PASTÁ PRIMAVERA and Mussels Provençal — prepared for 500 palates by Miesel Sysco corporate chef John DeForest and sous chef Bela Antel — will be among the delicacies sampled by "Taste of the Town" goers at 7 p.m. Sunday, June 2, at Taylor's Southland Shopping Center at 23000 Eureka Road. The Western Wayne County Chamber of Commerce and the Say Yes to Downriver Committee are participating in the Downriver Council for the Arts benefit, to feature specialties from, and visits with, 17 outstanding Detroit area chefs. Music, dancing, visual arts and theater compliments of various downriver arts organizations also are on tap. Chefs from Miesel Sysco, a Canton food service distributor that supplies Chuck Muer and Silverman restaurants, will be joined by colleagues including Tom Kelley of Christopher's; Larry Janes, Channel 7's No Nonsense Chef; Tom MacKinnon of MacKinnon's Restaurant; Ray Schwartz of Pontchartrain Wine Cellars; John Suyak, Portside Inn, and Lambertus (Bep) Van Daal, formerly of the Bloomfield Hills Golf Club. Tickets are $10 per person, and may be purchased from the Western Wayne County Chamber of Commerce.

SPONSORS OF this year's Children's Leukemia Foundation blood drive were grateful, but a bit disappointed with the turnout at this year's drive. Seventy-five people donated 65 pints of blood, 35 pints less than the foundation's goal. "It's dropped considerably. The same people come every time," said Mary Dingeldey, co-founder of the foundation's western Wayne chapter. "It's hard to say why. Maybe the need doesn't hit close enough to home. Last year we called people, either thanking them for coming or reminding them to come. I think that really helped."

IF YOU'RE A Canton resident yet to receive your 1985 Canton Community Directory, you may call P.R. International at 459-5089 to obtain one. The free directory, being distributed by American Field Marketing of Dearborn, features 50 pages of government, business, hospital, church, and school listings; emergency phone numbers, and other useful information.

A PROGRAM ON collecting baseball cards is on deck at the Canton Public Library. The discussion is slated for 7 p.m. Thursday. Mike Leahy, owner of Livonia's Old Ball Park, the country's largest sports memorabilia distributorship, will entertain both adults and accompanied children. Call 397-0999 to reserve a seat.

BARBARA BACKES and Joan Griffis were among 196 Catherine McAuley Health Center employees honored May 9 at the center's annual Employee Service Recognition Banquet. Backes, who works in the clinical laboratories' microbiology division, has been a St. Joseph Mercy Hospital staffer for 15 years. Griffis, who works in the ambulatory surgery facility, has been with the health center for 10 years.

MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY month, which kicks off Wednesday in Canton, will be highlighted by a fund drive. Proceeds will go towards the support of an all-out research attack against the crippling, muscle-wasting disease for which there is no known cause. Clinic and patient services also will receive a financial boost as a result of the campaign. Supervisor James Poole signed a proclamation "calling upon the people of Canton to support the 1985 March Against Time." Some 250,000 Americans, mostly children, fall prey to muscular dystrophy, nearly always a fatal disease.

Boy, 3, airlifted after near drowning

Receives emergency treatment in U-M copter

A 3-year-old Canton boy who nearly drowned in his backyard Wednesday remained in critical condition Friday after elaborate emergency medical care was administered.

Scott Mousseau, of Mottsville, was found lying on a tarp covering of a sunken swimming pool. Police officers measured 22 inches of water on the tarp. Toys were found around the pool, and a bucket on top of the tarp. When Canton police arrived at 5 p.m., the youngster's father, Michael, was administering cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR).

Police are unsure what occurred before Scott was found. However, a neighbor told police she saw Scott the day before the accident leaning over the side of the pool bailing out water.

"You can only speculate about what happened," said Officer Ricky Pomorski, who responded to the scene.

Police continued CPR until a Canton fire department rescue unit arrived to transport Scott — whose fourth birthday is Thursday — to Oakwood Hospital Canton Center. He had no vital signs en route to the hospital, said Canton fire Lt. Ken Witt. When Scott arrived he wasn't breathing and his heart wasn't beating, said Jan Petroske, Oakwood clinical manager.

SURVIVAL FLIGHT, an emergency medical helicopter service established at Ann Arbor's University of Michigan Hospital two years ago, was called by Oakwood. This was the first time Oakwood Canton Center used the aerial mini-emergency room.

"Survival Flight is used not only for the speed, but for the medical training of the people on board, and the equipment in the transport unit itself," Petroske said.

Township firefighter, corporals file suits

By Diane Gale

Canton fire Lt. Bill Grady says there is "a lot more" than what appears on the surface of a lawsuit filed after he was burned fighting a fire at a gas station last year.

Grady and his wife, Susan Grady, are suing Jack Lechnar, owner of J.W. Lechnar Service on Canton Center Road near Cherry Hill. Also named in the Wayne County Circuit Court suit is a 50-year-old Canton man, who was allegedly driving a pickup truck which skidded on ice and hit a gas pump in the February 1984 incident. Each is seeking in excess of $10,000 in damages.

Grady was off of work for five weeks recovering from burns to his face, head and hands caused by a backflash from a pump explosion. The 12-year veteran recently acknowledged that he was not wearing standard firefighters' gear while battling the blaze.

"People don't realize what I went through," Grady said. "I have a feeling that people think I'm blood thirsty for the money, but there's a lot more than that, a lot more," Grady said. He declined to be specific, but said a statement would be made in the near future. His attorney William Maxwell failed to return telephone calls from the Observer.

CANTON FIRE CHIEF Mel Paulun confirmed that Grady was without a helmet or gloves while fighting the blazes at the station.

"There has always been a policy that everyone wears all of their turnout gear," Paulun said. "He was in violation of that policy. We didn't reprimand him, because we thought he suffered enough."

The suit charges Lechnar with allowing hazardous conditions — icy station pavement — to exist. Lechnar declined to comment. The suit also charges the motorist with driving his vehicle carelessly and being intoxicated at the time of the accident. Susan Grady is charging that she was deprived of her husband's income, aid and companionship due to the injuries.

IN UNRELATED legal action, Canton police corporals are suing Canton Township, the Canton Eagle and the Associated Newspapers, which pub-

Judge lets drug charges stand

By Diane Gale

Alfred Scicluna of Canton Township continues to face drug charges despite efforts by his attorney to have the case dropped due to what he claims is an improper warrant.

Judge John MacDonald of the 35th District Court denied a motion to quash a search warrant obtained by Redford Township police to seize records of drug transactions at Scicluna's Canton home. He faces a preliminary examination May 23 before Judge MacDonald on possession of narcotics with intent to sell.

CONFLICTING TESTIMONY was heard Monday from a Redford officer and a self-professed drug seller during the evidentiary hearing requested by Scicluna's attorney, James Feinberg, in an effort to have the charges dropped.

"The court has to look at the credibility of the witnesses," said Judge MacDonald before denying the dismissal.

Brian Rogers, a 24-year-old Redford resident, testified he did not tell police he saw records of drug transactions in Scicluna's Canton home. However, Redford police Sgt. Russell Lynch testified Rogers told police during interviews that he bought drugs from Scicluna, and that when he didn't pay, it was recorded in a book. Rogers told police transactions were listed at the Canton home and at the Belleville Florist shop owned by Scicluna, Lynch said.

Police had insufficient information to conduct the search Feb. 11 at the Canton home, and the evidence was seized improperly, Feinberg said. Another search was conducted simultaneously at the Belleville Florist. Police netted drugs, a cache of weapons and record books used in drug transactions in Scicluna's Hartford Court home.

"I move that the court quash the search warrant and suppress the evidence, because if the judge had known all the information before the search warrant, it never would have been issued," Feinberg said.

He also said the search was invalid, because too much time lapsed between the last Scicluna/Roger drug transaction — sometime in October 1984 — and the issuance of the warrant. Judge MacDonald said he would rule on that point during the preliminary examination.

Rogers was called to testify Monday to clarify conflicting testimony he made during a preliminary examination in March. Judge Robert F. Brang of the 17th District Court ruled Scicluna, 36, should face extortion charges in Wayne County Circuit Court. A court date has not been set.

Scicluna, who pleaded not guilty to the extortion charge, is free on a $5,000 bond set by 17th District Judge John M. Dillon. He also posted a $500 cash surety bond set by Judge MacDonald during an arraignment on the drug charges.

