State Rep. Ed Mahalak, D-Romulus, begins a cardiac rehabilitation program (stationary bike riding and walking) today — and he's all set with a brand new pair of running shoes. Mahalak, a legislator for 20 years, suffered a heart attack April 2.

Heart attack spurs veteran lawmaker's legislative departure

State Rep. Edward Mahalak, D-Romulus, still recuperating from a heart attack suffered earlier this month, has announced he will not seek re-election to his 37th House District

Mahalak's decision came last week in a letter read to House members by his seatmate, Rep. Rick Sitz, D-Mon

There comes a time in all of our legislative careers when we must make a decision affecting our future. I will not be a candidate for re-election. I will step aside to let someone else run,

During his 20 consecutive years in office, Mahalak served on numerous standing committees including the powerful House Appropriations Committee. He was also chairman of the Transportation and Veterans and Military Affairs subcommittes.

Mahalak's district was reorganized last year to include Canton Township, Romulus, Belleville, Wayne and all of Van Buren Township. Before the reorganization, much of his district extended into Monroe.

Mahalak says he went to work as a legislator in 1964 with the belief that you must work hard, listen to your constitutents and remember they are bet-

House of Representatives Speaker Gary Owen, speaking before the House last week, said Mahalak will be missed.

'The job is timeconsuming and really tells on you after all these years.'

> - Ed Mahalak state representative

THE WAY ED was successful was his dedication to each individual, and a belief that a legislator's primary responsibility was to solve those individu al constituent's problems," Owen said. During his tenure in Lansing, Mahalak introduced and co-sponsored more than 2,000 bills. In doing so he's learned a lot about the art of compro-

"There is no substitute for votes," he said. "You can throw all kinds of tantrums but votes are what you need to

"I can sense whether or not I'll get a bill passed and know when I may have to compromise. I've learned sometimes it's better to have a half loaf of bread than no bread at all."

PEGGY JOHNSON has served as Mahalak's aid for the past four years. Speaking from his office in Lansing, she marveled at his drive.

"There are times I have a hard time keeping up with him. I don't know how he does it. He's left here many Friday afternoons with several appointments to keep that night. He'll fill a weekend meeting with constituents and going to civic functions.

MADD spearheads prom night project

Mothers Against Drunk Drivers (MADD) and radio station WNIC would like to change that with their lastest brainchild, "Project Graduation."

Set for Tuesday, May 8, this undertaking will entail free lunch for 1,000 high-school students from a six-county area, and alcohol-awareness presentations by several notable speakers.

"Don't let your friends drink and drive is our message," said WNIC Promotion Director Breeda Kelley. "We hope to bring together a group of movers and shakers who will carry our message back to their high schools and share it with their peers.'

Wayne County MADD chapter, stresses the importance of its "don't drink and drive" message.

"Each spring hundreds of high-school students participate in prom and graduation activities. This usually means lots of parties and often drinking. Our purpose is to educate, and make these students think about what they are doing," she said.

'We don't want to put a damper on anyone's party, we simply want to raise their level of awareness about drinking and driving."

Both women stress that the students will be involved in the program and not just lectured.

"This will be a thought-starter day. We've planned time for the students to meet and brainstorm. We need their ideas on how to best get our 'don't Sue Landes, vice president of the drink and drive' message across," Kel-

"We will encourage them to talk to their peers about drinking and driving and can suggest some things we've seen work before," Landes said.

Some effective preventive measures recommended are as simple as putting up posters and talking about the dangers of drinking and driving. Other successful ideas include designated driv ers and "life rides."

Designated drivers works as follows. One person in the car assumes the responsibility of being the designated driver. He or she does not drink during the evening and makes sure everyone gets home safely.

"Life rides" are organized like a taxi service, usually by parents or fellow students. Any student who doesn't feel capable of driving home safely can call life rides and be assured safe transportation home for themselves and their

MADD and WNIC teamed up late last year to sponsor a New Year's project, also called "Life Rides." Every TV and radio station in the metropolitian area advertised the program and the Life Rides number. Taxi companies and local police departments volunteered to escort people nome who called asking for help. "WNIC was gung ho to do it again

They couldn't picture him with a rake in his hand or with a spade preparing a vegetable garden. And it was somewhat of a joke to picture him fussing with flowers in the spring.

the stroller There's plenty to see in wide open spaces

Out in what was then called "the country," The Stroller purchased two acres of a wooded area on an abandoned farm and went to work.

IT WASN'T easy. But he did have the garden — even raised prize cu-cumbers and watermelons — and the city folks were glad to come and visit and leave with a basket of fruit and vegetables.

But all the while. The Stroller had other things in mind. He knew that the

Now the time has come to earn the reward. These mornings, as he sits at the breakfast table be enjoys looking out of the window and watching the show put on by these occupants of the open spaces.

The snow that bothered them for months has gone and they have sought refuge in the tall evergreens that now serve as a high rise apartment for these creatures. So, soon as the kitchen lights go on, out they come and head for the bird feeder. More than that they start to play some sort of game and have a great time frolicking while drinking.

