Board mulls issue of police services

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Supervisor James Poole is recommending a new professional study to determine future police needs in the township.

The proposal — which would cost an estimated $15,000 — comes as Canton officials weigh several related questions:

- What are the future staffing needs for the police department? Are there enough officers to adequately protect residents and businesses?
- Could Canton successfully switch to a public safety concept, perhaps cross-training police and firefighters to perform some of the same duties?
- Does the township need a new, 23,000-square-foot police station to replace the current inadequate facility, as recommended by a study committee? Is it affordable?

"I want to know what our projected needs will be in five years," Poole said.

OVER THE past two years, several local study groups have recommended both public safety and construction of a new police station. But Poole contends a professional, specialized consultant could weigh all the issues and make a recommendation without vested interest. He estimates the cost for such a study at $15,000-$20,000.

"There have been several studies — some people say there have been too many studies," Poole added. "Why not spend a couple bucks and do it right?"

Poole said he suggested last month that the Township Board consider a new study. No action was taken, but he plans to bring the issue up again.

Meanwhile, the Township Board has tentatively scheduled a special meeting for 7 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 31 to discuss long-range goals for the police department.

"There is no question in my mind about the need for an new police station," Poole said. But the supervisor said he is worried the future needs may not justify a much larger station (the current facility is 5,000 square feet).

"I have heard time after time that we need more police, but I haven't seen it," Poole said. "None of the previous studies have addressed the police organization, structure, functioning, manpower and responsibilities."

INCREASINGLY, COMMUNITIES are considering the idea of cross-training police officers and firefighters to become "public safety officers." Supporters believe it is a means to put more officiers on the street and gain more efficiency for the money.

The concept is being studied in other communities, including Plymouth and Redford. In Canton, committees have also come out in favor of the idea.

The police union has taken no official stand. The firefighters' union is opposed.

In a step toward consolidation, plans call for hiring up to nine civilians in 1984 to create a central dispatch unit encompassing police and fire calls, said Personnel Director Dan Durack. Currently, each unit's officers handle their own dispatching, and officials believe the joint plan is cheaper and would free up officers for other duties.

No other decisions have been made concerning public safety.

That dispatch plan was pegged to go into effect with the opening of a newly constructed police station, Durack said.

BUT THE township board has not yet formally approved a specific construction or funding plan. Construction costs are estimated at $1.9 million. The township lost a bid for a $500,000 federal grant to help pay for the project.

A committee composed of Police Chief Jerry Cox, Chief Building Official Aaron Machnik and Finance Director Mike Gorman conducted a study which determined the current police facility on Geddes is cramped and inadequate. The prisoner lockup has been cited by School millage hike likely

Property owners in the Plymouth-Canton area shouldn't be surprised if a tax increase proposal is placed on the ballot in the June election by the Plymouth-Canton Community School district.

An increase of 1½ to two mills should enable the district to deal with rising costs, Supt. John Hoben said at Monday's school board meeting.

School taxes levied during 1983-84 total 37 mills ($37 per $1,000 of state equalized property value).

"This is the fifth year we've operated without an additional millage," Hoben said. The proposed tax increase would generate $3 million over two years, he said. "Over the five years, we've experience rapid growth in inflation.

"IN THE beginning of that period, we were privileged to see a rapid increase in the SEV (state equalized valuation of property).

"However, the third year out, we had a plateauing of the SEV and a subsequent decline in state aid. Supplemental funds essentially are what we've been living on."

Numerous budget cuts and careful spending have characterized the last five years, he said.

"We've behaved fiscally responsibly over (that period). People of the district have received a good bargain for their money."

RAYMOND HOEDEL, assistant superintendent for business, favored asking for the tax increase in June. "We would be safe in June, because there's no renewal," he said. (While voters will decide several ballot issues in the upcoming June election, tax renewal will not be considered this June.)

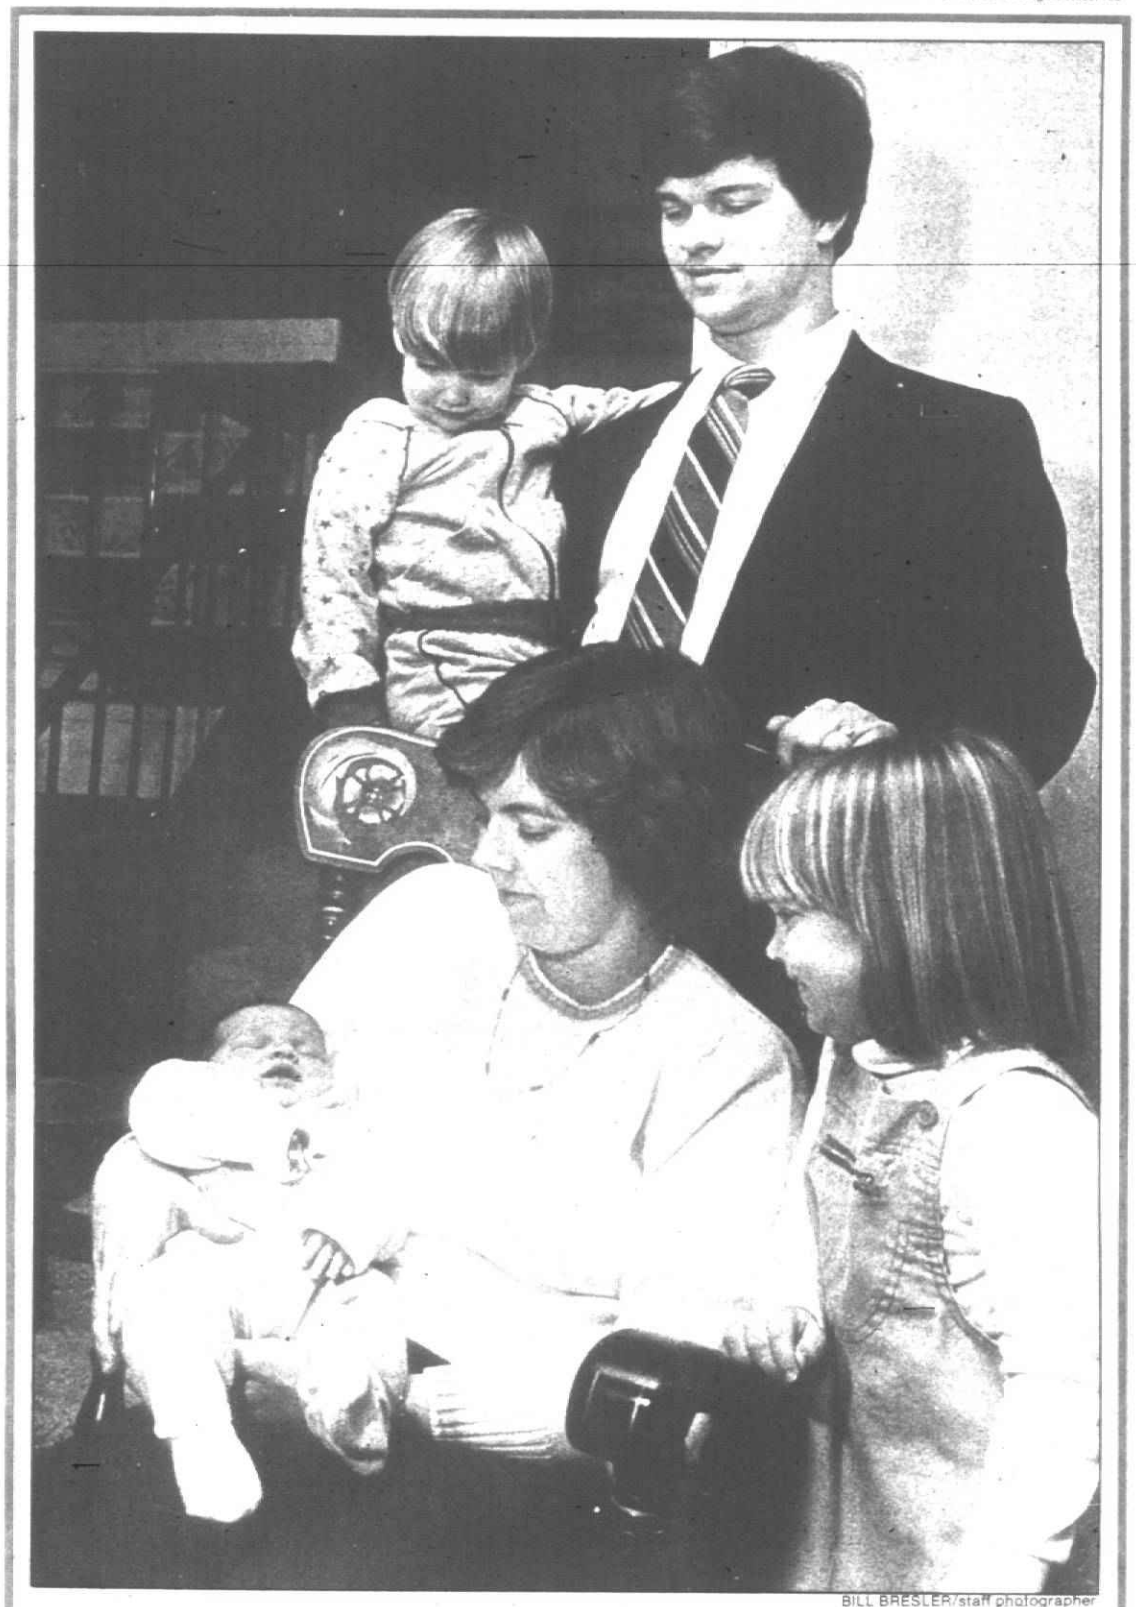

Far-reaching cuts have been made by the district enabling it to operate within its means, Hoben said.

Cuts have been made in special education, athletics, maintenance, the extended school year and the sixth-grade camp program.

Infant Kenneth Michael Dane, sleeping in the arms of his mother, Shirlene, scarcely notices the excitement of being Canton's first-born baby of 1984. Watching proudly are Dad, Richard, Paul, 3, and Jennifer, 4½.

Kenneth wins baby prize

Little Kenneth Michael Dane has achieved distinction very early in life — he's Canton's first baby of 1984.

The eight-pound, 11½ ounce boy was born to Shirlene and Richard Dane at 8:53 a.m. Jan. 1 at Sinai Hospital in Detroit.

The Canton Chamber of Commerce and participating Canton businesses have donated several gifts to get Kenneth off to a good start in life. This is the second year of the Canton First Baby of the Year gift bonanza.

The Dane family moved to Canton from Iowa last October. Richard Dane is a marketing specialist for Difco Laboratories, a medical supplies firm. Shirlene Dane is a full-time homemaker.

Kenneth is the couple's third child. Other siblings are Jennifer, 4½ and Paul, 3.

THE LIST of donors and gifts are as follows:

McDonald's of Canton, gift certificate; Community Federal Credit Union, savings account; Classy Chassis Car Wash, gift certificate; Community Reproductions, gift certificate; and Knight's Inn, gift certificate.

Others are Oakwood Hospital Canton Center, car seat; Plymouth Construction Equipment, gift certificate; Arnoldt Williams Music, gift certificate; Maternity Vogue, baby gift; Gene (Santa) Reaves, knit suit and toy; London Sweep, gift certificate; and Dr. Evan Farres, baby gift.

Additional donors are Stitchery Woods, personalized stitchery item; Mr. Steak, dinner for parents; Willow Creek Dental Clinic, one-month diaper service; Wayne Bank, savings account; State Farm Insurance, baby gift; Judy's Bag Factory, baby gift; Canton Observer, photos of baby and album.

Officials seek cause of fire at Honeytree

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Investigators are probing the cause of a fire Monday which sent heavy black smoke billowing through a 16-unit building at Honeytree Apartments in Canton.

The blaze was reported shortly before 1 p.m. in a building at the rear of the sprawling Honeytree complex, located off Joy Road near Haggerty.

All the residents were evacuated, and none was injured, officials said. Three Honeytree maintenance employees — who helped fight the fire — were treated for smoke inhalation at Oakwood Hospital Canton Center.

"A MAINTENANCE man noticed smoke," said fire Lt. Bill Grady. "The fire was confined to one apartment. The (occupant) had just left."

The fire broke out in a ground-level apartment, officials said. Heavy, dense smoke poured into the second and third floors, said Fire Chief Mel Paulun. The chief estimated damage at $45,000-$50,000.

Carvers to come to park

The solitude of Kellogg Park will be temporarily disrupted tomorrow by the sounds of chain saws.

No, the trees are safe.

Instead the chain saws will be grinding their teeth into blocks of ice, tons of ice, as some of the top chefs and ice sculptors in the area begin the task of carving some 200 ice carvings.

The Ice Sculpture Spectacular in Plymouth will be held Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

Tomorrow's main interest will be watching the sculptors prepare their works of art which will remain on display the next two days.

The ice sculptors will line the streets in the shopping district in town. Within Kellogg Park will be major sculptures using 15 or more larger ice blocks of 400 pounds each.

The major sculptures are being sponsored by Chrysler Corp., E.F. Hutton, Eastern Air Lines, Caesar's Palace, British Airways and the Mayflower Hotel. The festival itself is a joint venture of the city of Plymouth and the Mayflower with Chrysler as the primary sponsor.

Supt. Runkel challenges local school control

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Michigan students can look forward to "a more rigorous curriculum" — particularly in foreign languages — if state school superintendent Philip E. Runkel's proposals are adopted by the state Board of Education, local school districts, colleges and the legislature.

And in a major departure from Michigan's tradition of unchallenged local autonomy, the state board would accredit local school districts.

"Each local district should continue to have jurisdiction over its total curriculum," the report said, "but it seems clear now that the time has come to require by state law certain standards. . . ."

The eight-member state board approved the package Wednesday.

IF LOCAL boards fail to adopt the "recommendations" by 1988, the state board will ask the governor and legislature to require them by law.

"Few states allow as much local control as Michigan," said board member Norman O. Stockmeyer Sr. of Westland as Runkel unveiled a book of 15 recommendations late Tuesday. "This program isn't to give us more work or more power."

"Local autonomy is not an end in itself; it is not a sacred cow," said member John Watanen Jr., a Michigan Technological University professor from Marquette.

"Michigan is one of 15 states out of 50 with no central agency accrediting schools," said member Annetta Miller of Huntington Woods. Although the accrediting plan was last in a 25-page list of recommendations, she considered it the most important.

"The fundamental issue is the needs of students, not who has turf or power," said Runkel, the only superintendent of public instruction in 90 years who has headed major school districts (Grand Rapids and Utica) before reaching the No. 1 state post.

MANY MAJOR recommendations of the two-year plan had been leaked to the press days before this week's board meeting. Recommendations for more emphasis on communications skills, science, math, "hands-on" computer studies, 10 more days per year of classroom work and teacher improvement were well known.

But the released text revealed a heavy emphasis on foreign languages at all levels of schools — elementary, high school and college.

"It's shameful that so many Americans are mono-lingual," said Watanen, the Michigan Tech professor. "How many American businessmen can speak Japanese compared to how many Japanese businessmen can speak English? How many Americans in the Teheran embassy (seized by Iranians in 1979) could speak Parsi? Many nations are bilingual by statute."

"If I were a student in business administration or engineering, I would seek to be bilingual," added board member Edmund Vandette, a Northern Michigan University professor from Houghton.

"It's necessary for peace in the world," said Miller.

An assistant to Runkel noted the state superintendent is a "globalist" who has traveled throughout China and Europe and was once superintendent of the American school in Athens, Greece.

LOCAL SCHOOL boards were asked to:

- "Develop foreign languages at the elementary level. . . based on communications, understanding and foreign language proficiency."
- Encourage college-bound high school students to take "at least two years of a foreign language."

The only academic recommendation made to the state's 13 public colleges and 29 community colleges was in the area of foreign languages. Colleges were advised to "require two years of foreign language instruction or demonstrated proficiency for admission or graduation. Students should be allowed to meet this requirement at either the high school or college level. . . ."

IN SUMMARY, the state board proposed:

- "To improve learning through such steps as strengthening graduation requirements, strengthening preparation for going to college, establishing written student performance standards, and lengthening the school day and school year.
- "To create a better learning environment, a comprehensive school-planning process to address issues of homework, discipline, attendance and dropouts; and funding special programs for gifted and talented and preschool.
- "To strengthen the profession, increased emphasis on professional development, certification and salaries."
- To deliver educational services, "educational structures where school districts join together to provide unique programs.

"Time is important in beginning to make these changes. The turn of the century seems distant, but children born in 1984 could be graduating from high school in the year 2000.

"The time is now, then, to adopt programs and improvements which will prepare Michigan's young people and adults for both today's challenges and those of the new century. This is the aim.

"If the plan's goals are reached, Michigan citizens of the year 2000 can look back on 1984 not as the mind-deadening time protrayed in the novel '1984' but as a time when Michigan took anthoer step forward to nurture the education of all its citizens."

RUNKEL ESTIMATED the cost of the package at $20 million — not counting the longer school day and school year.

"State law requires at least 180 days with 900 hours of classroom instruction, but many educators recall that 200 days of instruction was (sic) more common 15 or 20 years ago in less demanding times," the report said.

The state board will recommend a 200-day school year, with at least 190 for instruction and 10 for professional development and record keeping. No more than five "snow days" could be deducted without makeup time.

Emphasizing the job market, the state board report recommended "students be provided a complete list of course offerings necessary for entry in various occupations."

Winter blahs: Post-holiday blues can be cured by friends, activity

MINDY SAUNDERS/staff photographer

A lone man wades through a snowy field on a chilly January morning. Psychiatrists say wintry weather can increase feelings of sadness and loneliness.

By Mattie Greene
staff writer

EVERY YEAR about this time after holiday reveling, there's a malady that strikes any number of people and is no respecter of race, creed, color or sex. It's called the winter blahs.

Those suffering from winter blahs are easily recognizable. During January and February they're irritable — they snap at their spouses, children and even the dog. A glance at the snow and they complain of being cold. They hate driving in the snow. And, as spring approaches, the symptoms seem to miraculously subside.

Psychiatrists say there are any number of reasons for the winter blahs. It has to do with the weather, unfulfilled expectations and the lack of loved ones during the holiday season. The festiveness of holidays makes it all bearable, but once it's over the blahs may set in.

"The actual feelings of cold, longer nights and the response to the holidays" accounts for the blahs or blues during winter, said Southfield psychiatrist Philip Parker.

Dr. Parker believes that if Christmas came in the summer there wouldn't be quite as many depressed people.

"People have a tendency to associate darkness and cold with being alone and sad," he said. "It's a traditional fear. Add the cold weather to not having supportive relationships with family or friends or not having a enough money to pay bills and a person can become very depressed."

WARMTH HAS ALWAYS been associated with closeness and well-being, stemming from our infant relationships with our mothers, Parker said. A person who perceives everyone else as happy, may have a tendency to feel more alone, he said.

The weather definitely affects the patients of Linda Logsdon, another Southfield psychiatrist. "Bad weather makes my patients feel irritable and feel down when they come into the office," Dr. Logsdon said.

Although the blues may start during the holidays, the real blues usually don't' come until after the holidays. Psychiatric emergencies increase during the holidays but, they surge dramatically in January and February, according to Dr. Beverly Fauman, who specializes in emergency psychiatry and is director of psychiatric education at Sinai Hospital.

> "People are not viewing wintertime in the proper perspective. They see it as a dormant time and try to deny weather as a component, and it's not possible. Planning warm weather activities and having home projects is a way to get away from sadness."
> — Dr. Linda Logsdon

"Emergencies and suicides generally grow out of clinical depression, which is much more serious and long lasting than the holiday blues," she said.

"Important losses are most keenly felt: a divorce, the loss of a loved one, the enforced absence of someone close. It's normal to feel sad when you're thinking about a void in your life while the joy of the season is all around. At the same time, some people are looking ahead with dread at the prospect of a new year, which they fear will bring new problems and woes."

LUCKILY FOR MOST people, the winter blahs is not an incurable disease. Those who treat serious cases of depression, however, are definitely opposed to some common methods used in trying to get rid of the blues. Psychiatrists all say to discard the notion of trying to use chemicals in the form of alcohol (a depressant) and other drugs as home remedies.

"These can only lead to more depressed feelings," warns Dr. Parker, who adds that friends also should be careful of pushing alcohol on lonely friends.

"If you really want to help a friend, be a listening friend rather than tell someone to have a few drinks and feel better."

There are any number of healthy ways to overcome the winter blahs, short of moving to a warmer climate. Many experts agree that it does take a special effort to combat the blues. Logsdon attacks the problem from a mental standpoint.

"People are not viewing wintertime in the proper perspective. They see it as a dormant time and try to deny weather as a component, and it's not possible," Logsdon said. "Planning warm weather activities and having home projects is a way to get away from sadness."

A cold weather person herself, Logsdon advises people to create their own warmth. "This can be a wonderful nurturing time with families and friends coming together inside around the fireplace," she said.

Maintaining a level of physical activity is important, also, according to Logsdon. If you're not a winter sports enthusiast, working out in a gymn will help.

"I WOULDN'T recommend shoveling snow to the point of having a coronary, but that's an activity also."

While Logsdon is perfectly willing to curl up with a book and read on snowy days, Parker likes to go out and build a snowman with his 3-year-old daughter. He suggests other outdoor activities, such as cross country skiing, to will make the weather a friend rather than an enemy.

Parker encourages the lonely to "reach out to another human being."

"This can be in the way of friends, but doing volunteer work and helping others can also be a satisfying way of stilling that inner emptiness that many people feel at this time," he said.

To sum it up, here is a list of blues-chasing reminders:

- Take advantage of the weather.
- Recognize that if you feel down you are not alone.
- Get together with people who make you feel good or who feel good about being with you.
- Talk over feelings with a friend, relative, clergyman or family psychiatrist.
- Set realistic and optimistic limits on your expectations.
- Resist the temptation to drink away sorrows in alcohol.
- If you have children, work with them to create a special gift for their other parent or someone else they love.
- If you are a divorced parent, do your best to see that your child has free access to the other parent.
- Join children and family in enjoying new games and toys.

A fire at Honeytree Apartments served up an unappetizing breakfast of toast and roasted coffee granules for one resident.

Managers of the Honeytree complex called in volunteers from the American Red Cross, who arranged for some residents to be housed in empty units within the complex.

The Red Cross assisted nine families with food, clothing or shelter, said Lynn Lecours, a spokeswoman for Red Cross. Several residents received vouchers for temporary stay at the Mayflower Motel in Plymouth. One received assistance to purchase work supplies destroyed in the fire. Vouchers also were provided for families to be fed at a Clock restaurant in Plymouth.

According to Lecours, the residents were expected to return to their apartments by Wednesday. Honeytree personnel could not be reached for confirmation.

To assist in determining the cause of the blaze, samples of debris were sent for analysis to the Michigan State Police post at Northville, Paulun said.

Five off-duty firefighters were called in to help fight the fire, which was brought under control in a few minutes, Paulun said.

According to fire officials, the units at Honeytree are not equipped with smoke detectors. The apartments were built prior to 1975, when a state law went into effect mandating the safety devices.

School millage hike in the offing

penditures are: $90,000-$115,000 for the Talented and Gifted student program (TAG), $75,000 for an instructional skills program for teachers, more than $200,000 for computers, $45,000 for portable classrooms, $600,000 for the rental of Lowell School, and outlays for textbooks and a library. Less federal aid for alternative education will mean the district will have spend and additional $350,000 in local taxes for the talented and gifted program next year.

Declining enrollment is expected to create further revenue decreases.

A 2.1-percent drop in enrollment of 15,779 (including adult and special education students) is projected for next year.

DURING THE last six years, enrollment declined 2,142 students (13 percent). A 10-percent drop to 14,160 students is predicted by 1988-89.

Kindergarten enrollment is expected to decline from 1,109 this year to 996 in 1988-89.

"I get the feeling we'll need Starkweather and Tanger (schools) to handle the kindergarten population," Hoben said. Both elementary schools have been targeted for possible closure.

Part of any tax increase should be earmarked for the schools' computer program, Trustee Flossie Tonda said.

"If the public feels their kids should have more (computer education,) let them vote for the millage to support it, and set aside money for that project only."

SCHOOL BOARD President Glenn Schroeder said involving the public in the matter would be advisable.

"I would like the public to know we're discussing it, and want them to come here and argue with us."

If made aware of it, many residents would support a small tax increase, added Hoben.

Board OKs 2-year pact for administrators

By a unanimous margin, the Plymouth-Canton school board Monday approved a contract agreement reached by school administrators and district negotiators.

Like teachers in the district, administrators will receive a 3 percent increase for the current school year, and a 6 percent hike in 1984-85. An additional 1 percent will go to higher seniority administrators during the second half of the 1984-85 school year.

Earlier the school board agreed to terms for the first two years but declined the union's proposal for the third year. At that time, the board voted to pay the 3 percent retroactively to administrators before the end of the calendar year.

LIFE INSURANCE coverage also was brought into line with the teachers' revised policies, from $40,000 to $50,000.

"We also agreed to sit down to talk over concerns with regard to fringe benefits in 1984-85 and compare salaries with other districts," Kee said. "Neither side is content with the facts overall."

A possiblity exists the contract agreement could be extended, he added.

"We're seeking ways to determine parameters that could lead to the extension of the contract through 1985-86," he said.

When a tentative agreement was reached in December, the Plymouth Congress of Administrators (PCA) asked for a salary increase in the third year based on administrative pay in 11 nearby districts.

During negotiations the PCA presented the school district with a list of 12 school districts, including Plymouth-Canton, ranked according to salaries paid administrators. Plymouth ranked 12th on that list.

While the school board expressed a desire to improve the relative position of Plymouth-Canton, it backed away from making a firm commitment to move the district out of 12th place on the list. The list includes districts such as Livonia, Wayne-Westland, Walled Lake, and Redford Union.

The PCA is a union representing principals, assistant principals, area coordinators, some directors, and other managers but does not represent central office administration.

The PCA was the last union in the district this year to reach an agreement with the school board.

Supervisor pushes $15,000 police study the state Department of Corrections for safety hazards.

"The original timetable was the end of this year," Durack said. "If we don't do that, or if we don't have a new building, we have to remodel the old building."

The joint dispatch plan must be negotiated with the police and fire unions, since it represents a change in contractual working conditions, Durack said.

Although Poole is not entirely convinced there is a need for higher police staffing, police officials insist Canton has too few officers for the population and size of the community.

Currently, Canton has 34 sworn officers (including the chief) to cover 36 square miles and serve 50,000 residents.

According to a police study, made two years ago, Canton has a police ratio of .62 officers per 1,000 population. In numbers, that translates to one officer for every 1,612 residents.

By comparison, Westland and Garden City have ratios of .91 and 1.2 officers per 1,000 residents, respectively, according to the report.

Bell: breaking up is hard to do

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Before you start pulling your hair out over increased basic rate fees and bulkier monthly telephone bills, keep in mind the changes offer users options in customizing their service, according to Michigan Bell spokesmen.

"People have more choices than they ever did, and once they put the confusing part out of the way, people will start to see the benefits," according to Len Singer, Michigan Bell media relations manager.

Since the court ordered the American Telephone and Telegraph (AT&T) break-up that went into effect Jan. 1, the average bill has grown from four to eight pages.

