Parents file new set of recall petitions By Gary M. Cates Drive targets entire school board them specific," she said. staff writer

Petitions for the recall of the entire Plymouth-Canton Board of Education have been filed for approval again by a group of parents.

The group, beginning in the Hulsing Elementary attendance area and spearheaded by Canton resident Elizabeth (Donnelly) Baker, filed recall petitions Monday with the Wayne County Clerk's Office

A hearing date, to rule on the clarity of the charges, will be scheduled for sometime this month.

We're back and at it, but we never really stopped," Baker said Tuesday. The same group filed recall petitions against the board in November, but withdrew those petitions when the county Elections Commission ruled three board members were ineligible for recall - because they hadn't served on the board for more than six months from their election. Rather than fight the Election Commission's interpretation of the state's recall law, the group decided to re-file at a later date, according to Plymouth attorney Steve Boak who represents the group.

The most recent petitions list a set of five new charges against all seven board members. The charges include: The member's action and/or inaction was the cause of last year's school employee strike. • The member's complicity in using unnecessary and time-consuming legal processes to thwart negotiations during the strike lengthened the time students were unable to attend classes.

• The member failed to respond to proof that erroneous material was present in curriculum guides and was being taught in the school system. • The member failed to exercise fiscal responsibility by voting for an unnecessary change in the middle school day at a cost of some $300,000 • The member failed to exercise fiscal responsibility by not taking steps to terminate the existing food manage ment contract despite a $36,000 loss since September.

BAKER SAID THE GROUP learned from its earlier attempt to include specific charges when filing the petitions. 'They want specific, so we'll give

Although the group originally was spurred on by the employee strike last fall, Baker said momentum has picked up - as evidenced by the broader range of charges against the board.

Since the first recall petition try, she added, parents concerned about other issues have contacted the group.

"I've got files of names of people I've met since the first try, people who want to work on this "We're not out to get somebody, we just want things to change for the better," Baker said.

Tentative OK rescues some cut programs

By Sandra Armbruster editor

Marathon bargaining over a 30-hour period ending Tuesday night has resulted in a tentative agreement between the Wayne-Westland Education Association and negotiators for the board of

"We've got it all," said Bill Taylor, assistant superintendent for employee relations

Details of the agreement were sketchy. Both sides said terms of the agreement would be released after teachers and board members were informed about the new pact.

But Dr. Robert Kowalczyk, union executive director, said, "Our purpose was to restore programs.

"We wouldn't have gotten a tentative agreement without that.

ON MONDAY night, Taylor said no progress had been made in negotia-tions. However, negotiators continued to meet while building principals met with parents to discuss growing concern over program cuts.

Staff members were issued a position paper from the board earlier on Monday

Agreement on a new, three-year pact was reached about 10 p.m. Tuesday, Taylor said.

Negotiators for both sides were expected to meet again on Wednesday to write and finish contract language, Taylor said.

Changes in school and bus schedules could come sometime next week, he said.

The board was meeting in closed session Wednesday night to discuss the contract, and teachers were to have copies of the tentative agreement Thursday.

A ratification vote of the union's membership is to follow on Monday in each building during school hours, Kowalczyk said.

Board members are scheduled to vote on ratifying the pact Monday afternoon. The board is to reconvene at 6 p.m. for a meeting with its consultant on the search for a new superintendent, followed by its regularly scheduled 7 p.m. meeting

THE SETTLEMENT included all financial issues that were unresolved when the deadline for laying off 134 teachers and cutting the school day was reached last week, Taylor said Also eliminated last week were art music and physical education programs in elementary schools.

"I think its a fair contract," Taylor

Faces get hairy for special year

Residents shouldn't be surprised to see bearded policmen patrolling Canton's roadways.

The township board last week gave male police officers permission to sprout beards during 1984, in keeping with the township's 150th anniversary, called the sesquicentennial.

Many special activities are planned throughout the year, and the beards are intended to give officers a 19th century appearance. "This activity (beards) has the letter of request.

The firefighters won't be joining the police in their yearlong bearded appearance. Firefighters used to be able to wear neatly trimmed beards, but state occupational and safety officials said last year the beards cause a potentially unsafe fit of helmets.

Upcoming sesquicentennial events includea Founder's Day skit Wednesday, March 7, and a ball Saturday, March 10.

Board weighs hikes for supervisors

Merit board recommends salary boost of 6% for all

By Arlene Funke staff writer

The Township Board next month will take up the issue of raises for non-union department heads.

The merit commission is suggesting a 6 percent across-the-board raise for 10 department heads and supervisors. This group of non-union employees includes the finance director, police and fire chiefs, building official, personnel director, superintendent of the department of public works, recreation superintendent and their assistants. It excludes the planner, grants coordinator and economic growth director, who have individual contracts.

Last year, the merit commission also proposed across-the-board raises. However, the township board opted for in-creases of 3-7 percent, depending on the existing salary of the department head.

Employees at the lower salary range received higher boosts than those at the top.

After a brief discussion, the township board last week asked for a meeting with the merit commission. That has been set for Feb. 7.

"I'm opposed to across-the-board raises," said trustee Robert Padget. "I've been an advocate - year after year - that there should be other considerations.

When trustees asked for his recommendation. Supervisor James Poole replied: "What difference does it make? You don't listen anyway.'

The merit commission also has recommended increasing the midpoint salary range by 5 percent and increasing longevity pay for non-union employees.

Personnel Director Dan Durack defined the midpoint as the salary level which "reflects the marketplace." Employees would be paid within a 20 per-cent range, below or above the midpoint

"The midpoint is supposed to reflect the marketplace - what we want to pay our township employees in that classification," Durack said. Salaries above the midpoint would be reserved for "very long-term employees," Durack said

Meanwhile, the township has re-leased an "earnings survey" which re-flects the breakdown of wages and salaries paid during 1983.

Economic chief wins pay raise By Arlene Funke

staff writer

Canton's Township Board members have given good marks to Economic Growth Director Dave Nicholson, rewarding him with a 71/2 percent salary hike.

Nicholson who used to be assistant planner, works on a contractual agreement with the board. His new salary of $29,025 brings him to the same level as former economic growth director William Onopa, who was fired last Febru-

"I am extremely pleased with Dave (Nicholson)," said trustee Robert Padget, who has taken a strong interest in industrial development. "He is doing an extremely fine job."

Nicholson's job is to work with businesses who want to expand their existing facilities, and to attract new industrial clients to build or buy in Canton. Township officials have said more industry will ease the tax burden on homeowners.

Part-time legislature?

Second in a series By Margaret Neubacher

staff writer

WANTED: Part-time legislator, to work January-May. Experience pre-ferred but not required. Salary $15,000 plus some benefits.

Opinions are mixed as to who might answer such a classified ad.

"More and better" people would run for the legislature, contends state Rep. Thomas Powers, R-Traverse City. Powers has orga- and 36 from small retail and service businized a petition drive for a part-time legislature (PTL).

"The full-time job of a legislator elimi-nates a lot of potential candidates who can't get away from their jobs," Powers said.

"YOU'D FIND more businessmen, lawyers and farmers in a PTL," argued Roger Marz, political science professor at Oakland University. Marz opposes a PTL because he believes it would attract a narrower range of older people who could afford to leave their jobs.

"Studies show that it's advantageous for lawyers to mix in politics. Businessmen in a PTL are often those who do business with, or are primarily regulated by, the state."

With the exception of 1965-66, Michigan had a part-time legislature until 1969. A study of the occupations of former parttime legislators provides some clues as to the kind of persons elected to a PTL.

They listed their occupations for the Michigan Manual, a bienniel reference book issued by the state. IN JANUARY 1953, 32 senators and 100 representatives met in Lansing for the start of the 67th Legislature during the administration of Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams. Of them:

COMPARING the occupations of the legislators in '53 and '81 was difficult. In the nodern Legislature, many lawmakers didn't list previous occupations or, if professional persons, failed to list the kinds of clients they worked for.

Nevertheless, it was clear that more part-time legislators were involved in busi-ness while more full-time politicians tended to come from government or non-profit oc-

Schoolcraft College Trustee Harry Greenleaf said there would be an enrichment of people attracted to run for a PTL.

"People like myself and others who have full-time jobs could run for the legislature," said Greenleaf, a managerial employee of Ford Motor Co

But William Ryan, who started his career in a part-time legislature and was speaker of the House when it became full time, called the part-timers "captive legislators."

"Captive legislators were encouraged to run by the companies they worked for. We had a lot of attorneys and insurance agents then," Ryan said.

GERALD FAYE, Oakland Community College economics and political science instructor, said he would rather have full-time legislators. "Not someone who could have a conflict of interest. I don't want to see Ford or UAW operating on the floor of the Senate. I like accountability. If you don't like a representative, vote him out."

and, in addition, were asking for an 18percent raise over the remaining three vears.

Taylor had described that proposal as "not viable," while union president Bill Reese had pointed out that his membership had given up $2,million in concessions already. TO BLOCK THE budget cuts, including layoffs and program losses, the union succeeded Monday morning in give up the 6-percent cost of living al-lowance (COLA) due them in July. In stopping the board from continuing with the cuts, pending a show 'cause

That will now be "kicked over on Union team members, however, hold" until the contract is ratified,

The restraining order had little effect on district operations this week.

"The order was to cease doing what we were doing if anything was wrong. We didn't believe we were doing anything wrong," Taylor said, "Even if we did, I think it would be literally impossible to change things around."

The union also had filed an unfair labor practices charge with the Michigan Employment Relations Commission. "If the contract is ratified, we'll probably withdraw those charges," Kowalczyk said.

"It's good to get a three-year contract agreed to. Now we can get down to some other business.

'I think the community has to be proud of the system we do have, nowing full well there are areas Yack believes the recall charges against him are "arbitrary and without foundation. "As far as the labor problems with the people I talk to in the community, I realize nobody was happy about the strike. But people have looked at the agreement and are happy with the agreement," he said.

The VFW bowlers planning the marathon event are seeking entries from all sections and urging the bowlers to seek sponsors who will contribute to the project according to the number of pins knocked down during the day.

Last year, the bowlathon raised funds for the Special Olympics for the handicapped. When that fund was closed, $500 had been turned over to he Special Olympics.

The bowlathon committee, headed this year by Fred Schebor and Alice Fisher, hopes to better that mark because it will require a lot of money to restore the famous statue that was given to the United States by the French government 100 years ago.

