Pursell pessimistic on Lebanese peace talks

Area Congressmen will be watching the Lebanese peace talks scheduled to start in Geneva on Monday for direction on how the U.S. should react to the massacre of 216 Marines and Navy personnel in Sunday's bombing of a military compound at the Beirut airport.

"The onus has to shift quickly on the Lebanese to come to terms with each other," said Rep. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, whose 17th District includes Redford Township.

Levin discussed the coming Lebanese talks after attending a twohour briefing for members of Congress Monday afternoon by Secretary of State George Schultz and Defense Secretary Casper Weinberger He was one of five congressmen interviewed for their reactions to the

"My feeling — and the sense of everyone — is that things have to happen," Levin said. "Steps have to be taken or else the U.S. won't stay there in any form.

Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, agreed with Levin.

'If there is strong direction to sitting down in Geneva and negotiating some degree of peace, we should remain," he said. Pursell, whose 2nd District includes Livonia, said he wasn't optimistic about the outcome of the peace talks.

"My ultimate guess is there will be a partition of Lebanon — break it up: I don't know if it's the right thing, but it probably will happen,"

THE TWO CONGRESSMEN were among those who voted in favor of a compromise on the 1973 War Powers Act. Voting with them was Republican William Broomfield of Birmingham, whose 18th District includes parts of Farmington and

Arrests made in raid case

One month after a raid on their home, a Canton couple have been charged with possession of drugs and stolen goods.

Homzie Thomas Johnson, 41, and Sherrill Fay Rates, 38, both of Der-by, were arrested Monday. Each was charged with one count of possession of marijuana with intent to deliver, and three counts of receiving and concealing stolen goods over Rates also was charged with us ing a stolen credit card.

Arraignment was Monday before 35th District Court Judge James Garber. Not guilty pleas were entered in their behalf. Johnson and Rates were released on $10,000 personal bond.

A preliminary examination will be Monday.

IN LATE September, Michigan State Police troopers raided the Derby home, near Warren Road and Sheldon, capping a two-month investigation. Seized was an estimated $20,000 worth of guns, knives, two pounds of marijuana and a large quantity of other assorted items.

State police investigators believe some of the items were bartered for drugs. They confirmed some of the impounded weapons were stolen from Plymouth, Westland, Troy and Detroit.

The filing of charges has been awaiting the outcome of lab analysis, cross referencing items impounded in the raid and other data gathering, according to Sgt. David Gentry of the state police criminal Monday's Plymouth-Canton school board meeting could prove misleading.

In the wake of a 19-day strike by

1,200 employees, the board unanimous ly approved contract agreements with its teachers and support personnel Ratification will be delayed until the necessary legal language is drafted.

No discussion regarding the six con-

All employee groups settled for a 3percent pay increase this year and a 5percent raise effective in 1984-1985. The latter half of 1985 will bring an added 1-percent increase for senior

During an otherwise uneventful and brief session, however, the "citizen comment" portion of the agenda saw blood boil as prepared speeches were read by teachers and parents, some of them quaking with anger.

Resentment surfaced primarily over the board's handling of the strike, which began Sept. 30 when teachers, teacher aides, secretaries, transportation and cafeteria workers and custodians failed to reach agreement with the district on wage reopeners and con-

Supersewer lawsuit ast-ditch effort made and Gary M. Cates

The decision whether to proceed with a $200 million lawsuit against parties involved in the now-defunct Supersewer project will be made after a high-level negotiating session Tuesday.

Township boards in Plymouth and Canton have authorized their supervisors to proceed with the lawsuit in the hammered out next week.

Expected to attend the negotiating session in Plymouth Township Tuesday are representatives from the parties that received notices of claim last "I told them that if they send somebody with the authority to sign documents for the different governments involved, to protect the interests of Plymouth and Canton townships, we would advise our attorneys to hold up on the lawsuit," said Maurice Breen, Plymouth Township supervisor.

The groups which may be involved in the suit include the state of Michigan, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Wayne County, the city of Detroit, the federal Environmental Protection Agency, the Southeastern Mich-Council of Governments (SEMCOG), and a governor's task force involved with the sewage projects being planned in Wayne County

By filing the notices of claim last week, the two townships have tied up bond issues to start construction of a down-sized version of Supersewer for the southern Wayne County communi-

The deleted northern communities are suppose to build a parallel system to Detroit to solve the overcapacity situation with the existing Rouge Valley

"The purpose of the lawsuit," said Canton supervisor James Poole, "is to make sure; one, that we'll have pipes put in the ground, two, that we are funded, and three, that we get full credit for everything we've spent so far

The townships are seeking full credit or reimbursement for monies pumped into designing the Supersewer project which they were cut out of earlier this year Although Plymouth Township is expected to receive a $3.8 million cash advance from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to design the system officials are afraid the west end of that system won't receive 75 percent federal funding.

If the federal funding is used to start the project, the communities must agree to finish it with local funds - in the event grant monies dry up

Court ruling on cop chases: No effect locally and Gary M. Cates staff writers

Last week's Michigan Supreme Court ruling that police involved in highspeed chases who may have driven negligently are not immune from lawsuits won't affect local department pol-

The state's high court overturned two lower court decisions that officers have automatic governmental immunity. The justices found that governmental immunity does not apply to injuries resulting from negligent driving.

Officials from the Plymouth and Canton police departments said the ruling simply substantiates high-speed pursuit policies already intact. "The court decision really falls right into line with our policy," said Commander Ralph White of the Plymouth

Police Department. 'If you're going to chase somebody, baby you're on your own," he said.

Likewise, the Canton department's policy places the responsibility for chasing on the officer's shoulders

Both policies outline the criteria for pursuit including clauses which attempt to exclude the department from liability if something goes amok.

"The officer has rules for pursuit to guide him," said Canton Lt. Larry Stewart. "But, he has to make the ultimate decision to follow.

