And by the terms of a tentative agreement, recreation departments for the city of Plymouth and Canton Township will provide leagues and referees for the center, with center staff to maintain the playing area.

THE PLYMOUTH City Commission approved an amended version of that agreement at its Monday meeting. Canton Township trustees also must approve the agreement for

"It's a very fast-growing sport," said Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper in support of the agreement. There are 2,100-2,500 soccer players in our city alone."

Plymouth City Attorney Ron Lowe said softball center management would assume the majority of insurance liability pertaining to soccer operations, adding the city would as-

According to Canton's Department of Community and Economic Development, there are two competing domes in Oakland County, none in Wayne County. The Canton dome would house a full-size soccer court and a mini court for pee-wees, and would be disassembled each spring

Jack Kurtz did drugs

Now the Canton resident is selling a "positive approach" to promoting drug and alcohol awareness in the workplace. "My rehabilitation was to put this together. I decided to utilize my marketing talents in an innovative way and for a good cause." Beginning next week, the 29-yearold, who once used drugs recreationally "but not at work," will begin selling a "Because We Care" package - containing posters, brochures and a list of rehabilitation centers to businesses with more than 10 employees in the Detroit area and, soon after, nationally.

A series of 25 toon characters in every stage of drug abuse from the time the person considers using drugs to finally trying to get help.

"People can laugh at them at first but then they might see a bit of themselves in the different characpeople

THE POSTERS are to be hung for three months, two each week, in a place where employees would easily see them.

The goal, Kurtz said, is to tell employees not to be afraid to ask management for help.

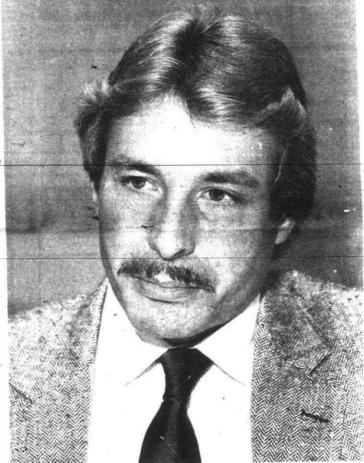

This is not necessarily a solution in battling or curbing drug abuse in a cate employees and make them aware of alternative actions," said Kurtz, president of Promark, a Southfield-based company.

The blond-haired, blue-ey ern Michigan graduate admits "Because We Care" is only one of many programs out in a recent "national crusade" against drug abuse.

But the difference is that the package promotes a positive approach by

THE CANTON Health Center has serving Canton, Plymouth and neighboring communities since its opening in 1981.

A variety of services are offered including private physician care, 24hour emergency services, and roundthe-clock staffing. Full-service laboratory and X-ray departments are available 24 hours a day.

Center programs are integrated with the extensive resources of Oakwood Hospital, Dearborn, a leading teaching institution. Those resources include almost 500 physicians who are on Oakwood's medical staff representing a wide variety of specialties and subspecialties.

The center provides many services, including: family practice, which gives residents an opportunity to select a personal physician for abetes and prenatal care.

Kroeger substitute taught for two years before landing a full-time job at CEP where he's taught for 12

"I try to interest them in it as much as I can so . . . it's just not names and dates," he said of his approach. "I try to show them how an average day was for some people here's how they ate, here's how they cooked it. I try to relate then to to-day to show them the similarities and differences."

IN KEEPING with his philosophy of simplicity and self-reliance, Kroeger believes that students could do well to learn a little more about responsibility.

I try to tell 'em, 'You're 16 years old. Two years from now you'll be out on your own. It's time to start pulling yourself together.

"I think they've got to be shown or given more responsibility and let the chips fall where they may," he said. "In my opinion, discipline is a positive, not a negative."

Kroeger said he doesn't really know what prompted him to become a volunteer firefighter. He remembers being impressed by the number of firefighters in St. Louis who turned out for the funeral of an uncle, a firefighter.

"I was riding through town (Plymouth), and I found out they were part volunteer. I saw an engine out. I went down. You've got to have a lit-

Ironically, the fire department figured in Kroeger's decision to run for the City Commission last year, his first bid for public office. He said he was unhappy with personnel cutbacks in the fire and police departments and the brouhaha over private ambulance service getting involved in rescue runs.

"ANYBODY can bitch all their life. You have to have somebody say, 'Now I'm going to do something about it.' If all the colonists did was Kroeger finished fifth in a race with four seats up for grabs. His taste for local politics soured when he wasn't appointed to fill a vacancy that arose shortly after the election.

"I always had a dim view of politics. It got dimmer.'

Still, Kroeger is happy as long as he can use his hands building something, or working the land, teaching, responding to an occasional fire alarm and pursuing that dream home up north.

Source: Highway Loss Data Institute. Body Styles: SW=Station Wagon; SS=Sport Specialty; 2D=Coupe; 4D=Sedan. Excludes Passenger Vans. All results are stated in relative frequency of injury claims. A relative injury claim frequency of 100 is average. Relative frequencies of less than 70 are defined by HLDI as "Substantially Better than Average." Some vehicles had overall claim frequencies of 63 or less, but did not meet other IIHS criteria for having the "best injury loss experience." *1984-85 models only.

The Highway Loss Data Institute (HLDI) is a non-profit public service organization associated with the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. As it has done annually for the past ten years, HLDI has summarized and published its findings on the frequency of automotive insurance claims.

This year, HLDI finds that of the top nine models with "the best" overall injury claim experience, seven are General Motors cars.

We are pleased that GM cars are rated best again, as they have been each and every model year since 1977. We believe this continued excellence reflects not only our cars-their quality, size, weight, and design-but also how and where they are driven.

In the past thirty years, GM's commitment to safety has added features throughout our cars. On the outside, we've added lights and improved mirrors for better visibility. We've strengthened the roof and the doors against impacts. Designed the hood and the front end to crush in a controlled manner. Improved the crashworthiness of the fuel system.

Added a back-up hydraulic system for the brakes, and introduced front disc brakes.

In the passenger compartment, GM has installed energy absorbing instrument panels, steering columns, and seat backs. We've lessened the risk of injury from the door locks, glove box latch, rear view mirror, and the windshield. We've increased the strength of the seats with improved anchorages. We've made safety belts standard equipment. And we're introducing passive front safety belts and lap/shoulder rear safety belts on some GM models, beginning in 1987.

The HLDI results show that our cars and our customers go well together. We trust that the closeness of this relationship will continue in the years ahead. We are doing our part at GM to see that it does, encouraging every employe to contribute to the effort.

That's the GM commitment to quality. And to our customers.

Judicial candidates need experience, Faust-says

Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, is planning to introduce an amendment to the state constitution that would require judicial candidates to have at least six years of experience in Faust said candidates for judicial osts should have "maturity" in the law and experience in its practice.

"We're finding that more and

HE EXPECTS to introduce it when the state Legislature recon-

Kiwanians replacing flags in elementary classrooms

"I guess it all began when I realized my own daughter didn't have a flag in her classroom for pledging allegiance in the morning," said Gary Gaylord, in explaining the start of a project to provide flags to elementary schools in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The absence of a flag in his daughfer's classroom led Gaylord, a teacher at John Glenn High School in Westland and a member of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club, to become involved in a project of providing 2by-3-foot nylon flags in all elementary classrooms of Plymouth-Canton school districts.

The flags, available with holders, are being put in classrooms where there are no flags or in classrooms where flags are in poor condition.

