Sentencing at 35th hits the fast track

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

Just when the 35th District Court appeared to be at its best, things got better.

First it was the consolidation under one roof on Plymouth Road across from Burroughs, then there was the streamlining of service, and now same-day sentencing.

"This is so much better for the internal use of the court personnel," said Chief Judge James Garber. "It's better for the defendant, it's better for the attorneys and it's better for the court."

"It" is a computerized assessing system which allows the court to screen offenders for sentencing recommendations the same day they are found guilty.

In the old days - all of several months ago - pre-sentence screening could take weeks. Now, some 40-50 percent of the criminal cases - mostly

- are sentenced the drunk driving same day.

"Anytime you have to schedule a case more than once, it's like filing a brand new case each time," Garber said during an interview this week.

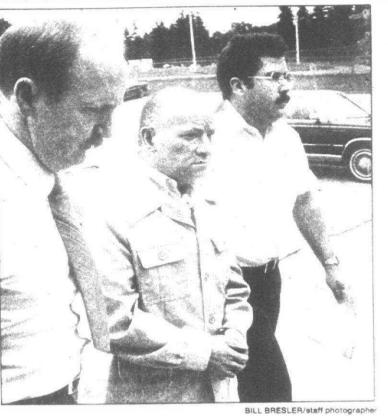

"Instead of having to schedule the matter three more times for sentencing, we can handle it in one day.

'It brings the sentence as close as possible to the actual offense, which for rehabilitation purposes, closer is better," said the judge, who likened the principle to training a child or pet.

The closer you get the punishment to the actual occurrence of the offense, the better your chances the message will sink in," he said.

"SAME-DAY sentencing is something we tried to do before but for whatever reason, we couldn't stick to,' said Garber, whose court services the communities of Plymouth, Canton and Northville

Canton police arrested a 56-year-old Ann Arbor man in connection with the abduction of a 4-year-old Plymouth girl from Canton's Meijer Thrifty Acres in July

James Statley was arraigned Tuesday on an abduction charge, carrying a maximum penalty of life imprison-ment, in 35th District Court before Judge John MacDonald. A plea of not guilty was entered for him.

Statley was arrested after a Meijer's security officer in Taylor told police about an October 1984 incident involving a man who matched the description of the suspect - 5 feet 3 and portly.

"We decided to go and talk to him, and we saw things that fit into the case and it led us further down the road, said Canton police Lt. Alex Wilson, who worked on the case with Canton Detective Rene LeBlanc.

"The more we checked on him, the better he became a suspect, and finally we got enough evidence to obtain a warrant this (Tuesday) morning," Wilson said. He declined to elaborate on the incident at the Taylor Meijer'

LEILA WARNER was abducted July 7 from Meijer's while shopping with her mother, Sonia Warner, 24. Warner told Leila to wait near the Barbie doll clothes for "just a minute," a Canton police report said. When Warner returned her daughter was missing.

Canton police searched through the store and fields around the building at Ford and Canton Center roads.

Leila was found by a young couple about 8:15 that evening walking along the side of a road in Leoni Township near Jackson.

Leila told police the man took her into the woods near Race Road, laid out a blanket and had her sit down. She said the man then left the area.

Wilson said there was no evidence Leila had been sexually assaulted during the incident.

At Statley's arraignment Judge Mac-Donald set bond at $50,000 or 10 per cent.

K mart, Wendy's join forces under one roof

Canton site serves as test for nation

By Diane Gale staff writer

To all those wondering people asking "Where's the beef," one answer will soon be: K mart in Canton Township.

Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburgers, made famous by Clara Peller croaking the inquiry over the airwaves, is making plans to serve up its hamburgers and other offerings from K mart on Ford and Sheldon roads. The businesses have entered a 10-year agreement allowing each to step away from the deal at any time.

Canton's locale initially will be the fee meeting K mart's current sales per square foot in the cafeteria operation, Palazzolo said.

Wendy's and K mart say sales gained from each other's customers are a major benefit of the joint venture.

"Because of Wendy's quality foods and services it will also increase traffic in our stores," Palazzolo said.

'As the (nation's) second largest retailer. K mart generally has very high traffic counts and that's something that is very important to Wendy's," said Paul Raab, Wendy's manager of corporate communications. Slashing opening costs by providing an existing structure is another major plus of teaming with K mart, he said.

"K mart has always been interested in the food industry," she said. "We have some type of food in all the stores.

A VARIETY of foods has passed by the K mart cash registers for quite some time. Many of the sites have cafeterias, food stands with meats and soft drinks, and a cookie and candy area. Most recently, gourmet sections have been added at some K mart locations.

Selling food has "proven to be a very good venture," Palazzolo said. K mart operates more than 100 cafeterias across the country, including Furr's Cafeterias in southern states and Bishop Buffets in the Midwest and Western United States country's only K mart providing a Wendy's, but if the trial run takes off, the plan will expand nationwide.

"We don't know how many K mart operations would be suitable," said Barbara Palazzolo, K mart manager of public communications. "This is just a test. This is a program that sounds like a good marriage."

WENDY'S IS SLATED to begin ringing up sales at the Canton site in mid-November. The fast food restaurant will operate from an 1,800square-foot space and will replace K mart's cafeteria. Contract terms require Wendy's to pay K mart a flat

'This is the first time Wendy's will be getting into any kind of relationship with a retailer," Raab said. But Wendy's operates in other "non-traditional" sites like universities and hospitals around the United States, he added

K mart has experience working with retailers by leasing out space to companies like Meldisco Shoes and financial services, Palazzolo said. She emphasizes that offering the fast food menu to K mart shoppers is not as unusual as it may appear on the surface

Wendy's hires about 50 people to operate a location, said Raab, who insists that an existing Wendy's location in Canton - Ford Road west of I-275 - is a plus rather than adverse competition to the planned K mart site.

"We have found out that location is such an important factor in the consumers' choice of where they will eat," Raab said. "Sometimes our restaurants that are very close to each other don't cannibalize each others' sales. In fact they help each other by getting people in the habit of eating at Wendy's

If the Wendy's soon to open in Canton's K mart is successful, the prototype arrangement could States.

Court sentencing is revolutionized

U&E. Thursday, August 22, 198

Quick sentencing became harder to do with Michigan's new drunk-driving law, which took effect in March of 1983.

Prior to the new, tougher law, alcohol screening before sentencing was left up to the court. Consequently, judges wouldn't require screening of first offense drunk drivers, Garber said.

"Unless there was some objective indication that a person has a drinking problem, like prior ofenses, we would sentence without screening. In cases where there was a question, offenders were sent to the probation department for a pre-sentencing evaluation and recommendation. Those required to go through the screening completed a two-phase process. First they would fill out a questionnaire, and then take part in a one-on-one interview with a probation officer - all aimed at signalling possible drinking problems.

The results of the questionnaire were shown as a MAST (Michigan Alcohol Screening Test) score Based on that score, the person was placed in a category of probability in regard to having a drinking probler

The second phase was a half-hour interview with the probation officer to reinforce the questionnaire findings.

Prior to the new law, the 35th District Court was handling about 800 drunk-driving cases a year, of which about half (400) required screening before sentencing, according to Garber.

THEN CAME the new law, which requires screening of all drunk-driving offenders

The 100 percent screening requirement, along with an increased drunk-driving case load, put the court into a sentencing tailspin.

"Before the law we handled 837 cases one year and 843 the next. In 1984, the first full year of the new law, we had somewhere in the neighborhood of 2,500 cases," Garber said.

"We now were doing six times the number of screenings — obviously that presented a problem. We were running two to three months between conviction and sentencing Sometime in 1983, the court applied to become a state-certified alcohol-assessment center working with the ADE (Automated Drinking Evaluation)

Under the ADE system, offenders fill out a computer questionaire which is read and compiled within minutes. The result is a score between one and five, five being the highest probability for having a drinking problem.