ALTHOUGH THE POLICIES place the sole responsibility for chasing on the officer, Stewart said it's unlikely that a lawsuit stemming from damages caused by a chase would not include the department or municipality.

Stewart likens the policy to a father telling his son not to break windows.

'If the son goes ahead and breaks a window, even though his dad told him not to, the dad still has to pay for the window," he said.

The kid probably will get quite a spanking, but the dad still has to pay Both policies state that a chase should be discontinued when it could result in an accident or property damage. The officers are told to continually evaluate the decision to pursue and break off if things are starting to get out of control Officers are told to consider the severity of the alleged offense before chasing. Felony chases are more justifiable than those for traffic offenses Other factors to be considered include the volume of traffic, time of day and potential danger to others.

Reading from the Plymouth pursuit policy, White said: The pursuing officer will actively bear in mind that the subject of the pursuit is not likely skilled in high speed driving and not considering any risk to the safety and welfare of the innocent citizen, himself, nor the pursu ing officer

White wants "officers to know it is not a contest with the people they are in pursuit with. The purpose of a pursuit is to maintain visual observation with the subject, they are not trying to force them to stop," he said.

Solar tax credit extended

special writer

Following overwhelming approval in the Michigan Legislature last week, the solar tax credit bill awaits Gov. James Blanchard's signature. When signed, House Bill 4622 will ex-

Currently, a 10 percent credit on your state income tax bill is allowed for the first $2,000 investment in renewabale energy devices, and 5 per cent for the next $8,000 spent. Maxinum credit is a total of $600

The new bill will allow a 30 percent tax credit for the first $2,000 invest ment and 15 percent of the next $3,000. A maximum credit of $1,050 may be deducted directly from your state income tax obligation

The new bill will be retroactive to Jan. 1, so the credit can be taken for the year 1983 when you file your return

THE MICHIGAN State Chamber of Commerce led the charge against the 38-year-old former Bloomfield Township resident. I saw the mail from business people in Troy. Southfield, Livonia, Plymouth and Detroit to a Republican senator. The word "bias" was used in virtually every letter.

The odd thing, as I look back on it, is that there wasn't a single fact to support the charge. There wasn't a single quotation from an Allo speech or University of Detroit Law School lecture. There wasn't a single anecdote about his work in the Milliken Administration. They kept repeating bias, bias, bias so often that they, the chamber and the Republican senators, came to believe it.

In the two-plus hours confirmation hearing las week, Senate Republican Leader John Engler of Mt. Pleasant came up with only one solid charge. It was that Allo, in representing a UAW member in an appeal to the state Supreme Court, had made some pretty harsh generalizations in his brief against

A small city shows how to lure Canadian dollars

Plymouth is a flagpole. As expected, the stars and stripes proudly flutter. Underneath is another flag. It is red and white with a maple leaf in the middle a Canadian flag. This flagpole symbolizes a bold effort being made by the manager of the Mayflower, Scott Lorenz, to bring Canadian dollars into the United States. Lorenz believes that a program he has started called "par value" will bring an additional $500,000 into Plymouth this year.

At a time when businessmen are looking for ways to stimulate the local economy, it may be worthwhile to take a few minutes and find out what is going on in Plymouth.

STARTING IN MARCH, 70 Plymouth merchants have taken part in a program which permits Cana-dian tourists to spend money without their money being discounted.

Canadian visitors stop in the local chamber of commerce office and pick up an identification card. They then shop in any of the 70 businesses displaying a red maple leaf in their windows. Canadiar shoppers get full value for their Canadian money which is normally discounted 20-25 percent.

How can businesses afford not to discount Canadian money "A hotel room which I didn't rent out last night is gone forever," Lorenz said. "I'm better off renting the city had charged an unfair rate of interest to suburban community customers to pay for the water system's physical plant and equipment.

The suburbs have been fighting a long and costly legal battle against the city since 1976 when the 96 communities served by the metropolitan water system banded together to challenge a 39 percent rate

WHILE THE COURT decision no doubt will be appealed by Detroit, the Appeals Court victory gives some hope to the suburbs that 1) they will receive financial relief in the form of future rate decreases and 2) they will be able to convince the Legislature that the time has come to change the management system of the water system. The suburban communities have been powerless to influence the water system's management, or to have more than token representation on the board which oversees the system.

The metropolitan water system has always been a Detroit property. It is understandable that the city would have a water system managed by itself When the suburbs began springing up around Detroit, the city of Detroit merely extended its water lines to serve the suburbs.

For many years, the system was run by an exremely talented manager who had all the powers of a czar. In fact, Gerald Remus, the system's general manager, in many respects did just about what he wanted in expanding the water system to serve communities from Monroe to Flint. Few cared about the water system's management -

IT ALMOST SOUNDS too good to be true. How many programs generate something for everyone?

Local merchants gain. The state gets more tax revenue. Good will results between Canada and the United States.

In this complex world, it's refreshing to see something as simple as the par value program succeed in Plymouth.

Cities with many small merchants in a downtown area would seem ideal for par value. Are you listening, city leaders in Farmington, Birmingham, Rochester and Garden City?

because water was comparatively cheap, it made sense to have a metropolitan system and Remus convinced everyone that he ran the department

THE BOARD which supposedly oversees the water system is comprised of seven persons, three of whom are supposed to represent the suburbs. But all are appointed by the Detroit mayor, and all can be removed by the Detroit mayor.

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, in fact, fired Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara from the board in 1975 because McNamara protested the way the surburbs were being treated. This may have backfired on Young, after all.

It was McNamara who called a meeting of the communities served by the sytem to protest a rate increase. Out of the meeting came the impetus for a continuing organization to fight the water system increases and the law suit which recently resulted in a suburban victory.

The decision by the Court of Appeals gives hope to many suburban leaders that they can go even further and change the complexion of the water board so that it will have real representation by trustees who cannot be removed by whim of the Detroit mayor.

