No mere white snowman with charcoal eyes for Dale McIntosh and his daughter Kristin, 4. The two, plus another daughter, Lyndsay, 5, and a friend, Paul Shulte of Detroit, spent a good part of the Jan. 26-27 weekend creating two technicolor snow creatures which stopped traf-

Police hold summit to map future

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Representatives from all ranks of the Canton Township Police Department — from patrolman to acting chief — met Thursday at Township

Hall to form a steering committee to correct problems plaguing the department.

They also laid ground rules on how the committee will develop policies and procedures to improve the department.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Canton Lt. Alex Wilson emphasizes a point during a meeting of the newly formed steering committee. The group is revamping the police department.

"This (steering committee) is one of the most avant-garde approaches to police department development where you can be on the ground floor to make it your department," said Roderick Bartell, of Bartell and Bartell Ltd. — a Pennsylvania consulting firm which cited a "crisis" situation in a recently completed police study. The 90-page report made numerous recommendations for change.

The situation in Canton is ideal to support the steering committee system, because it is a young department and the command structure is new, said Bartell in reference to the Jan. 26 resignation of Canton Police Chief Jerry Cox.

"Since you don't have a chief now, this is the time to make the changes, because if you don't do it now, he (new chief) could come in and say this is the way to do it," Bartell said.

MANY OF THOSE who attended the meeting said they were "optimistic" the steering committee would be effective in creating an efficient department.

"The key thing is you have to take advantage of this opportunity," Bartell said.

Supersewer lawsuit cites conspiracy

By Diane Gale
and Gary M. Cates

An alleged conspiracy is at the heart of the third and final amendment to Plymouth and Canton townships' lawsuit over the demise of Supersewer.

Through the deposition process, the townships uncovered evidence they believe points to a conspiracy between state, county, and Detroit officials to deny them access to Supersewer. Officials cited include Gov. James Blanchard, Wayne County Executive William Lucas, and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

The amendment, filed Friday in Wayne County Circuit Court, lists 12 occasions between May 1983 and November 1983 when one or more of the individuals allegedly participated in communication aimed at excluding both townships from Supersewer.

"I think the add-on will help prove what we've said originally, and it adds a lot of credibility to the suit," said Supervisor James Poole.

Both townships claim they were forced to help pay for Supersewer's design and then were prohibited from taking part in the project. Among the items they are seeking are: reimbursement of some $625,000 pumped into Supersewer planning, plus interest; legal fees, compensatory damages of more than $10,000, and other punitive damages against the defendants.

The list of defendants include the state, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Wayne County, Wayne County Department of Public Works, Detroit, Detroit Water and Sewer Department, Flat Rock, Gibraltar, Romulus, Woodhaven, Brownstown Township, Huron Township, Van Buren Township, Novi and Wixom.

WHILE BLANCHARD, Lucas and Young are not named as defendants, they are named as individuals involved in the alleged conspiracy to defraud the townships.

Other individuals who allegedly participated in the conspiracy include: Fred Tumminia, Detroit's long-range planner; James Akhtar, an assistant Wayne County executive; and Greg Morris, an executive assistant to Blanchard.

The lawsuit doesn't spell out the content of the various communications which led to the alleged conspiracy, but does list the dates and places they occurred.

Specified are phone conversations between Young and Blanchard, and Blanchard and the Detroit Water and Sewer Department.

Personal meetings cited include Lucas and Blanchard at Mackinac Island during Memorial Day weekend 1983, Lucas and Young during the 1983 Grand Prix Party in Detroit, Akhtar and Tumminia at the Detroit Water and Sewer Department on June 5, 1983, and Morris and Lucas on June 16, 1983.

The lawsuit states "that all of the acts of the defendants, State of Michigan, Michigan DNR and James Blanchard, were done for the benefit of the defendants, City of Detroit, Detroit Water and Sewer Department, and others including Coleman Young, and their own political advantages."

Westland driver killed in Canton

By Diane Gale

David Earl Watson, 31, of Westland died after the car he was driving collided head-on with a car travelling west on Cherry Hill east of the I-275 expressway in Canton Township Thursday.

At about 3 a.m., Watson, who was driving a 1985 Dodge east on Cherry Hill, crossed the center line. His car struck a 1984 Plymouth driven by Jon Carl O'Connor, 43, of Canton Township.

Both men were alone in their cars. Watson was transported to Westland Medical Center where he died in the operating room at 6:10 a.m., according to hospital officials.

O'Connor, who suffered multiple injuries, was taken to Oakwood Hospital Canton Center and later taken to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor. Late Friday he was in fair condition, according to U-M Hospital personnel.

Blood samples were taken from Watson and O'Connor to determine blood alcohol levels at the time of the accident, but Canton police had not received the results as of Friday, according to Canton police Lt. Alex Wilson.

THE SPEED AT which each of the cars was travelling also is unknown, Wilson said. The roads were covered with snow at the time of the accident.

"We are going to investigate this accident further, and if that investigation reveals that we should pursue criminal charges, we will," he said.

The fatality is the second this year. The first occurred nearby on Cherry Hill near Hannon Road Jan. 13 when Pierre Louis Trudeau died after he failed to maneuver a jog in the road. His car hit the guard rail and flipped into a ditch.

In 1984 there were four fatal acci-

 THE PORTRAIT PLACE

Students turn pages of time for fun lesson

STUDENTS AT Hulsing Elementary School earn an 'A' for effort by effectively copying the lifestyle of medieval folks Friday.
 Fifth graders, who were given the less prestigious roles of serfs and slaves, were joined by the higher-ranking sixth graders who were bestowed with the lofty spots of kings, queens, knights and other titled gentry.
 The students dressed their parts, and ate the foods in the fashion people of centuries ago did. To complete the effect, they even entertained each other as the medieval people did.
 The program was the culmination of a medieval learning program.

Denis Rentis plays "The Irish Wedding Dance" for the enjoyment of the assembled townspeople of the land.

Lady Jean Lipscomb and King Jason Kelly raise their goblets to toast the assembled kings and queens.

Kingdom of Argus citizens sit down to a full feast with non-alcoholic wine, grapes and simulated delicacies of the era.

Rob Koch, a medieval juggler, works as a music teacher at Hulsing Elementary School in 1985.

Lord Mike Tritabaugh takes his role in the re-creation of bygone days seriously. His authentic costume even includes a ring on his pointer finger.

Supersewer suit: 3 officials conspired

THE LAWSUIT charges that the actions "are a part of a pattern of conduct consisting of injurious falsehoods, threats, harassments, and false statements by which said defendants acted under color of law, have denied to the plaintiffs the rights, privileges and immunities guaranteed to them by the Constitution and the laws of the United States."