'For almost a year and a half we ran parallel systems — the old way and the ADE," Garber said. "After almost a year we made a determination that the computer, if anything, was doing a better

"CLEARLY, UNDER the old system, we were ssing a few with drinking problems who were first offenders - there were no objective indications of the problem in their record," Garber said. We have had some first offenders who came back as a three, four or five and do have a drinking

'I think that's one of the better aspects of the new law. Even if we are only picking up 50 of those type individuals a year, it is worth it because we are picking up 50 of them earlier," Garber said Sure the new law meant a tremendous case load start, but we now have come to grips with it." he

Persistence pays off for city furniture retailer

By W.W. Edgar staff writer

No finer proof of the truth of the old saying "Paience is its own reward," can be found than by listening to Ed Buzenberg, the veteran furniture dealer, recall the highlights of his career

Starting in the furniture business in Detroit with his father he has seen three establishments taken out from under him. And the one that will live with him always was the corner of Meyers and Schaefer in Detroit when lightning struck and set fire for a total loss.

Sitting in one of his favorite chairs in the Walker & Buzenberg furniture store on Main Street at Union close by the railroad, he said that the furniture business was born in him and that nothing could keep him out of it - not even a lightning and a fire.

He has been in Plymouth for the past seven years and has a lease which he calls solid for the next three. And he is looking forward to even better business because that section of Main Street is gaining in business locations and he plans to be a major part of the activity.

STARTING TO recall his career of 43 years in the furniture business he truned back the pages to 1933 when his father's store was at Grand River and Kirby in Detroit.

It was here that his patience had its first test. While business was good it had to give way to the Ford Expressway.

"We didn't mind that so much because the expressway was needed. But I always will recall my days there and how I got started.

From the rains of that first store he moved to Meyers and Schafer and was settled there nicely when the lightning struck. It was a terrific blow and left the place in a blaze of fire that ruined the entire building.

'There was nothing to do after that but move again. This time it was to Lahser and Evergreen. It was from there in 1978 that the move was made to Plymouth.

"We always had liked Plymouth and the people and many times we visited the Mayflower Hotel We found the people nice and the city in itself was nice and looked like a fine place to settle. "So we came to Plymouth in 1978 and hope to stay here for quite a while. What I liked about Plymouth was the fact that the people didn't look for modern furniture. They looked not so much for antiques but good, comfortable pieces. And that is what we specialized in when we opened. We wanted to serve the Plymouth

One of the area's supermarkets (Danny's) is going to move next door in a month or so, but Buzenberg thinks that will be a big boost in business. While he runs the business and now is bringing in his two sons. David and Eric, he also has his sister

VETERANS PROGRAM EXTENDED

Area Vietnam era and disabled veterans should be aware of recent changes affecting the Veterans Readjustment Appointments (VRA) program. VRA is a federal hiring program providing special, noncompetitive hiring of these veterans. Originally scheduled to expire Sept. 30, 1984, the program has been extended through Sept. 30, 1986, through pas of the Veterans Benefits Improvement Act (PL 98-543). It is not expected that the VRA program will be extended beyond that date.

In addition to extending the program, PL 98-543 raised the entry grade level maximum from GS/ WG-7 to GS/WG-9 and also provided limited appeal rights during the first year of appointment. A Vietnam era or disabled veteran who has completed no more than 14 years of education may qualify for a VRA. (This restriction may be waived for disabled veterans). For further information, interested veterans may call the local American Legion hotline at 453-9494 and leave a message regarding information desired.

Perfectionism ineffective

Perfectionism not only does not guarantee success, it may impede creativity and productivity. In a recent study on productivity and mental health, a group of salesmen who were perfectionists were determined to be under greater stress than their non-perfectionist peers. And the perfec tionists weren't earning any more money than their counterparts

According to Dr. David Burns, the discourage ment, depression, anxiety and pressure that often plague perfectionists can impede their creativity and productivity. Burns is the director of the Institute for Cognitive and Behavioral Therapies at the Pennsylvania Medical Center.

"You may find that you do some of your most outstanding work when you aim for good, solid performance rather than one stress-producing masterpiece," he said.

Burns said that compulsive perfectionists characteristically tend to think in terms of all or nothing and refuse to believe there's anything to be learned from past failures. This belief can be overcome by doing the following:

· List the things you do right each day. If you focus on the positives in your life you will consequently feel better about yourself. • Ask yourself if the "all-or-nothing" approach makes sense

Michigan public schools are teetering on the edge

curring soon While the surplus of educators has grown since the 1960s, when shortages last plagued state classrooms, concern is mounting once again among state and local school officials that a new shortage is of a new trend that may see teacher shortages oc-

Teacher shortage

a real possibility

"It was unreal," recalled one school administrator, Livonia School Superintendent George Garver, about the 1960s. "I remember opening a classroom in the fall with no teacher to staff it. The shortage of teachers was just unreal. We'd go anywhere to ind a teacher. I'd like not to return to those days.'

The shortage of teachers was so drastic in the mid-1960s, he said, that administrators from Michigan would travel to 15 and sometimes 20 states in search of a school teacher. Occasionally, they had to compromise in their search for quality instruc-

Now many school districts across the state are finding vacancies in teaching positions for math, science and special education

WHAT IS causing the shortage?

• In the past five years, there has been a 42 percent reduction in the number of graduates from Michigan teaching colleges and universities. Meanwhile, K-12 public school enrollments have dropped 10.5 per

• Today, Michigan schools graduate 3,000 teachers a year, compared to the peak statewide figure of 20,000 during the late '60s and '70s.

That indicates the market is starting to loosen up a little bit in job opportunities," said Dan Austin. irector of teacher certification for the Michigan Department of Education "We're starting to see an upward trend in the number of openings for new teachers.

 School officials are beginning to move through their once-lengthy lay-off lists. Only three years ago 5,000 Michigan teachers were listed on lay-off. Today that figure is down to 400. Discouraged by economic forecasts, many have found jobs in other

• The children of "baby boomers," emerging in such sunbelt states as Florida and Texas, are sending searchers into Michigan to tap local resources. The Houston Independent School District this fall alone will need 1,000 new teachers, state officials

 Retirement is on the minds of many of today's employed Michigan teachers. The state's recently adopted Early Teacher Retirement Program takes effect Jan. 1 and may open up retirement opportunities sooner for some educators and school administrators. It allows for "30 years of service and out" or any combination of years of service and age, adding up to 80. Years ago the average working teacher was age

35; that's now up to 44, the oldest in Michigan histo-

"The retirement bill combined with the reduction in the layoff lists and fewer teachers coming out of colleges - we could have some shortages," Austin

PATRICK SCHEETZ, assistant director of placement at Michigan State University, concentrates his work in the area of teacher counseling. He agrees there has been a "dramatic turnabout" in he teacher market in the past few years. "Two years ago there were 800 teachers hired

Leeco Diagnostics Inc. of Southfield and a delegation from the People's Republic of China have signed a tentative agreement to establish a joint enture in China.

cross the state. That went up to 1,800 one year ago. And this coming year, we anticipate there will be 2,500-3,000 hired. The demand is picking up." Scheetz said. Besides the reasons Austin cited. Scheetz said K-12 school enrollments in Michigan have been leveling off and, in some cases, slightly increasing. 'There's a mini baby boom going on around the country, but in Michigan, it's holding steady." He added the rebound in Michigan's economy has moroved finances in some school districts. As a result new teachers are being hired as programs are reinstated and class sizes are lowered. "Some school districts can afford a better teaching force now," he noted

THE UPSWING is especially visible in university placement offices such as Michigan State's.

Today, Scheetz said, recruiters from as many as 40 Michigan school districts have arrived on campus for the fall hiring, and some 90 out-of-state recruiters from the growth areas of the sunbelt also are seeking Michigan-trained teachers.

