Police escort Darrell Paul Morey to Wayne County Jail after the Canton resident failed to post bond Monday at his preliminary examination on criminal sexual conduct charges at 35th District Court.

Canton man is bound over in bike path sex assaults

By Diane Gale staff writer

> Following testimony Monday by four women who said they were sexually assaulted on the I-275 bike path last summer, 35th District Judge John Mac-Donald nearly tripled the bond of Canton resident Darrell Morey, charged with the crimes.

> Morey had been free on $85,000 or 10 percent cash bond, posted by his employer, since his arraignment last week. Unable to post the new $250,000 or 10 percent cash bond. Morey is being held in the Wayne County jail. He has pleaded not guilty to all charges.

MacDonald increased the bond at the preliminary examination because, he said, "the testimony is clearer, more dramatic and there are more counts of CSC (criminal sexual conduct)." A preliminary exam is held to determine whether there is enough evidence to warrant a trial on the charges. Morey will be arraigned in Wayne Circuit Court July 12.

THE WOMEN attacked on the I-275 bike path last year detailed the attacks. all of which occurred in the daytime. and identified Morey as their assailant at the exam

Morey, who was neatly dressed in a light brown suit, smiled often and held hands with his wife Carol before the preliminary examination. Family members and parishioners from the church he attends, the Church of the Nazarene, were among the many onlookers who packed the courtroom.

ONE WITNESS said she was jogging alone on the I-275 bike path near the Honeytree Apartments when she heard someone running behind her and was grabbed by the neck.

'He took his arm around my neck jerked me back and said he was going to take me into the woods (near the bike path)," she said. "He dragged me and took me back into the woods. asked him not to harm me, and that I had a daughter at home

The woman said the assailant forced her to have oral sex. She said the assault lasted about 20 minutes.

Another witness said she was riding her bicycle on the I-275 bike path be tween Ann Arbor and Ford roads on July 5 when a man who was approaching from Koppernick knocked her off the bike and into a ditch.

"I started yelling at him, and he came down after me," she said. "I yelled (for him to) get away from me, and he punched me in the face."

woman said she got up and The asked the man what he wanted. The assailant said he wanted to have intercourse, she said. "I was crawling to get away, and said, 'No way.'

The woman said the man continued trying to attack her but she screamed real loud," and at that point the man left the area. A male bicyclist was approaching the scene at the time the assailant departed.

A THIRD WITNESS said she was

When I fell we started to struggle and fighting each other," she said. "He took me into the woods by the bike path. The woman said the man forced her to have oral sex. He struck her in the face and jaw.

Another woman said she was walking her dog on the path near the Honeytree Apartments. A man, who was hiding behind a cement wall, "jumped out and grabbed me around the shoulders in the chest area," knocking her to the ground

He pulled on me, I started to scream, and he let go and ran," she said. "I ran into the club house of the apartments, told the security guards and they called the police.

Clerk reviews first 6 months

By Diane Gale staff writer

At the close of her first six months in office, Linda Chuhran, township clerk, reflects on changes in the department. as well as major issues Canton has faced and will encounter. Chuhran, 35, worked 15 years with General Motors Corp. leaving the company as a senior clerk before taking the administrative post. She fills the position vacated by John Flodin who died in October 1984. Flodin had served as clerk every year since 1956.

During her short tenure with the board, Chuhran has been vocal about Canton's need to improve its image Establishing a trademark of topping off most of her outfits with a coordinating hat, Churhan said she wants to be thought of by administrators in local communities as the organized clerk with an efficient record system.

Below are some remarks made by Chuhran during a two-hour interview:

Q: During the election you said Canton is experiencing an identity crisis. How can this be changed?

A: I really think we still are. We are such a baby in so many ways. We don't have an identity. That's why the cow chip fling (issue) is so serious. When I went to North Carolina (for a convention) the people there said: "Oh, yeah, you're from that hillbilly community," during the next six months?

Linda Chuhran

A: To me, as township clerk, some of the major issues have to do with the election equipment. We're still using Shoult machines, which are obsolete. (At a different point of the discussion Chuhran said: "Now that (Mike) Gor-man (township finance director) is leaving, I feel we should look at some of his responsibilities. We could split up some of those (duties) between Brown

It's been a tough trek, but the months of requests, studies and debates have paid off with the addition of three new officers to the Canton police force.

The hirings all occurred within the last few weeks, and increase the number of officers in the force from 33 to 36. The hirings, unanimously approved by the Canton Township Board last month, follow years of understaffing complaints from officers. The salary for a beginning Canton officer is $22,904 with an increase after three years to $27,493.

The board's decision is the result of about four months of discussion between a group of Canton officers volunteering time to effect departmental changes, and a committee composed of Trustees Robert Padget, Loren Bennett and Supervisor James Poole

THE NEW OFFICERS are Charles Raycraft, Kevin Rize and Robert Kerr. Each came to the department

as a certified officer with police work experience. The officers see the Canton force as a young, growing mace where a lot of changes are expected and personal advancement can be achieved.

"They still have to learn our system and the streets, but they are already certified, so it saves us paying for 14 weeks of sending them to an academy," said Lt. Larry Stewart, acting police chief.

RAYCRAFT, 30, began working as a Detroit police officer in 1977. He was laid off, worked as an officer in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and returned to the Detroit force before coming to Canton.

"In Detroit I was unsure what would happen, but I felt confident that I wouldn't get laid off here," he said. "This is a growing department, and there aren't too many suburbs that are still growing."

In Detroit most officers have specialized law enforcement roles. However, in Canton Raycraft said he'll have a chance to watch the progression of a case from the onset to its completion.

"Canton is more service oriented than Detroit, where they have to respond to more major crimes," Raycraft said.

KERR, A 23-YEAR-OLD Franklin resident, has worked in the Washtenaw Sheriff's Department in the Marine Division and in Green Oak Township in Livingston County. He started in Canton May 13, which is his first full-time law enforcement position.

"The development of the community and the growth of the population will necessitate growth in the police department," Kerr said. "This growth coincides with a position for advancement and experience.

Kerr, who earned a bachelor's degree with a major in psychology from the University of Michigan, said he opted for a career in law enforcement after being exposed to the role in Washtenaw

"I enjoy dealing with the public and serving the community," Kerr said.

Kevin Rize is assuming his first full-time police officer's job with the Canton department. He wanted to become an officer because, "When you're able to do something for someone else it makes you feel pretty good."

> KEVIN RIZE, 27, worked as a reserve in Van Buren Township before coming to Canton three weeks ago. He received an associate degree in criminal justice from Schoolcraft College

> 'I wanted to be a reserve to see what (police work) is like, and I liked it and decided I would look for a job," Rize said. "Canton is growing, and it's going no place but up, so they're bound to keep adding on in the department.

> Rize said he decided to become an officer, "because when you're able to do something for someone else it makes you feel pretty good."

> Rize addressed the issue of low morale in the department, which has been described by some officers as being critical.

> Depending on who you talk to here, you get different stories, so I'll have to find out for myself," Rize said.

Feb. 25 marked the last hiring in the department, which filled a vacanand that really hurts. We still have an image problem. The whole board is receptive to business and industrial (developments) and we want the tax base real bad. A lot of trustees are spending a lot of their own time to make these things happen.

Q: What are the major problems Canton officials will have to overcome in the near future?

A: As a board I think we work well together, because we all have the same ideas and goals. The checks and balance system is still there, but I don't feel we have to check and recheck what each other (does). Professionalism is still not portrayed by us (the board) as much as it should be. We want to be taken seriously as a community. The problem is with individual personalities, which I don't want to mention. It could be with three administrations before, but people don't forget those things easily. I don't think the current board has some of the problems of the past, like the quarrelling that took place. We (the township) as a whole are in pretty good shape."