"This pattern of conduct, while carried out under color of law, has no jus-titution or excuse in law, but instead is improper and illegal and is unrelated to any activity by which any of the defendants may properly and legally engage in the course of their duties."

Although the lawsuit was filed Friday, Plymouth Township Attorney Brian James said a recent Michigan Supreme Court ruling on governmental immunity will have to be "closely examined" to determine whether it applies to this case.

The decision on Rosa versus Consumer Powers, a culmination of eight other cases, said judges, legislators and chief executives are immune from personal liability as long as they are acting in the capacity of their delegated role.

"We'll have to find out whether or not the Supreme Court ruled governmental officials can lie, cheat and steal because they are immune by the court," Poole said.

THE ORIGINAL lawsuit was filed last year, following the 1983 decision to split Supersewer into north and south projects.

Supersewer, then more than 15 years in the making, was supposed to increase sewer capacity for many western Wayne County and downriver communities.

The massive project was designed to include sewer lines and a treatment plant, to be funded through 75 percent EPA grants and 25 percent local money.

In 1983 the state, under the new Blanchard administration, announced plans to split the project. Besides the alleged conspiracy, the lawsuit addresses other reasons and factors leading up to that decision.

Since the split the southern project, encompassing the downriver communities, has received approval for 75 percent EPA funding. The northern project, encompassing the western Wayne County communities, has been denied the funding.

Rouge Valley Wastewater communities (between western Wayne County and Detroit) have been added to the northern project for the correction of pollution problems with the existing sewer lines.

James said the downriver communities named as defendants will be dropped from the lawsuit provided they pay back the $625,000 in Supersewer planning money by April 1.

Although those communities earlier agreed to refund the money, James said the prospect of receiving it has diminished as two of the communities refused to sign final agreements for the southern project.

Officers volunteer for review committee

Goals and objectives set

The persons who agreed to be served on the committee are: Patrolman Eddie Tanner, Cpl. Roger Pearsall, Cpl. William Lenaghan, Cpl. Robert VanLith, Lt. Alex Wilson, Acting Chief Larry Stewart, Sgt. Gary Griffin, Sgt. Laura Gollies, Sgt. Robin Crisp and office staffers Geraldine Svec and Christine Stopa.

Two additional police officers will be added to the committee. Wilson was chosen to chair the meetings. A vice-chairperson will be picked when the committee meets again at 3 p.m. Thursday at township hall.

It was decided to exclude the media from this week's meeting. Those who opposed the press' attendance said they would like time to begin feeling comfortable working together on a one-to-one basis. They also said the press could restrict a free flow of comments against having the press attend, claiming it is to blame for much of the department's bad image.

PADEGT OUTLINED a network of interaction among the steering committee, review committee, Canton Township Board of Trustees, township supervisor and the police chief. Changes suggested by the steering committee that require board approval will first go through the review committee, Padgett said.

The group also agreed task forces will be developed to address major issues in the department. Areas to be tackled include picking a new chief, staff development in terms of training and career paths, defining departmental goals and objectives, creating an adequate officer evaluation system, possibly creating specialized bureaus, equipment needs, improving morale and defining the transition to the new police station on Canton Center Road.

THE FULL COMMITTEE will decide if the press may attend future meetings.

Others at last week's meeting were: Dan Durack, township personnel director, and Mike Gorman, township finance director. Also present were the dents in the township — a big decrease over 1983 when 13 lives were lost in automobile mishaps.

"Since that's the second fatality this year, we're a little concerned that we may be off to another year like '83," Wilson said.

Weather conditions play a role in the number of accidents and the severity of injuries. However, bad weather sometimes lessens the possibility of fatal accidents.

"When there's snow and the roads are treacherous, people drive slower and there are less severe injuries," Wilson said.

He added that many times during good weather motorists drive faster, and resulting accidents are more serious.

scheluded for completion this year.

"Some of these things will create a conflict within the committee," Padgett said.

"The study has a lot of recommendations — some are good, some are bad, some are appropriate and some are not," Padgett said. "We're going to agree on some things, and on others, we might not even agree on what some of the problems are."

He referred to the study as "blueprint" and a "vehicle" to bring about change.

"You (addressing police personnel) know what the problems are, and you know what will work," he said. "The big assumption is you want the police department to work, and that's the assumption that all of us have made."

Police department personnel, township officials and members of the press differ on whether meetings to reorganize the police department should be open.

Callers pose as policemen

Plymouth police advise residents to be leary of phone callers soliciting funds for police-related activities.

Apparently someone is calling area residents seeking donations and identifying themselves as being affiliated with the police department, Lt. Robert Commire said.

"The police union is the only one that does any solicitations and they're not currently involved in that to our knowledge," said Commire. He heads the detective bureau, which has received numerous complaints in the past two weeks.

"If they say they are representing our department it's a lie. The best thing for people to do is just tell them no."

Commire said the callers say they are soliciting funds for such activities as the police athletics league, kids athletic program, or drug prevention programs. They ask residents to mail donations to a post office box.

He was uncertain if police departments from surrounding communities are involved in legitimate solicitations.

WEIGHT AND ARTHRITIS

It is commonly thought that being overweight predisposes you to arthritis of the hips, knees and feet. The extra weight leads to additional strain resulting in extensive joint wear and tear and the order to the heavy individual to "lose weight, if you want to save your joints."

This seemingly self evident truth has never been proven. No study has ever been able to show that overweight leads to arthritis, or that losing extra pounds relieves joint problems. However, do not take this lack of proven relationship to conclude that if you have arthritis, striving to reach a proper weight is unnecessary.

It is important so that if surgery is needed, you won't carry the operative risks that come with obesity. These risks include increased possibility of failure of the surgical procedure, and in the days following surgery, greater than average chance of blood clots, infection and even death. Losing excess weight likely will make you feel better today, and definitely improve the potential for success if you need surgery tomorrow.

CHOOSING A TAX PREPARER

by Charles H. Williams, C.P.A.

Who'll prepare your tax return this year? It's time to start choosing a professional, and to undertake the planning that may help you shelter some of your income from taxes.

If your income is fairly straightforward and deductible expenses minimal, you might satisfactorily use a short-form return and do it yourself or with the help of a tax preparer. But with more income, and more deductions, as the return becomes more complicated, you're going to want a tax professional.

Why? Because it's worth the difference to put your tax return in the hands of someone with the knowledge to find every likely loophole, and the experience to know which are acceptable. And as you reach the higher brackets, you'll get the advice you need on sheltering some income from taxes.

