The Canton Connection

CENSORSHIP? "Censorship in Education: Its Impact on Student and Society" is the topic for the Plymouth-Canton Civitan Citizenship Essay Contest now in progress.

First prize is $125, second prize $75, and third prize $50. Information is available in the general offices of Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools or by contacting Joe Henshaw, Canton High science department.

WINS LOTTERY: Esther Sprengel, 63, of Canton went home $60,000 richer last month after spinning the "Fall Fiesta" instant game Money Wheel recently in a game conducted by the Michigan Lottery Bureau.

A retired secretary from the Plymouth State Home, Sprengel said she planned to use her new-found wealth to supplement her retirement and that of husband William, who plans to retire in July from General Motors. Sprengel also said she will help her three children.

She purchased her winning ticket at Julien's Grocery in Canton but waited a few days before scratching the ticket off. Then she "couldn't believe" she had won. Sprengel became eligible for the wheel spin by uncovering three wheel symbols on a "Fall Fiesta" instant ticket. Prizes on the Money Wheel appeared in increments of $10,000 ranging up to $100,000.

15TH TIME: The Canton Chamber of Commerce, for the 15th time, will hold its annual meeting on Friday, Jan. 23. This year the meeting will be in the Fellows Creek Clubhouse restaurant. Cocktails will be at 6:30 p.m. and the prime rib dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. The charge is $17.50 per person. There will be a cash bar. Besides social activities, the meeting also will include installation of new board of directors members and a vote on bylaw revisions. For reservations, call the chamber at 453-4040 by Tuesday, Jan. 20.

Police seek motive for teen's death

By Diane Gale and M.B. Dillon
staff writers

A 13-year-old Canton Township girl was killed after apparently telling two juveniles charged in her death that she was pregnant.

Commander Carl Rinna of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department would not confirm the motive supplied by a reliable source and supported by other facts in the case.

"The final confrontation emanated from a relationship between all three people," Rinna said. "They were both acquaintances who she hung around with."

Mary Anne Hulbert's body was found Wednesday in a Washtenaw County field not far from her home at Holiday Estates on Geddes Road. Dr. Donald Riker, Washtenaw County deputy medical examiner, said she was shot eight times with small-caliber bullets. There were no signs of rape.

Riker said the autopsy revealed "no evidence" the victim was pregnant, adding it would have been impossible to determine whether she had conceived a few weeks before her death.

Medical examiners determined Mary died sometime between Dec. 30 and New Year's Day and listed the date of death as Dec. 30.

Two 16-year-old Ypsilanti boys were detained on $500,000 bond each following a detention hearing Thursday in Washtenaw County Juvenile Court. The youths are charged with open murder. One of the boys is being held in a Washtenaw County detention center and the other in a Genesee County detention center, Rinna said.

"Any homicide is a tragedy," Rinna said. "Some of the methodology was shocking but I can't talk about it because it would reveal the motive.

"From talking to the people we believe are involved you'd have to believe that it was premeditated. But I don't know if it was."

Roller-skating was one of Mary Ann Hurlbert's interests.

'From talking to the people we believe are involved you'd have to believe that it was premeditated. But I don't know if it was.'
— Commander Carl Rinna Washtenaw County Sheriff

THE WASHTENAW County Prosecutor's office is "seriously looking into the possibility" of having the suspects tried as adults, said Elizabeth Pollard, first assistant prosecutor. The determination will be made by a juvenile court judge.

Mary's grandfather, Norman McGarry of Canton, was asked about the report that the girl had told the boys she was pregnant.

"She might have said something to impress him," McGarry said, "and didn't think he would shoot her."

"When you're a teenager and lie beside someone for an hour or two you could think you're pregnant," the victim's mother, Deborah Hulbert, said.

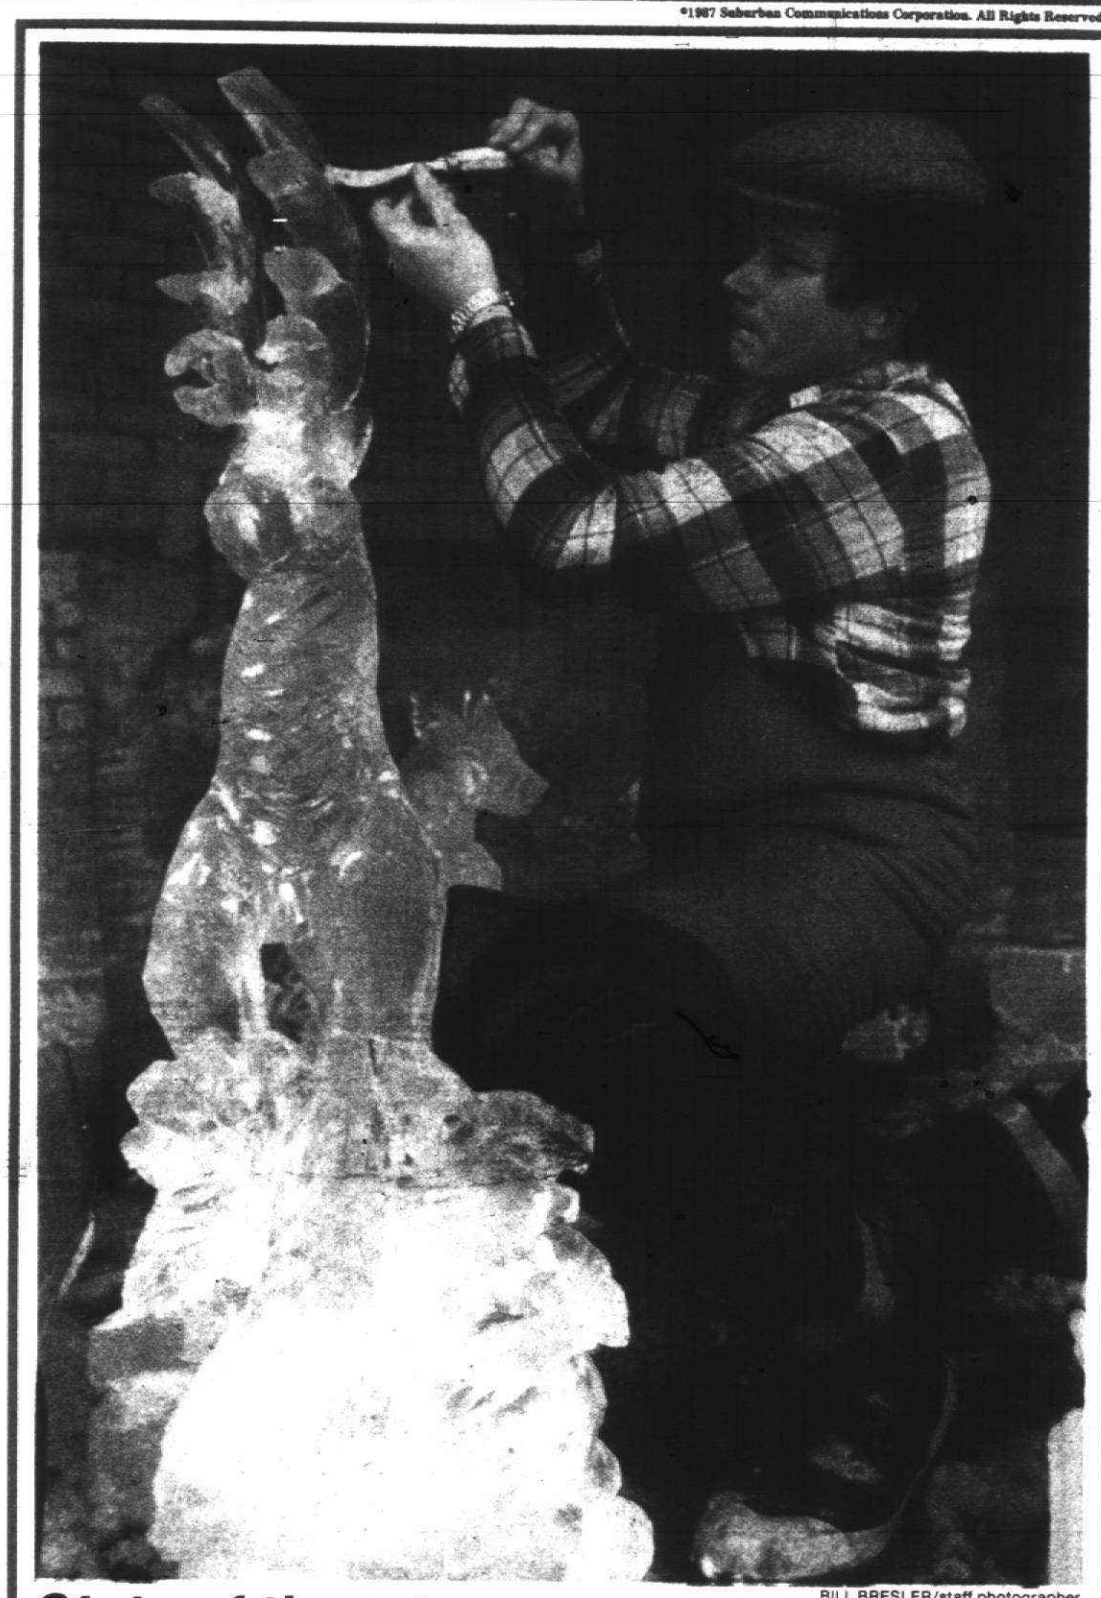

When asked if the suspects thought she was pregnant, Hulbert had no comment.

MARY WAS outgoing and involved in a number of activities including roller-skating, gymnastics, dancing, singing and cheerleading. She also took piano lessons.

She was not involved in school activities, her mother said, "so her family could keep a better eye on her." She declined to elaborate.

A friend told Hulbert that Mary

Theodore Wakar is shown here preparing one of the major pieces to be displayed at the Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular this week. Wakar, a chef for Ford Motor Co. World Headquarters in Dearborn, is carving pieces for a map of Michigan. The separate pieces — animals and objects associated with Michigan — go with the map which will serve as a backdrop for the Michigan Sesquicentennial centerpiece, "Symphony On Ice." Wakar carved most of the pieces at Midwest Ice in Detroit; they were transported from there last week. This Saturday Wakar and other chefs will be competing in the professional competition with the winner gaining the right to represent the United States at the upcoming ice sculpture competition in Sapparo, Japan. Principal remembers 'nice little girl'

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Leaden skies over Westland's Adlai Stevenson Junior High School matched the mood inside, where students and teachers sat stunned. Some were in tears.