Under the present restoration plans, the work is to be carried on for about wo years and will will cost $200 milion in donated funds

The VFW members and their bowling friends are eager to surpass last year's effort and play a role in the statue's restoration. Renovation leaders report that $67.7 million already has been raised by

Once again the citizens of our communities have been placed in a state of utter shock and confusion. We read with great dismay of another brush with the law by William Glenn Matney - a man who only six months ago stood convicted of negligent homicide in the death of Madonna Tharp. This same man was convicted three months later on a charge of drunk driving and driving on a suspended license. Now we read that he has been arrested again on a charge of drunk driving and other charges. When will we, as a community of concerned citizens, stand up and say "I'm fed up and I've had enough.'

Matney is in obvious need of help with his probems. He has shown a total lack of respect for the law, for others' rights to enjoy safe roads, and a total disregard for the leniency of the system which allowed him to be free after serving 41/2 months of a one-to-two year sentence on his previous convic-

Our bandmaster enters 25th year

HIS WEEK, the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Band is on tour in the South, en route to Louisiana Tech University for a band conference.

The event provides a good opportunity to recognize director James R. Griffith's many contributions to Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. Jim won't be embarrassed if we say a couple nice things about him while he's out of town.

We've been meaning to make a few comments about Griffith for awhile now because this year he is marking his 25th anniversary as a music educator in Plymouth-Canton. Now that his back is turned we'll unload with some nice comments we wouldn't want to say to his face.

FIRST, ABOUT Jim Griffith himself

Born in Traverse City, Griffith began playing the piano at age 5 and by fourth grade started playing the clarinet. That was enough to spark a serious interest in music, an interest that was solidified when he studied under the great bandsman William D. Revelli for four years at the University of Michigan.

In 1956, Griffith came to Plymouth as a student teacher. Band director Lawrence Livingston died the next year, and in 1957 Griffith became director of the instrumental music program here.

"It is the only job I ever had, and I wouldn't want anything else," Griffith said a couple of months ago. And there are a whole lot of band students and alumni who quickly would add that they wouldn't want to learn under any other master.

During the past 25 years, Griffith has ouilt a band program that the community s proud of. Yes, he has adapted to the changes marching bands have gone through to keep the CEP unit up-to-date. But beyond that, he has maintained a quality program and has assured that all bands at CEP be valuable learning activities for all participating students.

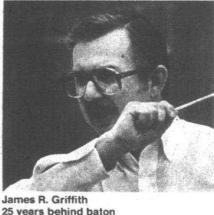

And in building great bands, Griffith also has built a great band boosters organization - a loyal band of volunteer parents and alumni who provide the behind-the-scene support that can make the difference between a good band and a great band. "Griffith, supported by the and boosters and by assistant Carl Battishill in recent years, has made many improvements in the band's library, uniorms and equipment without any burden on taxpayers.

IN ADDITION TO offering a highquality program to young musicians in Canton and Plymouth, CEP bands also function as amhassadors for outh Canton community The CEP maintains four hands at the high school level: the symphonic, concert, marching and jazz bands. Griffith and Battishill, over the years, have conducted the Plymouth Community Band in its concerts in the park series each summer. Last spring, the CEP Symphony Band presented concerts in Traverse City, eland and at the Interlochen Arts Academy. Since 1957, under Griffith's baton, the symphonic band has earned 40 first division ratings in district and state festivals. In recent years, CEP musicians have performed twice at the Midwest National Band Conductors Clinic at Chicago, at the Southern Conductors Clinic at the Uniersity of Southern Mississippi, the outheastern United States Concert Band Clinic at Troy State University in Troy, Ala., and at the Western International Band Clinic at San Jose

25 years behind baton

The CEP Marching Band, drawing musicians from both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools, has marched in the Orange Bowl Parade in Miami and in the Rose Bowl Parade in Pasadena, and has won many local and regional marching contests. For the past two years, the CEP has hosted the state marching band championship competitions, which speaks for Griffith's and Plymouth-Canton's reputation among band directors throughout Michigan.

Plymouth-Canton is proud of its young musicians and the excellent instrumental program at the CEP. Most of all, we are proud of James R. Griffith and the gualities he represents as an educator who cares about students and about quality in instruction. On his 25th anniversary here, we recognize those efforts and salute the man who makes them

schools have assumed that children will " Mitchell's school, Wiggam pointed out, follows the advice of the Parable of the Talent: "It gives the five-talent child a five-talent task, and the one-talent child a one-talent task. Thus each child feels himself ruler over just that portion of his environment which he has mastered for himself, each according to his several abilities. Above everything else, no child hides his talent, however small it may be, under a complex of fears, or wraps up his agonizing soul in the paralyzing napkin of

MITCHELL BELIEVED there are only two inborn fears - the fear of falling when unsupported, and the fear of a loud, All other fears, including the fear of hood, primarily by parents and the

Mitchell described his approach with wheat with a cradle or grass with a moving scythe, a half dozen men would start side by side to mow a swath across the field. If a man were tall, he would make a long swing and cut a wide swath; if he were short, he would make only a short swing and cut a narrow swath; but they all reached the other end of the field at the same time. Each had done his best, each had kept up with the other fellow, each had had the thrill of victory and success. Nobody had failed. Nobody had felt he was inferior or no good. They had all achieved

(Some of my readers, who would argue for a return to the basics, would suggest that a fault of today's schools is that all students are passed from grade to grade without having to meet any standards of achievement. I cannot answer that anymore than I can, in this limited space, describe specific learning goals Mitchell used. The key, I think, is the content or substance of what we want each student to achieve at any given level. If our curriculum is sound, and our teaching methods effective, is there indeed an excuse for any student to fail?)

range of general knowledge, a better grasp of traditional school subjects, and a eater ability to use this information than the average student of that day. But more important was development of self-confidence in performing tasks, an ability to get along with each other, and an eagerness to get to work.

And what a vast deal of time, money and heartaches has been saved," stressed Mitchell, "because all the children have been promoted alike from grade to grade. Some have cut a wide swath, and some a narrow one: but, like the mowers in the field, they have all done their best and they have all got there."

That task-oriented approach argued by Mitchell and Wiggam really is not that much different than the approach supported by Henry Ford in the first install ment of this column last week. Because of the differences in background between Ford and Mitchell, the arguments may sound different, but under the surface they really are quite close in basic aim.

BOTH ALSO WOULD find much to agree with, 50 years later, in the report of Michigan Commission on High Schools

Although I disagree with some of the specifics of the report, hopefully many of us can embrace the philosophical outline which charges that no student should be denied a full educational foundation.

We must demand the best effort and performance from all students. whether they are gifted or less able, affluent or disadvantaged, whether destined for college, the farm, or industry. We believe that everyone can learn, that everyone is born with an urge to learn, which can be nurtured, that a solid high school education is within the reach of virtually all, and that lifelong learning will equip people with the skills required for new careers and for citizenship

Importantly, the purpose of raising standards or expectations is not to screen, sort, or select only a few students to participate in the 'rite of passage' into a full measure of society's social and economic benefits. The aim. instead, must be to provide all students, regardless of race or sex, with those necessary tools."

Those sentiments sound very much like those expressed 50 years ago. We do not need to discover or build a new mountain but are better advised to continue our climb. As long as we agree on the aim (if we do), there's a good chance of hitting the target. Maybe in 1984 we can quit studying what to do and begin doing.

AVID Mitchell was among those for progress. American citizens in 1934 who felt American schools could be doing a better job and he was attempting to demonstrate how. His views were among those shared in a series of reports, "The Making of an American Citizen," published that year in Good Housekeeping magazine. That report was written by Albert E. Wiggam, writer, editor, columnist, and author of Wiggam introduced the piece by noting that the greatest fear in life is the fear of

OAKLAND COMMUNITY College political science instructor Gerald Faye asks, "Do you want Michigan's $5-billion budget allocated by people who make their living elsewhere? Should a PTL make those $5-billion decisions in a few months?"

Marz said the long hours legislators put in on committees and in hearings are not necessarily wasted.

"There's no way a PTL could have conceived of Michigan's revised crimias a model around the country. Legislators put in months of committee work to write that code."

State Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, acknowledging that her comments may be construed as self-serving, says 90 percent of a legislator's ime is spent in committee work.

"We spent 12 weeks in committee tax increase. I was at every one of those meetings. Let me tell you, it could easily have been a permanent increase if we hadn't had a chance to hear from all sides and throughly discuss the issue."

OTHERS, ESPECIALLY Republicans, disagree that committee meetngs are valuable and efficient.

> Schoolcraft College Trustee Harry Greenleaf, a longtime Republican Party leader who favors PTL, said, "What we're really talking about in a PTL is how much time is spent in formal session. Legislators would have to come in and go right to task. It would place more emphasis on the executive branch to propose and research the issues."

FEAR THAT the governor would control not only the executive branch but the legislative branch as well pits many people against the idea of PTL. "I believe anti-government people are behind this," said state Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills. "A PTL, yes, and let's eliminate government altogether, and have a benevolent dictator governor.

"The idea of a PTL has aspects of nal sexual conduct code, which is used rural and sparsely populated states, where the concerns of the government are modest. Michigan is equal in size to many foreign countries. There is a constant need for the government to address the needs of the people and be responsive to those needs all year long.

Bob Queller, vice president and executive director of Citizens Research working on the recent personal income Council of Michigan, says his group has not made a comprehensive study of part-time legislatures but will do so if the issue gets on the ballot.

"Over the years, there has been a lot of talk about a PTL and many efforts to return to one

"While some say it keeps the legisla tors closer to their constituents, it probably tends to tip the balance of power in favor of the governor.

Thinking machines are in our future

First there was artificial coloring, programming was to translate Rusollowed by artificial flavoring. Soon came artificial insemination And now we have artificial intelligence (AI).

Simply defined, "artificial intelligence" is the ability of machines to to things that people would say require intelligence.

It is a specific branch of computer science devoted to programming computers to carry out tasks that, if carried out by human beings, would equire reasoning skills. It is an attempt to simulate human intelligence by machine.

"Science fiction," you say. Not hardly, though many sci-fi authors have used this theme in their novels. We are reminded of HAL, the computer in "2001: A Space Odyssey," who overpowered the human commanders and took control of the

The extent to which computerized machines can do complex operaions independently of people is still sts that machines can be made to show behavior indicative of intelligence comparable or even superior to that of humans.

