Lawsuit in wind on dust problem

By M.B. Dillon Ward staff writer

Push has come to shove in the dusty roads controversy between the Wayne County Road Commission and area townships - and it soon may see both parties in court.

Township attorneys from Canton, Plymouth and Van Buren townships met Tuesday to plot strategy after "instructed by our communities to take aggressive action to eliminate the problems caused by a lack of chlo-riding on the roads," said Jud Hemming, counsel for Canton Township.

Unless road commission officials own up to financial responsibility for dust control on townships' primary gravel roads, a class action suit will be filed within a week, Hemming said.

Currently, the county and townships are splitting the cost of chloriding un-der a recently agreed upon arrangement intended to remedy critical conditions on the roads. Canton will be billed $7,500 for this week's application of chloride.

Exasperated commission officials claim declining gas and weight tax revenues render them unable to continue paying for chloriding.

"It's fine and dandy to urge us to do more. But how can you when you're already spending twice as much as you're receiving?" WCRC spokeswoman Irma Clark said.

Dollars or no dollars, Hemming said, the suit will entail "establishing once and for all the fact that the road com-

Oh, what a beautiful morning

Runners in the Canton Country Festival's five-mile Fun Run took in some of Canton's most tranquil country sights while getting the weekend off on the right foot Saturday morning. Observer photographer Bill Bresler got a bird's-eye view of the heated competition from a Wolverine helicopter flown by Norton Sherman of Gladwin. Sherman flew festival-goers over Canton throughout the weekend. For more on the country fest, see Page 4B of today's Observer. For more on the run, see our sports section.

Officials launch study of business properties

After a 13-year lapse, Canton officials think it's high time the township's agricultural, commercial and industrial properties are appraised.

Officials believe the appraisal will give a more accurate picture of property values and are projecting an increased valuation in those categories. The results of the survey will deter mine future tax assessments.

"It really hasn't been done (appraised) since 1970," said Finance Director Mike Gorman.

The Township Board recently authorized hiring the Wayne County Appraisal Co. of Westland to appraise more than 1,000 parcels of non-residential property in Canton. The same firm did a similar survey of residential land that are (assessed) higher (than they shou'ld be) and some lower, just like the residential property," Gorman said. We think the logic is the same for

THE SURVEY will cost $42,750 and be paid for from federal revenue-sharing funds, Gorman said. Field work is expected to begin in about a month and be finished by fall. Included in the survey will be 131 ag ricultural parcels; 569 commercial; and 396 industrial properties. Also included are two agricultural parcels near commercial areas which are potential candidates for immediate de velopment, Gorman said.

A couple years ago, legislation was enacted changing the way property taxes are computed.

The deadlock over dusty roads, considered by many Plymouth-Canton area residents to be a health hazard, is expected to see area townships united in battle against the Wayne County Road Commission in circuit court in the near future.

So far, Plymouth, Canton and Van Buren Townships have resolved to file a class action suit against the county. Township Officials say state law mandates that the county pay for the chloriding of roads. Road commission officials claim they have no money avail-

Car thieves win big bucks in 'chop shops'

By Arlene Funke staff writer

If you own an older-model car in good condition, don't be surprised to find it stolen some day.

Car thieves are singling out older vehicles, stripping them down to the frame in a few hours in a 'chop shop' and selling the parts to junk dealers or repair shops for big profits.

Own a Corvette? If the answer is ves. you stand a 50-50 chance of having our car stolen, due to the car's popu-

Those are just a few of the myriad details Canton police officer John Mac-Diarmid learned during a recent sevenmonth stint as an undercover officer with a Michigan State Police task force on car theft. During his tour of duty, MacDiarmid helped investigate more than 100 cases area-wide, including several in Canton.

In car theft, the parts are far more valuable than the whole, according to MacDiarmid. Because people are keep-ing their cars longer these days, spare parts are at a premium.

MacDiarmid learned how to buy and sell stolen cars and parts, strip a car down to its frame and how to recognize stolen parts.

"That's the whole thing," he said. You get in and become one of them." MACDIARMID HAS brought back data and newly acquired investigative skills which are being put to use in the Canton department. Several arrests have occurred recently, MacDiarmid said.

People facing criminal prosecution would bring undercover cops into a theft ring, in exchange for possible reduction in charges, MacDiarmid said.

According to the officer, thieves like to spend no more than a half-hour on a theft mission.

"We dealt with people who were stealing from this area," MacDiarmid said. "They like to come out here because of the freeway - easy-on, easyoff access. They know we don't have too many cars on the road. That makes for easy pickings."

Most of the thieves took cars from apartment complexes and subdivisions, usually during evening hours, MacDiarmid said. Others worked during the

Some thieves specialize in working the shopping malls, because "there is so much in-and-out traffic they don't attract attention," MacDiarmid said.

"If somebody wants your vehicle, there is nothing you can do to stop them," MacDiarmid said. "For these people, it's nothing to break a window punch an ignition." Car theft is a "minimal risk," be-

According to Kett, car theft represents a $4 billion annual cost to the American public.