The first step in getting the flags came when Gaylord, who chairs the youth services committee, talked with fellow Kiwanian and Eriksson Elementary School principal Ron South. South volunteered to do a survey of the elementary schools to determine the number of flags needclude a flag in every middle school and high school classroom as well. "I felt the flags would provide a recognition of the need for allegiance and love of our country. We should permit our young people to have a chance to express themselves in a Echoing that sentiment, South explained: "We have a class come to the main office area every morning to say the pledge of allegiance over the public address system. That way students in every classroom can pledge allegiance to the flag and start the day out in both a positive and patriotic way."

Gaylord adds: "This is only one of the needs the Plymouth Kiwanis Club seeks to fulfill. We have a number of ways of supporting young peo-- such items as the Boys and Girls State scholarships, the Isbister Scholarship, and the State Troopers Leadership Camp. Teen workers elude business owners

By Carolyn Smith special writer

Julie Hardesty, owner of a conven ience store in Farmington Hills, shares a business problem with Robert Schaner, a service station owner in Birmingham.

Neither can find qualified teens and college students willing to work

A drive anywhere in Wayne and Oakland counties will find bold 'Help Wanted" signs posted in windows of fast-food and conventional restaurants, retail stores and service businesses ranging from dry cleaners to car washes.

Local newspaper ads show a large number of restaurant employers willing to pay more than the mini-mum wage of $3.35 an hour. McDonald's estáblishments in Farmington Hills and Novi offer $4 per hour and flexible hours. So does the Burger King in Farmington. The Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth has asked homemakers - "no experience necessary" - to apply for jobs as banquet waitresses.

Some jobs may go begging, but it's not a problem unique to this area. Part of it results from a national decline in available 16- to 19-year-olds.

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reports a 37-percent drop in the teen work force between 1971 and 1985. That's because births averaged 3.6 million a year between 1967 and 1970. The baby boom hit a peak of 4.2 million in 1960, then continued a course of steady decline.

IN THE LAST decade, the number of 16- to 19-year-olds has dwindled from 9.4 to 6.8 percent of the population. That doesn't include the increasing number of high school dropouts, but it does count high school graduates having problems with basic reading, writing and mathemat-

"I've tried everything. I've put up signs in the window and notices in churches and done word-of-mouth advertising. I've attempted to work with Boys Republic (a home for boys 12-17 who are wards of the state) but only got a couple of responses. I don't know what more I can do.'

Neither does Schaner, owner of the Tel-Maple Car Care at 15 Mile and Telegraph.

"I know that only a sluggish economy will bring back the workers. But that's when business will be down, when we won't need our 35 to 40 part-time workers.

SCHANER SAID he has advertised widely and tried to deal with people at the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College, Law-rence Institute of Technology and area high schools.

He thinks the lack of applicants is rooted in Oakland County's relative affluence, which "encourages youth to seek higher-paying positions." Schaner also believes there are many service-type jobs with starting wages higher than his.

"Business is good right now but we still can't afford to start people at more than $4 an hour here."

Brian Bowman, store manager of Stan's Market on Ann Arbor Road — one of three in Livonia — believes competitively low wages pose a big problem in attracting young work-

The (Stan's Market) owners aren't paying enough," he said. "Employees under 18 start at $3.40 an hour; those 18 or older or with experience earn $3.85.

"Really, I've been lucky here. They're having bigger problems at the other two stores." Bowman said.

BUT THE PICTURE isn't bleak for all employers with low starting wages, thanks to incentives. The Gap, a retail clothing store in Westland, employs mainly high school seniors and college students, said Karen Kull, the store's assistant

"It's a fun place to work," she said. "Our only problem has been keeping staff people during slow sales periods. Usually, they work 24 to 30 hours a week. We're slow now until Thanksgiving so several people are working only 10 hours a week. We also have trouble getting dayshift people."

The store pays minimum wage to start with salary increases after three months and each year of service. Commissions are not paid but in-store incentives are offered.

Little Caesar's pizza stations and restaurants apparently have few problems attracting teens. "Our turnover is lower than the industry average," said Sue Sherbow, assistant director of corporate communications. The company is headquartered in Farmington Hills.

Sherbow credits the company's attractiveness to possible "word of mouth" among teens, plus an offer to climb the corporate ladder at one's own speed.

'It's up to employees to learn set procedures of the business. When they do that, they qualify for raises and promotions based on performance," she said. "Workers watch others getting promoted and that's a

AN INCEASING older population is taking up some of the slack resulting from fewer teens. "Senior citizens have such a different outlook than kids today who want to make instant big bucks. They (older workers) have a determination and sense of honesty about life and the value of a dollar. I would welcome them:"1-vehicles can receive free help from the state to increase their fleets' efficiency and reduce operating costs.

The Fleet Efficiency Program, operated through the Energy Administration, Michigan Department of Commerce, is funded by overcharge fines collected from oil companies. The program was first offered to municipalities and has been expanded to small businesses statewide.

According to Loyal Huffman of Southfield, fleet analyst, specialists look at a company's purchasing, records, preventive maintenance and trip routing procedures before making recommendations.

We're there to find ways to save money and make their operations more efficient. We've saved considerable amounts of money for municipalities," Huffman said. Each of the four areas has a potential for savings.

"A lot of it is record keeping," Huffman said. "A lot of companies have automated their records but many computer programs are outdated at this point. We have a specialist who has developed a template for the Lotus 1-2-3 program that makes recordkeeping much easier."

With the rising cost of cars and trucks, some business owners have turned to leasing vehicles. But leasing options have complicated the de-

"Small businesses are not maintaining their vehicles economically,' Huffman said. "They don't do anything until the vehicle quits and this is costing them money.'

YOU CAN NOT ESCAPE THE EFFECT OF V.S.

V.S. stands for Vertebral Subluxation and V.S. kills more people than anything else in the world. Almost every disease starts with a V.S. which, if untreated, ends in death.

THIS IS WHAT V.S. IS;

The human spine has 24 movable bones called vertebrae. They are stacked on top of one another and collectively are called the spinal column. A vertebral subluxation is one or more of those vertebrae out of their normal position. Bumps, falls, lifting, pushing, slipping and auto accidents are just a few of the ways they get out of their

THIS IS WHAT V.S. DOES;

Through the center of each vertebra runs the spinal cord. It is made of literally millions of nerve fibers running from the brain down to the spine and then exiting between the verterbrae. From there the nerves disperse into all tissues, organs and cells of the body. When a vertebra is subluxated, it distorts the opening where the nerves leave the cord. That distortion causes pressure on the nerves. This blocks and alters brain impulses into the tissue, organs and cells.

THIS IS WHAT V.S. CAUSES;

When tissues, organs or cells are deprived of brain impulses, they slowly begin to function abnormally. This leads to disfunction and disfunction is always the forerunner of disease, sickness, weakness and hundreds of symptoms. Symptoms such as: Allergies, Bronchitis, Gall Bladder Disorders, High Blood Pressure, Kidney Disorders. Liver Disorders, Menstrual Disorders, Sinusitis, Stomach Disorders.

THIS IS WHAT CAN BE DONE ABOUT V.S.;

Actually there are three choices, one - do nothing, letting the condition get worse until you succumb; two - take drugs which alleviate the pain, stimulate or depress the symptoms, but bring no real healing, or three - remove the original cause in this process of disease and sickness, that being the vertebral subluxation. They are removed in many ways, sometimes by bed rest, sometimes by changing work habits but mostly by chiropratic spinal adjustment. If you're still sick and full of symptoms, you need a spinal examination to see if you're subluxated and if you are, maybe you should have it corrected. Spinal adjustments aren't traumatic. We give them to children. There are many ways to adjust spines. See the pictures below.