Rogers initially approached Redford police after he bought cocaine from Scicluna, refused to pay for the drugs, and later was beat up by Eugene O'Sullivan of Redford Township, according to Rogers' testimony during the preliminary examination on the extortion

"If a non-smoker works in a smoked-filled room for eight hours a day, the effect of the secondary smoke is as if the non-smoker smoked two cigarettes a day," he said.

THE CLEAN INDOOR Acts of 1985 (co-sponsored by Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, and Rep. Justine Barnes, D-Westland) would provide for smoke-free areas in public places such as schools, stores, offices and other places of work.

By utilizing his contacts with public officials, citizen advisory boards, health agencies and the media, Pellerito is attempting to raise the level of public consciousness on the issue.

"It is crucial to understand that the issue here is one of serious indoor air pollution and not whether people should or can smoke," Pellerito said recently at an address in Traverse City.

"Just as other serious air pollution problems must be controlled by regulations, we cannot rely on individual choice or courtesy alone to contain indoor air pollution," he said in support of the proposed legislation.

Canton chamber spotlights dentist Jack Falvo for achievements

By Diane Gale
staff writer
"When he has ideas he sets goals and he makes sure that he reaches them!" That's how Jean O'Malley, dental staff office manager describes Jack Falvo, a dentist, who was named Small Business Person of the Year by the Canton Chamber of Commerce at a dinner presentation Thursday night.

Falvo's other community involvement includes sponsoring a fund-raising Muscular Dystrophy baseball tournament for the Jerry Lewis leonard as well as several little league soccer, hockey and softball teams.
He provides an informational get-together at the Canton Public Library for local students, and explains how to use the various resources. The books the children look for, of course, are about dentistry. Annually, Falvo also makes arrangements for "Santa Comes to Canton." He has been active with the Canton Parks and Recreation Board, and spurred Andrews to work with the Canton Country Festival.

Robert Geake, R-Northville, state Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, and Wayne County Commissioner Milton Mack.
The representatives presented Falvo with a plaque, signed by Gov. James Blanchard, recognizing his many achievements. Mack also presented a plaque from the board of commissioners.

It looks like being named Small Businessperson of the Year agrees with dentist Jack Falvo.

Walter Galanty, chairman of the National Small Business Legislative Council, gave chamber members an insight into proposed federal tax reforms and how they could affect local businesses.

Rocks destroy Canton, 23-0

the week ahead

Plymouth Salem softball coach Rob Willette called it "an awesome display of hitting."
Plymouth Canton coach Max Sommerville, well, he just said it was kind of embarrassing.
Salem scored 15 runs in the seventh inning (13 after two outs had been recorded) to wallop Canton 23-0 in a game played under the lights Wednesday night at Massey Field.
"Hey it was close until the fifth inning," Willette said. "Even when it was 8-0, I was still worried. I know Canton can hit. I was waiting for them to come alive like they did last year against us."

The Canton hitters didn't have a chance.
DENICE TACKETT, an All-Area performer as a freshman last year, hit two long home runs — a solo shot and a three-run blast. Leslie Plichta had four hits and a pair of RBI. Sue Oberliesen knocked home three with a triple.
But it was the Marci Walker show in the seventh. The sophomore third baseman batted twice in the seventh inning. Both times she stroked bases-loaded triples.

The Chiefs managed just three hits off Sue Carlson, one each from Margareta Gilligan, Monika Benedict and Beth Butzow. Carlson fanned one and walked two.
The Rocks are now 7-2 in the Western Lakes, 9-4 overall.
Canton got back of track Friday with a 17-7 victory at Northville. Diana Knickerbocker led the way with four hits. Benedict ripped three including a double. Gilligan had a pair of hits and Laura Darby had a three-run triple.
The Chiefs are now 6-4 in the conference and 8-7 overall.

Chiefs get blitzed; Rocks cruise on

The Farmington girls track team has been competing in three track meets a week the last two weeks. But you'd be hard pressed to convince Plymouth Canton that the Falcons were tired Thursday.
The Falcons, winning 12 of 17 events, defeated Canton 90-47 in a Western Lakes dual meet at Farmington.
Craig Petersmark's strong right arm brought Farmington a pair of firsts. He won the shot put (49-3) and the discus (136-6).
Other individual winners for the Falcons were Ab Hazen in the high jump (5-8), Greg Feenstra in the 330-yard low hurdles (41.7), Nathan Case in the 100 (10.8), Mike Forge in the 440 (52.13), Al Stebbins in the 880 (1:59.9), Bruce Kratt in the mile (4:38.0) and Chris Inch in the 2 mile (10:18.3).
Canton got firsts from Craig Houston in the pole vault (11-6), Pat McGow in the 220 (24.1) and David Khang in the long jump (18-10 1/2).
Farmington (6-2, 3-1 in the conference) won the 440 relay (45.6), the 880 relay (1:34.1) and the mile relay (3:41.3).
Canton won the 2 mile relay (8:45.6).

boys track

PLYMOUTH SALEM emptied the roster Thursday, letting everyone take part in a 95-41 pounding of Walled Lake Central.
Bill Campbell won a pair of events for the Rocks, taking the shot put (40-7) and the 100-yard dash (11.1).
Mike White also won a pair of events, the high jump (6-0) and the 220 (23.2).
Other Rock winners: Jeff Anderson in the discus (109-4), Ron Piwko in the pole vault (13-0), Chris Range and Doug Olander tied in the high hurdles (17.08) and Chris Hill in the low hurdles (43.4).
Alem also won all four relays. Craig Morton brought home both the 440 relay (45.6) and the 880 relay (1:34.3). Brian Vladu anchored the mile relay (3:56.0) and Steve Gamache brought home the 2 mile relay (9:09.0).
The Rocks are 2-1 in the conference, 3-2 overall.

2-mile run ruins Canton bid again

The Farmington girls track team had Plymouth Canton well-scouted Thursday.
Canton, leaders of the Western Lakes Western Division, had its dual meet win streak stopped Tuesday by rival Plymouth Salem. Salem took charge of that meet by exploiting Canton in the 2-mile run.
Farmington successfully deployed the same tactic Thursday and defeated the Chiefs 71-57.
"It was back and forth throughout the meet," said Farmington coach Jerry Young. "We wanted to avoid getting into a mile relay battle with them so we loaded up in the 2 mile. We needed a first and we got a first and third. That sewed things up for us."
Nicole Jelley won the 2 mile in 12:50.0.
Alyse Fortune was the big gun for the Falcons. She won three individual events and anchored the winning 440-yard relay (53.8). Fortune won the long jump (15-9 1/2), the 100 dash (12.1) and the 220 (27.3).
Jenny Lindbert also had a nice meet. She won the mile (5:43.0) and ran legs of both the mile relay (4:30.7) and 2 mile relay (10:15.0).
Other Falcon winners were Lori Casaroll in the 330 low hurdles (49.8) and Anna Quenneville in the 880 (2:32.6).
Canton got a double win from Hollie Ivey in both the shot put (32-11) and discus (101-5). Angie Miller won the girls track

high jump (4-8), Cheri Remer the 110 high hurdles (17.7) and Tricia Carney the 440 (1:03.9) for the Chiefs.
Canton (5-2) got a first in the 880 relay (1:57.4).
The Falcons, who are in second place behind Plymouth Salem in the Lakes Division, are 6-2 on the season.
PLYMOUTH SALEM won its fifth straight Western Lakes dual meet Thursday, outrunning Walled Lake Central 76-48.
The Rocks won 10 of 12 track events and two of four field events.
Erin O'Donnell took the high jump (4-4) and Karen Marciniak won the discus (98-7).
Rock winners on the track were Amy Johnson in the 100-meter hurdles (16.35), Kristin Hostynski in the 300 hurdles (53.0), Mary Beth West in the 200 (28.84), Martha Suddendorf won the 400 (1:05.85), Heidi Dupret in the 800 (2:29.0) and Trish Donnelly in the 3,200 (13:05.0).
Salem also captured the 400 relay (53.79), the 800 relay (1:52.35) and the 1,600 relay (4:37.3).

Canton kickers earn tie at N'ville

After losing six of its first eight matches, the Plymouth Canton soccer team is suddenly playing with and defeating some of the area's, and state's, top teams.
Last Wednesday, the Chiefs defeated the state's No. 7-ranked team, Plymouth Salem. Thursday, the Chiefs played No. 6-ranked Northville to a 1-1 tie.
"We've been playing very inspired," Canton coach Mike Morgan said. "We're communicating.

