Missing teenager murdered

and M.B. Dillon

Two Ypsilanti Township 16-yearolds are in custody following the discovery yesterday of the body of a 13year-old Canton Township girl in Superior Township.

Dead is Mary Anne Hulbert, who lived in Royal Holiday Estates trailer park at 46000 Geddes west of Canton Center Road. The girl, who attended Stevenson Junior High School on Palmer Road in Westland, was reported missing by her mother on Dec. 30.

At that time, the mother told Canton Police that she believed her daughter might be with two Ypsilanti Township youths. Police questioned the youths about the girl's whereabouts.

A preliminary examination by the Washfenaw County Medical Examiner's Office determined that the girl was shot to death.

Hunters found her body 300 yards off Ford Road near Berry Road, two miles west of Napier, at about 9:23 a.m. Wednesday.

Washtenaw County Sheriff deputies transported the body to the University of Michigan Medical Center where an autopsy was incomplete as

Omnicom raises charges, quality

By Susan Buck

Omnicom Cablevision is improving quality programming in spite of rising rates. That's the message delivered recently by Frederick Collman, Omnicom general manager.

Since Omnicom was granted its original franchises about six years ago, basic-only monthly rates have risen from the original $7.95 twoyear charter discount rate to the rates imposed New Year's Day of $10.95 in Plymouth Township, $11.99 in the city of Plymouth, and $11.99 in Canton Township.

Last Thursday, (Jan. 1) municipalities were stripped of their power to control cable television rates. This means that subscribers can expect a 5- to 6-percent annual increase, according to Collman.

However, Collman believes that the ever-improving cable TV services will offset the detraction of higher rates.

changed a lot and changed with the industry," said Collman.

Omnicom moved into its present location on Ronda Drive, south of Joy in 1983.

LIKE ANY business, it is interested in profits

The city of Plymouth, which is all wired, comprises less than 20 percent (1,600) of Omnicom's 17,000 subscriber households in western Wayne County. About 70 percent (3,500) of Plymouth Township homes and 60-70 percent (8,200) of Canton Township homes are cable subscribers. Subscriptions continue to rise along with construction of condominiums and apartments, he said.

At least 25 percent of the subscribers have more than one converter box (the box that sits on top of the TV), he said.

School district seeks millage rate renewal

Voters in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will be asked to renew about 28 percent of the district's operating millage in a special election Feb. 17.

The 10.36 mill renewal isn't a tax increase and won't result in higher property taxes by itself, said Richard Egli, administrative assistant for community relations. The 10.36 mills ($10.36 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation) amounts to $414.40 in taxes on a house with a market value of $80,000 School operating expenses include salaries, supplies and utilities.

The renewal would be for 10 years. Previously, the millage had been levied for a six-year period.

A desire to save the cost of special elections - about $6,000 - plus substantial approval margins in renewal elections apparently prompted the board to set a longer expiration period this time around.

THE COST of a special election "is not a real big amount but there is the idea there is a cost to it and people's time is involved," Egli said. "It seems to be passing fairly regular. My feeling is you don't have to have it every other year.

Routine approva l of the measure is expected. Voters have said yes to the last three operating renewals 1,888-986 in 1985; 3,417-2,944 in 1982; and 2,463-2,058 in ed," Egli said.

The school board Monday, in addition to setting the date for the millage renewal election, authorized the purchase of computer equipment for elementary

Ninety-three computers will be purchased with $107,300 generated by the 1986 bond issue. Delivery is anticipated within a month, said Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction.

Two computers will be going to Tanger, four each to Smith and Farrand, six to Gallimore, eight each to Miller, Field, Bird and Eriksson, nine to Isbister, 10 to Fiegel, 12 to Allen and 14 to Hulsing.

THE ALLOCATION was based on several factors including student population and availability of space.

"Ultimately, we want to move to a laboratory setting at each elementary school where computers will be grouped together," Homes said. "Eventually, every ktd will have the opportunity to get experience with the computer.

Almost $70,000 of bond money remains to buy additional computers and software at the elementary level, Computers probably won't be ordered for the middle schools until later this spring and during the 1987-88 academic year for the high schools, Homes said.

The purchase of 226 acres of land expected to draw more than $400 million worth of development to Westland and Canton - is final and construction will begin when the weather permits.

Carlo Galuppi, president of Royal Transmissions Inc. in Fraser, bought the property, bounded by Ford Road, Lotz, Cherry Hill, John Hix and the railroad tracks, in mid-December for "around $10 million," which includes road construction, utilities, sewers and drains.

Township plans pole limit

Plymouth Township officials, wanting to avoid future hassles over flagpole heights, have proposed clarifying local law so that no flag may fly higher than 35 feet in residentia or commercial neighborhoods.

Standards also have been proposed for billboards, which, up to now, have been allowed in the township only after court action. The planning commission was exexceed the limit probably could re-

A three-year legal battle between Jerry Loiselle, the owner of Jerry's Bicycles shop on Ann Arbor Road and the township sparked the move to tighten language concerning flagpole heights. The township maintained that flagpoles, by implication, were structures and subject to the 35-foot height limitation for buildings.

LOISELLE claimed that it was ridiculous to consider flagpoles structures and, absent any specific height limitations in the existing code, he could erect a 70-foot pole to demon-

At a soiree to cap off the new county executive's swearing-in ceremony, 1,400 party-goers and wellwishers turned out at $100 a couple to mingle with the tuxedo-clad former Livonia mayor at his inaugural ball. Among the notables milling about Detroit's Westin Hotel ballroom were scores of western Wayne County public officials, former mayoral cronies past and present and even the nuns from the Felician Motherhouse

Some, like Redford Township's Jim Kelly, took full advantage of the Cinderella night by renting a light gray, stretch limousine to whisk the suburban supervisor, township attorney Owen Cummings and his wife along with township trustee Marilyn Hildenbrand to the

One of the best attended western Wayne representatives was freshman commissioner Susan Heintz, the self-proclaimed "tall blonde from Northville Township," whose friends filled three dinner tables including Plymouth Township's Mary and Maurie Breen, Canton Township's Jim and Greta Poole, local district Judge John MacDonald and his wife Ann along with Plymouth Township planner Jim Anulewicz and Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry and wife Lucy.

DURING THE evening, entertainment was provided by the legendary Tommy Dorsey Orchestra which played among their repertoire old-time hits like "The Song of India.

