WRIF food drive features leftovers, levity

Jim Johnson, a WRIF morning disc-jockey, asks 6-year-old John Mersch of Canton if he had a good Thanksgiving during Friday morning's broadcast from the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth.

The crew from WRIF, along with the food was loaded in a Mayflower moving van towards the end of the show. The food was loaded in a Mayflower moving van towards the end of the show. The food was loaded in a Mayflower moving van towards the end of the show.

Rock-n-roll radio station WRIF was in town Friday morning for its "Morning After" breakfast broadcast. Listeners were treated to comedy and food for the mere price of a few cans of food for the Capuchin Soup Kitchen in Detroit. (Above) Julie Finkel of WRIF stacks the donated food. (At left) Radio personality Jim Johnson broadcasts live from the Mayflower Meeting House on Main Street. (Below) George Baier, Mary Yurka and Johnson do a live talk portion of the show. As Yurka, an active member of the Plymouth Theater Guild, tells what she is thankful for at Thanksgiving, Baier (playing Dick the Bruiser) leads the crowd in humming "America the Beautiful."

Football bowl game bonanza hurting game

How much is too much? This old time Pennsylvania Dutch question comes to mind every time The Stroller picks up any of the daily prints and sees column after column devoted to the bowl football games.

There were times when this was quite difficult because stronger teams were cropping up in other sections. To remedy this the Pacific Coast Conference entered into an agreement with the Big Ten to take its champion each year.

Electing is at hand with no candidates for office. If you're a righteous, God-fearing citizen, let your intentions be known and which political office your qualifications can promote to its true purpose.

If you had a shop foreman working for you that didn't do the job he was hired to do, but rather harass and stole from those doing their jobs to give to those who were unwilling to work for him?

NO LONGER IS the Rose Bowl considered as a championship game. Like all the others, money is the reason for all the games.

And as he scrutinizes the sports pages these days the Stroller well remembers the advice he was given as a youngster. "You can get sick from eating ice cream."

Swimming, rope skipping are highly strenuous

"Which exercise is best for improving physical fitness?" Cardiac patients and persons with low cardiovascular fitness often ask us that.

SWIMMING, EVEN at comfortable speeds, may require near-maximal expenditures of energy and heart rate.

THE ENERGY cost of jumping rope, apparently unaffected by the skipping rate, ranges from nine to 13 times above resting levels.

DESSERT DELIGHTS FOR A FESTIVE PARTY

Try Puerto Rico's versatile rums for a smooth change of pace to holiday or party desserts. This rich array will please all types of dessert fanciers, from cake to coffee lovers. Garnished with juicy pineapples and dry coconuts, the frozen piña colada mousse is a cool, smooth choice. Or take fresh pears poached in rum and serve them hot surrounded by a rich rum cream sauce. With the pears, offer your guests crunchy pecan lace wafers topped with a chocolate rum icing. Those with sweet teeth will enjoy the coffee and rum layer fillings in our hazelnut buttercream torte. And coffee when mixed with flaming rum and crowned with whipped cream and chocolate shavings is a complete dessert by itself.

FROZEN PUERTO RICAN RUM PIÑA COLADA MOUSSE

Serves 8

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 2 cups pineapple juice
- 1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) crushed pineapple, undrained
- 1 can (15 ounces) cream of coconut
- 1 cup Puerto Rican gold rum
- 2 cups (1 pint) heavy cream, whipped
- Garnish - halved pineapple slices

In a saucepan, combine gelatin and 1 cup of the juice. Stir over low heat until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in crushed pineapple and cream of coconut. Stir in rum. Chill until mixture mounds when stirred. Fold in whipped cream and pour into a 2 quart freezer container or soufflé dish. Freeze until hard, then decorate with pineapple slices. Cover and freeze until ready to serve. Place in refrigerator 30 minutes before serving to make it easier to spoon.

