1 dead after police pursue van

Garden City boy crashes into tree

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A 14-year-old Garden City boy died Thursday from injuries sustained in the crash of a van he allegedly stole from a Canton residence. The van was being pursued by officers from Canton and Plymouth townships.

Jaimes Griffin

According to Canton police Lt. Larry Stewart, Jaimes Griffin ran a stop sign at Haggerty and Plymouth roads and tried to make a left turn when he slammed into a tree. Jaimes was unconscious and pinned inside the vehicle. He was taken to St. Mary Hospital, Livonia, where he died at 5:45 a.m.

Stewart said that Jaimes apparently took the keys to a 1976 green Ford van from the home of a friend living on Hanover Court.

A Canton officer said he began following Jaimes at 3 a.m. when he saw the van go around a railroad crossing gate that was down at Joy Road west of Haggerty. The officer said the van was traveling erratically. He tried to stop Jaimes, who was without a driver's permit or license, Stewart said.

JAIMES, WHO was alone, turned north on Haggerty, and it "appeared he was going to stop, and then he fled north on Haggerty," Stewart said.

A number of sports trophies, most of them baseball, line the windowsills of the Griffins' modest green ranch home on Helen.

A well-used basketball net hangs above a two-story garage in the back. Beneath the net a bicycle lies haphazardly, looking as if it were abandoned in a hurry.

Several miles away at Garden City Junior High School the ninth-grade football team is practicing — without defensive back Jaimes Griffin.

Officers define departments' chasing policy

By Diane Gale
staff writer

An officer signals a motorist to stop. The driver speeds off instead and a chase begins.

In a split second, patrol officers have to decide how fast they should go, how long they should pursue, if the violation is serious and whether lives or property will be endangered by the chase.

In a case last week, a 14-year-old boy, being pursued by a Canton police officer, died after the van he was driving failed to make a left turn and slammed into a tree.

The officer was traveling "as high as 70 mph," said Canton Lt. Larry Stewart, acting police chief. The Canton police department is investigating to see whether the officer followed departmental procedures on pursuits.

"The preliminary investigation shows that the police officer was in the confines of the policy," Stewart said. "At this point the indications are that there were no violations."

WHEN A MOTORIST refuses to stop, the officer is allowed to pursue the vehicle in "a fashion that is safe for the public and the officer," he said, "and in a nutshell that's the policy."

The speed, location of the chase, traffic in the area and suspected violation should be considered. Officers are expected to use their discretion and evaluate each situation on its own merits.

Omnicom cable station is up for grabs

Sale expected within 10 weeks

By Dennis Coffman
staff writer

The sale of Omnicom Cablevision, a cable television system serving the Plymouth and Canton area, is expected to be completed in eight to 10 weeks, according to general manager Rick Collman.

The cable facility was offered for sale by its parent company, Capital Cities Communications Inc., in order to abide by Federal Communications Commission (FCC) regulations dealing with dual ownership.

Capital Cities is in the process of merging with the American Broadcasting Co., which owns commercial television stations throughout the nation.

Accordingly, Capital Cities must divest itself of Omnicom.

"The divestiture must be completed by Jan. 5 at the latest," said Collman, "because that's when the ABC-Capital Cities merger takes place."

Goldman Sachs and Co. is the brokerage house retained by Capital Cities to screen proposals from interested parties.

Omnicom provides cable service to Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Belleville and Hamtramck.

PROSPECTIVE BUYERS would include other cable systems, independent stations not operating in the Detroit area or media groups without Detroit area affiliates.

Collman said Omnicom will conduct tours of its facilities for prospective buyers at its Canton location on Ronda Drive.

Omnicom, which has never earned a profit, is regarded as a long-term investment. It provides a full range of cable programming, including news, weather, sports and premium movie channels.

Collman has claimed that rate increases are needed, if the company expects to make a profit. Omnicom recently raised the rate for premium channels to $10.95 per channel for new subscribers.

For the basic channels, such as Cable News Network (CNN), The Weather Channel, the Entertainment and Sports Programming Network (ESPN), the USA Channel and WTBS, Omnicom is allowed to impose a 5 percent yearly rate increase without approval of local governments.

After next year, cable companies will be completely deregulated.

CAPITAL CITIES also must sell Clear Cablevision, which operates systems in Dundee, Manchester, Chelsea, Milan, Saline, Clinton and Dexter. The two systems will be combined for the sale.

Capital Cities has sold most of its cable systems to the Washington Post Co. But the Post owns Detroit Television Station WDIV and is not eligible to own a local cable company.

There has been movement among cable systems recently. Maclean Hunter Cable Television and Group W are selling all or part of their systems.

According to Collman, the sale of Omnicom probably would not have a significant affect on programming, at least in the short run.

Rock 'n' roll lovers in line all night long

'The Boss' fans persevere in quest for concert tickets

By Dennis Coffman
staff writer

"Plymouth Rock" took on a new meaning Thursday, when hundreds of rock fans lined up in front of Ticket World to buy tickets to a Sept. 4 Bruce Springsteen concert to be held in the Pontiac Silverdome.

Many of the 400 or so people who were standing in line Thursday morning had spent the night on sleeping bags, partying the time away until Craig Videan, the operations manager of Ticket World, 770 Penniman, opened the store at 10 a.m.

At one point, the line stretched past the Penn Theatre, in front of the First Federal Savings driveway and around the rear of the theater.

But according to several people who were in line Thursday, police broke up the single-file line about 8:30 a.m. Thursday, forcing some who were at the rear of the line to move ahead of others, who had been in line all night long.

Police apparently did not want the line to block the bank lane.

The line Thursday morning ran from Ticket World, past the front of the Penn Theatre and past The Gathering on Penniman Ave.

Many of the ticket-buyers were bunched up near the Ticket World entrance and complained that police had attempted to keep the line compacted.

Plymouth Fire Department rescue units administered oxygen to several people who were overcome with exhaustion.

ALTHOUGH MOST were from the Plymouth and Canton area, Springsteen fans came from as far away as Ann Arbor, Dearborn and Detroit to buy concert tickets.

Cheryl Henning of Canton, Debbie Dergis of Canton and Diane Cogsdill of Ann Arbor spent Wednesday night on a Plymouth sidewalk.

The trio was near the front of the line beginning at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday. They were about 10 feet from the store entrance shortly after the store opened at 10 a.m. Thursday.

Legislators air gripes for proposed lemon law

By Teri Banas
staff writer

A Southfield office worker who drives 120 miles a day said she was "distracted" and "didn't know what she was doing" when she bought her new car for $12,000 just 10 months ago, and so far the car has spent three months in the dealer's garage for repairs.

Another woman, owner of a Fifth Ave. Buick, said she "paid $17,000 for a lemon, and I have a very sour feeling in my stomach" over it. She has taken it to the dealer's repair shop on numerous occasions, but the car still drops to 45 mph when it is accelerated to 50 mph. The owner fears danger to herself, her passengers and other motorists.

The owner of a Pontiac 2,000 complained he has "17 more payments to make on my car, and it's just sitting in the driveway." He bought a used car to drive instead of the new car when repairs didn't stick.

THE THREE unhappy new car customers were among 20 who testified 3 1/2 hours before a House committee hearing last week in Dearborn on a proposed Michigan "lemon" law.

Proponents say the measure, sponsored by 70 of the state's 110 House lawmakers, is needed to give consumers more remedies in dealing with the major auto companies.

"This is the number-one consumer problem," said state Rep. Burton Leland, D-Detroit, chief sponsor of the measure.

"A lemon law would put the burden where it should be on the manufacturer," Michigan builds 60 percent of all the automobiles in the country, and we think it's only right that Michigan should have a lemon law.

IRONICALLY, the House Committee on Consumers held the first of its four planned hearings across the state in the former home of auto pioneer Henry Ford, Fairlane Manor, on the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus.

Besides Leland, other committee members present were Democratic Reps. Justine Barris of Westland, H. Lynn Jondahl of East Lansing and Chairman Nick Ciaramitaro of Roseville. Two Democrats and all five Republicans didn't attend.

Other hearings in the next month are planned in Flint, Grand Rapids and Lansing.

According to Ciaramitaro, the proposal likely will receive his committee's support when it's presented to the full House this fall.

But he is fearful of its chances in the Senate.

THE SAME measure was introduced and approved by the House last year but died in the Senate.

It failed to get an airing before a Senate committee chaired by Sen. Richard D. Fessler, R-West Bloomfield. Leland accused Fessler of "sitting" on the proposal and logjamming its chances before the Senate.

Fessler could not be reached for comment.

"They (in the Senate) see it more as an anti-business bill where we in the House see it as pro-consumer," Leland said. "We're hoping to change the results this year in the Senate by getting testimony from around the state and showing the Legislature that this subject has merit."

THE PROPOSAL would help consumers get refunds or replacements for badly manufactured vehicles but only under certain conditions were met, including:

• The defect impaired the value of the vehicle.

• The consumer tried four times to have the defect repaired and lost 30 days of its use within the first year in the process.

• The consumer took advantage of the manufacturer's appeals board with a final settlement available in 30 days. The manufacturer would be bound by the settlement upon the consumer's agreement.

In addition, attorney fees could be recovered by buyers who won court actions against manufacturers.

Similar bills have been approved in 35 other states.

ATTORNEY BOB Drazin, who has represented clients with similar complaints, called the measure an important consumer tool because it defines a "reasonable" number of times a consumer should try to have the vehicle fixed before seeking a refund or exchange.

"There are no cases in Michigan right now that define that," Drazin said.

"Right now the burden is not on the manufacturer or the dealer but on the person with a leaky engine, for instance, who has to bring the car back over and over again for repairs," Drazin added.

Chris Andrews, director of a Southfield-based consumer-service agency called Aid for Lemon Owners (A.L.O.), told the committee that out of the 4,000 complaints he has heard in the past three years, some 650 people could have been helped if this measure were enacted.