There have been some other advances in the surburban cause since the communities first challenged the system. The system, which before had not been audited by an independent agency, now must face a yearly audit. The system must have a public hearing 120 days before any rate increase. unlike the old days when a rate increase could be invoked without notice.

In light of the court decision, and in view of Mayor Young's continuing problems, the Legislature may be amenable to taking actions to strengthen the suburb's say on the water board.

This move came when he realized he was sorely in need of players and sent word down the line to sign Dick Wakefield, then playing at the University of Michigan, no matter what it cost

Wakefield was signed with a $52,000 bonus, and this started the trend of offering huge bonuses in all sports to land top players.

Labels mean dollars for Children's Hospital

People are being asked to save Heinz Baby Food labels to help patients at Children's Hospital of Michigan.

For each front portion of a label from Heinz baby foods, juices and cereals, the H.J. Heinz Co. will donate three cents to Children's Hospital or to the Ticker Club

Inc., a hospital-affiliated group that raises money to support the hospital cardiology department. In the last year, more than 30,000 labels for Children's Hospital and 21,000 for the Ticker Club were collected.

"Our goal for 1983 is to top last year's results," said hospital spokesman John Hawkins. "The more labels that are turned in the greater the Heinz Co. donation; and the better we'll be able to care for the sick and injured kids who come here.

DIANE KIMBALL'S fascination with the dulcimer began "a couple of years ago." Her interest in early Americana - the crafts, the furniture, the history increased her appreciation of the musical instrument native to Appalachian Mountain country. And she loved the old songs that the mountain folk played on the stringed instrument, sometimes plucking out the melodies with a goose quill.

Her background in piano and guitar helped in learning to play her first dulcimer. Diane worked out a program of songs, comment and nostalgia which she performed for classes in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools through the Plymouth Community Arts Council. Wearing a calico gown, she plays at craft shows, adding authentic atmosphere to the demonstrations of the old arts of weaving, quilting and woodcarving.

This fall, Diane started a dulcimer club which meets Monday evenings at her house on Ross Street in Plymouth. The group has grown from four people at the first meeting, to seven or eight. Two musicians come from Ann Arbor and a fiddler and a guitarist have broadened their musical sound.

Pat Moore, assistant principal at Central Middle School, is a member Judy Plester, orchestra director at Central, Allen, Smith, Miller and Isbister schools, is among the dulcimer players.

They welcome new members. Anyone interested in hearing more about the club may call Diane, 455-0966, and she'll tell themm all about

Township. 'We really would like any resident of Plymouth Township or the city, 60 years of age or older, to come and visit our clubhouse, to see the fun we enjoy," Isabell said. Among the activities are progressive pinochle every Tuesday from 7-10 p.m., and crafts and card playing Fridays from noon to 3 p.m. Seems they are great party planners out there. There is always something going on.

He per-formed the Franz Doppler Concerto in f minor for two flutes and orchestra with Glennis Stout and the Plymouth Symphony in 1982.

He teaches in the Ann Arbor area and is the artistic consultant for E.F. Dean Fluternakers. He is president of the Detroit Flute Association and a member of the executive board of the Flute Guild of Ann Arbor.

His performances have been described as "particularly effective, beautiful, sensitively performed."

The second of the mini-concerts will be at 4 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 22, at St. John's Seminary Chapel on Five Mile. A wind and piano quintet will present European music featuring the works of

Tiny Tots' learn Halloween safety rules

Youngsters in the Tiny Tot classes at the Salvation Army building heard all about Halloween safety last week. They were visited by witches and colorful clowns who hosted a party complete with games, entertainment and refreshments.

The visit was part of the annual "Light Up a Life" campaign sponsored each year by the Automobile Club of

"Our 'Light Up a Life' campaign serves as fun Halloween party for children and highlights safety tips for them and parents who will go trick-or-treating on Halloween night," said Thomas Orlowe, manager of the Plymouth AAA

Auto club employees donned costumes to spread the word about being as the children make their door-to-door calls on Halloween. All 56 of the Auto Club offices in the state will distribute free trick-or-treat bags and Halloween safety cards.

TO MAKE THIS a safe Halloween, parents should be sure to enforce the following rules

• Instruct children to cross only at intersections, after looking both ways first, and to walk facing traffic if there

· Arm young trick-or-treaters with flashlights to make them more visible to motorists.

 Make costumes of bright colors so they can be seen in darkness and keep them short enough so they won't trip little feet.

 Apply luminous paint or tape to youngsters' costumes to make them

· Be sure that children are accom panied by a parent, older brother or · Caution children to trick-or-treat only on streets that are well lighted.

· Caution children to wait until they get home to sort, check and eat their treats, allowing parents to examine them thoroughly

Jill Peterson learned that makeup is safer than a mask that could block vision when she is out trick or treating on Halloween. Each of the yougsters received a safety puppet.

Preschool class offers music, French, computers

New Morning School will be offering a Monday, Wednesday, Friday after-noon class for 21/2-to-6-year-olds beginning Wednesday, Nov. 2.

The educational program includes large and fine motor activities and ample opportunity for play and social interaction. In addition, many manipulative materials are used by the children to reinforce basic concepts in math and reading readiness. The program is geared to the individual child. Music, French and computer instruction as well as cooking activities and field trips are included in the program.

THE CLASS IS taught by Marilyn Romack, who has a master of arts degree in early childhood. The class is limited to 12 students and a parent aide will assist each day.

A short-term class for pre-schoolers, 'Preschool Computers," meets from 1-3 p.m. Tuesdays, beginning Nov. 1. It will run for seven weeks. Appropriate software emphasizing eye-hand coordination, basic concepts and number and letter readiness will be used. Children 3 to 6 may be enrolled for the class. Fee is $40

New Morning School, a certified pre-kindergarten through eighth grade school, is on Haggerty Road just north of Schoolcraft in Plymouth Township. Both co-op and non co-op options are available for students.

