The Canton Connection

BANK DIRECTOR:

Virginia Kocik of Canton is the new director of the Plymouth-Canton Schools Clothing Bank after serving three years as a volunteer. Last year Kocik, Helen Decker, Margaret Schroeder, Pam Lyle, Jeanne Dumas, Flossie Tonda and other volunteers received many donations to purchase new shoes, socks, underwear, hats and mittens to help at least 300 children and adults this past year.

The Clothing Bank at Central Middle School is open from 9:30 a.m. to noon Tuesdays and Thursdays. Appointments can be made by calling 451-6673. Volunteers are needed to work for four hours a week. Anyone interested in volunteering can call Kocik at 455-6122 or Tonda at 453-2534.

SECOND PLACE:

Canton's Superbowl softball team took second place in the women's Class B Metro Detroit ASA Tournament of Champions held at the Canton Softball Center last month.

After finding themselves in the loser's bracket early in the double elimination tournament, they fought back to win four games before falling to the tourney champions, the Berkley Brownies, 4-3. Superbowl represented Canton in the regional tournament in Crawfordsville, Ind., over the Labor Day weekend.

HUNTER SAFETY: A

hunter safety program will be held Sunday, Sept. 21, and Sunday, Sept. 28, for boys and girls 12 and older. Classes will be in the meeting room of Canton Township Hall from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. on both Sundays. Registration is not necessary, but classroom size is limited to 100 persons. Bring a pencil and a sack lunch. The program is offered by Canton Police Department and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. The chief instructor is Christian Mayer. The DNR requires persons between the ages of 12-16 to obtain hunter safety certification before getting a hunting license.

Counsel hired for Ma Poole suit

By Diane Gale
staff writer

An attorney has been hired to represent the Canton Township Board of Trustees in a case filed by Supervisor James Poole's mother, Kathleen Poole, who claims the board broke the law by refusing to allow her to locate a party store in the township.

John M. Barr, an Ypsilanti attorney, was hired by the township at the Aug. 26 meeting. The hiring was approved by the board in a 3 to 2 vote.

Trustees Loren Bennett, Steve Larson and Gerald Brown voted in favor. Supervisor James Poole and Clerk Linda Chuhman were opposed and Trustees Bob Padgett and John Prenciczy were absent.

Larson recommended Barr, and the board has initially approved a maximum $3,000 fee.

Chuhman said Michigan Municipal Risk Management Authority, the township's liability insurance carrier, should represent the township.

"We don't get special attorneys for other zoning issues. Why should this be any different?"

Hiring Barr was "premature," because the board hadn't received approval by Risk Management, Poole said Thursday. He said he expected that confirmation and if he had the chance again he would vote in favor of hiring Barr.

"I think they are entitled to representation, and qualified representation," Poole said. "Even though I'm my mother's son, I'm also the supervisor."

KATHLEEN POOLE'S lawsuit opposes a previous decision by the board, which killed a rezoning change. She is trying to sell the property — at the southwest corner of Al Smith and Ford roads east of I-275 — to co-plaintiff Issam Odish, who plans to build the party store.

The property is zoned C-3, highway oriented commercial development. Brown, Bennett, Larson, Prenciczy and Padgett, who initially voted against the zoning change, are named in the lawsuit. Poole ab-tained from voting and Chuhman voted in favor of the change.

Land zoned C-3 is prime property and inappropriate for party stores, Larson said.

"If we find out we are wrong about the uses of C-3 zoning, we'll change then, but I want a fair hearing," Larson said.

Poole said it's unfair to allow bars, gas stations and restaurants in C-3 zoned land, while banning party stores.

Bingo to open Fall Festival

The search continues for a successful activity which can generate more interest on opening night of the Plymouth Fall Festival.

The new entry for 1986 is Bingo Night on Thursday. Plymouth Business and Professional Women will sponsor the bingo games starting 6:30 p.m. Thursday in The Gathering — the pavilion on the Penniman Avenue side of Kellogg Park.

The sponsorship of bingo actually represents a reappearance of the BPW on the Thursday night slate. About a decade ago the BPW sponsored German Night on Thursday which remained a fixture for a few years.

In recent years, no activity has surfaced as the "anchor" for opening night. The Fall Festival Board and BPW hopes bingo will meet that need.

BETWEEN 150,000 and 200,000 people are expected to visit downtown Plymouth during the four days of the festival, Sept. 4-7.

While the beginning of the festival has been a cause for experimentation in recent years, the ending remains steady — the massive Plymouth Rotary Chicken Barbecue on Sunday when some 15,000 dinners are served in six hours.

The Fall Festival was started by Plymouth Rotary in 1956 when the club sponsored a chicken dinner to raise funds for a playground for Hamilton Park. Since then, the chicken barbecue has increased from 500 to 15,000 dinners and the festival from a one-day picnic to four days.

The entertainment lineup 5:30 - 10 p.m. Thursday at the bandshell includes opening ceremonies, dixieland music, clogging, and jazz. Friday night's entertainment bill 5-10 p.m. will include the Canton Kitchen Band, pop music, and the Big Band sound of the '50s.

Saturday's entertainment will run from 1-10 p.m. and include Magician Bob Shinker, country music, the Sweet Adelines, a concert band, and Al Townsend and the Ambassadors. Sunday's entertainment will be noon to 6:30 p.m. and include the CEP Marching Band, Plymouth Fire and Drum Corps, Plymouth Community Band, Plymouth Community Chorus, and square dancing.

"On the Street" entertainment will feature the YMCA karate demonstrations from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Friday, and the Polish Centennial Dancers from 1:45-2:45 p.m. Saturday. A

Special education director retires

Edwin Page, who started and nurtured the special education program for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, has retired after 15½ years service.

He said he's tired of jousting with bureaucratic windmills.

"Special education gets to be kind of confrontational and adversarial at times," Page said. "I feel probably I've accomplished all I can here. I feel I need a career change."

Page said he expects to consult, write and get back into teaching at the college level. He will continue to stay in his present position until a successor is found.

The job has been posted. A search committee will make a recommendation to the school board.

PAGE SAID he's been thinking about retirement a long time. "There are advantages and incentives in teacher retirement now."

He first became excited by the opportunities of special education in the early '50s when the child of a friend was born with a cleft palate. "I got interested in speech pathology and from there (in) broader areas of special education."

Things have changed over the years, not always for the better, Page said.

"It's steeped in all kinds of rules and regulations put out by both the state and federal government. I think consumers and providers have to take a more realistic view of what's being done."

"It's a lot cheaper to issue preventive measures than intervene after the fact."

Page said he believes up to 30 percent of learning disabled and emotionally impaired students could function in a regular classroom "if adaptations were made to accommodate their needs" in areas of materials, presentation and discipline.

"Kids who are handicapped should receive the same opportunity for ed-

Stranger scares kids, neighbor

By Diane Gale
staff writer

One afternoon two brothers were playing in their backyard when a strange man approached. By nightfall parents throughout the neighborhood were on guard.

Canton Police are investigating an incident involving two brothers in their backyard "as a suspicious situation that could have been an attempted abduction."

A 6-year-old who was playing with his 2-year-old brother said a stranger chased them and struck the younger one.

Canton Police Lt. Larry Stewart is skeptical that the incident involved an attempted abduction.

"I want people to be alert that these cases do in fact take place but there's nothing in this particular case outside statements by 2- and 6-year-olds to indicate that someone tried to kidnap these children," Stewart said.

"The situation is suspicious and up to conjecture that it could have been an attempted abduction."

The boy's mother, however, was shaken by the incident.

"This is a real frightening feeling," their mother said. "In your own yard you think you're safe. As safe as you think you are, you're not."

She was watching the boys from a kitchen window about noon Monday, Aug. 25. They were on a back porch and walked around to the side of the house — in the area of Beck and Warren in the northwest section of Canton near Plymouth Township.

"I heard my 2-year-old scream," she said. "My 6-year-old said: 'A strange man came up to us.'"

As they were running toward the house the man hit the 2-year-old on the back.

THE BOY described the man as "being like daddy" — who is 37 years old and tall, his mother said.

A police report said the man was about 6-feet-1-inch tall, 175 pounds with gray hair, a navy blue shirt and light blue jeans.