All winter long The Stroller had fed them with birdseed and bread, and now they seemed to be saying "thanks." And what a thank-you show they put on among themselves

What a great group they are - the cardinal, the blue bird, the dove and several others that The Stroller can't name. But they form a happy part of Mother Nature's family and they now delight a fellow who is entering the golden years. He is having the time of his life watching the show and recall the day he was laughed at when he announced that he was not a city slicker and was going out to the wide open spaces and commune with Mother Nature. That day has come. And it is most

a group home

In response to (Nick Sharkey's) article in the Canton Observer dated 3-29-84. Old prejudices die slowly is correct, but on the other hand, you obviously do not live next to a group home. I don't mean a neighbor of one but right next door. I know of no one in the area who is prejudiced against the emotionally physically or mentally disabled, just against the people who run the homes they live in

We bought in the Canton area be-Lifenextdoor to cause it was still basically rural and Canton was a community on the move. cause it was still basically rural and When we bought our home, it was not only going to be our dream home, but our lifetime investment. We were planning to build onto our home both up and out when our family increased.

Things were really looking great Then one day last year we were informed that a group home for mentally retarded adults was moving in next door. Well, I called the (township) hall where I was told that group homes can move in anywhere they want. The State of Michigan has decreed that they may do so and because, in most cases, they lease from the actual owners.

I feel my rights as a citizen have been violated. We, the neighbors of this Move, you say! Sell the house and go house, have no say in who we have living next to us.

somewhere else! In this case, Mr. Sharkey, would you like to buy my house? sure you wouldn't. The comings and goings at all times of the day and night by the staff, and all the cars in the driveway is very disturbing. doesn't even look like a family with a lot of children who drive live there. It looks like a group home with staff coming and going.
I think you are right when you stated that my property values have not decreased. But on the other hand, what good are property values if you cannot ell the house?

All are invited to group home

drop-in center Persons interested in learning more about the group home slated to be constructed on Dionne Street north of Geddes and west of Sheldon in Canton are invited to a "drop-in center" 3:30-7:30 p.m. today at Geneva United Presbyterian Church at 5835 Sheldon. Representatives from the Michigan Department of Social Services.

Wayne Community Living Services, (WCLS) and Donel - a non-profit organization that will operate the proposed home - will be on hand to answer questions from persons residing within 1,500 feet of the site, said Ken Stockton. WCLS executive

The home has proved a controversial subject for Canton residents who claim an unreasonably high concentration of group homes are being located in the southern end of the township. They fear traffic problems and decreased property values will ensue if the home for retarded citizens is built.

"I'm concerned that neighbors don't have the proper information. If people have the opportunity to receive information, I would hope they'd take advantage of it, and hopefully we can generate some support for the program.

The only way to allay people's fears is to be present and answer questions for the persons directly in-volved who come in. We do it as much as we can," Stockton said. If residents wish to visit an existing group home, that can be arranged as well, he added.

We're willing to work with them in whatever way would be feasible."

THE SEASONS AND ARTHRITIS

Recently I discussed the weather and arthritis Today's column will extend that discussion to include the influence of the seasons on bone and ioint conditions.

For example, psoriatic arthritis flares in the winter and is mild in the summer, these changes parallel the intensity of ultraviolet light in the atmosphere. Such light is excellent treatment for psoriasis, and however fares the skin, so fares the arthritis. Thus, the longer and warmer the summer, the more ultraviolet light is present, and the better the patient with psoriatic arthritis

In contrast, for patients with lupus arthritis, winter is the best time of the year, and summer is the worst. Again the reason has to do with exposure to ultraviolet light, which in lupus patients accelerates the production of reactions within the body that are harmful to the individu-al. Thus a patient, writing of her experience with lupus, titled her book: The Sun is My Enemy.

These examples represent only a small sample of the ways in which arthritis and our environment interact.

WHY NOT GIVE A BRUNCH?

Got those mid winter blues? No need to mope! Lift yourself out of the doldrums with a glorious mid-winter get together. No matter how bitter the weather outside, everyone can be snug and cozy inside, leisurely enjoying good food and good friends.

But, if a mountain of incoming holiday bills makes you hesitant to throw a party, take heart. By planning a brunch, entertaining can be easy, economical

Seasoned party givers know that adding just one spectacular dish to the menu can elevate even the most ordinary fare in the eyes of the guest. Here are some exciting brunch recipes that give a simple meal party airs while keeping your post holiday finances in check. Each is a showpiece in itself.

What would you like to serve as the star of your brunch? A light and airy souffle? A dazzling fruit compote? A maple iced yeast bread rolled up around a moist and tangy fruit filling? Take your pick! Any one of these can make your party sensational

For an exquisite, yet inexpensive entree, combine two classics. When you fold Shrimp de Jonghe ingredients into a cheese souffle, the eggs will stretch a small package of shrimp to feed four to six people. The end result is the ultimate in elegance at an economical cost.