THERE IS NO ESCAPING THE EFFECT OF A VERTEBRAL SUBLUXATION. THERE IS HOWEVER, THE OPPORTUNITY TO HAVE THE SUBLUXATION REMOVED. THE OPPORTUNITY IS NOW YOURS. YOU MAY WANT TO CALL 459-0200.

Fruits, vegetables, and wholegrain cereals such as oatmeal, bran and wheat may help lower the risk of colorectal cancer.

Foods high in fats, salt- or nitrite-cured foods like ham, and types of sausages smoked by traditional methods should be eaten in moderation.

Be moderate in consumption of alcohol also.

A good rule of thumb is cut down on fat and don't be fat. Weight reduction may lower cancer risk. Our 12- year study of nearly a million Americans uncovered high cancer risks particularly among people 40% or more overweight.

Now, more than ever, we know you can cook up your own defense against cancer. So eat healthy and be healthy.

No one faces cancer alone.

Just like I pictured it, area playoff hopes dim

OT MANY people in as pre- preseason. carious position as my own would submit to this.

Making preseason predictions is fun. Owning up to them well, that's something else again.

People like my making predictions. They like it for two reasons: because I display remarkable insight in selecting a team of their liking to do extremely well, or because I display remarkable stupidity in overlooking a team of their liking.

So you see, no one is disappointed. Either they bask in the glory of the written word, or they wallow in vengeful pleasure, gleefully letting me climb further out on that narrow limb of prognostication, waiting for their chance to snap it behind me.

Yes, people like predictions, for an argument's sake if nothing else. And besides, two weeks after the season starts, who remembers? Who cares? I'll tell vou who. I remember. I

 well, sort of. "DON'T EXPECT many (football) teams in the O&E coverage area to be masquerading as playoff hopefuls That won't happen this season." Yes, I said it. And I'm man enough to admit it. I'm also dumb enough to reprint it. Five O&E teams made the playoffs in 1985. I predicted a much can reach deep into the crevices of smaller representation in '86 because all the big names were gone.

Was I wrong? Maybe. I'm still not no team appeared truly outstanding.

onvinced five O&E teams can quali
Well, last Friday Harrison convinced five O&E teams can qualify for post-season play. And yet, even though the football season's five weeks old, the playoff picture remains as muddled as it was in

Some of my predictions are looking good, anyway. I did say Farmington Harrison and Detroit Country Day were as close to sure bets as one could come. So far, the Hawks are 4-1 and DCDS is 5-0.

But I missed some, too. I didn't think John Glenn would be nearly as tough without speedster Tony Boles, but the Rockets are 4-1.

THEN THERE'S my lack of respect for the Troy football program, which is looking more and more solid under Jeff Keller's direction. No way did I figure the Colts to be undefeated after five games, not after losing several "franchise" players to graduation.

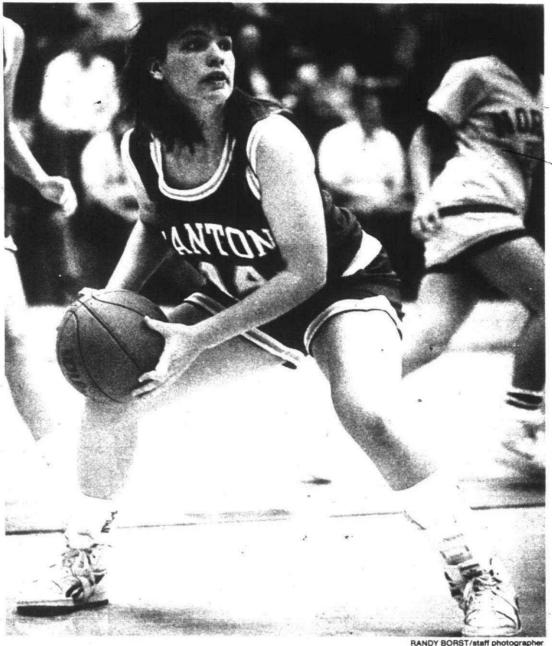

Auburn Hills Avondale also escaped my attention. Rhino coach Rick Brewer has guided his team to a 5-0 mark at the season's midpoint and has a couple of budding stars in Yusef Thomas and David Hedrick.

Perhaps the biggest surprise in Observerland is Redford Bishop Borgess. The Spartans shocked Redford Catholic Central and are 4-1 this season under new coach Dan Henry, who previously worked at John as the basketball coach.

OK, SO I missed a few. But, if you your memory - five weeks back, say - you'll remember that I said fall just in time to win its third straight Western Lakes girls basketball game Tuesday night, besting North Farmington 39-30.

"Our offense was getting to the good open shooting areas, but we couldn't get it to go down," said Can-ton coach Rob Neu, whose team trailed 22-21 entering the final quarter. "We continued to play hard and the shots finally starting going down in the fourth quarter."

Canton outscored the Raiders 18-8 in the final eight minutes.

"I think we kind of ran out of gas," said North coach Greg Capling. "And they started to hit a few shots that they weren't hitting earlier."

Karen Boluch paced the Chiefs with 12 points. Michelle Fortier, Heather Miller, Tory Barger and Penny Piggott chipped in with six points each

For North (2-5 in the Western Lakes, 3-7 overall), Suzi Butcher scored 12 points and grabbed eight rebounds. Freshman Jenny Basford added eight points.

The win leaves the Chiefs at 5-2 in the league, 6-4 overall.

SALEM 105, HARRISON 15: You have to go back a long time to find the last Observerland girls basketball team to top 100 points. No team has hit the magic number in the last 10 years, though several teams have reached 99

Jessica Handley led Plymouth Sa-lem Tuesday with 26 points. Dena Head scored 21, Kristen Hostynski 18 and Jill Estey 13.

Salem is 7-0 in the Western Lakes 9-1 overall.

For Harrison, poor Harrison, it was consecutive loss No. 70. The Hawks are 0-9 this season.

A war Soccer powers fight to draw

By Brad Emons staff writer

After 80 minutes of play, the issue apparently isn't settled.

It may take another week before we find out whether Livonia Churchill or Livonia Stevenson is the better boys soccer team.

A rematch is possible Saturday, Oct. 18, in the Northville District finals if the two teams get by their first two rounds in the state tournament.

Churchill certainly did little to harm its No. 1 state ranking after tying the Spartans Tuesday night, 1-1, before 1,000 fans at Stevenson's field.

And the Chargers are in the driver's seat to win the overall Western Lakes Soccer League crown. All they need is a victory or tie Friday at Plymouth Canton to win the title outright. Churchill, the Western Division champs, are 12-0-1 in league play for 25 points, while Stevenson, the Lakes Division winners, are 10-0-3 for 23.

But the tie also proved that a young Stevenson team is for real and could be a threat to repeat as state champions.

"STEVENSON IS A class outfit, well coached and they're always said Churchill coach John Neff. "I thought there would be more scoring. I thought we'd score more than one goal.

It appeared one goal was enough for Churchill when Torin Gniewek knocked in a shot with 13:12 left in the match on a mad scramble in front of the net after taking a throwin from Steve Galindo.

But with only 1:32 left in the match, Lars Richters was awarded a penalty kick after teammate Ray Barnas was fouled in the box by a Churchill defender.