For more information about the preschool classes or the school, call Elaine Yagiela, director, 420-3331.

Town Hall speaker

Jim Hoke, author and hypnotist, will be featured speaker at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 2 at the Town Hall Series in the Penn Theater. Hoke will punctuate his positive success message with hypnosis. His split-second ability to put people into hypnotic trances has amazed television audiences across the country. His topic will be "You Would If You Could - Here's How You Can." Single tickets at $7.50 each, can be ordered in advance by calling the Plymouth Family Y office, 453-2904, or purchased at the door. 'Single Touch' aired on 12 cable channels

I promised you a Kathy Freece update and here it is. Kathy says she is doing fine and is back on her feet as good as ever, maybe even a little better. Not only did she just have a birthday, but her cable T.V. show is about to celebrate a birthday'

For those of you who don't know, Kathy, along with our own area J.P. McCarthy, is about to celebrate the first anniversary of their popular program, "Single Touch." It is taped right here in our Omnicom studio, and aired on 12 other cable systems.

Single Touch is, naturally, about single people, places, and things to do. Oh you can watch he program if you're married, but you'll notice a definite single theme as they visit local entertainment spots, many groups sponsored by, or that cater to the single set.

To celebrate this happy occasion, the May-flower Hotel will open its doors to a wonderful party full of fun, prizes, food and spirits - not mention live TV coverage and some surprise guest appearances.

All this along with a live band to dance by. So, if you're single and free on Nov. 11, why not go on over to the Mayflower and meet some more area singles. There is a $2 donation, and a cash bar. Fun starts at 8 p.m., and with Kathy and J.P., will no doubt run right to closing at 2 a.m. Don't miss it, it's local, it's bound to be fun and it beats sitting at home watching it on TV. Any questions about the event call 459-6900

The how: by plane. The what: an extended trip from here to there and back again. And best for last, the why because tomorrow is coming faster every day, something most of us can understand

First, naturally, you do all the ground work. You know the easy stuff like your passports visas for each country and the small task of accommodations in each of these countries at the right times. Oh ves, you'll probably want to bring the right clothes and that could take some serious shopping. I know what your thinking, but somebody has to do it. Well, you're all set and believe me no mat-

ONE WORD to describe the countrysides: flowers" was Carol's reply. As for the women, ladies take note, "very fashionable, sophisticated, particular about their total look, no halters, or cutoffs." She found very clean, well-groomed, appearance-conscious women actually ahead of American women for

Athough their trip was filled with sightseeing and countryside travel, Carol was thrilled to get to see the restored home and gardens of one of her favorite artists, Claude Monet. And the sights she saw. Here is where you see the splendor and grace of years long gone. On the grounds of the Palace of Versailles, where they really had not planned a long stop, she wished she had planned a whole month just for this spectacular sight. Not only the palaces and other buildings, but the reflecting pool in the gardens which was a mile long. You could rent a paddle boat and slowly view the garden

Only once during the entire trip were they made aware that they had left the free world for a different way of life. At the Hungary porder the entire bus was searched from front to back including the motor compartment, by armed guards. Then she knew, this was not your basic Windsor border check of illega

There were the evenings when you must have your passport stamped each night you stay in your hotel. If you miss a stamping, you have no proof of your whereabouts for that evening. And although there was no trouble, the feeling of insecurity was with them. But even here, in this remote, beautiful, strange country with people speaking a language far different from her own, Carol met a woman from Berne. Switzerland who spoke very little English. Here in a beautiful, old building, once used to plan parts of a revolution and now converted into a fashionable resturant, she was to find a commong bond. In basic American lifestyle, the conversation led to "Who

As expected, the food was wonderful, the entertainment very entertaining and the sights incredible. Carol tells me all the countries she visited were unexpectedly clean, and the prices reasonable. You can get a very nice meal for two including wine for from $20-$40. Oh you can eat for much less or much more, but nicely for much less than here.

So with what turned out to be a 10-pound, four-inch thick album of photos, charge plate still in decent condition and memories to ponder, Carol and Mike came home. Carol says she remembers thinking, "It was like a beautiful fairvtale and I'm in it

Upsets enrich true believers

HERE I SAT, spouting sports with friends (as a writer of the subject, people often feel it necessary to add their insight into my occupation) when an unknown passerby nonchalantly announced: 'Harrison lost."

"What?" I said in disbelief. Impossible Farmington Harrison, the state's best team, winner of 29 games in a row, could not possibly lose to the likes of Livonia Churchill, a squad with one win in six games this season.

"13-12," the stranger insisted before wandering

Not until the next day, when I searched the Sunday paper for the undeniable truth, was I convinced that Churchill had indeed shocked

KNOW WHAT? Right then I checked myself and asked a very pertinent, insightful question:

Why was it so surprising to me that Churchill won? My answer: Because Harrison had the incredible streak, an amazing feat in this age of state playoffs. The Hawks were simply an awesome team. Certainly they would lose, it was inevitable. But not to a weak Churchill squad.

Then I examined it more closely, taking both teams apart piecemeal. Know what I found? On both sides of that line of scrimmage last Saturday were high school kids. Not computerized machines that react the same way each time the ball is snapped. Not refined pro or college players.

Teen-age kids. And teen-age kids are liable to do some crazy things. Especially if they think they can get away with it.

The Chargers thought they could get away with something crazy against Harrison. They dared believe what no one else could imagine. They believed they could beat Harrison

BELIEVE ME, believing can be a potent

"That's the exciting thing about amateur sports," Churchill coach Ken Kaestner said Monday. "When kids do more than they're Games like Saturday's Churchill-Harrison clash should prove that what kids are capable of is virtually limitless. As Kaestner put it, "We had to play close to a perfect game, and we did."

Which may explain what high school coaching is all about: teaching how to win. To perservere To believe.