Each year, 1.5-million vehicles are stolen, and there are more than one 1.2million reported thefts of parts and contents from cars, Kett said.

State-wide, Michigan thefts have increased," Kett said. There were 58,446 reported cases in 1981, compared 53,979 for the year before, he said.

PEOPLE LIVING in more populated areas are more likely to have th stolen, Kett said. But the thefts are also increasing in more rural areas.

Kett offered a few tips to minimize the risk of car theft: · Park in a well-lighted area.

· Close your windows. Lock the car

dollars but not respect

ALREADY THE 1984 election debate over national education policy is almost out of hand. Candidates are focusing on solutions. The Reagan Administration opts for tougher state requirements and merit pay. Democrats Mondale and Hollings are for more money, more money, more money. But as I pore through "A Nation at Risk," the devastating report of the National Commission on Excellence in Education that stirred the debate, I get an entirely different reading. Education has indeed been a high American priority, judging solely from governmental budgets Total governmental spending - federal, state and local - last year amounted to $215 billion versus $179 billion for national defense. As taxpayers,

BUT AS INDIVIDUALS, well, one has to wonder about the importance of education in the ordinary American's scheme of things.

Americans have been generous to education.

One of my most mind-boggling travel experiences was not seeing the Alhambra or Westminster Abbey but the National Portrait Gallery in Edinburgh,

An entire floor of that building was devoted to pictures of scholars. Honestly, scholars - people who contributed stories and ideas and inventions Many names escape me now, but I recollect that some of the greatest minds who worked in the English language were Scots - James Watt of steam engine fame; Robert Louis Stevenson of poems and novels: Adam Smith, the philosopher who practicalmetaphysician; Thomas Carlyle, Sir Walter Scott, dozens more.

The Scots honored scholars Remember Tevye in "Fiddler on the Roof" and his song "If I Were a Rich Man"? Why did he want to be rich? So he could join an Oakland County country club or vacation in Traverse City? No. A rich man would have time to go to the temple and discuss scriptures with the scholars.

THE NATIONAL Commission on Excellence in Education makes a strong case that student performance in virtually all academic areas has fallen steadily for a generation, adding this chilling com-

Nevertheless, the average graduate of our schools and colleges today is not as well-educated as the average graduate of 25 or 35 years ago, when a much smaller poroportion of our population completed high school and college."

This has happened despite higher property taxes, higher tuitions, a new federal Department of Education and generous tax breaks for personal educational expenses. Why?

Do we, as 220 million individuals, honor the scholar as did the Scots and Tevye or do we honor the "with it" person? Do we honor "duty" or "doing your own thing"? Do we choose to read about TV "personalities" or outstanding "characters"?

Around the kids, do we praise self-denial and delayed rewards or say it's OK to do whatever you want as long as you don't harm somebody else?

It's fashionable for politicians to flatter the general public - even the National Commission does so on page 16. I'm not running for office, so I can afford to try to tell the truth.

I strongly suspect Americans' support of education is financial and institutional, not personal. Until we as 220 million individuals honor the kid who reads and works rather than manipulates personalities, it matters little whether the Reagan philosophy or the Mondale-Hollings philosophy is at the federal helm.

AT BREAKFAST this week, an acquaintance who likes to discuss government and personal welfare sought my opinions on several issues.

What might happen to employees of the Wayne County Road Commission with County Executive William Lucas proposing to cut down on salaries and jobs? he asked.

The man was concerned. Several years ago he had, through friends in county government, helped secure jobs for two young relatives. "Between them they're making $60,000 a year, and the benefits are great. I hope nothing happens to their jobs," he said. Understandable, I said. What do they do? It turns out that one drives a truck for the crew which repairs asphalt; the other works on a crew which maintains parks. The same day I wished a person well in a new job. The person was moving from a job in a private industry business to a government job at double the previous salary. EXTREME EXAMPLES? Perhaps, but these kinds of thing have been happening the past 10 or 20 years. And John Q. Citizen has become tired of hearing about them and is no longer in any mood to Government employment has become a good deal - in fact, a much better deal than employment in most other businesses or industries.

I can recall in my earlier years taking a clerical job with the city of Detroit. I learned early that most of my co-workers thought that the pay was too low but felt that the security that the job offered and the benefits compensated. Those were the days when school teach making less than $5,000 a year but stuck with it because of job satisfactions. Many teachers weren't career employees but women who wanted to work a few years before raising a family. Turnover was

Governments always claimed they could not pay wages comparable to industry because they were dealing with tax dollars, which are limited.

THINGS CHANGED. Most employees become unionized, and real bargaining set in. The state law against strikes by public employees became an ignored statute. "Blue flu" was followed by every kind of flu imaginable.

We found that, indeed, governments and school districts could afford to pay more than they previously had maintained.

