Cox sees light in bleak study

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Canton Township Police Chief Jerry Cox says a comprehensive $16,000 study, which releases a barrage of negative comments about his personal work and the police department, is a chance for a fresh start.

"I see the study as a final opportunity to go in a positive direction," he said. "I see the Bartell report as being a positive approach that reaffirms issues I've raised over the past year."

The study, conducted for $16,862 by Bartell and Bartell Ltd., a Pennsylvania consulting firm, said "leadership is the most problematic (area in the department)."

"A high leadership score is of more concern than any other in that it effects all other elements directly," the 100-page report said. It cites "unclear aims, inappropriate management philosophy, confused organization, lack of control and lack of planning and managerial development."

COX SAID the problems could be remedied with training at all levels in the department including his own.

"But, quite frankly, because I function as chief of police, I bear a good deal of the heat," Cox says. "The fact is, I'm only one of them."

In a survey conducted by Bartell, 67 percent of the police officers said they "never" respected the chief of police. Also, in the evaluation section, the report said: "(The) chief (top management) manifests unique and often counter-productive behavior."

Cox says many of the weaknesses cited in the report can be corrected by adding officers to the staff.

"There's insufficient time to review and plan," he said. "More staff would alleviate much of the problem along with the need to expand and have more training."

"I agree I need to delegate more, but who do I delegate to?" Cox said. "I think morale will take care of itself when people don't have to work so long."

BOLSTERING the staff also will boost poor morale, Cox said.

Some of the problems cited in the department are "far beyond the control of the chief of police," he said.

A recent change in the department is the establishment of permanent shift supervisors. Two officers — Cpl. Rob Cripe and patrol officer Laura Gollef — were promoted to sergeant to allow this. Sgt. Gary Griffis also serves as shift supervisor. Cox says he began planning the change before the study was released late last month.

"Permanent shift commanders will do a lot to stabilize the department in terms of organization and feedback (from personnel)," he said.

A representative from Bartell is expected to speak to the Canton Township Board about the study at an unspecified date.

"I think we are for the first time in a long time headed in the right direction," Cox said.

Flooded basements frustrate residents

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Ever since Jan. 1 when some Canton Township residents woke up to begin the New Year with flooded basements, township officials have been bombarded with talk about who's at fault and suggestions for the future.

Subdivisions hit the hardest with flooding are in the areas of Cherry Hill and Haggerty, and Lotz and Cherry Hill. They include Brookside Village, Cherry Hill Pines and Winds condominiums. Some residents reported as much as 18 inches of raw sewage accumulating at the lowest levels of their homes.

"We've been putting up with this (flooding) for eight years," said Gail Kolman, a Brookside Village resident.

The existing storm and sanitary pipes in the area aren't equipped to handle excessive rains and flush toilets at the same time, according to James Poole, Canton Township supervisor.

The effects of the floods were apparent as ruined carpets and other damaged goods lined the streets before garbage was collected Friday.

WHEN FLOODING occurs, the township sets up pumps in the area to divert excess sewage. However, residents say it took workers too long to begin pumping after the recent rain and snow storms.

"I called the fire department on New Years Eve morning (Dec. 31), because I knew it was going to flood," said Dennis Mahoney, of 632 Georgetown in Brookside. He reports having as much as 7 1/2 inches of water in his basement.

"If they set the pumps up in time, we don't get floods," Mahoney said.

The water level in Mahoney's basement peaked at about 8:30 a.m. Jan. 1, which is the time Mahoney said the township began working the pumps.

He and his wife, Sue, last week planned a Jan. 6 neighborhood meeting to discuss possible solutions, including filing a lawsuit against the township.

Many residents affected by the flooding also plan to attend the township board meeting at 7 p.m. tomorrow at Township Hall, 1150 Canton Center Road.

The flooding problem is a scheduled agenda item. Poole said he will make two suggestions at the meeting: to hook up electrical automatic valves that would kick into the system when it rains, and to have a study conducted to evaluate the costs and benefits of hooking up an additional sewer pipe in the area to handle the overflow.

