Schools balk at free-land-use request

John Hoben, Plymouth-Canton school district superintendent, isn't wild about Canton Township's desire to use, for free, two parcels of school-owned property in the township.

In fact, "Jim wants to get something for nothing" is how Hoben described Canton Township Supervisor James Poole's recent request that the district let the township use the two pieces of property until the district sells it or needs it. Poole's looking for a "freebie," said Hoben.

Hoben proposed, instead, that the township buy one or both parcels from the school district.

In a Feb. 2 letter, Poole said the township had its eyes on approximately 15 acres behind township hall near Proctor and Canton Center Road, and another large parcel of land near Canton Center-Hanford that now is leased to a farmer for a cornfield.

The township, Poole promised, would use the acreage for "recreational facilities," but would not build any permanent structures on the two properties.

cels for as long as you own it and have no use for it," Poole wrote.

'We prefer to do it free because it would seem silly for the taxpayers to pay rent on property they already own. However, if your rules or laws are such that you have to lease it, then I would recommend we lease it for a dollar a year. It seems to me the simple basics would be, Canton Township can use the school property until you sell it or need

Hoben admitted the district had little which it bought 10 years ago for $88,000 as a possible site for a school.

"There's little chance we'll build there," he said. "It just sits there, but we're not amenable to just turning it over. Our number one priority is to sell

Hoben said he saw no problems with the township temporarily using the Proctor land for parking or for a carni-

"For a temporary special use - fine. But no property should be deeded over on a long-term basis," he said

HOBEN SAID it would be difficult to let the township use the Canton Center-Hanford property because the land is now leased to a farmer to grow corn.

"We have an obligation to that farmer, who gives us money," he said. Negotiations on the township's usage of the two properties have been underway for about two years. The school district originally backed the usage, Hoben said, if the township would reciprocate by putting in sidewalks near Gallimore Elementary in Canton.

'If they did that, we would have been amenable to letting the township use some of our vacant property," Hoben said. "But they never came up with a reciprocal agreement. In the meantime, we offered to sell them property. We came up with a list of four sites we would be willing to get rid of. We made gestures. They never delivered. I don't think Jim likes our answers."

The ultimate decision, Hoben said, would be up to the school board

Couple dead in murder, suicide

The bodies of a young man and woman, victims of an apparent murder-suicide, were found in their cars in a Westland neighborhood early Wednesday morning.

The two victims were husband and wife who had been separated "for some time," Westland Police Lt. James Hornkuhl said. Hornkuhl said the man, 27, had been staying at the couple's apartment in Canton while the woman 19, had been staying at her sister's residence in Plymouth.

Police said the man apparently shot the woman as she sat in her car, then got in his nearby vehicle and shot himself. Both were dead at the scene, according to police. Names of the victims were withheld Wednesday morning until positive identification could

THE INCIDENT took place around 2:04 a.m. on Birchwood east of Shotka. Police said the man left his car in the street, pulled a gun and shot the woman two times as she sat in her car, which was parked by the curb. The woman fell over, apparently hitting the gear-shift lever and moving the vehicle some 500 feet into a parked car approximately 60 feet west of Shotka.

Police said the man drove his car to the woman's vehicle, got out and looked inside. He reportedly got back in his car and shot himself in the head.

Westland police arrived at the scene, responding to reports of gunshots and an accident, and discovered the two bodies, according to Hornkuhl

Students were judged three ways: On their solutions to five 'long-range' problems they had been working on in school; on the overall style, design and pics of the Mind" contest at Oakland creativity used in their solutions; and on their ability to think spontaneously and on the spot when asked questions by judges at the Olympics.

Tax hike for schools asked

The Plymouth-Canton school board voted unanimously Monday night to place a request for 1.74 additional mills on the ballot in the upcoming June 11 election.

While the measure precipitated little debate, the millage item did not appear on the board's printed agenda but was added Monday.

Moved by board member Flossie Tonda and supported by trustee Elaine Kirchgatter, the millage would be levied for a period of seven years. School Board President Glenn Schroeder said "it became very apparent" during the board's recent budget workshop that the district cannot maintain current operations without an in-

Even with the existing budget, the district will be $2 million short in 1984-85, he said.

