Shopping center gains ground

Developers of Coventry Commons East gained ground at Monday's Planning Commission meeting with a vote recommending approval of the shopping complex at the southeast corner of Morton Taylor and

About 170 Mayfair-subdivision homeowners attended the meeting to protest the complex.

After a public hearing lasting about 21/2 hours, the commission voted 6-1 to amend a 1975 Wayne

Circuit Court consent judgment that says the land is to be used for entertainment and leisure activities

THE AMENDMENT would allow the shopping complex, but the final decision rests with the Canton Township Board of Trustees

Residents also are concerned about the proposed construction of Morton Taylor between Joy and Warren. In addition, they worried about the effects of Nelson Ross' tentative plans to develop the southwest side of Morton Taylor and Residents previously argued the township failed to properly notify thern of the mall before major development steps were taken by Nelson/Ross Properties of Franklin, Canton's Community and Economic Development Director Dave Nicholson said he discussed the development with residents on a number of occassions.

"The development as a whole will that should be more attractive than the original uses of compex like a multi-screen theater complex, a racquetball facility or a bowling alley.

After Monday's public hearing, Bob Brown, Mayfair subdivisison homeowner said, "We are still very much against the shopping mall. We plan to continue to fight.'

RICHARD ANDERSON cast the sole vote against the amendment.

Commissioners Edward Portschell, Richard Kirchgatter, Catherine Prince, Loren Bennett, Martin LaForte and Robert Sheffer ly voted in favor of the amendment.

Eight Mayfair residents filed a lawsuit last March claiming the East violated the consent judgment. The anchor stores at the site would be A&P, Arbor Drugs and ACO.

They were told Nelson/Ross would file a lawsuit against them to cover money losses if the lawsuit was pursued. The eight residents backed off

During the lawsuit negotiations, Nelson/Ross agreed to set aside $20,000 for safety devices when development begins on the east side and $20,000 for the west parcel, and agreed to push for a 25 mph speed

Sale of historic school approved

The sale of historic Cherry Hill School to Canton Township has been authorized by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education. But township officials differ on whether a plan to renovate the building will be completed in time to satisfy state grant requirements.

"I think it's going to be a problem," said James Poole, Canton Township Supervisor. "You have to get architects, you have to get bids, and you have to get the job done."

Poole said the township would likely request a time extension on the $99,500 grant awarded fast December to rehabilitate the 110year-old structure by the end of this

The Board of Education action clears the way for the former school to eventually function as a meeting place for various service groups, following rehabilitation.

THE SCHOOL board Monday directed Superintendent John Hoben to sell the school, at Cherry Hill and Ridge in Canton, to the township for $25,000 - the price agreed to by both the school district and the town-

"It's going to be open to all the service groups in Canton," explained Kim Scherschigt, Canton community and economic development research associate. Scherschigt wrote the application for the state grant awarded to the township to rehabilitate the structure.

"We'll really add nothing to it; we'll just improve what's basically there," Scherschigt said. While no timetable for rehabilitation has been set, she said work should be finished "hopefully by the first of the year."

Built in 1876, the building served as a one-room school house until Henry Ford donated money for an addition. In 1945, Ford added the school to the Greenfield Village Edison School System. Cherry Hill School remained part of this system until Ford's death in 1947, when it

"And the hundreds of thousands ho fought for our freedom in this country will be remembered. Freedom doesn't come without a lot of courage and sacrifice."

The Centennial Educational Park Band played "The Star Spangled Banner" to a small crowd of about 20 people of all ages attending the ceremony, organized by Canton recreation director Mike Gouin and senior vice commander of the American Legion Post 391, Bill Nicholas.

The circle of flagpoles facing township hall and the police department on Canton Center south of Proctor were built late last winter. Poole predicts a flag dedication ceremony will become an annual event.

Water colors make big splash

Crosby has had solo shows at the University of Michigan, shown work at the American Watercolor Exhibit in New York City, sold watercolors to corporate clients, and has exhibited work on the Michigan Art Train and at several universities.

Now, Crosby works mainly in transparent watercolor.

"It's not opaque; you don't cover up with it," she explains. "The white of the paper comes through and gives a living feeling to it. That's why watercolors are more interesting than oils - that living quality."

That quality is well-suited to Cros-

Feds can't pay for river cleanup - Rep. Ford

Local governments can still seek help from the federal government on environmental projects such as the Rouge River cleanup but the government can't provide money, according to U.S. Rep. William D. Ford, D-

Ford said Monday that funds traditionally earmarked for such projects have been disappearing under the defense-heavy budgets proposed by the Reagan Administration in recent years. He suggested that the government.

There is evidence that diet and cancer are related. Some foods may promote cancer, while others may protect you from it. Foods related to lowering the risk of cancer of the larynx and esophagus all have high amounts of carotene, a form of Vitamin A which is in cantaloupes, peaches, broccoli, spinach, all dark green leafy vegetables, sweet potatoes, carrots, pumpkin, winter squash and tomatoes, citrus fruits and brussels sprouts.

Foods that may help reduce the risk of gastrointestinal and respiratory tract cancer are cabbage, broccoli, brussels sprouts, kohlrabi, cauliflower.

Foods high in fats, salt-or nitrite-cured foods like ham, and fish and types of sausages smoked by traditional methods should be eaten in moderation. Be moderate in consumption of alcohol also.