Even though basic rate charges are doubled in most cases, cost conscience consumers now may make more decisions that will affect the "total amount due" on their bills.

ONE OPTION is weighing the benefits and costs between buying and renting your phone. The cheapest AT&T renting rate is $1.50 a month, and you can purchase the unit for as low as $19.95. Renting the phone for less than 14 months will more than pay for the cost of buying a unit.

Michigan Bell still is responsible for repairing wire problems at no charge to all customers.

However, if you own the phone you're responsible for maintenance, and if you're renting from AT&T the company provides the service free of charge.

Phone owners should beware before calling Michigan Bell for service.

"If the customer insists that the problem is not in the phone and is in the wire, but (the service person) finds the problem is in the phone, then they're charged $40, and they won't actually fix the phone," Singer said.

One way to determine if the malfunction is in the unit is to test it by plugging it in a different jack.

Users who make long distance calls have other options. Michigan Bell still will provide all local calls for people in southeastern Michigan making 313 long distance calls. However, calls made outside that area code may be serviced by other companies like AT&T, MCI, Sprint and Lexitel.

Customers looking for the best deal should shop around to find ideal rates for the types of long distance calls they are apt to make. The West-Northwest telephone directory lists these companies telephone numbers on page 820.

In September 1984, customers will be asked which service they want as their primary long distance company. Telephone users who don't commit to any particular company will be assigned one at random, Singer said.

Therefore, by dialing the number one you will receive the service from your primary long distance company, and the other companies may be used by dialing special codes before the telephone number.

Prescription costs cut for jobless

Recently laid-off workers and their families in Wayne County who qualify may obtain prescription medications and primary health care at a reduced cost.

The Central Health Services Referral Network, 833-0550, counsels and advises the recently unemployed and their families about necessary medical care, through referrals to more than 350 participating physicians.

Established in 1981, the referral network is comprised of a voluntary panel of physicians, community service organizations and area hospitals which have agreed to provide low-cost health care. Project coordinator is Andree Keneau of the Greater Detroit Health Council Inc.

THE REFERRAL networks are open 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. weekdays. After hours and on weekends, there are two toll-free numbers where calls are answered, 1-800-624-9640 or 1-800-552-1183.

Eligibility criteria are:

- Resident of southeastern Michigan.
- Recently laid-off from work.
- Head of the house is unemployed.
- No third-party health coverage (Medicaid, Medicare or General Assistance) and unable to pay for health care services due to loss of employment caused by the recent economic crisis.

THE DISCOUNT prescription program, funded entirely by the federal government, will run until Sept. 30, 1984, or until funds are exhausted.

All prescription drugs are included, except diet and fertility medications, and will be filled with generic equivalents wherever possible.

No "over-the-counter" drugs are covered, except insulin. Patients are responsible for a percentage of the cost of each drug but will not pay less than $2 per prescribed drug.

Smaller houses to suit needs

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A new kind of house buyer, with a pent-up demand, will force builders to put up smaller houses, many of them in "cluster" developments.

That forecast came from leaders of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM) this week. They cheerfully predicted building twice the number of units as in 1983 though only half as many as in the peak year of 1978.

"New people demand a different kind of housing," said Paul Robertson Jr. of Robertson Brothers, headquartered in Bloomfield Township. "It's a matter of demographics. We have a new profile couple.

"IN 1950 something like 63 percent were the traditional 'Leave It to Beaver' families — father working, mother taking care of the kids.

"In 1984 only 16 percent are traditional families. The other 84 percent are different," said Robertson, first vice president of BASM. He finds more working couples and fewer children.

"Buyers don't need the four-bedroom, 2½-bath house with a den."

"The five-bedroom house is almost unmarketable," added Dennis P. Dickstein of Ralph Manuel Associates of Birmingham."

Builders agreed the three-bedroom house will be most in demand and that the two-bedroom unit, once considered unmarketable, will be a safe buy.

A MAJOR complaint of past years — tight building restrictions, particularly in Canton Township — was voiced more softly this year.

BASM President Richard Roeser said the association would "continue to plaee increased emphasis on working with state and local legislative bodies to modify the various ordinances and statutes . . . which are restrictive and unreasonable and result in adding costs which do not make for better housing — only more expensive housing."

But when asked if they had made any progress in the last year, Robertson reported "a dramatic change" in the attitude of local governments. "Our company is in four different municipalities — Beverly Hills, Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills and Bloomfield Township. They have adopted cluster ordinances which allow higher densities.

"There has been an easing of zoning ordinances for single-family detached dwellings on 80-, 90- or 100-foot lots.

"West Bloomfield Township has a cluster ordinance, too. It's coming, and coming pretty rapidly," said Robertson, adding, "I can't speak for Canton Township."

OTHER PREDICTIONS and observations by the BASM's officers:

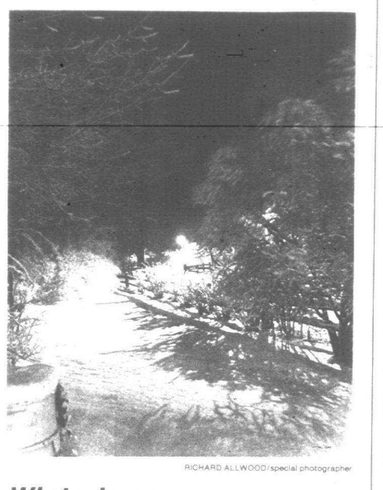

- Most popular price ranges will be "low" ($80,000 to $80,000) and high ($150,000 and up). Prices have been stable in the last year, although some drywall shortages could result in increases for that material.
- Many of the older, more skilled building tradesmen stayed in the tri-county region through the recession. "We see more personal and direct responsibility on the part of the worker. The general worker today cares," said Robert R. Jones of Robert R. Jones Associates.
- Hot market spots will be Troy, Novi, Avon Township, Bloomfield Township and Sterling Heights in Oakland County and Livonia in Wayne County.
- Nearly 10,000 building permits will be issued in the metropolitan area, double the nearly 5,000 in 1983 and far more than the bottom 1,742 permits in 1982. But they are "a long way from what is normal production," said Roeser, defining normal as the 20,000 units started during 1978.
- Consumer confidence is high. Many young couples have been doubling up with parents and want their own home. Apartment owners have low vacancy rates, a sign that many who have been renting will want to move to a house. The 40,000 "Homerama" show visitors have been visibly enthusiastic.
- Brick will continue to be costly. Buyers will see blends of masonry, wood and other materials.
- Although no numbers were available, Roeser said a "surprising number of builders survived (the four-year recession) — a lot more than any of us anticipated." Added Irvin Yackness, BASM's general counsel, "Many builders diversified into small offices, commercial buildings, remodeling and rehabilitation."

THE CLOUD hanging over the building industry, Roeser said, is the high interest rates caused by the nearly $200-billion federal deficit, which soaks up credit that could otherwise go into housing mortgages.

Roeser predicted unless Congress and the Reagan Administration reduce the deficit, the prime interest rate could soar again to more than 20 percent.

"Unfortunately, during an election year, nobody in political office likes to talk about cutting spending or increasing taxes," Roese said.

Economists seem split on whether interest rates will rise or fall during 1984, but Roeser said, "Personally, I think we have reached a plateau and that there will be no significant movement either up or down during 1984."

EPA seeks repair of cars damaged by bad gas

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Suburban gasoline blenders say they're astounded and confused as they face tough negotiations with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in an effort to avoid a total of $550,000 in threatened fines.

They say they're getting mixed signals from the state and federal government about their blends of gasoline and alcohol. They don't know whether the governments want them in business or not.

"They might as well wipe out the industry," shrugged a Southfield member of the 2½-year-old association who asked not to be named.

He complained that the state and federal governments at first encouraged blended gasoline by reducing taxes on it. "They've led these little guys on, and now you say 'if you haven't crossed the t's and dotted the i's, we're going to cut you down.' Michigan's gonna go from first in this business to zero," he said.

JOSEPH CANNON, EPA assistant administrator for air and radiation, announced at a news conference Friday that EPA has issued notices to 17 blenders that the gasoline they have been selling to retailers contains too much ethanol and/or too much methanol.

"The improper use of alcohol potentially gives the violator a price advantage over his law-abiding competitor," said Cannon, who came from Washington to make the announcement at a news conference near Metropolitan Airport.

"We do not believe the problem is a critical one yet. Most fuels do not contain improper amounts of alcohol. We are determined, though, to nip it in the bud to prevent it becoming a critical situation."

Cannon said EPA officials took fuel samples at 250 stations in southeastern Michigan and charged 17 blenders for sales to 43 retail gasoline stations. EPA is asking a fine of $10,000 per offense — a total of $550,000 for 55 alleged offenses.

The metropolitan Detroit area is the first place in the country where this has been done, he said.

ACTUALLY, Cannon said, EPA wants to negotiate with the blenders for "remedial activities" and repair of cars that have been damaged by using fuels with too high levels of alcohol.

If negotiations are unsuccessful, he said, EPA will turn the cases over to the U.S. Justice Department. Prosecutors then will seek civil penalties of $10,000 per offense in federal court.

Cannon invited consumers who believe their vehicles have been damaged by use of gasoline with too much alcohol to contact either the city of Detroit consumer affairs department at 833-7793 or the state Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division in Lansing at (517) 373-1140.

ONE BLENDER stood up in the news conference to complain the EPA charge is unfair. He was Milan Grubor of Grubor Enterprise, Southfield. EPA charges he sold gasoline with too much methanol to five dealers in Detroit and Lincoln Park last March and April.

Grubor thought the charges were ill-founded in three ways:

- He is charged with blending with excess amounts of methanol, "but my records indicate I used ethanol, not methanol. I have not ever used methanol."
- He suggested he is being blamed for the sins of others. For example, Grubor is charged in connection with sales to Zoom Gas Co. of Lincoln Park last April 2 and 15. "I don't recall selling any gas to them in that period . . . I don't supply any of those locations 100 percent," he said.
- EPA made its highly publicized charge without visiting his office to check his records. He said he had no warning of the complaint. "They just send me a letter the other day. I have to negotiate a settlment."

Grubor predicted devastating effects on business for him and other blenders, at least for a few weeks.

THE INDUSTRY representative said the association was formed at the suggestion of the Michigan Department of Agriculture in response to the energy crisis and America's heavy dependence on the unstable Middle East for oil.

"It started because we didn't have enough product," he said. "We imported 33 percent of our oil four or five years ago. Now we import only 18 or 19 percent.

"We estimated a demand for 350 million gallons (in Michigan) last year. Instead we sold 450 million gallons."

He said the state tax on blended gasoline is 4 cents below the regular gasoline tax while the federal tax is 5 cents lower, suggesting a falloff in taxes prompted the crackdown.

This 'doctor' makes house calls

By Penny Wright
special writer

Most doctors treat patients with bandages, pills and hypodermic syringes.

Dell Schott cures his ailing patients with shots of caulking compound, bands of weather-stripping, and selected doses of insulation.

Schott is a new breed of energy conservation professional called a "house doctor." His mission is to go into a "sick," heat-leaking house, diagnose how the heat is escaping and administer on-the-spot cures.

The house doctor concept provides a new alternative to the widely available utility home energy audits.

"THE MAIN difference between the utility company energy audit and our visit is that we deal in remedies," said Schott, who is with Princeton Energy Partners in Troy.

Remedies may include sealing plumbing pipe penetrations, furnace tuneups, and installation of such energy saving devices as set-back thermostats and flue dampers.

"We want to avoid giving homeowners a list of things to do," Schott emphasized. "We do the work to assure the quality of repairs and the energy savings."

The house doctor approach to home energy conservation was hatched in the early '70s by a Princeton University research team. Its studies revealed a big difference between theoretical models of a home's heat loss and what actually was being wasted.

The solution: Send a specially trained team, equipped with the latest heat-sensing gear into a home and maximize energy savings.

"THE SPECIALIZED equipment allows me to find areas of heat loss overlooked by other audits," Schott said.

Typically, Schott will use a large fan, called a "blower door," to depressurize the house. Then, aided by an infrared viewer that senses surface temperatures, he will locate cracks and insulation bypasses which allow outside air to infiltrate the house.

"Due to the nature of the construction, houses in this area will lead three-quarters to one air change per hour," he said. In layman's terms, it means nearly all the volume of air in a house would be exchanged with new air every hour.

According to Schott, these air infiltration losses account for 40 percent of the heating bill. His efforts are concentrated on plugging these air leaks or "shell tightening."

HOW EFFECTIVE is the visit in reducing energy bills?

"In most cases, we can save 15 to 25 percent of the total utility bill," said Schott. "Generally, the savings pay back the cost — $450 to $500 for an average size home — in two years or less.

A key element to the house doctor approach is completing the conservation work during the visit.

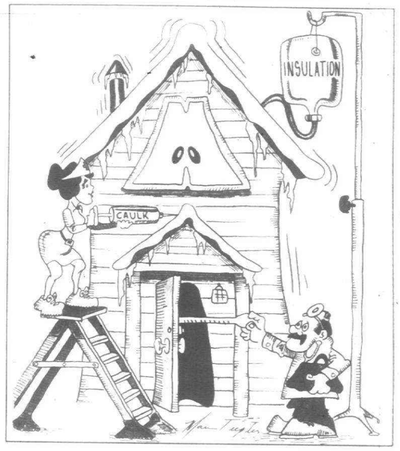

Another version of this work-type home energy audit is offered by the Ecology Center in Ann Arbor. And the concept is spreading to county governments.

Funded by federal community development block grants, the Ecology Center conducts free home visits to qualifying low to moderate-income people. The visit places high priority on training the homeowner to fix identified heat loss problems.

JIM FREY, Ecology Center staff coordinator, believes more energy savings occur when people are shown the techniques of making conservation modifications. "It's easy to say 'do it,' but we go in and say, 'This is HOW you do it,'" said Frey.

Based on the Ann Arbor plan, Wayne County offers free home conservation workshops for low-income households. Workshop participants apply energy-saving cures to a selected home.

At the conclusion of the session, attendees are given a packet of materials to apply to their own heat loss problems. Information about this program can be obtained by calling the Wayne County Energy Service office at 843-2550.

Class aids kin of disabled

Parent Awareness, a free 10-week course for families of people with developmental disabilities, is being offered by Delta College in the headquarters of the Oakland Intermediate School District, 2100 Pontiac Lake Road, Pontiac.

Beginning Jan. 24, the course is geared for parents, legal guardians, foster parents, family members and other caring individuals interested in learning how to work with developmental disabilities.

The class will meet Tuesdays from 7-9 p.m. in room 315, according to instructor Carol N. Kent, Ed.D. She may be contacted for registration information at 683-2054.

Practical skills will be taught to enable one to work with school, social and medical professionals. New child management and family relations skills will be presented and legal rights of the family and the developmentally disabled person will be reviewed.

Also included in the course will be basic information on developmental disabilities, financial concerns, guardianship and services available in your community, IEP's, social skills, sexual behaviors and living and working alternatives.

OUR NEW IRA PROGRAM GIVES YOU A HANDLE ON MORE THAN INTEREST RATES.

At First of America, our new IRAs offer you investment options with a full range of maturities, from three months to 5 years. That gives you more control over changing interest rates. And helps your IRA earn more money. But that's just the beginning.

Start an IRA with our low minimum deposit.

Another reason to start your IRA at First of America is our low minimum deposit requirement. And you can open an IRA at First of America even if you already have a retirement plan where you work.

It's easy to save for your retirement with an IRA. Because you never pay taxes on your principal or interest until you retire and withdraw from your account. By then, you'll probably be in a much lower tax bracket.

Each year, the money you put into your IRA is deductible from your taxable income. Currently, you can deduct up to $2,000 per year if you file individually, and up to $2,250 if you file a joint return with a non-working spouse who also has an IRA.

What's more, your IRA at First of America gives you the protection of FDIC insurance. So your IRA is safe and secure, insured up to $100,000 per depositor.

With more than 200 convenient, full service offices across Michigan, First of America offers you a variety of flexible IRA investment options at competitive rates.

And that's a great way to save for your retirement and shelter funds from taxes, year after year.

Get our line on a great retirement.

For more information on IRAs, drop by or call your nearby First of America bank.

When we work together, our new IRA program gives you a handle on more than interest rates. It gives you our line on a great retirement.
Substantial interest penalty is required for early withdrawal.

CHRONIC PAIN SYNDROME

"I've had back pain for so long I can hardly stand it anymore," recently said a patient. "It's stiff and sore the minute I wake up, loosens up somewhat after I'm up a while and by the end of the day is terribly sore again. Pain pills and muscle relaxers don't help any more."

These are the words of many patients before they try spinal manipulation. In this article I want to discuss why pain gets chronic and what can be done about it.

Injury to the tissue of the spine can take longer than normal time to heal if the patient is obese, continues working in an occupation that aggravates the original injury, has improper rest, poor body conditioning and poor posture.

As the pain gets chronic, it appears to be of far greater intensity than the original injury and can gradually lead to hysteria, paranoia about health, mood changes and depression.

Predisposing factors are alcohol, physical abuse, drug abuse and inability to handle stress. Many of these patients have had months and years of effort to obtain help through various therapies and techniques.

The most effective treatment program is holistic. This includes specific exercises, nutrition, manipulation, and an additional shift of hopelessness and helplessness to that of self-worth and positive belief.

Chronic pain affects you mentally and emotionally, affecting your heart rate and blood pressure. It affects your stomach causing ulcers and spastic colon. It affects breathing causing asthma and bronchial spasm, and it always affects the neuromuscular skeletal system causing more tension and pain. These negative emotions cause pain and the pain in turn causes negative emotion and it will continue in that cycle unless and until you decide to take an action step. Quit trying to just treat symptoms with drugs which lead to dependency and addiction. Start working with your body's ability to get well and make up your mind to get well.

The holistic approach with chiropractic is the safest and most effective approach you could try. Why not give us a call today. Listen to your body. That pain is nature telling you to do something.

Breen reins in galloping bronco

Gary M. Cates

You'll have to forgive Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen if he seems a little excited these days. To avoid being dramatic, I'll simply say he did the impossible last week by coralling the proposed multi-million dollar Supersewer spin-off project.

In five months, Breen has busted a wild bronco which has run rampant for more than 18 years. Now, with the bridle in place and the reins in his hand, Breen will attempt to ride that mischievous maverick.

For more than 18 years the bronco, known as Supersewer, has wreaked havoc throughout the western suburbs. Spurred on by the need for additional sewer capacity, the communities have planned and re-planned the project numerous times.

Communities which were afraid of being tossed for a financal loss, such as Plymouth and Canton townships, were forced to go along for the ride. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) threatened to cut off development in the communities if they didn't participate.

THAT RIDE was costly. Plymouth and Canton townships alone pumped some $1 million into the planning. And, the constant changing of the game plan took its toll on the communities' confidence that the project would become a reality.

Then, just when construction was coming into sight, a new cowboy came on the scene. James Blanchard was elected governor.

In what many consider a bow to political pressure from Detroit, the project was split in two last July. The south end (mostly downriver communities) is continuing with a down-sized version of Supersewer, while the north end is designing a parallel sewer system to Detroit's wastewater treatment plant.

The split left the north end out in the cold. All the monies the northern communities pumped into the Supersewer plans has been lost. And in July, they faced a bill for designing the plan.

It was at this point Breen decided to take the bull by the horns. He obtained verbal assurances from the DNR that a $3.8 million cash advance would pay for the new design work.

BASED ON the theory that whoever holds the purse strings calls the shots, Breen wanted control of the $3.8 million. However, he knew it wouldn't be an easy battle for the money.

Wayne and Oakland counties, as well as Detroit, had their eyes on the money. Arguments were made that Plymouth Township didn't have the ability to administer the cash advance. The counties pleaded with the DNR for a "pass through" — Plymouth Township would receive the money and then pass it directly to the county.

But Breen is a tough hombre. He applied pressure on the DNR by filing notices of intent to sue for the lost Supersewer monies. Needless to say, the threatened litigation got everyone's attention. The counties and Detroit signed off on the money.

Friday, Breen received a check for the $3.8 million. And, surprisingly enough, he never signed away his right to file the lawsuit for the Supersewer monies — leaving his "ace in the hole" intact.

WITH THE money in his hands, Breen now is calling the shots. The western communities don't have to worry about the design money running out after Detroit's end of the project is drawn.

And because the $3.8 million will be deducted from construction grant money (thus raising the project costs to local communities), Breen isn't determined to spend the whole sum.

"If we don't have to eat it all up, it's to our benefit down the line," he says.

Besides that, Plymouth Township can keep the interest on the money while it sits in the bank — which could turn out to be a healthy sum. Not a bad move for a guy the counties said couldn't administer the funds.

But holding the purse strings isn't Breen's only hold on the reins. He's taking the whole project onto a turf where he's a expert — the courts.

BEFORE THE project can go forward, all the participating communities need to sign service agreements. Plymouth and Canton townships are withholding their signatures until Federal District Court Judge John Feikens reviews the plans (on behalf of the Detroit treatment plant).

As Breen puts it, without Feikens becoming involved, there's no guarantee Detroit can handle the increased sewage. Not to mention that federal court involvement will help insure the project's completion.

The project isn't history yet; there's still some battles to be fought. But the good news for western Wayne County is that Breen is riding high in the saddle going into those battles.

Your town — tomorrow's core?

MOST OF US like to believe we live in a classless society, where every mother can hope that someday her child will grow up to be president.

That may be a myth, according to Robert Fish, a researcher at Wayne State University. Fish works in the Bureau of Business Research in the School of Business Administration.

He recently wrote an economic report entitled, "Detroit Suburbs and City." Fish spent many hours studying the 1980 census — specifically, areas of population, housing, manufacturing and retail trade.

Using several economic indicators, he divided our part of suburban Detroit into class sectors:

- Upper class: Bloomfield Township, Farmington Hills, West Bloomfield Township, Birmingham, Troy, Avon Township, Canton Township and Plymouth Township.
- Upper middle class: Southfield, Livonia and Redford Township.
- Lower middle class: Garden City and Westland.

FISH'S THEORY is that socioeconomic groups reside in distinct areas, which he calls sectors. Each sector consists of a collection of adjacent municipalities that share a major transportation corridor.

According to Fish, the key to knowing your place on the class scale is the value of your house.

"Value of residence is a direct and visible indication of family income," he said.

Thus, Fish determined a ratio for comparing the values of houses in metropolitan Detroit. He calculated the value of the average house and gave it a factor of 1.0. House value ratios in the Observer & Eccentric area range from 1.11 in Garden City and Westland to 2.93 for Bloomfield Township.

Fish used other information in the 1980 census data including the year a house was built and occupations of residents.

Guided by transportation corridors, sectors move continuously from the core of Detroit, he found. "High income families eventually desire new, improved housing, and these houses will be built on open land surrounding the urban area."

Houses vacated by high income families are acquired by middle income families, who want relatively newer housing. Low income families move into formerly middle income areas.

At the end of the chain is the central core. It is dotted with vacant houses and lots.

UNFORTUNATELY, WHAT Fish theorizes seems to be real. Take a drive through the central city of Detroit if you doubt it.

For suburbanites, there is little comfort in Fish's sector theory. Tomorrow your suburban city may be today's central core.

As an example, the 1980 census showed fewer suburbanites working in downtown Detroit than in 1970. Major corporations shifted their offices to places like Southfield and Troy.

Fish predicts that people working in Southfield and Troy will move north and commute via I-75 and M-24 (to Troy) and the proposed extension of M-275 and I-696 (to Southfield).

Fish projects a new upper class sector may be created in the Clarkston-Lake Orion area.

RUNNING AWAY to more remote suburban areas is no solution to urban ills. Problems will only follow. One suburb's growth comes at the expense of another suburb closer to Detroit.

A better response is to stay and solve the problems.

Suburbanites who want to put on mental blinders and ignore the problems of Detroit had better think about Fish's findings.

Schools don't count; but families often do

REACTION FROM educators was swift and predictable. As soon as U.S. Secretary of Education T.H. Bell's report hit the wires, they were asking for more money — particularly from the federal government.

"We need more money to improve education," intoned Mary H. Futrell, president of the National Education Association.

A "national equalization program" was called for by Paul Salmon, executive director of the American Society of School Administrators.

"Propaganda," Scott Widmeyer of the American Federation of Teachers scoffed at the Bell report. "I don't think the public will buy the Reagan line that money doesn't buy excellence.

Bell's report last week showed that American College Test (ACT) scores, used as college admissions tests, dropped in all 50 states between 1972 and 1982. In the same period, school dropout rates rose.

His department's numbers supported the "A Nation at Risk" contention that American education is suffering from "a rising tide of mediocrity."

MORE MONEY solve educational problems? Consider three other states and Michigan:

- Idaho — 37th in teacher salaries, 44th in per-pupil spending on schools, but tied for 10th in ACT scores.
- South Dakota — 47th in teacher salaries, 43rd in per-pupil spending, 8th on the ACT.
- New Hampshire — a dismal 48th in teacher salaries, 28th in per-pupil spending but first on the ACT.
- Michigan — a soaring third in teacher salaries, 19th in per-pupil spending (due to large class sizes), and below Idaho South Dakota and New Hampshire in ACT scores.

One could build a case that reducing teacher salaries would lead to better student test scores, that Michigan's soaring property taxes have brought us only fat teacher salaries and no results.

BUT THAT wouldn't be true. High spending on schools will neither guarantee good test score nor fatten teachers into indolence.

That is because schools are only one instrument of education, and not necessarily the most important.

Back before 1970 when he was a presidential counselor, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York said, "Schools don't count; families do."

In 1984 school officials in Idaho, New Hampshire and South Dakota said much the same. They credited parent involvement, community involvement, discipline and a lack of "large industrial state" problems for their high scores.

Underline "parent involvement" about 19 times and circle it in red.

SCHOOLS TOOK too much credit when test scores were rising, dropout rates falling and increasing percentages of kids went to college.

Bell's department now needs to correlate test scores and dropout rates to such sociological factors as the illegitimate birth rate (50 percent in some big city neighborhoods) and the breakup of families. That would be a bombshell.

Clearly, there is a correlation between single-parent families, poverty, Michigan's rising welfare budgets and declining state budget shares for education.

A good guess is that the data will show what we perceive as an "education problem" is less a "schools problem" than a "families problem."

And it won't be solved by adjusting tax money for schools — either up or down.

— Tim Richard

Three sports friends pass on

W.W. Edgar

THE OLD Guard passes. Time goes marching on.

Three times during the yuletide season, while folks were awaiting the arrival of Santa Claus and ushering in the New Year, The Stroller was advised of the passing of long-time friends.

First was Al Watrous, the retired golf pro who served for years at Oakland Hills Country Club. Then a few days later came word from Houston that Jimmy Demaret, the fashion plate among the pros who served for a time at Plum Hollow Country Club, was the victim of a heart attack.

Then came the shocker. Willis Ward, the Wayne County probate judge and first black man ever to play football at the University of Michigan, suffered a fatal heart attack.

All three of these friends have left lasting memories with The Stroller, who had many a good time or a good laugh with each.

YEARS AGO, when he was the golf writer at the Detroit Free Press, he had occasion to visit often with Watrous, and each visit was a producer of laughs.

