ANNUAL MEET: 35th District Judge John MacDonald was the guest speaker at the 15th annual dinner meeting of the Canton Chamber of Commerce Friday night at Fellows Creek Clubhouse, Canton.

MacDonald also gave the oath of office to the new officers and board members: Tim Ford. president; Frank McMurray, first vice president; Mel Morris, second vice president; John Schwartz, treasurer; Mary Domeier, secretary; and Sarah Berry, Bob Card, Bob Czerniak, Jim Gillig, Jim Blinski, Mary Gyorke, Hazen Hiller, Bob Olson, Mike Shaft and Gary Stolz, directors.

Having just completed its First Baby of the Year project, the Canton chamber now is planning for the Small Business Person of the Year and Business Expo in May, golf outing in September, Fire Prevention Contest in October, and Santa Comes to Canton in December.

But first will be Supervisor James Poole's speech to members at the chamber's monthly luncheon meeting this Wednesday at the Roman Forum.

A HEALTHY SHOT: Growth Works, which operates an alternative education program for youth in Plymouth-Canton, received an $18,000 shot in the arm Monday night. The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education allocated the sum to remedy a budget shortfall in Growth Works' Learning Options

Learning Options offers subjects to about 40 middle and high school students who have difficulty achieving in a typical school environment. Budgeted this year for the program was $156,085 — money raised from the local school district, the Plymouth Community Fund/ United Way, Wayne County and other sources.

Superintendent John Hoben, a member of Growth Works' board. was reluctant to bring the request to trustees but called the program a fine one that "gives kids who can't cope with the rigors of regular school the special, individualized attention they need.'

ON OVERTIME: The public is welcome to join Plymouth-Canton school board members and administrators at a workshop Friday at the Holiday Inn at Six Mile and Newburgh,

On the agenda during the 4:30-9:30 p.m. session will be district goals, the upcoming school election, the construction and redevation of school buildings, and boundaries.

The annual session is conducted in an informal setting so that school officials can "get away from the board room," said district community relations director Richard Egli. "It gives them the change in atmosphere they need to discuss things for a longer period of time." Included (for trustees and administrators only) will be a $19.95 dinner of beef or fish.

She is an airborne Florence Nightingale who confronts lifethreatening situations daily.

As one of six Midwest Medflight helicopter company nurses, Jan Nowacki of Canton routinely shows that she has the right stuff needed for critical patient care.

Since September, Midwest Medflight, a 24-hour helicopter service based at Catherine McAuley Health Center in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital of Ypsilanti, has provided transport services for critically ill patients in lower Michigan either from hospital to hospital, or from the scene of a motor vehicle accident to an emergency room.

worst," said Nowacki, 35. "Rarely are they well enough to just sit back and enjoy the ride. We're like a traveling intensive care unit.

'There's a whole lot of teamwork on this job. It's just me and the doctor. I can't do everything. I can't take the blood pressure, mix the medicine, push the medicine, and talk on the radio."

The physician ends up doing more of the things that a nurse would do on land, such as taking blood pressure, she said.

"Flying to get the patient is not stressful - arriving at the scene is because we never know what to ex-

SAFETY IS a key.

Weather and even the position of telephone wires must be taken into account before the craft can land, she said.

On cold winter days, Nowacki is usually dressed to the hilt with long underwear, hat, boots and gloves.

She has trudged through both icy waters and corn fields to retrieve patients

Several times, she has performed a "hot unload" which she describes as moving the patient out of the landed helicopter into the hospital, before the propeller blades have stopped moving. It's a carefully carried out, potentially dangerous situation that is necessary when time is of the essence, she said.

"Most of the time, when I get back to a patient, they don't remember being in a helicopter. When they get better, we always invite them down to take a look."

Nowacki was one of the six St. Joseph Hospital nurses chosen from 30 applicants to be a flight one received eight weeks training prior to assuming her role and also is trained as an EMT, paramedic, and CPR instructor. She also has a strong critical care background and is a certified emergency room nurse.

Nowacki has worked as a staff nurse, charge nurse and acting head nurse at St. Joseph Hospital. She decided against a permanent head nurse position at the hospital because she felt she was being bogged down by paperwork and wasn't performing enough direct patient care. She also has worked in the emergency room at Annapolis Hospital in the city of Wayne.