RUM LACE WAFERS

Makes about 36 - 3 inch wafers

- 1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1 cup finely chopped pecans
- 1/2 cup light corn syrup
- 1/2 cup vegetable shortening
- 2/3 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
- 4 squares (4 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate, melted over hot water
- 1/3 cup Puerto Rican gold rum

In a bowl, mix flour and pecans. In a saucepan, combine syrup, shortening and sugar and heat mixture until shortening is melted and mixture just starts to boil. Stir hot syrup into flour. Stir until well blended. Drop mixture by heaping teaspoons on greased cookie sheets, spacing them 2 inches apart. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375°F.) for 6 to 7 minutes or until bubbly and golden brown. Cool 2 minutes or until firm and then remove to a rack. Mix chocolate and rum and drizzle over cookies. Let stand until chocolate is firm. Store covered in a cool dry place.

PEARS POACHED IN RUM WITH RUM CREAM SAUCE

Serves 8

- 8 large firm pears
- 1 cup Puerto Rican gold rum
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 cups pineapple juice
- Cream
- 1 package (3-3/4 ounces) instant vanilla pudding
- 2 cups (1 pint) heavy cream
- 1/2 cup Puerto Rican gold rum

Peel pears and leave them whole with stems attached. Place into a large saucepan and add rum, sugar and pineapple juice. Liquid should cover pears. If not, add more pineapple juice. Simmer pears gently for 20 to 25 minutes or until easily pierced but still firm. If pears are very ripe they will cook in a shorter time. Cool pears in syrup. In a bowl, combine pudding mix, cream and rum and beat with an electric mixer until thick and fluffy. Chill. When ready to serve, drain pears. Reserve syrup for later use in sauce, fruit soups or punches or drinks. Divide cream between serving plates. Press pears into cream. Serve with Rum Lace Wafers.

FLAMING RUM WITH COFFEE

Serves 6

- 3 cups hot strong coffee
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- Rind of 1 lemon in one piece
- 1 cup Puerto Rican gold rum
- Whipped cream
- Shaved chocolate

Heat coffee, sugar and lemon rind in a saucepan. Add rum and set aflame. When flames die, ladle into heatproof cups and top with whipped cream and shaved chocolate. Serve at once.

PUERTO RICAN RUM COFFEE AND HAZELNUT BUTTERCREAM TORTE

Makes 1 nine inch cake

- Cake
- 1 package (18-1/2 ounces) white cake mix
- Grated rind of 1 lemon
- 2 egg whites
- 1 cup water
- 1/3 cup Puerto Rican white rum
- Filling
- 1/3 cup cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons instant coffee
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup Puerto Rican gold rum
- 1-1/2 cups half and half
- Buttercream
- 4 egg yolks
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1-1/3 cups soft unsalted butter
- 3 tablespoons Puerto Rican gold rum
- 1 cup hazelnuts, finely chopped in food processor
- Additional hazelnuts

Prepare cake mix according to directions using lemon rind, egg whites, water and rum. Bake batter in 2 greased and floured 9 inch layer cake pans. Bake according to package directions. Unmold and cool layers on a rack. To prepare filling, mix cornstarch, coffee, sugar and rum in a saucepan. Gradually stir in half and half. Stir over low heat until filling becomes very thick. Cover and cool to room temperature. To prepare buttercream, combine egg yolks, sugar, vanilla, butter and rum in an electric mixer and beat until smooth and fluffy. Fold in hazelnuts. To assemble cake, cut each layer with a sharp knife into 2 thin layers. Place one layer on serving platter and top with 1/3 of the filling. Repeat layering ending with a plain layer. Spread top and sides with buttercream. Top with whole hazelnuts. Chill until ready to serve. If desired, each slice may be sprinkled with 1 tablespoon gold rum before serving.

Stuffed ducks in wooden wagon would add a touch to any Christmas tree. Whimsical elves on a ladder display the merchandise in a jewelry store window. Their presence also adds interest to the Christmas tree scene.

Stroll around the block is preview

By Elinor Graham staff writer

A brief scouting expedition can do wonders. Just wandering through the shops, unencumbered by a holiday gift list and last-minute pressures, is a preview. It gets you in the mood.

