The Canton Connection

A FREE self-defense class for women, presented by Canton Police Cpl. Robert van Lith, will be presented from 7-9 p.m. Monday, Aug. 29 at the Oakwood Hospital Canton Center, 7300 Canton Center Road near Warren. During the program, which includes a lecture and film, van Lith will explain how a woman should handle herself if threatened by a potential assailant. Because space is limited, registration is required. For more information, call 459-7030.

FLOSSIE TONDA, a member of the Plymouth-Canton school board, has a suggestion for Omnicon cable TV and the district. She'd like to see portions of classes televised for an hour each day.

"Let's let parents see what's going on in the classroom. Kids can see it at night, and it would be a source of good PR," she suggested at a recent board workshop.

Omnicon could boost its ratings, added Tonda. "What better incentive is there to watch than the chance to see your own kid on TV?"

No doubt homebound students could benefit by televised classes. How about it, Omnicon?

Currently working for the state's Youth Corps, the group learned about employers' expectations in a presentation by representatives from Mr. Steak and McDonald's in Canton.

THE HUNT is on for volunteers to fill vacancies on the Canton Country Festival Board. Nominations will be accepted and votes will be taken at the board's next meeting, slated for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 31 in the Canton Public Library meeting room, 11150 S. Canton Center Road.

Feds to advance funds for drain study

By Gary M. Cates and Arlene Funke staff writers

Plymouth Township has been promised a $4.5 million federal cash advance for new engineering studies on a proposed parallel sewage line to Detroit.

The studies are to benefit five northwest municipalities recently cut from the proposed Supersewer project, including Canton, Plymouth and Northville.

Parallel sewer discussions started when the northwestern suburbs were cut from the Supersewer plan earlier this month, despite their financial involvement in planning the system. The cash advance is seen by some as a "peace offering."

Over the past three years, Canton has contributed $487,000 for planning and engineering studies on the original Supersewer plan, according to finance director Mike Gorman.

"This $4.5 million would more than compensate for what we have invested," said Supervisor James Poole. "If it's for us, it certainly is a step in the right direction."

THE SEWER projects are supposed to handle sewage increases and improve sewage removal in the suburban communities.

Officials from the northwest communities claim they were forced by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to participate in Supersewer. However, the DNR now supports the split and refused to give the original Supersewer plan the needed priority ranking to receive 75-percent federal funding.

A scaled-down version of Supersewer will include several southern communities, while the northern municipalities go with the parallel sewage line.

Study costs for the parallel line, an outgrowth of the split, originally were tagged at $500,000. The increase to $4.5 million reflects a higher percentage of the anticipated $110-million construction cost for the project.

IF ANY OF the five eliminated communities sue to recoup lost engineering costs in Supersewer, the smaller southern project most likely will lose its federal funding — due to the time requirements for the grant application.

Local officials believe the DNR's verbal guarantee of the $4.5 million advance is a move to avoid a lawsuit.

"It is basically a sure thing," said Richard Hinshon, acting chief of the DNR's community assistance division. "We filed a grant application with the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) 30 days ago. The earliest the money will be in is October."

The idea of a lawsuit is "on hold," said Poole, who will ask consulting engineers to report at the Sept. 6 Township Board meeting.

"I want to see what they say in response to the DNR and Detroit," Poole said. "I want data and engineering studies to back it up."

Part-time teachers gripe over low pay

By M.B. Dillon Ward staff writer

Substitute teachers disgruntled about wages paid by the Plymouth-Canton Community school district may be encouraged to learn they haven't been forgotten by the educational powers-that-be.

Unlike other district employees, whose contracts currently are being negotiated, no bargaining unit represents Plymouth-Canton's nearly 300 subs. That's at least partially because they frequently enter and leave the work force and teach in a variety of school districts.

Led by substitute teacher Dolores Musson of Canton, however, they're starting to unite.

"We're making $32 or $33 a day, and the wage has been the same for a number of years. All the surrounding districts pay $40 and up to subs," said Musson, who's taught for six years.

"We feel that we should get a raise considering all the responsibilities of the job we hold. Even the Plymouth-Canton district mentions our jobs as a vital part of the community school system. If they consider our jobs so vital, I don't understand why we've been looked over as far as a wage increase goes."

Musson has approached the Plymouth-Canton Education Association, and says the teachers' union is interested in negotiating for substitute teachers.

"We're just starting to speak up and work with the MEA (Michigan Education Association). We're not officially represented by them, but we'd like to get something going," she said.

The first step is compiling a list of substitutes and contacting them, added Musson.

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS won't be neglected in the current round of contract talks, according to Norman Kee, assistant superintendent for employee relations.

"It is our intention to appropriately adjust the substitute teachers' scale when contracts for the other groups are settled," Kee said.

Contracts for the 1982-83 school year froze wages for all district employee groups. Full-time teachers are hoping district negotiators will agree to a two-year pact, bringing salaries into line with those of other area districts, said Tom Cotner, PCEA chief negotiator.

The teachers' next bargaining session is set for August 24. School is scheduled to start August 30.

The threat of a teachers' strike further complicates the substitutes' situation, Musson said.

"There might be a strike in the Plymouth-Canton system, and that puts subs in an awkward position. It puts us in the role of regular teachers who get about $100 a day," she said.

Pay for district teachers ranges between $15,992 and $31,750.

Duane Bordine (right) and his foreman Rob Portelli of Canton use a 60-year-old cast iron transplanter while putting in a long summer's day in the fields. Bordine's family has farmed in Canton for four generations.

Farmer's roots run deep

By M.B. Dillon Ward staff writer

Just a few miles from his place — in offices, stores and restaurants — urbanites are arriving for work about the same time Canton's Duane Bordine is enjoying a 9 a.m., mid-morning break.

At the Bordine farm on Ford near Ridge Road, only the mallards and ducklings nestled in the dewy grass are still drowsy.

It's difficult to picture the strapping Bordine clad in a three-piece suit, closeted in an air-conditioned office. All his life he's risen at daybreak and headed for the fields. Working the land and watching things grow are the roots of his satisfaction.

face in the crowd

The full-time farmer, his hired men and teen-age daughters "broke daylight at 5:20 this morning, hoeing, weeding and spraying weed killer," said Bordine, his leathery skin deeply tanned and his hair bleached to a dusty blond.

Bordine's mother Ivah, an agile octogenarian who "loves the wide open spaces" and refuses to live "any place but here," also gets up at sunrise. Daily, she sets up the roadside stand, sells produce, geraniums and petunias, and answers telephone inquiries about vegetables and berries.

"The peas should be ready this weekend. They're 40 cents a pound," she tells a caller from the kitchen, glancing at her son for affirmation.

The Bordine farm sells "U-pick" muskmelons, tomatoes, beans, broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, pickles, and corn at farmers' markets and to hundreds of people on its mailing list.

The Bordines' lifestyle sometimes startles cityfied customers — who may see any number of cats, guinea pigs, roosters, watchdogs and woodchucks while making a purchase.

Cops nab pair in alleged repair scam

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

Police questioned two men Wednesday in connection with an alleged scam to cheat an elderly Plymouth couple out of money.

The questioning came just days after Plymouth police warned elderly residents of con men working in the area. The warning was sparked by a rash of larceny reports related to persons posing as home repairmen.

The men were released Thursday pending further investigation according to Police Commander Ralph White.

Police are investigating the men for possible involvement in earlier reported larceny cases involving older residents, White said.

ACTING ON A TIP from an unidentified person, police stopped the two men near Eastside Drive.

The men, driving a yellow pickup truck, were stopped shortly after 3 p.m. Wednesday for an obstructed rear license plate by officers Joseph Kahanec, Edward Ochal, and Ronald Kaminski.

Lt. Robert Commire authorized that the men be held for questioning in connection with an incident at the home of William and Jean Kelly on Eastside Drive.

Kelly, 85, told police that two men approached him and asked if he would like his driveway cemented. The men offered to do the cement work for $10 a pound, Kelly said.

The men proceeded to put a black substance near a few cracks in the driveway, according to a police report.

Kelly, realizing the men weren't using cement, then entered his house with the men, the report stated.

The men told Kelly's wife they were going to cement the driveway and needed to collect $300. When she refused payment, the men showed her the black substance on the driveway and demanded payment, according to police.

The Kellys, convinced the men would return later to complete the work, gave them $300, White said.

"The men could not produce any type of contractor's license to perform the work they had done at the Kelly residence," White said.

The residential licensing act requires a license for contractors doing more than $200 worth of work on a home.

Failure to have a license is a one-year misdemeanor, White said.

Police warn residents to use caution when dealing with unknown workmen.

Residents having money missing after dealing with an unknown workman, or having paid for questionable work done by an unknown contractor, should contact police, White said.