We're putting it all together."
Morgan had high praise for sophomore fullback Cheryl Nippa. "She stopped every rush," Morgan said.
Michelle Lonigro scored the Chiefs goal in the first half on an assist from Kristi Tanner. Both are freshmen players.
Senior goalie Pat Phillips played another solid game for the Chiefs.
Canton, 3-0-1 in its last four games, is 5-6-1 on the year.

COOLING TROPICAL CONFECTIONS

Enhance Summertime Magic

A balmy breeze, fireflies amidst the trees, the sweet scent of honeysuckle in the air... it's another idyllic midsummer night's eve.

But even paradise can be enhanced by a thoughtful hostess.

Embellish summer's magic with cooling tropical confections—frozen desserts and sparkling, slushy drink portions. These summer treats come in pretty pastels and lilted flavors like pineapple, papaya, strawberry. And, for extra flavor impact, CocoRibe coconut rum has been added. The exotic combination of rum and natural coconut brings appetizing new dimensions to these recipes.

They are refreshing to the taste and dazzling to the eye—and, surprisingly, almost as quick and easy as opening a half gallon of sherbet. Each dish or drink can be prepared ahead of time, to emerge fresh and frosty from the freezer hours later. Made with natural ingredients like yogurt and fruit, they're a healthy alternative to ice cream and perfect for light summer eating.

Double the appeal of these frozen desserts or drinks by presenting them as prettily and colorfully as possible. Scoops of frozen yogurt, for instance, are quite dramatic nestled in a hollowed-out pineapple. The souffle can be garnished with wedges of fresh papaya and a sprig of flowers to add sunny color.

Take a minute to whip up... and then luxuriate in... one of these delicious creations. And enjoy a truly enchanted summer evening.

FROZEN COLADA YOGURT

- 2 cups vanilla flavored yogurt
- 3/4 cup coconut rum
- 1 can (8 ounces) crushed pineapple, drained*
- 3 egg whites
- Pinch cream of tartar

In medium bowl combine yogurt, coconut rum and pineapple; mix well. Pour mixture into a metal freezer tray. Freeze until partially frozen. In a medium bowl beat egg whites with cream of tartar until stiff but not dry. In a large bowl beat pineapple mixture until smooth but icy. Fold in egg whites. Return to freezer tray; freeze overnight or until firm. Serve scoops in pineapple shell or dessert dishes. YIELD: 8 to 10 servings.

*Note: 1 cup chopped, fresh strawberries may be substituted for canned pineapple.

Cool Treats—clockwise, from bottom: Frozen Colada Yogurt, Coconut Strawberry Freeze, Frozen Tropical Souffle

FROZEN TROPICAL SOUFFLE

- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 7 egg yolks
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- 1 medium papaya, peeled, pureed (1-1/4 cups)
- 3/4 cup coconut rum
- 3/4 cup finely chopped walnuts, almonds or pecans

In top of double boiler combine water and sugar. Cook over direct heat 5 minutes until mixture is slightly syrupy. Cool 5 minutes. In small mixer bowl beat egg yolks until thick. Gradually add warm syrup, beating constantly. Return mixture to double boiler. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Remove from heat. Place double boiler in bowl of ice water; beat mixture with electric mixer or egg beater until cold and thick. Fold in whipped cream, pureed fruit and coconut rum. Attach a 3-inch wide strip of waxed paper or aluminum foil around a 1-quart souffle dish to form a collar. Pour mixture into prepared dish and freeze overnight or until firm. Before serving, carefully remove collar. Press chopped nuts around side of souffle. Garnish top with papaya slices, if desired. YIELD: 8 servings.

COCONUT STRAWBERRY FREEZE

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- 2/3 cup orange juice
- 1 pint strawberries, pureed (about 1-1/2 cups)
- 3/4 cup coconut rum
- 2 egg whites
- 1/4 cup sugar

In a small saucepan combine gelatin and orange juice. Let stand 1 minute. Stir over medium heat until gelatin is completely dissolved, about 3 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in strawberry puree and coconut rum. Transfer mixture to a freezer tray. Place in freezer until partially frozen. In small bowl beat egg whites until foamy; gradually add sugar; beat until stiff but not dry. In large bowl beat strawberry mixture until smooth but icy. Fold in egg whites. Pour into a 5-cup mold; return to freezer. Freeze overnight or until firm. Before serving, place in refrigerator 20 minutes or until tempered enough to serve. Unmold onto serving dish. Garnish with sliced strawberries, if desired. YIELD: 8 to 10 servings.

For perfect summer refreshment, try an Acapulco Cooler.

ACAPULCO COOLER

- 1 pint orange sherbet, softened slightly
- 3/4 cup coconut rum
- 1/2 cup pineapple juice
- 1 tablespoon lime juice
- 1 bottle (7 ounces) club soda, chilled

In small bowl of electric mixer combine all ingredients; mix until well blended. Pour into metal container or freezer tray; freeze until firm. When ready to serve, remove container from freezer; let stand at room temperature 5 minutes. Turn mixture into mixer bowl; beat until smooth but still icy. Spoon into coupe glasses. Garnish with orange and lime slices, if desired. Serve with short straw. YIELD: 6 servings.

No matter how sliced, steak's great

There are two ways to buy steak individually wrapped or in bulk. There are two reasons to buy steak in bulk price and you can instruct the butcher to slice to your desired thickness. When steaks are on sale in bulk, I lick my chops. You see, I have a problem in pleasing my wife. Anita likes her steaks on the thin side about one-half inch thick. I prefer three-quarters to an inch thick. Of course, I don't mind that when I buy a half or whole loin I can save as much as 40 percent on the price of sliced steaks that come one or two to a cellophane package. When I bought a half-loin of strip steaks, I decided to please my guests as well as Anita. The chunk of beef yielded five steaks three-quarters of an inch thick and two half-inchers. My wife likes her steak fried on an aluminum griddle on top of the stove while most people who dine at our house go for broiled. No matter how you like yours, a special steak butter will compliment the beef much better than any bottled steak sauce or salt and pepper. Buttery steak, humm!

BROILED STRIP STEAKS
6 top loin strip steaks, about 3/4-inch thick
Diagonally slash outer edge of fat on steaks at 1-inch intervals and place on rack in broiler pan. At a time, 3 inches from heat source. Broil on both sides until desired doneness, from 3 to 8 minutes on each side for rare to medium.

STEAK BUTTER SUPREME
1 stick butter, softened at room temperature
1 tsp. minced green onion
1 tsp. dill weed
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. paprika
1/4 tsp. garlic powder
1/4 tsp. black pepper
Blend butter and other ingredients with salad fork and spread over broiled steaks, allowing to melt. Yields 6 servings.

Quick breads are ideal for today's

Quick breads. Could there be any other baked treat more in tune with the times? For the cook, there is the satisfaction of baking bread without spending hours in preparation and having many recipe variations from which to choose. For the recipient, the pleasure comes in savoring slices plain or with spreads with meals and for around-the-clock snacks. Broadly defined, quick breads encompass nut breads, muffins, popovers, pancakes and waffles, biscuits, fritters, dumplings, crepes and more. But, we're going to focus on preparation tips for the two most popular types — nut breads and muffins. Both are called quick for several reasons. Their texture depends on the action of carbon dioxide bubbles which begin forming right in the mixing bowl as certain ingredients are combined. Quick-acting agents such as baking powder or baking soda, rather than slower-acting yeast, hurry along the rising process. AND, UNLIKE yeast breads, the tender texture results from a minimum of mixing and handling. So time-consuming kneading, rising and shaping steps are unnecessary. Whether you are baking breads and muffins from a favorite recipe or starting with a mix, carefully follow the mixing instructions. With muffins, for instance, the batter is combined only until ingredients are moistened. Probably the most common mistake is overbeating. Batters should be slightly lumpy rather than smooth to avoid uneven, tunneled texture, coarseness and an unattractive shape. Keep muffins and loaves shapely by using proper pan sizes. Muffins brown best in shiny metal pans, whereas loaf pans of glass or dull metal offer the most even browning. The bottoms of muffin and loaf pans should be well greased with solid shortening and filled no more than 2/3 full to allow for rising. Fill unused muffin cups 1/4 full of water before baking. GENERALLY, THE most reliable doneness test is inserting a wooden pick in the center when the minimum baking time has elapsed. Signs of under-baking are pale color and a heavy, moist interior; a hard, dry crust results from overbaking. Don't fret about a cracked top on quick breads — that's typical in the gently rounded, slightly bumpy top. Muffins should be removed from cups at once to allow steam to evaporate and prevent soggy bottoms. Most recipes suggest letting breads cool in pans a few minutes before removing to wire rack for complete cooling. Muffins are best served fresh from the oven. Quick breads, however, usually have better flavor and slice more easily if made the day before serving. Wrap both muffins and breads tightly to retain moisture and store in refrigerator.