Redford Township Clerk Joan Reilly, who attended with sister Pat Reilly, remarked, "The whole day's been McNamara and Lucille McNamara spent the evening chatting among the crowd, keeping public comments brief. It was, after all, a chance to unwind. When he did address the gathering, though, he commented on the "When we first got this up we planned to do it in the

The new executive - also a new, proud grandfather - put a plug in for his newborn granddaughter, Lillian, joking that he planned to bring the "three-month-old charmer along as my replacement someday." Livonians spotted in the crowd numbered many, including the dapperly outfitted Russ Gronevelt, a city administrator now employed in the county's Office of Public Service, and the county public works director Jim Hamilton, who noted: 'I hope there's nothing happening in Livonia tonight because half of Livonia's

Economic problems ahead

THE START of new year is a time of hope. We hope that things will be better in our personal lives. We hope that things will be better in our communities, our state and our nation. Often we even hope that things will be better in

Yet as much as we want to have a new optimism and new hope, we can't help but feel that the year and years ahead will be difficult and challenging in our corner of the world.

In his inaugural address, Gov. James Blanchard spoke pointedly about the need to retrain and educate workers for new jobs as a keystone to any longterm

In his inaugural talk, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara spoke about the necessity of economic revitalization to provide the framework for continuing improvements in govern-

MICHIGAN HAS recovered significantly in the past few years at least partially because of a diversification that made the state somewhat less detation. And yet, there are still signs that the industry continues to slip.

The leader, General Motors, money and continues to lay off workers. We are warned that automation and technology will continue to increase production capacity and continue to decrease job need. Japan's share of the auto market continues to climb upward.

AS UNEMPLOYMENT mounts it falls increasingly to government to handle the social problems involved. Blanchard is well aware that many of the state's financial problems are caused by social problems brought about by failing businesses, job layoffs and dwindling opportunities for the less skillfull to acquire meaningful work His strong pitch for a well-coordinated job retraining program is an idea inspired, in strong part, by apprehension over what may happen if the state starts another economic slide.

The state's costliest programs are social welfare programs, which were put find meaningful work and who do not have medical insurance. The next costliest are the criminal justice programs made necessary to a large degree, by our inability to make this something less than a have and have-not society.

SIMILARLY, Wayne County's biggest expense is handling the medical costs of indigents who have no medical insurance, and the majority of these costs are to pay for treatment of a relatively small percentage of the population.

Any increases in the population that needs government assistance to survive will mean more burden and problems for government.

This explains why our governmental leaders are so intent on trying to help resolve the current social and economic problems before they get worse.

But, of course, to even approach a resolution, there is needed a strong concensus for action and a coordinated approach involving not only government efforts, but those of business and industry and society as a whole.

We need more of a realization that we move together up and down the economic ladder; and we need a commitment to resolve not only our problems but those of our unfortunate neighbors so that we may as a community avoid the problems of economic downturns.

WHILE THE U.S. will be short by about 30,000 teachers next year, teachers are considered a valuable commodity in Japan. While it spends less of its gross national product on education than the U.S., it spends a higher percentage of its educational budget on teachers. For instance, Japanese teachers are paid approximately 12 percent more than engineers.

That may make teacher union representatives happy, but U.S. Education secretary William Bennett notes that ese teachers also carry a heavier load, doing more counseling and curriculum duties as well as teaching larger classes than do American teachers.

Oh yes, you might also note that Japan spends only 1 percent of its gross national product on defense. It's the law of the land.

Under the just-announced Reagan budget, defense spending would increase 7.7 percent to $312 billion. Education will be cut 12.5 percent to $14.7 billion

ays get longer as Earth rests closest to sun

special writer

The length of the day increases during this month, the first full month of winter. In addition there is a meteor shower and Earth is the closest to the sun it will be all year.

The amount of sunlight we receive this month slowly increases by 48 minutes. On Jan. 1 sunrise was at 8:01 a.m. and surfset at 5:10 p.m. for a possible 9 hours and 9 minutes of sunshine. On the 31st the sun rises at 7:47 a.m. and sets at 5:44 p.m. for 9 hours and 57 minutes of sunlight.

There was a crescent moon, in the south southwest, on the evening of the 3rd. The two stars it appeared to be approaching are actually planets. The brightest of the two, and nearest to the moon, is the giant planet Jupiter. Above and to the left of Jupiter is the red planet Mars.

Jupiter is a treat to observe even if you only have binoculars. If held steadily enough binoculars can provide enough magnification to let you see as many as four of Jupiter's moons, which will look tiny stars stretched along the plane of Jupi-ter's equator. The position of these moons change from night to night. (In fact, very careful observers will note changes from hour to hour.

MARS, ON the other hand, will be a disappointment through binoculars. While it is closer to us than Jupiter, Mars is many times smaller and will show no surface detail.

The Quadantid (Quad ran tid) Meteor Shower reached its peak onthe morning of the 4th. This meteor shower is named for the obsolete constellation Quadrans Muralis, which was located between Draco, Hercules and Bootes. The radiant (point from which the meteors radiate) will be high in the east around dawn. You can expect to see an average of 40 meteors ("shooting stars") each hour. If you are in the country side, away from large cities, the sky will be darker and it will be easier for you see the fainter meteors. The moon will not be up to scatter light across the sky.

Earth was at perihelion (at its closest to the sun) on the evening of the 4th. The orbits of the planets are not perfect circles. They are ellipses (ovals). Each planet has two points in its orbit; one where it is at its closest point to the sun and the other at its farthest point.

Since we were the closest to the sun that we will be for the entire year on the 4th (about 91,400,000 miles), you might wonder why we are having our coldest weather instead of the warmest.

Our temperature is not as affected by our distance to the sun as it is by the tilt of our planet's axis of rotaskywatch tion. Earth is tilted 23 1/4 degrees and in winter, when the northern hemisphere is tilted its most away from the sun (and the sun appears low in the sky even at "high" noon), we receive weak indirect light from the sun. Six months from now the northern hemisphere tilts its greatest toward the sun and the temperature begins to increase accordingly. It is the tilt, not the distance, that determines temperature and sea-

THE PLANETS Mars and Jupiter formed a nice grouping with the moon on the evening of the 4th. Jupiter is less than 2 degrees to the west (right) of the moon. Note how much the moon moved by the next night, the 5th, when it was past Mars.

The moon was at first quarter phase on the evening of the 6th. It was one-quarter of its way around the earth.