The man didn't say anything, according to the 6-year-old who did not see a car.

"We don't know what he was going to do," the mother said.

Referring to the possibility of her child being abducted she said: "We thanked God a hundred times that night."

A neighbor saw a man with light hair driving slowly through the neighborhood in a light blue or gray car, she said. The neighbor told her she didn't recognize the man or car.

After the word got around the neighborhood, parents stopped by to talk about safety worries. Warnings about taking precautions against child abductors are common but it's easy to become complacent, she said.

"We hear all the time to be aware of other kids, and we say 'yeah sure,'" she said.

"All this can happen in 30 seconds just when you turn away. The neighborhood is so nice and quiet but maybe that makes it a good place for that kind of thing to happen."

The woman, who has three other children, said since the incident she has placed restrictions on her children from playing in the yard when other kids are not around.

"This is really a sad situation because as a child our parents didn't think anything of letting us go out and play. I wanted our children to feel the same sense of security — at least in their own yards."

"It makes my heart sink. It makes me sick."

Child abduction evasion tips given

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A parent's fear of a child being kidnapped is paralyzing.

To avoid placing your child in a vulnerable spot, local police departments promote tips to follow.

"Never allow a child to accept an invitation at all," said Canton Police Information Officer David Boljesic. "If they practice on little things like asking before accepting a friend's offer to go play . . . then it will be drilled into their heads in the serious situations."

It's important to be aware of the people and situations around you, Plymouth Crime Prevention Officer Robert Scoggins said.

"If you see someone that doesn't belong you should know," Scoggins said.

Walking to school with other children is a good idea, he said, and it's even better if parents offer a car pool.

BOLJESIC OUTLINED the following suggestions:

- Never give children clothing or anything else with their names on it because it allows a stranger to use a child's name to become friendly.

- Never leave a child alone in a grocery cart — even for a few seconds.

- Teach the child not to say they are alone when answering the telephone.

- Never allow children to go to public washrooms unattended.

- Teach the child to scream if there is a stranger situation.

- Show children how to use a pay telephone in case they're abducted and taken out of the area, they will know how to contact the family.

- Tell children not to accept rides or candy from strangers.

- Instruct children not to get near a car — for any reason — to talk or try to listen to someone they don't know.

- Direct children not to talk to strangers.

Disaster test staged

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

Livonia will be headed for disaster this month — and officials and business representatives from the city, Redford, Westland, Canton, Plymouth and some 10 other communities are looking forward to it.

The "disaster" will be a staged chemical emergency, such as a large fire involving two dozen firefighters. It will be part of a free, three-day emergency response training program offered by Olin Chemicals, 35750 Industrial, Livonia. The program will be at Livonia Fire Station 6.

"We're trying to serve as a catalyst for industries and the communities to get together and learn how to handle hazardous chemicals," said Halcott P. Foss, Olin plant manager. "It's de-mystifying the chemical industry," said Lee Nawrocki, Olin quality assurance manager. "The chemical itself is not a hazard. It's how people treat these chemicals."

SOME 125 emergency response personnel from businesses, fire departments, police departments, hospitals and transportation companies from surrounding communities have been invited to take part in the program. It will start Sept. 9.

I guess people knew that the chemical plant was there, they knew that chemicals were there of a hazardous nature. There just wasn't any dialogue," Foss said. "Bhopal indicated this was to the detriment of both parties."

The program will combine lectures and "hands-on" drills, designed to prepare persons to deal with a variety of chemical situations, including fires, spills and tank car leaks.

The program has been offered in other plants and communities around the country. In similar drills, a chemicals dust explosion was simulated in Ohio and a chemical gas release was staged in Georgia. Employees as well as local public safety departments and hospitals took part in the mock disasters.

"You could almost call it ecstatic," Foss said of the public response to the sessions. "They identified problems in emergency response."

THE TRAINING program stems from two others that were formed about three years ago, CAER (Community Awareness and Emergency Response) and OCEAN (Olin Corporation Emergency Action Network).

CAER (pronounced "care") is a community outreach program. Its goals are to make the chemical industry less of a mystery to the local community, and to improve public protection through better emergency response planning. It provides information on Olin chemicals and reviews and develops emergency plans, involving the community in the process.

OCEAN is a communications network that provides information and assistance for emergencies involving Olin chemicals or hazardous waste 24 hours a day.

Community watch patrol logs 5 years

In the five years since going on its first community watch patrol, the members of the Plymouth Area Citizens Team (PACT) have been striving to aid and assist the area's business, civic and law enforcement organizations.

In 1981, Plymouth area law enforcement had to decrease its manpower during a time of population increases, recalls member Barb Murrehead. Then Plymouth Police Chief Carl Berry contacted citizens who participated in neighborhood watches such as REACT, a volunteer radio contact team, seeking support and assistance.

THIS INITIAL contact developed into PACT's first night watch.

Because of PACT's existence in October 1981, police officials felt the community had experienced one of the quietest Devil's Nights in five years. The following night the members of PACT encountered and reported a street brawl involving nearly 20 people, recalls Pat Schafer, another PACT member.

Because of the citizens team's ability to keep a watchful eye open, officials from the city and township police of the Plymouth community, as well as civic organizations, have sought the assistance of PACT members.

Bob Mickelson, board president of PACT, states: "We also assist stranded motorists, conduct traffic control and assist various community organizations with their yearly functions, such as the Fall Run and Balloon Festival."

"We also have been around as a neighborhood patrol for especially active nights like the one we had with the Plymouth Cruise night."

PACT has received many citizen endorsements because the volunteers have helped to secure homes while their owners were on vacation. The group's dedication and service, says Mickelson, have been rewarded by fast-food businesses contributing food to the PACT members at special functions.

Among groups endorsing PACT have been the Old Village Association, Plymouth Community Family

YMCA, and the management of Lexington House. These endorsements have helped spread the word about PACT's activities in crime prevention.

Within the first two years of the team patrols, PACT received a letter of support from Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano who felt the team enhances police protection.

"With the rising costs (of protecting property)," says Mickelson, "people feel a greater concern over what's going on around them. PACT has room to accept more volunteer support and members."

Anyone wishing to personally talk with a PACT member may find them in the area of Kellogg Park during the Plymouth Fall Festival as well as being on patrol. PACT also meets at 7:30 p.m. on the second Monday of each month in Plymouth Township Hall, Lilley at Ann Arbor Road. The meetings are open to the public.

Persons also may contact Kevin Montgomery at 459-2075 in regards to recruitment and public affairs.

Plymouth could have had the Ford Motor Co.

(Part I)

I was at my desk in the A.T. and T. building on lower Broadway in New York City 34 years ago when the telephone rang. It was an account executive of a New York advertising agency.

"We have a client in Plymouth who needs a man to head up the company's advertising and sales promotion department," he told me. "Are you interested?"

"I might be, if the salary is right. I told him, 'But first, tell me, where is Plymouth?' Is that where Chrysler makes the Plymouth automobile?"

It wasn't, of course, but what I didn't learn until many years later, after I moved to Michigan and became a resident of Plymouth, was that the village almost became the original home of an auto company bigger than Chrysler — the Ford Motor Co.

If a few more Daisy Manufacturing Co. stockholders had said yes to a proposition made by Henry Ford in 1903, Plymouth might have become a Highland Park or a Dearborn.

THE PROPOSAL Henry Ford made to Plymouth 83 years ago was only one of many dealings he had with the community both before and after 1903. His first experience here came as a boy when he accompanied his father on trips to the Plymouth Carding Mill.

The mill stood on the Middle Rouge River, just north of the spot where Plymouth Road crosses Hines

Sam Hudson

Drive. It was built in the 1850s by a resident named John Gonsully. Sheep raisers from a large part of southeastern Michigan once took their wool to the mill to have it carded by Gonsully. One of those wool-growers was Henry Ford's father. When William Ford drove to Plymouth from his farm in Dearborn, young Henry sat beside him in the wagon.

Neither Henry or his father knew that the youngster would one day stumble the industrial and banking world by raising his employees' wages from the going rate of $2.40 to the unheard sum of $5 a day. They had no way of knowing that young Henry would become the man who represented, more than any other single figure, the revolutionary change that was brought about by mass production.

