Drug enforcement team to hit schools

Attacking the drug problem in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is a main goal of a newly established narcotics team.

Canton, city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township police chiefs met with local school officials last week to discuss the potential of the Western Wayne County narcotics enforcement team, which is supervised by the Michigan State Police in cooperation with local police departments.

We expect it will be a very effective cooperative effort because the local departments will bring their problems to the team," according to Michigan State Police Capt. Philip Asiala.

Canton, the city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Livonia, Westland, Garden City and the city of Wayne will participate, Asia-

The team still is in its formative stage and it's undetermined what each participating department will contribute to the program, Asiala said.

However, it is certain Canton, Livonia, Westland and Wayne will provide officers who will work undercover, Canton police chief John Santomauro said.

'If we do a good job in drug education we will do that much less in drug enforcement.'

Trip to China proves to be real eye opener

Corn on the cob and granola bars helped form a chain of friendship thousands of miles long between students and people living in mainland

A 52-member group, including 19 students of Livonia Stephenson High's Global Education program, parents, teachers and officials (among them Plymouth Township supervisor Maurice Breen and Mary Breen, former Stevenson assistant principal), spent three weeks in China in July.

During that time, the American visitors were treated as celebrities. They were honored in speeches and official banquets. They toured schools, opened a playground, flew on a military jet and met opera star Luciano Pavarotti. They made such a favorable impression that letters from their new Chinese friends were already waiting for them when they arrived home.

The Chinese were interested in talking with the students, said Jonathan Swift, director of Global Education. "The moment they met it was just fantastic.

"They would say, 'You Americans are paranoid about communism. Why are you so afraid of this?' For them, the party is just a way of life. "I'd like to go back in about 10 years. My guess is it's going to be very heavily westernized.

THE GLOBAL Education program, nine years old, features such subjects as comparative govern-ment, world literature and humani-

People in the program talked about going to China four years ago when a teacher from China was visiting in the area. Last year, the matter came up again in conversations with Wing Yee, who runs a restaurant on Six Mile in Livonia. Suddenly, a passage to China didn't seem so impossible.

"There were two things that we wanted to do," Swift said. "One was to go and see the school in Shanghai. The second was to go to Wing Yee's birthplace because he has been a great benefactor of the town."

The travelers took part in a number of orientation sessions before they left for China, meeting at least once a month for six months. During that time they learned about language, money, what to buy and sell, protocol, food and their itinerary.

For example, the Americans learned that giving personal items a magazine, a granola snack bar or a stamp — means more in China than a gift that was specially pur-chased. The Americans gave their Chinese friends little "grab bags" of their views for the rest of their life."

The group's first stop was Beijing, formerly known as Peking. The Americans asked if they could visit a house. This threw their guides off at first. But the guides peeked through holes in the walls that surrounded the houses and finally showed their guests a house where a woman was cooking in the yard.

"They were so nice," Swift said. Our kids poked around in the different rooms. The woman gave us a piece of corn on the cob.

"You don't realize that very often represents a sacrifice to do that," he said. "They don't have that much. Teachers make $25 a month. The average worker is paid $15 to $20 a month. So when they gave that to us, we appreciated it."

IN BEIJING, the group stayed in a hotel at the foot of a mountain. One day Swift met Luciano Pavarotti going into the hotel as Swift was coming out.

The great singer was in Chinamaking a film for television. Swift asked him if he would mind meeting others in the group, and Pavarotti replied that he wouldn't mind at all. "He sat down and said, 'I will stay as long as you like,' " Swift said.

"He was so nice. He was so kind about taking the time. We left before he did. A BBC television crew was there at the same time. They were filming us filming him. His manager said to him, 'You said I couldn't find any Americans in China. Look at all these nice Americans.' Pavarotti was presented with a Global Education pin. Members of his film crew asked if they could

When the Americans were going to leave for Shanghai, a hurricane struck and all flights were cancelled. But arrangements were made for the visitors to fly on a military jet. They were bused to a military base and boarded a plane with a big red

The visitors received gold medals and brocade cases as gifts from the Chinese government. They gave their hosts a set of picture books about the Great Lakes, Michigan and the Detroit area that they got from the U.S. Embassy.

Role of school nurse expands

In the world of public education, changing in recent years due to improved technology and teaching methods, a school nurse's job stays much the same.

Well, sort of.

'I don't see myself as the Band-Aid lady," says Kari Miller, a registered nurse, one of five employed by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. "I really see myself as an advocate for children.

A University of Michigan graduate, Miller worked two years and then taught child psychiatric nursing at Wayne State University for another two years before taking time out to raise a family of three. A Livonia native, Miller and her

Of her experience in the child psychiatric field, Miller says, "Obviously, that's very helpful. You al-ways look at a child's behavior."

FOR EXAMPLE, a child suffering from a chronic illness may need help in coping with it. "You'd look at how he handles it;

"Nurses often get requests to do things that are unusual . . . sometimes a family needs direction," Miller added. "We try to maximize a child's opportunity to succeed in school.'

Miller said she also has spoken with teachers to help them understand a child's health-related problem, such as a hearing problem.

School nurses also oversee hearing and vision screening sessions

We get a lot of referrals from teachers, parents."

In the last two years, the school district also has provided scoleosis (curvature of the spine) screening.

As for possible future changes, Miller said, "I'd like to do more in presented $4,030 to Capt. Larry Manzella of the Salvation Army Corps. The money came from the station's spring promotion when it donated $10 of each $25 installation fee collected to the Salvation Army. That promotion is being repeated this month with the Muscular Dystrophy Association being the benefactor.