"That should show you how big the problem is," Andrews said. "Of those, we found the average person took their car into the shop 12 times, spending 28 business days."

HE ALSO complained of the service his dealership provided after he returned the car for repairs. "I've never in my life been treated that way by people I paid $11,000 to. I think the country is in sad shape if this is the example of American workmanship," said Smola, who has since bought a used '76 Mercury Monte Carlo to drive while his new car is under repair.

A Taylor woman, Joan Farmer, had similar complaints. Recently, she began carrying a picket sign outside of the dealership showroom where her $17,000 Fifth Ave. Buick is under repair for a manufacturer's defect. She complained she was spit on and had the sprinklers turned on her during her protest.

"The consumer needs some protection, and we have none right now," she said.

ANDREWS further criticized existing arbitration panels as "frauds." Sponsored by auto companies, the panels are made up of members whose training consists of a two-hour film that stresses impartiality, he said.

"This is a war, it's a car war," Andrews said.

Andrews suggested that the arbitration process be monitored. He urged lawmakers to include a provision to that effect.

Many who spoke expressed frustration and despair in their dealings with defective cars and trucks.

Mark Smola, who traveled from Warren to testify, said he bought a 1985 Chevrolet Cavalier which began displaying problems within the first two weeks. He held of the inconveniences he has experienced relying on taxis and friends to take him to work when his car was sidelined for 16 days in the first month and a half.

County to consider collecting delinquent taxes

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Business owners in Wayne County who fail to pay their personal property taxes may find themselves talking to a county tax collector.

Under a plan proposed by county Treasurer Raymond J. Wojtowicz, delinquent personal property taxes — generally those a business owes on the value of its equipment — will be collected by the county.

The greatest beneficiaries of this plan would be the local units of government and the school districts, said Wojtowicz. "Experience indicates many businesses neglect to pay the tax) and then let it go on and on."

BEFORE IT'S enacted, the plan needs approval by the County Commission. The commission will consider it at its next meeting on Sept. 5.

So far, seven units of governments have asked the county to collect the tax on their behalf. In those communities, the delinquent taxes are estimated at $400,000.

Among those is Redford Township. Township Treasurer Robert Brang Jr. was not available last week to detail the amount outstanding there.

"MOST communities just don't have the resources to perform this service," Wojtowicz said.

The plan was presented to the commission's Ways and Means Committee last week. Commissioner W. Curt Boller of Brownstown Township complimented the treasurer for "taking the lead" in the collection plan.

It is made possible by a 1983 amendment to state tax law giving counties the permission to collect such delinquent taxes.

IN LARGER communities with full-time treasurer services — such as Dearborn and Livonia — delinquent personal property taxes already are being collected.

Livonia city Treasurer Elaine Tuttle said communities such as hers prefer to collect the taxes themselves when they have the personnel for the job.

Delinquencies on real property taxes — which generate the bulk of local and county revenues — are automatically turned over to the county for collection on March 1, the county treasurer said.

"We have about 500 businesses that go delinquent every year," she said. "We know them better. We've built up a history on them."

Public music programs are open at SC

Many music programs are open to the public through Schoolcraft College in Livonia this fall. Registration information is available from the Community Services office at 591-6400 Ext. 409. Among the offerings:

- Vocal Jazz Ensemble — regular rehearsals and concerts of jazz compositions, additions by arrangement.
- Music Readiness — for 5- and 6-year-olds, rhythmic activities and creative musical games in a 12-week course. Call for an audition.
- Laboratory Jazz Ensemble and rehearsals and concerts of jazz compositions, additions by arrangement.

Community Wind Ensemble — many performance opportunities available, admission by open audition.

Mail can be held for trips

Vacations are more enjoyable when you don't have to worry about the mail, says Postmaster Gene Cole.

"You can alleviate that worry by following these suggestions," Cole said. "Before leaving, either ask someone you trust to check your mailbox each day and hold your mail, or arrange for the post office to hold delivery for up to 30 days."

"If you choose the latter, contact the post office to complete the appropriate form, and remember to notify the post office promptly upon your return to resume normal delivery."

Pee-wee Herman gets involved in some silly business after his bicycle is stolen in "Pee-wee's Big Adventure."

the movies
Dan Greenberg

Pee-wee Herman tries to reclaim bike but loses audience

Pee-wee Herman is a very funny guy, but his humor largely works in the realm of one-line gags, his own particular posturing and grimaces.

He's funny on television, but unfortunately for all of us Pee-wee Herman fans it doesn't work for 90 minutes, particularly when the script was written with little intelligence and a simple-minded sense of story development.

Pee-wee's most treasured possession is his bicycle, a souped-up Roadmaster with wide tires and enough chrome and gadgetry to remind us all of the big-tired cars of the '50s. The nefarious villain, Pee-wee's fat and wealthy friend, Francis (Mark Holton), wants the bike so badly he has it stolen. That sets the tone of the film, which is ridiculous and silly rather than funny and laughable.

There's absolutely no point in stealing something one can buy a thousand times over. If we are to believe that Pee-wee's bike is so unique that it cannot be bought, then the film is at fault for not making that clear. The plot has no significant generative force. It is just silly.

IN ANY EVENT, Pee-wee sets out to recover his bike. Francis has chickened out and resold the bike. Pee-wee hitches to Texas, where a gypsy fortune teller has told him he will find his bike. Along the way he has a few adventures that aren't as funny as they should be.

His trip includes a guided tour of the Alamo, a potentially unpleasant demise at the hands of a biker gang, and other assorted jinks along the way to recovering his bike in a big chase sequence through the Warner Brothers' lot. Pee-wee also stops at the local bike shop where his would-be girlfriend, Dottie (Elizabeth Daily), works. Dottie would be his girlfriend if he would let her.

"Pee-wee's Big Adventure" falls flat in its delivery of what might have been a very funny series of eight gags in the best tradition of silent comedy.

In the one really funny sequence, at least at its outset, Pee-wee humorously burlesques romantic Latin stars in a tango on the bar at the biker's hangout in order to convert biker hostility to friendship through laughter.

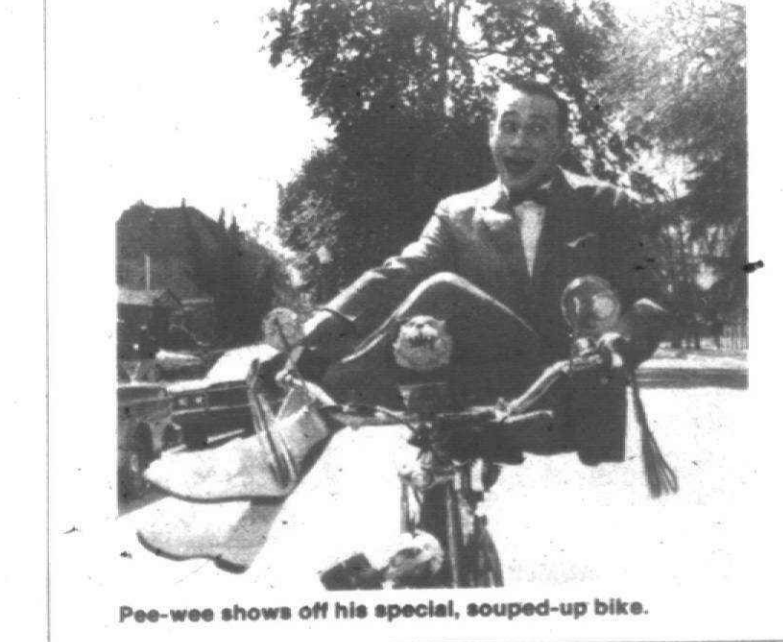

His classic Valentino stance and movement is funny initially but soon degenerates into a repetitious series of similar movements. One-liners are funny except when repeated too much. The sequence lacks closeups of Pee-wee's face which are a major element of his style. Eliminating these closeups eliminates much of his appeal.

TELEVISION IS an intimate, closeup medium, and that's where Pee-wee first prospered. And for good reason. He's funny with his intimate posturing and facial movements as commentary on the scene. He's not going to make it in long shots on the big screen.

People who deal in one-line gags ought to realize the importance of their punch lines, but that doesn't seem to be the case here. In the film's other potentially funny sequence, Pee-wee leads a merry chase through the Warner Brothers lot, disrupting production of several films along the way and getting Warners' security force hot in pursuit.

Again, the prime difficulty is the lack of clearly delivered punch lines, which need closeups to punch home their humor and the pace. This chase seems slow. The impact of seeing the havoc wrought by the chase and everybody's reaction to the devastation Pee-wee causes to save his bike is diluted, and there goes the punch.

The whole project is dim-witted and pretty disappointing. It's a shame to misuse a comic like Pee-wee Herman in an enterprise such as this.

Pee-wee shows off his special, souped-up bike.

State fair judging surprising

A funny thing happened to me on the way home last Tuesday. There I was, driving up Woodward Avenue, having left the wine competition of the State Fair judging early, confident in the knowledge that either one of two late harvest wines would be accorded Best of Show status again. They had been in my flight so I had tasted them and knew them to be better than previous winners of their type. Late harvest wines in Michigan competitions usually win out over their less glossy and intense competition. I had the beginnings and structure of this column already written in my head.

Then at 6 p.m. the phone rang, and David Brown of the Michigan Beverage News, another judge but one who had wisely waited until the Best of Show announcement was made, dropped the bomb. Not a late harvest, not even a white wine had won. A red wine! The only one of the 12 finalists so colored.

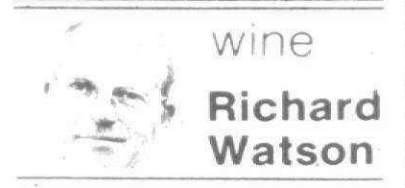

Best of Show is elected from the Gold Award winners only. Ten had been white, ranging from dry to very sweet, there was a fruit wine (a very fine Cherry from Leelanau Ltd.) and the veteran of previous years, the St. Julian (Paw Paw) 1981 Chancelor Noir. True, it edged the Grand Traverse Select Berry Late Harvest Riesling by only four points (certainly not statistically significant), but it wins a win.