Chocolate: The stuff of dreams

Chocolate! It's irresistible! It's bliss in every imaginable kind of dessert — fabulous fudge cake, chewy brownies, superb sauces, sumptuous soufflés, glamorous finials for any meal. Chocolate, in fact, is what memories are made of throughout our lives. Remember Mom's mouthwatering chocolate birthday cakes? What about the homemade chocolate sauce that made Saturday ice cream parties so very special? Baker's chocolates have been part of those memorable desserts for decades. BACK PAIN

Back Problems and Chiropractic

Three quarters of all Americans have some sort of back problems at one time or another during their life.

DO YOU SUFFER WITH BACK PROBLEMS? If you do, if you have tried other means to rid yourself of the pain and failed, try chiropractic.

Dr. Mashike is a spinal specialist. He has devoted all of his training and background to the spine. He is certified by the National Board of Chiropractic Examiners. He has been certified by the American Disability Evaluation Research Institute and has qualified for membership in the National Association of Disability Evaluating Physicians. DR. MASHIKE HAS HELPED THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE JUST LIKE YOU, people who had given up, people who were told there was no hope, people who had suffered alot and spent alot.

At Dr. Mashike's office, you receive the very best of care and personal individual attention. Dr. Mashike would appreciate the opportunity to care for you.

"I Achieved the Impossible"

I found out about Chiropractic through a very dear friend of mine. She was a patient of Dr. Mashike's. I suffered with backaches for many years. I was hospitalized, put in traction, but nothing helped. My friend had had gotten good results and she told me I should go. This problem certainly interfered with my daily routine. I felt useless. I was afraid to bend or anything. I never thought I was going to make it to the doctors office. I was so discouraged. Dr. Mashike told me he found some vertebrae out of alignment that were pinching nerves in my low back. Well in about three weeks I began noticing improvement. I've written this testimonial from my own experience with the hope that I will help others, so not to suffer needlessly, when you can seek chiropractic help.

Mary Casha

I regret very much that I didn't take my wife to see Dr. Mashike sooner. All that needless suffering could have been avoided. I was so pleased with Mary's results that I had Dr. Mashike examine my spine for a circulation problem. I also had a bad back but nothing like Mary's. After three months I feel much better and I feel the circulation is normal. Mary and I thank Dr. Mashike very much.

Joseph Casha

Tidball Family Health Improved

We first started with chiropractic care because of severe headaches I was having. My husband had pain between the shoulder blades which was a constant nag. Myself, I lived on aspirin (12-16 per day) for a long time without help until friends told us we should have chiropractic care. My husband and I progressed and in about a month we noticed a lot of improvement. I felt better in general. I also felt good because I wasn't taking any drugs, no side effects, sleepiness or a buzzy feeling that I got from the drugs. Our children also have their spines checked. We want them to grow up without health problems. We definitely recommend chiropractic. It's the way to go.

An Overall Improvement

I found out about chiropractic through a friend who was a patient of Dr. Mashike's. I was on vacation when I injured my lower back. By the time we got home, I could hardly walk and it was painful to sit or bend in any way. I didn't think I would ever be better. On my first visit I was in so much pain I could hardly lay on Dr. Mashike's adjusting table. It took several adjustments before I noticed a difference, but now I'm so much better. After 4 weeks I noticed an overall improvement not only with my low back, but with my total health. I can even rest better. I'm not completely better but thank God I feel much better. Dr. Mashike has helped me a lot. I am so glad I came to see him.

CLUB SCOUTS in Pack 766 at Gallimore Elementary School have been involved in service projects this spring.

Their first effort was headed by Louis Price, an adult volunteer for the pack. The boys delivered Goodwill bags to houses in their neighborhood. They went back and collected the filled bags, then took them to a central spot for pickup. All in all, the Cub Scouts contributed more than 150 bags of clothing to a worthy charity.

Their latest project was yard work — a spring cleanup for the grounds at West Trail Nursing Home. Ten Cubs and one Girl Scout spent a Saturday afternoon raking leaves, pulling weeds and planting three kinds of marigolds. Their original plans included cleaning windows at West Trail, too, but the gardening effort took longer than anticipated.

Cub Scouts were Adam Bakowski, Jason Greifenberg, Dan Grube, Kevin Obudzinski, Nathan Obudzinski, Todd Price, Mike Sawchuck, C.R. Van Dyk, Ron Westor and Tim Wright.

Heather Greifenberg represented Girl Scouting in the effort.

Den leaders Carol and Herb Greifenberg and Bob Bakowski, and the father of one of the Cubs, Ken Obudzinski, worked with the boys on the project.

THREE PLYMOUTH residents were among Catherine McCauley Health Center employees honored earlier this month at the annual employee service recognition banquet.

They were Marilyn Rafferty, operating room, who has worked at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for 20 years; Susan Burrier, nursing, and Patricia Barry, clinician, both of whom are 15-year veterans at St. Joe's.

Jewelry, pen sets or other gifts were presented in recognition of years of service.

THE WOMEN'S GUILD at St. John Neumann Church in Canton has new officers. They were installed at a mass in the church Wednesday, before everyone went out to dinner at DeLuca's Restaurant.

Mary Hayes is the new president. Working with her will be Rosa Ramirez, first vice president; Sandy Yude, second vice president; Chris Lapinski, secretary; and Lottie Kesney, treasurer.

THE TRAILWOOD branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association will have an installation dinner Monday, May 20, at the Cory Cafe.

Esther Hibler will be president of the club for the 1985-86 season. Servig on the board are Dori Mefford, first vice president; Doris Dietrick, second vice president; Judy Love, recording secretary; Mary Beth Reef, corresponding secretary; and Alice Homan, treasurer.

CONGRATULATIONS to Velda Stow of Plymouth who raised more than $1,000 in pledges during a six-hour skateathon at the Riverside Arena in Livonia. This makes her the top female fundraiser for the second year running.

Velda, who is the mother of a retarded son, will represent the Northwest Communities Association for Retarded Citizens in this year's Michigan Thanksgiving Day Parade in downtown Detroit.

DICK AND JAN Rainsin were over in Plainsfield the other weekend visiting former Plymouth residents, Leonard and Pat Evans. Leonard worked at the Sheldon Ford Plant when they were here and was an active member of the community — president of the Chamber of Commerce, serving on the Growth Works Board, and a member of the Colonial Kiwanis Club. Pat was involved in Sweet Adelines, among other things. Leonard now works for Golf and Western.

Anyway, the Rainsins were visiting the Evanses and they decided to go to Tootsie von Kelly's in the Amway Plaza in Grand Rapids. According to Dick, this is a popular spot. Tootsie Dick belts out songs Sipsa Tucker-style and on weekends, you stand in line to get a table.

They were waiting their turn when a familiar voice greeted them. It was Scott Loring, who was on his way to a state Tourist Council gathering.

"It was a grand night for singing" as the Plymouth Community Chorus awarded to three student vocalists.

Barbara Frank, who chaired the scholarship committee, made the presentations. Marlo Gates, a graduating senior at Livonia Stevenson High School, received the $500 award. She was the recipient of the $250 award last year, when the chorus scholarship program was initiated.

This year's winner of the $250 award was Edward Bellaire, a 10th grader at Plymouth Salem High School.

William Grimmer, original director of the Plymouth Community Chorus, presented the award named in his honor to Joan Zaretti, an eighth grader at Central Middle School.

THE PROGRAM opened with the orchestra playing the overture from "Carousel."

Excerpts and medleys from "State Fair," "The King and I," "Flower Drum Song," "Carousel," "South Pacific,"

Hoag, Russell Thurman, Dennis Santilan, Nola Bonandri, Barb Hamel, Sherrie Northway, John Stewart, John Frank, Mary Ann Martin, Morand Zimmer, Susan Davis and Ruth Germeroth.

The concert was presented through special arrangement with the Rodgers and Hammerstein Concert Library, 588 Madison Avenue, New York, NY.