Those rides in his father's wagon to Gonsully's Mill were Henry Ford's first "acquaintance with Plymouth" but not his last. Ford, who was born in 1863, the year Lincoln issued the Emancipation Proclamation, left school when he was 15. At 16, he left home to work in Detroit. Then, probably in the 1880s, when he was in his 20s, he had his second experience in Plymouth.

THERE WAS A sorghum mill in town owned by a man named Lafayette Dean.

Sorghum, similar to corn except that it is higher in protein and lower in fat, was grown chiefly for forage or for the manufacture of syrup.

Dean needed someone to set up some machinery in his mill, and to teach him how to operate it. He heard that young Henry Ford was a good mechanic and hired him to come to Plymouth to show him what to do.

Ford undoubtedly visited Plymouth many other times during the next 40 years, but it was in 1921, when he was 58, that he became an owner of property in Plymouth. In that year, he bought the old Plymouth Mills property from the Wilcox brothers.

The mill, which produced flour, dated back to the 1840s. It had been owned by the Wilcox family since 1879. The building faced Wilcox Pond from which it got its water supply.

FORD WANTED the property because he was then building a series of what came to be called his "village industry" plants. They were part of an experiment in decentralization.

Ford also wanted to provide winter work for farmers, and to prove the value of water power which had fascinated him since he was a boy.

From his boyhood experiments with water power, Ford had become a strong believer in its use in industrial production. He is the man responsible for the series of small dams that now exist along the Middle Rouge River.

The Wilcox Mill, which stood beside the pond for 75 years, was torn down, and Ford built a village industry plant on the site. He also built a dam, and enlarged the pond to provide additional water power to run the small factory.

Ford's plant at Wilcox Pond employed 31 men. It made small taps for use at the Ford Motor Co.'s Rouge plant. At one time, it also made parts for use in Ford aircraft.

In addition to the plant in Plymouth, Ford built village industry factories at Phoenix Lake, Waterford, Newburgh Lake, Nankin Mills and Northville. The Northville plant is the only one still operating.

The plant at Phoenix Lake, on the northern outskirts of Plymouth, had 81 employees, mostly women. They made generator cut-outs, voltage regulators, stop-light switches, and other small parts for the electrical systems of Ford automobiles. The plant manager for both of the Plymouth plants was a Plymouth resident, James J.S. Gallimore.

Gallimore was a member of the Plymouth Board of Education during two different periods and its president part of the time. Gallimore Elementary School, on Sheldon Road in Canton Township, is named after him.

(Next week: more about Henry Ford and Plymouth.)

ucation as all kids do." Page said.

ABOUT 1,800 students in the Plymouth-Canton schools are involved in some form of special education including full time, partial day, speech pathology and infants in the pre-school program. Pagesaid Superintendent John M. Hoben said he was surprised by the timing of Page's retirement. "I didn't expect it for a couple of years."

"Ed has had a long tenure... and has orchestrated the development of a very fine special education program," Hoben said.

"Ed's presence will be missed in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools as he has done an outstanding job in the area of program development. He's done an excellent job."

Others involved in education locally praised Page.

"We've come to think of him over the years more of an advocate of children than a member of the administration," said Harvey Plas, president of the special education parents advisory council.

"We're grateful to you," E.J. McClelland, board president, told Page. "We'll certainly miss you."

"We're indebted to you," Page, 54, said he'll continue to live in Plymouth Township.

ON LIBERTY: Shawn Moran of Canton was a winner in an essay contest sponsored by the Polish Day Parade Committee of Hamtramck. Based on this year's theme of "Liberty," Shawn in her essay stressed the importance of the "American Dream" — freedom of speech, religion, and press.

Shawn wrote that she cherishes freedom because "I am free to express my Polish heritage and because she can 'practice' my beliefs of my American culture." Shawn received her award last week from actress Stefanie Powers in the Sears Store at Oak and Windy.

TO WINDY CITY: Augie Raschke, daughter of Barbara and Dan Raschke of Canton, traveled to Chicago recently to study for six weeks with the School of the Chicago City Ballet.

Fewer than 150 students from throughout the U.S. were accepted into the program where the instructors included former ballerinas Marjorie Tallichief Skibne and Maria Tallichief Augie auditioned for the school in March and was awarded a scholarship for the summer program. She now is back home and will continue her dance studies this fall at Dance Unlimited in Plymouth.

Sarris, Kadish leave S'craft board

By Teri Banas staff writer

Two Schoolcraft College trustees — Sharon Sarris and Paul Kadish — have announced their resignations, prompting officials to set in motion procedures for filling the two vacancies.

The trustees, whose individual plans were announced at a college board meeting late last Wednesday, will serve until Sept. 24, the next board meeting date.

College president Dick McDowell said the vacancies will be filled by the Board of Trustees until the next scheduled board election on June 8, 1987. By law, the remaining five trustees have 30 days after the September meeting date to make their selections.

Interested applicants must reside in the district, which is comprised of the Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth-Canton school districts. Letters of interest and resumes should be forwarded to the board's secretary, Joyce Ludwig, he said.

BOTH TRUSTEES say their resignations are due to personal moves outside the district. Sarris, a Livonia resident, will be moving to Birmingham, and Kadish, who lives in Westland, to Franklin in Oakland County, they said.

Sarris was appointed to the board in 1982 and was elected in 1984 to a six-year term. The election next June will be for filling the remaining four years of that term.

Kadish, a board member since 1971, is currently serving his third term, which expires in June 1987.

Sarris said she hoped there would be interest throughout the district among potential applicants for the positions. The positions are non-paid and require attendance at at least one meeting a month.

"There are a lot of good people in the community, and (there were) 17 applicants when I was appointed," she noted. "I'm hoping that maybe there will be the same interest this time."

Sarris added that because of the district's configuration — with a large, single block of representation from Livonia — residents from less-populated districts such as Garden City, for instance, have difficulty fielding candidates. Noting that the college's Radcliff Center is in Sharon Sarris, this year's millage drive coordinator, leaves college after three years.

Paul Kadish, 50-year board veteran, steps down for marriage plans.

Garden City, she said: "I'm hoping there would be some good candidates from Garden City."

SARRIS, 41, who works as manager of employee communications for the Chevrolet-Pontiac-General Motors of Canada Group, says job commitments and the move to her employment base at GM's

Tech Center in Warren is prompting the move.

"My job responsibilities are changing and I'll be traveling more," she said. "It's becoming tougher to predict when I'm going to be home (to attend board meetings)."

Sarris, who played a key role organizing support for Schoolcraft's recent millage election as chairperson of the millage drive, said she was leaving with "good feelings" about her contributions to the college. Her departure also creates a vacancy on the Schoolcraft Development Authority on which she served as the board's representative, overseeing a multimillion dollar environmental project at Seven Mile and Haggerty, on main campus property.

KADISH, 50, is getting married on Sept. 7 and plans to move into his future wife's current home in Franklin.

"I'm looking very much forward to the wedding, though it would have been nice to (fulfill) the six-year term," said Kadish, who owns Associated Group Underwriters, a Livonia-based company.

As of late last week, Kadish said he had not yet been approached by other, potential candidates who may be seeking his backing, but that he does plan to encourage a "few people" to throw their hat in the ring.

He said it would be premature to mention their names.

About leaving the board, he said: "I have mixed feelings. It's been a very important experience for me, (though) not just because of all the people I've gotten to know. I've watched the college grow and do more things for more people, which has given me a lot of satisfaction."

Since 1971, Kadish has served as board chairman, vice chair and treasurer.

McDowell, meanwhile, called both trustees' work on the board "excellent." He noted that Kadish, whom he called "a very reasonable person," has been "quite objective about things." About Sarris, he said "she has been a good leader. They will be missed."

McDowell: 'We're ready to go'

By Teri Banas staff writer

Some 12,000 students are expected to open the 1986-87 school year at Schoolcraft College Thursday as administrators finish a summer-long campus spruceup and the 382-faculty union takes action on a new contract settlement today and tomorrow.

The local unit of the Michigan Education Association, made up of 132 full-time and 250 part-time instructors, will be acting on a tentative agreement this week that was reached under a relatively new "mutual gains" bargaining pact.