Churchill's upset victory wasn't the first of its kind. Earlier this season, Rochester met Birmingham Groves. Both teams possessed perfect records: Rochester was 4-0, Groves 0-4

Groves prevailed, 13-10, beating a team that had won 12 of its last 13 games over two seasons

"IT'S PEOPLE believing in people," was how Groves' coach Bill Rankin explained it. "I kept preaching to the kids to practice hard, to make sure everybody's ready to play, and that the wins and losses will take care of themselves.

an 0-9 team, but I've got to admit the thought crossed my mind. If Rochester blows us off the map 40-0 we're 0-7 now."

That didn't happen. Instead, Rankin's Falcons did what nobody expected. They knocked off Rochester. Then they won their next two games

"That (Rochester) game meant a great deal," Rankin continued. "We've got a good group of kids, not overly talented but real hard workers. The kids believe in themselves now.

GROVES, WHICH HAD been the Metro Suburban Association power two seasons ago, reversed what looked to be a downturn in the program back towards promise for the future Teaching how to win is no easy task. Look at the nature of sport. There is always a loser. As Rankin said, "Football is a high fatality sport. Fifty percent of the teams that play every week

It isn't easy to make believers out of kids who, despite long hours of hard work, still come up on the short end. Yet both Kaestner and Rankin managed, as others have.

This is something we'll never forget,' Kaestner said of the win over Harrison. "I've just got to compliment the guys I work with, coaches Herb Osterland and Darrell Copley, and the kids.

"Our finest hour was that final winning drive. I think about it now and it still gives me goosebumps. We could have folded our tents but TENT-FOLDING isn't found in successful football programs. What is found are players who believe the same things that Rankin told his troops: keep working, keep trying, and it'll show up in the win column. Sooner or later, your invested efforts will pay dividends. It might come in a 29-game win streak, like Harrison's. Or it may reach fruition in a single afternoon, like last Saturday for Churchill.

Whatever or whenever, it takes talented teachers to convince teen-age kids they can accomplish the seemingly impossible. I'm glad there are guys like that around; they make doubters like me believe that no goal is unreachable.

Salem states case for the defense

By Chris McCosky staff writer

No last-second heroics could save the Livonia Bentley cagers this time.

The Plymouth Salem defense made

A 35-foot Laurie Day jumper at the buzzer gave Bentley a 40-38 win the last time these two rivals met. This time, the Rocks jumped ahead and stayed there, winning 34-28 last Tuesday.

"When we play Bentley, we know we're in for a hard game. They are a hard team to play," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "This is a tremendous rivalry. An easy shot in any other game isn't necessarily an easy shot in this

THUS, A lot of easy shots were missed, especially by the Rocks in the early going.

Bentley had built up an eight-point lead with five minutes left in the first half, thanks to some good outside shooting by Sheri Wolfe and some poor inside shooting by Salem.

That's when the Rock defense began asserting itself. In the next 11 minutes (a quarter and a half), the Bulldogs scored just three points. Day, Bentley's premier scorer, didn't even get off a shot in the second quarter.

In that time span, Salem outscored Bentley 11-3 to take control of the

They completely took us out of our offense," said Bentley coach Tom Lang. "We wouldn't go basket at all. We were content to play catch around the perimeter and make turnovers."

PAM McBRIDE'S three-point play at the beginning of the second half seemed to spark the Rocks offensively. McBride and Dawn Johnson teamed for all 10 of Salem's third-quarter points Both finished with 11 points to lead all

Johnson hit a pair of free throws with 2:10 left in the third to put the Rocks ahead for the first time in the game. They never trailed after that.

In one third-quarter stretch, Bentley came down the floor 11 times without scoring. In eight of the trips they turned the ball over - mostly as a result of the Rocks' defensive pressure.

"As Bobby (Blohm, Salem assistant coach) told the girls afterwards, 'you came out in the second half believing you could win and you did," Thomann said. "They went ahead and hung on strong. Hey, anytime you hold a Bentley team to 28 points, you've done a good job. Because Bentley can score.

DAY SCORED eight points on the night, six in the fourth quarter as Bentley was scrambling to get back in the

"The key to our defense is keying on the opposition's tendencies," said Thomann. "And one of Bentley's tendencies is to go to Day. So, in that sense, we were keying on her.

Lang, while praising the Rock defense, was miffed at his team's unwillingness to challenge the basket. When asked about Day not getting any shots her fault. I kept saying 'go to the bas-ket, go to the basket.' But, they wouldn't."

The Rock offense had the same problem early in the game. They didn't seem interested in challenging the bas-

"WE SAT JOHNSON down in the first half. I asked her what kind of game she was going to play tonight. Was she going to get aggressive and challenge the basket, or was she going to run the perimeter?" Thomann said.

Johnson responded by taking charge of the Rock offense. Her drives to the basket forced numerous fouls. Three Bulldog players finished the game with three fouls and another, Bridget Nicol, fouled out.

Johnson made seven of eight free throws, four of four in the third quar-

Lang, though not pleased with his team's performance, was consoled by the fact that his team (10-2 in league play) remained a game ahead of sec-ond-place Salem (9-3) and Walled Lake Central (9-3) in the Western Lakes Athletic Association Lakes Division.

"I think this is the first time ever we have come into Salem and it wasn't a do-or-die situation for us," he said.

Rock pride on the line in finale against N'ville

staff writer

The second Western Lakes Athletic Association championship and a whole lot of pride is on the line in this weekend's grid matchups.

But, man, there could have been so much more If Plymouth Salem hadn't blown a 10-point lead in the final five minutes against Walled Lake Central last Friday. And if Farmington Harrison hadn't slipped against Livonia Churchill last Saturday.

If the referee would have called Central's fourth and-15 pass incomplete (like the films seemed to indicate) in the fourth quarter, Salem would have had the ball with the lead and just two minutes to play.