We have a fund equity of $1.4-$1.6 million, which would carry us through 1984-85 but, even so, we'd be left in a deficit position. The board in its budget review reached the conclusion that a millage increase is necessary if education is to continue in its present form or to improve," Schroeder said.

Dr. John Hoben, superintendent, said this is the fifth year the district has operated without a millage increase. In fact, he said, property owners have enjoyed a 2.5-mill reduction due to an increase in state equalized valuation over the past three years and last year's boost in state aid owing to the income tax hike.

'Contractual obligations with district employees could put us in a $2-$3million deficit position in the next important that people realize what a crucial situation the district is in.

"There is a great need for communi-ty education. We should begin to exhibit how desperate it is that the millage increase be passed in order for us to maintain even a skeleton of our current operation," said McClendon,

"I WOULD BE very interested to see the types of restoration that would be included if this millage were passed.

"The public should be well aware of what's included," said Dean Swartzwelter, who says he plans to run said Dean for trustee.

Tonda said she doesn't think the board has the right "to cut into programs like we have. We can let people know about the financial constraints under which the district is working and let them decide what sort of education they want. Let the decision lie with them. If they don't want to give us the money, then we'll make the cuts.'

Hoben said local millages levied by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools place the district 25th among 35 Wayne County school districts. (Twenty-four districts have higher millages than does Plymouth-Canton.) The proposed hike, he added, would keep the district in the lowest quadrant.

Kirchgatter said she's been gratified to see how low Plymouth-Canton's local millage is when contrasted with those of neighboring districts.

Arson suspected in Farrand School fire

Plymouth Township fire investigators suspect arson as the cause of a fire which early Sunday morning damaged an outside window area and a classroom at Farrand Elementary School on Greenbriar in Lake Pointe subdivision. Fire Chief Larry Groth said the probable cause of the blaze, which broke out at 1:10 a.m., was the flame from a cig arette lighter held up against a highly flammable Plexiglas window on the southwest wall of the school. The chief was unable to estimate the dollar amount of fire damages. "Plexiglas in other school windows have been set afire, too. The fire probably was set with a lighter. It's an easy thing to do

For safety reasons, Groth said, schools have been replacing broken glass windows with the more easily bendable Plexiglas ones "The plastic gives away, but is easily burnable," he

Firefighters arriving at the school saw "lots of flames which made it look like the whole room was afire." Groth said. But the fire was confined to the inside and outside area around the window, and three to four feet of ceiling tile near the window, he said

When the interim members met in open session, they breezed through the agenda so quickly that the rehearsa meeting became apparent, commissioners charged.

Manning said Cushman, Manlove and Laab also turned over responsiblity for managing the road commission - in cluding approving contracts - to the managing director, another Lucas appointee, William Oakley, former mayor of Romulus. "They appeared to semi-abdicate their whole job," Manning said."That didn't make their tenure very accept able. They were rejected unanimously Commissioner Mary Dumas, R-Livonia, noted that Frank Wilkerson, one of Lucas' chief assistants, didn't deny the road board had held a closed meeting prior to its first official meeting. Dumas, also claimed that two of L cas' permanent appointees - Curt Boller and Marianne Banks - ras well as Oakley had conflict of interest prob-

She said Boller is supervisor of Brownstown Township, Dumas noted Boller offered to resign after being confirmed, but she said, "That is in possible to enforce. You can't make a contingency confirmation Banks is mayor pro tem of Romulus and is unwilling to resign her city post, Dumas said. The commissioner said Banks and Oakley may be too beholden to the city of Romulus. She said the county enters into contracts with Romulus and the county is suing Romulus for $1 million for payment o outstanding sheriff's Road Patrol bills.

The only Lucas appointee who has been confirmed is Janice Frazier a business consultant who has been employed by Lucas.

Dumas observed the board is unani mously opposed to the five other appointments and this includes previous Lucas supporters. This is because "Lu cas has kicked his own best friends in oachment by the British Cadillac began at once to pursue his plan through the tenuous French chain command. He went first to his friend, Governor Frontenac at Quebec, where he was wined and dined and given a wholehearted letter of recommendation. Then he sailed for Paris in October 1698.