Their worst fears about an absent student were realized Thursday with the announcement that Mary Anne Hulbert's body had been found.

Hunters found the 13-year-old from Canton Township shot to death in a field in Superior Township Wednesday morning.

Stevenson Principal Dennis Connolly described the 7th-grader as a "very nice little girl" and a "better-than-average, good, solid 'B' student."

But teachers had become concerned when her attendance dropped off, Connolly said.

"Fairly recently, she had begun missing a lot of school, usually two or three days at a stretch. Her mom had given excuses but I'm not sure how legitimate they were. Her grades started to slack off due to the absences," he said.

CONNOLLY LAST saw Mary Dec. 22 when she and her mother stopped at school to pick up her assignments. She wasn't the Mary teachers remembered.

"Mary was absolutely outgoing, very sociable and a nice person. She had a bubbly personality and no inhibitions," said Marty LaPorte. LaPorte was principal at Walker Elementary where Mary had been an office assistant.

"She was a pleasant kid — very easy to talk to, and very easy to instruct in terms of office routine. She wanted to do it the right way. She was one of the kids you could correct and she wouldn't feel bad."

Mary studied piano, dance, and took skating lessons. She also took cheerleading lessons from Susan Elliott at Masters of Dance.

Elliot described Mary as "very quiet," a good learner who wanted to be a cheerleader once she got to high school.

"She didn't talk to anybody," said Elliot, adding that Mary hadn't attended class for the last three weeks. "When we would sit in a circle, Mary would sit outside the circle.

"It was like she wanted to talk to other people, but couldn't. She didn't want people to know anything about her life except about her roller-skating."

"It's very sad that something happened to her," LaPorte said.

"She seemed to be well-adjusted. I didn't foresee any problems with her going into junior high school. I never had an inkling" she would associate with undesirable kids.

Before enrolling at Walker, Mary had spent a 18 months living with her grandparents in Nigeria, Africa. Her grandfather was a GM employee, according to Deborah Hulbert, Mary Anne's mother.

On their own, Stevenson students began taking up a collection Friday to defray Hulbert's funeral expenses, Connolly said.

Reporter Diane Gale contributed to this story.

Realtor wants OK to go door-to-door

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Toni Ivankovics, a real estate agent, wants to go door-to-door in the city of Plymouth hunting for clients.

City Manager Henry Graper, who doesn't think much of that plan, has asked City Attorney Ron Lowe to determine if she can be stopped.

Small potatoes maybe but, then again, maybe not. Many great constitutional cases have been seeded by small potatoes.

IVANKOVICS, a Plymouth resident, works for Century 21 Suburban in Northville.

She's been an agent a year and has the idea that personal, door-to-door prospecting would be more productive than "farming" by mail or over the telephone.

"I think it's effective," she said. "Ninety percent of my mail I rip up before I even open it. First class mail is 22 cents. Rather than the post office doing it, I could get fresh air."

Research has demonstrated that people wouldn't be put off by a personal sales approach, Ivankovics maintained.

"I figured I'd do 20 homes a week. I haven't got that definite. Most people don't have real estate agents. If they're thinking of selling their house . . . someone comes to the door it may be a big relief."

GRAPER SAID he doesn't believe that Plymouth residents would be as receptive as Ivankovics suspects.

"I think it's a disturbance to the people," he said. "We would like to discourage it because we don't think it's in the best interest of our community."

Graper raised another objection.

"I look upon real estate as being a profession — like picking a doctor." Graper added he hoped agents would look at personal prospecting as not the most professional approach to use marketing property.

Graper cited one more concern in a brief written report to the City Commission. "I am personally against the idea because I feel if this is granted to one individual, then we may wind up with all of the Realtors in the area wanting to have this privilege."

Other agents do it now, Ivankovics said, but don't bother informing city officials about the activity. She declined to provide names.

"I thought I'd be above board in case someone got upset I was bothering them, so to speak," she said.

Lowe declined to comment on whether Ivankovics can be stopped until he researches the city's solicitation/peddler ordinance, charter and state law.

"I don't even have a gut reaction now," he said. "It's a wide open question. Basically, I'm going to look at what regulations we can enforce."

Ivankovics admitted she'd be disappointed if she's denied but doubts whether she'd fight an adverse decision.

Stay tuned.

Jury awards $425,000 in SEMTA case

A Wayne County Circuit Court jury hearing a case in a Plymouth District Court has decided that SEMTA owes Detroit's Bus Transportation Credit Union $425,000.

SEMTA, in making way for the downtown Detroit's People Mover, condemned and demolished the credit union's two-story, 12,000 square-foot building on Michigan Avenue east of Cass in 1983.

The credit union was dissatisfied with SEMTA's $192,000 reimbursement offer.

The case was heard by 35th District Judge James Garber as part of a year-long program to help Wayne Circuit Court relieve its civil case backlog.

An unusual, all-female jury deliberated for less than an hour before pegging the worth of the 100-year-old structure.

The credit union, whose members are Greyhound and independent bus line employees, gave up a good thing when forced to move to Royal Oak. It occupied the second floor of the paid-for facility, and leased first-fleor space to two bar/restaurants.

About 1,100 circuit court cases have been heard in 35th District Court since the trial reduction program began last winter, Garber said.

Garber expects his two-judge court will hear nearly 100 more before the program ends in March.

In all, local district courts donated 400 trial days in assisting the circuit court. District judges normally hear misdemeanors and civil cases involving less than $10,000.

The female jury — only the third Garber has seen in his 28-year legal career — is fortunate it wasn't sequestered, the judge said.

"One of the quirks in our law is that when the state was first formed, a juror had to be male," Garber said, as jurors had to be registered voters.

An antiquated law holds that one-gender juries had to be sequestered, added Garber. "It's an archaic thing, and in this era, day and age, it wouldn't be upheld (on appeal)."

Garber, nonetheless, asked attorneys trying the case for a waiver. Their answer meant jurors were able to spend Monday night at home instead of the Red Roof Inn.

The Bus Transportation Credit Union last made news when it was hit with a sex discrimination suit. A female employee who'd worked for the credit union for 28 years was awarded $1.08 million judgment in mid-December.

Delays fail to cool festivities

THE weatherman cooperated and provided a cold, snowy climate for the opening of last week's Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular.

The actual setup and arrival of the major pieces were delayed slightly mid-week but by Friday the sculptures had arrived and by that evening the crowds were here too.

Earlier in the day tour buses began to arrive and the presence of cameras began to multiply throughout town. Before 5 p.m. traffic along Main already reached bumper-to-bumper from Ann Arbor Trail to Wing — an indicator of a strong pull of spectators to an event.

The individual sculptures were in place up and down Main, Ann Arbor Trail, Penniman, and Forest Avenue and the "Symphony On Ice" settled into its location at the southwest corner of Kellogg Park. Several other major pieces were in place and sculptors could be seen throughout the park busily at work.

Saturday The Gathering filled up with individual pieces as the student competition was held and today community college students began work on their major pieces.

Manager foils bank robber

A man who attempted a bank robbery Wednesday in Plymouth Township fled empty-handed when the branch manager started scuffling with him, according to a report filed with Plymouth Township Police.

The attempted robbery occurred at about 9:20 a.m. at First Federal Savings Bank and Trust on Sheldon Road north of Ann Arbor Road.

The manager, whose knuckles were bloodied and who later complained of a sore leg, wasn't seriously injured, police reported.

None of the tellers was injured.

The robber was described as black, 6-foot-1, 175-190 pounds, with a slender build and close-cropped, kinky hair.

He was last seen driving north on Sheldon in a two-tone blue, late-model Buick with a temporary license plate in the rear window, police said.

Police were alerted by alarms sounded by tellers.

The man entered the bank alone at a hurried pace, according to police accounts, vaulted the teller counter and immediately announced a robbery.

The manager, who at first thought the incident was a prank, police reports said, confronted the intruder and the two began fighting. The robber fled shortly thereafter.

No weapon was seen, police said.

The FBI is attempting to enhance a couple of poor-quality pictures taken of the man during the robbery try, police said.

Police seek motive in shooting would pass out packs of gum at school.

"She would do anything to get people to like her," Hulbert said. "She would sleep with me a couple of nights a week to cuddle and love."

"She always wanted to please — that was her downfall," her grandfather said. "She was too naive."

Deborah Hulbert reported her daughter missing at 8:45 p.m. Dec. 30. She said she last saw her daughter after returning from a fast-food restaurant. Mary had told her mother she was hungry and insisted they get a carry-out. However the girl left the house without eating and without any of her belongings, she said.

"She didn't have a chance, no one gave her a chance. The police didn't help me at all."

Canton Police Chief John Santomauro disagreed. He said Mary's description was entered into a missing persons' computer listing and an investigation was initiated immediately.

"This is a terrible tragedy," Santomauro said. "Even if the police department had been able to determine a crime had been committed, from our information it very well could have been after the fact because the victim could have been murdered two to three hours prior to the police report even being filed."

MARY'S FATHER, Joseph Hulbert of Farmington Hills, said the last time he saw his daughter was the Sunday before she was reported missing. They went to lunch and watched a video movie.

"She played piano, she rollerskated, she did everything," Joseph Hulbert said. "She was from a good family. It's terrible."

The words to the song "True Colors" by Cyndi Lauper were printed on a remembrance card given to visitors at Schrader Funeral Home because it described Mary, Deborah Hulbert said.

"You with the sad eyes, don't be discouraged. Oh I realize, it's hard to take courage. In a world full of people, you can lose sight of it all, and the darkness inside you can make you feel so small," it reads.