The wine has long been respected, it is a sound wine. But to win the 1985 Best of Show is something else!

There is much disagreement in hybrid wine circles as to which red variety makes the best wine. Some say the Chancellor, some the DeChauneau, some the Chambourcin; a few even vote for the more vineable Foch or the more approachable Baco. And, of our several fine boutique wineries, one does not look to mass producer St. Julian for award winning wines.

Other Gold Medal winners should also be noted, each showing well in its classification. In addition to those already noted were the Tabor Hill demisee Champagne and their 1983 Ravat (Vignoles). Penn Valley's 1984 Vidal Blanc Reserve, both the 1983 Riesling and the 1983 Late Harvest Dry Riesling from Grand Traverse, Mawby's 1983 Vignole Reserve and their first Chardonnay 1984 from the Blenchi Vineyard also won Gold. Fenn Valley also won with their 1984 Dry Vidal Blanc and, in their second year only of competition, Oakland County's Seven Lakes Vineyard in Holly captured a Gold with their Dry Aureole, a very fine entry and my own personal choice as winner.

Silver Awards, 18 of them, were won by St. Julian, Tabor Hill, Grand Traverse, Good Harbor, Leelanau Lt. and by a new winery to the field, Lemon Creek Vineyards.

In all, 134 wines were entered for competition, up slightly from previous years. It is interesting to note, if somewhat subjective, that the judges as a whole were most laudatory of the wines this year. More Golds were granted and it was generally agreed that there were few unworthy ones. The panel, some 20 people strong, were mostly veterans of previous judging, and most indicated that winemaking skills in Michigan are making sound gains each year. This was supported by the chief guest, author Leon D. Adams, of "The Wines of America" fame, who has been a regular "guest" (that means he gets paid, we do not) for some time now. "The people of Michigan should be more aware of this fine industry they have," he said.

The other surprise of the day was the presence of Lemon Creek Vineyards. I talked to no one there who had previously heard of them, and the judges cover a cross-section of the wine world locally, mostly merchants, writers and teachers. From what I could learn, the winery is located in Berrien County and is owned by a family that has farmed the area for decades. They have just now, in 1984, become bonded and this year entered no fewer than six wines in the fair, all of them bearing a 1984 vintage date: Dry Vidal Blanc (Gold), Riesling-Vidal (Bronze), Vidal Blanc (Bronze), and three non-winners, a Johannisberg Riesling, a Baco Rose and a Ruby Rose. Winning medals with half of their first entries is very good indeed, my initial impressions of their wines were most favorable.

One discordant note must be sounded in this otherwise harmonious review. Missing from the event this year after previous undistinguished showings was the Zug Island Winery. It seems that their entries were mistakenly sent to the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba instead of Detroit and, when they were hurriedly being returned through Wisconsin, were held up by a local customs official who misunderstood them when he saw that some were green. Well, what do Blue Ribbon drinkers know? He was probably from the University of Wisconsin. Better luck next year, Bronco.

Moms keep peace at Springsteen ticket line

By Judith Doner Berne
staff writer

Hours after the last ticket had been sold, the debris in the parking lot at the Orchard 13 Plaza was still being cleaned up.

But Les Keywell, owner of the Record Outlet in Farmington Hills, said in general the all-night vigil and sale of tickets for Bruce Springsteen's Wednesday, Sept. 4, Pontiac Silverdome concert went pretty smoothly.

An estimated 250 people — mainly teen-agers — camped out in front of the store from Wednesday afternoon through Thursday morning, mirroring scenes at the Silverdome and other ticket outlets around metropolitan Detroit.

"We didn't have any fights, any altercations — just the mess," said Farmington Hills police chief William Dwyer.

Glenn Bednarsh, an Eastern Michigan University student from Farmington Hills, was first in line at 4:35 p.m. Wednesday. He heard announcement of the concert on the radio while working out at the Powerhouse Bodybuilding Gym, just down Orchard Lake Road from the record store.

TWO MINUTES later, he was joined by Michael Zack, from West Bloomfield, who confessed he may have exceeded the speed limit to get there. "My girlfriend-to-be will love going to this concert," he said.

Bednarsh ended up with fourth row seats and Zack settled for ninth row, Keywell reported.

The lines at the Outlet grew through the night — as did the trash — since fast food was readily available at the nearby Burger King and 7-Eleven. However, tempers flared as those who had been there the longest were joined by newcomers, some of whom attempted to cut into line, according to several accounts given Thursday morning.

At one point, someone reportedly yelled that the line was re-forming in another place, and some people lost their places. "I can see their complaints," Keywell said, but added that everyone in the original line probably got seats since he sold his last ticket about 1:45 p.m.

Diana Dietz of Orchard Lake said the scene was kept under control by the presence of two Southfield mothers, who camped out alongside their younger teen-agers.

"THE FACT THAT these two women were here helped," said Dietz, who came to watch over her younger sister Maria at their parents' request. "People were on edge. They held the peace."

"Never again," smiled Lorry Cooper, who accompanied her daughter Jennifer. "I have really kept watch on these young people all evening."

"I'm playing mother of the year," said Shelly Jacobs, who chaperoned her daughters Elise and Debbie and her nephew Eric.

Both women were as excited as the kids about attending the concert. "We've been waiting," Cooper said, "for years."

"I'm allowed one loud concert a year," Tim looking forward to seeing the concert," Jacobs added. "I just enjoy his type of music. I always have."

He doesn't set a bad example for anyone," said Lisa Leib, a West Bloomfield High School student who said she snuck out of the house at 2:30 a.m. to stand in the ticket line. "My mom doesn't know," she confessed.

"HE'S KIND OF like a classic," described Jenny Spelley of Farmington Hills. "He's not only for our age but for

Seeming misfortune opens eyes to outdoor spectacle

Each year as the hot weather waned it was the custom in our little white house with the green shutters to sit down and plan a vacation.

But this year things have changed. Because of circumstances over which he has no control, this vacation period is being spent at home. And what a surprising time it has been.

VERY SELDOM in other years did he sit in the backyard and pay any at-ention to the show that Mother Nature was putting on. With her furnishing the background of the stage, it was most delightful to watch the birds, the squirrels and on an occasion or two, to see a raccoon stately drop in the far reaches of the long lawn.

As the years passed on, The Stroller never paid much attention to the birds. Sure, he sighted the robins in the spring and the sparrows and others during the summer. But to him they were just birds — no glamour.

Now it is different. And these birds and squirrels have become the leading sight that Mother Nature puts on, day after day.

The cast of characters is not small. The birds come in flocks, sometimes as high as 20 just to feast on their bird seed breakfast.

After feeding on this breakfast the little birds, such as the cardinals, never lost out.

And to make sure they wouldn't be chased away, several flocks have made their way to the tall evergreens and established their nests.

It is so interesting to watch them. One can almost see what each bird is doing about the same time each morning. And after feasting they go roaming and looked in.

Reader challenges Rev. Schaden

Thomas Jefferson once wrote, "and I am paraphrasing — that he fought as a soldier so that his son could be a planter, whose son could in turn be a poet. What the soldier Jefferson couldn't foresee was that his poet grandson would proceed to prop his feet up on the mantle and insolently drawl that Grandfather was a war-mongering old fool who needn't have bothered engaging in anything quite so unpleasant as war."

It would seem impossible that anyone of even moderate intelligence should take such a silly attitude, based as it is on false hindsight and characterized as it is by a madly smug self-righteousness. Yet the philosophical stance of Jefferson's, reckless and ungrateful grandson has found a champion in the person of the Rev. Robert Schaden, whose "Moral Perspectives" seldom fail to exhibit that most tepid form of liberal religion, Christianity-and-water.

The gist of Rev. Schaden's recent article, "More Seem Willing to Challenge Madness" (Aug. 8), is that at the end of World War II, the United States was just as evil in its military tactics as Nazi Germany. The war in the Pacific theater was as good as over and there would have been no need for an invasion of the Japanese home islands. But the evil rulers of the U.S., believing that an invasion of Japan was not only necessary but would bring about many thousands of military and civilian casualties, decided to drop the atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki (no doubt cackling in satanic glee the while). "It was," Rev. Schaden writes, "as though we dropped it because we had it and because we were sick of being kicked around in a very long war."

This is all, of course, sheer drivel. But it is necessary to the purpose of Rev. Schaden's article. For in the next breath, our thesis-mongering man of God draws a parallel between the decision to use atomic weaponry in 1945 and Secretary of State George Schultz's statement that he favors pre-emptive military strikes against the amoral, blood-thirsty terrorists of the world. Mr. Schultz wants to strike at terrorism because, as we all know, we in America are "sick of being kicked around in a very long war."

But, according to Rev. Schaden, there is hope in the face of the ultra-conservative, "jingoistic" madness that leads people to support terrorism and the crazed, suicidal military tactics of the Japanese empire of World War II. There are (cue the strings and French horns!) many people today who "stand willing to challenge the madness that was the case in the waning years of World War II." The "good" reverend brushes tears of righteous joy from his eyes as he notes that, "Even the threat of jail is as powerless to stop them as it was with the prophets of old" — as if the phony, made-for-media, ceremonial "arrests" of today's war protesters have anything even remotely in common with the deadly ordeals undergone by the ancient prophets.

The world, as presented in Rev. Schaden's article, is such a simply understood place. It is divided neatly into two camps, on one side — Rev. Schaden's side — there are the peace-loving, long-suffering, morally pure-as-the-driven-snow forces of sweetness and light, and on the other there are the mindless, right-wing television preachers, corrupt government officials, and the war-crazed dolts who follow them. (Funny, but I've always heard that it is America's conservatives, who have cornered the market on stereotyping and malignant generalizations. One learns something new every day.)