In the morning the planets Venus and Saturn have been moving into a grouping with the star Antares that will soon form a right triangle. In the southeast about 45 minutes before sunrise on the 7th Venus was very easy to identify; it's the brightest object in the southeastern sky and can be spotted rising 3 hours before the sun. Almost directly below Venus is Antares, the orange-red 'heart" of Scorpius, and to the east (left) of Antares is Saturn.

Because Venus is closer to the sun than Saturn, it will move faster than the "ringed planet." Watch the two planets moving, with respect to Antares, during the next few months.

The moon is in the constellation of Taurus the bull on the evening of the 9th. The moon is above and to the right of a beautiful "tiny dipper" called the Pleiades (PLEE a dees). The Pleiades is an open star cluster, marking the shoulder of Taurus, that is especially attractive through binoculare or a low power telescope. It's best seen when the moon is not up, scattering bright light across the sky. Below the Pleiades is the orange-red star Aldebaran (Al DEB a ran), the bull's eye.

On the evening of the 10th the moon is below and to the left of the Pleiades

The planet Mercury is in superior conjunction with the sun on the 12th.

Mercury is located behind the sun and can not be seen. By the end of the month it will become visible in the evening sky.

LOOK FOR the moon in Gemini on the evening of the 13th. The moon is approaching the twin stars Castor and Pollux. Which star is which?

Castor is above Pollux. On the a evening of the 14th the two stars from a line with the full moon.

Venus is at its maximum elongation (apparent distance) from the sun on the 15th. It is 47 degrees west (right) of the san. It is now well up in the sky at sunrise but will slowly begin to draw closer to the sun during the next six months. Venus, Saturn and Antares have gone from forming a right triangle to nearly an equilateral triangle.

Look in the east northeast about three hours after sunset on the 16th. The star about 11 degrees directly below the moon is Regulus, the 'heart" of Leo the lion. On the following night the moon is about 3 de-grees to the north (left) of Regulus. During the next five nights the moon continues moving through Leo and into Virgo. On the morning of the 21st the moon is approaching the star Spica (in'Virgo) and on the 22nd the moon, now at last quarter phase, is about three degrees to the south (left) of Spica in the south southwest.

Venus will be 2 degrees above Saturn on the morning of the 24th and the crescent moon is approaching Antares in the south southwest. The following morning, the 25th, the moon is less than 1/2 degree from Antares. This is an exceptionally close grouping but for people living from California to northern South America it will be even closer; the moon will occult (eclipse or cover)

An excellent aid for learning constellations and keeping up to date with the sky is the monthly "Sky Calendar." A one year subscription is $5 and is available from Abrams Planetarium, Michigan State University, East Lansing 48824.

A RECENT planning session for next summer's 40th anniversary ball was typical. Its place on the afternoon's agenda came after quick visits to the library and to the computer lab to check on the status of used, donated computers. (The new library was a project particularly dear to Francilene. spent a lot of time with the architects," she said.)

Francilene met to discuss the ball with Nodge, Larry Rzepka, the director of alumni and parent relations, and Sister Lauriana, the school's vice president for development. Francilene asked good questions, got good answers and made good decisions.

At one point, she decided letters announcing the ball should go out in February. "I think February is too late," said Rzepka.

"No, it's not," said Francilene. She said it with a smile but there was a steel edge to her voice. Not unfriendly, but exceedingly firm.

"I'm a good leader in a team approach," she acknowledged.

HERS IS a decisive style of leadership that those close to her say is quick, but fair. She is to the point in a meeting, and those with her are supposed to be to the point, too. No wasted time, motion or energy. The meeting begins, she conducts it like a maestro leading an ensemble, and as quickly as it starts, the meeting ends. And she's out the door and down the stairs to new business elsewhere on the campus or in the community.

Maybe it helps her in conducting her meetings that she conducts elsewhere, too - as a regular guest conductor for the Oakway Symphony Orchestra. "I always direct marches, in keeping with my personality," she joked. (Franci-lene will conduct Oakway's 14th annual Cabaret Concert at Madon. na at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 28.)

Francilene was a musician and music teacher long before it was decided she would become Madonna's president. She used to teach the tune; now she calls it.

Francilene also sings in the Felician Sisters Choir, is a member of the board of directors of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce and for a long time served on the board of the Detroit Learning and Speech FRANCILENE WAS the first of six children born to Hector and Irene VandeVyver. Four of them are married. Two are Felician sisters, Francilene and her younger sister by four years, Sister Joyce, who is the principal of St. Sabina School in Dearborn Heights.

"I always wanted to join the sisterhood, even as a young girl in elementary school," explained Francilene. "I feel fortunate I've always had a calling to this lifestyle. A very strong motivation in my life is the sense of commitment to the Lord.

Staff photos by Steve Fecht

Francilene is 45 and looks younger. She was 34 when she became Madonna's president and didn't look much older than many of her students. Despite a tenderness in looks and years, she had no hesitations about assuming the presidency and has never looked back wistfully to her former duties of piano teacher at Ladywood.

I am a person who enjoys what they're doing. When I was a music teacher I really enjoyed it, and I was good at it. When I have a new responsibility. I work at it very enthusiastically, 100 percent. I (don't) compare one job to another, one ministry to another."

MINISTRY IS the key word there. Ministry and teamwork. Francilene didn't become a college president because she had a lifelong desire to be an administrator. She became one because she was asked by her superiors. As part of her vow of obedience, she accept-

So, in 1974 she became administrative assistant to Sister Danatha. the former president who is now director of computer services, and began course work toward her doctorate in administration, which she received three years later.

Under Francilene, Madonna's budget has grown from about $2.7 million to $11 million and the school has continued to expand its innovative programs.

For example, Madonna is the only college or university in the state with a full-support program for the deaf. The school began its extensive adult education program well before it became a staple at other colleges (Half of Madonna's enrollment comes from traditional, just-out-of-high school ranks and the other half is adults attending part time.) And the school offered one of the first liberal arts majors in gerontology and now has programs in hospice education and emergency medical tech.

The sister is also a musician. She is a regular guest conductor for the Oakway Symphony

In the planning stages? An expansion of business administration and teacher education, a new program for licensed practical nurses to earn their bachelor's degrees, and a $1.3-million, 12,000-squarefoot Educational Development

But the story of Madonna goes beyond facts and figures and new programs.

"We're building a sense of com-munity here," said Francilene. A community that includes everyone from students to faculty to administration to the lowliest janitor. This isn't just a job, bringing people together for a paycheck."

Francilene has grown in and with the job.