Richters' goal ended the scoring, but more importantly enabled Stevenson to come out with a tie.

Stevenson had the best of things in the opening 15 minutes of play as the speedy Richters missed high a pair half, Churchill's frontline and midfield came to life, putting the pressure on the Spartans for nearly 20 minutes

The game also marked a contrast in styles.

Stevenson opted for long passes and tried to send the ball airborne as much as possible, while Churchill tried moving the ball on the ground.

"CHURCHILL is a solid No. 1." said Stevenson coach Pete Scerri. "They have experience, and we have a lot of young kids . . . a lot of sophomores. I want you to see them (sophomores) in two years. "We came here to win and I thought we played solid defense guys like (Kurt) Williford and (Bren-

Churchill is 13-0-1 overall, while Stevenson 13-0-3.

There will be no ties in the districts. All games will be decided in sudden death overtime, and if still deadlocked, the teams will resort to a shootout.

As far as the next confrontation, the two coaches, Neff and Scerri, probably won't alter strategy much.

"I think a game like this can only help our kids grow a little more, Scerri said.

Added Neff: "We want to play our own game. I don't think we'll change. We didn't change anything tonight."

be filling computers with data, trying to figure playoff possibilities from here on in - who's going to make it? Who will still be playing in November? I still like Harrison's chances, for basically the same reasons I gave back in September. The Hawks are a

THE PICTURE in Observerland is less optimistic. Despite Borgess' earsuccesses. I wouldn't bet on the Spartan's chances. The Catholic League's Central Division is full of pitfalls - one every weekend. On Oct. 25, they play Rice at Birmingham Groves. Again, a playoff ticket could go to the winner. John Glenn? Well, maybe. The Rockets have a good passing combination featuring Steve Hawley to Mike Hammontree and a great kicker in Tony Svaluto. Still just say the jury's still out. Same olds true for North Farmington (also 4-1), even with a sizzling Scott Selzer. Churchill? Don't count on it. Everyone else has at least two losses, virtually ending their hopes.

That leaves eight teams with legitimate playoff hopes. And with Troy playing Athens and the Catholic League and Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs still to come, that number is bound to be But I will creep a little futher out

20th century camping Loss grates on Houle

I remember the first time I went camping. I was about 6 at the time and living on the northwest side of Detroit. We went way up north to a place called Bald Mountain Recreation Area in a little town called Lake Orion. I've subsequently, moved from Detroit and now reside, ironically, in that same little town of Lake Orion. I realize now it' isn't all that far up north, but at the time it seemed like we were in the

Ocelot kickers perfect

The game that completed the first half of the Eastern Conference season for Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team delivered a message to the Ocelots: It won't get any easier

SC won Saturday, beating Cuyahoga Metro Community College 3-1 at Schoolcraft. The victory kept the Ocelots unbeaten in conference play (4-0) and raised their overall record But the win didn't come easily. SC trailed 1-0 at the half, despite peppering the CMCC net with 20 shots. For the game, the Ocelots outshot their opponents by a whopping 45-6 margin. It was kind of a tough game," said SC coach Van Dimitriou. "They came up with a tough goalie who made some great saves. The CMCC keeper, Mohammed Zriken, frustrated the Ocelots until the second half, when John Gelmisi (from Livonia Stevenson) was knocked down in the penalty area. Rick Hamers punched in the penalty kmck and the game was tied. SPLIT IN N.Y. The long-awaited trip for SC's women's soccer team to Rochester, N.Y. for a two-game tournament last

Coach Ed Dudek had eagerly awaited the trip. He saw it as a chance to evaluate his team against some of the best squads in the nation, a sort of NJCAA tournament If Saturday's contest was an indication of things to come, then the future isn't too bright for SC. Monroe CC shut out the Lady Ocelots 3-0. "They controlled us right from the start," said Dudek. "They have a lot of depth and they played the right side of the field extremely well," That wasn't anything new to Dudek. He had seen MCC do the same thing last year. But he opted not to make any adjustments for the tournament. "We didn't try anything special; we wanted to play them evenup," he said.

Dudek did make some adjustments for Sunday's game against Mercer CC, which, as host of the NJCAA tourney, is assured of an NJCAA berth. SC topped Mercer 3-1, scoring twice in the second half. "Our offense - that's what we're going to work on," Dudek said.
"That's what we worked on in the second game." Dudek moved Sheri Wolfe (Livonia Bentley) from sweeperback to center forward and put Denise Piwko at left wing. The move paid off in the second half, with Piwko scoring the eventual game-winner and Wolfe adding an insurance tally on a breakaway. Elizabeth Peters assisted on

The Lady Ocelots whipped Lake Superior State 15-7, 15-7, and followed that with a 15-8, 15-7 triumph over host Hillsdale. Combined with Tuesday's 15-2, 15-12, 15-10 win over Mott CC, SC is now unbeaten in 10-straight matches and 25-consecutive games. The Best-selling auther Joni Eareckson Tada will appear 2:30-4 p.m. Sat-urday at Waldenbooks in the Westland Shopping Center.

Joni has just written her third book, "Choices . . . Changes," published by Zondervan Publishing House. Her previous books are "Joni" and "A Step Together," which together have sold more than four million copies.

. Changes" recounts "Choices Joni's struggle with accepting her quadriplegia, her anxiety in establishing a national non-profit organization for the disabled and the limits her wheelchair placed on her ro-mance with Ken Tada — and still places on their marriage.

Joni was left paralyzed from her shoulders down during a diving accident in 1967. Today she is a critically acclaimed mouth artist, speaker, singer and advocate of rights for the disabled.

In teaching people how to relate to the disabled, Joni says, "Pity sees a need at arm's length. Compassion reaches out to touch. Pity never becomes more than a feeling. Compassion compels us to act.'

Businesses told to set smoke policy

Time is running out for Michigan's estimated 2.7 million smokers and many businesses which employ them. A state law that takes effect in 1987 says:

"Except as otherwise provided, a person shall not smoke in a public place or at a meeting of a public body, except in designated smoking

"Businesses are facing a dead-line," said Thomas K. Connellan, executive director of the National Center for Health Promotion in Ann Arbor.

They can use the upcoming months to formulate comprehensive smoking policies. Or they can wait and try to force through a hastily written policy that may be doomed to failure," Connellan said.

TO HELP businesses develop smoking policies, the National Center for Health Promotion is holding a full-day seminar this week in an Ann

Keynote speaker is Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, author of the law. Connelan said smoking decreases mental efficiency by as much as 23 percent. Smoking depresses mental activity and reflex response. Other points:

• 77 million workdays are lost each year in this country because smokers have higher rates of illness than non-smokers.

• The mortality rate for men ages 45-54 (typically the age of most managers and upper-level supervisors) is three times higher than among non-smokers in the same age group.

• Each smoking employee adds a total cost of $600 to $4,500 more to the annual payroll.

• The cost of litigation for one smoking-related employee suit far exceeds the cost of developing and implementing a well-thought-out corporate smoking policy.

MORE THAN 100,000 individuals from across the nation have graduated from the Center's Smoke Stoppers program with a success rate almost three times' greater than most other national programs, Connelan said.

Locally, Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit is a provider of the Smoke Stoppers program.