"This could not have come at a better time," said Manzella, explaining it would be used to send more local kids to camp this year. The summer camp includes such activities as sports, field trips, games, arts and crafts.

JC SCHOLAR: Duong Luu of Plymouth has been awarded the Canton Jaycees 1986 College Scholarship. Duong came to the U.S. from South Vietnam at age 11 and this past June graduated from Plymouth Canton High School. He will be attending Wayne State University, majoring in electrical and computer engineering.

Unlikely partners made for winning combination

By Teri Banas

Who would have thought that when Dave Katz found himself seated next to Mike Duggan on a bus ride four years ago it was as they say in the movies - the start of a beautiful relationship, at least in politics. The pair met in 1982 during a bus trip to the City-County Building that launched Edward McNamara's unsuccessful first campaign for county executive. From that point on, they forged a partnership that grew into the driving force behind McNamara's successful bid for the Democratic nomination last month. (The Democratic nomination is tantamount to election in Wayne County.) Today, both are being considered for key positions in the McNamara administration next

SAID MCNAMARA of the pair, "Dave is a real solid person," and Mike is most trusted and astute. "They're both 28 going on 45 rom an experience standpoint."

Katz, who works as McNamara's administrative assistant in Livonia, and Duggan, a lawyer for Wayne County, rose from the ranks of campaign volinteers four years ago to become McNamara's chief fund-raising organizer and campaign manager, respectively, in 1986.

Together, they mapped a successful campaign strategy and raised more than $425,000, twice as much as any other candidate.

"IF IT WERE not for either of them, I don't think I would have run (again)," said the Livonia mayor. "You need their kind of intelligence and drive to succeed."

Besides Katz' "finesse" at fund raising, McNamara said it was Duggan's research that convinced McNamara to give the ceo bid a second shot. In a research paper he titled "The Second Time Around," Duggan analyzed the 1982's campaign's weaknesses, mmunity by community, showing McNamara how a "white, suburban mayor could do it.

Jobless rate decreased in most of state

Unemployment declined in all but two of Michigan's 12 major labor market areas during July, said Richard Simmons Jr., director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

The Detroit and Flint areas, however, reported increases in their July jobless rates because of large-scale model changeover layoffs in local automotive plants. In the Detroit area, unemplo ment rose in July to 9.1 percent

After a hard morning of early afternoon chores, 13-year-old Shawn Moore hopped a bike for a familiar mile-long ride to a convenience store for a wellearned slug of cold pop.

Like the heron searching the shores and skies for refuge, Shawn's neighbors have learned that a truly safe haven is as transient as a pastoral reflection in a pond at summer's end.

On his way home, on the shoulder of a well-traveled road, mere yards from a busy expressway, he was abducted. Those who saw were too far away to help. Those close enough were unaware of the tragedy unfolding

Two weeks later, after intense publicity and a statewide manhunt, the family awoke to the news that the nightmare was not going to go away.

YESTERDAY, IN A 19th-century Howell courthouse, jury selection began for the trial of a Livonia man, 26-yearold Ronald Bailey, who has been charged with the boy's murder. That the ferent. The suspect is likely to use an insani-

Was Bailey cured or worsened by his treatment? He claims now that one of the doctors at the Northville facility. Jose Tombo, coerced him into a homosexual affair. Tombo denies the allega-

SOME HAVE WONDERED if Bailey can get a fair trial in Livingston County, where the crime poked holes in the belief that a rural life somehow shields one from such horror stories.

Life goes on. Parents perhaps keep a closer eye on their children, but the reins gradually have loosened. Children, resilient as they are, still believe that such abductions cannot happen to them.

Life also goes on for the Moore family, although the crime still affects their daily life. Scott Moore, Shawn's lawstudent brother who became the family spokesman to protect his parents from media glare, has returned to his studies. He is engaged to be married, although the ceremony had to be delayed because

Board games teach reading and other things

PLAYING BOARD games with your rules can be ignored. After all, they are grade schooler can be fun. You can games, not life choose a game both of you enjoy.

Parents are no longer limited to "Candyland" and "Chutes and Ladders," especially after a child has started reading. In fact, playing games with printed rules can be a fine way to teach

Who has greater incentive to read: a child sitting in a classroom or a child trying to find out whether his character has been eaten by a lion?

A parent can be available to interpret the rules - especially for children who are not yet good readers. But reading rules can give a chance for an otherwise poor reader to tell his parents something important (such as whether Dad's character was eaten by a lion).

THE TYPE of game you play depends on your tastes. A game can teach, a game can entertain and a game can build. A parent and child playing a game are working together, which is not that common with both parents bringing in a paycheck.

You and your child aren't limited to games based on TV shows or games that have been around 50 years. If you don't like one game, there is another that is fun for most members of the family. Many modern board games

If your child has trouble losing, playing a chance-dependent game such as

"Sorry" with a parent may not be fun. If he doesn't mind losing, there's the marvelously silly "Snit's Revenge." "Snit's Revenge" has a wonderful background that leads to "in" jokes such as the mock ferocious "Watch out or I'll get you with my prolobosinator.'

IF YOU like silly (we do), there's also 'The Awful Green Things from Outer Space." Both are by TSR. Both are also reasonably priced.

A fine game - although more expensive - is "Tales of the Arabian Nights" by West End Games. This game is almost a role-playing game in the Middle East of the Thousand and One Nights. Although it can be played alone, the game is more fun with a couple kids and an adult. And if you want to throw in asides about the current Middle East, that would only seem appropriate.