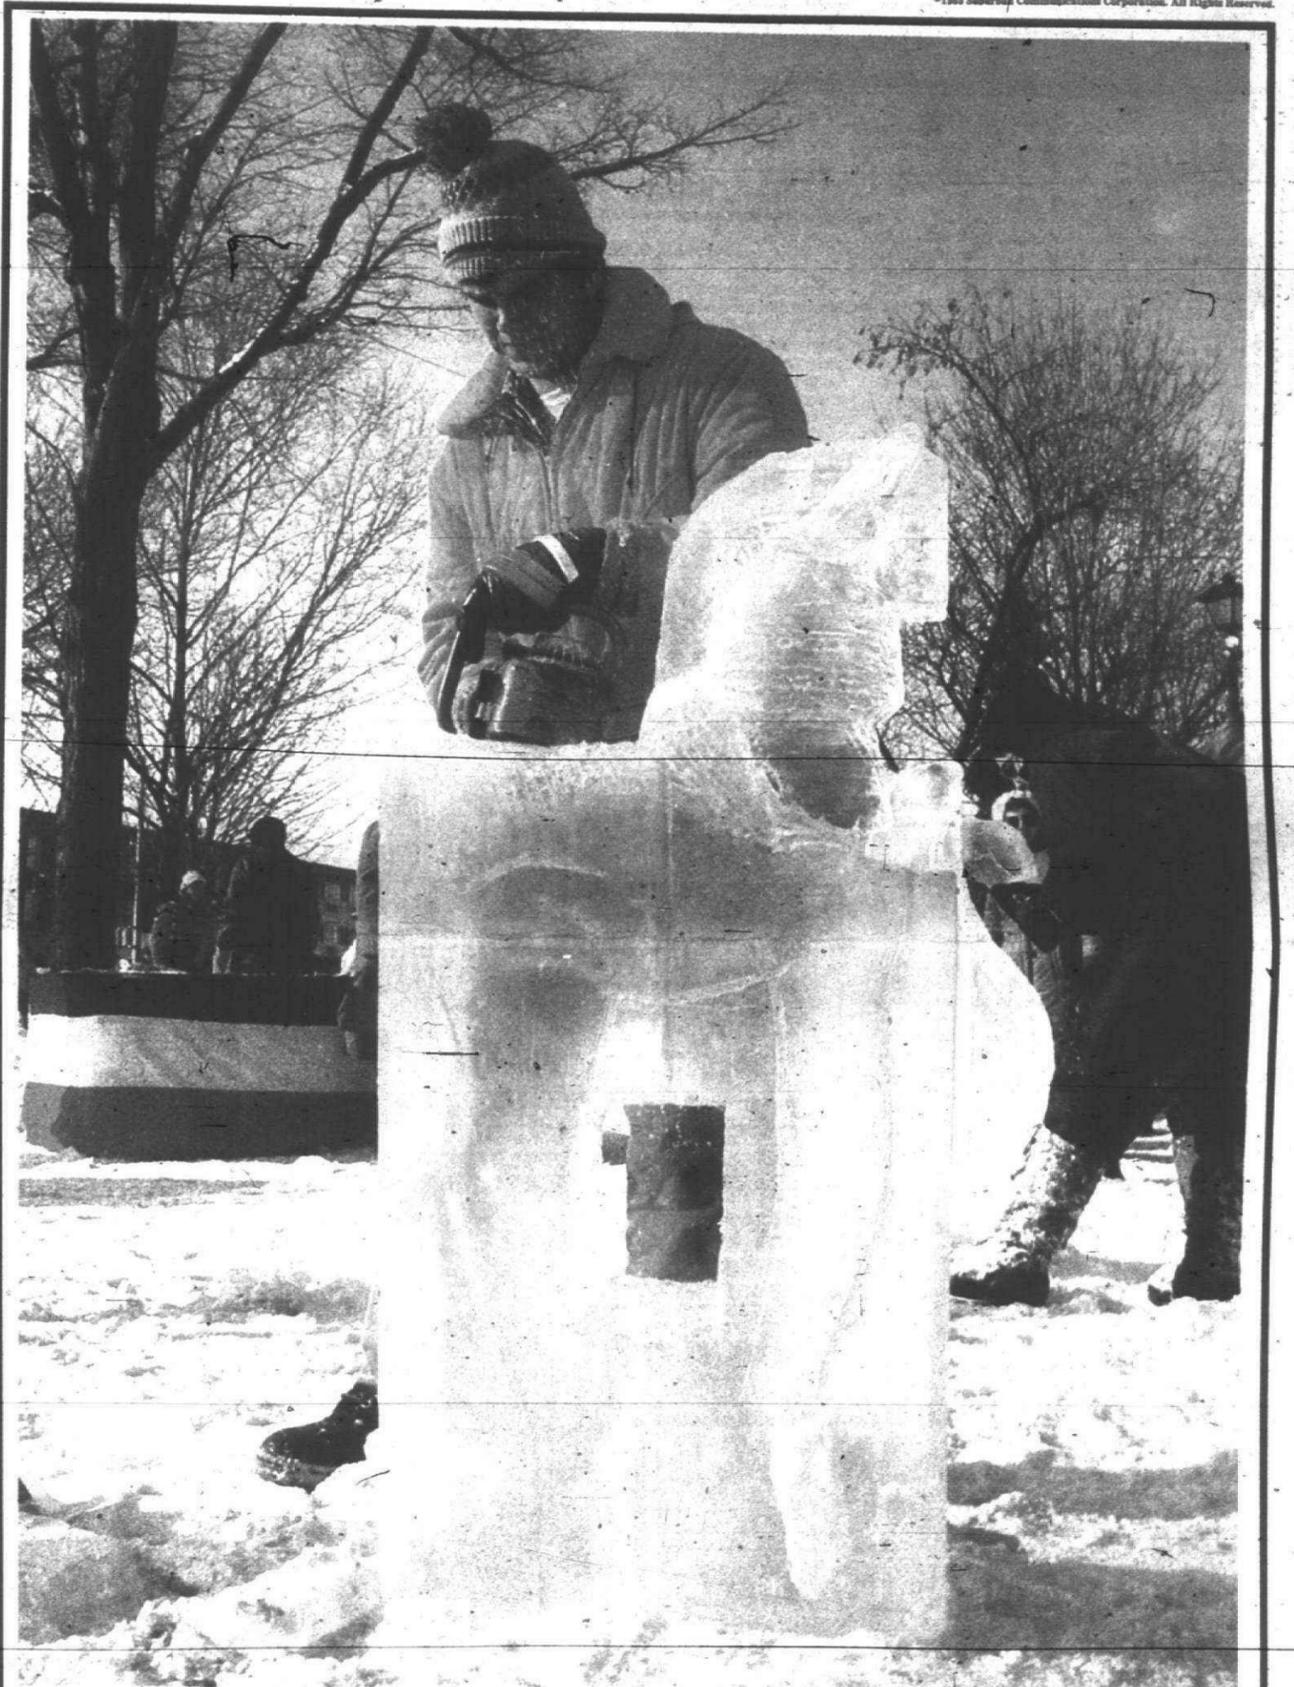

A highly expensive, less-likely solution would be to "tear-up the pipes, redesign them and put in bigger pipes so they don't back up," Poole said.

WITH A LACK of optimism he added: "Those houses will flood forever and ever and ever."

Poole contends the township has extended itself in helping the residents. Last Wednesday, township workers began helping clear debris from basements, and sprayed disinfectant on items like toys that were soaked in the sewage.

Poole received telephone calls at home blaming him for the situation. One resident dropped off a plastic bag

Ypsilanti woman will stand trial in gas station hold-up

By Diane Gale
staff writer

An Ypsilanti woman will be tried Thursday, Jan. 17, in Wayne County Circuit Court for two felony charges involving an armed robbery at a Canton Speedway gas station Dec. 23.

A preliminary hearing was held Jan. 3 for Elizabeth Michelle Weaver, 29, before 35th District Judge James Garber. Garber ruled there was enough evidence to hold a trial, charging Weaver with armed robbery and carrying a weapon during commission of a felony. The maximum penalty for the charges is life in prison.

Garber maintained the $50,000 cash bond, which was set at her arraignment, Dec. 25. Weaver has been detained at Wayne County Jail since the arraignment.

Weaver's brother, William Terry Weaver also of Ypsilanti, faces a preliminary exam for a Dec. 18 holdup of a Total gas station at 1395 East Michigan Avenue in Ypsilanti. He will be arraigned in connection with the Canton incident later, according to Lt. Alex Wilson.

THE BROTHER and sister were arrested and detained by Ypsilanti police the morning of the Canton incident.

An 18-year-old gas station attendant, on duty at the time of the Canton hold-up, took the stand during the exam to testify against Elizabeth Weaver. She said two people, who she thought were men, entered the store section of the station about 4:10 a.m.

The robbers browsed through the store, and asked for cartons of cigarettes. The clerk said she was suspicious, because of the hour, the robbers' mannerisms and the heavy winter clothing they wore.

Elizabeth Weaver paid for candy before the robbery, she said. When both robbers returned to the counter, the taller of the two, who she identified as Elizabeth Weaver, pulled out a two-barrel gun from a cloth bag the size and shape of a brief case.

An era ends Former North Carolinian newcomer leaves rich tradition behind

By M.B. Dillon Ward staff writer

Many of us at some stage are told, "Age is a state of mind; if you don't mind, it doesn't matter."

Retiring District Judge Dunbar Davis says he feels "kind of like a boxer quitting before he's punch-drunk. I'm going out... with all flags flying, which I'm rather happy about."

Visitors rapidly realize Davis has a style all his own. His calm, courteous manner coupled with the church-like quiet of his courtroom has a way of evoking respect even from the unruly.

WHILE DUNBAR'S blood has been known to boil, he usually behaves in a manner befitting his Southern upbringing. A North Carolinian who sports a handsome collection of string bow ties, Davis says his grandfather - a skilled sailor - was his mentor.

already picked out. So I went to this small Quaker school where I made the tennis and baseball team. It was at Earlham College in Richmond, Ind., where the Davis knuckeball was perfected - still among the judge's polished pitches.

AS DAVIS' dream of playing professional baseball died, the competitive collegian's thoughts turned to medicine, economics, and geology.

WHILE A U-M law degree was nice to have, it hardly heralded arrival in society for Dunbar and Martha. The Depression was on, and 1938 saw the coast for Ann Arbor to pursue a college education.

North Carolinian Dunbar Davis, youthful Plymouth lawyer.

Dunbar Davis earned a reputation as a fair, compassionate judge.

Once upon a time. Into the lives of all lawyers fall some memorable cases. Judge Dunbar Davis - retiring from 35th District court after 46 years on both sides of the bench - remembers the time a client cooked his goose pretty good.

"There was a woman who lived with her husband some years ago in a Canton trailer park," recalled the soft-spoken Davis.

"The boyfriend one day came to the trailer and was going to kill the woman and the husband. The woman wasn't at home, but the boyfriend tied the husband's feet and hands together with a ripped sheet. He blindfolded him and put a blanket over him. He said he was going to shoot him as soon as he drank a bottle of his beer.

"Well while he was drinking the beer, the wife arrived at home. He pulled his pistol out and threatened to shoot her and her husband. But he accidentally shot himself in the foot.

"Sometimes these guys think they have something good, and they end up with nothing," smiled Davis.

"We at the Observer suspect that Judge Dunbar Davis enjoys the respect and admiration of many of his colleagues. Some of them recently offered their comments, and proved our hunch true.

"I joined Ed Draugelis in the practice of law in Plymouth on Jan. 1, 1965," writes Plymouth attorney John A. Ashton. "It was not the bustling and prosperous community it is today. There were only a handful of attorneys in town and not enough legal work to go around. I could not expect to be welcomed with open arms by the other legal practitioners in the area.

He's at home both on - and in - court. A wild pig kind of got things started. Judge Dunbar Davis, then an aspiring athlete growing up in Cape Fear, N.C., was given a piglet by his sister's boyfriend.

"I raised it and sold it for $20. With the money, I went to stay with relatives in Trenton, N.J., where I took in some major league baseball for a month.

"I saw Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Lefty Grove, and Mickey Cochrane in his prime (play at Yankee Stadium)," said Judge Davis, who returns this month from 35th District Court.

Davis had designs on a professional baseball career himself. He later came to grips with the fact that his knuckeball wouldn't land him a job with a professional team. The disappointment didn't flag his love of sports, though.

Playing tennis, working out and running were part of Davis' routine long before physical fitness was fashionable. They still are.

The 71-year-old Davis regularly challenges U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell on the tennis court. He runs up to five miles daily in either Edward Hines Park, the cemetery behind the courthouse, or his "gym" in the court's basement, weather depending. (It's 30 laps to a mile in the basement, but it doesn't bother the judge.)

"I play music, and practice reciting my poetry while I run," he confides. "One of my ambitions is to run until I'm 90 and surpass Amos Alonzo Slagg's record, and I think I will. Some of the guys I play tennis with who are in their 60s moan about their aches and pains. But I don't have any." Davis says with a smile. (Slagg - the father of modern football and coach at the University of Chicago - ran until his 90th birthday, and lived past his 105th.)

TENNIS STILL ranks among the judge's fortes. There's testimony in his chambers - tennis plaques and trophies - even a "Great Seal of the U.S." bearing the inscription, "To Dunbar Davis, my favorite tennis partner. Congressman Carl Pursell."

Davis, in fact, sees some similarities between the tennis court and district court. He likens being a lawyer and judge to being a player and spectator.

"On the bench I try to be impartial - and when I'm spectating in tennis, the ball is either in or out. Often say, 'I may sometimes be wrong, but never uncertain.'"

"But once you're on the court with a racket, you're a different guy. I'd say on the tennis court, I'm still a fighter."

"I was a fighter as an attorney," adds Davis. "I didn't inquire if my clients were saints or sinners."

Word of Davis' tennis prowess apparently reached Canton's Township Board. A resolution it passed in honor of Davis' recent testimonial dinner proclaimed, "Let it Be Resolved that the Board of Trustees... wishes Judge Davis and his wife Martha the best in all their future endeavors and does, respectfully, warn all tennis players of western Wayne County to beware of a certain member of the bench looking for a friendly impromptu game."

"We're neglecting the victim these days. I don't know that so much of it is the law, or law enforcement. But I'd like to see us give more rights to victims, and less to defendants," said Davis.

Since passing the bar in 1938, retiring District Judge Dunbar Davis has witnessed revolutionary changes in the legal system - some of which disturb him.

"I'm neglecting the victim these days. I don't know that so much of it is the law, or law enforcement. But I'd like to see us give more rights to victims, and less to defendants," said Davis.

time and again that this was the level of conduct upon which he operated on a day-to-day basis. He presents the rest of us with a goal to which we should aspire.

"Over the next 20 years I learned lieve in putting myself on a pedestal. I like to create the impression I'm just like defendants."

over night. We caught fish and roasted them, trapped rabbits, squirrels and wild pigs." At 17, Davis forsake the Atlantic

WHILE A U-M law degree was nice to have, it hardly heralded arrival in society for Dunbar and Martha. The Depression was on, and 1938 saw the coast for Ann Arbor to pursue a college education.