After a rugged vovage of several weeks he took a few days off to regain his land legs, buy a new wig and some finery fit for the elegant royal court of the Sun King. His entre was through the minister of the colonies, one Pontchartrain, who supported Cadillac's plan.

After some delay, Louis finally made room for the interview in his busy calendar. Louis' life since the revocation of the Edict of Nantes had been one of turmoil and trouble with the Huguenots. And he also was worried about the exchequer which was sadly depleted by his own extravagance and mismanagement. It did not help maters to have all the Protestant forces in Europe threatening war against him.

So Cadillac had the right tack to this 1980s is a marked change in pubic attitude toward alcohol. After years of abuse in this country, society finally seems ready to insist on responsible use of alcohol.

One apparent sign is the public's willingness to legislate and enforce harsh penalities for motorists who drive while under the influence of alcohol.

The mere passage of such laws indicated only a shift in public attitude. Without such a change, stringent measures to deal with motorists under the influence would not have been effective. As often is the case, the public adapted first, and the Legislature followed.

ONE MESSAGE which finally has taken root is that alcohol use involves more than the consumer. Alcohol abuse leads to the death of innocent people, and is not a behavior independent of control by gov-

After many deaths of innocent people, society finally has realized that alcohol abuse is not a right or privilege but irresponsible behavior which must be curbed. Furthermore, driving while under the influence is a crime.

It no longer matters whether an individual drinker thinks he can safely drive. Society no longer is willing to take that chance and will not allow that motorist to endanger the lives of others without penalty. While individuals still are free to drink, they no longer are free to drink and then climb behind the wheel to engage in Russian roulette with our lives at stake.

Some credit for this change can be attributed to the awareness campaigns conducted by groups such as Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD), by education efforts of the schools and groups such as the Automotive Club of Michigan, by the informative function of the print media, and through dramatic presentations of the vis-

The change in attitude also has affected the behavior of businesses engaged in the sale of alcohol. Party stores are much more vigilant about checking IDs of suspected minors. Bartenders are more apt to "cut off" a customer who is consuming too much alcohol for his own good, and for the good of others. Restaurant owners serving alcohol are more receptive to ac-

In the 35th District Court, drunk driving convictions are much higher than a year ago as Judges Dunbar Davis and James Garber are standing firm in enforcing the law. Judge Davis reports that the number of drunk driving cases coming into district court has tripled in recent weeks, mostly due to the efforts of the A-Team.

The Legislature can and will adopt new measures aimed at curbing alcohol abuse on the highways, the police and courts have turned tough in enforcing those laws because the public is standing in the

Any person who wants is still free to drink what he or she wishes in any quantity. The lost freedom is drinking and driving. And justice demands that step be taken. We no longer can tolerate innocent people being killed because another person lacked good judgment in using alcohol.

That conclusion was a long time in coming as we have tolerated many needless deaths for many, many years. But the change in attitude is so deeply implanted that there will be no retreat. And because of that change, we all now stand a better

He said that the Supreme Court's willingness to hear the Livonia and Southfield appeal comes more from a desire to "put the issue to bed" than an indication it might overturn the lower court rulings.

Thus, long legal battles to resist group homes are a waste of taxpayers' money. In the months to come, we will hear more about group homes. Plans are being made for 20 new homes in Oakland and Macomb counties and 20 more in Wayne

SC group learns by marketing conference

Much of the success of an event depends on what happens beforehand. There are radio spots, newspaper articles and other kinds of promotions needed to make it go.

Schoolcraft College students found that out firsthand by providing market-ing and promotion services for the "Educating Tomorrow" conference. The event took place last weekend in the Renaissance Center, Detroit.

learned a lot about the market," said Lori Markiewicz, who stayed with the group after graduating from Schoolcraft in December.

This is a learning experience, which I feel will help me out with my future.'

HEADED BY marketing instructor Donald Ryktarsyk, the Marketing Group is made up of his current and former students.

The instructor started working on the idea more than 10 years ago of bringing together a group of students who respond to his "instructional style." Known as marketing associates, participants are offered experience beyond the classroom.

"I look for attitude first," said Ryktarsyk, who encourages professional-ism. "I want them to be aware of the talents they have and develop those tal-

Promoting the project included such tasks as contacting radio personalities for air time. Students spent one session role playing in preparation for a conversation with celebrity Dick Purtan

A computer 'monster'

Retiree puts together machines

Putting together a new IBM 4331 computer at Madonna College was not exactly child's play for Allen Peterman, but it was not a totally new experience, either.