One area school that has begun hiring new faculty members is the 15,000-student Plymouth-Canton school district

"We don't have a lay-off list," said Norman Kee. the district's personnel director. "We're in the process of hiring. Last Monday we submitted 12 (new hires) to the board, and we could have another doz-

Kee said his district needs to hire new teachers from all specialties. He has found most applicants have classroom experience, many have worked as substitute teachers, and some have taught in private schools, where salaries are substantially lower than in the public system.

"I think sometime in three years, we may have a shortage. But right now we have a substantial number of applicants and can can be quite selective," he said. "We're still looking at 30-40 applicants for each opening.

IN BIRMINGHAM School District, Superintendent Roger Garvelink announced plans to hire at least 30 new teachers this year. "We definitely see some dramatic changes," says Garvelink. To get quality applicants, he said, Birmingham has had to develop aggresive recruitment procedures. It has re-established ties with college placement offices left untended in 20 years and has offered more than minimum pay to new-hires.

Like other school officials around the state, hough, he is looking at the future. In the next five years, a large part of the Birmingham teaching staff will retire. That is cause for concern today, he

"Fifteen years ago we hired warm bodies. We weren't discriminating. The public tolerated it. I see quite a different attitude today," he said. "Parents are having fewer children and have higher expectations for their children's education. And we do

IN LIVONIA Garver shares the same concern. He recently was recommended to serve on a statewide task force organized by the state Department of Education to look into the future of teaching.

According to Austin, the committee will: • Examine teacher supply and demand.

 Develop incentives to retain teachers. · Examine ways to recruit students into the ofession And look at recruiting minorities, currently under-represented in the education field.

Purpose of the joint venture will be to manufacture in China, and to distribute in China and elsewhere, a number of products currently produced by Leeco at its Southfield facility. Leeco's newly released visual pregnancy test kit,

IN THE mail the other morning came a etter from an old friend down in the Pennsylvania Dutch coutnry in which he was provoked that the U.S. Congress had adjourned for its vacation and had not done much, if anything, to reduce the record-breaking deficit.

We've been eating too high on the hog he wrote, and went on to tell about federal spending the country couldn't afford

As he read the letter, with the Pennsylvania Dutch flavor. The Stroller couldn't help thinking about his mother and how she raised five children with meager funds. Shortly after Father passed away Mother gathered us in a room and told us just what we faced and how we could meet

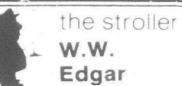

'Don't look over the fence." she began to see what the other folks have. Just make the best of what you have. There'l be plenty of happiness if you don't spoi your years by attempting too much.

AT THE time, to keep her family in healthy condition, she hired out as a washwoman to help some of the richer folks in town. It so happened the family had two girls, and they were happy as larks when Mother could bring home some of their old dresses and make them over. We lived on what you might call a

'hand-me-down'' system Unfortunately the rich family had no sons. So there was no handing down clothes for The Stroller. But Mother had an idea. She learned that the manager of the men's clothing store - also rather wealthy - needed help at home. So she hired out

And to show what she had on her mind the head of that home ran the biggest and best men's clothing store in town. So when it was time for styles to change, she came home with the old-style sport coats and trousers for her boy. One year she even came home with a stylish Fanama hat So, you see, her son was a bit late in style, but we weren't spending high. As the Dutch say, we weren't "eating high on the

IT WAS much the same in the little lunch counter Father left us. When she saw that such things as steaks were too highly priced, she gambled on an idea.

She took the steaks and ground them Then she fried the small balls of meat and placed them in buns. So far as is known that was the start of the hamburger craze Why they were called hamburgers, when it was steak meat, we never knew.

But steakburger or hamburger, it made little difference. America has been feasting on those small sandwiches for decades and doing well.

Mother's Pennsylvania Dutch creed en abled her to raise five children without spending more than she could afford. Andher children have lived with the same creed

SOMETIMES IT seems a bit rugge When we wanted things we couldn't afford, she always came to us and talked about the happiness we could have if we didn't eat too high on the hog. And The Stroller has followed that ad-

For someone who doesn't visit any of the gambling establishments, or play the Michigan Lottery. Howard Lawrence has taken a big gamble and is winning.

Lawrence, a resident of the City of Wayne spends his days as a truck driver. But several years ago he decided on a big gamble to help his wife raise their two children.

He purchased the front section of the forme McLaren grain Mill on Main Street at the C&O tracks in Plymouth and gambled on making a success of a restaurant in the midst of a nest of eating establishments.

Now Lawrence is certain that it was a good gamble. Business is a bit better than expected, even in August which supposedly is one of the slower oonths of the year and has the old scales around the three sections of dining rooms. Then he employed Stanley Forbush as manager and chef. Forbush had spent six years with the Denny's string of restaurants around the country and brought much of his knowledge in food to help with Lawrence's gamble. One of his specialties, and one of the favorite dishes of the customers, is stuffed cabbage

DISREGARDING THE old equipment from the grain mill he has retained the beams and pillars

"Of course we have all lines of food - steaks, chops, roasts and special soups. But the cabbage tops them all." says Lawrence. When he thinks of it, he likes the thought that the

Grain Mill Crossing is a success, even though it is in the midst of a number of other restaurants. For instance, the Plymouth Landing and Bode's are right across the street. Nearby are Hardee's at Mill and Main, the Big Apple at Starkweather and Main, and a Taco Plaza in between. Within a few blocks are Mary's by City Hall, the McNamara brothers with fresh fish and Shelley's Chicken

Community customs undo tough laws

THEY TELL the story, in the Wall Street Journal, of the Norwegian

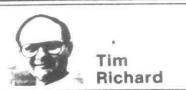

man who was washing his parked car when it was hit by another driver. Police smelled beer on the breath of the non-driving car washer, who ended up in prison for three weeks - for drunk

Norway's harsh laws are getting intense study from American officials who worry about the human and monetary damage attributed to drunk driving.

There are fallout worries from drunk driving. Bar owners are getting sued by drunks who have accidents. Drunk drivers sue state and local governments for offroad "obstructions." Everyone's insurance rates - not just bar owners,' but governments' and other auto owners' - seem to be soaring.

MICHIGAN HAS a long tradition of heavily taxing alcohol but otherwise tolerating drunk driving. On paper, our laws are tough, due in part to the efforts of MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving) But laws and social customs are two borhood bars that could reduce drunk different things, and we might as well recognize it before we begin lobbying our legislators for ever tougher laws. Consider these obstacles:

 Norway's taxicab system is used by a large percentage of the population, particularly drinkers. Michigan families, particularly in metropolitan Detroit, have a habit of multicar ownership and of driving to do almost everything. And the average southeastern Michigan resident wouldn't be caught dead, let alone drunk, in a bus, and wouldn't dream of supporting rapid transi

• Many British, continental and even older American communities have neighborhood bars that are within walking distance or even a short driving distance, of

In these suburbs of Detroit, a neighborhood bar isn't possible under the zoning laws. Moreover, local governments look at liquor licenses as an economic development tool, issuing them only to hotels which make a multimillion investment. Thus, while one side of the politician's face says "tougher drunk driving laws," the other side prohibits the kind of neigh driving

 Our society loves litigation. A European nation will try, convict and hang a killer in the time it takes the Michigan criminal justice system to get him arraigned in circuit court. If you are charged with third-offense drunk driving which could cost you a prison sentence you hire a lawyer and fight. The prosecutor, burdened with felony cases and suits over shooting mourning who do.

doves, will cave in and reduce the charge to first-offense drunk driving to avoid going to trial.

• Suburbs here practice urban sprawl. Traffic patterns are scattered, and cops can't be everywhere at once. The odds against your being nabbed for drunk driving are one in 3,000 or so. In hillier and more mountainous nations, where traffic s concentrated in valley roads, it's easier or cops to patrol

• Great Britain closes its bars at 11 p.m. or midnight. Michigan allows "last call" at 2 p.m. and closing at 2:30. Even politicians who vote enthusiastically for ougher drunk driving laws won't dream of moving up our closing hour to 11:30 or midnight

 Norway bunks its prisoners four to a cell. Michigan, with its liberal courts, needs special legislation to bunk two to a cell. There's always a Michigan lawyer available to file suit against jail condi-

TOUGH PENALTIES don't work in Michigan. We've tried.