ELIZA, a computer program, so successfully simulated the conversation of a psychotherapist that even computer professionals found themselves spilling their most private thoughts and feelings to a machine. A version of ELIZA, called DOCTOR has a protocol like this:

DOCTOR: Good afternoon. Please type in your name. (The visitor does and the doctor continues) DOCTOR: What brought you here

o see me today' VISOTOR: Oh, nothing much. I'm feeling a bit tired, that's all.

DOCTOR: Why do you think ou're feeling a bit tired? VISITOR: Well, I've been traveling a lot, and away from home. DOCTOR: Tell me about your and "debugging" family.

Applications of artificial intelligence are numerous and varied.

Women's conference irritates men

Women trustees on the Schoolcraft College board are using their 4-3 majority to send one of their number to a leadership conference - for women.

It will cost Schoolcraft $979 to send trustee Sharon Sarris to Gainesville, Fla. by air for five days to attend the "Leaders for the '80s" project of the American Association of Women in Community and Junior Colleges (AAWCJC)

Four trustees favoring the expenditure were Sarris, Rosina Raymond, Laura Toy and Mary Breen. Opposed were Harry Greenleaf and Paul Kadish. Chairman Michael Burley abstained.

"IT'S BAD practice for three reasons," said Greenleaf.

"First, the nomination should come from within the institution (Schoolcraft)," he said, noting Sarris was nominated by an unnamed outside source.

"Second, it's wrong to restrict this to females

"Third, it's fuzzy in policy. Money should be spent for the whole board, not one member. If we do it for one, we should do it for all, which will cost $7,000.

The same money could be spent on a consultant, on reading materials, on anything for the whole board.

Another trustee noted an irony: The conference is in Florida, a state whose legislature failed to pass the Equal Rights Amendment. In the past, Schoolcraft trustees had objected to national associations in which it held memberships convening in non-ERA states.

SARRIS SAID the project involves "six months of work that I would report on regularly to the board.

"It's good PR for the college," added Toy. 'Sharon's the type of person who will share information

She denied the organization was closed to men, although Greenleaf said his information was that the conference was just for vomen.

Raymond pointed out that AAWCJC is part of the American Association of Community and Junior colleges, a group "so chauvinistic that they wouldn't let a woman be on the board for years."

"I've never been chauvinistic," replied Kadish. "I've never opposed female rights or male rights, but when someone brings up male chauvinism and excludes men, that irritates me.'

THE PROJECT, according to an administration memo, "is designed to assist community college women increase their policy-making skills and contribute to community colleges."

Past conferences were held for women college administrators. The current one is for trustees. It will address board procedures for developing policies and how to keep a board into policy-making and out of administration.

Sarris, a Livonia resident and former Livonia school teacher, who has been active politically in a number of areas, particularly in helping women candidates for public office. She was appointed to the board to fill a vacancy in 1982 and elected in 1983 to fill the remaining two years of the term.

WITH LESS fanfare, the board approved two days in Washington, D.C., for Raymond, who will attend the national legislative seminar sponsored by the Association of Community College Trustees.

Price is $766, including air fare and hotel.

At one point, Raymond offered to give up the Capitol Hill trip if it meant making Sarris' Florida trip more palatable to male trustees.

The male trustees turned down the offer, pointing out she had a chance to influence legislation beneficial to community colleges and that she was the board's choice

U-M chief praises Blanchard plan

University of Michigan President Harold T. Shapiro said he is very encouraged by Gov. James Blanchard's State of the State message proposing 6-10 percent more state aid for higher education.

But Shapiro said it would take further analysis to decide whether U-M can hold the line on tuition - a condition Blanchard set for the 10 percent aid boost.

"The governor's strong expression of support for higher education — indeed, all lev-els of education — is a critical first step toward halting the erosion of quality that has been the inevitable result of a decade of inadequate funding," Shapiro said. SHAPIRO PRAISED Blanchard's proposal to establish a Michigan Merit Scholarship Fund, a cash grant program for Michigan high school students who achieve academic excellence

The specific level of aid to U-M, however, and its ability to sustain the quality of its programs without raising tuition rates are matters that require further analysis, Shapiro said.

"We are very anxious to moderate tuition increases because we want our doors to be open to qualified students without regrad to their ability to pay," Shapiro said.

"FOR THAT reason, I am sure that the regents, who are responsible for setting tuition rates at the university, will be very interested in any initiative that will both moderate tuition rates and enable us to sus-tain our long traditions of quality programs. "It has to be understood that our ultimate ability to hold the line on tutition is directly related to the willingness of the state to appropriate sufficient funds to sustain quality cation and research programs.

"Given the past decade of declining support from the state, there may be no easy way to achieve this objective quickly."

Shapiro noted California's proposed budget for next year includes a 30 percent funding increase for the University of Califor-

Which would you prefer.. a higher stated interest rate or more money?

Michigan National compounds interest monthly to pay you more money for your money

Higher stated interest rates on Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) may sound good initially. But, if you're interested in earning more money for your money, consider the effects of Michigan National's monthly compounding of interest versus other banks' simple interest method of payment.

Earn interest on your interest

A minimum deposit of only $50 at . Michigan National earns interest each month. So, month by month, year after year you continually earn interest on your interest.

Most other banks, however, pay in terest on a simple basis

No compounding. No payment of interest on your interest

That's why other banks can quote a higher rate, and yet, pay less interest over the lifetime of your investment.

Don't be fooled by high interest IRA claims.

Invest your retirement savings with Michigan National where your IRA will earn more money for your money with monthly compounding.

Need a loan to fund your IRA?

Borrow up to your annual IRA con tribution limit at preferred rates to take advantage of 1983 or 1984 tax deductions. Then write off interest payments for an additional tax savings. Ask for details on the advantages of an IRA loan at any branch office.

Suburban Life

Thursday, February 2, 1984 O&E

THE PLYMOUTH Theatre Guild still plays at its old stand, the auditorium of the old high school on the corner of Main and Church, now known as Central Middle School. That's where they presented their first one-acts back in 1948. But times have changed.

Now, they videotape rehearsals. Like football teams, the players watch the reruns, study and critique their performances.

They have a good one going as their first presentation of 1984. If you missed "Bad Seed" last weekend, you can see it Friday or Saturday night. You won't be bored. It's a real cliff-hanger.

Members of the cast love Melanie Farrow, the 9-year-old Bird School student who has the lead role of Rhoda Penmark. Melanie performs like a seasoned professional. She projects; she's never out of character. As a member of the audience, you work up a lively dislike for sweet little Rhoda

The attractive and immaculate Christine Penmark, Rhoda's mother, is played by Cynthia Szczesny. As you empathize with Christine, the thought also occurs that the fashions of '50s really were attractive. The lovely Cynthia is excellent in the role.

Gerry L'Heureux of Canton Township is marvelous as Leroy, the janitor/handyman. His scenes with Rhoda are super. Clemie Cyburt as the tortured, drunken Mrs. Daigle gives a superb performance.

Effie Kuisel, charter member of the guild who was involved in those one-acts back in '48, is a perfect Miss Fern. The three Fern sisters run a private school but Effie is the only one who appears on stage. She makes the part a major role. After 38 years in the Plymouth Theatre Guild and more than that on stage, Effie said, "This is the first time I've played the part of an old maid."

The whole cast and crew deserve plaudits: Sue Haukkala and Gary Burton as the brother and sister, Peter Couse as Reginald Tasker, Robert Myrtle as Rhoda's father. Jack Farrow as Mr. Daigle.

Jack brought daughter Melanie over to audition for the role of Rhoda and came away as a member of the cast Chuck Miller really hasn't aged that much. He's just into the role of Richard Bravo, Christine's father.

Director Patricia Bray-LaFramboise put it all together. Her assistant director and stage manager, Lisa Risko, appears in the drama as a Western Union messenger and plays the piano offstage. Dennis Schlicker, who designed the set, and Ruth Ann Lumsden, who decorated it, really

Symphony presents all- orchestra concert

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will present an all-orchestral program at 4 p.m. Sunday.

Three works will make up the concert: a tempestuous overture, a symphonic suite built on materials from the "Arabian Nights" and a symphony by the composer whom many histori-ans call "the father of the symphony."

The Corsair Overture is based upon events experienced by the composer Berlioz. En route to Italy, a Mediterranean gale nearly wrecked the small ship Berlioz had boarded at Marseilles. It was during this voyage that Berlioz made the acquaintance of a Venetian corsair who was eager to reflect upon his life at sea. These events and reflections are some of the ingredients that it," Rimski-Korsakov added in his ex- est fruition as an art form. Overture.

RIMSKI-KORSAKOV'S Symphonic Suite, Scheherazade, also will be performed.

"The program I was guided by in composing Scheherazade consisted of separate unconnected episodes and pictures from the Arabian Nights, scattered through all four movements of my suite," wrote the composer.

"The seas and Sinbad's ship, the fan-tastic narrative of Prince Kalendar, the Prince and the Princess, the Baghdad festival and the ship dashing against a rock with a bronze rider on

The master of orchestral-sound painting scored Sheherazade with brilliance and resource. The marvels of orchestral color are achieved with a relatively small and traditional orchestra.

THE THIRD work to be performed by the orchestra, conducted by Johan van der Merwe, is Haydn's last symphony, No. 104. It is subtitled "Lon-

Spring Arts Festival sets Feb. 15 deadline

The second annual Plymouth Spring Arts Festival will be held Mother's Day weekend in Kellogg Park. The two-day celebration of spring and the arts will be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, May 12 and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, May 13.

The festival is sponsored by the University Artists and Craftmen Guild of Ann Arbor in cooperation with the city of Plymouth and the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce. The inaugural festival last year attracted 115 artists and more than 10,000 visitors. This year the organizers hope to accommodate more artists and expect even larger crowds.

Only University Artists and Craftsmen Guild members will be considered as exhibitors in the fair. Area artists, who are not guild members, must submit a guild membership application and five slides of their work for consideration by the jury. The fee for guild membership is $15. The application fee for exhibiting in the Plymouth Spring Arts Festival is $50. The fee will be re turned to those not accepted for the fair. Deadline for applications is Feb. 15

A NOTABLE feature of the festival is the high quality of the work exhibited. It is a juried art fair. A panel of judges will view slides of each applicant's work and accept only the best in each medium.