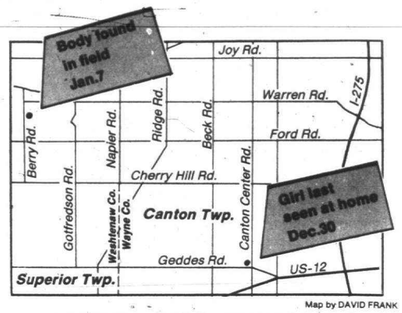

Her mother said she hoped other teenagers would learn from the song. "They're worked up, confused. They don't know which way to turn or who to talk to — so they go to a peer."

Survivors, besides her mother and father, include grandparents, Norman and Margie McGarry of Canton.

The Rev. Jerry Yarnell presided at funeral services at Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth. Burial was Saturday at Cadillac Memorial Gardens.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Missing Children's Fund, in care of Schrader Funeral Home, 280 S. Main, Plymouth 48170.

Bolivia is the country to be explored at the travelogue series sponsored by the Plymouth Kiwanis Foundation. The program starts at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Plymouth Salem High School.

Bolivia is topic for travel series

South America's "Undiscovered Land" — Bolivia — will be discovered this Wednesday night at the travelogue series sponsored by the Plymouth Kiwanis Foundation.

The program, presented by Stan Walsh, will begin at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School on Joy just west of Canton Center Road. Admission is $3.50 at the door. "Use-as-you-choose" season tickets may be purchased for $14, which allow the option of bringing up to six people to one travelogue for a potential savings of $7.

The Plymouth Kiwanis Foundation is the fund-raising vehicle of the evening Plymouth Kiwanis Club and the afternoon Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth.

A NATIVE of New Jersey, Walsh's youthful influences included wild berry hunting in the Pine Barrens and watching giant Zeppelins soar over the Atlantic shore.

After serving in the U.S. Air Force, Walsh attended the University of Southern California and moonlighted as a projectionist for globetrotting lecturers including Burton Holmes, Lowell Thomas and Sir Hubert Wilkins.

As a newly graduated engineer he moved his family to Italy where he produced his first travelogue. He now combines film making with airway planning on four continents.

WALSH photographed and narrated "Discover Bolivia" which will be shown this Wednesday.

Bolivia is the highest inhabited region other than Tibet. Airplanes must cruise up to 13,300 feet just to land in the capital of LaPaz. Walsh's film is the first travelogue ever made about Bolivia.

Scenes include pet llamas, folkdancing, a witches market with herbal cures, the cotton candyman, mountain climbers, the snow-covered Andes, a steam train, desert flowers, marble mountains, a "tin belt" mine, a working airline of World War II warplanes, a family reunion in a graveyard, a cattle drive, the rain forest, a motorbike race, weaving looms, Conquistador costumes, and the bullfights.

RECENT THINKING ON TREATMENT FOR RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS

Why are drugs, formerly given to treat cancer, now being used in the therapy of rheumatoid arthritis?
Rheumatoid arthritis occurs as a result of a failure in immune surveillance. The immune control system for the body can be likened to a comprehensive alarm plan for a home. The home system may have several parts: one to stop burglers from entering; another to warn occupants if fire breaks out; and yet another to signal when noxious gases arise. Each part has its specialized component, but much of the plan uses circuits in common.
The human immune surveillance system also works to stop unwanted outsiders: infectious agents, inflammatory arthritis, and cancer. Each part of the immune system is specialized to protect against one class of invaders, but each uses many reactions in common. Experience has shown that certain drugs help the body's immune system fight cancer. The hope is that these drugs can be modified to help another part of the immune system fight rheumatoid arthritis.
To date this expectation has not been fulfilled. But results of using anti-cancer drugs to fight arthritis are sufficiently encouraging to continue this approach in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis.

Legislators debate merits of 'official language'

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Legislation introduced earlier this month by U.S. Rep. William Broomfield, R-Birmingham, making English the official language of the United States received only mild reaction from most Michigan officials.

But U.S. Rep. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, called the proposal "unnecessary and punitive."

"This country was built on creating unity out of diversity and I think this (the legislation) goes in the opposite direction," said Levin, whose district includes Redford Township.

As proposed, Joint House Resolution 13 would "prohibit the United States, or any state, from requiring the use of a language other than English."

The bill can not be enacted into law unless approved as a Constitutional amendment and must receive a two-thirds vote in the both the House and Senate and then be passed by the electorate of each state.

"I have been very concerned that this country could be heading down the road to multilingualism if something isn't done soon," Broomfield said.

"IF YOU GO into some sections of our large cities," he continued, "English is not even spoken or seen. While this is not inherently bad, the problem lies with the fact that many people never have to know English because of our ballot, education and other service programs which require, in many instances, a multilingual format."

Levin disagrees.

"The pressures to learn English to succeed are already in place and they have worked well in the past. The process will continue to work well in the future, a natural process that does not penalize people," Levin said.

FEDERAL LAW now requires that voting materials be provided in languages other than English when non-English speaking populations meet federally established formulas based on density and illiteracy.

Bi-lingual educational programs are required when students speaking English as a second language demonstrate they are not up to grade level or are doing poorly in school because they do not properly understand.

Just three communities in Michigan qualify to receive non-English printed ballots under the federal Voting Rights Act, according to Bradley Wittman, an election specialist with the Michigan Elections Bureau.

Clyde Township and Fennville City in Allegan County and Grant Township in Newaygo County each has a population of at least five percent that "does not understand English well enough to adequately participate in the electoral process and whose illiteracy rate is higher than the national norm."

WITTMAN ALSO said other communities such as Lansing have large non-English speaking populations but do not meet federal density requirements. But he said state balloting materials printed by the Elections Bureau are supplied to these communities as well. "We try and bend over backwards to serve the voters."

Wittman estimated the total cost of ballot materials printed in Spanish for the 1986 Michigan elections was approximately $5,000. "It has very little impact on Michigan."

Presently, an estimated 15,000 bilingual students in Michigan receive special instruction in state funded bilingual programs or in federally funded programs called English As A Second Language.

These students represent 24 different languages, including relative unknowns like Gujarati, Marathi and Tamil that are different Indian languages; Togalog, the national language of the Phillipines; and the native American language of Ogibwa.

'This country was built on creating unity out of diversity and I think this (the legislation) goes in the opposite direction.'
—U.S. Rep. Sander Levin D-Southfield

Currently receiving special instruction: 7,666 Spanish-speaking students; 2,137 speaking Arabic; and 863 speaking Caldean. More than 400 Albanian students receive special instruction, as do 156 Finnish youngsters.

Students in these programs have demonstrated they are not at grade level or are falling behind in school, a requirement that is necessary for school districts to qualify for federal assistance under Title 7.

DR. MIGUEL RUIZ, chief of the bilingual migrant program for Michigan schools, said districts in Michigan received an estimated $4 million in federal funds last year. The state contributed an equal sum to various districts.

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, for example, received federal and state funds totaling more than $121,000, providing instruction to 143 students who represent 15 different languages.

In contrast, Bloomfield Hills schools identified 79 potentially eligible students, those who speak English as a second language. But all are up to grade level in academic performance and none received special instruction.

RUIZ SAID the purpose of bilingual education is to mainstream students who speak Enlish as a second language into an English curriculum once they "understand well enough to comprehend what they are learning."

"Bilingual has become a political and emotional problem. We look to our neighbors in the north and see a country divided by language. We fear it happening here.

"I suspect the reason we're not impacted more severely in Michigan is because we are not threatened by large numbers of non-English speaking people, like in places like California, Texas and Florida."

THE ISSUE whether English should be an official language was addressed last November by voters in California who passed by a wide margin a referendum making it the official language of the state.

This point is one reason why Broomfield said he introduced his legislation. "English is spoken because of tradition. There is no law making it the official language.

Levin said there is no need for one. "This proposal carries all kinds of ramifications."

U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, whose district includes Garden City, Westland, Canton Township and part of Livonia, tells constituents who inquire about his position on the issue that he is "opposed to anything that repeals bilingual education. It would be a disservice to the voters of Michigan."

FEDERAL FUNDS now help pay for bilingual educational programs. Ford fears repeal of the law would cost Michigan and Michigan taxpayers.

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, whose district includes the northern two-thirds of Livonia, said he believes every person entering the United States (for residency) should be required to speak English, but adds, "I recognize the need for a strong second language program in our educational system."

Broomfield's proposal is presently under consideration by the House Judiciary Committee.

NOTHING IMPRESSES AN EMPLOYER LIKE DROPPING OUT OF SCHOOL EVERY ONCE IN A WHILE.

After several years of intense study, a lot of college graduates finally learn something. They're not qualified for the job they want.
Fact is, many graduates never find a career in their field of study. All their time spent in study. Not enough time in the field.
That's why there's a nationwide program for college students called Cooperative Education. It allows students to alternate studies at the college of their choice with paid, practical work experience in the career of their choice.
To participate in Co-op Education you don't need to fit into any particular socio-economic group. You don't need to be a straight "A" student either.
All you really need to be, is smart enough to leave school.

Plymouth in 1916 — the car replacing horse

(Part 2)

past and present

Sam Hudson

Harry C. Robinson, owner of the livery stable on Penniman Avenue, was president of the Village of Plymouth in 1916 when the Plymouth Mail published its special Booster Edition.

That was the year the Frank Millard Musical Instrument Company began producing bugles, trumpets and trombones at a plant on Amelia Street not far from Main. The Millard firm went out of business about 1924 after its contract to supply the armed forces with bugles ran out.

ONE OF THE advertisements in the Mail's special edition was run by the Alter Motor Car Company which began production in Plymouth only two years earlier.

Located on Farmer Street, across from today's Cultural Center, the firm employed about 50 men. At its peak, the factory produced 25 cars per week.

Alter used a full page ad in the Mail to promote its 1916 model. The car had a 27-horsepower motor, a 12-gallon gas tank located under the cowl, and a wheelbase of 108 inches. The 1916 model "embraced all of the very latest improvements in automobile design" and had "the classy look and finish of higher-priced cars." A medium-priced automobile, the Alter sold for $685.

President of the Alter firm was an out-of-towner, Guy Hamilton. Orders for the car were outstripping production at the time the special edition of the Mail was published but on Jan. 5, 1917, when efforts to obtain additional financing for plant expansion failed, the company's directors voted to dissolve the company.

