State money eyed for Supersewer plan

staff writer

An effort is underway to garner state funding for the Son of Supersewer project to increase Canton and Plymouth townships' sewer capacity.

Completing this project is a number one priority in the state for the Department of Natural Resources (DNR)." said Greg Morris, Gov. Blanchard's personnel director

Wayne County Commissioner Milt Mack. Plymouth Township Supervisor Breen. Canton attorney C Gerald Hemming and others met with representatives from the governor's office recently to make a sales pitch for the state to pick up a 20 percent loss in federal funding which initially was committed to the project.

THE MEETING was the result of an order from Wayne Circuit Judge Richard Dunn in an attempt to settle a lawsuit filed by Canton and Plymouth townships against the state of Michi-gan, DNR, Wayne County and Detroit, Hemming said.

'If Plymouth and Canton ended up without damages and a sewer project that is sound, the lawsuit would be dropped," Hemming said. "But that's a lot of ifs

Total cost of the project is about $110 million, Morris said there may be some way to do it," Morris said. "It's a tremendous amount of money

The federal government had com mitted to pay 75 percent of the project's cost before the Reagan Administration cut that support to 55 percent. The 20 percent difference is $17

What we intended to impress upon the governor's office is the fact that if we really are serious about addressing the pollution problem in the Rouge Rivthen this project is a necessity, Mack said. "It is relatively inexpensive and it still will have a significant amount of federal dollars committed to land County. This project will cost $110 the project

More than 20 years ago, the idea for the Supersewer project was born. The system was to run in Oakland County through Wayne County to a treatment

WHEN THE Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) announced it would not fund the entire project, the system was broken into two segments.

A south arm is under construction serving Van Buren Township and communities southward. The north arm will serve northwestern Wayne County including Canton and Plymouth and southwestern Oak-million.

"The current system lacks capacity with the result that people living in cer-tain parts of Canton Township experience flooding of their basements during rainy weather and substantial quantities of sewage is being pumped into the Rouge River," Mack said.

Canton and Northville townships will bear the overwhelming majority of the Supersewer cost because these communities will have the most capacity.

One of the problems faced by the State of Michigan and other states is that there are a large number of sewage problem projects that were left in the lurch by this federal funding cut,"

Mack said. "The states and local governments simply aren't in the position to take up the loss of that funding."

MORRIS SAID he is reviewing budg-

"The balance of the case concerns the loss of federal funding reduced from 75 percent to 55 percent or 0 pending certification or non-certification of the project," Hemming said.

If the project is approved by DNR and certified for federal funding by Feb. 13 then the trial will be postponed to April 15, he said. If project isn't certified by then, the trial will begin Feb.

Cityhood review raises debate

McDonald weighs pros, cons in Canton status switch

staff writer

When David McDonald began working on a committee studying cityhood last year he thought the charter township system worked just fine. Now he's not so sure.

"I'm drawing from my perspective and not speaking for the committee," McDonald said. "But I started out personally saying the township of Canton has been in business for more than 150 years, and I'd have to be sold before I'd agree to change.

"Why fix something if it's not broken? I'm learning the issues and understanding why I might think there should be a

MCDONALD, CHAIRMAN of the five-member volunteer committee, realizes the job of reviewing the pros and cons of adopting cityhood status will have an impact on the township's

A public forum is planned for an undetermined date in mid-March at Canton Township Hall to get opinions about the possible switch

The committee — meeting every other week for an average four hours has set out to identify all aspects of becoming a city.

For instance, as a city Canton would receive state allocated gas and weight taxes but also would assume Wayne County's responsibility of maintaining roads. Weighing which would be a better deal is being considered.

DETERMINING THE type of city. like strong mayor or strong manager, is another factor.

"Two big differences from the quality of government is that all charter townships function under the same state charter," McDonald said. "And each city has its own charter."

As a charter township it is unclear who the finance director reports to. Some administrative duties also are unspecified. Under the state law the township is allowed to write bylaws, which could change from administration to administration.

"With cityhood you have a charter, which wouldn't be changed unless voted on by the people.

Referring to a lawsuit filed by Clerk Linda Chuhran citing interference with her statutorial responsibilities, McDonald said: "If you're worried about who's running what, to solve that would be to go to cityhood where it says what they're doing.'