If your interest is the outdoors, try 'Yellowstone" or "Outdoor Survival" by Avalon Hill. Neither are much for a competitive 14-year-old, but "Yellowstone" can teach an elementary-schoolage child about the vagarities of life for the animals. "Outdoor Survival" is aimed toward teaching survival skills.

GALLS COME in various shapes and sizes, but all result from an irritation to the plant, usually caused by an insect.

These galls are called oak pill galls, probably because of their size and number. A midge, which generally looks like a mosquito with busy antennae, laid its egg on the oak leaf. In response to this irritation, the plant formed a hard, reddish, pea-sized structure around the egg. This will provide protection for the developing lar-

Phone guide helps selection

A guide to choosing a long-distance telephone company has been prepared by the Michigan Public Service Commission and is available by calling (toll-free) 1-800-292-9555.

The new guide will help to make an informed choice," said chairman William E. Long. "It will also enable those who already have chosen a company to compare their costs and services with those offered by the other companies."

The deregulation of the nation's telephone industry obliges millions of Michigan customers to choose a "dial 1" long-distance company. If no choice is made, one is assigned. The Federal Communications Commission ordered the deregulation to ensure equal market access for new companies, which now compete for long-distance customers.

Jocks in workplace

Pro athletes test skills in new fields

By Larry O'Connor

Marty Pavelich's Canton office looks anything but like a sporting goods resale house.

No hockey sticks, trophies or pictures adorn the bare paneled walls. Pavelich doesn't even use a hockey puck for a paperweight.

In fact, anyone but a well-tutored hockey fan might not even know that Pavelich was a member of four Detroit Red Wing Stanley Cup championship teams.

That suits Pavelich just fine. He'd rather talk business anyhow, thank you.

But for a lot of former professional athletes turned professionals in the business world, that's easier said than done. Sometimes business associates only want to talk sports.

AND SOMETIMES all the former athlete can do is talk sports. They think the name on their calling card card is the only business smarts they need.

They don't last long.
Still, the Detroit-area has proved to be fertile ground for former athletes who've been successful in business.
For example, Bing Steel, owned by former Detroit

For example, Bing Steel, owned by former Detroit. Piston great Dave Bing, is one the top black-owned businesses in the country. Mexican Industries in Detroit, operated by former Detroit Tiger pitcher Hank Aguirre, was selected as the top minority business in the Midwest region.

Also there's former Tiger catcher Bill Freehan with Freehan-Bocci & Co., along with countless Red Wing, Tigers, Lions and Pistons luminaries working as salesmen or manufacturer's representatives.

ALONG WITH a number of success stories, there's the classic story of the sports figurehead barely able to count the paper clips, let alone sell them.

"I've heard of ex-jocks walking into a purchasing department and they think, 'Here's this dumb jock; what's he trying to sell us now," said Aguirre, who lives in Lathrup Village. "And it's only because in some cases, that's what they are — dumb jocks."

But that's not to say former athletes don't take advantage of their names. Quite the contrary.

Many aren't too proud to admit it might have been their name that helped seal a deal. But in the end, they had to deliever.

"The name and face recognition help," said Dexter Bussey, a former Detroit Lions running back. "People, whether they need the service or not, come in to see Bussey owns a Mail Boxes Etc. USA franchise in Bloomfield Hills, which sells postal, business and communications services. He, like a lot of pro athletes today, jumped into business before he retired in 1985, buying the franchise in 1983.

He also works as a sales representative for Consultant System Programers in Troy.

AT THE OTHER end of the spectrum is Pavelich, who with Red Wing teammates Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay, did something unheard of in the late 1950s. The trio got involved with their own business.

At the time, anything besides playing hockey was considered a distraction and was generally frowned upon by management.

Howe eventually went on to his own business ventures. Pavelich and Lindsay in 1962 started an automotive manufacturing plant.

Pavelich fondly recalls he and Lindsay working as salesmen during the day and as foremen in the plant at night. Neither had any formal business schooling.

night. Neither had any formal business schooling.
"You have to learn through time," said Pavelich, who sold Lindsay & Pavelich five years ago. He still works out of the office as a salesman. "I was always interested in different plants. I was never too proud to ask a question."

Indirectly sports does provide some preparation for the business world.

"It helps you to be competitive," said Aguirre. "Baseball teaches you how to act under critical situations. It definitely helps you in the business world."

IT'S STILL a transition. For one, many athletes are used to working only five hours a day.

They find coming in at 7 a.m. and selling for eight hours a day isn't easy.
"The difficult transition is the commitment you have "The difficult transition is the commitment you have to make," Pavelich said. "You're out there like a rookie again. You have to learn about the business world."

"Most often a professional athlete's life structure is very well protected," Bussey said. ". . . all of a sudden they have to do things themselves.

"After you play professional football, you realize, 'I'm 10 years behind."

And some customers attempt to keep the former athletes in the past, talking only about their exploits on the playing field. It's a necessary part of the job.

"That happens quite often," Bussey said. "It's up to

"That happens quite often," Bussey said. "It's up to me to excuse myself in a subtle manner. It doesn't bother me. I think I owe my customers some company." "I never start it," Pavelich said. "Once in awhile they want to talk hockey. People still get back to business."

Marty Pavelich: "The difficult transition is the commitment you have to make. You're out there like a rookie again. You have to learn about the business world."

Small business 'flexes muscle' at conference

By Penny Wright special writer

With recommendations ranging from liability insurance reform to a phase-out of farm price supports, small business raised a big voice at the recent White House Conference on Small Business.

