Canton resident tied to sex photos of girls

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Allegedly pornographic photographs of more than 250 young girls and women were confiscated from a Canton Township home Tuesday. A 38-year-old suspect, who was in the house at the time of the raid, was not arrested.

Canton Township, Livonia and Michigan State Police officers seized cameras, tapes, movie film and more than 1,000 pictures of women and young girls, according to police.

The raid that occurred about 1:30 a.m. was the result of a six-week investigation by the state police special investigation unit in Livonia. The Livonia Police Department originally alerted state police about the Canton resident, formerly of Westland.

The Canton man is suspected of hiring female minors to pose nude for pictures.

A felony is committed when pornographic photos of models under 18 years old are produced or distributed for commercial purposes.

The production charge carries up to a 20-year prison sentence and/or a $20,000 fine.

Distribution is punishable by up to seven years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

THE INVESTIGATION is clouded, because police are unable to determine the exact age of the models in the pictures, according to State Police Sgt. Ronald Mattioli. However, some of the models look to be as young as 12 or 13 years old, say police. Some of the photographs are eight to 10 years old.

Sex acts are depicted in some of the pictures, but the ages of the models are still undetermined by police.

The suspect is a former process server who had worked in a Wayne County court. He was alone in the Canton Township house at the time of the raid, and was "cooperative" with police, Mattioli said.

"We don't have any fears that he'll skip town," he said.

Police did not make an arrest because they hadn't gathered enough evidence linking the suspect to the crime, Mattioli said. The pictures alone are insufficient evidence.

"We have to have people's voices and statements to go along with the pictures," Mattioli said.

Police will try to determine whether the Canton resident took the photos for his own use, or if they were purchased.

INVESTIGATORS ALSO will try to discern the age of the models and whether money was offered for the modeling sessions, Mattioli said. Possessing pornographic pictures is legal in Michigan, Mattioli added.

The seized pictures were developed by a commercial photo company.

"There are different things that are needed as proof," Mattioli said. "It's up to us to prove who took the pictures and under what circumstances."

The investigation began after Livonia police received a call from a parent

Telethon volunteers warm up

This weekend's Omnicom cable telethon, intended to raise money to fight substance abuse among area young people, will feature basketball dribblers, swimmers, walkers, rocking chair and hula hoop artists. The big-hearted athletes, including Debbie Salvador (left) and Paul Cooke of REACT, will endow the weekend broadcast with its "light side." "We want to start out (the telethon) with people knowing we're deadly serious. Then we'll have entertainment," say telethon coordinators. See Page 3A for more on the first-time event.

Canton mulls use of school land for park

By Diane Gale

Canton Township administrators are eyeing a 15-acre parcel of land on Proctor between Beck and Canton Center Road, owned by the Plymouth-Canton School District.

The township's interest in the farm acreage was expressed during an informal meeting between Canton Board of Trustees and the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Tuesday night. The session was called to build a better line of communication between the boards.

"As you know we are expanding that area, and we hope to continue to expand it to make it a recreational area by providing soccer, baseball and passive activities like a bike path in a very central, large community park," said Robert Padgett, trustee.

"In a sense we're coming to you, and asking what you're willing to offer," Padgett said.

COMMITTEES REPRESENTING the school and township boards will form to discuss the various purchase and lease options on the land. The committees plan to meet the week of April 15 to discuss the possibilities.

"That site is for sale, and we'd (school board) be willing to consider anything," said Roland Thomas, school board president.

A tone of cooperation between the boards was evident throughout the meeting. Trustee John Prenickzy, board trustee, stressed that the township might be willing to alter its plans

Guessing who will be police chief is shot in the dark

By Diane Gale
staff writer

It's still anyone's guess who will be Canton Township's next police chief.

Approximately 20 people from all over the country have applied for the position, according to Roderick Bartell of Pennsylvania's Bartell and Bartell consulting firm. Bartell was hired by the township for about $10,000 to assist in choosing a chief. He or she should be hired "probably about" August, he said. Lt. Larry Stewart, who has served as acting police chief since January when Jerry Cox resigned from the post, is considered by some a prime candidate for the position. However, Stewart said he is undecided about applying.

"I'd like to have the job, there's no doubt about that," Stewart said.

The 39-year-old said his decision hinges on the reaction he receives from the officers in the department.

"I want feedback from the guys," Stewart said. "I wouldn't take the job in a million years if I had to fight them."

"I'm not going to sit down and call a board meeting to ask them if they want me as chief," Stewart said. "I'll wait between the lines, wait a little while and listen before I make a decision."

NATIONALLY, POLICE CHIEFS remain in the same position an average of 2½ years, Stewart said. They leave their posts because of health problems, to transfer to different departments and for various other reasons, he said.

Bartell said his next step in selecting a police chief is to assign "some weight to the resumes." During the next three weeks, candidates will be sent "clarifying questionnaires to answer questions that aren't on their resumes so we can see if they meet our basic requirements," Bartell said.

"The primary candidates are from word of mouth from people who have heard about the job. No one from the (Canton police) department has applied yet, to my knowledge," he said.

Bartell recently completed a $16,000 study of the Canton Township Police Department citing a crisis situation.

Presently he serves as a consultant for both the township police committee, composed of three township trustees, and a steering committee made up of police officers. The two committees are working to revamp the police department and to correct problems. Bartell will be paid about $5,000 for his consulting services, according to initial estimates.

The steering committee has targeted priorities for the task forces, including staff policies, strategies for transferring to the new building next to town-

Siblings found guilty in gas station hold-up

An Ypsilanti brother and sister have been found guilty in connection with the December armed robbery of a Canton Township Speedway gas station.

William Terry Weaver, 32, and Elizabeth Weaver, 29, were convicted March 14 by Judge Joseph B. Sullivan in Wayne County Circuit Court in Detroit. Sullivan is expected to sentence the Weavers April 3. The maximum penalty for armed robbery is life in prison.

William Weaver was charged with armed robbery and possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony. The possession charge, a two-year felony, was later dropped.

Elizabeth Weaver was charged with armed robbery and possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony. The charge was lessened to armed robbery during the course of the two-day trial.

During the preliminary examination, the Speedway gas station attendant working during the holdup said Elizabeth Weaver pulled out a two-barrel blue steel handgun from a cloth bag. During the trial, however, the witness said she was mistaken. She then identified William Terry Weaver as the one who carried the gun.

THE 18-YEAR-OLD attendant told police that at about 4 a.m. Dec. 22, two people, whom she thought were men, entered the store section of the station at 5596 Lilley and began browsing through the aisles. She said William Weaver told her, "This is a robbery. Give me all of your money."

The Weavers spoke in low, calm voices. They asked her to face the wall as they left the station, she said.

The pair stole about $200 in cash and three cartons of cigarettes. The Weavers were arrested at an Ypsilanti house by Ypsilanti police, who had

Observer & Eccentric seeking area academic all-stars for 1st team

By Judith Doner Berne
staff writer

As part of the local, state and national press toward educational excellence, the Observer & Eccentric will name its first Academic All-Stars in early May.

The 12 highest achieving high school students from the communities served by the Eccentric newspapers and the 12 highest from the Observer newspaper area will be selected by a committee of the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals, co-sponsor of the O&E Academic All-Stars.

Their profiles and photographs will appear in the May 2 issue. Each will receive a certificate of recognition.

Nominating forms were mailed last week to principals of the 53 public, private and parochial high schools in school districts serving Rochester, Rochester Hills, Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Township, West Bloomfield, Troy, Southfield, Farmington and Farmington Hills, Lathrup Village, Livonia, Plymouth, Canton, Redford, Westland and Garden City. They are due Friday, March 29.

EACH PRINCIPAL will nominate two students — they may be juniors or seniors — whose combined grade point average plus national test scores rank the highest in their school.

Grade points will be determined only by academic subjects — math, English, science, social studies and foreign language. Test scores must be the PSAT test for juniors and either the SAT or ACT for seniors.

The selection committee will meet Tuesday, April 2. Selection will be based only on academic scores, except

Canton Care improves murky record

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Conditions are improving at a Canton Township nursing home which for more than eight years faced the threat of closure due to citations for severe patient care violations.

Inspection reports by the Michigan Department of Public Health show "most of the problems have shown improvement" since October 1984 when Ingham Circuit Court Judge Thomas Brown ordered the home at 43825 Michigan Avenue closed. The action came after the health department reported in August 1984 that the home "violated the residents' personal dignity."

According to the health department, patient care had rapidly deteriorated from an already poor level. Reams of health code violations against the home have been accumulating since 1976. In 1980, the department declined to renew the home's license to operate. Each time the doors of the home were ordered closed, however, appeals pending in circuit court kept them open.

CANTON CARE CENTER INC., previously Dion Memorial Nursing Home, was purchased Dec. 1, 1984, by Brian Suter, who worked for a year-and-a-half as administrator at the home.

The home has been operating under a health department management plan since then. To date, only 16 homes in the state have provided care so inadequate that a management plan was deemed necessary, according to Robert Allen, health department field services supervisor.

"The last report (on Canton Center) was made verbally, and they have con-

Wayne County Executive William Lucas will be the guest speaker for the Salvation Army 1985 Civic Dinner in Plymouth.

The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. Monday, April 1, in the Corps Community Center on S. Main between Ann Arbor Road and Joy.

Tickets at $12.50 per person are available from any member of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, at the corps center at 9451 S. Main, or by calling 453-5464.

Lucas is in his third year as Wayne County's first-ever chief executive officer.

A graduate of Manhattan College in New York, Lucas holds a law degree and has experience as a social worker, teacher and police officer in New York City, an investigator for the Civil Rights Commission, a special agent for the FBI, undersheriff and sheriff of Wayne County.

