The Canton Connection

EXTRA MILER: Doris Dyal, custodian at East Middle School, was honored as the Extra Miler at the last meeting of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education. Dr. E.J. McClendon, school board president, praised Dyal for her humanness and because she is "friendly, helpful and thoughtful." He noted she has been especially helpful to students who have lost items. In addition to receiving a standing ovation at the meeting, she received a framed Extra Miler certificate, a cloisonne enamel pin of the Flag of Learning and Liberty and a certificate for a dinner donated by the Mayflower Hotel.

YOUTH & THE LAW: Youth and the Law: Your Rights and Responsibilities will be presented for ages 12-17 from 7-9 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 12, in the Canton Public Library. Robert Barrie, guest speaker, will discuss the legal rights and responsibilities of young adults younger than 18. A licensed attorney, Barrie has been a juvenile court referee for more than 10 years in Ann Arbor and has been involved with juvenile law since 1971. To register call the library or stop in.

CRICKET WINNER: Nathan Ketcham, 11, of Canton received honorable mention in the "Cricket League" international drawing competition sponsored by Cricket Magazine. Nathan's name appears in the November 1986 issue of the magazine.

GOALS MET: The Play Sculpture Foundation Committee has issued a financial report on last summer's project involving Peter Rockwell sculpting in Plymouth Township Park. The project surpassed all the goals set, said chairman Joanne Hulce and co-chairman Janet Campbell. "It is a pleasure to see the fun and enjoyment the sculptures are providing to the children and adults who use the park," they said.

"After watching the children's use patterns over the summer, it has been determined that some modification in the land formations and landscaping will be needed in the sculpture area. Our additional monies will be used to further enrich the play area." The Play Sculpture Foundation ended up with a fund balance of $14,423.29, which has been earmarked for a commemorative plaque, landscaping and for playground equipment at the park. As part of the project, a documentary booklet titled "Rock Monsters at Play" has been created by students of Plymouth Centennial Park. The booklet will be available at Canton and Plymouth libraries, Plymouth Community Arts Council, at bookstores, Plymouth Township Hall and other locations.

CHAMPION RETURNS:

Barbara Leffler, an early champion of special education programs in Plymouth-Canton in the 1960s, has returned to the area for medical treatment as part of her ongoing bout with cancer. A parent advocate who promoted programs for the learning disabled in the schools, she was active in the Plymouth-Canton and Michigan Association for Children With Learning Disabilities. In recent years she has been living in the Upper Peninsula where she and husband Art have been operating a grocery store in a small town near the Seelye wildlife preserve. ## Townships flush out sewer plan

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships will look west rather than east to acquire additional sewerage capacity.

And that decision could finally spell the end of a long, on-going, much ballyhooed but never constructed project variously known as Super Sewer and Son of Super Sewer.

The three western Wayne townships now hope to band together to negotiate with the Ypsilanti Community Utilities Authority rather than join the North Huron/Rouge Valley project.

State and county officials have promoted the latter.

"You're looking at a better project we're buying into," Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen said of Ypsilanti. "We'll know what the dollars are. There will be no unknowns in the project other than acts of nature."

C. Brian James, a lawyer who does legal work for Plymouth Township, was more succinct.

"IT (YPSILANTI) is cleaner, it's cheaper, it's sooner."

"You've got to understand 1992 is the completion date for North Huron/Rouge Valley. We believe we can get this one in the ground substantially sooner," James said.

Current and future Plymouth Township residents can expect to pay for increased sewer capacity due to growth regardless of what plan local officials adopt, Breen said.

A minimum cost for Plymouth Township — either way — has been projected at about $6 million, Breen said.

Improvements could be financed with a surcharge on water bills or a bond issue, Breen said. Each homeowner in the township might pay an additional $64 a year for 20 years for improvements, he speculated.

"We've had conversations which indicate there's interest on both parts," Breen said of the three townships acting as one party, the Ypsilanti Community Utilities Authority, the other.

THE YPSILANTI system is operating at only 45 percent capacity, Breen said.

In the long run — 15 years down the road when existing contracts expire — all of Plymouth's sewage could be sent to Ypsilanti rather than Detroit, he said.

Breen is convinced Ypsilanti is the way to go.

"The Rouge Valley project through Wayne County asks for a blank check. The Ypsilanti project will have a definite result with a defined investment. We know our operational and maintenance costs will be lower," he said.

"It's certainly going to be more efficient."

David Vago, a Wayne County official, had said that federal funding probably would be lost for the first phase of the North Huron/Rouge Valley project unless Plymouth Township committed to joining by last Wednesday.

It took no action in that direction.

Fired teacher denied by high court

By Susan Steinmueller
staff writer

A former Plymouth-Canton School District special education teacher, discharged in 1972 for reasons including allegedly calling students derogatory names like "crater face," took his complaint that he had been unfairly discharged to the Michigan Supreme Court.

Last week, the Supreme Court denied a motion by Jack Marts, formerly of Canton, to appeal the decisions of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and the State Tenure Commission. The school board hopes this action will close the case after 14 years of litigation.

"I would very much hope so," said the school district's attorney, William Albertson. "Barring an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, yes it will."

"With the exception of one ruling on a procedural point, every agency in court that has reviewed the discharge has upheld it," he said. "It's a long-winded way to say yes, the right result was reached."

BUT MARTS, who ran a special education camp for children at his farm in Canton after his discharge and moved out of state a couple years ago, may regard it as just another roadblock in his quest for reinstatement and back pay with interest.

That amount, Albertson said, would "certainly have been in excess of $1 million."

"I think there were a number of bases on which the Supreme Court could have and should have granted leave to appeal," said Steven Amberg, Marts' attorney. Based on that, he said, "We have made recommendations," for possible avenues for Marts to take next.

But he could not predict if Marts would act.

"I have not spoken with Mr. Marts since the Supreme Court has acted," he said.

MARTS HAS, over the years, gone through the Michigan judicial system twice in his battle.

He unsuccessfully appealed the original school board decision to the State Tenure Commission, the Ingham Circuit Court, and the Michigan Court of Appeals.

A decision by the Supreme Court remanded the case back to the State Tenure Commission, which denied his request for a rehearing. Second petitions to the circuit court, the court of appeals, and the supreme court also proved unsuccessful.

"No one would ever be able to claim the man did not get his day in court," said Albertson.

"It's quite a testimony to the financial resources of the Michigan Education Association," he said. "Here's a man that, without question, physically and psychologically abused special education students, and he's defended for 14 years."

MARTS BEGAN teaching in the district in 1967.

But apparently the problems began when Marts started new duties as a teacher of Plymouth High School's only special education class in 1970.

Those problems included Marts' alleged "lack of organization of his lessons, lack of control over his students, his use of inconsistent discipline, the use of inappropriate and derogatory nicknames, and both his own and his students' unauthorized absences during scheduled class periods," according to a court brief.

In May 1971, based on complaints by students, parents, and teachers, along with incidents witnessed by administrative personnel, Marts was suspended from his teaching duties. But he was reinstated in October.

He was served with formal charges under the Teacher Tenure Act in April 1972 after his alleged teaching problems continued.

At a board of education hearing the following autumn, six of the 10 charges brought against Marts were substantiated, and the district terminated his employment.

Five of the six board members voted no, but a dissenter, while agreeing that the facts warranted discharge, believed that a fair hearing had been denied and that his colleagues had "prejudged" Marts rather than having based their conclusion upon the evidence.

Marts later claimed the dissenter's comments were evidence that he was a victim of bias and prejudice.

The six charges substantiated by the commission, and presented in a court document, included the following:

- Inappropriate and unprofessional behavior in the classroom setting. In one incident, Marts apparently did not intervene when a group of students placed another in a sink of water because it was "only horse-play."

- Inability to deal positively and appropriately with other school staff or parents of mentally handicapped students. According to testimony, parents complained several times about him. A fellow teacher helping him in the classroom after his sus-

The drug epidemic: How real is it?

By Bob Wisler
staff writer

The drug epidemic. Everyone by now has heard of it. It's sweeping the country. Mostly cocaine and crack. Hundreds of tons of drugs being smuggled into the country annually from Colombia and Bolivia. Crack, a manufactured cocaine, being made in street labs, and all levels of American society are sucking it up.

The national news magazines have had more than one recent cover devoted to the use of cocaine, crack and other drugs. A typical cover, this one Newsweek, titled the problem:

"Kids and Cocaine, An Epidemic Strikes Middle America."

It has become a hot political issue, with Congress debating a provision calling for the death penalty for drug dealers and passing a tough drug bill, President Reagan calling for a drug-free America and politicians on every level expressing alarm that the problem is tearing apart the country's social fabric.

But how serious is the problem? Is it a case of a press hungry for a new wave of sensational material overdramatizing what may be only a mild surge in drug use?

HOW SERIOUS is the drug problem in our community? Our area? We asked reporters in the communities covered by the Observer & Eclectic newspapers to look into the situation locally.

The communities include Birmingham, West Bloomfield, Bloomfield Township, Troy, Rochester, Farmington, Southfield, Livonia, Redford Township, Westland, Garden City, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township.

Generally the reporters found that:

- The use of cocaine and crack, the "now drugs," may be on the increase but there is no evidence that the increase is alarming school, police or court officials or drug treatment counselors.

- In most of the communities, local officials, especially school officials, said they do not see an upswing in the use of drugs (other than alcohol).

Police ponder solutions

The wave of publicity surrounding cocaine use throughout the country has spurred a number of steps locally to try to deal with what may become a serious problem.

But so far, local officials say, the Plymouth and Canton areas haven't experienced epidemic-like increases in drug use that are reported in other areas.

Robert DeFauw, special agent in charge of the Detroit office of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, said cocaine is the "No. 1 priority" of enforcement measures of the DEA.

Wayne County, DeFauw said, is one of the "most saturated" areas in the nation for use.

But, he said, the use of cocaine and its purer form, crack, and other drugs seems at this point to be predominantly in Detroit.

"THE NUMBER of people using in the suburbs are nowhere near the number of substance abusers encountered in the inner city," he said.

DeFauw said the "highest degree of use is associated with high unemployment and little or nothing to do from an educational or cultural standpoint. As you reach affluence you begin to talk about recreational use," he said.

DeFauw said that although the problems are not widespread in the suburbs, the use of cocaine "is there."

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficcano said his six-person drug enforcement squad made 550 arrests countywide last year for drug violations. He estimated that 15-20 percent of the cases were in Western Wayne County.

THIS FALL, police chiefs of Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton met with Plymouth-Canton school officials to introduce steps to try to prevent drug problems or proliferation.

Canton chief John Santomauro said the police departments are working with the schools to provide for enforcement and educational programs.

Plymouth Township Chief Carl Berry said that the police department, however, can't be the answer for dealing with drugs.

One call does it all!

Benefit night is set for injured Cantonite

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

The things that have the strongest impact in life — tragedy, courage, friendship, love — can appear in a matter of moments and endure for years.

This is a story of all of those, and more.

Canton Township resident Paul Sawicki, 25, used to be a construction worker with the Walbridge Aldinger Co. in Livonia, and a "very active guy," said his wife, Lisa.

One day in September, Sawicki was riding his "three-wheeler" off-road vehicle in Canton. An instant later, he was lying on the ground with four broken vertebrae. No one is sure what happened, but Sawicki apparently flipped over with the vehicle and it landed on him. The accident means he'll be in a wheelchair permanently.