A walk around the block produced a flock of ideas for decorating and Christmas giving. Many of the holiday displays can be incorporated into home decorations, with slight modifications.

The table-top size tree in Delta Diamond caught my eye. The addition of elves on a tiny ladder beside the tree turned it into an interesting diorama. The price tag on the string of pearls and the diamond ring on the ladder elicited a "Wow!"

Next door, the Corner Curtain Shoppe window always is worth a second look. The little old toy wagon with a trio of stuffed toy ducks sitting in ex-celsior suggested an added touch to the home Christmas tree.

RED AND GREEN sleepwear in the Before and After shop was created for Christmas morning photographers. The large selection of Christmas bibs was created with an eye to dotting grandmothers.

Without the reconnaissance tour, the average person is unaware of the new items available. Take for example the elasticized, napkin rings in Sideways. They are made of cloth and match the quilted green and red placemats. The rings can be stored on a paper towel tube. They also have the original Montgomery Schoolhouse wooden toys, and neat garment bags. The napkin rings are 95 cents each.

The Wine and Cheese Barn has 10 international beers in a little wooden crate (with a handle). Cost for the 10 bottles plus the crate is $19.95.

John Samborski of Brighton was delivering some of his handmade wood boxes to the Energy Connection on Forest Avenue. These look like oldtime hump-back trunks and could be used as toy or blanket boxes, too.

FOR BEAR collectors, Hands on Leather has a fur and leather bear with an $85 price tag. They also have stacks of unusual leather goods and Indian-made silver and turquoise jewelry from the Southwest.

The Country Cupboard is packed with nostalgic Christmas charm. An arrangement of greens, shiny red apples and satin ribbons, red carnations and cinnamon sticks, has a fat red candle in the middle. It can be used as a centerpiece or on a mantel.

The country influence also is prevalent in the Salt Box in Westchester Mall with marvelous accessories and furniture suitable for a family gift. Their tree is decorated with small wooden toys and strings of popcorn.

Across the way, Cook's Pleasures would gladden the heart of any cook, especially one who hasn't updated her utensils, pots and pans for years. There are lots of stocking stuffers there, too, perfect gifts for a child to give to a favorite aunt or grandmother. Among the fascinating little gadgets is a metal lemon juicer, manufactured in West Germany and packaged in a neat little box. The juicer is like a little faucet. You stick it in the lemon, squeeze the amount of juice you need, then put it away in the refrigerator. It is sealed and ready for the next squeeze. Cook's Pleasures has the added service of wrapping and mailing your gifts.

FRED HILL is instituting a special Christmas mailing service at his John Smith's Men's Wear shop on Main. He is saving folks a trip to the post office or United Parcel Service. They may bring in their packages wrapped for mailing, weigh them on the scales inside the door, attach the right sticker and leave the right amount of money. They will be picked up by UPS.

It's all part of a goodwill gesture to encourage residents to shop in their own hometown.

The Fudge Shop in Forest Place Mall will mail fudge for shoppers.

One around-the-block stroll proved that those interested in giving clothing can find it for all ages and both sexes in that one-block area. From underwear to outerwear, it's all there. From maternity clothes to sportswear — filmy negligees to red longjohns.

Woodbox, toybox, blanketbox, or end table, the young man who makes the sturdy hump-backed trunks finds they are a popular Christmas item.

Anna Bergerhoudt looks back 100 years

Dirk and Susan Bergerhoudt of Northampton, Plymouth, hosted a party for his grandmother's 100th birthday. Friends and relatives, 168 of them, came for the the happy event which was thoroughly enjoyed by Grandma Bergerhoudt. Susan's brother, Bill Wittala, wrote the following story about the fascinating lady.

"Live a good life. Don't drink, Don't smoke," says Mrs. Anna Freda Koenig Frederick Bergerhoudt, who recently celebrated her 100th birthday.

"And don't run around like they do now." She stops and considers again the question of what advice the younger generation needs to hear. Raising her voice another decibel she continues, "You can work hard, I did. It won't hurt you."