Local members of the 61-person Michigan delegation attending the conference said the mission was accomplished with an amazing display of political commitment and intensity.

"Small business people united as a political force during the conference," said Richard Francis, director of merchant banking with Carleton Ward & Co., Birmingham. "Small buiness seldom gets the chance to flex its political muscle in unison. It was very exciting.

"I'm already getting calls from around the country about strategies for passing legislation that address the final recommendations. I predict 80 percent of the recommendations will be implemented."

Liability insurance reform headed the list of final recommendations. Geared to stop the "national hemorrhaging of small business," the legislation delegates called for addresses civil justice reform, federal standards for product, professional and commercial liability, and increased availability and affordability of liability insurance.

But Pearl Holfterty, accountant and parner with Plante & Moran, Southfield, was disapppointed that the preservation of the Small Business Administration as an independent agency did not place higher on the list of recommendations.

"The number 13 rank doesn't reflect the importance of retaining the agency as an independent federal department," Holferty said.

She said the SBA issue, a major bone of contention between the administration and small-business people was confused by a competing resolution offered by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

"We need a voice for small business at the top levels of government, and we resent efforts to downgrade the issue"

MOST LOCAL delegates agreed the biggest disappointment of the conference was the absence of their host.

"We were invited by the president, and we were greeted by the baby-sitter (Chief of Staff Donald Regan)," said Michael Morton, vice president of Ludot Personnel Services of Southfield. Morton said the White House cold shoulder did not dampen the delegates' enthusiasm and determination to work out a constructive set of recommendations.

"Many of us are planning to go back to Washington at our own expense to testify before committee hearings for passage of these recommendations," Morton said. He also reported that for the first time in the history of the White House conferences, an ethnic minority caucus was formed.

"The concept is healthy and reflects the increase of minorities in small business."

Livonia business owner Jeanne Paluzzi of JGP Marketing Group International found the conference an energizing experience and strongly urged other small business owners to get involved and help push the conference recommendations.

"Business people can get involved by joining their local business organizations or the Small Business Association of Michigan. We need activists," she said.

Paluzzi said Japan, Norway and the Netherlands had observers at the conference. "They are trying to learn how to deal with small business issues in their own country and how to stimulate more entrepreneurs."

PEARL LIPNER, co-chair of the Michigan delegation and owner of Melange Limited of Southfield was pleased with the efforts of the state's delegates.

"Our people were incredibly professional and gave a tremendous amount of time to these important issues. We plan to press our own state legislators for action."

"We are not just a flash in the pan," said Don Nemes of Nemes, Allen & Lefko, Birmingham. "As the largest employer group in the nation, we are determined to get the attention we deserve. If Congress and the administration want to increase jobs in this country, they should be talking to us."

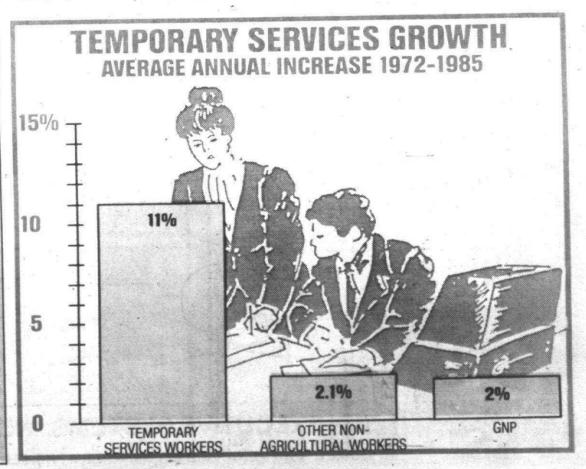

Nemes said many delegates would like more frequent White House conferences. He also said Michigan delegates have pressed both gubernatorial candidates for a state conference on small business.

Liability insurance reform leads recommendations

Delegates attending the White House Conference on Small Business Aug. 17-21 agreed on 60 recommendations. Here are the top 10:

- Liability insurance reform including a faultbased standard of liability; limit non-economic damages to $250,000; limit attorneys' contingency fees; impose a statute of limitations; establish a uniform standard of fault; promote the establishment of joint underwriting associations and assigned risk pools; promote tax deductible self-insurance; require complete financial disclosures by the insurance industry.
- 2. No government-mandated employee benefits such as employer-paid health benefits, parental leave and disability leave.
- (3. Protection against "unfair" competition including prohibiting non-profit, tax-exempt business from using advantages such as postal rates in selling products and services offered by small business; prohibit government organizations from performing commercial services.
- 4. Federal deficit reduction and a balanced budget by correction of the Gramm-Redman-Hollings Act, passage of a balanced budget amendment and presidential budgetary line-item veto power.

- Creation of a cabinet level department of interational trade.
- Advancement of entrepreneurial education by the federal government.
- Congressional repeal of the Davis-Bacon Act and Service Contract Act. According to Nation's Business magazine, Davis-Bacon requires almost all federal construction contractors to pay local union wage scales.
- 8. Reform the Social Security system by removing all non-retirement programs from Social Security and paying them from the general fund; bring all workers under the Social Security system; freeze FICA contribution wage base and tax rate at 1986 level; cap automatic indexing and cost of living adjustments; fund a presidential commissison to develop long-range alternatives to the present system.
- Enact Senate Bill 2760 with the Kasten-Lugar-Kassebaum amendment to provide uniform fault defenses and the Pressler amendment eliminating joint and several liability.
- 10. Internal Revenue Service reform, subjecting the agency to judicial review and making it accountable for all costs incurred by taxpayers as a result of IRS errors.