Q: What are some of the positive changes presently occurring in Canton?

A: There's a lot of new expansion in construction in Canton and that's exciting, because it means a lot of new tax base coming to Canton. The working relationship (newly elected Canton Treasurer Gerald) Brown and I have is definite big change in the township. When I'm not here, and there's a crisis, people in my office know they can go to Brown and get an answer. There is no animosity in this relationship. We don't have that kind of relationship, which was here before. There's no animosity on the board either. We don't always agree, but we can take a vote and move on. We try to always have one administrator (Brown, Chuhran or Supervisor James Poole) here (township hall) at all times. If there's a decision to be made there's someone here.

and I, and we can lower the responsi bilities of the job and lower the pay. Some of the things that are done there (in the finance department) are my responsibilty anyway.")

Blessed replanted five acres last year which are now full of ripe truit waiting to be picked - at prices which have remained unchanged for the past three years. Blessed said the extra warm temperatures in May have caused the berries to ripen early this month and they are in their prime right now. For daily information on picking, call 453-6439.

SC hopefuls give board good marks

By Tim Richard staff writer

It's a pretty good team, and it gives high marks to President Richard McDowell

That's what three candidates say about the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees's performance and the community college's chief administra-

"There's no problem I know of," said challenger Hussein S. (Hank) Karzun when asked which decisions of incumbents Michael W. Burley and Sharon L. Sarris he disagreed with. They spoke recently in a candidates' forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters in Livonia. Two of the three will win six-year terms on the college board at the June 10 election. The college conducts its elections in odd-numbered years at the same time as school districts in northwestern Wayne County.

REPEATEDLY the candidates shied away from questions about the administration's broad hints that in 1986 voters should be asked for a property tax increase

Burley, chairman of the board the last two years, called a millage hike "a last resort. At no time has the board considered a millage. A finance subcommittee is to consider a millage." A Northville district teacher, Burley said he would consider a millage increase "only if it (the lack of one) cuts into the program.'

Burley said any millage should be "earmarked for a sinking fund" rather than used for operations. 'But we're not close to it," he emphasized. He recalled that a previous board said the Culinary Arts addition couldn't be constructed without a millage increase. Although the millage failed in 1979 a scaled-down addition was completed anyway, he said. Sarris, a General Motors communications manager and former teacher, called the question "an assumption," saying it is "not so obvious" more property tax revenue is needed although it's "certainly an option." Other options are increasing tuition and more state aid.

Schoolcraft's $18 million budget is covered onethird by state aid, one-third by property taxes and one-third by tuition. In two straight years, the administration has hinted broadly that millage should be sought for capital needs rather than operations. Karzun, a product design engineer in Ford Motor Co.'s light trucks division, said, "Education should be supported at any cost" but felt any Schoolcraft request should be for a short time period. "We should keep pressure on the administration and .unions to balance the budget." he said.

A native of Palestine, Karzun said he has a "posi tive impression" of the incumbents, but asked for a chance to bring new blood to the seven-member

PRESIDENT McDOWELL, in his third year, was generally applauded. "High marks," said Burley, who chaired the meeting when the board conducted its recent closed-door evaluation. "We gave him a 6 on a scale of 7. There was no increase in salary. We will discuss that at a June 12 meeting."

'Very pleased,'' said Sarris. "He has taken appro-

'He was very gracious to fill me in," said Kar zun, who was barred from the closed-door evaluation He liked McDowell's stress on employee involvement which he said was borrowed from the Japanese and is being used in the auto industry.

OVER SEVERAL years, Schoolcraft has cut its full-time faculty from 160 to a projected level of 152 next fall. The candidates were little worried about the trend.

Sarris called it "something to be concerned about," but noted part-time faculty members can bring flexibility to college staffing.

Burley said the ratio of fulltimers to part-timers is 60-40 but that the ratio shouldn't drop below 50-50. He said full-timers "help maintain the quality of the program and protect it."

Karzun said, "The quality of the program depends on the quality of the teachers. I will keep my eve on quality rather than full-time or part-time faculty. There are needs for part-time teachers."

THE CANDIDATES were asked what they see in the six years ahead

Burley: More advanced placement of students based on competency, no strikes (a high priority due to "mutual gains" bargaining with the Faculty O&E Sports-Forum, more adult education (including recertification of teachers, more outside funding and possibly expansion of the district into Redford Township and Wayne-Westland.

航货

Sarris: Stronger business-industry relatioinship more coordination with local districts, and greater efforts to recruit and retain students and faculty through "creative marketing" of the college. Karzun: Enrichment of technical programs, broad-based and balanced programs. "I agree with a lot of the programs and suggestions."

WHAT UNIQUE qualities does each possess

Burley: "a professional educator 20 years, from preschool to graduate school," has taught educational leadership at Eastern Michigan University. Karzun: Has managed projects (wheel design. with a team of designers, lawyers, marketing and purchasing people at Ford). Sarris: "Knowledge of the community" through corporate and political contacts. "People tell me their opinions. I do my homework and pay attention to details

The science of selling cigarettes.

It goes something like this.

You manufacture a product that a lot of people want to buy. Unfortunately, the leading scientists in the country say the product is a health

To make matters worse, people are dying. That doesn't do much for your corporate mage. So you decide to do something about it First, you begin running a very provocative series of advertisements.

In those ads, you use the word "controversy" to imply that there's still some question about the link between cigarette smoking and heart disease.

Then you tell the public it's your responsibility to enlighten them so they can make their own informed decision.

- Finally, you present research results and sta- tistics that support your point of view. In short, you cover your bases.

A well-known fact.

And a simple one: Advertisers don't say bad things about their products.

They also don't "lie" - because the law won't let them. Which means that if someone else says something bad about their product, they look for a way to paint a prettier picture. And if that means grabbing at straws, they'll take the biggest one they can get their hands on. That's what one tobacco company recently did. They zeroed-in on the Multiple Risk Factor Intervention Trial (MR FIT). Conducted from 1972 to 1982, MR FIT was a study of almost 13,000 middle-aged men considered high risks for heart attack because of high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol, and cigarette smoking.

Over the course of the study, half the men received special attention intended to reduce those three risks while the other half received only normal medical care.

Result? Only a 7% difference - not statistically significant - in the number of heart disease deaths between the two groups. If you're a tobacco company, you couldn't ask for a happier ending.

1985. American Heart Associ

© 1985, GORMAN'S

You could, however, tell the rest of the story. Namely that during the 1970s the entire US population reduced its risks due to increased awareness of heart disease. And the men in the experiment - including the ones who didn't receive special medical attention - were no exception. Many of them stopped smoking. They changed their eating habits. And they kept closer tabs on their overall health.

The simple truth of the MR FIT matter is that at the end of the study, both groups had reduced their risk of heart disease. So naturally, and not surprisingly, the number of heart disease deaths between the two groups was not significantly different.

Oh yes, one more bit of information about MR FIT that might have been overlooked: the men who quit smoking (in both groups) had a coronary death rate almost 50% below that of those who kept smoking.

The truth prevails.

It also hurts sometimes. It can be especially painful when it threatens sales.

At the American Heart Association, we have nothing to gain by presenting partial truths. We have no motive other than that of improving the quality of life. And we have no need to grab at straws when we hold in our hands the Surgeon General's Report which contains hundreds of studies establishing the link between smoking and heart disease.

What we do have at the American Heart Association is a problem with advertising that's disguised as an impartial report. With ulterior motives that take on the appearance of genuine concern. And with irresponsible ads that show little respect for public intelligence and even less for human life.

That's the science of selling cigarettes.