A good rule of thumb is cut down on fat and don't be fat. Weight reduction may lower cancer risk. Our 12-year study of nearly a million Americans uncovered high €ancer risks particularly among people 40% or more overweight. Now, more than ever, we know you can cook up your own defense against cancer. So eat healthy and be healthy.

No one faces cancer alone.

Raymor has been registered since February 1985 and Voymas since October 1985. Voymas could have voted once but didn't: Raymor had two chances and missed twice. The record for Raymor and Voymas is too skimpy to draw any hard conclusions. Maybe they would have voted if they were able to register earlier and had more opportunities. But we do not need to play guessing games when there are other candidates who warrant consideration.

The Observer recommends that its readers narrow the list of viable school candidates from 10 to seven and devote their energies to weighing the relative merits of E.J. Legislature to do it. We shouldn't sit back and assume the Michigan United Conservation Clubs can do it alone.

The job is to get wine cooler bottles out of our yards, parks, beaches, roadsides and farm fields.

It will take a petition drive which will force the Legislature either 1) to require a 10-cent deposit on wine coolers and the new canned mixed drinks, or 2) place such a proposal on the ballot.

Voters followed that route 10 years ago, passing a law requiring a 10-cent deposit on cans and 5-cent deposit on bottles of beer and soft drinks. The law took effect in 1978, and almost overnight the amount of litter was drastically reduced. And if there was litter, at least one had an economic incentive to

BUT WINE coolers (mixtures of wine and fruit juices) and mixed drink (whiskey and pop) are new on the market. They aren't covered by our 1976 law.

A new law is necessary. Either the Legislature or the voters must pass it.

A joint legislative rules committee shot down the state Liquor Control Commission's rule to require deposits on wine coolers. As the Litter Lobby (our term for those firms which fight deposits) chortled with glee, the legislators rejected the attorney general's advice that LCC really did have that power. Lawmakers, while professing to hate litter, repeatedly taunted backers of the deposit rule to add whiskey and catsup bottles to the list.

So we can't count on the Legislature. A WORD ABOUT MUCC for those unfamiliar with this statewide collection of clubs.

group. It takes a strong interest in nature and the environment. With its camps and programs for kids, it has a strong family thrust.

Lots of groups worked on the 1976 deposit law campaign, but-MUCC provided the leadership and coordination. It's ready to do the job again.

MUCC has petition forms ready to collect the 243,000 signatures of voters required to force action on an expanded Call MUCC in Lansing at 517/371-1041 and it will send you two forms.

Then mail them back - pronto. Time is running out. There are legal deadlines

The Legislature is unlikely to act. MUCC can't do it alone. It's up to ordinary, busy citizens to complete the cleanup job which voters so nobly advanced in the 1970s.

WHILE 88 percent of women would like to lose weight almost half - 48 percent - of the men want to be taller.

There's something incongruous about this and the fact that most men asked who they would like to look like picked Robert Redford, who is probably about 5-foot-8. The reason I know he is only 5-foot-8 is that in "All the President's Men," Redford is a couple of inches higher than Dustin Hoffman, who has to be about 5-foot-5 since he played "Tootsie" in heels and still was shorter than the 5-foot-7 Jessica Lange.

As a matter of fact, the preponderance of evidence would indicate that most men should yearn to be shorter, not taller. Most big-money male movies stars are 5-foot-9 or under, Gov. Blanchard is only about 5-foot-8, and the vast majority of the world's geniuses were short.

It may have something to do with the fact that people of smaller stature try harder because they feel they have been shorted (eh!) on natural attributes.

The only demonstrable place taller is better is pro basketball and since you have to be 6-foot-6 to even consider such a lofty aspiration, I suggest that such a life is beyond the reach of 99.9

When I asked why the family hadn't capitalized on the possibilities and gone into the tourist business, Eddie answered, "To be honest with you, we've been trying to do that or else sell it to someone who wants to build, which would be

Liability crisis not easy issue

Lawyer-bashing is in vogue in the pages of the Observer & Eccentric ewspapers and elsewhere these days. The insurance industry and its allies, including your Tim Richard, find attorneys to be the convenient culprits of "the liability crisis."

The latest in a long list of columns critical of plaintiffs' personal injury attorneys is Richard's "Lawyers cash in on roads" (April 24). He observes: ". . . the next time we damage a car wheel on an unrepaired pothole, maybe we ought to sue the

His example reflects too narrow a view of the problem, and totally ignores the victims of defective road ways who are concerned not with damaged "wheels," but with permanent disability and suffering sustained in accidents.

Argument by example should include one from my law practice. In 1982, a beautiful 21-year-old co-ed at a small Michigan college was a passenger in a car being driven on a rural roadway. It was a dark night, there were no streetlights, no speed or warning signs along the road, and no barrier at a point where the road abruptly ended.

knew about the danger on this road there had been previous accidents at the same site. But warning signs and other safety measures were not added until after this girl was hurt. Such negligence resulted in a sizeable settlement against the road

Who among us would take this money in exchange for the personal loss this girl has sustained? What motivation would the road commission have had to make this particular road safer and prevent future accidents had they not been sued?

THIS EXAMPLE is not unique. Each year in the United States, 3.5 million people are injured in traffic accidents, causing some 50,000 deaths and twice that number of permanent cripples. According to the U.S. Department

Just a great kid to have around

By Julie Brown staff writer

HEN JOEL Sonnenberg grows up, he'd like to own a pet store.

That pet store would house "a dog. cat. fish, turtles, everything." according to Joel, an 8year-old second grader at Gallimore Elementary School in Canton Township.