You don't have to admit to your guests that this streamlined souffle recipe is surprisingly easy to make It's simply a thick, egg yolk enriched white sauce leavened with stiffly beaten egg whites. If the thought of making a souffle terrifies you, just follow the recipe below for magnificently high results the

While a souffle is best baked as soon as you prepare it, you can hold it up to two hours in the refrigerator, if necessary. But, do serve it immediately after baking to retain its puffy golden crown. Call your guests to the table just before you remove the souffle from the oven.

With eggs on hand in the refrigerator, dozens of elegant, yet low-cost brunch specialties are possible. In addition to souffles, consider quiches,

Would you like your brunch to highlight a fabulous fruit course? Especially during the wintertime when fruit choices are limited, a dish with tangy sweet flavor is most welcome. Take advantage of the marvelous opportunity to capture the flavor of those sun ripened plums of summer by serving moist and delicious prunes.

Plump prunes in a zippy orange and ginger sauce, add winter's fresh citrus fruits and you've created a Festive Fruit Compote. What a wonderful combination! When served in a sparkling glass dish, the jeweled tones of the citrus sections contrast dramatically against the glistening dark color of the prunes, giving this budget minded dish luxurious eye appeal.

If it has been awhile since you've enjoyed prunes, you're missing a good bet. They are rich in natural fiber, high in vitamin A and a good source of iron and other nutrients. Keep prunes on hand for quick brunch ideas, from appetizers to desserts. Their mellow sweetness combines beautifully with a variety of flavors.

Would you like your spectacular brunch to showcase a fragrant, home-made yeast bread, fresh from the oven? A bread that wins raves is Vermont Maple Swirl, rich with eggs and tangy with a plum sweet prune-walnut filling. You'll find the unique flavor combination of prunes and maple is truly delicious. Vermont Maple Swirl is a dazzling showpiece when drizzled with maple icing and garnished with prunes and nuts. Slice the bread on the diagonal to show off the beautiful pinwheel design created by the dark filling against the golden, egg-enriched dough. Serve the bread with the meal or as a dessert with coffee afterwards.

Although some people are reluctant to try a yeast bread, they really aren't all that difficult to make and the impressive results are well worth the extra effort. Just be sure to heat the liquids to the proper temperature. To create a warm place for rising, put the dough in a cold oven and place a pan of hot water on the rack below

Make just one of these spectacular menu items or all three. However you choose to present your brunch, you'll find each item is delicious, kind to the budget and nutritious. And each is well suited to a winter brunch menu

So why not start with these recipes and plan a brunch to while away those bleak months ahead? There's hardly a better way to banish your mid winter blues

SHRIMP DE JONGHE SOUFFLE

Grated Parmesan cheese

- 1.3 cup butter
- 1-3 cup all purpose flour
- 1-1-4 cups milk
- 1.4 cup dry white wine
- cup (2 oz.) shredded Gr or Swiss cheese
- 1 tablespoon parsley flakes
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- 1/4 teaspoon salt 6 eggs, separated
- 3.4 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 package (6 oz.) tiny frozen cooked shrimp, thawed

Butter bottom and sides of a 2 to 2-1/2 quart souffle dish or straight-sided casserole. Dust with Parmesan cheese. Prepare a collar by making a 4-inch wide band of triple thickness aluminum foil long enough to go around dish and overlap 2 inches. Butter one side of band and dust with Parmesan cheese. Wrap band around dish, dusted side in, and fasten with straight pins, paper clips or string. Collar should stand at least 2 inches above rim of dish.

In medium saucepan over medium high heat, melt butter. Blend in flour. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is smooth and bubbly. Stir in milk all at once. Cook and stir until mixture boils and is smooth and thickened. Stir in wine. Remove from heat. Stir in Gruyere cheese and seasonings until cheese is melted. Set aside.

In large mixing bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar at high speed until stiff but not dry, just until whites no longer slip when bowl is tilted. Thoroughly blend egg yolks and shrimp into reserved sauce. Gently, but thoroughly, fold yolk mixture into whites. Carefully pour into prepared dish. For a "top hat," hold spoon upright and circle mixture to make a ring about 1 inch from side of dish and 1 inch deep.

Bake in a preheated 350°F, oven until puffy, delicately browned and souffle shakes slightly when oven rack is moved gently back and forth, about 35 to 45 minutes. Quickly, but gently, remove collar. Serve immediately.