More information about the festival may be obtained by calling the guild at 763-4430. Membership forms and spring arts festival applications are available at the Plymouth Community Arts Council office, 332 S. Main Street, Plymouth or from Paul Sincock at Plymouth City Hall, Main at Church

Gulf & Western built ideal vacation spot

CASA DE CAMPO, Dominican Republic: When you fly from Santo Dom ingo to the private airport at Casa de Campo, you see the 7,000-acre resort spread out among the sugar cane fields at the eastern end of the island. Redroofed casitas, villas and condominiums are scattered among lagoons and golf courses beside the Caribbean Sea. There are no signs on the villa roofs reading "this is Oscar de la Renta's house" or "Sophia Loren slept here."

What attracts attention are other things: golfers teeing off across an em erald bay on one of the seven holes of "The Teeth of the Dog;" polo master Jabar Singh, nephew of the Maharaja of Jodhpur, leading his team across the polo field: a 16th-century Mediter-Chavon River a few miles away.

THE FACTS of Casa de Campo are simple and impressive enough: two championship 18-hole golf courses designed by Pete Dye, 17 tennis courts. golf and tennis villas, a curve of man-style. One way is to work with selected made sand beach, horseback riding, polo games, rodeos and other special events at Jabar Singh's stables.

The story of the resort is more complex, a mixture of commerce and passion that could rival any soap opera. Here is a synopsis of the script:

Gulf & Western Americas Corp. (G&W) buys a sugar mill and a quarternillion acres of land around the village of La Romana in 1967. Profits that cannot be taken out of the country are used build a glamorous resort, literally culpted out of coral rock.

G&W's founding chairman Charles Bluhdorn falls in love with the site and uilds one of the first villas there. Other beautiful people follow. The resort blossoms. In the mid-70's Bluhdorn hires a Holywood set designer to build a medieval Italian village called Altos de Chavon, literally 'the heights above the Chavon ver' as an artists' village. Local craftsmen, Dominican artists and international artists interact there. Later he adds a 9,000-seat Roman forum. Frank Sinatra gives the first concert

THE DENOUEMENT comes when Bluhdorn dies suddenly on a plane en route from the Republic to a New York City hospital. His beautiful 22-year-old daughter has been running Altos de ranean village sitting high above the Chavon for three years by then. Life goes on, but G&W begins to wonder whether it is all an impossible dream.

What that scenario means to the tra veler is that an unusual luxurious resort wants to increase its year-round occupancy rate while maintaining its charter operators; one of the few is Samson Tours of Southfield, which offers moderately priced trips weekly through mid-May. (Rates can be found in accompanying box.)

Casa de Campo is too big to walk around but you can rent electric carts or catch a minibus that leaves for Altos de Chavon every half hour, circling the resort on the way. They leave from the main complex of dining rooms, bars and swimming pools. A steady stream of daytime tennis and golf players eat at the various restaurant around Altos at night.

The food at Casa de Campo gets mixed reviews from its customer Breakfast in the Lago Grill is worth five stars in any guide book: fresh fruits squeezed to order, custom-made omélets and fresh Dominican coffee in the open air overlooking the golf course and the sea

serves elegant, expensive fare, and the nearby cafe El Patio is a pleasant lunch or light dinner spot. At Altos de Chavon, the Casa del Rio Restaurant offers an impressive view over the riv er, but the food is overpriced. There is good Italian food more noderately priced at La Piazetta, and several other smaller restaurants, the most interesting of which are a tiny sidewalk cafe called La Fonda that serves Dominican food, and a tiny bar with a dozen seats indoors and warmweather service outdoors.

Most tourists browse the shops and art galleries, or visit the excellent museum of Taino Indian archeology. A few stay in La Posada, a plain but intenesting inn, in the village or rent an extravagant house. If a well-known erformer is on at the forum, the vil lage is jammed.

There are a few things to do outside

THE MAIN attraction of the area is Casa de Campo, however; tourists who stay in Santo Domingo often make the two-hour drive to the resort for golf or tennis, or to visit Altos de Chavon.

The same pluses that attracted Charles Bluhdorn here in the first place are found all over the Dominican Republic: good weather, friendly people fresh fruits-vegetables-seafood. But i you want to hit a golf ball across a bay from one hole to another, or set up a

A tribute to Miss Liberty

Starkweather and Tanger school children have raised $400 to help restore the Statue of Liberty on New York's Liberty Island. Kindergartner Maryanne McMullen, who with her family and friends raised $110, received a certificate on behalf of the student body Friday from school librarians Judy Munsie and Dorothy McCormick. All students received certificates of appreciation and a special remembrance for their expression of national pride. Nearly $70 million has been raised to reburbish Miss Liberty for her 100th anniversary in 1986.

Spying on competitors an unproductive effort

O&E Thursday, February 2, 1984

special writer

10B(P.C)

(1st in a series of three)

(Author Jack Bologna operates a computer security and management consultant business in Plymouth).

Despite my 30 years in the intelligence law enforcement, and security consulting fields, I never have quite understood the rationale for industrial espionage, that is spying on competitors by stealing their plans, products, personnel, promotional strategies, patents or pricing formulas.

Some business organizations spend so much time spying on competitors, they don't have enough time left to "spy" on their customers.

I'd rather know what my customers current and future needs, wants, demands and desires are, than what the "big guy" in my industry is doing on pricing, promotion and product introductions. If he is watching me instead of his customers, he may be as dumb or uninformed as I am.

COMPETITOR intelligence is no doubt important in a tactical and reactive sense.

But in a strategic sense, you are much better off knowing what your customers are thinking, feeling, or doing with their time and money, and then catering to those needs. Somehow our business priorities got reversed.

Stealing customers is one thing. That's what business is all about. If I provide better products, at better prices with better services, I should get the customer's busi-

But stealing customer lists is not quite

Joins staff

the same. It's a sign of weakness in charac ter or product, or a sign of really dumb, dull-witted and uninspired management.

Stealing competitors' products and con ceptions (software or hardware designs) is certainly much worse. That's not just unethical, it's illegal. If you're caught, don't look to anyone for sympathy. You don't deserve

But how or why did this nonsense of competitor spying begin and why was it pre-ferred to customer spying?

Was it because customers were unwilling to divulge what their current needs, wants, demands, aspirations and desires were? Or were customers so unknowledgeable or so lacking in verbal skills that they couldn't communicate their needs?

No, customers can be very clear on what they want if you bother to listen. Our main problem has been our general reluctance or inability to listen, either because we saw the customer as a dolt, or didn't trust his judgment, or assumed we knew better, or arrogantly assumed we could control the customer through "hard selling" or by corrupting his judgment.

THERE IS NO void in customer polling techniques.

Market researchers have given us dozens of tools to do so. We can analyze customers by demographics, i.e. age, sex, geography, income level, or by taste preferences, values, attitudes, need hierarchies, lifestyles, personality characteristics, and consumption patterns, on a current or longer range

So there seems to be no legitimate excuse for being uninformed about customer preferences. It does take time and it does require the patience to listen. But spying on competitors takes time and patience too, and your business decisions are made in a reactive mode

You always are on the defense when your primary market intelligence source is your competition. Even if your competitors do their own market research well, emulating or copying them always puts you at a comtitive disadvantage, at least in terms of timing and product positioning. My own opinion about firms who spy on competitors as their primary source of market intellignece is that they lack confi-dence in their own abilities, or their products. They see themselves as uncreative, uninventive, or uninspired.

Following (a lower risk) is better than leading (a high risk). "Let the other guy pioneer" is their philosophy, as though pioneers are inevitable failures. Pioneers, however, don't always fail. Pioneers more often than not are the great success stories of business - the Edisons, Fords, Rockefellers, Carnegies, Watsons, they all pioneered. And they had competitors too.

My main point is that whenever a business organization loses touch with its customers and their needs, it's due for a tumble

And despite past product acceptance, customer allegience is a fickle thing. You can't take it for granted.

You may own your own company and may tightly control its human and other resources, but you don't own nor can you control your customers. When your product or service offerings don't coincide with their dreams, aspirations, desires or needs, you are in deep trouble.

So why bother to "bug" the competitors? Tap into your real information sources: your customers. You may not always be right in assessing their needs, but you will be less often wrong.

TO SUPPORT my thesis, let me cite the experience of the auto industry in Detroit.

During the late '40s and '50s, Ford, GM, and Chrysler spent a scad of money with local "private eyes" who went about trying to get pictures of experimental models at proving grounds and research and development centers.

Styling and horsepower were all that counted to the industry in those post World War II days. So periodically one could view in the newspapers or on TV what the XXX57 looked like

B UD ABBOTT AND Lou Costello would have a field day. Imagine the takeoff they could do on their own "Who's on first" routine given the rumors bounding about concerning who will play in what league when. This story's got more twists and turns than a snake slaloming through a serpentine course. Everybody connected (or remotely concerned) with high school sports has heard a rumor, or at least is prepared to start one.

Here's the best of the bunch: • Will Livonia Bentley close despite parent protests?

• Will Livonia Franklin drop out of the Northwest Suburban League (NSL) to join the WLAA as Bentley's replacement?

Will North Farmington beat Franklin to the punch by dropping the NSL in favor of the WLAA?
Are Redford Thurston's compadres in the NSL putting the pressure on to get the now-Class B Eagles out in favor of another Class A school? • Is Northville planning a switch from the WLAA to another league?

WOW, THAT'S a lot of conjecture. Just goes to show how inventful people can be when they put their minds to it.

As it stands, only the first of the rumors is a certainty. Bentley will close at the end of the 1984-85 school year.

That, of course, is what put in motion many of the other rumors. And while the rumor theory that it has its basis in fact — holds true with the others, one thing should be noted:

Whatever the inside word is that people say they've heard, very little will change in league alignments.

Now let's send some of these to the rumor

First: Franklin will not leave the NSL. Neither will North. Both schools received letters from the WLAA asking if they would consider joining. The letters were sent as part of the WLAA bylaws, which state that if an opening should occur in the league, any schools in the same city as current members would get first chance to join.