IN ADDITION to the address by Lucas, the civic dinner will include presentation of the "Others" award — given by the Salvation Army Advisory Board of Plymouth, Canton and Northville in recognition of service through the Salvation Army to people in need.

The winner last year of the "Others" award was Carl Lampton, now retired in Florida but for years owner of West Trail Nursing Home in Plymouth and an active supporter of the Salvation Army.

The dinner marks the second full year the Salvation Army has occupied its new corps facilities on S. Main. The greater space has enabled the corps to expand its schedule of programs for the needy in the community. When last year's civic dinner was held for the first time in the new headquarters, the speaker was Douglas Fraser, retired president of the UAW.

The dinner also marks completion of the first year as commanding officer of the Plymouth Corps for Lt. Larry Mazzella who succeeded Captain William Harfoot this past summer.

Advisory board members are Harold Fischer, Donald Francoeur, Roger Haslick, Fred Hill, James Jabara, Elaine Kirchgatter, Cindy Merrifield, Evon Murphy, Gene Overholt, Frank Palmer, Russell Hosington, Richard Raison, Win Schrader, William Sliger and Don Sutherland.

They're doing something about Substance abuse

Telethon kicks off at 5 p.m. Thursday

By M.B. Dillon Ward
 staff writer
 Editor's note: See related editorial on page 12A.

When 5 p.m. Friday arrives, months of planning and preparation will have come to an end for the Plymouth-Canton Community Substance Abuse Intervention Committee.

It will be time for cable TV subscribers and others to help curb substance abuse by supporting a telethon to be shown on Omnicon channels 8 and 15.

Prompting the formation of the committee and the telethon, slated for 5-11 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday, was the fact that substance abuse has reached crisis proportions among area young people. In the past year and a half, more than 80 young people from Plymouth and Canton have been sent to drug treatment centers and chemical dependency programs.

It's hoped that $40,000 can be raised to finance a weekend workshop to help up to 100 parents and professionals deal effectively with substance abusers. The seminar, to be presented by Community Intervention Inc. of Minneapolis, Minn., is scheduled for Aug. 5-9 at Centennial Educational Park.

"The figures (on substance abuse) are startling, but it is just the tip of the iceberg. Our young people, to a large degree, reflect what they see of what adults do. If we are to change their thinking, we need to work with them while they are still adolescents and have not formed substance abuse habits," say committee members. Serving on the committee are more than two dozen people from Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, Canton Chamber of Commerce, Canton Business and Professional Women, McDonald's, Omnicon, Toughlove, area businesses, agencies and service clubs.

THE TELETHON promises to be a sobering, yet star-studded, action-packed affair.

"We'll open by dedicating the telethon to kids who are no longer with us because of substance abuse, and to those who are disabled because of it," said Linda Salvador, one of the telethon coordinators who lost a nephew to drug abuse.

Emceeding segments of the telethon will be WMJC radio's Jeff Elliot, WABX's Tom Dean and Gary Cumberley of Channel 2.

Interviewees will include medical experts in the field of substance abuse. Recovering drug abusers and their parents will appear on discussion panels.

Participating in the many "thons" set for Friday and Saturday at Plymouth Salem High School and Central Middle School will be swimmers, jump ropers, basketball dribblers, bikers, walkers, joggers, rocking chair and hula hoop artists.

Viewers will be asked to call pledges into the studio by dialing 459-7321, 459-7335, 459-7331, 459-7391, or 459-7392. (Volunteers still are needed to assist Toughlove parents and high school Executive Forum and Student Council members in taking incoming calls at Omnicon in Canton. Interested persons are asked to contact Toughlove at 455-5520).

Items including limousine service for three hours, health club memberships and floor covering will be auctioned. Viewers also may bid by phone for legal services, men's blazers, satin jackets, jogging suits, beauty school classes, battery chargers and isolators, haircuts, tote bags, baked goods, bike rides, cleaning services, car washes, dinners for four and enrollment in weight loss programs.

Winning bidders will be announced at the end of each auction. The Canton Business and Professional Women have volunteered to collect pledges and bids, which should total more than $3,000.

"REACTION (to the telethon and its purpose) is all strictly positive," John Schwartz told fellow intervention committee members at a meeting Tuesday. "People are telling us that what we're doing is long overdue."

"The purpose of the communitywide effort is to make people aware that the abuse of alcohol and other drugs strikes one in 10 people in our society."

"The telethon is designed to inform people about substance abuse and to alert them to options available to combat the problem. It's dedicated to those who have not been helped," added Schwartz.

The committee is encouraged by support already pledged from various organizations. Large contributions are expected this weekend from the Canton Rotary, the Plymouth Community Fund and the Canton Chamber of Commerce. The Lehmann College of Beauty and Plymouth-Canton School of Hair Design are donating all proceeds from their recent "Care-Cut" day.

Students also have participated in the fundraising effort. Throughout the month of March, they've made donations at elementary schools and have Drunk driving is the leading cause of death for Americans under age 35. Last year, 8,000 persons age 24 and younger died in alcohol-related traffic accidents, according to Mothers Against Drunk Driving.

Recovering chemically dependent students and their parents will discuss substance abuse during the telethon.

One of every 10 of us is a potential substance abuser. The reality of that startling statistic has hit Plymouth-Canton Community Schools teachers and administrators, who have rallied the support of local leaders. The cable telethon they organized to help fight drug abuse is on tap for this weekend.

We want to hear from young people

To: Readers age 18 and under
 From: Staff writer M.B. Dillon Ward

Chicago-area young people are writing Bruce Weitz of NBC-TV's "Hill Street Blues," telling him about their problems and concerns. He asked them to last month in a Chicago Tribune article entitled, "Write Bruce, dog breath!" — Hill Street star posts his concern for youth.

As you probably know, Weitz has played detective Mick Belker on the television show for five years. He visited Chicago in February to promote a pilot substance abuse campaign organized by the Chicago-based National PTA, according to the article.

"When people find out I'm involved with the PTA, they always want to know why, since I'm not a parent and not a teacher," Weitz told the Trib. "Most of the time I answer by saying that whales are not members of Greenpeace. I respect young people. I have a feeling for young people, the future of this country is in the hands of young people. So I work for the PTA because they are involved in improving young people's lives."

"I want everyone (in the Chicago area) from 5 or 6 to 18 years old to write me and tell about the problems they're having communicating with their parents. I want them to talk about their alcohol and drug involvement or what they see going on around them with their friends. I'd like to hear whether they're influenced by their parents' drinking and drug habits or the way television and movies deal with drugs and alcohol. I want their honest feelings. And I stress honest." The PTA plans to compile the most common comments in a brochure to be distributed to parents. "Maybe parents will then find it easier to understand and open up to their children and not deny the problem exists," Weitz said. "I'm excited about the campaign. If it's successful, we're hoping to expand it nationwide."

WE THINK Weitz is on to something. If Chicago can do it, why not Canton and Plymouth? The difficulty parents and young people have communicating appears to be one of the most pressing problems they face. Many of you probably understand Weitz when he says that "for whatever reasons, I couldn't trust my parents in terms of bringing intimate problems to them. And I don't think they had the respect for me that they should have had. They felt I was too young to deserve it." We would like you to write us about your feelings regarding alcohol, drugs and your relationships with parents and friends. Weitz doesn't care if his letters are signed, and neither do we. Just give us your age.

We don't plan to publish a brochure. But what we will do is print your letters in an upcoming issue. To us, a community newspaper seems like a pretty good vehicle for helping young people and their parents see eye-to-eye — especially when it comes to the subject of substance abuse. Write us soon at 489 S. Main, Plymouth, 48170. If you'd like, we'd be happy to send a copy of your letter along to Mick Belker.

and simply develop a soccer field on the site if the school district planned to use the area to build a school.

Padgett said, "The question in our minds is: What are your long-term goals?"

Details on the school board's plans are expected at the April meeting.

School Superintendent John M. Hoben gave the trustees a list of other salable parcels owned by the school district.

They include 9.27 acres on the south-west corner of Warren and Haggerty; 17.95 acres on the north side of Maiben between Canton Center and Beck; 14.89 acres west of Lilley on the south side of Joy east of Hulsing Elementary School.

9.58 acres on the south side of Barchester between Bunker Hill and Willow Creek, west of Lilley, south of Warren and 26.86 acres on the south side of Joy between Beck and Ridge west of Basswood Court.

"We would like to unload some of these properties to free up some money that can be used in the schools now," Thomas said.

SCHOOL AND TOWNSHIP board members asked how they might help each other in day-to-day operations.

"In what ways can we provide more services to you with what we have?" Hoben asked.

The response came from Padgett. "Our relationship, I think is a very good one. We came here to ask in what ways we can service you more."

A longtime topic of debate between the school and township boards has concerned sidewalk construction in areas travelled by school children. The pavement projects require township board approval.

Padgett asked the school board to prepare a list of sites in the greatest need of sidewalks, and to present the information at the April meeting.

In case of a numerical tie. Then, academic honors and leadership positions will be considered.

Principals serving on the committee are the Rev. Committee chairman is Dr. Robert Schramke, Redford Union High School.

"After all, it's the function of our schools to educate our youth. Those students who work hard to excel deserve to be honored in their communities."

This year, Schramke came to the Observer-Eccentric Newspapers with a similar plan. "You do a super job with athletics," he said. "Why not academics?" As a result the Observer/Eccentric is the first group of community newspapers to honor area scholars, Schramke said.

State watching nursing home to make progress there," Allen said.

The management plan calls for unannounced visits by health department inspectors for six months to ensure the facility corrects health code violations.