The state Senate is nudging the Michigan Su preme Court toward adopting a court rule that would make it easier to introduce testimony from children into court, according to state Sen. Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford.

Courts generally prohibit second-hand testimony called "hearsay" - as evidence. For 92 years, however. Michigan had a "tender-years exception" to that rule. It allowed adults to testify on wha young children had told them about rape, incest and abuse cases.

The Supreme Court adopted the rule in an 1886 case, but reversed itself in 1978, prohibiting evidence told to an adult by a child. The current rule requires the child to testify in open court THE SENATE resolution asks the Supreme Court

VETERANS PROGRAM EXTENDED

Area Vietnam era and disabled veterans should be aware of recent changes affecting the Veterans Readjustment Appointments (VRA) program. VRA is a federal hiring program providing special, noncompetitive hiring of these veterans. Originally scheduled to expire Sept. 30, 1984, the program has been extended through Sept. 30, 1986, through passage of the Veterans Benefits Improvement Act (PL 98-543). It is not expected that the VRA program will be extended beyond that date.

In addition to extending the program, PL 98-543 raised the entry grade level maximum from GS/ WG-7 to GS/WG-9 and also provided limited appeal rights during the first year of appointment. A Vietnam era or disabled veteran who has completed no more than 14 years of education may qualify for a VRA. (This restriction may be waived for disabled veterans). For further information, interested vet erans may call the local American Legion hotline at 453-9494 and leave a message regarding information desired.

In fall, we become more aware of trees because of their brillant colors. But during the remainder of the year, we become aware of particular trees as they produce flowers or seeds.

Recently, while driving around town. I was reminded of the cottonwood tree because there were thousands of little fluffs of "cotton" floating through the air. They were very noticable when backlit by the sun in the morning and the evening. Attached to each of these fluffs was seed that developed from flowers produced earlier this spring.

EARLY FEMALE flowers on cottonwood trees are similar to pussy willow flowers on willow trees. They grow into long catkins that look like bottle

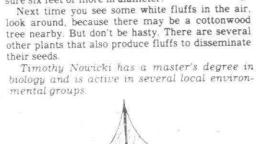

The flowers are pollinated from pollen produced by flowers on separate male trees. Large groups of female trees produce so many seeds that they can block drains at times. I remember jogging down a street where the seed fluffs were so thick in the air that I had to close my mouth so I would not inhale one. Producing large numbers of seeds is nature's way of ensuring that some will germinate and grow to maturity. In the case of the cottonwood, many areas are suitable for growth. In fact, park systems frequently plant them be-

France nears showdown with England over continent

This is the fourth in a series of Tonquish Tales which surveys the historic conflict between France and England for control of d'Etroit and all of the Ohio Valley. First pub-lished in the Observer March 28 was Fall of Louisbourg creates new American spirit." This was followed April 18 with "Detroiters join trip to Montreal" May 9, "A canoe trip to Montreal faces disaster" continued the story.)

Today, May 30, 1749, our little flotilla of six voyageur canoes has successfully negotiated the rapids of La Chene and now is approaching the dock of the quiet little island of Ste. Helen de Champlain. This lovely place marks the western edge of the center of our world, Montreal:

As soon as we dock, all of us. Catholic. Protestant and pagan alike, will bow our heads in the chapel of the patron saint of the voyageurs, the good Ste. Anne

And I, for one, am so grateful to be able to walk again on good mother earth that I shall leave an extra golden sou in Ste. Anne's poor box. What a joy it is to be able to stretch one's legs and walk after long weeks of sitting in one position in the cramped quarters of a ovageur's crowded canoe.

But I shall miss the marvelous, rhythmical singing of the crew as they dipped their cars - each downbeat keeping perfect time with their glorious, singing voices.

And I shall miss the incredible sights of the wilderness - glimpses of thou-sands of beautiful birds in flight, magnificent, towering forests, and memo-rable sunrises and sunsets. Lord, this is a magical world!

THERE WAS ONLY one mishap, or near mishap, when one of the canoes hit a rock. But Captain Beaubien and his crew were adept at repairs and we soon were on our way again. We were favored with good weather the entire journey

Today I will stay at the Convent of Montreal and visit with my old friend. the Mother Superior, Sister Constance. Before I left d'Etroit, Robert Navarre asked me to tell her of our need for a good school. I am to beg her to send a competent teacher: 👒

In considering the best choices, the Observer is aware that the school board needs continuity and stability right now. List June Flossie Tonda decided not to seek re-election, and voters chose two newcomers to the board, Les Walker and Nancy Quinn. Both were wise choices.

Then Tom Yack resigned, and newcomer Dean Swartzwelter was appointed in his stead. Quinn then resigned, and newcomer Marilyn Schwinn was named in her place

These changes have left the board only four trustees with much experience -Elaine Kirchgatter, E.J. McClendon, Roland Thomas and Dave Artley. Of these four only Kirchgatter and McClendon have more than three years of experience.

Artley also has demonstrated leadership as president of the Plymouth-Canton Band Boosters Association. He has a record of involvement in the Lowell and Tanger PTOs.

But in this race. Stephen Harper has the equivalent experience of an incumbent. Harper served on the school board from 1977-81 and, in fact, has more experience as a trustee than Artley has.

Beyond that, Harper has an extensive background of involvement in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools - before and after his service on the board. He was cochairman of the Citizens Advisory Councils (CAC) in 1975-77 and 1981-82. He was co-chairman of school millage election committees in 1975-77 and 1981-85. > Based on our personal observations of both over the years, and considering Harper's deeper and broader involvements, the Observer endorses Stephen Harper for the four-year term.

But we are concerned that if Harper is elected the school board would have three Ford Motor Co. managers - Thomas, Harper and Swartzwelter. That is a balance problem of a different sort.

In those cases, support through finan-Carol Rundio, president of the Plym- * cial contributions or campaign workers is enough to make or break a candidate. Candidates know it.

"Some candidates want to be up front and say they are endorsed by us. Others don't want to use our name but do want workers," said John Hackett of the Birmingham Education Association.

Support in past years has ranged from allowing candidates to use the union name to donations and mailings, Hackett said. Candidates are given a choice.

TYPE OF SUPPORT varies widely between Michigan Education Association (MEA) affiliates

Sammy Rubley Ruetenik, president of the Bloomfield Hills Education Association, said its political action committee (PAC) makes endorsements and informs the membership. No direct contributions are made to candidates, but mailings to selected people in the district are paid for by the PAC

School board elections have the "most immediate, direct impact on the working lives of members, and I can't think of a better reason to be involved," Rubley Ruetenik said.

senting all unions in the district makes donations of $300-$500. Mailings and donations to fund-raisers also are made.

PERHAPS THE worst case of influence peddling is in the Wayne-Westland school district, where political involvement of union groups has gone beyond the WWEA. Candidates there receive anywhere from $300 to $600 from WWEA alone. Adding another $500 for each of three andidates it's endorsing is the Wayne-

Moranty, Barnhill, Kozorosky best bets

VERYONE AGREES ON one point in this year's Wayne-Westland school board election: It is a crucial test of voters' judgment.

Hanging in the balance is control of the board majority. More importantly, resting on the election is the future of a very troubled school district. The board never did recover esteem in the eyes of the community after the recall election in 1982.

Adding to the cumulative weight of bad news have been declining enrollment. questionable child accounting practices it's time for a new generation to assume and a projected $5 million deficit for next the role. vear.

WHAT THE DISTRICT doesn't need is more game-playing by board members. Nor does it need cheerleading by those who cry for "positive" news and views. Respect has to be earned.

What Wayne-Westland does need are three idea people who aren't afraid to provide some direction. Too often the board has relied on the administration to rovide all the answers.

Board members must know the people they represent, learn what they want and then ask the administration how those goals can be implemented.