College trustees, who met in closed session last Wednesday night to discuss the tentative agreement, will approve it after the union acts, said college president Dick McDowell.

McDOWELL PRAISED the procedure, which essentially works to eliminate combative "power negotiations" styles of past contract years. "It's terrific. Power negotiations can end with a lot of hard feelings, but this is better in terms of what can be accomplished for the college and the faculty."

Union president Lowell Cook was unavailable for comment at press time, though McDowell said both sides earlier agreed not to speak publicly on the issue until the contract is ratified.

McDowell did respond to questions by saying that a 5% percent salary hike has been budgeted for in the new year's spending plan.

As students return to classes, they see some visible improvements to the main campus in Livonia and the college's Radcliff Center in Garden City.

College year starts; business chief Ken Lindner says he'll retire.

The improvements in large part were made possible by a half-mill tax hike approved by voters last spring. Because of it, per credit-hour tuition has been frozen at $30.25 for district residents and $41.50 for out-of-district students. The district covers the Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Garden City, Northville school districts.

Classrooms throughout the main campus and in Garden City have been painted, and extensive landscaping has been done in Livonia, particularly with new plants and shrubs around the library and along driveways, McDowell noted.

BESIDE THAT, the campus pool, built in 1969, has been repiped to eliminate major water leaks. Last week, school trustees approved the purchase of 50 new computers for the robotics program and the computer-assisted design program.

"The campus looks good," the president said. "It looks like we're ready to go."

In staff changes, the college's veteran vice president of business, Ken Lindner, has announced he will retire in January. No replacement has been named at this time.

"Ken has been here since 1961 (when the college opened). When the president came, he hired a secretary and then he hired Ken Lindner," said McDowell.

Two other administrative positions will be filled this year, one in office information (formerly secretarial science) and the other in speech drama, he said.

TROCHANTERIC BURSITIS

Hip pain does not always come from the hip joint. The bony prominence on the outside of the hip bone is called the greater trochanter. It anchors muscles which start on the back side of the pelvis. These muscles, the glutei, allow you to bring your leg out and over when your back foot starts a step.

To prevent the muscles from rubbing against the bone, a small fluid filled sac called a bursa exists where the glutei insert into the greater trochanter.

For unknown reasons the bursa may become inflamed. When that occurs, you feel a sharp shooting sensation in the lateral side of the thigh by the greater trochanter. As the pain continues, the leg muscles spasm themselves to prevent further discomfort, and you feel an ache down the whole leg.

The first step is to identify that the bursa, not the hip joint, is the source of discomfort. Next comes treatment, which includes applying heat or injecting steroid into the bursa area.

Trochanteric bursitis is painful. However, you should remember that the bursa, not the joint, is involved and that treatment is free of risk or heavy expense.

Ugly situations make bad films

the movies
Dan Greenberg

Motion pictures are supposed to be entertaining, enlightening, uplifting, pleasant experiences. Why else spend $4.50 a crack?

Tension and excitement in mystery/thriller and adventure movies are stimulating and a major part of the pleasure derived from the movies. But the contemporary movie love affair with sadism is, at best, unpleasant.

At its worst this interest in perverse and inhuman acts stimulates more violence. While that issue may be argued by some, there is no question that current films represent some pretty clear trends in our society.

The high level of interest in the macabre, the glee with which audiences greet explicit violence and gore, tells us a great deal about ourselves, most of it frightening.

"Extremities" (R) features Farrah Fawcett in her new image as a serious actress. No longer the slick, blonde stereotype of "Charlie's Angels," and "Cannonball Run," the new Fawcett specializes in abused women who avenge themselves.

Her 1984 NBC-TV feature "The Burning Bed" was one such role as "Extremities," a partially successful thriller that devotes too much energy and screen time to the unpleasant things people do to one another.

MARJORIE EASTON (Fawcett) is kidnapped by a masked, knife-wielding maniac, Joe (James Russo) as she drives away from a suburban shopping center late one night. She escapes, the police are unable to help and Joe has her wallet. He knows where she lives.

Tension is effectively built in the initial attack scene with the use of subjective camera. The camera searches and rejects victims from Joe's point of view. Even though we know Marjorie will be chosen, this technique creates excitement.

Predictably, a week later, Joe walks in on Marjorie at her isolated home while roommates Terry (Diana Scarwid) and Patricia (Alfre Woodard) are away. Marjorie should have locked the door.

Prior to Joe's reappearance, the film is tense and exciting with acute camera angles, wide angle shots from above which diminish Marjorie

Wine lovers hit the Oregon trail

It has been more than two years since this column reported the growing virtues of Oregon wines and their imminent arrival in Michigan. It did not happen then for several reasons. Since that time the wine quality has gone up and the inhibitors seem, finally, to have dissipated.

By the end of this summer, or sooner, we should have no fewer than six labels from which to choose. Hopefully, we should now soon be able to sample some of the finest wines from anywhere in the United States.

Oregon wines, especially pinot noir and chardonnay, are beginning to attain national recognition. This was helped in no small way when Robert Parker wrote a strong endorsement of them in his Wine Advocate. He correctly likened the climate in the Willamette Valley to that of Burgundy, sharply cooler and with longer growing days in season than California. Consensus is that Oregon wines are truly Burgundian at their best.

The function of this column is to herald the new arrivals. A subsequent one will feature Oregon viticulture and the wines themselves, probably in the fall when a number of them can be sampled.

In the moral debate which follows, justice versus vigilante action, the film's energy and excitement dissipates. The whole thing gets pretty sappy and unrealistic.

To match the ease with which Joe got into the house in the first place, Marjorie resolves everything with a knife hidden on Joe's body, a knife he never pulled during all the fighting. It's a shame that filmmakers expect us to believe such major discrepancies in an otherwise effectively realistic film.

FOR MORE BEATINGS, assaults and various other types of unpleasant activities, "Bullies" (R) promises to fill the bill.

The story is trite. The Morris family moves from the city to a small resort town which is terrorized by the Cullen family, a sadistic father and his sons.

Naturally, the Cullen girl Becky (Olivia D'Abo), falls in love with the Morris boy, Matt, (Jonathan Crombie). Mother Morris (Janet Laine Green) is assaulted by some of the Cullens and vengeance is in the wind.

No thanks. Read the newspaper if you want hate and violence.

AT 7 P.M. and 9:30 p.m. this Friday and Saturday, the Detroit Institute of Arts presents "Trouble in Mind" with an all-star cast: Kris Kristofferson, Genevieve Bujold, Keith Carradine, Lori Singer and Divine.

Kristofferson plays an ex-con trying to start over in a mythical dreamscape, Rain City.

leaves a brace of pinot noirs, a 1982 and 1983 Reserve. The former is well structured with ripe cherry overtones (about $9) while the latter is more intense, full of deep fruit and skin tones with a hint of oak and has marvelous aging potential. These are the kinds of wines that have made the pinot noir the most cherished grape in all of winemaking. The extra $5-$6 for the Reserve is worth it easily.

There is also a fine 1984 White Pinot Noir, of crisp fruit and well balanced with acid. No simple blush wine this, it is truly dry and refreshing. The 1984 Riesling is also distinctive, clean and floral. Lacking the California peachiness, this is delicate with a hint of a bouquet.

It is with his 1983 Chardonnay that the greatest demands will be encountered for the California or White Burgundy drinker. Oregon Chardonnays, this one included, are crisp and most acidic and carry little direct fruit, much more like a Chablis than a Montrachet.

In spite of the longer summer days in Oregon, there is never a problem there with grapes becoming over-ripe. This Elk Cove is stylistically representative of the breed.

OF THE OTHER wines to come this summer, all but one is from the Willamette Valley area south and west of Portland. Adelsheim Vineyard is one of the most esteemed wineries in Oregon and will be shipping Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, Riesling and Pinot Gris to us. Very worth investigating. Knudsen-Erath Winery is the largest producer of the six. It has been winning awards all over the west recently for its Pinot Noirs, and its winemaker won high honors for producing the best in the state for his efforts under his own label, Ponzi Vineyards also will send a Pinot Gris, a tart, fine accompaniment to shellfish. From them also will come Riesling, Chardonnay and Pinot Noir.