Warrant issued in rape-arson

An arrest warrant has been issued for a Belleville man in connection with a recent rape and arson in Plymouth.

Sheldon Bleye, 26, 6036 Vernon, is sought by police in connection with the rape and subsequent apartment fire involving a 23-year-old Plymouth woman.

The warrant, issued last week by the Wayne County prosecutor's office, charges Bleye with five counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct and arson of a dwelling.

The charges stem from an Aug. 14 incident in which an Amelia Street woman was raped three times before she escaped from her apartment to call police.

When police arrived, the woman's apartment was on fire. Plymouth fire officials still are investigating the cause of the fire, which resulted in an estimated $15,000 in damages.

The suspect was an acquaintance of the woman, and had been harassing her for several weeks, according to Police Commander Ralph White.

First-degree criminal sexual conduct carries a maximum penalty of life in prison upon conviction, while the arson charge carries a maximum of 20 years.

Power failure slows paper

Due to a loss of electrical power, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers main plant was shut down for three hours Friday. The main electrical line was disturbed when a truck struck a power pole about 2:30 p.m. The loss of electrical power meant we were unable to process many classified ads. All other departments were handicapped in their efforts. We regret any problems the power failure may have caused our readers and advertisers.

Suzanne Skubick, community affairs and program director for Omnicom, announces that the programming facilities and operations will be shut down for the entire week of Aug. 22.

The department is being closed to the public in order to conduct some much-needed maintenance work, she said, and to allow for some in-house refresher training courses for the programming staff and interns.

"We hope our public access users and our viewing public will understand the need for this weeklong shut-down of our operations," she added, noting that the programming department expects a busy fall schedule. Much of the equipment has not had a regular overhaul in the past year and needs to be readied for the upcoming surge of anticipated usage.

The shutdown means that there will be no airing of community and access programs on Channel 15 nor will Family Home Theater and community shows air on Channel 8. The department will air a special adult vocational education program at various times through the week between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. on Channel 11 while the staff is working on clean-up and training courses. The programming department also will cover the Canton Township Board meeting Tuesday night, Aug. 23, and playback the entire board session on Channel 10 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The portapak workshop scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 27, will be delayed until the following Saturday, Sept. 3, to allow trainees the opportunity to finish their projects.

All other normal functions of the programming department will be suspended this week. Viewers are urged to tune in the following week, beginning 3 p.m. Monday, Aug. 29, when the regular schedule will resume. The department will be open for business at 10 a.m. on Aug. 29.

FOR THOSE who watch rather than listen to the heavens, you will notice Tuesday that Venus is the brightest it will be this year. Actually, it will reach its brightness peak at 11 a.m. that day. But it's kind of tough to notice during the day. So take a look that evening at the western sky after sunset. After that day, it will continue to come closer to earth, but will slowly grow fainter because it's swinging between us and the sun, and we're seeing more of its unilluminated side. Now if Venus isn't bright enough for you this time around, stay tuned. The earth's sister planet reaches greatest brilliancy about a dozen times each decade, and though each is impressive some are somewhat brighter than the others. Tuesday's is the faintest of the greatest brilliancy peaks of this decade because the earth is unusually far from the sun at this time of year.

SAY, DON'T forget Jupiter on Tuesday! If you look at the brilliant starlike object near the moon this day you'll be able to see Jupiter in broad daylight because it's closer to the moon than ever. Remember, you'll need at least binoculars, maybe even a telescope. There'll be no confusion because there won't be anything like it bright enough to be seen in daylight.

MARCH 25 WILL MARK the day in 1976 when the first of four Viking spacecraft sent to Mars died even though it had exceeded its design lifetime. The Orbiter 2 failed because a leak had depleted its supply of the gas used in the tiny rocket motors that kept it correctly oriented in space.

A NEW MICROSCOPE will enlarge the view at Michigan State University. The new electron microscope can produce images of atomic clusters only a few angstroms in size. An angstrom is about four billionths of an inch. The $468,000 microscope is one of only six in the United States.

It takes brain power to win call letters

Amateur radio operators routinely send their voices around the world by bouncing short-wave signals off an electronic mirror — the ionosphere. Soon these amateurs, commonly called hams, will have an opportunity to contact a fellow operator who will be laboring somewhere in those very same layers of atmosphere that make long-distance radio communications possible.

Hopefully, this will happen beginning Friday, Sept. 30, when Dr. Owen Garriott — astronaut, electrical engineer and advanced class amateur radio operator (Call: W5LFL) — climbs aboard the STS-9 space shuttle, scheduled for a nine-day mission.

Garriott has received permission from NASA to operate a two-meter transmitter and received during the flight, which will take him to an altitude of 155 miles at speeds reaching 17,000 miles an hour.

GARRIOTT, ONE of 700,000 hams worldwide, plans to operate up to an hour a day on several preannounced frequencies.

Chatting with an astronaut on duty should be an interesting diversion for hams, who normally spend their time casting out their calls to reach other hams around the corner or on other continents.

"We're utilizing the technology that has come about because of the electronic revolution," said Bob Woody, an amateur radio operator from Farmington Hills. "Other people put the satellites up first, and now we're using them. In the old days, we were pioneering the frequencies nobody else would use."

But there's more to the fascinating hobby of ham radio than simple communications.

THE FEDERAL Communications Commission (FCC), which licenses all amateur radio operators in the United States, hopes hams will be good Samaritans battling floods, earthquakes and other disasters to "get the message through" when other forms of communications have failed.

Joining in on this emergency standby effort are the 43 members of the Farmington Amateur Radio Club (FARC). Membership is made up of persons from Oakland and western Wayne counties.

Public service is the pillar of ham radio. Stories abound of how hams help summon needed drugs to remote corners of the world cut off from communications by distance or disaster. And every day hams relay telegrams and telephone calls from servicemen free of charge.

ACTUALLY, THE GOVERNMENT has three reasons for maintaining a pool of trained radio operators. In addition to public service, hams are supposed to advance the state of radio art (something they've been doing for the past 75 years) and provide the country with a group of trained Morse code operators in case of national emergency.

The recent popularity of citizens band (CB) radio has sparked an interest in ham radio, although there's a world of difference between the two forms of communications.

The biggest difference between ham and CB radio is distance. CB is intended for short-range communications. Ham radio operators can use up to 1,000 watts of power while CBers are limited to five watts.

IN CLUBS such as the Farmington group, many radio-related activities are sponsored where hams can hone their skills under less-than-ideal conditions.

Hamming it up
Amateur radio stations come in many shapes and sizes. (Above) Les Hogg, 1983 president of the Farmington Amateur Radio Club (FARC), tunes in foreign countries from the station in the basement of his Farmington Hills house. Radio equipment doesn't have to stay indoors. The last weekend in June, American amateurs participate in an event called Field Day (below, left). The annual event is designed to test the ability of hams to operate their equipment under adverse circumstances. Members of the Farmington club are shown setting up their gear on the athletic field of North Farmington High School. During Field Day, hams are required to operate radios with gasoline-powered generators. Steve Boone (below, right), along with other members of FARC, helps keep things flowing smoothly at the Founders Festival Parade, helping the police keep track of the progress of the marchers.

THERE ARE MANY other differences. Hams can communicate in a number of ways — voice, Morse code, teleprinter and television. They even have their own satellite called OSCAR (Orbiting Satellite Carrying Amateur Radio). CB communications are voice only.

Another big difference is the licensing procedure. No permit is required to operate CB equipment, but hams must pass tests on Morse code and radio theory before given their Novice "ticket." As their skills increase, hams can earn other classes of licenses, each granting more operating privileges.

The marriage of the computer to ham radio is in the future, many hams believe. Computers, they believe, will help ease operating procedures, while automating many of the functions of the radio equipment.

Radio buffs use atmosphere to communicate

In 1901, a radio operator in Cornwall, England, listened patiently for a signal that would change the world. Through the static came the sound of dit-dit-dit, the Morse code letter S.

The signal was being sent from almost 3,000 miles away in Newfoundland, on the eastern edge of Canada, by an Italian inventor named Guglielmo Marconi.

Until this time Marconi had only been able to transmit signals about one-half mile. Scientists of the day dismissed radio waves as a useful tool for communicating over long distances.

THE SUN PLAYS a key role in determining the physical property of the ionosphere. Incoming solar radiation such as ultraviolet light and charged particles thrown off the surface of the sun tear electrons from the molecules of air, causing them to become ionized. This layer of ionized gas forms a good reflector for radio waves of certain frequencies.

Radio waves propagate or travel from a transmitter to a receiver in one of two ways: directly, in the form of a ground wave, or indirectly, as a sky or skip wave.

GROUND WAVES travel from the transmitting site directly to the receiver. Television and FM radio are examples of signals received via ground waves.