Committee members recently spent an entire day in Lansing speaking to experts about the issue, including representatives from the Michigan Municipal League promoting cityhood and the Michigan Township Association promoting the township-form of gov-

Cityhood offers organization and certain elements of stability between administrations, McDonald said.

ANOTHER CONSIDERATION is threats of annexation from neighboring

The chances of Canton land becoming annexed are remote but there remains a slim possibility. Cities cannot be annexed.

Cities also have more authority to levy taxes, whereas townships have a much more limited cap. Charter townships are allowed to levy a maximum 5 mills with additional special assessments funds for services like police and fire. A city can levy up to its charter limit (often up to 20 mills) which finances all services but does not include debt retirement millage.

McDonald admits this factor might be seen as good or bad because an increased tax bill would be paid by resi-

Image problems and misunderstandings about the types of services provided by townships could affect development in a community. Often townships are associated with rural communities.

"You have to educate people that you don't have cows walking down the middle of the road, and a fire department with hand pumps. Another plus on the cityhood side is industrial development. Some developers might want to build in cities because they don't understand townships.

A negative for cityhood, McDonald said, is that Canton has a "long history as a township. Do we want to get away from that? There appears to be less accessibility to elected people in the city form of vernment. If residents are satisfied with the services presently provided then there's no reason to change.

David McDonald makes a point about Canton Township switching to cityhood status.

Canton man on 'Wheel'

Robert Marsico of Canton recently was a contestant on the popular NBC game show "Wheel of Fortune." Marsico, wife Mary Anne and their three children have been Canton residents nearly two years. Marsico auditioned at the Westin Hotel, Detroit, with 1,000 others to qualify for the show which was videotaped in Burbank, Calif. He is employed as a sales representative for Rouge Steel. And did he win? You'll have to tune in 7:30 p.m. Feb. 25 to find out.

THE ST. PAUL Winter Carnival is oldest and one of the largest festivals in the country. Some say that the ounders of New Orleans Mardi Gras stival learned their ropes here. It all started 100 years ago when a New York City reporter declared that St. Paul in winter was a frozen Siberia, unlit for human habitation The pioneers set out to show that de-

Recalls are not to be done lightly

LTHOUGH WE don't condone much of Canton Township Clerk Linda Chuhran's behavior during her short term in office, the petition for a recall election is a dramatic move based on allegations that just don't merit firing an elected official.

The clerk does not deserve, at this point, to be re-elected but her actions are not grave enough to warrent recall. In our democracy, we vote out of office (or never elect in the first place) incompetent people but do not recall them. Recall is reserved for criminal offenses or serious immoral behavior, which are not evident in the allegations.

Instead, the Observer sees more politics than merit behind much of what has happened in recent months. Chuhran has become a target for elected officials who were disappointed their choice for the job did not make it. The clerk early on also took political potshots to save her turf. Instead of stopping at the end of the campaign, the political bickering continues in-

The petition effort is tainted by political infighting between Chuhran and other elected officials on the Canton Township Board of Trustees who have indirectly supported the cause. They deny a direct hand in developing the recall campaign but have undoubtedly contributed.

Bitter sores might be more easily healed with efforts toward building bridges of communication. A recall petition negates hopes of accomplishing this admittedly hefty task. A step toward that task is to keep mudslinging between Chuhran and her opponents out of the public arena. Chuhran came to the position with insufficient experience for the many responsibilties of the post. Making charges and later withdrawing them have drawn disparagement on the office, which could have been averted if Chuhran thought before she reacted. Her defensive approach has slammed doors on promoting positive results for the community and her effectiveness in office.

UNLESS CHUHRAN can make a dracountless controversies that have developed during her tenure, and display a professional ability to carry out the responsiheed when they cast their vote in 1988.

If Chuhran stood for re-election today antics and mistakes do not justify removmakeup of elected offices could be significantly altered. Trustees have developed a committee to implement a strong manager and make part time the clerk, treasurer and supervisor posts. Ironically part ime posts may create an atmosphere allowing for more time to be spent on fulfilling the responsibilities of the post and less on political infighting.

the recall effort is that it will draw attention to some of Chuhran's misbehavior, which is embarrassing to township officials, employees and residents. Hopefully she will learn from history. But nothing will be accomplished if recall promoters insist on living in the past.