In what seemed like another few moments, friends of the Sawickis in Livonia and surrounding communities were planning and organizing a fund-raising benefit to defray the medical and rehabilitation costs. (Sawicki's hospital bill for September alone totaled $36,000.)

"We were very surprised," said Lisa, a Plymouth native. "Everybody got together to plan the event." "We really appreciate everything being done."

THE SAWICKI Benefit Fund Night, featuring dance music and a cash bar, will take place 6-11 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 19. Tickets, $25 each, will be good for admittance and door prizes.

Vladimir's, 28125 Grand River at Eight Mile in Farmington Hills, has donated its banquet facility for the event. Hors d'oeuvres will be served at 6:30 p.m. Drummer Jerry McKenzie, a Farmington Hills police officer, will perform with a local band.

A raffle drawing will be held the same night. Tickets are $1 each or six for $5.

Half the raffle proceeds will go to the Sawicki family. Twenty-five percent will be awarded as first prize, 15 percent as second prize and 10 percent as third prize. Among the prizes are shoes, hockey sticks and shirts autographed by Pistons star Isiah Thomas, Detroit Tiger Tom Brookens and members of the Detroit Red Wings.

FOR BENEFIT and raffle tickets, call Dan or Jean Enright, 591-2166, or Alice Furmaga, 591-0362. Tickets also are available from the San Marino Golf Course, on Halsted in Farmington Hills; and Duke Hardware, on Ford Road in Dearborn.

"I'm a friend of the family," said Furmaga, a Livonia resident. "I watched Paul grow up. I was his neighbor."

"We're just trying to help take some of the (financial) burden off," she said.

Paul attended Bishop Borgess High School in Redford and Bentley High School in Livonia. He and Lisa have been married for 2½ years. They have a daughter, 19 months, and Lisa is six months pregnant.

SAWICKI'S remarkable attitude has helped him and his loved ones recover from the accident.

"I never had to face anything like this before, and neither has he," Lisa said.

"He had an excellent attitude from the very beginning."

Before the accident, Paul "worked a good 12 to 18 hours a day," Lisa said. "He worked around the home. He was a very active guy. He's a hard worker."

Sawicki underwent spinal fusion surgery and now must be immobilized for three months. To keep his neck and head up, he wears a metal "halo" that extends from the top of his head to his chest.

After this is removed around Dec. 15, Sawicki will return to the hospital for about a week to start "very intensive" physical therapy, Lisa said. This will teach him how to get about in a wheelchair. He is expected to be ready for the wheelchair in January and will be able to drive a specially equipped car.

LISA SAWICKI praised the program at the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor, where Paul was treated. He made rapid progress and returned home Nov. 5, exactly two months after the accident. His optimism has spread to the staff.

"They're having a ball with Paul," Lisa said.

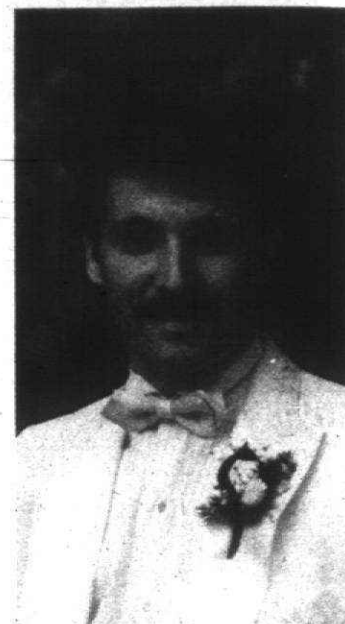

Sawicki wants to educate the public about the needs of the handicapped. He has volunteered to take part in work on regenerating severed nerves.

"Paul's doing fantastic," Lisa said. "He is able to do almost everything for himself except walk."

In visiting neighborhoods and shopping malls, the family has realized how difficult it can be for the handicapped. New buildings should be inspected by handicapped people before the structures are approved, Lisa said.

"It makes you realize what you have," she said. "You just take so much for granted."

"Don't give up faith, and don't give up on yourself."

"It doesn't matter if it's alcohol or speed or marijuana or cocaine — whether it's freebasing or crack or snorting — you are kidding yourself if you think one is different than the other or one is less harmful than another."

One of the hospital rooms where patients stay while undergoing treatment in the chemical dependency ward at Botsford Hospital.

By Loraine McCallish
staff writer

A handsome and personable young man, who a few years ago was buying $600 worth of cocaine every week with stolen money, is now resident-manager for a three-quarter house. He's working his way back into the mainstream of life.

The decision to call for help was made when "I was sick and tired of being sick and tired," said Dale H., who introduces himself that way when he attends anonymous self-help fellowship meetings five to seven times a week.

The 26-year-old doesn't have long-range plans. Thoughts of a career, a job and his own apartment are necessarily pushed aside while he concentrates on building self-esteem, learning about himself and his disease and learning how to rid himself of guilt.

"IT TAKES a long time to forgive yourself. It takes a long time to get rid of the incredible guilt and the stinking thinking. Things are falling into place now. I still have a bad day once in a while, when the dope pusher pops into my head, but I'm learning how to get through it when it happens."

"I've never planned to hurt so many people. I know it's a long way back to dealing with life on its own terms. I'll be in the three-quarter house for as long as it takes. And when I'm ready to leave, I'll know it."

Dale's decision to call for help came at 6 one morning about a year ago in a Colorado mountain resort after a three-day, non-stop, no-sleep binge.

"It was either that or blow my brains out. There was a rifle there. That was a distinct alternative. But at least I had come to terms with the fact that I was in deep trouble."

"Maybe the most honest reason for knowing I was in trouble is that the money had run out. I had been stealing money from the company consistently. I owed everybody," he said.

DALE'S MOTHER, aware of her son's disease and aware she was going to have to wait it out until he decided he wanted help, set into motion the steps back to reality.

Detoxification in Botsford General Hospital was the first step. Dale described it as "five days of constant monitoring, sweating and indescribable depression."

From there, Dale was moved to "Insight," a 28-day resident program.

He described that as a "period for learning about the addictive personality. Taking an honest look. Learning that drinking and drugging is all the same."

"It doesn't matter if it's alcohol or speed or marijuana or cocaine — whether it's freebasing or crack or snorting — you are kidding yourself if you think one is different than the other or one is less harmful than another," he added.

Dale squeaked through a Birmingham high school with "horrible grades, marijuana, speed and an involvement with being the most popular guy in the class," he said.

Drinking got in the way of football at an Ohio university. After too many missed classes at Oakland Community College, he decided "school wasn't my bag."

In Texas, he landed a job as a bouncer in a bar. He was introduced to cocaine by his employees.

"How convenient," he said. "What a beautiful job I did of setting myself up. No parents to interfere with the high and surrounded by people like myself. I didn't even have to go to the trouble of hiding."

HE FLED to Florida, where he took a job in a private high school for troubled teens where he would be in charge of a dorm.

"I thought I just might be able to help myself if I would surround myself with the therapists there," he said.

When he asked the therapists at the Florida high school for help, he was given antabuse and valium.

"The valium was just one more drug to feed my addiction. I was rude and irritable. I was suffering withdrawal, but didn't have the vaguest idea of what was happening to me," he said.

Dale described himself as a snorter. "The only reason I never used crack was because it wasn't available."

"I DON'T care if you drink it or smoke it or snort it, what the material is or what method is used, it's all the same. It damages the brain cells. The panic and the depression are exactly the same."

Dale lives one day at a time now. And he does his best to keep things simple.

By medical standards he is considered a "recovering addict" because he has passed the one-year mark of being drug-free.

Dale calls his new way of life "freedom."

For those "sick and tired of being sick and tired," Dale says, "When you are ready, call the 24-hour help line, 357-3990. The help is not for those who need it. It is there for those who want it."

Education key to war on drugs

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Dr. Michael Boyle estimates that as many as half of the people in the United States are exposed daily to some form of substance abuse.

Boyle, medical director of Maple Grove Center for Chemical Dependency in West Bloomfield, claims that much of the nation is hooked on some form of drug dependence.

Boyle says there are four-and-a-half-million Americans using cocaine regularly, a half-million addicted to heroin, 20 million alcohol abusers and an unknown number of people inadvertently dependent on prescription sedatives.

"If each addict touches four family members, that's well over 100 million people, or half of the U.S. population that is exposed daily in some way, shape or form," he said.

BOYLE BELIEVES the publicity about drugs that is sweeping the nation is "a plus." Too much press, he said, is better than too little.

Admissions at Maple Grove — one of the area's most respected drug treatment facilities — are up from previous years, Boyle said, with adult occupancy at 95 percent and adolescent occupancy at 100 percent. Cocaine is the reason.

Tom Ghena, who developed the center's cocaine treatment program, said the drug is particularly insidious because of its effects.

"The longer you use cocaine, the stronger the craving. There is no such thing as social use and anyone who says there is, is lying to themselves."

Many of the users Ghena treats are people with long histories of substance dependency, either alcohol or marijuana use on a regular social basis or at times of conflict.

ACCORDING TO predictions of authorities in the field of substance abuse, the use of cocaine was expected to peak in 1979. Now, Ghena said, authorities predict the drug will peak in 1988, becoming less popular immediately thereafter.

But Boyle said the point is moot. "Crack (a highly addictive form of cocaine) will go. Cocaine will go.

And something new will replace it."

The key in the battle against substance abuse, Boyle said, is education.

Boyle and Ghena agree that the entire issue of substance abuse in American society and how to deal with it are particularly difficult subjects to approach for a number of reasons.

First, the predominant form of substance abuse, alcohol, is not only socially acceptable but is also encouraged.

STUDIES INDICATE certain people, the offspring of alcoholics, for example, have a predisposition toward alcoholism.

Next, the United States is a quick-fix society with numerous models to pattern after, from admired personalities to television soap operas to media advertising.

Ghena has noted that half of those treated for cocaine abuse at Maple Grove are the upwardly mobile, go-getter professional who is well organized and socially conscious, and the offspring of "old money" who are very chic and narcissistic. (The remainder tend to be blue-collar workers or single mothers.)

Adding to the problem is the continuing inability of physicians to adequately recognize or deal with addiction and its accompanying problems.

A RECENT issue of the New England Journal of Medicine reported that even today medical school students are not properly trained to cope with the problems of substance abuse. The article said the quality of education of physicians has moved from "total neglect" to "general inadequacy."

Finally, the entire subject of treatment still contains many unknowns. The only concrete observation at this point, according to Boyle, is "treatment is better than no treatment."

He also said the future requires attack on all fronts — prevention, education, treatment and enforcement. However, Boyle believes "chemical addiction will never be totally prevented."

Police say education is key drug deterrent

He said that what is needed is "parental involvement, as well as heavy, heavy educational movement."

Berry said, "Law enforcement for the most part has been relatively ineffective. You can't cut off the source because you're dealing with so many foreign countries."

PLYMOUTH CHIEF Richard Myers said he believes that drug use is a serious enough problem that "a majority of our major crime — which we don't have a lot of — is linked to the financial needs of users who resort to stealing to pay for their habits."

He said, "We have nothing tangible to put our fingers on, but we know that cocaine use is increasing." Myers said that although students "may not pick up drugs at the high school, they can sure make connections to get it. That situation has existed probably close to 10 years."

He said school officials are doing what they can to prevent drug use but he advocated earlier education programs.

"It's got to start in the elementary school. Enforcement is kind of hit-and-miss. The best solution, I think, is education — pro-active education starting in elementary school."

"It's going to have to become unacceptable for people to use cocaine."

JOANNE WEBER, community services director with Straight Inc. at the group's Michigan headquarters, in Plymouth, said she sees more kids with cocaine problems now than when she first joined Straight four years ago.

