained where her roots are in the dry, flat, Texas landscape where she runs an isolated motel and gas station.

Her 9-year-old boy, Sonny (Allan Hubbard in his movie debut), is both child and man. He wants the attention of a father, but he also displays the cocky assuredness of a boy accustomed to being the only male in the house.

When Mac awakes from a binge in Rosa Lee's motel without any money to pay his bill, he asks if he can stay and work it off. "Tender Mercies" begins that simply and continues with a compelling simplicity and directness. Mac stays, works, gives up drinking, and marries Rosa Lee.

The dialogue is sparse. Every word is important. These aren't people who easily speak about their thoughts and feelings. That goes into their music — those country Western songs about heartbreak, loneliness, cheating lovers and true love. The music is an important and very moving part of this film.

DUVALL DOES his own singing in the movie and wrote two of the songs. The script was written by Horton Foote. It's a lean, beautiful piece of writing. No word or phrase rings false to the characters' time and place.

The Australian director Bruce Beresford ("Breaker Morant," "The Getting of Wisdom") directed the film with an uncanny perception for Americana. Everything looks and feels right from the dusty Coke machine on the motel porch to the Baptism ceremony at the church.

Beresford concentrates on the familiar, homely things that make up his characters' lives — tending the garden, mending a door, going to church. These activities help define them, but "Tender Mercies" is also about an artist (Mac) cut off from his art and still needing to express himself. And it's about the quiet courage of people facing up to life's inequities, enduring and building anew.

Beresford treats all the characters with dignity and respect, and he taps into what is universal about them. Their needs for loving, trusting and giving direction to their lives are shared by all of us.

The result is an exceptional film that deserves to be hailed as an American classic.

Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland and, to a lesser extent, Iceland, have a long history of design prominence. Dating back to 1900, when Viking revival and art nouveau styles made a splash at the Paris Exposition, Scandinavian-designed products have found enthusiastic and loyal customers the world over.

Though Nordic styles have evolved over the years, most Americans have come to think of Scandinavian design as the look so popular internationally during the 1950s, the culmination of innovative, functional principles reaching back to about 1930. Utilitarian in concept, the style's forms were simple but refined.

For all the success of the '50s look, the world — and the Scandinavian nations themselves — have moved on to other design concepts and styles. Other European nations, especially Italy, came on strong in the design field in the 1960s, after their economies shook off the remaining ravages of World War II.

Then, too, within the Nordic nations, coordinated design activities which once involved artists and industries tended to dissolve during the troubled '60s and '70s, as cultural and economic values were re-examined.

The new generation of designers, wrote Norwegian museum director, Jan Lauritz Opstad, "was no longer solely interested in the right form and correct functional characteristics of the individual object, nor was it so set on the thought of making good consumer products intended for the home. Instead, it focused on the public environment (and) believed that industrial production should aim to satisfy the needs of all, not just those who can afford to buy products."

For the remainder of the 1980s, suggested Swedish design director Lennart Lindkvist, there does seem to be a dream of enriching functional-industrial products, including glass, textiles and furniture, with a new artistic sensibility.

"We may find that designers are able to impart a new poetic and sensual dimension to necessary everyday goods," he said.

From about the time of the 1900 Paris Exposition, tradition and innovation have been twin concerns of Nordic designers. So strong has been the Scandinavian tenet that design should reflect the fundamental values of the Scandinavian people that the director of the Finnish Society of Crafts and Design said: "Design expresses our national identity in a material form."

GEOGRAPHY, CLIMATE and a number of social/political factors all have influenced the design of Scandinavian products. Isolated from the rest of Europe until fairly recently, the region provided a foundation for special design features.

"In the past," wrote Swedish author/critic Ul Hard Af Segerstad, "impulses from the leading cultural nations on the continent passed only very slowly through the filter of geographic distance and poverty, and a great deal of time passed before they were adapted to the harsher conditions of the North."

Far more important to Nordic design, he maintained, was a fusion of the warring peasant and craft culture of the late 19th century (with its utilitarian ideas springing from harsh conditions) to industrial efficiency and socially oriented functionalism in these nations.

Within the group of five nations, however, geographical differences have created varied design identities. Early in the century, peninsular Denmark found appeal in the arts and crafts movement of England.

Norway, where topography splits the nation into hundreds of small communities along fjord and valleys, has been a leader in sophisticated crafts.

Finland, because it stands in a political and cultural crossfire between East and West, boasts an "art for art's sake" design tradition assertively independent from its four Nordic neighbors.

Sweden's location places it in contact with Russian and German design trends and related production development.

Climate is another major factor in the Scandinavian look. Segerstad pointed out that changes of seasons, particularly the radical shifts from winter to spring, go far in explaining the designers' "fixation" on nature.