T've developed a greater listening capacity," she said. "And because I have a fast metabolism — I speak fast and walk fast - I've had to slow down and give a presence of being with those people who want to talk to me.

How else has she grown? "In my ability to write." And, with a chuckle, "my ability to answer newspaper reporters.

The president's decisive style of leadership has helped Madonna grow and prosper.

Your Invitation to Worship ASSEMBLIES OF GOD NON-DENOMINATIONAL

Poultry's great for your New Year's diet

tion is to lose weight, get in shape and adopt healthier eating habits. Every year more Americans follow through on this resolution.

Twice as much chicken and twothirds more turkey are consumed annually than in 1965. For many, however, poultry is still served only on 'special" occasions or holidays.

Here are the answers to some of the most frequently asked poultry questions

1. IS ALL poultry lower in fat than red meat - or is just chicken lower? Turkey has the least fat of all poultry products. Chicken has two to three times more fat than turkey or 2.8 teaspoons of fat for chicken with skin to 1.2 teaspoons for turkey with cent more fat than turkey. In comparison, skinless duck or goose have about the same fat content as completely trimmed beef, lamb or pork. Skinless turkey breast is almost fat-

Poultry also contains lower amounts of saturated fat which raises blood cholesterol.

2. WHICH IS lower in calories and fat, white or dark meat?

Usually, white meat contains about one-half the calories of dark meat poultry. Breast meat is lowest in both fat and calories, back meat is ing turkeys?

The main ingredients in this basting are vegetable oil (usually soy, corn, or sometimes coconut), salt artificial flavoring and coloring and sodium phosphate.

You're better off without these, but they don't add much fat or calories than the unbasted variety only about one-fourth to one-half teaspoon per four-ounce serving of

4. CAN GROUND turkey be substituted for ground beef in recipes?

Yes. But you might be surprised to know that store-ground turkey meat contains 21/2 times more fat that home ground turkey. This is because manufacturers leave on the skin when they grind up the poultry. Even with the skin, ground "turkey" burgers have only one-fourth the amount of fat of "lean" ground

5. HOW MUCH worse is frying than broiling or baking chicken? Fried chicken is not much higher in fat than baked or broiled - if you remove the skin before eating.

Fast food fried chicken contains three times the fat as roasted chicken because restaurants use a batter that soaks up the fat.

Homemade fried chicken coated in seasoned flour has no more fat than roasted chicken with the skin. To cut fat consumption in half - remove the skin

That's why there's a nationwide program for college students called Cooperative Education. It allows students to alternate studies at the college of their choice with paid, practical work experience in the career of their choice.

Single-family houses selling well into 1987

There were 22.5 percent more single-family housing permits issued in southeastern Michigan in 1986 than

And this trend should continue throughout 1987, said Dennis P. Dickstein, newly installed president of the Builders Association of Southeast Michigan, based in Farmington Hills.

"There were approximately 12,000 permits issued for single-family housing in 1986, and we should see an improvement on that number this year," Dickstein said Monday at the Michigan Inn in Southfield. "The calendar year 1987 will be marked by continual growth and stability."

HE ALSO believes interest rates will continue downward, although differences will be slight.

Lower mortgage interest rates seems to be a major factor in the resurgence of the two- and threebedroom houses, although the demographics of the country also plays a big role.
"The demand for the two- and three-bedroom home has always been there, but with the lower interest rates, the availability also exists now," Dickstein said.

"In past years, the four-bedroom homes have been popular, but the two- and three-bedroom home is now increasing in popularity.

The five-bedroom house is almost never called for anymore. In fact, a lot of the four-, five- and six-bedroom homes in the Birmingham/ Bloomfield area are being remodeled into two- and three-bedroom

SENIOR CITIZENS make up a large part of the market on these smaller houses, said former association president Fred Greenspan.

"Sixty-seven percent of the senior citizens prefer the smaller, singlefamily, detached homes. With low interest rates on mortgages, these homes are now more available to the seniors," Greenspan said.

The biggest problems facing builders will be lack of skilled labor and lack of available lots.

Part of the problem with the lack of skilled labor began with the recent recession. When sales of new houses declined, many skilled

OTHERS MOVED to areas of the country that weren't hit quite as hard by the recession as southeastern Michigan.

The big problem with lot shortage isn't due to lack of available land but rather lack of developed land, he said.

"The shortage of lots is mainly because there were no lots being developed in the recession period," Dickstein said. "Most of the lots that were on the market have been used up, and new lots haven't been developed fast enough to keep up with the builders' demand."

The average price of a 22,000-square-foot house in Southeastern Michigan is close to $100,000. The national average was more than $84,000 in 1985.

MUCH OF this higher average price was attributed to the use of better materials such as solar pane and triple-pane glass, more efficient insulation, roofing materials and heating systems.
Combining microcomputers and electrical wiring, as was on display in the "Smart House" at the Fall Builders Show at Cobo Hall, will be the most exciting trend, Dickstein said.

"Wiring in new homes will be radically changed over the next few years. There will be one main wire

Nationally, house price is $84,000

Are you ready to spend $84,300 for a new house?

That was the average price for the typical house built in 1985, up from $79,900 in 1984, according to the U.S. Census Bureau

At a price of $41.45 per square foot, the average house was a singlestory residence built on a slab with 1,605 square feet. It had three bedrooms, two baths, one fireplace, wood siding, electric heat and central air conditioning. Other findings:

 The largest percentage of houses completed last year (57 percent) had three bedrooms. That was about the same proportion in 1984 but down from 60 percent in 1981.

- The percentage of houses with wo or more stories has increased to 42 percent in 1985 from 40 percent in 1984 and 32 percent in 1981.
- About half the new houses (48 percent) had two baths - the same as the year before.
- Most houses (54 percent) now have one fireplace, up from 50 percent in 1981.
- New houses with central air conditioning rose to 70 percent in 1985 from 65 percent in 1981.

the best of both worlds. She started out as an individual artist, the kind who makes one piece at a time and sells it through art galleries and shows. A quarter of a century ago she decided that she could never make enough money that way to support herself as a potter. Somehow she had to find a way to mass-produce her handcrafted work so that she could make money and still be able to experiment as an artist.