The hour has arrived to look for more ways to promote Canton Township as a flourishing place with booming development projects, a wealth of hard-working employees and an ample supply of organizations swelling with volunteers. The board of trustees - including Chuhran have devoted countless personal hours toward this end, and they should be applauded in this quest.

However, a recall effort will draw bat tle lines sucking in more troops, and detracting from the common goal of pursuing Canton's potential.

PTG presents 'Picnic,' Pulitzer-winning drama

Plymouth Theatre Guild's presentation of "Picnic" opens at 8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 31 in the auditorium of Central Middle School. The William Inge drama won both a Pulitzer Prize and Critic's Circle Award.

Show dates are Jan. 31, Feb. 1, 7 and Admission is $4 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens.

The action takes place in the joint backyards of two middle-aged, smalltown women, both long since deserted by their husbands. One of the women is trying to raise two maturing daughters; the other is caring for her helpless invalid mother. To round out the household, a spinster schoolteacher is renting a room from her.

It is Labor Day weekend. Into this female atmosphere comes a young man of neither polish nor promise, who upsets the daily routine.

The result is a warm and exciting, sometimes happy and sometimes sad story that provides an evening of excel-

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY'S MBA PROGRAM FOR EXPERIENCED EXECUTIVES

"The MSU Advanced Management Program has helped 131 Chrysler managers contribute to the success of our corporation." JOHN D. WITHROW, JR., Executive Vice President, roduct Development, Chrysler Corporation

"In these days of intensified competition, there is a growing need for formal education to understand basic business processes and to effectively contribute to your company's success. The Michigan State University Advanced Management Program is one of the best ways I know to gain this important

"I graduated from the Advanced Management Program in 1971. The professors, all from the faculty in East Lansing, helped me understand my on-the-job problems and taught me management techniques I use daily. We think so much of this program at Chrysler, that we have sent 131 of our top and emerging corporate leaders through it since 1964.79

Experienced executives can complete this MBA program in two years while continuing their full-time jobs. Classes are taught two evenings a week at MSU's Management Education Center in Troy, Applications for admission to the class starting in September 1986 are now being accepted. Interested executives should call Arthur Saltzman at (313) 879-2725 or contact the program office at:

If we are Christian, we must care

ISHOP DESMOND Tutu says of apartheid in South Africa: "It is not a political issue. It is a spiritual issue." He goes on to say that it is not politics or theology that makes him concerned about how his people are treated "It is because you and I know that we worship a God that cares.'

There are many who would want Bishop Tutu to leave politics out of the church. There are many who still try to separate the church from "worldly issues. They would hope that everyone would keep religion in it place. They want to keep religion within the walls of the church, synagogue and home.

This view is no different than the policies of Jim Crow and apartheid in South Africa. In contrast, I argue that it is impossible to separate an authentic Christian faith from the rest of life.

Bishop Tutu battles away at the idea of a private religion when he says, "And so I come to say thank you and to remember with you that nothing that happens to a Christian can ever be of only personal or individual signifi-

moral perspectives

Rev. David Strong

BISHOP TUTU is one of those persons who is unwilling to separate life into neat little categories. He instead takes a wholistic appraoch to life. Everything is connected. We are connected to one another. It is God's compassion which connects us all. Apartheid is therefore as much a spiritual issue as it is a polticial one. God cares when he sees his children suffer. For this reason a person of faith cannot claim that such issues are not his concern. It makes a difference how we define life. We can separate life into categories and so avoid the contradictions. Those who separate life in this manner can worship on Sunday and then go out on Monday and carry out their business in such a way that it destroys people. In like manner one can practice a private religion and then fail to see the contradictions in doing business with a regime which ignores the human rights of a majority of its people.

A human rights activist in Czechoslovakia links peace talks with the human rights issue. He says that you cannot trust a nation to keep its commitments regarding peace if that same government is unwilling to keep its human rights commitments to its own citizens. Again we find someone who is linking

IN ECONOMICS we find that the world is ever more closely connected. The current sharp drop in oil prices has a complex and pervasive effect. We can no longer ignore what is happening in another corner of the world. We need redefine our old understandings of life. We are as connected spiritually and morally as we are in economics

People like Bishop Tutu and the Czech activist push us to drive deeper into the core of the issue. Two other significant religious leaders in America, Billy Graham and Martin Luther King Jr. found that they arrived at a point where they felt that they must deal with the world peace issue.