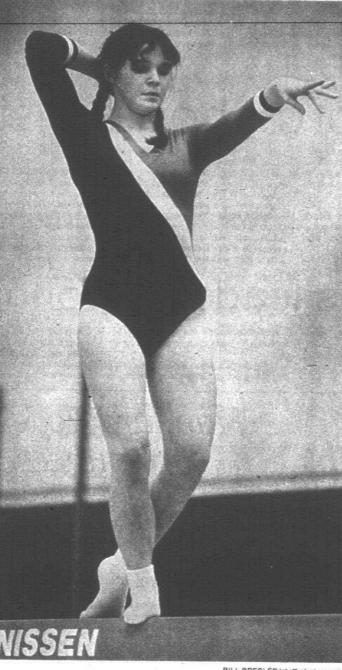

THE NSL — which includes Garden City, Redford Union, Westland John Glenn and Thurston as well as North and Franklin — had a meeting last week to discuss the letters. Both North and Franklin announced then that they would remain in the NSL.

Those announcements are good for two years. Schools must give a two-year notice before leaving, according to NSL rules, because of scheduling interests.

"North's been a member of the NSL since it was formed in '62," said Farmington athletic director Ron Holland. "It's been a very good league, a very competitive league."

Thurston, too, is an NSL charter member. But the Eagles have struggled lately in football and, with their dropping to Class B status, rumor was the NSL's other Class A schools might want to replace them. This topic also surfaced at the NSL meeting.

"If you have a good football team and have a chance to get into the state playoffs, playing a Class B team is going to penalize you," said Holland.

Stangs exploit 'small' Chiefs Rocks end losing streak

Plymouth Canton has done an outstanding job of masquerading its lack of size this season. But the tall and beefy Northville Mustangs not only

Beale wins 3 but North tops Chiefs

By Chris McCosky staff writer

"If their best two gymnasts suddenly became ill and couldn't perform, they still would have us beat," Plymouth Canton gymnastics coach John Cunningham was saying before, his team's meet against Observerland's No. 1-ranked team North Farmington Monday night.

He was joking, certainly, but he knew that it would take something just shy of a miracle for his team to win.

That miracle almost happened. The Chiefs, formerly ranked No. 2 in the area, led after the first two events, but wound up on the short end of a 119.3-117.0 score.

"It was more of North Farmington coming down to us than us coming up to them," Cunningham said afterward. "They made the meet close, not us." The balance beam has been the Achilles' heel of the Chiefs so far this season.

• NORTH FARMINGTON has been scoring in the mid-120s. The- Raiders' 119.3 had coach Mary Johnesee-Glitz shaking her head in wonderment.

"I was shocked," she said. "Some days you just can't do it. We had a lot of falls today. We had a little talk after the first two events and decided to forget everything and just start over."

After the first two events, the vault and the uneven parallel bars, Canton led 59.3-58.55. The Raiders took back the lead with a two-point scoring edge on the balance beam.

"You always worry when you're behind," said Glitz. "But, we knew we could come back. Our depth carried us through."

Rock gymnasts win 4th

From the bottom to the top in just a year? It doesn't happen too often, but the Plymouth Salem gymnastics team is on course for such a feat.

The Rocks won their fourth-straight gymnastics meet Monday, accomplishing their highest team score ever, bettering Trenton 121.50-118.95. Thirteen of the Rocks' 15 individual scores equalled or topped state regional qualifying marks.

The Rocks' sudden success has coach Kathi Kinsella ecstatic. "I was talking to the judge after the meet, and when they announced our score I screamed so loud it must have knocked her ears out," said Kinsella. "I've always liked this job, but now I'm starting to love it."

KINSELLA SAID the credit for Salem's early success belongs to the desire of her performers.

"After the first win, the girls became more motivated. They knew, on their own, what they had to do to get ready for the next meet. They just seem to be more motivated and more determined," she said.

Sophomore Beth Rafail's continued improvement is another reason for the Rocks' success. Against the Trojans, she won three of the four events and earned the highest all-around score, 31.65.

Rafail tied for the top spot in the vault with an 8.15 and won the floor exercise with a fantastic score of 8.75. She has now qualified for the state regional meet in both events.

RAFAIL ALSO won the balance beam with an 8.15.

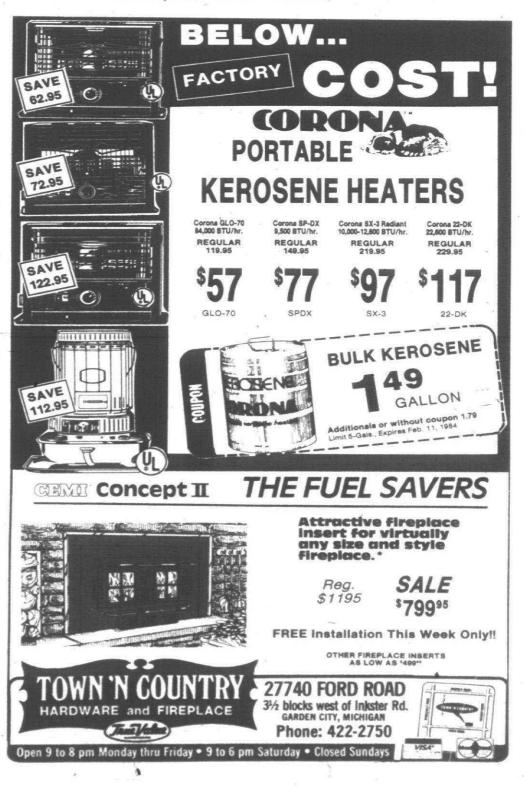

Jackie Huff placed third all-around with 29.95 points. She placed second in both vault (7.85) and beam (7.55). She took third in the floor exercise (7.8).

Suzanne Gibbons was Salem's highest scorer on the uneven parallel bars. Her 7.65 earned her third place. Debbie Bahna's 7.55 took fourth.

Bahna also placed fourth in the vault (7.7).

Sarah Michalik scored well for the Rocks, also, placing third in the vault (7.75), fifth in the bars (7.25) and sixth in the floor (7.4). Diedre Flynn scored a 7.25 on the beam, good for a fifth place.

The Rocks (4-0), now rated No. 3 in Observerland, took on No. 2-ranked Farmington Harrison last night (see Monday's Observer for details) and will go against No. 1-ranked North Farmington on the road Monday.

THAT DIDN'T make any difference to the NSL schools. Thurston will remain a member of the NSL "as long as they'll have us," according to AD Bev Castlebury.

That means the NSL will remain intact. So the WLAA will have to turn its attention elsewhere in its search to replace Bentley.

And only Bentley, to put another rumor to rest. True, Northville did explore other avenues last fall, looking into different league affiliation possibilities. But school officials agreed to stay a member of the WLAA. A two-year commitment rule will keep the Mustangs in place.

Livonia Stevenson principal Dale Coller heads up the WLAA committee exploring possible replacements for Bentley. Since most leagues impose a two-year commitment rule similiar to those in the NSL and WLAA, the deadline for finding a new member is "About six months ago," Coller said. "Actually, we have to make a decision as soon as possible. But we're not going to force anything. If an appropriate replacement can't be found, we will continue to operate in four and five team divisions."

THERE ARE, HOWEVER, schools without league affiliations available. Two such prospects are Dearborn and Dearborn Edsel Ford. Since the breakup of the Suburban Eight League both have been independent.

And both are interested in joining the WLAA.

"We have a formal application on file with them," said Jack Johnson, Dearborn AD. "We have had one with them since the Sub Eight folded. We would be very much interested right now."

Pat Wyka, Edsel Ford's AD, echoed Johnson's feelings. "We plan on putting in a formal application," he said. "We did apply to the NSL, thinking Franklin or North would go to the WLAA, because the NSL is much closer geographically.

"But if (the WLAA) extended an application to us right now, we'd definitely pursue it."

Here, then, is where the politicians take over. Should it come down to a choice between Edsel Ford and Dearborn, which one would be admitted?

Please turn to Page 4

fy Northville Mustangs not only unveiled the Chiefs' weakness, they exploited it to the maximum in a 68-57 win Tuesday night.

"We were beat up badly on the boards," said Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner, whose team was coming off an exhilarating victory against rival Plymouth Salem Friday. "Northville has some big, strong players who pushed us around. The second, third and fourth shots killed us inside."

Northville outrebounded the Chiefs 47-23. "You don't win games like that," said Van Wagoner.

"Yeah, in a way, I guess it was a let down after Salem," Van Wagoner added.

Jim Schlicker picked this game to be at his season's best. The junior forward led all scorers with 23 points.

"Jim played like a man possessed out there," said Van Wagoner. "That's the kind of performance we expect out of him every night."

Schlicker was the only Chief to hit double figures.

The Chiefs led 25-21 at the half, but the Mustangs surged ahead with a 25-13 third quarter spurt.

The Mustangs were led by Steve Frellick (18 points) and Bob Pegrum (14 points).

The loss leaves Canton at 6-3 in the Western Lakes Athletic Association, 9-4 overall. The Chiefs remain a game ahead of both Livonia Churchill and Walled Lake Western in the Western Division. Western defeated Churchill Tuesday night, 58-54.

PLYMOUTH SALEM snapped its two-game losing streak with a 66-51 victory against non-league foe Livonia Franklin Tuesday night.

The best news of the night for the Rocks, besides the final score, was that senior swingman Barry Bell returned to the lineup after missing the last four basketball

games with an ankle injury.

The Rocks were led by Rick Berberet's 20 points. Jeff Arnold added 16. Salem built up a 33-22 lead by halftime and never looked back. The closest the Patriots ever got was 10 points in the second half.

"The defense was solid tonight," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "We weren't sensational by any means, but we got to their shooters and we didn't give up many second shots. It was one of those games where we kind of worked our way though it."

The Rocks got steady play from Bell, Scott Jurek and Eric Sovine, who played well coming off the Rocks' bench.

Franklin was led by Dave Carravallah with 14 points. Mike Wilkins and Mark Olschanski chipped in with 10 apiece.

The Rocks are now 10-2 overall and 8-1 in league play. They are on top of the Lakes Division. The Rocks will host Livonia Stevenson in a key Western Lakes match tomorrow night. Franklin is 3-10 overall.

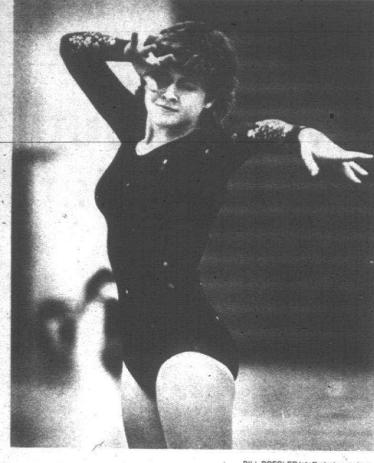

PLYMOUTH CHRISTIAN lost its game Tuesday night to University-Liggett 67-50.