It was Watrous who attempted to make a golfer out of The Stroller. But after watching him with a club in his hands and in the middle of a lesson, Watrous stopped, walked over and told The Stroller he had one bad fault:

"You stand too close to the ball — after you hit it."

But that was only the beginning of a friendship that lasted through the years.

Between the two of us, the strangest golf meet in Detroit and environs history was written into the records. We learned the toughest holes in the area and named them in order. Then we invited the pros to play them in order, too.

Only two responded. Jack Winney of Redford and Bob Sutherland of Sylvan Glen. The match covered several hundred miles back and forth across the district and didn't end until nightfall. Watrous always claimed it was the craziest event in which he ever took part.

DEMARET WAS another great pro to drop in on for a visit.

Besides his smile, he was noted for always wearing a knitted tam. He never would tell where he got them.

One day The Stroller learned that Demaret's mother-in-law made them and forced him to wear them. The Stroller printed the story. Next time the golf scribes visited Plum Hollow for the monthly jamboree, Demaret stopped play at the first tee. He pulled a tam over The Stroller's head and announced:

"My mother-in-law demands that you wear it."

The Stroller still has that tam among his treasures.

ONE OF THE nicest athletes a fellow could meet was Willis Ward, when he earned his place on the Michigan football team in the years when Gerald Ford, later congressman and president, was captain of the Maize and Blue.

Aside from being a legend in Michigan football, he also was a track star and once outran Jesse Owens, the all-time great.

The thing for which he is best remembered was his qualifying in 1936 for the United States Olympic team. Having satisfied himself that he had made the team, he refused to go to Germany for the games because of his dislike for Adolph Hitler.

The news of Ward's unexpected death was a complete shock, for The Stroller had the honor of inducting him into the Michigan Amateur Sports Hall of Fame. His acceptance speech was the finest ever delivered in Hall of Fame ceremonies.

The Stroller feels all the richer because he knew them as close friends.

Tax-cut proponents have no cost-cut plans

Bob Wisler

SENATE REPUBLICAN Leader John Engler of Mt. Pleasant was on the campaign trail this week when he predicted the state Legislature will pass a bill to lower the state's personal income tax rate.

Engler based his prediction on Republicans winning two state Senate seats vacated by the recalls of Democrats Philip Mastin and David Serotkin.

His theory is that Republicans will control the Senate 20-18 and that the Democratic majority in the House won't matter because state representatives are up for re-election this year, and even Democrats can be expected to jump on a tax-cut bandwagon in order to assure re-election.

The Senate Republican leader assumes, probably accurately, that legislators believe there is no greater evil than not being re-elected.

IN FACT, IF legislators could have known what kind of uproar would follow their approving the state tax hike in March, Gov. James J. Blanchard probably would have failed to convince them to pass it.

But at this point, Engler's dangling the carrot of a tax cut before the voting public is little more than a calculated political maneuver designed to improve GOP chances of victory in the two open Senate districts.

His promise to lighten the load of taxpayers is not accompanied by any statement concerning how the Legislature, or the state government, can cut the budget to make up for a revenue decrease.

Engler claims that because of a surplus the state can cut a half-percent of the now 6.1-percent tax without any cut in services or expenditures. The surplus, however, can easily be used up making up the deficits incurred by previous administrations.

The tax rate which went up from 4.6 to 6.35 in March recently dropped to 6.1 and is set to drop to 5.35 next year.

BLANCHARD, WHO inherited a host of fiscal problems from former Gov. William Milliken and from a devastating recession, has said the tax increase was absolutely necessary for the state to continue to provide the services people expect.

Whether you can agree with Blanchard's premise or not, at least he has provided supporting documentation and has accompanied his tax increase request with decreases in state spending and state employees.

The Legislature, despite having had almost a year to come up with alternatives, continues to operate without any clear ideas for getting a handle on state spending.

ENGLER SAID recently that Republicans plan to make education a 1984 campaign issue. The entire state education program was aided by the tax increase engineered by Blanchard, but there is scant evidence that either Blanchard or the Legislature is moving to hold the line on education costs.

There is little evidence that the Legislature or the governor is doing anything either to control the state's most voracious monster, the Department of Social Services.

While it is understandable that politicians will say what the public wants to hear, we should expect that any political promise of a premature tax cut be accompanied by a clear program for reducing state expenditures without abandoning essential programs.

The lack of such a program indicates more political rhetoric. Such rhetoric may win votes, but it doesn't lead to fiscal responsibility.

State bar: 'No limitation' on judges' accountability

The Representative Assembly of the State Bar of Michigan insisted Saturday in Lansing that there must be no "statute of limitations" on serious wrongdoing by judges in Michigan.

The 150-member assembly, policy-making body of the bar, specifically exempted actions which would amount to felonious conduct during consideration of a proposed three-year statute of limitations on minor misconduct by judges.

The bar action came in a recommendation to the Michigan Supreme Court that general court rules governing operations of the Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission be amended. It was one of 11 recommendations.

The assembly also recommended to the Supreme Court a new and more — stringent set of ethical principles for lawyers — the ABA Model Rules of Professional Conduct, with Michigan amendments.

What you should do and who you should call when your phone's in a fix.

It isn't very often that you need to deal with telephone repairs, but when you do, you want them taken care of as fast as possible. Now that Michigan Bell has separated from AT&T, there are some changes in the way repair problems are handled.

We have some suggestions for you on how to identify your phone repair problems so that you can get them handled as quickly as possible. But first it's important to know who will make specific telephone repairs. For example, effective January 1, 1984:

1. AT&T assumed ownership of the phones Michigan Bell had been providing you for a monthly fee. AT&T will continue to lease those phones to you and will offer repair services.
2. AT&T will also offer repair service for phones that you purchased from Michigan Bell prior to January 1, 1984.
3. Michigan Bell will continue to service and repair the lines that lead to your home or business.

Now let's talk about how you can tell if it's your phone that needs repairing or your phone lines.

Here's how:

☑ If you have plug-in or modular service, make sure all of your phones are properly plugged in.

☑ Check all phones for physical damage or frayed cords. If you find damage, it's probably an instrument problem.

☑ If you have more than one telephone, check them all for a dial tone. If you don't hear a dial tone on any of the phones, you may have a line problem. If you do hear a dial tone on at least one phone, the problem is probably in one of your other instruments.

☑ If you determine that the trouble is isolated to one instrument at one location, and you have modular service, try that instrument at another outlet or possibly at a neighbor's (if both you and your neighbor have similar one-party service). If the instrument works at another location, the problem may be with a specific outlet. If the instrument does not work at another phone outlet, the problem is probably with the instrument.

☑ If you have only one phone and it does not appear to be damaged, but cannot be moved to another outlet for testing, call Michigan Bell Repair Service. We will help you determine whether you have an equipment or line problem.

We suggest you clip and save the following phone numbers and keep them near your telephone.

LINE PROBLEMS... On all line problems, call the appropriate Michigan Bell Telephone Repair Service:
Residence 221-2121

AT&T INSTRUMENT PROBLEMS...
Residence 1 800 555-8111
Residence Key 1 800 526-2000
Business Single Line: In area code 313 call 1 800 992-3??3
In area codes 517, 616, and 906 call 1 800 248-3??3
Business other than single line 1 800 526-2000

PLEASE REMEMBER...
Calling the wrong company for repair service could be costly. For example, if you call Michigan Bell for repair service and the trouble turns out to be in a telephone instrument, you could be charged for a service call and still not have your problem corrected. That's why we've suggested the line and instrument checks before calling anyone.

Michigan Bell can't promise you that you'll never have a repair problem, but we can assure you that we're bringing the same skill and experience to your telephone service repair needs. We want, just as much as you, to keep your service working as it always has.

After all, IT'S AT&T WE'VE SEPARATED FROM... NOT YOU.

Come to Comerica during January IRA Bonus Days. Add $1,000 or more in a 6-year IRA to the $1,000 you deposited for a prior year.* You'll get our highest interest rate plus our January 1.0% Interest Bonus.

Even if you never had an Individual Retirement Account at Comerica before, you can still get a .50% Interest Bonus, and earn interest that grows to over $19 for... every $100 in your account!

Surprising? Look at the chart. It shows how much your money grows year after year. And now, with our January IRA Bonuses, it grows bigger than ever. No wonder no other banking institution in Michigan has more IRA deposits.

*A Membership Bonus is awarded on new 4- and 6-year deposits of $1,000 or more to customers who deposited $1,000 or more for a prior year.

For more information, call

THE TOWN WILL be hopping this weekend with the ice sculptures in Kellogg Park as the major attraction. Across the way, the Mayflower Hotel is preparing for visitors. As well as many of the ice carvers, they have four busloads of tourists coming in from Ontario and Ohio for the ice festival.

Those gleaming sculptures in ice hold a fascination for everyone — even those who wouldn't walk across the street to the Prado.

Amateur and professional photographers have a field day. Asked our photographer, Bill Bresler, if he had any tips for novices. For daytime shots, he suggested slow to medium speed film for better detail, and "get up close." Bill says having a post or a person in the shot gives a sense of scale — or size. He said you also can get some nice pictures at night and suggests bracing the camera on a park bench for a long exposure.

The members of the Plymouth Grange will have their doughnut machine in action Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m. They will be serving hot chocolate, doughnuts (they're really crispy fried cakes), and chili at the Grange Hall on Union Street, just down the street from the park.

THE WINTER Special Olympics will be Friday, Jan. 20 at the Wayne Community Center, Annapolis at Howe roads. The Civitan Clubs of Wayne County are hosting the winter Special Olympics and they are expecting 300 participants.

Handicapped children and young adults will compete in ice skating, cross country skiing, downhill skiing, tubing (a type of sledding), broom ball and snow sculpture events.

Joanne Doyle is chairing the Plymouth Canton Civitan Club's event in the olympics. The local club is responsible for the ice skating. Junior Civitans and adult members will be there to assist — 15 to 20 juniors and about 20 adults.

The Plymouth-Canton club will host the spring events of the Special Olympics. They are planning some fund-raisers to help finance the competition.

THE WOMEN'S Association at First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth is sponsoring Dynamic Aerobics sessions for all ages (12 and up, that is). Ann VanWagoner will conduct the eight-week series beginning Monday, Jan. 16 and continuing through March 7. Baby-sitting is available while parents exercise and dance their way to physical fitness. For more information or to register, call Ann, 459-9485.

BRUCE GERISH of Plymouth will participate in "Salute to Excellence" Saturday evening at Fairlane Manor. The 1968 Detroit Tigers will be back for a special salute, a celebrity roast and a fund-raiser for Children's Hospital of Michigan.

Bruce will take part in the celebrity roast, doing his inimitable imitations of Al Kaline and George Kell.

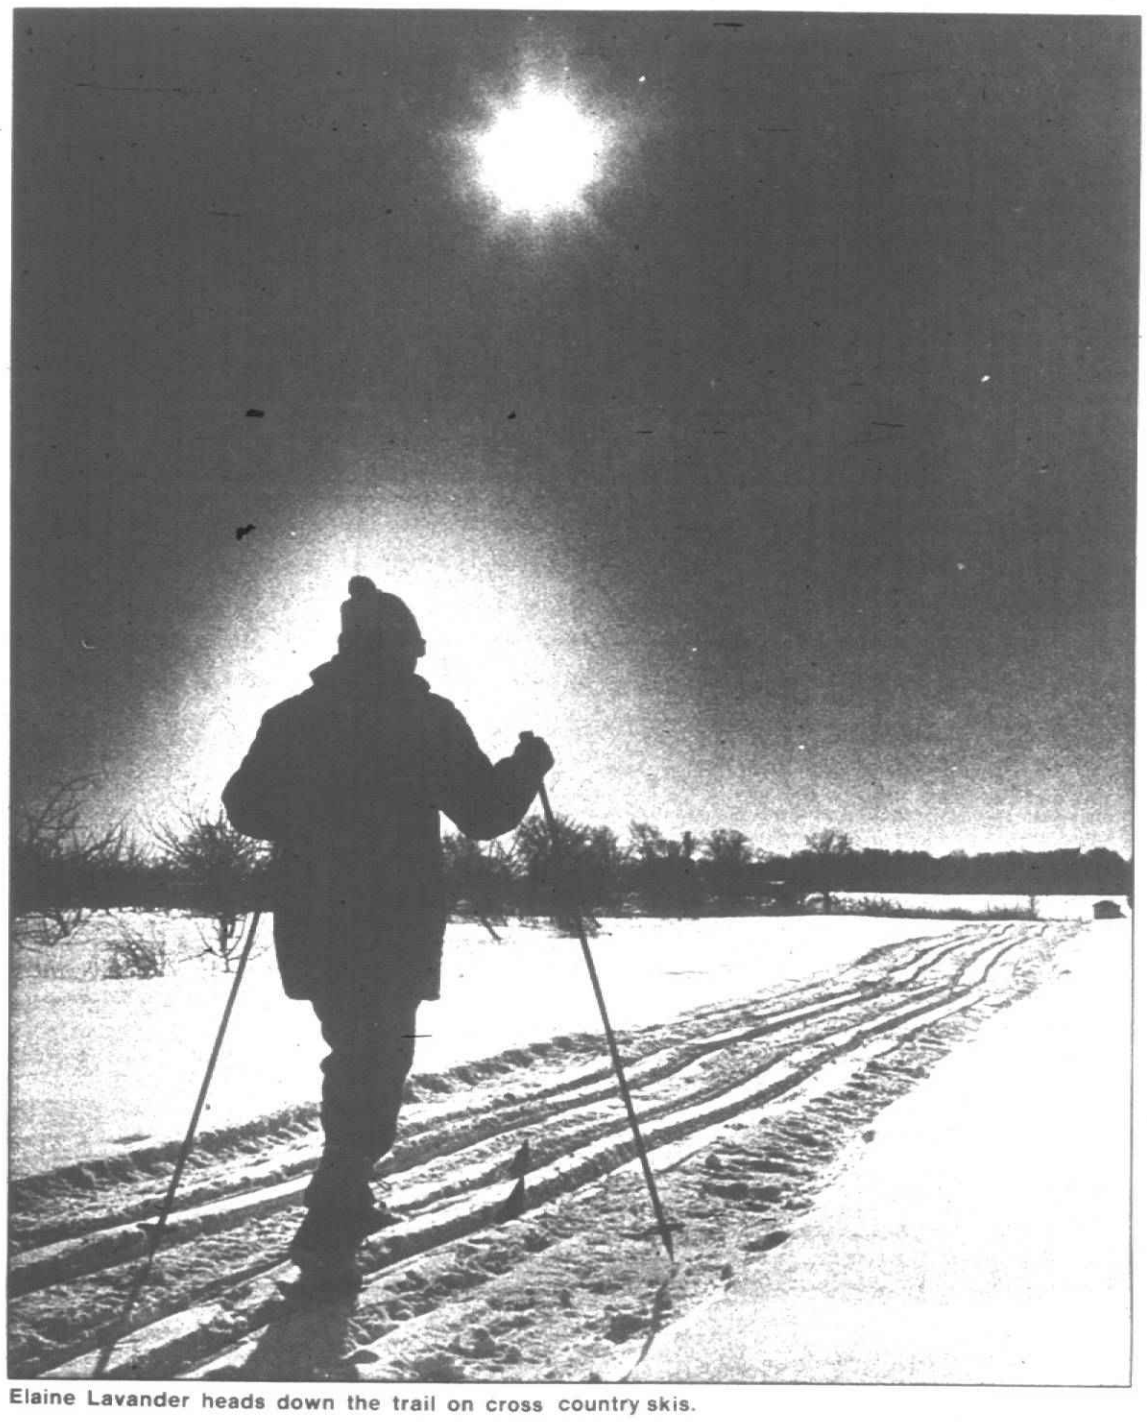

"Salute to Excellence" is open to the public. They may attend the cocktail party, dinner and show, or, just the show. For information, call 494-5375. It promises to be a memorable evening, especially for Tiger fans who recall the great year.

If you haven't seen Bruce do his impressions in night clubs, or heard him on the radio, this is an opportunity. Channel 4 is supposed to film the whole show for airing in February.

THE WINTER issue of Michigan, a magazine published by the state Travel Bureau and the Michigan Department of Commerce, has a full-color picture of the lobby of Mayflower Hotel with the caption, "Nineteenth-century flavor in a twentieth-century inn, Plymouth."

The accompanying article recommends several country inns: the Grist House in Homer, National House Inn in Marshall, Eagle Tavern in Greenfield Village, the Dearborn Inn, Botsford Inn and the Mayflower.

And another story, suggesting get-away weekends in Michigan, has a picture of the stage of Grist Mill dinner theater in Homer, showing Charles Burr of Plymouth in one of his dramatic roles.

Elaine Lavander heads down the trail on cross country skis.

Kathy Brown switches from cross country to street boots.

Canton club takes to cross-country

The YWCA Canton Women's Group had an ideal morning for their cross-country skiing outing at Plymouth Orchards on Warren Road in Canton. The skies were blue and the snow was perfect. At 10 a.m. on a Tuesday, the trails were uncrowded.

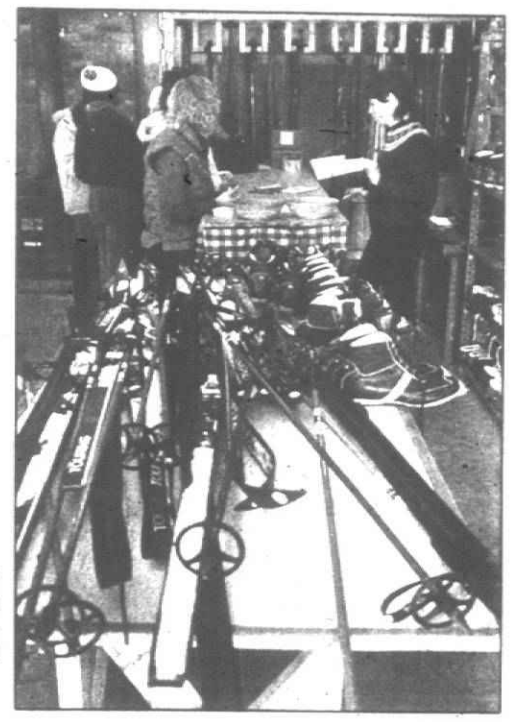

Skis could be rented at the cider mill for $2 and the trail fees were $2. They had their choice of open, wooded, orchard or rolling trails.

Mary and David Emmett now have five to six miles of cross-country trails on their property. Almost two miles of the trails are lighted for night skiing and the outdoor skating rink is lighted until 10 p.m. Instruction is available on Saturdays. The cider mill is open with hot cider, hot chocolate, hot tea and fresh doughnuts available for skiers. Hours are 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. during the winter sports season. Group rates for skating and skiing are available by advance reservation.

There are season trail passes, adults, $15; children and senior citizens, $10; and $25 for a family of four. Ice skating is .50 per person. The orchards are on Warren between Napier and Gotfredson roads. The cider mill hall may be rented for group parties. For information, call 455-2290.

THE EMMETTS bought the 100-acre farm eight years ago and began planting the orchards. They planted Macintosh, red and golden delicious, spies, romes, Paula reds and winesaps.

It's back to the cider mill for the Y women's group.

Trails wind through open country, through orchards, and over rolling & wooded areas. The Y group had blue skies crisp snow for their morning outing.

Scouts began Christmas project last summer

Junior Girl Scout Troop 333 took the holiday season to heart and shared themselves with some children who can't get home for Christmas. As we all know, Scouting is very involved in community service. Since the leader of Troop 333, Karen Rotarious, serves as a volunteer at Motts Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor, it seemed natural to try to do something for the many children forced to be away from home on the holiday.

The girls in Troop 333 — Chris Baker, Chris Berns, Chris Bender, Connie Prince, Heather Parsons, Nicole Vogel, Kim Diefenbach, Becky Clark, Jeanne Barr, Wendy Young and Stephanie Keeling — prepared some surprises to add a bit cheer for the children. Much time went into this venture as the girls sewed stuffed animals for the children. But that wasn't all, for instead of purchasing the customary gift for their Scout leader, each girl purchased a coloring book and crayons which also were donated to the children. And if that wasn't enough, that special added touch was achieved through efforts started last summer when the girls made little Christmas baskets to decorate the children's lunch trays. This was done during camp.

Now there's an example of having the Christmas spirit all year long!

SOME OF THE girls were able to go to the hospital to deliver the gifts. When they arrived, the children were in the large activity room where they normally gather for classes and various forms of entertainment.

On this particular day, a mime group was entertaining the children, and the Scouts were invited to watch for a while before having a short tour. The girls were unable to present the gifts directly to the children as the show was to last for quite some time.

I spoke to some of the Scouts about their trip, and they learned a lot during their visit. Becky Clark told me, "The children go to school there, and the hospital tries to make the day as much like normal as possible." Becky really enjoyed the experience, but said she wished she could have given the gifts to the children instead of just to a staff member. But she said she understood.

Chris Berns told me, "It was pretty fun." She, too, was disappointed that they didn't get to speak to the children. However, she enjoyed all the information provided on the tour. "I think this would be a fun project for other groups to do," says Chris. "I really liked going there."

During their tour, the girls got a peak at the new emergency helicopter provided at the hospital complex. The service, called Survivial Flight Helicopter Service, provides fast emergency transportation to the hospital. Chris remembers that the helicopter is very expensive to operate and even though they weren't allowed near it, she "got a pretty good look" and enjoyed the chance just to see it.

When the girls returned from their trip, they had the traditional Christmas treat of sloppy joes, chips, cole slaw — traditional for teens that is.

Congratulations, Junior Girl Scout Troop 333, on a job well done and a job worth doing. I once worked as a volunteer in a hospital, and I know they can use all the help the community can provide. I hope some groups take up your suggestions, Chris. Maybe your troop could show them the ropes.

SPEAKING OF teens, how about a ski trip?

The Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department is again sponsoring a Teen Ski Trip to Alpine Valley ski area. The date is set for 5 p.m. to 12:15 a.m. Friday, Jan. 20. All the transportation and supervision will be provided by the Parks and Rec staff. The fee is $15 without your own equipment, and $8.50 if you provide your own. For more information call 397-1000.

— CANTON NEWCOMERS are in the news again.

They are proud to report that after their auction, and due to your generosity, they were able to donate $675 to Hospice. They are grateful to all who participated.

They are looking forward to a busy year of fun activities. They started the new year with a meeting featuring a travelog on the Caribbean presented by Travelmasters of Livonia. They received loads of information on everything from how to pack your bag to how to get the best deal for your money and what to look for when choosing a travel agent. The hors d'oeuvres were the perfect complement to this after-the-holidays, pick-me-up topic to get you making plans again.

The plans for this group feature a St. Patrick's Day party which will be open to the public with dinner and a live band for $20 per couple. Terry Strait reminds everyone that Newcomers is open to all Canton residents. No matter how long you have lived here, you're invited to join and meet other Cantonites. They also welcome people from surrounding communities.

For more information on the party or membership, or if you'd just like to know more about the club, call 451-0073.

ON THE SLIGHT chance that you might have forgotten, the Sesquicentennial Cook Book has gone on sale.

They are only $4 and offer lots of information besides recipes, like the perpetual calendar, so you can find out if your Monday's child "fair of face" or Friday's child, "full of woe." There are lots of neat ideas like a chart on how to use leftovers, suggested diets for various ideal weights, food protein counts, metric conversion chart, stain removal chart.

Now that I've got you desperate to have the book, I'll tell you how to get one. If you cannot find it at any of the local merchants or your church, or if your next door neighbor isn't selling them, just mosey on over to Krogers on Saturday, Jan. 21, and we'll be there selling them.

I will be on the noon shift, so if you get a chance, come on by. I'd love to meet you and it'll give me a chance to catch up on all the "Canton Chatter."

Kulak-Entrekin

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Kulak of Plymouth announce the engagement of their daughter, Stephanie Jeanne, to Gregory Randall Entrekin, son of Mrs. Harrison Randall Entrekin of Naperville, Ill., and the late Mr. Entrekin. The bride-elect is a graduate of Plymouth Salem High School and Michigan State University. She is employed as an engineer with Western Electric Co. in Rolling Meadows, Ill. Her fiance graduated from Naperville Central High School and Southern Illinois University. He, also, is an engineer with Western Electric Co. in Lisle, Ill.

The couple plans a September wedding.

Nostrant-Mobos

Mrs. Marion Nostrant of Plymouth announces the engagement of her daughter, Janet Lee, to Joseph Michael Modos III, son of Mrs. Shirley Austin of Kalkaska and Joseph Modos of Vacaville, Calif. The bride-elect is a 1980 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and is employed by the Plymouth Hilton. Her fiance, a 1980 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, is employed by Colony Car Wash, Plymouth.

They plan an early May wedding in First Baptis Church of Plymouth.

Dental care is part of health care

Americans, more than ever, are working hard to stay healthy and fit. They are exercising, watching their diet and finding out more about what it takes to stay healthy.

But many of those health-conscious Americans separate their dental care from their total health care. To them, dental care means having a bright, pretty smile.

Teeth and gums, like other parts of the body, are susceptible to disease. One dental disease which is prevalent among adults, although it can occur at any age, is periodontal disease, the major cause of tooth loss in adults.

The American Dental Hygienists' Association recommends you inspect your mouth for the following signs of gum disease:

- Bleeding gums when brushing teeth;
- Red, swollen and tender gums;
- Loose or separating permanent teeth;
- Change in the way dentures and partials fit;
- Bad breath;
- Change in the way teeth fit together when biting.

Gum disease can be prevented. Brushing and flossing thoroughly at least once a day, eating well-balanced meals and limiting snacks, visiting your dental hygienist and dentist on a regular basis, and checking for any signs of gum disease are important in preventing gum disease.

ENERGY. We can't afford to waste it.

Junior Honor Society working organization

Central Middle School now has a National Junior Honor Society. It is the only middle school of the five in the school district to form an honor society.

Officers were selected at a special meeting in the Plymouth Historical Museum. Debbie DeJohn is president. Serving with her are Marcie Alvarado and Kurt Zecman, vice presidents, and Jennifer Croll and Dan Stacy, secretary. Faculty advisers are Jerry Thompson, ninth grade; Barb Church, eighth; Margo Panko, sixth; and Greg Owens, principal.

A student must maintain a 3.3 grade point average for two consecutive marking periods to be eligible to join the Honor Society. They must submit an application describing past and anticipated future involvement in service project or leadership activities, and receive positive character recommendations from the teaching staff at Central.

Eligible seventh, eighth and ninth graders may join after the third marking period.

THE HONOR SOCIETY also will be a service organization. Members will be encouraged to serve others in many ways.

Students may serve as peer tutors for other Central students, work with community groups when their assistance is needed, visit feeder schools to introduce students to middle school life and give tours of Central.

It is expected that many of the service projects will be learning experiences for Honor Society members.

Among the future activies planned are having guest speakers from Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools to speak on various areas of interest to members, cross country skiing, nuclear freeze debate, careers night and a convocation ceremony.

Chorus to award 3 voice scholarships

The Plymouth Community Chorus has announced the establishment of voice scholarships for worthy and promising students. Monetary grants will assist students in pursuing a career in the field of professional vocal music, an applied vocational career in the study of voice for the purpose of organized recreational or community singing.

Three scholarships will be awarded. One, in the amount of $500, will go to a high school graduating senior. Two scholarships of $250 each will be awarded to students in grades 6 through 11. One of the latter will be known as the William C. Grimmer Award, in honor of the founder of the chorus.