Straight, a treatment program for adolescents with substance abuse problems, says "alcohol is normally the first drug of use. After that, they go to pot, literally and figuratively." She says alcohol is cheap and readily available. She says kids looking for "a more intense high" try pot, then cocaine.

"The majority that come in have admitted some exposure to cocaine."

There are seven other regional branches of Straight around the country; the group is based in Florida.

Cocaine use is different because "once they start using cocaine, it seems to be the major drug of choice."

Where do they get the money? "They steal it, they sell themselves. Ninety-five percent of the kids that come in our program have committed minor crimes, 58 percent have committed major crimes."

Dale Yagiela is director of Growth Works in Plymouth, which was formed in 1971 to provide alternative education for "problem" kids and became involved in helping kids with drug problems in 1975.

He's noticed only a moderate increase in kids admitting to trying cocaine. He says that most often, it's not their drug of choice. While reaching randomly through four patient files on his desk, only one file showed the substance abuser tried cocaine.

Growth Works helps mostly young people from the Plymouth-Canton community.

Drug scare: Is it hype?

Alcohol abuse is still a far bigger social problem than problems caused by other kinds of drugs. Alcohol abuse, which has always been a big problem, shows no signs of diminishing and may be increasing.

People with drug problems who are referred to treatment programs more often than not also have problems with alcohol.

Cocaine and its derivative, crack, is the new drug. People who do use drugs are turning to it. It has an insidious attraction. Whatever warning there is in drug use is mostly tied to the availability of cocaine.

People who are drunk are easy to spot. Their speech is slurred or rambling. They stagger. They do things that attract attention and often display aggressive or violent behavior.

Cocaine users tend to debilitate quietly and over a period of time as their concern for everything but their drug disappears.

Cocaine users tend to be non-violent and their appearance or physical mannerisms are not drastically altered by their drug use. Police officials in many communities say they are just guessing as to the extent of cocaine use or problems.

Cocaine and crack use at this point is definitely not as serious a problem in the suburbs as in the inner-city. The head of the Detroit Office of the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration said most cocaine and crack problems and arrests are in the city of Detroit.

Cocaine use is extremely dangerous and debilitating. It can be life-threatening.

It's anybody's guess as to how serious the drug problem will become. Some say it will get worse. Many drug counselors say they aren't experiencing any more drug problems than last year. Many believe massive educational efforts, nationwide and locally, as well as publicity about the dangers of drug use will help keep people, especially young people, from trying drugs, especially cocaine and crack.

Woman reports attacker returns to scene

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A 28-year-old Canton woman says she was raped by a man who entered her room at the Canton Hotel.

The man reportedly entered her room at the Canton Hotel and attempted to rape her Oct. 20. He left, however, after she threatened him with a knife.

The woman was unsure how the man entered the apartment during the night of Nov. 10. The woman reported the man had no sign of disturbance within the apartment.

The suspect is described as a white male in his early 20s, 6 foot 2 inches, very thin with sandy brown hair.

DURING THE SECOND incident the man wore a poplin jacket, blue jeans, tennis shoes and black gloves. At about 10 p.m. Nov. 4 the woman said she was in a downstairs bathroom looking in a mirror and noticed the man standing in the doorway. Her three children were in the apartment but unharmed, a Canton Township police report said.

The man threatened to slit her and her children's throats if she failed to cooperate. The knife had a black handle with a thick blade, the woman said.

"I came back to get what I missed before," she reported the man as saying. "You spread it all over, now I've got to leave town," which is a reference to flyers circulated in the apartment and a composite that ran in the Observer.

After raping the woman he struck her with the blunt end of the knife in the mouth and eye areas.

After 11 p.m. the man looked at a clock and said: "Oh shit — I've got to get out of here." The woman said she remembers the time because she recalled hearing a newscaster on television.

During the first incident the man reportedly entered the woman's apartment through an unlocked door, pulled her from a chair and struggled with her. He left the apartment when she obtained a butcher knife from the kitchen and threatened him.

The woman's husband was at work when both incidents occurred.

Anyone with information about the case may call Canton Police at 397-3000.

Festival parade future is clouded

Everybody loves a parade but few Canton Township residents are willing to do the work.

If the Canton Country Festival committee cannot find a person to chair the parade subcommittee, 1987 will mark the second year that Canton will be without the Canton County Festival parade — a traditional part of the annual event of the same name.

"We do have a lot of people who are willing to work on a parade but we haven't been able to find a chairman for the parade subcommittee," said Bill Simmer, president of the Canton Country Festival committee.

Disinterest also has reduced the size of the main committee, required by bylaws to have 15 members, to eight members.

"Next year's festival is scheduled for June 19, 20, 21. Simmer, who has served on the festival board for four years and the parade committee three years prior to that, believes there still is time to organize a parade.

"Some people in the township have boasted that the parade, which had 125 entries at its high point, was the second largest parade in the state," said Simmer.

He urged persons interested in working on the parade, especially those with parade experience, to call him at home, evenings, 397-3463.

Sewer expected to fail

By Teri Bana
staff writer

County and state officials last week conceded that the proposed North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley Wastewater Control System for western Wayne and south Oakland county probably is dead for this year.

After failing to line up support from 16 suburban communities, the officials say they expect that federal money for the first phase of the three-part, so-called "Son of Super Sewer" will be bypassed this week.

Without some amount of federal money, the project (estimated to cost $110 million based on maximum participation) will not be done.

"We have not made a decision to bypass that project yet, but in the next few days the grants people will make that decision," said Frank Baldwin, chief of the DNR's Surface Water Quality Division, on Friday.

Federal money for the proposed sewer project would have come from the federal Clean Waters Act. Action through the state was needed by this month.

Added county Public Works Director Jim Hamilton: "I don't see any way we'd be in a position to do anything this year. I don't believe the state can afford to hang on before awarding the grant to another Michigan project."

The "Son of Super Sewer," once simply pegged Super Sewer, has been a project proposed in various forms for more than a dozen years.

Besides building a three-arms sewer line, it called for numerous local improvements such as constructing pumping facilities and separating storm water from sanitary sewage in some cases.

Recently, county officials have been negotiating against-the-clock with staffers for Gov. James Blanchard to create a low-interest loan package for local communities that might offer an incentive for participation.

County assistant corporation counsel Michael Duggan said last week, "I think Super Sewer is now dead. We're now looking at a situation where Plymouth-Canton-Northville rejected the project, but it was supported by the townships of Plymouth and Northville. Today, 13 communities have approved it, while Canton rejected it and Plymouth and Northville townships have declined to act.

Instead, the three townships formed a coalition and plan to spend $20,000 each for a feasibility study of joining the Ypsilanti Utilities Community Authority sewer system to the west.

Plymouth Township last week approved the study, and similar approval is expected from the others.

Canton Township, under a building ban imposed by the state Department of Natural Resources because of its pollution problems, is also under a Wayne County Circuit Court order to submit within two weeks its proposal regarding a possible venture with Ypsilanti Utilities.

Eldon Ahles, YUCA's executive director, said last week that YUCA is operating at 45 percent capacity and would welcome participation from the three townships. YUCA today runs a sewer system and treatment plant for Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti Township and contracts for service in several neighboring townships.

HE SAID his board could act on a proposal to service the three Wayne County townships within a month. Then, it would take three years to build a system for them, the same amount of construction time proposed for "Son of Super Sewer."

County assistant corporation counsel Michael Duggan said last week, "I think Super Sewer is now dead. We're now looking at a situation where Plymouth-Canton-Northville rejected the project, but it was supported by the townships of Plymouth and Northville. Today, 13 communities have approved it, while Canton rejected it and Plymouth and Northville townships have declined to act.

Instead, the three townships

formed a coalition and plan to spend $20,000 each for a feasibility study of joining the Ypsilanti Utilities Community Authority sewer system to the west.

Plymouth Township last week approved the study, and similar approval is expected from the others.

Canton Township, under a building ban imposed by the state Department of Natural Resources because of its pollution problems, is also under a Wayne County Circuit Court order to submit within two weeks its proposal regarding a possible venture with Ypsilanti Utilities.

Eldon Ahles, YUCA's executive director, said last week that YUCA is operating at 45 percent capacity and would welcome participation from the three townships. YUCA today runs a sewer system and treatment plant for Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti Township and contracts for service in several neighboring townships.

HE SAID his board could act on a proposal to service the three Wayne County townships within a month. Then, it would take three years to build a system for them, the same amount of construction time proposed for "Son of Super Sewer."

The "Son of Super Sewer," once simply pegged Super Sewer, has been a project proposed in various forms for more than a dozen years.

Besides building a three-arms sewer line, it called for numerous local improvements such as constructing pumping facilities and separating storm water from sanitary sewage in some cases.

Recently, county officials have been negotiating against-the-clock with staffers for Gov. James Blanchard to create a low-interest loan package for local communities that might offer an incentive for participation.

Baskets of Love launched today

The "Baskets Filled With Love" food drive/telethon is being launched again this year by the Plymouth Salvation Army and Omnicom Cablevision.

This year the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce has joined in the campaign with its theme "A Giving Thanks Christmas."

"We are looking forward to a successful year," said Pete Smith, Omnicom telethon chairman. "We already have many participants — churches, service clubs, businesses and schools — who are going to have 'love' boxes to collect canned goods and dry goods."

"Christmas is a major retail event," said Michael Ball, chairman of promotions for the Plymouth Chamber, "and this is a way for the merchants to give back to the community some of the support it has given to us. We have met with tremendous support from Plymouth merchants who are willing to do what they can to help the Salvation Army."

The 1986 food drive will run for four weeks, beginning today. Plymouth merchants are asked to present their collected goods at the "Giving Thanks Parade" on Friday, Nov. 28. The food can be picked up by calling the Salvation Army.

Canton, Northville and Plymouth donors can continue collecting until the "Baskets Filled With Love" telethon is aired on Dec. 6. Any merchant, school, service club or church which contributes will be invited to appear on Omnicom's live telethon to discuss how they collected goods and share information about their group.

The telethon will begin at noon on Saturday, Dec. 6, on Channel 8. "It will continue as long as the community responds by calling in pledges of support or dropping off canned goods at the studio," said Smith.

Omnicom's studio is south of Joy between Hagerty and Lilley, behind the Skatin' Station roller rink. The telethon also will feature visits from celebrities and this year will include an auction.

THE GIVING THANKS Christmas of the C-C will include many activities in Plymouth such as Senior Citizens Day (Nov. 22), Giving Thanks Parade, tree lighting and Santa Arrival (Nov. 28), Old Village Christmas Walk (Nov. 29, 30), Children's Lunch With Santa (Dec. 7), Music Weekend (Dec. 13, 14), and Free Movies at the Penn Theater/Last Chance Shopping for Parents (Dec. 21).

Barbara Wade, Christmas Committee chairman for the Plymouth Chamber, said: "This could be Plymouth's best Christmas ever. We're looking forward to working with Omnicom and getting everyone involved in giving this year."

of the Salvation Army here, added: "Already the Christmas spirit is beginning to flow. We feel the warmth and generosity of schools and area groups. With the addition of the Plymouth Chamber, and the already good work of Omnicom Cable, this will be an exciting Christmas for the Salvation Army and the people in these communities we serve."

Maria Holmes, Omnicom program director, said: "The best thing about 'Baskets Filled With Love' food drive/telethon is that we have started a unified way of giving and made the community more aware of the need."