What Rev. Schaden failed to comprehend as he sat down in the comfort of his study to tap out his cozy article is that one may be a Christian — as good a Christian as he — and yet recognize that the people of the world cannot be quite so easily categorized and that the moral choices open to us are nowhere near as tidily tied up as he conceives them. And while it is true that "Jesus refused to bless the sword of Peter," He did not tell Peter to give up his sword forever (see Luke 22:35-38). Self-defense is not forbidden, though slights and insults ("If your brother strikes you...") are to be forgiven. One can hardly see the will of God in withholding the use of deadly force during World War II, which would have resulted in the complete extermination of the world's Jews and the conversion of all "non-Aryans" into fodder for Hitler's death camps.

Rev. Schaden owes a good portion of his very existence and right to free expression to the fact that, in an earlier time a number of men and women — not slavering war-mongers, but ordinary men and women — saw fit to preserve our freedoms through the use of force, knowing full well that our lives and liberties could only be preserved thus, and not, figuratively speaking, by lying back on a couch and sneering at everyone else for not being martyrs and confessors.

Finally, as for Rev. Schaden's statements that World War II would have ended soon without deployment of the A-bomb and without a staggering number of casualties, that "we dropped it because we had it and because we were so sick of being kicked around," and that Americans staged post-war parades not to celebrate the war's end but to celebrate the atomic destruction of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, there is but one thing to say. Perhaps before discouraging a moral on the deeper questions of human morality as he has in his recent article, Rev. Schaden should master the much more fundamental Christian virtue of simple honesty.

'Chasing' policy targets discretion, common sense

If an officer went "belter skelter" at 90 mph at 5 p.m. on Ford Road it would be a blatant violation of the department's policy, Stewart said.

The policy of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department parallels Canton's. When officers try to stop fleeing vehicles they will "pursue in a reasonable manner so that the lives of other innocent citizens, the officer and property shall not be endangered," said Wayne County Sheriff Robert Picano.

OFFICERS ARE directed to radio their commanding officer that a chase could begin. The command officer, who checks the demographics of the proposed chase area, has the option of stopping the chase at any time, Picano said.

"The officer on the road has the discretion at the start when he radio in, but as an additional safeguard the command officer steps over to the dispatch and makes his or her analysis on if it should shut down," Picano said.

Training officers how to respond in various chase areas is critical in considering the safety and reason for pursuit, he said.

"Many times in hindsight it's easy to look back and say something should have happened," Picano said. "Ninety-nine percent of the time the police officer makes the right decision and does the reasonable thing."

Michigan State Police officers follow a similar pursuit policy.

Officers should consider the nature of the violation, presence of pedestrians and traffic conditions, population density in the area, road and weather conditions, the officer's familiarity with the area, patrol car condition, including the presence or absence of sirens and warning lights, said Michigan State Police Lt. Harry Hall.

At the onset, an officer is unaware of the multitude of situations that could happen in the course of the chase.

"Once you start a pursuit you're faced with a lot of unknowns," Hall said. "You can anticipate what will happen, and everything can go like clockwork, or totally contrary to the expected norm."

of the multitude of situations that could happen in the course of the chase.

MIGRAINE
Also called sick headaches, a typical migraine attack begins with a dull throbbing ache in one area of the head and progresses to a piercing pain. These torturous attacks may be preceded by a change in the field of vision - a flickering before the eyes, feeling of light or partial blocking of the vision. They are sometimes accompanied by nausea or vomiting. They are seldom relieved by aspirin. Their duration is from 2 to 48 hours.

Summer Salads that Travel Light

In summertime, our thoughts turn to eating outdoors in the fresh air and sunshine. Picnics bring to mind a range of favorite foods, including sandwiches, hot dogs, hamburgers and potato chips. Yet picnic food can be fresh and nutritious, too, if you plan ahead and prepare some easily-made, portable salads.

Salads are an ideal choice for picnics because often they may be prepared in advance, easing last-minute chores on busy weekends. Plus, convenient, ready-to-serve pourable dressings complement fresh salad flavors and make preparation a snap. Since bottled dressings are pre-mixed and already seasoned, there's no need to measure and mix extra ingredients, streamlining preparation time.

Many classic summer salads are made with mayonnaise-type dressings. You can buy such a dressing or make your own quickly and easily in the blender and experiment with different flavorings such as garlic or lemon.

Some consumers may be concerned about bringing salads on picnics because of "old wives' tales" that dressings may cause food spoilage. Nonsense! Contrary to popular belief, commercially prepared salad dressings actually discourage food spoilage, because the vinegar in these products maintains an acidity level that slows or retards bacterial growth and thus food spoilage. Nevertheless, proper precautions should always be taken, especially when low-acid foods, such as eggs, vegetables, meat, poultry and fish are combined with dressings.

For maximum safety, the best approach is to mix the dressing with fresh ingredients, chill the salad promptly, and keep it cool until serving. Spooning the salads into covered containers, then packing them in insulated coolers will keep them safely and refreshingly chilled for hours.

The salad bar goes portable when you bring along plenty of ice and a big container in which to display the salad bar fixings. Pick up a bag of ice on the way to the picnic, then arrange the ingredients in food storage bags or containers. Food picks or plastic utensils allow guests to choose their own combinations.

TAILGATE SALAD BAR

- | | |
|----------------------|--|
| Torn assorted greens | Cantaloupe balls |
| Roast beef strips | Red grapes |
| Salami chunks | Shredded natural Swiss cheese |
| Cherry tomatoes | Croutons |
| Mushroom slices | Thousand Island, Italian and Catalina dressing |
| Green pepper strips | |
| Cucumber slices | |
| Pitted ripe olives | |
| Watermelon wedges | |
| Pineapple chunks | |

Place all ingredients except dressings in individual airtight containers to take to picnic. Serve with dressings as make-your-own salads.

This Tailgate Salad Bar lets your family and guests use their imagination to create individualized salads. Simply bring a variety of fresh ingredients, such as sliced or cut-up fresh vegetables and fruits, meat and cheese cubes, and toppings, and let picnickers mix and match them with their favorite dressings. Try toting the portable salad bar in a child's red wagon filled with ice, or setting it up on your car's tailgate. This do-it-yourself serving style is ideally suited to outdoor dining or large gatherings.

Great American Main Dish Potato Salad was created to be everyone's new favorite recipe. Kraft research showed there are certain ingredients that are the most popular ones in potato salad, including (besides potatoes) hard-cooked eggs, onions, celery, mustard and sweet pickles. These were combined in a new "classic" potato salad that also contains broccoli, cheddar cheese cubes and ham strips to make it a main dish.

- | | |
|------------------------------|--|
| 1/2 cup salad dressing | 4 ozs. sharp natural cheddar cheese, cubed |
| 1 teaspoon mustard | 1 cup 2-inch ham strips, chopped |
| 1/2 teaspoon celery seed | 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped |
| 1/2 teaspoon salt | 1/2 cup celery slices |
| 1/8 teaspoon pepper | 1/2 cup chopped onion |
| 4 cups cubed cooked potatoes | 1/2 cup chopped sweet pickle |
| 2 cups broccoli flowerets | |

Combine salad dressing, mustard, celery seed, salt and pepper; mix well. Add potatoes, broccoli, cheese, ham, eggs, celery, onion and pickles; mix lightly. Chill. 6 servings Cook's Tip: For successful potato salads, choose potatoes with regular shapes so there won't be as much waste when they are peeled. Leaving the skins on during cooking is an excellent way to conserve their nutrients. If potatoes are peeled before cooking, use a vegetable peeler, keeping peelings as thin as possible, since some of the potato's nutrients are found close to the skin. Although potatoes keep more nutrients if they are cooked whole, they may be cubed before boiling to save time. Check them frequently to be sure they don't overcook.

One recipe that deserves an "A" for adaptability is Marinated Chicken and Vegetable Salad, a make-ahead combination of chicken, any type of pasta or cooked rice, fresh vegetables and plum chunks. The ingredients are marinated in Italian dressing several hours or overnight, then tossed with salad dressing to add a creamy, tangy flavor.