If Bob Wasczenski's 73-yard touchdown reception from Scott Glinski wouldn't have been nullified by a penalty, or if the Hawks would have converted their extra points, or if John Stoisiadas wasn't so darn good.

IF SALEM AND Harrison were meeting this weekend there would be more than just the WLAA championship at stake - there would be state Class A playoff berths at stake

But as Salem coach Tom Moshimer told his team before practice on Monday

"If 'ifs' and 'buts' were nuts and candy, we'd all have a Merry Christmas."

In other words, the world isn't going to end be-cause of last weekend, and there is still much to accomplish in the 1983 football season. So forget about last week, it's history.

Harrison may have had its string of 29 consecutive wins snapped and probably its state championship streak snapped, but it still has its consecutive league championship streak in tact.

The Hawks were the old Western Six League champs in 1980-81 and 1981-82 seasons, and they were the first-ever WLAA champions last year.

"WE ARE BOUNCING back real good," said Harrison coach John Herrington. "We asked the kids to chart their goals at the beginning of the season and almost everybody listed the league championship as their primary goal."

To attain that goal, Harrison is going to have to defeat a vengeance-hungry Walled Lake Central team. They are also going to have to put the clamps on another hot quarterback. Two weeks ago, Harrison humiliated Central 31-

0. That was in Farmington Hills. Friday, the Hawks will be the traveling team.

"We are expecting a much tougher game, there's no question about that," Herrington said. "They will look at the mistakes they made against us in the first game and make adjustments. It's going to be a very emotional game.

Central quarterback Tom Menard was not very effective against the Hawks in game one. But he showed his merit last week against Salem. Menard riddled the Rock defense for 227 total yards by himself. He ran for 79 yards and passed for 148.

"WE'VE GOT TO make some changes," Herrington said. "We've got some new plays and we have some plays we thought would work last time but we never used. In this type of game, though, you have to make most of your adjustments on the field."

Harrison is still somewhat slowed by injuries. John Miller is still not 100 percent. He will be in action, however. Wasczenski is 100 percent. Rob Smigielski and Scott Sullivan, both banged up in the Churchill game, are expected to see action.

"I think we can bounce back. It's still in our minds that we've been knocked out of the state playoffs. That hurts because we really thought we could go all the way this year. But, we have to forget about that. Who knows, there's still a chance that the teams in front of us could lose," Herrington

As for Salem, there is nothing really at stake except pride. And Moshimer takes that pretty serious-

"We pride ourselves on the fact that we are not quitters. Our kids know that an 8-1 season is still a damn good year. Especially since nobody expected we would be anywhere in the first place," he said.

SALEM HAS BEEN one of the most consistent football teams in the WLAA the last four weeks winning its last three out of four after a shaky start. The Rocks looked awesome beating North Farmington in the season opener, then struggled to beat Plymouth Canton. Then they pounded Livonia Stevenson. Then they barely beat Churchill.

Since then the Rocks rolled over Farmington and Bentley Statistically they outplayed Central. though they came up short where it counted - on the scoreboard.

"Win or lose, we've had a heckuva year." Moshimer said.

The Rocks will close out the WLAA season against Northville Friday night and travel to Redford Union the following week.

but the sport's popularity has increased every year over the past decade. Examining that popularity chain reaction closely will reveal dozens of O'Shea stories. Few, though, could match the success.

The O'Sheas - a trio of brothers, all Livonia Franklin graduates - got interested in soccer one by one passing it along the family chain. Not only interest in the game trickled down, talent blossomed as well.

THE OLDEST of the soccer O'Sheas, Nick, started the family on its current course. Nick never played in high school, with good reason: The school had no soccer program when he graduated from Franklin in 1977

tacular growth in the stock market and the rise in bond prices due to the significant decline in interest rates, the bond versus stock controversy has surfaced

One time-tested theory shows you how to move money back and forth between stocks and interest-rate investments as the economy changes. Bonds finish first during business recessions when interest rates fall. But after the recession, the galloping stock market leaves bond yields far behind.

ANOTHER METHOD OF analysis with stocks. It divides bull markets into three phases, each marking a shift in end of a recession. Interest rates fall, liquidity builds up in the financial system and professional investors move money into stocks. The market at times take a dip toward the end of this rally.

before going on to new highs. An earnings rally, when the rising economy delivers higher corporate profits. Attentive small investors usually join the game at this stage.

 A speculative rally near the peak of the business cycle, when the investors take the plunge. Now the rally is almost over. Rising interest rates soon bring both stocks and the economy

Under the direction of David A. Tucker, a 14-year veteran of community theater, the youthful, 20-member cast appears so wellrehearsed that there seems hardly a fluffed line or a wrong move throughout the entire 21/2-hour production.

Based (loosely) on the familiar fairy tale, "The Princess and the Pea," the two-act nlay is set in a medieval kingdom and cen ters around the problem of finding a suitably aristocratic bride ("a genuine princess") for Prince Dauntless the Drab. Marc Gawronski as Dauntless, however

Frizzy-haired and stick-thin, Stage's Winnifred is cute as a button and utterly charming - a perfect match for the mitten Dauntless Stage possesses a fine singing voice and at's a little disappointing that her rendition of "Shy," in the first act, isn't delivered with just a bit more punch and verve. As is, it's nice, but it has the potential of becoming a really rousing number and it's rather per plexing why she didn't pull out the stops and

"The Thing" (1951), 3:30 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 87 minutes.

Director Howard Hawks, whose career spanned silent pictures, gangster films, screwball comedies, war films and westerns, also made a sci-fi flick. "The Thing," in fact, stands at the fore-front of the science fiction boom of the 1950s, and its memorable epilogue, in which a news commentator implores listeners to "Watch the skies" for alien invaders, set the tone for the genre. James "Gunsmoke" Arness stars as a humanoid vegetable on the loose at an isolated scientific outpost. Rating: $2.90.