Some free help is available from the IRS. Revenue employees will answer your questions (but the tax court has challenged some of their answers) and prepare the simplest returns. There are also independent and chain tax preparers who pop up at tax season. Their workers may not be experienced enough to catch all legal deductions.

A certified public accountant can handle most complex returns and are familiar with shelters and investing. His or her tax know-how can save you more than the fee.

How do you choose a professional? Recommendations from satisfied clientele are one way, as are referrals from lawyers. Once a relationship is entered, the client will find his accountant helpful in making financial decisions all year round.

INCOME TAX

We're a local organization. Even though we served more than 3,300 clients last year we haven't forgotten that every client is an individual and that each individual deserves the best service we can provide.

When we sign a tax return that we've prepared, we're proud of having done the best possible job for you. When you see our signature on your tax return you can be sure that:

1. The counselor who prepared your return was competent and thoroughly experienced in tax matters.
2. You have received the maximum legal deductions and the minimum legal tax.
3. Your tax return has received all the time and attention that was necessary to do a proper job.
4. Your tax return has been double-checked for both accuracy and tax saving possibilities.
5. Your return has been handled in a confidential manner.

We have three levels of services and fees...Econotax, Computax and Executax. We want to be your Accountant!

WHO'S COOKING IN TODAY'S KITCHENS?

In the kitchen of the '80s, you're as apt to find a man doing the cooking as a woman. With more women working outside the home, more husbands are involved with at least some of the family meal preparation. Plus, there are six million single men who must depend upon their own cooking skills for day-to-day survival. Add to that men who enjoy cooking as a creative outlet, and you've got a lot of males in today's kitchens.

So, it's good to know that meal preparation can be quicker and easier than it used to be. The recipes on this page—designed with the male cook in mind—illustrate two work-simplification strategies for the contemporary kitchen.

Maytag, which recently added cooking appliances, calls the first strategy "Complementary Cooking." A key to this technique is selecting the appliance that will produce the best results with optimum cooking efficiency in preparing a particular dish. For some recipes, the microwave oven is the best choice, because it's often the quick and easy route to flavorful results. Other recipes or larger quantities are best prepared in a conventional oven or by using a combination of these appliances.

Another time-saving strategy is to use heat-resistant nylon oven cooking bags. Specially made to work equally well in either microwave or conventional ovens, oven cooking bags simplify preparation of even complicated dishes. Foods cook faster, too, because moist heat is trapped inside the bag. This cooking method tenderizes meat and also blends and intermingles flavors deliciously. Since all the ingredients are mixed and cooked right inside the bag, there's no pile-up of messy bowls or pots to clean up afterward. And there's no oven spatter. To serve, cut open the bag and dish the food onto plates.

Simple to prepare and a snap to clean up, all of these recipes are ideal for the man in the kitchen, be he novice or gourmet. To complete the meal, add a salad or vegetable and rolls to one of the entrees and top it off with the Maple Baked Apples for dessert.

For a copy of Maytag's "Complementary Cooking Guide," which lists 60 foods and the recommended method for preparing them, send $1 to: The Maytag Company, Dept. 3PR-ROP, Newton, Iowa 50208.

You also can order more quick and easy oven cooking bag recipes by writing for "A Cooking Guide for Men," developed by The Reynolds Wrap Kitchens. To receive your free copy write to: The Reynolds Wrap Kitchens, "A Cooking Guide for Men," P.O. Box 27003/Dept. FE-22, Richmond, Virginia 23261.

Shake flour in large size (14"x20") oven cooking bag; place bag in 12x8x2-inch microwave-safe baking dish. Roll down top of bag. Add tomato sauce, wine, oil, onion, green pepper, bouillon, thyme, garlic, cayenne and black pepper; squeeze bag gently to blend. Rinse and pat chicken dry; season to taste with salt, pepper and paprika. Place in bag; close with nylon tie. Turn chicken in bag to coat with tomato mixture. Marinate in refrigerator 3 to 4 hours or overnight, turning several times.

When ready to cook, place chicken in the bag in a single layer with meatiest parts towards edge. Make 6 half-inch slits in top of bag. Micro-cook on high power 24 to 27 minutes until chicken tests done, rotating dish twice. Makes: 4 servings.

Conventional Method: Shake flour in large size (14"x20") oven cooking bag; place bag in 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Follow directions above except preheat oven to 350°F. Bake 1 hour or until tender.

| 1 tablespoon flour | 1 medium green pepper, coarsely chopped |
| 1 large size (14"x20") oven cooking bag | 1/2 teaspoon oregano leaves |
| 1 can (16 oz.) whole tomatoes | 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder |
| 1 can (10-3/4 oz.) chicken broth | 1/8 teaspoon pepper |
| 1 cup uncooked rice | 1 package (10 oz.) frozen green peas |
| 1/2 cup finely chopped onion | |

| Peel from 1 orange | |

Combine water, sugar, cloves, allspice, orange and lemon peels in a 2-quart glass pitcher or batter bowl. Cover with plastic wrap, turning back one edge to vent. Micro-cook on high power 7 minutes. Let stand at least 1 hour. Strain to remove fruit peels and spice. Add fruit juices and wine, stir to blend. Cover with plastic wrap until serving time. Pour wine mixture into microwave-safe cups and micro-cook individually on high power for 1 to 1-1/2 minutes each. Makes: 7 cups.

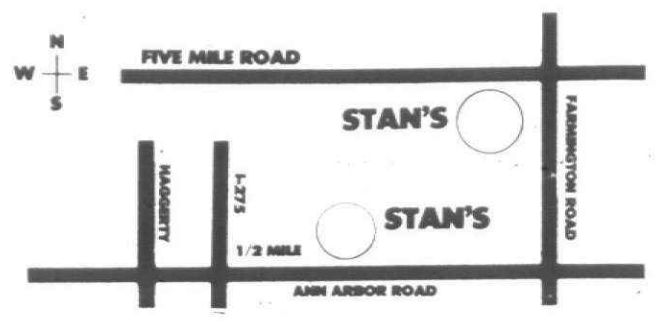

Conventional Method: Follow directions above except combine water, sugar, spice and fruit peels in a 2-quart saucepan. Heat to boiling over medium heat; simmer 10 minutes. Remove from heat; let stand 1 hour. Strain. Add fruit juices and wine. Heat over medium heat just to boiling.

Use real cheese in no-crust cheesecake

"I don't recognize cream cheese as real cheese. I don't consider cottage cheese real cheese either. That's why I can't understand why everyone calls cheesecake without real cheese cheesecake."

Real cheese is ricotta, Italian in origin, mild and great to cook with, especially in desserts. I had about one-third of a three-pound container left from some Italian dishes so I decided to try a hand at my first cheesecake.