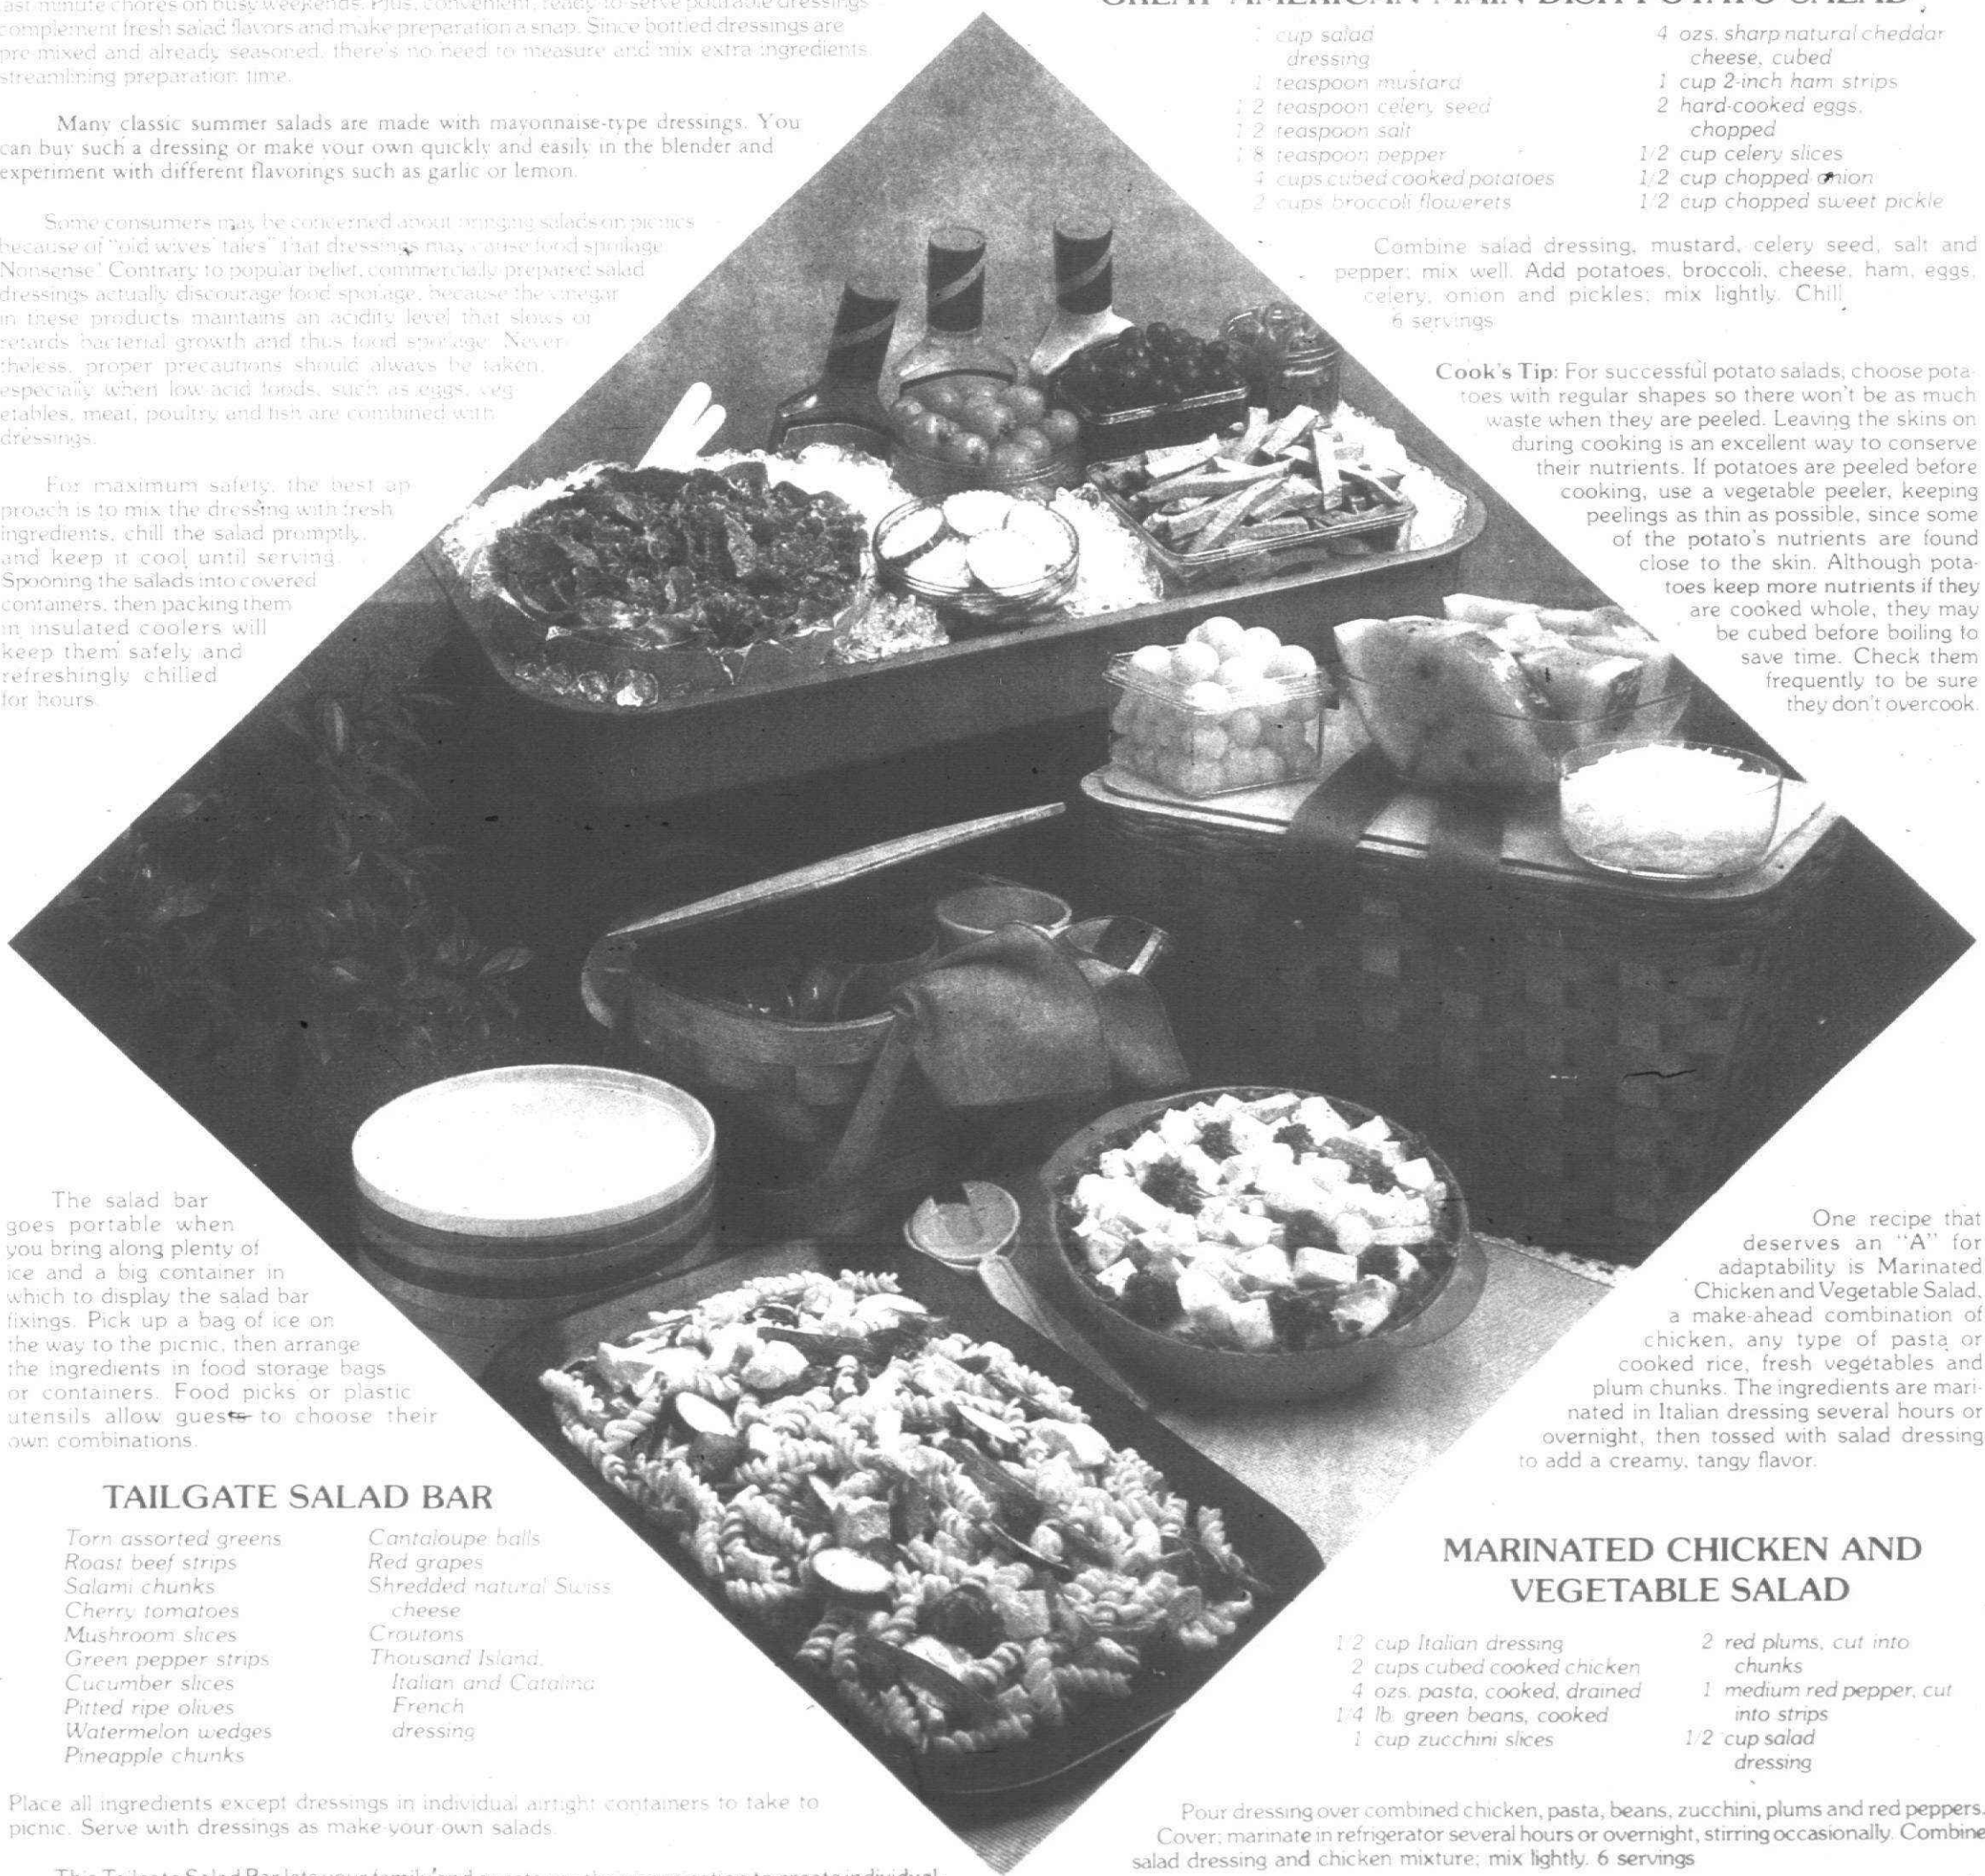

MARINATED CHICKEN AND VEGETABLE SALAD

- | | |
|-------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 1/2 cup Italian dressing | 2 red plums, cut into chunks |
| 2 cups cubed cooked chicken | 1 medium red pepper, cut into strips |
| 4 ozs. pasta, cooked, drained | 1/2 cup salad dressing |
| 1/4 lb. green beans, cooked | |
| 1 cup zucchini slices | |

Pour dressing over combined chicken, pasta, beans, zucchini, plums and red peppers. Cover; marinate in refrigerator several hours or overnight, stirring occasionally. Combine salad dressing and chicken mixture; mix lightly. 6 servings Variation: Substitute 2 cups cooked rice for pasta and increase salad dressing to 3/4 cup.