How many movies can you think of that are both funny and scary? Proba-bly very few, because the two genres don't mix. "Dracula vs. Frankenstein" attempts to blend comedy and horror, and the results are both unintentionally funny and sadly horrible. Film veter-ans J. Carrol Naish, Lon Chaney Jr. and Russ Tamblyn star in this Count Scary presentation.

Rating: $1.

De Havilland, perhaps offered the same sort of roles, didn't work. She made two films from 1962 to 1969, a period that spanned her 50th birthday. With stencils

Hobbyist gives home a colonial look

By Mary Klemic staff writer

A trip to New England some five years ago turned out to be more than a vacation for Jeanette R. Bickham of Livonia.

It introduced Bickham to a different type of home decoration that changed her home and her

ART EMANUELE/staff pho

Sometimes Jeanette R. Bickham makes her own stencils. She cut this intricate sleigh scene from plastic-like sheets, using a scalpel. Bickham colors her stencil designs with acryllic paint, using a very

Many may think of stencils as block letters that are cut out and used as a lettering guide for posters and signs. But to Bickham, stencils can be flowers, horse-drawn sleighs or other designs that can add a distinctive touch to anything they are painted on, from walls to clothes

"THERE WERE homes and shops and lodges (in New England) that had wall paintings, furniture paintings, lovely things around the ceiling and doorways," she said. "There was a distinctiveness about it. It was something I had never seen before."

Bickham was so impressed by the designs that she looked for them when she returned to Michigan. Stenciling wasn't as popular here, so she set about researching the subject.

Now Bickham stencils designs on furniture, clothes, stationery and other items in her home. She creates stenciled works and clothing on consignment and teaches classes on the craft. And she is preparing for arts and crafts shows Nov. 5 at the Nativity United Church of Christ, Henry Ruff Road at West Chicago, and Dec. 3 at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 150 Fair in Plymouth.

Stencils can harmonize a room in a way wallpaper can't, according to Bickham. The same stencil pattern can be used on the walls, furnishings and curtains of a room.

"Wallpaper is really expensive," she said, "Stenciling is just about as reasonable. Your lampshades can be stenciled, and you can pull the whole room together. You can stencil right on the fabric, the wall, the furniture and all of it comes together.

NEAT ROWS of delicate flowers adorn walls in Bickham's home. The patterns could be mistaken for wallpaper at first glance.

"It's much more interesting (than wallpaper)," Bickham said. "People will see one of my stencils ard say, 'That's so beautiful.' I never heard anyone say that about my wallpaper."

Bickham's stenciling equipment includes thick, short-bristled brushes, acryllic paints, patterns and

"It's very slow work," she said. "The cutting of the stencils is a very slow job."

MANY OF Bickham's patterns are purchased from craft stores. She cuts her own from a sheet of Mylar, a plastic-like material.

Bickham "paints" the stencils by blotting the spaces with a brush. The brush must be very dry, using very little paint, or else the colors will "bleed" or run together, she said.

Stencils can be applied to almost any surface, as long as it is slightly porous, Bickham said. All surfaces must be clean.

"I've tried every medium," she said. "The only thing I couldn't stencil was a filing cabinet. The surface was too slick."

BICKHAM COVERS the stencils on her furniture with polyurethane to help them last.

Cotton or muslim are the fabrics best suited for stenciling, while polyester can't be used, Bickham said. The fabrics must be washed and heat-treated with an iron before the stencils are painted.

Jeanette R. Bickham of Livonia has painted stencil patterns on almost everything. Here she displays the delicate designs she painted on clothing, a wall and a wooden chair.

The "heat-treating" process in-cludes turning an iron to its highest setting and holding it to the material, protecting the fabric with cotton. Once the designs are dry, they will withstand washing and ironing.

"You gotta be terribly fussy about laying the stencil properly, and handling the paints. Once you paint a stencil, it's there. I have never touched a blouse with a stencil without feeling a moment of panic," Bickham said with a

You cannot be afraid to be bold." she continued. "It takes a lot of courage to paint the first stencil on. And once you touch it, in one minute you can go amiss.

Bickham, whose wide range of interests include embroidery and candleworking, is planning to stencil her shutters in the spring.

Stenciling was popular in America 300 years ago, when colonists painted their new homes to replace old art, according to Bickham.

When the colonists came over, they couldn't afford to bring their tapestries and wall hangings from the old country," she said, "Skilled craftsmen used to travel across the countryside.

Now's the time to begin study of art

This is another in a series of lesdrawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for eight years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middle-

Livonia. Messing ecourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington MI

The appreciation and awareness of shape, color and texture seems to come at varied times in the lives of many. To some, appreciation and awareness nev-

On the other hand, some are driven to take lessons in art to express themselves better, even if they possess no particular gift or ability.

But when do you begin lessons in art? The questions are many concerning art lessons. For example: "Is my child too young to begin art lessons' 'Can you teach an old codger like me

Well, let's start with the youngsters.

IT'S SUPRISING that we expect 6to 9-year-old children to learn to print the alphabet and yet we can't believe they are old enough to draw shapes. After all, did you ever really look at a W or the letter R?

I know of a kid who gave his teacher fits in second grade, because his Rs leaned too much to the left. But now R is one of my best letters! Children learn to speak and develop motor responses at different ages. So when to begin art lessons varies with the student

I remember Maria, who was 5 years stool, she could draw with the best of those big league 7- and 8-year-olds.

The most important question in children's art is do they draw from imagination or from what they see? If your child draws only from his or her imagination, there is little you can teach

For instance, if you say "Honey, why is that foot so big and this foot so little?" they might say, "Cuz that's the way I want it . . . sheesh."

Children are approaching art lessons when they try to draw from comics or real life. And be assured their first attempts could be no worse than Satchmo's first toot on a trumpet.