Businesses, churches, organizations, clubs and schools already have received a letter about being involved with collecting goods this year. Anyone not contacted who wants to become involved, are who are in need of a Love Box, may contact Omnicom at 459-7321 or the Plymouth Chamber at 453-1540.

Other organizers working on the drive this year from Omnicom are Kellie Morse and Samatha Greene and from the Chamber Betty Nelson, Elsie Walley, Sue Gansler, Nancy Ball, Dolly Ettenhoffer, Barbara Jefferies, Helen Ferguson, Ronnie Sebek, and Pamela Slick.

Would a prestigious optical store like NuVision resort to gimmicks like coupons during their Fall Sale?

(Couldn't hurt.)

There are those who consider it a bit undignified to offer quality eyewear at a discount price.

In most cases, the people who feel this way are the people who sell eyeglasses or contact lenses. Not the people who buy them.

After all, most people in the market for designer frames welcome the opportunity to save as much as $40 on their next pair of glasses. They don't mind taking scissors in hand in order to pay $20 less for a pair of daily wear soft or extended wear contact lenses.

But, if the prospect of clipping coupons out of a newspaper strikes you as a bit unseemly, feel free to continue paying too much for the latest innovations in eye care. The rest of us will be holding these coupons in our hot little hands and heading to NuVision before the big Fall Sale ends Nov. 22.

Ranking minister lived life of service

By Tim Smith
 Staff writer

It was a grim scene never before witnessed at Franklin Club Apartments, according to residents and the general manager of the Southfield-based senior citizens complex.

All day Thursday, a row of police vehicles — including a crime lab unit — were lined up outside 28307 Franklin, and the elderly residents had no idea what had happened.

Finally the word leaked out that Dr. Frank Madsen, 61, a retired prominent Lutheran minister, had been brutally murdered in his third-floor apartment.

Dr. Madsen previously lived in Livonia and was a member of Holy Cross Lutheran Church in Livonia.

HE WAS pronounced dead at the scene by police after suffering multiple stab wounds to the torso. He was found on the floor at about 11:30 a.m. Thursday by a housekeeper making her daily rounds.

Police, who have no motives or witnesses in the case, say Dr. Madsen had died at least 12 hours before he was discovered.

There were no signs of forced entry into Madsen's apartment, according to police information officer Gary Conat. While nothing appeared to have been stolen, there were "indications of a limited search" by the intruder, he said.

APARTMENT GENERAL manager Richard P. Ryan still could not believe what happened when interviewed Friday afternoon.

"We don't even have theft of pocket books around here," a disturbed Ryan said. "I've been wracking my brain, and I can't think of any motive. It's not like he was hated."

"We're not dealing with young people who may have marital problems. The people here respect life so much, they rarely raise their voices to each other."

Ryan, who said that Dr. Madsen ate dinner in the apartment dining room at about 6 p.m. Wednesday, stressed that he never knew of the victim having any problems with other residents or staff members.

AN AUTOPSY was performed Friday by the Oakland County Medical Examiner's office, which determined the official cause of death as multiple stab wounds to the chest (torso).

Dr. Madsen was bludgeoned as well, Conat said, adding that police are looking for anything that could have been "used as a blunt object" in the attack.

No weapons from outside the apartment were found at the scene.

WHILE POLICE have no motives for the murder, Ryan also questioned how the intruder made his way into Dr. Madsen's apartment.

All doors are locked at night, according to Ryan, general manager at the complex for six years. Nighttime visitors must gain entrance from the tenants, which total 380 to 400.

Only one door, inside the entrance lobby of the building where the victim lived, is unlocked during the day, Ryan added. That door, used by employees to gain access to a nearby break area, is locked after 4 p.m.

A seven-member security staff polices the buildings and grounds.

Ryan said the murder will require a re-evaluation of security measures.

RANKING HIGH among Dr. Madsen's concerns were church unity, human rights and racial equality, according to the bishop. Dr. Madsen served on a church unity commission in the 1950s and on the first State Coordinating Committee on Fair Employment Practices. He was considered an able administrator and a competent theologian.

"He had a great deal of compassion and understanding of people's problems and needs," Bishop Heine recalled. "He also could be strong willed and stood firmly for his convictions."

The church leader also had his lighter moments.

"One happy memory is that he was a Detroit Tiger fan. It was fun to go to the ball park with him. The last time we did was in the summer of 1984. He really enjoyed that. He kept score and everything," Heine said.

He had been interested in baseball since 1934. When he couldn't go to a game, he watched it on TV."

DR. MADSEN HAD served as pastor of Detroit churches Redeemer Lutheran from 1930-36, Memorial Lutheran from 1936-42 and of Hope Lutheran from 1942-1953.

His retirement didn't leave him without church affiliations.

He lived in an apartment in the Six Mile-Middlebelt area of Livonia before moving to Southfield, and he was a member of Holy Cross Lutheran. Shortly after he retired, he took a trip to the Holy Land, led by Holy Cross pastor the Rev. William Lindholm.

"He went to church every Sunday except last Sunday," said Lindholm. "This is pledge time here. He had fallen and couldn't come, but his card came in the mail. So he was still taking care of church responsibilities."

That's how his family remembers him — "loveable and always happy," said daughter Lewis.

Services for Dr. Madsen are at 11 a.m. Monday at Holy Cross Church, 30620 Six Mile, Livonia. Burial is in Glen Eden Cemetery, also in Livonia.

Dr. Madsen is survived by two daughters, Grable and Arlayne Lewis of Livonia; son Frank Jr.; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. His wife died three years ago.

Memorial donations may be made to the American cancer society.

During Dr. Madsen's tenure, the chief executive for the Lutheran synod was called the president, a position now carrying the title of bishop. From 1952-62, Dr. Madsen was president of the Michigan Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America. After a merger in 1962, he was the first president of the Lutheran Church in America's Michigan Synod.

"He was very interested in the mission outreach of the church," said Bishop Raymond A. Heine, current synod leader.

"When he became president in 1952, there were 30 congregations. Within the next nine years, there were 42 new ones added, largely through his leadership in the lower peninsula of Michigan."

Asks return to original signs

To the editor:

Upon my recent return from a year in Germany, I was pleasantly surprised to discover that American parents had the same opportunity that German parents have had for quite some time.

That opportunity is to be able to buy small yellow and black cautionary signs for the rear car window that advise other drivers to drive carefully because children were in the car.

While driving in Europe, I knew instantly to drive cautiously upon seeing one of these signs. I did not have to be close enough to the other car to read the sign's message because all of the signs stated either "Baby on board" or "Children in car."

As I drove more in the USA, however, I noticed that not all of these yellow and black signs displayed short ludicrous messages such as "Ex-wife in trunk" or "Hunk in trunk" which serve no other purpose than to distract other drivers. (The "hunk" must not be very "hunkish" if the driver does not allow him to sit in an passenger seat like anyone else.)

These ridiculous placards also defeat the purpose of concerned parents. The "Baby on board" signs were sold to be an automatic signal to other drivers stating that this car has young lives on board, be careful! Since the onslaught of these ridiculous signs, drivers have become accustomed to seeing them constantly and are desensitized and indifferent to the original "Baby on board" message.

I am appealing to the people who own such signs. If your sign does not state either "Baby on board" or "Children in car," please, take it out of your car. I also would like to ask the manufacturers and retailers to neither make nor sell the ridiculous signs that do not have safety as a goal.

The safety of children is far more important than making a buck.

Women ran numerous businesses here in 1930s

(Part 6)

Women comprised at least 27 of the entrepreneurs who conducted businesses in Plymouth 45 years ago.

The 1939 "Red Book" shows that women were the active owners of a magazine service, dress shops, dressmaking establishments, egg and poultry firms, a restaurant, antique shops, real estate agencies, music studios, a hospital and a collection agency.

Ada Daggett sold magazines and had a public stenographic business at 496 Ann Street. Norma Cassidy's dress shop was at 834 Penniman Ave. but later moved to the old Corner Hardware Store space at the corner of Penniman and Main. Evelyn Stanlike was the proprietor of Evelyn's Dress Shop at 842 Penniman.

Two dressmakers were listed in the Red Book: Zella Boyd at 272 S. Main, and Carrie M. Kissabeth at 399 Ann St. Mrs. Louis E. Jennings sold poultry and eggs at 9355 Butwell St. as did Mrs. Ralph Keger at 35800 E. Ann Arbor Trail. Marie's Grill was at 272 S. Main. I don't have Marie's last name.

Three women were in the antique business: Viola Dailey at 409 Plymouth Road, Helen C. Dale at 1287 S. Main and Jessie Worden at 383 N. Main. Two were in real estate: Mrs. R.A. Wingard at 257 Liberty St. and Mrs. R.R. Parrott at 583 W. Ann Arbor Trail.

Four women gave music lessons: Melissa Roe at 580 Starkweather, Hanna Strauss at 233 S. Main, Florence E. Crandall at 974 Church St. and Mrs. Michael J. O'Connor at 364 Sunset Ave.

The West sisters, Lena and Alma, operated the Plymouth Hospital at 218 S. Main. Nine women operated the beauty shops whose details were given in an earlier column. And the manager of the Michigan Bureau of Credit, which made collections "anywhere in the U.S.," was Caroline O. Dayton, who also was the publisher of the "Red Book."

Now BACK TO some more of the men who were in business in Plymouth in 1939.

William B. Erdelyi was doing sheet metal work in a building at the past and present

rear of his home at 751 Forest Ave. Among other things he made excellent gutters and leaders for houses. I know, because Jessie and I bought his house and the shop behind it from his widow, Rebecca Erdelyi. The gutters on the house are some of the sturdiest I have ever seen.

The Erdelyis were the parents of a number of children, including Robert Erdelyi, who has operated a heating and sheet metal business at 1471 Goldsmith for many years.

Two photographers were listed in the Red Book: Romeo Wood at 1165 W. Ann Arbor Trail, and L.L. Ball at 295 S. Main. I interviewed Romeo Wood about 20 years ago when I was doing my pictorial history of Plymouth. He told me he was sorry I hadn't come to see him a week earlier. He had just taken his 50-year collection of photos on glass plates out in the back yard and smashed them to bits.

Romeo told me he made a movie of Plymouth in about 1920. He gave the original print of the movie to the Village of Plymouth, telling the officials to whom he handed it that it should be stored in a cool place. A few years later, he discovered his advice had not been taken and the print was of no use. Romeo's wife Dora was 99 this year.

cal Museum and in private collections. John Gaffield took over Ball's business, then moved across the street where the Gaffield Photo Studio is now located on Ann Arbor Trail across from Saxton's Garden Center.

THE RED BOOK listed six physicians and surgeons who were practicing here in 1939.

Most of them are no longer living. There was Dr. Harold J. Briscois at 292 S. Main, Dr. J.H. Kelly at 249 S. Main, Dr. Luther Peck at 771 W. Ann Arbor Trail and Dr. H.C. Rufus at 504 S. Main. Dr. Walter Hammond may be the only one of the group now living.

Dr. Briscois was the city health officer in 1949 when the entire City Commission, minus Ruth Huston Whipple, was recalled by the electorate. After the recall, Dr. Briscois and City Attorney Claude Buzzard handed in their resignations due, said the Detroit Times, "to disgust on their part with the turbulent situation stirred up by the election."

Briscois and Buzzard both served on the Plymouth Board of Education.

Dr. Luther Peck succeeded Dr. A.B. Patterson as health officer in 1935. Peck, a homeopathic physician, also served on the Plymouth Board of Education. He is the man credited with seeing that the section of Tonquish Creek that runs through the business district was piped and covered over in the late 1930s. Prior to that it had been a health hazard.