Specific improvements that must be made include, building a second floor nursing station and a holding room for dirty beds from four separate, crowded rooms by providing an additional room; adhering to rehabilitation programs, and ensuring that all staff members are trained for assigned duty, according to the health department.

Other necessary changes include the proper administering of therapeutic diets; restricting application of physical restraints; providing sufficient closet space; limiting fecal and urine odors; providing covers for water pitchers; offering bedside stands and other furnishings; fixing the exhaust fan, kitchen freezers and refrigeration system, as well as cleaning the kitchen ceiling.

Inspectors are to keep records of the facility's progress or lack of progress during that time.

On Feb. 15, a registered dietician visited Canton Care Center.

The dietician also was to investigate allegations from an anonymous caller who in February stated that the home had "no heat, no hot water, no back door and uncaring personnel," according to Nadine Paul, health department licensing officer.

None of the allegations could be substantiated by the dietician.

At the time of the dietician's inspection, housekeepers were cleaning, and all water pitchers had covers.

The dietician said repairs had been made to the refrigerator, however the freezer still needs maintenance and the "kitchen ceiling remains soiled."

The dietician was unable to comment on all the areas cited in the management plan. The summary of her report said, "Although most of the problem areas have showed improvement, continued monitoring is necessary to help the facility determine consistent approaches to patient care and their environment."

Bartlett said he is amazed at the amount of work the steering committee has accomplished since it organized in late January.

"They're (police officers) doing extremely well, and they are working at a much faster pace than I anticipated," Bartlett said. "They are about three months ahead of what I expected, and they have put in a lot of time and energy."

Cost of MS is high for individual, society

Every week nearly 200 people are told they have multiple sclerosis (MS), a disease whose cause is still unknown, and which seems to strike young adults most often. The disease affects at least 250,000 Americans. It also affects society as a whole in terms of costs needed for research and treatment, and the loss of productive manpower in many industries.

Multiple sclerosis is a chronic, often disabling disease that affects the brain and the spinal cord. When a person has MS, the covering — myelin — that protects the nerves in the brain and spinal cord is affected so that messages cannot always get through. Myelin protects the nerve fibers of the brain and spinal cord in the same way that insulation protects electrical wires. When this sheathing is destroyed, the nerve impulses are interrupted and distorted, resulting in tingling sensations, numbness, slurred speech, double vision, muscle weakness, poor coordination and perhaps even paralysis

Ex-nurse is cool in Wayne County hot spot

By Kathy Parrish
staff writer

Vernice Davis-Anthony has held a lot of public health jobs. But all have had one thing in common.

"I'm always in places where something new has to be done," said the assistant county executive for Health and Community Services.

There's something new to make happen.

Coming to Wayne County two years ago from the Michigan Department of Public Health, the Detroit native was brought aboard to make changes.

HER FIRST tasks were working out the controversial closing of Wayne County General Hospital in Westland and setting up a Patient Care Management Program enabling indigents to get free care at 14 area hospitals.

"I just walked into a fire," recalled Davis-Anthony, who took the job because it offered another chance to chart new directions.

"Sometimes when you're trying to direct change, things and people are very resistant. Sometimes you've just got to pull the rug out, be forceful."

THE ONLY WOMAN among Wayne County Executive William Lucas' five chief assistants, Davis-Anthony is one of only two operating department heads.

Her biggest responsibility is overseeing public health provided by the county's eight health centers and field nurses. Also included are services like air pollution and lead poisoning control, hypertension screening in industry and environmental health.

Dennis Nystrom, Lucas' chief of staff, praises her "energy level and finesse with people. She seeks amicable and pleasant solutions to problems."

A former field nurse, she has a goal of helping people better understand the role of public health.

"It's like a silent helper — people out there testing the air and immunizing thousands of babies," said Davis-Anthony, who stresses "wellness instead of sickness."

There's a basic blanket or protection public health provides to the community just by being there.

HER DUTIES also include the Patient Care Management System, Detroit Wayne County Community Mental Health board, the Office on Aging, Wayne County Youth Home, Wayne County Cooperative Extension, the Medical Examiners' Office and the Office of Veterans Affairs.

That heavy administrative load, which carries with it a $100-million

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Vernice Davis-Anthony, assistant county executive for health and community services, in her office. She worked out the details of closing Wayne County General Hospital and assuring indigent care for county residents.

yearly budget, is a far cry from her first public health job 15 years ago. After graduating from Wayne State University as a registered nurse in 1970, she left a staff nurse job at Children's Hospital to become a Detroit field nurse.

It was a chance for the Pennsylvania native to become more independent and "personally make more difference."

Working in southwest Detroit with Latinos and Cass Corridor poor, she ran the gamut from prenatal health to nursing home evaluations.

"The whole key to the public health field work is to help people find solutions to their problems," said Davis-Anthony, who found herself working as a "community advocate" as well as a health educator.

"You never knew what you were walking into."

DURING EIGHT years with the Detroit Health Department, she moved up to supervisor and then community health services administrator.

Then she took a leave of absence to earn her master's in public health at the University of Michigan.

Working with 60 public health nurses, she added a program to work with day care centers, an adolescent clinic and a senior citizen screening program.

When the state passed the new public health code in 1978, she was chosen by the Michigan Department of Public Health to become chief of the Office of Policy Development and Evaluation. One of her projects was to study ways of computerizing public health data.

Instead of a statewide computer system — which many local health departments opposed — it was decided to let each county retain its own data. But local departments would gather standard information that would be available to the state.

TIERED OF commuting to Lansing, the mother of three decided to look for a new job at just the time that the Wayne County Executive Office was formed.

Although she didn't even know Lucas, Davis-Anthony sent in a resume and got the difficult job of managing the county's public health.

"I've always loved Detroit and Wayne County," said the 44-year-old. "I was glad to come home and be participating in a very dynamic changing area which needed new directions."

Finding a county in debt — largely because of health care expenses — the assistant county executive tackled the Wayne County Hospital negotiations.

She said the hospital was creating a deficit of $18 million yearly, but only 6 to 10 percent of its patients were indigents. "We had to unload the county of the burden," she said firmly.

Now Westland Medical, the facility is privately operated and contracts with the county to take in indigents.

NEGOTIATING THE Patient Care Management System, Davis-Anthony capped the program, expected to cost $54 million in 1984, at $32 million.

Now instead of just Receiving and Wayne County General hospitals, poor people can get care at 14 hospitals throughout the area. "If you can get people out of more expensive facility

"Sometimes when you're trying to direct change, things and people are very resistant. Sometimes you've just got to pull the rug out, be forceful."

— Vernice Davis-Anthony
assistant county executive for health services

Nystrom said, "you don't deny them services, and you make better use of your scarce dollars."

Along with the transitions in the county hospital and indigent care, she has expanded the field nurse program and added services at some of the health centers.

Areas which rely more on the health centers — Inkster, Ecorse, southeast Dearborn and Highland Park — are being beefed up. Primary care for adults is being added this spring in Taylor, and prenatal care will be at all locations.

With the help of Evelyn Lucas, the executive's wife, her department is launching a major attack on infant mortality.

WHILE CLOSING Wayne County General alleviated some of the public health deficit, Davis-Anthony doesn't see the end of the problem.

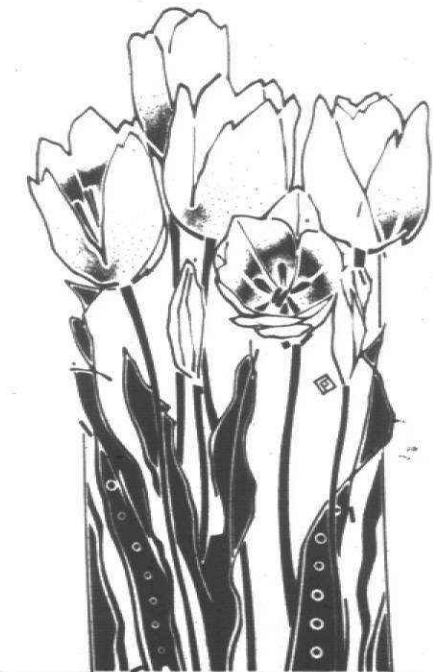

So she's looking to tighter efficiency and involvement of the private sector wherever possible.

The administrator pointed to the county contract with Westland Medical as an example of "networking and partnership."

"We don't have to own the hospital," she said, adding that public health should look to "other more creative options to accomplish our goals."

"We should focus on things we do well — mass immunizations, community disease control and field work."

Winners receive $500 for their first year at the community college and are eligible for a second-year grant if they complete 26 credit hours with at least a 2.5 grade point average.

Applications and information are available from the college financial aid office at 591-6400, Ext. 350.

Cold hands...

It's normal for your external body temperature to vary by as much as eight degrees. Typically, it's your hands and feet that are colder since they are the farthest from your heart. A woman's feet average a temperature of about 86 degrees, whereas her torso area is approximately 94 degrees.

Kevin Shoening, a fourth grader at Eriksson School, studies writing style with DeWitt.

Poet Jim DeWitt works with Eriksson Elementary School fourth graders during his visit there.

Eriksson students meet a real poet

STUDENTS AND teachers at Eriksson Elementary School kept some exclusive company last week.

Jim DeWitt, an accomplished Michigan poet and short story writer, was the school's "Author in Residence" March 7-13. The widely published poet and "master teacher" offered students the opportunity to develop skills in creative writing, reporting, and poetry and fiction writing.

From all accounts, the special program drew rave reviews from third, fourth and fifth graders. "It was a very successful project," said Ron South, Eriksson principal. "It was received very nicely by students. They had good experiences with it."