Keeping those two things in mind earning respect and generating ideas three of the six candidates deserve the voters' confidence.

ACTUALLY, ALL SIX deserve praise for volunteering to serve during what will be trying times ahead.

One of them, Fred Warmbier, merits respect as the board elder. He has been tenacious in his opinions and in his probing questions.

But after 16 years service - more than all the other board members combined, Warmbier seriously considered not running for another term. It was the pleas of constituents who convinced him to bid for another four years.

Warmbier will remain a valuable resource for younger board members, but Wayne-Westland School District

THERE ARE TWO four-year terms to challenger Kenneth Barnhill.

Not only should voters choose Moranty remaining board members ought to pay more attention to what he says. He, along with Warmbier, was instrumental in bringing the scandal over student membership to light. The revisions that have come from that can only make the district more educationally sound in its delivery and more respected in the field.

face and the resulting loss of income. Quick to shrug off his comments as just another attack on the administration, other board members refused to listen.

He was influential, with constant reminders of the need, in getting the district to make repairs to many buildings, especially roofs.

His background in facilities planning cation. for GM should be utilized as the district searches for cost-saving measures.

BARNHILL KNOWS the score in Wayne-Westland. With a track record of community involvement in this district, he was one of two finalists for a vacancy on the board earlier this year.

Barnhill touts his "sense of reason" and hility to vote as one of seven people co lectively working together. We'll hold him to that pledge, if he is elected.

He understands the need to communi cate with the community, a need which, hopefully, he won't forget on Tuesday morning. Barnhill also sees the need for better planning and wants help from the community in setting priorities.

Not living in a dream world, Barnhill is prepared to offer a model on which future cuts can be made equitably.

Perhaps most significant, Barnhill, in be filled Monday. We recommend voters regular attendance at board meetings for choose incumbent David Moranty and some time, has been seen walking over to talk with minority members on the board. That's a first step.

> RUNNING FOR A three-year term on the board is a woman who has earned election with years of service to the community

That alone wouldn't be enough to recommend her to the voters, but like Barnhill, Sylvia Kozorosky was a finalist for the board vacancy. She joins Barnhill Moranty also correctly predicted the in placing emphasis on setting goals, endeclining enrollment the district would couraging trustees to collectively work on issues and restoring respect for the board.

Kozorosky also has ideas for coping with the budget deficit which should be picked up by other board members.

Night baseball's 50 years began in U-D dressing room

DURING the week prior to Memorial Day, night baseball was celebrating its 50th anniversary. It may come as a surprise to learn that the plans for the change from daylight to artificial light was first voiced in the dressing room of the University of Detroit football

It so happened that on that day, "Red" McPhail, who had taken over the reins of the Cincinnati club in the National League, was getting ready to officiate at the football game. He was a good friend of Gus Dorais, the U-D football coach, and a good football official for the college game.

Sitting in the room waiting for the call to the field and knowing full well that sportswriters were present, McPhail said to Dorais

"Gus, I have an idea that baseball can be played at night, and it could be a boon to the game. I think I might try it down there on the banks of the Ohio River.

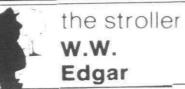

EVERYONE SMILED. But that didn't faze McPahil, who was as stubborn as he was fit for the official's job.

No one paid much attention to Red at the time except to figure he had another dream. But the football season was ended, and he went to Cincinnati to handle the baseball reins, and the thought of night baseball suddenly became a national topic. Many thought t couldn't be done. They didn't know Red McPhail

Soon came the word that the Cincinnati Reds, of the National League, were going to try night baseball with hopes that it would become a major part of the game.

Time went by. McPhail said nothing until that opening game was a success and there. were dreams that baseball was to undergo a radical change.

IT TOOK a lot of work and planning, but McPhail's dream came true. One by one, major league parks ventured into the night game. and the entire structure of the national pastime was altered

Today only one major league baseball stadium is without lights. It is Wrigley Field in Chicago, and the folks over there are sticklers for the old-fashioned idea.

When night games proved a success, several great changes were made. Some cities built lomes over their playing fields. That allowed games to be played in the rain.

The popularity led to the abandonment of the holiday double-headers, when games were played in the morning and afternoon. This meant two admission charges and a full day in and around the ballpark.

NOW BOTH games are played for the price of one admission to the ballpark.

While all this was happening, electric utilities were forced to improve all lighting, just to care for the baseball games. Electricity for homes was improved and even the stadia like the Olympia in Detroit were ideal places to watch sporting events and other forms of entertainment.

A lot has happened since the day at the University of Detroit stadium prior to a football game. Even that stadium is now only a memory. But Red McPhail's dream of night base ball goes merrily on, with prospects for bigger and better surprises in the next 50 years. It sure was a happy 50th birthday for the national pasttime

THE PARK Players are going back to Muncie, Ind. The Plymouth Centennial Educational Park thespians have been invited to participate in the international high school drama festival June 25-30 in Muncie

Three years ago, they did Ffeifer's People'' at the festival competition. They were so good. they were invited to represent United States high schools at the festival in Austria.

This year, they will present the mini-musical, "The Apple Tree." It's a mini because they had to edit the hour-long musical presented last fall as a dinner-theater production to a half-hour show for the competition.

Gloria Logan, drama coach at CEP, said, "We did a smooth cutting job. I think it will be all right.

'The Apple Tree'' is based on a short story by Mark Twain. There are just four people in the cast: Eric Holland as Adam, Jennifer Scott as Eve, K., an Slavin as God, and Kevin Fielman as the serpent. Bryan Belden, pianist, will be accompanist.

After the dinner-theater shows. the drama group presented the musical for Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn and at a state conference in Flint

Now, they will do the minimusical, the 30-minute version, at 8 p.m. Wednesday, June 12 in Plymouth Salem Auditorium Admission will be $2 at the door and they are hoping for a good turnout as the proceeds to go to defray travel expenses.

ASKED GLORIA how she'd feel about raising funds for another trip to Europe. She said she didn't want to sell any more doughnuts in the rain.

She's going to Chicago to see Dennis Cockrum, who has the lead in the world premiere of "God of Isaac" at the Victory Garden Theater.

"Dennis plays 12 roles, all famous leading men - screen stars of the past," she said, adding that it is the perfect part for him.

She said Dennis appeared in "Code of Silence," a Chuck Norris movie. "The reviews were not good in general, but one scene was mentioned as being very funny.

Volunteer Braillists tally hours

When all the statistics for 1984 were tallied, the braille volunteers deserved their moment of pride. The 90 active members of the Tri-County Braille Volunteers (TCBV) had transcribed approximately 38,000 braille pages. Put a dollar value on their effort and it comes to more than $100,000.

The volunteers were organized more than 20 years ago to coordinate services for the visually impaired. Braille production is very time consuming and TCBV assures no duplication of effort by local braille groups.

In addition to transcription of print materials into braille, TCBV coordinates work done by three braille binderies and three Thermoform sites Thermoform is a process for duplication of braille master conies

BETTY CHAPIN, Edith and Leonard Schutze, Judy Bartlett and Eleanore Arnison of Plymouth are braille volunteers. Braille transcription is a volunteer project that challenges not only the mind and ingenuity, but provides a way of helping others while working at home in available free time. Classes in braille transcription are offered each fall. Students completing the course are certified as transcribers of braille by the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C. Fourteen students from the tri-county area participated in the 1984-85 class.

The organization also sponsored a class in Nemeth Code Braille (mathematics) earlier this year for advanced braillists

STATISTICS FOR the past year show 50 members transcribed both textbooks and fiction and 37, fiction. Twelve volunteers served as proofreaders.