Deadline for applications is March 15. Winners will be announced at the Plymouth Community Chorus spring concert, May 19 and 20.

Candidates are required to fill out application forms, write a brief autobiography, secure recommendations and submit to a personal interview. Auditions are not required.

For an application form and additional information, write or call: Plymouth Community Chorus, PO Box 217, Plymouth, Mich. 48170; phone, 455-4080; or Barbara Frank, 348-7131.

● DRINKING HAZARDS

During National Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Week, the Southeast Mcihgan March of Dimes is continuing its efforts to tell the public about the hazards of drinking during pregnancy.

Fetal Alcohol Syndrome (FAS) has been recognized during the last decade as one of the leading known causes of mental retardation in the newborn. It is not known whether there is an absolutely safe level of alcohol consumption during pregnancy, or if consuming small amounts still poses some risk.

Congress has declared the week of Jan. 15 National FAS Awareness Week. As part of its mission of preventing birth defects, the March of Dimes has supported research into FAS and does extensive public health education about the impact of alcohol and other maternal health habits on the healty of the unborn baby.

"The effects of alcohol on the fetus are probably felt very early in pregnancy, possibly even before a woman knows she is pregnant," said Dolores Wehr, associate executive director of the Southeast Michigan March of Dimes. "That's why women planning pregnancy must be made aware of the effects drinking may have."

Among pamphlets available free of charge from the March of Dimes are: "Drugs, Alcobol, Tobacco Abuse During Pregnancy," "Pregnant? Before You Drink, Think" and a booklet, "Be Good to Your Baby Before It Is Born." Interested persons can contact the March of Dimes at 423-3200.

● TAKING CHARGE

If helping yourself to better health is part of your plan for 1984, the Providence Hospital community health education department has classes to support you in keeping your resolutions.

"Take Charge of Your Health" is a four-week series introducing concepts and practices which enhace health. Informative discussions, activities and a variety of films and slides will be presented.

The introduction, blood pressure screening, and goal-setting sessions will be held 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, March 6, in the DePaul Center, 16001 W. Nine Mile Road, Southfield.

Exercise will be emphasized on March 13; dealing with stress on March 20; and nutrition on March 27.

More information on the program and other classes may be obtained by calling the department at 552-9041.

Also on the winter schedule beginning in February are classes on unstressing your life, managing stress, weight control, how to stop smoking, heart saver CPR and basic cardiac life support.

Some classes will be offered in the Providence Hospital Novi Center as well as the Southfield center. Pre-registration is required.

Blood needed

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Metropolitan Seventh-day Adventist Church, 15585 Haggerty Road, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday giving residents of the area an opportunity to donate blood.

'Climb every' mountain...

Hulda Crooks gives a view from the top

HULDA CROOKS, world renowned mountain climber, will be guest speaker at 4 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 14, at the Plymouth Seventh-day Adventist Church.

The public is invited to hear Hulda Crooks speak at Plymouth Seventh-day Adventist church, 4295 Napier Road, Plymouth.

What's so unusual about Brooks is that at age 87 she has climbed over 86 peaks — beginning those adventures at the age of 66.

Her accomplishments include frequent trips up Mt. Whitney, (elevation 14,495) and participation in the Senior Olympics.

Hulda Crooks was born in Western Canada. She grew up in the old-fashioned way on a farm where vigorous physical works was a daily routine, but book learning was of little concern. Thus, at age 18, she had completed only five grades of country schooling. Impressed that she needed an education, she left the farm and began the long climb from sixth grade to a bachelor of science degree, obtained at the expense of her health, she said.

"FOR THE NEXT 25 years, I wasn't worth much," she said. "I was nervous, anemic and perpetually tired."

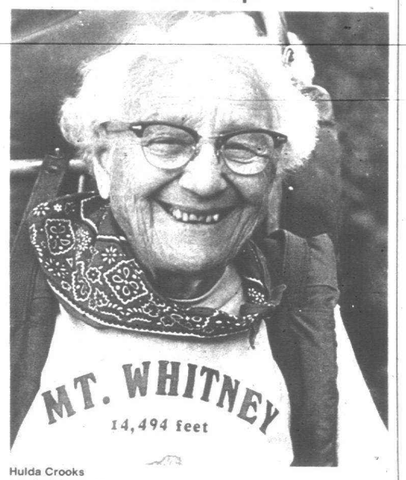

With growing appreciation of the needs of her body, she realized that on the farm she had gotten exercise as a way of life, but this was lost in her ambitious student years. She then evaluated her lifestyle and made some changes. One of the changes included becoming a vegetarian. She also set up an exercise program that was consistent. She began gardening again and started walking everywhere possible.

At the encouragement of her husband, Dr. Samuel Crooks, she began climbing the mountains near her home, although he could not accompany her because of a heart condition. After his death, she began exercising all the more and climbed Mt. Whitney at age 66. She began to do this annually with a group. At 70 she began an intensive jogging program and by age 75 started backpack trips of a week or more. Two years later, she completed the 212-mile John Muir Trail.

Still not ready for the rocking chair, she worked on the Sierra Club's registry of 268 peaks in Southern California.

Her adventures "peaked" more or less when NBC filmed her 18th climb up Mt. Whitney and the show was shown on World News, "Today Show," "Johnny Carson Show" and the "Dinah Shore Show." In 1981, the 20th climb was filmed and shown on "Good Morning America" as part of a "Healthy Living" segment produced by Kettering Hospital.

Her talk is open to the public. The church is located at 4295 Napier Road, Plymouth, between Ann Arbor Road and Ford.

church bulletin

● FIRST UNITED METHODIST

R. David Thomson will present an organ concert at 4 p.m. Sunday at First United Methodist Church, 6443 Merriman, Garden City. The program will include music by Mozart, Mendelssohn and Widor.

Thomson is organist and choir director at First Methodist. He holds a bachelor of music degree from the University of Alabama and a master of music degree from the University of Michigan.

He is studying for a doctor of musical arts degree in organ performance under Professr Robert Glasgow at the University of Michigan.

● LIVONIA ASSEMBLY OF GOD

The Billy Graham film, "Crisis in the Home," will be shown at 6 p.m. Sunday in Livonia Assembly of God, 33015 Seven Mile, Livonia. This movie about faltering family relationships features Graham, Dr. James Dobson, Shirley Dobson and Cliff Barrows with the music of Johnny Hall.

● PLYMOUTH FIRST BAPTIST

A service of infant dedication will be included in the Sunday morning worship at Plymouth First Baptist Church, 45000 N. Territorial. Parents wishing to have their children dedicated at that time may call the church at 455-2300.

●CHRISTUS VICTOR LUTHERAN

The Rev. Galen F. Hora, Lutheran campus pastor at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, will lead a discussion on youth and suicide 7-9:30 p.m. Sunday in Christus Victor Lutheran Church, 25535 Ford, Dearborn Heights.

Get rich quick

The Dr. Thomas A. Dooley Council of the Knights of Columbus will hold a millionaires party 7:30 p.m. to midnight Saturday, Jan. 28 at the council hall, 28945 Joy Road, Westland.

Donation is $5 per person. This will include $3 million in chips and two tickets for food or drink. Food and drinks will be available at a nominal fee. For more information, call 981-0254 or 427-5179.

It is designed for persons in high school, their parents and those who work with this age group. With Pastor Hora will be several U-M students, who have worked with him as peer counselors.

The team will present information and lead a discussion on suicide among the young. After traffic accidents, suicide is the leading cause of death of American teen-agers. During the seminar there will be separate discussion groups of parents and young people.

Among the topics will be recognizing suicide potential, intervention and lowering the likelihood of suicide by an individual.

Groups from schools and other churches are welcome. Those planning to attend are asked to make an advance call to call the church at 278-8878 by Jan. 13.

● FAIRLANE ASSEMBLY

The Rev. David L. Richards, Assemblies of God missionary to the Netherlands, will speak at 8:30 and 10:30 a.m. Sunday at Fairlane Assembly, 22575 Ann Arbor Trail, Dearborn Heights.

Richards and his wife, Clara Ann, who have worked in Holland for 14 years, are parents of Fairlane Assembly's music minister, the Rev. David E. Richards. He served for 10 years as president of the Central Pentecostal Bible College. He is director of Home Missions and assistant superintendent for the Assemblies of God, and also serves on the executive council of the Brotherhood of Pentecostal churches of the Netherlands.

Both he and his wife will report on their work in Holland and the spiritual trends there.

● ST. MATTHEW EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN

The film, "The Strong-Willed Child," will be shown at 7:30 p.m. today at St. Matthew Evangelical Lutheran Church, 5885 Venoy, Westland. It is one of the movies in the firm series, "Focus on the Family," with Dr. James Dobson.

All seven films of this series will be shown on Thursdays.

● UNITY OF LIVONIA

Still time to overthrow robotic status

Rev. Robert Schaden

Thirty-some years ago George Orwell wrote of the new page on our calendars. His book, entitled "1984," tells the story of a society which has given over its freedom to choose its own destiny. Big Brother is everywhere. He knows what program is best for all people. The duty of every citizen is simply to follow the program. Lives are monitored by electronic gimmickry the likes of which have become rather commonplace since Orwell weaved his story.

At the time of its publication "1984" was considered to be fiction. The story does, however, come ominously close to describing the society we are coming to know. With the passage of time this Orwellian tale becomes more prophetic than fictional. Perhaps Orwell envisioned the inevitability of what others chose to deny.

WE OFTEN WRITE off as fiction those things we do not want to hear. Prophets are rarely deemed heroes in their own time. They are more likely to be accused of poisoning minds. Their challenge of the status quo is considered unholy in churches, unpatriotic in nations, and ungrateful in families.

To challenge a set pattern or suggest a change in direction seldom goes well with the home team. Only when it is targeted to another time or another place does it gain validity in the eyes of the skeptical. Orwell's first choice for a title to his book was "1948." In the author's mind the story was already in process. However, the immediacy frightened publishers and he was advised to change the title. By reversing the numbers he arrived at "1984."

In the 30 some years since publication, the plot has continued to unfold in the real world. Big Brother has moved us from the first nuclear bomb to an unprecedented arms race. Come April 15 we will pay our annual premium to ensure that it continues at an even faster clip. Just as the people of Orwellian fantasy, we will consider it our patriotic duty.

Such interpretation of patriotism has also been effective in dictating the direction of the marketplace. Here we are told what we want to buy for our personal lives. "Real Americans buy American" is the way they put it. Whether it be on the pages of Orwell's book, in the computers of the IRS or the driveways of our nation, no one wants to be unpatriotic. And the plot continues to unfold.

BUT IT IS only January. It's not too late. With a little imagination we still have time to turn things around, and we do not have to be unpatriotic to do so. Rather than settle for robotic status we can become thinking human beings. As such we may even conclude that we do not have to trust Russian leaders to be against more missiles. We might also conclude that responsibility in design and manufacturing affects the quality of human life more than the country from which the product is delivered.

Among other things, 1984 is also an election year. The opportunity, however, is lost if we wait until November to begin thinking about it. If our cries of freedom are to be more than whistling in the dark, we must do more than pull a lever.

We have time now to do some learning about issues and candidates. We have time to listen and time to think. We have time to become more concerned about something more than chuck holes in front of our own house.

In short, we have time to turn Orwell's story into fiction. But the time is now. It may be only January but it is 1984.

Public parks hold line on fees

By Lem Mesee
staff writer

Good news. No increase in park admission fees this year.

State park vehicle admission passes are unchanged at $10. You can pick them up at Maybury State Park on Eight Mile Road west of Northville, where manager Tony Klain says a lot of cross country skiing activity is going on, or at Proud Lake State Recreation Area in western Oakland County.

Park manager John A. Winters says you can order them by mail by sending a $10 check or money order, payable to "State of Michigan," to Proud Lake Recreation Area, 3500 Wixom Road, Milford 48042.

Oakland County parks passes remain at $15 for residents and $20 for non-residents. They are available now at Addison Oaks County Park, W. Romeo Road in Addison Township near Oxford, and Independence Oaks County Park, Sashabaw Road 2½ miles north of I-75 near Clarkston.

Both of those parks are open for cross country skiing. Addison Oaks has 13 miles of snowmobile trails plus ice skating.

Huron-Clinton Metroparks, with 11 parks in southeastern Michigan, are keeping their admission at $7 for vehicles plus $7 for a boat. Kensington Metropark is open for hiking, cross country skiing and sleighrides.

Groups may charter sleigh rides by calling the park office at 685-1561.

FOUR SEASONS Fishing Club will learn about ice-fishing tackle and techniques when it meets at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 11, in the Daniel A. Lord Knights of Columbus Hall, 39050 Schoolcraft, just west of Newburgh in Livonia.

Employees of Livonia Tackle Supply will speak and demonstrate. All interested in learning about ice fishing may attend.

Four Seasons is a family oriented fishing club. Meetings include fishing reports from members and plans for club activities.

LOTS AND lots of ice fishing activity on Kent Lake, by the way. Most popular spots are off Turtlehead and Canoe islands, where bluegills tend to congregate, and in the deep portion of the old lake, where crappies are a favorite.

Newburgh Lake in Edward Hines Parkway continues to be popular, though the bluegills we saw there last weekend were running on the small side.

"First ice," as the veterans say, is the time to catch fish. Later in the winter, when ice is thicker and water colder, fish become sluggish and more difficult to locate.

TWO BIRD COUNTS will be conducted this weekend at Huron-Clinton Metroparks.

Saturday's activity will start at 8 a.m. at the nature center of Kensington Metropark, I-96 west of New Hudson. Take the Kensington Road exit. Naturalist Bob Hotaling will be in charge of the all-day activity. You may spend as little or as much time as you want. Binoculars and warm clothing are essential.

Sunday's activity will run from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock. Rules are the same.

To help naturalists with their planning, register in advance by calling the metroparks' toll-free 1-800-552-6772.

HURON-CLINTON Metroparks have several free nature programs on tap this weekend. In each case, you need to register in advance by calling toll free 1-800-552-6772.

● Indian Springs Metropark near Clarkston will be the site of a cross country ski tour at 10 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 7. The two-hour ski jaunt will lead you to the Huron Swamp for a look at nature in winter. The trail is excellent for beginning skiers. Bring your own skis.

● Indian Springs will offer a two-hour indoor-outdoor "Wilderness Survival" program at 1 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 8. Fire building, shelter construction and food gathering will be taught. Dress warmly.

● Kensington Metropark west of New Hudson will have a two-hour, five-mile nature ski tour at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 8. Meet in the nature center parking lot on the west side of the park. Bring your own skis.

IT'S TIME to plan if you're thinking of a summer vacation at Yellowstone and the Grand Tetons national parks in Wyoming. The place is the Highland Lakes campus of Oakland Community College.

Steve Maslowski will present a film and narration called "A Naturalist's Notebook" at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 27, at Highland Lakes, 7350 Cooley Lake Road, Union Lake.

It will be in the main floor arena of the Student Center. Call Carol Lubin there at 360-3041 for ticket reservations. Prices are $3.50 general, $3 for senior citizens. Tickets will also be available at the door.

The Rockies are a different world when it comes to geology, climate, animal and bird life. You might as well learn all you can in advance. You can probably pick up some good ideas for your own photos, too.

Female at law

Barrister broke bias barrier

By Dan Vecchioni
staff writer

Ruth Bliefield has had a storybook career.

The 66-year-old West Bloomfield woman defended Japanese war criminals after World War II, became the first female attorney in Michigan to represent a defendant in a murder trial, and survived 30-odd years at several Detroit locations where bodies frequently turned up.

At the end of last month, Bliefield called it quits. Not to her career, which is still generating stories. But to Detroit. She moved her practice to Livonia.

What Livonia gets in Bliefield is a feisty lawyer with a colorful career that has spanned more than 40 years. It dates back to the days when she was working full time for the state helping to set up the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission while one of only two women taking law courses in Wayne State University's night school.

"When I went to school, women had a choice of going into teaching or nursing," Bliefield said. "I didn't like either one so I got into law."

> 'When I went to school, women had a choice of going into teaching or nursing. I didn't like either one so I got into law.'
> — Ruth Bliefield

WHEN SHE graduated in 1941, Bliefield stayed with the state but found that her sex became a barrier for advancement. "I was the highest paid woman in Michigan and the state wouldn't give me a raise. They wouldn't promote me solely because I was a woman," she said.

She chose at that time to move to Washington where she first worked with the National Labor Relations Board and then with the War (now Defense) Department. In the latter position, she was assigned the civilian rank of captain and, following World War II, was sent to Japan to take part in the war crimes trials.

"Under the peace treaty, Americans defended the Japanese," Bliefield said.

"I defended Japanese war criminals. The Japanese didn't get as much publicity as the Germans. They weren't as nasty. They didn't participate in any acts against the Jews."

Bliefield spent three years in the Orient, including a visit to China just weeks before the Communists took over and ended diplomatic relations with the West.

IN JAPAN, she noted, women were accepted — even at geisha parties. Then she "got bored and came back to Detroit."

Here, she said, "big firms wouldn't hire me because I was a woman" and because her degree from Wayne State did not have the prestige of those earned from other colleges. So she started her own one-woman practice.

Divorce, probate and real estate cases make up the bulk of Bliefield's practice, but she occasionally handles a criminal case, she explained.

"I was the first woman to try a murder case," she said. A judge had asked her to defend a woman accused of murdering her husband with a hammer in the late 1940s.

"The woman didn't mean to kill him. She meant to hit him because he had spit on her. I got her off. But after that, I didn't take anymore (murder cases). I had proved my point."

Bliefield said that over the course of her career she has been mistaken for clients' mothers and girlfriends. In some ways, however, she feels women today have it harder.

"I was a curiosity and men tended to be polite," she said.

IN SPITE of her age and the length of her career, Bliefield said she is not considering retirement.

"I thought about it," she said. "But so many clients objected that I decided to keep practicing." What keeps her going, she pointed out, are the variety of cases ("no two are alike") and cruises (she has gone on one or two a year for the past 25 years).

She does plan to reduce her work hours, "if I ever catch up," she said, waving at the disorganized mounds of law books and paperwork and the still-to-be-hanged display of currency from defunct governments.

But interruptions persist. Like her first phone call of the new year — from a former client who was arrested for drunk driving on New Year's Eve day.

"That's going to be very hard to defend," she said.

Add another story to her career.

Elks offer disabled grants

If you or someone you know is a high achieving student with "special needs," the Michigan Elks Association would like to hear from you.

Through the organization's "Gold Key" program, scholarships will be awarded to two disabled students (one male and one female) pursuing higher education at accredited educational institutions or licensed vocational schools.

Designed to aid qualified applicants who otherwise could not continue their education or training beyond high school, the program aids students in becoming "self-respecting, self-reliant, self-supporting, contributing members of society."

Eligible for consideration are physically disabled, visually impaired, deaf and hearing impaired, speech impaired and otherwise-handicapped students.

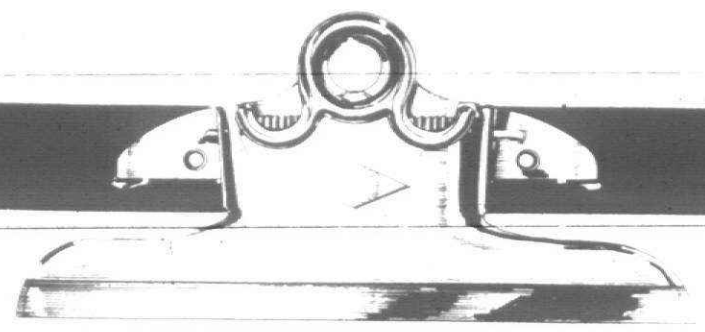

Scholarship awards are valued at $2,000 per student per year. Renewals for up to three additional years are offered, pending re-application by recipients who've established strong academic and attendance records.

Students must be sponsored by a member lodge of the Michigan Elks Association. Applications, due Feb. 8, are available from school counselors and at the Plymouth Elks Lodge B P O No. 1780, 41700 E. Ann Arbor Road, between Haggerty and Lilley Roads in Plymouth.

THE PLYMOUTH Elks are offering, in addition, four other scholarships. The "Most Valuable Student" scholarships, to be given to one male and one female high school student, are worth $400 apiece. Winners, to be chosen based on scholarship, leadership ability and financial need, will advance to state and national finals, competing for a top award of $25,000 in scholarship money. Applicants must obtain a lodge endorsement.

"Silver" awards will go to one boy and one girl, compliments of the local Elks lodge, with winners gaining eligibility to win the state Elks' $2,000 "Gold Award."

For more information, call the Elks' Ralph Deetz at 453-1566 or the lodge at 453-1780.

What goes into a good rivalry

AT THE SOUTH END of the bleachers a swarm of kids dressed predominantly in blue and white tauntingly pointed fingers toward the other end of the bleachers.

The bunch at the north end of the bleachers, wearing mostly orange and black, responded with a threatening sea of fists. Both sides shook the tiny gymnasium with a nonstop chorus of cheers, rantings and ravings.

"Sit down, CC!" the Birmingham Brother Rice crowd screeched.

"Get some class!" the Redford Catholic Central section retorted.

That, sports fans, is a rivalry.

AND THAT'S WHAT happens any time CC and Rice meet on the athletic field. The two schools have been at the top of the Catholic League's Central Division in both football and basketball for the past decade. And the Central Division is the cream of the Catholic League crop.

Meeting at the top of the heap has contributed to the intense rivalry. But that's not what makes it endure.

Rivalries are created as much in the stands as on the field of play.

Example: Livonia Stevenson vs. Plymouth Salem boys' basketball is not a rivalry. Despite a trio of close, exciting games last season that culminated in the league championship contest, few cared enough to witness them.

Plymouth Salem vs. Livonia Bentley girls' basketball is likewise not a rivalry, for the same reason.

But Farmington Our Lady of Mercy vs. Livonia Ladywood girls' basketball is a different story. A pair of games matching these two state powerhouses drew capacity crowds at Schoolcraft College and at Mercy.

Now that's a rivalry.

WHY IS THE CATHOLIC League able to draw such crowds while public schools with consistently strong basketball programs, like Stevenson and Salem, labor in near anonymity?

Perhaps because it's a matter of choice. Students attending Catholic League schools are there because they want to be there, and they are paying to be there. Not so at a public school.

It's human nature that the more you pay, the more you want your money's worth.

Many public school coaches will cite different reasons for such crowds. Talent, for instance, is greater at Catholic League schools because of the age-old recruiting claim. Better players make for better games, which draws better crowds.

But that doesn't explain the shortage of bodies at public schools where basketball thrives.

IT ALSO DOESN'T explain why such a large contingent of CC fans showed up Tuesday night at Brother Rice, traveling more than 20 miles for a game pitting a 3-4 team (CC) against a squad sporting a 4-1 mark (Rice).

"It's been a rivalry from the late '60s through the '70s," said CC coach Bernie Holowicki.

Warrior coach Nick Conti, who served at Bloomfield Hills Lahser before coming to Rice, figured "the most glaring difference (at Catholic schools) is the almost fanatical involvement of the fans, and the competitiveness in which the games are played and coached."

So how can the Catholic League be so competitive without recruiting? That's like asking which came first, the chicken or the egg?

Are players recruited to attract the crowds? Or is it the crowds that attract the players?

"It's a little bit like a Catch 22," Conti said. "One thing kind of leads to another. The players tend to play harder in front of a big crowd. Kids in the seventh or eighth grade are here, they see that and they want to be a part of it."

HOLOWICKI AGREED. "We tell them they're walking among kings," the CC coach said. "When people come out — that's the games kids love to play in. That's what they practice for, what they play for.

"That's what it's all about."

It's true. Imagine if you were a high school basketball prospect like the Lanier twins from the Troy district, who are already near 7-feet tall and rumored to be heading to Rice in the fall. After witnessing the Rice-CC game, wouldn't you like to play in front of that type of crowd?

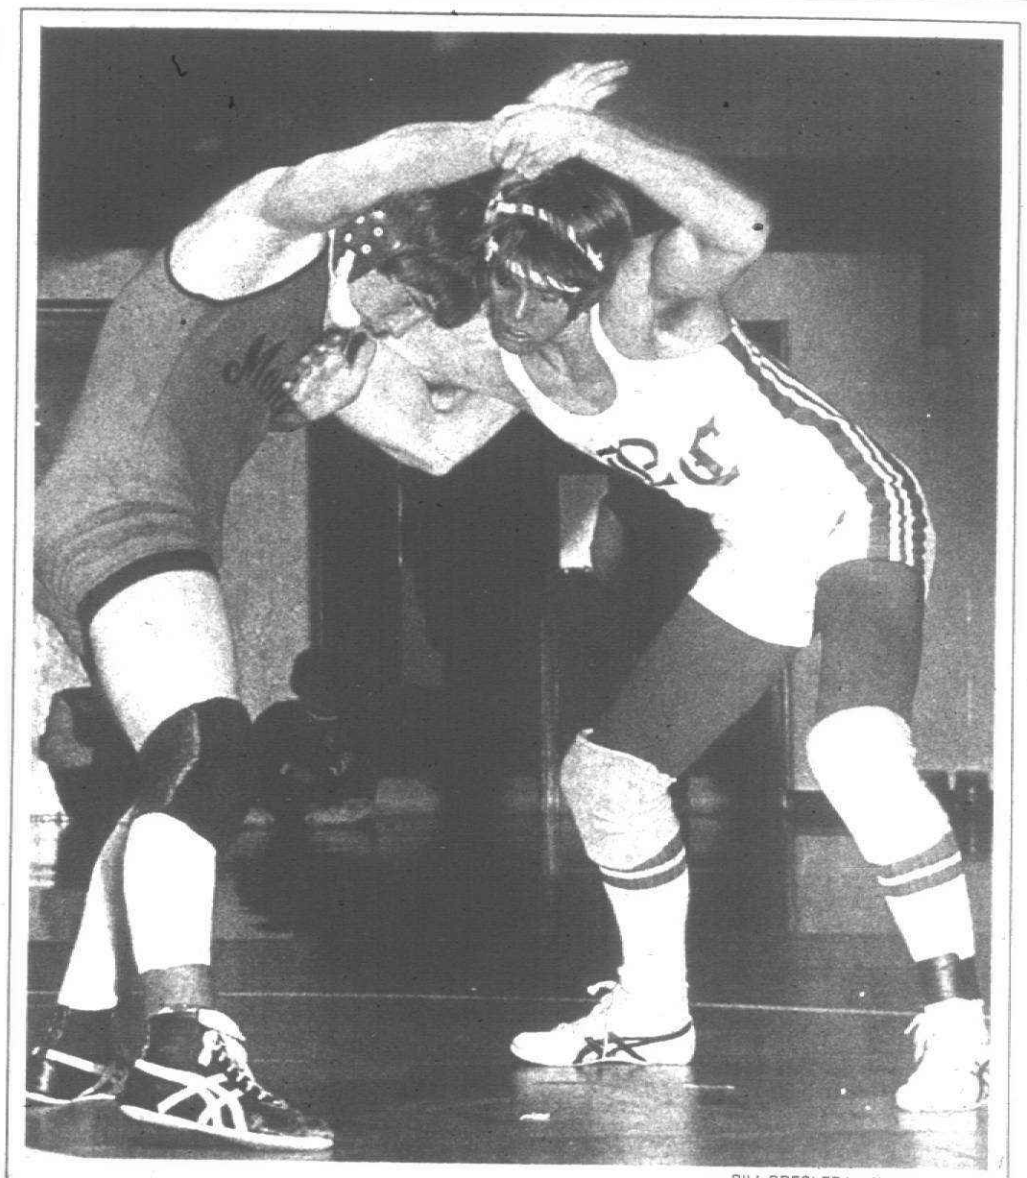

Would it be against the rules to influence eighth grade kids in such a way? Not according to the MHSAA rules, which state it is perfectly legal for coaches to talk to pre-high school age youths. It is a violation if the coach offers the athlete something that is not available to all other students.