Cook's Tips: When buying broccoli, look for plenty of green color in the heads as well as the leaves and stems. Stalks should be tender and firm with compact dark green or purplish-green buds in the head. The more yellow "flowers" visible inside the buds, the less desirable it is.

Pita bread is ideal for meal-in-one sandwiches

Once featured only at Middle-Eastern restaurants and specialty grocers, the versatile pita - or pocket bread - is now readily available at supermarkets.

The bread quickly rose in popularity when both adults and children discovered its pleasant flavor and neat-to-eat shape.

This recipe for Barbecued Beef Pita Sandwiches offers a hearty new filling for the purchased pita breads.

The savory mixture starts with ground beef and barbecue seasonings.

The sandwiches become a meal-in-one with the addition of tender corn frozen in butter sauce, which adds rich flavor to the filling.

After the filling is cooked, simply spoon the mixture into pocket bread halves and top with cheese.

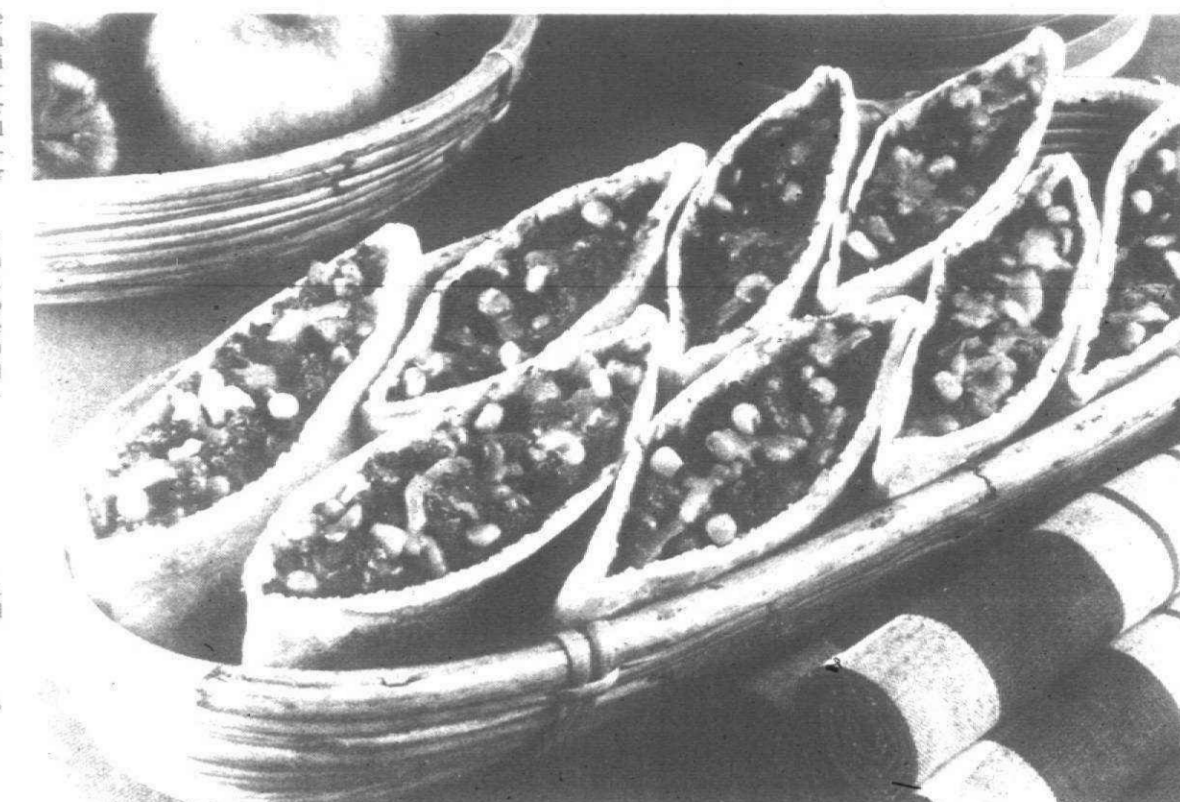

Each sandwich is wrapped in foil and baked, just to melt the cheese and warm the bread.

BARBECUED BEEF PITA SANDWICHES

1 lb. ground beef
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 garlic cloves, minced
1/4 cup catsup
2 Tbsp. chili powder
1/4 tsp. cumin
1/4 tsp. pepper
10-oz. pkg. frozen whole kernel corn with butter sauce in a pouch
1 tomato, chopped
6 pocket breads (6-in. diameter)
4 oz. (1 cup) shredded Cheddar cheese

Heat oven to 350 degrees. In large skillet, brown ground beef with onion and garlic; drain. Add catsup, chili powder, cumin, pepper, contents of unthawed corn pouch and tomato; cover and simmer for 8 to 10 minutes or until corn can be separated by stirring. Continue to simmer for 3 to 4 minutes or until corn is tender.

Cut pocket breads in half. Spoon 1/2 cup ground beef mixture into each pocket bread half. Spoon about 1 Tbsp. cheese onto top of each sandwich. Wrap each sandwich in foil; place on cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes or until cheese is melted and sandwich is thoroughly heated. 6 servings.

Whether you make it yourself or buy prepared pita bread, you will find its uses are endless and delicious. Filled with barbecued meat, pita makes a perfect meal all by itself.

Veggies to dress up a meal

Orange Supreme Vegetables and Vegetable Custard Bake are two dishes guaranteed to dress up any meal without requiring elaborate preparation.

Several favorite vegetables are even highlighted in each dish, using frozen vegetable combinations. These frozen mixtures are especially convenient for entertaining since they already contain the right proportion of vegetables needed for each recipe.

A mingling of interesting flavors makes Orange Supreme Vegetables a particularly delightful side dish.

A tangy and distinctive-tasting sauce flavored with orange juice is served over a colorful display of steaming broccoli, cauliflower and whole baby carrots. Garnished with slices of fresh orange, this impressive-looking meal accompaniment hints at its delicate orange flavor.

For convenience, both conventional and microwave cooking instructions are included with this recipe.

Vegetable Custard Bake is another side dish that clearly steps out of the "plain Jane" mold. A combination of tender corn kernels and broccoli, accented with red peppers, adds both flavor and texture to the lightly seasoned egg custard mixture.

This vegetable dish requires no last-minute attention since it bakes one hour before serving.

ORANGE SUPREME VEGETABLES

16-oz. pkg. frozen broccoli, cauliflower and carrots
2 Tbsp. margarine or butter
2 Tbsp. flour
1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup orange juice or orange slices, if desired stirring once halfway through cooking. Cook until thickened. Serve as directed above.

VEGETABLE CUSTARD BAKE

16-oz. pkg. frozen whole kernel corn, broccoli and red peppers.
4 cups half-and-half
6 eggs
1/2 cup flour
2 Tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. white pepper
1/4 tsp. nutmeg

Cook vegetables according to package directions; drain and keep warm. In medium saucepan, melt margarine; stir in flour and salt until smooth. Gradually stir in orange juice; heat until thickened and bubbly, stirring constantly. To serve, pour orange sauce over vegetables. Garnish with orange slices. 6 servings.

MICROWAVE DIRECTIONS: Microwave vegetables according to package directions; drain and keep warm. In 2-cup glass measuring cup, melt margarine on HIGH for 40 to 60 seconds or until melted. Add flour and salt; blend well. Microwave on HIGH for 1 minute. Add orange juice. Microwave on HIGH for 2 to 2 1/2 minutes.

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 13-by-9-inch (3-quart) baking dish. Rinse vegetables in warm water; drain well on paper towel. Set aside.

In medium saucepan, over low heat, heat half-and-half just until warm. DO NOT BOIL. In large bowl, beat eggs until light and lemon colored. Stir in flour, sugar, salt, pepper and nutmeg; mix well. Stir in half-and-half and vegetables; pour into baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 55 to 65 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Let casserole stand 10 minutes before cutting and serving. 8 to 10 servings.

Green rice is mini trauma so eat it by candlelight

I usually rely on garnish or sauces to color dishes.

I stay away from dyes - except for Easter eggs - not counting the time I had blue meat. It came from South America. I really can't tell you why the meat was blue. I can tell you why I was. It was psychological. Blue and meat just didn't go together in my mind's eye.

Spinach and green go together. I've found that green is a restful color at the dining room table. Rice and green don't go together, but the flavoring is worth the mini trauma.

If you're squeamish, you can dine by candlelight.

GREEN SOUP

3 cups clear chicken broth
1 cup water
1 package (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach, thawed
1/4 pound sliced boiled ham, coarsely cut
1/4 cup instant mashed-potato powder
1/4 pound pepperoni, thinly sliced instant potato and pepperoni and simmer several minutes until slightly thickened. Serve with chunks of warm, buttered bread. Serves 4-5.