We need to look at social customs We need to look at the bar industry, its location and hours. And surely we need to rut funding to law schools so that we have fewer lawyers looking for drunk drivers to defend and lawsuits to file

It's everyone's problem. Even if you don't drink and drive, you're paying high insurance and taxes because of people

Energy conservation has become a quaint idea, something that went out of fashion as soon as the OPEC nations resumed flooding our markets with crude. Car pooling, gas lines and dialing down are reminders of the bad old days, so we dismiss the fact that non-renewable energy sources are being tapped dry.

And we look the other way when the United States is mentioned as becoming a major debtor nation, thanks, in large part, to the oil we import.

WHEN A HARVARD panel was asked a few years ago to evaluate energy conservation, the panel concluded that conservation was important for two reasons: We can experience more dramatic shifts in not only reduce our energy consumption. but we save on our balance of payments.

If the powers that be in Washington stay cool to the idea of saving energy, maybe they can warm to getting our import-export ratio back in kilter. Then Iacocca can target the treasury secretary in his cause to get lower CAFE standards. It would be the right decision even if for the wrong reason.

By a vote of 213 for and 204 against, the House reduced by half the number of new public housing units proposed as part of the Department of Hous ing and Urban Development's fiscal 1986 budget. The vote cut the number of new units from 10,000 to 5,000, the same number funded in fiscal 1985. This sliced $990 million from the proposed HUD appropriation, which later was set at $14.9

FUEL EFFICIENCY - By a vote of 52 for and 39 against, the Senate tabled (killed) a sense-of-the-Senate resolution in behalf of higher fuel-efficiency standards for passenger cars.

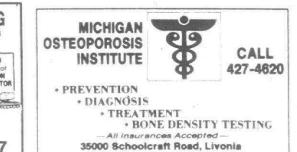

The resolution opposed the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration plan to lower from 27.5 miles-per-gallon to 26 mpg the standard that automakers must achieve by the 1986 model year. Detroit has had ten years to meet the 27.5 mph 'fleet average'' requirement. Chrysler is technologically prepared to comply, but General Motors and Ford argue that compliance will force them to cut production of larger cars and lay off thousands of vorkers.

This resolution, proposed during debate on (S 410), lacked statutory force and was only an exression of Senate opinion.

LEANNA WHEELER of Plymouth clocked 11,000 miles on her second-hand car during her fiveweek round-trip to Alaska. LeAnna, who graduated from Michigan State University last year, took along her friend, Enid Weiss of Southfield, a 1985 MSU grad.

They left Plymouth July 8 and headed north then west across the Upper Peninsula, through Wisconsin and Minnesota to Canada. They drove through Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Calgary to the Rockies and visited Banff and Jasper National Parks.

We heard about the Klondike Days in Edmonton so we went back to Calgary and up to Edmonton, LeAnna said. They passed through Dawson Creek in British Columbia and then on up to Dawson City in the Yukon.

They took along a tent for camping and LeAnna said they were glad they had a little propane stove as camp fires were not allowed in British Columbia because of the forest fires

CAMP FIRES were permitted in Alaska and they were impressed and pleased with the fact that all campgrounds are free in Alaska.

"We went to Mt. McKinley National Park. Now they call it 'Denali,' the old Inuit name that means 'the great one.' You can't drive your car into the park," LeAnna said. A free bus service is provided to tour the park, an eight to 11-hour trip. Passengers can stop off wherever they wish to camp or hike. When they want to leave, they just catch the next bus out.

She said they saw a lot of Michigan license plates in Alaska, many on recreation vehicles. 'Although some fly in, then rent a car when they get there. 'We had no major problems with the car and were never stranded. Prices were not bad in the large cities like Anchorage and Fairbanks. Gas averaged $1.60 per gallon but we paid as much as $2. Things were more costly in the little towns in between," she said

THE ROADS were good except in British Columbia. Fireweed bloomed along the roadsides

They saw black and brown bears, dahl sheep, moose, caribou and grizzlies, "just through binoculars, they were far away.

Fresh fish was inexpensive. They had fresh salmon and crab. Milk was expensive in Alaska but most

Baby sitter selection serious business

By Richard Lech staff writer

ELECTING a baby sitter is not child's play. Child-care experts said finding the right sitter is serious business and requires extensive research by parents. But parents don't always take the time and effort to check properly the person to whom they're entrusting their children's lives. "A lot of families will call a baby sitter and hire the baby sitter for Saturday night. Then their next contact is Saturday, and the parents have 15 minutes to tell the baby sitter about the child," said Rose Lebbon, a registered nurse and in-service instructor who teaches Annapolis Hospital's Red Cross baby-sitting course. 'You take all the time to nurture and develop a child, and then you go and turn them over to a baby sitter, and all the preparation you give them is 15 minutes?'

Using the wrong sitter - or one who's not been properly prepared -can lead to abuse or to tragedy when an emergency situation arises.

Last month a 24-year-old Livonia woman, Michelle L. Mackey, was charged with killing the 14-month-old girl she was caring for after allegedly coming angry at the child's crying Mackey, who has been charged with second-degree murder, told police she had disciplined the child by spanking and shaking her.

the baby to administering CPR or handling an accidental poisoning.

If the child starts crying, a sitter who has taken a baby-sitting course will have some idea of what to do. said Lynn Lecours, information specialist for the American Red Cross in Detroit.

The Red Cross course recommends that sitters ask themselves a series of questions to find out why the child is crying — Is the child hungry, too warm or too cold, in need of a diaper change, teething, in pain or discomfort, ill, or just lonely because the parents aren't home? The course then recommends what steps to take in each case.

"You have to go by troubleshoot-ing," Lebbon said. "If you go through the troubleshooting, and nothing seems to help, either call the parents or a neighbor. But you don't become frustrated."

The courses also cover what to expect from children at different age levels, so a sitter doesn't feel frustrated because he or she is expecting too much of the child.

'A person who's likely to abuse a youngster is a person who doesn't have a realistic perception of what normal behavior is in an infant," said Katherine Crossley, program director of the Community Commission on Drug Abuse (CCODA)/Livonia Counseling Center should contact several parents who currently are using the sitter's services - as well as parents who used the sitter in the past, to find out why they no longer use them

IF THE baby sitter will be using his or her own home to care for the child, parents should check if the sitter is registered with the state.

It's a little-known fact, but sitters who use their own homes to care for children that are unrelated to them and receive compensation in return must register as a family day care home, said Jacqueline Wood, the assistant director of Division of Day Care Licensing of the state Depart-ment of Social Services (DSS).

The division can tell parents whether a registered sitter has a criminal record or a history of abuse, Wood said.

The regulation doesn't apply to baby sitters who go to the child's home to baby sit.

"Only when the child is taken from its own home (does) the state feels the risk increases dramatically," Wood said

It's a misdemeanor for sitters who use their own homes not to register with the state, but many of them apparently don't know about the law or ignore it, Wood said. The DSS estimates only 20 to 25 percent of such

'We explain to them (sitters) the best way to go to an interview is just as you would for a job," said Lois Ray, a medical assistant who teaches baby-sitting courses at Henry Ford Hospital's Fairlane Center. "You should have the baby's parents interview your mother, and vice versa.

The sitter and child should have some time together, so the parents get an idea of how they get along.

'Let them have some time alone. where you can see them playing and interacting with the children," Lebbon said. "Does the sitter get down at their level, play with them, or is she standoffish?"

Lebbon suggests trying out the sitter for short periods, such as a trip to the store, before entrusting the chil-dren to the sitter for an extended period of time.

Once they take the job, baby sitters should have a working knowledge of the home - where fire extinguishers and doors and windows are and how to work door locks - in case of a fire or other emergency.