"I entered the University of Michigan lit school, but found I was really more interested in baseball," said Davis. "It hurt my feelings when I learned U of M's baseball coach had the team full of damaged toys. They were accompanied with a note saying, "Merry Christmas. I hope you can sleep at night, because I can't," Poole said.

Flood victims rebound

Canton's Dennis Mahoney, of Georgetown, sorts through the goods he stored in a room that flooded with sewage from a backed-up pipe.

"It just shows the frustration that people have when something like this happens," he added.

Many of the residents are complaining about damage caused by the flooding. Mahoney, who paneled his basement less than two years ago, said he fears a lot of it might be ruined.

Kathy Galoch, of 400 Georgetown, laid carpeting from small patchwork pieces in her basement last June, when the flood ruined.

"Along with my time and trouble to put it in, it will take about $600 to replace it," Galoch said.

Kathy Galoch, a Georgetown resident, makes a mound of carpeting in her backyard. The pieces were ruined when her basement flooded last week. Galoch laid the mosaic carpet in June at an estimated $600 cost.

Woman faces trial for felony charges

While pointing the gun at the clerk, the pair announced that the station was being robbed.

"She spoke, but I didn't understand her, and he repeated that it was a robbery," the clerk said.

The robbers took three cartons of cigarettes and took $230 in cash from the register drawer. Canton police officers recovered the money and cigarettes, Wilson said.

"They weren't brutal with me, but they wouldn't have to be," according to the clerk, 5 foot 11 inches tall and petite in build. She said Elizabeth Weaver had the gun drawn and level with the counter during the remainder of the incident.

The other man was similar to my height," she said, adding that he had a slight build.

Elizabeth Weaver's attorney, William Cope, asked Garber to reduce the charges, because "the witness said she didn't feel threatened." Garber refused the request.

Elizabeth Weaver is suspected of dressing and acting like a man in other robbery incidents, according to Canton police reports.

System's changed, he says

"These days, it's more like going to college than prison for defendants," added the judge. "We're not sending them (to jail) to give them a good time. There are two gyms in the new jail downtown. I'd like to have one of them here for myself. For me to be able to exercise like inmates can, I'd have to join Vic Tanny, and I can't afford that."

"One big development has been the great increase in the murder," continued Davis. "It's sad to realize Detroit has 50 murders per year per 100,000 population. In Plymouth, Northville and Canton, there's one murder per 100,000 people per year. Detroit surpasses New York City and Chicago by far."

Davis dubs controversy over double-bunking in area prisons as pure bunk.

"In the army, we double and triple-bunked," said Davis.

"There's been a great development in the laws regarding search and seizure since I took the bench," Davis added. "Miranda was just coming into being when I was elected. It's much more difficult to gain evidence now."

Davis said that while more evidence can be excluded under the Miranda ruling (a Supreme Court decision which spelled out rights of defendants), scientific advances have offset its impact. Crime labs can now analyze blood and hair samples, and laser technicians can lift previously undetectable fingerprints, he said.

Davis said that during his time on the bench he has seen drunk driving cases skyrocket.

"I used to hear about 10 cases a day, whereas I now hear 35 drunk driving cases on a typical day," said the judge.

"With the new drunk driving laws and the Breathalyzer tests, police are bringing in borderline cases that we didn't get before."

The volume of OUIL's hasn't bored Davis, though he said he tells defendants "the same things over and over."

"Every case is interesting. They all have their own facts," he said.

Little BYU is No.1 and justice triumphs, after all

Years ago when The Stroller was a young lad going to school on the edge of the coal regions in Pennsylvania, he was always fascinated by the course in penmanship. He was fascinated because of the way it was presented. We were given what was called copy books. On each page there was a sentence written at the top in fancy writing and we were asked to try to copy that style.

One of those fancy written lines was this sentence: "Money is the root of all evil."

At the time when he read the sports pages of the daily papers telling of the rumpus over the rating of the football teams, the words came back to him. THE ARGUMENTS in the papers centered about the ranking of the teams before the playing of the bowl games. There was a question of whether Brigham Young University, a small school, was entitled to the top place.

The argument went on that it was too small to take over top place with the giants of the gridiron trail. No thought was given to the fact that Brigham Young had won 13 games or gone undefeated all season. It had done all that was asked of it. Yet, there were those who belittled it. There was a reason for it all. You see, the football moguls were looking ahead to the coming season. The revenue from the screen is most important these days and with a small school breaking into the picture these small fortunes would be reduced and the schools "take" in the future would dwindle. That's where the evil of money takes place.

FIRST, TELEVISION has led to cheapen the Rose Bowl that once was the country's best. Then television cut in. It brought about more bowl games — many of which didn't mean anything, except a game for the holidays. For instance there were 18 bowl games. Included in the schedule were teams like Michigan that had lost five games and had no reason to play in a bowl. It was the same with Michigan State which had lost five games.

Yet both of these teams played before sell-out crowds and made an argument against little Brigham Young when the title was discussed.

FOR A DAY or two it was felt by many circles that the team that had an undefeated season would be robbed of its rightful place at the top. Fortunately, when the poll was taken by the news services the evil plan was shattered. The services voted to give Brigham Young the title. Its record stood for itself.

But one thing did stand out in the book back in school, "Money is the root of all evil."

Woman miffed about flooding

To the editor:
I have been a resident of Canton Township for the past six years. Upon the completion of the paving of Hagerly Road, we have had continuous problems with flooding of basements in the Cherry Hill Pines subdivision. Initially upon reporting of this flooding problem, DPW stated that the pumping stations were being added along Hagerly and Cherry Hill Roads which would prevent the future occurrence of this problem.

Since then, four additional flooding occurrences resulted, with the last one occurring on Tuesday, Jan. 1. I have reported each occurrence to the DPW and was told that something would be done to correct the problem. In addition, DPW stated that I would receive a phone call requesting further details and explaining what corrective actions would be taken.

I have never received a return call, and the subdivision basements continue to flood. The placement of manually-actuated pumping stations along Hagerly and Cherry Hill Roads do not prevent basement flooding if the pumps are not turned on in a timely fashion. When we awoke on New Year's Day to find a foot of water in the basement, we attempted to call DPW to notify them that basements were flooding and the pumping stations were not on.

The DPW, however, was closed for the holidays. We subsequently notified the Canton police and were informed that the pumps would soon be started.

Certainly not soon enough in our case when at least 10 homes, that we know of, were flooded.

I propose that you add this as an agenda item at your next board meeting so that a permanent solution to this problem is identified and implemented. I expect that this action item will receive your immediate attention.

There's no horseplay in state racing proposals

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Horse racing should be considered "show business" — with the accent on "business" — with the accent on "business."

That's the theme of a four-part package of proposals unveiled last week by state Racing Commissioner William S. Ballenger. His 15-member advisory committee made the unanimous proposal, echoing Ballenger's own philosophy that Michigan is failing to promote what could be a lucrative industry.

Among the proposals were a tripling of its advertising budget, the legalization of off-track betting, physical improvements to area tracks and tighter security.

THE TONE of its 17 pages of recommendations was contained in a single sentence: "If a fraction of the time and effort that has been put into studying how to promote Michigan horse racing had been put into direct marketing actions over the past decade, the industry here would be in a much stronger position than it is today."

Total annual attendance has declined 35 percent since 1971, the committee found. Average daily attendance has plummeted 34 percent. And young patrons are missing as horse racing is being under as "Victorian image" and is challenged by other forms of entertainment, including the highly publicized state lottery.

Heart of the industry are the Detroit Race Course in Livonia, Northville Downs and Hazel Park race course, with lesser draws being at Jackson and county fairs. The racing commissioner is headquartered in downtown Plymouth.

THE COMMITTEE — composed of representatives of the various horse breeds, government and the public — failed to endorse one of Ballenger's pet proposals: reducing the state's high tax rate on pari-mutuel wagering.

Such a cut would hurt horse programs and wouldn't necessarily boost the betting handle, it said. But it admitted Michigan's 6 percent rate is higher than most other states'.

Observer & Eclectic area members included Louis Carlo of Northville (standardbred owners) and D. Joanne Jackson of Bloomfield Hills (thoroughbred). Jackson resigned last March. Alternates included Theodore Nemzin of Troy (thoroughbred), Herbert Tyner of Southfield (thoroughbred) and James Baldwin of Birmingham (general public).

State taxes on betting bring in $23 million, the group said.

In addition, the horse industry generates $58 million in income, including $30 million to employees, $14 million for feed and bedding and $11 million for equipment, veterinary care and insurance.

The industry's investment in breeding and racing stock was tallied at $120 million. Investments in farmlands, buildings and equipment were worth $450 million. Racetracks, barns and parking lots were worth $65 million.

STATE REVENUE is split between the state general fund and horse industry improvement programs, but the committee proposed a firm allocation of the revenues.

Complaining that less than $1 million is spent to promote pari-mutuel tracks, a 40 percent reduction (adjusted for inflation) since 1975, the group recommended earmarking more than $3 million of betting revenue for marketing the industry.

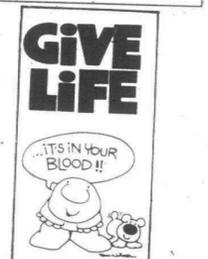

Among staff expansions for Ballenger would be a full-time "information unit" to issue news releases, create a weekly TV show on feature races, publish a newsletter, establish a speaker's bureau and maintain a racing library with film and videotape.

Noting that New York State increased its betting handle by 50 percent with off-track betting (OTB) without hurting the race tracks, the group recommended Michigan do the same.