You should see how now, at Iron Mountain Stoneware Inc., in the village of Laurel Bloomery, Tenn., her hand-made pottery coming off a production line of hands in the forested Appalachian

They use the same techniques an artist-potter uses in a studio, making good pottery the way it was made 100 years ago, but the result is several thousand pieces a week sold in hundreds of stores

HOW DID a dreamer like Nancy get to a place like Laurel Bloomery, population 90? She was born in Wisconsin, grew up in California, attended University of Southern California and later Art Center, in Los Angeles, and had worked for five years as a potter when the 'light went on.' "I knew that I couldn't do things the way they were doing them, making your own clay, hand crafting at every step, and make enough money to go on being an artist-potter," she said. Nancy went on a pilgrimage that lasted several years, to learn how to mass-produce handmade

She spent part of that time in Scandinavia, at Royal Copenhagan in Denmark, and Arabia in Finland, and learned one of many lessons: You need somebody who is good at selling products to support your experience as an artist.

SHE SPENT another four years in Taiwan, learning how to create a production system for handmade ceramics. Peitou Ceramics of Taiwan sold the first handmade stoneware ever sold in the Nancy had never lived in Tennessee, but when it was time to make her dream come true, she moved to this tiny village in the crook of a Tennessee hill, partly because it was a central place among the/clays of Tennessee, Kentucky and South Carolina.

Her husband, Joe Lamb, who calls himself 'the errand boy' but is really the vice president in charge of finances and mechanics of this business, has another explanation. "She likes it here." Joe was an engineer making pottery machinery

Every single one of the employees was trained here, up the hill from the main street, the only street in town. Many have been here since Iron Mountain Pottery opened more than 20 years ago.

Joe and Nancy buy their body clay in bags, but they make all their own glazes and molds. Any housewife watching David Phillippi fit the clay into a mold for a casserole lid would recognize the

Lila Dunn is over by the window making handles for a three-quart casserole and Dora Adams is around the corner doing handles for coffee cups. They are "pulling the handles" like art potters do: Joe says this is the only place in the United States where it is done on a production-line

After a little smoothing, the newly formed piece goes through a first firing at 1,800 degrees. That takes the remaining free water out so it can absorb the paint and the glaze. The ceramic pieces are beginning to look like

After several years of intense study, a lot of college graduates finally learn something. They're not qualified for the job they want. Fact is, many graduates never find a career in their field of study. All their time spent in study. Not enough time in the field.

That's why there's a nationwide program for college students called Cooperative Education. It allows students to alternate studies at the college of their choice with paid, practical work experience in the career of their choice.

To participate in Co-op Education you don't need to fit into any particular socio-economic group. You don't need to be a straight "A"

> ANY ASPECTS of the natural world are subtle and inconspicuous, but have enormous consequences. For example, bacteria are everywhere, but because they are micros copic we seldom reflect on their importance - except when we considr infections and disease.

The very soil we walk on while hiking through the woods is a product of the natural world. It is the nurturing substance for all the food we eat, but we seldom think about it as we eat an eggplant.

Last summer I spread five yards of topsoil over our yard. Adding soil to our garden and filling depressions in our lawn. I had plenty of time to think about the importance of soil.

OUR GARDEN was in desperate need of soil because the Livonia area is very sandy. Livonia is located along the beach of an ancient lake that once covered Detroit and many suburbs thousands of years ago.

Its soil is markedly different from the clay soil found in Dearborn where my father lives. Dearborn is closer to the center of the lake where fine particles were laid down to form clay.

Glaciers that covered Michigan until about 10,000 years ago were responsible for the major features of the land we see today. Hills, valleys lakes, bogs and plains are the resul of these two-mile-thick masses of ice scouring the land.

Boulders, stones and small rock particles that lie beneath the top soil were deposited by the glacier. These particles were brought down from northern Canada and covered the bedrock; that formed Michigan be fore the glaciers arrived.

IT IS THE distribution of these glacial deposits that provide a substrata for plants to grow.

Hilly areas that are well drained provide habitat for certain plants like oak and beech trees. Wet lowland areas are better suited for red osier dogwood and cattail.

On top of the glacial deposit is the organic material from years of plant decay that is very important to today's farmer. It takes about 500 years to form one inch of topsoil which harbors many of the nutrients for plant growth.

Glenn drubs Canton

The holiday goodies and lack of court time didn't seem to slow the Westland John Glenn basketball team down at all as it blasted Plymouth Canton 72-50 Tuesday.

It was the first game after the break for both teams, and John Glenn returned to action with the same gusto it ended 1986 with.

The Rockets went to a zone defense in the third quarter and took advantage of an 0-for-7 shooting drought by the Chiefs as they outscored Canton 24-11 to take a 52-35

"We missed some shots at the beginning of the second half. They started running and it really hurt us," said Canton coach Tom Niemi.
"In the first half we executed with a lot of patience and were hitting our shots pretty well. Unfortunately we were cold at the start of the second half and it took its toll.

Marcus Lowe led the Rockets' third quarter surge dumping in 10 of his 18 points. Andy Grazulis led all scorers in the game with 20, six of which he scored in the decisive third quarter.

John Glenn took a 17-10 lead in the first quarter only to have the Chiefs pull to within four, 28-24, by the halftime break. But the third quarter chills iced the Chiefs.

Sophomore forward Brian Paupore paced Canton with 12 points. Tyrone Reeves added eight for the Chiesf who fell to 2-4 with the loss, 2-2 in the Western Lakes.

Steve Hawley added 12 for the winners who improve to 5-0 on the season, 4-0 in the Western Lakes.

"John Glenn is a very talented team," said Niemi. "They're good perimeter shooters and good inside shooters. They really hurt us when they were able to run off the SALEM 53, CHURCHILL 46: Rick Taylor scored a game-high 20 points in leading Plymouth Salem to a seven point victory at Livonia Churchill Tuesday.

Bryan Kearis dumped in 11 and teammate Jeff Justice added 10 for the Rocks who jumped out to a 12-6 first quarter lead and never looked back. Both teams scored 17 points in the second quarter and Salem outscored Churchill by one, 24-23, in the second half.

"They did a great job against us," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "Our key was our strength inside. (Don) Albertson did a great job of preparing them for us. They really played a good game.'

Senior center Brad Wylie paced the Chargers with 16 points while John Knittel added nine.

With the win Salem improves to 5on the season, 4-1 in the league. Churchill falls to 1-5 on the season, 1-3 in the league PLYMOUTH CHRISTIAN 86, BETHESDA 60: Plymouth Christian Academy outscored Detroit Bethes-

Late goals buoy Engineers

By Chris McCosky staff writer

Who said ties were boring? The Hennessey Engineers have opened 1987 with a pair of ties neither resembling a sisterly

In dramatic fashion, the Plymouth-based Junior A hockey team battled from behind to tie the Fraser Falcons on Friday and the North American Junior Hockey League leading Compuware team on Satur-

Both games ended 2-2. And in both games, the Engineers' newly acquired sharpshooter Bob Mlynarek scored the tying goal.