Grandma Bergerhoudt, as she is widely and affectionately known, was born Nov. 22, 1883, a long and tumultuous 100 years ago. Though her eyesight has dimmed and her hearing weakened, her mind sparkles as she reviews events and dates and memories from her past. And what years they have been, taking her from Germany to the United States, to Canada and back to the U.S. She has lived through two world wars, economic depression, and a race to the moon. The century provided a technological smorgasbord of conveniences from running water to microwave ovens, from electric lights and telephone to color photos and television.

ANNA FREDA Koenig was the middle child of nine born to a church steeple builder and his wife. She spent the first 17 years of her life in her hometown of Erfurt, Germany, which is 50 miles inside the border of Communist East Germany. During Grandma's childhood, the city was under the reign of William I, King of Prussia.

She went to the "second best school in town" and as all other girls did then, she learned the beginning skills of sewing, crocheting and embroidery. These skills she used often until the last few years.

In 1900, she left picturesque, medieval Erfurt and sailed to America, settling in Newark, N.J., with an aunt and an uncle. Two years later she married Karl Frederick and soon was tending the household of their children, Kurt, born 1904; Gertrude, 1906, and Albert, 1908. Husband Karl died in 1908, and what could be called Grandma's first lifetime was altered.

She was left with three young children to raise.

But love came around again and a Dutch immigrant caught her eye. In 1913 she married Dirk Bergerhoudt, and began a new life.

HER NEW husband was an adventurous, restless man and when stories from Canada inflamed him with gold fever, he moved his family to the wild country 350 miles north of Toronto.

A fortune in gold eluded him, and they settled in the small village of Porquois Junction, eventually owning and managing the Grand Union Hotel.

Porquois Junction was a northern intersection for the railroad and there was little in the village beside the railroad station and their hotel with its 15 rooms and pool hall.

In this harsh environment without electricity and running water, Grandma proved a valuable asset to the surrounding community, and added another dimension to her lifetime. She had learned the rudiments of delivering babies, and with no doctor available, the call frequently went out for Anna Bergerhoudt to "come quickly."

More than 60 babies were greeted first by her strong, loving hands. And such were the times that she often was paid with chickens, eggs or small plump pigs.

In 1919 she produced her fourth and last child.

LIFE CHANGED again when the Grand Union Hotel burned down. With no insurance money to rebuild, the family moved 20 miles west to the city of Timmins, where Dirk found work in the gold mines. Working underground bothered him and after reading about Henry Ford's $5 a day wage, he went to Detroit to seek new employment. By 1924, the family was settled on Gallagher Street, on Detroit's north side.

The great Depression came to the city, and by 1932 only two people on their block still were employed.

"There was no work, so we moved out to Dundee, Michigan, to work on a farm. On a farm, there's always something to do and always something to eat," she recalls.

This chapter of her life ended in 1935 when her husband was killed in an industrial accident. She stayed on the farm and her voice softens as she remembers those years in Dundee. "The people in Dundee were very special."

Grandma moved to Cheyenne Street on Detroit's west side in 1947, to a house that would provide her life with another turn. Her youngest son, Wilfred, divorced his wife. In the ensuing events, his two children ended up in the care of Grandma and her daughter, Gertrude, who was married and living in the house on Cheyenne.

Here she was, 68 years old, and being mother to her grandchildren.

AFTER HELPING see them through their growing years, their college years, and watching them leave to begin their own lives, she continued to live on Cheyenne with her daughter and son-in-law.

Grandma moved into the Northwest Continuing Care Center on Hubbell Avenue, Detroit, in 1978. She still lives there on the first floor, almost as close to the reception desk as one could get.

Grandma Bergerhoudt's 100th birthday was celebrated Nov. 19 at a reception in Plymouth. Two children, three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren were on hand. Others — 150 of them — came from Arizona, Maryland, Baltimore and Canada for the party. Some of them had been delivered into this world by Grandma years ago.

Her life seems to have included more than one lifetime. Certainly there was more variety than most people experience. Yet she distills her years into a paragraph that pierces human existence and our search for meaning more sharply than 100 long-winded sermons and political speeches.