Off-track establishments would have simulcasts, defined as "live televising of races to legalized wagering areas of race tracks and OTB branch offices."

OTHER recommendations included:

- Tighter paddock security at tracks
- Licensing of more employees "who could have an effect on the outcome of a race."
- Testing of jockeys and drivers for drugs as well as alcohol.
- Barn improvements — to plumbing, wiring and roads — at DRC and Hazel Park.
- Power for the racing commissioner to require physical improvements and maintenance at tracks, including a requirement that owners set aside a definite amount of money for physical improvements.
- Stiffer penalties for repeat offenders. "Certain licensees have knowingly abused the system over the years causing a sense of unfairness to develop among the race participants."

HOT OR COLD

Two Entertaining Ideas

If the idea of slaving for hours over a hot range to prepare a fancy company meal leaves you cold, here's a very handy set of special recipes to have-in your entertaining repertoire. Developed by the Presto Pressure Cooking Institute and the Banquet Foods Test Kitchens, these recipes provide convenience plus for the hostess whose time and energy are at a premium. You only have to cook once to get your choice of two complete meals! One is perfect for a formal dinner party. The other creates a classic buffet supper that you can make the night before and serve cold.

Best of all, everything you need for this versatile two-way menu can be cooked up in less than an hour by capitalizing on the convenience of pressure cooking. Unlike other appliances, the pressure cooker uses super-heated steam, so foods cook 3 to 10 times faster than with ordinary cooking methods. Plus, as these recipes illustrate, you can use the handy pressure cooker rack to cook several foods at the same time without any intermingling of flavors.

The convenience of these recipes multiplies even more by using frozen prepared foods to create some deliciously different new sauces, side dishes and desserts. Made from top quality ingredients, frozen prepared foods are excellent and innovative additions to your cooking routine. They help you prepare more exciting eating fare in a lot less time without sacrificing anything but elbow grease!

Served hot or cold or both, these exceptional recipes are sure to please everyone—including the cook who's always looking for hot new menu ideas that are really cool.

SERVING DIRECTIONS:

Bake fruit pie according to directions. Prepare Shrimp Stuffed Steak Roll, Julienne Vegetables and Plum Sauce in pressure cooker according to recipe directions. Place steak roll on serving platter and keep warm. Prepare Creamy Sauce from remaining liquid in pressure cooker. Serve sauce over or with sliced meat. Arrange vegetables and rice on platter with meat. Serve Plum Sauce warm over apple pie.

COLD

COLD SHRIMP STUFFED STEAK ROLL JELLIED RICE MOLD VEGETABLES VINAIGRETTE COCONUT OR BANANA CREAM PIE WITH PLUM SAUCE

(Serves 4-6)

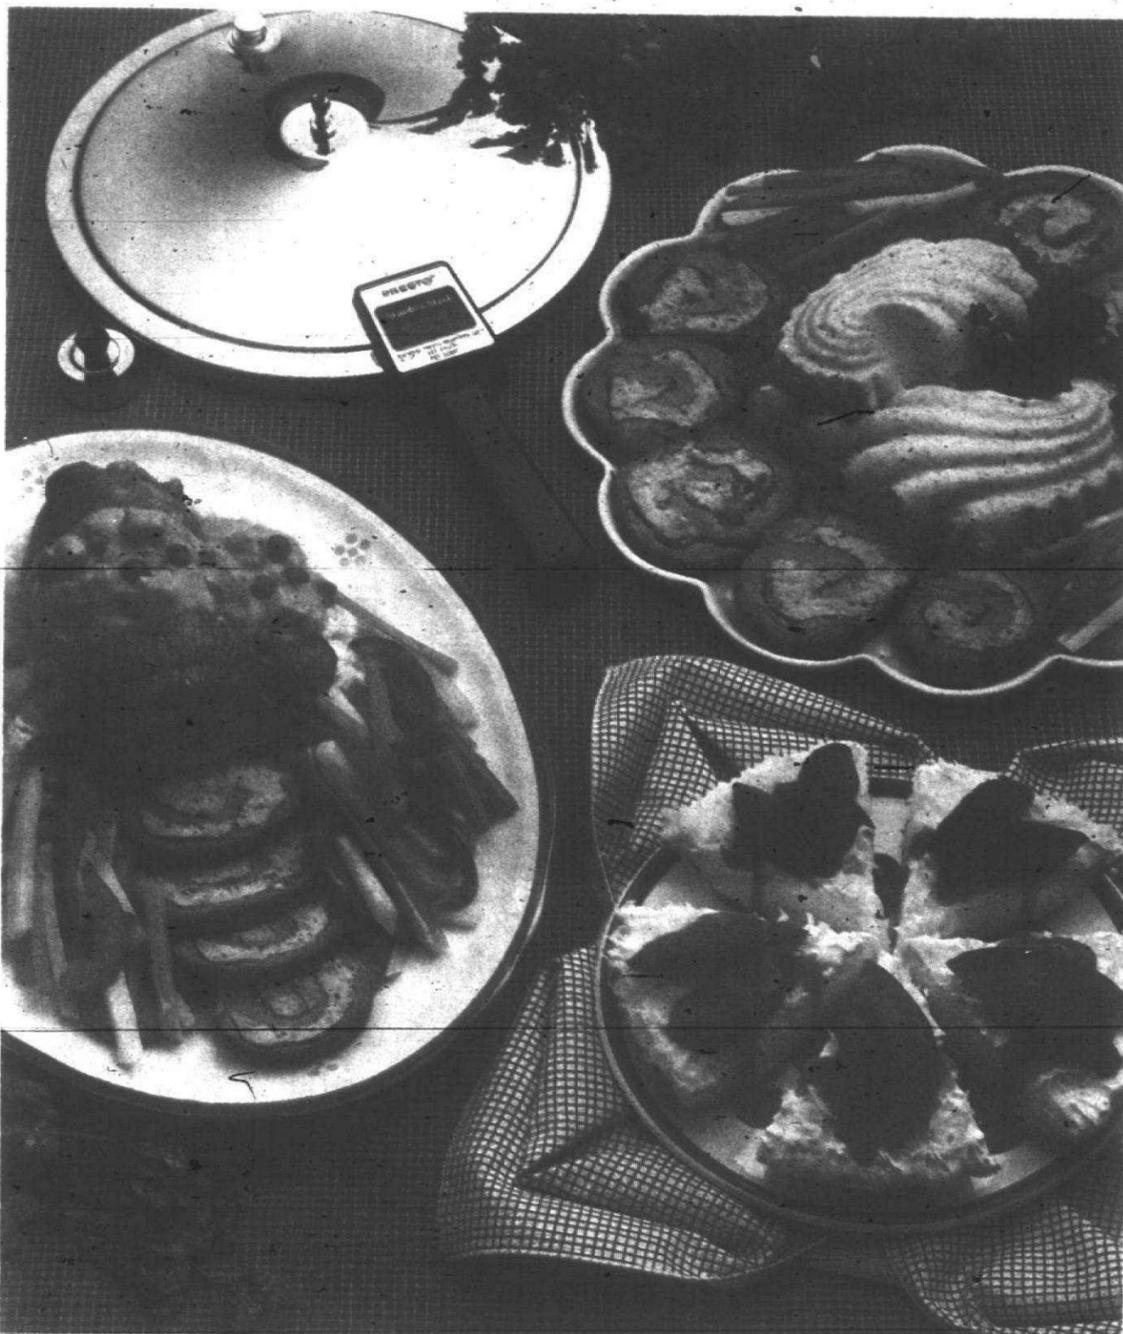

SERVING DIRECTIONS:

Prepare Shrimp Stuffed Steak Roll, Julienne Vegetables and Plum Sauce in pressure cooker according to recipe directions. Cool Steak Roll, wrap and refrigerate. Meanwhile, prepare Creamy Sauce from remaining liquid in pressure cooker. Make Jellied Rice Mold from sauce, chill. Follow recipe directions for making Vegetables Vinaigrette. At serving time, arrange cold Steak Roll slices, Molds and Vegetables Vinaigrette on large serving platter. Serve Plum Sauce at room temperature over thawed cream pie.

Shrimp Stuffed Steak Roll

|---|---|
| 1 (1-1/2 pound) flank steak or (1-1/2 pound) top round steak about 1/2-inch thick | 1 tablespoon marinade |
| 2 tablespoons lemon juice | 1/2 teaspoon basil |
| 2 tablespoons salad oil | 3 Romaine leaves, spine removed or 8-10 spinach or sorrel leaves |
| salt and pepper | 1 teaspoon oil |
| 1 (7-ounce) can tiny shrimp, drained | 1 cup water |
| 1/4 cup fresh bread crumbs | 1/2 cup red wine |
| 1 small clove garlic, minced | 2 packages (5-ounce each) frozen prepared Chicken A la King or Cream Chipped Beef |
| 1 tablespoon minced green onion | Prepare 1 cup instant rice according to package directions |
| 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco | |

Butterfly the flank steak, pounding lightly to even thickness. Make marinade by combining lemon juice and 2 tablespoons oil; brush half of marinade over steak. Sprinkle steak with salt and pepper. Let stand at room temperature while preparing stuffing. Combine shrimp with bread crumbs, garlic, onion, Tabasco, remaining marinade and basil. Soften Romaine under hot tap water; pat dry. Cover steak with Romaine. Spread shrimp over Romaine. Roll and tie securely. Prepare vegetable packet and Plum Sauce; set aside. Heat 1 tablespoon oil in a 6-quart pressure cooker. Brown meat on all sides, curving to fit pan. Add water and wine. Close pressure cooker cover securely. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe. Cook for ten minutes at 15 pounds pressure. Cool pressure cooker at once. DO NOT ATTEMPT TO REMOVE COVER UNTIL PRESSURE IS COMPLETELY REDUCED. Remove pressure cooker cover and place vegetable packet beside meat. Place pressure cooker rack on top of meat and vegetables. Balance casserole of plum sauce on rack. Close pressure cooker cover securely. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe. Cook for 10 minutes at 15 pounds pressure. (Meanwhile prepare instant rice.) Let pressure drop of its own accord. Remove fruit, vegetables and steak roll from pressure cooker. Place steak roll on serving platter and keep warm. PREPARE CREAMY SAUCE: Rapidly boil remaining juices to reduce by half (about 3/4 cup). Add frozen Chicken A la King or Creamed Chipped Beef, stirring to heat and blend. Makes about 1-3/4 cups. Serve sauce over or with sliced steak roll. FOR COLD MEAL, USE SAUCE FOR PREPARING JELLIED RICE MOLD. Arrange Vegetables along side meat on platter.

