On July 15, the township board voted to amend a 1975 Wayne Circuit Court consent judgment that specified the land was to be used for entertainment and leisure activities. Those opposing construction of the judgment said that nearby homeowners should have a say in whether to allow a change in zoning to allow commercial development.

"He (Michelin) has an interest in the property under the consent judgment," said Michelin's attorney, Carol Levitte of Plymouth. "There's every reason to believe that property should be used consistent to the consent judgment.

Police from a half-dozen agencies dispersed a crowd of several thousand young people from downtown Plymouth late Saturday after traffic gridlocked and the gathering began to take on characteristics of a mob, said Plymouth Police Chief Richard Eighteen people were arrested on charges ranging from inciting to riot to littering. Three police officers sustained minor injuries. None of those arrested was seriously injured. Myers said.

The larger-than-usual crowd apparently was drawn to town by a flyer advertising a "cruise-in" on Main

City officials have been concerned about loitering, trespassing, noise and reckless driving on Main since summer began. We don't decide what happens next." Myers said. "We respond and react to the situation that develops. If another large group thinks they can have wholesale lawlessness, we'll do what has to be done to prevent it from happening.

"OUR PLAN is to continue the Main Street Program. It's a fair program. It gives people a warning before they get a ticket.

We'll continue to pull over those who drive recklessly, the chief add-

Chuhran recall comes up short

By Kevin Brown staff writer

While an effort to recall Canton Clerk Linda Chuhran has cooled, Chuhran says she intends to pursue her lawsuit charging the township board has usurped some of her responsibilities as clerk.

A recall effort was started earlier this year by the Citizens for a Better Canton group. John Preniczky, a township trustee who in April joined the recall effort along with trustees Loren Bennett, Steve Larson and Bob Padget, said that at present, There's not a whole lot going There hasn't been a whole lot of controversy lately Echoing Preniczky. Larson said, At this point in time, there is no acave recall effort." While the effort did not culminate in Chuhran's removal from office, Larson said it was successful because incidents which he said sparked the effort have stopped.

Chuhran, who said she is busy organizing the township's new punch-card voting system, declined com-

FORMER TREASURER Jim Donahue, who launched the recall, initially cited three reasons for the effort. He argued that Chuhran inappropriately used township gasoline and sold township poll books without board approval.

Donahue also cited allegations by Union Lake woman who complained about a woman who she said was driving erratically and made an obscene gesture. The license plate number was traced to Chuhran's township-assigned vehicle.

Chuhran responded that she wasn't aware at the time that she should not have used township gas, and said she misunderstood the procedure for selling poll books, adding her intent was to make money for the township. She has denied involvement in the driving incident.

While 3,288 petition signatures of registered voters are needed to place a recall issue before voters, Preniczky said the number of signatures collected was "short by a sub-stantial amount." Larson said those signatures could soon be invalid, as a state-specified 90-day period for collecting recall petitions expires

CHUHRAN'S LAWSUIT against the board had also been cited by those supporting her recall Explaining the basis for the lawsuit, Chuhran's attorney, Alan Helmkamp, said she is denied access to certain township records, hindering her from carrying out responsibilities as specified under state law.

Chuhran maintains she could be held accountable if something goes wrong related to those records. Board members have countered that some of her duties can be delegated.

Helmkamp said that while no court hearings are currently scheduled pertaining to the lawsuit, depositions are being taken on behalf of both sides.

While Helmkamp said he has sought to resolve the lawsuit out of court, "the other side has steadfastly refused to participate in that discussion." Bob Edick, attorney for the township board, was out of town and unavailable for comment.

Committee being formed on school building use

The Wayne-Westland school board named 30 residents to a committee Monday and directed them to de velop a 2- to 5-year plan on how to use school buildings. Formation of the panel, which includes a representa--tive from each school as well as the special education and preschool programs, was recommended by the district's building utilization steering committee and approved by the board in May The appointees will serve as voting members of the committee, and the district's employee unions will be asked to select a representative, who will be invited to attend the meetings and take part in the discussions, but tendent Dennis O'Neill told the board.

He added that the committee will begin meeting on Sept. 10 when it will hear from the steering committee on the information it gathered for its report to the

THE PANEL will analyze current and projected enrollment figures to determine how school buildings should be used in the future. It also will look at all aspects of individual school buildings, including operational expenses, age and condition, with a goal of maximizing cost savings. Harvey said.

The committee also will review the attendance areas for each of the elementary, junior and senior high schools, taking into consideration overcrowding at some and declining enrollment at others.