State legislatures became dominated by labor in terests. Arbitration and political pressure played a part in increasing the wage and benefit packages of government employees.

And long ago we passed the point where government wages were lower than in private industry. In many instances, pension benefits for retirees are as costly as the wages and benefits paid to active

TAXPAYERS no longer are willing to shoulder the burden.

The Recall Blanchard movement manifests a dissatisfaction not only with the governor and the legislature which passed an income tax increase, but with all governments. The same dissatisfaction is evident when school millages are rejected as often as they are approved, during a time when there is national alarm about the state of education.

Hopefully, those on the receiving end of the government funds are making some concessions to the idea of conserving resources. This week, teachers in Livonia and Redford agreed to one-year wage freezes and 3 to 4 percent increases in the second and third years of new contracts.

These are welcome signs. The time has come for the pendulum to swing the other way.

Disagree with movie review

To the editor:

I disagree to some extent with the review of the movie "War Games" which appeared in the Monday, June 13, 1983 issue of the Observer. It has one heck of a message to it but it does it with light-hearted entertainment.

I feel that e the scenario of "War Games" is not so far-fetched. There have been cases of people breaking intocomputer banks and certainly the actors in the movie typify the cold war ideas of the military and government officials. The President, Mr. Reagan, is fueling the expanding nuclear arms race by introducing the first strike cruise missile into Europe. In the film the President of the U.S.A. decides to automate the launch of our atomic missile force via a war games computer. He decides to do this after testing the missile launch crews and finding out that at least 20 percent-plus of them will not launch the ICBMs on command

IT WOULD seem to me to go against common sense to push a button and to cremate more than 20 million people for any reason. The computer is told to play Global Thermonuclear War by out teen-age computer genius, who is, he thinks, only playing a game. However the "stupid" computer can't tell the difference between a game and the real thing. Did you know that once our early warning radar over Alaska picked up a flight of geese and thought it was a Soviet attack?

The real message of the film is that there is no winner in a nuclear war. The only way to win is not to play. I feel that this is one of the best anti-war movies since "Dr. Strangelove" with Peter Sellers. It is updated to include computers and ICBMs along with the old B-52 airplanes. Many of us in the peace movement believe that we must come to terms with the Soviet Union

Wrong to leave kids in car alone

Last Friday afternoon my husband and I were about to enter K mart's on Ann Arbor Road when we heard a woman scream, "Stop that car!"

We turned around and saw this woman throw her parcels and purse on the ground and run towards a moving van. She screamed again, "Stop that car! There is no driver and there are two small kids in there!"

My husband ran around the front of the car and pushed on it to try to stop it. The woman was trying to hang onto the van through the open window on the right side and another man got the door open on the driver's side and got in and stopped the vehicle, and pulled it back over to the curb.

There were two little boys, about four and five, in that van — trying to drive it. They were left in the vehicle with the motor running.

My husband and I went on into

Students helped biking for PCA

To the editor:

Students at Plymouth Christian Academy rode a total of 5,296.5 miles in a recent Bike-a-thon to install a fresh-air ventilation system to the building. With a goal of $10,000 these students rode alternate 1/2 hour sprints to raise over $11,000! The student rid-ing the most miles was a ninth grader named H. Kent Butler. He rode a total of 48 miles within the 21/2 hour event.

Prizes for the most money collected were donated by various businesses within the Plymouth-Canton area. Tre-mendous thanks go to these merchants: Audette's Office Supply, Bob Evans Farms Restaurant, Charlie's Corner, The Engraving Connection, Famous Recipe Chicken, Fox Photo, Fretter's Appliances, Heide's Flowers and Gifts, Hugh Jarvis Gifts, Joy Bookstore, Mayflower Hotel, McDonald's of Canton (Ford Road), Meijer's Thriffy Acres, Paper Parade, The Plymouth Hobby se Shores of Canton Racquetball, Sutherland's Restaurant, and The Trading Post.

Our first prize winners won different prizes according to grade and choice The winner for the kindergarten division collected over $100 and won a Little Professor calculator. Congratulations, Dawn Muneio! Among the first to fifth graders, Wesley Sarger, a first grader, collected over $350 and won a Vic 20 computer! At the secondary level, we had two first prize winners. Mike Allen, a seventh grader won a Commodore Vic 20 computer while Patrick McCarthy, an eighth grader, won the portable TV with AM M radio! Many other prizes were awarded with in the grades with the fourth grade class earning an ice cream treat for raising over $1,700 within the class for highest total for an individual class

Congratulations to all our winners! And a hearty thank you to all the parents and friends within the community for helping us to have a safe, enjoyable and profitable BIKE-A-THON!

Spotlight Players' production of "Broadway Musical Revue," presented Thursday-Saturday at the John Glenn High School cafeteria in Wayne, was intended to offer less experienced mempers of the group an opportunity to di rect small scenes and musical numbers from memorable Broadway shows.