In both cases their advisors warned them not to pursue this concern. Both men decided that they must address the peace issue because they knew that it connected with concerns that were central in their faith.

We can no longer practice faith as though we lived on an island. Our religious life must reflect a value system which is both parochial and international. Everything that happens to us and to the world is linked. Worship and witness must express this fact.

If we agree with Bishop Tutu: "You and I know we worship a God that cares," then we will have difficulty separating out areas of life that we can comfortably ignore.

Prep athletics: innocence lost

HINGS AREN'T ALL peaches and cream in the world of high school sports. It may appear as such to the naive eye. Prep sports paints itself a handsome exterior: the purity of competition, the innocence of playing for school and community pride, the lessons learned through both victory and defeat, and the satisfaction of doing the best you can

Beneath that exterior, though, the foundation is beginning to crack

There are sinister forces at work here - forces that operate under the guise of concerned parents and coaches

The intention of this column is not to point fingers at any one coach, parent, player or athletic program. The intention is to toss out issues and stir up constructive debate

This column contains no remedies for the issues it raises. It contains evidence, it is hoped, that will incite those in power to take an introspective look at high school athletics.

SCENE ONE: Sally plays basketball on her middle school team. She's a very talented player Varsity basketball coaches from both the public and the private high school regularly attend her games. Both coaches have made it known they'd like very much for Sally to attend their school

Both high school coaches spend time talking to Sally's parents about the benefits of their school

"Our basketball program has produced many college players," the private school coach tells the parents. "If she comes here, I can guarantee her a college scholarship."

Said the public school coach "The reason the private school team wins all the time is that they come here and steal all of our players. I think it is disgusting to have to put this kind of pressure on Sally. But I feel that if I don't, we'll keep losing kids to the private school."

Sally, meanwhile, has become increasingly popular among her friends at school. Because of all the attention, she has become somewhat of a celebrity. Consequently, Sally's ego has grown disproportionate to her ability. This begins to cause problems for her, her coach, teammates and family

FINALLY, SALLY'S parents decide it would be best if their daughter attends the private school. Sally cries because all of her friends go to public school

Sally is miserable at the private school and is unproductive during basketball practice. The coach benches her until she's ready to contribute Sally's parents sit in the stands wondering why their daughter isn't playing. They argue with the private school coach and eventually pull Sally out of the school.

After losing a season of eligibility, Sally is ready to resume her basketball career

The problem is Sally's two-year sabbatical has made her a stranger on the public school team. Girls whom she played with at middle school have grown and improved and are now stars on this team. Sally doesn't fit in.

Sally's basketball career is shot. Forget about

These kinds of things are happening right now in Observer & Eccentric land

SCENE TWO: Coach Jones has won five consecutive league championships, two state titles and has coached 250 more wins than he has

His team will not win the league title this year, and Jones can hear the grumbling in the stands

"He's lost it ... Why isn't he playing so-and-so.

The kids don't respect him ... His offense is . His offense is He's got to go." totally archaic.

After a particularly galling loss, a parent steps from the stands to talk to coach Jones Apparently, the parent's kid didn't play much during the game. The coach and the parent exchange heated words. Coach Jones resigns the next day. The team is still looking for a replacement SCENE THREE: Coach Doe has had the best team in the area for nearly 15 years. The area rankings always list the team No. 1. The team rarely loses league contests.

Coach Smith's team, also very good, plays in a neighboring region. Smith repeatedly requests games against Coach Doe's team. Coach Doe steadfastly refuses.

Coach Doe's athletic director, in an off-therecord statement to the press, confides that Doe is obsessed with his win-loss record and will not jeopardize it against Smith's team.

More and more, good teams shy away from scheduling good teams. Lost is the sports axiom that it is more productive to lose against the best than beat the worst

THIS SPACE does not permit any more scenes, although there are a good many to discuss - like the basketball player who quit the team because he was ashamed of the way his father carried on in the stands.

Nevertheless, recruiting at the middle school level is a reality. Overbearing, power-hungry, know-it-all parents are forcing good coaches and players out of the game. Some coaches do pad their schedules with powder-puff games to maintain win streaks and winning percentages The luster of high school sports is fading.