The sitter should have a clear idea of what to do if the child becomes ill or otherwise needs special attention. The parents should leave a phone number at which they can be reached, as well as the number of a neighbor in going on while the sitter is there.

'Ask the neighbor if anything unu sual happened. Did the kids seem under control? You'd be surprised what the neighbors say."

BILL BRESLER/staff photogram

(P,C)18

A mistake parents can make is to assign a baby sitter other duties, such as washing the dishes or vacuuming the floor, Lebbon said.

"If a baby sitter is frustrated because things are not getting done, I can see how they could lose control because they didn't know what priorities are," Lebbon said. "The first priority is to watch that baby. Nothing in the world is more important than the security of that infant."

'We really emphasize keeping a constant eye on that child, even when it's sleeping," Ray said. "We tell them to check in every half an hour. They don't have to touch them, just make sure they're sleeping peacefully.

PERHAPS the best way to find out how things are going with the sitter are through the child itself.

Parents should check for bruises or any abnormal behavior that would suggest the child is being abused or neglected. Ray recalls one child who panicked when placed in small room for a hearing test, apparently because he had been locked up in small rooms in the past as punishment.

expensive at Point Barrow up on the Arctic Ocean - $6 for a half-gallon. After several attempts, they flew to Point Barrow.

Their first flight was over-booked and another was canceled because of bad weather

LeAnna said there were about 2,000 Eskimos there. "It was an Army base at one time. It was freezing cold - Arctic perma frost. They gave us parkas. I had sweaters and two sweatshirts under the parka and I was still cold.'

They traveled to Homer on the Kodiak Islands and visited fishing villages along the coastline.

THEY DROVE down to Skagway and took a ferry to Prince Rupert, British Columbia.

Leanna said it was huge boat and an enjoyable trip. They saw whales, puffins, seals and eagles along the way. From Prince Rupert, they headed south to Montana and drove home through the United States.

LeAnna's description of her trip to Alaska was interspersed, frequently, with "I'd go back," and "I'd do it again.

Anyone considering a drive to Alaska should talk to LeAnna. She'll have a hundred reasons why they should go.

MIDWEST HARMONY

Chapter, Sweet Adelines, Inc. is moving, according Linda Lupo of Canton Township, president of the mend a variety of steps parents can take to find a sitter.

The first is to take a look at the sitter's credentials.

Parents should ask is whether the sitter has taken one of the baby-sitting courses offered by hospitals, schools, the Red Cross and other agencies. The courses can cover evervthing from feeding and diapering

"People can expect more from a child than a child is able to give in terms of attention, compliance or love.

PARENTS ALSO should ask for and contact a baby sitter's references.

Even a teen who's never worked as a baby sitter before should have a minimum of two references - a clergyman, teacher or school counselor who can attest to the sitter's character. Lecours said.

If the sitter is experienced, parents sitters actually are registered.

Mackey, the sitter charged in the recent Livonia infant death, was using her own home to watch the infant and was not related to the child, Livonia police said. According to state law, she should have been registered as a family day care home, Wood said.

'But we don't show her to be registered under this name," Wood said.

ONCE PARENTS find a sitter's credentials in order, they should set up an interview with the sitter, and if the sitter is a teen, with the sitter's mother, too.

case there's no answer at the first number

WHEN "BREAKING in" a new sitter, parents should observe the sitter in operation, just to make sure things are going smoothly.

"We encourage parents to drop in unexpectedly on a home so they see what goes on in a home when they're not supposed to be there," Wood said. 'Drop in at lunch, or get out of work early Lebbon said it's a good idea to have a neighbor keep an eye on what's experiences, but Wood pointed out they'll be more likely to open up if it's made part of their daily routine.

"If your child is of the age where they can verbalize, talk to the child every night about what they do at the day care home. If child has it as part of the normal day, they will start telling you what happened.

All the precautions in the world can't guarantee that abuse or accidents won't occur, the child-care ex-perts agree. But such measures greatly increase the odds of a happy relationship between parents, child and baby sitter.

Historical chronicle Book commemorates Plymouth church history

HISTORY commemorating the 150th anniversary of First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth has been published in conjunction with the sesquicentennial celebration. Written by Plymouth author Samuel Hudson, the book is available in hard cover.

Titled "150th Anniversary History First Presbyterian Church of Plym outh, Michigan, 1835-1985," the book chronicles the story of local Presyterians from the building of the first church in 1835 to events of the present day. The foreword is by the Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee.

The 200-page book, illustrated with 65 photographs of people and events past and present, is priced at $11. Copies may be purchased from the church office, 701 Church St., Plymouth.

Dr. Hudson is author of two earlier books about the history of Plymouth and a book published last year about the history of Schoolcraft College. He has written a weekly history column for the Plymouth Observer for the past 10 years.

THE BOOK HAS a list of pastors from 1835 to 1985, an index and a chronological list of highlights of the church's history.

Podium debut Plymouth Symphony invites 1st woman to lead yule concert

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

N SUNDAY, Dec. 15, Carolyn Eynon of Birmingham will pick up her baton, the members of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will be poised and at her downbeat the concert will begin.

No, Eynon hasn't wanted to be an orchestra conductor all of her life - only for about the last 15 years.

She's been conducting instrumental and choral groups in the metropolitan area since 1970, but the Plymouth Symphony concert at Plymouth Canton High School will be her first time conducting a semiprofessional orchestra by invitation.

Appearing with the orchestra in the Christmas concert will be the Madrigal Chorale of Southfield, a 60-member group Eynon has been directing since 1978

"I love conducting," she said with an infectious smile. "You're the instigator for all the sound. I never dreamt I was gonna be a conductor when I went to college. I was a major in piano performance. Choral conducting was a required course. I never knew I could do t until then. I love it.'

The chorale will give five major concerts in the coming season, each different in content - Prudential Town Cen-"Concert in the Garden" series, ter's Nov. 24; Old St. Mary's Church, Greektown, Dec. 14; Plymouth Canton High School, Dec. 15; Shaarey Zedek Synagog, March 11; and Christ Church Cranbrook, April 27

EYNON said the concert with the Plymouth Symphony is special because 'It's the first time the Plymouth orchestra has hired a female conductor.

They really went out to hire a female conductor and they called me. When I got that phone call, I couldn't believe it. I sent them a video. I have videos of all my concerts and that was it."

Not only was she told she could do the program herself, but she also convinced them they should have the Madrigal Chorale on the program which will include Respighi's "Laud to the Nativity," portions of the "Messiah," and a sing-along.

"It's very special for us to be there," she said. "I'm really geared to music for all ages. I'm always concerned with reaching out to everybody

A pre-doctoral candidate in conducting at U-M, Eynon said she has all of her classwork done for the degree, "But right now I'm on hold. When my little one's in school, I hope to finish it.

When she took over the Madrigal Chorale, which will be 71 years old this year, it was the Madrigal Club of Detroit and had 18 female members peri-

The word "club" in the name bothered her, so it was changed to chorale and the city of Southfield agreed to become a sponsor

'In 1981 we went coed, there is so much more in the repertoire for men's and women's voices

The chorale now runs between 50 and 60 voices.

"I'd like to keep it at 50 experienced, qualified singers," said Eynon, explaining that singers get new jobs, move away or run into other responsibilities. so she likes to have a few more than her minimum 50.

"It's a challenge to keep a real coherent sound."

EXPLAINING that the chorale rehearses 7:30-9:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Eynon said, "I find that, as an individual, it's important to be very up for rehearsals and to be very well organized. have a lesson plan for every week. Music people are doers. They like group activity, they like team spirit and everyone in the chorale is extremely busy. It attracts outgoing, disciplined people, so I'm not going to waste their time.