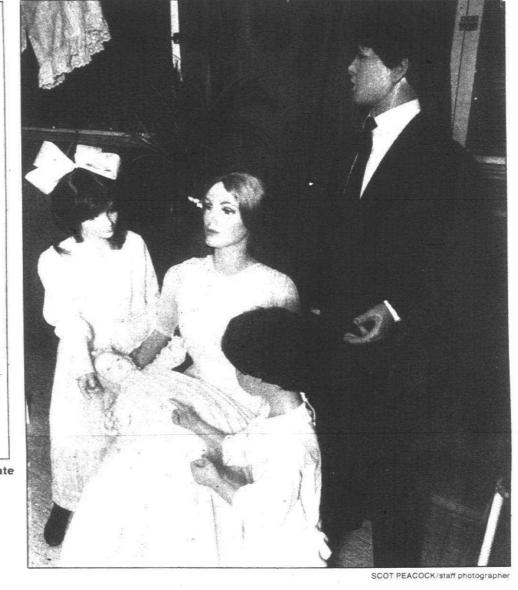

Braille was produced for schools in Detroit, Lincoln Park, Livonia, Oakland, Warren Consolidated, the Media Center in Lansing and the Greater Detroit Society for the Blind. Religious material, menus, greeting cards, playing cards and fiction books also were transcribed.

They turned out 33,173 braille pages for textbooks and 4,909 braille pages of fiction books.

General membership meetings are scheduled twice a year to upgrade braille skills and to educate braillists about the world of the visually impaired.

Time for fall classes will be an-nounced. Those wishing more information about becoming a braille volunteer may call Eleanore Arnison, 420-0626, after 4 p.m.

MHSAA decisions worthy of applause

BELIEVE in giving credit wherever it's due, and some is due the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA). In the past I've rarely been so generous. I still believe problems exist within the organization that regulates sports for nearly all of the state's high schools, notably the snail-like pace it takes in implementing changes. That apparent indecisiveness to me signifies a weakness in leadership.

But back to the subject at hand, which is giving the MHSAA a deserved - if somewhat surprising, considering the source — pat on the back for changes it orchestrated at its May 5-8 meeting in Cadillac.

AND IF MY complimenting the MHSAA isn't shocking enough, prepare for another jolt. The MHSAA may be ridiculed in the next few days regarding the boys' baseball regionals, and I don't think the association deserves it.

Imagine that! Applauding and defending the MHSAA in the same column. Will wonders never cease?

I doubt it. But whether they do or not, here's the baseball controversy that's simmering.

Plymouth Canton and Salem will host a fourteam regional that includes Livonia Stevenson and Farmington Harrison. The opening games are set for 10 a.m., with the championship contest following.

HERE'S THE RUB: The American College Test (ACT) is scheduled for 8 a.m. to noon. It's the last chance for seniors to take the exam.

which many colleges require for entry. Stevenson coach Jim George feared he might lose his ace pitcher, Rob Ognian, as well as several other key players. Ognian has since had his test rescheduled for Sunday. So has Ken George, the Stevenson coach's son who plays for Harrison.

Still, should any players from either team and several from each had scheduled the exam have to take the test instead of playing Saturday, it could severely hamper their chances. And the MHSAA will be blamed for poor scheduling.

THIS IS NOTHING so new. Spring brings senior proms and graduations, too. When Redford Union met Oak Park in a predistrict game May 24 and the contest went into extra innings, several RU players had to choose between attending the prom that night or finishing the game

A trio picked the prom. One RU player had rented a limousine for the evening, so who can blame him? (RU did win the game).

The scheduling for regional games is established by the tournament manager, who is assigned by the principal of the hosting school. Paul Cummings has that position for the Salem-Canton region. Fred Sible, who handles baseball for the MHSAA, said game time scheduling is strictly up to the tourney manager.

The majors are still a long way off, but Plymouth Salem graduate Joe Humphries took a step in the right direction Tuesday when he was taken in the third_round of the amateur baseball draft by the Toronto Blue Jays.

Humphries, a pitcher, indicated that he would sign immediately with Toronto and forgo his senior year at Western Michigan University.

"I'm going to sign," said the hard-throwing right-hander. "And that's some good (bonus) money I'll have coming. They'll pay you to go to school. They put school into your contract.'

According to area scouts, players drafted in the third round usually command anywhere from a $30,000 to $50,000 signing bonus.

Although he was an outstanding pitcher and outfielder at Salem, Humphries was not drafted out of high school.

As a freshman at WMU, Humphries started in left field. As a sophomore, he started the season at third base, went back to the outfield and wound up at first base pitched only 16 innings. But in a rare start late in his sophomore season, Humphries tossed a twohitter in a 1-0 loss to Kent State.

During his first two years at Western, Humphries

OVER THE SUMMER, Humphries played for MFI, a sandlot team in Battle Creek which posted a 58-13 record and was the only team from this country to beat U.S. Olympians on their exhibition tour.

Humphries went 4-0 and notched three saves. He also played outfield and batted .363

Although nobody recorded a first-place finish, several Observerland athletes turned in strong performances during last weekend's state track championships. Lansing Everett won the Class A boys title at Flint Northwestern, scoring 56 points. Redford Bishop Borgess was the area's top finisher, scoring 14 points to gain 17th place.

The Spartans' Chuck Albright took fourth in the long jump with a leap of 22 feet, 4% inches. Borgess also gained fourth in the 400-meter relay as Fred Owens, Marion Pittman, Marlon Montgomery and Corey Ivey were clocked in 42.8. Montgomery took sixth in the 300 low hurdles (38.2), while Owens settled for eighth against a very stiff 100 dash field (10.8).

Redford Catholic Central finished 20th overall with 11 points, based on Steve Shaver's third place finish in the 1,600 (4:20.2) and Marty Hegarty's fourth in the 3,200 (9:30.4).

Other Observerland performers scoring points included Dave Homann (Garden City), 1,600, fifth, 4:21.0; Mike White (Plymouth Salem), 110 hurdles, sixth, 14.8; and Mike Meehan (Livonia Churchill), high jump, eighth, 6-3.

Sanchez, Karen Opp, Laura Grazulis and Pam Eldridge recorded Obsever-land's highest finish, taking second in Class A behind Dearborn Edsel Ford with a clocking of 9:35.1.

Glenn, 17th overall in the team standings with 14 points, also received points from Anna Parish, who finished fifth in the shot put (38-10) and seventh in the discus (117-10).

Ann Arbor Pioneer took the team title with 56 points.

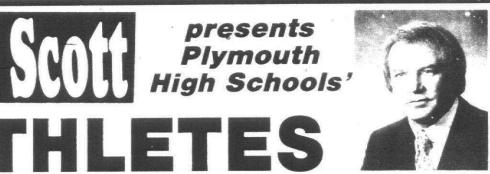

Farmington Mercy's Terri Ford captured fourth in the 100 dash (12.56), while Borgess' Sue Naster placed eighth in the discus (116-4).

In the Class B state meet at Jackson Livonia Ladywood was sixth overall with 19 points. Hemlock was the team champion with 51 points.

Joan Arndt figured in most of the Ladywood scoring, finishing fourth in the 800 run (2:21.0) and anchoring the Blazers to second place in the 1,600 relay (4:03.3) and third in the 3,200 relay (9:52.0).

Joining Arndt in the 1,600 relay were Sue Willey, Angela Dugas and Monica Gall. The 3,200 relay was made up of Willey, Kathy Denhard, Janine Kloc and Arndt.

In Class C at Clare, Redford St. Agatha's Colleen Murphy gained fourth in the 1,600 run with a time of 5:21.3.

"THERE'S ALWAYS a chance of conflicts," Sible said. "But our baseball schedule is set right now for 1987. They should know well in advance.