In the three years the firm operated here it produced about 1,000 cars. One of the firm's cars, named after its designer, Clarence Alter of Manitowoc, Wis., is on display at the Plymouth Museum.

NO ONE KNOWS how many Alter cars were sold to residents but Plymouth residents were not limited in choice of automobiles in 1916.

Maxwell, Overland, Buick, Chevrolet, Case, Dort, Reo and Ford cars were advertised in the Mail's special issue that year. Maxwell's were sold here by William Hirschlieb at the selling price of $655.

Blunk Motor Sales had Overlands at $695 and Willys-Knights at $1,125. Shaw and McKinney had the New Case Forty at $1,090. Rambo and Griffith wanted $650 for their Dorts. Reo cars at $1,250 and Reo trucks at $1,650 were offered by Ira Wilson. Ford cars were available at Bill Beyer's Bonafide Garage on Main Street, opposite the Markham Air Rifle factory, but no price was given.

Maxwell cars were produced in the U.S. from 1904 to 1925. The Overland, forerunner of the Willys line, went out of production in 1909. The Dort was manufactured from 1915 to 1924. Reo cars were sold from 1904 to 1936.

Inspite of increasing encroachment by the automobile on the horse as a means of transportation, Plymouth still had a livery stable, two horseshoers and a harness maker in 1916. Harry Robinson's livery and sale stable was at 55 Penniman Avenue opposite today's post office. Robinson ran an omnibus to the local station, specialized in horse and stock sales, and was a general auctioneer known all over the State of Michigan.

ONE OF THE blacksmiths was J.S. Lorenz, located on E. Ann Arbor Street. Lorenz advertised himself as a practical horseshoer and general blacksmith. He also did carriage and wagon repairing.

The other blacksmith was Henry J. Fisher whose shop was located at the north end of town on Starkweather Avenue. Fisher also dealt in agricultural implements. He began his business here in 1891, and had served on the village council.

The harness maker was George W. Richwine whose shop was on Penniman Avenue facing Kellogg Park. Richwine advertised that he had been making harnesses for 23 years. He also oiled and repaired harnesses and sold horse blankets. Recognizing the inevitable, he also had a stock of carriage and auto robes. Richwine was treasurer of the village in 1920, and again from 1925 to 1931. One of his customers in the harness business was Henry Ford.

The Booster Edition in 1916 also carried ads by a cigar maker, a candy store and a firm that made gravestones. The cigar maker was George W. Springer whose shop was on N. Mill Street. His advertisement promoted "Plymouth-made cigars" which went by the names of "The Mail," "Our Senator," and "Springer's Best."

SPRINGER had been deputy sheriff of Plymouth Township in 1900, and village marshal in 1912. He was a one-man police force for a number of years.

The candy and ice cream store was Murray's, operated by H.W. Murray. Murray, who started in business here in 1908, occupied a large establishment facing both Penniman Avenue and Main Street. The store had a seating capacity of 100. Murray was said to be the originator of home-made candy in Plymouth. He advertised that he carried the town's largest line of postcards.

The gravestone marker was Asa Lyon, proprietor of the Plymouth Marble and Granite Works.

The Mail declared that some of the finest monuments in Riverside Cemetery had been erected by him. Lyon had his display of monuments and markers on Main Street not far from the Pere Marquette Railroad tracks.

Mary Jo Charron performed a superb routine on the balance beam Wednesday night. She scored a second-best 8.65, helping Canton to a 117.25 team score.

Raiders topple Canton

The tighter judging standards don't seem to be bothering the North Farmington gymnastics team.

The Raiders, in just their fourth meet, topped the magic 130 mark Wednesday beating Plymouth Canton 131.8-117.25.

"We've been scoring higher in every meet," said North coach Jeff Dwyer. "And we've been looking better as a team. I feel very fortunate to have this much depth. We have four solid scorers in each event. Last year we had three scorers and they probably scored higher than our girls are right now. But when you have four in each event, that really helps."

Senior Lucine Toroyan won three events for the Raiders. She took the uneven parallel bars (8.55), balance beam (8.7) and floor exercise (8.9). She placed in a tie for second on the vault with teammate Kara Karhu (8.35).

Freshman Kim Heller won the vault for North with a 9.15. She placed second on floor (8.8). Kara Karhu placed second on bars (7.8) and third on floor exercise (8.75).

Nikki Yuskowatz placed third on the beam (7.95) and fourth on both bars (7.2) and floor (8.2). Marilyn Dunn took a third on bars (7.55) and Cindy Tijan took fourth on beam (7.85).

The Raiders are 4-0 on the season.

For Canton (0-1), Mary Jo Charron took a second beam with an 8.65. Maureen McLean took a fourth on vault (8.3) and fifth on floor (7.75).

FARMINGTON HARRISON suffered its second loss in three meets Wednesday, bowing to Hartland 124.3-110.9.

Salem bops Farmington; Chiefs extend Pats' skid

basketball

Maturity affects a basketball team in subtle ways. Take Plymouth Salem for example. The Rock teams of the last two seasons displayed a tendency to play down to the level of their opponents.

Friday night, the 1987 Salem team played a 1-5 Farmington team. And rambled to a 63-37 victory.

"I think our experience really helps," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "Like the other night at Churchill. (Salem blew a lead in the fourth quarter but rallied to win the game.)

"I think in past years we may have folded in that game. But we are playing with more maturity. I don't think these guys are going to let that kind of thing happen this year. I hope not anyway."

Mike Hale, senior frontcourt player, took charge of the Salem situation Friday. He scored 21 points, grabbed 12 rebounds and blocked three shots. Rick Taylor added 10.

"I tell you what, we spread the game at the end but it was tight for a while," Brodie said.

Farmington, buoyed by the hot hand of Paul Orrico, built up a six-point lead in the second quarter. Orrico scored 10 of his team-high 14 points in the first eight minutes.

"We identified Steve Howell as their scorer and we were dropping people off to help out on him," Brodie said. "Then Orrico just caught fire."

But in the second half, Salem stepped up its defensive pressure and iced Farmington's perimeter shooters.

"We really kicked into gear. We started running our break and getting a lot of baskets off the transition," Brodie said. "Our defense picked up, too. We had 10 blocked shots on the night. That's quite a few."

Another plus for Salem was the defensive work of Tony Moore. Moore had the task of stopping Howell who had been averaging nearly 20 points a game for Farmington. Howell scored two points on the night.

The win keeps Salem unbeaten in five Western Lakes games and 6-1 overall. Farmington is 0-5 in the league, 1-6 overall.

CANTON 51, FRANKLIN 47: Livonia Franklin's losing streak is now at 28 thanks to a brilliant effort by Plymouth Canton senior Tyrone Reeves.

Reeves scored a game-high 20 points Friday night and canned some clutch free throws in the final minutes.

With 2:30 left to play, Franklin pulled within two. But the Chiefs secured victory with eight straight free throws. Reeves hit four of them.

Jeff Anulewicz added eight points to the Canton cause. Chris Parenti led Franklin with 12.

The win improves Canton's Western Lakes record to 3-2. The Chiefs are 3-4 overall. Franklin is 0-5 in the league, 0-7 overall.

HARRISON 52, CHURCHILL 44: How tough is it for Farmington Harrison to win at Livonia Churchill? Friday night's victory was the Hawks third ever at Churchill.

The game was decided in the fourth quarter. And, safe to say, Gary Schwedt provided the difference. Schwedt scored eight of his 10 points in the final quarter helping the Hawks to a 14-6 edge. On the night he had eight rebounds, four assists and two blocked shots.

"He played like No. 46 instead of No. 31," said Harrison coach Mike Teachman, referring to the fact the Schwedt wore jersey No. 46 during his standout football career at Harrison.

Bocketti, Orris pave the way as Rock swimmers top Chiefs swimming

It seems nobody totally loses dual swim meets, especially those early in the season.

Take for example Plymouth Salem's 97-75 victory over rival Plymouth Canton Thursday night. Here are the opposing coaches' feelings about the meet:

"We did exactly what we wanted to do," Salem coach Chuck Olson said. "We won the meet, and we got a chance to look at a lot of different swimmers. All in all it was a very satisfying meet for us."

Said Canton coach Hooker Wellman: "I'm very pleased. The fact that we kept them under 100 points was real good. Salem is an outstanding team. I felt we swam well."

See, no losers.

And plenty of winners.

SALEM WON eight of the 11 events. Phil Bocketti and Ron Orris captured two events each. Bocketti won the 200-yard freestyle (1:55.39) and the 500 freestyle (5:20.12). Orris, a freshman, won the 200 individual medley (2:04.63) and the 100 free (51.7).

Other Rock winners were Kevin Tunich in diving (211.85 points), Don Harwood in the 100 backstroke (59.26) and Geoff Taylor in the 100 breaststroke (1:08.57). Orris, John Irvine, Harwood and Bocketti teamed to win the 400 freestyle relay in 3:30.88.

The Rocks went 1-2 in the 200 free, the 200 IM, the 100 free and the 500 free.

CANTON CAPTURED the 200 medley relay with Dean Roberts, Jeff Homan, Bryce Anderson and Jim Walker going 1:49.32.