BOTH CC AND RICE have little to offer in terms of inducement. Both schools are small, with tiny gyms and no swimming pools. Rice, which boasts the state's best Class A football school, doesn't even have a football stadium. Neither does CC.

Yet the talent still flocks to the two schools. And every year they're at each other's throats. Last season, CC lost just four basketball games. One was to Antoine Joubert and Detroit Southwestern, another was in the state quarterfinals to Detroit Kettering.

The other two were to Rice.

Rivalries like Rice and CC make high school basketball a bigger and better game. And they make attracting — not recruiting — top caliber athletes that much easier.

Portage go home

Streak ends, Canton loses

By Brad Emons
staff writer

When the going got tough, Livonia Churchill got it going inside.

That was the difference Tuesday in a Western Division basketball showdown as Churchill rallied for a 49-45 victory over visiting Plymouth Canton.

The win was the Chargers' sixth in seven games. Canton, meanwhile, had its five-game winning streak snapped. But more importantly, the two teams are now tied for first in the Western side of the Western Lakes Conference.

Churchill, trailed 27-19 at the half and by four with just under three minutes to play in the game.

Down the stretch it was Steve Juodawlkis who took charge underneath the basket.

The 6-foot-4 senior made two free throws with 2:27 left to pull the Chargers to within two and then got loose inside for two easy points on an out-of-bounds play, taking a pass from teammate Mike Panganis to tie the game at 45-all.

AFTER A CANTON turnover, Churchill's Craig Hunter fired up a 20-footer that hit nothing but net to make it 47-45.

Canton's Kevin Hawkins then missed a reverse layup with 11 seconds to go after Hunter failed on the front end of a one-and-one.

Right on the spot was Juodawlkis to grab the miss with two seconds remaining. The Churchill center then made two free throws to seal the verdict. He finished with 16 points and 11 rebounds, while Hunter added 14 points, mostly beyond the 20-foot range.

Rocks get a scare, beat fiesty Falcons

By Rich Swenson
staff writer

When Plymouth Salem's cagers came out in the first quarter against Farmington Tuesday night, they still had plenty of firepower left over from last Friday's impressive 66-57 win over Livonia Stevenson.

But then the bottom fell out and the Rocks had to struggle to earn a 69-54 decision over the 1-5 Falcons. The final score was no indication of how close the game was.

The Rocks roared to an 18-6 first quarter lead after canning seven of its first eight shots, and it looked like the Falcons were going to get blown right out of the gym.

But Farmington, ignited by junior guard Bruce Kratt's seven points, came right back in the second quarter, outscoring the Rocks 21-10 to pull within one at halftime, 28-27.

AND THE ROCKS knew they were in a ballgame.

"They are a much better team than their record indicates," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "In the second quarter, we tried to do a couple different things defensively. We tried some traps, but they took us out of position. They did a nice job of recognizing our defense — they hit the right spots on the court."

Beale stars in Canton's gymnastics opener

One gymnast's high school career is beginning while another's is winding down. Both stole the show Monday night.

Farmington Harrison freshman Tracey Solomon and Plymouth Canton senior Linda Beale put on a gymnastics clinic at Harrison High School, but in the end, the Hawk's team depth prevailed and they captured the meet 111-105.3. It was the first time the Hawks had bested the Chiefs in five seasons.

'I'm sure that as the season goes along, Canton will get a lot stronger. They tried harder tricks than we did, but they were missing them. A lot of that has to do with first-game jitters.'

—Kim Dennis
Hawk coach

Solmon won the vault competition with a high score of 8.5. Beale was second with an 8.35. Solomon also placed third in the beam (7.45).

Beale won the uneven parallel bars (8.15) and the beam (8.05). She was second in both the vault and the floor exercise (8.4).

"WE WERE strong in all four of our girls (in each event), whereas Canton had two that were outstanding," said Harrison coach Kim Dennis. "Our depth was the key. But, I'm sure that as the season goes along, Canton will get a lot stronger. They tried harder tricks than we did, but they were missing them. A lot of that has to do with first-game jitters."

The meet also featured Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy's Pam Modson. Since Mercy does not have a full team, Modson competes in area dual meets in order to qualify for regional and state competition. Modson was impressive. She took first in the floor exercise with a 8.55, second in the bars (7.5) and third in the vault (8.05).

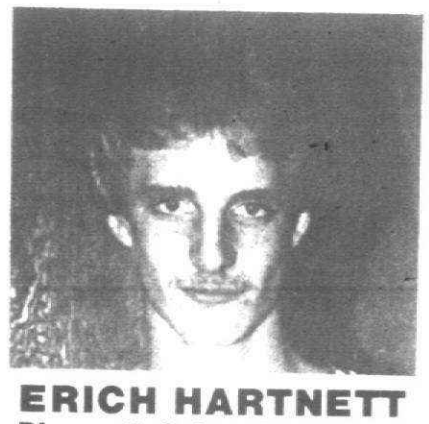

Canton got strong support from Annette Bryce. She placed third in both the bars (7.2) and the floor exercise (8.05).

Jill Birsa contributed a key second-place finish in the beam (7.5) for Harrison.

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL FLASHBACK

In February of 1976, rated for just one week in most of the popularity polls as the No. 1 Class A basketball team in Michigan, the Rocks tasted defeat for the first time as Belleville's Tigers posted a 63-57 triumph. Nonetheless, Salem, which is now 16-1 overall, still leads the Suburban 8 in its drive toward a 3rd straight undisputed championship with a 10-1 mark. "They beat us square up," admitted coach Fred Thomann of the Rocks, as he avoided offering any form of alibi. Belleville astounded the packed house by racing to a 13-0 lead in the first 5 minutes and from then on it was all up hill for the Plymouth troops. High scorers for Salem were two brothers, all-starter Jim and Tom Ellinghousen, Mike Primeau and Brian Wolcott.

Charger rally ends Chiefs' win streak

"The difference in the ballgame was that we went to the boards in the second half," said Churchill coach Don Albertson. "I told them at halftime this is a game to test their attitude. Attitude determines altitude and it was applicable to today's game."

CANTON seemed to have problems with Churchill's 2-3 zone in the second half. The Chiefs were plagued by costly turnovers in the final quarter.

"We did a terrible job of controlling their big guys inside," said Van Wagoner. "I thought we'd win because we had control of the game.

"They started to step out on our shooters and we didn't get it inside.

"We did take a couple of poor shots, but we took some good shots we didn't make — easy ones. It was a combination of both."

Canton sharpshooter Gary Thomas shared game-high honors with Juodawlkis, scoring 16. Hawkins, Mark Bennett and Jim Schlicker each added eight.

Churchill's other inside threat, Panganis, was saddled by early foul trouble. But the 6-4 senior came alive in the second half, scoring six of his eight points.

The Chargers were able to win despite an off-shooting performance by the team's top scorer, John Grzybek, who made just 4-of-16.

"EVERYBODY thinks Hunter and Grzybek are the whole team, but they are mistaken," said Albertson. "Panganis came out in the second half and started some board action to get us back in the game.

"And I can't say enough about Bob Foust. I know he didn't score a point, but he's the glue."

Van Wagoner knows his team will have to play better in the rematch, Feb. 7 at Canton.

"We played like we had to play to win, but they hit some long-range shots," said the Canton coach. "They hit them and they beat us.

"I don't think they can live on that. The percentages might turn around the next time we play."

Rocks hold off Farmington

Thomann must have said the right things at halftime, because the Rocks started the second half as they did the first, connecting on four of their first five shots to take control of the game with a 38-29 lead.

Senior Rick Berberet must have been paying special attention. Saddled with four fouls, the bulky 6-foot-6 center poured in five long-range jump shots in a row, and they caught nothing but net. He finished with a game-high 22 points.

"He's been pretty consistent all year," Thomann said. "When he's on balance and he sets up, he's a good shooter."

DESPITE HIS TEAM'S poor play in the second quarter, Thomann was satisfied with the Rocks' effort, which gave them their sixth straight win without a loss.

"It's difficult for young players to come off an emotional Stevenson game and still play well," he said. "When we jumped out in the first quarter, everything was going our way. But then we lost it. All in all, I'm satisfied with our play."

For Farmington coach Richard Roy, it was another in a series of frustrating losses.

"We were intimidated in the first quarter — we didn't show enough patience," he said. "We played much better defensively in the second quarter that led to some baskets. Our kids don't realize that a lot of points come off playing good defense."

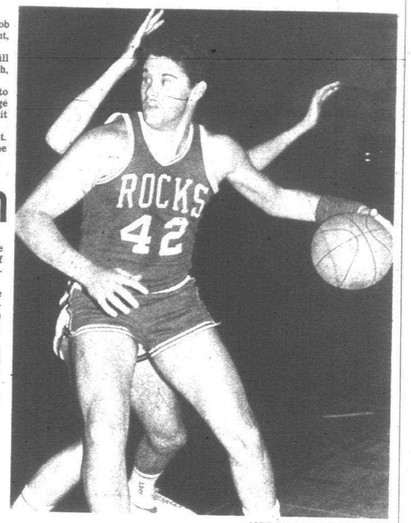

"I told them that Salem would come out fired up in the third quarter," he added. "We started trying to hurry it up again. Unfortunately, we ran into a hot shooter (Berberet). I'm not happy to lose, but I was pleased with our effort."

Salem outshot Farmington from the field, connecting on a respectable 29 of 56 shots (52 percent). The Falcons managed only 21 of 50 (42 percent).

Farmington won honors from the free throw line, however, hitting an impressive 15 of 21 (72 percent). The Rocks made just over fifty percent (11 of 20).

The Rocks will be put to the test against a tall and physical Northville team tonight. The Mustangs have returned all of its starters from last year.

Things won't get any easier for the Falcons, who meet 6-1 Livonia Churchill.

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Bad 2nd half start ruins Eagles' bid

The letdown was brief, but it was enough to cost them the game.

The Plymouth Christian basketball team came out a bit flat to start the second half. The result was a quick eight-point spurt by Grosse Pointe University-Liggett that blew open a 19-18 game.

Liggett went on to outscore the Eagles 20-9 in the third quarter, and win the game, 57-46.

"WE HAD a lack of intensity to start the second half and they scored four quick buckets," said Eagle assistant coach Jeff Cook. "All of a sudden, we were way behind and had to start fouling."

Liggett went to the foul line 18 times in the final quarter.

Pat McCarthy and Rod Windle led the Eagles with 13 points apiece.

Liggett got 18 points from Harold Colby and Brian Hunt.

The loss makes the Eagles 2-5 on the season.

The good news for Plymouth Christian is that scoring leader Rob Cannon, out of action with a nose injury, will be back Friday. Cannon was averaging 17 points per game for the Eagles.

Mercy rolls in net opener

Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy volleyball team began its 1984 campaign with a hard-fought win against Harper Woods Regina. The Marlins won two of the three games, 15-10, 7-15, 17-15 to take the match.

The third game was a thriller. Mercy's Betsy Eads served six straight winners to tie the game at 14. Regina went ahead, 15-14, but Mercy rallied to win it. Sarah Mikula served the game-winning point.

Mercy coach Cindy Assemany praised the performance of three players. Jeanine Ellis did an outstanding job at the net, blocking and spiking for the Marlins. Laurie Huston also was strong at the net. Gaile Cerniauskas played a solid set game.

The Marlins travel to Ladywood tonight.

Foul calls cost S'craft

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

First they lost the lead. Then they lost four starters. All that could be expected after that was for the Schoolcraft College Ocelots to lose the game.

They did, dropping a 106-90 men's basketball decision at Highland Park Saturday.

Losing to one of the Eastern Conference favorites certainly bothered Schoolcraft coach Rocky Watkins. But maybe not as much as the way his team lost.

Schoolcraft was called for 29 fouls in the game to 13 for Highland Park. Four starters — including high-scoring point guard Carlos Briggs — fouled out. Two others were saddled with four fouls.

Yet it was the fouls that weren't called on Highland Park that bothered Watkins more.

"We took a real physical beating," the Ocelot coach said. "There were a lot of calls (the officials) didn't make. We just got beat up in the lane.

Schoolcraft sports

"That's where we wanted to go with it (because) that's where we had success before. We dominated inside, we're superior to them inside and (the officials) took that away from us."

Schoolcraft, 7-8 overall and 0-1 in the Eastern Conference, hosts Macomb Community College at 8 p.m. Saturday. Macomb is the only team to beat Highland Park thus far this season.

SCHOOLCRAFT, PLAYING without three starters and trailing by eight with three minutes left, saw its last chance for victory wiped out when Briggs was whistled for an offensive foul, his fifth personal. Briggs questioned the call and was assessed a technical foul.

When Watkins asked what the technical foul was for, he, too, was hit with a technical. Highland Park increased its lead to 12 and got the ball, and Schoolcraft was never a threat afterwards.

"I know this probably sounds like I'm bellyaching," Watkins said of his complaints with the officials. "But I can tell you this: we're sending a letter of complaint to the superintendant of officiating, George Solomon."

The loss overshadowed another superb performance by Briggs, who hit 13 of 26 from the floor and scored 28 points, dished out six assists, grabbed six rebounds and made two steals. All while committing just four turnovers.

Vince Merriweather and Eric Sink also had "outstanding games," according to Watkins. Merriweather hit 10 of 12 from the floor, scoring 21 points and nabbing seven rebounds. Sink was 10 of 14 from the field, netting 20 points and collecting 15 rebounds.

Lennith Cotton led Highland Park with 28 points. Clarence Brice added 20.

WOMEN WIN OPENER

Schoolcraft's women's basketball team opened its Eastern Conference season on a happy, one-sided note by blasting Highland Park, 78-38, Saturday.

The Lady Ocelots rolled to a 43-21 lead at the half and kept on going in the second half. The win was Schoolcraft's fifth against four losses. Highland Park is 7-4 overall and 0-1 in the conference.

Five players reached double figures for the winners: Cathi Hengy, a Redford Union grad (14); Missy Aiken, from Plymouth Canton (13); Caryn Lamb (13); Sherry Evans, from Livonia Stevenson (12); and Karen Swereski (12).

Evans led the rebounders with 13. Lamb collected eight. Ann Lukens, from Livonia Ladywood, passed out a dozen assists.

Schoolcraft plays at Sinclair Community College at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Merrifield adjusts to collegiate role

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

What awaited Katie Odena and Jacque Merrifield was nothing they were accustomed to.

Both came out of successful high school athletic programs, looking for continued success when they enrolled at Hillsdale College. As they discovered, it doesn't always turn out that way.

"When I came here, we weren't even in a league," Odena recalled. "I remember when I was a sophomore, I asked myself, 'Why am I here, why am I here?'"

For both Odena (a senior) and Merrifield (a freshman), the reasons were twofold: first, the school, and second, the sports.

And while both have enjoyed their stays at Hillsdale, they have not experienced the athletic success they did in high school.

ODENA GRADUATED from West Bloomfield in 1980. She starred in both softball and basketball for the Lakers, although she missed most of her senior basketball season with a variety of illnesses and ailments.

West Bloomfield's girls' basketball team lost just once that season until the state quarterfinals.

Odena never enjoyed that type of winning at Hillsdale. Since she first started playing basketball for the Chargers ("I went from a winning program to a bunch of girls getting together to play for the fun of it") it's been a constant building process under coach Phyllis Cupp.

"She's recruited well," Odena said of Cupp. "This year we got a lot of talent, but we just haven't been able to put it together."

Hillsdale is 3-6 for the season, matching the win total of last year's 3-18 team. There are just three seniors on the 12-person roster.

"We're competitive this year and will be contenders next year," Cupp said. "That's our goal.

Cupp called Odena, a 5-foot-10 forward averaging 9.6 points and 8.8 rebounds per game, "consitent. She scores a lot underneath but she has a good outside shot, too."

ODENA'S REBOUNDING has improved this season, while her scoring has fallen off. But if there is a single quality she believes she can provide to the team, it's leadership.

"Because they are so young and we're trying to get everyone together," the senior said. "What we're really having the most problem with is our transition game, from offense to defense. It seems that in every game, one is going well and the other isn't. Maybe our communication could be better.

"We work so hard, we should be winning a lot more."

Odena also plays catcher on the Charger softball squad. At most larger schools, athletes concentrate on one sport. Not at Hillsdale.

FOR MERRIFIELD it's much the same. She starred for Plymouth Salem a year ago on the basketball team, leading the team to a Western Lakes Activities Association title and a 20-win season.

In her four years at Salem, the girls' basketball team coached by Bob Blohm won more than 80 games.

Things are different at Hillsdale, although Merrifield maintains, "I like it a lot." One reason she likes Hillsdale is that she can play volleyball as well as basketball. And she likes the coach — which is important, considering Cupp coaches volleyball, basketball and softball at Hillsdale.

But a "big" difference between college and high school is the size and level of talent. "There are more bigger, stronger players," she said. "There are more of them per team, whereas there were only one or two on a team in high school."

Merrifield, too, was counted on to do a bit of everything at Salem: shoot, rebound, pass, dribble, and play defense. Man-to-man defense.

AT HILLSDALE, she's the sixth man, filling in at both forward and guard. What she is expected to do is simple.

"Shoot," she defined her responsibility. She's filled that role reasonably well, averaging 6.4 points per game.

"She's an excellent shooter," Cupp said. "She's been improving right along. We want her to be more of a floor leader, but that's tough for a freshman."

Merrifield's no longer asked to guard the opposing team's toughest player. In fact, she has no one player to guard.

That's because Hillsdale runs a 2-3 zone almost exclusively, which neither Odena nor Merrifield were too keen about.

"It's hard to get used to," Merrifield said. "At Salem, we always played man-to-man and ran a motion offense. Here it's a zone defense and a set offense.

"Defensively, it's been a big change for me. Personally I like man-to-man better than zone."

Odena thought the limited number of defenses might hurt Hillsdale.

"Sometimes it seems (coach Cupp) doesn't have enough confidence to try different things," Odena said.

THE TWO ATHLETES share another similarity: Both have been sidelined because of injury or illness.

Odena hurt a knee a year ago and had surgery. Her knee still bothers her and costs her playing time.

Merrifield had an emergency appendectomy after the conclusion of volleyball season and missed a month of basketball practice. She didn't return until after Thanksgiving.

What the pair don't share is the timing of their careers. A year from now, Odena will be working on her master's degree in international business while Merrifield will be attempting to transform Hillsdale's program into a winner.

"I want to be as big a contributor to the program as I can," Merrifield said. "I want to help as much as I can."

Odena's helping days are nearly over. And that, as she put it, "is something I don't even want to think about."

Chief netters fall

It's really tough to outscore your opponents if you fail to get your serves across the net. Just ask first-year Plymouth Canton volleyball coach Peggy Moore.

Northville came into the Canton gym Monday and swept the Chiefs in two games, 15-10, 15-12 to give them their second loss in two matches.

"We missed a lot of serves," Moore said. "Basically, that's the story of the match. When we got our chance to serve, we missed them."

Ironically, most of the points the Chiefs did score came as a result of strong serves. Jennifer Gorecki (7) and Cindy Fisher (6) combined for 13 points off their serves. Both players also made key spikes in the losing effort.

"Both games were pretty close," said Moore. "We were up by four in the second game before they made a run and caught up with us late in the game."

Moore praised the efforts of Donica Walton and Laura Darby. Both played good games at the net for the Chiefs.

The Chiefs will host Farmington (2-1) tonight.

Boyd rewrites U-M record books

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

AFTER PITCHING in all but five games as a freshman for the Eastern Michigan University softball team, Jan Boyd was told by her coach, Anne Johnston, that she was "too small to be a pitcher."

So, after her sophomore year at EMU, Boyd, a 1979 graduate of Plymouth Salem, transfered to the University of Michigan.

All she did for the Wolverines was rewrite the record books. Her seasonal records include most innings pitched (212), most wins (16), most strikeouts (168), most shutouts (9), and most strikeouts in a game (14).

She also set the following career records: most innings pitched (32.5), most wins (29), most strikeouts (219) and most shutouts (15).

The University of Michigan keeps records in 13 categories, including hitting marks. Boyd's name is now on eight of those marks.

NOT BAD for someone who was "too small" to pitch.

Boyd's collegiate playing days ended last spring. She graduated from U-M in December. Her 3.45 grade point average earned her honors as an Academic All-American.

"I just really enjoyed playing at college," Boyd said from her home in Ann Arbor. "I never really thought about what I would do, playingwise, after I graduated."

She has, however, thought about what she would like to do, careerwise, after graduation. She has chosen a career which melds every aspect of her collegiate training, both academic and athletic.

"I'm working on my resume right now," she said. "I hope to go into marketing of athletic equipment."

It's a perfect field for Boyd — she will take her business training she got from Eastern, and combine it with the fitness degree and athletic training she received from U-M.

"It's different," she said with a laugh.

Her options are not as clear as far as playing goes. There are only two things that are for sure: she will not play slow-pitch, and she will continue playing summer ball for Oasis.

OASIS IS A womens' fast-pitch team out of Livonia. Her father, who still resides in Plymouth, is the coach of Oasis and Boyd has played on the team for many summers.

Many former collegiate softball stars, like Izzy Forester, ex of Michigan State, have played on traveling slow-pitch teams the like of Little Caesar's after their collegiate days. Boyd will have none of that.

"I'd quit playing before I'd play slow-pitch. I just don't like it," she said.

The next time you're sitting around rattling off the best athletes ever to come out of the Plymouth-Canton Community School District, don't forget to include Jan Boyd. She may have been the best.

Plymouth native Jan Boyd was an Academic All-American at the University of Michigan. She graduated last month.

● SOCCER SIGN-UP

The Canton Soccer Club will stage an open registration for its spring season from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays, Jan. 21 and 28. The registration will take place at the Canton Township Municipal Building.

Boys and girls ages 5-18 and men and women over 30 are eligible. Birth certificates are required for new participants, adults excluded.

Registration by phone is unacceptable.

Fee is $1.5 per participant. The season begins in April.

● STILL A DEAL

A reminder that students can get half-price tickets for Friday's Plymouth Salem-Northville basketball game.

On Friday, Jan. 13, student presale tickets for the Salem-Northville clash will be sold for 50 cents.

Tickets will be sold the day of the game in Salem's cafeteria, in the general offices of both schools, and at the Trading Post.

The half-off prices are an effort to boost sagging school spirit at both schools.

Coaches: call in your stats

The Observer sports staff plans on publishing statistics in boys' swimming and boys' basketball beginning with the Thursday, Jan. 19, edition.

The following schools are eligible to participate in the process: Livonia Bentley, Churchill, Clarenceville, Franklin, Stevenson; Redford Catholic Central, Bishop Borgess, St. Agatha, Temple Christian, Redford Union, Thurston; Garden City; Westland John Glenn; North Farmington, Harrison, Farmington; Plymouth Canton, Salem and Christian.

SWIM COACHES should contact Churchill coach Manse Tian from 3 to 4:30 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 261-7300 ext. 255.

BASKETBALL COACHES should contact Mrs. Sharon Fralick, wife of Redford Thurston coach Gary Fralick, between 10 a.m. and 10 p.m. on Mondays at 589-8467.

The top 10 players will be listed in three different statistical categories: scoring, rebounds and assists.

Short-term investing choices finances and you

Sid Mittra

The best investments often require you to put up money for long periods of time, but there are places to keep cash that you may need quickly. The accompanying table summarizes the various returns available on these vehicles. Comments on several savings outlets follow.

A number of instruments offer relatively high yields, while keeping money accessible. Some examples:

● Money-market mutual funds. MMF's have minimum-deposit requirements ranging from $100-1,000, and they pay yields now averaging 8.55 percent. You can withdraw money at any time, and checks can be written on your account, although many funds set a minimum of $250 or more for each check. These accounts carry no federal insurance as do the three types described below.

● Money-market deposit accounts. For a minimum deposit of $2,500, you can open an MMDA with a bank or savings institution. These accounts pay market rates — most recently averaging 8.47 percent. Unlike MMF's, whose rates change daily, MMDA rates can be guaranteed for up to a month. As many as six automatic or other withdrawals are allowed monthly. Three of these can be checks, but a minimum size of withdrawal may be required. Cash withdrawals are unlimited. Seven days notice before withdrawals can be required.

● Super NOW accounts. With a minimum balance of $2,500, this account — a type of negotiable order of withdrawal, or NOW — permits unlimited check-writing privileges. The latest average yield is 7.20 percent nationwide.

● Certificates of deposit. Short-term CDs — those with maturities of 32 days to one year — now can earn market rates of interest. Six-month CDs are paying 9.21 percent on average; one-year CDs are paying 9.61 percent. Minimum deposits are required, although many are as low as $100.

● Treasury bills. If you had at least $10,000 to invest, new-issue T-bills are available. Three and six-month bills are auctioned weekly by the Federal Reserve or the U.S. Treasury; one-year bills are sold every four weeks. They are sold at less than face value (similar to savings bonds), so the coupon-equivalent rate is higher than the quoted rate. A recent six-month bill, for example, sold at a discount rate of 8.81 percent, equal to 9.38 percent at coupon interest.

Sid Mittra is president of Coordinated financial Planning, Inc., in Troy and a professor of management at Oakland University in Rochester.

Compare IRAs

Which would you prefer... a higher stated interest rate or more money?

Michigan National compounds interest monthly to pay you more money for your money

Higher stated interest rates on Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) may sound good initially. But, if you're interested in earning more money for your money, consider the effects of Michigan National's monthly compounding of interest versus other banks' simple interest method of payment.

Earn interest on your interest

A minimum deposit of only $50 at Michigan National earns interest each month. So, month by month, year after year you continually earn interest on your interest.

Most other banks, however, pay interest on a simple basis.

No compounding.

No payment of interest on your interest.

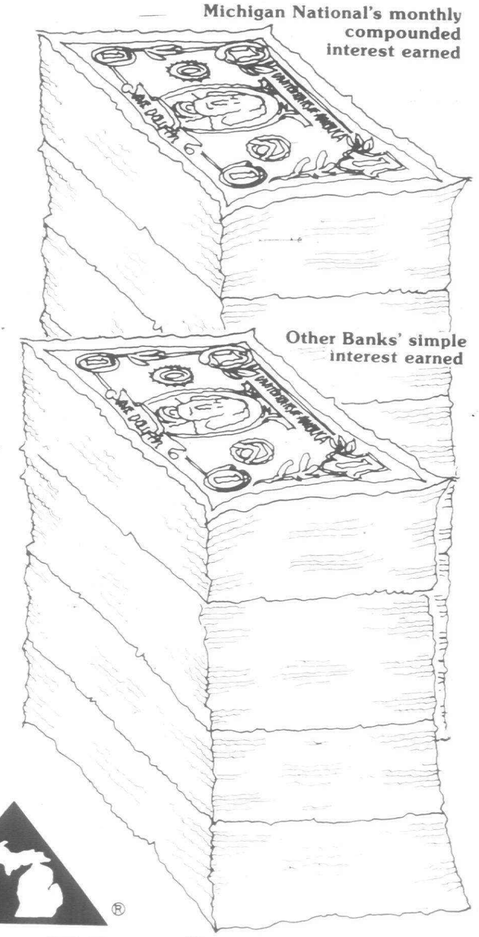

That's why other banks can quote a higher rate, and yet, pay less interest over the lifetime of your investment.