The 4331, which Peterman calls his "monster," was recently installed at the Livonia college to serve more than 250 students currently enrolled in computer classes. Its mainframe system supports eight disk drives capable of storing 560 million characters.

Parts of the "monster" were purchased from several sources at a total cost of $100,000 and put together by Peterman. A local businessman, Robert Hitchcock of Electronic Brokers Co., Farmington Hills, contributed a disk drive valued at $1,100.

PETERMAN, WHO retired last July from the Ford Motor Co., cut his teeth on early computer technology as an electronics instructor in Detroit and later with the Philco Corp. in Philadel-

When Ford acquired Philco, Peterman volunteered to come to Detroit. In 1962, he became part of the systems engineering staff which installed the first all-transistorized computer at Ford's Rouge Office Building.

Before his early retirement, Peterman was managing part of a corporate computer laboratory the size of nearly two football fields. He is a resident of Farmington Hills.

Now, having "assembled" the 4331 system, peterman manages and trouble-shoots in the instructional computer lab at Madonna College. He assists students in gettng their programs up and running.

The lab is also used by students from nursing, education, music and other academic areas where "computer aided instruction" materials are used to reinforce classroom teaching

The computer lab is used by students enrolled in the master of science in administration program to compile and analyze research data.

THE IBM 4331 has increased the capacity of the Madonna computer laboratory at least ten-fold. In addition to nine new terminals connected to the 4331, students have access to numerous Apples, Radio Shack TRS-80s, and IBM Personal (PC) computers.

"When the students are through here. they have had hands on experiences equivalent to what is expected of them in the marketplace," Peterman said.

The Madonna computer lab, open 14 hours daily, is staffed by Peterman and his assistant, Barbara Totzke, as well as eight advanced students who serve as lab aides

The lab is used for weekend workshops geared specifically to target groups such as parents, potential computer purchasers, educators or clergy

36 find jobs through program

Training laid-off workers to help other jobless colleagues is crucial to the success of a pilot UAW-GM-Oakland University retraining and re-employment program.

The two-month venture and followup surveys are now completed for 61 program participants at Fisher Body Division Plants 21 and 40 in Detroit with a 59 percent placement effort to date, sponsors say.

Entitled RECAP-JETS for "re-employment career planning and job edu-cation training selection," the program was developed after Carl Pearson, manager of Fisher Body Detroit Central Plants asked GM, the UAW Local 157 and OU for help.

Plant 40 has been closed and Plant 21 will soon be closed. The laid-off workers there have a need to investigate career alternatives.

CO-DIRECTORS of the RECAP-JETS program are William Moorhouse, professor in the OU Human Resources Development area, and Carroll Hutton, director of the university's Ken Morris Center for Labor Studies.

Of the 61 laid-off workers who entered the voluntary program in October of 1983, 36 have found jobs, 10 are still being aided in their search for employment, nine have taken an early retirement, four are in school full time, and one worker is on sick leave. One worker has dropped out of contact with the program.

Crucial to the success of the project was the use of laid-off workers who were selected by the UAW local to be trained as facilitators. They helped the trainers working in small group sessions, they served as role models for the other workers, and they helped spot possible problems that would need handling, Hutton and Moorhouse said.

Another key, the sponsors say, was that from the outset, union, management and university personnel were involved in all planning and decisionmaking so that the final process had the support of all parties.

GOALS OF the program were to help laid-off workers assess their capa-bilities, relate their skills to market needs, overcome grief resulting from job loss, learn how to approach prospective employers and market their capabilities.

Moorhouse said the program included job search skills and practice, place-resources provided by the General Motors-United Auto Workers Joint Re-employment Training Council and the OU Human Resources Development area. the Ken Morris Center for Labor Studies, and the Continuum Center for Adult Counseling and Leadership Training. The last three units are in the School of Human and Educational Ser-

The portrait show, "People You and two sittings for their free portrait which Know," will open Monday in the Prescott, Ball and Turben office on Main Street at Pen-

Artist Marion Sobersaid, "The show is a tribute to the people who serve Plymouth — all 10 of them. They are people who work in a laundry, a cleaning place, Krogers, Farmer Jacks, a printing office, a historical-museum volunteer, the post office, a gift shop, a fiber shop, and for the arts council."