It seems, however, that Joel, like most who are his age, doesn't quite understand the workaday realities of the business world. Not too long ago, he asked his mom, Janet Sonnenberg, just how pet shop owners get paid.

She explained that customers at the store would pay him for their purchases Joel's response? "Doesn't the governor give you money?"

The youngster had originally planned on being a veterinarian, according to his mother. When he found out how much work school could be, however, he changed his career plans.

Joel does good work in school, Janet Sonnenberg said. "It's just getting him to that point of doing it."

Joel's love of pets is evident in the "About the Author" section of a book he recently wrote at school. It reads "Joel Sonnenberg was born in New York in 1977. He has a lot of fish, a guinea pig, and a hamster. He likes to play soccer. His friends are Claire, Kurt, Matt, and many more."

SOCCER ISN'T the only sport that Joel enjoys.

"I like to play all kinds of sports," he said. In school, math is his favorite subject.

"He really zooms along in math," said Norma Foster, Joel's teacher at Gallimore.

Although Joel's activities and interests parallel those of his fellow second graders at Gallimore, the road he and his family have traveled to reach this point has often been a rough one. The book he wrote in school, entitled "My Trip to the Hospital," describes one small part of that journey.

Joel and his family have come a long way since Sept. 15, 1979, when he almost died in a fiery crash.

Mike and Janet Sonnenberg, their daughter, Jami, and Joel were on their way to Maine for a short vacation. With them were Joel's and Jami's aunt and uncle, Kathy and Doug Rupp.

Mike, Doug and Joel, who was 22 months old at the time, were traveling in one car. The two women and Jami rode in a second car.

The Sonnenbergs and the Rupps were stopped at a toll booth along Interstate 95, when a tractor-trailer rammed into the line, of cars. The car the men and Joel were riding in burst into flame. The baby, who was trapped in his infant seat, was pulled from the car by Michael Saraceni.

ALTHOUGH MIKE Sonnenberg and Doug Rupp were hospitalized, young Joel's injuries were by far the most serious ones sustained in the multiple-car accident that September day in New Hampshire.

"Joel was caught, trapped in the car in his infant seat," said Janet Sonnenberg, who is a registered nurse. The youngster suffered third-degree burns over 85 percent of his body. Only the portion covered by his diaper was spared.

In addition to losing all of his fingers and toes and one hand, the youngster's face was severely disfigured.

Joel spent the next several months "fighting for his life in Boston where he was treated," his mother recalled. When he left the hospital, "we still had a struggle on our hands and we still do."

The Sonnenbergs moved to Canton Township last summer from Nyack, N.Y., just north of New York City. Both Mike and Janet Sonnenberg are Michigan natives.

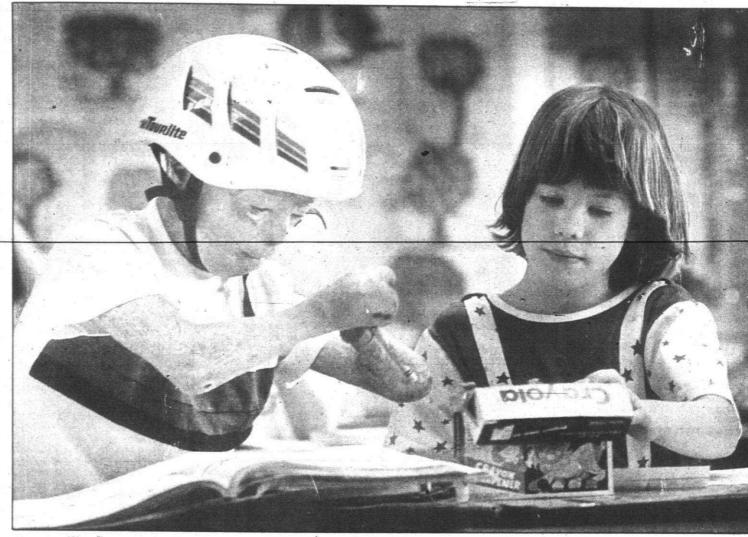

Joel, who began preschool at age 3, attended a public elementary school in New York. Despite his severe injuries, he retained his vision and hearing and is able to speak.

"They had a wonderful elementary school," Mike Sonnenberg said of the New York community. "It was great."

When Joel was ready to enter kindergarten, his family showed videotapes at the school to help other families know what to expect.

"THAT HELPED the kindergarten parents to be prepared," Janet Sonnenberg said. She also wrote a book, "Race for Life" (Zondervan Publishing House, Grand Rapids, 1983), which Yawn. This is a mildly amusing pre-WKRP comedy about a rock radio station and its various characters conflict with the management The ending is ludicrous, but the film was a wonderful excuse for a soundtrack. The music is varied and lively, a pleasant reminder of the period Martin Mull does a nice bit as a disc day on Ch. 50 Originally 130 minutes. TV time slot! 150 minutes. Rating: $2.

area eateries and rates them on a 100-point scale. Up to 30 points are awarded for ambiance, which includes general atmosphere and service; 55 points for food, and 15 points for price/ value rating. A total count of 59 points or less indicates a restaurant is not recommended, 60-74 points signify from passing to good, 75-89 points designate very good with some extraordinary features and 90-100 points show that a very special dining experience awaits you.

