Trouble is brewing over witch's lecture

By Doug Funke

A committee is expected to decide by early next week whether to cancel a lecture by a self-professed witch Oct. 30 to students at Plymouth Salem High School after a minister protested her scheduled appearance.

The five-person committee was appointed by school administrators per school policy when the Rev. Thomas Pals of the First Baptist Church of Plymouth formally objected to the appearance of Gundella Gundella, a teacher for 22 years and a former columnist for the Observer. now is a lecturer and writer. She lives in Garden City

The issue is academic excellence with the separation of church and state," Pals told the school board Monday.

"The definition of a witch is one who practices sorcery and has dealings with the devil," Pals said. "One is what one professes to be. Why else would one make a profession?'

The school district would demonstrate a non-neutrality posture in religious matters if it were to allow Gundella to speak, Pals told the board.

The minister also questioned Gundella's credentials to discuss witchcraft to psychology and literature students.

"ACADEMIC excellence, I feel, demands she not appear at all," Pals said, adding that scholarly resource materials by more credible sources are readily available.

More than two dozen persons packed the meeting room in the board offices in support of Pals' position. Many also voiced their objections.

"This person wants curious minds," said Barbara Batsel, who idenand a representative of Plymouth Women's Aglow, an interdenominational Christian fellowship group.

They're going to be enticed by her. Batsel continued. "We have enough rebellion as it is. This will bring more rebellion.

"Witchcraft certainly is a religion," Shirley Roe told the board.

Alicia and Jeff Erion both said they've had personal experiences with cults and feared for what may result if children were to hear Gundella

"I know the power they (cult leaders) have and can do," said Alicia Erion. "I know they say they don't recruit, but it's a very subtle way they do it.

'The issue is academic excellence with the separation of church and state.

> Rev. Thomas Pals First Baptist Church

Claudia Livernois suggested that school officials would be better advised to bring in as guest speakers law enforcement officers who work with youngsters in an anti-cult capacity.

THE REV. Marshall Gentry, pastor of the Calvary Assembly of God, also questioned Gundella's academic quali-

"Is she a legitimate resource?" he asked. "I'm not sure her presentation is an unbiased one. Does this really complement the philosophy of education that this school district embraces?"

No one spoke at the meeting in favor of Gundella's appearance. Sherry Frazier, a media specialist at Plymouth Salem High, said she schedgy and the Salem witch trials at the request of psychology and literature

"It's in a context not of religion, but a context of historical terms of witches and witchcraft, and in terms of a false science," Frazier said. "This is information only. It's part of our history in this country.

Students have the option not to attend Gundella's talk without having their grades affected, she said.

Frazier said she's surprised by the outcry against Gundella's appearance. We had her before and there was never a complaint," she said.

"TO BE EDUCATED, you have to be well-informed on issues. I hope people can understand the bigger issue here that we should have freedom of information and basically we have to be informed on all sides of the issue." Frazier said. "I believe people resources is one of the basic aspects of our library program here," she continued. "I think it's important to use real live resources. Students can learn by other than watching television or textbooks." Names of committee members appointed to rule on Pals' request - one administrator, a teacher and a librarian not directly involved in the controversy plus two parents — won't be re-vealed until they reach a decision so as to shield them from lobbying efforts.

Persons dissatisfied with the decision of the committee may appeal to the superintendent, then the school board.

Pals said that if Gundella isn't canceled, he would like to personally participate in the discussion or have another Christian representative participate on Oct. 30

Frazier said she would recommend appeal, citing academic freedom, if

Dispute about free-water offer makes waves

By Diane Gale

A debate on whether Canton Township should continue to make free water available is making waves among officials who disagree about the necessity of the service

The three faucets - at fire station one at Canton Center and Cherry Hill, fire station two at Warren and Haggerty, and at the old police station at Geddes and Sheldon - are available to the public at no charge.

Canton Clerk Linda Chuhran argues that people using the faucets should pay for the water.

SUPERVISOR JAMES Poole disagrees. The service is a vital necessity for some residents, and the cost to the township is less than what it would cost to charge users. Poole said

During the "top use period" this year from June through September -50,000 gallons of water were taken free of charge. The service cost Canton $53, Poole said

Because the Geddes site is without a meter, the figures only represent water taken from the two fire stations where meters exist.

"I couldn't afford to pay for someone to monitor that," Poole said.