Makes 4 to 6 servings

FESTIVE FRUIT COMPOTE

VERMONT MAPLE SWIRL

3.1.2 to 4 cups all purpose flour, divided

1/4 cup sugar

I package active dry yeast

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 cup milk 1/3 cup butter, softened Prune-Walnut Filling (recipe follows) Maple Icing (recipe follows)

Halved pitted prunes and walnut

halves (for gamish)

In large bowl of electric mixer combine 3/4 cup of the flour, the sugar, yeast and salt; mix to blend thoroughly. In small saucepan combine milk and butter. Heat over low heat until very warm, 120 to 130°F. Butter need not melt completely. Beating at medium speed, gradually add milk mixture to yeast mixture. Beat 2 minutes, scraping bowl as needed. Add 3 of the eggs, then I more cup of the flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes. Mix in enough additional flour to make a stiff dough, about 1-1/2 cups. Turn out onto floured board. Knead 8 to 10 minutes, working in as much of the remaining flour as needed to make a smooth, non-sticky dough. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover with plastic wrap and towel. Let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1-1/2 hours. Punch dough down. On lightly floured board, stretch and roll out dough into a rectangle 12 x 16 inches. Spread evenly with Prune-Walnut Filling to within 1/2 inch of edges. Starting from long end, roll as for a jelly roll. Moisten edge with water and pinch seam to seal completely. Tuck ends under and pinch to seal. Gently place diagonally, seam side down, on greased baking sheet. Cover with towel and let rise in warm place until almost doubled, about 1 hour. Brush generously with remaining egg, beaten. Bake in middle of preheated 350°F, oven 25 to 35 minutes until evenly browned and loaf sounds hollow when tapped. Remove to rack to cool. Drizzle with Maple Icing and garnish with prune and walnut halves. To serve, cut into diagonal slices.

Makes 12 servings PRUNE-WALNUT FILLING:

Combine 1-1/2 cups (about 9 ounces) pitted prunes, 1/2 cup water and 1/2 teaspoon maple flavoring in container of electric blender. Blend until almost smooth, turning on and off and scraping sides of container as needed. Transfer to bowl; mix thoroughly with 1 cup chopped

In small bowl mix 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 to 2 tablespoons milk and 1/4 teaspoon maple flavoring until smooth and consistency desired for drizzling.

Vegetables and mushrooms are just the thing for stuffing tomatoes are known for holding their shape well even after cooking, so they make a beautiful presentation when filled with colorful stuffings. Do remember, however, before you do anything with them, to allow the tomatoes to ripen at home for a few days. Let them sit at room temperature on your kitchen counter until they're fully red and yield softly to the touch. Don't refrigerate them or they won't ripen the way they should.

When they're ready you can stuff them with all sorts of colorful compatible mixtures. In our recipes we've used vegetable stuffings . . . (green vegetables look particularly pretty besides tasting good). Eggs hold the spinach-rice filling together in our first recipe which is seasoned with onion, lemon, black pepper and nutmeg. The stuffed tomatoes are served hot or at room temperature, and would go equally well with chicken, meat or fish.

Peas and mushrooms make another pretty toms to presentation. Bread crumbs are added, plus some onion, parsley and a dash of ground black pepper. Quite impressive for brunch.

SPINACH STUFFED TOMATOES GREEK-STYLE

6 large Florida tomatoes 114 cups water 's cup rice (uncooked) 1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach or 1 pkg. (10 oz.) fresh spinach 2 eggs, lightly beaten 4 cup finely chopped onion 2 tsp. lemon juice

l tsp. salt, divided 4 tsp. ground black pepper 14 tsp. ground nutmeg

Preheat oven to 350°. Use tomatoes held at room temperature until fully ripe. In a small saucepan bring water to boiling. Stir in rice. Reduce heat and simmer covered until rice is almost tender, about 15 minutes. Trim and wash fresh spinach, cook in a tightly covered saucepan with water clinging to the leaves for 3 minutes; drain and chop. If using frozen cook). Combine rice, spinach, eggs, onion, lemon juice, 44 teaspoon of the salt, black pepper and nutmeg, blend well. Cut a thin slice from the stem end of each tomato. Scoop out pulp (use in soups, etc.) leaving a 4-inch thick shell Invert to drain Turn omatoes cavity side up. Sprinkle inside of tomato shells with remaining 1/4 teaspoon salt. Fill with spinach-rice mixture, mounding on top. Place in a shallow baking pan containing 1-inch hot water about 15 minutes. YIELD: 6 portions.

PEA AND MUSHROOM STUFFED TOMATOES 6 medium-sized Florida tomatoes 8 oz. fresh mushrooms or 1 cap (6 to 8 oz.) sliced 4 thsp. butter or margarine, divided

4 cup minced onion l pkg. (10 oz.) frozen peas tbsp. chopped parsley pinch ground black pepper

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Use tomatoes held at room temperature until fully ripe. Cut a thin slice from the stem end of each tomato; scoop out

Men shoppers also like to buy convenient food

nanas in the produce section doesn't work there. Today, men do 40 percent of the shopping, and at least than number prepare all or some of the groeries they buy. What do they cook? Everything from spaghetti carbonara to apple pie — on the weekends. But, during the week, quick meals are big. And, quick meals also are easy-on-the-budget. To meet both these requirements, men often plan suppers around steaming bowls of homemade soup While lobster bisque and old-fashioned vegetable soup like Mom used to make are out, other equally ey. Smart shoppers rely on convenience food prod ucts which can be kept on-hand on cupboard and freezer. Though a bit more costly, some convenience foods are well worth the extra pennies be cause they are real time-savers. Dry soup mixes, instant bouillon and canned broth, for example, can replace homemade stocks which demand hours of simmering.