Not quite. For any refinancing to 32 be attractive, it must meet the Two-Two-Two test. Simply stated, refinancing will probably work if you have been in your house for at least two years, if your interest is at least two points over the current rate, and if you are considering living in your house for at least two more years.

Of course, meeting this test is a necessary but not a sufficient condition for total success in your refinancing effort.

HOW TO BUSINESS ON YOUR

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own . . . but it takes a bit of planning. Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item . . . and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers . . . so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins. Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

Have fun with your little business adventure!

Pick up your free Garage Sale folder in our office when you place your ad! (Contains two signs, two arrows, a handy ledger, 14 tips for a successful sale and nine tips for a successful ad)

Rocks stay hopeful despite losing Hill

By Chris McCosky staff writer

The fire was back in Tom Moshimer's eyes. It had been missing the last couple of years.

When he talked of his 1986 Plymouth Salem football team, he said things like, "I'm enjoying this so far" and "We going to be a good football team." He hadn't said things like that in a couple of years.

Tom Moshimer was genuinely optimistic. He hadn't been that in a couple of years.

That was two weeks ago.

Since then, his team has lost its No. 1 quarterback. Senior Chris Hill broke his leg in last week's preseason scrimmage and isn't expected to return this season.

For a moment, a bit of the old gloom returned to Tom Moshimer's

"Sure, it's tough. He was a good wishbone quarterback. If he was just a hand-off quarterback, we could replace him with no problem. But he was solid option quarterback.

"And it's really too bad for Chris, too. He was a great kid, a real hard worker. And a leader. It seems like it always happens to those kinds of

THERE WAS a pause. Then the Tom Moshimer of two weeks ago began speaking.

"I'll tell you what, though, I'm confident the two juniors will do the job

Steve Holt and Kurt Britnell will assume the quarterbacking duties. Moshimer said Holt may have a slight edge coming into Friday's season opener at Trenton. But both will probably see action.

"We will be a better team than the last two years," said Moshimer, whose teams posted 3-6 records in 1984 and 1985. "We've improved in all aspects.

The leading cause for the Rocks' optimism is senior co-captain Joe Jouppi. At 6-2, 205, Jouppi is a punishing player on both sides of the line of scrimmage.

"Jouppi is a major college player," Moshimer said. "He runs hard; he's a great blocker, and he's a terror on defense. We can't even run our drills at him in practice. He destroys everything that comes his way." Joining Jouppi in the backfield likely will be senior sprinter Brian Neuhardt. Juniors Doug Prater and Garrett Bowie will also see action.

At fullback, seniors Jerry Sumner and Leonard Bowe will share time.

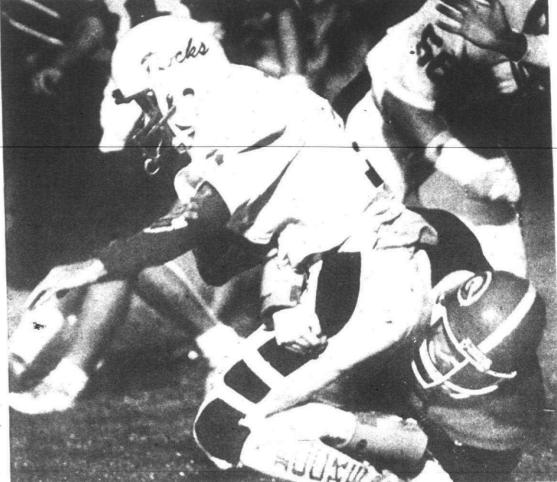

Jeff Armstrong is the probable starting wide receiver, with Andy Gee, Kevin Cousino and Lee Erickson all vying for the tight end job.

PERHAPS THE area of greatest improvement for Salem is the offen-sive line. Senior Kurt Urban (6-1, 185) will anchor it. Dave Frigerio (5-11, 175), Adam Aldrin (5-11, 175), Jim Lamb (5-7, 160), Romolo Maura (6-2, 210), John Lazarowicz (5-11, 201), Al Kim (6-0, 175), Jay Blaylock (6-0, 195) and Richard Johnson (6-4, 240) are all battling for playing time.

'We're not any bigger than before, but the players we have are more fawith our system. They shouldn't make as many mistake as last year," Moshimer said.

Chiefs seek a new attitude

Khoenle puts faith in senior class

By Chris McCosky

staff writer

On paper, the 1986 version of the Plymouth Canton football team looks pretty solid.

But Canton always seems to look like a good team on paper. The truth is the Chiefs have not been a good team on the field in recent years the worst being last season's 0-9

The impoverished past is the first problem new head coach Bot Khoenle must address.

"We have a good nucleus of play ers, and they are working very hard. But we have to have an attitude change here," Khoenle said. "The kids have to start thinking more positive. They have to start believing in themselves. We have a horrible defeatist attitude here, and we must get over that. We have to learn to go out there and compete aggressively. Of course, that's something that's easy to talk about and hard to over-

Joel Goebel Ronnie Balog and Joel Riggs. All but Riggs are seniors. Riggs is a junior.

Khoenle is high on Trice. "He's very quick and he can be a gamebreaker for us.

Seniors Todd Wood, John Migyanka, Jeff Krolicki and junior Steve Fleming are vying for offensive end

"We've got good kids at the skill positions," Khoenle said. "They have got to produce for us if we are going to be successful."