Jobless rates are dropping

Unemployment rates dropped in 11 of Michigan's 12 major labor market areas during August, according to Richard Simmons Jr., director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Only the Battle Creek area had an unemployment rate increase as its rate rose from 8.2 percent in July to 8.5 percent in August. Simmons attributed the increase to seasonal layoffs in the area's agricultural and food processing industries.

Simmons said MESC reported in early September that the statewide jobiess rate in August had fallen to 7.9 percent from 9.2 percent in July. The number of unemployed workers across the state dropped by 64,000 to $47,000 during the month. The new release breaks down the statewide numbers Most labor market areas reported seasonal hiring gains in their local service, retail trade and construction industries during August. In addition, young people who were un-successful in finding summer jobs began leaving most area labor phony — formed in 1930 and Michigan's oldest civic orchestra - will have its premiere performance at 8 p.m. Saturday in Southfield High School with a brilliant young Brazilian pianist as guest artist

She is Maria Meirelles playing Schumann's Piano Concerto in A mi-

Saturday's opening caps an illus-trious history for the orchestra that includes European and Scandinavian tours, command performances for royalty and many gracious evenings at Detroit's Masonic Temple

Now based in Southfield but encompassing surrounding communities, the symphony prides itself on maintaining an attention to excellence and musical standards still befitting royalty, while actively serv-ing the community.

CONCERTS FREE workshops, seminars, complimentary tickets for Detroit school childrea, and even a ballet workshop for Southfield dance students are among the numerous benefits this publicminded group has sponsored.

No longer an exclusively ethnic organization, the SSO has reached out to the general musical populace, although its concerts generally have at least one work by a Scandinavian

Their dynamic young conductor, Douglas Morrison, has played a large part in the ever-expanding influence and appeal of this venerable group. With precise baton technique, demanding musical standards and charismatic good looks, members of the organization feel he has burst upon the scene "like a minor hurricane," whipping the orchestra into shape, adding players and injecting vitality into the programming.

One recent memorable success was Morrison's move to perform the Verdi Requiem. Although no one expected a civic orchestra and two community choirs (Dearborn Choral Art Society and Schoolcraft Choir) to be able to pull off this ambitious venture, it was regarded as an unqualified triumph. One Southfield critic favorably compared the per-formance with the massive DSO-Kenneth Jewell production.

In addition to radio and television performances, she has been a featured soloist with most southeast Michigan orchestras, including the DSO. She has committed all 32 Beethoven Piano Sonatas to memory and has performed the cycle in recit-al series in Ann Arbor, Mexico City, at Detroit's Orchestra Hall and at Carnegie Hall.

Meirelles will play the Schumann concerto, which was originally writ-ten for Clara Wieck, Schumann's wife and a brilliant pianist. The work is delightful in its romanti-

ALSO ON THE program is Stravinsky's well-known Firebird Suite. His first ballet, it was commissioned by the great impresario Diaghilev and became a huge success upon its debut at the Paris Opera in 1910.

An additional treat for the audience will be Wagner's prelude to the operetta "Die Meistersinger." This work is filled with the echoes of German folk tunes, chorales, lute songs, fugues and lewd street ditties.

Tickets for the Saturday night performance are $7 for adults and $5 ists: Eugene Drucker of the Emerson for students and seniors. They will be available at the door. Southfield High School is on Lahser at 10 Mile

Luxurious living

Leave life's petty details behind

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

Some people yearn for their lawn to mow, garden to tend, aging furnace, erratic sump pump and peeling paint.

At the opposite end of the spectrum are those who want worryfree luxury, convenience and service. For a price, that's all available at the Claymore, snuggled in a picturesque corner of Southfield's Silver Triangle.

To keep the 12-year-old, sixstory apartment building in tune with the times, owners Harry and Gary Shapiro, father and son, and Mickey Shapiro, no relation, have just spent more that $500,000 to sharpen the image of what was, all along, an attractive structure. What that adds up to is improvements in landscaping, interior de-

WOMAN working alone in her basement with a hot-glue gun and a sharp florist's knife isn't the picture that to mind when one thinks about a broadcaster's spouse.

But Sandra Sells gladly eschews a flashy manicure and a glamorous image to experiment with gluing brown bean pods and nut shells on the wreaths she designs.

Out of such experimentation come wreaths and flower arrangements that combine traditional style with unconventional materials. Amid the eyepopping modernity of the houses in Homearama '87, her designs remain simple and traditional.

"What makes a good arrangement is what makes a good piece of art, you like it," she said. Her work is on view in Pinewood Homes' Homearama model. The contemporary home is among 12 models packed with design and decorating ideas.

As wife of local television newscaster George Sells, she's grown accustomed to a business in which frequent moves are the norm. Their 16year-old son, George Sells IV, has attended 10 schools.

But it's a personal disadvantage that's become a professional advantage. Her wreaths can be decorated with large pine cones from Texas or smaller ones from Michigan. She adds shellac to highlight the arrangement's various textures. Her business, Seasons, which she operates from her Bloomfield Hills home, began several years ago in Houston. When the family moved to Denver, she was forced to start all over again. Unfazed, she's stopped and started business through several moves. It helps pass the time during the evenings while her newscasterhusband is working. "It keeps me off the streets," she said jokingly.

She was looking for an activity to keep her interest and engage her abilities when she joined her first garden club in Scarsdale, N. Y. "I was the youngest member by 30-40 years," she smiled.

The group was involved in formal flower arranging, entering competitions in which the way an arrange-

"I really enjoy doing it. It's lots of fun," she said. She enjoys the response her work evokes from clients. Especially the look in their eyes when they see it.'

Funeral preplanning: Is it right for everyone?

By Ramona Grigg special writer

ONE WANTS to think about death, yet there is one inescapable truth: It will happen to everyone. But the idea of planning one's funeral while the subject is still alive seems, well, morbid.

We make wills and buy life insurance (actually death insurance), but our attitude seems to be "just in case" There's a certain finality to making funeral arrangements.

But nowadays funeral preplanning is being touted as the sensible, even loving, thing to do. And the advantages are real: If you plan your own funeral, you can be assured of having it your way. If you assist in planning a loved one's funeral, the confusion during a highly emotional time when the death finally does occur is eased. You can even prepay in advance at a fixed rate and the costs will never rise.

Most funeral homes and cemeteries provide some sort of preplanning assistance, but, as enticing as the prospect may be, there can still be built-in problems.

"FOR SOME PEOPLE, too much preplanning can be all wrong," said Patrick E. Lynch of Lynch and Sons Funeral Homes. "Seeking out information ahead of time is always the smart '. . . funeral directors need to educate people that the whole funeral process is for the living — for the survivors.'

- Patrick Lynch funeral director thing for any consumer to do, but funeral directors need to educate people that the whole funeral process is for the living — for the survivors. If they're locked into burial preparations that are too costly or too restricting or that go completely against their beliefs, there could be more problems than if no preparations were made at all."

Lynch cites, as an example, cremation vs. burial. "Cremation to some people is practically a sin, yet if a spouse insists, the survivor who might not believe in it is left wrestling with his or her conscience."

He suggests that preplanning should be as flexible as possible. It's a good idea, if you feel strongly about it, to write down what you might want at your funeral, and where you want to be buried, but leave it open-ended, Lynch said. "Ive told my own wife, 'This is what I think I'd like, but when the time comes you do what you think is best, with my blessing.' I've expressed my wishes, but at the same time it doesn't lock her into doing something that, at a time of intense

emotional trauma, she simply cannot

 Talk frankly with family members about burial arrangements before visiting a funeral counselor and take their feelings and needs into consideration. Remember that the funeral is for the living, not the dead.