I didn't have a springform pan, with sides that unlatch and peel away, so I improvised and used a tube pan.

"I've never seen a cheesecake with a hole in the middle," my wife said. "I know," I said, "but the pan can double as a nifty cake holder—you just lift up the tube and..."

"Good luck," Anita said warily. "I didn't tell her I planned to go crustless. Besides, I didn't have any graham crackers to break into crumbs. Well, frankly, she was the first to eat her words."

"This cheesecake is delicious," she said after sampling a sizable piece. "I know," I said, "but I'll wait until after dinner."

HOLE-IN-THE-MIDDLE CRUSTLESS RICOTTA CHEESECAKE

1 container (1 lb.) ricotta cheese, at room temperature
1 container (1 lb.) sour cream, at room temperature
2 pgs. (8 oz.) cream cheese, at room temperature
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/4 cup margarine, softened and cut up
3 eggs
3 tbsps. all-purpose flour
3 tbsps. cornstarch
1/4 tsp. lemon juice
1 1/2 tbsps. vanilla extract

Put ricotta through sieve or strainer into large mixing bowl and beat together with sour cream and cream cheese until well mixed. Beat in sugar, then margarine. Beat in eggs, one at a time.

This tamale pie is one easy, tasty dish

Have this tamale pie for supper tonight. It's all cooked in one skillet for quick preparation and easy clean up. And it's delicious besides!

SKILLET TAMALES
1 (1 lb. 12 oz.) can tomatoes
1/4 cup uncooked yellow cornmeal
1 tbsps. salad oil
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 lb. ground beef
1 tsp. chili powder
1 tsp. salt
1 1/2 cups pitted California ripe olives (12 oz.) can whole kernel corn

Mix together tomatoes and cornmeal; set aside. Heat oil. Add onion and green pepper and cook until vegetables are soft. Add beef, chili powder and salt. Cook, stirring, until beef loses its pink color. Stir in tomato mixture. Cook over moderate heat for 10 minutes. Drain ripe olives. Add with corn and green chilies to beef mixture. Cook, over low heat, stirring once or twice. Add cheese and stir gently. Garnish with green pepper rings, if desired. Serves 6.

Check out better idea

Over a hundred years ago, a former high school principal with a good idea devised a product that's saving millions of people untold amounts of money today.

The inventor was named George La Monte and he was a paper salesman. He considered the need for a safe, dependable way of transferring funds without transporting large unprotected amounts of cash.

What he came up with was the idea of checks printed on a special kind of paper treated with dyes and chemicals to make erasure and alteration of checks difficult and exact duplication virtually impossible. The dyes are sensitive to the same solutions that remove writing inks from paper, so any attempt at alteration removes the paper's color and design or produces a stain.

FISH recruiting more volunteers

By Elinor Graham
staff writer

Lyrics of an old song include the lines "And if you never go to school, you may grow up to be a fish."

A number of local residents, none of whom neglected their lessons, grew up to become fish — FISH volunteers and they find it a rewarding experience. They give a few hours a month to FISH, the volunteer organization that serves a need provided by no other group and is available seven days a week, year around.

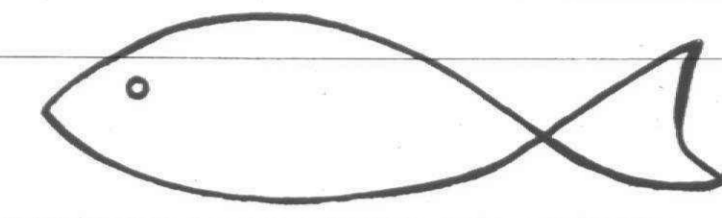

FISH volunteers transport people to appointments with their doctors, to a hospital or clinic for treatments, to have their eyes examined. They work closely with the Salvation Army and make emergency deliveries of food. Miscellaneous calls include requests for transportation for food stamps, to the bank, to school and to attorneys.

There are calls for information about services FISH does not provide, but referrals always are made.

There are businesswomen who take a client to a hospital on their way to work. Sometimes they pick them up on their way home from work. If a full day at the hospital is not necessary, another FISH volunteer will provide transportation home at the proper time.

There are young mothers, such as Luann Faber and Michelle Howard, who like to be home when their children return from school. They serve as Fish of the Day and also as drivers. Howard is a past co-chair of Plymouth FISH.

FABER SAID she has been a FISH volunteer for six months. She read about the need for volunteers in the paper and decided to call.

Her children are 6 and 8. As Fish of the Day, she makes a call to the answering service at 7 a.m. to check for overnight requests. She handles incoming calls during the day and at 7 p.m. turns over information to the nightly caller.

"I have found the volunteers dedicated and giving," said Faber. "We serve a need that other organizations do not fill. I transport people, too."

Juanita Kahrl, co-chair of the local FISH group, said, "We have 47 volunteer drivers, 26 volunteer Fish of the Days and seven nightly callers.

MORE VOLUNTEERS are needed. To be Fish of the Day, a volunteer must have a telephone and stay at home to man the phone at least one day a month. Working people can volunteer as a nightly caller or for an off-day.

Each volunteer is given a complete set of instructions. With enough volunteers to share the duties, the ideal situation is to give one day a month, although some give more.

Drivers need a car, a caring for others and some extra time.

Vacations, illnesses and personal duties cut down on the roster of available volunteers so FISH is sending out a call for more recruits.

For more information about the organization, call Juanita Kahrl, 452-4232. For those who need FISH service, call 453-1110. The number is in the telephone directory.

EARL WISE is chairman of the Plymouth-Canton FISH.

Serving with him are Kahrl, co-chair, Ward Harris, treasurer, Carol Strid, secretary, and Kathryn Touhey, corresponding secretary.

FISH is a low-budget operation. It is financed by contributions from churches, 80 percent; civic groups, 10 percent; and individuals, 10 percent.

Last year's income was $2,943.76. Disbursements amounted to $2,615.10. Largest disbursement was for food to the Salvation Army. The answering service, telephone bill and postage made up most of the balance in 1984.

The FISH organization was named for the early Christian symbol. No estimated price tag can be put on its chief asset, the FISH volunteers.

Nature's wonders at Rock & Mineral Society show

Sandy Cline, expert in the art of soapstone carving, will demonstrate his expertise and exhibit his works Sunday at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Cline's appearance is a feature of the Plymouth Rock & Mineral Society's annual open house, noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 10.

Cline's carvings are in public and private collections in Canada, United States, Holland, Germany, Bulgaria, Israel, Japan, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand.