GREEN RICE

4 green peppers, seeded and cut up
1 cup coarsely chopped parsley
1 cup coarsely chopped onion
1 garlic clove, crushed
2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. black pepper
1/2 cup olive oil
1 1/2 cups raw long-grain white rice
2 1/2 cups clear chicken broth

In blender or food processor, blend green peppers, parsley and onion in 3 increments until pulverized and turn into bowl. Add garlic, salt and pepper and blend well. In large saucepan, heat oil and saute rice about 5 minutes, constantly stirring. Add green pepper mixture, reduce heat to medium and simmer 5 minutes, occasionally stirring. In small saucepan, bring broth to boiling and pour over rice. Let rice resume boiling, reduce heat to medium low, cover and cook about 15 minutes, without stirring, until liquid is absorbed. Fluff up rice with fork just before serving. Serves 6-8.

Apple, bran muffins can boost fiber intake

The benefits of fiber in our daily diets has received special attention in recent years.

Fiber is a valuable aid to our digestive process and often can be indirectly helpful in preventing certain digestive-related disorders.

It is found in many different foods, but most noticeable in bran, the outside seedcoat of cereal grains.

Bran has a flavorful taste and is used in countless recipes for muffins, breads, cakes and cookies. Dried Apple and Bran Muffins are a good example of how to put healthful and appetizing bran into your diet.

These muffins rely on bran flake cereal and chopped dried apples for their wholesome-taste and nutritious quality. Nutmeg and cinnamon are also used to add just a hint of spice flavoring.

Although muffins are traditionally served at breakfast, these tasty baked goods can easily find their way into menus for brunch, lunch, tea-time, or snack-time any time of day. Serve them piping hot with butter or jam and coffee, tea, or fresh-squeezed juice.

DRIED APPLE AND BRAN MUFFINS

(Makes 12 muffins)
1 1/4 cups bran flakes
1 cup water
1/4 cup oil
1 slightly beaten egg
1/4 cup chopped dried apples
1/4 cups flour
1/2 cup nonfat dry milk
1/4 cup sugar
2 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
1/4 tsp. salt

Soak bran flakes in water in medium bowl 5 minutes. Stir in oil, egg, and apple. Combine flour, dry nonfat milk, sugar, baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg, and salt. Make a well in center. Stir in bran mixture just until moistened. Spoon into 12 buttered 2 1/4-inch muffin cups. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 20 to 25 minutes, or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from muffin cups and serve warm, or cool on wire racks.

Esther Hulsing honored by BPW

Plymouth Business and Professional Women named Esther Hulsing recipient of their 1985 political service award. The presentation was made at a recent BPW club meeting at Hillside Inn.

A resident of Plymouth for more than 40 years, Hulsing has been a leader in many facets of community life — education, the arts, governmental Girl Scouting. She is clerk of the charter Township.

Hulsing is a member and president of the Wayne County Municipal and Township Clerk's Association.

She was a charter member of the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women, serving as chapter president and a member of the education and legislative committees.

She was a Girl Scout troop leader, chairwoman of Cedar Lake Committee Plymouth Community Girl Scouts, president of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council and served on the National Board of Girl Scouts.

Hulsing was a member and chairwoman of the Plymouth Community Fund for 10 years, a charter member of the Plymouth Panhellenic Association, a member of the Plymouth Symphony Society, the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Plymouth Community Arts Council, serving on the board for six years.

She was a member of the Plymouth Community School Board for 18 years and served as board president for six years.

She is on the Garden City Osteopathic Hospital Board and chairs the Rouge River Watershed Council. As a member of the Plymouth, BPW she chaired the legislative committee. Hulsing also has served as president of the Woman's Club of Plymouth.

PLYMOUTH BPW is part of a national network of 3,500 local organizations that make up the BPW/USA National Federation. The Plymouth club, established in 1928, works with the national federation to promote full participation, equity and economic self sufficiency for working women.

Marilyn Alimpich, president, and Joanne Delaney, past president, represented the branch at the national convention. They were among 3,000 delegates at the meeting in Hartford, Conn.

Alimpich said, "It was exciting to be actively involved in the women's movement, to have a chance to express my opinions on the issues that I think are important to all working women."

Serving with Alimpich on the board are Marcie Greeley, recording secretary; Barbara Pedersen, first vice president; Carole Lieberman, second vice president; Cindy Fullerton, treasurer; and Laura Bate, corresponding secretary.

Esther Hulsing's 40 years of involvement in the Plymouth community is recognized by the Plymouth Business and Professional Women with the presentation of the club's community service award.

New Morning to host open house/registration

New Morning School, a state-certified pre-school and K-8 cooperative in Plymouth Township will host an open house/registration day 9-11:30 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 28.

Interested parents will have an opportunity to meet teachers, visit the classrooms and learn about the curriculum.

A student-centered, individualized approach is used with all age groups. The school is at 14501 Haggerty Road, just north of Schoolcraft Road in Plymouth Township. Parents unable to attend the Wednesday open house may make a personal appointment by calling the school, 420-3331, between 9 a.m. and noon. Registration usually can be completed any morning, but an advance call is preferred.

For more information call Elaine Yagiel, director, 348-9294, or at the school.

OPENINGS ARE available in the following programs:

Me and My Shadow, a new parent-toddler class for fall. Parent and child participate in play time, crafts, songs and fingerplays. Class for 2- and 3-year-olds will meet 10:15-11:15 a.m. Thursdays, beginning Sept. 19, for basketball spring and was very popular. Early registration is suggested.

MWF Pre-School class, limited to 12 students, meets 9-11:30 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Classes provide a well-rounded educational program for children 2½ to 6 years in a consistent peer group. Music, French, computers, crafts, cooking and readiness skills are included. Parents may enroll either as a co-op or non co-op member.

EARLY PRIMARY, a certified kindergarten class, meets 12:15-2:45 p.m. daily. The introduction of academic skills is combined with ample opportunity for play, socialization and experimental learning. Some older, more mature 4-year-olds will be accepted.

It also is suitable for children needing a transitional year before first grade because it is small, individualized and activity-oriented.

Middle school program is limited to 12 children. This unusual class provides lots of individualized instruction and much project-oriented learning. A full academic program is planned as well as music, French, computers, art, swim and gym. Student interests are incorporated in the program while initiative and responsibility are encouraged.

NEW MORNING School is the only parent cooperative in southeastern Michigan for students in preschool through eighth grade.

It has been a pioneer in family-centered education in the area. Co-op expectations are flexible and can be worked around a parent's work schedule. Parents assist as aides in the classroom, help with maintenance of the building, plan fund-raisers and are involved in administration and curriculum decisions.

A non co-op option is available for parents unable to assist.

Centennial Dancers expand fall classes

Everyone from pre-schoolers to adults can sign up for a fall dance class offered by the Polish Centennial Dancers of Plymouth.

As well as the regular Polish dance classes for youngsters over 4, a new class is opening for pre-schoolers, under 4. The adult Polish ballroom course will be divided into two categories, basic and advanced. Participants will receive instruction in the polka, oberek and waltz.

The program has been expanded to include a new ethnic class with instruction on custom and culture of Poland preceding ethnic dance classes.

And for those who want to get back in shape after a summer of vacations, festivals and cookouts, there will be an aerobics class. Centennial Dancers teachers are Angie Cislo, Gail Wilenski and Marty Pack. They invite all those who desire to dance, whatever their nationality, to join a fall dance class.

For more information or to register, call Chris, 459-5896, or Joanne, 464-1263.

Canton seniors go for the gold in Olympics

By Loraine McClish
staff writer

The sixth annual Senior Olympics drew 725 participants and at least the same number of spectators who covered the length and breadth of Oakland Community College's Orchard Campus for the competitions that ran from baking contests to tennis games.

Big winners in the quest for medals were Jule Cook and Etta Handelman, both Farmington Hills residents.

Cook finished the daylong event with four gold medals, coming in first in the 50-yard free style, 50-yard breast stroke competition in her age category, for her needlework and for her knitting and crocheting expertise.

Handelman took home three gold medals for competition in the one-mile run, the 100-yard dash and the 50-yard dash.

Participants were easy to spot on campus, identified by their pink and blue T-shirts bearing the names of the olympic sponsors, Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan, Oakland Parks and Recreation and Michigan Recreation and Parks Association, moving from one or the other of the three or four events going on simultaneously inside the buildings as well as on the grounds.

Meanwhile seniors could win a tour, buy foot cream, pick up a host of free literature while strolling through the exhibit tents, watch the dance contests or kibbitz at the checkers tables.

JERRY GAWURA from Canton took the gold medal in the softball toss, a competition that drew one of the largest number of participants.

Katherine Polenz, from Farmington Hills, captured the gold for Frisbee accuracy, followed by silver medal winner Ann Ragda of Canton.

Other Farmington Hills gold medal winners were Nida Price who won the 50-yard free style competition in her age category, Roger Van Dorpe for golf putting, and Johannes Spreen for the one-mile walk.

Silver medal winners were Bessie Polizzi from Canton, for her ceramics; Mary Koldy from Farmington Hills in the shuffleboard competition; and Carl Thornburn from Farmington Hills for diving.

Walter Dziegieleski of Canton Township had his throwing distance, accuracy and batting hits measured, then had to run 240 feet from home plate in one of the 20 events that made up the Sixth Annual Senior Olympics.

new voices

Brian and Janet Carson of Leightwood, Plymouth, announce the birth of their son, David Andrew Carson, Aug. 13 in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor. They have a daughter, Sarah, 6, and a son, Daniel, 4 1/2.

If you still believe in me, save me.

For nearly a hundred years, the Statue of Liberty has stood on the edge of the New World, America's most powerful symbol of freedom and hope. Today the ravages of almost a century of weather and pollution have left their marks. Corrosion has eaten away at the iron framework. New holes continue to appear in the copper sheets that form the exterior.

Less than a mile away, on Ellis Island where the ancestors of nearly half of all Americans first stepped onto American soil, the Great Hall of the Immigration Center is a hollow ruin. Rooms are vandalized, passageways overgrown with vegetation, walls crumbling in decay.