Ken Ford, television newscaster and announcer, narrated the concert. He told the chorus members that it was such an enjoyable experience, he would have narrated six performances.

Soloists were Dick Schaw, Renee

"Oklahoma" and "The Sound of Music" were performed by the chorus and soloists.

PCA gives learning views

To the editor:
It was with great interest that we read the article entitled "Trouble astir for home schools" in the May 6 edition of your paper.

As administrators of Plymouth Christian Academy and parents of school age children, we agree completely with Superintendent Dr. John M. Hoben that the State Department of Education should enforce the laws regarding the education of students (public or private) in Michigan.

In our state, private schools cannot legally operate without state approval and all teachers must be state certified. At Plymouth Christian Academy we not only meet the requirements set up to be state approved, but in almost every case, we exceed them. We are extremely proud of the fact that:

- All our teachers are state certified.
- Almost 70 percent of our staff hold master's degrees or higher.
- All of our staff are teaching in their field of expertise.
- We offer more than the 180 days of required instruction.
- Our curriculum is comparable to that of the Plymouth-Canton school district or any other public school in the area. In addition we offer what they cannot: A Biblical perspective to the educational process, reinforcing the Christian values that many of our parents want for their children.
- We have an excellent working relationship with Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

While the article by M.B. Dillon Ward did not say it in so many words, the impression was left that all Christian schools given an inferior education to their students. This is not the case. At Plymouth Christian Academy we are proud of our educational program, staff, and students. In addition, our graduates have been extremely successful in both post high school education as well as the field of work.

We invite someone from your staff to visit us and report the excellent job we are doing.

Young people: watch dandelion

To the editor:
In today's world you cannot eat dandelions very often because most places spray them with 2-4D weed killer.

If you eat dandelions that have been sprayed, you will get very sick.

In Cincinnati, Baldwin Piano guards let some people pick dandelions one day. Later they found that they had been sprayed. They had the radio stations, TV, and the police all looking for the people to stop them from eating them and getting sick.

I hope that no little boys start selling them door to door, as The Stroller suggests, and cause people to get sick.

Different view on education

To the editor:

In regard to the article "Public vs. private," I'd like to give a different point of view than Dr. John Hoben. The paper quoted Dr. Hoben as saying "a lot of kids are not getting a proper education." This point may be true in non-approved schools but it is proven to be true with many students in public schools.

In my daughter's class there are about 23 students, one teacher, and one assistant teacher, not to mention a teacher to give special help with reading, gym and home economics. Add to that a teacher for her Biblical studies and a counselor (the pastor) for her personal problems and interests.

How many students does each teacher have during one day in public school? If a teacher in middle school has about 30 students per class, five times a day, doesn't the sum equal 150 students per day?

When my daughter asked to be transferred her grades were terrible - C's, D's and incompletes. She had stomach aches daily, assorted physical complaints, fights with other students, etc. You may say, "well she has an adjustment problem." Well she did. She couldn't adjust to the peer pressure, teachers who didn't even know her name, being lost in the shuffle, drinking, dope and smoking.

In my opinion she or no other student should have to adjust to daily surroundings like that. I still have a son in public school. He is still in grade school and he copes reasonably well. But they are two different people and what is good for one is not necessarily good for the other.

The point is they are young people, not cattle, not money allotments or anything else. Let's give our children the best education possible, however possible. Dr. Hoben, if you want it to be in public schools than let's give them the best we can. Right now we are not. There has to be a shake-up in the public schools.

Dr. Hoben said, in the case of Central Christian School, "How do you evaluate credits?" How do you do it in public schools? - by counting the days they sat in a seat? Whether they are sleeping or doodling or working crossword puzzles doesn't matter as long as they are there.

Skin cancer clinic worked

To the editor:
The skin cancer detection clinics, sponsored by the Michigan Dermatological Society in conjunction with National Skin Cancer Prevention and Detection Week March 24-30, was a tremendous success.

Through these efforts a large number of people were educated regarding early detection of skin cancers and a significant number of malignant and premalignant skin lesions requiring therapy were identified.

Without the help of people such as you this endeavor would not have been possible. On behalf of the Michigan Dermatological Society, I would like to personally thank you for your role in making these clinics such a success.

COMBINATIONS OF DRUGS

With the large choice of anti-arthritis medicines that are available today, you would think that taking a number of drugs at the same time would be commonplace if you had arthritis.

However, the prescribing of multiple drugs for arthritis is the exception rather than the rule.

One reason is that the drugs that are useful also have unwanted side effects. The stomach and liver are particularly sensitive and taking two anti-inflammatory drugs doubles the chance that these organs will be irritated.

Another problem is, that once absorbed in the bloodstream, arthritic drugs share a common transport carrier. One drug may take all the places available, then the second drug, having no place for attachment, will be eliminated from the body too quickly to be effective.

Finally, the use of drug combinations in arthritis has received little evaluation. With the exception of the experience gained in using multiple medications in treating rheumatoid arthritis, physicians have few answers to the questions of which drug combinations are best.

In sum, the use of more medications does not mean better or quicker results.

BACK, HIP and LEG PROBLEMS

Painful problems of the back, hip and legs most frequently are the result of faulty alignment of one or more of the spinal segments in the lower back. The nerves branching out from these vertebrae control the lower extremities. If one or more of these nerves becomes "pinched" or irritated, pain, swelling and loss of function may occur. An understanding of these problems can help you avoid suffering and loss.

Still macho: Burt Reynolds does usual routine in cliched film version of 'Stick'

Hairy-chested Burt Reynolds is an ex-con named Ernest Stickly in the screen version of Birmingham author Elmore Leonard's action novel "Stick."

Every time I see a Burt Reynolds flick, I open several buttons on my shirt, go home and leer suggestively at my wife.

She usually tells me to empty the garbage. I don't understand. It always works for macho-man Reynolds. He always gets the girl, even if she's less than desirable, as Candice Bergen is this time out — looking tired, faded and bored — before, after and during her big night with Reynolds.

But the big night and the big bash is Reynolds' trademark and his latest, "Stick," is no exception, with Reynolds as Ernest Stickly, an ex-con returning to friends and family on Florida's Gold Coast.

Rainy (Jose Perez), a prison friend gets Stick reinvented with the underworld and gets himself murdered in the process, leaving Stick with the obligation of revenge against fat, perverse drug dealer Chucky (Charles Durning) who, in turn, is in trouble with underworld kingpin Nestor (Castulo Guerra), who is into obscure voodoo rites with scorpions.

IF THAT PLOT doesn't sound familiar, you haven't been to the movies in a couple of decades. Naturally, Stick is separated from his wife but close to his daughter, Katie (Tricia Leigh Fisher), because the plot requires someone close to the hero for the villain to kidnap.

Along his road to revenge, Stick becomes chauffeur to boorish but good-hearted millionaire Barry Brahn (George Segal) whose semi-live-in, investment counselor Kyle (Candice Bergen), is mainly kept around to demonstrate Reynolds' incredible appeal to women.

The plot is trite and the production no better, with the pace faltering quite regularly. Not only are there a lot of boring sequences, it's long, too.

Based on a novel by Birmingham writer Elmore Leonard (he co-authored the screenplay), "Stick" is no great shakes and it's easy to see why the writer was unhappy with Hollywood's results.

The pace is a major problem and George Roy Hill, director of "Butch Cassidy" and "The Sting," was right: Girls slow up the action in adventure films as Bergen and Fisher prove. April Clough prances around in the background as Chucky's girlfriend and, fortunately, her credit is bigger than her role.

DEANNE LUND as Barry's wife wound up on the cutting room floor but no one fixed the credits. Her existence explains how Stick could romance the boss's girl and still be loyal. Too bad she wasn't in the film.

Sachi Parker as Bobbi the barmaid is the only attractive, accomplished appearance in the film, but Burt can't stand too much competition from the ladies.

The film is loaded with second-generation Hollywood celebrities. Parker is the daughter of Shirley MacLaine and Steve Parker, Fisher the daughter of Connie Stevens and Eddie Fisher and, of course, Bergen's father was the famous and ever-popular Charlie McCarthy.