The idea was that as a result of this valuable experience, these members would be able to take on larger responsibilities in the future. The intent was good, but its execuion was something less than that. In all honesty, it was like sitting through Cousin Edna's dance recital Don't misunderstand. I applaud the Spotlight Players and its willingness to groom and teach newcomers. Attitudes such as these will ensure that community theater continues to flourish. After all, the Cousin Ednas of today may well be the quality directors of tomorrow

THERE ARE, however, fundamental equisites of good theater. One of these is pacing. This production lagged from ne opening number through the finale. Where were the more knowledgeable members of the troupe? This basic flaw should have been recognized and Conducting the survey were two Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod churches serving the area. St. John's in Westland and St. Peter's in Plymouth. Purpose of the survey was to deter mine how the two parishes could better erve the residents in that area.

Pastor Robert A. Baer, director of the survey, said he "encouraged by the fact that such a large number of those esponding believe in Jesus Christ." He added that he hopes the joint outreach effort by St. John's and St. Peter's will have a positive impact on this number

THE SURVEY results showed: • 92 percent believe their soul will o either to heaven or hell when they

• 2 percent said nothing happens to their soul when they die; life ends at that point; · approximately 5 percent said they did not know what happens to their soul when they die;

Cooperative works for art appreciation

By Mary Klemic staff writer

Bigger is often thought to be better, but it isn't necessarily more effective.

An example is the Community Development Cooperative, a Redford Township group of about 40 to 50 members, that is working to increase residents' appreciation for the arts and in environmental and historical areas. Those areas are what members call the "foundations" of a community.

"People's concepts are that you need 50,000 or one million people, and you can't do anything without thousands and thousands of dollars," said Redford resident Jim Bailey. "But we're pulling off projects all the time.

Such projects include art contests, shows and fairs. But the organization isn't stop-ping there. Its plans include a nature center, community gardens and historical ar-

.COOPERATION is the key word for the five-year-old, non-profit group. Bailey, who edits the cooperative's twice-a-year newsletter and provides "management services" for the group, said the organization makes activities available to others through sharing.

"It means community development through cooperation," he said. "It's allowing people to be creative."

The group is now working only in Red-ford, but it may expand in future years to

"Cooperatives exist where people come together," Bailey said. "There are cooperatives for food and energy, but I don't know of any cooperatives like ours."

The cooperative consists of several member organizations, such as the Community Cultural Arts Council, the Rouge Restoration Council and the Museum Authority Each works to accomplish its own goals

THE ARTS council obtained works from local artists and put them on display at fairs and shows. Now it is working to display art works in various areas frequented by the public, such as Redford's Town Hall.

"It gives artists a chance to have other eople see their work," said artist Cheryl Kasparek, a member of the arts council

The goal of the Rouge Restoration Council is to promote environmental appreciation and awareness to the community.

"There's a lot of talented people here."

The goal of the Rouge Restoration Council is to promote environmental appreciation and awareness to the community, ac-cording to member Debbie Adams. Now before township officials is a pending proposal from the group to develop a nature pre-serve at Five Mile and Telegraph.

"We've already had several clean-up projects," said Adams, a waitress. "It's just a slow process."

THE COMMUNITY gardens proposed by the cooperative would be located at Beech Daly and Puritan. It would feature plantings that blossom at different times of the year so there would always be a "flow of color," Bailey said. The project is still "up in the air," he added.

"It would be a show case for the whole community, and a tremendous asset to this whole area," Bailey said.

The cooperative also hopes to put together a map locating all the historical sites in

"It's hard because they've bulldozed one place after another," Bailey said.

Self-expression

In his 60s, this designer decides to paint the rest of his life

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

Jack Whittlesey may never completely come to terms with his art. Maybe it's because he paints so well in a way that everyone can understand and many are willing to buy. In that sense his talent is both a curse and a

A native son of this metropolitan area, Whittlesey's artistic roots go back to the days of the Saarinens, Carl Milles, Zoltan Sepeshy and Marshall Fredericks at Cranbrook Academy of Art and many more at Yale University School of Fine Arts.

Whittlesey, married for 42 years to Gerda, the most loyal and supportive of all his fans, worked in General Motors styling doing product design until a couple of years ago.

In his mid-60s, he decided to get serious about his painting, something he has been doing all of his life, but more as avocation than vocation.

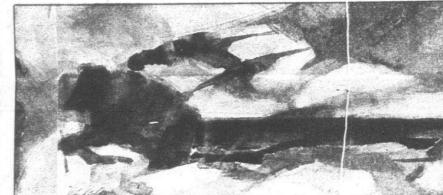

Now, it has top priority - and he asks himself what took him so long. It's the kind of life he's always wanted to lead.
"I studied with Marshall Fredericks (well-known Birmingham sculptor). I studied sculpture at Yale. I never really studied painting. It was a hobby when I was at GM.

THEN he recalled the day he was driving to Kingsville, Ontario, (he has done several watercolors of scenes in and near there) when he said to himself, "I'm gonna paint the rest of my life."