With a convenience broth as a start, other ingred ients can be added to suit the "chef's" taste nu-trients and eye appeal. For added flavor and texture, pair your choice of vegetables with economical barley, rice, pasta or even corn meal. For greatest savings, buy the latter in large bags. A portion can be removed easily and the bag resealed. All can be stored on the cupboard shelf for as long as a year and make satisfying additions

IF YOU follow her ten tips, you might find yourself next-spring not having to add the word "cleaning" to the name of that glorious season of the is her last tip. It can be accomplished

"If you do that, you won't have to do it all at once when springtime comes." The first tip is a familiar one. "Be prepared." It's short but it has a lot of meaning behind it.

Lehmkuhl advised.

In fact, don't ever spring clean again by thoroughly cleaning each room of your house throughout the year "That may mean completely cleaning one room a month," said Lehmkuhl.

only what you set out to do. If you're vacuuming and you discover a closet that need straightening, save it for later. Finish your vaccuming first so that you've completed that job before moving onto another one.

HERE ARE the last five tips for you: · Time your work. Lehmkuhl has discovered that people overestimate the time it takes them to do work they don't like and underestimate how long takes to do work they like.

get engrossed in it and spend longer at " she said. If you know it takes 30 minutes to do a specific job, and you good storage place for them. If you're have that long before you have to leave the house, then instead of thinking you consider cancelling your subscriptions. don't have time to do anything you'll · Work smart, not hard. The key is to find out how professionals do their job. An amateur cleaner might try to wipe individually the slats on a bifold Another rule to keep in mind is to do door while the professional would try removing the slats, washing them with a brush and soapy water, rinsing them with the hose and letting them air dry in the sun. · Don't wear yourself out. Don't get so tired doing a job that you never want to do it again, Lehmkuhl advises. Break the job down into units - one hour o work now, one hour later or one shelf now and another after a break. Also, alternate difficult and easy tasks and .

work at your high-energy times. · Learn to make decisions. Decide right away what items to keep, which to throw away. Take stock of your stacks of unread material and find a really not reading those magazines.

Dispose of disposables. Remem-through with the idea or put them in a away. Lehmkuhl suggests making a list while cleaning of things you want to give away so you won't forget your decisions later. If these tips don't seem to make a difference in your approach to spring cleaning, Lehmkuhl has one final bit of advice . . . move and start all over again in a clean, freshly painted

OVER THE last couple of years Lehmkuhl has spread her home-management tips suburban residents, and has taught classes on the subject for many adult-education centers.

Now she's taking a sabbatical from teaching to write a book on the topic But she's still interested in maintaining her contact with the public.

"I'm doing speeches for business organizations and groups such as parents groups," she said. "I'm also interested working with groups on fund-ra-

Violence isn't pretty but film is touching

"La Balance" (R) is a hardnosed, no-nonsense, violent cop show Its intensity and physical energy will hold your attention, revolt you with its brutality but touch you with an unusual love story

Everyone has a sympathetic view toward law and order, at least in the abstract. Who wants his home burglarized? To be attacked in the streets? No one, of course

The police must keep things clean, and a close view of how that's done, at least in Paris, is not a pretty picture. One's generalized approval of law and order turns, as we see how brutal the police can become in doing their job.

As a matter of fact, the "heroine" and "hero" of "La Balance," a prostitute and her pimp, are sympathetic, even attractive characters. There are no limits to what they will do for one another. The police, who exploit that love, hardly earn our respect and good will, even though they are doing their job.

THE PROSTITUTE, Nicole (Nathalie Baye), has the misfortune to love a small-time, unemployed hoodlum, Dede (Philippe Leotard), who is out of work because of an earlier run-in with the local underworld boss, Roger Massina (Maurice Ronet).

By French law, Dede is a pimp because he lives with a prostitute, and off of her earnings, even though he is not out pimping for

In Paris, a special, elite police force, the Territorial Brigades, exists. The cops of "La Balance" are members of the 13th Territorial Brigade. They are young, full of bravado and humor, a veneer covering the great fear and danger in which they live.

They are out in the streets coping with drug dealers, thieves and psychotic killers. Much of their success comes from the use of informers, "la balance" in underworld slang, literally that extra edge that tips the balance.

The film opens with the murder of Paulo, the brigade's current informer. Inspector Palouzi (Richard Berry) needs a new "balance" and settles on Dede because of his contact with Massina and his vulnerability.

PALOUZI'S BRIGADE includes a sidetick Tintin (Christophe Malavoy), "the Belgian" (Jean-Paul Connart) and "the Captain" (Bernard Freyd), a former office in the French Army fighting in Algeria. His attitude from that war makes him effectively brutal, particularly when dealing with Algerian underworld characters.