Poole said in 1981 he questioned the free sary service. It was found the cost was minimal and the service was needed, he added.

A few areas of Canton, especially south of Ford and west of Canton Center, have an inadequate water supply. Bad wells, poor sewage and water sys tems also cause some residents to search for alternate water supplies

A policy of offering free water has been a long-held tradition which developed when Canton was mainly a farming community and a larger percent age of residents took advantage of the service than do now.

'When Canton was all farmers it was probably something where everyone took the water," Chuhran said. "But, as the community grew, only certain people do it and it really isn't fair any-

ON THE OTHER hand, Poole argues that residents with inadequate water supplies are treated unfairly. They paid for a millage increase levied by the township which was necessitated to install sewer and water lines.

"The people who are getting this free water have paid over a period of years two mills to put in sewer and water lines east of Canton Center and they still don't have enough sewer and water lines." Poole said.

"The people who are calling to tell you about this are trying to embarrass people," Poole said. "And they're not doing their homework to find out what

Chuhran said she has seen people take enough water, in large-sized

PEOPLE SHOULD be cautious before moving into areas with inadequate water supply, Chuhran said.

"When you buy property you should see if there is water there," Chuhran said. "I don't think everyone should pay for their mistake. I have no objection to them taking the water, but I think they should pay for it.' Chuhran said she believes that some profit-making businesses may be taking advantage of the free water offer. "I think the system is being abused," she said. "And I think some people are making a profit from the water Canton Trustee Loren Bennett said previous studies show costs to charge for the water would "far outweigh" the revenue that would be received

"At the time that it was studied it made no sense whatsoever to charge for the water, and it offers a great deal of goodwill," Bennett said. "Some peo-ple would be awfully surprised how many homes don't have indoor plumbog in Canton today.

"Growing up as a kid about 25 years ago, this was a rural area. There were an awful lot of homes without running water, and that exists in some homes in Canton today."

Offering the free water is like other services provided by the township that are designed for specific groups. Bennett said. For example, water pumps were recently purchased by the town ship to prevent flooding in specific

Military school deadline is set

Men and women planning to apply for admission a military academy have until Nov. 1, said U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor.

Persons may apply by contacting him at 239 Cannon House Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20515, or 3716 Newberry, Wayne, 48184.

Nominations to the Military, Navai, Air Force, and Merchant Marine Academies are available for the class starting next June 1, said Ford whose 15th District includes Canton.

married and be legal residents of the 15th Congressional District.

Ford said he set the Nov. 1 deadline to allow his nominationg committee time to interview the applicants and review their individual files. The committee is made up of educators, community leaders and former military persons.

Each representative is allowed to nominate at least 10 persons for each academy vacancy.

The nominating committee is used to set a screening program that helps identify the best-qualified applicants, he said.

Canton tips Salem

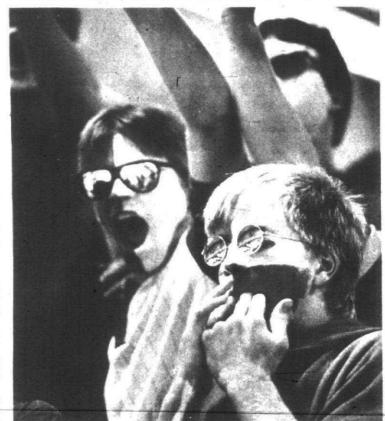

There's nothing like an intra-district rivalry to spice up an athletic event. Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem, two of the better girls basketball teams in the Observer coverage area this season, went at each other Tuesday with all the intensity that could be expected in such a match up. Beth Frigge, a tiny point guard, scored the winning point with a free throw in Canton's 25-24 victory. Chief supporters streamed onto the floor at the final buzzer in unrestrained joy. As expected, it was a tough, defensive battle. Salem coach Fred Thomann and Canton mentor Rob Neu, who played for Thomann during his high school days, matched strategies to the delight of a large crowd.