Alpine Vineyards has perhaps the greatest variety in its issues among the new wineries. Dan Jensen makes a truly fine Cabernet Sauvignon from his own grapes in an unusually cool climate on his property. He is able to get maturity from them regularly in his Coastal Range property outside Corvallis.

At a different location he gets fine Pinot Noir, Gewurztraminer and Riesling. He also makes a couple of fine whites from the two red varieties.

Not too long ago I tasted much of his 1985 crush and share his feelings that this vintage will be the one that puts both Oregon and Alpine Vineyards on the American viticultural map. Excellent wines all.

FORGERON VINEYARDS near Eugene makes a semi-dry Pinot Gris (much fruitier than its competitors), a Chardonnay displaying more butter and fruit than its more northerly competition, a dandy Riesling and an interesting if somewhat undistinguished Muller-Thurgau. Also tasted last spring, all of these wines have the mark of knowledgeable craftsmanship about them.

The aromas and flavors of Oregon wines are unlike their French and California counterparts. The region is cooler, developing higher acids and lower fruits, and there tends to be an earthy quality in many of these wines not frequently encountered. They take and will reward study: Oregon wines are now being "discovered."

A defense against cancer can be cooked up in your kitchen.

Fruits, vegetables, and whole-grain cereals such as oatmeal, bran and wheat may help lower the risk of colorectal cancer.

Foods high in fats, salt- or nitrite-cured foods like ham, and fish and types of sausages smoked by traditional methods should be eaten in moderation.

Be moderate in consumption of alcohol also.

A good rule of thumb is cut down on fat and don't be fat. Weight reduction may lower cancer risk. Our 12-year study of nearly a million Americans uncovered high cancer risks particularly among people 40% or more overweight.

Now, more than ever, we know you can cook up your own defense against cancer. So eat healthy and be healthy.

No one faces cancer alone.

Foods that may help reduce the risk of gastrointestinal and respiratory tract cancer are cabbage, broccoli, brussels sprouts, kohlrabi, cauliflower.

HELP THE MICHIGAN HUMANE SOCIETY LICK ANIMAL ABUSE.

From wilful neglect to outright torture, animal abuse takes many forms. But the fight against it is always the same: a desperate attempt to save helpless lives. The Michigan Humane Society carries that fight to the street, rescuing abandoned and abused animals and, if necessary, to the State Supreme Court. Wherever the fight takes place, it's expensive. Your contribution makes Michigan a better place for animals to live and a better place for people to live. Because ultimately, the fight against animal abuse is a fight for simple human decency. Together we can lick animal abuse. Permanently.

Now that the golden days of autumn are once more upon us, it's a perfect time to plan a festive fall brunch. Whether a rousing get-together for a big crowd before the football game, or simply a cozy afternoon's repast for a select few, brunch can be one of the most enjoyable, lighthearted and satisfying ways to entertain friends and family.

To help celebrate the spirit of the fall season, here's a special brunch menu featuring that perennial favorite, the apple. The pleasantly tart, refreshing flavor of the apple lends extra zest to these hearty recipes. And to make that flavor even more extraordinary, Apple Barrel Schnapps has been added. Blended from the juices of nine varieties of apples, this spirited schnapps brings a special new dimension to apple cookery.

For your main dish, forget about the omelet, quiche or other typical brunch fare. Instead, surprise guests with Sauced Sausages, a delicious mix of kielbasa, veal, beef, pork, Canadian bacon or other sausage varieties. The sausages are cooked in an irresistible sauce created from DeKuyper Apple Barrel Schnapps, brown mustard, brown sugar, and vinegar.

The perfect complement to this tasty main course is Peppery Herb Bread, an unusual yeast bread with a piquant herb and cheese filling. A "spiral" type loaf, this bread looks as sensational as it tastes.

For dessert, try an old classic with a new twist: Dutch Baby with Apples. Apples and dates, spiced with the apple schnapps, vanilla and cardamom, top off the golden-brown "dutch baby" to create a dessert that manages to be both elegant and hearty.

Sipping mugs of Apple Barrel Tea, blended from cinnamon tea and Apple Barrel Schnapps, make a delicious change-of-pace beverage to accompany this delicious brunch fare.

This festive apple brunch is certain to satisfy those hearty appetites, reward your fall, and even stimulate autumnal moods.

- 2 pounds mixed sausages (veal, beef, pork, kielbasa, Canadian bacon)
- 1 large onion, sliced
- 2 cloves garlic, chopped
- 1/4 cup brown sugar

- 3/4 cup Apple Barrel Schnapps
- 2 tablespoons prepared brown mustard
- 2 teaspoons cider vinegar

In large skillet brown sausages (small side of pan) 15 minutes. Return sausages to skillet. Drain, add all but 2 tablespoons fat, sauce, onion and garlic. Simmer about 2 minutes, scraping up bits from bottom of pan. Stir in fat with sugar until bubbling. Add Apple Barrel Schnapps, mustard and vinegar, mix well. Simmer, uncovered, 5 to 10 minutes. Return sausages to skillet, cook with pan upright. Simmer, covered, about 15 minutes until sausages are cooked through. Taste. Yield: 6 servings. *Sausages that are pre-cooked need less cooking time.

- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons sugar

- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cardamom
- 1-1/4 cups Apple Barrel Schnapps, divided
- 4 apples, cored and sliced
- 1/2 cup sliced pitted dates

In small bowl combine eggs, flour, milk and salt. Beat until smooth with rotary beater or electric mixer. Wrap handle of Dutch skillet with aluminum foil. Place skillet in a preheated 450°F oven until it is very hot, about 5 minutes. Remove skillet from oven, place butter in skillet. As soon as butter melts, turn heat to 1/2 burner. Bake 12 minutes, reduce oven temperature to 350°F, and bake 12 to 15 minutes longer until batter puffs and is golden brown. Remove Dutch Baby to serving platter. Meanwhile, prepare apple filling. In large skillet combine sugar, vanilla, cardamom and 1 cup Apple Barrel Schnapps. Bring to a boil and stir until sugar is dissolved. Add apple wedges and dates, stir to coat with syrup. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 10 minutes. Spoon apples into Dutch Baby. Add remaining 1/4 cup Apple Barrel Schnapps to skillet, boil rapidly until liquid reduced slightly, and forms a syrup. Serve syrup with Dutch Baby. Yield: 6 servings.

- 1/3 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
- 1-1/2 teaspoons active dry yeast

- 2 tablespoons warm water (105-115°F.)
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 2 to 2-1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon milk, optional

In small saucepan combine milk, butter, sugar and salt; heat until butter is melted. Cool to room temperature. Stir in pepper sauce. In large bowl, dissolve yeast in warm water. Combine egg and milk mixture; stir into yeast. Beat in flour to make a soft dough. Turn dough out onto a floured surface. Knead 5 to 10 minutes until dough is smooth and elastic. Shape into a ball. Place in greased bowl; turn so that greased side is up. Cover, let rise in warm place until double in bulk, about 1 1/4 hours. Turn out onto floured surface and knead until smooth, about 5 minutes. Roll out dough to 14 x 9-inch rectangle. Spread Herb Cheese Filling over dough and roll up from short side. Place in greased 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Cover, let rise 30 minutes or until doubled in bulk. Brush lightly with milk, if desired. Bake in a preheated 400°F oven. Check after 20 minutes if top is browned, cover loosely with aluminum foil. Continue baking for 35 minutes or until bread sounds hollow when tapped. Cool slightly before slicing. Serve warm or cold. Yield: 1 loaf.

- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/3 cup chopped scallions
- 3 tablespoons chopped parsley

In small bowl combine cheese, scallion, parsley, bread crumbs and dill weed; mix well.

- 2 tablespoons packaged, dried bread crumbs
- 1/2 teaspoon dried dill weed

- 4-1/2 cups boiling water
- 6 tea bags, cinnamon flavored

In heated tea pot combine water and tea bags; steep 4 to 5 minutes. Remove tea bags. Add

- 3/4 cup Apple Barrel Schnapps

Apple Barrel Schnapps. Serve at once. Yield: 6 servings.