The alternative is the sky or skip wave that is caused by ionospheric propagation. When a radio signal is aimed at the ionosphere, the energy will bounce back to earth. The signal then is reflected by the ground back up to the sky.

THIS CYCLE CAN repeat itself many times, with the signal traveling thousands of miles before becoming undetectable. Anyone in the path of the signal as it strikes earth will be able to hear the broadcast.

The air of the ionosphere is very thin but is kept active by incoming solar radiation that ionizes or strips electrons from the molecules of air. This forms a reflecting layer around the Earth that is capable of reflecting radio signals over the horizon.

"One woman pulled up here and about had a fit when she saw my daughter driving the tractor," said Bordine, who farms 155 acres.

"She couldn't believe I'd allow an 8-year-old to drive my equipment. I told her 'there's a difference between farm kids and city kids. She knows what she's doing.'"

To prove his point, Bordine had Meloney perform a few maneuvers behind the wheel of the two-plow tractor.

"The lady said, 'Well I'll be darned,' and that was the end of it," recalled Bordine.

Like Bob Portelli — Bordine's 17-year-old foreman — and hired man Steve Agdorny, Meloney, now 11, Jeanne, 14, and Heather, 13, all work on the farm each summer.

"They get paid like everyone else. They can keep one-third (of their wages) and the other two-thirds goes LOW WAGES earned by bus encourage many of them to teach in outlying areas where they are paid more, Cotner said.

"I know that pay in almost all of the surrounding districts is higher. We think frankly, that $32 isn't very much to pay a substitute teacher," added Cotner, who favors including substitute teachers in the PCEA.

According to Musson, many subs travel to Dearborn and Farmington, where they make $45 a day. Ann Arbor and Northville schools also pay more than $40 per day, she said.

"We've investigated wages in the whole area, and ours is one of the lowest," added Musson.

The DNR's Hinson recently informed state Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, of the increased amount of the cash advance.

Law said he had a "very frank" discussion with DNR officials, in which he informed them of local officials' unhappiness about the wasted effort and money on Supersewer.

"They are very aware the local communities put up 40 percent of the engineering costs for Supersewer," Law said. "They realize this and know the communities won't put up another dime toward engineering studies for another system."

THE IMMEDIATE goal now is to build the interceptor, which may be cheaper than Supersewer for the northern communities, Law said.

Projections for the parallel sewer put Canton's share at $3 million and Plymouth Township's at $3 million. Staying in Supersewer would have cost about $14 million for Canton and $5 million for Plymouth Township.

The new sewer line to Detroit is expected to be built parallel to the existing line, known as the Rouge Valley Interceptor. However, the Rouge Valley Interceptor needs repair because of pollution problems, especially after rain. The cost of building the parallel interceptor could dip if repairs are done at the same time as new sewer construction, Law said.

Repair costs for the Rouge Valley Interceptor are partially the responsibility of the communities through which the interceptor passes.

Sharon Bordine, a medical technician at University Hospital in Ann Arbor, loves the farming life as well. Years before she met Duane through a singles' group and married him, she photographed a sunset on his farm. The beauty of the land she often passed had caught her eye.

"BORDINE SHOULD never have become a farmer."

"I was born a cripple. I've got a club foot," said Bordine, who's never allowed his limp — despite doctors' advice — to deter him. A love for the earth and the outdoors courses the Bordine blood. Duane's 60-year-old brother Roger works the family farm on Saltz Road — one of the oldest in Canton.

"My great grandparents got the land in 1832 through the federal land grant. My grandparents lived there, and dad and mother were farmers," Bordine said.

CAPRICIOUS spring weather and the hot, dry summer have created far-from-ideal growing conditions in Michigan. Rain delayed a couple of Bordine's sweet corn plantings, and despite costly spraying, insects helped three-fourths of the broccoli crop go to seed.

Locally, it means harvesting will be two weeks late this year. Both the quality and quantity of produce will be down, Bordine predicts.

It's a better year, however, for Bordine's wheat crop and 21 acres of pumpkins. "Some are already as big as basketballs. It's not a bad year for soybeans, either. The price is up $6 from last year," said Bordine, who sells his soybeans to an Ann Arbor grain elevator.

"People think all you have to do is throw some seeds down and watch them grow," Ivah concurred during a break from roadside stand duty.

"Those who wish can get a taste of farming by taking advantage of Bordine's 'U-pick' set-up."

While Bordine's sign reads "U-pick," his farming philosophy is "you pray."

"If you don't believe in God, don't ever become a farmer. I think a farmer has to talk to Him every day. He helps you," said Bordine.

Stroller remembers late, cherished friend

With the recent death of Msgr. Clement Kern, who became a legend in his own time as the poor man's priest, The Stroller lost one of his most cherished and unusual friends.

And while he has shaken off this mortal coil, the good father has left behind many fond memories that will live on. It was in 1943 when The Stroller had established his office in the Fort Shelby Hotel that he met Msgr. Kern. And the meeting was most unusual.

It was shortly before noon on St. Patrick's Day and The Stroller was on his way to lunch when he was approached by Tommy Long, the innkeeper on Fort Street, who grabbed him by the arm and said, "Come on, you Dutchman, you are going to be Irish for a little while. We're going over to Holy Trinity in Corktown and you'll meet one of the finest priests you ever will know."

There was no chance of getting away and the Irish in those days made a round of all the hotel lobbies downtown and got the folks to join them in a march to Holy Trinity that was then located in the center of what was known as Corktown.

When we reached the church Tommy Long grabbed The Stroller again and marched him down the aisle to a front row seat with the sisters.

When the Mass was finished we adjourned to the parish house and there The Stroller was given the formal introduction that started a most unusual friendship.

the stroller
W.W. Edgar

The few hours spent there were stamped indelibly on the mind of The Stroller and he never missed a St. Patrick's Day at Holy Trinity with Msgr. Clement Kern for the next 20 years.

Over that period of time Corktown changed greatly. The Irish started to move up town. The Halligans, the O'Rourke's, the Cavanaghs, the Scallens and the Haggerty's moved north and one of them — Jerry Cavanagh — became Detroit's mayor.

Then came time to retire and Msgr. Kern left Holy Trinity to take up residence in St. John's Seminary in Plymouth and the friendship was renewed with another unusual meeting.

The Stroller made it a point to visit Msgr. Kern at the seminary one morning and we chatted until lunch time. It was most unusual in that the host wasn't in priestly garb, but in a plain undershirt.

We sat together at lunch and, at the finish, Msgr. Kern, in a rather hushed voice said, "I have done you a favor, now you do one for me. I want you to be my guest at a class of young men studying for the priesthood."

The invitation was accepted and the good Father sat with this Pennsylvania Dutchman and explained each section of the Mass as the students were being taught.

With the dismissal of the class the Monsignor was host on a tour through the seminary which included a great surprise. When we reached one of the rooms in the basement he was told that this was the grave of Cardinal Mooney, another great friend of The Stroller. It was a breath-taking moment as we stared at the bronze casing and allowed the memories to come floating back.

But it was a moment that never will be forgotten. And now, with the passing of Msgr. Kern, St. Patrick's Day will take on a stronger meaning — for each year there will come the fond memories of the first meeting with the legendary poor man's priest.

The memories will forever remain green.

Appointment of judges is much less chancey

EVERY SO often the issue of whether judges should be elected or appointed is discussed.

Those who trust unerringly in the collective wisdom of the voting public believe that judges should be elected by the people.

Many in the legal community think that the public fares better and the state's system of justice is served better when the governor appoints judges.

Right now the public theoretically elects all the state's judges — district, circuit, appeals and supreme.

But since the governor has the power to appoint a judge to fill a vacancy — due to a death or a resignation — the governor has a powerful influence on the composition of the courts.

IN FACT, an appointment by the governor to the circuit court or higher in these parts is about tantamount to a lifetime appointment, even though the governor only has the authority to fill a vacancy until the next judicial election is held.

Once an attorney becomes a judge he earns the distinction of having a ballot designation of "incumbent" in the next election. Since voters don't know much about judicial candidates they invariably vote for anyone who has the incumbent designation, providing he isn't a well-known swindler.

Since all attorneys recognize that incumbents have an inalienable right to be re-elected, they don't run against incumbent judges. They shoot for a judicial spot only when new judgeships are created.

This is where the trouble starts. Whereas the governor carefully screens candidates for judicial appointments, the electors tend to vote for names they recognize.

THE QUALITY of judicial appointments can be seen in the record of former Gov. William Milliken. During his 14-year tenure, he appointed 242 persons to the bench and almost invariably his appointees have served in their posts with distinction or gone on to higher court offices.

Milliken, for example, appointed the respected James L. Ryan of Redford Township first to the Wayne County Circuit Court and then to the Michigan Supreme Court.