Chiefs win at the wire

By Brad Emons staff writer

Tom Niemi wouldn't pass for being a jockey, but the Plymouth Canton basketball coach whipped his towel and prodded his team past rival Plymouth Salem in a battle to the wire Tuesday night, 42-40.

Although the match-up between neighbors at Centennial Educational Park was a bit ragged, just about everyone was standing for the photo fin-

Salem missed sending the game into overtime, failing to capitalize on three consecutive shots in the frantic final

Canton had to rally for the victory after watching a nine-point halftime lead evaporate. The Rocks, in fact, enjoyed a four-point advantage midway through the final guarter.

"When they (Salem) went ahead I thought our team showed some real. poise," said Niemi, whose team is 4-5 in Western Lakes play and 5-7 overall. "We started playing better defense and we worked hard. We made some crucial free throws and came up with some clutch baskets."

BALL-HAWKING GUARDS Roger Trice and Tyrone Reeves led the stretch run.

A steal and layup by Reeves put Canton back ahead, 39-38, with 2:38 remaining.

Trice then scooped up a Salem turnover and flew in for a bucket (despite a goaltend by Salem's Mike Hale) with 1:35 left, making the count, 41-38.

Salem, however, pulled within one on a pair of Bryan Kearis free throws with Canton then milked the clock down

The Rocks' starting center, 6-foot-7 Tom D'Angelo then put up an off-bal-ance shot just inside the free throw line with eight seconds left. Antonio Diaz, at 6-8, then missed a tip. Smith, anchoring himself inside, picked up the rebound, but couldn't get enough muscle

TIME THEN EXPIRED as players from both teams scrambled on the floor for the loose ball.

Coach Bob Brodie and his flu and injury-ridden team may have hit Rock bottom with the defeat. Salem, which has lost five of its last six, fell to 6-6 overall. And although D'Angelo returned to the lineup after a bout with the flu, Brodie got more bad news when team leader Paul Makara caught the bug and missed the game. (Canton's Matt LeVesque was also out).

"We're trying to bounce back," Bro-die said. "We've just got to fight through this and come back, but it always hurts to lose to your neighbor."

Salem got a game-high 19 points from Hale, a 6-3 junior. Smith was next best with eight.

"In the first half we didn't execute," said Brodie. "Canton's hard, pressure defense took us out of our offense. Our guards couldn't get past 24 or 25 feet.

Western wins spike tourney

By Chris McCosky

Walled Lake Western stole the show at the second annual Plymouth Salem Invitational Volleyball Tournament Saturday, and the Garden City Cougars could just kick themselves.

Canton senior Joel Mies scored 16 points,

Western, in a heart-stopping championship match, defeated Dearborn 1-15, 17-15, 15-12 to take the title. Garden City could do no more than sit and watch, wondering how things might have been.

Garden City had Western down and all-but-out in the semifinal match. The Cougars won the first game against the eventual champs in a breeze, 15-1. But GC let down and Western rallied to a 15-9 win in game two Despite a heroic effort by GC's Missy Ward, Western prevailed in the deciding game, 15-13.

"It seems like when we take the first game easy, we have trouble in the second game," Garden City coach Tom Teeters said. "We let down and lose our consistency

Still, the Cougars commanded more respect from the 23 competing coaches than any other team. Three Cougars — Ward, Denice Kokowicz and Nikki Stubbs - were selected to the all-tournament team by a vote of the coaches.

Ward, named the tourney's most valuable player, took control of the net at various times throughout the day.

In the deciding game against Walled Lake Western, Ward singlehandedly brought her team into contention. GC fell behind 7-3, but four ace spikes by Ward quickly tied the game.

With Ward, Kokowicz, Stubbs, Mary Hebert and Marla Evans doing a large share of the work, GC assumed leads of 9-7, then 13-11. Western, led by the strong net play of both Pam Roselle and Dawn Andrews, scored the last four points in a row to win the WESTERN BARELY made it out of its pool. Dearborn, Ladywood and Western each posted 6-2 records in pool play. Dearborn was the first team to advance based on total points scored. Western and Ladywood played each other in pool and split their two games. Western, though, scored more points than Ladywood and advanced Ladywood coach Mike O'Toole was incensed by the ruling, although it was clearly stated in the tournament rules that total points in head-to-head play would be the tie-breaker in that situation.