1929, the year the Red Book appeared, was the year the City Planning Commission was studying the advisability of acquiring property for the construction of a parking lot at the rear of the Main Street business block. The lot was built where the Central Parking Lot structure now is located.

County runs into cash shortfall

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Wayne County is forestalling an impending cash shortfall by preparing to borrow $30 million to cover its expenses this month.

County Treasurer Raymond Woytowicz said borrowing against next year's tax collection "is the only route that we can go. It's got to be done."

County Executive William Lucas agreed last week, and sent an emergency request to the county board of commissioners calling for its approval to clear the way.

Woytowicz said that it will take at least three weeks to put the proposals together and contact the state treasury.

"From all indications, based on our earlier projections, without borrowing we'd face a severe deficit position beginning the first week of December," said Woytowicz.

The shortfall has come in the final month of the county's more than $200 million general fund budget.

IN A LETTER Lucas sent the commission Thursday, he said he decided against raising new funds through the sale of some 900 acres of county-owned land in Northville Township when offers for the property fell considerably short of what was anticipated.

For weeks, Lucas officials have said they were relying on that land sale, once estimated to generate $22.5 million, to cover the budget crunch.

He now called the borrowing "necessary" and timing "critical."

He wrote that attempts to send out tax bills Nov. 1 in order to collect additional revenues by Nov. 15 were unsuccessful because of "technical difficulties."

Nonetheless, a spokesman for Lucas, Mike Conway, said they hoped the tax money would come in early and that loans might not be necessary.

The money is expected to cover county employee payrolls, vendors' payments and other obligations. Coming up this month, Nov. 15, the county is expected to repay $24 million from the state mental health fund after an earlier need to cover expenses.

Reportedly, only $14 million of that amount would have been spent by that time.

Other county officials have been calling on Lucas to begin borrowing procedures for weeks.

Legal service program features renters' rights

A workshop on renters' rights and responsibilities is planned for 1-3 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 20, at the Thomas J. Coleman Center, 35351 Beverly, west of Merriman, in Romulus.

The speaker will be LaRue Davis, a staff attorney for the Wayne County Neighborhood Legal Services office in Inkster. The program is co-sponsored with the American Progressive Association.

Woytowicz, along with individual county commissioners and commission chairman Richard Manning, D-Redford, publicly noted the financial problems.

In addition, Edward McNamara, who replaces Lucas as county executive in January, announced recently that his auditors found a similar emergency need.

Lucas originally resisted until last Thursday, two days after failing in his gubernatorial bid, when he sent a request to the county board asking that steps begin.

This will be the first time the county has had to borrow money against future tax collections since before the charter change and the executive form of government was enacted four years ago.

Other programs will include family law and welfare law topics.

Wayne County Legal Services provides free, civil legal services to low-income residents of Wayne County. There is an office at 1547 Middlebelt in Inkster to serve this area.

There is no cost for the workshop. Space is limited. Call 721-3684 for reservations.

Property tax reform discussed

"Property tax reform for Michigan" will be the subject of a presentation and discussion by Steven Young, manager of Taxation and regulatory affairs for the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 19.

The meeting, sponsored by the Wayne County Taxpayers' Association, will take place at the Canfield Community Center, 1801 N. Beech Daly, Dearborn Heights. A $1 fee will be charged.

Chamber hosts Warren Pierce

Warren Pierce, host of WJR's radio's Mid-Day Magazine, will be the featured speaker at the Livonia Chamber of Commerce Wednesday, Nov. 19 in Roma's, 27777 Schoolcraft, just west of Inkster.

The price is $7.

Superb! Head ignites Salem romp

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

Kim who? Plymouth Salem's all-state junior Dena Head is rapidly setting a new standard of excellence for Observerland girls basketball. Her 31-point performance Thursday in Salem's 62-37 win at Westland John Glenn brought on more comparisons with the previous standard of excellence: former Livonia Bentley star Kim Archer.

A few more performances like Thursday's and Head may earn the ultimate Archer distinction: On the court, she was a woman among girls. "I think Dena got a little excited tonight," understated Salem coach Fred Thomann. "But I think the whole team got excited to play tonight, too. And that was real important for us. It's been a while since we have been in a position to have to crank it up and make a super concentrated effort. Our kids did that tonight and the result was a 25-point win."

GLENN JUMPED out to a quick 5-0 lead. Two possessions later, it was 5-5. A three-point play by Keri McBride and a Jessica Handley basket brought the Rocks even.

Then Head took over. She closed out the first quarter by scoring 10 of Salem's last 12 points,

girls basketball

helping the Rocks build a 17-12 lead. She scored 12 of Salem's 14 second quarter points and made two steals. It was a 31-19 spread at the half.

Head flashed most of her plentiful skills in one sequence of that second quarter. She outjumped two Glenn players for a defensive rebound, shrugged off the Glenn players, then dribbled (flew?) the length of the court for an easy layup. The closest Glenn pursuer got to the top key as Head was laying the ball into the basket. Explosive.

Foul trouble kept Head on the bench much of the third quarter. While she sat, Jessica Handley picked up the slack. Handley, who transferred to Salem from Glenn three years ago, scored seven of her 17 points in the third quarter.

Head finished off her 31-point night with nine in the fourth quarter. She managed 10 rebounds and four steals on the night, as well.

CAMOUFLAGED BY the individual brilliance of Head and Handley was a superb defensive effort by the Rocks. After giving up 12 first-quarter points, Salem didn't yield a field goal for the next 1 1/2 quarters.

The key for the Rocks was stopping Glenn's Jenny Okon. Okon scored 10 points in the first quarter and finished with 13.

"Jenny Okon, I feel, is a premier player," Thomann said. "We spent a lot of time getting ready to play her. Our defense is very team-oriented so it's hard to credit individuals. But I thought Stacy Sovine came in when Keri McBride got into foul trouble and gave us a great game. And I thought Barb Krug gave us four great minutes filling up the middle."

GLENN COACH Pat Bennett was hardly distraught over the defeat. In fact, when asked if he thought his team could get beaten so badly in its own gym he said: "Yes."

Then added: "Let me put it this way. It doesn't bother me. We face them again."

The Rocks and Rockets are in the same Class A district.

Salem (16-0 in the league, 17-1 overall) will host Plymouth Canton on Friday for the Western Lakes conference championship. Glenn (12-4 in the league, 14-4 overall) will host either Northville or Walled Lake Western on Thursday.

STEVE FECHT/staff photographer

Dena Head, Plymouth Salem's all-state junior, scored 31 points and grabbed 10 rebounds in the Rocks' decisive 62-37 win at John Glenn Thursday.

Chiefs outslug Northville

Regardless of what happens the rest of the way, the Plymouth Canton girls basketball program has established itself as a perennial front-runner in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

With its 38-23 victory against Northville Thursday, the Chiefs finished with a 12-4 league mark, 13-6 overall. For the second straight year, they have won the Western Division championship and will play rival Plymouth Salem for the Western Lakes championship Friday at Salem.

This year's accomplishment takes on a greater significance considering the team lost three starters from last year's team and started two juniors and a sophomore most of this season.

Nothing came easy for the Chiefs this year and Thursday's regular season finale symbolized the team's struggle.

AFTER A bruising first quarter, Canton led 4-0 against Northville. The spread was 13-11 at the half.

Things began to click for Canton in the third quarter and they put the Mustangs away with a 13-4 run.

"It was just physical, and both teams were jittery. There were turnovers all over the place," Canton coach Rob Neu said of the first half. "We just needed to settle down, slow ourselves down and set some picks. Once we did that (in the third quarter) we got better shots and better offensive production."

Karen Boluch and Tory Barger led the Chiefs with 10 points each. Penny Piggott scored eight points, grabbed 13 rebounds and made five steals.

Northville is 9-7 in the league and 10-9 on the season.

FRANKLIN 52, CHURCHILL

43: According to Livonia Franklin coach Dan Freeman, "My girls were not to be denied."

The Patriots proved it with a ferocious second-half rally, overcoming a terrible first quarter that saw Livonia Churchill go up 16-3. The Chargers still had a commanding 29-18 lead at the half.

But Franklin turned it around in the third quarter. The Patriots went to a full-court press and outthrusted Churchill and, combined with a reduction in their own turnovers, outscored the Chargers 17-4 to go ahead, 35-33.

Franklin (5-12 overall, 5-10 in the Western Lakes) kept the momentum going in the last quarter to outpoint Churchill 17-10. Cathy Cruz led the Patriots with 17 points. Rose Obey chipped in 13, while 5-foot-7 forward Maria Vasselou nabbed 12 rebounds.

Julie Scruggs topped Churchill (9-8 overall, 8-8 in the WLAA) with 18 points.

CIVIL 48, HAMTRAMCK

35: Diane Lindsey, Karen Young and Kelly Anspach scored 11 points apiece and Livonia Clarenceville outscored Hamtramck 28-14 in the second half to roll to the victory Thursday.

After the Trojans (5-7 in the Metro Conference, 7-11 overall) posted a 12-7 scoring surge in the third quarter, Hamtramck switched defenses — to no avail. Hamtramck's player-to-player defense sent Clarenceville to the line 20 times in the final period. The Trojans hit 10 and outpointed Hamtramck 16-7.

Metrel Moore's eight points was best for Hamtramck.

Ocelots capture soccer playoff

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Sometimes, it's not talent nor experience nor breaks that makes a champion. Sometimes, it's just a matter of not making mistakes.

Schoolcraft College used that formula to collect its third-straight Eastern Conference title Saturday at Eastern Michigan University with a 1-0 playoff victory over Macomb CC.

The Ocelots won the title almost in spite of themselves. It was not a well-played game. But they prevailed, and that's what counts. The win puts the Ocelots in the NJCAA regional tournament this weekend in Dupage, Ill.

In two earlier games against MCC, it was evident SC had the superior talent. The Ocelots won both, 6-1 and 1-0. As for experience, more than half of SC's current team were members of last season's championship.

So SC had the edge in talent and experience over MCC. The Monarchs, though, got the breaks Saturday — most notably to John Gelmini. The Ocelot star forward got loose on a breakaway 10 minutes into the game but was pulled down by MCC defender Vinnie Popovski.

THE PLAY turned out to be double-trouble for SC. Gelmini was carried off the field. Preliminary diagnosis was a broken ankle.

Then the official ruled — incorrectly, he later admitted — that although Gelmini had been pulled down in the penalty box, he had hit the ball with his hand. It was actually a miscommunication between officials; it was learned later that the MCC defender was the one who hit the ball with his hand.

Instead of a penalty kick, SC got an indirect kick outside the penalty area.

The Ocelots, though, played above their own mistakes and that by the official, then took advantage of a serious — silly, really — misplay by MCC keeper Tom Jones.

With 24 minutes left in the opening half, SC was awarded a direct kick just outside the penalty box after Brett Murphy was pulled down. Scott Steiner, the SC sweeperback from Plymouth Salem, set the ball and scanned the defense.

"The goalkeeper," Steiner said later, "was lined up behind the wall instead of in the open area. The whole (left) side of the net was wide open."

Steiner didn't hesitate. He buried the ball into the corner for what proved to be the only goal of the game.

Both teams had other chances. But a gusting wind ruined the passing game.

"There's no doubt the wind was a factor," said SC coach Van Dimitriou. "Our game is ball control. With this wind that was impossible."