Since Mlynarek was called up from the St. Clair Shores Junior B team, the Engineers have won three games, lost one and tied two. He has scored in five of the six games.

MLYNAREK WASN'T the only hero for the Engineers against the Falcons Friday night. Before a large crowd at the Plymouth Cultural Center, Engineer goalie Dave Church put on a brilliant performance. Church, who has missed a good portion of the season with a finger injury, stopped 26 of 28 shots.

This was his first game against a top-level opponent since coming back from the injury," Engineers coach A.J. Baker said. "And he came up big. Eleven of their 28 shots came in the third period. He made some huge saves for us."

The Falcons dominated the action on the ice. They outshot the Engineers 28-15.

"They carried the play, no doubt about that," Baker said. "But the shots we did have, we made them count.

Canton resident Billy Pve was in goal for the Falcons and stoned the Engineers for nearly two periods. But late in the second period, Falcens ahead 2-0, Todd Tamburino scored a power play goal to get the Engineers on the board.

Midway through the final period. Mlynarek, set up nicely by linemates Bryan Krygier and J. Jewett, banged home the game-tying goal.

A SIMILIAR scene was played out Saturday at the Oak Park Compuware Arena. An injury-riddled Compuware team held a 2-0 advantage with five minutes left in the game.

Leif Gustafson drew the Engineers within one with a pretty goal. Then with under two minutes left Mlynarek, again set up by Krygier and Jewett, notched the tying goal.

Although Compuware was playing without two of the league's top scorers, Mike Boback and Dave Szymanski, Baker didn't downplay his team's effort.

'As much as gaining a tie the way we did holding that team to two goals was just a supreme effort on our part," he said.

Doug Brown was in the nets for the Engineers and he kicked out 36 of 38 shots.

According to Brent Bachman, the NAJHL's director of statistics, the Engineers are at the bottom of the three-team league. As of Jan 4, Compuware leads with a 16-3-4 record. The Falcons have a 12-7-4

hockey

mark and the Engineers are a point back with a 12-10-3 mark. The Engineers are 14-10-4 overall.

The Engineers will host the West Seneca Wings out of Buffalo at 8 20 p.m. Friday then travel to Fraser Saturday to play the Falcons. Game time Saturday is 8 15 p.m.

LEAGUE ALIGNMENT: It's official. Next season the North American Junior Hockey League will feature a 10-team, two-division alignment. The Engineers, Falcons, Compuware, Buffalo and the Bloomfield Hills-based USA Jets will compete in Division I. Division II will include five Junior B-level teams: Livonia, Woodhaven, Royal Oak, St. Clair Shores and Taylor.

"It's definitely a move forward as far as expanding the league and trying to get some continuity into the league," Baker said. "We are trying to create some trust with the parents and players. We're tired of losing players to other leagues out west and in Canada because of the excuse that people don't know how many teams will be in the league from year to year.

The USA Jets, currently a Junior B team, skates out of the Detroit Skating Club arena in Bloomfield

The Buffalo team, currently a Midget Major team, will play a weekend series against NAJHL teams beginning Friday night at Plymouth On Saturday, Buffalo will play Compuware in Oak Park at 7:15 p.m. On Sunday, the fearn will play the Falcons in Fraser at 2 p.m. Buffalo was a member of the NAJHL two years ago.

COLLEGIATE INTEREST: One of the primary goals of the NAJHL is to showcase local hockey talent to collegiate scouts. Hockey scouts from the following schools have shown up at recent games. Alabama-Huntsville, American International University in Massachusetts, St. Lawrence University in Wisconsin, Michigan Tech, Lake Superior State College, Illinois Chicago Circle and Ferris State

SCORING LEADERS: As of Jan. 3, the Engineers have three players among the league's top 10 scorers. Larry Pilut, with 13 goals and 21 assists, is third Bryan Krygier, 14 goals and 18 assists, is fifth Leif Gustafson, 11 goals and 18 assists, is Don Stone of the Falcons (27 goals and 11 assists) and Mike Boback of Compuware (17 goals and 19 assists) are 1-2 in the league scoring race.

Others in the top 10 are: Jim Ballantine of Compuware (15 goals, 18 assists). Todd English of Compuware (14 goals, 17 assists), Don Barton of the Falcons (14 goals, 17 assists), Dave Szymanski of Compuware (15 goals, 13 assists) and Denny Felsner of the Falcons (12 goals, 16 assists)

Amazing what thoughts can suddenly strike you. Take Monday night, for instance. There I was, sitting just behind the scorer's table in Lepley Sports Center, a few minutes into a womens basketball game between Oakland University and University of Wisconsin-

I don't know what made me do it. I was trying to concentrate on the on-court activities. But something came over me. My eyes started wandering, searching the crowd, wondering what they were thinking, what they were feeling, what they were doing here on a Monday

It wasn't too long after those thoughts first struck me that I realized there weren't too many people to wonder about. No crowd. The people working the scorer's table outnumbered the audience.

Devious, demented ideas per forated my thought patterns. could make up a score, make it as lopsided as I wanted, stick it in the paper, and who would argue? The dozen or so fans who braved the 40degree-and-clear weather to come support their team?

What a story I could invent. Real National Enquirer-type stuff, with blaring headlines like: ALIENS IN-VADE OU SEARCHING FOR PIO-NEER SCALPS, over a story about a run on OU's souvenir coonskin sense took command. Who would believe such a tale, I figured. Aliens coming millions of miles to see OU in action, when people a few blocks away wouldn't even

That's when an unreasoning fear took hold of me. What am I miss ing, I asked myself out loud. My tone was soft enough that it wouldn't have distracted anyone in a library, but in an empty gym I got looks from people at the scorer's table, both coaches and the full attention of the players on the

SEE, I ALWAYS believed sports to be a spectators' event. That's what made it fun. Getting out to a game to watch some talented youngsters work their tails off that's what athletics were all about.

Were. Now a guy can sit at home and watch as much of any kind of sport he wants. Heck, in the nine-day span from Dec. 27 to Jan. 4, there was at least one football game on a day - not counting ESPN re-telecasts.

That's just football. There are a minimum of a dozen basketball games a week on cable TV, with local airings of high school games not included.