Dearborn's main obstacle en route to the championship match proved to be Livonia Stevenson. Despite some inspired play by the Spartan's heavy-hitting Kristine Bailey, Dearborn prevailed 15-12, 15-13. In the second game, Stevenson trailed 11-2 before rallying to a 13-13 tie.

Dearborn easily dusted Warren Cousino, 15-8, 15-9, in the semifinals.

Other Observerland players named to the alltournament team were Bailey from Stevenson, Marie Becker from Redford Union and Jenny Okon from John Glenn

"Really, we're not doing a lot of hings differently than we have in the ast," said Cook, "The difference is the kids They're more mature, they've been in the system four or five years -They're bigger and stronger, and their basketball IQ is such that they are able to comprehend and do more things that Zion Christian at home. are needed to win games." The nucleus:

• Rod Windle is the senior captain and floor leader of the club. He came to the Acadamy from Fort Wayne, Ind., as a sophomore and labored through that 5-15 season two years ago. He is the team's second-leading scorer and top assist man this year. His speed also keys the team's fastbreak and pressing

• PAT McCARTHY is the team's eading scorer, averaging better than points a game. A junior, he is a lashy player, both offensively and deensively. Arguably, he is the Eagle's all-around athlete. He played soccer and golf at the school. Two years ago, e won his age group at the Observer & Eccentric Golf Tournament.

• Steve McCarthy, Pat's older other, is the team's inside muscle. At 6-2, he plays center and is the team's top rebounder. He, too, was a part of the 5-15 season. He left the Acadamy to attend Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard, but

> > "THIS TEAM blends together real well," Cook said. "They are all good kids and they work real hard."

Did someone mention a fast-paced style of play? The Eagles average 80 offensive possessions a game. The high school norm, in this area, is between 60 and 70. The Eagles' press forces teams to turn the ball over nearly 40 percent of the time. Plymouth Christian, on the other hand, has turned the ball over just 25 percent of the time.

Cook began to sense something special in his team just prior to the holiday break in December. In successive really, that's been the difference, games, the Eagles knocked off perennial MIAA champs Southfield Christian on the road and Class D power Troy

"It's kind of hard because people in the past considered it a joke when they played us," he said. "It was like an auomatic win. Now, everyone gets geared up to play us. Everyone wants to be the first team to beat us. We have to get better every day. We cannot rest on what we've done in the past."

COOK IS cautiously pleased with the 9-0 start. He knows many of the MIAA teams are licking their chops in anticipation of a rematch - many teams feel that Plymouth Christian's 9-0 start s somewhat of a fluke.

"After we beat Troy Zion, I read in most talented player. He's also quite an the Troy paper that our small floor stifled their offense. Funny, it never bothered them before when they used to press us to death," said Cook.

But, we're only half-way through the season," he added. "We could easily lose tomorrow. But I'm pleased with the way the kids are handling this. Today's practice was just as intense as day one. It has not gone to their heads because they know we still have a long returned midway through last school way to go. We have to prove we de serve the respect."

Shasky hurt by Gophers trouble

What can you say to someone who's just had his lifelong dream crushed? What can you ask a gentleman and a scholar who, through no act of his own, may forever be linked with a sour, sor did affair?

If life is a series of peaks and valleys, then John Shasky and his University of Minnesota basketball teammates are at rock bottom. If the Good Lord means to test us with one challenge after another throughout our that dwarfs even his 7-foot frame.

grad and Bloomfield Hills native, is a cent of his floor shots and 63.4 percent co-captain for the Gophers. A week ago of his free throws. they were peaking. A win over University of Michigan, at the time unbeaten, got them started. They followed with victories over Michigan State and, last Thursday, at Wisconsin.

After three straight Big Ten losses, Minnesota had charged back to win three straight. Now came a game at celler-dweller Northwestern, followed consecutive home games against Ohio State, Indiana and Iowa, And the Gophers were unbeaten at home.

SO THEY had reason to be jubiliant as they boarded their flight back from Wisconsin last Friday. Their euphoria crash-dived when the police arrived. Three of Shasky's teammates Mitch Lee, George Williams and Kevin Smith - were arrested and charged with sexual assault.