SC scored its goal into the wind. With it at their backs in the second half, the Ocelots controlled play, thanks to fine performances by Steiner and keeper Jeff Vakraitsis.

"Steiner played outstanding," said Dimitriou. "And Jeff gave up one goal to this team in three games, and they are the second-best in the conference. He made no mistakes."

The Monarchs did. That's why their season is over.

Salem runners among area elite

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

FIGURE 28 TEAMS, with seven runners per team, vying for top honors at the Class A state cross country finals and it suddenly becomes clear just how close Farmington's contingent came to a championship.

Reposition one or two spots, and the Falcons might have won. It could have gotten them the needed seven points to overtake winner Swartz Creek.

And yet, such what-ifs demean an outstanding season. Farmington, for the second straight season, won both the boys and girls titles in the Western Lakes Activities Association. Chris Inch, Farmington's best male runner, was fourth at state. Four of the seven members on the boys team ran personal best times at state.

FARMINGTON'S GIRLS placed sixth in the state team standings, with all seven runners posting personal best times.

But just as the state final and the seven points that separated the Falcons from a title cast an unwarranted shadow on their season, what Farmington accomplished forces some solid individual performances into the background.

In the girls Class A individual race, Livonia Churchill's Karen Kantor placed fifth. In the boys Class A individual race, Dan Liedel of Westland John Glenn was 13th; Matt Smith of Redford Bishop Borgess was 17th; Bill Atwell of Plymouth Salem was 22nd, and Derrick Allen of Wayne Memorial was 23rd. In the ### cross country

Class B girls individual race, Livonia Ladywood's Janine Kloc finished ninth.

So there were all sorts of fine individual performances turned in on the season's final day — which is why the Observer takes this time to honor the best of those with our all-area boys and girls cross country teams. We'll start with the girls.

ALL-AREA GIRLS FIRST TEAM

Karen Kantor, Churchill: Besides finishing fifth at the state meet (19:20), Kantor, a junior, was first in the WLAA meet, second at the Schoolcraft Invitational, fifth at the Ann Arbor state regional. She was an all-state selection. "She responds well to the challenge of the big meets," Charger coach Dave Westover said.

Janine Kloc, Ladywood: Kloc, a senior, rebounded after missing her entire junior season due to injury to earn all-state, all-regional (where she finished first) and all-Catholic League honors (second). She was unbeaten in dual meets and was second in the Operation Friendship meet. Her ability to chase down lead runners and strong leg speed indicate she can still improve.

Michelle Gayney, Redford Bishop Borgess: Spartan coach John McGreevy called Gayney "the fiercest competitor on our team. If she played football, she'd probably play middle linebacker." And Gayney's only a sophomore. She was 33rd at state (20:20), fourth at the Royal Oak Kimball regional and fourth in the Catholic League. She's been all-Catholic League two straight seasons.

Farmington runners set pace for elite squad

Kelly Dooley, Borgess: Dooley finished her career as a senior by placing 10th in the state finals (20:13). The team captain was all-Catholic League the last two seasons and placed fifth in the league meet and 10th in the Kimball regional. Dooley also has a rare distinction: As a junior she competed in the state finals in three sports: cross country, track (3,200-meter relay) and volleyball (state runners-up).

Pauline Eldridge, Westland John Glenn: Eldridge's best races came at season's end. The senior team captain was 10th among individual runners and 15th overall at the regional and placed 32nd in the state individual race. Her season's best was 20:06 at Walled Lake Central. She ran a 20:17 at state.

Bonnie Stecker, Farmington: Stecker, a junior, broke the school record by running a 19:35. And she did it at the best of times — at the state team finals. Stecker was first in the city meet, third at both WJLA meet and Schoolcraft Invitational and fifth at the Oakland County meet. At state she placed 27th.

Jennifer Kiel, Farmington: Kiel's 15:40 at the Ann Arbor regional was the team best until Stecker beat it at the state finals. Kiel, only a freshman, was fourth in the WJLA and at Schoolcraft, seventh at the regional and 10th in the county. "She's a terrific talent with a bright future," coach John Barrett said.

Nicole Jelley, Farmington: Perhaps Jelley's greatest compliment is that, on a team of superior talent, she was captain last year. The senior was seventh at Schoolcraft, eighth at the Redford Union Invitational, 10th at the West Bloomfield Invitational and 55th at state in a season-best 20:25.

Tina Koons, Livonia Franklin: Patriot coach Steve Doleway spares no praise when speaking of his sophomore standout. "She is Franklin's best cross country runner ever," Koons was 17th at the Ann Arbor regional with a season-best 20:12 and placed 47th in the state individual race. She won seven of nine dual meets and ran under 21:00 six times.

Alice Jewell, North Farmington: Talk about a hectic schedule. Jewell, a senior, plays two sports for North — at the same time. She is on the swim team, too. Jewell was all-WJLA, finishing fifth in the league meet, and placed fifth at Schoolcraft. Her season-best time of 20:18 came in the John Glenn dual meet, in which she placed first.

SECOND TEAM

Lori Penland, Plymouth Canton
Shannon Donnelly, Plymouth Salem
Jenny Anderson, Farmington Harrison
Karen Kuhl, Livonia Stevenson
Ginger Rowland, Westland John Glenn
Anna Quenneville, Farmington
Amy Trunk, Farmington
Lisa Mickey, Plymouth Salem
Donna Chuba, North Farmington
Jenny Kryger, Livonia Franklin
Honorable mention: Bishop Borgess:

22nd in the individual race at state and was Salem's top runner all season.

Kevin Jones, Salem: The team captain and a senior, Jones was a valuable asset for the Rocks. His best performance of the season was in the state regional (18:52). He ran a 17:09 at the Pioneer Invitational and placed 64th in the state individual race with a 17:10.

Chris Hart, Farmington Harrison: Hart placed sixth in the Class B regional, was third at the Walled Lake Invitational and took ninth at the Schoolcraft Invitational. A junior, he was named to the all-WJLA Western Division team, and he finished first five times in dual meets. At the Class B finals, Hart took 60th in the team race in 17:15.

Matt Smith, Bishop Borgess: Smith, a junior, finished in the top 10 in 10 meets this season. He was second at the Spartan and Ypsilanti Invitational, fourth in Operation Friendship, fifth in the Catholic League, sixth in the Dearborn Invitational and 10th in the regional. The all-Catholic League choice was 17th in the state individual race in a season-best 16:18.

Jerry Young and John Barrett, Farmington, Coaches of the Year: Who else? Young has built a dynasty of sorts with his boys program. He led them to a second-place state finish, the best in Farmington history. Barrett has built a state contender out of nothing in four years. Farmington didn't field a complete girls team four years ago and now they were No. 6 in the state.

ALL-AREA BOYS FIRST TEAM

Chris Inch, Farmington: There were very few challenges left for Inch, a senior. He's a two-time all-state selection, won his regional race twice, was all-American last year, twice won Oakland County meet and Schoolcraft Invitational and three times reigned in the WJLA. Inch was consistent, running 15:40 at state and 15:43 at the regional. His "attitude and outstanding desire to win," according to coach Dan Lidel, John Glenn: Lidel's only dual-meet defeat came against Inch. The senior was first at both the Alpena and Livonia Franklin Invitational, third at Schoolcraft, fourth at the RU invite, 10th overall in the regional (fourth in individual race) and 29th overall at state (13th in individual race). His best times were 16:04 against Farmington and 16:09 at state.

Al Stebbins, Farmington: Despite a great season for the team, it was frustrating for Stebbins, a senior. Injuries forced him to miss six of 14 meets. Still, he finished fourth in the regionals in a season-best 16:09 and was 20th at state (16:17). "He's one of the best runners we have ever had at Farmington," Young said.

Brandon London, Farmington: A junior, London was a transfer from Nebraska who fit right in with the Falcons. His 16:19 at state was good for 23rd in the team race. He also finished second in the WJLA meet and displayed a toughness in the big meets. He'll be the backbone of Farmington's team next year.

Derrick Allen, Wayne Memorial: Allen's 23rd-in-the-state individual race capped a season of strong performances. The junior won the Eastern Michigan University Invitational and was on all-regional teams at New Boston Huron, Schoolcraft, Wayne, Downriver and Wolverine A League.

Greg Boller, Catholic Central: Boller was CC's most consistent runner. The junior was an all-Catholic League selection, running a season-best 16:31 at the Hasset Invitational. He placed 70th in the state individual race in 17:16.

Bill Atwell, Plymouth Salem: Atwell, a junior, posted his best times of the season at at Buhr Park: 16:43 at the regionals, 16:38 at the Pioneer Invitational and 16:21 at the state meet. An all-WJLA selection, Atwell finished

Blazers singe Mercy cagers in OT

By Brad Emons staff writer

Emotions ran the gamut Thursday as Livonia Ladywood came away with a 48-44 overtime win over Catholic League girls basketball rival Farmington Hills Mercy in an A-B Division semifinal at Bishop Borgess High in Redford.

The victorious coach, Ed Kavanaugh, described the harrowing finish as "typical" between the two teams.

"We haven't gotten the consistency we wanted throughout the year, but I knew we were a better team than we've shown and tonight we wanted to prove it," said Kavanaugh, whose team earned a berth in the finals against Birmingham Marian, a 51-47 winner over Dearborn Divine Child in the nightcap of a double-header.

With something to prove, Ladywood overcame a series of peaks and valleys to win the third meeting between the two teams, who split during the regular season.

Leading by as many as 11 points in the first half, Mercy appeared to have the game well in hand before going totally numb in the third quarter, scoring only one point to Ladywood's 13.

THE MOMENTUM continued to swing Ladywood's way in the fourth quarter with the Blazers taking a seven-point lead, only to have Mercy revive itself down the stretch, capped by Margaret DeMatia's game-tying free throw with seven seconds left in regulation play to make it 40-40.

The three-minute overtime started with Monica Gall scoring her only two points of the game, followed by Katie McNulty's basket, two of her game-high 16 points on the night.

Meanwhile, Mercy missed the front ends of a pair of one-and-one free throw opportunities and committed a pair of costly turnovers.

Ladywood's Ann Marie Thomas then connected on two free throws with only 34 seconds left to secure the victory, Ladywood's 13th in 18 games.

"There was a drastic contrast between the first and the second half," said Kavanaugh. "At halftime I got them mad at me, but I can't tell you why I said it."

MERCY'S DISASTEROUS third quarter was summed up succinctly by coach Larry Baker.

"There was no question that a consecutive string of fouls really took us out of the game and changed the momentum," he said. "It caused us to be far more tentative. The fouls took the momentum off their back, plus it stopped the clock and put the monkey back on us. It caused us to be far more tentative."

With DeMatia on the bench because of fouls and Adrienne Clark limited in playing time because of a sore ankle, only point-guard Yvette Mason could find the hoop with any regularity.

The senior standout had things going pretty much her way in the first half, scoring 16 points. But in the second half, she was held to three and got little help elsewhere except from DeMatia, a 5-foot-10 senior forward who finished strong with 11.

"I FELT WE were in a situation for a long time where Yvette was our only scorer," said Baker, whose team fell to 13-5 overall. "I remember two shots (during the third quarter) where we had layups and misses. All we needed was one and it could have relaxed and reminded us how we were running our offense."

McNulty, a 6-2 junior, was a tower of strength on the boards, but the Blazers also got a strong contribution from Nancy Wagner, who tallied eight points off the bench. Point guard Nicole Ewald also chipped in, canning a pair of outside jumpers to loosen Mercy's zone in the third period.