Moms and dads got in on it too, said South, at a "Meet the Authors Night" Wednesday. Writing samples displayed on blackboards drew "quite a positive" response from parents. Sponsored by the Michigan Council of the Arts and Eriksson, the program was the idea of fifth-grade teacher Mary Uhl. Thanks to Uhl, Eriksson was among the few schools to receive the writing grant, said teacher Jeffrey Fordell.

"Core" groups of two students per classroom worked with DeWitt setting up a "kid-oriented writing and editing center and publishing office" replete with typewriters and dictionaries, said Fordell. They also produced a creative writing magazine.

An "Honorary Irish Poet," DeWitt has written nine collections of poems and is listed in the Poetry Society of Michigan's "Who's Who of Michigan Poets."

Shana Pando, fourth grade student at Eriksson School, sinks her teeth into writing.

Jim DeWitt, Michigan author of poetry and short stories, shares the excitement of writing with students during the Eriksson School "Author in Residence" program.

Team backs swim coach

To the editor:

(Following is an open letter to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.)

We understand Coach Olson and his family are experiencing a problem with the student selection procedure at the high school. We only know of this problem from the articles we have read in the newspapers. Coach Olson does not discuss his personal problems with us, nor has he ever asked anything from us but to give our best efforts for the team.

Although Coach Olson has asked little for himself, he has given all of us something special that we will carry with us for the rest of our lives. Winning or losing, he has helped us develop self-confidence, responsibility, pride, humility, tolerance, sportsmanship, and respect for ourselves, our teammates, and our opponents.

We think Olson is one of the most dedicated and highly respected coaches Plymouth-Canton has or ever will have. Do we think he deserves special treatment? Well, he has given special treatment to hundreds of boys and girls who have gone through our schools. If it takes special treatment to solve his problem, then no one is more deserving.

Random selection may be a problem for many families in our community. If that is the case, our school system needs to address that problem. However, it may take months or years before a satisfactory solution is found. In the meantime, please let Coach Olson know how much our community appreciates his years of dedication. Please understand the dilemma his family is faced with, and vote in a way that will allow him to remain dedicated as a coach and as a father.

1984-85 Plymouth Salem Swim Teams

CEP staff deserve choice

To the editor:

Susan Hone's letter in the March 17th newspaper sounds like it's written by a person who is considering her own little problem with her "baby" of the family. Frankly, I am very happy Plymouth-Canton has random selection. It's the best answer to a population growth and shift problem.

I believe staff should have a choice as to which school they want their own children to attend. It's merely a benefit of the job. Retail people get employee discounts, salesmen get the use of a company car, teachers get to choose whether or not their child is in the same building. Teachers do a great service for our children and deserve any benefits they can get.

Handling an emergency

Some Plymouth-Canton elementary pupils will get a lesson on how to reach an operator in an emergency from AT&T Communications. Operators from the Operator Service Center on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth will host tours for the grade school children. The tours are part of a program initiated by the operators called "Operation Reach Out."

During the tours, the operators will teach the children how to dial "0" in an emergency situation, will take them on a tour of the operator office, and will let them play operator in the training room. The operators will stress the importance of staying calm during an emergency and will tell the children what information to give the operator. The tours will take place at the center at 1316 Ann Arbor Road between Sheldon and Main. The first tour scheduled for today will involve some 26 children from Fiegel Elementary School. Then on Wednesday, April 3, children from Our Lady of Good Counsel in Plymouth will be participants. Students from Bird Elementary also will tour the center April 18, 25.

Operation Reach Out is sponsored by AT&T Communications, the AT&T entity responsible for long-distance services.

ONE OF THE biggest St. Patrick's Day celebrations around here was Pat Marshall's 50th birthday party. Pat's husband, John Marshall, and their son, Johnny, planned the surprise that turned out to be a two-day event for some of the guests.

The Marshalls moved from Ohio to Plymouth 12 years ago, so many of their old friends came up for Pat's party. John had a hospitality room at the Mayflower Hotel complete with maps and brochures of Plymouth for the visitors. The party Saturday evening was in the Plymouth Cultural Center and on Sunday, there were guided tours of the community for the out-of-towners.

John and Johnny had decorated the ballroom with hundreds of green and white balloons. There were balloons on the walls and balloons and streamers attached to the back of each chair. Pots of shamrocks decorated the tables. Lynn Lyon, one of the local guests, said she never had seen the big room at the Cultural Center so beautifully decorated.

John had assembled photographs from each year of Pat's life and these were displayed, each mounted on a green shamrock.

The Cosy Cafe catered the dinner for 150 guests and the waitresses joined the party after the dinner. Pat works at the Cosy.

There were proclamations, one from Mayor Dave Pugh of Plymouth and another from the mayor of Lake Havasu City, Ariz., the city that has the reconstructed London Bridge. Pat, a stalwart Ohio State fan, received an autographed picture of Woody Hayes and also one of Bo Schembechler. There were poems and blessings and a solo by Johnny.

Pat thought she and John were on their way to Ohio for her March 17 birthday when they left their home on Nantucket Saturday evening. She was going to finish hemming her skirt during the drive. John suddenly remembered he had promised a friend he'd check out a caterer who was putting on a dinner at the Cultural Center. That was how he delivered Pat to her surprise party.

GOOD NEWS for those who always have difficulty finding a ticket for the Lake Pointe Garden Club's salad luncheon: There are 30 tickets available!

The 17th annual spring salad luncheon will be Saturday, March 30 in the cafeteria of Plymouth Canton High School. Guests have their choice of 120 salads prepared by the garden clubbers — meat, fish, fruit, vegetable, molded, tossed. You can't believe the spread until you've seen it.

Barb Schendel gave two telephone numbers to call for the tickets, 420-0461 and 453-3905. She added that there will be a crafts booth, prizes, and entertainment by the Centennial Educational Park Swing Ensemble.

The salad luncheon is a fundraiser for the Lake Pointe branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association. Proceeds from the event fund high school scholarships, a week at Michigan State University for rural women, and donations to school libraries, local 4-H clubs, the Detroit Zoological Society, nature centers and a conservation program at the Plymouth high schools.

TWO LOCAL residents have received appointments to the Cleary College Board of Trustees. Board president, Mark Valente Jr. of Grosse Pointe, named John T. Lynch and Joseph H. West to the board.

John, a Plymouth Township resident, is divisional director for public relations for the Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors. A University of Detroit graduate, he has spent his entire professional career with Hydra-Matic. He is a member of the board of directors of the Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce and Junior Achievement of Southeastern Michigan. He is a member and past president of the Ypsilanti Chamber of Commerce and received its distinguished service award in 1976. John also serves on the Cleary College President's Advisory Council and

The people gather early on Fridays for their hot dinners. Only a very few of the 600 diners are women. The OPEN sign at the back of the room designates the clothing depot is ready for business.

Dinner's at 8:30 (a.m.) in inner city

By Elinor Graham
staff writer

Serving a full-course dinner to 600 inner-city derelicts is an unusual experience for the average suburbanite — especially at 9 a.m. on a Friday. But for a small group of people from First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, the experience has become almost routine.

On the third and fourth Fridays of each month, it is their responsibility to help out at old Fort Street Presbyterian Church in downtown Detroit. The Fort Street church started its Open Door program in 1967 and has been feeding and clothing the needy ever since.

Karen Karam of the Plymouth church maintains the list of volunteers and their schedules. It's not a long list, but it's a dependable one. Sue Brennan, who is in charge of the Open Door, says it's the only suburban church they can count on.

"Interest is only sporadic in the other suburban churches," she said.

BRENNAN SAID, "These volunteers are special. It takes something to stand in there with the homeless, to shake a dirty hand and not break away. They are friendly, they want to place a hand on your shoulder when they talk."

The Plymouth volunteer list includes Karam, Carol Dodge, Betty Hees, Bill and Thelma Stokes, Lila West, Irene Truesdell, Bonnie Myhrum, Mary Simmons, Mary Spear, Ken Spear, Penny Nowicki, Betty Webber, Bob Webber and Gladys Stokes.

Brennan says they are special. Karam said she has never had anyone who didn't want to go back. "It's such a worthy experience, it humbles you and makes you thankful for everything you've got."

She said she's seen a few fights break out in the three years since First United became involved in the program.

"The people like to be smiled at, to be asked how they are, how they are doing. They are polite and they have dignity. And there are the characters — one who claims to be governor of Michigan. He's dressed up like Captain Bob-lo and is always soliciting votes," said Karam.

IF YOU'RE GOING to serve at Fort Street, you get an early start. You leave Plymouth early because the Friday morning diners are waiting in line before 8:30 a.m.

Those who sleep in a flophouse have to move out by 8 a.m. and they can't get back in until 3:30 p.m. They are ready for a full-course dinner. It may be the only meal of the day. Some take advantage of the shower facilities at the church. Some find a new shirt, jacket or a pair of pants.

Sue Brennan said, "We feed 600 and clothe about 100 men each Friday. The clothing is donated, but trousers are an increasing problem. The clothing comes from the more affluent and affluent people have expanding waistlines. We have lots of size 36 and up. But our clients are thin. We need 30 and 32-inch waistlines."

BRENNAN ESTIMATES a third of the people come from "the revolving door of Northville." She was referring to the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

Another third, she said, are alcoholics. "They're professional people, white collar executives and blue collar skilled labor. They try from time to time to straighten out, but they never seem to make it."

"About 20 percent are revolving, new faces from week to week then disappear. Some seem to go south for the winter, we always have an increase in the summer. It's seasonal. Of course, we lose the elderly in winter who can't get out in the cold weather."

Brennan said she believes the number of homeless in Detroit could be as high as 25,000.

"WE DON'T SEE many of 'new poor' down here, the ones who were laid off from automotive jobs."

"We have the young blacks, the unemployed who haven't had a chance yet to know which way they will go, and the unemployable," Brennan said as she was considering who made up the other 30 percent of people who came to dinner Friday morning.