He appointed nearly a third of the Wayne County Circuit Court and judges Steven Andrews, Robert Webster and George LaPlata to the Oakland Circuit bench. He has appointed competent district judges, distinguished appeals court judges and supreme court judges. Of all of Milliken's appointments, only one proved embarrassing.

The public should do so well.

IN MANY of our courts, there is an abundance of judges who have little in the way of judicial experience, competence or temperament.

Voters tend to put into office names that they recognize, regardless of qualifications. Some names which are sure vote-getters are Ryan, Kaufman, Brennan, Sullivan and Cahalan.

Where the governor chose James L. Ryan, the public chose for one of its selections to the Wayne Circuit Court a Harold Ryan who had little more than his name and a stint as congressman going for him when he was elected.

Consider the case which I maintain is almost irrefutable proof that the public votes primarily for a name when it comes to electing judges or county officials. Last year voters in Livonia, Northville and Plymouth elected as the Democratic nominee for county commissioner a candidate who was virtually unknown.

He appeared at no public meeting, distributed no literature, spent no money, had no campaign organization, answered no questionnaire and, in fact, was in a hospital during much of the campaign.

Nevertheless, William Ryan, 51, a drive-in theater manager, beat his opponent by a 2-1 margin.

When it comes to picking judges, I'd rather have the governor do the picking.

Olympics were truly 'special'

To the editor:

I have recently returned from the International Summer Special Olympics in Baton Rouge, La., held July 12 to 16. It was the most rewarding work experience as a Citizen Volunteer I've ever done.

More than 4,000 athletes from 53 countries participated in a very special Olympics.

As a Citizen from the Plymouth-Canton Club, I'm so proud of the 400 Citizens from our United States and our host, Louisiana State University. As a major contributor, our club raised more than $500,000 to help fund the event. Co-sponsorship must be recognized as McDonalds, Coca-Cola and the I.G.A. Stores gave their time, money and talents. Citizen was the only service club that was a major contributor.

A special athlete, Beth Covington, daughter of Theresa and Bill Covington from the Plymouth area, won a gold medal in basketball skills. The Michigan team, new to the soccer field, lost its first game but won the second chance. They won a seventh-place ribbon with all the ecstasy of the gold. The athletes from Michigan were outstanding in every way.

Wayne County Citizens began our local Special Olympics in 1973. We have grown tremendously since then, not just in the number of participants but our own self-growth. Our clubs have grown and our understanding of their special needs is an ongoing project we are committed to for the future.

Anyone interested in joining the Plymouth-Canton Citizens in our community projects, please call Joann Doyle, club president, at 453-6257.

Resident's gazebo is dream come true

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

From the days of his childhood in Detroit, Peter Soltis, an engineer at the Kelsey-Hayes Co., dreamed of the day when he would own a gazebo.

Now the dream has come true and he is the owner of a gazebo and is proud of the fact that he built it himself in the rear of his home in the Plymouth Meadows subdivision.

It is in the center of a wooded area and he had to move more than 70 trees to get the location he wanted. And, for the better part of two months, he labored long and hard until it was finished.

Sitting in his prize possession the other afternoon he realized the dream.

"I was just a young fellow going to school, and I went to a movie in which I saw John Philip Sousa lead his famous band while standing in a gazebo. Immediately I wanted one.

"The desire continued as the years passed on. I heard many a public speaker or politicians during their campaigns speaking from a gazebo.

"I figured that if I ever got the chance I would build my own and preferably in a woods."

The chance came when he purchased his home on Northampton, just four doors north of Joy Road.

HE SPOTTED the lot with a large wooded area on the banks of a small stream and immediately decided it was what he had been looking for since his childhood.

"I had to move — and transplant — 70 trees to provide the kind of a setting I wanted. It was a tough job. Then, I saw a gazebo down the road, and liked some features of the design and then started to build.

"I worked on it more than two months. I bought the lumber, but built it myself. For a time I had to figure how to bring the roof to a point. But the problem was mastered."

Now, the gazebo has become so much a part of his home he never goes to picnic grounds or goes to the other leisure time spots.

"I've got all I want right here. I can do entertaining in a setting that would be difficult to match. And the fact I built it myself makes it all the more of a pleasure to do any entertaining."

The gazebo is 11 feet square and about 10 feet high. It provides sufficient room for a sizeable table for serving lunch or playing any sort of games. And inasmuch as it is in the woods, on the bank of a stream, it is always a cool place.

It certainly is a dream come true, he says as he points to the large trees he moved.

Schools ignore busing problem

To the editor:

Please bring this to the attention of all the parents sending their children to school on the bus in the Plymouth-Canton school district.

Last fall while waiting for my daughter to get off the bus from kindergarten, I approached the bus and found that my daughter wasn't on it.

When I inquired where she was, the driver's response was that "a bunch of kids got off over on Bartlett." She further added that all kids should be tagged so that she knew where they were to get off. It seemed to me that she didn't much care.

My daughter was found blocks from home with no idea which way to head. I also know that this wasn't the only kindergartener this happened to in our subdivision. I feel that a little more care and concern should be taken when we entrust our children to the buses. It was only the second day of school and it's a little unreasonable to expect a five-year-old to learn the ropes of a bus in two days.

However, I feel that it's reasonable to expect more supervision.

I am furious to think that the children aren't safe on the bus. Going to school is a big enough adjustment, let alone having them worrying about whether or not they will get home. The experience of being lost made my daughter terrified of going to school.

After the incident occurred, I wrote a letter (9-3-82) similar to this one to the board of education, to Isbister principal (Beverly Marshall at the time), as well as to the transportation department, and as expected for this district, I have yet to get any type of answer from any of them. They all chose to ignore the problem, as well as a concerned parent.

Salads will add lots of sparkle to all your summer gatherings

Salads are among the special pleasures of the summer months. Cool, crisp and colorful, salads add sparkle to the simplest patio supper while keeping the kitchen and the salad-maker refreshed and relaxed.

Adding new excitement to this summer's most popular fruit and vegetable salads is the rice salad. Cooks from the trendy West to the traditional East are discovering that rice makes a compatible partner for a cornucopia of favorite salad ingredients. Garden-fresh fruits and vegetables, shredded romaine or bok choy, slivers of cooked poultry or meat, cheeses of all kinds, hard-cooked eggs and fresh herbs are just a few of the many ingredients the salad maker has to choose from. Adding the finishing touch are tangy vinaigrettes, plain or flavored with fresh herbs and rich and creamy dressings containing sour cream, yogurt or mayonnaise.

When creating a rice salad, it's important to consider the texture, color and flavor of each ingredient. If you're planning to use cherry tomatoes, green rather than red bell peppers would be a better choice. Vary the sizes and shapes of vegetables and fruits for added visual appeal. For extra crunch, try thinly sliced celery, cubes of jicama or coarsely shredded cabbage. All three will provide a pleasing texture contrast to the cooked rice.

Because rice salads can be prepared in advance, they fit the needs of the busiest cook. For further time savings, take advantage of labor-saving appliances such as the food processor. The carrots, yellow squash and radishes which add color and crunch to Crudite Rice Salad with Sherry Dressing can be sliced in a matter of minutes. While the rice cooks, combine the dressing ingredients. Drain vinegar, dry sherry, fresh garlic and a touch of sugar form the base of the light vinaigrette.

Equally light, Three Melon Rice Salad stars several of the summer's favorite fruits. Rainbow-hued watermelon, cantaloupe and honeydew balls are combined with cooked rice and tossed with a refreshing fruit juice dressing. Accenting the fresh fruit flavors are mint and poppy seeds. If guests drop by unexpectedly and you don't have melons on hand, substitute peach or nectarine slices, grapes, blueberries, pitted sweet cherries or whatever fresh fruit is tucked inside the refrigerator crisper. This sweetly satisfying salad can be ready at a moment's notice if extra rice is prepared one night and stored in the refrigerator.

CRUDITE RICE SALAD WITH SHERRY DRESSING
 3 cups cooked rice, prepared according to package directions
 2 medium carrots, sliced diagonally
 1/4 cup vegetable oil
 1/4 cup dry sherry
 1 small yellow squash, cut into 1x1/4x1/4-inch strips
 1 cup small broccoli flowerettes
 8 to 10 cherry tomatoes, cut in half
 1/4 cup sliced radishes
 1/4 cup cider vinegar
 1 clove garlic, minced.
 1 tsp vinegar

After preparing rice, transfer to large bowl; cool to room temperature. Cook carrots in 1 tsp of the oil and 1 tsp of the sherry, in skillet, 1 to 2 minutes. Add squash and broccoli. Cook until vegetables are crisp-tender, about 1 minute. Add to rice with tomatoes and radishes. Combine remaining oil and sherry, vinegar, garlic and sugar; mix well. Stir into rice and vegetable mixture. Cover and chill several hours. Makes 8 servings.