And, as Sible pointed out, it isn't the first time the ACT has been given. Seniors had four other chances to take it: Oct. 27, Dec. 8, Feb. 9 and April 20.

Cummings could change the times, should all four competing schools agree to the switch. But with graduations and proms possible on Saturday night, any of the schools could object to pushing the starting time back.

Whatever happens, this is one time the MHSAA should not interfere. Leave it up to the four schools competing and the tournament manager to work it out. In this instance, no decision is the right decision for the MHSAA.

SPEAKING OF DECISIONS, at last month's meetings, the MHSAA made a few of major proportions. I have few complaints with any of them

First, the council voted to expand the football playoffs to 16 teams per class. An additional playoff game can be added because of an extra weekend in the schedule.

A review process will follow after the season to determine if the expansion will remain.

It's a good move. More teams mean more interest and less worrying about computer points. In previous years, unbeaten teams missed out on the playoffs because they lacked those valuable computer numbers.

One suggestion: dump the regional format and just take the top 16 teams in the computer rankings. Separating the state into regions serves no purpose

ANOTHER GOOD move by the MHSAA is adopting the smaller basketball for girls. Colleges went to the smaller ball last year and, although its effects were inconclusive, it seems ludicrous that high school players should use a bigger ball than college players.

My only question is why delay the adoption until 1986? Is it that hard to find a supply of smaller basketballs?

A third good move: relocating the state girls soccer final to Northville High School next year. Considering the teams that played for the championship the last three years were from

Redford Catholic Central netters swept to a state tennis championship at the wind-swept Midland Community Tennis Center. They overcame Birmingham Brother Rice, who topped CC in regular season Catholic League play, and the elements en route to the title Saturday:

"Weather was a big factor. It threw a lot of people out (of the tournament) early," CC coach Frank Garlicki said. "We finished play at 8 in the evening in a misty rain and 60 mph winds."

Earlier in the day, competitors were forced indoors when winds knocked over eight-foot-tall judge's chairs. "We played inside for about half an hour when lightning struck an electrical generator and set the building on fire," Garlicki said.

The building was evacuated and the tournament completed outdoors.

CC'S EARLIER season loss to Rice came in a dual meet.

"We have a tendency to tense up a little bit in that kind of situation," Garlicki said. "But I never had any doubt that we could win the state title.

"We got an amazing effort out of everybody. The weather was the hardest thing to cope with, but maybe it kept their attention focused so they worried more about it than their opponents."

Plymouth Salem's hopes of a state girls softball crown were dashed in the bottom of the seventh inning at Ann Arbor Huron Saturday.

With one out and the score deadlocked 0-0, a Huron runner dashed home from first base on a double down the right field line. Salem pitcher Sue Carlson took the loss, having allowed the one run on only five hits.

"I told them after the game they played just about as well as they could on the field," Salem coach Rob Willette said. "We played real good defense. We just didn't hit the ball."

Salem picked up two hits - singles from Carlson and Debbie Starr - and had a runner as far as third base with two out in one inning, but couldn't score.

Salem, which will have all but three starters back next year, finished the season with a 19-5 record.

No longer can the Detroit area be scoffed at for claiming to be the capital of the bowling world. The scoffing through the years was based on the fact that the Detroit area did not produce stars like other bowling centers in the country.

That has been changed now and two woman bowlers have helped to change the feeling. Mrs. Mary Mohacsi has risen to the point where she is rated the best amateur in the country. And the former Detroiter, Aleta Rzepecki Sill recently won the Queen's title for the second time in three years. In the all-star classics more than 100 bowlers are averaging more than 200. And Joe Norris the best bowler ever produced in the area is still going strong and is near the goal of toppling 100,000 pins. Aside from that the Detroit area has six members in the national Hall of Fame. There should be no further argument.

TRIO BOWLING: At last the savior of summer bowling has been found. Until recently the hot weather had nothing but all sorts of trick bowling. Then along came trio bowling and it is winning a prominent place - even in the cold weather.

Trio bowling is holding up summer bowling and in many cases it is taking care of the late squads in most of the area houses. It really is saving the

EIGHT MILE RD. (M-102)

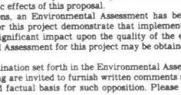

All interested citizens are advised that the Michigan Department of Transportation is proposing to widen and resurface Eight Mile Road (M-102) from Grand River Avenue (M-5) easterly 5.2 miles to the Southfield Freeway (M-39) in the cities of Detroit and Southfield and Redford Township in Wayne and Oakland Counties. The proposed project calls for adding a fourth travel lane for each direction of Eight Mile Road. This would be accomplished by paving the outside shoulder and installi curb and gutter at the edge of this new pavement. The existing pavement would be ecycled and the road resurfaced. As part of this project, the two bridges carrying Eight Mile Road over the River Rouge would be widened to carry an additional lane This widening would occur on the median side of the roadways to avoid disruption to the Telegraph (US-24) ramps. This project would not require the acquisition of any additional right-of-way. Under Federal and State Policy, any citizens who would be affected by the proposed project may request in writing, that a formal public hearing be held concerning the social, environmental and economic effects of this proposal. As required by Federal regulations, an Environmental Assessment has been pre-proposed action will not have a significant impact upon the quality of the environnent. Copies of the Environmental Assessment for this project may be obtained from the addresses below. Those disagreeing with the determination set forth in the Environmental Assessment

It's the Heart of the Cultural Center . . . It's the Hub of the Freeways . . . It's a Short Drive from Your Home!

Almost all residents of Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties are within 30 minutes of Wayne State University's main and medical campuses ... and residents of the six-county metropolitan region are within an hour's drive away.

All roads lead to Wayne State University: I-94 (the Ford) from east or west; U.S. 10 (the Lodge) from north and northwest; I-75 (the Fisher) from downriver and I-75 (the Chrysler) from north and northeast; and I-96 (the Jeffries) from west and northwest. Several major surface streets also offer easy access.

Once you arrive, you've really arrived. You are in a major center of vitality and activity around Wayne State University: the Detroit Cultural Center. And a few blocks away is the New Center area; a mile away is the Detroit Medical Center, one of the finest and most comprehensive networks of health care institutions in the nation. And we are three miles from Downtown Detroit, Hart Plaza and the riverfront. The Cultural Center is one of Detroit's best kept secrets. Discover beauty in the Detroit Institute of Arts. Mysteries of nature in the Detroit Science Center. Nostalgia for bygone days in the Detroit Historical Museum. The cross-cultural experience of the International Institute. And the joys of learning at Wayne State University.