"I had a good life. I was married twice to good men. I had a home in Detroit with my daughter. I was 68 and undertook to raise my grandchildren." She stops and her words settle warmly on the heart.

Grandma Bergerhoudt's expressive eyes shift behind her glasses as she awaits another question. But no further inquiries are needed. Her eloquence of love has said it all.

Anna Bergerhoudt celebrated her 100th birthday and more than 160 friends and relatives came to the reception.

Musical comedy shot through with fun

Performances of the world-premiere production of the musical comedy 'Shot Thru the Heart' continue through Dec. 18 at the Birmingham Theatre...

By Barbara Michals special writer

You can't always tell the good guys from the varmints, the cowboys are not content with kissing their horses and the language gets saltier than the proverbial 'Aw, shucks'...

That 'Shot Thru the Heart,' an adult musical western having its world premiere at the Birmingham Theatre. With a terrific cast and a delightful score, the show is rollicking good fun...

When a shipment of gold is ambushed and left abandoned after a bloody shoot-out, the six find instant riches are theirs for the taking. Throwing in their lot together, they begin a six-day journey to cash in the gold. For some, it is a journey of self-discovery, for others a journey to betrayal.

THEIR ADVENTURES along the way, alternately amorous, dangerous and humorous, are the backdrop for Paul Giovanni's very pleasant music (Giovanni also wrote the book and lyrics as well as directing the production)...

As the cowardly, ragtag actor Chauncey Truesdale, Al Brasington is a comic gem whose expressive face alone is an endless source of glee. Chauncey gains self-assurance when he poses as a Mormon preacher...

Incongruously clad in a pilgrim's suit left over from some long-ago performance, Brasington is dazzling as he breezes through 'The Ten Commandments,' a patter song in the manner of Gilbert and Sullivan.

Chauncey gives the commandments a whole new interpretation, such as urging people to 'honor thy father and mother' so as to collect their life insurance.

pals has a fine singing voice, Rhonda Coulet belts her numbers out with consistent verve and heart. As the whore Blanch, alias 'Dirty Em,' Coulet is disheveled and convincingly saucy. She gains self-esteem when given a chance to use her brains instead of her body, but she rejects the offered redemption of love...

Dismissing 'All This Talk 'Bout Love' as impractical, Blanch complains that you can't eat love, pay the bills with it, or depend on it. Liz Corrigan as the sharp-tongued Jenney also excels at putting a lot of feeling into her songs. In the cynical 'The American Way' she urges her cohorts to grab for all they can, and she painfully bares her soul in 'Blood and Shame'...

Tim Barber is effective as Billy, the chivalrous, kindly cowboy. Donna Bullock is fine as the schoolteacher who learns to let her hair down and revel in love. Robert Stillman is credible in the pivotal role of Cash and handles his songs competently though not particularly stylishly.

Jerry Scurlock is convincing as Red, the one-eyed tough Blanch is fleeing from. His resonant voice stands out whenever he joins the many ensemble numbers, and one wishes he had more solo time.

What's in the name of burgundy or chablis?

Most of the red and white wine consumed in this country, especially that grown in California, comes out of jug. It is sold in supermarkets and carries the names burgundy and chablis.

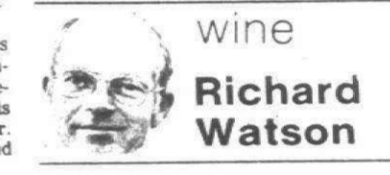

What are these wines? Regulations (federal) being what they are, there is no way to know. As concerned and benevolent as our government seems to be about what we put in our mouths and on our bodies, it is remarkably indifferent to regulating the names by which our hamburger wine is marketed and purchased.

In the dark ages of the early decades of this century, the American wine industry was first recovering from a serious disease that riddled the vineyards and then from a legislative disaster. The "terrible p's" are phylloxera and Prohibition.

The industry needed names under which to market its wines. The days of calling them by the name of the grape was not thought of, yet, that occurring only some 20 or 30 years ago. What better way to announce prestige and quality than use the established names from France and Germany: burgundy, claret, chianti, rhine, sauternes?