RISTORANTE DI MODESTA, 29410 Northwestern Highway, Southfield (358-0344), is a cheerful, modern restaurant with candles and flowers on the tables and a low, pleasant level of lighting. Seating is limited, and there is a feeling of closeness - both in the sense of physical proximity and of friendliness - that is appealing. Although everything else seemed clean, our tablecloth was dirty and had crumbs left from a plate or previous diner. Our Saturday night reservations were promptly and graciously honored, and we were very pleased by the courteous interest in our enjoyment of the meal when we left. Dinner took about an hour and a half. General Atmosphere — 15 points maximum. Points awarded - 12,

Our waiter was extremely knowledgeable about the dishes and their ingredients and preparation. He was, at times, too zealous in urging his recommendations in place of our choices. Service was sometimes overly prompt and although this was caused by the kitchen - our entrees were served before we had finished our salads. To his credit, our waiter always replaced dirty silverware with clean and refilled our water regularly. Service - 15 points maximum. Points awarded - 12.

A complimentary dish of capo-natta — mixed vegetables including eggplant, onion, mushroom and pepper cooked in olive oil and served cold - started our meal on a very positive note. The zuppa dell giorno, minestone ($1.95), was outstanding. It was thick and hearty with a rich flavor of blended vegetables and stock. The eggplant Modestina ($4.25) was nicely seasoned with tomato, ricotta cheese, tomatoes and spices. The bread was fresh and tasty. The restaurant does not yet have a liquor license. Drinks, Appetizers and Bread -10 points maximum. Points awarded - 9.

ed with the meal, was unusually good. Very fresh, with mixed greens, tomatoes, peppers and carrots, it was served with a light and well-prepared dressing that complemented the vegetables very nicely. Salad — 5 points maximum. Points awarded — 5.

Best of our entrees was the vitello di casa ($13.95), veal sauteed with lemon and capers. It was tart and tender, a nice combination of flavors. Not as well blended was the pasta combo ($10.50), with cannettoni, manicotti and lasagna, Although each pasta was good, the tastes were too similar to enjoy any one separately and the mani cotti seemed flavorless next to its more strongly seasoned companions. The chicken marsala ($12.50) was nicely prepared, with a subtle sauce, but it was served not quite hot. The fettucine pesce ($14.95) had generous and diverse seafood over pasta, enhanced by its sauce The veal and chicken dishes were served with a side dish of pasta, which was good, but the sauce was a bit watery and a little too strongly flavored with basil. Entree, Vegetables and Garnishes - 30 points maximum. Points. awarded - 23.

For a dessert of chocolate and whipped cream, the pinwheel cake was amazingly light and really hit the spot. It was attacked and consumed by everyone at the table The Kahlua chocolate cake was also good but had very little taste of Kahlua and scamed a bit dry. Dessert and Coffee - 10 points maximum. Points awarded - 8.

Dinner cost about $40 per couple, with tip but without drinks which is fairly expensive for Italian food. On the other hand, the dishes were well above average, with a considerable amount of personal attention and care paid to the ingredients, atmosphere and service. Price/Value - 15 points maximum. Points awarded - 12.

A Counting for Taste - 100 points maximum. Total points awarded: 81. Ristorante Di Modesta is a good choice for a special date. The atmosphere is enticing and the feeling inviting.

Mystery weekends tell whodunit

By Carmina Brooks special writer

ICKEY HEALD of Farmington produces horrible entertainment, and in four months without advertising, his new business is boom-

Last fall, Heald was teaching in Akron, Ohio, when a friend asked him to manage a Murder Mystery Weekend in the Aurora Sheraton Ho-

"I had never heard of mystery weekends," he said. "It originated in England and came to the USA about seven years ago. Now it is big busi-

The murder mystery game is a new, often unpredictable, form of entertainment. Players are participants in the plot. Improvisation is rampant and anything can happen.

Heald and assistant Ed Postif of Plymouth are so taken with this new form of entertainment they conduct a full-time business of writing, producing and managing mystery parties for hotels, corporations and private gatherings that can last three hours or three days. Guests may total 20 or 200.

HEALD IS A FORMER Ohio high school teacher of English literature and theatrical arts and a graduate of Kent State University

He heads an acting crew of 20, including a woman who teaches gifted children, theatrical arts students who work for expenses, hired professionals and contributing writers.

"This is typical of theater. We have production aspects, but we play party host plus handle business arrangements for guests and actors. We act as an extension of the hotel," Heald explained

Beginning price for a one-night party is $800. A weekend package costs hotels between $2,000 and $4,000.

"We create a scenario and plot around a special event - a wedding, a class reunion, a vacation weekend People come dressed for a wedding and end up with a wake," he said

Farmington resident Michel Heald (right) and assistant Ed Postif, who lives in Plymouth, show some of the tools of their trade as organizers of mystery weekends. Curious maps, tombstones, pistols, candles, notes written in blood, and severed hands are among the ghoulish props that may give clues to party guests, who track down an elusive killer.

SOME STORYLINES revolve around drug smuggling, a child's bid for attention, a kidnapping or a nightclub St. Valentine's Day massacre. And one or a dozen people die. One problem is how not to ruin the furniture with gore, Heald said.

Actors mix with guests and guests don't know who is lying. After a murder, interrogations are conducted, clues are left to cloud suspicions and sometimes arrests are made.

"We don't do anything dangerous Only the actors come into conflict. Everything is carefully planned."

Things do not always go according to script, however. During one of Heald's weekends an elderly woman faked a heart attack. Hotel clerks asked, "Didn't you just have another

Michigan beyond 2000

Anti-cooperative attitude between Detroit, suburbs to haunt economy

staff writer

Detroit area suburbs in the year 2000 will be languishing as their tax bases decline, populations age and racial compositions change.