Visitors to the show will be asked to fill out entry blanks naming their favorite person's portrait. The lucky winner will receive $25 and a prize will be awarded to the person whose portrait had the most entries. The winners will be announced April 7.

The models came to the studio for five sittings of two hours each for the large portrait, minutes with five-minute rests. Like professionals, there was no talking and no comment on the portraits.

There were some complaints concerning the spotlight hurting their eyes, cold feet and cricks in the neck.

"However, in this land of free speech there were comments, some positive in nature and some revelations. One is studying drawing from the right side of the brain, one has traced her ancestry to 1770 in Massachusetts, one is going to college part-time," said Sober.
Admission to the show is free and hours

Let's start with congratulations to Brownie Troop 326. You may remember the service project chosen by Troop 326 was mentioned last December in Canton Chatter. The project was the collection of used eyeglasses for distrioution around the world. Well with the help of you and many terrific local merchants, the project proved to be more than successful. Verna George, leader of the troop, and all the girls of 326 proudly and gratefully report a total of 2,318 pairs of eyeglasses and 40 pounds of jewelry collected, packed and sent on their way. Now that's incredible! I think each girl can be very proud, and Verna can put on a "Great Big Brownie Smile" for a job very well done. Collecting anything, in this day of fix, save, put away in case you need it, is no easy task. But the job needed to be done and by george, Mrs. George and the Brownies saw their duty and they did it. Brownies no less!

For those of you who may have forgotten, the Brownies are the littlest ones. But they proved themselves to be na George and Brownie Troop 326, conformer Canton Chatterer.

Church for sale

An activity-packed Youth Week at Merriman Road Baptist Church in Garden City will climax with a drama entitled "Church for Sale," which will be performed at 7 p.m. Some of the other events included a roller skating party and a progressive dinner plus a gospel music concert and the Pistons/Bucks game at the Silverdome. The Sunday night drama tells why the church failed in a small town. It ends on a triumphant note when the townspeople realize the importance of the church in their lives and their individual importance in the life of the church. Jimmy Hudgins (left) is cast in the role of Seth, the friendly church janitor who acts as the narrator, with David Box as the "Taunter" and Mark Wilder as the Pastor. The church is located at 2055 Merriman Road, Garden City. An afterglow will follow the production which is open to the pub-

Beale leads 1st area gym team

By Chris McCosky staff writer

BSERVERLAND gymnastics has existed in relative anonymity in recent years.

In the past, when one thought of highschool gymnastics it was schools such as Bloomfield Hills Lahser, Troy and North Farmington that came to mind. Observerland gymnastics has long been overshadowed by its sisters in Oakland County.

The shadow is now beginning to move away Until this year, Observerland gymnastics only included four teams: Plymouth Canton, Plymouth Salem, Westland John Glenn and Livonia Clarence ville - the latter two not belonging to a league structure.

This year, the Farmington Public School District (which includes North Farmington, Farmington Harrison and Farmington high schools) and Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy have joined Observerland - giving this area a much broader gymnastics base.

Because of this broader base, and because of the talent that has always existed coupled with the talent in the Farmington schools, Observerland gymnastics has arrived.

To honor this "stepping out," the Observer Newspapers proudly presents its first All-Area Gymnas-

SUPER SIX

Linda Beale, Plymouth Canton: What better way to inaugurate the area's first all-star contingent than with the person many feel is the best gymnast this area has ever produced.

Beale, a National High School Gymnastics Coaches Association All-American, is the captain (or most valuable performer) on this first Super Six

"Linda is the best all-around gymnast I have ever coached," said Canton coach John Cunningham, who has coached a good number of outstanding performers. "She has eclipsed every record set at Canton, and several of those will be around for a long time. Her All-American honors are the first by any Canton gymnast."