Steamed Rice

1 cup regular milled long grain white rice
1-1/2 cups water
1 cup water

Combine rice and 1-1/2 cups water in metal bowl. (Use a 5-cup capacity bowl, 3-inches high or less, which will fit loosely into a pressure cooker.) Place 1 cup water, cooking rack, and bowl in pressure cooker. Close cover securely. Place pressure regulator on unit pipe. Cook 5 minutes at 15 pounds pressure. Let pressure drop of its own accord. DO NOT ATTEMPT TO REMOVE COVER UNTIL PRESSURE IS COMPLETELY REDUCED. Open pressure cooker and allow rice to steam uncovered 5 minutes.

Yield: 3 cups cooked rice.

Jellied Rice Mold

- | | |
|-------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 1-3/4 cup Creamy Sauce | 2 tablespoons cider vinegar |
| 1 envelope unflavored gelatin | 1 cup cooked rice |
| | 1/2 cup sour cream |

Keep Creamy Sauce made for meat hot. Soften gelatin in vinegar; add to hot sauce, stirring to dissolve. Add cooked rice and sour cream. Spoon into decorative individual molds as shown or a 3-cup mold. Chill until firm. Unmold to serve. Arrange mold on serving platter with cold sliced steak roll and vegetables vinaigrette.

Vegetables Packet

- | | |
|--|---------------------|
| 2 cups assorted fresh vegetables, cut in Julienne | 1 tablespoon butter |
| strips (green beans, carrots, turnips, celery, green pepper, etc.) | aluminum foil |

Wrap vegetables and butter securely in aluminum foil. Cook with meat as directed.

Vegetables Vinaigrette for Cold Meal

- | | |
|---------------------|--------------------------|
| 1/3 cup olive oil | 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard |
| 4 teaspoons vinegar | 1/4 teaspoon salt |
| | pepper |

Put cooked vegetables in a bowl or plastic container. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over vegetables. Cover and chill for several hours or overnight. Arrange vegetables with slices of cold steak roll and rice, molds on serving platter.

Plum Sauce

- | | |
|---|--|
| 4 red plums, cut into sixths, or eighths, seeds removed | 1 20-ounce ready-to-bake frozen apple pie, baked or 14-oz. ready-to-serve frozen coconut or banana cream pie |
| 4-1/3 cup packed brown sugar | |
| 1 tablespoon orange liqueur | |

Place fruit, sugar and liqueur in a 16-ounce baker that will fit in pressure cooker. Wrap securely in aluminum foil. Cook as directed. Serve warm over apple pie or at room temperature over thawed cream pie.

Fighting battle of the bulge

pilot light Greg Melikov

Diet Day: 22 1/4 pounds.

I am a candidate for a plump Easter Bunny and I isn't even spring. I have a fat face, bulgy neck, tight pants and a wristwatch band on my left wrist.

The goal: shed 22 1/4 pounds. I refuse to follow a strict diet-for-diet program. I will get down to 200 pounds with a minimum of effort except for two things: cheese and bread. I have targeted my worst enemies and will cut back on both.

I will continue taking vitamins, eating two meals a day, avoiding most desserts and not snacking around bedtime. My weight will be recorded on the same beam balance scale.

D-DAY plus 1: 220 pounds.

The power of positive thinking gets me off to a fast start.

D-Day plus 4: 219 pounds.

D-Day plus 7: 219 pounds.

It's on to smaller portions, light beer, reduced-calorie bread and no cheese except in prepared dishes. But I'm not panicky.

For lunch, I have salad with vinaigrette dressing and a hot dog; for dinner, two small hamburgers with lettuce, tomato and half a pickle.

D-Day plus 11: 216 pounds.

I was nervous at weigh-in. Ye of little faith, smaller portions, unbuttered bread and cottage cheese. I celebrate by scraping fruit sauce off my ham and eating a buttered roll. I decide to weigh on Thursday.

D-Day plus 14: 216 pounds.

I endure hunger pangs and survive last night. Eg route home my car dies on the expressway. I coast to the shoulder, scale the fence, phone my wife, it starts to rain, she takes me home, I phone a towing company, we ride to the place in her car, the low trucker follows us to my car and then to my gas station, where I leave it — $37.50 less wealthy — and we're home in the first week hour. My appetite dies. Anita forces cold macaroni and a sandwich on me. I leave it on the plate.

D-DAY plus 21: 215 pounds.

I figured I must have dropped several pounds because my watchband was a bit loose and two people said I looked thinner. My wife is the biggest obstacle because her idea of smaller portions is bigger than anything served outside our home. I have laid off sweets — not fruit — and gone "without butter or spargarine on bread more days than not. All between-meal snacks are out, too.

D-Day plus 28: 212 pounds.

I could feed it in my bones that I was thinner. I skipped one late supper, but my wife brought home a doggie bag and a hunk of fish, half a baked potato and the smaller half of a chocolate éclair.

But she later observed, "You've lost your belly." My pants feel snug, not bulky, and I'm losing some flab around the neck. I'm doing isometrics in the car. I'm eating half a grapefruit some mornings to head off hunger pangs.

It's never too late for eggnog

Which drink fits both festive seasons and the pocketbook?

"The host or hostess at home as well as those in well-known restaurants may attempt to prepare something different — but a perennial favorite is eggnog," said Jennifer Harvey Lang, who has worked as the first woman chef at New York's famous "21" Club Restaurant and authors the "Resolute Shopper" column for the Washington Post.

Of the many ways to prepare eggnog, Lang prefers a special made-from-scratch recipe which calls for Southern Comfort, an authentic American spirit created around the turn of the century in New Orleans.

She finds Southern Comfort with its original, unique flavor key to the special taste of her eggnog. She also suggests keeping this specialty libation on hand to enhance the flavor of other recipes.

Lang opposes the common misgivings that eggnog is either expensive or complicated to make. And she explains why eggnog may be the answer to those looking for an economical refreshment.

Eggnog eliminates the expense of stocking a bar. Eggnog and a fruit-based punch make a complete and festive party fare, and the savings are considerable when compared to the cost of stocking a bar.

It's a time-saver, taking just a few minutes to prepare.

Eggnog is a drink and dessert in one. The one-of-a-kind taste of Southern Comfort and made-from-scratch ingredients combine for a smooth, creamy recipe that's incomparable.

There are no leftovers to worry about with eggnog. Transform any unused portion into a sumptuous eggnog pie. The following recipe shows how. In fact, Lang advises that you may just want to make sure you'll have some extra to transform into this easy and elegant dessert.

Many of Jennifer Harvey Lang's food and drink recipes are included in a new booklet. For your free copy, write "Festive Comforts," 221 North LaSalle Street, Suite 1400, Chicago 60601.

HOMEMADE COMFORT EGGNOG

6 eggs, separated
1/4 cup superfine granulated sugar
2 cups heavy whipping cream, whipped
1 cup heavy whipping cream
1 cup milk
2 cups Southern Comfort
Nutmeg to taste

In a punch bowl with an electric hand mixer, beat the egg yolks until they are thick and fluffy and lighter in color; gradually add sugar and mix until it is completely dissolved. Add to the yolk mixture the whipped cream, cream and milk, stirring well. Add, still stirring, the Southern Comfort. Chill this mixture until ready to serve.

Just before serving, beat the egg whites to the consistency of shaving cream and stir thoroughly into the eggnog in the punch bowl. Dust with nutmeg to taste, freshly grated if possible.

Makes about 2 quarts, which is 10 servings at about 5 ounces each. Double or triple the recipe to accommodate your holiday crowd.

*You can use ordinary granulated sugar, if you don't have the superfine.

COMFORT EGGNOG PIE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
3 cups eggnog (from Southern Comfort Eggnog recipe)
1 prepared 8-inch Graham cracker pie crust
1 cup heavy whipping cream, whipped
Chocolate shavings (made by scraping the side of a bar of cooking chocolate with a vegetable peeler)

Sprinkle the gelatin over 1/4 cup of water in a small saucepan; let gelatin soften for five minutes. Put the saucepan over the lowest heat and cook without stirring until gelatin has melted and mixture is clear. Cool for five minutes.

Stir together thoroughly the softened gelatin and eggnog. Pour into the pie crust. Cover with plastic wrap and chill for at least two hours, or overnight, if possible.

Spread whipped cream over the top of the pie and sprinkle with chocolate shavings.

Hors d'oeuvres, anyone?

Entertaining often becomes so time-consuming that the hostess forgets to enjoy herself. Don't let that happen to you!