With Dede and Nicole ensnared, Inspector Palouzi casts his net for Mr. Big, Roger Massina.

There you have all the ingredients of the classic detective thriller. "La Balance" is so well made that it will keep you on the edge of your seat, with its intensity and unusual love story, effectively presented with great texture and atmosphere

Palouzi is only successful because he is able to exploit the love of Dede and Nicole. That he does so with such graphic abuse hardly earns him our sympathy.

The 1982 French film was written by Bob Swaim, an American director working in France. A huge commercial success, "La Bal-ance" won the French Oscar (Cesar) for best film, best actor and best actress, as well as technical prizes

The photography richly presents the seamy side of Paris, with an occasional nice view, images so well and densely composed that the slum, underworld life has a palpable physical presence

Oscar, played with dry, pin-striped perfection by Harry Carlson, mediates the battle. Nancy Clervi, with her flashing dark eyes and nimble tongue, is a stunning Mary who balances Todd Hissong as the self-analytical Bob. A good battle requires evenly matched contenders and these two make lively

JEAN KERR throws in a little competition with Bob's young fiancee, Tiffany, and with Dirk, the suave actor who beguiles Mary. Jealousies flair. Tiffany may be filthy rich and quote her "Daddy," but Elizabeth Porter plays her with just enough sense to keep her from being dippy.

Philip Silverman has the dark handsomeness and suave delivery to play Dirk, a veteran Hollywood actor. What he doesn't have is the look of a man old enough to charm Mary with his sophisticated experience. A little silver on his temples and a weathered wrinkle or two might have added credibility.

nor bloodletting - nothing that a Band-Aid can't cover neatly. It's a civilized formula for dinner theater that's bright but digestible.

The play maintains a refreshing sanity about divorce. Wishful thinking or not, "Mary, Mary" treats divorce as a curable disease, not a mortal illness.

"Mary, Mary" is set in the inevitable New York City. The Big Apple may be the spawning ground for sophisticated comedy, but why must all storylines be set there, ignoring the rest of the continent? Major Leagues: A goal few attain

A's McCatty is a survivor

By Jim Hughes staff writer

HERE'S STILL some 150 games left on the Major League Baseball schedule, so it's much too early to talk about the playoffs. But if Detroit and Oakland hang on to their leads in the East and West divisions, respectively, there will be a big homecoming celebration for A's pitcher Steve McCatty.

"It'd be great," McCatty said from his room at the Sheraton Hotel in Boston. "Then I could stay in my Rochester home instead of the Pontchartrain downtown."

Means that much to you, eh Steve? Actually, you can expect a response like that from the "Cat."

McCatty, a Troy High School graduate, is great with the one-liners, and he's also pretty decent between the foul lines. Going into the weekend series with the Red Sox, McCatty, who was scheduled to pitch yesterday, had a 2-0 record and a 3.10 earned run average for the division-leading A's...

IN REALITY, a Detroit vs. Oakland American League playoff series would mean more for McCatty than sleeping in his own bed.

"It would be really exciting," he said. "My mom and dad would be torn between the two. I'd be fired up to have something like that. Sure, it's a long way off, but it's not unreal for that to happen. There's a good chance for it.

"We're a real good team. People tend to say, 'Yeah, they're a good team, but they're not legitimate contenders.' But we are that. We are legitimate."

Like the rest of the baseball followers, McCatty is impressed with the Detroit Tigers' nine straight wins to open the season. He says it's important to start strong in the tough East Division, but he's not willing to erase defending world champion Baltimore from the picture, despite the Orioles horrendous start.

"Detroit's a real good team. That (strong start) is something they need. If you go .500 early in the East, it's so much harder to make up. But most of the teams are good enough where they won't go through many long losing spells.

"Baltimore never starts strong," McCatty added. "They play good baseball around the All-Star break, that's always been there style. I don't think they'll change that much in one year because they're the same ball-club. It's still early."

THE SEASON STILL is in its infant stage, but McCatty already is off to a fast start with his 2-0 record. Prior to the Boston series, he had three starts, and the A's were winners in each of those games. That's something the former Cy Young runnerup hopes will be constant.

"I'd like us to win every game I pitch in," said McCatty, who, going into the 1984 season, has a career record of 51-45 with a 3.69 ERA. "That's not to say I win every game, all I want is the team to win. So far, we have. If I start 35 games and we win 35, by rights, I should get half (of

In five full seasons with Oakland, McCatty never has been a 20-game winner. His best chance for the magic number would have been during the strike-shortened 1981 season when he posted a 14-7 record and finished second to Milwaukee Brewer relief pitcher Rollie Fingers in the Cy Young voting.

If McCatty gets half of those 35 wins he talks about, it will be his best season in terms of pitching victories. But one thing is for sure: He wants to be the ace of the staff.