"Stick" does have some enjoyable moments, not counting the violence, al-

the movies

Dan Greenberg

Candice Bergen is Kyle, an investment counselor and girlfriend of millionaire Barry Brahn, played by George Segal. She falls (naturally) for Reynolds as Stick.

though some may enjoy that. Those happy moments come in a number of sequences with snappy dialogue exchanged between Reynolds and supporting actors, including George Segal's crazy millionaire with dumb jokes ("What's the last thing that goes through a bug's mind before he hits your windshield?") and Richard Lawson as Cornell, the smooth-talking houseman. Alex Rocco, a familiar face, appears as Firestone, the flaky filmmaker, and there is a small army of heavy-looking hoods including the weird sadist, Moke (Dar Robinson). Robinson is an extremely accomplished stuntman and does a couple of pretty spectacular falls including two 200-foot ones from a 20-story building.

Unusual vegetables add color to garden

Tomatoes are red, snap beans are green and summer squash is yellow, right? Right — but that's only the beginning.

Tomatoes are also yellow, orange, pink, white and even striped, and it comes in a variety of shapes.

Lee Taylor, Extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University, says that varieties of common vegetables in uncommon colors are a big feature in this year's seed catalogs.

The latest thing in tomatoes is a red and yellow striped fruit. A number of new orange varieties are also out, along with several yellow fruited varieties and a white one. Another variation on the standard tomato is the stuffing tomato, which looks more like a deep red pepper than a tomato.

The range of colors in tomatoes is only a little larger than the variety of shapes available. Tomatoes range from thumbnail-sized red or yellow fruits through standard cherry tomatoes to pear-shaped and round fruits, some of which grow to well over a pound each.

Dozens of varieties of green snap beans are available, along with purple-podded ones and golden yellow wax beans. Wide, flat Italian beans are typically green but interesting because of their shape, Taylor notes.

The proliferation of summer squash varieties in recent years has been almost as great as the productivity of these vigorous plants. Zucchini varieties now range in color from very dark green to golden yellow. Yellow squash come in the familiar crookneck shape as well as straightneck forms. Scallop-type squash range in color from white through light green to dark green to golden yellow. And a number of other types, such as the green and cream striped Gourmet Globe, offer more variety.

Among the cole crops, you can choose from purple broccolli and cauliflower, red cabbage and white broccolli. Other novelty vegetables include yellow-fleshed watermelon, red okra, purplish-red lettuce and white eggplant.

"Some of these odd-colored vegetables may have appeal primarily as novelty items," Taylor says. "Others may become favorites because they have good flavor, high yields, disease resistance or other characteristics that you desire. For instance, you may decide you like raising purple cauliflower because you don't have to wrap the leaves around the heads to blanch them. In any case, these unusual vegetables can add a bit of unexpected color to the garden and the harvest."

Move about in comfort in a circle kitchen

Psychologists have long known that the circle is a pleasing and comfortable shape to humans. That's just the effect that Carole Eichen had in mind when she designed a kitchen with a circular look achieved with curved cabinets.

The small 12-by-13-foot kitchen provides unexpected storage space and countertop area combined with a functional work triangle. A three-door, pullout pantry with curved front is designed to organize and hold food items from small spice jars and catsup bottles to family-size cereal boxes, canisters and bowls.

"This semicircular design is extremely versatile," Eichen said, "and would work beautifully in combination with a dining or family room." Even for those who wish to remodel, this design offers the opportunity of opening up a small kitchen area to combine it with another room, multiplying the visual spaciousness and usefulness of both areas.

"Lifestyle trends are moving away from little box rooms with only one specific purpose. People want open, free-flowing interiors in which they can feel comfortable no matter what the activity."

Starting at the right-hand side of the kitchen is the pantry area — three different-sized, curved pantry units pull out for easy storing of a variety of foods. Each pantry unit is faced with different Formica colors — the largest unit is Indian smoke, a soft brown, the middle unit in adobe, a peach tone, and the smallest unit in rose ash, a subtle rosey tone.

Next to the pantry is the refrigerator in toast. Moving around the semi-circle is the dishwasher, stainless steel double sink and set-in range with eye-level microwave oven. Completing the semi-circle is an expanse of countertop area with plenty of cupboards, plus a trash compactor, ending with a circular cabinet that is large enough to house even the bulk-iest of kitchen utensils. Above this curved sweep of countertop are upper cabinets opening into the kitchen area, while the other side faces the family or dining room and has shelves for book storage, a 16-bottle wine rack and a glassware storage area. Recessed knee space allows snackbar dining at the curved countertop.

Highlighting the ceiling in the center of the kitchen is a round skylight surrounding by recessed lights. The flooring in a soft shrimp color ties the elements together.

"Design is one of the more important statements that people can make about themselves," Eichen said. "No matter how glamorous or how utilitarian, every interior setting has a personality and reflects the lifestyles of a family."

This circular kitchen provides an unexpected bonus of storage space and countertop areas combined with an efficient work triangle in a 12-by-13 space. According to the designer, Carole Eichen of California, the kitchen would work beautifully in combination with a dining or family room. "Even for those who wish to remodel, this design offers the opportunity of opening up a small kitchen to combine it with another room, thereby multiplying the visual spaciousness and total usefulness of both areas. Lifestyle trends are moving away from little box rooms with only one specific purpose. People now want open, free-flowing interiors in which they can feel comfortable, no matter what the activity."

Root veggies hardy but still need TLC

Through the ages and in all lands, onions, radishes and beets have been vegetable favorites. In Egypt, onions fed the sweating builders of the pyramids and the conquering troops of Alexander the Great. Daikon radishes are used in Oriental dishes, such as Japanese sashimi.

And, while the Mediterranean was the original home of the beet, where it grew as a leafy plant without enlarged roots, the large-rooted beet is first noted in literature in Germany around 1550.

True to their hardy and diverse heritage, onions, radishes and beets can be planted in a range of weather and soil conditions. Although beets grow best in cool weather, they tolerate warmer climates. Beets should be planted early, with additional plantings to follow later in the growing season. Hot midsummer planting requires special efforts at watering and mulching in order to get a good base for beet seedlings.

A common problem with growing beets is overplanting. Lack of moisture, which can be caused by drought or competition with other beets or weeds, results in stringy and tough beets, and it is important that seedlings be thinned.

Radishes also require careful watering and fertilizing. Although radishes are easy enough to plant and grow quickly in great volume, it is vital that they be watered properly and thinned soon after they emerge to achieve crisp and mild radishes.

There are two varieties of radishes — defined by when they are grown. Spring radishes can be grown throughout the season in cooler areas and in all but the hottest months in warmer areas. Winter radishes, slower growing, much larger and more durable than spring radishes, should be planted in the fall. They tend to flower before sizeable roots develop if planted in the spring, while the cooler temperatures and shorter days of fall discourage flowering.

Unlike beets and radishes, it is easier and more reliable to start onions from sets — small dry onions available in later winter and early spring — rather than seed. The type of onions grown should be selected with care because of the delicate growth timing: They grow tops in cool weather and form bulbs in warm weather. The timing of bulbing is controlled by both temperature and day length.

Onion varieties are divided into "short-day" and "long-day," and it is important to use the varieties designated for specific areas.

The most common problem in growing healthy onions is maggot infestation.

Short-day varieties are planted in the southern parts of the United States as a winter crop begun in the fall. They make bulbs as days lengthen to 12 hours in early summer.

Long-day onions are grown in the northern latitudes and most require 14 to 16 hours of daylight to form bulbs. They are planted in the spring and bulb during the longest days of summer.

Onions are harvested by pulling from the ground when half of the tops have broken over naturally. The tops should be cut off 1 1/2 inches above the bulb when they have fully wilted.

The most common problem in growing beets, radishes and onions are maggots which feed upon the bulb below the ground. Onion and radish maggots are the larvae of flies that appear in spring and lay eggs on the soil near the base of all these vegetables.

It is important to prevent the damage at seeding time, because that is when the flies are most active. Products like Ortho's Vegetable Guard Soil Insect Killer contain Diazinon which, if sprinkled lightly in the seed furrow at planting or seeding time, will prevent the flies from laying their eggs.

Telltale signs of maggot infestation are roots honeycombed with slimy channels and scarred by brown grooves.

Hide ugly concrete stoop with wood deck

Does that concrete stoop at your home look like something from a construction site? Do discolored, uneven chunks of cement leading up to the doorway mar the beauty of your family's residence?

Breaking up and removing a stoop can be hard work, so consider something easier. Make it disappear beneath a deck of pressure-treated lumber.

A wooden deck is a much more inviting entry and can be constructed at little cost and only a small investment of your time.