Prince Philip of England has one of Cline's works, commissioned in 1973.

The artist lives in Ridgeway, Ontario. He will remain in Plymouth after the show to lecture at the society's Monday night meeting.

Washtenaw Community College students of Dave Thomas will have an identification booth at the open house. Rock hounds of all ages are invited to stop by with stones found on vacation or in their own back yard. The students will identify them, free of charge.

PHILIP HRYSKA, show chairman, said, "Those interested in nature's wonders certainly will find something to suit their fancy at the open house. The event will be a gathering of area dealers and mineral clubs to showcase many of the earth science hobbies."

William Horten of the Livingstone Club will not only exhibit but demonstrate the cutting of faceted stones such as sapphires and other precious stones.

The host club and the Rock Exchange Club will hold silent auctions throughout the show.

The dealer and exhibitor list includes Angie Seay of Plymouth; Ken Koscielniak, Family Rock Shop; Edward Wilson; Phillip Nelson, Stone County; Dennis Demmerly of Garden City; Helen Ewen; Marjorie and Thomas Morris; Jeff Johnson, Windigo Co.; Harry Nagy, Dearborn Club; Norman Hanshu, Dearborn, and many more.

Admission to the show is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for youngsters. The Plymouth Cultural Center is at 525 Farmer Street, Plymouth.

Cline's nature carvings are in private and public collections in many parts of the world. They will be on exhibit at the Plymouth Cultural Center on Sunday.

Feb. 14 deadline for Woman's Club scholarship applications

Outstanding high school seniors will be honored Saturday, March 9, by the Woman's Club of Plymouth. The third annual invitational scholarship ball sponsored by the club and supported by the Mayflower Hotel and the Observer Newspapers will be in the Mayflower Meeting House.

Five $500 scholarships and four $100 merit awards were presented last year to graduating seniors in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools District. Twenty-seven students were honored for their academic strength and service to their church, school and community.

Application forms are available in both high schools' guidance offices and the Observer office, 489 S. Main Street.

ALL SENIOR students with a minimum 3.25 overall average are encouraged by the club to apply. This year, an additional scholarship category has been added to include 3.0 grade point averages or better.

Each application must be accompanied by the student's transcript and two letters of recommendation from adults other than the student's relatives. There is no fee for applying.

Outside activities including job, sports and volunteer work are considered by the judges as well as scholastic honors and school office held.

A number of candidates, selected from all the applicants, will be invited to the ball. They and their dates will be guests of the Woman's Club.

ALL APPLICATIONS are due no later than Thursday, Feb. 14. They will be picked up at noon Friday, Feb. 15.

The Woman's Club funds the scholarship and the ball through benefit programs during the year as well as donations from the community. Individuals and professional groups join as sponsors in the souvenir program or attend the ball to assist the project.

The club encourages parents, grandparents and friends of the applicants to attend the ball and share in the excitement of the evening. City and township dignitaries represent just a few of the contributing guests.

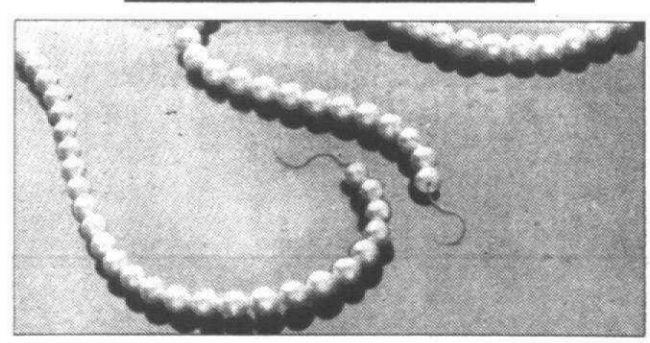

For more information about the invitational scholarship ball, candidates may call the co-chairs of the event, Mrs. Laurence Mueller, 455-0075, or Mrs. Vern Hackett, 455-0074.

Canadian Sandy Cline will demonstrate the art of soapstone carving at the open house.

Faber-Retford

Pamela Jo Retford and Alan Robert Faber Jr. DDS exchanged marriage vows Sept. 15 in Grosse Pointe Academy Chapel with the Rev. Edwin A. Schroeder officiating.

The couple's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Retford of Grosse Pointe Shores and Mr. and Mrs. Alan R. Faber of Beck Road, Plymouth.

The bride's silk taffeta wedding gown, a Richard Glasgow original, had a cathedral-length train. She carried long-stemmed calla lilies wrapped in satin ribbon. Matron of honor, Anita Sue Retford Barger, attendants, Robin Faber Horton, Karen Faber, Betsy Westebroek Ehmman and Sarah Horton, and flower girl, Erin Horton, wore off-white taffeta gowns with short tulle sleeves. The maid of honor's bouquet was a Sonia rose with Lady Diana roses and stephanotis. Each of the other attendants carried a single Sonia rose.

Dr. Rick Young was best man and groomsmen were Michael Horton, Michael Barger, Dr. Steve Gluck and Dr. William Mason. After a reception in the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club ballroom, the couple honeymooned on Paradise Island in the Bahamas. They are living in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The bride is a graduate of Liggett College Prep School, Hillsdale College with a bachelor of science degree in biology, and University of Michigan with a registered dental hygiene degree. She is a dental hygienist in Warren. Her husband is a 1974 graduate of Plymouth High School. He graduated from the U-M School of Dentistry in 1981 and is a dentist in Livonia.

Back Talk... Headache Cause May be Pinched Nerve

According to a report issued by the N.Y. Journal of Medicine, the cause of headaches in over 90% of 2,000 patients studied was a mechanical irritation of the nerves that exist between the bones of the neck. The report states that "direct injury to the neck may be caused by a blow or fall" that could easily irritate delicate spinal nerves.

American Weekly Magazine informed readers, "Headaches strike 16,000,000 Americans on a regular basis, 'each day some 21 tons of aspirin are consumed in the attempt to gain relief.' Modern chiropractic treatment seeks to eliminate this irritation of spinal nerves and produce effective relief of neck tension and headaches.

Rocks White-hot; blitz Canton

Game anti-climactic; the event is fantastic

Plymouth Canton vs. Plymouth Salem: Impressions of the neighborhood game.

THE CROWD arrived early. The fact that there's a big crowd at a Salem or Canton basketball game is big news in itself. The fact that it arrived early is stunning.

The big man was there. Fred Thomann. You know deep inside it's hurting him to be on the sidelines. Coaching basketball is as much a part of his life as food and water — it's in his blood. But he's there supporting rookie coach Bob Brodie and the Salem program.

But, come on, Fred, you can't really justify Bob Knight's recent actions at Indiana, can you? He can. And he does.