BACK PAIN

If back pains are a way of life for you, the reasons can be varied and complex. Some may be pathological, but very often the cause is muscles which are either over or under exercised which are producing spinal distortion. Vertebrae slip into abnormal positions, resulting in "pinched" and irritated nerves, which cause pain and loss of function of the affected body part. Poor posture, or even emotional tension, can be the root cause.

Head coach: Jim Murphy, 10th season.
Last year's overall record: 2-15.
League affiliation: Catholic League C-D Division (2-10).

Leading returns: Al-Catholic League senior forward: Maryann Klok, (21 points, six steals and seven assists per game); Janet Sydniewski, senior center; Laura Picano, senior guard.

Promising newcomers: Cathy Szilag, senior guard-forward; Amy Riu, sophomore forward; Jenny Bellville, junior guard.

Murphy's '86 outlook: "Laura and Jenny will be our mainstay. We have to rely on balance and depth."

"Deliberately we know what we're doing. We ran a lot more this summer, but we won't run all the time. I think our girls can adjust well."

"Our strength is our experience. Our weakness is ball-handling and inside scoring. We'll be an average team. We'll have to work very hard to keep our heads above water. We have no stars, but hopefully a cohesive group."

Canton looks to regain '85 form

By Chris McCosky
Staff writer

What does Cinderella do for an encore?
Rob Neu, in his first season as the helm of the Plymouth Canton girls basketball program, took the Chiefs to a Western Lakes Western Division title and a 19-3 season in 1985. Pretty amazing stuff considering Canton had labored at or below .500 for several years prior to '85. But that year is gone, in the books.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Karen Boluch is one of two starters returning to the Chiefs from last year's Western Division championship team.

Early look at area teams

BISHOP BORGESS

Head coach: Mike Reimer, third season.
Last year's overall record: 2-18.
League affiliation: Catholic League Central Division (10-10).

Notable losses to graduation: Cheryl Livingston, guard.
Leading returns: Tanisha Stokes, sophomore center; Katy Foley, junior guard; Melissa Mars, sophomore forward.

Promising newcomers: Psi Hines, sophomore center-forward.
Reimer's '86 outlook: "We think we can be more competitive in the non-conference portion of our schedule."

"We have some decent young players on our team, but we lack depth, maturity and experience. We do not have the talent to match the teams in our division."

"We'll probably be at the bottom of our league. Hopefully we will fare better against team the caliber of Redford Union or Thurston, whom we play also."

LIVONIA LADYWOOD

Head coach: Ed Kavanagh, 11th season.
Last year's overall record: 27-1.
League affiliation: Catholic League Central Division (10-0).

Titles won last year: Great Lakes Tip-Off, Central Division, Class B District, Regional and State championships.

Notable losses to graduation: All-Area center Sue Laliberte (Western Michigan University); Cathy Schram (Northwood Institute); Jerry Nadeau, Debbie Lapinski and Mary Joy Konczak (all Stables).

Leading returns: Nicole Ewald, senior point guard; Katie McNulty, 6-2 junior center; Monica Galt, 5-8 senior forward; Julie Oaks, 5-10 senior guard; Ann Marie Thomas, 5-4 junior guard.

Promising newcomers: Mandy Chandler, 5-9 senior forward; Yvonne Barnett, 5-5 sophomore guard.

Kavanagh's '86 outlook: "It's my way to tell how good we'll be. We have to rely on balance and depth."

"Deliberately we know what we're doing. We ran a lot more this summer, but we won't run all the time. I think our girls can adjust well."

"Our strength is our experience. Our weakness is ball-handling and inside scoring. We'll be an average team. We'll have to work very hard to keep our heads above water. We have no stars, but hopefully a cohesive group."

girls basketball

will have to be our point guards, and how well we handle the ball could be a major factor in any success we might see. We will have to get quicker and play tough defense to survive in our league."

"We're very small and we have little depth. We have only 13 total players on the girls varsity and JV."

LIVONIA FRANKLIN

Head coach: Dan Freeman, first season.
Last year's overall record: 10-12.
League affiliation: Western Lakes Activities Association, Western Division (7-10).

Notable losses to graduation: Tracy Letick, guard; second team All-Area.

Leading returns: Rose Obey, junior guard; Linda McCut, senior center; Gayle Cheadle, senior guard; Maria Vassellou, senior guard; Kris Roman, senior guard; Kathy Curran, junior guard.

Promising newcomers: Cathy Cruz, junior guard.
Freeman's '86 outlook: "We will be able to put five solid players on the floor. We don't have outstanding size, but we're fairly quick."

"We plan to take advantage of our quickness and speed whenever possible. We'll approach our games one at a time and see where we end up."

LIVONIA CHURCHILL

Head coach: Tom Lang, first season.
Last year's overall record: 15-7.
League affiliation: Western Lakes Activities Association, Western Division (11-6).

Notable losses to graduation: Amy Weber, guard, third team All-Area; Jackie Wozniak, senior guard.

Leading returns: Captain Liz Monroe, senior forward; Tracy Greenwald, senior forward (third team All-Area); Julie Scroggs, senior guard; Nancy Galt, senior guard.

Promising newcomers: Maria Nohuan, senior forward; Gretchen Loyd, junior forward; Lang's '86 outlook: "We might have an outside chance in our division. Nothing will come easy to us. We will be playing man defense for the first time."

LIVONIA STEVENSON

Head coach: Chuck Hebestreit, first season.
Last year's overall record: 6-15.
League affiliation: Western Lakes Activities Association, Lakes Division (5-12).

Notable losses: Kelly Kowalek, forward, second team All-Area; Molly Snow (did not return).

Leading returns: Sue Zatorski, junior forward; Denise Vance, senior center; Nicole Brocardi, junior forward; Marcia Allen, junior guard.

Hebestreit's '86 outlook: "Going with only one senior, we're aiming for 10 wins this season."

"Our strength is our overall balance, good bench support and a desire to improve."

"Hopefully this is a rebuilding year and we would like to finish in the middle (third or fourth) so we can challenge for the lead next year."

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN

Head coach: Pat Bennett, first season (special interim coach last year).
Last year's overall record: 14-7.
League affiliation: Western Lakes Activities Association, Lakes Division (11-6).

Notable losses to graduation: Carol Hall, Diana Sommerman, Michelle Reddy, Kristi and Karen Crechdo.

Leading returns: Jenny Olson, 5-11 senior forward, third team All-Area (57 percent field goal percentage); Stacy Graham, 5-1 senior center (150 rebounds); Theresa Terres, senior guard.

Promising newcomers: Melissa Smiley, senior forward (transfer from Cherry Hill); Beth Wilson, junior guard; Denise Gumke, junior center.

Bennett's '86 outlook: "Our plan is to make the season the best for the players, the team and the school. I believe this year's varsity squad has the potential to achieve that goal."

"We have good size and quickness. Experience has to be the key. The team consists of eight seniors and three juniors. Jenny and Stacy will be starting their third year. Melissa Smiley will give us much needed strength and depth."

"The WLAA is competitive. The players are talented and the coaches are knowledgeable. We plan on being very competitive and we'll accept the challenge any team may give us."

GARDEN CITY

Head coach: Marshall Henry, third season.
Last year's overall record: 18-5.
League affiliation: Northwest Suburban (8-0).

Senior Kristen Hostynski will be counted on to provide leadership, as well as her excellent offensive and defensive skills, for Salem this season.

Upper echelon?

Talented Rocks among state's elite

By Chris McCosky
Staff writer

This is it. This is what Fred Thomann, and Bob Blohm before him, has been striving for.

The big time. Elite status. The Plymouth Salem girls basketball team, always good, always an area power, seems to have finally cracked that invisible barrier that separates the area powers from the state powers.

This year, when they talk of the Flint Northwesterns and the Farmington Hills Mercys and the Livonia Ladywoods, they'll have to talk of Plymouth Salem as well.

"We aren't going to sneak up on anybody," said Thomann, who has coached the Salem girls for the last three seasons. "We are legitimately one of the top teams in the state. We have excellent players at a lot of positions and we've got depth. If we had to sustain an injury or foul trouble, something like that, we've got a group of players who can do that."