That's the prediction of the Hudson Institute, an Indiana-based company commissioned by the Michigan Senate to predict state economic changes. The findings have been discussed in several economic forums around Michigan, including one Friday at Eastern-Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

The report adds that the interdependency of city and suburbs, and of older and newer suburbs, must soon be recognized as more than a platitude if the state is to negotiate the difficult period of the next century.

State Senate Majority Leader John Engler outlined the Hudson report before area business leaders at

"It's fairly blunt in its observations," Engler said. "I commissioned it. I reviewed it. But I don't stand behind everything in it."

Among Hudson Institute predictions as highlighted by Engler

• By 2005, service jobs will comprise more than three-fourths of jobs in Michigan. More people will work in finance, real estate and insurance than auto manufacturing. Auto production is not only shifting overseas, but also to lower cost out-of-state plants. The report said this is due in part to "an inflated wage structure" in the auto industry that has spilled over into most other state occupations and industries This makes Michigan "less competitive with other regions of the country and the world," according to the of boom and bust 'have conditioned the state's residents to believe that better times are just ahead, making it harder to recognize when major changes or sacrifices are needed.

Engler said no senate action on the report is scheduled, other than a probable summit conference to discontinue to rely heavily on manufacturing, factory employment won't grow because highly automated auto plants mean half as many workers will be needed to produce the same number of vehicles," the report

Engler said these factors should spark "a re-evaluation, I think, of the approach of vocational educa

In addition to the hard realities the Hudson report suggests the state will face, it also lists assets and suggests policy choices that could improve Michigan's economic outlook (See related story.) The report encourages support of the growing rootics industry, saying growth is po sible due to a large manufacturing capacity. Michigan also is home to 9.1 million people, "the eighth largest market in the country."

ENGLER HIGHLIGHTED a section of the report suggesting privatization of several state services

"This would deliver government services more effectively," Engler said. "You have an opportunity in privatization to do away with the rigidities of the civil service system.

State treasurer Robert Bowman called the report "good, for the most part." Bowman recalled the Blanchard administration's effort to balance the state budget and extolled the benefits of state budget solveney

"Solvency is important - it gives business, civic groups . . . and ernment time to plan," he said. . and gov-

With six prisons currently under construction around the state, the number of early prison releases will drop, Bowman said, tying that construction to budget solvency, which improved Michigan's credit rating.

°He also praised Republican lawmakers who have aided the state's eeonomic comeback and entrepreneurs who showed confidence the state's future by starting 23,000 businesses in 1985 - "the highest (number) ever in the state of

Report blisters state's wage structure, social policies

The Hudson Institute recommends a number of policy choices. They include:

• The first and most important task for Michigan policy makers is to re-establish Michigan as the lowestcost location for auto manufacturing in the United

 Michigan cannot expect food processing, forest products or any other non-automotive industry to have more than a trivial impact on the state's future over the next two decades.

 The four most important steps to regain the state's competitive position are: readjust the wage structure to reflect the competitive realities; continue the effort to reduce business costs; become a full partner with labor and management in the drive for competitiveness; increase state investments in advanced technologies and engineering education.

The development of a larger base of research and technology to support the auto industry is at least as important as the $600 million the state offered General Motors in incentives to build the Saturn plant here. Michigan should systematically seek to attract the leading educators and the most-talented students in these

The goal now should be to insure that key Michigan universities offer not just equivalent but superior salaries, facilities, fellowships, equipment and consulting opportunities to outstanding professionals and students in the targeted fields.

Michigan should not accept the possibility of being second in this area. The state should concentrate on automotive-related technologies. It should not compete for scholars across the board.

 Short of a "withering away of government," the state must find a way to provide more with less.

 The state should experiment with privatization of public services. Virtually no system or program in the state should be immune from consideration. The results of these experiments have often been highly favorable, with typical savings reported as ranging from 10 percent to more than 50 perceant. Despite the potential drawbacks, the benefits of contracting more than outweigh the costs.

 Michigan must adopt an investment strategy to reallocate state spending. Michigan's spending has been increasingly biased toward consumption rather than investment. Michigan spent 95 percent more per capita on welfare than the average for all other states in 1983, and its welfare spending has grown almost twice as fast since 1970 as the national average. By contrast, spend-education, transportation, economic development, advanced training and industry development deserve high priority, while those aimed at providing social and public services, and income transfers deserve more

The state should focus more attention on developing the facilities needed to attract tourists to the state.

· More state resources should be devoted to the "Say Yes to Michigan" campaign, to highways and airports serving recreational areas, to parks and recreation, to low-interest mortgages for first-time buyers

 The state's objective should be to see that Detroit and other Michigan cities - seen as metropolitan regions rather than as the currently defined jurisdictions - are self-sustaining, growing, urban centers. Rather than treating the cities as expensive problems, the state should design its policies to encourage regional decision makers to focus on shared opportunities and collective responsibilities. In some areas, it might mean action to promote annexation and mergers.

Ownership provides path to career goals

An incorrect version of this in its entirety.

By Susan Steinmueller special writer

The ways women attempt to achieve career goals as business owners are as diverse as the businesses they run.

Joan E. Moore and E. Jill Pollock started the Arbor Consulting Group in Plymouth because they wanted to capitalize on their entrepreneurial skills involving risk taking. Both women were previously employed in fast track corporate positions at Ford Motor Co.