Don't be fooled by high interest IRA claims.

Invest your retirement savings with Michigan National where your IRA will earn more money for your money with monthly compounding.

Need a loan to fund your IRA?

Borrow up to your annual IRA contribution limit at preferred rates to take advantage of 1983 or 1984 tax deductions. Then write off interest payments for an additional tax savings. Ask for details on the advantages of an IRA loan at any branch office.

Michigan National Corporation Banks

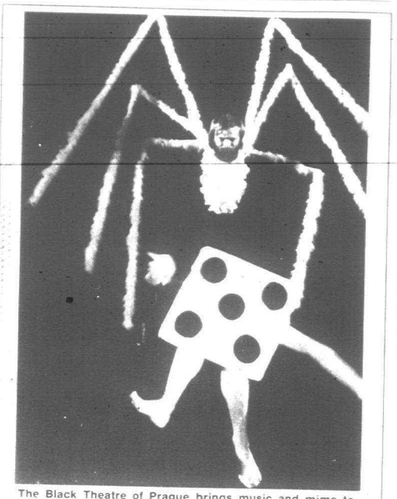

Substantial penalties and tax liabilities imposed for withdrawal from IRA prior to age 59½, except in cases of death or disability. Withdrawals must begin by age 70½. Member F.D.I.C.

Michigan's major statewide banking group with over 360 branch offices, offering Michigan's largest ATM network - Michigan Money. Deposits insured up to $100,000 by the FDIC, backed by over $486 million in Depositor Protection Accounts. Total assets exceed $6.7 billion.

Tasters have own language

Over the years, winetasters, in an endeavor to communicate with one another, have evolved a language of their own.

More particularly, they have adopted a set of words that they can use to describe the various sensations attendant to their tasting. As with any specialty, use of these words seems somewhat esoteric to those who do not use them regularly.

The following words are used frequently to describe the tastes associated with wine drinking:

Dry — Wine with little or no residual sugar. This results from the fermentation process when all the natural sugars in grape juice have been converted to carbon dioxide and alcohol, leaving a wine that will pucker the mouth. The unknowing will call this sensation "sour" but it is not. It is merely the absence of sugar.

Fruity — Used to describe wine that has the flavor of fresh grapes, including a hint of sweetness and scent (chenin blanc).

Spicy — Wines reminiscent of the taste of herbs and spices (gewurztraminer and sauvignon blanc).

Tannic — Tannins are a natural by-product of winemaking and come from the seeds, skins and stems, especially in red wines. They make the mouth pucker, not unlike the sensation gotten from strong tea. They contribute to the longevity of wines and tend to soften with maturation (cabernet sauvignon).

Soft — Usually means a lack of tannin and acidity but does not refer to flavor intensity (pinot noir).

Big — Full-bodied, intense and concentrated flavors. This term has no reference to the complexity of a wine (zinfandel and barbera).

Complexity — A wine with different layers of sensation, changing as it lingers in the mouth. A complex wine will usually be considered to have great depth (cabernet sauvignon).

Elegant — Usually of wine of finesse and complexity but lacking bigness. A refined and subtle blend of delicate flavor sensations (chardonnay, cabernet and pinot noir.)

Peppery — A spiciness reminiscent of black pepper (petite sirah).

Grassy/Herbaceous — The scent of freshly mown grass or hay (sauvignon blanc); a vegetal quality (cabernet sauvignon).

Aroma — The scent of the grape varietal used in the wine.

Bouquet — The smell imparted to the wine from the fermentation process and aging.

Nose — A collective term for the aroma and bouquet of the wine. It is a good term because it is a rare person who can separate aroma from bouquet and even a more rare person who cares.

Stemmy — A derogatory term referring to a bitterness sometimes present in wine.

Forward — Usually a young wine with considerable fruit intensity.

Noble — A wine of good balance, representative of its grape, with good nose and elegance. A high tribute.

Assertive - Overly pronounced components. A wine with too much of everything.

● BALLET THEATER

The Children's Ballet Theatre, a newly formed, non-profit company of dancers 8-13 years of age, will perform "Hansel and Gretel" at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 21, at the Plymouth-Salem High School, Joy and Canton Center roads. For ticket information, call 274-4178 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Groups rates are available.

● DINNER DANCE

The Metro-West Big Band annual dinner dance will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 25, at the UAW Hall on Van Born Road in Romulus. The 17-piece band plays original arrangements of Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Count Basie, Woody Herman and other big bands. Tickets at $20 per person include an open bar, dinner and dancing. For more information, call 421-9893 days and 427-7578 evenings.

● FOLKDANCING

Authentic folkdancing of Eastern European countries of Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Poland and Serbia, as well as Israel, will be taught 7:30-9:30 p.m. seven Thursdays beginning Jan. 12 at Madonna College, 36600 Schoolcraft, Livonia. Fee is $56 per person. Class will be taught by Wendy Holden and Tomas Chavez, members and principal dancers of the University of Michigan Folk Dance Club in Ann Arbor. For more information, call the Madonna College office of continuing education at 591-5188.

● ECLIPSE JAZZ

Griot Galaxy, progressive jazz quintet from Detroit, will be presented by Eclipse Jazz at 9 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 14, at the University Club in the Michigan Union, 530 S. State, Ann Arbor. The new music band, formed in 1972, is led by saxophonist Faruq Z. Bey. Tickets at $4 for general admission are on sale at the Michigan Union Ticket Office, P.J.'s Records, Schoolkid's Records and all CTC outlets. Members of Griot Galaxy will conduct a free lecture/demonstration at 4 p.m. that same day at the W.M. Trotter House, 1443 Washtenaw, Ann Arbor. For more information, call Eclipse Jazz at 763-5924.

● MUSICAL COMEDY

The ANTA touring company, in its premiere season, will present a musical-comedy parody on American movies, "A History of the American Film," on Eastern Michigan University's Guest Artist Series at 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 21, in Pease Auditorium on campus in Ypsilanti. For ticket information, call the Office of Campus Life at 487-3045.

● 'HAWAII HAPPENING'

Honoring Hawaii's Silver Anniversary as the 50th U.S. state, the World Adventure Series at the Detroit Institute of Arts will present "The Hawaii Happening" at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 22, in the museum auditorium. The program combines film and lecture, with Frank Nichols. Tickets are $3.50 at the door. A special rate is available under the Grandparents Ticket Plan. For more information, call the DIA Ticket Offfice at 832-2730.

● BARBERSHOP SINGING

The Wayne Wonderland Chorus will perform at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 17, in the mall at the Westland Shopping Center. The Wonderland Chorus is a championship chorus that will represent Michigan in International Barbershop Chorus competition this July in St. Louis. After the performance, auditions will be held for men interested in the barbershop-harmony style of singing. The chorus has openings for 12 voices. For more information call Paul Millis at 464-3392.

● COUNTRY CLOSE-UP

A country-and-western show called "Country Close-Up," starring the Thrasher Brothers, will be presented at 8 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 22, at Center Stage, 39940 Ford Road, Canton. The Thrasher Brothers has played to some 300 county and state fairs and concerts in the last two years. Guest appearances on TV include "Hee Haw" and the "Merv Griffin Show." The Westland event is sponsored by the Westland Police Officers Association. Admission is $10 at the door.

● CHAMBER THEATER

Prof. Wallace Smith will hold auditions for the Winter Touring Chamber Theatre at 1 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 12, at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge Campus in Farmington Hills. The group, made up of community residents and OCC students, will perform throughout the area for audiences ranging from preschool age to senior citizens. Groups also have held performance workshops for junior and senior high school students. OCC credit is available for participation in the chamber theater. For more information, call 471-7705.

● SOMERSET INN

Laura Thompson is at the piano offering song stylings, contemporary rock sounds with a hint of upbeat jazz, 5-10 p.m. in the Golden Grape Lounge at the Somerset Inn in Troy.

● BENEFIT NIGHT

Music by Sting Ray '63, featuring songs of the '50s and '60s, will be featured at a benefit for the March of Dimes, from 8 p.m. to midnight Sunday, Jan. 22, at Pub 1881 on Woodward Avenue in Berkley. Cover charge is $2. For more information, call the March of Dimes at 423-3200.

● PRAGUE THEATER

The Black Light Theatre of Prague, a presentation of family comedy and drama, makes its Detroit debut at 7:30 p.m. Thursday-Friday, Jan. 19-20, at the Music Hall Center, 350 Madison. Only five individuals in the 16-member ensemble can be seen on stage. Black Light Theatre originates from the capital city in Czechoslovakia where the ensemble began performing in 1961. Tickets may be purchased at the Music Hall Center Box Office, at 963-7680 for charge cards, and at all Ticket World/CTC outlets. For group rates, call Peg Sullivan at 963-7622.

● 1890S REVIVED

The 1890s will live again in a Great Escape Weekend on Friday-Saturday, Jan. 21-22, at Henry Ford Museum at Greenfield Village in Dearborn. Entertainment includes popular tunes played by a brass ensemble and a sing-along pianist, and a stage variety show with jokes and songs, as well as early motion pictures produced by Edison. Other Great Escape Weekends will celebrate the 1920s on Feb. 18-19; the 1930s, March 17-18, and the 1940s, April 14-15. For more information, call 271-1620.

● GRETA GARBO

Two faces of cinema-myth Greta Garbo will be explored in films at the Cass City Cinema in the Detroit Cultural Center, Cass and Forest avenues, at the rear of the Unitarian Church. "Mata Hari" (1932) will be shown at 7:30 and 10 p.m. Friday, Jan. 13, and "Ninotchka" at 7:30 and 10 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 14. Admission is $2.50.

THE THE-ATER! All the mystique and excitement it conveys continues, as the season that began so brightly in the fall goes through the winter and into spring and summer with more productions to enjoy.

Whether it's a professional theater production, or something by a local theater company of amateurs, there's a wide selection of shows ranging from the classics to experimental drama. Ever-popular musicals also keep area theater-goers happy.

Travel

Europe always delights travelers

Switzerland for winter grandeur; Germany for carnival merriment

The famous Matterhorn (left) overlooks some of the world's finest skiing slopes. Using a lift, skiers reach a 7,500-foot-high ski region. Cross-country skiiers (above) can choose from among 2,000 miles of trails through Switzerland's unmatched mountain scenery. The above village is Rothenturn in central Switzerland.

1-of-a-kind traveler
Iris Jones
contributing travel editor

SWITZERLAND: Winter festivities of all kinds are going on for the next several weeks. They may be of special interest to travelers taking advantage of the ski packages offered at 23 Swiss resorts.

Balloonists are already in the air over the Alps in the Gstaad Open Balloon event, which goes on through Jan. 21. It's probably too late for you to plan that, or the horse races that go on this weekend on frozen lakes around St. Moritz, but mark them on your calendar for next year, along with the winter golf championships held on the same frozen lakes this year Jan. 20-22.)

There's plenty of time to get ready for the Engadine Ski Marathon, in which 13,000 people from around the world test their endurance March 11. You can also watch sled-dog racing at Andermatt, ice hockey at Arosa, spring ski-jumping on Mt. Titlis near Engelberg, ski aerobatics at Adelboden and the annual snow sculpture competition at Hoch-Ybrig in Central Switzerland. This year's snow sculpture theme is Olympic Games; it will be held Feb. 16 through 19.

The Swiss National Tourist Office, 608 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10020, will send you information on any of these activities, as well as ski packages ranging from $150 per person for a seven-day stay in Grindlewald to a luxury one-week vacation in Zermatt for $1,399 per person. Telephone (212) 757-5944.

Some tour operators offer apartment accommodations as low as $49 per person for a seven-day land arrangement. Swissair's Alpine Experience offers ground arrangements with guaranteed dollar rates through April 8. Their Cross Country Ski Vacations include varying levels of accommodations in 44 hotels in Crans/Montana, Davos, Engelberg, Grindlewald, Gstaad and St. Moritz.

GERMANY: Carnival is in full swing in all its variations. The traditional celebrations, which end with Mardi Gras March 6, have been warming up since before Christmas and will get hotter and hotter during the next month.

Carnival is celebrated in hundreds of towns throughout Germany but it can be roughly divided into four kinds of madness. Munich has its "Fasching," celebrated with flamboyant costume balls. It climaxes with the Munich Crazy Party held March 4.

The Karneval of the Rhineland is held mainly in Cologne, Dusseldorf, Aachen, Bonn, Munster and Essen, with huge festival parades ending the merrymaking on Rose Monday, March 5. The Weiberfastnacht street carnival is held in Cologne March 1.

The Black Forest has Fasnet, which dates back to the Middle Ages. The same bell-jingling wooden masks and traditional costumes are used every year to terrify the evil spirits of winter. The Alemmanic Fastnet festivities climax March 1 through 6 in the Black Forest, Upper Swabia and Lake Constance areas.

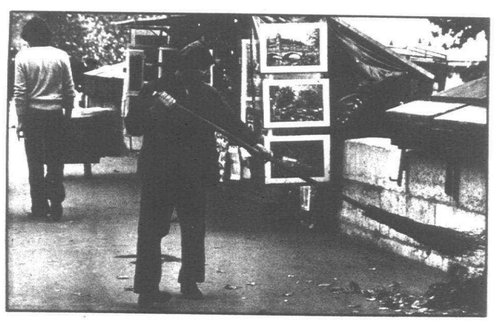

Finally in Mainz, the capital city of the Rhineland Palatinate, the whole year is spent preparing programs of satire and burlesque for Fassenacht.

The Traditional Parade of the Guild of Fools is held March 5 and 6 in Rottweil.

Carnival is such an important merrymaking activity in Germany, that private parties are held everywhere in the winter. It is the high point of social life in many areas.

Paris was made for women, and shoppers

By Shirley Dow Marthey

Paris street scenes such as this help give the city its reputation for Old World charm. Strolling is one of the most pleasant ways to see the city, and the four-block-square area known unofficially as the "Carre Rive Gauche" is a delightful place to walk. But, the entire city is filled with opportunities to shop, wander and gaze.

PARIS IS a woman's city. Its beauty, ambience and pre-eminence as a center of art, culture and fashion all appeal to the feminine gender. Much of this appeal is epitomized in the shops and stores of Paris — and what woman has not dreamed of a shopping spree in the French capital.

Today is a good time to make that dream a reality, what with the American dollar asserting itself against the French franc. Rarely has the exchange been as good; for some months, it has been in the neighborhood of seven francs to one dollar, and that is a very attractive neighborhood to visit when there are so many enticements in the marketplace.

To many fashion-minded women, Paris means haute couture: the designer houses of Chanel, Pierre Cardin, Christian Dior, Givenchy and Yves Saint-Laurent. Here, one needs a good deal of either francs or dollars.

The price of a gown or suit from the collection is prohibitive to many of us, but most of the houses also have boutiques offering separates, accessories and other less expensive items from the pret-a-porter, or ready-to-wear, group.

A STREET known for its boutiques and for shop windows so spectacular that an annual competition is held to determine the best is the Rue du Faubourg Saint-Honore. It is on the Right Bank and runs northwest from the Rue Royale for less than a mile and a half in the eighth arrondissement. Don't confuse it with the Rue Saint-Honore, which is on the east side of the Rue Royale.

Among the designer boutiques on the Faubourg side are Valentino, Ted Lapidus, Pierre Cardin, Jean-Louis Scherrer, Louis Feraud, Tan Giudicelli, Courreges, Saint-Laurent, Guy Laroche and Lanvin.

The Rue du Faubourg Saint-Honore is also the home of such famous names as Etienne Aigner, Jaeger, Gucci, Roger & Gallet (sportswear and accessories as well as soaps and scents), Hermes (the only Paris location of this noted firm), and Charles Jourdan.

No introduction to Paris shopping would be complete without a visit to a department store, or grand magasin. The two major stores — Galeries Lafayette and Printemps — are near one another on the boulevard Haussmann (Right Bank, north of the Opera House).

I FIND French department stores frantic and believe that one should be well-rested to tackle them, but I do enjoy going floor to floor by escalator and looking at everything. The stores are excellent sources of perfumes and cosmetics, incidentally.

Each of the small square stalls in the ground-floor departments features a different manufacturer, and it is easy to compare dollars and scents.

Few of the department store clerks speak English, but each of the firms mentioned here has a welcome counter staffed by multilingual personnel who are both knowledgeable and helpful with your shopping questions. This is a good place to have explained to you the export discount to which you are entitled if you buy a specific amount in an individual store.

Two things to remember: You will need your passport with you to obtain the discount (it's a good idea to carry it with you always, anyway) and you must, as you are leaving the country, turn in to customs the envelope given to you by the store.

IF DEPARTURE is by air, there is a special window at the airport for doing this; departure by rail or car presents different problems. Watch for a customs officer or office. In either case, the refund will be mailed to you at home.

In the market for antiques? Try the Left Bank, where you can meander from shop to shop in one of the loveliest sections of old Paris. Strolling is one of the most pleasant ways to see the city, and the four-block-square area known unofficially as the "Carre Rive Gauche" is a delightful place to stroll, or flaner, as the French say.

There are approximately a hundred dealers in this small section of what was originally, 200 years ago, an aristocratic residential area and today is still a prestigious address in the seventh arrondissement.

These dealers include some of the most respected in France; among them, Helene Fournier-Guerin at 25 Rue des Saint-Peres, an authority on 18th- and 19th-century porcelain and faience; Charles and Philippe Boucaud at 25 Rue du Bac, who specialize in pewter (etain); and Gerard Horwitz at 14 Rue de Beaune, who is a third-generation expert in fine 18th-century furniture and objects.

Horwitz is the president of the area's dealers' association, which every spring stages a five-day event featuring the finest in antiques.

THE CARRE Rive Gauche is directly across the Seine from the Louvre end of the Tuileries Gardens. To reach it, cab to the Quai Voltaire or walk from the Right Bank over the Pont Royal. Then, in either case, stroll south away from the river. The streets other than those already named are Lille, Universite and Verneuil, all of which are east-west.

This area is also dotted with galleries offering paintings and prints. Notable are Mortier-Valat & Cie, 13 Rue des Saints-Peres, for paintings; R. Breheret, 9 Quai Malaquais for inexpensive prints; and the Proscenium, 38 Rue de Seine, for the work of Erte. Other good streets for gallery-browsing are Bonaparte, Jacob and Beaux-Arts — all just east of the Carre Rive Gauche.

If you are in the area and are interested in a gift for an infant or child, don't miss the delightful Petit Faune at 33 Rue Jacob.

FOR BOTH buyers and browsers, Paris has wonderful bookstores — libraries, they are called. Among the best of the English/American shops are Galignani and Smith & Son. The former was founded in 1800 and moved to its present location at 224 Rue de Rivoli 50 years later.

It is the prototype of genteel traditionalism in bookselling, but it offers all the best and latest. Great place to browse. Near it, at 248 Rue de Rivoli, Smith & Son offers coffee-table beauties on Paris and France, bestsellers, paperbacks, tourist guides, magazines, greeting cards — all this, and a delightful scones-and-cucumber-sandwich English tearoom on the upper floor.

Your first purchase in Paris — at most any bookstore or news stand — should be a map of the city. The best is the "Plan de Paris," which sells for about $1.50 and includes information on the Metro (subway), monuments and restaurants, by area. It's one of the real bargains in Paris, and invaluable to both the shopper and the sightseer.

TOP OF THE LINE: One of the best-kept secrets of Paris is that it is relatively easy to attend a showing of the haute couture collection at a major design house. When the semiannual collections are shown to the press and commercial buyers during two-week periods in the spring and fall, no one without the proper credentials gets in.

At other times, however, the concierge at one's hotel can usually obtain tickets for visitors.

"The Night that Panicked America" (1975), 8 p.m. today on Ch. 50. Originally 100 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

The adroit re-creation of events surrounding Orson Welles' infamous, 1938 Halloween broadcast — which convinced many listeners that Martians were invading earth — is at the core of this unpretentious film's success. The staging of the radio program and the ensuing panic are realistically portrayed. Vic Morrow and a host of TV regulars, including Tom Bosley and Meredith Baxter, co-star.

Rating: $2.95.

"Rollerball" (1975), 8 p.m. Friday on Ch. 50. Originally 128 minutes. TV time slot: 150 minutes.

Norman Jewison films — from "Forty Pounds of Trouble" to "The Cincinnati Kid," to "The Thomas Crown Affair," to "Rollerball" — have a look about them. It's a clean, shimmering look, yet Jewison's films are filled with undercurrents of menace. In "Rollerball" pretty people (James Caan, John Beck, Maud Adams) do exciting things. More to the point of the film, though, is the manipulative, greasy character played by John Houseman. His will shapes everything everyone else touches, and the conflict between Houseman and Caan that takes over the picture is most intriguing. Ralph Richardson co-stars.

Rating: $3.05.

"Body Heat" (1981), 9 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 2. Originally 113 minutes. TV time slot: 140 minutes.

Writer/director Lawrence Kasdan's "Body Heat" is a throwback to films of the 1940s — with undeniable ties to "Double Indemnity" (1946), starring Barbara Stanwyck and Fred MacMurray. The film's structure is formulaic for mystery-murder yarns with a double-cross, but the beguiling thing about "Body Heat" is the manner in which it rises above its genre predecessors. After all, there are only so many basic plots, so consideration should be given to execution rather than originality. And Kasdan, who wrote "Raiders of the Lost Ark" and "Continental Divide," executes as well as anyone. "Body Heat" is sure to be cut for TV but, with luck, it ought to be left substantially intact. William Hurt, Kathleen Turner, Richard Crenna, Ted "Cheers" Danson and Mickey "Diner" Rourke co-star.

Rating: $3.45.

"Goodbye Columbus" (1969), 12:30 p.m. Monday on Ch. 50. Originally 105 minutes. TV time slot: 141 minutes.

Ali MacGraw personified the role of spoiled rich kid 15 years ago in "Goodbye Columbus," from the Philip Roth novel. She hasn't stepped out of the character since. Fortunately, Richard Benjamin, Jack Klugman and Michael Meyers are on hand to save the day. "Columbus" is slow in spots but certainly has its moments.

Rating: $2.90.

Film series continues

The Detroit Public Library's Polish-language film series continues with a free showing of Jan Rybkowski's 1975 film "Non Matrimonial Story" ("Dulscy") at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 14, in Friends Auditorium at the Main Library, 5201 Woodward.

The 90-minute color film with English subtitles is an adaptation of Garbiela Zapolska's classic bitter comedy, "The Morality of Mrs. Dulski." The theme deals with middle-class morality as evidenced in Cracow, the capital of Galicia, during "La Belle Epoque."

The series continues with a March 3 screening of Jerzy Kawalerowicz's "Death of the President" and a May 5 showing of Jerzy Gruza's "I Am a Butterfly." These dates have been changed from those previously scheduled.

State makes loan to research park

A $7.7 million financial pact will trigger business development in an 820-acre research park northeast of Ann Arbor, according to private developers, government and University of Michigan officials.

The Ann Arbor Technology Park, on US-23 within two miles of the U-M North Campus, is the product of a two-year planning effort by Wood and Co., an Ann Arbor-based development firm, and the U-M.

When fully developed, at the end of 15 years, the park will have an estimated value of more than $250 million and employ more than 12,000 persons.

THE $7.7 MILLION line of credit is the first land development loan made by Michigan's state retirement system. It will be used to install utilities, roads, lighting and landscaping.

"This massive undertaking will greatly expand the area's economy," said Rex E. Jensen, president of Wood and Co. "While this project is well-planned, it is the financing that makes it a reality."

The U-M provided planning assistance to the park and continues to participate in a committee that will select tenants and monitor the park's development.

"We believe the Ann Arbor Technology Park will be a focal point for interaction between the U-M and private enterprise," said James F. Brinkerhoff, U-M vice president and chief financial officer. "The park offers a potential for U-M students, faculty, and researchers to both assist and learn from high-technology firms.

"Research parks are an important part of Michigan's economic development. We are pleased to have been able to help this and other projects set the stage for creation of new jobs in Michigan."

THIS IS THE first land-development loan the system has made, said Robert C. Peck, administrator of the mortgage and real estate division of the Michigan Department of the Treasury.

"We're always looking for a good investment in Michigan. We supervise $2 billion in real estate and mortgage investments from several funds, 25 percent of which is invested directly in Michigan.

"We're very optimistic about the outlook for this project to create employment and expand the economic base of the state."

In addition to the advice and assistance U-M units have provided to Ann Arbor-area research parks, help has been extended to research and industrial parks in other parts of the state, especially through the U-M's Industrial Development Division in the U-M Institute of Science and Technology.

THE ANN ARBOR Technology Park "will have a far-reaching impact on the township," said Nancy L. Davis, Ann Arbor Township planning commissioner.

barry franklin

Not long ago I overheard a conversation among several long-distance runners. They were discussing a fellow distance runner, in his early 50s, who had died suddenly of a heart attack during a 10-mile run.

"It's hard to believe," one individual said, noting that the runner had completed a 26-mile marathon just two weeks prior to his death.

"He was in excellent physical condition, very lean, never smoked," commented another.

FBSUCH REACTIONS are not surprising. Since most of us associate physical fitness with good health, the untimely death of an exercise enthusiast always seems particularly perplexing.

Previous scientific reports documenting the outstanding cardiovascular fitness of distance runners have led to speculation that distance running may confer "absolute" protection from heart disease.

Marathon running, in particular, has achieved a cardiovascular mystique perpetuated by the provocative statement of a California pathologist that "no active marathoner has ever died of a heart attack."

Indeed, several running magazines and associations have picked up on and promoted this hypothesis.

UNFORTUNATELY, the medical literature and reports in the lay press have demonstrated the "exercise and immunity" theory to be incorrect.

Researchers in South Africa have published unequivocal scientific evidence of heart disease in some marathon runners. Furthermore, recent reports indicate that heart disease appears to be the major killer of conditioned runners who die while running.

Certainly these data do not discount the many benefits of exercise in the prevention and rehabilitation of patients with heart disease.

Although it is generally agreed that the marathoner's lifestyle is compatible with reduced coronary risk, it appears that even superb cardiovascular fitness cannot guarantee "immunity to heart disease."

A Farmington Hills resident, Barry Franklin is co-director of cardiac rehabilitation at Sinai Hospital and on the medical faculty of Wayne State University.

Kelley hits La Prima for lack of prices

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley has asked Ingham Circuit Court to issue preliminary and permanent injunctions to stop La Prima Music Inc., an area piano and organ merchant, from selling unmarked items.

A spokesman for La Prima, headquartered in Southgate, would not comment on the charges when reached by phone. The firm operates eight stores in the suburbs, including ones in Livonia, Southfield and Troy.