We have families - husbands. wives and children. We have members from Garden City, Northville, Novi, three from Grosse Pointe, one lady who drives in from Howell and 10 from Birmingham

"And I'm always recruiting," Eynon said, "always looking for that wonderful tenor, that wonderful bass-baritone

Evnon is an attractive, joyful person who can easily generate a high level of enthusiasm whether she's simply talking about her work or is on the podium conducting a chorus or an orchestra. Each concert on the upcoming schedule has something special going for it.

The holiday concert on Saturday Dec. 14, in Greektown in always a sellout, said Eynon. The March 11 concert at Shaarey Zedek Synagog will be the first with all Jewish composers. One of the selections on that program will be Leonard #Bernstein's "Chichester Psalm."

The Christ Church Cranbrook concert on April 27 will be a tribute to Leonard Bernstein.

Evnon's extensive background in music and choral work has brought her many satisfactions and taken her to many different countries. Still, the performance at Plymouth Canton High School on Sunday, Dec. 15, promises to be one of the most exciting in terms of challenges and gratification

Chorale of Southfield on Dec. 15.

Spark missing from Meadow Brook program

By Lisa Simon staff writer

The San Francisco Ballet delivered a conventional, well-received program Saturday night at Meadow Brook. The Detroit Symphony Orchestra accompanied.

The pavilion and lawn were packed with spectators, for the short, ordinary production. Performances were flawss, yet the spark of something new exciting and memorable was missing. This was a standard evening of ballet. It was riskless - a predictable sure-hit in a metropolitan area lacking its own resident classical ballet company, a would-be contributor to the classical dance form.

THE FIRST piece, "Allegro Brillante," 1956, was precisely delivered by both dancers and orchestra. The piece by Tchaikovsky was the last one he wrote before his death.

'I had no narrative idea for the work, only wishing to have the dancers complement the music as best I could, wrote choreographer Geroge Balanchine in the program. Mission accomplished. The dancers

THE first, second and fourth movements were delivered. Piano soloist Roy Bogas's skillfull fingering added much to the rendition.

The majority of the movements seemed like balletic square dance steps. This piece was a pageant of forceless fun.

Hip-swaying and shaking by the female leads elicited small giggles from members of the audience. Many dancers were included in this piece and the score included many recognizable ates an

You probably didn't know this, but I am a great cook ... outdoors, that is. Inside I can't even boil an egg, but outside on an open grill, I'm . . . I'm well, fantastic

Hey, I can roast a hot dog with the best of em. Sandy thinks I'm a terrific outdoor chef, but really with enough seasoned tenderizer and a couple quarts of barbeque sauce, anybody could be just as good, almost.

Of course I must admit, my wife's barbeque sauce helps. She makes it with grape jelly and you've never tasted anything so good. Ummm .

artifacts

Anyway, to reward my culinary process, Sandy bought me the top of the line, Golden Classic, double burner, auto start, side and front tray, gas grill complete with window and fuel gage

This grill has everything but a wash and rinse cycle, and I love it. But, you wouldn't believe the assembly instructions for this baby.

I spent two days looking for parts like the "venturi support brace screw 'c' " which was further clarified as a 'pan head standard sheet metal screw one and three eights long, coarse thread." You know I'm not sure I ever did find that screw.

ing aloud to myself I did it. A couple weeks later, I got an urgent call at the art store from my wife, Sandy. Honey your grill just caught on fire. "How can a grill catch on fire?" I asked in amazement.

Well, later when I got home, I was on the horn to the store. The manager said, "That must be defective, just return it, and we'll give you a new one."

I guess I was so relieved about getting a new replacement that I forgot about the job ahead of me.

Still smiling, I ripped open the box and out flew the instruction booklet, and believe it or not, it opened to "venturi support brace 'c' pan head standard" ... "Oh no," I gasped. standard" .... "Oh no," I gasped. "What's wrong?" Sandy asked, thinking it was the wrong grill. "I gotta put this thing together again.

Every time I try to explain a casting technique for sculpture, I get the feeling I'm talking you in circles just like the sadist who wrote the instruction manual for my grill.

SO HERE we go. I want to relate to you my favorite method of casting sculpture which is the making of a rubber mold. For this technique you need liquid rubber ($4.50 a half pint) molding plaster ($2.50 five pounds) and hydrostone ($3.50 five pounds).

The liquid rubber technique is fast. easy and the only way to produce many copies or castings from one orginal. The original can be soft clay, baked ceramic, wood, metal or just about anything you want to copy

Another good feature about liquid rubber is that it will not harm your original piece. For a mold of a simple kpiece imagine a detailed clay sculpture of a dog's head and neck.

Don't worry about the rubber's ability to cast details as it will clearly cast even a thumbprint left on the clay. First of all, with a throwaway brush, lightly apply a thin coating of rubber forcefully blowing out any air bubbles.

The first coat will dry in about 20 minutes. Then apply the second coat a little thicker allowing an hour or two drying time.

The color is your cue to when it is dry. The wet rubber is bright pink and as it dries it turns deep red. Apply at least four coats letting each dry thoroughly.

NOW BEFORE you pull the mold from off the original, mix up the moulding plaster and make a one-, two- or three-piece mold around the rubber mold. Without this support mold, the rubber mold will balloon out when you pour casting plaster into it.

The support mold only takes about 15 minutes to make and is well worth the effort. On a simple shape, as our example, you can merely stick the empty rubber mold in sand for support if the support mold step seems too involved.

Now with your support mold finished, separate the halves and peel the rubber from off the original. Let the mold turn inside out as you pull it from off of the original (kind of like pulling off a sock) next return the rubber mold so that it is a perfect negative of the original. Place the support mold around it and turn it upside down, so that the base of the mold is facing up.

Now mix your hydrostone to a heavy cream consistency and slowly pour the mixture into the negative space of the rubber mold. Hit, shake or vibrate the mold to loosen any air bubbles that might form against the rubber mold surface. Hydrostone will not stick to the rubber mold and in only 18 minutes, it is almost at a ceramic harness.

HERE'S the fun part: When the hydrostone is hard, separate the support mold and peel the rubber from off of the now perfect copy of the original. Best of all you can repeat this casting over and over, creating dozens of perfect copies of one original from only one rubber mold.

You'll love making molds with liquid rubber. You may even catch your-self walking around the house looking for things to duplicate three dimensionally. Castings with hydrostone is fast, easy and permanent. This technique works so good I bet I could cast a perfect replica of a "venturi support brace screw 'c' pan head standard . .

OLOR SHAPES the wardrobe's destiny for Fall/Winter '85. The smartest closets in town will hold a gamut of shades, from the palest tone pastels to vivid brights taken right off an Impressionist palette.

Daring are the Daliesque shades of chartreuse, lemon yellow and black when played off against contrasting backgrounds. Look for sophisticated dark-toned coats to peel back in the cool breeze to reveal brilliant linings and contrasting pattern on pattern sweater outfits that range to the outer limits of the rainbow.

Nightime goes brilliant, too, from darkest dark to fabulous jewel tones. You'll be hard pressed to choose just one of the extravagant, beaded, abovethe-hip jackets. Faux jewels at the wrist, throat and lapel, the bigger the better, also cover the spectrum of the rainbow. Pearls, pearls and more pearls, embroidered on clothes and draped around the throat, are as important as big, jeweled cuffs at the mint wrist. WE THINK one of the most dazzling design spectrums of the season is Sonya Rykiel's wool and angora sweatering. Figured with rhinestone amulets and gold bead trim, the shapes are now, the ambiance pure Imperial Russia and its czarist cossack regiments.

Rykiel represents the best of the international pastel collections while Bette Appel showed us that some of the truest and best brights come from Bloomfield Hills. Appel's "silkies" in own pleated skirt Appel's colorations are destined to leave a comet trail of color as they circle the globe.