He has and still does a lot of commission work for metropolitan area business concerns. He said National Bank of Detroit has 75 of his paintings in the executive offices and other places. Detroit Bank and Trust has a sizeable collection of his work

Learning to draw

Don't let fear of failure stop efforts

This is the third in a series of art lessons by artist David Messing. Messing has taught art for eight years and operates his own store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt in Livonia. If you have questions, write Messing c/o Observer Newspapers. 23352 Farmington Road, Farming-

By David Messing special writer

Let's suppose that this series of articles inspired you into trying to draw, or has brought new life to your abilities of long ago. And say your pencil drawings so good that people asked for your artwork or wanted to purchase Believe me, this can happen because pencil drawings can range from sketchy to photographic. Pencil drawings are not only "framable" pictures for pleasure, but very useful in com-mercial art. So should this success be a road that reaches far, to many other media and forms of expression? Or will this success become a wall around you limiting you to only one medium?

I'm mentioning this early in the series because it is surprising how many people will experience relative success in one or two media and for fear of failing never try any other.

This also goes for the subjects you choose. If you have many beautiful still life drawings in pastel, are you to only be a still life, pastel artist, for fear of failing in pen and ink rendering of animals? It seems the more people admire the "works" you have already done the greater the tendency is for the "road" to become a "wall.

Artifacts

It is very similar to a performer When he or she goofs, it is in public and the fear of public failure is always with them. Now that fear keeps them sharp and their overcoming of that fear makes them successful. At least you have the privacy of your own home wherein you may fail or succeed.

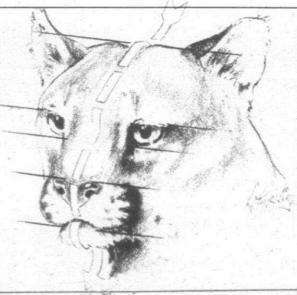

So remember you can't enjoy being successful unless you occasionally fail.

If I had any sense at all, the fear of failing would keep me off the golf course, entirely. But there is always a chance that I might do well on a particular course or even a particular hole. I am very good at driving the golf cart around, so I have no fears there. But a bad dream come true is to tee off at the first hole with a crowd of people behind, waiting to follow. With palms sweating I often say to my golf partner, Bob, I can't believe I paid money to do this. But the thrill of success tempered by the possibility of failure

Our class list of lessons, covers about forty different techniques and every medium. My students first year should cover most on the list. Those that do well in most everything are usually knocked right off their stool when they fail at something. With arms limp and head dropped, they drift out after the lesson muttering, something like my golf phrase, or "I never want to try

The students that often struggle with the lessons every once in a while have a tremendous success in a particular

So, have no fear as you lay down your pencil and pick up a vine charcoal. In the next Artifacts I will be covering drawing with pastels.

Artist Messing advises that no matter what position the head is in, the features stay the same. The middle of the forehead must run between the eyes and down the center of the nose. The middle of the nose points to the middle of the mouth, and the chin is centered under the middle of the muzzle. Watch the horizontal alignment of the foa-

"I'm painting commissions. In that sense, I'm commercial, but I'm not ashamed of that. So was Picasso (commercial)."... Whittlesey has one small watercolor that he did on board, on a spur of the noment, for himself. It is a rich colorful semi-abstract landscape. It pleases him and neither he nor his wife. Gerda, want to part with it. It points to a direction he's like to go with his work. It has the freedom of expresion which he enjoys.

"It's just a sketch," he says, "but I was thinking a lot more then than when He added with a shake of his head, It's tough to be completely free."

ALL THROUGH the recession, Whittlesey has been busy with commissions. He figures now that building is picking up he will continue to be and that makes him happy.

But, in the back of his mind is the idea of the free, loose, impressionistic style which he truly enjoys and wants to keep working on. As an artist, this unresolved desire will predictably keep him growing and changing - and for the truly creative peson, that's the name of the game. Whittlesley's work is handled by Al len Rubiner Gallery which will have it show after the gallery moves to Hartway's "Monuments" will have its world premiere at at 8 p.m. Sunday at Baldwin Pavilion with Sixten Ehrling conducting the Detroit Symphony Or-As he spoke about having Ehrling as the conductor.

Hartway said, "This is a plus for me - one of his strong points is 20th century music . . . I've never met the man, so I have no idea what his reaction will And yes, of course, Hartway will be at the rehearsbeen doing commissions. "MONUMENTS" is a one movement work for large orchestra and percussion. The composition, 11 minutes in length, is dedicated to the men and women in both musical and administrative positions who have been associated with Meadow Brook Music Festival. It was commissioned by festival director Stuart Hyke with assistance from Michigan Council for the Arts and the American Music Center.

Hartway said, "It is meant to be a strong, substantial piece that's quite straightforward." He said it isn't avant garde in the way some contemporary music is, separating musicans and audience and musicians and composer, with nobody excepting the composer understanding the music. "Now," said Hartway, "there is a return to the mainstream, but it is not going to sound like a 19th century piece. This has melody, rhythm and harmony that's understandable, but it's also avant garde, so it's a blend - definitely it's a new movement.