Whether formal cocktails or a casual open house, create a menu that requires a minimum of work. Surprisingly, that doesn't mean your choices are limited to cheese and crackers.

Here are two festive hors d'oeuvres ideas from the kitchen of Stouffer Foods.

WELSH BREAD BOWL

2 packages of Welsh rarebit, defrosted
1 Tbsp. crumbled blue cheese
2 Tbsp. minced onion
1/4 tsp. tabasco sauce
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/4 tsp. garlic salt
1/4 cup bottled, cooled beer
1 one-pound unliced, round bread (pumpernickel, rye or sourdough)

SPINACH STUFFED MUSHROOMS

1 pkg. spinach souffle, defrosted
1 cup seasoned bread crumbs
2 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. instant minced onion
1/4 tsp. salt
34 large mushrooms
Melted margarine
Parmesan cheese

Combine first six ingredients until smooth. Slowly add cooled beer, blend well. Chill three hours or overnight.

To make bread bowl: Cut a circle around crown of bread. Scoop out most of the interior, leaving a shell about 1 inch thick. When ready to serve, fill bread shell with chilled dip. Cut leftover bread into cubes and place around bread bowl with cherry tomatoes, sliced zucchini, cauliflower and other raw vegetables.

Wash mushrooms and remove stems. In a medium size bowl, combine Spinach Souffle, bread crumbs, lemon juice, onion and salt. Place mushrooms on a baking tray; brush with melted margarine. Stuff with spinach mixture; sprinkle with cheese. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 15-18 minutes. Makes 24.

Let Mexican pie add zest to menu

Stretch your grocery budget while adding zest to the dinner menu with Mexican Pie, a tasty entree created from leftover roast.

To prepare this savory yet economical fare all you need is a little imagination and a few basic ingredients. An onion, some leftover beef or pork, zucchini, beans, tomato sauce and cornmeal are the fundamentals for an entree with the full flavor that's made Mexican food the fastest-growing ethnic cuisine.

In addition to saving money by using leftovers, this recipe calls for Butter Flavor Crisco which is sodium and cholesterol free.

To complete the south-of-the-border theme when serving Mexican Pie, grace the table with brightly colored red and green napkins and place mats.

MEXICAN PIE
 1/2 cup Butter Flavor Crisco
 1 large onion, finely chopped
 1 medium zucchini, chopped
 2 cups leftover roast (pork or beef)

Start the day with orange pancakes

What better time to examine eating habits than the beginning of a new year. This time of year tends to put everyone into a new routine.

Eating a good breakfast each morning is the best way to start the day. Breakfast provides your body with fuel for the day, just as gasoline feeds your car. If you choose not to "fill up" each morning, you may be running close to empty before you start the day.

Remember — breakfast should provide one-quarter to one-third of your day's nutrients and calories. If you're really in a pinch for time, consider a breakfast-on-the-run recipe. Easy to prepare blender drinks featuring nutritious orange juice will help you start the day right.

If time permits, orange pancakes are a super breakfast treat. Top these hotcakes off with a double treat — orange syrup.

Breakfast is important to everyone. Examine breakfast habits and enjoy these nutritious recipes featuring orange juice all year.

For some people, tying them takes more than a few minutes.

Tying a shoe is a task most of us take for granted. But for America's mentally retarded citizens, it's much more. It's an achievement. The ARC — the Association for Retarded Citizens — is helping. Not to tie their shoes for them but to help them learn to be more self-sufficient through education, job training, residential opportunities. ARC helps America's retarded citizens to lead productive lives. It's a big job. But a rewarding one. You can help, too. Support the ARC however you can — through your time, money, friendship, understanding.

Try a 'mickie' with your meat loaf

Called "mickies" or "murphies" by Irish immigrants or just plain potatoes by people today, this tasty tuber has found a place on the American dinner table.

It is estimated that, just preceding the potato famine of the mid-1800s, the Irish were consuming potatoes at an amazing daily rate of 10 pounds — 30 potatoes per person!

Chase winter blues with crunchy treats

It's easy to chase the winter blues with a bevy of spiced, home-baked treats fresh from the oven, that create a little nostalgia with a minimum of time, energy and money. And you needn't sacrifice nutrition for convenience.

The home economists at the Shurline-Central Corp. have developed recipes that combine nutrition and traditional good taste with today's convenience foods. It takes just minutes to turn out a luscious Spicy Coffee Ring that can be served as a hearty, warming breakfast or a delicious dessert.

Desserts containing fruit, nuts and natural grains are not only good tasting but nutritionally sound. Their Colonial Apple Crunch Cake is a tasty example.

To help you keep an eye on calories, send for a free copy of Shurline's "Nutrition and Diet Guide." Write: Diet Guide Offer, Dept. NCS, P.O. Box 1503, Meireose Park, Ill. 60164.

SPICY COFFEE RING

Place a ring of perfect walnut halves in a greased 5 1/2 cup ring mold. Separate a package of refrigerated biscuits and dip each in melted butter then in a mixture of 1/2 cup brown sugar and a teaspoon of cinnamon. Place in mold, overlapping slightly. Sprinkle two tablespoons seeded raisins between biscuits. Bake at 425 degrees 13 to 15 minutes.

Today, Americans are continuing the love affair with potatoes, although not as avidly as the Irish of a hundred years ago. It's estimated that every one of us eats about one potato a day.

So why does a creative cook bring variety to meat-and-potato dinners night after night? This tasty Potato Meat Loaf Roll is one way. It's a different twist to that family favorite, meat loaf.

Flavorful meat loaf is wrapped around fluffy mashed potatoes. Cut into slices, it makes a meal that's exciting to look at as it is to taste.

POTATO MEAT LOAF ROLL
 1 1/2 lbs. ground beef
 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
 1/2 cup milk
 1 tsp. salt
 1/4 tsp. pepper
 1 egg, slightly beaten
 Mashed potatoes (enough for 4 servings)
 1 egg, slightly beaten
 1/2 cup catsup
 1 tbsp. packed brown sugar
 2 slices process American cheese, each 3x3 inches, cut diagonally into halves, if desired

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Mix ground beef, bread crumbs, onion, milk, salt, pepper and 1 egg thoroughly. Shape into rectangle, 12x9 inches, on waxed paper. Prepare mashed potatoes as directed on package for 4 servings except — decrease water to 1 cup. Stir in 1 egg. Spread potato mixture over beef mixture to within 1 inch of edges. Roll up rectangle carefully and tightly, beginning at 12-inch side and using waxed paper to lift. Press edge and ends of roll to seal. Place roll, seam side down, in ungreased rectangular baking dish, 12 x 7 1/2 x 2 inches. Bake uncovered 1 hour.

Mix catsup and brown sugar; spread over meat loaf in pan. Bake 15 minutes longer. Garnish with cheese slices. Let stand 10 minutes before serving, 6 servings.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Heat oven to 375 degree.

JOANN BAUMLEY of Blunk Street lost her two redheads to downtown Detroit Thursday. The trip was in response to an "Attention All Redheads" invitation in the Detroit Free Press. JoAnn's son Tom, 13, and daughter Erin, 7, definitely qualify as carrot tops.

She said the organizers expected 60 to 200 responses to the gathering at Joe Louis Arena. More than 600 showed up and when it came time for a group picture, the photographer had to move them outside to the front steps.

"They estimate that just 2 percent of the population are redheads. To see that many together was amazing. There were senior citizens, teen-agers, redheaded mothers with redheaded babies in strollers. Some were absolutely stunning — so many handsome people," JoAnn said.

Before they went out for photographs, the exuberant crowd, referred to as the Red Sea, executed some cheering waves.

"All the television channels were there, even Channel 9 from Windsor," JoAnn said.

Each redhead was asked to participate in a survey. Among the questions were: What nicknames did you have as a child? What advice would you offer a redheaded child when he or she starts to school? How many remedies for freckles have you tried? What special precautions do you take in the sun? Where did you get your red hair?

She said red hair can skip several generations. Her children's coloring was traced to a paternal great-grandfather who was of Scottish and Irish ancestry.

Shades of color varied from strawberry blond to bright, burnished copper according to JoAnn. She said she was surprised that both her children said they would prefer not to be redheads.

The Baumleys made an excursion out of the trip with visits to the Old Mariner's Church and other downtown points of interest.

THE ICE SCULPTURE extravaganza this weekend reminds me that my New Year's greetings column ran long and was cut. Included were best wishes to our neighbors at the Mayflower, Ralph Scott and Randy Lorenz, Ethel Burns, Creon Smith, and Elaine. (Wonder if she attended the gathering of redheads?) There were special wishes for Scott, whose ideas, hard work and ambassadorial skills have brought national and international prestige to his hometown.

THE NEW YEAR started out on a high note for members of the Plymouth Historical Society. Big news was the announcement that their matching funds campaign went over the top.

The $25,000 offered by a secret donor, with the condition that the society come up with an equal amount, can be accepted. Not only did the community meet the challenge, the society accrued more than 100 new members. And they did it in less than three months — much less. The first mailings in the campaign did not go out until late October.

To Margie Kidston, society board president, all those who serve on the board, and all the members of the society, congratulations. And to the elusive donor who started the drive, stars in your crown. You made the resulting trust fund a project that involved many people and gave them a feeling of pride and belonging.

It is much more effective than saying, "Here's $50,000. Go start a trust fund."

WE'RE WAY BEHIND in our Thursday afternoon party bridge winners. And don't blame Dorothy Shaffer, who turns in the scores faithfully.

Last week's top two were Pete Zaack with 5,890 points and Carl Peters with 5,500. Week before, it was Walter Hoops, 6,000, and Agnes Clark, 4,900. Connie Kamm was first the week before Christmas with Phil Wyles, second.