• Visit several funeral homes to look over the facilities, services and merchandise (caskets, vaults, etc.). Talk with the staff. Are they people you and your family would be comfortable with? Do you trust them?

• Ask for an itemized price list. Funeral homes are required by the Federal Trade Commission to provide you with one. Most itemize both services and merchandise so that you can gauge the price of a funeral within a few dollars. If you cannot visit, the same law requires them to quote prices over the telephone.

When buying cemetery plots, consider changing family needs. Families move, spouses divorce and remarry, children marry and have families of their own. Be realistic about burial needs, especially when purchasing lots years in advance.

● Though shopping for funeral services is advisable at any time, funeral preplanning far in advance of old age or impending death is impractical, Lynch said. "I liken early preplanning to an 18-year-old saying, 'Someday I'm going to get married, so I think I'll get busy and arrange for a church, the hall and the band . . .' What seemed appropriate years or even months ago may not be appropriate at all by the time the death occurs."

• Prepaid funerals are designed to ease financial burdens and to take advantage of inflation, yet even here there can be pitfalls, Lynch said. "Never sign an irrevocable contract. The only time one is required is when the Department of Social Services is involved. There is such a thing as a revocable burial trust account where, if you need to, you can either get your money back or transfer it to another funeral home. Situations change and prepayment plans should be adaptable to your needs."

It makes good sense.

There are many reasons why planning a funeral in advance is a good idea.

First it gives the family the opportunity to express their feelings openly on a personal and important matter. Decisions made ahead reduce the burden on the survivors at the time of death.

And second, if you prefer, financial arrangements may also be completed in advance. This means significant savings since costs are frozen and unaffected by inflation. So, if you'd like more information on pre-planning, feel free to call for our complimentary pre-planning brochure.

Coming to grips with grief

 By Margaret Sharement special writer

"There's a movie about grief," says the Rev. Robert Weikart, pastoral counselor and ethicist at the U-M Family Practice Center in Chelsea.

"The central figure is a man who drives a horse and buggy in New York City. His son has just died. In the film the driver attempts to tell people about his son's death but no one will listen. Finally, at the end of the day he's shown talking to his horse. 'Imagine,' he says to the horse, 'if you had a colt and it died. You'd be sad too, wouldn't you.?'"

"In a society as mobile as ours," Weikert continues, "we don't get as involved anymore with our neighbors, their stories, histories or memories. When a tragedy happens and we grieve our loss, there's no one to tell. New Beginnings has been established so we will have a place to tell our stories."

New Beginning is the name of grief support groups Weikert and James Peggs, M.D., director of the U-M Chelsea Family Practice Center, have established across the state for people who are grieving a loss through death. There are other major losses which trigger a grief reaction, Weikart points out, including losing a job, selling a house having a pet die or losing limbs or other body parts.

"Grief is the reaction — emotional, physical, spiritual, mental and social — to any significant loss," Weikart explains.

"There's a lot of unresolved grief in this country," he adds. "Our society doesn't recognize some losses as being significant enough to grieve. But you can and will grieve any significant loss that you experience."

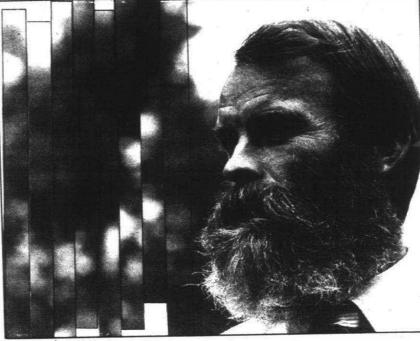

Weikart, who is also an instructor in Human Values in Medicine at the U-M Medical School, experienced his own greatest grief 17 years ago when his wife died. It was partly that experience that led him to study grief and establish New Beginnings.

People experience grief far more often in their lives than death, yet they have even less understanding of the dynamics and processes of grief than of death.'

The introductory sessions for New Beginnings groups are structured for six weeks, during time Weikart and Peggs lecture on various aspects of bereavment and grief. Following the six introductory sessions, the groups continue indefinitely under the direction of trained leaders from the local community.

"Many of our attitudes about death are established when we are still children," Weikart said. "In the Saturday morning cartoons, characters get flattened and then, seemingly by magic, become alive again. In some cowboy movies dozens are killed in minutes but are in another movie on another channel the same day. Often we see dead animals on the road but ignore them as if they hadn't died.

"We often grow up feeling that death is either unclean, untouchable or unreal. We frequently believe that death can be ignored or even changed, consequently, when we're faced with death, we have difficulty dealing with it," he said.

As a result, Weikart said, many people have difficulty grieving. "People experience grief far more often in their lives than death," he says, "yet they have even less understanding of the dynamics and processes of grief than of death. Whether people want to admit it or not, they are going to grieve in some form.

Throughout the first six weeks of the structured presentations. Weikart uses a 10-step grief model he has developed over the years. The grief model offers a conceptual "handle" for individuals — a way to grasp the stages of grief — and provides a piece of paper they can refer to for guidance.

The grief model is as follows:

1.SHOCK AND DENIAL — DISBELIEF. "This phase can last from three days to four to six weeks after the loss," Weikart says. "Although intellectually we know the loss has taken place, the emotional impact doesn't usually hit until after that. We don't usually expect to see anyone in New Beginnings before this."

2.TOUCH-SUPPORT. "At this time people begin to miss being physically touched," explains 'Weikart. "For example, if a spouse dies, there's no one to kiss you in the morning or hold your hand while you're strolling through a shopping mall. Frequently, if your spouse died, the husbands in other couples that you were friends with won't give you friendly hug any longer for fear of what their wives might think.

"Also, because of superstitions such as 'death always comes in threes or cancer is catching,' people will avoid you and not touch you. You begin to feel unlovable."

One reassurance that Weikart offers

One reassurance that Weikart offers is that there are several ways of touching and comforting people physically that are not necessarily sexual or suggestive.

These include the acceptable touch, such as a handshake; the caring touch, such as a friendly touch on the arm when saying hello or goodby, and a

Grief can get physical

James F. Peggs, assistant professor of Family Practice at U-M's Medical School and director of U-M's Family Practice Center in Chelsea, teaches a New Beginnings session on the medical aspect of grief.

"During the acute stage," Peggs explained, "the patient experiences a sense of shock, expressed as both physical and emotional numbness. A 'heavy chest' feeling is common and there's a need to take frequent deep breaths and sigh.

A sensation of choking and tightness in the throat make swallowing difficult. People describe a sense of detachment, of feeling far away, even though outwardly they may appear to be coping.

"Frequently people who seem to have functioned well — greeting visitors and carrying on conversations — are unable to recall any of their actions several days later."

Inherent in this acute stage, Peggs noted, is a "wave" sensation — that is, that the feelings come in waves, as often as every two minutes in the early stages and less often with the passage of time.

"There's almost always a sense of exhaustion," he adds, "and an inability to concentrate. People say they read the same paragraph over and over without remembering what they've read.

"Other people, despite their exhaustion, become agitated and restless. And most develop some disruption of normal eating and sleeping patterns.

"It's difficult to say exactly what is 'healthy grief' vs. 'unhealthy grief,' "Peggs said, 'but we suspect unhealthy — or repressed — grief if, for example, a person claims to feel nothing for up to several weeks after a death or loss.