Our good government, in the form of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms which governs these things, could care less. And no one in the wine business knows why. Cigarettes may be "dangerous to your health," but Thompson seedless and moudeuse aren't going to do anything for your palate.

The curious parallel is the tough regulations imposed on the bottling of var-

day, a wine must contain 75 percent of the grape named to be called chardonnay, zinfandel or whatever. But what of the bottle that is 55 percent zinfandel, 20 percent pinot noir, 20 percent gamay and 5 percent grenache? What to call it?

IN FRANCE and Germany the laws are very restrictive concerning the names given wines. Not only are the grapes used controlled, so are their growing conditions, harvesting requirements and source names. This is also the case in the United States when it comes to naming premium wines. To-etal wines. Never mind that a cabernet sauvignon may taste best if it is blended with 30 percent merlot, or that a 51-49 blend of semillon and sauvignon blanc can be one of God's great gifts.

However, there is a trend setting in that does nothing to help our varietal confusion but does reflect some growing maturity and independence among wine marketers. That is a movement away from the use of European place names and toward such unimaginative terms as red table wine and country white. As American prestige in the wine world grows, there is less need to ape European predecessors.

HOWEVER, WITH all this complaining there is yet a good side to all this. Even though he or she must use a useless name to describe a well-blended wine, no winemaker attempts to make a wine that is considered bad. (Well, almost none of them.)

A bottle carries the winery's name and that is something to be proud of. Any winemaker will make the best wine possible with the grapes at hand because he she wants you to buy a second, a third and a 12th bottle of that wine. Frequently blended wine with a very humble name can be a truly good. And affordable.

Mother-daughter tale may be a tear-jerker but it's a happy one

Tom Panzenhagen, this week's guest critic, writes the Second Runs column that appears weekly in most of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Those in the market for a tear-jerker could do much worse than "Terms of Endearment" (PG). It's no great feat when movie makers jerk a tear or two from the eyes of unsuspecting viewers. Indeed, many suspecting moviegoers have had to wipe the teardrops away. TV's inventive "Kennedy," for instance, most recently opened the flood gates and it depicted a foregone set of events. "The Day After" — a predictable, vapid film — left us a westruck and misty-eyed. "Terms of Endearment," happily, is better than "The Day After," though not so considerable as "Kennedy."

JAMES BROOKS wrote and directed "Terms of Endearment," the story of a mother and daughter and their life-long scavenger hunt for happiness. The film at times seems episodic, but that's because it covers a 30-year period. In fact, "Terms of Endearment" is an ebullient, unpredictable picture that stales only when it occasionally lingers in one place too long.

The first three-quarters of the film bounce back and forth between Texas, where the mother lives, and Iowa, the daughter's home. Shirley MacLaine is Aurora Greenway, an obsessively aloof individualist whose daughter, Emma, has never attained Aurora's high standards.

Debra Winger as Emma rejects her mother's emotional conservatism while maintaining a close friendship with her. The women love each other but as Emma's husband observes, Aurora maintains only medium esteem for her daughter.

TEAR-JERKERS, in general, involve the loss of a loved one, and "Terms of Endearment" is no exception. It would be a mistake, however, to give away the ending of the film because the film does not dwell on anyone's demise.

Rather, Brooks treats this last and cruellest turn of events as another chapter in the intertwining lives of mother and daughter. No artificial, cinematic importance is attached to it. The violins do not come up full.

It's this sort of freshness that buoys "Terms of Endearment," along with splendid performances by MacLaine, whose infrequent displays of compassion pierce holes in her self-protective armor, and Winger, whose determined self-sufficiency is tempered by a native fragility.

Jack Nicholson co-stars as a lascivious ex-astronaut — the object of MacLaine's disdain and affection. For Nicholson, whose character displays bursts of licentiousness and charity, it's the supporting role of a lifetime. He's sure to be contender for an Academy Award next year.

Danny DeVito of "Taxi" fame, and John Lithgow, the hit of last year's "The World According to Garp," co-star.