THREE MELON RICE SALAD
 2 cups cooked rice, prepared according to package directions
 1/4 cup orange juice
 2 tsp lemon juice
 2 tsp sugar
 1/4 cup vegetable oil
 1 tsp poppy seeds
 1 tsp finely chopped fresh mint leaves
 1/4 cup dried mint flakes
 1 cup small watermelon balls
 1 cup small honeydew balls
 1 cup small cantaloupe balls

After rice is prepared, transfer to large bowl; cool to room temperature. Meanwhile, combine orange juice, lemon juice and sugar in blender or food processor container. Blend 1 to 2 minutes. Gradually add oil, blending until slightly thickened. Add poppy seeds, orange peel and mint; blend 10 seconds. Stir dressing into rice. Cover and chill several hours. Add melon balls; mix well. Makes 6 serving.

Strawberries are scrumptious, period. Have you ever met anybody who didn't love the beautiful berries? Sure, some people get the hives from overdosing on them, but I can't think of another fruit that has a bigger following.

Of course, with the good comes the bad - strawberries spoil quicker than a wealthy child.

I've tried storing them in a dark, airy place. Two days later the mold appears. I've tried leaving them in the refrigerator. No luck.

So when I get a yen for strawberries, I use them the same day I buy them.

I look for the cleanest, brightest red berries. I avoid the small, misshapen, lumpy ones. I also examine the bottom of the container for juice stains because a hidden layer or two may be moldy or squashed.

While strawberry shortcake is a favorite American dish, the berries can be combined with other fruits in salad or for dessert.

Wake up jaded appetites with a cool and refreshing rice salad. Crudite Rice Salad with Sherry Dressing features the freshest vegetables the garden has to offer along with a light wine-flavored vinaigrette.

Initials that are useful

Chances are, you see the initials "U.S.R.D.A." often, even daily. For many of the food products you buy and prepare are labeled with nutritional information including the U.S.R.D.A.

But just what does U.S.R.D.A. mean? The U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances (U.S.R.D.A.) are used on food labels only and indicate the amounts of calories per serving, the protein, carbohydrate and fat in grams per serving, and the percentages of U.S.R.D.A. for protein and eight required vitamins and minerals.

These amounts allow for the daily nutrient needs for health for most American adults and children over 4 years of age.

The U.S.R.D.A. were developed by the Food and Drug Administration expressly for nutrition labels.

LIVONIA BENTLEY High School Class of 1953 is planning its 30-year reunion. L. John Miller of Plymouth is a member of the planning committee for the shindig, which will be Saturday, Sept. 24 at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

Bentley was Livonia's first high school, built not too long before Livonia became a city in 1950. Until the high school opened, many of the teenage residents attended Plymouth High School. Now they are planning on closing Bentley within the next two years. School attendance in Livonia has dropped from 38,000 in 1970 to about 19,000 in 1982.

Reunion festivities will begin in the afternoon with all activities taking place in the atrium. From 3-5 p.m. the grade will gather at the hospitality room (151) for hors d'oeuvres and an optional pool party. A majority of the women may forego the plunge in the pool, opting for intact hardies for later on in the day. The poolside happy hour with a cash bar will run from 5 to 7:30 p.m. The buffet dinner will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Poolside socializing will continue until 11 p.m. with the party moving back to the hospitality room until 1:30 a.m. Party planners have suggested that out-of-towners, who plan to stay at the Hilton, reserve poolside rooms.

Sue Woolverton Pepper is accepting reservations for the party — $20 per person or $40 per couple. They should be mailed to 2331 Keydon Drive, W. Bloomfield 48033 by Sept. 9. She says those who decide at the last minute that they can make it, should call one of the committee members. They are Don Burrell, 464-7754; Don Clemens, 421-6764; Covert Cully, 471-7191; Dick Hembrough, 535-8575; George Friess, 476-7069; and L. John, 453-0630.

THANKS TO NORMA
Hazlett, we have a report on the old Waterford School reunion. It was the first reunion of the alumnae of the little one-room school that once stood south of Six Mile and west of Bradner in Northville Township. It served the small community of Waterford and the surrounding farm area from 1837 to 1963.

For years, graduates of Waterford could go to either Plymouth or Northville high schools. The reunion was at Mead's Mill Middle School, close to the site of the one-room school. More than 100 people attended the reunion. Forty-three of them were former pupils from 1909 through 1949. Many still live in the area. Others came from Ohio, Kentucky, Arizona, Florida and northern Michigan.

Amy Sessions Simons began school there in 1909 and continued through sixth grade in 1915 when her family moved to "town" (Northville).

Marjorie Taylor Kleinschmidt of Pigeon was unable to attend but sent greetings and the information that she graduated from eighth grade at Waterford in 1914. Her grandparents and her great-grandparents lived in the area at that time also. Juanita Lang Westfall, who now lives in South Lyon, recalled classmates Norwood Dickinson of Lapeer, Louise Steinhebel Waterman and her husband, Austin Waterman of Plymouth, who attended the school from 1915 to the early 1920s.

Iva Minehart, a teacher there in 1924-25, came from Sun City, Arizona to greet former pupils Gertrude Rose Scarlett of Plymouth, Lloyd Ross of Phoenix, Ariz., Harriet Gibson of Northville; Flossie Rowland Brown of Brooklyn, Mich.; Ethel Davis Blunk of Ann Arbor; Mary Davis Davison of Plymouth; Ruth Krumm Waterman of Northville; and Viola Krumm Sibley of Bay City.

The Ross-Waldecker family had the largest turnout at the reunion. Others attending from the '30s and '40s were Bob Heard, Cass City; Chuck Heard, Gregory, Jerome Hazlett, Flint; Ruth Hazlett Marroni and Norma Hazlett, Northville; Bill Clark, Gaines, Rob Clark, Gregory; Max Ross, Arizona; Donald Waldecker, Ypsilanti; Helen Ross Knaab, Belleville; Marion McLean Peach, Plymouth; Madeline Perkins Davidson, Northville; Nancy Parker Blackledge, Harrison; Clyde Parker, Marquette; Myra Gibson, Northville; Tom Campbell and Howard Eberole, Plymouth; Charles George, Robert Gots and Keith Steinhebel, Northville; and Sam Sipos of Garden City.

Bob Schneider, senior Elk, called the numbers for the Bingo games.

Everyone has fun at Civitan party

The men and women of the Plymouth-Canton Civitan Club put on a good party. Although they do all the work and planning, they have as much fun as their guests. Each summer the club hosts two senior citizen dinner parties at the Plymouth Elks Club. The gatherings on consecutive Thursdays are for residents of Canton Township and then, residents of the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Last week's party was for the Plymouth group. Canton seniors were entertained at the Aug. 18 winking. More than 250 seniors attended the cocktail hour. The buffet dinner menu included roast beef, mashed potatoes, tossed salad, rolls, iced tea, hot tea and coffee, with tarts for dessert. Gene Sund, a Civitan and an active member of the Plymouth Township Senior Citizens, introduced presidents of the senior citizen clubs, and the president of the Civitans, Joann Doyle. There were Bingo games with prizes contributed by area merchants, followed by dancing to live music. Shirley Smith and Lou Mair co-chaired the party.

Loren and Catherine Hopper enjoyed the dancing.

Civitan Joe Henshaw presents a prize to Bingo winner Ann Milligan.

Joann Doyle, president of the Civitan Club, presents a special name tag to Lou Hopping, 83, who was international president of Civitan and governor of the Michigan District in 1950-51.

Decision takes 7½ months

Court upholds Lucas on Barr ouster

John Barr is off the county payroll for the first time in more than a decade after losing a 7½-month court battle against Wayne County Executive William Lucas.

It was the latest chapter in Lucas' continuing battle to make key county appointments and to remove former members of the county board of commissioners from executive jobs.

Wayne Circuit Judge Patrick Duggan of Livonia ruled last week that Barr had no legal right to hold the title of personnel director.

"I applaud Judge Duggan's decision that upholds the authority of the county executive to make the appointments as outlined in the charter," Lucas said.

There was immediate speculation that Lucas would use the court decision to fire a number of county department heads.

John Barr ousted upheld while Barr made any further appeals.

THE JUDGE indicated that any civil service rights that Barr has should be reviewed by the civil service commission. But, he said, under the new county charter the job of personnel director has been changed and duties have been amplified.

Barr, therefore, does not have an automatic right to the job, which under the charter is designated as director of personnel/human resources.

And, Duggan said, Lucas did not have to accept as a department head an individual who doesn't agree with his philosophy and a person with whom he may not be able to work effectively.

Barr of Dearborn Heights, was chairman of the 27-member Board of Commissioners during the mid-1970s. He resigned in 1978 to accept an appointment by the board of commissioners as personnel director. Barr was one of several commissioners who used part-time legislative duty to gain a high-paying executive job.