DURING THE sometimes eternal hour of art lessons for children (10 and under), you may hear us say some strange things. For instance, "Jamie get out from under that table." "Brian. how did you get bubble gum on your "Now where did Aaron go?" picture?" "Trisha, honey, please go under that table and tell Jamie to get over

So as an answer to prayer, Carol came along and I hired her to teach our little ones. Carol brought a perfect blend of discipline and art instruction Some day Carol, Andy (her helper) and I will have to get together and write a book. After all, Art Linkletter did it!

Probably the best aspect of children taking art lessons is that it can introduce them to the many media and techinques in art. For example pen and ink, charcoal, pastel, scratchboard, felt tip pens, etc. Then they have a good foundation for more advanced instruc-

ENCOURAGEMENT can not be overemphasized. Did you ever notice how you clap a little louder for some little guy or gal who suffered through some musical recital?

You do that to encourage them. Well. you rarely clap over art work, but what you say or don't say about their work is remembered accurately in their little heads.

I can spot within weeks who will last and who will be discouraged by the attitude of the parents. Boy, do kids ever talk!

Some will come in and say, "My daddy said he's payin' good money and I gotta show 'em what I do every week

Speaking of showing them, with some parents you just can't win For example: If the picture turns out great, they want to know just what part the teacher did. Then if it fairs poorly, they want to drop the child out of art les

So, remember, just as you close one ear at musical recitals, learn to close one eye when viewing their art.

FROM 10 to 16, interest is the primary goal and art instruction is sec ondary For three years Eric has occupied his art curriculum drawing beasts. warriors and winged things beyond description Mom. Dad, family and even his neighbors have begged him for even an occasional barn or flower.

But Eric probably will not draw a very good flower unless a flower can hold a sword or until his interests change. In the meantime, Eric has learned charcoal, pastel and colored pencil (dragons), pen and ink, ink on glass and linoleum block (warriors) scratchboard, watercolor, gouche and coquille board (winged things).

The interests of the student is what brings them each week to the teacher to learn technique. The primary goal of the teacher is to bend the technique to fit their interests

It is truly amazing how fast students develop in their ability when encouraged by others and inspired with minor

Between the ages of about 14 to 16 art students can actually take giant steps towards their career in art. I recently had one design studio ask me for the phone number of a 15-year-old boy named Shawn

But I told them I am hiding him for another year or so I would say around the age of 15, students should begin building their portfolio. Now here is where interest suffers.

For example, Greg is about 15 and he has worked for three weeks drawing pen and ink renderings of a chain saw heavy bummer. But, as a young man. Greg sees his need to prepare his portfolio for the future, even if it is not exactly 'fun. From ages 16 to 18 a student usually makes a decision for art or some other field. Of course that is the student's decision and should not be influenced by

The world will get along fine without another artist. But what bothers me is when a student drops out for temporary interest I once had a gifted youngster who, upon becoming driving age, wanted a car So to get the car he had to work part-time. A very good artist is now out of school, stocking shelves at a drug store.

I HAD THE pleasure of meeting Clair this week at the art store. She is energetic, talented and has a very good sense of humor. Upon showing me photos of some of her work, she said, "For 50 bucks each I can sell these all day.

"I'm kind of slow but I have plenty of time. I'm 70 and I paint for fun . let my grandkids sell my paintings." I guess, just like we underestimate young children, we also underestimate.

older folks. The difference, however, is that it is the older folks that underestimate themselves. Remember, as I stated several weeks ago, art ability never leaves you; it is a part of your perception, thinking ind attitude. Even if it is left dormant for many years, it can be revived very easily, much to the surprise of the host

Usually a break is very good for a student Parents will carefully state that their son or daughter would like to drop out of art classes for a while. They are sometimes surprised at my comment of "good" I feel that if the child has lost interest in art, it has at least been good exposure for him or Usually this interest is revived within a year or so As in any instruction, it is nice to take a break from time to time. It is no accident when the student returns that the level of ability seems to have increased. Of course, this is primarily due to rekindled interest.

So, if you have studied art in the past, consider taking a class somewhere to revive and polish your talent.

If you have never studied art but have played with the idea, then stop playing and start drawing.

ARTFUL HINT. Don't judge the field of art as a lost cause because of one or two class failures. Many times your failure can be traced to an uninspired teacher

The word inspire means "to breathe life into, and believe me, some students need a lot of breathing.

Many classical music lovers aren't familiar with Poulenc's piano music. It has been far oversha dowed by his more revered operatic, vocal and ballet music. Critics have always dismissed it as too shallow for serious consideration. The result is that only one pianist has recorded any of the piano liter-

Pianist Flavio Varani disagrees with the critics and in his first album, entitled "Poulenc Nocturnes," recently released by Orion Master Recordings of California (ORS 83459) he has recorded some of the works of this 20th century composes

Poulenc was a member of the group of "Les Six," all composers in Paris who rebelled against the excesses of Romantics such as Wagner, the mysticism of Franck and the vagueness of Debussy. They were named for the similar movement in painting, Surrealism. Considered against the graneur of Romanticism and the dissonance of so much of modern music, the simplicity of the style of, for instance, Poulenc, led many people to disount the importance of their work.

Of the six, Poulenc's music is emerging as having the most endurance. Having died as recently as 1963, he is already being considered as one of the important composers of this century the melody" can be plainly understood when listening to his piano music. It is pleasing, always melodic, light and airy, gentle, never heavy, at times moody, with sudden changes of rhythm and feeling. Often it is very descriptive. For structure, Poulenc draws on a wide range of classical forms. No "piece" lasts more than one to three minutes with cycles never more than 10-15 minutes.

For this release of Varani's, which was recorded at the RCA studios in New York City, he has drawn a selection from Poulenc's middle period when the bulk of his piano music was composed, from 1927-

"8 Nocturnes," from which the album is named, was a series of pieces Poulenc composed during the nine years from 1929-1938, years that span the time of his conversion to Catholicism. The group describes a variety of moods connect