Their company is an example of the increasing number of businesses started by women in Michigan in the past five years. It has grown to a staff of 13 - with the Arbor Consulting Group setting its sights on becoming a big business.

Moore and Pollack founded the company with a silent partner, also a woman, in 1983. Their aim was to create a "leading edge human resources" company.

As they enter their third year, success is evident. A long list of clients, including their old employer, Ford Motor Co., has subscribed for services that include helping companies revise their personnel departments using computer software as a tool, providing career transition assistance, and helping organizations collaborate with employers to achieve mutual goals.

Revenues doubled in 1984. This year, they expect to quadruple them. Recently they opened a one-person test market office in Washington,

She also served as "maintable" bargainer on the Ford national negotiation comittee during the 1982 Ford-UAW contract talks, the first management woman in the auto industry to have been selected. Both quickly climbed the corpo-

Hollywood errs on road rally

HE IMMEDIATE visualization of extended road rally racing is more cinematic than realistic Blame Hal Needham and Burt Reynolds.

film. Crazy cars and characters racing cross-country for a pile of loot big enough to fill a swimming pool. No doubt, the climatic scene of the movie would feature just that nitwits nosediving into a poolful of dollars.

They're the ones who romanticized the concept on

Geez, what fun

Sorry to burst the bubble, but that's not too accurate a picture. It's really not even close.

ASK ANY of the participants in last week's On Lap of America, the longest, most grueling road rally around. They'll tell you just how crazy things got. 'Any mishaps along the way?" was the question. Out-of-the-ordinary type stuff, like hitchhiking Martians or a run-in with rampaging bikers?"

"No. not at all," was Janice Telega's answer. "Everything went very well, which is why we did so

Perhaps some people go on these things - an eight-day, 8,000-mile rally - searching for adventure. Those that do better take along a fair supply of Groucho glasses and exploding cigars, because if they plan on doing even reasonably well they won't have time for pranks.

The competitors that filled the 120-car field had the same attitude as Telega, from Rochester: stick to business and do as well as possible.

That goal does not include streaking through the countryside at 130-mph. As Jeff Simpson, a Rochester Hills resident, explained quite simply, "I have to quit calling this a race. It was a rally.

Simpson and his co-drivers — Paul Drzyzga and Jon Lowell — piloted their 1986 Toronado to an 80th-place finish in the One Lap. Not too good, really, but were it not for one missed direction.

'We made one mistake," explained Simpson Monday, a day after arriving back in Detroit, One Lap's start and finish line. "We made a wrong turn just before the Pennsylvania section and it cost us.

WHAT THAT MISCUE cost was time and points Speed is not essential in the One Lap. The drivers must navigate a tricky course at the proper speeds All along the route are checkpoints. Drivers must reach them in a specified time. For each second they are early or late, they are penalized a point.

The drivers don't know where the checkpoints will be, just like they don't know what roads they'll be turning on. The directions they receive say merely "Turn left at the stop sign" or "Go 10 miles and turn

Does that sound like fun? Adventurous? Loads of Personally, I have enough problems with directions in my own neighborhood. Eight days of this stuff, and I'd probably end up somewhere near Cherynobl, glowing like a lightning bug. Forget the romance of those lighthearted movies

What the One Lap is is both boring and tense, total fatigue tearing at minds that must stay alert. Simpson's team found out after their wrong turn. "There's no way to catch up, to make up time," he said. "We were late getting to the Pennsylvania section, and we got penalized for that over and over and over "It's an unforgiving type of race - I mean, rally.

THE WRONG TURN cost the team about 2,000 points and ruined their chance to finish perhaps as high as 25th. Telega and her teammates - Louise Olson of Westland and Dennis Millinoff - didn't make a wrong turn. They didn't have a breakdown, either. That's why they placed 14th.

"We're novices at it, really," said Telega. "The first 12 to finish were almost all professional teams."

What's that adage about women drivers? Telega and Olson proved that to be hooey.

It's difficult to practice for something as enduring as the One Lap, but Millinoff, the experienced team member - he drove in last year's rally - entered the threesome in a few SCCA-sponsored road rallies. "We always got lost," said Telega of the practice sessions. "We never did very well. But we got our act together for the One Lap.' Indeed they did. Their point total was a mere 138. Translated, that means they were within 138 seconds of the exact times they were supposed to check in throughout the eight-day event. How far did they finish out of first? Quite a bit, surprisingly. The winners had just 34 points.

ALMOST EVERY car had computers to help in navigation and timing. Some had back-up computers, and back-ups to back-ups. Rand McNally sponsored a car with a navigation system that included a satellite dish on top of the car.

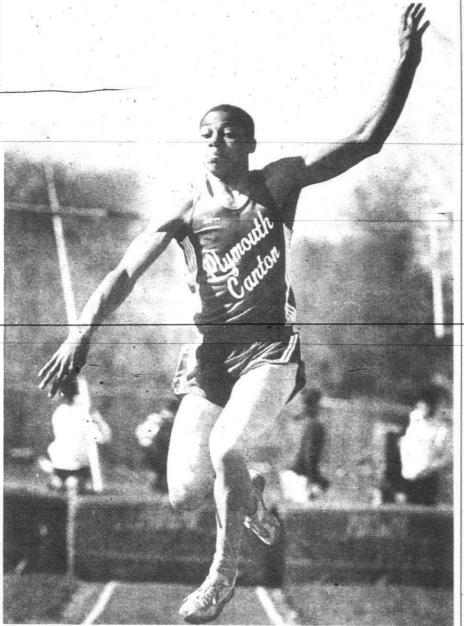

Such sophisticated devices didn't help much though. As Telega astutely pointed out, "A satellite hook-up won't tell you where the picket fence you have to turn at is."