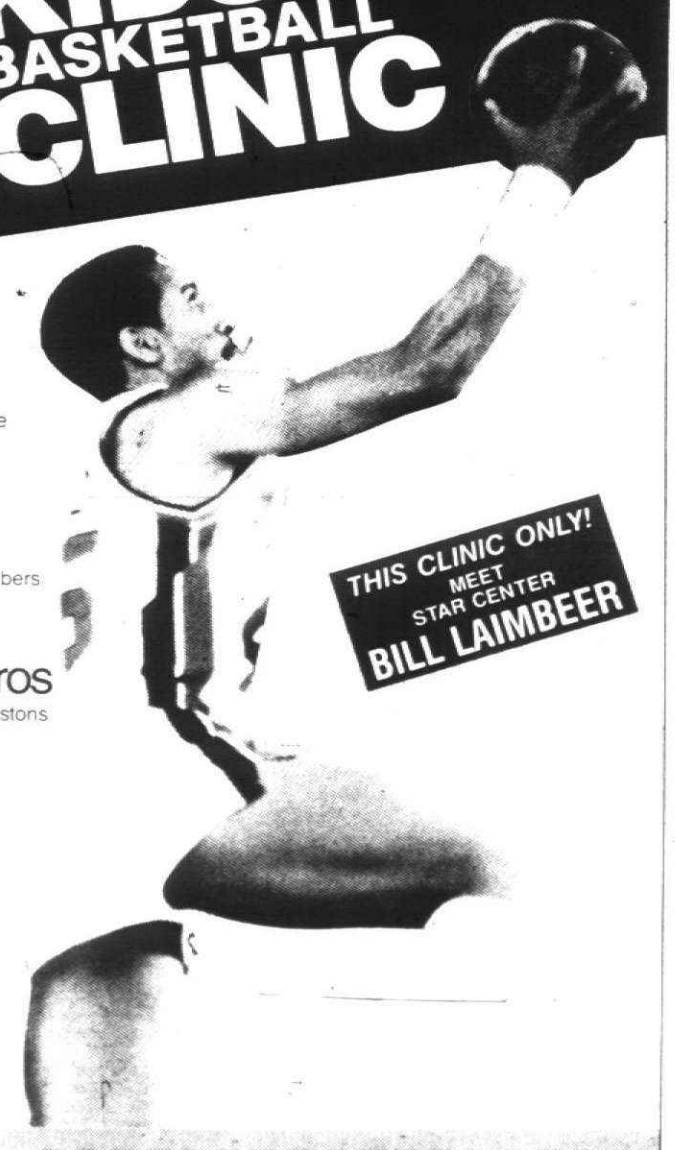

Tom Hone won the 50 freestyle in 23.73. Scott Swartzwelter took the 100 butterfly in 1:01.9.

The Chiefs went 2-3-4 in the breaststroke, 1-2 in the 50 free and 1-3 in the medley relay.

Salem is 1-1 on the season. Canton is 0-4.

Rout fails to dampen Borgess reunion

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

JOE GREGORY wore a hangdog expression. His eyes were fixed on the ground, his voice barely audible. This was not the greatest moment in his young athletic career.

Lewis Scott, on the other hand, was all smiles. He was animated, restless, the adrenalin still shooting through his system. The only lull in his enthusiasm came when he talked about his friend, Joe Gregory. Deep down he sympathized with Gregory's pain.

This was the aftermath of a special reunion. It took place at Eastern Michigan University's Bowen Field House Wednesday night during the EMU-Bowling Green basketball game. It was, regardless of the outcome, a proud moment for followers of Redford Bishop Borgess and Observerland sports.

Gregory and Scott, two of the most exceptional basketball players produced by Bishop Borgess, matched up against each other. Scott, the point guard for EMU, against Gregory, the point guard for Bowling Green. For the first time in a college game, Gregory and Scott matched up man on man.

THE OUTCOME, from Gregory's perspective, was disastrous. EMU humiliated Bowling Green 95-52.

"This hurts," Gregory said after the game. "This hurts real bad."

Said Scott: "Playing against one of my high school teammates, I was definitely pumped up. And you know there was no way I wanted to lose this one. I talked to Joe after. I know he was down. I just told him not to stay down. He has really improved his game. He shoots the ball well and passes it real well."

Actually, the individual battle between Gregory and Scott — though difficult to measure because of the team's differing offensive philosophies — was pretty even.

Scott, slowed some by a flu virus, played 23 minutes. He made two of three shots for four points, grabbed two rebounds and dished out two assists. He also made a steal (off Gregory). In fact, Scott's and EMU's hounding man-to-man defense was the difference in the game. The badgered Falcons hit on just 19 of 60 shots from the floor.

Gregory played 26 minutes. He hit two of four shots and one of two free throws for five points. He had a rebound, four assists and two steals (one off Scott).

It should be pointed out that Scott is 6-5 and Gregory 5-9. But where Scott had the advantage of height and reach, Gregory had an edge in quickness. It made for an intriguing individual battle, a welcomed one considering the one-sidedness of the game.

For Scott and Gregory, Wednesday was merely a continuation of the friendly individual battle the two began some five years ago at Borgess.

Gregory was a sophomore in 1983 when Scott, a senior, was establishing most of the Bishop Borgess scoring records. Two years later, Gregory had eclipsed all of Scott's records.

The two players still get together over the summer and play pickup games at Borgess.

THE TWO have taken different paths through college.

Scott has emerged as one of EMU's most versatile athletes and one of the team's premier defensive players.

After seeing limited action as a freshman, Scott was asked to play small forward as a sophomore. He responded by averaging 8.8 points and 4.5 rebounds per game.

As a junior Scott was asked to play shooting guard. He averaged nearly 12 points a game and shot nearly 50 percent from the floor.

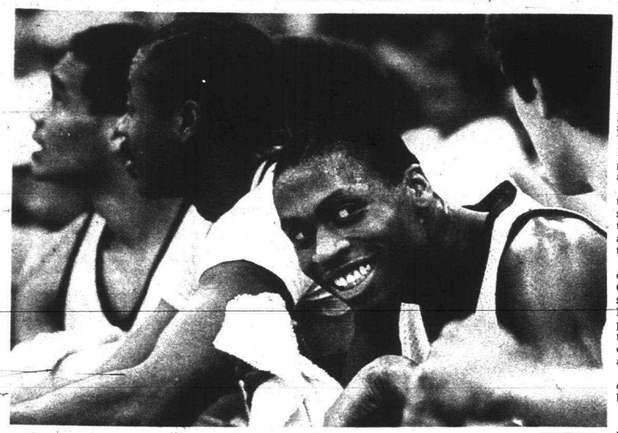

This year, Scott was asked to play point guard and again he has responded to the challenge. Prior to Wednesday night, he has averaged 13 points and three rebounds per game. In 11 games he has 36 assists and 22 turnovers.

When asked if EMU was a better team with him at point guard, Scott said, "I'd like to say so. I'd be in trouble if I didn't. I think I've been able to provide some leadership at the point.

"I'd say the toughest part of it is defense. In the MAC (Mid-American Conference) a lot of the guards are smaller. When we played against Notre Dame and Cleveland State the point guards were my size. Some of the guys are quicker, but I have decent quickness and my long arms really help."

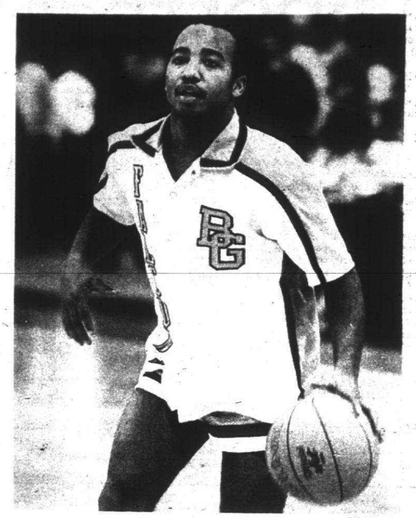

From all accounts, Lewis Scott is completely content with his basketball life at EMU.

THAT HASN'T been the case for Gregory at Bowling Green. Last year was somewhat of a nightmare. He and coach John Weinert didn't exactly hit it off, and Gregory spent a lot of time on the bench.

RICK SMITH

Joe Gregory, despite a credible individual performance, was less than pleased with the final outcome Wednesday night.

RICK SMITH

Lewis Scott was all smiles Wednesday night after helping his EMU team thrash Bowling Green 95-52.

Things are different now. New coach Jim Larranaga has won Gregory's confidence and trust.

"The coaching is great and we have a good team," Gregory said. "This was just one of those nights for us. We are a lot better than this. I'm just happy to be playing for a coach like Jim Larranaga."

Gregory's game is far different now than it was back at Borgess. Gregory rarely shoots, although he has hit seven of 15 shots from three-point range this season. He seldom drives the lane, something he did brilliantly in high school. His job with Bowling Green is to get the ball into the hands of the designated shooters.

"I'm not unhappy with my role. I do whatever I'm asked to do and whatever it takes to help us win," Gregory said. "I wasn't really a scorer at Borgess. I was just asked to do it, so I did it. We've got guys on this team that can score, and I'm more than happy to get them the ball. If a shot is there for me, I'll take it."

Gregory was understandably upset with the way the game turned out Wednesday. But he was still able to find a silver lining.

"You know the only thing good about this is we get to play them again in our gym (Feb. 4). Hopefully, it'll be a different story," he said.

If not, it could be somewhat discomforting for Gregory this summer when he shows up at Borgess for open gym.

CHRIS MACK, a Kalamazoo College senior from Garden City and second-team all-Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association defensive tackle, has been named to the academic all-America football team. The four-year starter was one of 96 players from across the nation recognized for successfully combining athletics and academics.

Mack was the Hornets' MVP after leading them in tackles for loss (19 for minus-97 yards) and quarterback sacks (11). To be chosen to the academic all-America team, a player must be a starter or important reserve and must carry a 3.2 to 4.0 grade point average. Mack is majoring in biology . . .

ALICE SHORT, a Farmington Harrison graduate, pumped in 29 points and grabbed 13 rebounds in Northern Michigan's three-game trip to Florida. Short, a senior who leads the Wildcats in scoring with a 15.8 average, scored 15 and nabbed eight rebounds in a 90-68 win over Air Force. NMU also beat St. Thomas (Miami) 86-41 and lost to Florida Atlantic 60-50. . . .

CURTIS WHITE, a Plymouth Salem grad, is one of several local standouts on Kent State's hockey team. White, a freshman defenseman, scored his first collegiate goal and it was the game-winner against Sheridan College. He also has seven assists this season.

ED SHEPLER, from Livonia Churchill, is the second-leading scorer for KSU with eight. The freshman also has eight assists in 14 games. JOHN SMITH and CHARLIE NORTON, from Plymouth Canton, have also been big contributors. Smith, a center, has three goals and nine assists, while Norton has a goal and two assists while splitting time between forward and defense. . . .

PETE PODRASKY, from Canton, assisted on a goal in Northern Michigan's 9-3 win over Yale and got another assist in the Wildcats' 5-3 victory over University of New Hampshire. But the freshman defenseman hurt his shoulder against UNH and is expected to be lost one to three weeks. . . .