The next day, Gopher coach Jim Dutcher resigned, Sunday's game at Northwestern was forfeited. The balance of the season was in question. Shasky who, like many college play ers hoping for a good enough season to induce a pro contract, was watching his career crumble. Not because of injury. Certainly not because of his own failings. Not even due to the sometimes cruel, fickle fate produced by the bounce of a basketball. Because of an alleged crime, as dastardly an act as man can commit. "It was a big shock," he said of Friday morning's events. "I had no idea what was coming. "From the perspective of our season, it really has been devastating. We were on a roll, we were looking to go on a streak with our next three games at home. We haven't lost here yet."

 Almost a pound of cheese on every large pizza.

With Buddy's you get more pizza for your money. You don't need as many slices, because a slice of Buddy's is big and thick and satisfying. You can even feed a family of four for as little as $765.

Besides, Buddy's gives you something the two-fer-ones can't match. Quality. So why deny yourself the best? Go for Buddy's, the #1 pizza in Detroit for 50 years.

Gold medal architect is star of Redstone team

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

Leo Shea, president of Livonia's Louis G. Redstone and Associates, believes that architecture is a balance of function, aesthetics

Don't tell Leo Shea "they don't make good old, dependable buildings the way they use to." Shea, president of Livonia's Louis G. Redstone and Associates Inc., will strongly disa-

And he should know. The recent recipient of the Detroit Chapter of American Institute of Architect's Gold Medal of excellence in architecture, Shea has demonstrated an ability to develop outstanding, functional architecture while fulfilling the needs of a variety of clients.

Cited as an exemplary leader in the field, Shea knows that a successful architect doesn't hoard his own talent.

"I've been in the profession for a number of years and I've felt that I have an obligation to the profession to offer whatever I could in the way of knowledge to others coming along."

A NATIVE of Oak Park, Ill., Shea lives in Bloomfield Township with his wife, Patty, and two of their five children. He graduated from New York's Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in time for the Korean War where he spent two years as an engineer platoon leader with the 1st Marine Divi-

He worked for a Chicago architectural firm for eight years and received a master's in business administration from the University of Chicago before joining Redstone and Associates in 1961. He is an active member of the AIA, an author, lecturer, arts connoisseur and president of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Art Association.

Architecture to Shea means more than one man doing a good job; it is the result of the company's talents and attention to minute detail.

Shea's view of architecture has worked for Redstone and Associates, which has been responsible for projects such as the University Liggett Arts addition in Grosse Pointe, the Grand Traverse Tower near Traverse City, the hospital at Jackson Prison and Somerset Mall in Troy

REDSTONE and Associates designed the projects to fit the individual needs of its clients, and tried to add some of its own architectural preferences, such as using natural lighting, said Shea.

"There is always a balance of function, aesthetics and cost," Shea said "All attempt to be as functional and logical as possible."

Greg Vassi, assistant administrator at Grosse Pointe's Cottage Hospital, said the hospital chose Redstone and Associates because of its expertise in dealing with hospital problems

"They are known for building park ing decks in restricted areas. That is very specific problem," Vassi said. "We also chose them based on their stature in the Grosse Pointe commu

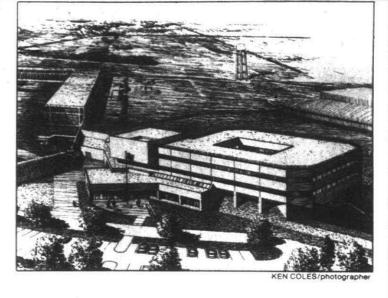

SHEA EXPLAINED that while older buildings overflowed with elaborate fixtures, and were unrestricted by finances, post-modernism has used more economical materials

Glass and mirror is more energy efficient and less costly. Metal studs have replaced wood, and dry wall has replaced plaster. Shea said the new materials produce substantial buildings that will last.

He cited the GM Tech Center as an outstanding collection of buildings. Wayne State University's McGregor Conference Center's design is excellent. Shea said, because it's both functional and aesthetically pleasing. These buildings are products of De troit's highly competitive architectur-al market, which follows the changing needs of its clients, he said.

Despite the high cost of building, Detroit architecture firms have enjoyed a resurgence of development.