"THERE WAS a time that as a teacher of composition, I wouldn't allow my students, or myself, to write in too functional, too romantic kind of style.

"I say me, but that includes teachers all across the country. There was a hex on that kind of writing. Now the hex and the taboos have been removed." Hartway said he felt the move into the avant garde was important. It served a purpose and changed the current approach to composition even through the pendulum has swung back to the acceptance of the more traditional form

"I must admit I was a pretty active member of that avant garde at one time," he added.

AND WHILE Hartway is excited about the premiere of "Monuments,", he is realist enough to know there's still a tough road ahead to have it become part of the standard repertoire. "If you really want to get down to it, it's not the

Ron Egloff entering 7th season

Egloff bucks football odds, survives NFL

By Brad Emons staff writer

If they hadn't seen him in 10 years, Ron Egloff may have seemed a little bigger to his Salem High School classmates of 1973.

Back then he was a raw-boned 17-year-old threesport standout who stood 6-feet-3 inches and weighed 195 pounds.

Egloff has bulked up considerably since then mainly because of his current occupation. He's spent the last six years playing tight end for the Denver Broncos.

Today he goes 6-5, 235 The Salem class of 1973 was reunited last week end. Egloff flew in from Denver with his wife Julee to meet old friends and join in the festivities.

Egloff, who was staying at the Mayflower Hotel, met old Salem teammates Tim Van Wagoner and Jim Szilagyi to catch up on lost time. Of course they talked about their old girl friends and football

FOR THE FIRST time in his career, Egloff became a free agent after the strike-shortened 1982 National Football League (NFL) season. He was one of 14 Broncos open for bidding.

But early this winter Egloff was the first free agent to sign — a three-year contract which he called a "fair deal." He never had talks with any other NFL or USFL team.

"It's for six million — up front," joked Egloff. Egloff would like to forget 1982. The Bronco started quickly, winning four exhibition games and splitting their first two regular season games. But the strike interrupted the season with the players demanding a bigger percentage of the

"I was totally against the strike in the beginning," he said, "but I profited money-wise. I came out ahead $11,000. The big money people are the ones who didn't benefit."

EGLOFF SPENT his idle eight weeks keeping in

"We did aerobics," he said. "We started out with 30 to 35 guys, but as the weeks went on it dwindled. "It's the first time I ever did it and I ended up in good shape. I benefitted, but I didn't enjoy the strike at all even though I was in ready-to-play shape. There was a lot of sitting around and wait-

Disaster struck Denver after players and management settled. The Broncos dropped their final seven games. "We had won five of six (before the strike) and had a good thing going," Egloff said. "We led the league in turnovers (after the strike) and that killed us. I wouldn't know if the strike hurt us. You can't win games if you're fumbling the ball and that was our downfall. Egloff, used primarily in blocking situations, still managed to lead fellow tight ends Jim Wright and Riley Odoms in receptions with 10.

FOR THE PAST few seasons, Egloff has become more involved in the Broncos' offense "They say the average longevity of a professional football player is 3.4 years," Egloff said. "Well maybe that's why I'm still playing. I hid the first three or four years." Egloff's missed the latter portion of the 1980 season when he snapped a hamstring in a game against Baltimore. But other than that, he's been relatively

The ex-Wisconsin standout could be on the receiving end of more passes this season with the arrival of Stanford All-American quarterback John

"It depends how fast he learns the system," said

Egloff, when asked how soon Elway play. "They say he's smart and does everything well.

"BUT IT all depends on training camp. If (Steve) DeBerg is winning games, then he (Elway) will have to wait."

With the emergence of Elway, the sure-handed Egloff may have a chance to start. The veteran Odoms, 32, lost his starting job during the second half of the season.

"Thirty-two isn't that old," said Egloff; when kidded by his two friends. "Some players get better with age.

State's best dot Observer team

By Jim DuFresne and Brad Emons

Don't let the title fool you. The recent high school girls All-State soccer team is a selection of the top players from around the state . . . but not the best

Only four girls from each of the four leagues that sponsor soccer are allowed to make the All-State team. While that spreads the honors among many schools, it hardly allows for the best to be chosen.

No, the best team might well be the All-Area squad which focuses on Livonia and the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA), the powerhouse of Michigan soccer; girls or boys. Livonia Stevenson currently holds the top honors as the best school. Its boys team took the state title last fall when they defeated cross-town rival Livonia Churchill.

This spring, however, their classmates gave Stevenson its second state title in soccer when they defeated Saginaw Eisenhower in finals after beat ing first Western Division champ Northville and then (who else?) Livonia Churchill in the semifinals.

Yet only four players from the WLAA were selected to the All-State team. You've seen the rest, now here's the best:

FIRST TEAM

Sarah Wallman, Plymouth Salem, goalie - As a sophomore Wallman took over the goal in Salem's first season of soccer last year and recorded five shutouts. This season, with a little experience under her hat, she was devastating.