"I'm pleased with the job we did defensively," said Baker. "But the foul situation gave them the opportunity to get a foot back in the game. And once that happened I saw our confidence change and I think we lost our poise a little bit."

Did you know Chiropractic is a proven scientific method of health care? In research laboratories around the world there is proof that pinched spinal nerves lead to poor body function and ill health. Chiropractors have known this for years, others are now agreeing.

You may have seen Dr. Mashike's advertisements, you have read testimonials by his patients. He has helped hundreds return to health and kept as many from being sick in his eleven years of practice.

Dr. Mashike has a modern health maintenance plan wherein your spine can be checked for potential pinched nerves and if found eliminated before they cause ill health.

Answer these:

Skip 'Quiet Cool' but catch 'True Stories'

While movies may not be better than ever, according to trade-paper reports there's a lot more of them. Variety recently noted 383 Hollywood film starts this year as against 282 in the same period of 1985.

Many of these new films are intended primarily for cable, cassette or export. You'll probably never have an opportunity to view many of them, given current distribution patterns.

And you probably wouldn't want to, given their poor production values and low quality. Unless you appreciate every old-time Western cliché liberally laced with explicit violence, "Quiet Cool" (R) is one of those to miss.

Apparently the film is based loosely on drug enforcement agency experiences with criminal corruption and marijuana farming in North California and elsewhere. But the film is so heavily crammed with trite images that this contemporary Western shoots itself in the foot before the first reel is finished.

You want to know who Mr. Big was? Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope — it's cheaper than going to the movie, even on dollar night, and more fun.

THE GREER FAMILY lives in the northern California woods. Joshua Greer (Adam Coleman Howard) sees his parents, Stephen and Rachel, brutally murdered by the gangsters who are "herdin' mariju- na in them parts."

The gang is led by Valence (Nick Cassavetes), who plays the deadpan, sadistic villain with a consummate lack of emotion. He doesn't demonstrate much acting skill either, particularly for being the son of actor-director John Cassavetes and actress Gena Rowlands.

But then why should he? "Quiet Cool" doesn't demonstrate much imagination, as Joshua takes to the woods and survives the gang that murdered his parents. His Aunt Katy (Daphne Ashbrook) just happens to have an old boyfriend, tough New York cop Joe Dillon (James Remar), who hops a plane west in the middle of an arrest, just because she called.

You can figure out the rest, as Joe hooks up with Joshua to wipe out the bad guys using every old trick and visual platitude imaginable. Naturally they stride into the small Northern California town for the final shoot-out. You want to know who Mr. Big was? Send me a stamp, self-addressed envelope — it's cheaper than going to the movie, even on dollar night, and more fun.

Totally on the other side of town is David Byrne's extremely clever and very entertaining "True Stories" (PG), a pleasant, whimsical view of American culture.

DAVID BYRNE, best known as leader of the popular rock band, Talking Heads, makes a very auspicious debut as film director and star on-screen narrator as he drives around the mythical, small Texas town of Virgil.

David Byrne of the Talking Heads narrates "True Stories" as he drives around the fictional town of Virgil, in the offbeat, entertaining film he also directed.

A whole bunch of familiar folks live in Virgil. They are people we recognize from whatever town and whatever neighborhood each of us lives in. In fact, the film's considerable appeal is that while the stories themselves may not be true, their characters are.

AS BYRNE DRIVES around Virgil in his red convertible, he affectionately recounts warm but sharp observations about life's comedy and the people who represent the very best, as well as the more prevalent mediocrity in life. Happy to report, this film ignores the terrors our world holds.

"True Stories" features Byrne's music and the Talking Heads performing nine songs. The music and Byrne's narration tie together an elaborate series of vignettes about the eccentric inhabitants of Virgil.

the movies Dan Greenberg

While there is a storyline in the conversational sense, the people of Virgil hold our interest, particularly Miss Rollings (Swoosie Kurtz), the world's laziest woman, and Louis Fyne (John Goodman), who works in the "clean room" at Vericorp but spends most of his time trying to be loved. You will love him for it.

The film is well-photographed by Ed Lachman, with images that effectively portray so much of contemporary America — from the plastic veneer of suburban malls to the final stragglers in a small-town parade marching away from the sparse crowd that came to celebrate the town's "specialness."

Some sequences are overdone, for example, the mall's fashion show could have made its point in half the time. But it is significant that the "True Stories" concept obtained major financing and was able to present polished, elaborate images in an unusual, unconventional but very entertaining film.

It's A Meal-In-A-Loaf

Fast main-dish fillings encased in homemade yeast breads may be the quintessential example of foods that reflect convenience, quality, good taste — and even nostalgia.

This concept of meal-in-a-loaf is illustrated in recipes that are easy and speedy to prepare when using quick-rise yeast. The yeast requires no dissolving and dough rises 50 percent faster than with conventional yeast. Furthermore, it's only necessary to let it rise once.

To add a delicious blend of flavors and textures to main-dish fillings, take advantage of the convenience of dry soup and recipe mixes. They contain all natural flavors and quality ingredients that make a flexible staple for today's kitchens. For example, mix a pouch of onion or cheddar cheese soup mix into a cup of butter for drizzling over popcorn or spreading onto your favorite bread.

Because meal-in-a-loaf recipes freeze well, they are great to keep on hand for impromptu meals, parties and after school snacks.

Fast main-dish fillings encased in homemade yeast breads reflect convenience, quality and good taste for entertaining and on-the-go meals. Rapid rise yeast and dry soup and recipe mix team up to add an unconventional twist to a conventional favorite.

- 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 packages RapidRise Yeast
- 2/3 cup hot water (125° to 130°F)
- 2 tablespoons margarine, softened
- 2 eggs, at room temperature

Microwave seals trout's flavor

By now, everyone knows that microwave ovens save time and energy. But the facts are that they can also retain color, flavor, texture and nutrients. And rainbow trout is one of those foods that is ideally suited to microwave-style cooking. The delicate flesh stays moist, tender and delicious.

To prepare trout in the microwave takes a second to master, and just minutes to cook. Arrange trout in a microwave-proof dish in a single layer and season. Drizzle with a little oil and cover tightly with heavy plastic wrap. Make a one-inch slit in the plastic and off to the microwave it goes — for about 3 or 4 minutes per pound.

Like all foods, rainbow trout cooks quickly in the microwave. Because it continues to cook when removed from the microwave oven, cook for the minimum time, let stand briefly, and then check for doneness. Don't overcook; rainbow trout is done when it turns opaque and flakes easily with fork.

Here's a recipe that'll make you a microwave pro. Orange juice gives this easy trout dish a light, fresh flavor. And a dash of orange liqueur and a topping of crispy pecans make it special.

TROUT IN ORANGE-PECAN SAUCE

1/2 cup coarsely chopped pecans
1 tsp. butter, melted
1/4 tsp. sugar
6 to 8 rainbow trout fillets (4 oz. each)
6 tsp. chopped, fresh chives
2 tsp. frozen orange juice concentrate
2 tsp. Grand Marnier Liqueur
2 tsp. finely chopped shallots
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tsp. lime juice
1 tsp. olive oil
1/2 tsp. finely chopped, fresh ginger or 1/4 tsp. powdered ginger
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. freshly ground white pepper

Toss pecans in butter and sugar. Place on paper plate and cook in microwave oven on full power for about 3 1/2 minutes. When cool, pecans should be crispy. Set aside. Oil a 9-by-13-inch glass baking dish and arrange trout, skin-side down, in dish; set aside. In a bowl, combine chives and next 9 ingredients; pour over trout. Cover tightly with plastic wrap and make a 1-inch slit in plastic. Cook in microwave oven on full power for about 6 to 8 minutes or until done. Trout turns opaque and flakes easily with a fork when done. Remove from oven and top with pecans.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Busy cook is on the go

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

IF YOU enjoy food, take this quiz and perhaps you'll learn something new about yourself.

- Is Monday through Friday a blur of meetings, appointments, car pools, telephone conversations and coffee breaks on the run?
- Can you recite every frozen food entree available in the grocery store?
- Is your kitchen a wasteland of half-eaten snacks, quick-fix entrees and fresh ingredients that have seen better days?
- Do weekday meals consist of relay races from package to plate with only a vague identification of content?
- Do you know all the local restaurateurs by name?
- Do you live for the weekend?
- Does the thought of a quiet, relaxing weekend with family and friends send you into seventh heaven?
- Would you like to express yourself creatively, but don't have time for ballet lessons?

IF YOU answered yes to one or more of these questions, chef Howard Solganik says you are quite likely a "weekend chef," a growing American phenomenon caused by active lifestyles and two-career households.