Where's Bob Blohm? Mark LaPointe is going wild on the Canton junior varsity bench. The first-year Canton coach isn't dealing well with the loss at all. He's screaming at the referees, his players, even at Salem JV coach Andy Melin.

"Ah, that's just the way I am," he said afterward.

THE FANS are rowdy. The crowd noise nearly drowns out the playing of the national anthem. The fans are up dancing to the pre-game music, on both sides. The tension is building, the excitement thick.

As each Canton player is introduced, the Salem fans pull newspapers up in front of their faces as if to ignore the introduction — funny stuff.

At last the game. LeSean Haygood looks like a giant compared to the gnarl-sized Chiefs. Immediately he snares an offensive rebound and puts Salem up 2-0.

What a nice basketball player Steve Sobditch has turned out to be. He blocks a Canton shot at one end, then hits a 3-point play at the other. 5-0 Salem. I feel good for Sobditch. He took a lot of heat for Salem's bad year in football (he was the quarterback). I'm glad to see him contributing.

I have been worried about Mike White. For most of the season he has seemed helplessly out of place on the wing of Salem's offense. I think he would have preferred to run from the point guard position, but coach Brodie had other designs. Against Ypsilanti earlier this season, I commented that White seemed in a daze, lost offensively. He didn't seem to be enjoying himself.

There was a different Mike White on the floor Friday. It was the Mike White of old. Sticking his jump shot confidently. Driving to the hoop gracefully. When he's on his game, there isn't a more exciting player to watch.

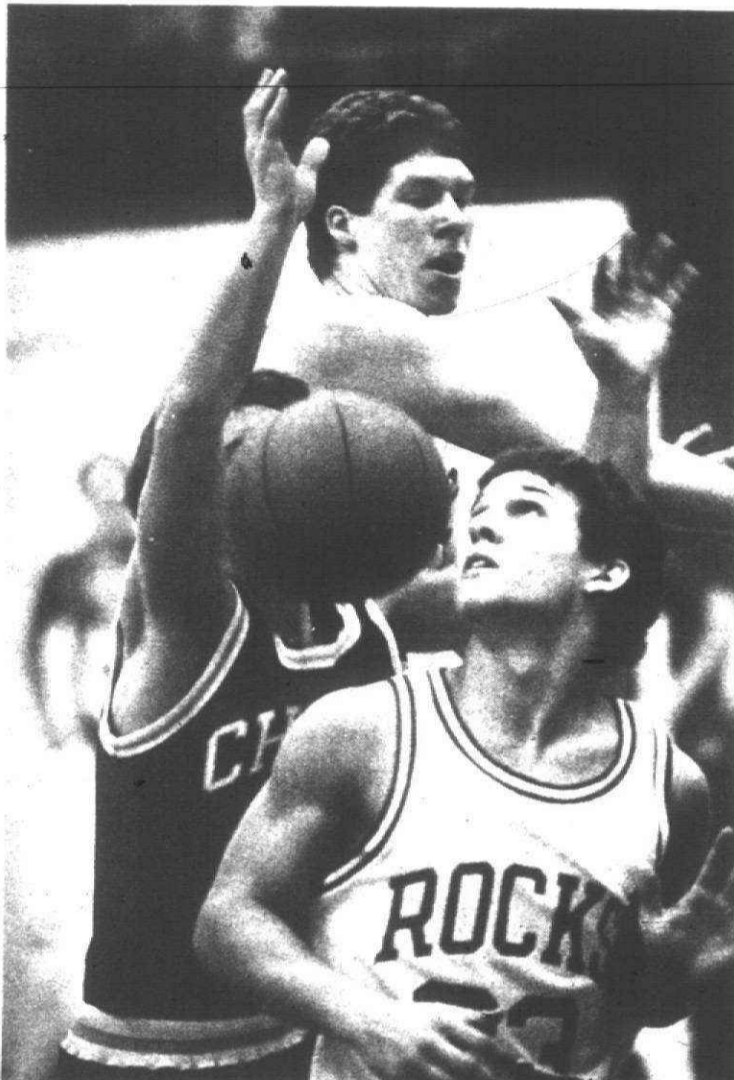

ERIC SOVINE, who plays very well in a very quiet kind of way, was en route to a layup when out of nowhere came Canton's Brent Stack. Stack is all of 6-foot tall, but he was above the rim to swat Sovine's shot into the bleachers.

Stack, I've got to tell you, is one of my favorite players. Nobody works harder in practice and nobody plays harder in the game. What he lacks in natural ability he more than makes up for in intensity and desire. As his coach, Dave Van Wagoner, said about him, "I wish I had a 100 Brent Stacks, but I wish a few of them could be 6-7."

As I scan the crowd, I notice some familiar faces. Jacque Merrifield is here wearing her Hillsdale varsity jacket. There's Rick Berberet, looking like he just walked out of GQ magazine. Gary Thomas is up in the Canton side — how the Chiefs miss his deadly outside shooting. Hey, there's Rob Willette. Only time I see him is during our Plymouth recreation basketball games — Canton could use his jump shot, too.

Where the heck is Bob Blohm. There's a lot to like about this Canton basketball team, even though they aren't winning many games. No. 1, they play with a great deal of intensity. There's no quit in them. They also play smart. Notice how Kevin Hawkins and the other smaller Chiefs always seem to be in good rebounding position? Notice how the taller Rocks aren't really beating them inside? The Chiefs are having trouble finding the basket, but they remain a very well-coached team.

THERE, TOO, is a lot to admire about Bob Brodie's team. Fred Thomann always held off judgment of his basketball teams until after 10 games. "Come see me after game 10," he would say. "Then we'll know what kind of basketball team we have."

Well, Brodie's Salem team ran hot and cold through the first 9 games, playing .500 ball. In game 10 they came together and now have a 3-game win streak going.

"I think you can judge a team at any time," said Brodie. "It just takes a while sometimes to get it going. My JV teams always started slow. It takes time to learn roles and get the rotations down. But, I don't know if I'd name game 10 as a magic number. We tried to get everything together in time for game one."

Whatever. In this case, game 10 was the turning point.

Well, it's 67-46 Salem with 3:16 left to play. The crowd is starting to file out. In a way, the game was anti-climactic to the pre-game emotions.

But it didn't matter. Canton vs. Salem is always a good time. Clap, clap, woosh!

Salem offense turns CEP rivalry to rout

By Chris McCosky staff writer

Mike White crashed to the floor heavily and came up in pain holding his left wrist. Less than a minute had elapsed in the annual Plymouth Salem-Plymouth Canton basketball clash Friday night.