They have been averaging eight tables in play at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Medical center ribbon cutting slated Sunday

By Elinor Graham staff writer

David McCubbrey, physician and surgeon, will take part in the ribbon-cutting ceremony Sunday at the Arbor Health Building. From the windows of his new offices, he can see the Fischer Building on the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Forest Avenue, where 24 years ago he began his practice in Plymouth.

McCubbrey came to the community in 1961 after completing his surgery residency at St. Joseph's Hospital in Ann Arbor. He joined Dr. Walter Hammond as an associate and they worked together until Hammond's retirement in 1977.

He moved from offices on Sheldon Road Dec. 18 and saw his first patients in the new medical facility, two days later.

As he toured the building on the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Harvey, he explained its purpose and uses.

THE ARBOR Building is affiliated with the Catherine McAuley Health Center in Superior Township.

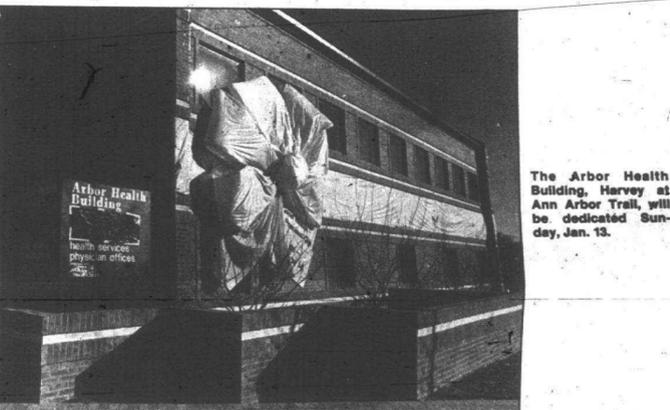

"Catherine McAuley Health Center includes St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and Mercywood. They plan to build a new Mercywood Hospital on the center grounds near St. Joseph Hospital," said McCubbrey. He explained that Catherine McAuley of Dublin, Ireland founded the Sisters of Mercy order in the 1840s, during the potato famine.

Arbor Health Building was built to accommodate the Health Maintenance Organization approach to hospitalization insurance. Families opting for HMO plans have coverage for office calls and other health maintenance care. The center in Plymouth will combine many of these services.

"THIS BUILDING will offer minor emergency services. Major automobile accident victims will go directly to a

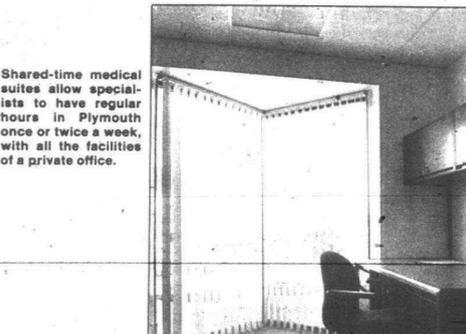

Jay Holland, construction superintendent, (left) and David McCubbrey, medical director, pause on the staircase of the atrium. McCubbrey says Holland has been on the job since March, sometimes putting in 20 hours a day.

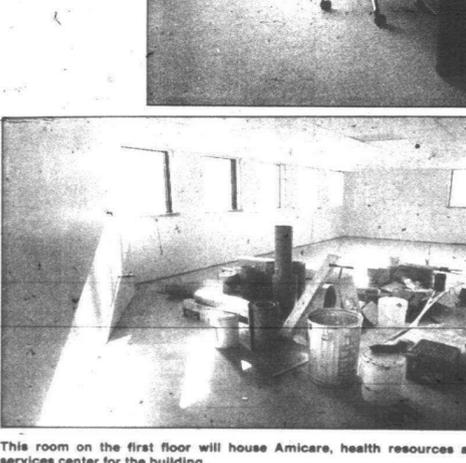

The Arbor Health Building, Harvey at Ann Arbor Trail, will be dedicated Sunday, Jan. 13.

Good; bad in JC hoops

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

There really ought to be a sign outside the Schoolcraft Community College gym that reads something like: "Bring us your unwanted, your overlooked, your unscholarly and your underdeveloped."

Such are the types of players the Schoolcraft womens basketball team attracts (same holds for the Schoolcraft mens team) — players who weren't recruited out of high school, players who because of poor grades weren't accepted at a four-year college and players who need to hone their skills at the junior college level until they are fit to compete on a higher plateau.

This, you should know, is not a knock on Schoolcraft or junior college basketball. Rather, it is to point out the need for such programs. So many more players get an opportunity to extend their basketball careers, and thus their academic careers, because of institutions like Schoolcraft.

But, let it be known, playing junior college basketball can be a humbling experience.

THURSDAY, the Schoolcraft womens team hosted Mott Community College from Flint. The game epitomized the junior college basketball experience here in Michigan.

The gym, for the most part, was silent as a tomb. Perhaps there were 35 people scattered throughout Schoolcraft's spacious gym.

While the seven Schoolcraft players went through their somewhat organized pregame drills, the 10 Mott players acted as if they were schoolchildren on a recess. There was no organization to their warmups. They, quite honestly, just messed around until it was time to play.

Play was ragged on both sides throughout the game. Mott committed turnovers in each of its first three possessions. Schoolcraft could muster just two points in that time.

At one stretch, Mott went nearly three minutes without scoring. At other times, they simply could not be stopped. Schoolcraft played much the same way. No consistency.

BODIES WERE flying in all directions throughout the game. A record number of floor burns had to be set.

The basketball flew in as many different directions as the bodies. Sometimes the ball flew wildly out of bounds. Sometimes it was launched in the direction of the basket, often times missing the mark by good distances. But, other times the ball traveled spritely from player to player to basket with a professional proficiency.

The style of play by both teams can be described only as physical. If a record number of floor burns were recorded, then certainly a record number of bruises were sustained as well.

WHILE SCHOOLCRAFT, a well-coached team, tried to play intelligently and with some sense of purpose, Mott was helter-skelter. They ran no offensive plays. They simply came down, shot and crashed the boards.

Yet in the end, Mott, possessing the better athletes, buried the home team, 92-71. It was not pretty from any standpoint.

Clearly, junior college basketball is not for everyone. For some, playing JC ball is a nightmare. For others, it is bliss.

For Ann Lukens, playing at Schoolcraft was rather a nightmare. Lukens was a standout at Livonia Ladywood, a school rich in basketball success. Oddly, she was overlooked by college recruiters when she graduated in 1983. She decided to play at Schoolcraft in hopes of gaining some recognition, as well as improving her game.

SHE LASTED just one year at Schoolcraft.

"It was kind of bad for me," said Lukens, who now attends the University of Michigan. "I kind of felt like the players weren't serious about playing. I came from a program where basketball was everything in your life."

"I couldn't understand why (at Schoolcraft) they didn't seem to care about something that was still very important to me. I guess they kind of resented me. It was probably my fault."

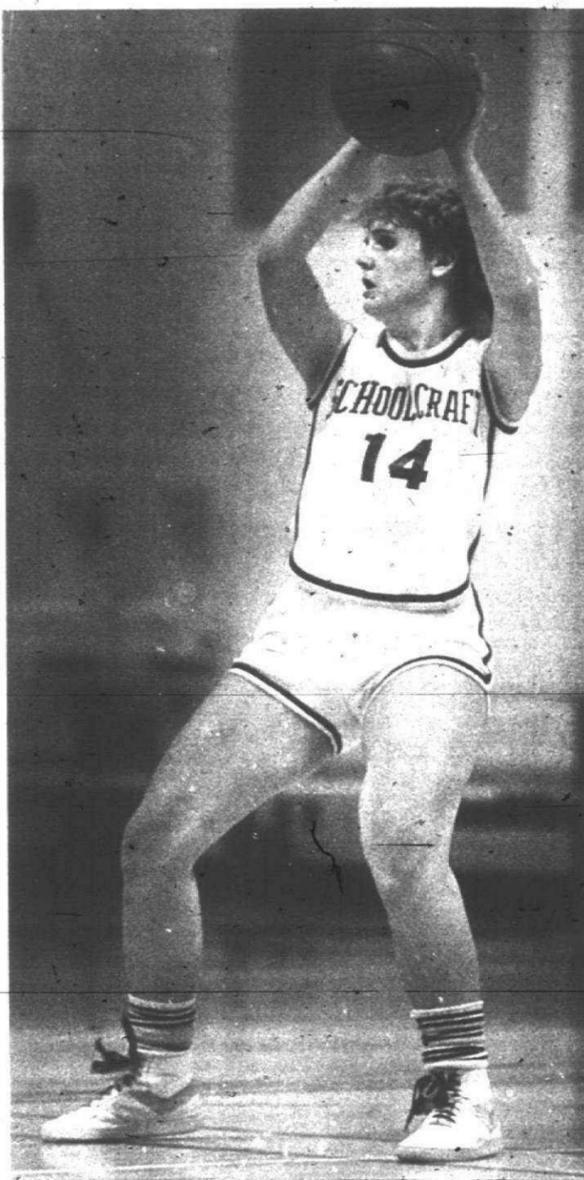

"IT WAS like everyone was distracted by other things," Lukens went on. "And I just couldn't understand what the distractions were."

"The priorities were different. I still had basically the same priorities that I had in high school, and every one else were different. It caused a lot of problems. I guess I just didn't adjust to play at this level."

Missy Aiken represents the other side of the coin. She is absolutely having the time of her life playing ball at Schoolcraft.

After Thursday's loss, someone asked her what she thought of the small crowd. "Small?" she said. "Heck, I think that was the biggest crowd we've ever had here. That was great."