According to Harvey, the steering committee had recommended that the panel take up the issue of feeder school assignments at both the elementary and second-

McNamara tops spending for county exec

Edward McNamara's campaign for county executive has been the best funded - so far with sizable contributions from developers, area business owners, close personal friends, and even a retired "housewife" from Pompano Beach, Fla.

Fellow Livonian Robert Ficano, on the other hand, has fueled his campaign with significantly more contributions from political action committees - listed in seven pages in his campaign finance report - than

East-sider John Hertel, meanwhile, was the only candidate to receive a contribution from a listed "professional baseball player" - that was $5,000 from Kirk Gibson of the Detroit Tigers.

IN A COMPARISON of three of the major candidates seeking Tuesday's Democratic nomination for the coun ty seat, Livonia mayor McNamara raised $394,549 and spent $265,762 by July 20, according to reports filed in the Wayne County Elections Bureau last Friday. Candidates Samuel Turner and Frank Wilkerson did not file reports and as of Tuesday were billed $40 each in late fees, said a clerk's employee. (The charge is $10 per day.) Likewise, Thomas Gondek, who told office workers his computer broke and was unable to complete his financial statement, is fined $40.

(Only candidates who raised more than $1,000 are required by state election law to file financial disclo-

According to the reports, Hertel, county commission chairman from Harper Woods, had spent $248,624 and raised $208,319 in contributions by the filing deadline. Wayne County Sheriff Ficano raised $207,249 and spent nearly all of it - $203,135 - by the disclosure

A close look at the candidates' financial reports revealed these contributions.

MCNAMARA, WHO loaned his campaign $12,000. raised less than half of his contributions at a series of 13 fund-raisers beginning last March 22. The first fundraiser - at the Carail Antique Automobile Showroom in Detroit - netted $49,200 and cost $7,400 to stage. Two large contributions were from the president of Minority Earth Movers of Detroit, Geraldine Franks ($5,000), and from the president of Bestway Recycle in from Angelo DiPonio, a major campaign fund-raiser for McNamara.

Hertel earned another $1,771 in interest on savings in the National Bank of Detroit. By the filing deadline, Hertel had spent more than $15,065 for television advertising on the three major Detroit television stations, besides $4,867 for 90,000 cards and envelopes and $2,782 for 85,000 door hangers. Other campaign expenses included an $86.80 bill for helium (for balloons) and $2,450 to buy 50,000 bottle coming Democratic primary are faced with a difficult

Both Thomas Healy and Scott Bassett are worthy candidates. Either Democrat would serve well in the state Legislature. However, only one of them on Aug. 5 will earn the right to challenge incumbent state Sen. Robert Geake. R-Northville, in the November general

We believe that Scott Bassett is the better candidate.

A Livonia native and resident, Bassett, 30, was employed 1981-1984 by the Southfield law firm of Hyman, Gurwin, Nachman, Friedman and Winkelman. He is an assistant professor at the University of Michigan Law School, where he earned his law degree in 1981. Bassett received his bachelor's degree from Wayne State University in 1978 where he was Phi Beta Kappa. He was salutatorian of Stevenson High School's 1974 graduating class.

Bassett, however, would bring more than a stellar track record to Lansing. One of his greatest strengths is his indepth understanding of issues and problems confronting the people of the 6th District and this state

A GOOD thinker and keen observer, Bassett has devised workable solutions and progressive ideas, tempering them with realism. Bassett has done his homework. He is eager to work diliaccomplished much working outside the Legislature, and says that he needs the powers of office to follow through. We feel he deserves that opportunity.

Bassett says he's running so that families and children, like other groups, will have a legislative representative

It would consolidate family cases that currently are handled by four different courts, making better use

> Bassett has helped correct inequities in divorce property law, writing a package of bills recently introduced by a legislator and signed by Gov. James Blanchard.

Bassett also would work for a revised criminal code that would "set up distinct classes for crime and prescribe the penalties for those crimes." Bassett favors increasing prison capacity by penalizing non-violent offenders with methods other than incarceration.

TO FUND public education, he supports a tax shift from property tax to income tax that would ease the burden on the "house-poor" and better reflect ability to pay. He strongly favors the ERA and bottle deposit law. He opposes the death penalty, balanced budget amendment ("because it makes it too easy to overlook human needs") and prayer in school.

Also lending Bassett broad appeal is his ability to be both agressive and personable. Vigorous, determined and dedicated, he possesses the skills needed to build bridges and support in Lansing.

'Sunny Side' helped solve trivia twist

For the first time anywhere, I have just read the full name of famed poet Edgar A. Guest and his sorely missed son, "Bud," a nickname more appropriate than "Junior," which the WJR "Sunny Side of the Street" host carried through life.