The offensive line, a traditional weakness of Canton football teams, will be big, but relatively inexperienced. Glen Godfrey (6-2, 200-pound senior), Brian Gothard (6-1, 205, senior) and Wes Johnson (5-10, 185, seners vying for spots are Mike Flynn

Scott Browne (5-11, 180, junior), Rich Cline (5-11, 195, junior) and Jerry French (6-0, 260, junior).

AT CENTER, Shawn Koteles (6-2, 170, junior), Dave Mroczka (6-1, 195, senior) and Ken Truesdell (6-1, 240, senior) are battling for the starting

"These guys have the ability to be very good," Khoenle said. "It's just a matter of them finding out exactly what they are supposed to be doing. Anchoring the defense, a traditional strength of the Canton team, will be senior linebacker Chris Rheault and senior tackle Marc Rinke.

"We expect our defense to pick up where it left off last year," Khoenle said. "Our major concern right now is offensive production. We have got to score some points."

Mike Gray, a junior, will do the place kicking, with Rod Baltes help- against Willow Run at 7:30 p.m.

ing out on kickoffs. Mroczka will handle the punting.

"Depth is a problem for us, too. We can't afford to get anyone hurt," Khoenle said

The Chiefs, who compete in the Western Division of the Western Lakes, will open at home Friday

WLAA's concern: Who'll stop Glenn?

The following are pre-season sketches of the remaining Western Lakes football teams.

FARMINGTON HARRISON

· Coach: John Herrington, 25th season Last year's record: 7-2, Western Division champs.

Notable losses to graduation: Brian Smolinski, Mike Mack, Ed Haetner, Jim
Haetner, John Leone, Rod Sarcevich, Don
Swinney, Todd Marshke, Sean Norton, Frank Orsini, Dan Tadra.

Orsmi, Dan Tadra.

Leading returnees: Scott Bissell, senior back; Mark Murray, senior quarterback; Gary Schwedt, senior end; Rick Witte, junior back; Mark and John Bonasso, senior and junior.

 Strengths: Defense. Coaching staff.

Scott Bissell.

Weaknesses: Inexperience at virtually all positions. Uncharacteristic lack of depth.

'86 outlook: There are no stars on this team and that's very unusual for a Harrison team. But, don't look for a losing season. Will challenge for Western Division title again.

· Coach: Jim O'Leary, fourth year

. Last year's record: 4-5. Notable losses to graduation: Mike Rudin, Marc Brown, Corky D'Ascenzo, Christman, Steve Goss, Pat Gallina, Steve Christman, Steve Goss, Par Gaimia, Steve Brown, Derek Cribley, Wes Pringle.

Leading returnees: Brian Schierloh, senior lineman; Matt Garver, senior lineman; Chad Henry, senior end-kicker; Gerry Haight, senior quarterback; Scott Selzer, senior back;

Brad Demeter, senior back.

Promising newcomers: Rick Karcher, senior tight end; Ryan Meador, junior end;

Man Suchecki, junior back. Strengths: Scott Selzer, one of the pre-mier backs in the state. Experienced offensive line. Excellent coaching staff.
 Weaknesses: Defense is very inexperinced. Quarterback could also be a problem.

86 outlook: Not as much individual talent as last year, but probably a better teal

Could challenge Glenn in the Lakes Division FARMINGTON

Coach: Dave Catherman, first year.

 Last year's record: 4-5.
 Notable losses to graduation: Craig etersmark, Joe Bob Wenson, Jim Laird, Dan

tackle; Eric Green, senior back.

Promising newcomers: Dave Kettler senior lineman; Steve Howell, senior end; Paul senior quarterback. · Strengths: Big, physical and agile lineman. Speedy backfield.

· Weaknesses: Inexperience at key skill tic and positive influence on this team. Also will open up the offense. Farmington should win five or six games this season.

LIVONIA CHURCHILL

· Coach: Herb Osterland, third season

Last year's record: 6-3.
 Notable losses to graduation: Joe Payne, Andy Oliver.

Payne, Andy Oliver.

• Leading returnees: Jim Naif, senior full-back-linebacker; John Knittel, senior end, Keith McGorisk, senior back; Doug Stark, senior linebacker; Matt Rons, senior tackle;

11 other returning lettermen.

· Strengths: Defense, team quickness, team depth, Jim Naif.

• Weaknesses: Inexperienced quarter-

* '86 outlook: Look for Churchill to be better tharriast year. Osterland plans to use the option attack more consistently and he has a talented backfield to do it. Strong con-

nders in Western Division LIVONIA FRANKLIN

· Coach: Armand Vigna, 12th season.

Last year's record: 4-5.
 Notable losses to graduation: Bob Solnikowski, Dave Drabicki.

Leading returnees: Chris Parenti, AllArea linebacker, Tim Brahmer, senior lineman, Jeff Kroll, senior lineman, Kevin Donaldson, senior lineman, Mark Kerpet, senior wide receiver, David Janes, senior end.

Promising newcomers: Mike Linenberg,
5-10, 230 transfer from Catholic Central.

Strengths: Might have the best defense in the rea. Bin quick and physical. nikowski, Dave Drabicki, in the area. Big, quick and physical.

• Weaknesses: May have the worst offense. Untried quarterback and halfbacks.

Tough, tough schedule. Tough, tough schedule.

*86 outlook: Very hard to say. The Patriots won't get blown away much with their detense. And if they get any offense at all, look

LIVONIA STEVENSON

· Last year's record: 5-4 Notable losses to graduation: Dave Ro-

· Leading returnees: Mike Nettie, junio lineman; Kevin Belyk. Johnson, senior end, Mark Durkee, senior full

enior quarterback; John Economou, senio

Strengths: Defense and Reardon. The man has won 120 football games.
 Weaknesses: Complete inexperience.