AIKEN CAME to Schoolcraft after playing just one year at Plymouth Canton (her family had just moved to Michigan). She was not heavily recruited and her grades were not acceptable to most major colleges.

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

Missy Aiken, a former Canton star, is having the time of her life at Schoolcraft College. For others, it's not been so grand.

Ocelot coach Ed Kavanaugh saw potential in her and brought her to Schoolcraft.

"I really like playing for coach Kavanaugh," she said. "I have learned a lot about myself and about playing ball."

INDEED, AIKEN, always big, strong and aggressive on the court, had trouble shooting and getting into proper rebounding position. With Kavanaugh's assistance and her own intelligence, Aiken is vastly improved in both areas. She is averaging nearly 11 points and 8 rebounds per game this season for Schoolcraft.

"I'd like to continue playing somewhere," she said. "Maybe at University of Detroit or even at Eastern Michigan. But, even if I don't play anymore, at least I had these two years here."

In that last sentence is the essence of junior college basketball. For better or for worse, at least it gives people a chance to continue playing.

Ocelots fortunes run hot and cold in split

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

It's not hard to figure why Ed Kavanaugh would like to make a few roster changes on Schoolcraft College's womens basketball squad.

Any and all talented players enrolled at Schoolcraft are welcome to join the team. Yet the Lady Ocelots' biggest problem is numerical: There are only seven players on the team.

But there are a couple of names Kavanaugh would like to drop just the same — like Jekyll and Hyde.

AFTER A TWO-WEEK holiday layoff, Schoolcraft resumed action last week with home games against Mott Thursday and Lake Michigan Friday. The results were mixed: the Lady Ocelots were shredded by Mott 92-71, but bounced back to beat Lake Michigan 61-51.

The Mott game, Schoolcraft's Eastern Conference opener, was truly a horror story. For a half, the "Jekyll" Lady Ocelots stayed close and led 37-35 with 1:08 to go before the intermission. But Mott scored 6-straight points in that final minute and never trailed again.

In the second half, Schoolcraft's "Mr. Hyde" appeared. The Lady Ocelots played ugly, failing to rebound or defend. Mott had scoring streaks of 8-0 and 10-2 before finishing the game with an 12-0 run. Schoolcraft never managed more than 4 points in succession.

FORWARDS Charlotte Johnson and Djuna Smith did most of the damage: Johnson poured in 37 points working inside, while Smith scored 23 on long-range jumpers. Kim Chandler topped Schoolcraft with 17 points, with Caryn Lamb and Missy Aiken adding 13 each.

"We got outrebounded badly," said Kavanaugh. But that wasn't Schoolcraft's only failure.

"I tell them there are two kinds of defense," Kavanaugh said, "acting and reacting. Reacting defense is when you allow the player to catch the ball and then play defense."

"That's not the way to do it." But that's how the Lady Ocelots played it against Mott. Johnson owned the offensive boards, grabbing rebounds and scoring almost at will inside.

"She was catching the ball at the high post, turning and going to the basket," Kavanaugh said. "No one was on her. They didn't deny her the ball."

Eagles' press wrecks rival

Who's the hottest high school basketball team in Plymouth?

Plymouth Canton? Nope. Plymouth Salem? Nope.

Try Plymouth Christian. Yep. The Eagles.

After a 61-59 win against Huron Valley Lutheran Friday night, Plymouth Christian has now won three of the last four games, giving the team a 3-3 record.

"We are very pleased with the way things are going right now," said Eagles coach Jeff Cook. "Especially tonight. We really had our backs against the wall."

His team overcame a 6-point fourth quarter deficit Friday and a serious manpower shortage to gain the win. Injuries and ineligibilities have reduced the Christian roster to just seven players. Two of those players fouled out Friday and another finished with 4 fouls.

basketball

IT WAS a menacing full-court man-to-man press that turned the trick for the Eagles. Down the stretch, the press forced numeran turnovers, allowing Christian to catch up.

On the night, Huron Valley committed 26 turnovers. The turnovers led to 23 Christian points. The Eagles' 20 turnovers resulted in only 11 points.

With 12 seconds left on the clock, sophomore Pat McCarthy nailed a 15-footer from the corner for the winning hoop. McCarthy led the Eagles with 22 points. Rod Windle added 15.

Tony Mitchell scored 21 for the losers.

Shamrock spurt tops game Borgess crew

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Redford Catholic Central overcame a sterling performance Friday night by Bishop Borgess guard Joe Gregory to record a 58-49 Central Division basketball victory.

Gregory, a 5-foot-9 senior, rifled home 31 points, but the Shamrocks offset his fine individual effort with a balanced attack.

The visiting Spartans succeeded at making life miserable for CC standout John McIntyre, holding him to a season-low 14 points. But McIntyre's four teammates picked up the slack as Ron Wandzel finished with 14, Paul Tavana netted 11, Tom Goodwin added 10 and Lance Vaccarelli chipped in with 9.

"Neither team really got into a flow," said CC coach Bernie Holowicki, whose team is 5-1 overall. "They had a good player (Gregory) and we had a good player (McIntyre). They were trying to defend him and we were trying to defend Gregory. We were both too tentative."

CC LED 15-12 after one quarter, but Borgess came back to knot the score at halftime, 25-25, capped by a Gregory 3-point play with 17 seconds remaining.

The turning point occurred in the third quarter as the Shamrocks, using their patented match-up zone defense, caused numerous Borgess turnovers to build an 11-point bulge, 43-32, before coasting home.

"We seemed to play better when we went into the press," said Holowicki. "We got flowing, got a margin and that was it."

Borgess tried pressing with little success in the fourth quarter as McIntyre's ball-handling set the tone. He squashed any plans of a Borgess comeback.

"What we wanted to do was go full court man-to-man, but it just didn't work out," said Borgess coach Mike Fusco, whose team is 3-2 overall. "They scored several easy baskets. After we scored we should have been able to get into it (the press), but we only got 2 baskets in that quarter."

Even though the battle may not have measured up to previous CC-Borgess games, the 1,100 fans left knowing that Gregory ranks right up there with former Borgess standout Lewis Scott, now a starter at Eastern Michigan.

"NUMBER 32 is a fine player for them," Holowicki said. "He beat us twice last year. They really look to him. Without question he's one of the top five in our league."

But Gregory needs help and Fusco is looking for ways to get others to contribute offensively.

One plan Fusco is tossing around is inserting 6-4 sophomore Alex Marshall as the starting center, and moving 6-4, 175-pound senior Paul Newton to the perimeter.

"At this point and time we're not getting an inside game at all," said Fusco. After Newton, Borgess' tallest player is 6 feet, which is simply too shrimpy when measuring up to the rest of the Catholic League's premier division.

On Tuesday, CC tries for its second straight league win at Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher, while Borgess hosts Harper Woods Notre Dame.

Young rollers score big in junior tourney

Goldie Hawn finds herself in some unlikely circumstances in "Protocol." Top: an emir is enamored of Goldie. Center: Limo's passengers meet a leggy Goldie. Above: Goldie walks a long way for a camel.

Politicians, media are Goldie's targets in satiric 'Protocol'

"Protocol" takes aim at the media, politicians and everybody's funny bone. It successfully scores a number of bullseyes.
Picture, if you will, Sunny Davis (Goldie Hawn), a cocktail waitress at Lou's (Kenneth Mars) sleazy Safari Club. The girls wear outlandish costumes while serving. The emu suit is the worst and it falls to the gal who comes late to work. That's usually Sunny, whose broken-down old car is far from reliable.

WOULDN'T YOU know it, the U.S. Government wants to build a military base on the emir's real estate, the emir develops a romantic interest in Sunny, whose new-found celebrity the media exploits, while the politicians sturry around looking for the edge to turn a deal. The emir's rival body-man, Nawaf Al Kaber (Andre Gregory), helps out and the merry chase is on.

MRS. ST. JOHN'S assistants were so well-characterized as the monomaniacal, nameless, faceless and bumbling bureaucrats whose only mission in life is political success (whatever that means) that they shall remain nameless here.
The major bars in "Protocol" however, are reserved for the media and the ways in which it, particularly television, exploits celebrity and the viewers' passion for the latest, most sensational images.

'Painting Churches' is a treasure

Tina Howe's "Painting Churches" continues Tuesday-Saturdays, with two shows Sunday, through Jan. 27 at the Birmingham Theatre. For ticket information call 644-5533.

must about "Yoo-hoo" to bring his brain to focus on present reality.
Gardner is a man diminished by senility yet Donald Springmont's fine portrayal of him maintains the essential dignity and intelligence of the man despite lapses into vagueness and child-like dependence.

How wisely refrain from sentimentalizing "Painting Churches" is a moving, funny play with delightful visual wit, as when Fanny and Gardner strike poses of art masterpieces Gardner languishing dramatically in Fanny's lap as they ham-up Michaelangelo's "Pieta" or standing side by side with four faces and a salad fork mimicking Grant Wood's "American Gothic."

And how will their daughter paint her parents' portraits? As they were — a splendid patrician picture of success, or as they are — an incontinent senile poet and his wife struggling just to survive the ravages of age? Where is the reality?
It is the question the play addresses with sensitivity and touching dignity. "Painting Churches" can join "On Golden Pond" in the annals of theater that speaks with honesty about growing old.

what's at the movies

- AMADEUS (PG). Superb rendition of Mozart's life with Tom Hulce and F. Murray Abraham. Directed by Milos Forman.
BEVERLY HILLS COP (R). Eddie Murphy is funny but Detroit comes off second best in this cop show.
BREAKIN' 2 (PG). The TKO crew from "Breakin'" does it again.