The "A" stood for Albert. This is the sort of information one gleans from obituary columns, in this case the source being the current edition of Michgian Alumnus, a magazine published six times a year for members of the University of Michigan Alumni Association. Bud, who lived his final years in Troy, was a graduate of 1934. Dorothy Packer of Redford, and others who responded kindly after a recent column that reminisced about the type of yarns that intrigued Bud, might enjoy

What started as a hobby for Mary and Charlie Kehoe of Plymouth has turned into what they describe as a very large business.

While not everyone who becomes involved ends up in a large business, most fire truck enthusiasts find they develop far more than a simple passing interest in the subject. Perhaps it is because it is a family-oriented activity, something in which any member of the family who so desires can play more than a passive role.

More likely, however, the strong appeal to fire truck enthusiasts lies in the manner by which they pre-serve a slice of yesteryear that might otherwise be overlooked or

It is the muster - simulated firefighting activity of yesteryear brought to life today through contest games with descriptive names like first-water, bucket brigade, response and water ball.

Musters are held nearly every weekend throughout summer months in Michigan and elsewhere. Local enthusiasts, members of the Greenfield Village Antique Fire Apparatus Association, prepare for them. The most recent muster was at Greenfield Village this month, a three-day affair that involved competition between 100 motorized vehicles and a dozen hand- or horse-

drawn contraptions

THREE FAMILIES from Plymouth were among those who partici-pated: the Kehoes. Nancy and Matt Lee, Karen and Greg Westfall, Between them a half dozen vehicles were represented, ranging from a restored 1922 REO-Boyer owned by the Lees, to Plymouth's Number 1 truck, a 1954 American La France purchased by the Kehoes seven years ago when the old pumper was retired from service.

All vehicles are privately owned. oftentimes found at farin auctions where Matt Lee said you can buy good machines that still are presentbought one for $500."

To qualify for membership in the local association (a chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Appreciation of Antique Motorized Fire Apparatus in America) trucks must be at least 25 years old.

Some enthusiasts restore the old machines to pristine condition. Lee and sons Ed, 17, and Jim, 16, have restored "at least a half dozen" of them. Charlie Kehoe, on the other hand, drives his two trucks, the old Plymouth Number 1 and a 1931 Ahrens-Fox MX-2 used by the Detroit fire department, as original

THE KEHOES have carried their hobby name, Tonquish Creek, into a business — a mail order business featuring firefighting gifts and antiques ranging from Christmas tree ornaments to belt buckles.

All three families intend to display their vehicles in September at the Plymouth Fall Festival where chances are they will participate in a jestling game of water ball, a sport that was popular among firefighters during the 1880s. A ball is suspended from a long string and the goal is to knock the ball into the opposite team's court using the stream of water shooting from fire hoses covered wagons trekked through the streets of Livonia last week. This suburban trek was to commemorate another, much greater journey - the movement of the Mormons to their "promised land," the Salt Lake Valley of Utah, on July Founded in upstate New York in 1830 by Joseph Smith, the Mormon

There also was square dancing, a taffy pull and some lively fiddling to give a full flavor of the past.

Litter is a sign of inner decay

IF BURYING the dead is the first sign of culture, what is the first sign of culture's demise? Archaeologists have been able to help us date the first burial of humans. Who will help us date the beginning of its end? I risk the observation that our culture's death has begun with the pernicious habit of discarding our fastfood wrappers and containers wher ever we have finished with them. Be it parking lot, sidewalk, playing field or roadside, we have turned our living space into one massive garbage

One can speculate over the reasons for our ancestors' first burying of the dead. Perhaps it was their regard for the life shared. Perhaps it was a regard for the environment Perhaps it was both. One could not exist without the other. They know of life was the care one gave to all treme response to a simply annoving the interdependence of life. Burying its parts. ### House rejects cut in water, energy funding

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major rollcall votes during the week ending

HOUSE

ENERGY, WATER CUTS - By vote of 167 for and 241 against, the House rejected an amendment to inflict a cut of 4.62 percent, or some $730 million, in the fiscal 1987 energy and water appropiations bill.,

The bill (HR 5162) then was sent to the Senate with a price tag of nearly $15.6 billion. It funds Army Corps of Engineers and Bureau of Reclamation water projects, Department of Energy programs dealing with nuclear weapons and independent agencies such as the Appalachian Regional Commission and the Tennessee Valley Authority. Sponsor Bill Frenzel, R-Minn. said, "I am only trying to administer frugality in small doses" in hopes of chipping away at the annual deficit.