The NHSGCA honored Beale for scores of 8.9 on vault, 8.58 on balance beam, 8.7 on floor exercise and a 33.95 average all-around score. Her high scores this past season included a 9.0 on vault, an 8.4 on uneven parallel bars, an 8.75 on beam and an 8.8 on floor. Her top all-around score was 34.35.

sive: She placed sixth in the state on beam and 11th in the state all around. She was a regional champion on vault, and the Western Lakes conference allaround champion. She was also named the league's Most Consistent Gymnast.

Beale will not pursue gymnastics after high school, but she certainly has made her mark in the sport at Canton High School and throughout the Pam Modson, Our Lady of Mercy: Within this multi-talented performer's repertoire is a most beautiful floor exercise. Her floor-exercise routine, which scored an average of 8.605 and as high as 8.9, earned Modson NHSGCA All-American honors.

Modson's high-school gymnastics career is quite a story. A native of Plymouth, Modson chose to attend private Mercy High School. Mercy, however, didn't sponsor a gymnastics team. So, with the help of her longtime coach, Canton's John Cunningham, Modson became a one-woman team for Mercy, competing along with the Canton team.

Modson's top scores this past year were an 8.75 on vault, 8.3 on bars, 8.45 on beam and 8.9 on floor. Her all-around score was 33.2.

Modson, who is planning on attending the University of Michigan next fall, qualified for the state meet in both the vault and floor-exercise events. It was her second-straight appearance at the state meet. She qualified by placing sixth on vault and eighth on floor at the regional meet.

"Pam is the most coachable gymnast I've ever worked with," Cunningham said. "Her success, hopefully, will continue as she continues her gymnastics at U-M. Her potential has still not been real-

Mercy has yet to win a gymnastics meet. But, with Modson, it has won some statewide recogni-

Dona Kebrdle, North Farmington: Coach Mary Johnesee-Glitz builds powerhouse "teams" at North. Because of that, sometimes Raider individuals get overlooked. This All-Area team, however, did not overlook the Raiders' two team leaders.

No. 1 team leader was Kebrdle. The senior cap tain was the Raiders' only competitor at the state meet this season and has been a four-year standout

It's not 1969 any longer and Joey Pullin is no idealistic kid either. But at 28, he's formed another band (Joey Pullin and the Missiles) and hustled enough money to put out an album.

Called "Give Me Tonight," the new album reflects the years of knocking around and the kinds of musical skill that can be honed.

"'Give Me Tonight' is pop rock with the new sound along with it," said Pullin, whose band made a recent appearance on the WJBK-TV show "Stars of Tomorrow.'

Album production is by John Rapp, tour director for Bob Seger and the Silver Bullet Band. "Give Me Tonight" was recorded at Redford's Multi Track Studios and features five original tunes that have pop sensibilities and a contemporary sound

Joey and the Missiles will be making a late-April appearance at the Eastown received his album. With some luck some of these stations will play it.

Glass

Dali and others discover magical material for art

staff writer

Glass has held a fascination all its own over the centuries.

Until the birth of Christ, it could be made only in a complicated process that was reserved for kings. Glass was considered rarer and more precious than gems.

A company in France experimented with a glass casting process until it was mastered in the 1960s, and artist Salvador Dali, known primarily for his paintings, created 18 works in glass using this technique.

TODAY, VISITORS from around the country stop at the University of Michigan-Dearborn library to see Michigan's largest public contemporary glass col-lection. During April, which is Michigan Glass Month, thousands of visitors from San Francisco, Washington, D.C., Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Boston and other cities are attracted to the Dearborn campus, according to C. Edward Wall, head librarian.

"Glass is a magical material," he said. "Some say it's a dangerous material, because glass is so captivating. One is captured by the color and depth

"But if an artist is able to use glass successfully, the work becomes even more important. You've got dimensionality: depth, height, width. It's not just an opaque object."

Nine of Dali's original sculptural works in glass will be on display at the library from Friday through Monday, April 30. The work of other artists, dating from 1968, also will be featured in the exhibition.

"Many of the images that you find in Dali's paintings and prints, such as a clock, are interpreted in the glass," Wall said. "If they were done in steel or plaster or porcelain, it wouldn't have had the impact of that transparent technique called pate de verre, which dates back 3,500 years. Examples of glass works made this way were found In the process, a sand mold is filled with a paste of glass that includes different colors and is heated to approximately 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit. As a result, the glass takes on the form of the mold itself. It can take on blue, green, purple or almost any other col-

By DAVID MESSING special writer

As you remember last week we were talking about sign painting. I would like to take up where I left off, talking about different kinds of sign jobs and materials used.