Rod Windle led the Eagles with 17 points and Rob Cannon added 11.

"We're just not pleased at all with the defense," said Eagle coach Butch DeRenzo. "We gave up 71 points against Southfield Christian and 67 tonight. We are not winningto play defense and until we do, we won't win." The Eagles are 3-9 overall, 2-7 in conference play.

Canton falls short of topping North

O&E Thursday, February 2, 1984

"I was pleased with our performance in every event except the beam," said Cunningham. "Last time we scored 28.5. (Against North the Chiefs scored 26.8.) If we score that this time we may have been in a position to tie."

Conversely, the balance beam has been the strength of the Raiders. But, on this night, even their strength was sub-par. They scored just 28.8 where they generally score in the 30s.

LINDA BEALE was the meet's individual leader. The Canton senior won every event and was the leader in all-around points amassing 33.05. Beale won the vault with an 8.45. Her 8.25 was tops in the bars, and 7.85 won the beam. She saved her best for last. Her floor exercise scored an out standing 8.5 - the highest mark awarded by the judges through the entire meet.

North spread its top scores around. Sharon Shiffra took second in the vault (8.3), and fourth in the floor exercise (7.8). Lisa Brundle, coming back after a week and a half layoff because of the flu, took second on the beam (7.6).

Dona Kebrdle took second in the floor ex with an 8.35. Teammate Eileen Murtaugh took third in the floor with an 8.2. Annette Bryce scored well for Canton, placing second in the bars (7.6) and third in the vault (8.0). Canton's freshman Megan McGow and North's Kebrdle tied for third in the bars, each scoring 7.5. There was a three-way tie for third in the beam, with Kebrdle and Murtaugh tying Canton's Lisa PAM MODSON, representing Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy, qualified for the state regional meet by scoring 7.75 on bars and 7.35 on the beam. She had already qualified on the vault and floor. In the meet, she scored 8.05 on vault and 8.25 on th Despite the loss, Cunningham was pleased with his team's performance. "It was a lot closer than I expected," he said "This is our fifth (regional) qualifying score, so we've been pretty consistent. It's a confidence builder when you can become this consistent." North Farmington's record is now 7-1. The Raiders will host undefeated Plymouth Salem tonight Canton, 3-2, travels to Farmington tonight

Local caddies make grade. earn Evans scholarships

Five area golf caddies are recipients of Evans college scholarships. Thirty outstanding state caddies, including two women, were awarded the scholarships," which were announced recently by Golf Association of Michigan President Thomas M. Murphy of Saginaw.

Seventeen of the new Evans Scholars will attend Michigan State University, with the other 13 to be enrolled at the University of Michigan. (Each Evans grant covers full tuition and housing in an Evans Chapter House on campus, an estimated vaule of more than $7,000 if renewed for four years).

Attending MSU on the grants are Dean Allen, 17, of Livonia Bentley High School, who caddied at Western Golf & Country Club; Jay Isaacson, 17, of Redford Thurston, Western G&C; Konrad Molter, 17. of Livonia Clarenceville, Meadowbrook Country Club; and Michael Ventola, 17, of Plymouth, Catholic Central, Meadowbrook. William Smola, 18, of Plymouth Canton, will attend U-M.

THERE ARE approximately 860 Evans Scholars attending college under the program, and more than 200 new award winners announced each winter. The caddie-scholarship concept was initiated y famed amateur golfer Chick Evans in 1930 More than 4,000 former caddies have now graduat ed as Evans Scholars in the past half-century. The scholarships were awarded on a competitive basis considering caddy record, academic high school standing, and need for financial aid. Support for the Evans program comes from contributions of more than 100,000 golfers across the country, including some 15,000 in Michigan.

Actor's specialty: Donald Symington plays quintessential WASP

By Ethel Simmons staff writer

ALTIMORE-BORN ACTOR Donald Symington has played parts ranging from villains to heroes, but some of the roles that stand out are those where he has portrayed the all-American WASP. He was chosen for the current production at Meadow Brook Theatre for that very reason. He plays a similar "role" in a pantyhose commercial on television. And even Woody Allen picked him out because he looked like a typical WASP to play the part of Diane however, he remembered Symington. Keaton's father in "Annie Hall."

Symington has those elegant, nicely mature looks that you see on male models plugging a prestige product like a fine cognac in magazines. A TV commercial for pantyhose may not sound like his kind of thing, but in the sequence, he and another gentlemen are playing chess in their club when a woman enters the premises and he gives a kind of sneer. Very much in the WASP tradition

SYMINGTON, six feet three and carefully lean, was scooping a melon slice at 10 minutes to 2 when the interview team (reporter and photographer plus Meadow Brook public relations man Frank Bollinger) arrived. "You're early," he said, and one had the idea that here is a man who does everything promptly on schedule.

Symington had just returned to the actor's "trailer" on the Oakland University campus, where he is living during his stay at Meadow Brook Theatre, appearing in "The Dining Room" and he next production "The Heiress." His gray hair was smoothed back after a lip in the university's gymnasium swimming pool.

the melon was finished and the herbal tea served, he relaxed in a big, comfortable armchair and politely answered questions. Telling how he got the role in "Annie Hall," Symington said he had first worked with Woody Allen in the movie, "The Front," playing one of four men on an investigatory committee Allen faced.

Allen had appeared as an actor in "The Front" but was not otherwise involved in the film's production. When Allen was casting for "Annie Hall,"

"HE CASTS GREATLY in his smaller parts for look and type," Symington said. "I looked like the quintessential WASP, which is what he wanted for Annie's father."

Asked what he thought of Woody Allen, Symington replied, "He's brilliant." Running the age gamut, he also plays Recalling the scene in "The Front," he an 80-year-old grandfather, a selfsaid they were all called back to reshoot it and, "We didn't use a script. They let Allen do what he wanted to do was very hard to keep a straight face."

Allen would recite the line in the script and expand on it. "He made up Room," he said, "I play a man who is all this incredible dialogue. When it was over, all the crew burst into applause. Symington likes to do commercials because they pay so well. Talking about the pantyhose commercial, he behave. "Isn't that all?" he questioned, then THE NEW YORK actor also has an recalled one more, where he plays other commercial running on television "sort of a 16-year-old in a funny scene now. "It's for some kind of computer," about a mother who is senile. The mother's role is played seriously. It's all so funny. The audience doesn't know

Although Symington says he has never had a big break ("I've been in three George Abbott flops."), he has been on stage and in movies and television with such luminaries as Lunt and Fontanne, view, to look at the script, he was surprised to find that one character he siders America's greatest actress of the last 50 years.

He played with Bankhead and Estelle Winwood in a comedy called "Here Today." For serious drama, however, "She was such a caricature of herself, no one would take her seriously," he said.

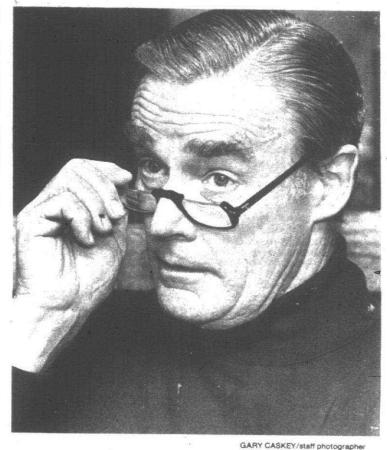

IN THE BROADWAY musical "The WASP, a dying breed, but Symington King and I," starring Yul Brynner and points out that "The Dining Room" is Gertrude Lawrence, he played Sir Edward Ramsey, the British ambassador "It's a small but lovely part if it's played right."

Although he didn't create the part, he believes he was the best one in that Colonel Blimp, he said, while he played it as a romantic part. "I dance with Anna and ask her to marry me," he said.

Symington played the part for a year. He was in and out of the role for a period of time, because Brynner, who is rather short, objected to him, apparenty because he is rather tall.

"I'm very tall. It didn't make any difference, but it seemed to make a difference to Mr. Brynner," he said. Later things were patched up, and Brynner to play the part.

Six months ago, Brynner, who is still touring in "The King and I," called from Seattle and asked him to join the cast. Symington declined. "You can't play a part forever. You bury your head in the sand," he said.

Donald Symington chats while looking at script of "The Dining Room," in which he appears at Meadow Brook Theatre.

ductor Francesco Di Blasi, the Poulence concerto performance has all the elegance and charm associated with an 18th century drawing-room concert and the spontaneity and freshness of contemporary music. The duo-piano team, Varani and Weintraub-Adelson, was absolutely splendid.

The music was apropos for both the artist and the date. It was the day before the 21st anniversary of Poulenc's Varani is something of an expert on Poulenc, having known Pierre Bernac Poulenc's collaborator in song. Varani's firt record, just recently released, consists of all Poulenc numbers, "Poulenc Nocturnes."

AS A SOLOIST, Varani is steadily gaining popularity, though only recently has he been performing literature that profits from his style, like Prokofiev's Second Piano Concerto he per-formed last fall in South America.

Having been unfavorably impressed with Varani's summertime duo-plano partner at the Bay View Music Festi-val, I had a heightened interest in this team. Though I still consider Varani a soloist, this alliance with his Oakland University colleague proved to be an Joyce Weintraub-Adelson was every bit Varani's equal and more. The two were nothing less than sensational. The blend of style, intonation, rhythm and nterpretation made the separation of arts indistinguishable and unnecessary. Adelson is skilled as a specialist in uo-piano. She traveled as a team with her sister in Europe and the U.S. until her sister's illness halted their career. I don't think the saying, "If you can't apply to her, however. She showed evidence of being a fine soloist, too. Her skill as a duo-pianist was the key to a essful performance.

It's an incomprehensible mixture inspired by Balinese influences. baroque in convention, using the Bach and Mozart formula for two pianos, with allusions to Stravinsky's style. How is that for confusion? The concerto was composed in 1932 while the team's encore, the second movement of the Sonata for Two Pianos, was composed some 20 years lat er. The Varani-Adelson team performed this hymn with the richness needed to give warmth to the religious quality that Poulenc's music had incorporated by 1952. It was lovely. The Oakway Symphony Orchestra rose to the occasion and provided the orchestra accompaniment suited to its guest artists.