The Rocks gave the state a preview of their prowess last season, romping to Western Lakes and Class A district championships, compiling a 19-4 record. One of those victories came at the expense of Mercy. But Mercy ended Salem's season with a 57-46 win in the regional semifinals.

RETURNING FROM last year's squad are seniors Jessica Handley and Kristen Hostynski, juniors Dena Head and Keri McBride—all of whom were starters.

Rounding out the '86 team are juniors Stacy Sovine, Michelle Cogan, Barb Krug, Shelly Bohlen and Amy Coker along with super sophomore Jill Estey.

"Two things about this team: With our depth, we'll be able to create a lot of pressure both offensively and defensively. And we'll be able to generate a lot of firepower. This team can score points," Thomann said.

The top gun as she has been since her freshman season, is Dena Head. The powerful and speedy junior was ranked in the top 10 at both the All-State Basketball Camp and at the Salem team camp in Manistee this summer.

Last year, Head averaged 15 points, 14 rebounds and five assists per game and she earned first team All-Area honors.

But Head is not Salem's only weapon. On Saturday they will

"This group might be expected to do even more this year, but we've been fighting a long time to get into the upper echelon. Now we have a chance to get there, and that's exciting."

• These won last year: Northwest Suburban and Class A District champs.

• Notable losses to graduation: Kim Olson, Nancy Cargill, Mary Hebert.

• Leading returnees: All-Area 5-10 senior forward Denise Kokowicz (13.5 points and eight rebounds per game); Karen Sandman, 5-5 senior point guard (5 points); Linda Lankford, 6-foot senior center (nine points) and nine rebounds; Shelly Malone, 5-6 senior guard (17 points); Terri Paul, 5-9 senior forward (7.5 points); Mikay Corak, 5-4 senior guard (three steals per game); Regina Wallace, 5-8 senior forward.

• Promising newcomers: Tracy Eby, 5-6 junior forward; Jenny Williams, 5-6 point guard; Amy Thompson, 5-4 off-guard; Jan Lankford, 5-8 junior center; Michelle Parko, 5-6 senior forward; Yvonne Carver, 5-7 junior forward.

• Henry's '86 outlook: "Garak will start at guard because Malone will miss two games because of an ankle injury. That's going to hurt our outside shooting, but we will improve our front-court speed."

"My biggest concern is that we had a good year last year and we may not be as hungry. We hope to keep improving individually. Right now we have a good attitude and we're working hard."

REDFORD UNION

• Head coach: Terri Anthony, sixth season.

• Last year's overall record: 9-11.

• League affiliation: Northwest Suburban (3-3).

• Notable losses to graduation: All-Area and All-League guard, Kelli Mountford (moved to Novi).

• Leading returnees: Chris Forrest, senior guard; Debbie Chandonnet, senior forward-center; Carolyn Shannon, junior forward (all-league); Carrie Long, junior forward; Jennie Sore, sophomore guard.

• Anthony's '86 outlook: "We hope to stay above 500 and we hope to be competitive in the NSL. We're rebuilding with a lot of juniors and sophomores."

"We don't have any size. We're very small at every position. But we have speed with the five returning players."

A lot of our success hinges on the health of our players. Chandonnet, Shannon and Long are all coming off injuries.

REDFORD THURSTON

• Head coach: Mike Schutte, second season.

• Last year's overall record: 13-8.

• League affiliation: Tri-River (9-5).

• Notable losses to graduation: Rose Scerif, Sue Kokowicz.

• Leading returnees: Virginia Angeli, senior forward; Holly Seesholtz, senior forward (all-league); Janet Smith, junior forward; Carolyn Michalski, senior guard-forward; Penny Soucy, junior guard; Julie Kangas, junior guard.

• Promising newcomers: Carrie Mitchell, senior forward; Tanya Starinski, sophomore forward.

• Schutte's '86 outlook: "We're optimistic because we're returning most of our '85 team and Virginia Angeli is returning with a sound knee."

"Our strengths are rebounding, depth and experience."

"Since we are limited by geographic boundaries, we don't stack up very well against Ladywood and Dearborn Divine Child, but against other public schools, I think we can be competitive."

LIVONIA CLARENCEVILLE

• Head coach: Jack Grenan, second season.

• Last year's overall record: 9-12.

• League affiliation: Metro Conference (8-8).

• Notable losses to graduation: Kelly Watson, center (leading scorer and rebounder); Ann Ledda.

• Leading returnees: Diane Lindsey, 5-5 junior point-guard; Karen Young, 5-4 junior guard; Kelly Anasch, 5-9 sophomore center; Tammy Gardella, 5-7 senior forward; Rae Lynn Stevens, 5-6 senior forward.

• Grenan's '86 outlook: "Last year the younger players looked to Kelly Watson, but this year we'll have a more rounded team with more people scoring, which will be a plus."

"The three-point play should help us with Karen and Diane, both of whom are good outside shooters."

"I think we'll be able to do more things this year because the girls know the system. The emphasis will be on defense. We have no JV team for the second year in a row, which is not a plus."

"In our league, Avondale, Lutheran North and Lutheran East should be the powers again."

Young Marlins face tough road

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

Farmington Hills Mercy has not won the Catholic League girls basketball championship since 1983.

Considering that the team has won 11 district championships in 12 years and a state-record six consecutive regional titles, a two-year dry spell in the Catholic League seems odd.

But that may be the least of Larry Baker's concerns as he enters his 12th season at Mercy.

With one major exception, Mercy is starting over this year. Gone from last year's 18-5 team are starters Missy Duczynski (Central Michigan), Terri Ford (University of Detroit) and Michelle Fryatt (Hillsdale). Jean Wassenberg, the first Marlin off the bench and spot starter last year, also graduated.

Baker, for the first time in four years, will be relying on several untested players.

"The last time that happened was in 1982," Baker said with a sheepish grin on his face. Mercy won the state championship in 1982 with three sophomores and a junior.

BUT THE DECK will be stacked against Mercy this season. The relative inexperience of the players aside, Mercy will be uncharacteristically small and slender this season. In contrast, many of Mercy's opponents have gotten larger. Birmingham Marian and Livonia Ladywood, to name but two Catholic League foes, will floor extremely big and physical teams.

Last Wednesday, Baker got word that his starting center, 6-0 junior Jennifer Slosar, had contracted chicken pox. It is possible she will miss Thursday night's season opener at Plymouth Canton.

An inauspicious start, to be sure. But if tradition means anything, don't sell the Marlins short.

"Last season reminded me that if you get the right chemistry on the floor, and positive attitudes off the floor, anything is achievable in high school basketball," Baker said.

Mercy has an ace in the hole. Senior guard Yvette Maison.

"She is the best guard in the state and without question the best guard I have ever seen emerge from our league," said Baker, who is normally very cautious with his praise of individual players.

"THE UNIQUE thing about this team is that it is built around one player," Baker added. "I don't normally do that. But given Yvette's talents, I'd be a fool not to. She's simply a cut above in terms of ability — not just above her teammates, but above some of her peers at other schools."

Maison, an All-Area, all-state choice last year, was named Best Playmaker at the All-Stater Basketball camp this summer.

"One aspect of her game that has been the least appreciated is her shooting ability," Baker said.

"She'll put it up this year."

Seniors Margaret DeMattia, a driving force in Mercy's late-season push last year, and Maria Dietz, plus juniors Jan Herberholz, Adrienne Clark, Slosar and Maureen Scullen are the key returnees for the Marlins.

DeMattia and Herberholz have shown the ability to score inside. They will have to make a strong contribution on the boards for Mercy to compete with the larger teams.

"I've said this about 300 times already: Jennifer Slosar will be our leading rebounder and everybody else will have to rebound beyond that," Baker said.

BAKER IS high on Clark. An explosive inexperience of the players aside, Clark has many of the same physical talents Terri Ford flashed in her sophomore and junior seasons. She will be crucial in Mercy's fast-paced attack.

Dietz and Scullen are battling for playing time at the off-guard spot. Colleen Clinton, Patti Chap and Kim Baldwin should also see action this season.

"Obviously, our lack of size will affect our style of play," Baker said. "We have good ball handlers and everyone on the team can run. We can't wait for teams to just wade in and pound on us. It's more important than ever for us to play our game."