Get my drift? Why should anyone bother going to a high school or college game when they can sit on their duffs in front of a plastic screen and watch a game?

There's nothing quite like being there, in person. But the day is at hand when all the sports we see will be on a screen. Too bad. Because whatever technological advances are made in the next halfcentury, it will never be the same as a first-hand view.

State deer harvest up in 1986, hunter fatality numbers down

ports from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources indicate that an estimated 192,000 deer were taken in the Nov. 15-30, 1986, Michigan firearms deer season, making the hunt the most successful ever in the history of the state. Included in that total were 147,000 bucks, another state

The figure indicates a 3 percen increase over the old record of 186.840 deer taken in the 1985 firearm season.

There were an estimated 725,000 hunters taking part in the hunt, which equates to a 26 percent success rate, more than twice the rate of 20 years ago. The DNR suggests many factors contributed to this record harvest including mild temperatures throughout the season, good tracking snow throughout much of the northern part of the state, the availability of a second firearm deer license, large amounts of standing corn left unhar vested last year which provided food for deer through the winter months. and increased activity by the forest products industry, which also providd deer with additional food.

DNR statisticians predict that the combined total of firearms, archery and muzzleloader deer harvests will be near 250,000. The pre-season herd was estimat

At the Plymouth Salem Invitational on Saturday, CC placed in all 13 weight classes, capturing six individual titles, to outdistance second place Eaton Rapids by 54 points. Host Salem was a distant third in the 16-team field with 145 (see statistical summary).

The Shamrocks, who apparently aren't satisfied with last year's fourth-place finish at the state Class A meet, pulled a few surprises on the day en route to their sixth straight tournament crown. MATT HELM, the sophemore, pulled a slick move in the final seven seconds to break a 3-3 tie against Salem's previously unbeaten 126-pounder Dennis Dameron, winning the match 7-3.

Brother Jay, meanwhile, was seeded fifth at 112, but took the title against Salem's Sean May, 16-8. That came after May upset No. 2 seed Rob Eeles of Wayne in the semifinals by a point, 7-6.

Another CC standout was junior heavyweight Toby Heaton, who upended Salem's Richard Johnson in the semifinals before pinning No. 1 seed and previously unbeaten Larry Luce of Portage Northern for the championship. Heaton, who pinned Luce in 1:42, now sports a 26-4 Other CC winners included Mike Gentile (105), Brendan Rock (132) and Mitch Quint (138). Gentile decisioned Farmington Harrison's Cliff Alcantara in the finals, 10-3, raising his personal record to 22-7. Rock, meanwhile, was impressive against Salem's Tim Ott, scoring a pin in 1:47, to go 23-3. Quint (25-4) had the toughest match outlasting Scott Bolan of Eaton Rapids in overtime, 5-0. CC COACH Mike Rodriguez calls his young and talented team "selfmotivated.'

"So far it's been a good year, but we haven't reached our potential,' he said. "We're not satisfied with fourth and I haven't cracked the whip yet." Rodriguez says he just began stepping up his workouts, which include orisk five-mile early morning runs before school. He's making preparations for CC's own tourney, which will be held Saturday, Jan. 17. The meet will attract the state's top teams including defending state champion Temperance-Bedford, Lansing Eastern, Lansing Sexton, Davison, Salem and Hazel Park. "We haven't won our own tournament in eight years, and we haven't beaten Bedford in 10." reminds Rodriguez. "That will tell us where we

'Book Break' column to debut

NEW YEAR will bring some changes in the Observer & Eccentric's Creative Living section - and if you're 'bookish," you're bound to like them.

Beginning Jan. 15, and appearing every other week, there will be a new column, "Book Break," written by Westland writer Mona Grigg. "Book Break" will be a newsy column on what's happening in the world of authors, focusing mainly on established as well as would-be area

From time to time, Grigg also will do book reviews and feature stories on the "write stuff," including pers onality sketches.

Grigg is no stranger to O&E readers. In her free-lance career, she has done several stories that have appeared not only in the Creative Living section, but also in special sections. Recently she did several indepth stories in the O&E Life Goes On special section.

HER ARTICLES ALSO have appeared in Michigan Woman, Jewish News, American Way (Airlines) magazine and the Detroit Free Press. Her writing career also includes a stint with the Associated Newspapers where she was a weekly op-ed page columnist.

Grigg is vice president of the Detroit Women Writers and is a creative writing instructor in the Wayne-Westland Schools Community Education program and a workshop leader in Oakland University's Writer's Conference. She has been a featured speaker and lecturer at Schoolcraft College, Ridgewriters of Farmington and the Detroit Women Writers. She also served as co-chairman of the latter's Writer's Conference last fall at Oakland University.

She also is on the Creative Writers in Schools roster for the Michigan Council of the Arts.

Since 1975, she has been a member of the Westland Historical Commission, serving as chairman from 1977-80

Shaler has been in Paris on and off for the past two years, going initially on a Fulbright scholarship to study with Stanley Hayter, one of the world leaders in the field of viscosity etching.

HER WORK has been in about 40 national shows in the last 10 years. In Paris she is represented by Madalini Gallery where she will have a one-artist show in November. Her work has been

Tips for new vehicle buyers and owners

HRYSLER MOTORS' AutoInfo, a source for information on buying, financing, leasing, maintaining, and servicing a car or truck, offers hints for buyers and owners of new vehicles.

Here's what they advise to make a decision:

- Ask for help, if necessary, from a neighbor, relative or friend who knows a lot about cars.
- Read newspapers and car buff, sports and women's magazines for carbuying information.
- Get answers from the salesperson. If, for some reason, you are dissatisfied with the salesperson, ask to see the manager or owner of the dealership and request someone else. Walking out of a dealership is not the answer, unless you call or write to the dealer so that he/she understands you had a problem, which might be prevented in the future.
- Understand thoroughly warranty

Do not pay any money until you have made up your mind. Leave nothing to chance or unspoken agreement between you and the salesperson.

or service contracts, deductibles, maintenance schedule, delivery date, trim, color, finish and price. Leave nothing to chance or unspoken agreement between you and the salesperson.

• Do not pay until you have made up your mind. There is no charge for catalogues, for looking at vehicles in the showroom or test driving vehicles, for a detailed discussion with a salesperson about the vehicle you want, or for a quote from the salesperson.

SERVICE DEPARTMENT:

• Ask to see the dealership's service department and to meet the service manager before you make your decision. This should have a big influence in your decision to buy. A dealership hopes you will return for your service needs. If you are not satisfied with the dealership's service department before you buy, consider going to a different dealership.