"La Prima has, for more than a year, consistently ignored legal assurances it signed with my office and submitted to the Ingham County Circuit Court," said Kelley. "I hope a judge can be more persuasive than I that the time has come for La Prima to stop its wholesale violations of the law."

According to Kelly, the company agreed in September of 1982 to post prices in the store or price tags on musical instruments for sale in its showrooms but "began immediately to violate the terms of the assurance of discontinuance."

Spot checks by attorney general investigators over the past year revealed continued wholesale violations of the agreement, making La Prima in violation of the Michigan Item Pricing and Deceptive Advertising Act, Kelley said.

Kelley also asked the court to assess civil penalties of $1,000 for the first violation and $5,000 for subsequent violations in addition to unspecified litigation and attorney costs.

They fight child abuse by training parents

By Margaret Neubacher
staff writer

"Parenting is a very difficult job, one we're all thrown into with little or no training," said Ruth Turner, parent education coordinator for Family Focus.

The Birmingham-based child abuse prevention and intervention agency spends the bulk of its time working with parents.

Once parents learn some family life skills, they can be more responsible and less prone to crisis, said founder-director Dee Dise.

Turner and Dise oversee Family Focus, which will move into a new center in downtown Pontiac later this month.

"We will keep our office at Redeemer Lutheran Church at 1800 W. Maple Road," said Turner, "but will move our supplies and the most the family education classes to the (Pontiac) space we've been offered at the YMCA, at Wide Track and University."

Family Focus was founded 13 years ago on the premise that there isn't adequate help for parents.

The non-profit agency started with only a consciousness-raising pitch they gave to anyone who would listen.

Today it provides a variety of services that have helped some 38,000 families in Oakland County, according to Dise.

What keeps it going is a steady stream of volunteers, donations and annual reports of child abuse.

LAST YEAR in Oakland County there were were 2,981 reported incidents of child abuse and neglect, according to the Michigan Department of Social Services.

"We see parents from all economic classes," Dise said. "We see an extreme range of problems as well — everything from neglect to parents who expect too much from their children."

"Parent education has grown in popularity over the past five years," Turner said. "Many middle class, average parents are seeking reaffirmation of their parenting skills. About 60 percent of the parents we see are not abusive. They have simply said, 'OK, I know this is a hard job. What can I do to be a better parent?'"

THROUGH FTS work, Family Focus has become well known in Oakland County's courts. County judges have ordered many parents to attend Family Focus family education classes.

"They try to heal families and refer many of them to us for help," said Dise, a grandmother four times.

Last fall the Oakland probate judges, in a letter to the state DSS, endorsed Family Focus and its proposal for a new center. Similar letters of support were also written by the Oakland County Community Mental Health Services, a caseworker for the county juvenile court, and a local psychologist. All have worked closely with the agency.

Family Focus also provides the services of a group of credentialed professionals called family aids. They meet and work with families in their home.

ANOTHER Family Focus service is the parent response phone, which provides an instant source of information and support for parents.

"We get calls from abusers, those afraid of abusing and those who suspect a neighbor is abusing. We answer questions and make a lot of referrals. Anyone who answers this line has had at least 25 hours of training by social workers, communication specialists and child development specialists," Turner said.

To get the new center in Pontiac under way, Family Focus is looking to raise about $10,000, said Dise. The agency has received $3,000 in donations from such groups as the Junior League of Birmingham, the Troy Junior Women's Club and Church Women United. Another $3,000 of gifts have been in-kind services, furniture, curtains and paint.

The agency is hoping to receive some money from the state's Child Abuse Trust Fund this year. The fund, established by the legislature almost two years ago, receives funds from a $2 check-off box on Michigan personal income tax forms. The fund helps private and non-profit agencies which work to strengthen families.

"Unfortunately the fund has received only a small amount of money," Turner said.

Money is needed to get the primary program in place at the new center, Dise said. The agency's plans are to establish what it calls a Parent-Child Center in Pontiac. There it will furnish child care for parents who are attending meetings and classes as well as provide information and referrals.

The agency also needs money for such things as educational games and supplies, equipment for infants and toddlers' room, trained child care workers, and office supplies, Dise said.

And still there are plans for expanding the program, if possible.

THEY WOULD like to open up the parents response line 24 hours a day and provide drop-in child care service for parents who need emergency child care, Turner said.

In addition there are new skills that the agency would like to incorporate into family education classes.

Last year Family Focus was able to operated on a budget of $21,000, because of the number of volunteers who contribute their time, Dise said.

"If we have paid our volunteers $5 an hour, we would have needed a budget of $125,680," Dise said. "To continue to do the things we'd like, we will need the help volunteers and contributions."

Amtrak ends AA-Detroit run Friday

Several travel options are open for commuters riding the early morning Ann Arbor-Detroit Amtrak passenger train, scheduled to end service Friday, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) said.

"Every effort is being made to ensure that alternative forms of public transportation are available to those 50 to 55 passengers who use the train every day," said MDOT director James P. Pitz.

Travel options between the two cities, he said, include Greyhound intercity bus servics, SEMTA-sponsored park-and-ride express bus service from the Plymouth and Canton township area, and a variety of carpooling and vanpooling programs coordinated by the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority.

A SHARP DECLINE in ridership on the state-assisted passenger train known as the "Michigan Executive," will force its termination Jan. 13.

Cancellation of the "commuter" run will save more than $200,000 a year in state operating assistance.

Regular Amtrak passenger train service linking southeastern Michigan with New York City, Boston and other major points throughout the Northeast will continue, as will the six daily trains between Chicago and Detroit.

The state has supported the operation of the train since 1975. Running from Jackson to Detroit in 1979, it carried some 95,000 passengers. Service was cut back in 1982 to cover only the Ann Arbor-Detroit route.

Only about 25,000 riders used the train in the fiscal year that ended last Sept. 30.

"WHILE WE are pleased with the development of Michigan's Amtrak programs in general, we feel this particular train is not used enough to warrant its continuation," Pitz said.

Town Hall books TV critic

Dr. George Gerbner, dean of the Annenberg School of Communications at the University of Pennsylvania, will discuss the effect of 30 years of TV at a Livonia Town Hall lecture at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 18, in the Mai Kai Theatre, Plymouth and Farmington roads, Livonia.

Newsweek magazine has referred to Gerbner as "perhaps the nation's foremost authority on the social impact of television." For the past 15 years he and his assistants have analyzed 1,600 prime time programs.

One of their conclusions, according to Newsweek, was that male prime-time characters outnumber females by three to one. With some exceptions women are presented as "weak, passive satellites to powerful, effective men."

Tickets for the event may be purchased at the door for $10. Participants who wish to attend the lecture by Dana Andrews on Wednesday, March 21, may purchase a ticket for his lecture and Gerbner's for $14.

Reservations for the celebrity luncheon following the lecture must be made by the Friday before the lecture. It takes place in the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth. Tickets are $8. Checks for the luncheon may be sent to the Livonia Town Hall, PO Box 2143, Livonia 48150. For information on the luncheon call Shirley Dodge at 464-6159.

For information on lecture tickets, call Terry Hand at 464-6573. Those wishing to purchase tickets by mail may send a check payable to Livonia Town Hall to Hand at 15778 Riverside, Livonia 48154.

Antique collector mixes old and new

Older furniture blends with contemporary pieces

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

The old can be used to make new decorating schemes, says Marjorie Reynolds.

Reynolds, who buys and sells antiques and collectibles, has accumulated a variety of such items from her travels around the United States and Europe. The Reynolds home in Livonia is a warm, comfortable arrangement of the old and the new, where antiques and contemporary furniture stand in visual harmony.

"I like to mix the old with the new," Reynolds said. "It's nice to mix and match. You never have the same room."

IN THE REYNOLDS' living room, new pastel upholstery and a contemporary light-colored sofa blend with the rose carpeting. The sun filters through lace drapes at a large window, caressing such older items as Waterford crystal paperweights, tiny cast metal figures and Oriental lamps that are displayed around the room.

Each wall in the room houses an assortment of plates and prints from England and France. A bookshelf contains elegantly bound books, some of them in German. There are brass candlesticks from France and a chestlike tea caddy from England as well.

Reynolds credits Tom Martin of the Hudson's at Fairlane with helping select the newer furniture. But she and her husband have added touches of their own.

For example, the Reynolds cut up an oak table from Chicago that dated back to 1900. The tabletop and "claws" from the bottom of the base were removed. A plate of glass, one inch thick, was placed on top of the oak base to make a new table, now in the living room. The "claws" were fastened to a wall in another room to hold glass shelves.

THE UNUSUAL IS the norm in the Reynolds home. A bell collection hangs near the kitchen, along with a relief sculpture of the Last Supper found at the bottom of a basket in Spain. Warmers from Spain, resembling long-handled, covered pans, are hung in a row close by.

"These would be used out in the fields to warm the workers," Reynolds said. "They would put coal in them."

The family room continues the theme of combining the old and the new. It contains an Oriental rug from New York, an armoire from Denmark that was purchased in Michigan and small children's chairs from Maine, complete with indentations to accommodate the hoop skirts of a time long ago.

Paneling in the family room has been painted a light yellow. Bright upholstery with a contemporary design covers the furniture there.

REYNOLDS, WHO has been traveling for 12 years, looks for what is "eye appealing," she says.

"I get just what hits my eye," she said. "We'll rent a car and just tour, staying at little inns or hotels."

Reynolds has been interested in collecting items all her life. She recalls that as a youngster she liked collecting and "always had little boxes of trinkets."

2 residents receive grants

Two residents were among eight faculty members at University of Michigan-Dearborn who have received grants from the university's Annual Fund to "enchance the educational experience of students."

Dr. Charlotte Otto of Plymouth, assistant professor of chemistry, received a grant to fund organic chemistry computer programs for classroom use.

Dr. Pankaj Mallick of Canton, assistant professor of mechanical engineering, received a grant to purchase demonstration slides for teaching experimental stress analysis.

The 1983 Annual Fund campaign totaled more than $21,000 through last fall's Phonathon and direct mail appeal to alumni, friends, faculty and staff of UM-D.

Now everything you've always wanted for less... is less.
Our Annual Sale-
when almost everything is 10% to 40% off regular prices.
At Workbench, we don't have lots of storewide sales. Just one a year. But it's a dilly. Because we mark down all our best stuff. Not just a few things. Not even just a lot of things. But almost everything. And mark down is all we do. Because, unlike a lot of other places, we don't bring in so-called specials or things no one wants or that were over-priced in the first place. At Workbench we just go through the store with our red pencil and slash prices. Which means that right now you'll find Workbench's best at 10% to 40% less than you'd expect to pay.
That's right, 10% to 40% off on butcher block tables, upholstery, storage systems, bookcases, carts, music benches, desks and chair after chair after chair. Even the already reduced "Foreign Policy" prices on most of our imports have been further price cut for this sale.
Of course, there are a few things currently oversold that we can't put on sale. But, odds are, the great things you've been promising yourself to get are here.
Is there a catch? Only time. Because we have only one storewide sale a year. So hurry. Because if you wait too long, you'll have to wait a whole year for our sale to come around again. And that's more time than anyone should spend waiting to spend less.
Our Danish cart from Ervi measures a full 20 x 31½" so it can hold even a big 19" color set. And the bottom shelf is perfect for a video recorder. In oak or teak $89 reg. $99
From Denmark and a Workbench exclusive, our Tivoli storage units in oak or teak veneers (walnut available at slightly higher prices). We've shown only a few—there are many other coordinating pieces. As shown: 2 wide base cabinets $68 ea. reg. $80 ea.; 2 wide top cabinets $59 ea. reg. $70 ea.; 4 wide drawers $25 ea. reg. $30 ea.; double glass doors $55 reg. $65; double doors $39 reg. $45.
Our roll top desk in oak or teak veneer offers compact work space on top of a four drawer chest. Made in Denmark by Tadi. Stil $395 reg. $439. Shown with our Kevi desk chair in oak, teak or white $107 reg. $119.

Antique collector mixes old and new

The sun filters through lace drapes at a large window, caressing such older items as Waterford crystal paperweights, tiny cast metal figures and Oriental lamps that are displayed around the room.

Each wall in the room houses an assortment of plates and prints from England and France. A bookshelf contains elegantly bound books, some of them in German. There are brass candlesticks from France and a chestlike tea caddy from England as well.

Reynolds credits Tom Martin of the Hudson's at Fairlane with helping select the newer furniture. But she and her husband have added touches of their own.

For example, the Reynolds cut up an oak table from Chicago that dated back to 1900. The tabletop and "claws" from the bottom of the base were removed. A plate of glass, one inch thick, was placed on top of the oak base to make a new table, now in the living room. The "claws" were fastened to a wall in another room to hold glass shelves.

THE UNUSUAL IS the norm in the Reynolds home. A bell collection hangs near the kitchen, along with a relief sculpture of the Last Supper found at the bottom of a basket in Spain. Warmers from Spain, resembling long-handled, covered pans, are hung in a row close by.

"These would be used out in the fields to warm the workers," Reynolds said. "They would put coal in them."

REYNOLDS, WHO has been traveling for 12 years, looks for what is "eye appealing," she says.

"I get just what hits my eye," she said. "We'll rent a car and just tour, staying at little inns or hotels."

Reynolds has been interested in collecting items all her life. She recalls that as a youngster she liked collecting and "always had little boxes of trinkets."

Her accumulations grew over the years. The countries visited by the Reynolds include England, Ireland, France, Portugal, Spain, Italy and Austria.

When Reynolds isn't traveling, she is operating her antique business and appearing at shows in the state. Her displays have been seen in Ann Arbor and Farmington Hills, most recently at the Glen Oaks Country Club.

"It's fun to do," Reynolds said.

Marjorie Reynolds has filled her home with a variety of attractive objects with appealed to her eye for the best of the old and the new.

These Oriental mud figures from china are in the Reynolds' living room.

This oak tea cart from Chicago dates from 1900. The teapot is on an English brass trivet from the Victorian era.

Artifacts

In an earlier installation of the Artifacts column I mentioned that before you begin any work of art you should: 1. consider or "take thought of" what you are about to draw; 2. appreciate or "become aware of the value" of your subject; 3. remember to express your feelings; and, last but not least, 4. be sincere in your expression.

Today I would like to talk about execution. The word execution in artistic terms means "to carry out" "to perform or deliver." So it is of little use to be fitted with the proper art materials, inspired by a particular subject and mentally prepared for expression, only to be unable to make a pleasing delivery. This is truely the most frustrating circumstance an artist or student of art can experience. Believe me I know!

By the time you have finally worked out the basics of the subject, you are so frustrated, you lose the inspiration. It is interesting that this happens at all levels of ability and experience. The only difference, however, is that experienced artists know they will eventually work out the bugs to produce a valid expression. But new artists are quickly overcome by feelings of failure and will perhaps never even attempt the subject again. So the finishing comment from the experienced artist is, "I had a difficult time but I think it worked out OK," and the new artist might exclaim, "Oh, I'll never try to draw that again."

MY DAY begins like most people, except I can't imagine everyone having the same difficulty waking as I do. I mean I actually subvocalize instructions to my heart to keep beating, and speaking aloud is out of the question. Often I will stumble to my car and put it on automatic pilot which will deliver me to the doughnut shop. There Sophie has learned from my hand gestures and mumbles, that I want a coffee and a peanut donut. Then I present a fist full of change from which she extracts the correct amount (I think), and then I return home for my morning ritual.

Here is where my mornings differ from most business men. After a little coffee and doughnut, Adam and I curl up to watch Bugs Bunny cartoons. One of my favorite scenes is where a man is trying to audition for an act with his talking dog. The man proudly places the little dog on the desk of the grouchy looking talent scout. The man asks the dog, "What's the opposite of smooth?" And the dog answers "Rrruff." He then asks, "What's on top of a building?" The dog answers, "Rrruff" and the man says, "See, he said roof!" Then the man asks the dog, "Who was the greatest baseball player of all time?" To this the dog again answers "Rruff," thrilled the man said, "See, he said Ruth!" The next scene shows both getting kicked out into the street. Here the dog turns to the owner and says, "Maybe I should have said Joe DiMaggio?"

The little dog possessed the ability to talk yet his delivery was unconvincing. So it is with many artists and students of art. Not only must you be prepared mentally to do a work of art but likewise must your execution be a convincing reflection of your ability and style. Wow! That sounds like a lot of work, and I would be lying if I said it wasn't.

But if ever there was a perfect phrase for this "work" it would be "a labor of love." Before you can easily use any media you must gain relative mastery of it. Mastery merely means control and control means practice and practice requires time and time requires commitment.

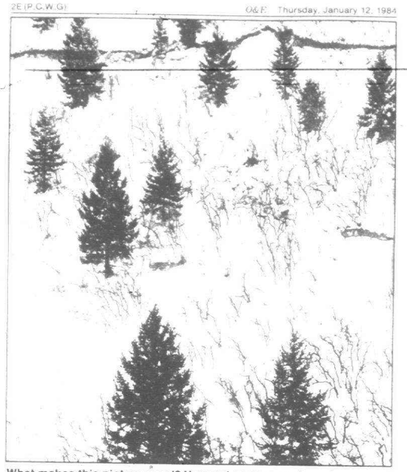

IF YOU don't set aside a few dollars for entertainment they won't be there when you want them. If you don't set aside time for your family and friends you won't find the time. And likewise if you don't set aside time for artwork, it will fall to the wayside in the press of business.

The term commitment means "no alternatives," "set aside" or "pledge." One night while driving home, after teaching one of my adult classes, I became upset because I couldn't recall saying anything to Betty. She is very talented and a pleasure to teach, but I felt terrible that she paid for her lesson and I couldn't remember teaching her anything in particular. But then I realized that if for nothing else, the "set aside" time out of her busy schedule to do artwork was worth the fee. So regardless of where you spend the time be sure you commit yourself to the time required for your artwork.

Mastery or control of any medium can come about only through practice and instruction. Practice is primary and instruction is secondary. Mastery, however, without instruction requires a much greater amount of time. I feel the best media to begin to control is graphite or pencil. To master graphite I also feel you must use different hardnesses of pencil. The range of hardness in graphite is very useful to artists and yet it is so often neglected.

Graphite pencils range from 6B which is very black to 9H which makes a very light gray line. Many artists use just one or two soft pencils (6B and 2B) and obtain the required shades of gray by altering their pressure on the pencil. Even though this can produce a beautiful pencil rendering, the results are inferior to that obtained from the use of the full gamut of grays. When only using one or two pencils you must lightly stroke the paper to achieve a light gray. This however, shows the grain of the paper and tells the world that it is a pencil drawing. Use soft pencils (6B, 5B, 4B, 3B, 2B, B, HB) for black or dark areas and hard pencils (H, 2H, 3H, 4H, 5H, 6H, 7H, 8H, 9H) for light or white areas. With these you can achieve photo-

Go for the 'good'— let feelings show

Monte Nagler

I'm often asked by students and photography friends: "What makes a picture good? What separates the dynamic photograph from the ho-hum snapshot?"

There are a number of key ingredients that get a picture noticed and give it attention-getting power.

First is impact — difficult to describe, but so important in the formulation of a good photograph.

You might say that if a picture arouses feelings and emotions of joy, appreciation, or excitement, fear or sorrow, then that photograph most assuredly will have impact.

How do you obtain impact in your shot? Begin by selecting subject matter that is either unusual or is treated in an unusual way.

USE A different camera angle or perhaps a different lens. Place the subject in an unusual environment or try special filtration for a unique effect.

Pay attention to good composition. Place the elements of your picture in the viewfinder in the strongest way possible.

Express on film what you see and feel when taking your shot. Fill the frame for added impact and watch backgrounds for distracting objects.

A good picture will hold the viewer's attention and will keep him thinking about the image. It will also stir up his imagination.

A good photograph will often have a story to tell that will have meaning and substance. How best to put meaning in your shot is to photograph those subjects that capture your own interest.

If your own feelings become a part of your photograph, you most certainly will produce a fine picture, one that will have more impact for others to enjoy.

Not only should a photograph say something worthwhile, but it also should say it well. The pictures must be sharp (or unsharp as desired through selective focusing) and have proper exposure.

Color saturation and contrast should be technically correct and your pictures should be presented in a neat, professional fashion.

Also, sharpen your visual awareness and your perception of the world around you. If you do, your photographs will be remarkably improved.

Paper art show opens

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

The national invitational paper show, "Surfaces and Structures," which opens at Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association with a 2-5 p.m. reception Saturday, is certain to generate more than a rustle of interest.

Even the master paper maker himself, Ted Ramsay, exhibition curator, was astounded at the variety and quality of the works. And he invited the 38 artists whose things he was busy unpacking last week.

He didn't ask for slides ahead of time saying that the submissions were left to the discretion of each artist. "These people are all professionals. I thought it would be more interesting if we just gathered in the pieces."

AND AS he slowly unpacked the pieces (in many instances, the packing is almost as artful and intricate as the pieces themselves) his judgment was vindicated.

Leslie Masters, helping him, voiced her surprise at how far these artists were taking their medium into a personal art form.

Ramsay agreed, saying, "Everyone is pretty much doing paper in their own way. " adding, "we have some really strong people and they're all different. Many are using the same tools (such as) the Hollander beater. Most are using cotton — some flax or Japanese papers which are mulberry. What you have here is classical material with very contemporary meanings."

EVEN THOUGH there were many still to be unpacked, Ramsay found much to admire in what he called "generations of paper artists."

There are the pioneers of the art in the United States, the group who learned from them and those who studied and learned from the second group. Ramsay is in the middle group.

He talked of some of the first: "Douglass Howell was one of the first to reactivate (the art) in this country."

He continued as he unpacked two works by Garner Tullis of California, "He had the Institute of Experimental Printmaking." It first worked with him in 1976. It was the first time it had been involved in paper. Before that I had been doing painting."

Ramsay, who teaches art at University of Michigan and gives workshops on paper making, has a show of his Mnemonic Map Series at Ann Arbor Art Association through January. Three of the pieces from that series are in the show at Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association.

"Surfaces and Structures" is as much a show of strong contrasts as it is of the paper artist's art.

THE SHAPES, colors, quality of paper, design and treatment all cover the broad spectrum of what is possible. The works of Marcia Morse of Honolulu, done in a grid pattern, are as delicate and intricate as circuitry patterns.

The works of identical twins, Kathryn Clark and Margaret Prentice, are far from identical, but both show the fine workmanship and use of color that earned them Ramsay's praise, "two of the best paper makers in the country."

Kenneth Noland's two pieces with soft colors and a painterly quality create a completely different mood from B.J. Bennett's brilliant red works which seem to reflect the glowing, colorful skirts and shawls of the costumes she saw while living in Peru.

THE EXHIBIT will continue at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association through Feb. 11. It will open at the Slusser Gallery of the University of Michigan School of Art, Ann Arbor, on Feb. 15 and close there on March 7.

After that it will open at the Ella Sharp Museum in Jackson on March 14 and continue there through April 8.

Hours at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday, 1516 S Cranbrook, Birmingham.

How to master the pencil

graphic realism that requires viewers to ask "how was that done?"

HERE ARE two tips that will help you master the graphite pencil medium.

First, do your basic drawing on cheap layout paper. Here is where you do all the work and make all the mistakes.

Remember, look at your drawing in the mirror. The reversed image will show up your mistakes faster than an art teacher.

Then transfer your corrected and perfected drawing to a clean sheet of good, heavy drawing paper or to two-or-three ply bristol board.

You transfer by rubbing graphite on the back of your first drawing. Then trace your original drawing to the clean sheet of bristol or drawing paper.

Now carefully trace over the corrected lines and shapes on your original drawing. Then lift the original to reveal clean paper with the best of your drawing transferred.

Here you will fully render in pencil to the best of your ability. Seek for deep and rich blacks, subtle highlights and all the shades of gray you can find.

The second tip is not to rely on an outline to establish a shape or form. In reality, there are no black outlines to define shapes and forms. You see objects because they are of a different color, shape or texture than their surroundings.

Now in graphite you are working only in shades of gray, so use shades of gray contrasting against each other rather than defining every shape with lines. If you do this you will be pleased at how realistic your work will become.

Last of all, clean up your paper with a kneaded eraser. Now, here is another secret so keep it to yourself . . .

I spray all pencil drawings with dulling spray. This takes the glare off the heavy dark areas, that is always a giveaway as to graphite.

More than in any other media, people will put their nose right to the artwork and look and ask, "What medium is this?" Dulling spray gives the artwork such a finished look that often people will mistake it for a print.

So, everyone: Enjoy graphite, master it and never underestimate it. There is no better feeling of fulfillment than when you consider what you would like to draw.

Appreciate its value and express your personal feelings in its execution. Best of all is having total control over the medium, so that you can make it do what you want it to. . .

So if you are a Jack of all media, try being a master of one!

I am happy to report that the first 10 Artifacts installations have been reprinted into a booklet and are now available at the Art Store and More for $3.95 each. It is at Middlebelt Plaza, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Phone number is 476-2296.

68th Detroit Auto Show
January 14 thru 22, 1984
Cobo Hall, Detroit, Michigan

Prepared By Convention & Show Services 313-259-1551

We're on a roll!

Auto Show stresses a strong 1984

The 68th Detroit Auto Show, featuring more than 400 cars, vans, trucks, and specialty cars will start a nine-day run in Cobo Hall with an official opening at noon Saturday, Jan. 14.

The traditional black tie charity preview from 7-9 p.m. on Friday will benefit the Boys' and Girls' Clubs of Metropolitan Detroit, the Children's Center, the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults and the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center.

The theme of this year's show is "We're on a Roll!"

"Our theme expresses the strong feeling that 1984 will see the continuation of the turnaround in the auto industry," said William R. Ritchie, chairman of the Auto Show Committee of the Detroit Auto Dealers Association (DADA), sponsors of the show. "We're on a roll in the DADA and ready to put those hard times behind us. We are looking forward to 1984. And we hope that the '84 Detroit Auto Show will bring the dawn of a bright new era in the auto industry. Let's get our American workers back to their jobs so they can start buying again and enjoy all the benefits that they and their families have known and to which they are entitled in a booming economy."

MAJOR FEATURES of the show include:

- The Most Incredible Contest — Show-goers must estimate the number of items stuffed into each of the 13 cars. The cars will be awarded to those 13 people estimating closest to the actual total.
- Van Conversion Show — Dozens of highly customized, super luxurious vans will be on display in the River Room.
- Exotic Cars — Located in two locations, the cars will include Alfa Romeo, Dusenburg, Excalibur, Jaguar, London Roadster, Ferrari and Zimmer, ranging in price up to $150,000.
- Ask the Dealer — Each night a panel of dealers, with former state Senator and Michigan Youth Corps Head Doug Ross as moderator, will answer questions from the audience from 7:30-8:30 p.m. Anything related to cars is a welcome question. Nothing is off-limits.
- High School Bands — Eleven high school bands from Detroit and suburbs will perform nightly. Two will perform daily on Jan. 14 and 15. The bands are from Troy Athens High School, Detroit Pershing, Southfield, Utica, Allen Park, Dearborn, Warren, Novi, Madison Heights Bishop Foley, University of Detroit High School and Sterling Heights Ford II.