Glinka's Overture to "Russlan and udmilla" was a spritely choice of openers for the concert, a fitting combination with Dvorak's Symphony No. Nine, or the New World Symphony. Di Blasi took the pace of the Glinka at a rapid clip, which enhanced the music and the performance. His interpreta tion of the Dvorak symphony was sensitive, moving and inspired, though the quality of the brass and winds didn't match the strings. Barbara Grover pe formed the second-movement English horn solo with grace. With the superb rendition of Poulenc by the Varani-Adelson team, the mov-ing New World Symphony and the exquisite programming of Di Blasi, this was the best concert of the Oakway play one plane you play two," would Symphony season so far.

Funny thing is, neither film is all that good. "Chariots of Fire" is slowly paced and pretentious, and "On Golden Pond" is saccharine and predictable. Yet there's no denying the appeal of both films. One recreates a Golden Age of amateur sports and the other stirs thoughts of youth and remorse.

Both films, in fact, appeal to our baser instincts and both transport us to other times and other places. That is, after all, the magic of film, so remember that these pictures aren't all that bad, either - not nearly so bad as they could be given their banal subject mat-

Blomstedt earns our high esteem

By Avigdor Zaromp special writer

Any symphony orchestra has its ups and downs, particularly when it is con ducted by a wide variety of guest con ductors with varying degrees of talent. Fortunately, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra is now enjoying one of this eason's 'up' phases.

One constant to be counted on is the high caliber of the Detroit Symphony. Orchestra musicians. When this is combined with an extremely able conduc tor and good musical content, the reults can be most rewarding, as was the case last week.

The conductor was Herbert Blomtedt, who established a warm rapport with the musicians and the audience during his past programs.

This was his second of three programs. The fact that this is the second season of three consecutive ones indicates the high esteem he enjoys here. The program consisted of works by Haydn, Bartok and Brahms. Guest soloist was Garrick Ohlsson, who performed Bartok's masterful second pi-review

phony among his last five (100 to 104) that doesn't have a title. Consequently it is less frequently performed but still enjoys a fair amount of exposure

This performance featured a grandscale sound, giving extreme prominence to the brass and timpani. While there was little doubt that Blomstedt was in full control and produced the effect he wanted, I tend to take issue with his approach.

While it is true that Havdn underwent a stylistic development during his long career, it was unlikely to be as extreme as this performance suggest-A composer wouldn't suddenly transform into a romanticist just because he realizes that the 18th century is drawing to an end. Many perfor mances of Haydn's works, to be sure, are overly timid. But this performance was an overreaction. Bartok's three piano concerti aren't very familiar to the average listener, ome these initial hurdles, one discovers a rare artistic universe. The impact of the second piano conerto in this performance was tremen dous. Garrick Ohlsson, who also appeared here during the previous sea son, is one of this generation's most caable pianists. He has the rare combination of impressive technique and pro found artistic insight.

The fact that he was playing on a Bosendorffer, with its refined metallic sound, helped matters, of course. But only a person of his exceptional ability is capable of putting this fine instrument to such impressive and inspiring use.

The presto segment of the middle novement featured sound combinaions that boggled the mind and ears. In other portions of the work, the glittering chord passages were the ultimate achievement in balance, clarity and ariculation.

Besides his artisitic talent, Ohlsson week with Masestro Blom has been blessed with exceptionally large hands. It was comforting, for ished') and Bruckner's Symphony No. 6. once, to see such well endowed hands If Blomstedt will succeed in making being put to such good use. In too many Brückner sound appealing, he will have ment, giving rise to the feeling that Mother Nature has occasionally mis-allocated her resources.

THE PROGRAM concluded with the ymphony No. 3 by Brahms, Here lomstedt put the large orchestral forces to their best use.

There was a well planned buildup toward the climaxes, with monumenta results. This contrasted with the tender, singing quality of the third movement. It is seldom that one hears such a superb combination of differing shades. as in the contrasting of the seductive, opening theme in the final movement with its more forceful nuances

These contrasts also bring to mind another performance of the same pieces in a previous season, that was completely unsatisfactory. That conductor had already atoned for his sins with the resulting adverse reviews.

There is one remaining program this ing Schubert's Symphony No. 8 ('Unfin-

Players' 'Elephant Man' deserves to be seen

Performances of the Spotlight Players production of "The Elephant Man" continue at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday at the John Glenn High School Auditorium, 36105 Marquette, west of Wayne Road, West-land. For ticket information, call 595-6117 or 522-2326

By Debi Barsamian special writer

The Spotlight Players production of The Elephant Man" by Bernard Pomerance is an extraordinary effort.

Being a part of this audience is an experience you won't soon forget.

"The Elephant Man" deals with the life and times of John Merrick, who lived in England in the late 1800s and suffered from neurofibromatosis, a delibilating disorder in which huge sacklike folds grow from the suffer's skin Merrick was hideously disfigured.

The drama depicts a man whose spirit flourishes in spite of emotional and physical brutality inflicted on him by a society that is ill-equipped to cope with his physical deviation. Pomerance uses Merrick's physical non-conformity as a springboard from which to comment on major social issues and constraints.

To produce this play is an ambitious project, but the Spotlight Players accepts the challenge. The production excels both technically and artistically.

CO-DIRECTORS John P. Eastman and Gail Susan Mack have surpassed themselves. They have skillfully and delicately designed this play to such degree that no detail is overlooked. Their interpretation is nearly perfect.

The cast is remarkable. Many portray double roles. Yet they all move with precise understanding and intent. work together like a well-tuned They machine

David Rago as John Merrick gives a sensitive and intelligent portrayal. His character is so three-dimensional and believable that you will genuinely grow to love him. His consistency of character is mesmerizing. Rago is simply outstanding.

Henry Bennett equally excels in his portrayal of Dr. Frederick Treves, who serves as Merrick's personal physician review and protector. It is a complicated role. in that the character develops and expands as the play evolves. Bennett never loses track of his character's direction. He is firmly in control from the opening to the finish. The audience feels his pain and confusion and truly sympathizes with him. Mrs. Kendall, an actress and Merrick's closest friend, is portrayed by Lorraine Parent. Parent depicts a warm aristocrat, with style and verve, but the role deserves more. We need to see a mature character who has known pain and vulnerability herself.

WITHOUT THE audience's awareness of this side of her character, she cannot believably empathize with Merrick as she should. Parent never hints of vulnerability. In this one respect, her youth may be a handicap.

Enough cannot be said of the technical elements of this production. Light-ing, designed by Gail Susan Mack, is just great. It is particularly effective during the dream scenes. The set, designed by both directors, is simple, elegant and functional. The music, interspersed throughout, is in-telligently selected and lends itself to the mood of the play.

Costumes are wonderful. The overall costume plan is creative and artistic, and each costume is appropriate to the period.

The production staff can be congratulated. It is rare that all technical functions fuse so perfectly to augment the action of the play.

In a word, this play is beautiful. It exhibits quality in every respect. Please see this wonderful production. It is community theater at its best.

Bad Seed' shocks the audience Performances of the Plymouth woman but an 8-year-old child who has a heart so evil she can commit cold-

Theatre Guild production of "Bad Seed" by Maxwell Anderson continue at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday at Central Middle School, Church and Main streets, Plymouth. For ticket information, call 453-7505

By Bob Weibel special writer

The Plymouth Theatre Guild's latest production, "Bad Seed," is a first-rate thriller with shocking moments that keep the audience in suspense to the very end.

This 30-year-old play was Maxwell Anderson's last, but it's as modern as today's newspaper headlines of random senseless juvenile violence. It's what you might call a dramatic answer to the old radio show "The Shadow" that began with the rhetorical question Who knows what evil lurks in the hearts of men?"

In "Bad Seed" it's not a man or a blooded murder without a trace of guilt. As the story unfolds the audience is asked to consider, is this the result of heredity ("Some people are simply born as bad seeds.") or is it a matter of envi-ronment (in which case the parents and society are to blame)?

The center of this controversy is little Miss Rhoda, played expertly by Melanie Fallow. She is the perfect picture of innocence, sweetness and charm one might expect of an 8-yearold child in front of Mother and other adults - and at other times she is a selfish, pragmatic, clever killer.

CYNTHIA SZCZESNY plays the mother, Christine, who bears the brunt of the psychological trauma caused by her daughter. She is outstanding as a tragic heroine, who slowly becomes aware of what Rhoda is up to. Christine's compassion as a mother, together with confirmation of the reality of horrifying dreams regarding her own past, Sue Ellen Haukkala is engaging as her bubbly friend, Monica Breedlove, who is constantly analyzing people as she introduces psychiatric ideas to the play.

The central theme of "Bad Seed" is convincingly presented by Chuck Mil-ler, Christine's father (who believes crime is caused by environment) and Peter Couse as Reginald Tasker, a mystery writer and amateur criminologist, who believes that a few people are simply born as bad seeds.

The only problem with Couse is his make-up. The aging is too obvious. Otherwise, the rest of the cast is uniformly good.

ANOTHER GOOD character role is turned in by Gerry L'Heureux as Leroy, the apartment janitor, who has the misfortune to cross wits with Rhoda. Other members of the supporting cast are Robert Myrtle, Gary Burton, Jack Farrow and Lisa Risko.

Costumes, set, sound and lighting are well done and contribute to the sinister atmosphere of the play. The show is directed by Patricia Bray-LaFramboise. who has put together a very suspense ful and entertaining evening of theater.

Old Village Quaint shops, history merge in Plymouth

First in a series By Mary Klemic staff writer

What's in a name? Plenty, if you're talking about the section of Plymouth called "Old Village.

The area is an arrangement of both brick and concrete streets, of old style shops and new busi-nesses, situated south of Wilcox, north of Main and west of Holbrook. There is a variety of businesses (antique stores, crafts and services) here, along with plans for preserving the past and preparing for the future.

"It's the last foothold in Wayne County where the independent business person has a chance to get started," said Bill Waun of Station 885 at 885 Starkweather. He is president of the Old Village Association. "There are reasonable costs, and you establish one heck of a clientele.

"It's a neat area to be in. I'm proud of being down here," he said. "There's a mix of a whole bunch of people. I was going to write an article about it a few years ago and say, 'See how many cash regis-ters you find.' It's homey."