Only three players were full-time starters last • '86 outlook: Those close to the Spartans feel this team is greatly improved. But playing in the rugged Lakes Division could take its toll on the Spartans. Look for another near- 500 season.

Coach: Chuck Gordon, 10th year.
 'ast year's record: 10-1, Western · Notable losses to graduation: Tony Boles, Steve Inwin, Rick McCurdy, Don Croft, Chuck Hammontree, Paul Pomorski.

Leading returnees: Tony Svaluto, kick-

Paul Beasley, tailback, Doug Strehl, tack-Mike Hammontree, wide receiver-running Promising newcomers: Steve Hawley quarterback; Jeff Graham, end; Harold Lo-velace, end; Ryan Robertson; Greg Bates.

Strengths: Solid in the skill positions.

Strengths: Solid in the skill positions, good overall size and underclassmen have won at the junior high and JV levels.
 Weaknesses: Only four starters return from a state playoff qualifier. Several inexperience nced players must come through.

 *86 outlook: There are several question marks, but it appears Glenn has the talent to defend its Western Lakes title. The Rockets' overall size this season is imposing.

OTHERS: Look for both Walled Lake OTHERS: Look for both Walled Lake teams to be greatly improved. Walled Lake central, coached by John Van Sicklen, has been notorious in the Lakes Division for its bruising style of play. As always, the Vikings will be a bit team. will be a big team.

will be a big team.

Chuck Apap's Walled Lake Western team returns one of the league's more elusive backs in Mike Hall. Western has improved steadily under Apap and could be a force in he Western Division this season.

Northville has a new coach. Dennis Colligan is now the AD at Northville and Darryl Schumacher is in. Northville lost quite a bit to graduation. Returning, however, is potential all-stater Tony Briningstool, a 6-5, 200-pound lineman who runs the 40-yard dash in 4.71

CC not lacking in talent

They're all gone Eleven Redford Catholic Central football players earned college scholarships last year. Those 11 were also instrumental in CC's Catholic League title conquest and a berth in the state Class A playoffs.

But don't shed any tears for CC coach Tom Mach and his Shamrocks, who appear to have the necessary reinforcements to enjoy another good season.

The only thing standing in the way is the schedule, which includes the always murderous five-game Central Division card along with such non-league foes as 1984 Class A champion Ann Arbor Pioneer. The Shamrocks open the season

Saturday night at the Pontiac Silverdome against Flint Northwestern with a number of questions to be answered. Can CC's defense be as good?

Are the Shamrocks big enough to slug it out in the Central? "WE'RE PRETTY much a senior team," said Mach, now in his 11th season. "The thing these seniors don't have is the two-year experi-Henny Youngman, "King of the One Liners" opened for Lou Rawls on Aug. 29 at the Meadow Brook Music Festival. Within minutes, Youngman had the crowd weeping with laughter. After 60 years in show biz, his fast, wonderful timing hasn't left him.

He still can't play the violin, but it's the perfect prop for a comedian who specializes in question and answer jokes that deal with the absurdities of modern life. Sudden forays into "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" and bits from "Fiddler on the Roof" gave the crowd time to laugh and shift gears as Youngman switched topics.

He began with: "A bomb fell on Hamtramck. It did a million dollars worth of improvement." And, Why does the new Italian navy have glass-bottomed boats? To see the old Italian navy."

He managed to say something about every ethnic group in the U.S. without leaving uncomfortable feelings in the air. On the contrary, jokes that should've fallen flat received rousing responses.

EXAMPLES: "My wife has a black belt in shopping. She lives in Bloomingdale's. I visit twice a

And, "What's the latest dope on Wall Street ? My son."

Youngman's delivery had the crowd clapping and shouting, "I can't believe this. Funny, clean jokes." Talent is always a pleasure to witness.

Lou Rawls, the star of the evening, is also a very gifted guy. He has a powerful bass and enormous stage presence. I wish he had picked better material. With the exception of "Tobacco Road," "Lady Love," some clever rap - a bit of rhymed patter used as a prelude to the poignant "Love is a Hurtin' Thing" and a medly of classics toward the end of the show, Rawls sang lyrics that sounded like homilies from advice columns. "You've Only Got One Life to Live" and lines like "The sun'll come up in the morning," came across like greeting card verses.

I also wish Rawls had made a short statement on behalf of Anheuser-Busch's program for educating underpriveleged kids instead of singing a couple of long renditions of the Budweiser jingle in the middle of the program. It's not fair to subject paying patrons to beer commercials during shows, no matter how good the cause.

It was a mixed bag of a concert and this reviewer hopes the enormously talented Rawls puts his velvet voice into better music in the future. No singer can please everyone and I had the feeling all night long that Rawls was groping to find out who his audience was and whether he should be singing top 40 radio tunes or classics.

Kudos to Joe Mele, conductor and Rawls' 15-man band - accomplished musicians all.

Quiltmaking, usually regarded as a hobby, is a full-time profes-sion for Beaver Island artists, Joe Cunningham and Gwen Marston.

Thirteen of their completely handmade quilts will be the "now" half of the "Then and Now" show which opens at Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association with a preview party Sept. 12 and continues through Oct. 11. These will be paired with 13 outstanding, traditional quilts belonging to wellknown Michigan collector, Mary Silber said she has known Marston and Cunningham since they came to see the exhibition quilts in her 1981 show at Somerset Mall of Troy. Since then they have given programs and exhibited their work at her other shows and the three collaborate on the three-day Beaver Island Quilt Retreat, now in its third year.