Rematches loom on the horizon. The two teams lead their divisions in the Western Lakes Activities Association and could meet again in the league

October 20-27

A few years ago Mel Dibble had his own radio and TV programs in the midwest. Then he met Billy Graham, rededicated his life to Christ, and became an evangelist on the Billy Graham team. When you hear this amous and magnetic personality talk of his call from Christ and the message Christ has for all you'll feel this crusade was something you vouldn't have missed for the world. Memories: for a good cause

T WAS SIX YEARS AGO when radio personality Valerie Hilsen of Bloomfield Hills interviewed actor Rock Hudson backstage at Detroit's Fisher Theatre, but the tape she made then may help victims today of the dreaded disease ATDS

She originally played the tape on her radio show when Hudson was in town starring in the musical "On the Twentieth Century." "It was the only interview he granted to radio or TV in Detroit," she remembers. She got the interview mainly because she has been or many years "Miss First Nighter at the Fisher," interviewing the stars of each show there

Hudson, a very private person, gave interviews infrequently. "I never mentioned anything of his personal life," Hilsen said. During the brief, 12-15 minute interview, he was upbeat and friendly, though admitting to being tired, after the performance.

"YOU COULD tell he was kind and gracious," Hilsen said. The tape made n March 1979 is also special because wood star is instantly brought to mind when you hear his recognizable, compelling, deep voice.

"So many fans loved him. We'd like o remember him as he was." Hilsen

She aired the interview again recent ly when Hudson was seriously ill with AIDS, and many fans of the Hollywood star expressed interest in having copies of the tape. Hilsen also got requests from radio and TV stations around the country who wanted to buy or borrow

Symphony season gets off to a fine start

Continued from Preceding Page The new season also brings a new interim conductor, Charles Greenwell and it was evident after the first few opening notes of the Ove ture to "Impresario" that Greenwel has been shaping up the orchestra considerably. The overture was a solid and colorful start for the afternoon with plenty of rich and full musical

The orchestra's principal clarinet-John Mohler, was the soloist in Mozart's Clarinet Concerto in A major. The concerto is among the peak points in difficulty of all the clarinet literature. It requires a firm and controlled embouchure from the clari netist at all times as well as a playful sense of bounce with the many obstacles presented throughout the score. Mohler's performance had both.

A third was safety - what would be done to secure the DeHoCo buildings and grounds if it were to become a state prison

The fact that Plymouth-Northville has its share of prisons fell on deaf ears. DeHoCo was available, Detroit was trying to unload it, and expedience won out. Detroit and the state worked out a deal, as quickly as possible.

The proponents argued that the prison already existed and did not represent an 'additional" jail. Apparently ignored were the Scott and Phoenix prison plans and the fact that DeHoCo would be changed from a city jail to a state prison, which meant a change in the type of inmates to be

TARGET PRICES - By a vote of 93 for and 334 against, the House rejected a Reagan Administration-backed amendment to reduce federal income support payments to wheat farmers.

VOTE - By a vote of 251 for and 174 against, the House stripped the farm bill (HR 1200, above of a section enabling wheat and feed grain produc ers to decide by referendum if they wanted severe production controls accompanied by higher price supports for domestic sales and export subsidies for sales abroad. This was probably the most original and controversial section of HR 1200. The vote was a rare victory for the Reagan Administration, which during several days of debate had lost most of its attempts to keep the new farm oill from increasing farm spending and enlarging the federal role in U.S. agriculture. Edward Madigan, R-Ill., who led the fight to delete the section, said "a farmer who chose not to participate in the program would not be able to sell the commodity that he produced in the United States of America.'

Timothy Penny, D-Minn., said the referendum gives the farmers a chance to vote for themselves to improve the price for their commodities." Members voting no favored the new program.

Air class grounds fear of flying

Capt. Tom Petee, director of special projects for USAir, explains the principles of an air flight.

By Carolyn DeMarco

RICA JONG wrote about it, John Madden jokes about it. and one in six Americans suffer from it - the fear of

For most the fear is vague. A combination of phobias may be present, among them claustrophobia, acropho-bia and the fear of death. For many, the knowledge that they have no control over a situation is enough to trigger anxiety in what have come to be called "white knuckle flyers."

USAir is one airline that is attempting to bring white knuckle flyers out of the closet and into the air through its Fearful Flyers Program.

ALTHOUGH THE program has been in existence since 1975, only this past year has it been regularly scheduled. During the next 12 months, the seven-week class will be offered 10 times in cities serviced by USAir, among them Pittsburgh, Syracuse, Albany and Washington, D.C.

A Detroit session began Sept. 10 and continues through Oct. 22. Each Tuesday 7:30-10:30 p.m. classes are held in the Detroit Marriott Hotel/ Airport for 28 persons from as far away as Ohio and East Lansing.