The Auto Show presents Detroiters with an opportunity to see hundreds of American-made cars, imports, vans and trucks under one roof. The Detroit Auto Show is the only one in the nation that spotlights each car and fully carpets the entire exhibition area.

CHARITY PREVIEW Night will be held Friday, Jan. 13, from 7-9 p.m. in Cobo Hall. It is a black-tie event that raises $40,000 or more each year for the participating charities. Attendees regularly include Detroit's leaders in the automotive, financial, business, legal, industrial and political communities.

Guests will pay $30 a couple or $15 single to attend the gala event which includes a preview of the Auto Show.

The Children's Center is the oldest and largest community-based provider of mental health services for children (infants through teens) and their families in Michigan. It had been serving the emotionally disturbed, abused and neglected children since its founding in 1929.

The Northwest Guidance Center is a comprehensive mental health center helping persons of all ages cope with emotional and mental problems. Founded in 1964, the Northwest Guidance Center serves the east side the east side of Detroit, the Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods.

The Easter Seal Society was founded 63 years ago and serves physically handicapped children and adults. Besides offering therapeutic services, the Easter Seal Society develops recreational programs and advocates legislation to improve housing, employment and transportation for handicapped persons.

The Auto Show has been sponsored by the Detroit Auto Dealers Association since 1907. DADA is a non-profit, voluntary association serving 225 dealers in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Show hours are noon to 10:30 p.m. weekends, 2-10:30 p.m. during the week. Admission is $4; children under 12 are admitted free with parents. Senior citizens are also admitted free.

Thousands visited last year's auto show and even more are expected for this year's show which stresses the new upswing in the auto industry.

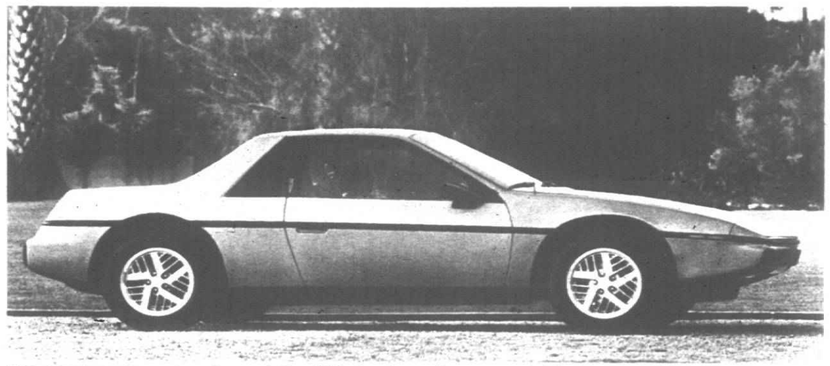

Pontiac Fiero showcases innovation

The first American-produced, mid-engine sports car — the all-new, two-seat Pontiac Fiero — debuts in 1984 as a showcase of engineering innovation, manufacturing technology and design efficiency.

Built on a 93.4-inch wheelbase and powered by a 92 horsepower 2.5-liter engine, Fiero combines excellent traction with the stability and control of a mid-engine, rear-wheel drive vehicle.

Three basic principles guided engineers' work on the Fiero project. First, Fiero is a driver's car, designed and engineered with the driver's needs a primary consideration throughout every phase of Fiero's development.

Second, using many proven mechanical components in new ways, Fiero is an innovative, revolutionary automobile. Third, during all elements of the Fiero program, customers' demand for the highest level of satisfaction were recognized.

The aerodynamic wedge shape of the 1984 Pontiac Fiero features electrically operated hidden rectangle headlamps up front with black, neutral density tail-lamps mounted flush to the body surface in the rear. All glass surfaces are nearly flush with the body for a clean aerodynamic shape.

THE FIERO is available in three models: an entry level coupe with four-speed transmission and 13-inch tires, a sport coupe offering performance and driving excitement with 4.10 axle ratio and the SE model which adds to the sports car flair with an up-level interior and the special WS6 performance handling package.

Beginning with the driver and continuing with shape, packaging and exterior skin, the logic of Fiero's design is a key to understanding the car.

The first goal of the Fiero project team was creating a spacious, open feeling with plenty of head-and-leg room and more shoulder room than most other small sports cars. To design function around the driver, a free-standing instrument cluster for easier service and cockpit-feel driving efficiency. Behind the cluster, a full-width ventilation duct replaces the traditional instrument panel.

Fiero's standard instrumentation includes an electric speedometer with trip odometer, tachometer, fuel level indicator, voltmeter and coolant temperature gauge. Functional tell-tales indicate door ajar, engine compartment lid ajar, high beam indicator, up-shift indicator, seat belt warning, oil pressure warning and check engine light.

A multi-functional, column-mounted control lever houses turn signals, headlamp dimmer, windshield wiper and washer and optional electronic cruise control.

Contoured bucket seats offer lateral restraint and tilting seat backs are standard in first level cloth trim or up-level cloth or a fleece and leather combination. An AM radio is standard in the console and optional AM/FM stereos feature two three-inch speakers in each headrest.

Fiero's aerodynamic wedge shape offered engineers the greatest benefits in design and performance in a two-seat, mid-engine package. Fiero, from the Italian word meaning "very proud," is aerodynamically efficient design.

Lincoln-Mercury offers luxury lineup

Significant changes in its luxury-car lineup and several new powertrain options highlight Lincoln-Mercury's prestigious cars exhibited at the 1984 auto show.

Among the division's offerings are a new Continental Mark VII, a redesigned Continental, and turbocharged versions of the popular Cougar, Capri and Lynx. In addition, there will be diesel engine options on Lynx and Topaz — and later in the year — a turbocharged diesel for the Continental and Continental Mark VII.

"Lincoln-Mercury is the only full-line division in the industry," said Gordon B. MacKenzie, Ford vice president and division general manager. "We have entries in nearly every segment of the market."

Highlights of the Lincoln-Mercury auto show lineup include:

THE 1984 Continental Mark VII, the most aerodynamic premium automobile built in America, is the first car in the United States to offer integrated, flush-mounted aerodynamic head-lamps, and the first to use an exclusive electronic three-way leveling air-spring suspension system that adjusts for passengers and luggage.

The LSC version of the Mark VII will offer maximum driving responsiveness. Its air-spring suspension system is calibrated to be 40 percent stiffer than that of the standard Mark VII, with larger front and rear stabilizer bars, higher air-spring rates, quick-ratio power steering, wide 15-inch cast alloy wheels and a performance axle.

The Mark VII also will be available in Bill Blass and Gianni Versace edition designer series.

THE REDESIGNED Continental for 1984 features an advanced suspension system using air springs specifically developed for Lincoln-Mercury and an optional 2.4 liter I-6 turbocharged diesel engine.

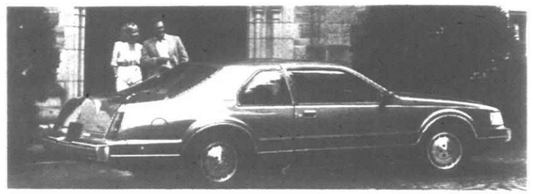

Several other features designed to increase driver and passenger enjoyment include: a new electronic temperature control system with rear-compartment heat duct; power mini-vent windows; an automatic radio antenna; digital fuel gauge and electronic odometer with multi-color graphics.

In addition, the traditional Continental grill has been swept back for 1984, and the quad headlamps have been recessed to provide more efficient aerodynamics as well as fresh styling.

Two designer series are offered for 1984 — Givenchy and the Valentino.

LINCOLN TOWN Car offers more of what a growing number of American car buyers are demanding — uncompromising luxury, state-of-the-art technology, industry-leading quality and a proven record of sales success.

The Town Car for 1984 is powered by a 5 liter electronically fuel-injected V-8 engine teamed with a four-speed automatic over-drive transmission. For the traditional Mark buyer, the Signature series has been significantly upgraded.

Lincoln Mercury's all-new 1984 Continental Mark VII is the more aerodynamic premium automobile built in America and is the first car in the United States to offer integrated flush-mounted aerodynamic headlamps and the first to offer an exclusive electronic three-way leveling air-spring suspension.

COUGAR, LINCOLN-MERCURY'S distinctive aerodynamically styled personal car, will feature a new XR-7 model powered by a fuel-injected 2.3 liter turbocharged engine coupled to a standard three-speed automatic or an optional five speed manual overdrive transmission. The XR-7 also will include many special exterior and interior equipment items and special XR-7 polycast wheels.

Front-wheel drive Topaz offers consumers an optional 2.0 liter diesel for 1984. The all-new engine features an aluminum cylinder head and has built-in precombustion chambers for indirect fuel injection to each cylinder.

THE RESURGENT market for full-size cars promises to make 1984 another highly successful year for the Mercury Grand Marquis. It continues to offer the six-passenger roominess and big-car body-on-frame ride more and more buyers are demanding. The 1984 Grand Marquis will be offered in two- and four-door sedan body styles, as well as the spacious Colony Park Wagon. An elegantly luxurious LS model is available on each bodystyle.

The five-passenger Mercury Marquis enters 1984 with an up-graded equipment level plus several subtle refinements aimed at broadening its appeal. Marquis' already high level or standard equipment is being supplemented by automatic transmission and power steering on all models — four-door sedans as well as the versatile wagon.

Plymouth introduces new family wagon

Plymouth Voyager is reborn for 1984 as a unique, all-new space-age American family wagon.

The innovative versatile Voyager combines the ease and driving comfort of front-wheel drive passenger cars with the people-or-cargo-carrying capability of station wagons and vans.

With seating flexibility to carry up to seven people and luggage, and large enough to move around in, Voyager still is compact and light enough to be fuel efficient, easy to get in and out of, easy to handle, and it offers excellent visibility. Although 39 inches shorter than a full-size wagon, it offers 40 percent more luggage space.

All all these features are built into a package shorter than many mid-size cars at 14 feet, 8 inches long, about 6 feet wide, and just over 5 feet high — a package with surprising room that is aerodynamically clean and swift on the exterior. And it fits in a garage or a car wash.

Efficiently packaged, the front-wheel drive 1984 Plymouth Voyager is shorter than the K-car but seats up to seven people and has a "walk-through" feature from front to rear. It is powered by a 2.0 or 2.6 liter engine and is available with 5-speed manual or 3-speed automatic transmission.

VOYAGER IS built on a 112-inch wheelbase and is powered by Chrysler's 2.2-liter "Trans-4" engine or optional 2.6. Transmissions include a manual 5-speed (standard in the Voyager), or 3-speed automatic (standard in the high line Voyager Special Edition and the premium Voyager Limited Edition). The base model is EPA-rated at an estimated 24 mpg city and 37 mpg highway.

The first of a new breed of small wagons will compete against station wagons of all sizes, large sedans, and window vans.

Voyager is available in three price classes: Voyager, Voyager Special Edition, and the premium Voyager Limited Edition. All have extensive standard equipment to include power brakes and steering, steel-belted radial tires, electronic radio with clock, message center, tinted glass, and remote fuel filler door release.

Interior trim and equipment levels increase in the SE and LE, which also offer wood grain side treatment and other appearance items.

SOME OF the features of the Voyager include:

Aerodynamic styling: Extensive wind tunnel testing contributed significantly to Voyager's configuration.

Body structure and sheetmetal: Unitized construction means strength and rigidity without excess weight.

Doors and glass: Front doors are full-stamped design with flush ventless drop glass driven by flex-drive regulator. The right side sliding cargo door has flush tinted glass and is supported by three points and rides on needle bearings for one-finger operation.

Seats: Five-passenger seating is standard with seven-passenger seating available. Both seating packages are available in either deluxe cloth or vinyl upholstery with low-back front bucket seats or luxury cloth or vinyl upholstery with high-back reclining front bucket seats.

Let's get it together...buckle up.

Corvette You've read about it. Seen it take charge on the street. Now get a good close-up view. Take in the innovative engineering, high technology, quality and comfort. The new Corvette. It's come to stand for what "taking charge" is all about.

Get a firsthand view of the new Chevys.
Compare them. Car-for-car, truck-for-truck with the competition.

New Celebrity Wagon
Move into more wagon. More cargo space, more passenger room, more standard engine than any front-drive wagon ever had before. Move into the new Celebrity Wagon. It's EPA-rated higher than many ~~smaller~~ cars: 39 Est. Hwy., 25 Est. MPG* from a standard electronically fuel-injected engine. An engine so advanced it's fine-tuned by a computer as you drive.

Camaro Z28
Number one on the Camaro performance team. Powered by an available new 5.0 Liter high-output engine with 5-speed transmission. Its sleek shape seems to play to win with the wind.

Caprice
Family-size room, vacation-size trunk, full-size comfort and elegance. Last year, Car and Driver magazine called the Caprice Classic one of the "Ten Best Cars." And this year Caprice is even better than ever. The richer, custom-level trim interior is now standard in every Caprice Classic Sedan and Coupe.

Cavalier
Front-drive Cavalier gives you some of the most advanced design and engineering you'll find today. The 2.0 Liter, high-compression, electronically fuel-injected engine cranks out more horsepower than Honda Accord, Nissan Sentra or Toyota Tercel. And this year there's a slick new Cavalier look.

New Monte Carlo SS
Under the hood, five liters of high-performance V8. Spread out before you, an array of dials and gages. Beneath, stiffened shocks, stiffer springs, torqued on two solid iron stabilizer bars. A new kind of Monte Carlo. A new kind of magic. Ready to take charge on the road of your choice.

*With available automatic transmission. Use estimated MPG for comparisons. Your mileage may differ depending on speed, distance, weather. Actual highway mileage lower. Some Chevrolets are equipped with engines produced by other GM divisions, subsidiaries, or affiliated companies worldwide. See your dealer for details.

New Celebrity Eurosport
Now you can add the exciting style of Europe to Celebrity. Now, for 1984, you can have it all: Celebrity comfort, room and trunk space, plus the instant acceleration of Celebrity's advanced electronically fuel-injected standard engine. It's all wrapped up in an exciting new European-styled package called Eurosport.

S-10 Maxi-Cab
Up to 50% more in-cab storage space behind the front seat than Nissan King Cab. With available fold-up rear jump seats and front buckets, it offers room for four people.

S-10 Blazer 4x4
Get ready for the thrill of tough technology. Revolutionary Insta-Trac, standard on S-10 Blazer 4x4, lets you shift from freewheeling 2-wheel drive to 4-wheel-drive High and back while driving at any speed. It's helped make S-10 Blazer the best-selling sport utility vehicle in the U.S.A.

Front-wheel drive, safer and sportier

There's a lot more to front-wheel drive in an automobile than most people think.

Just about every automaker agrees that front-wheel drive is the best way to maximize utility in an economy car or restore traditional comfort to a downsized family sedan. As a bonus, it also provides better traction on slippery roads. But that's only part of the story, says Saab.

The Swedish automaker has been using front-wheel drive since 1949 not only for utility and comfort, but also for sportiness. That's why Saab engineers have a different light to shine on the subject.

Take for example drivetrain elasticity. This is not some thing that gets mentioned in automotive advertising. It should, because it's important.

SAAB ENGINEER Gunnar Larsson explains why, "One of the most important performance and handling characteristics of a car is the way it provides the driver with correct information. This is how he can determine his next action." On a front-wheel drive car the short distance between the engine and the driven wheels makes the transmission of power crisp and direct. There is no long propeller shaft, and drivetrain elasticity is minimal. As a result, the front assembly — including the steering gear — creates a warning system for the driver. Because the front wheels are driven, the driver is immediately warned through the steering wheel when there is a loss of traction. "Man is very sensitive in this respect," Larsson says. "He will perceive differences of one- hundredth of a degree."

This builds a confident relationship between the car, the driver and the road. The front-wheel drive Saab 900 has what is called "true steering wheel response." This means that the car quickly notifies the driver of how it has understood his various actions.

The upscale Saab 900S is a sporty touring sedan that comes equipped with air conditioning, sunroof, alloy wheels, power windows and power door locks. The rear seat folds down to increase trunk space to 53 cubic feet — more than many station wagons. The 1984 Saabs are recognizable by their new grille and new bumper extensions.

Buick will be first with cellular phones

Buick will become the first automaker to offer cellular telephones, the newest in mobile communications technology.

Cellular technology, developed by AT&T, provides higher-quality mobile communications and makes the service available to millions of users nationwide, compared to only a few hundred thousand users with today's conventional mobile radio-telephone technology.

The first custom application of cellular telephones will be available as a factory-endorsed dealer option on Buick's Riviera Coupe. The system has been thoroughly tested and will be installed in a special seat-mounted console. The telephones will be first available in the Chicago area, where the commercial cellular system is slated to be introduced shortly. Buick plans to expand the availability of the cellular phone option into other car lines soon after introduction, and it is expected that cellular service will be available in a growing number of metropolitan areas within the next two years.

CELLULAR TECHNOLOGY covers a geographic area with a honeycomb of computer-controlled cells that, in turn, are connected with telephone switching offices. Mobile phone signals are transferred automatically from one cell site to another as the vehicle moves within the honeycomb.

Plans call for the AT&T cellular telephone unit to be available to Buick dealers in the Chicago area later this year, or as soon as the Chicago cellular system is approved for commercial use.

Detroit Auto Show... Cobo Hall... January 14-22, 1984

There is a special feel in an Oldsmobile

American Motors shows sporty cars

Several exciting new models highlight the American Motors Corp. Auto Show exhibit for 1984. The award-winning U.S.-built Renault Alliance 2-door and 4-door sedans are joined by sister cars — the sporty Encore 3-door and 5-door hatchbacks. In addition, there's a new generation of compact 5-passenger four-wheel-drive Jeep Cherokee and Wagoneer SportWagons.

The 5-passenger Encore follows by exactly one year introduction of the widely acclaimed Alliance, the subcompact sedan that was crowned 1983 "Car of the Year" by Motor Trend magazine. While sharing the same basic platform as the Alliance, the front-wheel-drive Encore offers sporty, versatile hatchback styling that gives it its own distinctive personality.

THE ALL-NEW Jeep Cherokee and Wagoneer SportWagons offer the latest in four-wheel-driver engineering technology combined with Jeep's legendary off-road capability. These new vehicles are 21 inches shorter, six inches longer, six inches narrower, four inches lower andf 1,000 pounds lighter thant their 1983 counterparts, yet retain 90 percent of the interior space — plus even more cargo room.

Renault Encore, American Motors new hatchback entry in the highly competitive Class 3 subcompact segment offers exceptional fuel economy, outstanding ride and comfort, and a host of features not usually found in cars of this size.

The 1984 Jeep Wagoneer Limited (foreground) and the Jeep Cherokee offer the latest in four-wheel drive engineering technology, computer aided design, aerodynamic testing and robotic manufacturing.

Encore is offered in base, custom S, deluxe LS and luxury/sport GS 3-door models, and S and LS 5-door models. Encore offers an impressive fuel economy ratings. With the four-speed manual transmission, the EPA ratings are 38 mpg estimated and 52 highway.

RENAULT ALLIANCE will feature subtle changes and new convenience options for 1984.

Selective refinements include improved audio systems and the addition of a second windshield washer orifice for better distribution of washer fluid.

The all-new 1984 Jeep Cherokee and Wagoneer compact four-wheel-drive SportWagons are products of the very latest in engineering techniques, computer science, aerodynamic design and robotic manufacturing.

The sporty Cherokee is aimed at the more adventurous driver who may be equally comfortable in on-road or off-road environments. The Wagoneer is designed for the family-oriented buyer who wants the added security of four-wheel-drive in a luxury convenience wagon.

Buick takes lead in auto electronics

As the lead General Motors Division for applications of automotive electronics, Buick moves to 1984 with an impressive array of electronic engine, comfort and convenience controls.

Electronic powertrain control systems are more sophisticated, more efficient and more compact.

For 1984, all Buick-produced engines, with the exception of the sequential port fuel injection (SFI) turbocharged engine, will use single board control module. The Buick turborcharged engines feature a broad variety of electronic fuel injection, ignition, wastegate, and emission controls.

ALL V6 Buick engines employ an electronic vacuum regulator valve for more precise control of exhaust gas recirculation.

Electronic closed-loop spark control has been extended to all Buick's carbureted V6's.

Inside the 1984 Buicks, a new electronic cruise control system is a standard, across-the-board feature for 1984.

The new system permits the driver to increase speed at a controlled rate by holding the cruise control slideswitch in the resume/accelerate position. Speed can be increased incrementally, by one mile per hour, simply by tapping the resume/accelerator lever. And, to reduce speeds in one mile per hour increments, the driver simply taps the set/coast button.

The electronic Touch Climate Control system has also been refined for 1984.

ON THE Regal, LeSabre, Electra and Riviera, the system is modified to incorporate blower speed control and one degree temperature control. As in the Skyhawk system in 1983, audible feedback confirms the temperature and climate mode selections.

The 1984 Regal, as well as the Riviera and Century models, features increased use of digital instrumentation using vacuum flourescent displays. Standard instrumentation on the regal also is revised, along with instrument panel trim.

In 1984, the advanced 2000-series radios are available or standard on all Buick models offering digital readouts, distortion limiting wide-range-tone controls, and low profile switches. A Concert Sound speaker system is available on Regal Coupes, Electras and Rivieras.

On Rivieras, the Delco Bose music system now features search and repeat functions with the Dolby cassette player.

The Model T was the first car with mass appeal. Its low cost and easy maintenance became instantly popular and set a standard for the auto industry.

Ford's Model T set the standard

The symbol of low-cost, reliable transportation, the Ford Model T first chugged into history 75 years ago on Oct. 1, 1908.

Designed to be simple to operate, easily repaired, inexpensive and durable, the Model T retired the horse to pasture. The first year's production reached 10,660 units, breaking all industry records.

Subsequent production records of the "Tin Lizzie" were made possible through Henry Ford's perfection of mass-production methods. In October of 1913, Ford Motor Company began assembling the chassis for the Model T on a moving assembly line. By 1914, completed Model T's were popping out of the door of Ford's Highland Park plant every 40 seconds.

The Model T was a car full of "firsts." It was the first car to have its motor block and crankcase cast as a single unit; the first to popularize the steering wheel on the left-hand side; and the first to have a removable cylinder head for easy access to pistons and cylinders.

Butt of countless jokes, the Model T was without frills. Gas levels were measured with a stick, and standard equipment did not include spare tire, water or oil pump, horn, windshield wipers, heater, radio, rear view mirror, trunk or bumpers.

THE STARK simplicity of the car became a challenge to inventors, basement tinkerers, and amateur mechanics who set about to come up with improvements. Long before the Model T era had passed, more than 5,000 different accessories were available that could be installed on, inserted in, attached to, or buckled, buttoned, bolted, screwed, welded, wired of hung on a Ford car.

While the official farewell to the Model T came on May 26, 1927, with the production of the 15-millionth car, many more were built in other plants during the summer of 1927 while Highland Park was being retooled to build the Model A. In all, 15,458,781 "flivvers" were built over that 19-year period when the only colored offered was black.

Incredible contest offers car as prize

It's called "The Most Incredible Contest."

The prizes — 13 automobiles to be awarded to the winners.

It will challenge and intrigue each and every visitor to this year's Detroit Auto Show.

There will be 13 contest cars on display at the 68th Detroit Auto Show which opens to the public Jan. 14 and runs through Jan. 22 in Cobo Hall.

EACH WILL have its passenger compartment or its trunk filled with various objects — tennis balls in one, spark plugs in another, oil cans in another, or maybe even the glove compartment filled with aspirin.

The cars are:

- AMC/Renault Encore.
- Buick Century.
- Cadillac Cimarron.
- Chevrolet Celebrity Eurosport.
- Chrysler-Plymouth Laser.
- Dodge T115 Mini Van.
- Ford Tempo.
- Lincoln-Mercury Topaz.
- Oldsmobile Cutlass Ciera.
- Pontiac Fiero.
- Subaru Hatchback.
- Toyota Tercel.
- Volkswagen Vanagon.

On top of the cars will be a sign telling what the cubic volume of the compartment is and what the dimensions are of one of the objects used to fill it.

CONTESTANTS WILL be asked to estimate the number of objects in each car. After they have listed their 13 estimates, they will total those numbers. The grand total of the 13 numbers will be the contestants' entry.

The 13 contestants estimating closest to the total number of objects in the 13 cars will be the winner.

Desposit boxes for entries will be strategically located around the 274,000-square-foot, carpeted floor of Cobo Hall.

How to find the 1984 Buicks at this year's auto show.

It's really quite simple. First, look for a gathering of people who are very impressed with what they're seeing. An occasional smile or simple nod of approval could easily give them away.

Once you find them, slowly make your way through, and there you'll find the 1984 Buicks—Electra, Riviera, LeSabre, Regal, Century, Skylark, and Skyhawk.

And while you're there, we invite you to investigate all of the technological advances Buick has to offer, like turbocharged engines with Multi-port Fuel Injection and computer-controlled coil ignition.

The 1984 Buicks. Before long, the look on your face could be telling everybody else exactly where they are. Simple isn't it?

DETROIT AUTO SHOW • COBO HALL • JANUARY 14-22, 1984

Turbocharge Dodge, fast and efficient

Pack a lot of high performance technology into a new 2.2 liter four-cylinder engine. Equip it with a turbocharger, fuel injection, and electronic controls. Package it as the top-of-the-field front-wheel-drive sports cars built in the United States. Call the car the Dodge Daytona.

The new 2.2 turbocharged, fuel-injected engine is featured in the Dodge Daytona Turbo and Turbo Z and is an option on the Dodge 600 and 600 ES.

Designed to put the Daytona at the top of the field in acceleration, "high performance was our primary objective in developing the turbo engine," said Robert M. Sinclair, director of powertrain engineering for Chrysler Corp. "But we also wanted an economical engine, which may sound like a contradiction. We believe our approach let us achieve the right balance of power and economy to satisfy the demands of any driver, on any road."

The Dodge Daytona Turbo Z is America's first four-passenger front-wheel driver sports car powered by a turbocharged, multi-point, fuel-injected 2.2 liter engine.

TURBOCHARGING ALLOWS the driver to get more power from the car's engine when the driver needs it, for example, entering an expressway or passing another vehicle. If the need for added power "boost" isn't there, the turbocharged engine behaves in normal fashion.

Turbochargers use waste exhaust gas energy to provide the extra power, according to Sinclair, who says the boost on the 2.2 engine brings it up to the power of a 6 or 8 cylinder engine. He cites a 45 percent increase in horsepower and a 35 percent increase in torque output, both achieved without increasing the engine size.

While several key parts of the turbo system are Chrysler-inspired, the basic turbocharger is a Garrett AiResearch unite called a T3. Consisting of a turbine and compressor connected by a shaft, pressure from the hot exhaust gases spins the turbine wheel which causes the compressor wheel at the shafts other end to rotate. The compressor's spin forces about 50 percent more air into the engine cylinders allowing more fuel to be burned and resulting in increased power.

A Chrysler-specified, water-cooled bearing housing for the turbo protects the precision bearings from high temperature oil problems, eliminating a need for a cool down idling period before shutting off the engine.

A wastegate assembly on the turbo is a pressure control valve which limits the high pressures on the engine by bleeding off excess pressure.

An advanced electronic control unit, developed by Chrysler engineering and built by Chrysler's Huntsville electronics plant, is the brains behind the turbocharger, fuel-injected engine. Two modules, one logic and the other power, control the system.