Like in the movies, there were some unusual vehicles among the 123 entries: a motorcycle, motor homes, a stretch limousine, even a turbo-powered Checker cab.

None of the specialties fared too well, which says something about the no-nonsense attitude common to One Lap participants: most importantly, to finish the race (120 of the 123 entries did just that), and secondly, to do as well as possible.

There were stories to tell, to be sure. Simpson's team had a buzzard hit-the windshield. There was no damage, which means they fared better than the car that had a crow strike and shatter the driver's-side window

If you think that sounds like a fun way to spend your vacation, then I know of a summer camp in Libya that might interest you. And yet, Simpson and Telega shared the same feeting for One Lap: They'd do it again, without hesitation.

Glenn ends Rocks' run

The best team in Observerland met up with the hottest team Monday, and the best won - barely.

Westland John Glenn (19-1), who has steamrolled through the Western Lakes this season, beat high-riding Plymouth Salem 2-1 behind the fourhit pitching of Steve Irwin.

Salem had won eight straight games prior to Monday.

Irwin walked six Rocks, an unusual statistic for the potential allstater, and was in trouble throughout the game. But he never allowed the base hit that would break his back.

and we had a guy on second base in five of the seven innings," said Sa-lem coach John Gravlin, "He's just so tough. His curve ball is the best I've seen thrown by a high school kid. If he just threw us his fastball, we'd hit him. But he keeps you off

The Rocks had tied the game at 1-1 in the top of the seventh. Sean Worden led off with a pinch-hit single. Paul Makara, running for Worden, advanced to third on a pair of passed balls. He scored on a long sacrifice fly from Mike Kesson.

Kesson, the all-area infielder, had two of Salem's four hits.

Glenn won the game in the bottom of the seventh on a two-out, basesloaded wild pitch uncorked by reliever Shane Smith.

Craig Hawley, Salem's starter, allowed just four hits over 51/3.

PRIOR TO the loss, the Rocks had been on fire. After a 3-5 start, Salem beat Livonia Franklin, Hazel Park and Walled Lake Central twice, Farmington once and Northville

State's top 2 play 0-0 draw

By Brad Emons staff writer

A tie is like kissing your sister, but in Livonia Churchill's case it guaranteed the Chargers a Western Lakes Soccer League title

The state's No. 1 and 2 ranked girls teams, Churchill and Livonia rival Stevenson, battled last night to a scoreless draw before a larger than normal crowd at Churchill.

It was the regular season finale for both teams. Stevenson, tied Monday'2-2 by Plymouth Salem, settled for second place, one point behind at 11-0-3.

Although Churchill succeeds Stevenson as Western Lakes champions, there was little jumping for joy by the Charger camp after the match

"I'm very pleased we won the league championship and our division," said Churchill coach Ed Dudek, whose team is 17-0-2 overall. "This tie is going to get us more hungry the second time around. We didn't lose anything. "I don't think our girls realize what they accomplished.

IT WAS A DEFENSIVE battle nearly all the way

Churchill, led by dangerous frontliners Jennifer Huegli and Amy Weber, made a number of dashes at Stevenson goalie Elaine Zager, but were turned back by the Spartans' defensive trio of Tina Gelmisi, Sue Zatorski and Marci Jamrog.

"A lot of people thought we'd get blown off tthe field," said Stevenson coach Norene Divens, whose team is 15-0-3 overall. "I'm so impressed with our girls. They all played their hearts out. In the first half, Stevenson had its way territorially for the most part, but Churchill had the best scoring opportunity when Zager, using her left hand, punched away a low-hard drive by Huegli. "Zager has just been fantastic this year and she has no high school experience," Divens said. "A lot of the credit should go to my assistant coach Rick Galindo. He spends all his time with her and he's the one totally responsible for her performance IN THE SECOND HALF, each team threatened on a couple of occasions, but to no avail. The game's only anxious moment came with only two seconds remaining when Stevenson's Lori Green was fouled by a Charger defender just 10 yards in front of the net.

The Spartans' Paula Divens tried the indirect free kick, but a Charger wall, led by Chris Paciero, stopped the last-gasp attempt. "I felt coming in that they wouldn't score much against us," Dudek said. "Defensively we shut them down. I figured it would be a low scoring game because we've been winning a lot lately with defense

Dudek admitted that he altered his strategy for Ste-

"We played more defense," he said. "We changed our formation and some of our kids were a little confused. We had trouble breaking out offensively. We were sending the ball in two against three.

Stevenson, meanwhile, travels tomorrow to Dearborn in another state tournament match. If both teams win their next two matches, they'll meet again at 2 p.m. Saturday at Plymouth Canton for the regional championship. The format is sudden death and there will be

For more information, call Dr. Aileen Sundstrom at 845-9634. The college is located at 5101 Evergreen Road, Dearborn.