Alleviating the fear of flying is approached from two directions - aviation education and behavior modification

Capt. Frank Petee, director of special projects for USAir and former director of flight training, is in charge of the education portion. Petee retired from flying in 1981 with 40 years of commercial flying experience behind him

Flyers class she considered it a "godsend" and enrolled the next day.

Ironically, it was a boating accident rather than an air-related incident that first instilled fear in Kathy. A boat in which she was a passenger flipped while traveling at a high rate of speed and put her in the hospital, unconscious with broken ribs.

Since then riding in both airplanes and boats rekindles her fears. The anxieties begin even before she enters the airplane, she said.

ONCE ABOARD, Kocsis explained, "I strap myself in the seat - never a window seat - and refuse to get up. I don't even want to visit the bathroom. I feel lightheaded . dizzy nerves feel 'crawly' . . . I'm white as a ghost. I can't eat and I don't even want to look at food. I just know the plane's going down.

"Once we're on the ground I start to relax," she added. "I try not to let it ruin my trip, but there's always the flight home.

During a class nearly halfway through the session, Kathy said she already felt a difference in her attitude

"I didn't know anyone who had the same problems. It's good to know there are others like you out there. I know I'm going to be ready to go up in that plane.

"That plane," to which Kathy refers will be the one available Oct. 22 to take all class participants on a onehour graduation flight.

The educational part of the program is based on the theory that peo-ple tend to fear those things they do not understand. The majority of class time is spent in the meeting room, where Capt. Petee discusses a variety of aviation topics — the mechanics of flight, pilot training, flight preparation, en route flight procedures, safety checks, turbulence, maintenance, take-offs and landings, etc.

UNFORTUNATELY, Petee said, because of the recent air tragedies, "too much time has been spent on explaining accidents."

In terms of safety, Petee said, "We're getting better and better. You wouldn't think it from the recent string of accidents, but that's just a temporary setback."

After a question and answer period, Stauffer steps in to conduct breathing and muscle relaxation exercises. It is physiologically impossible to be both tense and relaxed at the same time, Stauffer said. "If a person can learn to relax his body at will, he will be able to fly in comfort."

Several guest speakers are sched-uled during the course. They include Jack O'Neill, USAir manager of development engineering, whose topic is aircraft design; an air traffic control representative from the FAA; and flight attendants.

Tours of a DC-9 cabin and cockpit the terminal radar room and control tower are also on the itinerary.

Typically, Stauffer said, classes range from 20 to 50 persons from a wide variety of backgrounds and ex-

Wins mean little to a coach's fatel

EORGE SOMMERMAN resigned from his position as Westland John Glenn varsity girls basketball coach last week, proving once again that there is no success in success.

Pardon the redundancy, but if you scan the sports pages you'll find that winning is not everything, particularly for coaches. Take a losing team, turn it into a winner and what happens? The next season people expect that team to battle for a championship.

So go ahead and win a league title - and people expect a long run in the state playoffs Guide a team to a state championship, and people expect you to do it again and again.

Sooner or later the chain will be broken. That's when the doubters take center stage: "What's wrong with these guys?" or "They don't want it as much," or even "He can't coach. He just got lucky one year."

It happens constantly, with members of the media bearing a major portion of responsibility

SUCCESS, YOU must understand, is relative. A 6-6 season for Michigan State in football is a good year; at University of Michigan it's a

Al Fracassa's Birmingham Brother Rice footbll squad is 1-5 and everyone is baffled. John Herrington's Farmington Harrison gridders lose to Livonia Franklin and people are astounded. Oakland University loses two straight soccer games and fans are scratching their heads.

Fans expect success, but in varying degrees. It depends on what the program has been like in Which brings us back to Sommerman. He resigned Oct. 7 following John Glenn's game with Northville.

His timing was puzzling. The Rockets had just beaten Northville in what Sommerman insisted was one of the team's better performances of the season. And Glenn had a 7-2 record at that

HAD THE ROCKETS been inconsistent - up one year, down the next - or were they consistently mediocre? Neither - the last time they had a losing record was 1978. They were 18-3 last year, and under Sommerman - the only man to coach Glenn's varsity (until last Thursday) - they won 120 of 201 games, about 60 percent.

In high school sports, with all its variables, seven straight winning seasons, a league title and a couple of second-place finishes is more than respectable. Sommerman should go out in glory, lauded for all he accomplished, with a testimonial dinner to boot.