ALTHOUGH clients might not be

Shea has demonstrated an ability to develop outstanding, functional architecture, as well as an ability to fulfill the needs of his varying clients. The hospital at Jackson Prison presented an unusual security problem for designers. The maximum security prison cuts through the middle of the building which serves both employees and inmates. The hospital will be ready for occupancy in about 60 days, according to Redstone officials.

able to afford buildings like those at Cranbrook, Shea said, the post-modernist influence has allowed for the integration of art and architecture in a new breed of buildings, such as the recent Redstone projects. This trend gives new buildings a form of aesthetic quality, he said.

Shea also said that occasionally an architect's plan evolves into a new concept. Somerset Mall is an example of an architect taking an orginal building design, adding a restaurant in the middle and using available sunlight to set a mood.

They have concerts on Sunday af ternoons, they have art exhibits. It's really turned into a community center of a certain type . . . it's a pleasant place to be," Shea said.

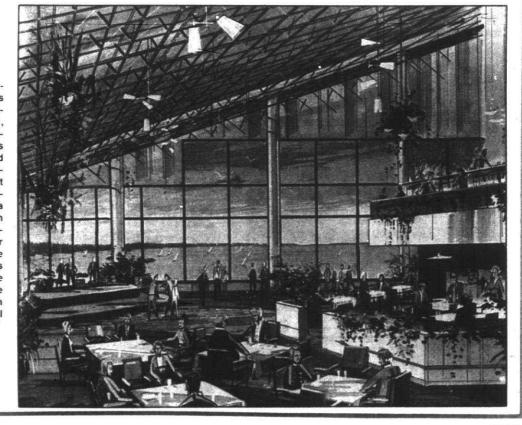

Shea predicts several changes in architecture, including increased efficiency and computerization.

As for Redstone and Associates, Shea said the firm will continue to develop high-quality projects.
"I would like clients to be so pleased that they come back and ask us to do the next project," he said. 'And about 80 percent of the time, we Shea's view of architecture has worked for Redstone Associates. which is responsible for projects such as the Grand Traverse Tower currently being built and slated for completion in May. Shea was the principal in charge on the condominium tower and conference center, which was designed to take advantage of the northern Michigan vistas and natural lighting.

Stumbling on the corporate ladder

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

Of the thousands of people who work for corporations, only a few have ever used them as a subject for a novel.

George Lee Walker of Bloomfield Hills did and his novel, "The Chronicles of Doodah," Houghton Mifflin 1985, has received wide national and international attention.

Walker puts a Kafkaesque twist on corporate life with some Orwellian touches. The nameless protagonist is a speech writer for an unnamed corporation, located in "a suburb of a large, decaying city."

Walker was with American Motors for two years, writing speeches for the chairman and president and did the same thing at Ford for three years. He also wrote speeches for President Gerald Ford, Sen. Robert P. Griffin, and Gov. William Millikin.

Without a name, Walker's central character who tells his story first per-son becomes, as the author intended, a 20th century "Everyman," registering his impressions of corporate life - the silence, the mystery, the insidious fear that is pervasive at all levels. He is tested, tried, examined and finally approved.

WALKER said, "I tried to capture the mood of secrecy and mystery that often prevails in a corporate setting most people don't like to tell you what they're up to and this promotes fear. Some corporations are more relaxed and easy going than the two I worked for. I had three years in the Navy and Ford was more military than the Walker, however, was quick to quash impressions that he used specific people as models for his characters.

"There will be a lot of people in Detroit who won't like this book. I don't think everybody in a corporation is bad or corrupt," and then as his voice picked up intensity, he said, "And this book is definitely not about Iacocca. I have very great respect for Iacocca. He's tough - very demanding. He sets his sights for himself very high. He's not a fun guy to work for. He's a workaholic. His office is stacked with big, black notebooks which he is (always) studying. He wants things done immediately.

"The basic idea of a novel based on a corporation in which something strange would be happening in the basement offices started in 1966-67." He said he was hired as a speech writer for American Motors while his employer, the Free Press was on some reason I would find myself in the basement with all those closed doors," he said adding that the same thing happened to him later at Ford and his curiosity was peaked. Walker said he hopes that corporate people who read the book will "feel a sense of verification" about their feelings, their need to talk with someone about them, but not daring to go beyond prefunctory remarks about the

HE SAID, "I hope it will be a beneficial warning to yuppies - you may get your BMW and all the stuff, but you're gonna pay the price."