The people pick up their hot meals and utensils from a serving line — meat, potatoes, roll, vegetables and dessert.

The volunteers serve the coffee. They wear white bus-boy jackets which Brennan says are a good idea.

"The people aren't shy about putting up a hand and saying, 'More coffee over here,' to someone in uniform," Brennan said. "They wouldn't feel the same way about a well-dressed volunteer."

She added that they had a big turnout for the corned beef and cabbage dinner the Friday before St. Patrick's Day.

BOB WEBBER noted that he had a request for three creams and seven sugars with one of the cups of coffee he poured.

He also mentioned the politeness of the people, the thank-yous for the coffee and their efforts to straighten up the room after the meal.

Webber took his camera along to take some pictures for the Observer. He told the people that if they didn't want to be photographed to just wave him off and he would respect their wishes. No one waved him off and he had one request for a posed shot.

Brennan believes Fort Street Presbyterian serves the best meal in town. The Open Door program, both the food and the clothing, is supported by donations. She credits Dr. Robert Crilley, pastor at Fort Street, with holding it all together.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE the tragedy of substance abuse.

This is what the Substance Abuse Telethon is all about. It is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23, on Omnivision Cable Channels 8 and 15.

Victims of the tragedy are the parents, who don't know where their children are for hours, days, weeks at a time; the kids, who don't know where they are themselves, for hours, days, and weeks at a time; the siblings, who can't seem to do anything in, or out of, school, unable to get their minds off their missing brother or sister.

From grandparents, aunts, uncles right on down through friends and neighbors, the list is endless. So many are hurt by each and every individual lost to drugs or alcohol.

We, as a community, have a plan to help.

During the telethon, many of our community leaders and terrific volunteers, are joining forces to raise money to educate key personnel in our area to identify and help the substance abuser. Good people, that care, are giving their time. People like Jeff Elliott of WMJC, Tom Dean of WCIS, Linda Salvador and Bob Card of McDonalds, all from Canton.

Dick Egli and Nick Cooper of Plymouth-Canton schools and kids from all over Canton, Northville and Plymouth will be joining in. Kids will be participating in swim-a-thons, jog-a-thons, bike-a-thons, whatever-a-thons, to raise money to sponsor the training sessions.

We will have former drug abusers to answer questions, items to be auctioned. Plymouth-Canton Beauty College will offer haircuts with funds to be donated, compliments of Sara Berry and all the students there.

Girl Scouts seeking day camp volunteers

The area Girl Scout association needs volunteers for its major summer project — day camps at Maybury State Park.

"Maybury Magic Kingdom" is the theme for this year's sessions in the park. The Scouts, Brownies through Seniors, will gather in the woods June 24-29 and Aug. 5-9. Because of its popularity, day camp was expanded to two sessions to accommodate all the Plymouth, Canton and Northville Scouts who registered.

Volunteers are needed for several day camp positions — unit coordinator, first aider, program director, unit leaders and assistant unit leaders.

The unit coordinator works to recruit the staff and plan daily programs. Requirements are camping skills, supervisory skills, and the ability to delegate authority.

FIRST AIDER must be an LPN or an RN with a current American Red Cross First Aider certificate. She must enjoy working with the girls.

The first aider is responsible for the over-all health and safety of the campers.

The program director must be creative, imaginative and energetic. She will develop all camp activities surrounding and building on the theme, "Maybury Magic Kingdom." She will work with the craft chairman, camp crafter and resource people.

The unit leaders and assistant unit leaders must be able to work with young people in planning and carrying out projects. They must have authority and accountability.

For more information call Holly, 420-0773, or Bridget, 981-4672.

CITY OF PLYMOUTH MICHIGAN

ORDINANCE NO. 85-5

SECTION 1. CHAPTER 103, "REGULATIONS OF DISH-TYPE SATELLITE SIGNAL-RECEIVING ANTENNAS," OF TITLE VIII, OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH IS HEREBY ADDED TO READ AS FOLLOWS:

PREAMBLE The City Commission is aware that "dish type" antennas are becoming more available for use to receive satellite radio, communications, data transmission, and television signals and is, therefore, desirous to permit the use of said dishes by property owners within the City provided that said dishes comply with reasonable regulations to protect the rights of other property owners and to protect the health, safety and welfare of all residents of the City of Plymouth.

- DEFINITIONS
1. Dish-Type Satellite Signal-Receiving Antennas: A signal receiving device the purpose of which is to receive radio, communications, television, data transmission or other signals from a satellite or satellites in earth orbit. Considered a structure, thus subject to all ordinances relating to structures.
 2. Earth Station or Ground Station: A signal receiving device the purpose of which is to receive radio, communications, television, data transmission or other signals from a satellite or satellites in earth orbit. Considered a structure, thus subject to all ordinances relating to structures.
 3. Low Noise Amplified (LNA): A signal amplifying device situated within the earth station; the purpose of which is to magnify the electronic signals received and transfer them through the coaxial cable to the receiver.
 4. Receiver: A television set, radio, communication device or data input device that utilizes the signals from the earth station.
 5. Dish: That part of the earth station shaped like a saucer or dish.

PERMIT REQUIREMENTS

No person, firm, partnership, corporation, trust or other legal entity shall construct an earth station without a permit, nor shall construction commence before a permit is issued in accordance with Section 8.01 of Chapter 98.

- APPLICATION FOR PERMIT
- The owner, or occupant with written permission from the owner, of any residential, commercial, or industrial facility within the City of Plymouth, Michigan, who desires to construct an earth station on land premises or land parcel, shall first obtain a permit to do so from the City of Plymouth. Only one (1) permit for an earth station shall be granted for each main structure or planned grouping of such structures.
- The application for a permit to install an earth station shall include:
- a. A plot plan showing the proposed location of the earth station.
 - b. A site plan showing not only the building locations of the land parcel involved, but also building locations of properties on either side of the subject land parcel, plus the building or buildings directly across the street.
 - c. Sketches or pictures of the proposed earth station that would depict the view from the adjacent properties.
 - d. Construction plans and specifications, plus a structural engineering analysis prepared and submitted by a professional engineer registered in the State of Michigan. At the sole discretion of the City Engineer, the requirement to have these plans certified by a professional engineer can be waived.
 - e. A statement that the equipment installed will meet all FCC requirements applicable to noise and spurious emissions.
 - f. A statement that the installation will comply with all applicable building and electrical codes.

- INSTALLATION REQUIREMENTS
1. Ground Mounted:
 - a. Any such structure shall be located in a rear yard. Exceptions may be made in certain commercial or industrial locations if approved by the Planning Commission upon review of the site plan.
 - b. The outside extremity of the earth station shall be no closer than three (3) feet from any property line.
 - c. The earth station shall be observed from the view of adjacent property owners or public rights-of-way by buildings, screen wall, fence, berm, evergreen plantings or any combination thereof. Such screening devices shall be at least eighty (80%) percent obscuring for at least the first six (6) feet above grade and also afford as great a degree of obscuring above the six (6) feet as practical.
 - d. The dish antenna portion of the earth station shall not exceed twelve (12) feet in diameter and no portion of the earth station shall be capable of exceeding a height of fifteen (15) feet above grade when installed and operating.
 - e. The earth station shall be designed to withstand a wind force of not less than seventy-five (75) miles per hour.
 2. Roof-Mounted:
 - a. Earth stations shall be mounted directly upon the roof of a primary or accessory structure, as defined in the Building Code.
 - b. The dish portion of such an antenna shall not exceed three (3) feet in diameter in the R-1 Single-Family and RT-1 Two-Family Zoning Districts, nor more than twelve (12) feet in the RM-1 or RM-2 Multiple-Family Zoning Districts, the B-1, B-2 and B-3 Commercial Zoning Districts and the I-1 Industrial Zoning Districts.
 - c. No portion of any such earth station shall extend more than four (4) feet above the highest point of a roof in the R-1 or RT-1 Zoning Districts, nor more than thirteen (13) feet above the highest point of a roof in the RM-1 or RM-2 Zoning Districts, the B-1, B-2, B-3 and I-1 and I-2 Zoning Districts.
 - d. An earth station shall be designed to withstand the applicable wind force as specified in the BOCA Building Code for structures without any supporting guide wires.

PENALTY

Whoever violates any of the provisions of Chapter 103 of Title VIII of the Code of the City of Plymouth, shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars ($500.00). A separate violation shall be deemed to have been committed each day during or on which a violation occurs, or continues to occur.

APPEALS

Appeals from decisions of the City Engineer shall be made to the Zoning Board of Appeals as provided by the Codified Ordinances of the City of Plymouth, Michigan.

SECTION 2. This ordinance shall become operative and effective on the 22nd day of March, 1985.

Made, passed and adopted by the City Commission of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, this 18th day of March, 1985.

C.J. Risak

Finally, Payne to get pro debut

NEARLY EIGHT months ago, Craig Payne was embroiled in the biggest fight of his boxing career. He chased Tyrell Biggs around the ring, at times swinging wildly and lunging clumsily, in his effort to dethrone the No. 1 amateur heavyweight in the U.S.

Payne failed. Biggs won. The victory earned Biggs a trip to the Olympic Games and a shot at a gold medal.

Payne did not come away empty-handed. He had beaten Biggs once in the final trial for a berth on the U.S. team. The second victory needed to unseat Biggs never materialized, but Payne's aggressiveness caught the eye of Eddie Futch, the trainer of one Larry Holmes, the pro heavyweight champ.

Payne decided to chuck his amateur status and turn pro. He would train under Futch and his amateur managers from Livonia, Paul Soucy and Dick Quinton.