Instead, he leaves in midseason because a handful of parents weren't happy with the way

Maybe now you begin to understand. Winning and losing means little. A successful coach is not only someone who can establish goals and realize them, but who can deal with outside pressures and influences, as well as the multitude of frustrations inherent in the position money

SOMMERMAN WAS a good coach. He drew criticism because of his team's poor post-season record (the Rockets won just one district title). his detractors questioning his ability to coach considering "all the talent he had to work with."

When players' parents confronted Sommerman after the Northville game, his will to coach was broken. "I was crushed, I was really crushed," Sommerman admitted.

Every coach experiences moments like these They tell themselves to ignore it, that these parents don't know what they're talking about, that they don't understand.

Sommerman told himself the same things. But through the years the negatives kept mounting, like the ocean rising toward high tide. Soon it was so deep, the criticisms became so burdensome, even the victories could not buoy

As Sommerman said, "I tried to forgive and forget, but I kept remembering.

SO SOMMERMAN checked out, leaving with his head high, knowing what he accomplished few people could have. He built Glenn's girls basketball program, a task that should not be underestimated. Varsity sports for girls barely existed when he began. Great strides have been made in the last decade; but much work remains before female athletics can truly be called the equal of their male counterparts Girls still take a back seat to boys in sports. Sommerman can recall the indignities his team and others endured - practicing in a parking lot and playing in a gym while it was being painted as they battled for position in this male-dominated world. Many still exist. But Sommerman won't have to put up with them any longer. Nor will he have to swallow his pride like he did when angry parents berated him. At 49, he says he's "out of coaching, forever." He'll sit in the stands and watch his two daughters, Diana and Ruth, play for Glenn And in the days ahead, he'll be able to look back on his coaching record and know the only rson he had to satisfy, he did — himself.

'Each possession was a war'; Canton survives

By Chris McCosky

First-year Plymouth Canton girls basketball coach Rob Neu looked like a young man who had been in a fight.

His blond hair was matted to the sides of his head with perspiration. His face was flushed, his blue eyes glazed and bloodshot.

But the smile on his face reached from one end of the Plymouth Salem gym to the other.

His underdog Chiefs knocked off Plymouth Salem, their neighboring rivals and one of the state's top-ranked teams, 25-24, Tuesday night before a large and charged up crowd.

One could excuse a little giddiness, a little delirium, on his part. After all, it was without a doubt the proudest moment of his young coaching career and one of the happier moments in the history of the Canton program.

But delirium and giddiness were hard to detect in Neu. Fatigue was obvious, but he was able to quickly and concisely put the game into perspec-

"EVERY POSSESSION was a war." he said.

It's no overstatement. You'd think, looking at the 25-24 score, that the game was sloppily played. Hardly. The low score was a result of two of the area's best defensive teams matching up head-to-head.

"Obviously, when you only score 24 or 25 points, every possession becomes critical," said Salem head coach Fred Thomann, who not too long ago coached a young point guard named Rob Neu at Salem. "And we had a lot of misplayed possessions. We talked earlier in the week about the team that made fewer mistakes would win this game. Canton made fewer mistakes than we did."

The game was dead-even for virtually all 32 minutes. The score after one quarter was 4-4. At the half, Salem led 9-8. After three quarters, Salem led 17-

In those three quarters, Salem took 27 shots and Canton 30. Salem hit six, Canton seven. Salem made five of 11 free throws, Canton two of three.

THE FOURTH quarter was rugged. Karen Boluch hit a jumper to put Canton up 18-17.

Dena Head, who was held in check by the unrelenting pressure of Diana Knickerbocker, hit a spectacular driving layup and the subsequent foul shot to put Salem up 20-18.

Knickerbocker countered with a half-hook shot to retie the score. After a Salem miss, Laura Darby rolled in a shot to put Canton up 22-20.

"It doesn't really worry me that we're playing at Walled Lake because we've had good success there," Herrington said. "But it's their homecoming, and they ought to be juiced up for us. And they have never been this close to any kind of championship before. That ought to fire them up.

"I expect a low-scoring game," he said. "They play a real aggressive, penetrating defense that'll cause you to make the bad play.

"Their offense, just like ours, has been incon sistent. If Hall's hot, they seem to be tough. But they powered the ball on Churchill, and that scares me. We thought Churchill was pretty tough defensively." If it comes down to kicking, give Western the

Dressed like a newsboy of New York City's lower east side (above) Judy Goldstein does songs about life in the United States, a bit of comedy and patter. (Below) In her mass migration outfit, Goldstein sings songs of the era, 1880-

leaves with a container of what she calls "bubee" (grandmother) soup.