"Sure I would," said McCatty, who is part of a four-man rotation with Lary Sorenson, Mike Warren and Tim Conroy. "The only thing is I've been wild. I've been wild a lot at times. My arm feels good, but the unfortunate thing is I throw too many pitches.

"If I go seven or eight innings, I should get a lot of wins. I've been around the league, and I know the guys. Some pitchers are snakebit. They'll lose games, 2-1. More often than not, I'll win, 5-3, and 4-2. I've got a little luck going my way.

"I WANT TO be the stopper. If we lose a few, I want to be the guy they give the ball to."

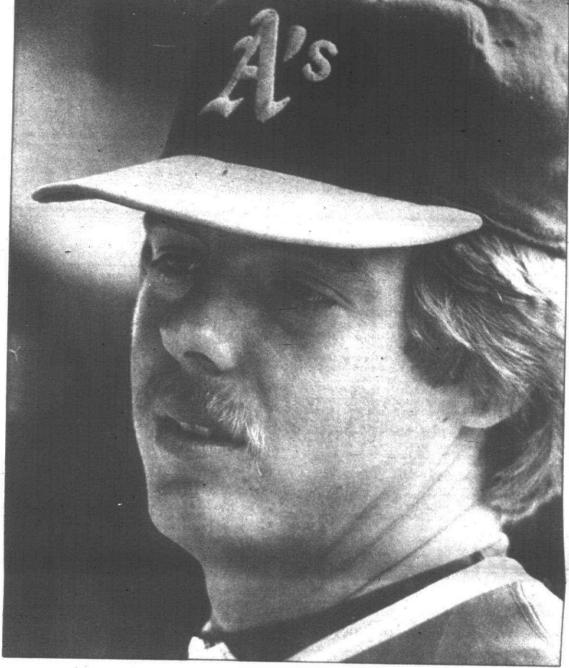

McCatty has yet to see the seventh inning in his first three starts. His wins were 14-2 against Boston and 3-1 against Seattle. He nearly had a win against California, but was out of the game when the Angels tied it, 1-1. Oakland eventually posted a 2-1 victory.

Although McCatty is confident in his ability, it's difficult for him to pinpoint a reason for his early success.

"It's hard to say. We've been scoring runs while I've been pitching, and I've been keeping it close. And, we've been getting good help from the bullpen. That's basically why we've had the good start.

"I feel as long as I keep it close, we have a chance to win, and that's what counts."

Just in case the dream series doesn't pan out, McCatty and the A's will be in town for a weekend series with the Tigers May 18-20. Then again, it could be an interesting prelinde.

Steve McCatty, a native of Troy, has made his mark in the major leagues with the Oakland A's.

College: Where dream begins

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Looking back a year, Bill Hanis can sum up his freshman baseball season at Michigan State as some good news, some bad.

First the good: Hanis discovered the transition to college ball wasn't really that difficult.

"It wasn't that big a jump," said the former All-State catcher from Plymouth Canton. "The biggest adjustment came during our spring

After Hanis got his first taste of collegiate baseball in MSU's trip south last year, he got going quickly. He caught 36 games for the Spartans and batted over .300 until a late-season slump dropped him to .263 for the year. Still, he scored 19 runs and hit two homers, collecting 13 RBIs.

Now for the bad news. Michigan State dropped 32 games, which is about 24 more defeats than Hanis experlenced in his last two seasons at

"We lost 32 games last season and I'm not used to that," he admitted.

Dreams die hard in minor leagues

By Rich Swenson staff writer

Former Birmingham Seaholm baseball star Jerry Keller still has his mind set on making it to the big leagues.

The 28-year-old power-hitting catcher signed a minor league contract to play this season with Syracuse (AAA) of the International League, with hopes that the parent club—the Toronto Blue Jays—can use his offensive clout later this season.

He's spent seven years laboring in the minors, but to Keller, it's been well worth the effort.

"I don't know what my chances are of making it to the major leagues," he said. "It's a matter of being in the right place at the right time.

"But I'll take my chances, I've always enjoyed baseball — it's something I've always done. I'll take it one day at a time.

WITH IMPRESSIVE back-to-back seasons at Portland (Pacific Coast League) and Richmond (International League), Keller has improved his prospects.

The mammoth six-foot-four, 240 pounder belted 28 home runs in each of the last two seasons, leading Portland to the championship last year. The Beavers finished second to Tidewater.

In each of the last five seasons, the right-handed slugger has hit between 25-30 homers, including two home run titles. But he can also hit for average.

Last year, Keller finished with a respectable .285 average and has stayed around the .275 mark throughout his career. He also increased his marketability by doing a superb job catching.

"I've never done a whole lot of catching," he said. "But last season, I thought I did a good job."

AS A RECEIVER, Keller's strengths are handling pitchers and blocking the plate. If he has a weakness, it's in his throwing ability. But he said even that has improved.

Syracuse officials plan to use him at first, catcher or designated hitter (DH). The main thing is getting his bat in the game.

"I don't care how they use me as long as I'm in the lineup," he said.