THAT WAS in August. Tonight, Payne's dream of becoming a professional heavyweight boxer will be realized.

It's been a rugged trail since that nationally televised battle with Biggs. It always is for the Olympic Trial loser. Payne has been saddled with management problems, with the Vegas and Livonia interests squabbling over who should handle what.

Two months ago, Payne lamented, "My career is at a standstill. Everything's all screwed up. I've got no fights planned right now."

The scenario changed rapidly. Promoter Bill Kozerski of Detroit-based Gold Circle Productions entered the picture, offering Payne a chance. He grabbed it.

THE MANAGEMENT problems still aren't solved. But Payne's career is at least off the ground floor.

Craig Payne

pro. I cover more than Livonia. I cover the whole world."

That's a big job. But Payne feels he's ready for the first step.

Tonight he'll face a veteran of six pro bouts: Mike Evans of Chicago, who has won 3, lost 2 and tied 1. Payne knows what to expect.

"You can expect him to come out and give me a boxing lesson," he said. "At least he'll try to. He's a boxer."

PAYNE HAS seen Evans fight once. He has studied film of Evans. And he believes, with inherent bravado, that he is well prepared to handle his initial pro boxing challenge.

"I'm not underestimating him," Payne said. "I'm going out there like I'm the heavyweight champ of the world. He won't be as up as I will be for this fight."

There's a lot at stake for the 23-year-old. For the first time, he'll be going 6 rounds instead of 3, the length of amateur bouts. And he'll be going against a boxer — not a puncher — who has gone that distance before.

"I want to make sure I've got enough stamina to go the distance, if it should go that far," said the ever-confident Payne.

It took this fight for Payne to get back what he called "the eye of the tiger," a phrase coined in the last of the "Rocky" fight movies.

"I guess this fight coming through kind of inspired me," he said.

WITH PAYNE, inspiration is important. He's an emotional athlete who needs to set goals, to have aspirations.

His strength, he said, has increased. His left hook and jab are both improved, but, he added, the biggest difference for him is "my right hand is much sharper. I always had it, it was just a matter of getting it tuned in. I'm throwing punches harder, crisper."

Payne's been training with James Broad, another Futch fighter and the No. 6 heavyweight contender. That's hastened his improvement.

But no training can substitute for ring experience. How good is Craig Payne? How good can he be?

Both are legitimate questions. At least partial answers can be expected tonight.

And, should Payne succeed, plans are already in motion for another bout in Las Vegas April 11. Who will control Payne's fate by then remains to be seen.

But it would be a disgrace if his future was further damaged by quarreling factions outside the ring.

A laurel for the No. 1 Rock

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

HIS VOICE is gruff and will amplify at the slightest irritation. He has a mean, intimidating look about him, especially during football season. He stalks the sidelines during a game like an impatient father, barking a steady stream of instructions to both his players on the field and coaches in the press box. He's been known to rip his headphones off his head and toss them disgustedly to the ground. He has given some of the most frighteningly unprintable on-field lectures ever heard.

Tom Moshimer is every bit the hard-nosed, tyrannical football coach his image suggests. He not only earns the respect from his players and coaches, dammit, he commands it.

But there's another side to the ultra-successful Plymouth Salem football coach. Behind the crusty exterior is a deep-seated passion. Moshimer won't often show this side, but it's what separates him from the million other hard-nosed, tyrannical football coaches.

Moshimer's passion can be seen only in glimpses. You can sometimes catch a hint of it through his eyes when he reminisces about some of the young men he's coached.

"YOU KNOW, it's tough when you start mentioning names because you're always bound to leave somebody out. But I've worked with some great kids," Moshimer said. It's at this point his eyes take on a more glassy look.

"Players like Rich Hewlett, both Dillons (Tim and Paul), Doug and Scott Agnew, Ron Egloff, Steve Robb, Jeff Horton, Bob Thornbladh, Bob Clayton, Charlie Wolff, Greg LaMirand, Jimmy Anderson, Stan Snider, Bob Dasher, Doug Ward, Dan Ross, Doug Tripp, and of course this last group, Scott Jurek, Marc Tindall, Craig Morton."

"You know, any success we may have had is in seeing these kids develop throughout life. To see these kids go on and do well — and I'm not just talking about football — to see them go on and succeed in anything they do in life is what this is all about," he said.

Tom Moshimer has won 143 football games, six league championships and a state championship in his 26 years of coaching. His football programs, first Plymouth High School then Plymouth Salem, are among the most respected in the state of Michigan.

ON MONDAY, Moshimer will reap perhaps the highest tribute bestowed upon high school coaches in this state. He, along with 29 others, will be inducted into the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association Hall of Fame in Ann Arbor.

TOM MOSHIMER Career at a glance

Coaching years: 26.
Teams: Michigan State University (grad assistant, 1960-1963), Dundee High School (1963-1966), Plymouth High and Plymouth Salem (1967-present).

Record: 143-77-6, six league championships and a state championship.

Career highlights: Winning 35 consecutive games over a four-year stretch at Dundee.

• 1974 state championship, 9-0 record, defeating Farmington Harrison for title.

• 1973, league championship, 7-2 record, offensive and defensive line averaged just 167 pounds.

• 1977, 9-0 league championship.

• 1983, 9-1 season with a team expected to finish near basement of league.

• 1985, inducted into the Michigan State High School Football Coaches Association Hall of Fame in Ann Arbor.

"This is really a great honor," Moshimer said. "I know this is very cliché, but it's a great honor because it comes from all the people you compete with and against — you're being honored by your peers," he said.

The honor also serves as a morale boost to the veteran coach. Last season was perhaps the toughest of his career.

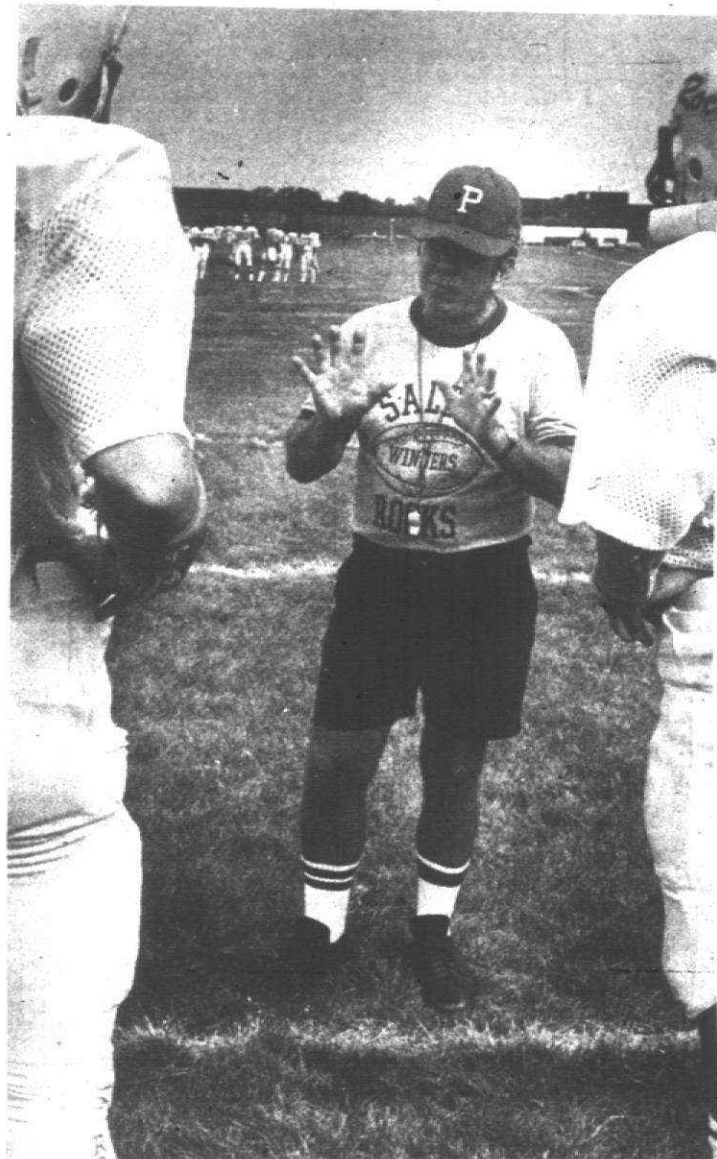

The Plymouth-Canton school district administration had taken away seventh-, eighth- and ninth-grade football programs (the ninth-grade program was reinstated last year). Moshimer came to spring camp with just 30-some football players, most of whom were playing organized ball for the first time. As a result, Salem suffered through a 3-6 season, only the third losing season of Moshimer's career and his worst since 1967.

"You know what depresses me the most about the current situation here," Moshimer said. "Either because of random selection or the loss of the middle school athletic program, or both, we're losing a large number of good athletes to private schools. Not only are these good athletes, but these are the kids who become the leaders in our program. And that, more than anything, bothers me."

BECAUSE OF those concerns, Moshimer almost retired before last season. But the combined efforts of athletic director John Sandmann and his assistant Paul Cummings persuaded Moshimer to stick around.

"When I started in coaching, I set two goals for myself," said Moshimer. "I wanted to coach for 25 years, and I wanted to produce a solid Class A program. I think I have accomplished that."

"I don't really know where I'll go from here. I'm on a year-to-year basis at Salem. I know this, I would hate to go out with 3-6 teams after all the great years we've had here. I don't want to go out with anything that would tarnish what we've accomplished."

Midget icers win 2nd state championship

For the second straight season, the Plymouth-Canton Flyers have won the Midget A state hockey championship.

The Flyers, coached by John Godre and sponsored by Computware, swept through the district and state tournaments with a perfect 10-0 record.