THE TEST DRIVE

- Test drive a vehicle as similar to your choice as possible. If you plan to buy a stripped-down model, don't test drive a vehicle loaded with options. Suspension and weight could vary between such models and give you a totally different driving impression.
- Test drive vehicles back to back so that you can make solid comparisons. If you let even a few days intervene, you might forget some of the features that could help you make a well-

 Test drive a vehicle under conditions similar to where you usually drive. If you make frequent use of expressways, test drive on an expressway.

FINANCING:

- The traditional retail finance plan bases payments on the purchase price less the down payment. It has a constant predetermined interest rate for a fixed period, and equal installment payments can be arranged for terms from 12-60 months.
- A balloon note financing plan combines advantages of traditional fifinancing and leasing in a flexible plan for 24 to 48 months. Its significantly lower monthly payments based on a lower financed principle balance enable a buyer to buy a more expensive vehicle and more options.

The balloon note offers several final payment choices such as returning the vehicle, refinancing the vehicle or paying off the note. Unlike lease regulation, a vehicle financed with a balloon note can be titled in the customer's name.

- A farm payment plan is tailored to correspond to seasonal farm income.
- A college graduate finance plan enables recent graduates with no credit to buy or lease a new vehicle. Eligi-

LEASING:

• A retail lease finance plan makes monthly payments more affordable than those of conventional finance plans. The monthly payments are calculated on the difference between the predetermined future trade-in value of the vehicle and its original selling price.

PICKING UP THE NEW VEHICLE:

• Test drive your new vehicle before you sign the final papers. Note any squeak, buzz, rattle or other problems before leaving the dealership.

ture Spectacular has some far-reaching ramifications that extend beyond the boundaries of the city of Plymouth where the festival is held...

For one thing, it will be the first major event statewide to kick off the celebration of the State of Michigan Sesquicentennial.

The heart of downtown Plymouth will be transformed into an ice art gallery featuring some of the world's finest ice sculptors.

Entitled "Symphony on Ice," the sesquicentennial centerpiece will feature carvings of 50 or more musical instruments on a stage, under colored lights, with taped music, including a composition written especially for Michigan's 150th anniversary.

Animal lovers are in for a frosty treat at the Plymouth ice spectacular thanks to the efforts of Livonia Public Schools culinary arts students who have created an ice zoo at the fifth annual festival. The students spent their Christmas vacation and a lot of their own free time recently creating the "zoo" in the back of Franklin High School. One such student was Kris Gutierrez of Churchill High School who "saw" her way to creating this icy alligator. Students competed for scholarships and college credits.

Test-star Aerotech makes debut

Form follows function with Oldsmobile's sleek Aerotech, which will serve as a high-speed test bed for a special turbocharged version of the 2.3 liter bile's sleek, new high-performance test car, will make its public debut in Michigan at the Detroit Auto Show, Jan. 10-18.

The car, powered by a specially prepared turbocharged version of the Quad 4 engine, is being used for highspeed, closed-course testing.

This testing is being carried out over a carefully set schedule to determine the car's maximum capabilities. At it's first trial in mid-November, the Aerotech was piloted to a speed of 218 mph by A.J. Foyt at the GM Desert Proving Ground at Mesa, Ariz. Further testing will continue.

"THIS HAS BEEN an exciting project for Oldsmobile working with various GM staffs and divisions and outside suppliers," Theodore N. Louckes, Oldsmobile's chief engineer, points out. "The car is a superb test vehicle with many new technical innovations, and the engine holds great promise for providing valuable information through high-speed performance tests. We're going to learn a lot from this effort." Louckes adds.

The Aerotech body was designed by GM Design Staff and is one of the sleekest vehicles yet developed for a GM car division. Low to the ground with a canopy-covered cockpit, the Aerotech has an approximate curb weight of 1,600 pounds and wheelbase of 111.3 inches.

The car's length is 192 inches and width is 86 inches. Its height is 40.1 inches and ground clearance ranges from .5 inch to 1 inch. Drag has been significantly reduced and downforce substantially increased when compared with current day high-speed

THE DESIGN OF Aerotech includes the capability of adjusting underbody sections to control the distribution of downforce front to rear. The shape of the body also allows for selfaligning torque when the vehicle is in Power for the Aerotech comes from a specially-prepared version of the new 2.3 liter Quad 4 engine, a four-cylinder, dual overhead cam, 16-valve, high output powerplant. The regular version Quad 4 is due to make its debut in GM passenger cars in the 1988 model year.

Humble origin for extravaganza

ROM A MODEST start in Beller's Beer Garden on East Jefferson Avenue in 1907, the Detroit Auto Show has grown into a giant extravaganza featuring more than 500 vehicles and occupying 440,000 square-feet in Cobo Hall.

In the beginning, the newly-formed Detroit Auto Dealers Association held its 1907 show in an 11,376 square-foot hall at Beller's near the Belle Isle

In the early show, 17 exhibitors displayed 33 makes of cars. The 1987 show will have more than 50 exhibitors and an almost limitless variety of vehicles, including many on display for the first time.

MANY OF THE CARS at the 1907 show have faded into oblivion, including the De Lux, Wayne, Detroit Electric, Maxwell, Brush Runabout. Waverly Electric and Thomas Flyer.

Other 1907 exhibitors thrived, becoming leaders of the auto industry. Some still hold these leadership positions today. Included in the 1907 show were such stalwarts as Ford, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac Metzger sold his bicycle business and sailed to London in 1895 to attend the world's first auto show. He was so impressed by horseless-carriages that, upon returning to Detroit, he co-founded the Cadillac Motor Car Co. and took an active role in the development of the fledging auto industry.

He became the country's first auto dealer when he set up a dealership for steam-drive and electric autos on Woodward Avenue in Detroit in 1898.

In 1899, Metzger and Seneca G. Lewis, of the Fletcher Hardware Co., Detroit, organized the Tri-State Sportsman's and Automobile Association. Their show at the Light Guard Armory featured two steam-driven Mobiles and two Waverly Electrics on display with fishing rods and reels, hunting equipment and camping gear.

THE FIRST DETROITER to buy a car was Newton Annis, a furrier. He bought a Waverly Electric from Metzger in 1899.

From Metzger's humble beginnings almost 90 years ago, Detroit's auto Dealers Association represents more than four percent of auto and truck sales in the United States.