Preserving heritage in song

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

IVINE PROVIDENCE or lucky accident, Judy Goldstein, folk singer/guitarist, can't say. But, somehow, she knows that this second career was meant to be. In just a few years, the 40-year-old former school teacher, mother and wife, has become a popular and much loved balladier of Yiddish, Hebrew, Russian and English folk songs.

Goldstein will give one of her most ambitious concerts at Temple Beth El of Bloomfield Township at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 24. The free concert is being sponsored by the Keidan Lodge of B'nai B'rith.

Morry Direnfeld, a member of the lodge, heard her program at Congregation B'nai Moshe last month and asked the Keidan Lodge sponsor her at Temple Beth El

"The Keidan Lodge has a history of always presenting things to the city that relate to Jewish culture," he said, adding, "and she's absolutely wonder

And while Goldstein generates lots of reaction from her audiences tears, smiles, laughter - nothing pleases her more than that which comes from her 90-year old grandmother, Rebecca Cohen Gendleman of Oak Park.

"She came from Russia. She is always kvelling (Yiddish for taking pride) about my singing. She helps me with my Yiddish

But, she isn't the only one who contributes to Goldstein's pronounciation and repertoire

WHEN she took her guitar out of the closet after a 20-year hiatus, she joined the Detroit Folklore Society and taught herself one Yiddish song Tumba Lalika." (a triangular shaped Russian musical instrument) to sing for them. Someone in the audience came up to her afterward and said 'They need you at Prentis Manor."

Goldstein went to sing for the residents at that Southfield nursing home and was overwhelmed by the reception. She's been singing for them every Friday afternoon for two years.

She recalls one woman who called out right in the middle of a song to correct her pronunciation, "I said bubble and she yelled out 'it's bubeh'." It was singing at Prentis Hall that motivated her to build a repertoire.

"I learn from records, from tapes from friends. There's eight different ways to pronounce every Yiddish word. Theodore Bikel is a constant source for me. I work from transliterations because I don't speak any of the languages I sing in. I get help from a lot of 80-year-old friends.

She said when a song is requested that she doesn't know she asks the person to sing it so she can learn it.

As the repertoire grew, so did the reputation, "I started working professionally - I'm the only person doing

She was asked if she would do private functions — birthdays, anniver-saries, bar mitzvahs — and public ones for churches, synagogues, clubs and religious organizations

THE PACE of her life quickened. She listened to tapes and rehearsed as she drove to appointments, had business cards printed and kept a daily appointment calendar that was as full as many a recording star.

Between the volunteer work to which she is "very committed" and the private work, she was on the go many days from dawn to dusk

She remembers when she was planning to cook for a family dinner party someone called in desperation. "How do you say no to a 60th wedding anniversary? I put my food in the oven and left to do the anniversary and it was wonderful . . . it's like a career that has its own life that I'm running to catch up with. . . . Now, I perform in costume, so I started to collect vintage clothing. I'm acting out a child-hood fantasy. I wear a costume of the mass migration years, 1880-1920."

She even found brown leather high button shoes that fit as if they were made for her. After intermission at the Temple Beth El program, she'll come out as a lower east side newsboy, wearing a cap, an old vest and plaid knickers.

"I'm coming out of a Pete Seeger tradition. I talk about who wrote the song, where it came from and what the song tells about the times.

"When European enlightenment spread to the shtetl (small towns), there were cultural conflicts. Finally during the 19th century it caused a huge upheaval . . . here was science next to the Bible. Here was Jewish philosophy. The songs reflect that. Well, don't ask what happened."

She sees herself as part of a gener ation, born and raised in the United States, separated from the old world culture, seldom, if ever hearing a word of Yiddish

She said she hopes her own children will have an appreciation of the lan-guage, the background, the songs and poetry of the Jewish people.

Her 8-year-old son Daniel some-times asks her to sing, "Rozhinkes Mit Mandlen" (raisins and almonds) which she said, "is the best loved Yiddish lullaby - the second song I always do. It was written in 1880 and performed in the Yiddish theater."

She spoke (kvelling) of her daughter, Deborah, 14, "She's my wardrobe mistress. My son and daughter are quite supportive, they've always seen me with a guitar. And my husband, too, is enjoying it."