"Some denial is normal, but when it's protracted, it can be unhealthy. Also, when the survivor is still unable to mention the dead one's name for a long period of time after, that could be a sign of unhealthy grieving."

Pegg's advice to anyone who suspects he or she may be ill because of a loss is first, not to assume that the illness is imaginary or that it "doesn't count, simply because you feel it's stress-related," he says. And second to talk to your doctor.

Grieving is foundation for new start trusting gesture, such as holding someone to comfort them.

"For those who are trying to offer comfort to a grieving person," Weikart says, "the two most important things are to listen and to maintain contact, whether it's phone calls, cups of coffee or whatever. Above all, keep in touch with the person and let him or her talk."

3. PHYSICAL SYMPTOMS. "People may develop a physical pain similar to what their spouse died of," Weikart explains. "These are similar to sympathy pains. In other cases, you'll see the survivor wearing the clothes of the deceased, such as a flannel shirt when out in the yard. Or some people will fo back to take up the deceased's occupation. This can be very healthy if the survivors are aware of what they are doing and are also maintaining their own interests."

4. ALIENATION — LONELINESS SETS IN. "This can be little things like going to a restaurant and telling the hostess you're "just one for dinner," Weikart explains, "to getting mail still addressed to 'Mr. and Mrs.' Sometimes special days such as Mother's Day trigger the loneliness when there's no one to send you a card, or no one for you to send one to.

"This is dangerous point, where people are prone to turn to alcohol or suicide because they feel the pain is unbearable. This is where I hope to get people into New Beginnings, where we can help to grieve in a healthy manner. What I often tell people is a phrase that I rdceived many yelonely, it would be inexcurably selfish to be lonely alone.'"

5. GUILT. "There are three kinds of guilt," Weikart says. "Realistic guilt, for example, would be if you were driving and drinking and killed someone. Unrealistic guilt might be when you hear people say, 'I should stayed at her bedside, then she wouldn't have died' and guilt about things having not been said or apologies made."

For some religious persons, he adds, there is also "a guilt towards God and a struggle to find meaning in relationship to God. In the group, we try to help people feel that they're still lovable and acceptable despite their guilt— and despite what those around them may be saying."

6. HOSTILITY. "People will have accidents or injure themselves," Weikart says, "because they're angry at the death and don't know to whom to show it or how to show it."

7. PERFECTION. "This is where you'll hear things like, 'He was the best golfer I ever saw,' or 'the worst cook.' This is healthy because it means you're beginning to take stock of your loss and seeing what you miss because of the loss."

8. REDEMPTION. "This is the time when the surviving person is able to see the dead person as both good and not so good," Weikart noted. "You begin to accept the lost person for what he or she was."

9. NEW LIFE. "This is when you keep some things from the past and bring in some new things. The combination of the two is your future," Weikart said. "You don't leave the past untouched and you don't get rid of the past totally - it's a combination. Some people hold on to the past indefinitely by continuing to set a place at the table for the dead person five years or more after the death. Others will sell their possessions and house and move very quickly to avoid being reminded of their loved one who died. If people are working on their grief - that is, talking to someone about their feelings - they may exhibit some of these characteristics, but they'll be sorting out their emotional feelings at the same time.

But those who try to deny their grief — or remain stuck in the past hoping the dead will return — will probably experience a delayed grief reaction months or even years later."

10. RESURRECTION. "Using the biblical reference as an example," Weikart said, "after Jesus rose from the dead, he looked and sounded the same, but he was different — he was fuller and richer for the experience.

You could see the scars and the prints of the wounds, but they were healed. It's the same way for us — you'll always have part of that loss with you, but you're alive and whole and have your own life.

"Individuals may or may not experience all 10 phases and not necessarily in this order," Weikart concluded. "But it's important for poeple who are grieving not to feel that they are 'crazy' or to let people tell them, 'It's all in your head.' Be bold and say you're hurting. Grief is very real."

sored by the two funeral homes.

When a child grieves

When it comes to children, O'Connor said, parents need to recognize that a child's grief is different from an adult's.

"Children haven't yet developed coping strategies and don't know what to do with such intense feelings. Often they'll act out or pull back. Or we may see them playing with Ken and Barbie — and Ken and Barbie are holding each other and crying."

O'Connor says parents worry as much about the child who doesn't appear to grieve as they do about the child who seems to grieve too much.

"I tell people there are many ways to cope with grief." O'Connor said. "and unless the grief is severely handicapping the child in some way, I don't recommend counseling."

Adults can help children by being as Adults can help children by being as open about the death as possible. Funeral attendance should be the child's choice — at any age. And questions, painful as they may be, should be encouraged.

O'Connor stresses that sometimes the pendulum swings the other way and parents give the child more information that he or she is able to handle. "Just answer their questions," she advises. "They don't want to know everything."

CHILDREN ARE too often forgotten or ignored after the death of a loved one, O'Connor said. 'Parents think they're protecting their children by keeping them away from the proceedings. 'Why do they have to know?' they ask me, and I tell them, 'Because death and dying are natural part of life and grieving is a natural, healthy outlet. It's unfair not to allow children that same outlet.'

O'Connor has some tips on dealing with children after a death:

• Never tell a child a person who dies is "sleeping." Children readily accept the concept of death. Pets die, birds and wildlife die. They know that a bug dead on a sidewalk isn't going to come back to life. Sleep should be pleasurable, and it can't be once it's connected with death.

• Adults should take the initiative and talk about the dead person after the funeral. If they're never mentioned, the child wonders, "What do I do now? Do I just forget about that person?" Good memories can be shared: "Remember when grandpa took us to BobLo and he almost missed the boat coming back?" And if you cry as you remember, that's all right, too.

• Some children can't let go and will fantasize about the person who has died: "I saw grandma last night. She came back and said goodbye to me." The sensation that a loved one is

• If a sibling dies, the child left behind needs special attention. If the siblings were close, it's kin to losing a best friend. The child feels there's no one left to talk to and has a tendency

Cremation offers alternative

RADITIONAL burial remains the choice of most families in the metropolitan Detroit area, but cremation is a viable option especially when money is short.

Funeral directors say many families are tightlipped about disclosing the reasons they choose cremation, and the directors do not pry.

"Some people have a thing about being put in the cold ground and the worms and all that," said Richard Goodnuff, co-director of the Goodnuff-Burnham Funeral Home on Five Mile in Redford.

Eight percent of the families who come to the Goodnuff-Burnham Funeral Home choose cremation, Goodnuff said. The practice is more popular in California and Florida, he said.

Out of the eight percent who contact Goodnuff and choose cremation, six percent opt for a viewing with an inexpensive combustible casket.

Most people are ignorant about what occurs when a family or next of kin consents to cremation when a loved one dies. The words "consents to" need to be emphasized.

ACCORDING TO Goodnuff and Ray Jarzembowski, vice president of Grand Lawn Cemetery, a nondenominational cemetery located in Detroit, written permission must be given by next of kin. For example, in a case where a mother dies and she has no spouse, all her children who survive her, because they share equally, must each give written consent to the cremation, Goodnuff said.

Because both funeral directors and crematory operators are concerned about liability, failure to gain signatures from all next of kin will result in denial of the cremation - even if it was the specified choice of the deceased," he said.

"After you are deceased, you have no control over your body and the next of kin can dispute the will. Cremation is irreversible," said Jarzembowski.

Legal technicalities surround cremation. In addition to the death certificate that must be signed by a physician, the medical examiner must also give his approval for cremation. "It (cremation) is an irreversible process. If there were any forensic problems down the line, there would be no way of retrieving the body," said Goodnuff.