Opponent Virginia Smith, R-Neb., "Every dollar invested in water development yields benefits far in excess of that investment."

Members voting yes wanted to cut the bill by 4.62 percent. Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, Sander Levin, D-Southfield, William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Voting no: William Ford, D-Tay-

site for the nation's nuclear wastes. The amendment was offered to the fiscal 1987 energy and water appropriations bill (above)

It sought to cut $291 million from a $677 million outlay for the selection process, in which the governemnt is studying three potential sites in the states of Nevada, Texas and Washington for receiving spent fuel from America's nuclear power plants. Nuclear wastes are being stored temporarily above ground at some 100 power plants nationwide.

Sponsor Jim Weaver, D-Ore., said, The Department of Energy has stumbled badly" in narrowing the list to three areas. "In many instances, political decisions were made, not scientific and engineering Opponent Morris Udall, D-Ariz., adoption of the amendment would "bring to a grinding halt" the government's lengthy and painstak-

Voting no: Pursell, Hertel, Ford, Levin and Broomfield.

DRUGS IN D.C. - By a vote of 183 for and 229 against, the House rejected an amendment to alter the District of Columbia budget by shifting $1 million from the D.C. Arts and Humanities Commission to the Metropolitan Police Department's effort against drug trafficking.

This occurred as the House debated and sent to the Senate a bill (HR 5175) appropriating $2.9 billion for D.C. operating and capital expenses in fiscal 1987

Sponsor Robert Walker, R-Pa., said, "Our most important national priority at the present time is to fight a war on drugs.

Opponent Richard Durbin, D-Ill., accused Walker of grandstanding, denouncing the amendment as eyewash designed not to support a war on drugs but to support a speech on the floor and a press release

Members voting yes supported the amendment. Voting yes: Republicans Pursell and Broomfield.

Voting no: Democrats Hertel, Ford and Levin.

Fewer watching TV ads

By By Pat Walsh special writer

If you enjoyed TV's "North and South" or you're looking forward to Monday Night Football, don't dodge the commercials.

Otherwise, "you may bite that hand that feeds you, and commercial TV may bite the

That's the warning from Michael Bernacchi, University of Detroit marketing profes-

As the number of housholds using remote control and cable TV increases, and "the son of zapper" grows up to be more sophisticated, televison sponsors are going to look hard at spending money on TV when fewer and fewer people are watching during commer-

The advertising industry has several options in dealing with zapping, the deliberate skipping of commercials either by switching channels or by fast-forwarding through commercials recorded on a VCR, Bernacchi

For example, advertisers can choose a different advertising medium at a loss to the commercial TV viewer. He cites the cigarette industry as an example of resourceful advertising in print that developed when smoking ads were banned from television.

ANOTHER STRATEGY Bernacchi sees is to change the "tonal quality of the commercial and seduce, or induce, the viewer to keep the TV on.

When sports participants star in the commercials, there is a "gentle, subtle transition compelling the audience to follow through the commercial.

This occurred in the tennis match between Billie Jean King and Bobby Riggs. Both players appeared in an ad discussing the merits of flying a particular airline. Such commercials, Bernacchi said, "leave the viewer scratching his head to be sure there was a commerccial.

Steven Levine, media director at W.B. Doner in Southfield, offers a variation of this concept of changing the tone of commercials to maintain viewer interest.

"In a broad range of commercials produced by W.B. Doner you see humor and emotion in a unique visual presentation similar to a 30-second video that the viewer would enjoy watching."

commercials for clients such as Perry Drugs and Little Caesars give Doner an edge with the growing problem of zapping by "changing the viewers' attitudes towards commercials," Levine believes.

TOM EICHER, executive vice president and general manager of Birmingham's Stone August & Co., talked about his company's increased use of sophisticated computer media services such as Telmar to help match audiences with programming.

These resources are able to target extremely specific audiences such as "7-foottall, red-haired women, if that's who uses your product." The rationalization is that while you lose the same percentage of your audience, you compensate by doing a better job of buying media time to begin with.

A recent McCann-Erickson report suggests the need for "minute-by-minute" rating levels during commercial breaks. It also points out that commercials at the front or rear end of the "pod" (a set of commercials) "evidence the least audience loss." One strategy suggested to counteract the zappers is to increase the number of com-

The creative philosophy behind Doner's mercial breaks to "provide opportunity for more first-position commercial locations.

> COMMERCIAL length is not considered a strength. The standard 60-second commercial has lost out to the 30-second spot, and some commercials are being reduced to 15 seconds. The change is related to commercial production costs, not zapping, but some believe it still will be harder to zap a 15second commercial without missing a part of a favorite program.