SUNSET SERENDIPITY

An informal walk under the setting sun will be the focus of sunset serendipity in the environmental study area on the campus of the University of Michigan-Dearborn. Walkers will look for birds and frogs, but the unexpected will be the feature. Bring binoculars and meet at the main entrance of the area along Fairlane Drive. Signs will be posted at the campus entrance on Evergreen Road. On Saturday, May 17, a bird walk will be conducted at 9 a.m. in the same area. Binoculars are must for the spring bird migration which will be at its peak

WILDLIFE ART

St. Clair Flats Gallery will feature wildlife art by Michigan artists David H. Bollman, Robert Gwynn, Andrew Kurzmann, Bill. Rose, W. J. Stephenson and Richard Timm from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday, May 18. Admission is free. The gallery is located at 18000 E. Warren, Detroit.

SYMPHONY HOME TOUR

The 6th annual home tour, sponsored by the Women's Association for the Dearborn Orchestral Society, will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, May 17. Featured will be nine elegant homes in east Dearborn (Aviation Subdivision) of varied age and architecture, including English Tudor, Spanish colonial, American colonial and ranch styles. In addition to a tour of the homes, there will be a bake sale, flower cart and boutique located at tour headquarters where lunch also may be purchased. For more information, call 563-1323.

ANTIQUES SHOW

More than 47 exhibitors from 21 states will present a distinctive selection of antique merchandise this week at the second annual Village Antiques show at Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, Dearborn. Admission is $5 per person. All proceeds will go to the museum and village annual campaign fund. For tickets and information, call 271-1620, Ext. 214.

PEWABIC SHOW

"The Arts and Crafts Movement is Michigan: 1886-1906" is the theme of the exhibit sponsored by the Pewabic Society Inc. at the historic Dewroit Pottery, 10125 E. Jefferson, across from Waterworks Park on Detroit's near east side. The public is welcome free of charge. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays. The exhibition is an intimate examination of Michigan's early involvement in the arts and crafts movement that originated in England in the 1860s.

• SUPPER AT THE MANSION

"Supper at the Mansion," a benefit dinner for the Henry Ford Estate-Fair Lane at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, is planned for Thursday, June 5 at the historic mansion. Polishing up their Polish heritage

By Marie McGee staff writer

HERE WERE A couple of things that were different at the annual dance recital recently of the Polish Centennial Dancers of Plymouth.

It was larger and livelier than usual with the group dancing to a standing-room only audience

"That hasn't happened since our first year," said a smiling Joanne Ygeal, director of the 100-member dance group that is based in Plymouth but draws members from many surrounding communities

The reason for the overflow crowd was partly attributable to male dancing teacher

HE IS MARTY PACK, who holds a degree in Pack happens to specialize in Polish dancing — and his expertise was visible in the more-ethnic-than usual program the dance group performed this

For instance, there were nine old-world speciality dances — including Krakowskie Wesele, a Cracovian wedding dance, billed as the traditional Polish wedding ceremony. Part of the specialized dancing reflecting Polish heritage were several Tance Goralski, or dances of the mountaineers.

Pack also specializes in costuming which also aided in adding more color than usual to the spirited routines.

Of course, he didn't do that alone. A committee of mothers were at his beck and call.

accompanied by Pack, will journey to Krakow and Rzeszow in Poland where they will dance and have the opportunity to learn more about their Polish heritage

Until then the group will practice it's "Zatanczymy! the Polish equivalent to "Let's

Kissing off those airbrushing mistakes

LOVE Hershey chocolate kisses, slightly chilled, of course One day Adam asked me.

"What are those shiny things you're "Oh; Hershey kisses," I answered. Here, take two, peel the foll off and then eat the chocolate." So there we sat, peelin'-n'-eatin' and watching TV. Of course, I am a pro at peeling the foil off. One good pinch and the chocolate pops right out of the foil into my mouth.

Well, after a moment or two, I glanced down at Adam. He was sitting on the floor and all around him were about 300 tiny little pieces of aluminum foil wrappers. One kiss was still untouched and the heat from Adam's little hand was welding the foil to the chocolate treasure he was struggling to find.

I COULD SEE by his red face that Adam was thinking, "I don't care how good this stuff is, it can't be worth all this peeling.

'Here, just pull this little paper thing and it will open the foil for you." Needless to say, the tip worked age." Well, it is hard to explain to 28th Annual American Film Festival was given to Jeanne Chen and Nancy and because of my big mouth, I can't keep a bag of kisses around the house for more than a few hours. When it comes to art work, a tip is always a timesaver and sometimes a job saver. Here is a timesaver: often when airbrushing, an artist will use a template. If using a circle template, for example, the artist must tape over all the holes within range of the one he wishes to use. I have found that 3M "Post-it" pad paper masks areas quickly and is, of course, easily removed. It is also excellent for airbrushing straight lines.

HERE IS A job saver: While testing Canson's new coated airbrush paper, I accidentally discovered that a ermanent black felt-tip pen produced a velvety black line. To my delight, I further discovered that it could easily and completely be scratched off with an Exacto knife.

The felt tip offers speed and ease of inking and the removability with a knife allows you to tighten up your design. Imagine inking in a border in care of this newspaper, 36251 line or outline around a logo design. Schoolcraft Road, Livonia 48150. Cowden. Honorable mention was

'I have found that 3M "Post-it" pad paper masks area quickly and is, of course, easily removed. It is also excellent for airbrushing straight lines.'

If you cross the lines accidentally a the corners, all you have do is scrape off your excess ink line.

Actually it is easier to purposely cross the lines and then scrape a perfectly square corner. It is so hard to outline around a letter. The slightest wiggle in your hand stands out terribly. With this technique, all you do is mply scrape off the wiggle and reink. I highly recommend that you experiment with this new technique.