Chanel gains new relevance this season with a palette of color that great house hasn't achieved in years. Once the territory of elegant but conservative matrons and young anti-establishement types who scoured vintage clothing stores for their suits, bags and accessories, Chanel comes roaring back with an entire new spectrum of brights patterned on the traditional Chanel but treated to new sophistication through the use of color

FOR DAYTIME and evening, metallics, paisleys, tapestries and brocades are shaped in deep, deep tones and the brightest hues, corraled by master craftsmen into designs suitable for the office, dinner and theater.

Feet sparkle with color this season, with the best color treatments bringing newness to boots, shoes and evening flats Paisleys, tapestries, jewel tone leathers are all worth consideration The appearances we like the most are both elegant and comfortable, which is no mean trick.

Throats and ears will sparkle with accessories and ornamentation The simplicity of the turtleneck will become something special when complemented by a collar of old gold beads

The shapes and colorations of the season are luxe, winking out a message that says "I am rich" as lights dance on this brilliant palette of colors.

Dusty pink wool and angora sweater, $665, and skirt, $590, softly shapes a new approach to Fall. The skirt is dusted with rinestones, and the sweater is sparked with rhinestone amulets and gold bead trim. By Sonia Rykiel. Hattie, Inc., Birmingham.

Coat shapes worth warming to

HERE IS an entire new segment of American women who are going to fall in love with cooler weather this year. These are the women we call serious coat collectors. The coats in store for them this fall are strong shouldered, mostly narrow in shape, sometimes full-skirted, and almost always very feminine. And they come in a most exclusive variety of fabrics and furs. The big wonderful looks include bold versions of the classic polo or camel's hair coat that sweep below the calf. Richer and grander versions of the narrow dress coat are layered with luxurious fur icing that sweeps about the upper torso to provide the deepest collaring in years. Reminiscent of Edwardian England, imperial Russia and the Raj. paisleys frankly emulate lengthened versions of the smoking jacket. Daytime and evening tapestry wrap coats are detailed with deep collaring and festoons of silk cording. Opulence is everywhere.

WHETHER HIP-length, 7/8-length, or cut off at the ankle, the elegant Chesterfield steps out in new brights with shiny gold buttons, or it smolders in eep shades that invite smokey paisley accessories The season's emphasis on texture and design is a point not lost on the fur industry, which has been shearing up for its own imaginative interpretations of the enriched look. Fur coats emphasize the attention to shape and proportion that has gone into resses, suits, pants and evening wear.

Fall Fashion

Like their wool contemporaries furs sweep to the ankle, rest at ease at the 7/8-length, brush the top of the leg just below above-the-knee skirt lengths. Wide world of sport: a madman's hideout

C.J.

Risak

VERY YEAR at this time, the same penetrating question strikes, flooring me with its direct simplicity.

After an hour or so, my wife may loosen her hammerlock and allow me to regain my feet. But her queries continue, gushing forth in a jumbled mass of confusion and frustration.

"What is this hangup you have with sports?" she demands. "Why don't you grow up? I won't see you for the next 10 months, you know. You'll work five nights a week, until two or three in the morning, writing about some silly game. Then you'll come home and watch another game on TV

'And don't give me that 'thrill of victory, agony of defeat' stuff either," she screams, shaking me by the collar. "There can't be that many thrills, that much agony in high school sports.

"Tell me it's the cheerleaders — that I can at least understand."

I MULL over her question, then explain it to the best of my ability.

"OK, it's the cheerleaders," I reply with what remaining breath I possess. Her grip around my throat loosens, followed by what big-time wrestling announcers would refer to as "a pause in the action.

I wait until she's calmed down before risking her wrath once again. "Now do you want to know the real reason? It's the thrill of victory, the agony of defeat."

In all honesty, I do believe my Wide World of Sports answer is as good as any. A Time magazine article on athletic milestones last week referred to sports as both "inessential industry" and "essential reverie." Americans devote an enormous amount of time and money on sports, a relatively inconsequential segment of life.

IT'S TRUE. People are starving in Africa and shooting in Lebanon, but the only death we acknowledge is the slow demise of the Detroit Tigers. Ask any sports fan on the street to spell apartheid and it's an even bet he'll ask, "Who's he play for again?"

Logic has never been any human's strong point. I'm a sportswriter, which makes me less human than most (a fact confirmed by any coach) and, therefore, less logical.

But I do try. I try to understand why Iran sends children on senseless suicide attacks. I try to understand the fear, the hopelessness, the waste of a nuclear arms race. I try to understand why terrorists explode car bombs in the middle of civilian populations.

Then I hear things like the hottest movie in Beirut is "Rambo," and I'm ready to give up.

SPORTS ARE EASY. Black and white. Good guys vs. bad guys. Winners and losers. Fans can cheer lustily for their favorites, hiss despisingly at their rivals.

And whatever happens on the playing field, there's always another game. Another chance or challenge. Sports are never (with English soccer a possible exception) a matter of life and death.

In the coming months, every high school

Chris Gilles is two matches away from making her debut at the U.S. Open Tennis Championship at Flushing Meadows, N.Y. Gilles bypassed the U.S. Open pre-qualifier tournament last weekend by winning the United States Tennis Association (USTA) Womens National at the Kiamesha Lake Country Club

She needs to win two matches at the U.S. Open qualifier Friday to earn a berth in the main draw of the U.S. Open.

The win at Kiamesha was the third tournament win in three straight weeks for Gilles, a Plymouth native and the No. 1 singles player at the University of Wisconsin. Two of the three wins were in national tournaments, the USTA National Hardcourt Championships in Cleveland and last week-

athlete will experience the sweet taste of victor and the sour stench of defeat. A single moment of a game, or even a practice, could highlight a season. But each — both the "thrill" and the 'agony" - will demand attention.

Sports are simple. Hard work precedes victory. That's all that need be understood. Give an honest, all-out effort, push your talent to its limit, and no matter what story a scoreboard tells, victory is achieved.

IT'S UNFORTUNATE real life can't be more like sports. Instead, the pendulum swings in the opposite direction. Recruiting scandals, drug addictions, labor strikes are frequent invaders on the sport pages, constant reminders of the nonsensical world in which we live.

A clash looms in the not-too-distant future. It's inevitable. On one hand, people see that hard, diligent work will be rewarded with victory. They believe that the simple ethic applied in sports can work in the outside world, too.

But decisive victory is rarely reached in real life. Ours is a world of mediation and arbitration. Compromise is the cure for the world's ills.

By the same measure, when the problems we face daily intrude upon sports, we're puzzled, shocked. An athlete making a half-million dollars a year risking it all by ingesting drugs, we ask? Doesn't he know any better?

Athletes are superior beings with superior talent. Drug addicts are torn and tattered, discovered roaming aimlessly on shabby city streets. No connection between the two is conceivable.

YET IT EXISTS: athlete and junkie. The real world mingling with sports. Can the two co-exist? Probably not, at least not as presently perceived.

Opposites attract, and as they do they become more alike. That, no doubt, is the future of sports.

My fervent hope is that it doesn't change too much. It's one of the few escapes from a life filled with harsh realities. It's enough of an escape that I prefer to base a career on it, and treat the rest of the world like the grim sideshow, rather than vice versa.

But none of this is explainable to someone who doesn't understand the importance of enduring a vicious tackle in exchange for two extra yards.

'It's that thrill of victory and agony of defeat,' I repeat to my wife, then add before she can alug me again, "and the cheerleaders look darn good,

Detroit-area race buffs better take note. There's a new kid on the block who made a smashing debut in Sunday's second annual Michigan MDA 10kilometer run in Southfield.

Dan Predmore, who arrived in town some 10 days ago from Ithaca, N.Y. startled most everyone by winning with a highly respectable time of 30:51.4

Predmore's not unworthy of the recognition.

It's just that race officials expected familiar faces like defending cochamps Joe Caruso and Tony Mifsud to head around the final turn and into the Travelers Towers area across from the Southfield Civic Center as leaders of the pack.

But it was Predmore who strode in first through the finish gate ahead of the 221 runners who completed the run A few moments after the race, the 26year-old Cornell University graduate maintained his sense of humor despite the humid conditions which took a toll on most of the competitors.