Inspiring plans have been developed to restore the Statue and to create at Ellis Island a living monument to the ethnic diversity of this country of immigrants. But unless restoration is begun now, ceremonies marking the hundredth anniversaries of these two landmarks in America's heritage could be held in commemoration of national treasures that no longer exist. Sections of the statue have already been declared unsafe and closed to visitors. The 230 million dollars needed to carry out the work is needed now.

All of the money must come from private donations; the federal government is not raising the funds. This is consistent with the origins of the Statue. The French people themselves paid for its creation. And thousands of American school children contributed to its construction and to the pedestal.

The Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Centennial Commission appointed by President Reagan is asking every American business, every American citizen to join in raising these funds. The torch of liberty is everyone's to cherish. Could we hold up our heads as Americans if we allowed the time to come when she can no longer hold up hers?

One hundred years ago school children gave their pennies to put her up. Your dollars can keep her from falling down.

Endless optimism in CEP kick camps

photos by BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

If all goes according to plan, the 1985 soccer season could be a ball for both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton. Last year, Salem had a little trouble finding the ball, such as Mike Zarretti above.

By Chris McCoosy
staff writer

It was a fun season last fall for the two Centennial Educational Park boys soccer teams.

Plymouth Canton rolled to a 14-3-1 record and won the Western Division of the tough Western Lakes Activities Association.

Plymouth Salem advanced to the regional finals of the state tournament before bowing out against Livonia Stevenson. The Rocks finished with a 13-6-1 record.

Canton will lose three starters off last year's squad, Salem six.

If last season was fun, this year could border ecstasy.

Said Salem coach Ken Johnson: "We have a lot of depth this year with 11 promising sophomores. We are well conditioned as usual and have good chemistry. I think we will be challenging the top teams again and go for the regional finals, at least."

Said Canton coach Mike Morgan: "We hope to improve our overall record from last year and we'd like to go further in the state tournament (Canton was ousted in the districts by Catholic Central)."

However cautious each coach may be at this stage of the season, both are undeniably optimistic for their teams' success.

And with good reason. What follows is a brief preseason look at the two CEP soccer teams.

PLYMOUTH CANTON

Morgan transformed Canton into an area contender in just his first season a year ago. In so doing, he stamped an identity on the Chiefs as an aggressive, fundamentally sound and fast soccer unit.

Expect those same traits to be present this season.

All-Area standouts Rob Opatrny (senior fullback) and Steve Morell (senior forward) are back this year to co-captain the Chiefs. Also returning are all-league midfielder Bryan Whiteley (senior) and all-league goalie Brian Gavigan (junior).

Brad Neville (senior forward), Tony Shiner (senior midfielder), Greg Houston (senior fullback) and Scott Morgan (junior fullback) also return to the starting unit.

Morgan is looking for help from newcomers Dave Dahlberg (junior forward), Jim Hadde (sophomore mid-field) and Jeff Tutor (freshman mid-field).

Morgan, though high on his squad, has a weary eye out for the other teams in the area.

"Churchill, with all the transfers they got from Livonia Bentley, will be good. Stevenson has a strong tradition and Salem is very talented," he said.

Winning in the Western Lakes never has been easy.

PLYMOUTH SALEM

The Rocks should be an unusually tight-knit group — the roster includes five sets of brothers including two sets of twins. Poor Ken Johnson will have his work cut out for him just keeping all the siblings straight.

U-M relying on Rice grads

By C J. Risak
staff writer

It happens every few plays in practice. Paul Jokisch breaks from the University of Michigan offensive huddle and trots to his split end position. He drops into a three-point stance, glancing toward the quarterback barking signals.

Then he shifts his gaze toward the defense, looking for weaknesses, pondering his pass pattern. At once he knows it's not going to be easy, because lined up a few yards away, on the opposite side of the line of scrimmage, is Brad Cochran.

"He's the best," was how Jokisch described his Wolverine teammate. "He's the best I've run up against. His size, strength, speed — he's got it all."

The pair have been teammates a long time. Now seniors, they played football together at Birmingham Brother Rice before U-M recruited them — for different sports. Cochran's sport was football, but Jokisch was a basketball recruit.

Each has also had topsy-turvy Wolverine careers. Disgruntled with his lack of playing time, Jokisch opted to leave the basketball team after two seasons and try out for football. Last year, his first season, he caught 10 passes for 178 yards and two touchdowns.

FEW MODERN-DAY athletes have the ability to make such a switch. Jokisch knows it. "Anybody who can make that transition should feel fortunate," he admitted.

Cochran also had problems at U-M. Like most Wolverine freshman, Cochran didn't play much. He was dismayed, and considered transferring to Colorado.

He decided to stick at U-M, and midway through the 1983 season he won himself a starting position at cornerback. He intercepted five passes that year, four in the final three games.

A preseason all-American last year and again this season, Cochran finished the 1984 campaign with five interceptions and was second team all-Big Ten. "The strength of our defense is our cornerbacks," said Wolverine coach Bo Schembechler. "Cochran is a bona fide all-American. He's one of the best we've ever had here."

SUCH PRAISE can build an ego, but it also applies pressure. Cochran must produce. Indeed, second-team all-Big Ten this year might be considered a disappointment.

"I played decently," Cochran said in summing up last year's performance. "I was more disappointed with the way the season went. I'd rather go to the Rose Bowl than be all-American."

Last year was U-M's worst under Schembechler. The Wolverines were 6-6, and the defense surrendered 4,118 yards (343 per game) while allowing a 62.6 percent pass completion average.

All of which has provided an abundance of incentive for 1985. The pressure's on the defense — it will have to respond positively if the team is to improve.

"We have the experience, the added incentive to do better than 6-6," Cochran said. "The defense always takes the pressure here. It's kind of traditional."

STRONG RUNNING attacks also used to be traditional in the Big Ten. Not any longer. Three conference quarterbacks — Iowa's Chuck Long, Illinois' Jack Trudeau and Purdue's Jim Everett — are all highly regarded pro prospects. All three are capable of picking apart the best secondaries.

"They all scare me," said Cochran. His opinion of conference receivers was the same: "They're all big, all good. If I had to pick one (as the best), I'd say David Williams (of Illinois), definitely."

Williams set an NCAA record with 101 catches last year. Twelve of those came against U-M.

Cochran figures Jokisch could rank among the conference's top receivers. "I've never played against him in a game situation, and he's great under pressure," the cornerback said. "He's got good hands and can jump."

Cochran uses his size (6-3, 219-pounds) as an advantage against most receivers. He can't against Jokisch, who stands 6-8 and weighs 230.

And yet Jokisch's size disguises another of his talents — speed.

"I've lost 12 pounds," the receiver said. "I'm quicker, faster, stronger. I've run the 40 (yard dash) in 4.5."

"I have more experience now, and I know I can run by cornerbacks."

SCHEMBECHLER IS counting on him to do just that. Last season, Jokisch was in transition from one sport to another. It was a learning period.

This year, with starting receivers Vince Bean (from Southfield, currently on the St. Louis Cardinals injured reserve list) and Sim Nelson graduated, more is expected of Jokisch.

"I believe Paul's ready to play regularly and have a great season," said Schembechler. "It's very difficult to defend a guy that's 6-8 and has a great pair of hands. And his speed is deceiving. The misconception is he can't run by you. He's such a big target, the temptation is to play him up tight."

"But he has surprised a lot of people."

Jokisch acknowledged the "additional pressure," but said, "If you're a great player you rise to the situation."

"I have no personal goals as yet. If we get to the Rose Bowl I'll be happy, even if I just catch five balls."

Problem is, U-M probably won't go anywhere if Jokisch is limited to such a number. He's counted on for far more.

CC grad Messner nears starting role

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Unless he loses his position in the next few weeks, it appears that Catholic Central product Mark Messner will start at defensive tackle for Michigan when the Wolverines open up their football season Sept. 14 against Notre Dame.

The sophomore Messner, who did not see any action last year as a freshman, apparently has the inside track on one of the tackle spots.

But as Messner has learned, no position is locked up. Coach Bo Schembechler's last conversation with the big tackle was: "Be ready to play."

"I came out of spring ball in nice position, but that can change" Messner said.

Breathing down Messner's neck for a starting job is another sophomore, 6-foot-2, 248-pound Dave Chester of Titusville, Fla.

"If Mark comes through and continues to progress like he has, he has an excellent chance to play against Notre Dame," said Jerry Meter, Michigan's defensive line coach. "In the spring, he did a fine job of adjusting to his new position (from nose guard to tackle). And he knows there's competition behind him with Dave Chester, but that's good for both of them."

MESSNER HAS IMPROVED his game in two key areas — confidence and strength.

"I have more confidence in not being so intimidated by the offensive player," he said. "I can see the coaches have the faith in me, especially coaches Moeller (Gary), Meter and Voolietich (Milan)."

"People could see the ability in me, but now I'm starting to develop it, and now they see I have it."

During a Thursday morning gathering of the press, Schembechler called Messner "Our most impressive (defensive) player last year as a freshman."

"Mark is a real sharp guy whose personality is always up," Meter said. "He has a very positive attitude about himself and his ability, but he's not cocky."

Retired coach looks to store sentimental whistle

UNCEREMONIOUSLY, I took the red rope from my neck, rolled it up and stuck it in the whistle it carried in my pocket. I stopped in my tracks, pulled the whistle out, smoothed its straps, and draped it behind the rear-view mirror of the car.

"No," I replied. "I've got to get back to my real job. I've always said if I ever hit the Lotto jackpot, I would go back to school, get my teaching certificate, try to find a teaching job and coach football."

Call me 'Coach' This is the last in a series of articles by Observer & Eccentric sports writer Jim Hughes, who spent the past two weeks as an assistant junior varsity football coach at Avondale High School in Auburn Hills.