But the McCann-Erickson study disagrees. The agency says it can document "that shorter commercials lose audience at a rate somewhat greater than longer spots. This will have even greater implications to actual audience deliveries as the use of 15-second commercials increases dramatically over the next two years."

All advertising agency employees interviewed said they try to buy front-end commercials for local spots, but Doner's Levine does "not believe it's being done consistently" due to exorbitant costs. Tailoring commercials to specific shows as was done for the King-Riggs tennis match also tends to be

Agencies fight back

The McCann-Erickson study on zapping shows the following:

- · Commercials at half-hour and hour breaks are far more susceptible to channel switching than in-program commercials.
- Channel-switching during commercials is lowest in prime time and highest in sports programming.
- · The first commercial in a set has the least audience loss. The last position is the next most favorable. Inside "pod" positions generally suffer the greatest losses
- High-rated TV programs yield more stable audiences - the lower the program rating, the greater the average-minute channel switch during both the program and commercials.
- Channel switching "absolute point loss" has not increased since 1978. But the average ratings for programs have decayed more than 15 percent, and therefore, "the relative ratio for switching is now far greater than it was eight years ago."
- · Heavy zappers are the younger, more upscale members of the traditionally lightviewing groups.

Report sees jobless rate falling for 3 years in state

Look for an initial increase in unemployment in the state during the next quarter but for a gradual improvement during the next three years - at a quicker rate than the nation as a whole.

David B. Crary, professor of economics at Eastern Michigan University, is predicting the rise in unemployment because of excessive automotive inventories during the first quarter. But he's predicting that Michigan and other manufacturing regions will experience better employment due to the increasing competitiveness of U.S. manufactured goods as a result of the reduced value of the U.S. dollar.

Crary's analysis is included in Michigan Economic Developments, a semi-annual newsletter produced by EMU's Institute for Community and Regional Development, and assumes two major premises. They are that the U.S. Federal Reserve will be insurance costs more, and your estate is growing to the point where you are wondering were to keep important documents and valuable items. The Michgian Association of CPAs suggests you consider a home safe, a bank safe deposit box or a private security vault company.

Safe, safety deposit box help stop uninsured losses

A few years ago, if your valuables were stolen you could recover much of their value by deducting the loss on your income tax return. Under current tax laws, if you itemize, you can only deduct casualty losses of personal-use property that exceed 10 percent of your adjusted gross income and only after subtracting $100 from each loss.

You could, however, recoup some of your losses through your homeowner's insurance, which typically places a limit of $500 or $1,000 depending on the policy, on high-value items such as watches and jewelry For an extra cost, a special pesonal items rider would normally enable you to recover the full market value of the stolen item.

BUT HOW can you keep your valuable items, as well as numerous important papers, safe and at hand? The answer depends on just how many items you have, how valuable they are and how often you need to use them.

Many people today possess a modest collection of necklaces, bracelets or earrings, plus a few valuable rings and an expensive watch or two. Add to these items negotiable securities and perhaps cash or travelers checks, plus important documents such as birth certificates, passports, insurance policies, bills of sale and deeds.

practically speaking

For those who want to keep all these items safe from fire or theft, a home safe may be the answer.

Start with a telephone call to the better business bureau, police department or any local consumer group that could help you find a competent home safe dealer. The dealer will help you decide what kind of safe is needed and what level of security is necessary. Decide early on if you need a fire-resistant safe, a burglary-resistant safe or one that satisfies both requirements.

FIRE-RESISTANT safes are graded for their ability to maintain interior temperatures for certain periods of time. Underwriters Laboratories (UL), for example, refers to fire-resistant safes as one-, two-, three- or four-hour safes. Most, however, will not foil a burglar for very Safes providing security offer little resistance to high temperatures but will discourage a burglar. These safes are rated according to the time it takes for a burglar to break in using common tools. Some safes guard against both fire and burglary.

The most common types of safes fit into a wall or are buried in basement floors. A typical wall unit, about 10 square inches, might cost less than $200, plus $50 to $75 for installation. Prices can increase sharply, depending on size and quali-

IF YOU HAVE some very valuable items or items that are not used freuently, you might want to consider a bank safe deposit box. For about $20 a year, you can rent a box 2 by 5 22 inches. Finding available space, however, may be difficult.

For those who don't want to wait for a bank deposit box, a private security vault firm may be the answer Although more expensive than bank boxes, they offer 24-hour access, more sizes to choose from and often provide better temperature and humidity control. Many offer better security features, too, such as more up-to-date identification procedures and fire suppression systems.