"I haven't lost in Michigan yet," he quipped while biting into a juicy piece of watermelon.

"I HAVEN'T raced in five weeks, and I didn't know what to expect. I surged ahead of the field about threequarters of a mile into the race and I usually don't like to do that. And I don't know why I did it today.

"I just started to put the pressure on them. I started hurting about the three mile mark, and at one point someone (Caruso) was only about 15 or 20 yards behind me.

"That's when I started moving again," he said.

Predmore, who lives in Bloomfield Hills and works at the GM Tech Center as a mechanical engineer, raced mainly 10k's and 5k's back east. Originally from Rochester, N.Y., he was a member of the Cornell track team.

Predmore says he doesn't really enjoy marathon racing, although he has competed in two of them at Boston. "I

running

consider myself mostly a 5k and 10k runner," he said

And he showed why on Sunday. He took the lead shortly into the run and never trailed, although it did get close halfway through the race.

Caruso, a member of the Livoniabased Racquets Unlimited Racing Team, nearly caught Predmore after working his way through the field because of a poor start.

"I thought I could catch him. But, the problem was, while I had to work my way up to the front, he was just cruising along. I had to work to get up there and by the time I reached him I couldn't pass him.

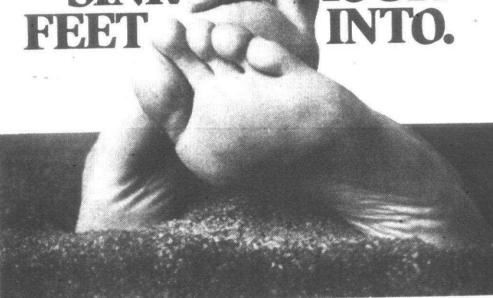

"I tried, but I couldn't," said Caruso, who finished first in his age group (30-39) but second overall with a time of 31.08.8. "I felt pretty good out there. But I've been running all summer and not really racing. I like to peak in the fall

Ron Lessard of Ferndale, another member of the Racquets Unlimited Racing Team, finished third overall in 31.45.4. Rob Utterback and Don Demetriades of Ann Arbor finished fourth and fifth, respectively, with times of 32:01.8 and 32.20.2.

Garden City's David Homann won the 19-under division and took sixth overall with a fine time of 32.39.4. A 1985 graduate of Garden City High School, Homann will attend the University of Tennessee this fall.

ELLA WILLIS, the veteran racer from Detroit, was the women's overall winner at 36:02.6. Joyce Rankin of Colorado Springs, Colo., won the 30-39 women's division and was second to Willis in 36:46.6. The third-place women's finisher was Kathy Frover of Bloomfield Hills (37:07.1), followed by Ellen Weglarz of Bloomfield Hills

In Grand Rapids, the Grand Plaza is all

hey call it a renovation, but the old Pantlind Hotel was never like this

The 12-story red-brick hotel in the heart of Grand Rapids dominated the city from before World War I until after the Vietnam War. But the lumbermen and furniture makers would never recognize the pink and green lobby gleaming under three huge crystal chandeliers and a ceiling cov ered with gold leaf.

The wrought-brass railings that g up the double staircase and around the nezzanine were there in the old days. And the owners were wise enough t leave things like the old glass mail chute, the kind that lets you watch a letter flutter past unexpectedly while you are waiting for the elevator.

The paneling that wraps around the lower half of the lobby looks as if it was reborn from another age, but I sus pect it's new, like the huge gold sun burst against the lobby wall.

WHEN YOU sit in the beautiful old world lobby it is hard to imagine that the other half of this hotel, a few hundred feet away, is a gleaming glass 29story tower with the atrium, greenplants and other contemporary accents hat go with it.

If you look at the space between the Pantlind, now the Grand Plaza East, and the glass tower, the Grand Plaza West, you could be even more confused. A two-story concourse connects the two buildings across what was once a street to a third building once used to

Sisters, Ore. - Strangers visiting her sometimes do a double take when passing a ranch just outside this small town. In the shadow of the snowcapped Cascade Range, scores of llamas graze in fields near the highways. Seeing these exotic, woolly South American relatives of the camel, one startled visitor asked, "Are you sure we're not in the Andes?" Few ranches in South American contain as many llamas as the Patterson spread near Sisters. "We generally have 550 or 600 animals on hand," says Jack Kellerher, who manages the Patterson herd, the largest in North American.

Although most lamas in the United States are concentrated in the Far West, herds also exist in unexpected places such as Oklahoma, Wisconsin, and Kentucky. Experts estimate that there are as many as 7,500 to 10,000 llamas in the country. "You can find them everywhere from Florida to Alaska," says Kellerher

SCIENTISTS TRACE the llama to a little ances tor of the camel that roamed the plains of North America in the Eocene epoch, about 53 million years ago. The protocamels wandered west to Asia and africa, to become today's two-humped dromedaries, and southward to the Andean region, where they evolved into the four American cameloids: llama, alpaca, guanaco, and vicuna.

Indiana of the Andean Mountain region of South Americal have raised and used llamas for hundreds of years. The animals carried supplies for the conquering Inca armies into all corners of their empire. Called the "camels of the Andes," llamas even today carry cargo over long, rugged mountain Llamas also provide the Indians of the Andes with wool. Their dried droppings provide fuel. Even after death, the faithful creatures serve the Indians, who make their hides into leather and use their fat to make candles.

Publishing tycoon and multimillionaire William Randolph Hearst brought the first llamas to the United States in 1929 for his elaborate California estate, San Simeon.

IT'S EASY to see why the gentle creatures, with their soulful dark eyes and inquisitive dispositions, have steadily gained admirers ever since. Children adore them as pets, businessmen value them for tax advantages, and hikers admire them as baggage carriers. Some ranchers in the West use llamas to guard their herds from coyotes.

On an Oregon ranch, a llama watches over a newborn lamb and its mother.

Others train them to pull pony carts. "They're wonderful around kids," says Kellerher, who points out that the llama's reputation as a spitting, vindictive beast is a total misconception.

Instead of spitting, a llama that feels it's been overburdened simply lies down until its load has been lightened. The animals can comfortably carry about 60 to 80 pounds.

"Llamas make excellent pack animals,." says the representative of a company that organizes pack trips. "They can cover 20 miles in a day. They're surefooted on the rockiest slopes. And they keep going in any kind of weather."

INVESTORS ARE finding that the animals are just as reliable on a financial statement. "In order to use llamas as a tax advantage, you should end up with a minimum of three pair," advises one llama promotion brochure. The pamphlet notes that lama herds can be depreciated over a three- to five-year period, and an "investment credit may be taken on breeding stock the year of purchase."

Cheap to maintain - they thrive on grass and alfalfa - and easy to care for, llamas are also fruitful. Females produce babies in 11 months, yet urrent demand far outstrips supply. Prices of 1,500 to $2,000 for single animals are common place, and a good breeding pair brings $15,000. A prize female recently went for $53,000 at auction. The more expensive llamas often compete for money prizes and ribbons at shows around the country, where they're judged on everything from bone structure and coloring to the quality of their wool. Good-quality wool goes for about $2 an ounce.

OWNERS SPARE no expense in caring for their charges. Just outside Bend, Ore., Sheron L. Herriges, known as the "llama mama," cares for sick and orphaned baby llamas from all over the country. "I've had as many as 38 babies in the nursery and five in the house at one time." she said

Not long ago, one concerned owner rushed his sick baby llama to Herriges in his private plane. "It was a delightful little four-passenger plane," she said. "And as it touched down we could see the baby in the back two seats, nose pressed against the window and ears flopping quite happily." Herriges thinks the budding llama industry will continue to flourish. "Llamas are aristocratic, clean, low-keyed, and gentle," she explains. Turning to an appealing baby llama named Harriet, she gives the clincher: "Just look at those eyes - that'll tell you why people get on wait-lists to buy them."