IT WAS SILBER who invited what she calls "the hottest item on the block in the quilt world" to do contemporary interpretations of traditional quilts for the "Then and Now" show.

And while they are quilting in the second floor studio of their home in the woods and listening to music, they are also exchanging ideas on their art. Through these discussions, they have worked out the manuscripts for three books on quilting, two were sold to Dover Books and American Quiltmaker, a division of Schroeder Publishing bought the third. All three may possibly be on the stands by next pass the time on what might be regarded by less dedicated quilters as tedious stitching. Marston said they are seldom bored because their studio is full of quilts on frames in various stages of completion and they can always change pace right in the studio.

He added. "If we get bored, just work faster. We can quilt at an unbelievable speed — and don't forget, there are two of us."

That unbelievable speed translates to a quilt a month, start to finish, but not 12 quilts a year because they are away giving lectures several months a year.

"A month to do a quilt is kind of startling to a lot of quiltmakers, Marston said, "but, remember, we are full time, we don't go out to work somewhere else and come home and work on quilts."

And does Cunningham, once a part of an exciting world of recording and performing before live audiences ever want to turn back? "No," he said, "I love it, but I don't know why I should so much. Maybe it's the parallels I see with and + I don't know how to say it - but it seems to come so natural to me.

Marston and Cunningham will conduct tours of the show at 1 p.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday ($2 per person) and he will play the guitar at the preview and introduce a song he composed for the occasion.

Silber will conduct show tours 1 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Saturday during the last two weeks of the show, Sept. 29, Oct. 1,4, 6,8,11.

Rauhauser, who has taught in the photography department at Center for Creative Studies - College of Art nd Design for 16 years, said, "The objects to me seem to define our society - from egg beater to automobile - about half way between a Sears Roebuch catalog and an archeological dig. They are symbolic of whole areas — a bag, for instance, the way we buy everything - all packed up.

Calling the series an "example of straight photography," Raunhauser said, "I try to keep the lighting as simple as possible, otherwise it gets too commercial looking."

He said he works with a 4-by-5 format camera using "very simple umbrella lighting, " adding, "They're straight prints, no darkroom manipulation. The most difficult part of the whole job is finding objects that will work — as far as being exciting photographs."

A THIMBLE is one of the few exceptions to the straight, flat lighting, rule. There is a level of excitment and drama in this one, but without it, the subject would have died in the darkroom and the beauty of the finely dimpled surface would have been

Strangely, some of the items that should, in theory, have worked for this series, didn't. And Rauhauser can't really define why. He still can't figure out why the movie projector didn't work, it should have. "It's a great shape - form following function, but I just didn't like it."

And yet, an old, rubber boot which he found on the street and carried home, worked beautifully.

Overview

Some changes mark festival

HERE WILL be some changes in this year's Plymouth Community Fall Festival.

First of all, there will be a new-car auto show on Forest between Ann Arbor Trail and Wing. The second change is that there will be only three beverage booths throughout the festival area — two booths will be on Main and a third will be in the new-car show

Following is a summary of activities and/or booths by various organizations participating in this year's Fall

• CEP NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society will be selling a popular dessert item - Italian Ice. They will be selling various flavors of Italian Ice for $1 each day of the festival.

The National Honor Society at Centennial Educational Park provides services to the students of both high schools through tutoring services and service programs.

This group has assisted the community by gathering food at Thanksgiving and Christmas as well as helping the Knights of Columbus and Lions Club with their fund-raisers. They also have raised funds for the school libraries, Ethiopian relief and Amnesty International. This group heads up the Red Cross blood drive at the CEP. The proceeds from the Fall Festival will be used to provide gold cords for graduating seniors and provide scholarships to members to assist in furthering their education.

• THREE CITIES ARTS CLUB

The Gathering is quiet now — but not for long.

'Gathering' has action covered

NDER THE "Gathering" will be the place for all the big action during the Plymouth Community Fall Festival Sept. 4-7. The Gathering, in downtown Plymouth across from Kellogg Park, will host all of the "main meals" and the new Thursday night event.

This year, the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club will be hosting Thursday night Bingo. (Contact Mary Brooks, 453-3840.) This will be the first year for the event.

"We hope that this will be a very positive experience for the festival" said James Vermeulen, festival board president. "The board wanted to try some new ideas this year and the BPW came forward to take on the Thursday Bingo."

All types of bingo games will be played on Thursday night.

FRIDAY NIGHT will offer the Plymouth Lions Club Fish Fry. This annual event will feature dinner of fish, fries and cold slaw under the Gathering. (Contact Mike Pollard at 453-4044.) Proceeds help the Lions Club with their work with the blind. Saturday is the big double event day. The morning will feature the Kiwanis Pancake Breakfast 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. The breakfast will feature freshfrom-griddle-to-your-plate hot cakes and sausage with milk or coffee. (Contact Jim Vermeulen at 459-2250.)

Saturday night will feature the Plymouth Jaycees and their spaghetti dinner. (Contact Chuck Lowe Jr. 453-3737.) This is a popular Saturday night event for the folks who come to the park to enjoy the free entertain-

Sunday is known as Chicken Sunday. That's the day the Plymouth Rotary Club will serve 11,000 chicken dinners between noon and 6 p.m. The meal includes one half of a chicken, an ear of corn, roll and beverage. (Contact Mike Ball 455-8868.)

The Plymouth Rotary started the fall festival in the fall of 1956. Thirty years later, this event has grown to a four-day festival of community spirit.