In the state tournament played March 7-10 at the Dearborn Heights Canfield Arena, the Flyers knocked off in succession, Trenton (6-2), Garden City (10-1), Calumet (9-4), Fraser (in the semifinals, 11-0) and Westland (in the championship, 6-4).

Third period goals by Flyers Kirk Goleniak, Frank O'Brien, Tom Kenyon and Jim Nave broke a 2-2 struggle against Westland helping Plymouth-Canton to the title.

WESTLAND HAD previously yielded just one point throughout the playoffs and had never lost to the Flyers throughout the 1985 campaign.

The line of Kenyon, Goleniak and Clint Straub accounted for 21 of the Flyers' 42 goals during the 5-game tournament. Goleniak scored 10 goals, Kenyon 7 and Straub 5.

Eric Kapelanski, a hero for the Flyers during last year's state tournament, was a heavy contributor again this year, scoring a key goal in the championship game against Westland.

The rest of the Flyers are: Bob Goleniak, Jon Godre, Jim Perris, Shane Tratechoud, Mark DeVeriglio, Paul Trapani, Nick Trapani, Mark Gagleard, Todd Glaesmer, Dale DeYoung, Will Correll and Derek Darkowski.

Tumblers shine

Seven gymnasts training out of the Go-Fer Gymnastics Club in Garden City, four from the Plymouth-Canton community and three from Westland, qualified for the United States Gymnastics Federation state finals last Saturday.

The gymnasts qualified by placing in the top 10 overall at the McDonald's Intermediate Optional State Sectional Qualifier held at the Bailey Recreation Center in Westland.

In the Children's Division (ages 9-11), Danielle Herbst (third overall) and Courtney Gonyea (ninth overall) of Canton, and Pam Gnacke (second), Christine Prough (10th) and Kyna Morgan (fourth) all of Westland qualified.

In the Junior Division (ages 12-14), Jeanette Faure (second) and Marie Buswynka (finish unknown), both of Plymouth, also qualified.

The state finals will take place Sunday, March 31 in Mount Clemens.

It's Oscar time: But some classic films have been ignored in past second runs 'Citizen Kane,' widely considered one of the finest films ever made, didn't win a best picture Oscar.

FOR MY MONEY, the public prints and scandal sheets can prepare two headlines for the day after Monday's Academy Awards. One would read "Killing Fields Sweeps Oscars" and the other proclaim "FRAUD AT POLLS!" In other words, I think "The Killing Fields" deserves all the Oscars it gets. But, film buffs, don't be surprised if it comes up empty-handed.

And don't be upset if your favorite film and performers don't win, because Oscar's winners and losers are quickly forgotten anyway.

Case in point: You may recognize the headline "FRAUD AT POLLS!" It's the one publisher Charles Kane's inquirer ran when he lost his bid for governor in "Citizen Kane." If you knew that, you also knew that "Citizen Kane," widely considered one of the finest films ever made, didn't win a best picture Oscar.

It lost in 1941 to "How Green Was My Valley" — a nice, sentimental picture (with an underlying patriotic theme) that came along at just the right time. But it's no "Citizen Kane." What does it matter, that Orson Welles' "Citizen Kane" lost? It wasn't the first or last upset in Oscar history.

NAME THE best picture of 1976. Was it "All the President's Men," "Bound for Glory," "Network," "Rocky" or "Taxi Driver"? Believe it or not, "Rocky" knocked out the competition that year. Why? Maybe because it was the bicentennial year and Oscar voters, like Rocky Balboa, believed America is the land of opportunity.

But for Oscar's sake? We know now that even "Rocky III" was better than "Rocky" and that four superior films — genuine contenders — took a beating that bicentennial year.

Here's another puzzler. What do "The Godfather Part II" and "The Towering Inferno" have in common? Time's up. The answer is they were both nominated for best picture Oscars in 1974. Fortune smiled this time and, rightly so, Francis Ford Coppola's exceptional "The Godfather Part II" won and "The Towering Inferno" was relegated to the wastelands of TV.

THEY SAY 1984 was a bad year for best actors. I don't know. F. Murray Abraham and Tom Hulce from "Amadeus" offer a nice contrast to Sam Waterston of "The Killing Fields" and Albert Finney of "Under the Volcano." How Jeff Bridges of "Starman" got a best actor bid, though, is anybody's guess, especially when you consider Victor Banerjee of "A Passage to India," Howard E. Rollins Jr. of "A Soldier's Story" and Robin Williams of "Moscow on the Hudson" were overlooked.

For an all-time competitive low, however, there can be no comparison to the best actress nominees of 1975. That year saw Isabelle Adjani ("The Story of Adele H."), Ann-Margret ("Tommy"), Louise Fletcher ("One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest"), Glenda Jackson ("Hedda") and Carol Kane ("Hester Street") in the running.

Fletcher won and made possible a sweep of major Oscars by "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" — a genuinely good film — making it the first picture since Frank Capra's "It's a Wonderful Life" (1946) to sweep Oscars for best picture, director, actor and actress.

WHATEVER became of Louise

Fletcher, by the way? (I last saw her in a decidedly supporting role opposite Paul LeMat and Nancy Allen in the amusing and understated "Strange Invaders" last year.)

There's a popular Oscar myth that winning the award brings fame and fortune. You might ask Fletcher about that; or Maximilian Schell and Paul Scofield, the best actors of 1961 and 1966, if you can find them; or Michael Cimino, the best director of 1978 for "The Deer Hunter," who just two years later directed one of the most widely and resoundingly panned films of all time, "Heaven's Gate."

Beatrice Straight was the best supporting actress of 1976. Does anyone remember her, or even recall the part she played in "Network," for which she won the Oscar?

On the other hand, not winning Oscars never hurt the careers of Alfred Hitchcock, Cary Grant, Errol Flynn, Peter O'Toole, Paul Newman, Barbara Stanwyck or Deborah Kerr. And "Citizen Kane," "It's a Wonderful Life," "Shane," "To Kill a Mockingbird," "Bonnie and Clyde," "Jaws" and numerous other all-time favorites didn't drop out of sight when they lost out in the Oscar sweepstakes.

SO, YOU SEE, it doesn't matter who wins this year, although we all have our favorites.

What is important is that the Oscars vie for an Emmy. In other words, let's hope this year's Oscar show is more memorable than previous Oscar recipients and non-recipients.

Let's hope someone like Bette Midler ad libs some line into the usually banal banter written for Oscar presenters. Or that someone like Sashen Littlefeather or Vanessa Redgrave makes an incredibly driving, nubby-pamby political statement when picking up an Oscar.

A flasher would be nice, like the one who streaked David Niven about 10 years ago.

Maybe a protest by disgruntled farmers would be more appropriate. After all, what have they gained from this year's crop of farm films?

Such moments will be remembered much longer than the winners and losers. And I'll be more disappointed if the Oscar show stinks than if "The Killing Fields" fails to win a single award.

Winning an Oscar — the symbol of the Academy Awards — doesn't necessarily mean the movie or the star will be long remembered. Some losing films have become classics, while the winners, or their stars, have faded from the public's memory. The 57th annual Academy Awards Presentation will be broadcast live from Los Angeles on ABC-TV, Channel 7, beginning at 9 p.m. Monday.

Cheating couples make lively comedy

Performances of "Cheaters" by Michael Jacobs, presented by Jimmy Launce Productions, continue Fridays-Saturdays through April 27 at Somerset Dinner Theatre at Somerset Mall in Troy. "Cheaters," a poignant Broadway comedy that also touched in at Detroit's Fisher Theatre, currently amuses as a Jimmy Launce Production at Somerset Dinner Theatre.

Under Timothy Lentz's direction, the production is a jaunty succession of volatile scenes. Lentz draws the utmost from his cast for a rousing, comedic appraisal of sex and romance. The scenery is sparse, with an overriding focus on a predominant bed. A difficult bed-covering signifies a change of setting.

"Cheaters" is a jarring, though predictable, comedy centered on spouse infidelity as contrasted with the current generation's mode of housekeeping — the current vogue, that is, of setting up an experimental, see-if-it-works foundation, unbound by the traditional marriage certificate.

In THIS PLAY neither method proves much of a winner. However, along with the lowering of the final curtain comes a brief gleam of hope that the traditional knot binding will prevail.

The players render some fine balanced acting. Married couples who cheat on each other, trading partners, are Monica and Sam, played by Elaine Boike and Frank Cosenza, along with Grace and Howard, played by Pat Varaga and Hamid Dana. The as-yet-to-be committed couple is Michelle and Alen, played by Shannon McNutt and Michael Hov.

As a whole, they make a strong comedy ensemble, conveying the farcical elements with vigor.

Trappers Alley Festival Marketplace — a multi-level complex of vendor stalls, shops and restaurants — will open Friday, May 10, in downtown Detroit's Greektown.

Trappers Alley bringing new fun

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

More restaurants and fun are on the way, with Trappers Alley Festival Marketplace adding to the excitement of downtown Detroit's thriving Greektown.

The development in five 100-year-old buildings where trappers used to bring their furs to trade will open Friday, May 10, and provide a much-needed spirit of adventure to shopping at the city's core. The new marketplace updates the original structures through an arrangement of multi-levels, all held together by a courtyard with eye-and-step ascending curved staircases, exposed beams and pipes, and window glass.

Restaurants are on the fourth and fifth (top) levels. There window walls and skylight let everyone view the surrounding urban landscape. Most striking is the expanse that looks out on the towering Renaissance Center, which up to now has housed most of the downtown shops and restaurants grouped together.

Paradise Island: It almost lives up to its name

PARADISE ISLAND, BAHAMAS — It's hard to believe that you are at Club Med when you sit around the swimming pool at sunset, with classical music sounding out of the old Greylatch mansion and marble statuary peeking through luxuriant gardens around you.