THE SPECIAL SHOPS in Old Village and the friendly atmosphere there appeal to Earlene Woodard, owner of Yesterday and Today, 157 W. Liberty. Woodard's business is located in a building that was once a barber shop.

"To me, it's like having an old-time atmosphere where everybody is always helping everybody," she said. "We try and make it like a big family. We all help each other. We'll send customers to each other's stores if one doesn't have what they want. We try and make everybody happy and relaxed, and we love doing it."

A walk in the area reminds a visitor of its history. One of its former structures, the Plymouth Home, was moved to Greenfield Village. But still found in Old Village are a gazebo, railings adorned with metal horse heads, a fountain and streets with paving resembling brick.

The first settlers arrived in the 1820s. Through the centuries the area has been called Plymouth-

ville, Holbrookville, North End, North Village,

North Side and Lower Town

BUSINESS THERE got a boost in 1870 when George Starkweather moved a general store at Starkweather and Liberty streets. The building still stands. The section grew as other businesses moved in over the next 30 years, among them a butcher, brewery, hotels, a cigar store, a restaurant, a soap factory, a cider mill, a cheese factory and a stock yard.

The Old Village Association was formed some 15 years ago to beautify the section. Its first steps included having members take late night walks through the entire village, according to Pat Hawn of the Great Shape Salon and Spa at 630 Starkweather, one of the originators of the association.

Doug Blunk of Blunk's TV Service, 640 Starkweather, said the merchants organized, got the attention of city hall, then worked with the city. Beautification projects included landscaping, planting and new lights and signs.

"Plymouth is a small city. I don't think we have a right to let any part of it be ignored," Hawn said. We're getting a rebirth of faith in the village. You get positive vibes."

"It's got a long way to go, but we've come a long way," Waun said.

Among the annual events at Old Village are spring and Christmas walks and festivals. Maps of the area are available from some of the shops there.

FUTURE PLANS for Old Village include the remodeling of an old hotel and the building of condominiums.

"It's a grass roots type operation," said Waun, who attributes his success to "a lot of luck and hard work." "We just love Old Village. The potential is really here."

The association is organizing an office and staffers. Waun encourages anyone interested in the association or Old Village to write P.O. Box 483, Plymouth 48170.

New buildings blend with the old to keep Old Village active and growing.

Before drawing a face, study it carefully

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Mess-

ing. He has taught for eight vears and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Messing ecourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington MI 48024.

By David Messing special writer

I ended the last Artifacts column with a statement about everyone's face being relatively the same, yet wonderfully different.

Well, my wife Sandy has an identical twin, and this forces me to alter that statement to: wonderfully the same, yet relatively different. In the 17 years that I have known the twins I have only mixed them up about 172 times!

Boy, could I tell you some stories. One day while I was taking a shower, my wife opened the door and said, "Honey, I'm going shopping, I'll be back in an hour." It seemed within seconds after I heard the side door close door Grumbling and dripping, I wrapped a towel around myself, opened the door and asked: "What's the matter, did you forget something?" Then, after what seemed like an hour, my wife's twin said, "No, but I think you did!

that Sandy was back again, knocking at the

I was in the twilight zone for a second or two and then I began looking close to find that again I had mistaken Sue for Sandy.

When I am looking for the differences, I can easily tell the two apart. But, with just a casual glance, I do have some difficulty distinguishing between them.

A CASUAL glance is how we go through most of our day. After all, if you study the facial features of every person you see during the day you would be viewed as a flirt at best and at worst a "weirdo."

It is, however, the assignment of an artist, when commissioned to draw anything or any person, to look closely and study carefully. If, for example, you are to do a portrait of a person, you should think back to the basic shape in each of the features, then change those features to match the features of your model.

This is how to develop proportions when drawing a face.

Every "drawing of the head" book ever written has a diagram which shows how the features should relate to each other. That's fine, but these relationships are average, or should I say ideal, relationships of features.

Your model subject will surely vary from the diagrammed face in a learn-to-draw book. When I was about 20 years old I fell in love with anatomy. I studied it to perfection. I even witnessed dissections to better understand the relationships of muscle and bone.

My anatomy teacher was Mr. Zambryski, the all-time most difficult professor at Wayne State University. When he walked into our Anatomy 0100 class, four students stood up and dropped the class immediately! (What a reputation he had.) He made us learn so much about every bone, muscle and tendon that at times we throught we were in premed school

Now, 18 years later, I still remember the basics. I was so wrapped up in anatomy that I forgot that real people varied from the anatomy books and pictures.

ONE DAY I was brought back down to earth when a little woman stepped onto the bus. Ears, according to every anatomy book, are supposed to be located somewhere between the eyebrows and the line of the lips. But this woman had a set of ears that just wouldn't quit. Her ear lobes were well below the line of her lips and the tops of her ears were hidden under a hat.

In amazement I stared at her profile. There, by revelation, I learned that all humans in some way vary from the ideal faces and bodies provided in my books.

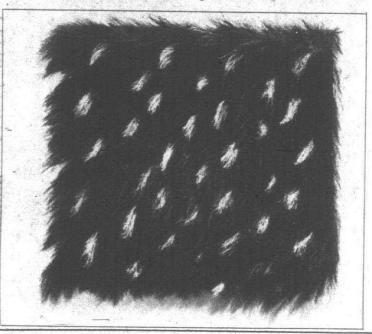

The construction of the human head is first a study in proportion. First, work to locate and position each feature to produce a human face. Then change the features of your subject.

Basically, the relationship of the features of the face and head are simple. First, lightly sketch the outline of the head. Then divide this egg-shaped oval in half to produce the line of the eyes. Remember, as I mentioned

Weavers' art flourishes

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

"Impulse: New Images in Fabric" at the Detroit Artists Market deserves more than a nod, even though it closes Friday. It does something special for our state. It recognizes the contribu ions and talents of 22 Michigan educated fiber artists.

Curated by Gerhardt Knodel, head of the Cranbrook fiber department and himself a major force in fiber worldwide, it is not only colorful, contemporary and free-wheeling, it illus trates the vast array of options of fiber art and the intricacies of control and design that go into the work.

A second show, "Cranbrook Connection -New Images in Fabric" is running concurrently at Elements Gallery of New York City. This one, also curated by Knodel, is exclusively Cranbrook alumni. The local show includes works by artists from other Michigan schools.

There can be some after Images appreciation. The first batch of sets of slides of the show, made especially for classroom use, sold out quickly, but Artists Market director Mary Dennison will have additional sets available soon. Each piece of work in this show is a winner.

making strong, bold statements of the wealth of fiber work that has come out of this state Each of the works in the show by Pat Kinsella, 1981 Granbrook graduate, have strongly individual parts, separated by abrupt changes of color and design, often marked by a shift in the position of the surface. In several of her rectangular wall hangings, segments of the surfaces are recessed, others brought out from the wall at different angles, to create a three dimensional, sculptural effect But through the color and pattern changes, are the same fibers, at some points hidden under other colors to later emerge to the foreground. LIKE many works in the show, this one at first glance gives the impression of embroidery for how otherwise could there be so many color and pattern changes? But, miraculously, it's all done on the loom.

Laura Foster Nicholson, 1982 Cranbrook graduate, does fiber paintings, that is to say her flat weavings have a painterly quality. The Saarinen/Cranbrook design influence is there, as it is in several other works in the show, Barbara Eckhardt's two pieces, "Tree House" and "Falling Bed, for example. These, pleasingreflect a heritage, absorbed, reinterpreted and passed down in another beautiful form.

Nicholson is represented by two works, "Aviary with Bees," 27 by 33, inches, wool with silk, twill with discontinuous brocade and "Inside Looking Out," 26-by-25 inches, wool with silk. twill with discontinuos brocade, in this show and a larger piece in the "Update: Cranbrook" exhibit at Kidd Galleries of Birmingham earlier this

Works in felt by Joan Livingstone, who was interim head of Cranbrook's fiber departmet while Knodel was on sabatical, and Lavne Goldsmith, are superb in quality, color and design

Livingstone's "Juggler" is presented in a free-standing welded and bolted steel frame, the pieces hung from the top, drapery style.

THE WORK is rich in texture, vibrant with color, in the felt, not painted on or dyed after, and makes a statement about the aesthetics of felt which can't be ignored.

Goldsmith's two felt pieces, "The Earth is a Legend" and "Night Call, Cave In," both hangings, sugest the shape of clothing, or at least, at ome time, the presence of a human figure. Because of its history, which goes back to earliest times, making it probably the first fabric known to man, felt retains a primitive quality that is both earthy and attractive. These artists let felt have its space, never refining it beyond a certain point, so it retains that raw, rather than a pre-digested quality.

Lee Bale, 1983 Cranbrook graduate, presents a completely different approach from anything else in the show. She mounted old dresses on canvas as collages, then used testil plements, oil pastel and screen printing on the entire piece. These dramatic works are as much sculpture and painting as they are fiber

The eye of the painter shows up in Mollie Fletcher's work, in which lines of color merge and flow with a kind of liquid beauty. Her work is a joy. Perhaps, that is what makes his show so riguing and why the Cranbrook Academy of Art since its founding has been like no other school. The crossover from one art form to another is healthy and exciting. These fiber works have sculptural and painterly qualities. The designs would have worked as well, in most cases, vith paint. Certainly Jane Lackey's "House in the Wild a 70-by-70 inch work using traditional fibers such as linen and rayon with colored wire, has the look of a painting. - focal point, perspec-tive, mystery, it's all there.

This is not to accuse these artists of borrow-ing, but rather of having an art and intellectual background commprehensive enough to apply all aspects of art to their particular medium.

The Artists Market and Elements Gallery shows were put together in record time. Dennison says this was possible with the help of volunteer show coordinators, Gayle Camden, Irma Ecksel and Madelyn Rosen. As a non-profit organization focusing on the works of Southeastern Michigan artists, the Market is heavily dependent upon the contributions of volunteers. It has remained a viable institution because of the efforts of such people and nobody knows that better or appreciates it more than those most closely affiliated with the Market. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday. 1452 Randolph, Detroit.

He says it's easier that way because you only have to remember what the "real" person is like. Cross not only uses real people, he doesn't neglect the local (southeast Michigan) area.

There are several references to Ann Arbor, Detroit, and even Eastern Michigan University - in the guise of a special code word, Harrold, which in reality is Pray-Harrold Hall at Eastern Michigan University where the English department is housed.