Pressure-treated lumber is surprisingly low in cost. You get all the usual advantages of wood — durability and natural attractiveness that blends in so well — plus the extra advantage of pressure treating: Built-in resistance to decay and moisture.

You may wonder just what pressure treating means. Simply put, the lumber has been protected by a vacuum process that forces preservatives deep into the cells of the wood. When you first see pressure-treated lumber it may have a yellow or green color. That's a result of the special treatment.

Pressure-treated lumber will fade to silver-gray when exposed to weather. You can allow it to go gray or stain it.

A few things to remember:

- Use and maintain an effective sealer on all pressure-treated lumber projects.

- Dispose of treated wood scraps in trash collection or burial, don't burn it.

- When choosing hardware, know that non-galvanized nails rust if exposed to rain and snow. To prevent rust stains, use galvanized nails.

- Check local building codes and follow common sense safety rules when undertaking any construction project.

To get photos, diagrams and detailed instructions about planning, materials and building techniques for many other deck projects, sent $2 to Georgia-Pacific Corp., The Deck Book, Dept. M, P.O. Box 48408, Atlanta, GA 30362.

This 7½-by-9½-foot deck is an example of a project you can build to cover a concrete stoop. It is supported by a ledger anchored to the house and by three 4x4 posts. The under-structure and skirt are made of 2x8s; the decking is of 2x4s. For information on deck projects, send $2 to Georgia-Pacific Corp., The Deck Book, Dept. M, P.O. Box 48408, Atlanta, Ga. 30362.

Gardening can be easier with a rototiller

According to a recent survey conducted by the Gallup Organization, gardening was shown as the top outdoor leisure activity in America. But as every gardener knows, turning your soil into a productive garden bed each year can be a back-breaking task.

Although one can accomplish almost any task with a shovel or spading fork, there is a gardening tool which can make your gardening undertakings much more pleasurable. That tool is a rototiller.

Basically, a rototiller should be able to "do it all." Without a lot of fuss and strain, a good tiller should help you with many gardening chores all season, not just spring planting. Other valuable uses for a tiller are:

- Turning over tough sod or garden soil. A machine should be able to till down to a depth of six inches or more for root growth.
- Mixing organic matter, lime or fertilizer into the soil quickly.
- Preparing deep, loose, level seedbeds. A good tiller lets you walk alongside it so you don't have to walk in the newly prepared seedbed.
- Cultivating quickly with control of tine depth so you can weed at a shallow depth between rows without harming plant roots but removing weeds.
- Tilling under all crop residues right after the harvest — even tall cornstalks — to add organic matter to the soil.

A power tiller can break up hard, compacted subsoil that would prevent new grass from properly rooting.

Quality tools pay in long run

If caring for your home has become a special source of satisfaction, you're probably taking more pride in your growing use and mastery of tools.

Quality hand tools make a job easier and safer. Before purchasing, get the feel of them in your hands. Those with good balance, weight and size allow you to work better.

A good grip often makes the difference between finishing a job comfortably or with aching hands and skinned knuckles.

Keep your work area accessible, clean and clutter-free to avoid untimely interruptions while you work. A pegboard provides an effective and simple storage system.

Keep all tools clean and cutting edges sharp. Remove nicks from screwdriver tips with a file, and prevent damage to file teeth by keeping them in their plastic cases or other wrapping.

Bunnies are cute but not in your garden

The bunnies that look so cute hopping across your lawn aren't quite as lovable when they ravage the lettuce and beans in your garden. Rabbit control can be a frustrating problem for home gardeners.

Glenn Dudderar, Extension wildlife specialist at Michigan State University, says gardeners can fence rabbits out of the garden or try to use chemical repellents to discourage them.

To fence rabbits out, fasten 36-inch chicken wire or plastic netting to posts so that six or 12 inches of the wire or net is folded outward along the ground. From the side, the net or wire is in a L-shape. Rabbits trying to get into the garden won't be able to climb or jump over the fence or dig under it. A drawback of fencing is that it tends to make it difficult for people to get into the garden, too.

A big advantage of fencing is that you have to buy the materials and put the fence up only once per gardening season. If you store it carefully, you can use it year after year.

Chemical repellents need to be reapplied after a rain, and new growth has to be treated as it appears.

The only chemical registered for use as a rabbit repellent on actively growing food crops is ammonium hydroxide in a special mixture of fatty acids, sold under the brand name Hinder. In field tests, plots of green beans were planted in a seven-acre field with a rabbit population of 10 to 30. Hinder provided 100 percent protection for three days. After that time, its effectiveness declined.

Another chemical, thiram, was 100 percent effective for a week, but it is registered for use only on non-edible vegetation, such as flowers and landscape ornamentals.

Various homemade repellents, usually based in some kind of hot pepper sauce, may or may not be effective in any given application. In Dudderar's field tests, Miller's Hot Sauce applied even at triple strength seemed to attract the rabbits to the beans, and beans treated with it suffered even more damage than untreated control plots.

Hinder, then, is the preferred chemical for repelling rabbits in home gardens. But it is not readily available at the retail level, and it is expensive, especially if it has to be reapplied every few days through much of the gardening season. If, in spite of these drawbacks, you decide to try it, Dudderar offers these guidelines:

- Apply it after every rain.
- Apply it at least once every two weeks when plants are actively growing.

Organize everything with pegboards

Pegboards have been around a long time — in offices, schools and kitchens. Pegboard organizers are perfect for storing small- and medium-sized tools and utensils. Mount one in the garage, the basement or the shed, and it will make life easier and more orderly.

Today, there are dozens of hangers, shelves, bins and jars available to be mounted on a pegboard, creating a comprehensive storage system. A pegboard can be used to make a storage wall that will keep all sorts of items neat, accessible and visible.

For example, the flashlight will be there, so you won't have to rummage around in a drawer or closet when the next emergency occurs. Tools can be mounted on a pegboard, so you can find them quickly and easily. Bins, racks and shelves are available to be mounted on pegboards, and small items, such as nails, washers and rubber bands, can be placed in glass jars and mounted on the pegboard.

Modern pegboard accessories are colorful and attractive. This type of storage is not a major project. Most do-it-yourselfers can buy the board and components, mount the board, hook in the containers, and have it all in operation in a single Saturday morning.

Choose garden site carefully

There are no guarantees in vegetable gardening. But you can improve your chances of success by selecting a good garden site, choosing crops and varieties carefully, and planting at the proper time.

Lee Taylor, Extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University, says a good garden site is sunny, well drained and fertile. It should have a source of water nearby and, ideally, it should be close to home so you can work in it, check on it frequently and enjoy watching it grow.

Most garden vegetables do best in full sun, so avoid spots that are shaded by buildings and landscape plants. Trees and shrubs will also compete with garden crops for moisture and soil nutrients, Taylor adds.

Avoid low-lying spots where water collects after a rain. Most plants do poorly if their roots spend much time in standing water. Low-lying areas also tend to be the last areas to warm up in the spring.

Holly can add some warmth to garden

The all-American garden: It's filled with a wide variety of trees, shrubs and flowering plants. And holly. That's right, the holly species isn't just for Christmas decorating. Evergreen shrubs and trees, such as holly, can add a special kind of warmth to a garden, especially during the winter months when other shrubs and trees are bare and look less inviting.

There are approximately 300 different varieties of ilex or holly species, ranging from dwarf shrubs to 70-foot trees. Holly can grow in either temperate or tropical regions but will thrive best in acidic soil which is well drained.

As a shrub, holly can be planted as a showy centerpiece for garden landscapes since its berries and leaves last for over one season, frequently well into the winter.

Some species of holly can also be used as a hedge to define space in a landscape. In fact, because it is a slow growing evergreen shrub, holly is among one of the most preferred varieties for hedges. Slower-growing shrubs make for a denser hedge which requires less maintenance and pruning.

There are holly shrubs that attract birds because of their tasty berries and valuable nesting or hiding places. And, there are hollies that make good barriers, like Chinese holly, because of its thorny leaves, and hollies with beautiful, showy fruits which last all year round, such as the common winter-berry and Chinese holly with their lavish and ornamental berries. And, of course, there is the English holly, which graces Christmas hearths and adds to the yuletide spirit. Holly shrubs are easy to take care of and leave the homeowner with a beautiful garden and enough spare time to enjoy it. The holly species are not finicky, are usually pest-resistant and can adapt to a wide variety of conditions.

Holly is one of the most sturdy evergreens and is perfect as a shrub or hedge.