THE JOB JUMPERS included Thomas O'Rourke, a former managing director of the road commission. Fred-

L. Burton, present managing director of the road commission (who is, behind Lucas, the county's highest paid executive at $73,000); Royce Smith, director of public works; and Chester Wozniak, assistant director of public works.

YOUR NEW ADVENTURE INTO AN OLD TRADITION

Michael Keaton, a househusband, joins the "girls night out" at a joint where male dancers perform in "Mr. Mom."

the movies
Louise Snider

Cliches triumph in 'Mr. Mom'

When automotive engineer Jack Butler (Michael Keaton) is "furloughed" by his Detroit auto company employer, he becomes a househusband. While his wife Caroline (Teri Garr) goes to work, he looks after their home and three children (What — no dog?).

That's the gist of "Mr. Mom" (PG). The situation is contemporary, but that's the only thing about this movie that is. Neither the slapstick routines nor the attitudes toward male-female roles display any enlightenment or originality.

Predictably, most of the comedy arises from Jack's ineptness around the house. He may be a whiz engineer, but he can't cope with a washing machine or a vacuum, not to mention three active children. Jack and the kids approach household tasks with the deft touch of a tornado as they destroy everything in sight. They do the same for the local supermarket where they shop.

Caroline, meanwhile, leaps ahead in her career. She becomes an important advertising agency executive after only one day on the job. (Isn't this what happens to every woman who goes back to work after a homemaker for many years?) Credibility is not "Mr. Mom's" strong point, and contrary to what one might expect, the filmmakers' attitudes are still Neanderthal with regard to women.

CAROLINE SHOOTS to the top because her boss is an ex-boyfriend who is still interested in her — so much for succeeding by virtue of merit.

Notice also that none of the other women in the film, Caroline's friends and neighbors, work. They watch the daytime soaps; they play cards; and for a night out, they go to a club that features semi-nude male dancers.

Among these non-working wives is a divorcee who, presumably, lives off alimony checks. She is further stereotyped as a scheming female who lusts after Jack.

The setting for these goings-on is Detroit, but you'd never know it except for a quick shot of the Renaissance Center. From the scenes in this movie, you might think Detroit was a WASP stronghold where middle-class whites live in cute, cluttered houses surrounded by white picket fences. Nowhere in Jack's or Caroline's outings — at school, office, supermarket, bar — do they ever encounter any blacks or other minorities. The one exception is a brief scene at the beginning when Jack is talking to some assembly line workers.

Ultimately, "Mr. Mom" is a movie that's more realistic about products than about people or places. One might almost suspect the filmmakers' acting as shills for a particular brand of coffee, a pizzeria and a whole lineup of laundry products. Jack even informs us that he redecorated their bedroom with the "safari" collection from Sears.

If you like movies that resemble television programs, you'll like "Mr. Mom." It has all those commercials.

Keaton as an unemployed auto executive takes his kids shopping, an experience just as disastrous as the housework tasks he attempts to perform while his wife goes back to work.

WHAT JOINT INJECTIONS DO

Today's column will discuss the role of cortisone injection in the treatment of an inflamed joint.

At times a doctor will inject the swollen or painful joint of an otherwise healthy person. Under such circumstances it is possible that the individual's own reparative mechanisms will take command and complete the job of healing.

When treating a patient with arthritis, the physician's intent is not to cure; the injection is undertaken to overcome a flare of inflammation. Once the patient is "over the hump," their daily medication must take responsibility for controlling the arthritis. It is important for patients to keep this point in mind, and not to believe that because they are feeling so well after their injection, it is not necessary to continue their previous schedule of medication.

These injections can be repeated if needed, and provide the physician with a strategy to meet the needs of a patient in distress from joint pain. Furthermore, this therapy is safe. Cortisone injected into the joint is free of the side effects that occur when the medication is taken by mouth.

Prep squads strive to match Stevenson

By Brad Emons
and Chris McCosky
staff writers

Gary Mexicotte is gone. And that's good news for area teams.

The Livonia Stevenson striker took his All-American stuff to Bowling Green. But last season he left a path of destruction. He scored 48 goals to lead the Spartans, who beat rival Churchill in the Class A state final at Flint.

Stevenson returns "nine to 10 regulars" from last year's undefeated team according to coach Pete Scerri and that could be more bad news for area contenders. Here is a pre-season look at area teams.

LIVONIA STEVENSON

"I feel good about the team," said Scerri. "It was a pleasure coming back. I'm look forward to it."

Scerri welcomed 40 players and will carry 22.

Defense is the team's strong suit with the return of veterans Chris Banyai, Chris Gembis and Dan Divens. They are joined by holdover Terry Harshfield, the goalie.

The team's second leading scorer from last season, Eric Pence, will move into Mexicotte's spot along with John Gelmisi. They are joined up front by Dave Barnas, Chris Wiegel and sophomore Jim Kimball, one of the few freshmen to make last year's varsity.

LIVONIA CHURCHILL

Coach John Neff is rebuilding. Gone is leading scorer Erik Hansen, an exchange student from Denmark, and practically the entire defense.

"We're young," said Neff, "and we'll make a lot of mistakes, but once we get our act together, we'll do all right."

The top returnees are center-half-back Phil Lussier, fullback Mike Duckworth and halfback Scott Hilden. Others with experience include John Staccotella, Doug Kluczevek, John Neff, Ray Galasso, Scott Zarembski, Chris Rose and Terry Mills. Brothers Dave and Chris Gluth should also help.

Sam Matovski is back in goal, where he alternated last season.

GARDEN CITY

The Cougars are still in their infancy, starting their second varsity season under a new coach, Steve Vakratsis. He takes over for Gary Prevo.

"They're learning and that's the main thing," said Vakratsis, who coached the GC girls last spring. "We have four or five talented players and a lot of spirited guys who want to learn."

The captains are goalie Jeff Guido, center-fullback Brian Deal and right-midfielder Andy Muglia.

"Andy is talented player with a good head," Vakratsis said.

Vakratsis is also banking on defenders Mark Grigereit, Ramon Escobar, Mark Konopatzki and Jeff Early. The back-up goalie is Brian Hall.

The forwards are fast, according to Vakratsis. They include Billy Hyde, Jeff Felts, Paul Pummil and Ron Kasperrek.

Garden City will be playing as an independent for the second straight year.

LIVONIA FRANKLIN

The Patriots have eight returnees under first-year coach Doug Marks, a former player at Western Michigan University.

"We'll attempt to build up the middle with a 4-2-4 alignment — that's what the colleges use," said Marks. "We'll build our offense with a triangle, short-passing scheme."

Midfielders Graham Crockford and Bill Carroll lead the midfield contingent, while brothers Dave and Dan Cummings anchor the forward line.

The team's top sweeper back is Tom Wagnitz. Eric Bucht, meanwhile, handles the goaltending chores.

"We're working hard on conditioning," Marks added. "As far as I could tell, that was a problem last year. We hope to beat people to the ball."

What are the chances to reach .500 mark, coach? "Realistically we're going to the state playoffs," answered the new coach. "We'll use the surprise factor."

BISHOP BORGESS

The Spartans, members of the Catholic League, will rely on freshmen according to reports from the camp of Rich Misialowski, now in his second season of coaching.

Borgess will try to improve from last season's dismal showing, which saw the team win just one game.

PLYMOUTH CANTON

Pre-season is the time for undying optimism, especially for third-year Canton coach Tony Lonigro.

"The team is much stronger this year. Last year we lacked depth. This year we are much stronger through the ranks," Lonigro said.

Returning from last year's team that finished third in the Western division of the Western Lakes Conference is leading goal scorer Tom Wright. Wright, along with transfer student Tim Mueller and Steve Morell, both sophomores, make up an exceptionally fast and powerful front line.

Senior Eddie Hintz, and sophomores Brian Whiteley and Dave Luzzo are being counted on heavily by Lonigro. Rob Opaterny, John Luce and Pat Arella anchor a young defense.

"I don't think we have any weaknesses," Lonigro said. "Maybe we lack some speed at halfback. But I think we are ready to give good competition this year."

PLYMOUTH SALEM

How to replace graduated goalie and team MVP Tom Chapman?

That's the question facing third-year Rocks coach Ken Johnson and sophomores Curtis Clarke and Joe Knoero.

and junior Jamie Graser hope to supply the answer.

Those three young goalies are engaged in a pre-season war to win the net-minders job with Johnson.

Aside from that troubling question, Johnson thinks his team will improve on last year's 11-5-1 mark.

"I think we are stronger overall — except at goalie. But, then again, the rest of the league is stronger, too," he said.