A CASKET NEED not be purchased to transport the body to the crematory if the home viewing is not desired but some kind of combustible container is needed to put the body in, for health reasons. This box is usually purchased from a funeral director for about $50, said Goodnuff.

At Grand Lawn Cemetery, the cremation process takes about two hours and 45 minutes at 1800 degrees in a furnace called a retort. Bodies that have had cancer chemotherapy take a little longer to consume due to a change in cell structure, said Jarzembowski. Bones are not totally consumed and they are ground and placed with the cremains in a sealed fiberglass box or in an urn.

Families decide whether they want to bury the cremains or keep them. "There is no law that requires you to bury remains anywhere or take them anywhere," said Jarzembowski.

Cemeteries provide burial of the remains in a three foot grave. At Grand Lawn, it costs $75 for the grave and $100 for the actual burial. The cremation process costs $150. An average niche inside the chapel that is used to store the cremains costs $440, he said.

IN COMPARISON, A traditional 3 foot by 9 foot grave costs $450 and burial (opening and closing) of a grave in the family section of Grand Lawn costs $500. A less expensive single grave costs $295.

The ceremony at Grand Lawn opened in 1978. "It's a thing of the future," said Jarzembowski.

Religious groups vary in their acceptance of cremation, Goodnuff said. Certain fundamentalist religions and Baptists oppose the process, he said. The Roman Catholic faith accepts cremation but does not accept scattering of the remains, noting the need to show proper reverence and respect by burial, he said.

Catholic cemeteries do not have crematoriums.

New thoughts on mourning

Beverly Hills author Harriet Sarnoff Schiff has some new thoughts on mourning she wants to share. They are contained in her newest book, "Living Through Mourning — Finding Comfort and Hope When a Loved One Has Died." It is an expansion of what she began in "The Bereaved Parent," written after the death of her 10-year-old son. It is now in area bookstores (Viking, $15.95). It deals with the expanded spectrum of grieving for a spouse, parent, child, sibling or friend. There is, she said, such a need for greater understanding about who is grieving and what is need in terms of tims and space for healing to take place.

Organ donations: the gift of life

By Teri Banas staff writer

HERE IS probably nothing more difficult in life than to face one's own mortality. Yet, last year in Michigan 150 individuals died after making provisions that some part of their body should be used to help others live on.

Those organ donors made possible 266 kidney transplant operations, 31 heart transplants, 26 liver transplants and 19 pancreas operations, all serving to extend the lives of people who as recently as five years ago could have faced an early death, themselves.

Their "gift of life" to others took courage and forethought.

Richard Pietroski, one of five Michigan coordinators for the state's Organ Procurement Agency, and this region's representative, says medical technology in surgical techniques and new antirejection drugs are progressively increasing the success of organ transplant operations, and stimulating a greater demand.

NATIONALLY. Pietroski says, Michigan served as the second most active state in the union in organ donations, yet the demand is still great, growing and exceeds the avail-

"No, we didn't fill the need. We started in January 1985 with 440 patients and accomplished 266 transplants throughout the year. But by the end of the year, we had 560 patients waiting," said the Ann Arbor-based representative.

"Even though we have steadily progressed year to year in donations, the number of patients seeking transplants is increasing. It's a one-step forward, two-steps backward scenario.

Because of advanced medical technology, physicians, themselves, are becoming more confident to refer their patients for transplant operations, he

"So, the need is there. Some patients are dying, waiting for an organ."

Technology aside, there are other practical concerns that cause patients to seek transplant operations - they are becoming more affordable, or "cost

Personal property: the forgotten asset

special writer

CANNOT tell you how many times in my 25 years of being in the business of the appraisal and sale of fine art and other personal property, that I have discovered a lack of planning for the disposition of such assets in the estates of decreased

Times change, values change, and personal property assets should be part of any estate planning during the 1980s. Proper planning will insure that the surviving spouse and/or children, grandchildren and other heirs, do not face the many unforeseen problems tat occur because of lack of planning.

The first thing to do is to have an appraisal of your personal property so as to make it a part of your overall estate plan.

MANY PEOPLE think only in terms of what they paid for an item and not what it might be worth in the marketplace today. For instance, the J.L. Hudson Co. of Detroit, in the 1930s and the 1940s, sold very fine art objects for relatively small dollar amounts and these objects have appreciated dramatically in the current economic climate.

Just last year, the Boos Gallery appraised a Birmingham estate, and amongst the personal property assets was a small landscape painting purchased at the J.L. Hudson Co. in 1943 for $400. This painting was by the well-known and highly collected 19th century American artist, J.F. Cropsey, and was auctioned by the gallery for $50,000. This represented a substantial sum of money that altered the overall tax consequences and money available to the heirs of the estate.

Had a competent appraiser not handled this estate, the painting could have been entirely overlooked, with significant loss to the heirs.

Further, had an appraisal been done of the estate prior to the death of the owner, predisposition of the painting could have been properly made, thereby eliminating any risk of its being overlooked for the benefit of the heirs.

To further illustrate this point, a Grosse Pointe estate recently contained over 80 graphics purchased at Hudson's during this same period, for an average cost of $10 each. These graphics were marketed at the gallery in the current art market at an average of $500 each. These are only two of literally scores of stories of a similar nature, and indicate that personal property, "the forgotten asset," should not be forgotten.

AN ADDITIONAL problem often occurs, is that families do not argue or have fallings-out over the stock portfolio, savings accounts or other items Times change, values change and personal property assets should be part of any estate planning during the 1980s. The first thing to do is to have an appraisal of your personal property and to make it a part of your overall estate plan.

of such nature in an estate, but rather. unfortunately, because of the paintings Mom or Dad owned or the collection of Royal Doulton figurines, silver, furniture, etc., on which there has not been placed a current market value.

Another problem can be easily avoided by proper planning and keeping abreast of the current laws as they apply to this type of asset. For example: an estate in Rochester existed where the heirs had been legally deeded several paintings a number of years before, but where possession had been maintained by the parents. This was a perfectly legitimate situation at the time of the deeding of the paintings.

However, subsequently, the tax laws changed and at the death of the parents, the estate became liable for taxes on these objects because they were still in the parents' possession. The family had not kept up with the changes in the law and thus suffered an additional tax burden of almost $100,000.

If a family has any conceivable idea that its personal property could have more than a nominal value, then a competent appraisal of the personal property should be obtained and the results of this appraisal discussed and made a part of any estate plan that a family might develop.

The appraisal should be updated approximately every three years and the family should be sure that it is advised about any changes in the tax laws on a

In the long run, the expenses of this type of work are quite negligible when compared to the potential tax losses and/or family problems that can be created by ignoring this area of estate to stay in his or her room. Parents needs to start up family activities as soon as they are able. Also, the living child may be carrying a burden of guilt. When they see the family grieving, they often think, "It should have been me." Reassure them that, while you're sad, you would never wish one child's death over an-

• Teachers of a grieving child should bring up the subject of the death when the child returns to school. Talking briefly about it, even if it brings tears, is less stressful than no mention of the death at all.

• Don't hide your own grief. Billy understands if, when he asks his father to play ball, his father says, "I just don't want to right now. I'm thinking about grandpa and I'm feeling a little sad.

• Let the child know that it's OK to talk about the death. But don't be offended if the child chooses not to, and goes off to play instead.