Modern design was to be considered the visual expression of the socially-just society, according to Norwegian museum director Peter Anker. There was a conviction that ordinary people had a right to a comfortable home which was not only healthy and safe, but also functional and aesthetically satisfying.

Color it gorgeous by using just 1 hue

Everyone has a favorite color. This summer put that hue to work with a one-color flower garden. Nothing is monotonous about a monochromatic floral display.

By selecting different flowers of the same color family and arranging them by height and foliage textures, a favorite color takes on new excitement. Most flower colors come in a wide range of shades, from dark to light, and varying hues in between. Rose, for example, can be found in subtly colored petunias or begonias, and also in the vivid zinnia, Wild Cherry, or rich geranium. Deep Rose Flash. Careful selection can create the same single-color effect in shades of blue, yellow, white, pink and coral.

To create a monochromatic bed in your garden, select your favorite color and then begin thinking about different plants available in this shade. A blue garden could include petunias, ageratum, pansies, salvia, verbena and delphinium. The larger your bed, the greater the number of different flowers and color shades which can be accommodated attractively. Smaller beds will be more attractive with fewer color and plant differences.

Height differences add another dimension to creating a single-color spectacular. Rather than lining up your plants with the tallest in the back, place tall varieties in the center, and plan a gradual height decrease to the small border flowers. That way the bed is beautiful from all angles.

To illustrate the joys of single-color flower displays, the summer gardens of the Geo. J. Ball, Inc., horticulture wholesalers, featured eight beds, each made up of a single color. Each variety was available from seed, or as started plants at garden centers. To try your hand at one-color artistry, check the Ball recommendations; then get out your seed catalog and begin on your own!

Gardening chores can fill May days

Those May flowers which April promised us are blooming, but don't get complacent. There's still plenty to do to get your lawn and garden established. Extension specialists at Michigan State University suggest the following tasks are timely this month:

- Remove all nonbiodegradable materials such as plastic cord, wire and plas-

Now's the time to divide old mums and plant new ones so you'll have gorgeous blooms like these. Pinch about one-half inch from each growing tip to encourage plants to send out side shoots.

tic burlap from root balls, trunks and stems of trees and shrubs before you plant them. If left on a plant, they will eventually girdle and kill it. Water thoroughly after planting and every week to 10 days during dry weather.

- Control tent caterpillars in fruit and ornamental trees by removing the caterpillars and their tents by hand or spraying the foliage of infested trees with Bacillus.

thuringiensis, a bacterial disease of caterpillars sold under several trade names.

- Check pine trees and other ornamentals for sawfly larvae. These caterpillar look-alikes are the immature stage of members of a nonstinging wasp family. Sawfly larvae often feed in large numbers, and they raise their heads when disturbed. Control them with Sevin or malathion.

• Look for cankerworms feeding in shade and ornamental trees. They are thin, green or brown caterpillars that move with a distinct inchworm motion as they feed on tree leaves. They can be serious defoliators. When infestations are severe, the caterpillars drip down from the tree, suspended on fine silk threads. The recommended control is Bacillus thuringiensis.

- Prune spring-flowering shrubs and trees after they've finished blooming. Remove old, damaged, dead, weak or poorly placed branches and retain the young, vigorous growth to bear next year's flowers.

• Remove the blossoms from all strawberry plants planted this spring. If you allow them to bear fruit this year, it will drastically reduce the yields in future years.

- Thin apples and peaches about three weeks after flower petals fall, spacing fruits about eight inches apart. This will give you larger, better quality fruits.

- Remove unwanted sucker growth around raspberries when new shoots are about a foot tall.

- Continue a regular disease and insect control program in fruit trees.

• Plant seeds of cool-weather crops — onions, beets, lettuce, spinach, carrots and radishes — for the second and third times, and thin earlier plantings. Protect root vegetables against maggots by sprinkling diazinon on the planting furrow according to label directions.

• Seven to 10 days before the average date of the last frost, plant snap beans and sweet corn. These crops are susceptible to frost damage, but they usually take at least a week to germinate and emerge from the soil.

• Set vegetable transplants outdoors during the day for 10 to 14 days before you intend to plant them. This will give them a chance to get used to outdoor growing conditions.

• After the soil has warmed up and the danger of frost is past, plant seeds of cucumbers, squash, pumpkins and melons, and set out plants of peppers, tomatoes and eggplant.