Club Med Paradise Island may still be an "antidote for civilization" but it is quite different from most Club Med villages around the world for a lot of reasons. It is built into a lush historic setting five minutes by boat from downtown Nassau and 10 minutes walk from the casinos, hotels and restaurants on another part of Paradise Island.

This other-world activity creates an environment that is different from the Club Med villages in Mexico, for example, where you can spend the whole week and be only slightly tempted to leave the grounds.

Iris Jones
travel writer

Club Med offers packages with direct air from Detroit to either Playa Blanca or Ixtapa in Mexico, but you must go to either New York City or Miami to get a package to Club Med Paradise Island. After April 13 the total for air transportation and a week on the island is $799 from either New York or Miami.

These prices are for double occupancy. Club Med has traditionally offered accommodations only on a two-in-a-room basis, so you should be prepared to have a roommate, although more and more of the villages are beginning to offer single rooms. The baby boom generation, for which Club Med was invented, has grown older and sometimes wants more privacy.

Another big change over the years is in the age groups found at Club Med: you'll find a significant number of middle-aged and grey-haired people among the villagers. Some bring children, although most children go to those villages with mini-camps for kids.

Rooms are very simple. They can be locked from the inside but usually not from the outside. This isn't a problem in most of the remote villages where you check your money and charge your bar drinks and boutique purchases. In that case you don't need money in your room. It might be a little more of a problem when you are coming and going to Nassau and nearby casinos, as you will be tempted to do from here.

to see why you would choose Club Med, even if you don't plan to spend all your time here.

For $700 a week ($830 before April 13) you can spend as much time as you want in outside pursuits and still have your room, meals, companionship and relaxation in these beautiful grounds, with two swimming beaches and free sports activities, including 20 good tennis courts.

faces across the docks and the harbor to the city.

IT IS a short walk down the shoreline to the Club's harbor beach where people sun, swim and windsurf, and to the 20 Har Tur tennis courts, eight of them lighted at night. From there you walk through the sensuous tropical gardens, with their marble statuary, to the archery area, the wings of guest rooms and the beach on the Atlantic side.

Snorkelers and windsurfers must be past the beginning stage to be launched from the Atlantic beach.

The three old mansions on the grounds are used primarily for administrative offices, public rooms or eating/drinking/gathering places. In most Club Med villages, the swimming pool is in the main center of activity, but at Paradise Island it forms a second gathering place here in front of Grayleath, the beautiful old house built in 1928 by a wealthy American.

The sun is sinking lower now. The classical music has stilled and a slight breeze is blowing under the huge old trees that tent the garden. Birds hop on the white statues. The GM's begin to gather their towels and move toward the bar.

Beside me, on the old stone bench, there are two disconnected bells. They are marked "Footman" and "Pool Boy," but nobody pushes them any more.

Watercolor Painting provides 2nd art career

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

When Elbert C. Weber retired, a second career was waiting right at hand.

An automotive clay modeler at the Ford Motor Co. and Studebaker Corp. for 25 years, the Livonia resident became a watercolor artist three years ago.

"I always had an interest in art," he said. "Clay modeling was three-dimensional work. I took a special early retirement, and fortunately it is paying off."

WEBER'S WATERCOLOR paintings are featured in his one-man show at the Southfield Civic Center, 26000 Evergreen in Southfield. The show, now under way, will run through Friday, March 29.

Weber has received awards in watercolor painting from the Scarab Club of Detroit, Visual Arts Association of Livonia (VAAL), Livonia Artists Club and Dearborn Arts and Crafts Club. His paintings are in private and corporate collections in Michigan, California, Illinois, Massachusetts, Canada and England.

Weber also works in acrylic and pen and ink, but watercolor is his favorite medium.

"Watercolor is the only thing I can do, actually," the artist said. "Oil is too slow. Opaque I haven't handled very successfully. Watercolor is a constant challenge. Things are always going onposite from the way you anticipate."

WEBER DESCRIBES his work as "representational."

"Something that arouses emotion in me, I try to develop. I try to convey emotion to the person looking at it," he said. "That's really the difference between an interesting painting and a good painting."

Landscapes, automobiles, portraits and animals are frequent subjects for Weber's paintings. Inspiration for his artwork often comes from travel or books. Weber takes photos and/or makes thumbnail sketches of an outdoor scene, which he refers to as he draws the subject on the canvas in his basement studio.

"Most of the car (drawings) have to be very accurate," he said.

"I use photographs for detail and reference. For the basic feel of it, I try to do a sketch. The thing about sketching is, you kind of get into what's happening in the scene. You look at things more closely."

THE ARTIST'S work has been featured in juried exhibitions. He had a one-man exhibit at the Scarab Club in 1983, and he will be included in a two-man display there in June.

"(Being in a show) never gets old," he said. "The first (show) I had kind of blew my mind. I was off the floor two or three days."

"The whole thing is getting your name recognized. You enter as many shows as possible."

Weber studied at the Art Center College of Design in Pasadena, Calif., Purdue University, Indiana University, and various workshops. Today he is a member of the Scarab Club, the Michigan Water Color Society, the Hoosier Salon, the Dearborn Arts and Crafts Club, VAAL, the Livonia Artists Club, the Farmington Artists Club and the University Artists and Craftsmen Guild.

The artist, whose works have a price range of $45 to $450 each, is planning on selling his pictures through a gallery in Farmington. Along with his exhibits and club activities, he keeps busy doing commissioned work.

"I paint everyday," Weber said. "I try to keep something going constantly. On some days when painting doesn't seem to work, I'll (work on) matting or stretching the paper."

After trying other media, Weber keeps coming back to watercolor, the form he says he is most comfortable with. He made his living for many years working in three dimensions as a clay modeler for Ford.

Artists need change to keep work fresh

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for eight years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Messing encourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington MI 48024.

By David Messing
special writer

The winds of change blow equally on us all and no one is exempt. When we see an old friend, for example, we might say, "Gee, you haven't changed a bit." But in reality everyone changes, some more than others. We notice changes in ourselves more because we look closer at ourselves than at others. Of course, I'm talking about physical changes.

Last month one of my former Sunday School teachers came into the Art Store. So, I said the standard, "You haven't changed a bit." Really, this guy looks exactly like I remember him 20 years ago. "How could that be?" I thought. Gee, I have gotten fat, skinny, fat, skinny and fat again, lost a couple inches of hair and grew eye-bags and he still looks the same.

Of course I check my changes daily in the mirror just like most of you. If you look close at my picture, you will not see a single white whisker. But, in just the two years of writing the Artifacts column I gained a chin-fall. Maybe it's those weekly deadlines? I just hope the Kenny Rogers white beard look is popular in a few years.

Since art is so much a part of life, it too is subjected to change. Media subject, style and color must change so that your art will maintain its life. Just this past Wednesday I heard Ruth, one of my adult students, say to a newer student, "After all these years of oil painting I can't believe I'm sketching and drawing."

IN THE same week one of my teachers said, "I'm anxious to start oil painting after drawing for the past few years." As each took a giant step over the line they were fulfilling the necessary change to revive their art abilities.

The uncertainties of a new medium cause you to direct all your abilities towards relative mastery of technique and execution. Therefore it requires much of you and hopefully forces much of yourself to show up in the work of art. So beware of the safety of a mastered medium or technique.

A change in your subject matter is often as un-nerving and exciting as a change in media. I am forever trying to get my students who like still life to focus on animals. I encourage the automotive styling buffs to try anatomy and finally I try to get the monster, robot, dragon enthusiasts to try something at least within this galaxy.

ALL SUBJECTS are certainly worth the attention of our artistic consideration. Richard for example, just finished a detailed pen and ink rendering of a Bouvier dog. He carefully studied the hair texture, length and direction. He changed from the line shading of the hair to a stippled look around the eyes and nose. Richard then inked in the leather texture of the nose in a plate like or semi-circle ink stroke. Now he is enjoying the often overlooked colors and textures of still-life.

Gee, I hope my wife doesn't read this section on "subjects." She's been trying to talk me into painting a big picture, other than animals, for the living room. Style is the way you do what you do. Style isn't learned, it is already possessed.

Though training and exposure to other styles affects it, your style should remain purely your own expression. Since we are alive and subject to change so must our style change with us. Sometimes I will look at the cartoon style I used 15 years ago and marvel at the drastic change that has taken place. Everyone must change to stay artistically alive and creative.

INSPIRATION means, "to breathe life into," and often that life is created as style is allowed to naturally change with us.

Color texture and shape are no exception to the requirement of change. Color must always change for realistic drawings or paintings. Many times customers will bring in a half-painted picture and ask me, "What is wrong with my painting? It looks so flat or unrealistic."

Most of the time the solution is the same: Change the colors by shades or tints. The green trees in the foreground, for example, can't be the same color as the trees three miles into the background. A red barn can't be the same shade of red on all sides. Even a blue car can't be the same shade of blue front to back because light reflects and tints the color making it vary from white in the shiny spots to light blue, blue and finally deep blue and even blacks in the shaded spots.

TEXTURE and shape changes usually are a requirement to rightfully depict the subject you have chosen. It is by the careful representation of texture that our pictures become lifelike and of shape that they become realistic.

The Art Store is also subject to change. Indeed it will, April the 1st as we open in our new building in Terrence Corners on Middlebelt between Five Mile and Six Mile. In square footage we are moving from 1,300 square feet to 3,600 square feet so we will be able to accommodate around 600 students weekly.

We will spend this year expanding all our items in the store. Our curriculum will include general drawing and painting, portfolio preparation, anatomy and life drawing, life sculpture and airbrush. So if change is part of life than the Art Store and More is very much alive. Come in and see our new facility.