The junior managed seven shutouts and lowered her goals against average from 1.4 per game to 1.25. She ended the spring with All-State honors and being named most valuable player of season by her teammates. Next year, her coach can't imaginé how good she will be.

"She is very agile," said Salem coach Ken Johnson, "and has excellent judgment and timing in coming off her line."

Sheri Wolfe, Livonia Bentley, defense - The aggressive sophomore finished the year with the nicl name "Wolfer" from her teammates, reaping All Area honors for her play at center fullback.

"We called her Wolfer because of her desire to always be in the middle of things," said Bentley coach Paul Scicluna. "She makes things happen in the backfield and her skills in clearing the ball are superb."
Wolfe is one of the reasons Bentley suffered just

Lisa Broccardo, Livonia Stevenson, defense -

The sophomore not only helped her teammates to the state title but helped herself to All-Conference honors in the WLAA and MVP awards from the team. She also managed six goals and five assists

"Lisa has excellent speed and ball control," said Stevenson coach Noreen Divens, who is looking forward to having Broccardo back again next spring when her team defends its state title

Colleen O'Connor, Plymouth Salem, defender -The tall, rangy junior had another superb season pacing the Rock defense and earning All-Lakes Division honors in the WLAA for the second year in a row. Being in the right place for the big play was her trademark this spring.

"From her key sweeper position she led a good Salem defense both last year and this year," John-son said of his captain. "She is an excellent tackler and always seems to be in the right spot to defend Jane Moylan, Livonia Ladywood, midfield - The honor student in the academic halls is a hustler on the field for the Blazers as she scored six goals and managed six assists this spring. But even more, coach Charles Cordero appreciated the junior's leadership qualities.

"Jane completely conrolled things for our team," Cordero said. "She made all the plays."

The midfielder and center half also made first team All-State and first team All-Catholic.

Andrea Bokos, Livonia Stevenson, midfield -The senior capped her high school career with another fine season and the state title as well. In three years for Stevenson, Bokos scored 27 goals and managed 37 assists while gathering All-State, allconference and MVP honors from her teammates for the last two seasons.

The Stevenson co-captain, which her coach de scribes as "aggressive hustler," plans to continue her playing days at Michigan State University.

Dorene Dudek, Livonia Churchill, midfield -The junior wrapped up the season with 17 goals and 17 assists, with most of them coming from her center half position. Although Churchill lost its bid for the state title to Stevenson, Dudek did gather All-State honors as well as being named MVP by her teammates.

"Doreen is a very unselfish player willing to play any position," said Churchill coach Ed Dudek of his daughter. "I am looking forward to having her back

Lisa Rigstad, Livonia Bentley, forward - The junior forward was co-captain of the team and the school's leading scorer for the past three years. This spring she led Bentley to its No. 1 ranking. midway through the season and its perfect conference record.

y is a fast and skillful right wing forward said Salem coach Johnson. "She can shoot for the goal or she can set up her teammates as her total assists indicate."

Karen Felts, Garden City, forward - Despite being only a sophomore, Felts was named captain of the Garden City squad and then went out and scored 16 goals with 14 assists this spring. Her team finished with a winning record in the school's first season of varsity. Felts finished with MVP honors and high praise from her coach.

"She's one of the best," said Garden City coach Steve Vakratsis. "She's a spitfire. She not only can dribble, but she can score as you see by her stats."

Jane Remski, Livonia Bentley, at-large - It was another typical season for the senior co-captain. She wrapped up her three-year varsity career with fine play on the field and many honors off it. For the second time she collected All-Area honors and the team's MVP award.

"She is definitely a coach's dream," said Scicluna.
"Her ball sense and great leadership abilities will be greatly missed next year."

the delight of the crowd were Nancy Leon, Lucy Donaldson and Patricia Guinn, who finished the five miles in 53:22. The run capped a week of footraces in the Plymouth/Canton area as the first Rock Run was held the previous Sunday before a crowd of 435. The crowd, the race and the money raised to purchase new sweatsuits for the Plymouth Salem High School cross country and track teams had the promoters promising to turn the race into an annual

"It was a big success," said Gary Balconi, Sa lem's boys' track coach and one of the organizers "We were very, very pleased. We got a tremendous amount of help from the city, the police depart ment and some wonderful sponsors."

ACCORDING TO Balconi, the city allows about three road races per year. The success of the Rock Run and quick cleanup that followed ("We were completely finished by 11:50," Balconi said) left the Salem coach hopeful that another run could be scheduled for next year.