THE PROGRAM is being refined and perfected with each appearance. She's added English folk songs in Yiddish to her repertoire - "Home on the Range," "Clementine," "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," and "On Top of Old Smokey" - a nonsense rhyme, "which took me a month to learn," and shtik, Yiddish for a bit of comedy.

Goldstein is in demand for radio and cable TV appearances. Recordings may be in the future. To her, it's more than entertaining. As a trained social worker and teacher, she is aware of the importance of keeping history and tradition alive.

She recalled one woman who sat stone-faced through her performance. Goldstein told herself this was one person she couldn't reach. After the performance, the woman said to her, "I'm speeechless. I haven't heard those songs for 60 years."

It started as a hobby with no plan. Now, she said, the plan seems to be taking shape on its own, as if by mag-the melodrama shares the bill with Puccini's one-act comic opera, "Gianni Schicchi" at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

By Mary Jane Doerr special writer

Since Michigan Opera Theatre began 15 years ago, the company has given its public a lot about which to laugh and Now with a budget approaching $3-million, and $800,000 richer, the company opened its new season Friday evening at its new home, the Fisher Theatre, with a double bill.

"I Pagliacci" and "Gianni Schicchi are not often paired together but humor works well with tragedy especially when well-timed acting is combined with dramatic voices.

In the audience was the executive board from OPERA America representing the Metropolitan Opera, Houston Grand Opera, the Lyric Opera of Chicago, the Dallas Opera, the Washington Opera, the Lake George Opera Festival, and the Greater Miami Opera Association. What they saw was a well-executed production blending award-winning Al-bert Takazayckas' smoothly worked stage direction with Peter Dean Beck's functional sets with Michael Baumgarten's subtle lighting effects, and Suzanne Acton's precise chorus with a relatively unknown but highly competent of singers.

PRINCIPAL GUEST conductor Mark D. Flint led a sluggish orchestra that made this critic wonder what happened to the official recommendation to the Detroit Symphony that they be-come a part of Michigan Opera The-atre productions.

Discovered by Toscanini in 1948,

review

Metropolitan Opera star Frank Guarrera has been on stage long enough to fine tune his acting and he has the skill mastered. His Gianni Schicchi, the rogue who swindles Buoso Donati's relatives out of their fortune, was delight-

In his first American appearance as Canio, the Germany-based tenor, Maurice Stern lived up to his recent Puerto Rican reviews. His "Vesti la Glubba' was tastefully done without the sobb-

Although her "O mio babbino caro" was outclassed in "Gianni Schicchi" by Saturday evening's soprano Pamela South, the ailing Diana Soviero was seductive as Canio's unfaithful wife, Nedda, and her dramatic voice in the second opera was brilliant. Her small stature is no indication of the power and depth of her voice. Last minute replacement John Brandstetter picked up on Soviero's passionate acting as her lover Silvio. Their performance was Pamela South sang Lauretta exqui-sitely in "Gianni Schichi" but she did not have the sensuality or the power to match Soviero as Nedda.

MOT's 1980 Rigoletto, Charles Long. (although he was ailing also) turned in an expectedly strong interpretation of Leoncavallo's twisted-body villain whose society-induced vengeance justi-fied society's rejection of him. Long's baritone voice is as fine as his acting

THE ENGLISH subtitles for "I Pagliacci" were made possible through a gift by ANR Pipeline Co. so Michigan Opera Theatre could purchase the equipment. We can expect to see more of these translations in the future.

Corporations such as this one and the eight others sponsoring this season's performances (Merrill Lynch, Cadillac Motor Car, Burroughs Corp., Maccabees Mutual Life Insurance Co., the Detroit Free Press, Michigan Bell Telephone Co., and Ameritech Publishing) are making it possible to visualize MOT General Director David DiChiera's program book statement about "moving ahead at achieving a full in-ternational grand opera series at the Masonic Temple next spring." Who knows how many operas are in a full international grand opera series?

In its 15 years of existence, Michigan Opera Theatre has become the second youngest and third largest (by budget) local company of the eight cities for-merly involved in the Metropolitan Opera tour. It represents a rapid growth compared with companies in Boston, Clevelend, and Washington D.C.

A new sense of prominence exuded Friday evening in these two sophisti-cated productions of old favorites, "Gianni Schicchi" and "I Pagliacci." Clearly, for Michigan Opera Theatre, the comedy is over.