Most hollies prosper best when planted in soil with a pH factor of around 6.5 If you live in an area where the soil is alkaline or has poor drainage, add 50 percent peat moss to the soil to ensure a healthy, strong plant when planting your shrub or tree. And take heed not to lime the soil around your holly plants.

Although holly can grow in light ranging from full sun to shade, the berry production is greatest in good sunlight. Compared with other shrubs, though, holly varieties do much better in shade than most.

While you could almost leave the holly shrubs alone, they do benefit from a watering and feeding every two weeks. Holly plants should get enough water to wet the soil at least four inches into the ground.

Such products as evergreen and azalea food are good sources of nutrients and can be mixed right into water or insecticide, taking the nutrients right down to the roots here they are needed.

Because holly is an acid-loving plant, iron deficiency can be a common problem which is easily rectified with consistent fertilizing.

Because of its naturally compact and neat growth, holly species also do very well when grown in containers — a perfect way to enhance a front door stoop, patio or garage entrance. The Japanese and Chinese holly varieties do especially well in containers, due to their small, contained root system, and require the same simple care as holly shrubs.

Some flowers actually prefer the shade

Shady spots in the garden need not be colorless; a variety of flowering plants will grow and thrive in shade.

Lee Taylor, Extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University, says some of the most popular flowering annuals for shady spots include impatiens, tuberous begonias and coleus. For areas shaded part of the day, salvia and nicotiana are well suited.

Impatiens is probably the No. 1 annual for shaded gardens. The plants form low, flower-covered mounds as the summer progresses. Flowers range in size from one to two inches and come in a rainbow of colors, from white through pink and lavender to coral, salmon and red. Bicolors and double and semidouble flowers are among the more recent introductions.

Large masses of impatiens are stunning in shaded beds. The plants are also well suited to container culture.

Tuberous begonias are started indoors in early spring and planted outdoors after the danger of frost is past. Some of them produce flowers up to a foot across in brilliant shades of red, pink, coral, salmon, yellow and white. Others produce numerous smaller flowers ranging in size from an inch across to 2 to 2 1/2 inches. Pendulous varieties are available for use in hanging baskets. Tuberous begonias should be planted in well drained, shaded spots, watered regularly and fertilized every two weeks to encourage good flower production throughout the summer.

Coleus is grown for its brightly colored, often exotically shaped foliage. The spikes of lavender flowers should be pinched off before the flowers open to keep plants from producing seed and going into decline. Coleus foliage can be almost any color, from creamy yellow to rosy pink and green to nearly black. Leaves may be fringed, notched, lacy or wrinkled. A mass of coleus in one color gives a better visual effect than a mixture of colors and types.

A spot that gets sun in the morning and shade in the afternoon is just the place for salvia and nicotina (flowering tobacco). Both these plants need some sun but do quite nicely in partial shade.

The traditional color for salvia is red, but recently introduced varieties offer spikes of blue-violet, ivory, orange, rose and blue flowers. Nicotiana produces trumpet-shaped flowers in shades of pink, red, white and yellow and perfumes the garden in the evening. Nicotiana can be seeded in the garden, started indoors or bought as bedding plants. It tends to reseed itself, though offspring of hybrid plants may be disappointing.

Generally, Taylor says, the deeper the shade, the taller plants will grow. Dappled shade is ideal for shade plantings.

Quite often, the limiting factor in shade-grown annuals is not light but water — nearby tree roots take up available water from the soil. To meet the needs of shallow-rooted annuals, Taylor recommends thorough surface watering or trickle irrigation to provide an inch of water a week when rainfall is scarce. Growing plants under trees in containers is another way to get around the moisture problem.

A spot that gets morning sun followed by shade is better for shade-tolerant plants than a spot that is shaded in the morning but subjected to late afternoon and evening sun. The sunlight in the latter half of the day can be very hot and harsh, especially on the south or west side of a building, where the heat buildup can be intense. A northern exposure, on the other hand, that receives no direct sun but plenty of bright light, will provide very good light for growth and bloom of shade-tolerant plants.

Birthday for horticulturalists

The Michigan State University Department of Horticulture is celebrating its 100th birthday this year.

Although horticulture was taught at MSU (then Michigan Agricultural College) as early as 1861, 1885 is considered the beginning of the teaching of horticulture as a science rather than an art. That was the year that Liberty Hyde Bailey was appointed chairman of the department and drew up plans for the first building in the United States constructed solely for training students and conducting research in horticulture.

Although Bailey left Michigan for Cornell University only three years later, he had succeeded in changing the department's function from primarily teaching to a combination of teaching and research. MSU's past and present plant breeding programs, discoveries about plant growth regulators, development of dwarfing rootstocks for fruit trees and controlled atmosphere storage for apples, and plant tissue culture research attest to the importance of this shift in emphasis.

One hundred years after Bailey built the first horticulture building (now Eustace Hall at MSU) a new Plant Sciences Building is under construction. Horticulture faculty are expected to move into their new home in 1986.

Treated right, roses will reward you

Although seemingly delicate and fragile, roses are sturdy plants. Capable of withstanding moderate seasonal changes in climate, they'll bloom year after year with the same consistent resplendency.

But to insure this continued health and growth, a few preventive measures against the damaging effects of wind, summer heat and autumn chill should be taken when you begin planting your rose garden.

With more than 1,000 varieties of roses, each responding differently to various climates and soils, only the most general rules of protection against the elements can apply to all roses. Still, most roses are particularly sensitive to the harmful effects of wind.

Wind causes evaporation of moisture from plant leaves and petals, causing rosebuds to thirst for more water than they normally require. Even if the surrounding soil is moist, the plant can easily become dehydrated, causing petals to dry and crumble and leaves to turn brown.

Building a fence or planting a hedge of shrubs around the bush will prevent this. But with hot, dry winds, a fence isn't appropriate protection because it doesn't add moisture to the air as a shrub will. With either, allow 10-12 feet between the rose bushes and protective screen. A bur-lap cover will also serve as a wind-break.

Temperature changes have an even more dramatic effect on the growth and overall health of roses. Most roses are sensitive to heat, especially those grown in the sunbelt and Midwest where summer temperatures can easily reach 90 degrees or higher.

Plants grown in these often dry climates shouldn't be overpruned during winter. The less pruned a rose plant is, the more foliage remains, with warehouses of energy and moisture available to help the plant combat summer heat. Roses growing in hot, sunny climates might require more immediate protection.

For example, a lath sheet laid over the rose garden during the day's hottest hours will protect the plant from losing water and leaf suppleness.

Roses react to the cold much as people do, curling up to retain warmth. In cooler climates, roses tend to ball, opening only halfway. When blooms that ball are spotted, cut them off so other blooms can grow when the weather warms.

Basic tools are all you need to garden

Seed catalogs generally carry pages of equipment for the home gardener. But the number of tools you need is quite small.

Lee Taylor, extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University, says a hoe, a watering can or hose, a trowel and yardstick are the basic tools for gardening. And if you mark the hoe handle every four to five inches, you can do without the yardstick. Some string to guide you in planting straight rows and a few stakes to tie the string should round out the basic equipment.

Most of the other gadgets and gimmicks you see advertised are likely to add to the cost of gardening without substantially increasing the success of a gardening project.

Many items that do serve a purpose — such as tents and tunnels for extended season gardening and kits for building trickle irrigation systems — can be improvised at a savings.

Tomato cages come in a variety of styles and sizes. The cheapest ones are narrow at the bottom and wide at the top and generally require staking to keep them from blowing over in a windstorm. More expensive ones may fold up for easy storage. Homemade tomato cages built from concrete reinforcing wire or woven wire fencing cost less than the fancy models and can be stored flat.

"Probably one of the most appealing gimmicks on the market today is the computerized garden plan," Taylor notes. "You tell the computer what crops you want to grow, how many people you want to feed, whether you want produce for fresh consumption only or for fresh eating and preserving, and how large your garden space is, and the computer creates a garden plan for you. It plots the garden layout and tells you how many hills or row feet of each crop to plant.

"This might be very helpful to the first-time gardener who's starting from scratch, but the experienced gardener will quickly see that the computer doesn't take into consideration the need to rotate closely related crops around the garden from year to year to avoid the buildup of insect and disease problems. Also, the computer works with averages when figuring out how much of any particular crop to plant per person. If your family tends to use a lot of onions, say, or broccoli, there's no way for the computer to adjust for that."