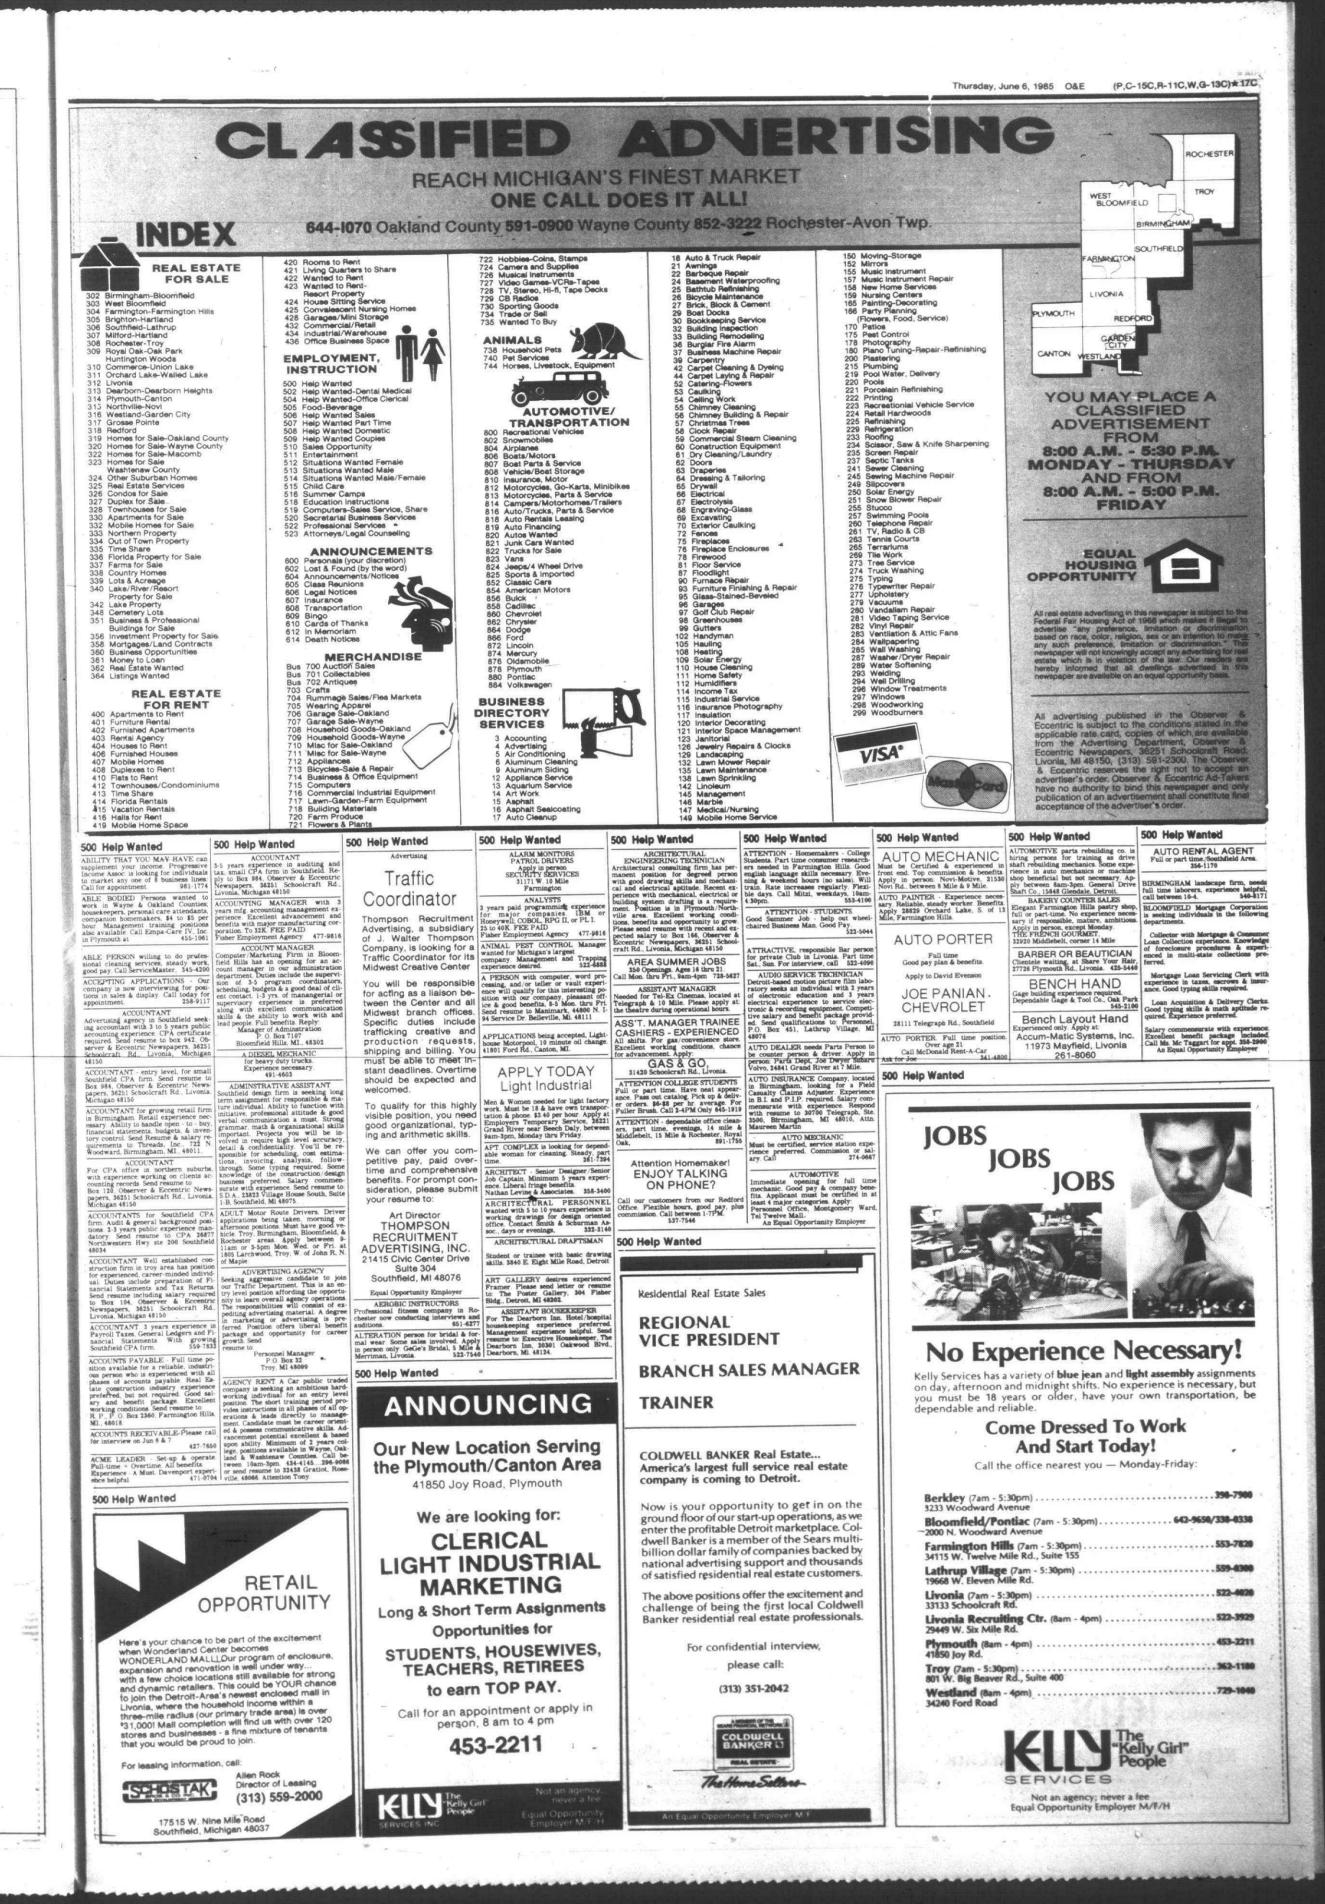

The bustling world headquarters of General Motors and Burroughs are a few blocks north in the New Center. The Fisher Theatre and the Golden Tower of the Fisher Building. Shopping arcades. Fine restaurants. Sidewalk musical performances.

In the Medical Center, physicians and researchers from Wayne State University, Harper, Hutzel and-Children's hospitals, the Rehabilitation Institute and Detroit Receiving Hospital work to cure ills and improve health care for all.

WSU is where the action is — the Three-Center area of Detroit, composed of the Cultural Center, the Medical Center and the New Center. For more information, call your "Opportunity Line," 577-1000, from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday.

from one generation to the next, along with myths about weaving and the utensils used. Women primarily are the weavers.

NO PATTERN IS done haphazardly. Every motif and symbol means something, such as the social status of the wearer or what tribe he comes from. A woman with two grandchildren wouldn't wear the outfit of a young single woman.