MISSY DUCZYNSKI, a Farmington Hills Mercy grad from Plymouth, scored a career-high 11 points in Central Michigan's 80-71 basketball victory over Kent State. The freshman forward is averaging 3.5 points and 1.4 rebounds for the Chippewas. . . .

KELLY KOWALSKI, from Livonia Stevenson, is having a superb freshman season, even if her Wayne State basketball team isn't. Kowalski leads the Tartars in scoring with a 12.6 points-per-game average and has grabbed 6.7 rebounds-per-contest as a starter.

TRACY LECTKA, from Livonia Franklin, has also sparkled for WSU as a freshman starter. Lectka popped in 20 points in an 85-83 loss at Illinois-Chicago, a team-high for this season. For the year, Lectka is averaging 8.7 points, two assists and two rebounds per game. . . .

MARK KAY WHALEN, from Livonia Franklin, is among the Midwestern Collegiate Conference (MCC) leaders in five statistical categories. The University of Detroit senior forward is eighth in scoring (14.3 points), third in field goal percentage (.600), sixth in rebounding (8.7), second in blocked shots (2.0) and sixth in steals (2.1).

Free throws propel Ocelots past MCC

Schoolcraft sports

Sharp free-throw shooting sparked Schoolcraft College's mens basketball team to a 76-67 victory over Macomb CC Wednesday at SC.

The Ocelots, 5-9 overall and 3-2 in the Eastern Conference, led 33-31 at the half but pulled away in the second half, thanks to their accurate foul shooting. For the game, they hit 23-of-24 from the stripe.

Guard Mike Simpson led SC with 22 points. Zollie Stevens contributed 21 points and seven rebounds and Phil Weiss chipped in with 14 points.

THE SC WOMENS team had little trouble thrashing Madonna College Wednesday, 106-32 at SC.

The Lady Ocelots (9-4 overall) pulled away from an 18-10 lead midway through the first half to a 55-21 advantage at the intermission. Sue Lubbe, who finished with 24 points and 10 rebounds, ignited SC in the first half with 18, points (eight-of-nine from the floor) and eight rebounds.

Lori Abbas' 27 points was best for the Lady Ocelots. Tracy Ladouceur added 21 points and 11 rebounds, Lisa Kline had 10 points and seven boards and Sharon Miller collected 12 rebounds, five blocks and six points.

Madonna, which had just five players, was led by Rosie Marano's 10 points.

Mott outguns OCC

The balanced attack of Oakland Community College's mens basketball team could not overcome the one-two scoring punch of Mott CC's Ronnie Thompkins and Lenard Collins Wednesday, as MCC outscored the Raiders 101-97 at OCC.

The 6-foot-10 Thompkins poured in 39 points and the 6-8 Collins added 33 to spark the win. MCC also canned 21-of-29 free throws.

OCC got 21 points from Carson Butler, 19 from Derrick Williams, 16 from Gary Holt, 14 from Sam Smith and 11 from Greg Davis. Williams grabbed 12 rebounds and Davis had 10. John Bowie dished out 14 assists for the Raiders, who made 11-of-17 free throws.

OCC, 10-6 overall and 3-2 in the Eastern Conference, led at the half 48-46.

Chiefs succumb to North serves volleyball

Sometimes volleyball matches can be interminable; side out after side out, long rally after long rally, until it begins to appear as if the match will never end.

Wednesday's Western Lakes match between North Farmington and Plymouth Canton was nothing like that.

North made short work of the Chiefs, 15-7, 15-4.

"Basically, it was a serving game," said North coach Sandy Lubieniecki. "There wasn't a lot of match play. But that happens sometimes early in the season."

Suzi Butcher and Stephanie Knapp took care of game one for North. Both were seven of seven from the service corner and accounted for 13 of the 15 points.

Missy Bosscawen took care of game two. She hit on seven of eight serves with four aces.

Butcher was a factor at the net in both games. The junior nailed eight of 10 spike attempts with four kills.

"I saw a lot of improvement with the Canton team," Lubieniecki said. "They have a new coaching staff (led by Allie Suffety), and they seem to have a more positive attitude. I was impressed with the way they were working and with the things they were working on. I think you'll see them improve steadily as the season wears on."

North is now 6-1 on the season, 1-0 in the Western Lakes. It was Canton's first match.

FARMINGTON HARRISON battled powerful Livonia Stevenson to a three-game match Wednesday, but the Spartans' strong serving eventually took its toll — Stevenson won 15 5, 11-15, 15-5.

Stevenson set the pace early. All-Area standout Kristine Bailey served home nine straight points in the first game.

"We just didn't pass well off their serves," said Harrison coach Ron Shortt. "But I think we got into a situation where our kids felt Stevenson was the better team. They thought, 'Well, we'll play but we won't really pressure them.' That irritated me. But that happens when a team has dominated as long as Stevenson has."

Janine Whittemore and Theresa Spisz keyed Harrison's win in game two with superb net play. They repeatedly blocked hits from Bailey and Sue Zatorski.

"Stevenson missed some serves and that got us going a little," Shortt said. "Plus, we started blocking real well. But game three was just like game one."

Shortt said Whittemore was the team's most consistent player. She was strong at the net, in the back row and in the service corner. Shortt also praised the play of setter Heidi Reyst and the back row efforts of Katie Doll.

The Hawks are 3-2 on the season, 0-1 in the Western Lakes.

Falcon swimmers stop 14-meet skid

Let's hear it for those Falcons. Roll out the barrels, bang the gong. Strike up the band and clear the dance floor. We're having a celebration.

The Farmington boys swim team, ladies and gentlemen, have ended a grueling and frustrating 14-meet losing streak.

The Falcons beat Northville 91-81 in a thrilling Western Lakes dual meet Thursday night.

"Boy, it sure was a long time coming," said Farmington coach Ross Bandy. It was his first win as the Falcons' boys head coach. "I'm just real happy. The kids really came through."

Credit Jim Vlk, Adam Krause and a loaded-up 400-yard freestyle relay team for the victory.

VLK WON both the 50 freestyle (23.21) and the 100 butterfly (56.2) Krause won took both the 200 freestyle (1:59.6) and the 100 free (55.07).

But, with the meet on the line, Bandy teamed Vlk and Krause with Scott Hawkins and Brad Moore in the 400 free relay. The quartet won in 3:41.3 to secure victory.

Other individual winners for the Falcons were Moore in the 200 individual medley (2:15.9), G.T. Meili in the 500 free (5:18.9) and Brian Haupt in the 100 breaststroke (1:10.11).

Hawkins, Haupt, Rich Los and Mark Langdon won the 200 medley relay (1:54.8).

The Falcons are 1-3 this season.

NORTH FARMINGTON was an easy winner Thursday, beating Walled Lake Western 124-44.

The Raiders won every event.

Steve Tumey won a pair of events. He took the 200 IM (2:16.8) and the 100 butterfly (1:01.2). Brother Mike Tumey won the 50 free (22.6) and swam on both relays.

Mike Tumey teamed with Bruce Goins, Jordy Greenstein and Andy Fretz to win the 200 medley relay in 1:46.85. The same foursome won the 400 freestyle relay in 3:26.8.

Goins won the 200 free (2:02.3), Leo Lieberman won diving (182.45), Greenstein won the 100 free (52.7), Rich Barston won the 500 free (5:41.0), Kris Matusiewicz won the 100 backstroke (1:08.9) and Dan Knipper won the 100 breaststroke (1:11.5).

The Raiders are 2-1 on the season.

FARMINGTON HARRISON won its second dual meet of the season Thursday topping Walled Lake Central 91-80.

Scott Farabee won a pair of events: the 200 freestyle (1:52.75) and the 100 butterfly (56.92). He also teammed with Jeff Bolla, Brian Fitzgerald and Jeff Neikirk to win the 400 free relay (3:43.45).

Fitzgerald won the 500 fred (5:13.22) and Scott Walock took the 100 breaststroke (1:07.36).

The Hawks are 2-1.

Rocks pin Stevenson

The Plymouth Salem wrestling team ran its dual meet record to 7-0 Thursday with a 42-22 win at Livonia Stevenson.

It was perhaps a tougher test than the Rocks expected.

"I thought it was a good match," said Stevenson coach Don Berg. "It was the first time in five years that I felt we were competitive with Salem. We made them work this time."

The Rocks won eight of the 13 matches.

Jeff Delbeke (98 pounds), Scott Contini (119), Tim Ott (132) and Richard Johnson (heavyweight) won on pins for the Rocks. Sean May (112) and Dennis Dameron (126) won on technical falls.

Steve Burlison (145) and Lem Yeung (155) won on close decisions.

Stevenson (5-2) got wins from Dave Wojciechowski (105), Tom Tokarz (138), Jim Gibson (167), John Economou (185) and Vern Schipper (198).

The Rocks are 2-0 in the Western Lakes. Stevenson is 0-2.

If you become frazzled trying to dazzle
Your friends with a bounty of razzmatazz,
Here's the scoop on serving up soup
In a style that's sure to delight any group!

Forget fret and frenzy. Forget spending two days cooking for a few hours of party. Forget polishing silver and ironing tablecloths.

Everyone is busy today and many of us can't find time for traditional entertaining. But, chances are, your friends would be thrilled to attend a casual, last-minute party. Casual, however, doesn't mean the food can't look and taste wonderful, with little time and effort on your part.

One great idea is to serve a soup buffet. January is National Soup Month and it's the perfect time to explore the entertaining possibilities of soup. Make it yourself or call on one of the many convenient forms in which it's available at your market, then add your own festive touches.

Soup can be a meal in a bowl or a light accompaniment to other foods . . . or it can be both. Soup also helps you and your guests keep your New Year's resolutions about lighter eating and good nutrition. In addition, it's a soothing food, a food that makes you feel warm and comfortable.

Ninety years ago, in 1897, canned condensed soup was one of the first convenience foods to be generally available to the public. It delivered rich flavor without the long hours of simmering that had been necessary before.

Today we take for granted the easy access we have to top quality broths and condensed and ready-to-serve soups, as well as the new dry and frozen varieties. The family of soups continues to grow with more exciting flavors and more convenient forms.