Mercy's schedule, again, is severe. Aside from the Catholic League foes, Mercy will play Canton, Plymouth Salem, Saginaw and Sarnia St. Patrick's — no slouches in the bunch.

Bottom line? Mercy has a long, tough road ahead if it envisions ending its Catholic League title drought. But come to think of it, that young untested 1982 team didn't win the Catholic League title either.

Food for thought.

Ocelot spikers: '85 no fluke

By C.J. Risk
staff writer

A year ago, many of Tom Teeters' coaching colleagues probably credited his accomplishments at Schoolcraft College to either mirrors or magic.

How else could a largely freshmen volleyball team with hitters that were only 5-foot-8½ and 5-6 finish sixth in the NJCAA tournament and pile up a 43-13 record?

This season, Teeters and the Lady Ocelots can't rely on luck or trickery. SC won't surprise anyone this time around.

BUT THE Lady Ocelots also won't be short, either. Not in stature, talent or experience.

Five players return from last year's NJCAA qualifier and regional champion. Four of those — hitters Sue Cyrus (5-6 from Garden City) and Kim Relyea (5-8½ from Livonia

Schoolcraft sports

Stevenson), setter Patty Kozicki (North Farmington) and backcourt defensive specialist Amy Lotero (Livonia Franklin) — were starters. "The experience they had going to the nationals will be a great aid to the freshmen coming in," said Teeters, who is entering his second season at SC.

THE NEWCOMERS should make the Lady Ocelots even more formidable this season. Teeters' top recruits are Jill Ehler, a center blocker/outside hitter from Monroe St. Mary's Academy, and Diana Dietz, an outside hitter from Wayne Memorial.

Both are potential starters, but there are others: hitters Jean Bass and Laura Verduzo (both from Wayne Memorial), Wendy Spencer (Walled Lake Western), Donna Wilhelm (Milford) and 6-2 hitter/back-up setter Tina Osantowski (Madison Heights Lamphre).

Together with sophomore Donna Konjarevich (North Farmington), the incoming group will pressure last year's starters for playing time.

"We have a lot more talent than last year," said Teeters. "More size, more jumpers. It will take a while to mold it, but we do have more of it."

IF THERE is anything lacking, it is at setter, where Teeters will have to go with a 5-1 alignment because Kozicki is the only proven setter.

"In the hitting and blocking department, we're much stronger," he said. "We are short at setter. That could be our Achilles' heel."

The only other obstacle standing between SC and another trip to the NJCAA tournament is a much-improved region. Macomb CC and Henry Ford CC both look tough in the Eastern Conference, and, according to Teeters, Southwestern CC of the Western Conference will provide a major challenge for the region title after picking up two transfers from powerful Western Michigan University.

Yet, if SC can get into a groove like it did last year, a season extending to Thanksgiving is in the offing.

The Lady Ocelots open at the Lake Michigan CC Tournament Sept. 13.

S'craft lady kickers a veteran lot

By C.J. Risk
staff writer

Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team entered last season full of optimism.

The Lady Ocelots had ended 1984 — their first varsity season — better than anyone envisioned, reaching the NJCAA finals before faltering. Last year's squad seemed deeper in talent and experience than its predecessor.

But preseason optimism was dimmed quickly by a more difficult, early-season schedule. The squad rebounded to finish the regular season at 12-4-6 and earn an invitation to the NJCAA tournament, but SC was eliminated in two straight games.

"That's why they're back," said coach Ed Dudek of his nine returning players. "Both of the games they lost (at the NJCAA tournament) they could have won."

VENGEANCE CAN provide powerful incentive, and it's a key element in SC's upcoming season. No longer can the Lady Ocelots be counted as upstarts, newcomers in the world of NJCAA women's soccer. Their program is established; their reputation is nationwide. They are expected to win.

SC's excellence is established enough to earn a trip to New York Oct. 4-5 to play Monroe CC (Rochester, N.Y.) and Nassau CC (Nassau, N.J.). Monroe beat Nassau for the NJCAA title last year.

The Lady Ocelots cupboard is far from bare. Leading the nine-player returning contingent are All-American goalkeeper Doreen Beagle (from Livonia Stevenson), leading scorer Denise Piwko, and a terrific defense anchored by backs Shannon Bowler (Livonia Ladywood), Sheri Wolfe (Livonia Bentley) and Tina Bazur.

THERE'S DEPTH and experience at midfield, too, with Dorene Dudek (Livonia Churchill), Jane Moylan (Livonia Ladywood), Lisa Griffin (Churchill) and Sue Caprara (Livonia Franklin). Sounds promising, doesn't it? But

"A lot of things aren't set yet," said Dudek. "We're going to be in all of our games because of our defense. Whether we win or not is another question."

The Lady Ocelots desperately need another scorer to relieve the pressure on Piwko. "Other teams can mark Denise and stop us from scoring," Dudek said.

He had planned to shift Moylan, who possesses a powerful left foot, and Caprara, who is stronger and in better condition than a year ago, to the front line. But two midfielders — his daughter, Dorene, and Griffin — will miss the first five games of the season.

DOREEN DUEDEK played five games last year as a sophomore before injuring her knee. The NJCAA granted her another season of eligibility, minus the first five games of the season. Griffin is traveling to Ireland and won't return until Sept. 20.

That has forced coach Dudek to do some lineup juggling. "The Xavier game (in Cincinnati Sept. 21) will be the first time we have our entire team together," he said.

Injuries could devastate SC. There are only 16 players on the squad, including Dorene Dudek and Griffin. Which means only 14 players are available for the first five games.

"You can get by with that, but any injury will make it very tough," said Dudek. "We have just one goalkeeper, too. If Doreen Beagle gets hurt, we'll be in trouble."

DUDEK IS confident his team can survive such problems. "Basically, we have good enough players to win with," he analyzed. "What we want to do is get it all together by Oct. 4 and 5, when we go to Rochester, New York."

Dudek will call on newcomers Elayna Alabakoff, Sara Brassell and Elizabeth Peters (all from Dearborn Edsel Ford); Kelly Churchill and Wendy Wagner (both from Churchill); Laura Alcalá (Franklin); and Colleen McQueen (Bentley) to fill in. "There are no superstar names, but it is a strong team," said Dudek. Again, the early-season schedule could make-or-break the Lady Ocelots. They open on the road

A defense against cancer can be cooked up in your kitchen.

There is evidence that diet and cancer are related. Some foods may promote cancer, while others may protect you from it.

Foods related to lowering the risk of cancer of the larynx and esophagus all have high amounts of carotene, a form of Vitamin A which is in cantaloupes, peaches, broccoli, spinach, all dark green leafy vegetables, sweet potatoes, carrots, pumpkin, winter squash, and apricots, citrus fruits and Brussels sprouts.

Foods that may help reduce the risk of gastrointestinal and respiratory tract cancer are cabbage, brox coli, Brussels sprouts, kohlrabi, cauliflower.

Fruits, vegetables and whole grain cereals such as oatmeal, bran and wheat may help lower the risk of colorectal cancer.

Foods high in fats, salt, or nitrite-cured foods such as ham, and fish and types of sausages smoked by traditional methods should be eaten in moderation.

Be moderate in consumption of alcohol also.

A good rule of thumb is cut down on fat and don't eat the fat.

Weight reduction may lower cancer risk. Our 12-year study of nearly a million Americans uncovered high cancer risks particularly among people 40% or more overweight.

Now, more than ever, we know you can cook up your own defense against cancer. So eat healthy and be healthy.

No one faces cancer alone.

HE WAS BORN WITH A BROKEN HEART.

YOU CAN HELP MEND IT.

This baby came into the world with a heart defect. A big enough problem for anyone, but in one so small, it's life-threatening.

But, thanks to research by the American Heart Association, and financed by your Torch Drive contributions, this broken heart can be mended. A few years ago, that was not the case. But more research needs to be done to help us treat all forms of heart disease.

When you give to the United Foundation, you're actually giving to 143 Torch Drive-supported agencies here in the tri-county area.

Agencies that provide heart research, family counseling, services to the handicapped and much more.

But right now, those agencies need extra help. The kind of help that comes from you. So please give a little more to the Torch Drive this year. And help mend a child's broken heart.