When White got to the bench, Salem coach Bob Brodie made the choices very clear to his standout senior. He could either sit on the bench with an ice pack and let the wrist get stiff or get back out on the court and work the hurt out.

White opted for the latter — which was extremely bad news for Plymouth Canton. The flashy forward-guard scored 18 points, 12 in the first half, to lead the Rocks to a convincing 77-54 victory before a packed, emotional crowd at Salem.

"Just because it was Canton," that was White's explanation of his explosive performance. "They got us last year. We were pumped up extra hard for this one."

IT WAS White's best performance of the season, and it produced a positive effect on the rest of the Rocks. White drained his first 3 shots, all from long range. It was a much needed confidence boost, not only for White but for the rest of the Rocks.

The 6 straight points helped Salem jump to a 23-14 lead after a quarter and forced Canton to play catch up for the remainder of the game.

"Mike rose to the occasion tonight," Brodie said. "Mike sometimes gets caught up emotionally, because he's such an intense competitor. But, when he plays simple, just goes out and plays basketball, he's incredible."

The Rocks, meanwhile, seemed to cruise. They never lost control of the game, never allowed Canton back into contention.

"Bob Brodie did a nice job preparing his team," said Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner. "We got beat by a team that was better than us tonight. I'm not conceding that Salem is the better team. But, they played better than us tonight."

That was true in practically every phase of the game. The Rocks, by far the taller of the two teams, dominated the inside with LeSean Haygood's 16 points and 17 rebounds.

They worked the ball around the perimeter expertly. Besides White's 18 points, guards Eric Sovine and Paul Makara chipped in 16 points apiece.

And, the Rocks played a strong defensive game forcing Canton's offense far away from the basket.

"WE WANTED to force them to shoot from the perimeter," Brodie said. "And, that's pretty much what happened."

As a result, the Chiefs hit just 18 of 54 shots. Conversely, the Rocks shot well hitting 27 of 56 from the floor, 11 of 15 in the first quarter.

But don't get the idea that the Chiefs laid down and let Salem run all over them. Quite the contrary. Canton is a proud team and, in the third quarter, appeared poised to make a serious run at the Rocks.

"We just couldn't seem to get more than one basket in a row," Van Wagoner said. "We couldn't string together two or three baskets to get us over the hump."

Is Barrie Muzbeck too good? Gymnasts' talent overwhelms prep ranks

By Chris McCosky staff writer

It's great to have Barrie Muzbeck back in high school gymnastics, isn't it?

As a sophomore two years ago, Walled Lake Western's Muzbeck set the state gymnastics scene on its ear by placing first in every event at the state meet.

Last year she gave up high school gymnastics to pursue a berth on the United States Olympic team. After winning the five-state zone qualifying tournament (the first of three Olympic qualifying tournaments), Muzbeck was forced out of further competition by a stress fracture in her leg.

The flashy, explosive performer hasn't given up on her dream of becoming an Olympic champion, but Muzbeck is back performing for Walled Lake Western.

She was there Wednesday night competing against Plymouth Canton. She walked into the Canton gym with her boyfriend (Chris Jeannotte a Plymouth Canton sophomore and an outstanding gymnast in his own right). Immediately, a buzz of attention was directed toward Muzbeck.

"Where she is," "This one is she," "Oh, that's her."

HER PRESENCE affects everyone: the opposition, the fans, her teammates and the judges.

Muzbeck, though, seems unaffected by it all. She whips through her warm-ups, then through her routines. She scored 9.0 or better in all four events, head and shoulders superior than all others, and lead Western to a cinch 122.55-108 win.

Yet, this is not the same Barrie Muzbeck that brought us out of our seats two years ago. She remains an impressive talent, for sure, but because of her superior skills, much of the competitiveness is gone from her routines. She has removed most of the tougher tricks in all events.

"I guess what bothers me about her," said Canton coach John Cunningham, "is that I know how good she is. I know what she is capable of doing. She's taking so much out of her routines. I love to see her. I love to watch her perform. But, I want her to show me something."

She scored a 9.4 on her vault, yet she stumbled on her landing in both attempts and didn't attempt the Tsukahara, a difficult trick usually in her vault. The consensus around the gym was the 9.4 was an inflated evaluation of her vault.

Her uneven parallel bars routine was a smooth exercise. Within it, she demonstrated the combination of strength and grace that makes her a world-class talent. She scored a 9.25.

MUZBECK SCORED a 9.0 on balance beam. She fell once, which produced a gasp from the crowd: "I've never seen her fall before." She nearly fell two other times, costing her points each time. Obviously, the routine didn't deserve a 9.0. But, Barrie Muzbeck is Barrie Muzbeck, after all.

"I mean, this girl won the national zone meet on bars. Do you think that routine would have even qualified?" said Cunningham.

But Muzbeck's floor routine was beautiful. True, she still left out some of her tougher tricks, but the exercise was electric. She scored 9.75 and satisfied all those in attendance who came just to see her perform.

Afterward, Muzbeck talked about her effect on high school gymnastics. "Hopefully, I want to encourage others to work hard and achieve the same type of success," she said. "I'm not in this for myself. I'm in it for the team. I'd rather see the team do well."

PERHAPS THAT explains why she opts to tone down her routines. Cunningham, though, offers up another explanation.

"I don't really know why she does it, and I don't know whether I think it's good or bad. I'd have to put myself in her situation. But, perhaps she would feel like it would be rubbing it in if she did her best," he said.

That may be the answer because Muzbeck is a very unpretentious, down to earth young woman. She would prefer to be just another member of the Western team. Of course, her enormous talent makes that impossible.

"I do wish she would show me something out there," Cunningham said. "But she knows she doesn't have to. She knows she's not going to be pushed. She won't even be pushed at the state meet — even by the exceptional people at Freeland."

The Plymouth Canton gymnasts, an extremely young and inexperienced group, were mixed in their feelings toward competing against Muzbeck. "Some were in awe of her, some were embarrassed, some were angry because they felt she intimidated the judging and some weren't concerned one way or the other."

Muzbeck, meanwhile, hopes to take her team to the state high school championship next month. In May, she will return to the Farmington Gymnastics Club (where she trains) and again begin the pursuit of her ultimate goal — to become a member of the U.S. Olympic team.

For better or for worse, it is indeed great to have Barrie Muzbeck back in high school gymnastics.

Plymouth junior icers eye state championship

Jim Breach, the captain of the Plymouth Juniors hockey team, has it all in perspective.

"We have set out to achieve what no other junior team from Plymouth has done before," the young man said. "That is to take it all — league, districts, the ACHL (Adray Community Hockey League) championships, and most importantly, to win the state."