• Transplant vegetables and flowers on a cloudy day or in the evening so they have a chance to get over the shock of being transplanted before they have to cope with direct sunlight. Plants may need to be shaded and protected

Gardening shortcuts

Here's some tips to make your gardening chores easier and your crops more bountiful:

- Plant tiny seeds by dipping a pencil in water, then use it to pick up the seed.
- Plant banana peels, cut in small pieces, near your rose bushes. The peels are full of potash.
- Plastic meat trays make good saucers for seedlings and flower pots. The bottoms of bleach bottles are also good for this purpose.
- If you use your sprayer for herbicides, use a different sprayer for your garden. Even a slight residue of herbicide in your sprayer may damage plants.
- For bigger onions, brush away the soil around the bulb so roughly 1/2" is above the ground and exposed to the sun.
- Carrots need the opposite approach. Brush soil over the crown as it begins to push above the soil. Otherwise tops will green up.
- Staggered row arrangement conserves space and increases yield.
- Overplanting is a common mistake. With quick maturing crops, it's important to grow only what you can use at any one picking. Small, successive plantings eliminate the problem.
- Water your garden thoroughly but less often. When the soil is sprinkled often but never deeply soaked, plant roots tend to remain in the damp, upper portion of the soil.

Gardening chores

against high winds for a few days. Placing cutworm collars around plants — particularly peppers — is also a good idea.

• Fertilize spring-flowering bulbs before or during bloom and remove flowers as they fade so plants concentrate on building up the bulbs for next year's flowers rather than maturing seed.

• Fertilize roses when they begin to grow. And begin spraying regularly to protect roses against insects and diseases.

• After the average date of the last spring frost in your area, plant tuberous begonias, impatiens, wax begonias, caladiums and coleus in shaded areas, and light-loving annuals such as petunia, geranium, alyssum and portulaca in sunny spots.

• Divide old mums and plant new ones. Pinch about one-half inch from each growing tip to encourage plants to send out side shoots.

• Plant gladioli, dahlias, cannas and other summer-flowering bulbs through the end of the month.

• Set potted amaryllis and Easter lilies outdoors or plant them in a shady spot in the garden. Remember to repot them and take them indoors again before frost in the fall.

• Water new or renovated lawns during dry weather to help young grass plants get well established before the heat of midsummer.

• In late May or early June, fertilize established bluegrass lawns with 1 to 1 1/2 pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet. Applying nitrogen before mid-May can increase the likelihood that susceptible bluegrass varieties will develop Fusarium blight, a serious turf disease. It also necessitates extra mowing.

• Mow established lawns regularly so that no one mowing removes more than one-third of the length of the leaf blades. Set your mower to cut no shorter than 1 1/2 inches.

• Move house plants outdoors for the summer after all danger of frost is past. Place them in a lightly shaded spot where they'll be sheltered against the wind. Plants tend to dry out much faster outdoors, especially those in clay pots, so check soil moisture regularly and water as needed. Watch for insect problems and control them as soon as you see them.

These plants have it made in the shade

Plenty of flowers are now available for shade. The selection of colorful blossoms with varying heights, shapes and colors is nearly endless.

America's first choice is usually the impatiens. New impatiens now shine brightly from nearly any shaded condition. Varieties such as the "Super Elfin" and Fantasia series are genetically programmed for the shaded tough spots in virtually every prism of the color spectrum.

There are several other species of annual flowers which will also tolerate up to half a day of shade and keep on producing blossoms. Many of these flowers are sold as "sun annuals." Contrary to this labeling, they will do just as well, and sometimes better, in locations with protection from harsh light.

Salvia, commonly known as scarlet sage, is no longer only scarlet. Now salvia can be purchased in blue, orange, rose, scarlet and white. The showy spikes of the "Carabiniere" series are equally at home in partial shade. In warm climates where day temperatures climb uncomfortably, expect even better performance from these salvia when given only morning's light.

Don't forget the award winning "Nicki" series of nicotiana for partially shaded areas. The "Nicki" series are scaled down versions of what grandma called "flowering tobacco." The improved varieties grow no taller than 16 to 18 inches in the home garden. The rose, pink, white, red and yellow flowers remain open during the day and scent the evening air with a delicate perfume.

Color from leaves brightens up a dark corner as effectively as flowers when coleus is the choice. Coleus do not merely tolerate shade, they thrive when planted there. For best effect use a single color coleus, rather than a mix. There are three new additions to the "Wizard" coleus series, all compact and late blooming. Look for cream and green 'Jade,' intense 'Red' or apricot 'Sunset' in seed catalogs, or purchase them as started plants at garden centers. For shaded hanging baskets, select a 'Saber' variety, or 'Scarlet Poncho' which was bred for basket display.

To keep flowers blooming vigorously in the shade, go light on fertilizer applications. Shade-tolerant annuals prosper with fewer applications of fertilizer than their sunny counterparts.

Widen your shade horizon with these adaptable garden introductions. They need minimum care, but rate maximum appreciation!

Salvia, once considered a sun annual, does well in the shade provided it has morning sun. Salvia now comes in blue, orange, rose and white, in addition to scarlet.