For your soup buffet, you might choose to feature soups of one cuisine – Italian, for example. Escarole and Rice Soup begins with condensed chicken broth in which you simply cook the escarole and rice. Classic Pasta e Fagioli takes a shortcut using ready-to-serve ham and bean soup. Heat homemade-tasting minestrone straight from the can and garnish with a flavorful parsley pesto to make one of the party's biggest hits, Presto Minestrone.

These soups can be assembled in short order, then left to simmer so their tempting aromas will greet arriving guests and put them in the party spirit.

Carry through the Italian theme with Caponata, a refreshing eggplant appetizer you eat on Italian bread. Prepare it ahead of time so the flavors can blend, and that's one less thing to worry about on the day of the party. This caponata's great flavor also starts with soup.

No one can resist spectacular Tricolor Pizza. Dry onion soup mix gives the crust a savory goodness that's complemented by the zesty tomato soup and sausage topping. Red, yellow and green peppers add the showy final touch.

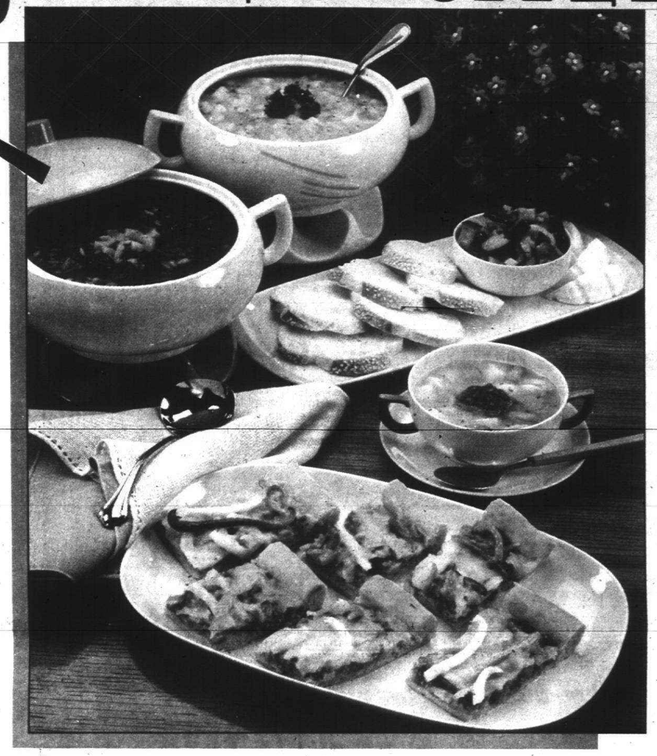

Make serving comfortable by setting up the buffet table in an easily accessible location. Keep the soup hot over warming candles, or on warming trays, in slow cookers or in thermal servers. Provide plenty of mugs or deep bowls with generous liners for the soup; high quality paper or plastic bowls work perfectly well.

Once you get the food on the table, your only duties are to encourage guests to serve themselves, keep the conversation sparkling and enjoy your own party!

Tricolor Pizza

1 pouch Onion Soup and Recipe Mix
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1 package active dry yeast
3/4 cup very warm water (120° to 130°F.)
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 pound Italian sausage, casing removed
2 large cloves garlic, minced
1 can (11 ounces) Condensed Zesty Tomato Soup/Sauce
1 teaspoon wine vinegar
2 cups thinly sliced green, red and yellow peppers
2 cups shredded mozzarella cheese (8 ounces)

1. In medium bowl, combine soup mix, 1 cup of the flour, sugar and yeast; mix well. With mixer at low speed, gradually pour warm water and oil into dry ingredients; beat until just mixed. At medium speed, beat 4 minutes, scraping bowl often.
2. With spoon, stir in about 3/4 cup flour or enough to make a soft dough. On floured surface, knead dough about 5 minutes until smooth and elastic, adding more flour as necessary.
3. Grease 15- by 10-inch jelly-roll pan. On floured surface, roll dough 1 inch larger all around than pan. Transfer to pan. Turn edge under to form rim.
4. Let rise in warm place (80° to 85°F.), free from draft, 20 minutes.
5. Meanwhile, in 10-inch skillet over medium heat, brown sausage with garlic, stirring to separate meat. Spoon off fat. Add soup and vinegar. Heat through.
6. Preheat oven to 400°F. Bake crust 5 minutes; remove from oven. Spread sausage mixture over crust and top with pepper strips; sprinkle with cheese. Bake 15 minutes more or until crust is lightly browned. Makes 12 servings.

NATIONAL SOUP MONTH JANUARY

Tex-Mex

South-of-the-border cuisine is savory, sure to please palates

San Antonio is the home of a singular style of Tex-Mex food, unique not only in the country, but within the state, as well.

Each section of Texas has been influenced differently and each has developed its own brand of Texas cuisine. The northern part of the state, including the Dallas/Ft. Worth area, has its Mexican food, but it has a more cowboy, pioneer influence, being the section farthest from Mexico.

In the east, the Houston area, there is a hint of Cajun/Creole influence and a definite "deep South" feeling to the Mexican food. In El Paso and the desert-mountain region of the state, the Indian influence is strong, giving this area's Tex-Mex food a character all its own.

South Texas, and primarily San Antonio, is the "Gateway to Mexico," where the most authentic Mexican-influenced Tex-Mex food is found.

Tex-Mex Stew is a culinary example of the cultural melding that defines San Antonio cuisine. A chili-like dish, the stew contains the tomatoes and corn enjoyed by the area's original Mexican settlers, ground beef, which was introduced to Texas by Spanish conquistadores, pinto beans, a staple in the Mexican diet, and cumin, Mexico's favorite spice.

In true San Antonio style, the cook's choice of mild, medium or hot picante sauce replaces tricky-to-handle jalapeno peppers, streamlining preparation, providing garden-fresh flavor and adding just the right amount of tongue-tingling "heat." A sprinkling of fresh cilantro, the Southwest's favorite herb, adds it's own distinctive flavor.

Crowd-pleasing Fideo, San Antonio Style, is a typical Mexican "dry soup," served as a side dish in place of rice or potatoes. The savory dish is "dry" only in the sense that almost all liquid is absorbed by the fideo or vermicelli as it cooks. Cilantro enhances the flavor of the dish, which is typically served at San Antonio barbecues in place of potato salad.

TEX-MEX STEW

2 lbs. ground beef
2 large garlic cloves, minced
3 tbsp. vegetable oil
1 can (28 oz.) whole tomatoes
1 cup picante sauce
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tsp. ground cumin
1 can (17 oz.) whole kernel corn, drained
1 can (15½ oz.) pinto beans, drained
8 green onions with tops, sliced (about 1½ cups)
Chopped fresh cilantro (optional)

Brown meat with garlic in oil in Dutch oven; drain. Drain and coarsely chop tomatoes, reserving juice. Add tomatoes, juice, picante sauce, salt, pepper and cumin to meat mixture. Bring to a boil; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 20-30 minutes. Add corn, beans and onions; continue cooking, uncovered, 10 minutes. Top with cilantro, if desired, and serve with additional picante sauce. Makes 6-8 servings.

FIDEO, SAN ANTONIO STYLE

10 oz. vermicelli (fideo), broken into pieces
1 medium onion, chopped
2 large garlic cloves, minced
⅓ cup vegetable oil
1 can (16 oz.) whole tomatoes
1¾ cups water
½ cup picante sauce
Salt to taste
1 tsp. sugar
¼ cup minced cilantro or parsley

Cook vermicelli, onion and garlic in oil in large skillet over medium heat until vermicelli is lightly browned. Stir in remaining ingredients except cilantro. Simmer, stirring occasionally and breaking up tomatoes, until vermicelli is tender and most of liquid is absorbed, about 6-8 minutes. Add cilantro; mix well. Serve with additional picante sauce. Makes 8 servings.

Showcasing San Antonio's unique, streamlined style of cooking, Tex-Mex Stew combines ground beef with the Mexican staples of corn, tomatoes, pinto beans and cumin. The chili-like stew replaces hard-to-handle jalapeno peppers with picante sauce, which adds garden-fresh, spicy, as-you-like-it flavor. A last-minute sprinkling of cilantro completes the dish.

Sensible nutrition in the fast lane

Today's hectic lifestyle makes it very tempting to plan dinner around a bucket of chicken, a bag of burgers or a frozen entree. Fast foods can dent the budget and may short change you nutritionally.

Wise choices in the "fast" lane would be a baked potato, but go easy on the rich toppings to keep the sodium, fat and calorie count down. Hold the mayo, skip rich sauces on sandwiches, drink low-fat or skim milk, fruit juice instead of soda and limit the servings of fried foods.

Go to the salad bar for seconds. Salads offer a chance to be creative, and make your meal individualized. Don't smother the healthy salad with gobs of dressing, put it on the side or choose a low calorie/low fat dressing.

Bigger is not better, skip the giant hamburger laden with cheese, sauce and bacon. Choose a small burger with no sauce and ask for extra lettuce and tomato. Ask for the nutritional information at your local fast food restaurants.

Time consuming cooking has passed it's prime. Light, fresh, simple meals are "in." Frozen entrees are gaining in popularity; add a salad, a glass of milk and a piece of fruit for dessert for a fast meal at home. Don't forget to read the nutritional information printed on the box.

Remember, whether it be fast foods or foods made at home, the key is moderation and variety for good health.

Diabetes is a major contributor to heart disease, kidney disease and blindness. So when you support the American Diabetes Association, you fight some of the worst diseases of our time.

Cast, crew work hard

A disagreement over the script involves Hazel LaVerne (played by Patricia Gresock) and Ollie (Ron Hutchins).

Hal (played by Hank Fusik) and Sara (Diane Kremser) stroll offstage together.

No shortage of suspects in this mystery thriller

Actress Hazel LaVerne has plenty of enemies. One of them, however, hates her enough to want her dead.

"Whodunit?" is the question in the Plymouth Theatre Guild production of "Murder Takes the Stage" by James Reach.

Production dates for "Murder Takes the Stage" are Friday and Saturday, Jan. 30-31 and Feb. 6-7. Curtain time is 8 p.m. at Central Middle School, Main and Church streets in Plymouth.