Prices vary but you could expect to pay from $50 to $150 a year for a 3-by-5-by-24-inch box. But renting space from a security vault company to store your valuables could lower the cost of your personal items insurance rider, if you have one, because your valuables are safer there than in your home.

Finding a safe place for your valuables should allow you to rest easier. As you sort out your valuables and your financial and other important papers, take this opportunity to contact a CPA and together review your

Retirement's like end of love affair for Village 'voice'

OSS CALLAWAY is hanging up the tools of his trade today — his typewriter, his telephone, his Rolodex.

Says he's retiring. Believe it or not. Callaway, who just reached his 70th birthday, will be following the dictates of a company retirement policy when he ends a 15-year career as a member of the public relations staff of Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village.

But sunshine and rocking chair retirement? Not likely. What is likely is that the West Bloomfield resident will go off in vet another direction and enter the next of what he terms his "15-year cycles. One thing is clear. Retirement from the Village job will be like the end of a love affair. Callaway will miss the Village and the Village will miss him.

"This is not a job," he said. "It's a state of mind . . . All my life I've had a great deal of fun avoiding legitimate work."

THE JOB has had more than its share of moments. Callaway reminisced about some of them from behind the steering wheel of a replica of a 1931 Ford "woody" in a tour of the Village. During the tour he was greeted by name and likewise returned greetings to dozens of grounds employees. Clearly Callaway's "office" was the Village's entire 254 acres.

Stopping beside the Village Green Callaway told about the time Phil Donahue brought his television show to the Village for a week in 1973. while the talk show was still based in Dayton, Ohio.

"I was thrilled to death. I coordinated all five days. We made arrangements for the guests at the Dearborn Inn and the show was broadcast live from 10 a.m. to noon on the Village Green.

One of Donahue's guests was then recent-divorcee Pat Loud, who had earlier been featured in a major net work documentary on the all-American family. While Loud was explain ing how her all-American family fell apart, the Dearborn Law Association was celebrating Law Day in the While the cameras were grinding

THE RACE HAS become some what famous in area running circles for its party spirit and night-long dancing to Motown and other hits. This year, organizers have gone one step further to make their run stand

At many runs, the overall winners get cheap plastic trophies and the age-group winners get tiny medallions or key chains

Not in Livonia

Here, winners and those placing well will receive ceramic awards made by Michael Kifer, an artist ecently exhibited at the Ann Andor Art Fair. The Classic actually is two runs. A one-mile run starts off at 6:30 p.m. and is best for rookie runners and those speedburners watching their times. The five-miler goes off at 7 p.m. Runners are welcome to run both events.

The five-miler is flat as a pancake and well suited for setting personal records. The course is nearly a rectangle, beginning and ending at the parking lot on Stark between Veteran's Park and the YMCA. Runners south on Stark then west on Schoolcraft, north on Levan turning east on Five Mile: next south on Farmington, then west on Lyndon and south again on Stark to the fin-

John Mulroy made his mark on this community, for better or for worse. On the Canton bench he was loud, animated, funny, intimidating. Once, in the heat of a close game, he fell off the bench - boom - right on his fanny. And he never skipped a beat. He just continued on with his non-stop verbal coaching style.

He was as honest as he was outspoken and that, more than anything else, drew the ire of the parents. That ire made people overlook the fact that the man could flat-out

Mulrov is indeed coming home -

Don Sicko has rehired Mulrov as a full-time assistant coach. Mulroy, a ed responsibilities in recruiting, Redford Catholic Central product, was a part-time assistant at U-D in 1983 and 1984. Mulroy spent the 1984-85 school vear in the Plymouth-Canton Community School District coaching the Plymouth Salem boys and Plymouth Canton girls basketball teams. He left to take a part-time assistant or 10 high school games; only the coaching position at Central Michigan University. Now he's coming home. But before he could replant his local roots, Sicko sent him out on a recruiting "I haven't even unpacked my bags," said Mulroy Monday from his U-D office. He's working at the Don Sicko basketball camp. "Don told me during our interview to be prepared ing them and helping make decisions to hit the dusty trail whenever need be. First thing he did was send me out to scout the Five-Star Camp in Pittsburgh. After that, I went to Minnesota to see an all-star game sistant coaches hired by Sicko. Suc-

> The atmosphere surrounding the U-D basketball program is a bit more cloudy than Mulroy may remember it from two years ago. The past two seasons have begun with high hopes and ended in frustration. The Titans have posted 16-13 and 13-15 records, respectively, and .narrowly missed earning post-season ournament berths each year.

"Whatever pressure there may be think, is self-applied," he said. " am planning on making a substantial contribution to this program. I want to bring in top players who are going to help us win games.