Johnson returns four seniors who have started since their sophomore years: Bob Bowling, Matt Crook, Jeff Neschlich (captain), and Randy Johnson. Juniors Steve Moran, Mark Flowers, and Kevin Sultana are expected to contribute, as are sophomore twins Eldon and Ebon Nash.

FARMINGTON

A better team attitude and a higher skill level leads Farmington coach Dennis Place to believe his team will be much better than its 7-9-1 showing a year ago.

Mario Said, Johnny Gregory, Randy Gallinger, Mark Pingree and Ed Pickens, all seniors will be counted on to lead the otherwise young team.

"We are young, but we have a good crew of sophomores," Place said.

Among those sophomores players from the Villa team in the Bonanza Soccer League that traveled to England this summer are Jerry Potter, Chris Hackman, Jason DeForge, and Jimmy Mesaros. Sophomore Chris Nichols will also be a key member of the team.

Place hopes his team will play .600 soccer this season, but, he adds, "If we can beat Stevenson or Churchill I'll have died and gone to heaven," he said.

NORTH FARMINGTON

Coach Abdul Mohammad says his team will be improved, but still a cut below the likes of Stevenson and Churchill.

"We are just not in the same type of league with those teams. They are the best teams in the state," he said.

Still, Mohammad is impressed with the progress of his team. Todd Prey and Steve Osment, along with Craig Mattoon and Jeff Keller are experienced and capable performers. Sophomore Joe Juliano will help bolster the defense.

The Raiders are not yet ready to contest for the Western Lakes title, but Mohammad is gradually building a solid soccer program at NFHS.

Farmington Harrison coach Harry Swystun was apparently out of town and could not be reached. A preview of the 1983 Hawks will appear in a subsequent issue of the Observer.

Tall oaks no joke for golfers

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

As a smirking Robin Hood once said to distraught captive Sir Guy of Gisborne as they trudged through Sherwood Forest, "It'll take keener men than you've got to mark their way in these woods, Sir Guy."

It can only happen in the movies, you say? Well, Observer & Eccentric golfers, beware: Sometime during the tournament you'll be convinced that hiding somewhere behind one of those trees is the Merry Man himself, snickering at your futile attempts to find your way clear of the woods.

For, if you plan on playing in the tournament — the women's event is Wednesday, the men's Oct. 1-2 — you may as well make reservations now for a trip into the forest. If there is a single hazard to prepare yourself to overcome at Whispering Willows Golf Course in Livonia (site of the O&E tournament), it's trees.

"It's not bunkers or water," said Gary Whitener, Whispering Willows golf pro. The course is dotted with both but "The most trouble is the woods."

THE COURSE ITSELF, the topic of this final segment in a three-part series on preparing for tournament golf, is tricky. There certainly are holes Whitener called "birdie-able", but there are an equal number that many golfers would be satisfied with a bogey.

Whitener's advice, to championship and third flight golfers alike: "If your timing is off, don't try to force your long shots. Just lay it up."

"You can't spray the ball all over this course."

Here's what to expect, O&E golfers, when you take to the course for your tournament: a blow-by-blow, hole-by-hole description provided by Whitener.

First, a few facts and figures: For women, Whispering Willows is 5,571 yards, par 71. Front nine, 2,861 yards, par 35; back nine, 2,710 yards, par 36. For men, 6,205 yards, par 71. Front nine, 3,136 yards, par 35; back nine, 3,069 yards, par 36.

Course record — 64 by Bill Wakeham, O&E tournament record — John Van Vleet, 67.

No. 1: 460 yards (women), 475 yards (men), par 5 — "This is a routine par five. Use a driver, fairway wood and then perhaps a seven iron to the green. This is a birdie hole."

No. 2: 354 yards (women), 403 yards (men), par 4 — "Play for a bogey. There's trouble all over the place. You have to use a direction club off the tee. It's a dog-leg left, bounded by trees on both sides. And there's water about 50 yards in front of the green."

"If, after your first shot, you can see the green, hit at it. Probably have to use a low iron or five wood. If you can't see the green, consider playing up short of the water and chip from there."

No. 3: 403 yards (women), 443 yards (men), par 4 — "This is our longest par four. But it's just long. There's no trouble either side. Still, it probably won't be reached by many in two. Use a driver, then a fairway wood, then chip to the green. Could be a bogey hole for third-flighters."

No. 4: 336 yards (women), 346 yards (men), par 4 — "This is a short dog-leg left. Second-shot placement is the key shot because the green has a big hump in it. You don't want to putt over that hump, or you may three-putt. Hit a driver off the tee, then a seven or nine iron to the green."

No. 5: 178 yards (women), 206 yards (men), par 3 — "This is an excellent three. You have to shoot through a narrow opening through the trees uphill to the green. It's also well-bunkered. There will be a lot of bogeys here."

No. 6: 340 yards (women), 386 yards (men), par 4 — "Slight dog-leg left. There's no trouble left, but trouble right. Drive to the left, then use anything from a four to seven iron to the green."

No. 7: 120 yards (women), 135 yards (men), par 3 — "It looks like you can throw your ball onto the green. You shoot down to a big green. It's a birdie hole, but there's a lot of green and three-putting is a possibility."

No. 8: 344 yards (women), 374 yards (men), par 4 — "There's out of bounds to the left, so play right. A driver, then five to seven iron to the green. A birdie hole."

No. 9: 326 yards (women), 390 yards (men), par 4 — "An easy driving hole, but a good par four. There's a creek and pond at about 240 yards, so play short of that. There's a premium on driving here. Your second shot will be off a downslope to a well-bunkered, elevated green. Key here is to have a good drive. Then anything from a five wood to a five or seven iron."

No. 10: 430 yards (women), 460 yards (men), par 5 — "This is the most birdie-able hole on the golf course. It's a short five with no trouble either side. The only problem is the sloping green."

No. 11: 306 yards (women), 356 yards (men), par 4 — "The premium here is the tee shot. It's a short four, with trees right and left and behind the green. The green is a big target, but this is a layup hole. There's no room for error. Hit a two iron or four wood off the tee for accuracy, then chip or pitch to the green."

No. 12: 295 yards (women), 317 yards (men), par 4 — "This is the same as 11, only a sharp dog-leg left at about 190 yards. Best bet is a two or three iron off tee, then a seven or nine iron to the green. Distance-wise, this should be a birdie hole, but it isn't. No traps here."

No. 13: 297 yards (women), 305 yards (men), par 4 — "This is as easy to birdie as No. 10. There's no trouble anywhere. You can drive and then use a seven or nine to the green. Only problems are the two bunkers."

No. 14: 331 yards (women), 370 yards (men), par 4 — "This is a good par four. There's out of bounds left, but it's wide open right. Drive to the right, then hit a three or four iron, or a seven for long drivers, to the green. There's bunkers right and left of the green and fairway bunkers 200-210 yards out."

No. 15: 189 yards (women), 219 yards (men), par 3 — "An excellent par three. There's woods right and a creek on the left with more trees. It's a big green, so hit right at it. Use a driver, then pitch to the green. This hole is easy to bogey, tough to get a two."

No. 16: 391 yards (women), 494 yards (men), par 5 — "It's out of bounds on the left, wide open to the right. The green is well-bunkered and slopes back to front. There won't be too many fours; this is our best par five. Use a driver, then a fairway wood and a short iron to the green."

New Rocks coach has some big shoes to fill

in the pocket by W.W. Edgar

Without the fanfare and bluster that marks the opening of a new season in most other sports, the all star bowlers will quietly open the long schedule on Thursday night.

The opening shot at the pins will be made by the Bonanza Classic at Astro Lanes in Madison Heights. This will be a new home for them as the league bowled at Orchard Lanes for the past several years. The opening ceremonies are scheduled for 7 p.m.

THE DETROIT Bowling Association has done it again.

When the annual year book rolled off the presses during the past week it set a target for all associations in the country by printing the names and averages of 139,788 bowlers in 342 leagues. Not a single sanctioned bowler was missed. Not other city or state association

By Chris McCooley
staff writer

A lack of funds in the Plymouth-Canton school district brought an end to the baseball program at West Middle School three years ago.

Rick Wilson, the West baseball coach, didn't know it at that time, but the program's cancellation paved the way to the job he was given two weeks ago.

Wilson is the new golf coach at Plymouth Salem High School. He replaces Bob Waters who resigned after 10 seasons.

"When the baseball program got cut at West, I needed something to do during the spring. So I started playing golf," Wilson said.

And Wilson played the game very well. He quickly improved his game, shooting consistently in the low 80s after one year. He joined Salem Hills Golf Club two years ago and is an eight-handicapper there.

HE AND WATERS golfed together on numerous occasions. Both shot in the high 70s, low 80s. Waters was impressed with Wilson's talent and enthusiasm for the game.

"Coaching golf is something I've always wanted to do. I just love the game," said Wilson, who has taught physical education at West since 1975.