The Plymouth Juniors, sponsored by Ed's Sport Shop, took the first step last week by wrapping up its regular season undefeated, 24-0-0, an awesome accomplishment.

Overall, the club is 35-1 as it prepares for the ACHL playoffs, the districts and the Junior-C state championship.

It's a long road, but coach Mike Donnelly believes his team is up to the task.

"THE TALENT on this team is staggering," Donnelly said. "We have got where we are by a total team effort and commitment. It is our hope to continue that commitment throughout these playoffs and into state competition."

The district playoffs, a best of three series between Plymouth and the Livonia Knights, begins at 9 p.m. Tuesday at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Game two is slated for 8 p.m. Thursday and game three (if necessary) will be at 8 p.m. Sunday.

The district champ will advance to the Junior-C state championships, also at the Plymouth Cultural Center, which will take place Feb. 28-March 3.

The Plymouth team is involved in still another playoff run — the ACHL playoffs. The ACHL holds a month-long, home and home series between Plymouth, Livonia, Allen Park, Fraser and Jackson from Feb. 1 through March 5.

"We just have to take things one at a time and see where we end up," Donnelly said.

Donnelly is assisted by Sy Smith and Jim Mathias. Doug Waack is the team's general manager.

Plymouth will host Livonia at 9 p.m. Tuesday in the first round of the district playoffs.

Zion crunches Eagles

The Plymouth Christian basketball team met its match Friday night as 11-1 Troy Zion Christian whipped the Eagles 93-43.

Christian shot just 22 percent from the floor while Zion hit on 56 percent of their shots.

Lane Lambert's 10 points led Plymouth (8-5).

'Bizet's Carmen' is a feast for eyes as well as for ears

'Carmen' is beautiful! The opera, the film, the character, the actress—all beautiful to see and hear. In fact, "Bizet's Carmen," directed by Francesco Rosi, is one of the most rewarding visual experiences you will ever have.

That's pretty ironic since one usually talks about listening to the disastrous premiere of "Carmen" in 1875. Today his work is the most popular of operas and some 25 to 30 films have been based on it.

Last year Carlos Saura's dance version was a hit in Detroit with Antonio Gades as lead dancer and choreographer. Gades also choreographed Rosi's "Carmen." Jean-Luc Godard's "Carmen" is opening in New York (with most of the music by Beethoven) but it is another "Carmen."

THE STORY is a simple one with all the best ingredients: love, passion, jealousy, freedom, crime, smugglers and murder. Carmen, the free-spirited and feisty gypsy, attracts and discards men with an insouciant, happy air.

Don Jose, a soldier, deserts his post because of her and in spite of the love of Micaela, Escamillo, the torreador, also loves Carmen. When she leaves Don Jose for Escamillo, tragedy ensues.

Rosi filmed his "Carmen" in Seville, Carmona and Ronda, Spain, which in itself is unusual for opera films. So often the fixed specter/camera position of opera in a theater or sound stage movie work because film is so realistic and opera is highly synthetic.

Apparently one of Rosi's goals was to meld these two opposites and he did so admirably well.

Rosi was able to overcome the innate contradiction between opera and film by restrained camerawork. Director of photography Pasquale De Santis first fixes the camera in the opera house's best seat, except the camera is on a rail location.

This is particularly true at the opening of the arias. Then, once the scene and aria are set, slow, languorous camera movements track the lush, sensuous images of the countryside filmed, the story and the music sung.

IN THIS WAY, the proper balance between synthetic conventions of the opera and the super-realism of film is achieved. Generally the movements of the camera are very limited and slow, but that is all right considering the scenes chosen are absolutely gorgeous.

The caves of Ronda and the surrounding countryside have lush, endless vistas with a romantic depth of focus that leads the eye deep into the picture and captures the imagination.

The temporarily restored-to-19th-century Seville is, by contrast, harsh, bright and sun-baked. But even those images, particularly in the bullring, are softened by dust stirred by horse and bull hooves.

The performances are excellent. Placido Domingo is a superb Don Jose and Eugenio Ramirez is properly macho and descending as Escamillo. But the opera is a feminine tour de force as Rosi presents it.

Julia Migenes-Johnson is lovely and sensuous in her singing, acting and dancing. She is not well-known in the United States although she has had a successful career here and in Europe, including the role of Hodel in the original "Fiddler" with Zero Mostel.

Her Carmen is about as lush and passionate as anyone can handle. Faith Esham compliments Carmen's abandon with her forbearance and restraint as Micaela. She is lovely, controlled, spiritual, yet a woman in more ways than Carmen.

THE CHORUS, the tobacco factory girls, and Carmen's family in crime — Mercedes (Susan Daniel) and Frasquita (Lilian Watson) — are also extremely feminine — so much so as to cast the opera in a different light. Minimized is the masculine aspect of the bullring, even though that spectacle is there in good measure. This version creates a very graceful presentation of love and tragedy.

Trends include just 'red wine'

Let's review some recent trends in the affairs of the world of wine. What are some of the more notable tendencies that will have the greatest effect on us, the consumers? Here are some that come readily to my mind.

The use of generic terms such as burgundy, chablis and rhine is rapidly decreasing. Especially at the higher quality level, terms such as red wine, just that simple, are becoming more common. This suggests that wineries are feeling that it is no longer necessary to emulate the wines of Europe to espouse quality. This evolution has occurred in the last three or four years, truly an astonishing pace.

Paralleling this is the greater use of premium varietals in jug wines. Small and large jugs of cabernet sauvignon, zinfandel and colombar are increasingly common on the shelves, both at Kroger's and the classy wine shoppe down the street. Sebastian Vinyards started this trend toward the end of the '70s. It is now accepted practice.

The tremendous upsurge in the demand, and supply, for sparkling wines should be noted. While sales of still table wines, both domestic and imported, have flattened out nationally, sparklers sales are booming. Imports increase steadily, especially the excellent and relatively priced Spanish wines, and the California market is taking off with it.

Its variability and its adaptability, for some its charm, may now be its liability. Zinfandel has been marketed as a port, a late harvest, a fresh berry-like California wine, and more. Now it is not marketed well at all.

White German wine sales remain strong, the equivalent from California, riesling, does not. The latter has never truly established a set style, and consumers seem to go with the predictable quality of German wines and eschew the sometimes-dry, sometimes-sweet California products.

The use of the zinfandel grape to make red wine is the other near-ubiquitous trend. There are some notable exceptions to this trend but, in general, consumption of this once highly esteemed grape is way down. Perhaps because winemakers did too many different things with it during the '70s, consumers are now wary.