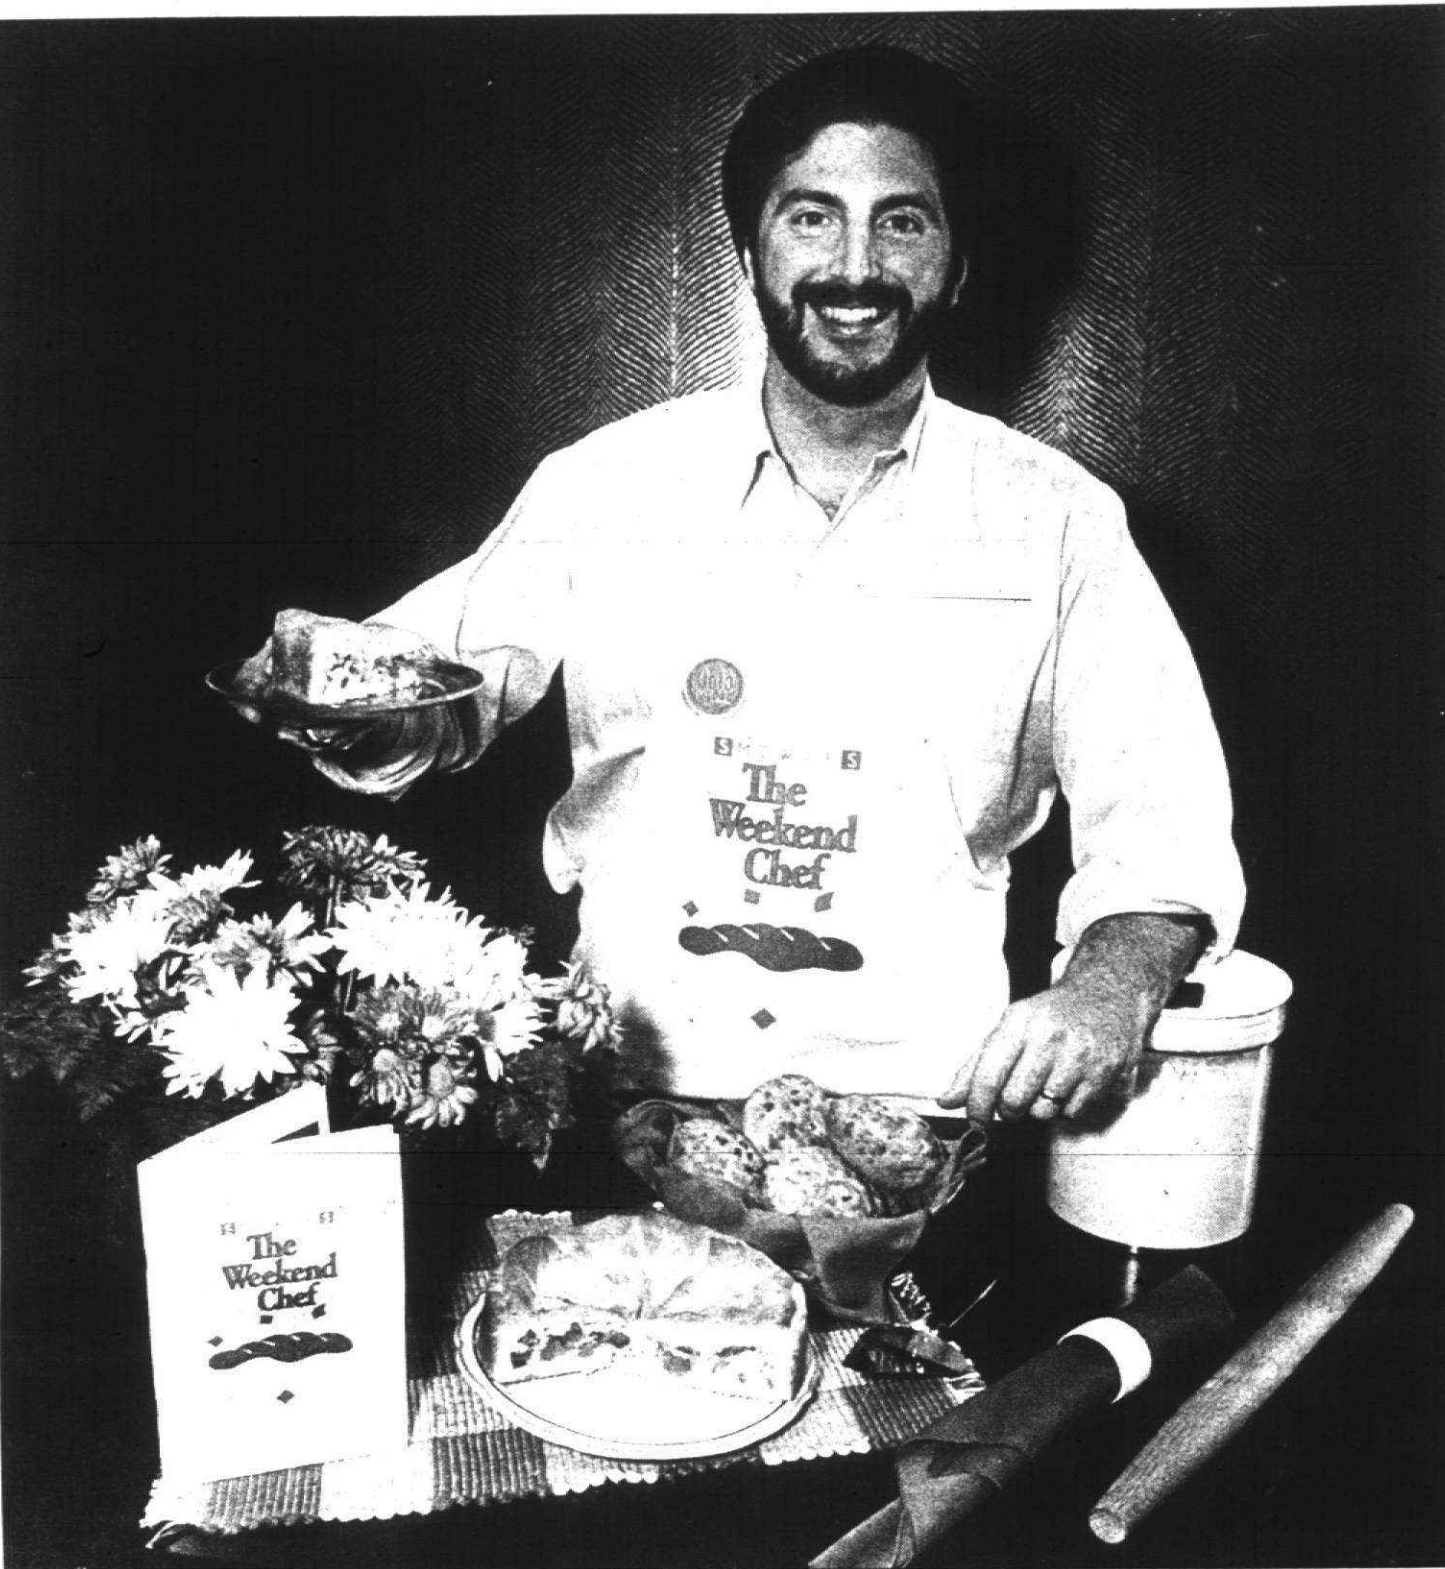

Solganik, a food consultant from Ohio, author of a weekly newspaper column on cooking and TV cooking show host, is also busy promoting the weekend chef concept and cookbook for Gold Medal Flour.

In this capacity, Solganik was in Michigan recently, part of a 10-city, five-week promotional tour.

"I was chosen for the job because I am a typical weekend chef," he said. "I'm a very busy person, I enjoy good food, and I've made cooking on weekends a fun activity."

The Gold Medal concept is, in Solganik's mind, a very realistic program that is filling a need for a good many people who are very busy during the week yet who enjoy good cuisine but do not always want to eat out to get it.

AND SOLGANIK is "thrilled" with the recipes in "The Weekend Chef" recipe booklet. Each has been developed and tested in Betty Crocker

STEVE FECHT/staff photographer

Chef Howard Solganik specializes in whipping up recipes for weekend chefs, people who are too busy to experiment with cooking any other time.

kitchens in Ohio. Solganik insists if directions in the cookbook are carefully followed, it is impossible to produce anything other than excellent fare.

The book contains more than 60 recipes, as well as time-saving tips, equipment suggestions and do-ahead tips.

Solganik also has hints of his own to obtain the best results in cooking. He recommends purchasing only the best of ingredients. Substitutions are fine, so long as the substitution is also of good quality. It is not necessary to make everything from scratch.

THE WEEKEND chef, Solganik said, makes cooking fun by setting aside a certain amount of time on weekends and devoting it to creating an interesting meal to share with others. It becomes a social occasion, both the preparation and the partaking of it with friends and family.

He said this is true in his home. Oftentimes his 2-year-old daughter assists him, standing on a small stool and rolling her "own little ball of dough."

Friends, aware of the unique cuisine offered on weekends at the Solganik home, drop by unannounced or are invited. Whatever, they are whisked off into the kitchen, where they help in the preparations.

People rarely sit down in his home, Solganik said, without a smudge of flour on their shirt.

Cooking is not only Solganik's means of making a living, it also serves as his favorite pastime, the thing he does to relax. "It makes me feel good about myself."

This, Solganik said, is the core of the weekend chef — taking pleasure in cooking as a source of weekend entertainment, relaxation and personal expression.

THE WEEKEND chef promotion tour has received, in Solganik's words, "A fabulous reception" thus far. "I especially like radio shows where people call in."

Their most frequent comment to him, he said, is, "Hey, that's me."

To purchase a copy of the Weekend Chef Cookbook, send $1 to P.O. Box 5402, Dept. 867, Minneapolis, Minn. 55460.

Booklet features recipes

The following recipe is from "The Weekend Chef" recipe booklet.

HAM-SPINACH SANDWICH RING

1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water (105 to 115 degrees)
1 cup warm milk (105 to 115 degrees)
2 tbsp. sugar
¼ cup margarine or butter, softened
1½ tsp. salt
2 eggs
4½ cups flour

Dissolve yeast in warm water in large bowl; stir in milk, sugar, margarine, salt, eggs and 2 cups of flour. Beat on medium speed 10 minutes, scraping bowl frequently. Stir in remaining flour, continue stirring, scraping dough from side of bowl, until soft, sticky dough forms. Cover and let rise in warm place until double, about 1 hour.

Prepare ham-spinach filling.

HAM-SPINACH Filling

½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
2 tbsp. vegetable oil
2 cups chopped fresh spinach (about 4 oz.)
1 cup chopped fully cooked smoked ham
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese (4 oz.)

Cook and stir onion and garlic in oil until tender; add spinach. Cook, stirring occasionally, until wilted; cool. Stir in ham and cheese.

Stir down sandwich dough by beating about 25 strokes. Turn onto well-floured surface, roll or pat into rectangle, 20 by 12 inches.

Cut dough into 2 strips, 20 by 6 inches. Spread half of the filling down center of each strip. Bring long edges of dough up over filling; pinch edge and ends to seal. Stretch rope to 22 inches and make even. Place ropes side by side; twist gently and loosely. Shape into ring on cookie sheet; pinch ends together. Cover and let rise until 1½ times original size, about 30 minutes.

Place oven rack below center of oven. Heat oven to 360 degrees. Brush ring lightly with margarine. Bake until ring is golden brown and sounds hollow when tapped, 25 to 30 minutes. Cool slightly.

Serve with mustard sauce if desired. 12 to 16 servings.

MUSTARD SAUCE

Stir 1 tbsp. prepared mustard and ½ tsp. horseradish into 1 cup dairy sour cream.

Shooting for literacy

Those involved in the upcoming "Shoot for Literacy" basketball game and clinic hope to increase local awareness of the problems of illiteracy. Fun is also on the agenda for the Friday event.

"It's an exciting way of getting people out, plus it's a fun event," said Elizabeth Barker, job placement coordinator for Plymouth-Canton Community Education.

The event is sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton Community Literacy Council and by the Eastern Michigan University Basketball Boosters Club. It will be held in the Phase III gym at Centennial Educational Park, at Joy and Canton Center roads in Canton.

"It's going to be fun," Barker said. "It's just a chance to do a nice event."

The game will begin at 8 p.m. A basketball clinic will be held for those age 8 and older 6-7:30 p.m. in the Phase III gym.

Those participating in the basketball clinic will work with the EMU players and coaching staff, Barker said.

"It's a clean, nice way to spend a Friday night," she said of the evening's activities. "And very inexpensive."

PRICE for the event is $2 for adults, $1 for students and children. Children must be accompanied by an adult.

A number of prizes will be given away during the "Shoot for Literacy," including a bus trip to East Lansing for a Michigan State University game and reception, Pistons game tickets, a basketball signed by the Pistons and T-shirts donated by local merchants.

Former Detroit Pistons coach Ray Scott will be the emcee for the evening. He will officiate during the halftime event, in which participants will have a chance to win a hatchback from Sunshine Honda in Plymouth.

The halftime event will require participants to buy a $1 ticket at the door. Ten names will then be drawn. Those 10 people will shoot from center court to win the car, which is manufactured in Marysville, Ohio.

Tickets for the halftime competition must be purchased at the door. Tickets for the game may be purchased at the door or in advance at several locations.

Game tickets are available at the Plymouth-Canton Community Education offices at Room 130 of Plymouth Canton High School and at the Starkweather Center, 550 N. Holbrook, Plymouth.

GAME TICKETS may also be purchased at Sunshine Honda, at the Press Box Tavern and at the Trading Post, all on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth. They are also available at Canton Sports Co., Ford and Canton Center roads in Canton, and at Savino's Ice Cream, Seven Mile and Middlebelt roads in Livonia.

The game will be an intrasquad one, with half of the men's team in green and the other half in white. The fans at the game will be designated as supporters of either the green or the white team, according to a colored dot on the programs.

"We give them something to root for," Barker said. "People love competition."

All proceeds from the "Shoot for Literacy" event will go to the Community Literacy Council. Participants in the halftime competition must be 18 or older.

The Community Literacy Council was formed in August 1985. Its volunteer tutors work one-on-one with area adults, helping them learn to read or to improve their reading skills.

Plymouth-Canton Community Education, a service of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, provides basic education classes for area adults. For additional information, call 451-6555 or 451-6660.