"One day, Bob and I talked and he said he was hanging it up. He said he wanted to pursue other interests. I told him I would be very interested in the job," Wilson continued.

As it turned out, Waters recommended Wilson for the job. The school district went along with that recommendation.

Replacing Waters will not be an easy task. The man who led the Rocks to a state championship in 1972 is virtually a legend in the ranks of high school golf.

WILSON is both excited and apprehensive about his new job.

"There is pressure from the standpoint that you really want to make a good showing. But, I really feel confident enough about my knowledge of golf and my ability to communicate with the kids. I'd like to be above 500. I'd like to have a winning season. If we can do that, then we will have done well," Wilson said.

There is pressure in a sense that you don't want to fall flat on your face. There's been a good program here," Wilson went on. "There's pressure in a sense that you don't want to come in and have an embarrassing season. I want to win, but more importantly, I want the kids to demonstrate good sportsmanship. I want them to respect the golf course and act like gentlemen. These are the things that are important."

Willows course is challenge to golfers

No. 17: 136 yards (women), 156 yards (men), par 3 — "A good par three. It's a wide green, but narrow front to back. It's well bunkered, with traps all along the front. The green is sloped back to front. If you get behind the hole, you can putt right off the green."

No. 18: 335 yards (women), 402 yards (men), par 4 — "This is a straight, finishing hole, out of bounds to the left all the way to the green, open to the right. You'll hit your tee shot uphill, with your second shot anything from a fairway wood to a five iron. It's a large green, well bunkered right and left. It'll be a hard hole to birdie."

FOR CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT golfers, Whitener said the toughest holes would be numbers two, nine, 11 and 15. Best birdie chances are at seven, 10 and 13.

Whitener's final piece of advice dealt with Joyce Kilmer's favorite subject, trees everywhere.

"For your 14th club," Whitener cracked, "you might want to take a McCullough chain saw."

golf

Wilson will have a good nucleus of golfers to work with. He said he plans to carry 11 golfers on the varsity squad and seven of those spots have been filled.

MIKE MOON, a senior and team captain, will be counted on heavily for his talent and leadership. Moon had a season average of 44 last season.

"He's a heck-of-a nice kid," Wilson said. "He's the type of person you want as your captain. He's very responsible — the type of kid you can communicate with. I feel like I can talk to Mike. I can say things to him in confidence and I feel like he can communicate with the other kids as well."

Sean Kelley, another senior, is expected to help fill the void left by the graduated Nunzio Marino, the Rocks' lowest scorer last year. Kelley played in two matches last year and shot 40 each time.

Other key players for Salem this year will be senior Erich Hartenett, junior Jim Rotabacher, sophomore Jeff Speaks, and freshman Mike Granger.

"If I can get five players to shoot between 40 and 45, we're going to beat some teams," Wilson said.

Wilson's approach to coaching golf is mental. "I think my role is to certainly identify if a boy is committing a real swing error. If he's hitting on top of the ball, swinging from the outside in or if he's hooking or slicing, I think I can improve those things," he said.

"BUT, I don't want to get into trying to change a kid's swing in the short period of time we have. That's not good to do. The biggest part of the game is mental. That is where the coach has to come in. You have to talk with the kids and be able to communicate with them. You have to be in a head frame of mind, you have to think positively," Wilson said.

Wilson believes strongly in the practice-makes-perfect theory. The team has been working out from 7 a.m. to noon everyday since Aug. 15. There are 15 golfers currently trying out. Another tryout session will be held the first week of school. Those interested should contact Wilson at 453-3423.

"To be good in golf you are going to have to be willing to practice. You have to get out there and hit everyday. But, golf is a fun game. And the players on my team are going to have fun. Golf is a game after all," Wilson said. bw

THE SILVER AMALGAM FILLING

If you have a cavity in one or more teeth in the back of your mouth, often the dentist will use a silver amalgam filling to protect it from decay. He has good reasons for doing so.

Silver amalgam, an alloy that includes silver, is one of the most common fillings used because of its durability, low cost, and ability to seal off cavities effectively. It is often used in the back of the mouth because of its color. When you open your mouth to speak or smile, the silver amalgam filling is not very noticeable.

It can last for years before it needs to be reinforced or replaced. A lot depends on your oral hygiene habits, how well you are able to keep decay-causing bacteria out of your mouth. A lot depends, too, on where the filling is located. If it's in an area where your heaviest grinding and chewing takes place it will be more subject to wear.

But if you get regular dental checkups, your dentist will be on the lookout to make sure all of your fillings are doing the job they're intended to do: protect your teeth from decay.

UM-D recruits senior scholars

College graduates 60 years old and older have a chance to be "guest scholars" at reduced tuition rates at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

"Our hunch is that many of them will elect courses which are not work-related," said Eugene Arden, U-M vice chancellor.

"I am thinking, for example, of the engineer who never had a chance to enjoy art history or the accountant who now wants to study philosophy."

But they also may update business or professional skills.

THE "GUEST Scholar" program, calls for a $50 basic enrollment fee and tuition charges — typically $200 to $250 for a three-credit course — which will be underwritten on the basis of a scholarship.

Courses can be taken on an audit or a pass/fail basis. Arden said there would be no distinction between guest scholars and regularly enrolled students.

"The mixture in the classroom will be mutually beneficial to the younger and older student," he said. "Each has a great deal to offer and a college classroom is a perfect place for the exchange of ideas, information and experience to occur."

WSU signup set

Final registration for the fall semester at Wayne State University will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday, Aug. 30 to Sept. 1. It is held in the Administrative Services Building, Cass and Antioch, Detroit.

Enrolling students will pay no increase in tuition. WSU was the only state four-year college which didn't increase its rates this year.

Fall classes begin Thursday, Sept. 6. Registration information is available from the university at 577-3550.

Maureen Foley

New instructor at Schoolcraft

Maureen F. Foley will join the Schoolcraft College chemistry faculty this fall after three years as a part-time instructor. She will teach basic and general courses.

She has taught at Washnaw Community College and worked eight years for Parke Davis in Ann Arbor.

The Birmingham native holds bachelor's and master's degrees in chemistry from Wayne State and Eastern Michigan universities, respectively.

In her spare time, she trains and shows Belgian Tervurens, a herding dog, and is active as a 4-H leader in horse programs.

Conservation needed

Our energy problems continue

By Penny Wright
staff writer

A sticky, hot Michigan summer can erase thoughts of bleak winter and the pains of high heating bills. Unfortunately, the thaw is only temporary.

By November the grim realities of this state's strong dependence on imported energy will return.

Take heart. Recent travels across U.S. borders into Canada and Mexico confirm that the problems of energy supply and cost aren't peculiar to us. Each of our neighbors must contend with its own brand of energy "hard times."

The solutions are varied and sometimes oddly reversed. Take residential housing, for example.

IN 1980 the Canadian government launched a National Energy Program with the goal of independence from the world oil market by 1990. Part of that program deals with the promotion of energy conservation in homes.

Currently a $6-million fund is available to support the construction of 1,000 super energy-efficient housing units across Canada. Super-insulated, or low-energy, homes reduce the cost of heating rooms to $100 or less for natural gas per year. To date, 14 have been built.

There is no magic to achieving the cost savings.

Basically, designers build houses that are suited to local climate conditions. Dwellings are situated so that impact of winter winds is minimized.

Window areas are reduced on the east, west and north-facing walls. And insulation, coupled with tight vapor barriers, is given prime attention.

A DIFFERENT energy situation exists in Mexico. Ranking fifth in proven oil reserves worldwide, Mexico has the problem of finding lucrative markets for her expanded oil production.

The Mexican press frequently carries stories of fabulous oil deals with foreign countries and the "pesos" these ventures will return.

Thanks to a moderate climate and low domestic consumption, Mexican residential energy consumption is not yet an issue. This could change. Forays around the Yucatan peninsula show new public housing projects that boast improved sanitation conditions, yet are totally unsuited to the local environment.

Concrete block walls and corrugated metal roofs have replaced existing self-ventilating homes built of wood and palm thatching.

In ultra-modern resorts like Cancun, American-style hotels, with high energy-consuming rates, outnumber their modest naturally cooled Mexican counterparts. Mexicans fear that in an effort to catch up to the standards of the super-powers, their country too will find itself with an energy deficit.

WHAT ABOUT Michigan?

In a report entitled, "Financial Impact of Michigan's Energy Dependence" (August 1982), state Energy Administration officials estimate that $8.9 billion left the state in 1982 to pay for 87 percent of our total energy needs. Of this, researchers estimate, approximately $1.5 billion could have been saved by using appropriate energy conservation measures.

Such savings, they say, would mean a direct savings of $500 for each of the nearly three million households in Michigan.

Question: What are we going to do about this dilemma?