"Since coach (Sicko) has been here, every season has been separated by like three or four games. I mean, if we could have turned around three or four games, we would nave been where we wanted to be Last year we needed one more win in the regular season and a couple in the tournament and we would have had an NCAA bid. Two years ago, all we had to do was win one game in the tournament and we would have had an NIT bid. We're not talking about being miles away. I really think we're going to have a lot of fun here

'It's an approach that is tailored to the artist and not vice versa. I'm trying to bring out the strengths of an artist. I'm concerned with balance and contrast.'

— Eric White

White said that Calle's first album and White's first solo production effort - was recorded before Calle had a record contract. "It went as is," White said. "Usually what they say is, 'Now that you've got your demo done, we'll put a budget together and do an album." White was encouraged that Epic accepted his production.

"The creative end of it (producing) is much more satisfying than being a sideman," said White. While the Livonia native thinks "it's a bit premature" to discuss his production style, he said, "It's an approach that is tailored to the artist and not vice versa. I'm trying to bring out the strengths of an artist. I'm concerned with balance and contrast.'

For example, White says he tried to temper Calle's technical skill by balancing complex passages with lyrical, melodic runs, "So a listener might walk away from an album humming a tune.

Following up on that project White is working this summer on a keyboard-oriented jazz project he hopes to show to Epic. He's also negotiating with RCA's European division on the possible release of "Under the Streetlights," a song he wrote and produced for singer Diane Williams. White is also working on some commercial jingles, and expects to get more arranging SNEAKY PETE'S, 15231 Farmington Road, Livonia (261-5551), is a neighborhood spot for informal dining that is popular with local residents. We were quite disappointed with our visit there, however. The dining rooms are small with low ceilings, and for this reason the res-ings can be appropriate, but the casual atmosphere should not have in cluded dirty walls and tablecloths. The meny was cute and inviting with an assortment of burgers, pastas. Mexican dishes and specials We did not have reservations but were seated immediately. Dinner took about masphere — 15 paints maximum Points quarted -- 8

While our waiter was pleasant, he made a number of major mistakes. Most serious was his recommendation of the scrod, which was inedible. When we told him it was spoiled, he said that we were the second table to return it that night. It was also inexcusable that, even though weasked and asked, we could not get water or get the table cleared. As a result we had our dessert with our empty drink glasses, our old beans and potatoes and other assorted leftovers on the table. Service points maximum Points award-

Musicals add life to restored Marquis

7 ISITING THE, historie Marquis Theater is like stepping into an elegant Victorian parlor.

Owner Inge Zayti and her husband, Jay, restored the Northville theater - believed to be built in the early 1900s - in 1978. Now Zayti produces stage shows in a setting of antiques, delicate china art objects and stained-glass win-

In an unusual arrangement, the theater is sandwiched between two women's apparel stores, both of which Inge Zayti operates on Main Street in downtown Northville. Prior to the renovation, the theater was vacant and in disrepair.

'IT LOOKED SO bad I never told anybody I owned the theater," said Zayti, 45. "The city said you have to fix it or tear it down.

Neither of the Zaytis has had for mal theatrical training. Jay Zayti operates a trucking company. Ingewho grew up in Germany, has studied art and over the years has developed a love of art and theater.

You have to have a feel for it," she said in a voice that still reflects her German heritage.

The couple took the plunge and restored the dilapidated theater at a cost of $250,000. Numerous old coats of paint were stripped away, new seats were installed and the roof fixed. Air-conditioning and heating were brought up to code.

The refurbishing, which took four months to complete, unearthed many old treasures. The theater's original glass French doors were found intact under a covering of plywood panels. Old brass doorknobs were found backstage and were restored to their original condition and placed on the glass doors.

"I saw all the stuff that was there," Inge Zayti said. Restoration excitement began to build "after I saw all that stuff. I began getting really interested. I gave it a good "Old-timers say it was much ear-lier," she said. "I believe it may have been in the 1910s."

According to a theater brochure, the building was built as an opera house and later presented vaudeville. Charlie Chaplin and Mary Pickford reportedly performed at the Marquis

The refurbished lobby, reminiscent of a Victorian parlor, is done in red and golds. It is highlighted by green and red stained-glass and leaded-glass windows. A fringed lamp, popular in bygone days, sits atop an antique white piano.

An imposing Louis XVI cabinet, circa 1700, is filled with delicate china teapot and cups. White wicker and red armchairs beckon.