The story of "Murder Takes the Stage" involves the cast of a theatrical production. Hazel LaVerne (played by Patricia Gresock) is shot during a rehearsal session.

The weapon used to shoot Hazel was supposed to be loaded with blanks. The question that follows the death of the actress is "whodunit?"

The cast of characters includes Miss Liz (played by Karen Wendt), Ollie (Ron Hutchins), Drew (Rick Boldman), Larry (Bob Regan), Ellen (Barbara LaScola), Bob (Hollis Denham), Sara (Diane Kremser), Hal (Hank Fusik) and Ann (Karen Mosti).

OTHER CAST members are Jane (played by Gail Mesner), Mitzi (Cynthia Lewandowski) and Sheriff Wiley (Alvin LaCroix). Bob Weibel is director and Karen Mosti is assistant director for "Murder Takes the Stage."

The cast started rehearsals for "Murder Takes the Stage" in early December, Weibel said. Portions of the play were rewritten.

"There wasn't a clever twist at the end about how the mystery is solved," the director said. "It was just too patent."

The sequence of events was rearranged a bit to make the play more exciting.

"It all turns out the same way."

The play is performed on a bare stage without any scenery. The lack of a set can make performing the play a bigger challenge, Weibel said.

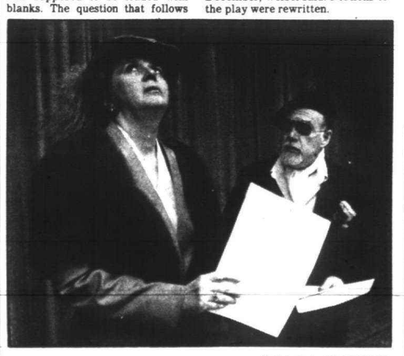

"In this one, there's nothing up there. The characters are more important."

Mysteries are enjoyable for the cast and for the audience, the director said.

"They're always fun to do." Figuring out "whodunit?" is a big part of the fun for audiences.

Ticket prices for "Murder Takes the Stage" are $5, $4 for students and seniors. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Group discounts are available. For additional information, call 451-0037.

From stage to screen, 3 appealing new films

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

Harold Gromeelski shows off his plant creation, called Augie III, displayed in the window of A Breath of Spring flower shop at Bloomfield Plaza in Bloomfield Township.

the movies

Dan Greenberg

Seymour Krelborn (Rick Moranis) talks to Audrey II, the little plant that grows as it eats people, in the film version of the hit musical "Little Shop of Horrors."

Three entertaining, well-done movies adapted from stage presentations currently are playing around the metro area: "Little Shop of Horrors," "Crimes of the Heart" and "Brighton Beach Memoirs." (all PG-13).

Inevitably one hears departing viewers bemoaning how badly Hollywood mangles Broadway properties. "Crimes of the Heart" seems the focus of this complaint, in particular led by the New York Times and Time magazine. "Why can't they make a film as good as the stage show?" "Why does Hollywood always ruin books and plays?"

The questions that ought to be asked are, "Why do we expect so much of Hollywood?" and, "When will we realize that a film is a film and a book is a book and a play is a play and even two-out-of-three don't match?"

Each of those media have their own unique characteristics, their particular forms and techniques for creating images and stimulating the human imagination. When we read, our mind forms mental pictures generated by what those words represent. Just look them up in the dictionary and find out what most people agree those words mean.

The resulting images will be good, bad or mediocre, depending upon how well the author has arranged his words.

A THEATRICAL presentation is something else again, no matter whether it's an original script or adapted from a novel. When we go to the theater, we experience a live presentation, real people, really doing things before our eyes, and with very few tricks.

A motion picture is a third kind of experience, a remarkable and very effective series of mental illusions created by a complicated and interesting technology.

All three of these media have their own strengths and weaknesses. They stimulate our minds in different ways, so it's a pretty shaky proposition to expect all three to tell the same story in the same way with the same impact.

That's the end of the sermon, the point of which is, take each experience for what it is and accept the fact that plays are adapted for the screen and not translated directly.

"Little Shop of Horrors" complicates the matter since the current film was adapted from the Broadway show which, in turn, was based on Roger Corman's 1960 "Grade Z" movie shot in two days and a night in a storefront set left over from another movie.

Corman's effort, which featured a then-relative newcomer, Jack Nicholson, as a masochistic dental patient, has become something of a cult classic and spawned the award-winning Broadway musical which has now been adapted for the screen.

THE HORROR in the "Little Shop" is a blood-eating plant from outer space (Audrey II) brought to Mushnik's Flower Shop by a schleppy employee, Seymour (Rick Moranis). Business is bad and Mushnik (Vincent Gardenia) is about to fire Seymour and his one other employee, Audrey (Ellen Greene), a dizzy blonde with a masochistic biker-dentist boyfriend, Dr. Scrivello (Steve Martin). The plant changes all that!

Sounds like fun? Right you are, no matter how much you may have loved the Broadway show.

The same is true for "Crimes of the Heart" based on Beth Henley's Pulitzer Prize winning-play. The film features Diane Keaton, Jessica Lange and Sissy Spacek in an unconventional comedy about the three McGrath sisters and their reunion.

"Brighton Beach Memoirs" was adapted for the screen by Neil Simon from his 1983 prize-winning (two Tonys among others) Broadway. success.

The film was shot on location in New York's Brighton Beach near Coney Island in Brooklyn. Various buildings there and in Queens were restored to create the film's 1937 atmosphere in this semi-autobiographical memoir of Neil Simon's adolescence.

The Jerome family struggles to make ends meet as (Blythe Danner), and sons, Stanley (Brian Drillinger) and Eugene (Jonathan Silverman). There's also his widowed sister-in-law Blanche (Judith Ivey) and her two daughters, Nora (Lisa Waltz) and Laurie (Stacey Glick).

All of them struggle with life, love and the problems of growing up as the Depression winds down and World War II winds up.

PERFORMANCES ARE uniformly excellent, and among the supporting roles, Steven Hills is particularly effective as Mr. Stroheim, a pressured Prussian reduced to running a hat business in bad times. But in every role, major and minor, the actors realistically portray the pride and problems of family life.

The film is well-photographed (John Bailey — "The Big Chill" and "Ordinary People"), in soft, warm images befitting a nostalgic reminiscence, and directed with a deft touch by Gene Saks ("Barefoot in the Park," "The Odd Couple" and "Mame," among others).

Of course, the main attraction of "Brighton Beach Memoirs" is Simon's writing. His superb grip on the essentials of comedy, his fond recollections and his writing skill provide a marvelous, witty film experience.

When you are growing up did you snitch cookies from the kitchen, hide your liver under your mashed potatoes and wonder why boys and girls were different? Whether or not you saw the Broadway version, you'll love Neil Simon's answers, on the silver screen.

Motown wasn't the only soul sound back in the '60s

music

Kevin Brown

The Atlantic sound was less dense and a bit wilder. Smokey Robinson cooed his "Oooh, Baby, Baby," while the Wicked Pickett shrieked, 'Get it! Get it! Get it! — OWWW!"

Is there anybody here who doesn't love Motown?

I don't mean our gritty city. I mean the record company and the music — the Supremes, Four Tops, Marvin Gaye, the Temptations and more.

Songs like "Where Did Our Love Go?" "Bernadette," "I Heard it Through the Grapevine" and "Can't Get Next to You."

Maybe it's because of the film "The Big Chill," which featured all those over-30 folks yuppie-ing around a kitchen while Motown records blared. Or maybe it's because most of us grew up just outside the Motor City. But when the subject of soul music comes up, we tend to talk Motown, Motown and only Motown.

Thanks largely to the Blues Brothers, there's been a revival of interest in that other major soul record company of the '60s, Atlantic.

Headquartered in Memphis, Atlantic's stars included Otis Redding, Sam and Dave, Aretha Franklin (who lives in Bloomfield Hills) and Wilson Pickett. Songs like "Sittin' on the Dock of the Bay," "Soul Man," "Respect" and "Mustang Sally."

In contrast to the Motown sound, Atlantic soul had more guitars and less orchestra backing, more emphasis on solo singers than groups and riffing horns rather than Motown's bell-like vibe accents.

THE ATLANTIC sound was less dense and a bit wilder. Smokey Robinson cooed his "Oooh, Baby, Baby," while the Wicked Pickett shrieked, "Get it! Get it! Get it! — OWWW!"

The Blues Brothers understood the fun side of Atlantic soul. They borrowed the rollicking horn intro from Redding's "I Can't Turn You Loose" for their own stage entrance theme. Now, college marching bands even play it at football games.

Earlier this year, Atlantic released seven two-record sets of its best soul and rhythm and blues from the '40s through the '70s. For those not initiated in the joys of the Atlantic soul sound, Volume Six — it covers the mid-to-late '60s — stacks up to most any Motown collection.

Side one opens with Pickett's "Land of 1,000 Dances," featuring those trademark Atlantic horns, Pickett's playful vocals and that catchy "Na-na-na-na-na" chorus.

Then there's "Sweet Soul Music" ("Do you like good music? — Yea, yea"). Like several songs in the collection, it's one you may have passed over back in the '60s in deference to the latest Beatles record. Rediscovering it is a joy.

And what about Redding singing his "Sittin' on the Dock of the Bay" — an elegant melody underscored by gentle guitar runs?

THE BACKING band on "Bay" and many songs in the collection is Booker T and the MGs. They not only backed most Atlantic groups — the MGs had instrumental hits on their own, like "Hip Hug Her" included here.

Booker T and the MGs knew the value of restraint, of making each note count. Eddie Van Halen could learn a lot from MGs guitarist Steve Cropper.

Aretha Franklin is represented with "Chain of Fools," and "Respect," revived of late by that loony on TV's "Moonlighting" lip-synching to this Aretha classic. Side three also includes her "You Make Me Feel Like a Natural Woman."

My favorite in this volume is the Bar-Kays "Soulfinger." This exuberant, wacky intrumental number also was included in the soundtrack to the recent film "Spies Like Us."

It's just one more example of the staying power of this soul music from Memphis.