Indeed, plans already are being formulated. "We'll probably move the time up an hour," Balcon said. "And we'd like to have a one-mile fun run for

Columnist will write letters to relieve your woes

DEAR LETTER WRITER is a new column that will assist you in dealing with life's everyday frustrations and harassments. The Letter Writer will help you solve your problems with the proper letter. The Letter Writer will put your problem in perspective, help you implement a solution and, above all, make you feel better about yourself and your methods of dealing with dilemmas that affect all of us. At last, a viable and effective way of putting irrita-tions to rest through written communication

This column will appear in the Canton and Plymouth Observers twice a month on Thursdays. Please write to The Letter Writer, 41711 Joy Road, Canton Mich. 48187 and tell The Letter Writer the issue you want to deal with. The Letter Writer will select the most "on point" and relevant" letters to respond to in her column. The next column will appear Thursday, June 30. Write mmediately and avail yourself of this dynamic tool to put yourself in The "Wright" Light. At the writer's discretion, and when requested by the writer, names, dates, places and ples of requests made and fulfilled.

HAVE YOU EVER SIMPLY NEEDED TO PUT YOUR MIND AT REST? Dear Letter Writer:

I am terminally ill and am presently four months into a 12-month lease. I am concerned that if I have to break the lease because of being hospitalized or can no longer live alone. I will lose my security deposit. I spoke with the management of my apartment complex and they asked me to write a let-

Sincerely, Mr. A

Dear Mr., A: This is the letter that I would suggest you send to the management company of your apartment building.

Dear Management:

Pursuant to your suggestion, as a result of our recent telephone conversation, the following is a reiteration of our discussion and my understanding. As I explained to you, when we spoke on the telephone. I am presently in very, very poor health that could possi-bly result in my having to enter a nursing home prior to my present lease being fully exercised. I have signed a times will be changed to protect lease with you through the end of Dethe letter writer cember. This letter is a sincere attempt on my part to put you on notice of this eventuality. It most certaintly is not my intention to break the lease, however, it seems I am placed in a situation beyond my control. I trust that you will accept this communication in the spirit in which it is intended. Should I find myself in a position where I can no longer live alone and have to vacate my apartment, I would appreciate knowing that my security deposit would not be in jeopardy. Thank you, again, for your assistance, concern and thoughtfulness with regard to my present dilemma. If I do not hear from you within the next week. I will assume that the above is an accurate recapitulation of our telephone conservation. Sincerely, Mr. A RESOLUTION: The management company assured Mr. A that his security deposit would not be jeopardized and Mr. A has some peace of mind.

HAVE YOU EVER RECEIVED A LETTER IN THE MAIL THAT MADE YOU FEEL LIKE SOMEONE SLAPPED YOUR FACE?

Dear Letter Writer:

I recently received a letter from Shell Oil Co. telling me that they had received my application for a Shell Oil credit card, however, would have to decline giving me the credit because of the credit record information they had received from TRW Credit Co. I didn't apply for a Shell Oil card as I already have one. This is not the first time I have received a rejection because of a bad credit report. What can I do?

Sincerely, Mrs. S

Dear Mrs. S. There are two letters needed here, one to Shell Oil Co. and one to TRW Credit Co. as follows: Dear Shell Oil Co.:

In response to your letter to me, I am, to say the least, puzzled and, via aware of the extreme harassment they have repeatedly caused me. I, in fact, did not apply for a Shell Oil credit card as I presently have one and, at no time in my life, have I ever paid a bill late or defaulted in any way with respect to a financial obligation.

Sincerely, Mrs. S

Dear TRW Credit Co.:

Enclosed please find a letter from Shell Oil Co. to me, as well as a photocopy of my response to them. This is, at least, the fifth time that I have had such a reaction from a potential creditor when attempting to secure credit. Please accept this letter as notification that you are releasing false and incriminating data with regard to my credit. I will no longer put up with this disturbing situation. I have no idea what the problem is, but strongly suggest that you solve it immediately. I expect to hear from you, by return mail, with respect to your resolution of this annoy-

Sincerely, Mrs. S

RESOLUTION: Shell Oil Co. sent a letter of apology to Mrs. S. TRW Credit Company sent Mrs. S a copy of the information being released by them. Mrs. S was then able to see that her bank had not notified TRW of a loan that had been paid. She notified the bank. The bank notified TRW and TRW removed the negative report from Mrs. S's credit record and the matter was put to

Now you can make sure college will be more than just make-believe.

Many parents are concerned about the expense of college. It's no small worry, by 1990, four years of schooling could cost as much as $60,000. Without proper financial planning, its a dream that could never become a reality.

That's why Comerica developed The College Fund It's an innovative program that helps you accumulate the money you II need by taking advantage of special accounts investments even important tax benefits

Planning and starting early. That's the key. The College Fund helps you set a goal, and provides a plan to reduce the worry of future expenses. The investment opportunities are varied and flexible, and are designed to give you the best possible return based on your investment objectives The College Fund also provides ways to get the greatest after-tax return on your investment, such as making the income taxable to the child, who may have little or no tax oblication

The earlier you start The College Fund, the less of a financial burden college will be. For more information look for the College Corner in many of our branch offices: talk to The College Fund counselor at your nearest Comerica Bank, or call us