Another popular sign job would be those done on art poster board and "show cards." Here again use vine charcoal and oil base paint. Most poster boards have a clay coating which quickly clogs up felt-tip markers. But you can cheat a little on show cards by using stencils. For the best results outline the stencil with a fine point marker of the appropriate color. Most people outline their stencil in pencil and then go crazy trying to paint along their final pencil line. If you outline with a sharpie (felt tip pen) of the appropriate color you will lift the stencil to find a line width of about one sixteenth of an inch which is easy to fol-

Remember also with window signs, most people are subconsciously alert to traffic light colors which are red, yellow and green. So plan your colors accordingly. It is therefore no mystery that the most successful paper signs for windows are black letters on red, yellow green florescent paper. They are gaudy to look at and can give you a headache trying to paint, but they really do catch your eye. If I have to paint on florescent paper. I actually wear sunglasses because of the brightness of

IN THE pricing of signs, it is very difficult to establish a hard and fast rule. For example, one man orders a 3foot-by-4-foot sign with only the word "sale" in 2-foot letters. Another man also orders the same size sign, but he wants his entire store policy printed on it. Now these two examples must be priced not only according to the square footage but also as to what is called "light" or "heavy" copy. The light copy could go as high as $50 or even more. When it comes to pricing, I guarantee the customer is no help at all. It is very common to hear them use phrases like, "just something quick" or "I only want few simple signs." Here's a good one, the customer comes in with a 3-inch square piece of paper with about three paragraphs of words that they want lettered on a show card. They will usually say "correct the spelling, and I need it in two days." Signs are the last thing people consider. I myself forget to order or do a sign promoting my own sale.

One important tip is to always hold on to the rough copy that your customer brought to you. Many times customers forget the wording they ordered. It is so helpful for you, the painter, to unfold their scribbled piece of paper and say, "right here is what you gave to Since we are talking about customer relations, be very clear on your quotes. Price the job at what you need to get. You don't need a sign job on which you can't make any money.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT tip is that you be paid on delivery. While you are working on the job it is the customers problem but if he or she takes the signs without paying for them, then it is your problem. Here are some of the popular excuses people use when trying to pick up signs without paying for them: "I forgot to bring a check," "my secretary will mail you a check," "give me a bill and I'll turn it into accounts payable, etc. The bottom line is that you are taking a chance. To let any sign leave your hand without some payment in the other. Of course as you develop a relationship with certain customers you can feel confident they will pay you promptly.

Hey lets go outside ... well now that we are outside, paper signs are definitely out and show cards won't last two days. So now we are talking about permanent outdoor signs. The first type canvas banner. The canvas or sign cloth, is a fine woven fiber with a white acrylic coating. The paint used on outdoor canvas banners must be exterior quality. Again I recommend one shot lettering enamel. This paint is rich in pigment, glossy when dry and extremepermanent. Canvas banners are usually finished with grommets or a rope is sewn into upper and lower extremity

The next alternative in an outdoor sign is plywood. Plywood sign thickness varies from three-eighths inch to one half inch. Usually you can simply use exterior gloss or semigloss acrylic paint to acquire the base color you wish to paint on. Use a roller with a fine nap. this will produce a smoother surface for lettering.

Most lighted signs are lettered on $5 per square foot.

milk white plastic. This type of sign is much easier to do for us non-sign painters. If the plastic is new it will have brown paper stuck to both sides. Simply lay out your letters on this brown protection paper. When satisfied carefully cut out each letter. Now lift out each letter to expose the white plastic surface. Simply spray with exterior paint the exposed portions of glass When the paint dries, lift off all the brown paper to see your completed sign. This technique is called "razor cut and spray." How's that for a creative name! If the plastic is bare to begin with, then simply mask it with white contact paper and proceed as above.

Quickly, I would like to give a few ball park figures on sign prices Meat market signs are around 50 cents a square foot. Paper signs range from $1 to $2 per square foot. Show cards begin at $20 and can easily go $50. Canvas. plywood and plastic range from $3 to