Easter exodus: Where the jocks are

O YOU WANT to be a high-school baseball coach, do you? Or a high-school track coach?

Before you apply, consider some of these horror stories.

• One ranked area baseball team lost a ballgame to a team it should have beaten because all but two of its seniors were down in Florida, forcing the team to play with a handful of junior varsity players — the game was played on the Monday of the week prior to Easter break.

 Three key players on a ranked area soccer team decided to take a trip to Florida despite the fact that their team was to play its arch rival — this, too, happened a week prior to the Easter vacation.

 One area coach — Stevenson's Chuck Dubois — quit when the school's administration wouldn't back him on a policy that would deter his athletes from missing scheduled games because of Florida trips.

COACHING HIGH-school sports in the spring time is no picnic. Not only do you have to deal with unstable weather conditions, but you have to deal with the now traditional Easter exodus.

"You just have to understand that the tradition of it all has gotten bigger than spring sports," said Mike Teachman, Farmington Harrison's girls softball coach.

Nobody is sure where the tradition began, but it has grown to epidemic proportions. Every April, right around the time of Easter break, high-school and college students take off for the sunny shores of Florida.

The Easter exodus is causing a lot of problems for area coaches — and for area educators.

Teams are having to use junior varsity players to fill in for vacationing varsity players. Coaches and athletic directors are frantically trying to reschedule meets, matches or games to avoid forfeits. Good teams are losing to poor teams because all their key athletes are in Florida. Coaches and parents are at odds. It's getting ugly.

The sad thing about it all is, these games are scheduled during the week prior to the vacation. The kids are leaving school a week before the vacation starts. They are missing school as well as athletic events.

"I GUESS we just have to realize that spring sports in Michigan aren't going to be that big of a deal," Teachman said. "You can get ulcers over it or you can pull your hair out, but you have to be realistic — the kids are going to go."

Teachman isn't as calm on the issue from an educator's stand point.

"It bothers me more as a teacher. At Harrison we get more vacation time than most schools, but that's still not good enough. Some parents need to take even more. What does that say to a kid about the priorities of education? The heck with sports — I mean, with sports the worst you're talking about is loyalty to a group. What can you do about families that make those kinds of value judgments? There's not much a coach or a teacher can do."

Teachman brings up a valid point. The Michigan High School Athletic Association lists as one of its objectives to "increase the educational value of interscholastic athletic programs throughout the state."

Now you tell me, what educational value does a student-athlete get from being able to just up and blow off to Florida in the middle of a season? What does that teach him about loyal-ty, about commitment?

To me, this Easter exodus sets a bad precedent. If a kid is allowed to shrug off responsibilities in high school and being part of a team involves responsibility and commitment — then what's going to stop that kid from shrugging off responsibilities later in life?

THERE'S A significant distinction that should be made here. There is a difference between going on a family vacation during the regularly scheduled Easter break and going down with a bunch of friends the week before.

Both are fine, as long as they don't conflict with other commitments. It's the same in any area of life. You take vacations when you can, not always when you want to.

Obviously, the students have a right to their vacation. But, they should know that they have a responsibility to their teammates, also.

Coaches deal with the exodus in differing ways, but they all agree on one point — they don't want any surprises. If a player is planning on taking a vacation during the season, they want to know about it up front. That doesn't always happen.

Most Observerland coaches try not to schedule anything during the regular Easter break. This causes problems because the break comes right in the middle of the spring season.

"We allow them to go," said Harrison baseball coach John Herrington, "but they cannot miss any games. We put that rule in about four years ago and it seems to work. It may have discouraged some kids from coming out, but not the good players."

Herb Osterland, Livonia Churchill baseball coach, has games and practices scheduled during Easter break.

"I talked to the kids last year and again before this year," he said. "I told them that they were going to be a senior group and if they had to make plans, make them. But remember, you're here to play the game. And they understood that if they wanted to be competitive in this league, they were going to have to play during the break. There's no way you can walk away from something for 10 days and have the same edge as when you left."

Only one Churchill ballplayer will be gone this week.

FARMINGTON TRACK coach Dave Catherman has a unique method of dealing with the exodus. He gives his runners a workout program to take with them, and he tells them to follow it. He'll know if they don't. He runs time trials the day they return.

One team that never has a problem with the Easter exodus is Plymouth Canten baseball.
"We don't have any rules," said coach

Fred Crissey. "Legally, you can't tell a kid he can or cannot go. It's a civilrights thing. What we tell our kids is that, one, the season's short. We schedule games during the vacation. And as a member of this ballclub, you don't take vacations in the middle of the season.

"I have no quarrel with them going on vacations, I really don't. But, the big thing is, the kids have to decide their priorities. You only have two years of varsity ball in high school. Most of my kids wait all year just to play. The season's only 12 weeks long. You can't tell me missing a week and a half to two weeks doesn't hurt."

It's indeed a tough situation, this Easter exodus. It's a situation that has gotten completely out of hand. Churchill track coach Fred Price has a solu-