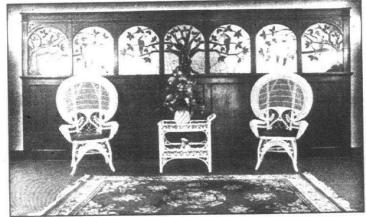

Antique china dolls perch on tables covered with lace and linen cloths. More are quaintly perched on the stairway leading to what was once the movie projection

On the walls throughout the lobby area hangs a personal collection of handpainted harlequin facial masks. The masks are now one of her advertising trademarks.

"Some of the stuff was in in my family and some we bought at auctions," Zayti said.

Versatility helps musical director score

people - whether it's music, plays, drama - it takes people away for awhile from the problems of the world," Morrison said. "The problems are there, but it makes people happy and to be able to do that is really special."

At 32, Morrison has conducted orchestras for opera, ballet, symphony and chorale groups. His most recent stint at conducting was for the community theater production of "Carousel" at the Marquis Theater in Northville where he's also been known to be on stage in an acting role

"Versatility - that's what it takes to be a conductor," Morrison

Conducting an orchestra entails much more than standing before a group of musicians, clad in tuxedo and waving a baton.

MORRISON SAYS he spends hours painstakingly listening to tapes of musical scores for an opera. He auditions both trained musicians and eager beginners hoping to be hired for a theater produc-

Last year, he became co-founder of the Michigan Lyric Opera Company, which seeks to perform opera in English at affordable prices.

"One of the biggest ideas behind the concept is to give area singers a chance to perform,"Morrison

With his carefully groomed hair and friendly demeanor, Morrison more closely resembles an up-andcoming business executive than a musical conductor. Still, Morrison is living a dream that began when up in the small town of Holt, near Lansing.

"It's a neat place," Morrison said. "It has that small-town fla-

Morrison's father is the fire chief in Holt. His mother is housekeeper for the governor's residence.

AS A YOUTH, Morrison formed small musical groups. He played the French horn while attending Michigan State University, where he earned a bachelor of arts degree in music literature. He obtained a master of music degree from

George Washington University. Morrison gained practical experience as a conductor while doing his military service. While spending three years at the Armed Forces School of Music in Norfolk, Va., he auditioned, rehearsed and conducted bands of all types. Later, Morrison studied privately with Dr. Valter Poole, the late and renowned conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

"Music is so subjective," Morrison said. "You never stop questioning, you never stop listening, keeping fresh.

Morrison said all arts groups suffer from chronic funding woes. He holds many positions in order to earn a living.

For example, he is currently the conductor of the Scandinavian Symphony, an orchestra originally composed of musicians of Scandinavian descent. The symphony, which recently completed its 56th season, performs at Southfield

Morrison's many career responsibilities demand a flexible style that is both exacting and diplomatic. Some of the groups are composed of highly trained musicians, while others use untrained but enthusiastic amateurs.

Some players can sing but can't act well and vice versa. The stereotype of the flamboyant, wild-haired temperamental maestro is largely a thing of the past, Morrison said. With the untrained performer 'you have to be demanding (but) in a more gentle way."

"In your ear, you hear perfec tion," he said. "You have to keep building them up and you have to have the patience of Job. You can be as demanding as the group will allow you to be.'

Morrison sees himself as the leader who must take charge of 65 to 80 musicians "who all think they know better than you do or have their own ideas.

"YOU HAVE TO convince a lot of people that your way is the way to go," he said.

While Morrison revels in his music, he finds the tremendous competition for jobs and lack of upward mobility discouraging. Morrison said he became involved in the founding of the lyric opera theater because "When people aren't offering you jobs, you have to make your own."

Morrison's wife, Sandra, gives him moral support in his desire to continue conducting. She is a graduate of Bishop Borgess High School in Redford and a telecommunication specialist for EDS division of General Motors...

Sometimes their careers mean wearing different hats. In the current musical production of "Gypsy" at the Marquis, for instance, the couple have minor acting roles. Actually, the program notes, Morrison has many acting credits to his approved Pre-license

We offer a tuition-free pre-license course with only a $55 materials charge.

Our training center is the largest in the state with only experienced, approved instructors. This translates into the least costly, best real estate training available today. We offer both day and night courses at 3 convenient locations with special math and general review courses before a state exam.

Take our 3-Week Marketing Course

After passing the state exam, you begin the most comprehensive marketing course in the State of Michigan. Our director, Eve Walsh, is a real estate training expert whose courses have been long recognized as the best in the field. In addition, we offer ongoing professional education in the form of 37 advanced courses.

> In-office Our 31 metro-area managers provide continuous training for new associates. You will understand every facet of residential real estate through our 35 day "liberty"