"The clothing is used to define you or where you're from," Totton said. "Ev-erything means something."

Among the frequent symbols found in the cloth patterns are blossoms, which reveal one's social class, and "tumpals," triangles that represent travel from one life to the next. Travel is a common motif, also shown by ships, horses and sea creatures.

"They always had a sense of life moving on," Totton said.

AMONG HER collection is a "selimut," a large mantle or wrapper, that features smiling buffaloes. The pattern of the selimut is symmetrical, so the figures on both ends meet perfectly when it is draped around one's shoulders

"There is quite a bit of the artist in the weavers," Totton said. "That makes it a special textile. You can see some feeling of creativity. They were having fun with the piece."

Animals and geometric designs have symbolic meanings in Indonesian weavings such as this Totton has an unmarried woman's garment with "cermuk," tiny bits of mirror or mica sewn onto it that make a kind of natural rhinestone effect. Shells were used for buttons on a noblewoman's wedding dress in her collection.

SOME PATTERNS are made in the batik process, in which wax is applied to the fabric before the cloth is dyed. The wax saves a pattern in the color of the foundation.

Ikatting is a process older than batik. To make an ikat, banana leaves (or leaves of other vegetation) are wrapped around each thread while the cloth is on the loom. The strings are dyed individually, after which the leaves are removed. New leaves are wrapped around threads before each following application of dye.

Women's clothing includes the "lau," a tube dress, the length of which indicates the social status of the wearer. Men wear hip wraps the way American men wear blue jeans, and shawls ("slendang") over their shoulders, ac-cording to Totton. When one man meets another of a higher rank, he drops the slendang off one shoulder to show he doesn't have a weapon.

"It's the polite thing to do, like tipp-ing your hat to a lady," Totton said.

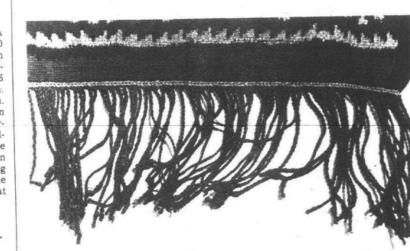

"SOUL CLOTHS" are presented at different times in one's life, such as the seventh month of one's first pregnancy. "(Patterns in the cloth) indicate the life of the child," Totton said. "It is used if the child is sick, to give strength. It

Middlebelt,

Partly cloudy today and tonight. Lows in the mid to upper 30s. Heavy rains predicted by tomorrow after noon, 2-4 inches possible.

The year was 1973, and I was on medical leave. I was lying around the house with an extension cord sticking out of my robe. The extension cord was attached to a heating pad, which was held to my back with elastic bandages.

Wherever I was, all I needed to do was plug into the nearest-electrical outlet. It was in this setting that an idea hit me: "Since I am off work for three months, why don't I take my aching back and family down to Flor-

Sandy's grandparents were always writing, wanting us to come down. Some time into the second week of "hot and therapy," I started feeling pretty good. My mother-in-law, June, was with us as she also was visiting her parents.

One day Mom said, "Well, I have to leave Friday." In shock, we all turned and asked in unison "Why?" Her reply was, "They need me to fill in for one of the girls at the store."

"You're gonna end a vacation in Florida to go back and fill in for some girl?" I sat in disbelief. "Man . . . If I ever get my own business, I hope you'll work for me.'

YEARS HAVE passed and my mother-in-law is my business partner. With a partner like Mom, I knew I couldn't help but succeed. A year or two after our store opened, I drew a Christmas card for Mom and on the cover of the card was a cartoon of me painting a picture on a high, shaky platform.

On the ground level was Mom nailing boards on the base to steady the spindly structure. Her support put me in business and as a youngster, my own mother's support and encouragement helped me stay into art.

Who's supporting the artist in your family? Now "support" doesn't just mean financial. No, the artist you know of needs much more support than just the money for art supplies. The artist needs positive statements for continual growth, honest criticism for learning, and someone to promote them with a gentle nudge or maybe a push Positive statements encourage growth. Like water to the roots of a budding artist, positive statements nourish creativity and encourage the setting of new goals. Artists ware wonderfully sensitive in a positive environment and grow accordingly.

On the other hand, artists are tragically sensitive in a negative environment and creativly become ill accordingly. I, for example, teach art, do art and write about art.

For me to be creative, I must be free from negative input. It jams my creative processes. Since this is such a high priority, my wife and motherin-law support me positively and for this I am thankful.

HERE IS an example of negative

narily upset about her picture and than the artist should find out why. when I asked what was the matter, she said, "My mom said I should complete one picture every lesson."

Talk about being under pressure. One young teen-ager consistently did well in her lessons yet never seemed happy with the outcome. Since I had never met her parents, I ran out to the car with her and her wonderfully rendered picture of a dog. She held it up to show her mom and I said proudly, "Isn't that something!" Her mother's reply was "I guess, I don't like dogs." The followup on both is that they, of course, dropped out of art altogether.

The visual image in a piece of art is an expression of the artist and it is waiting for a reply. To a new artist, the wait may seem endless as a viewer looks at their artwork. The comment by the viewer is either a stone in the artist's foundation or a bruise on a tender ego.

Honest criticism for learning. The word criticism means, "To judge the merits and faults of." Every artist needs criticism to be sure their artwork is accurate in its technical merits and understood in its expression. My own feelings about my individual pieces of art rise and fall with the criticism of my non-artist wife, San-

So I therefore feel that every artist needs someone to tell them "It's good" when it's good and "it's bad" when it's bad. If it is "good," then the input: One student seemed extra ordi- artist should be happy. If it is "bad,"

ARTISTS NEED a gentle nudge or Some even need a hit in a push . the head. Artists tend to settle into their work and need another person to push them, promote them and get them doing artwork they would perhaps never choose to to.

Like an agent, some mother's or father's line up art jobs for their young artist. Regardless of how much the artist gripes, the "work" is good. The pay may be little and the job may be drag but the "work" is good.

The artist may insist, "There's no way I can do it," but their promoter, Mom, Dad or whoever, knows they can and supports them positively. And that which couldn't be done gets done, with positive statements, honest criticism and oh yes, a bit of a nudge. That's the way at least it was with me thanks, Mom.

We have opened the store in Plymouth, so you can all stop out and take a look. It's in the Charleston Square on Main Street, right by the railroad tracks.

We will have classes out there too. We are taking names if you are inter-ested. The classes are filling up fast. If they are full, you can put your name on a waiting list and the next available spot you'll be called.

The number in Plymouth is 455-1222 and the number in Livonia is 522-6311. Our summer schedule will be available next week if you are interested in summer classes.

Arts committee names director

Peter Stroh, chairman of Concerned Citizens for the Arts in Michigan (CCAM), has announced the appointment of Marilyn L. Wheaton as its first executive director and the launching of an economic impact study.

Through generous foundation support, CCAM has expanded its activities. A grant from the McGregor Fund enabled CCAM to hire Wheaton, who has diverse experience in marketing, public relations and art education. She was director of marketing and development for John Hilberry and Associates, Architects. Wheaton previously had been on the staff of the Detroit Artists Market and the Smithsonian Institution, Ar chives of American Art, where she served as researcher and editor on documentary exhibitions and publications.

A $50,000 GRANT from the Skillman Foundation funded an important study of the impact of the arts on the economy of Michigan, which will be unveiled by Gov. Blanchard.

CCAM alerts citizens to issues of concern to art institutions throughout the state, by enlisting the support of public and private funding groups statewide and locally, and by organizing drives for group and individual members. All citizens and organizations in Michigan are welcome to join. For information, call the CCAM office at 647-2226