Nowacki holds an associate's degree from Schoolcraft Community College and is working toward a bachelor's degree in nursing from Madonna College.

Miranda Police disagree on challenge to ruling

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

In a move area police and civil libertarians are calling misguided, U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese III is seeking to overturn the Miranda rule requiring police to read suspects their legal rights.

A Justice Department report prepared for Meese says challenging the 21-year-old decision is "essential.

Overturning Miranda would be among the most important achievements of this administration," the report says. The Miranda rule, it adds, is "a derelict on the waters of the law," the New York Times reported.

The attorney general has said Miranda hampers criminal investigations and prevents police from obtaining confessions from suspects. Police chiefs here disagree.

Miranda has "made for much more humane and professional investigative police techniques," said Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers. "Rather than just say it's a bad thing, let's throw it out, I say let's take another look at police departments' ability to police themselves and see if we can't be entrusted with

The Miranda rule requiring police to inform suspects of their right to remain silent and to legal counsel became federal law in 1966 "when we used to beat confessions out of people," said Myers.

"One of the reasons it came about was because police abused their power. Miranda has raised the consciousness of police. We have to police ourselves also.

Myers didn't rule out change en tirely

'I'd prefer a good faith exception to an outright pitching of the Miranda right. I think the feeling of Meese and of myself to an extent, is that maybe it's time to take a look at it. Instead of coming up with prohibitions, take a look at the spirit of the Constitution," he added.

FRED E. CRISSEY

A memorial service for Mr. Crissey, 82, of Gulfport, Fla., was held recently at Woodlawn Memorial Gardens in St. Petersburg, Fla., with local arrangements by Lambert-Vermeulen Funeral Home, Plymouth. Memorial contributions may be given to the Fred E. Crissey Memorial Scholarship Fund, 20833 Southfield Road, Southfield 48075. Mr. Crissey, who died Jan. 22 in Plymouth, was born in Rochester, N.Y. A former professional musician, he began his career with Guy Lombardo in 1925 and later was a featured saxophonist with Ted Weems, Gene Goldkette, and Jimmy Dorsey.

After settling in Detroit, Mr. Crissey played with local orchestras and was a staff musician at WXYZ Radio. He formed his own orchestra and for many years was the featured attraction at Northwood Inn. He became the secretary of the Detroit Federation of Musicians in 1961, a position which he held until retiring in

After retirement, he continued to be involved in the musician's union, serving as the secretary of the Clearwater, Fla., local. He joined the Florida orchestra, the "New Yorkers," in 1975 and played with this band when it was featured the popular "New Yorkers."

Mr. Crissey was a lifetime member of the Detroit Federation of Musicians Local 5, the New York Federation of Muscians Local 802, and the St. Petersburg Federation of Musicians Local 427.

He started the Musicians Pension Plan in Michigan in about 1973 and served on the board of directors of the Detroit Federation of Musicians from 1940 until he was elected secretary in 1961. Mr. Crissey was inducted into the Detroit Musicians Hall of Fame in 1975.

Survivors include his son, Fred K. Crissey of Plymouth; and eight grandchildren.

Time running out to act facing Wayne County is solid waste disposal - or, plainly put, garbage.

In fact, too much garbage. Every American gets rid of 5.5 pounds of garbage a day, or 1,500

The problem is that we are running out of space to dump our garbage. Landfills are being filled and we aren't building new landfills.

Landfills are like prisons. We need 'em, but nobody wants one in their com-As a result, Wayne County is expected to lose its last landfill within five years. And when our garbage has to be trucked out of the county to be disposed, the costs will rise markedly. (Right now, 99 percent of the garbage generated in Macomb County is hauled and dumped at Wayne County landfills.)

In 1985 it cost $6 a ton to haul trash to a local landfill. Last year the cost doubled to $12 a ton and will rise this year. (In Boston it costs $95 a ton to haul trash to a disposal site.)

Already we are paying a pretty penny to dump our trash, and that bill is getting higher each year. The city of Plymouth has received a major rate increase from the company hired to haul away its garbage. In Canton the costs have risen from $200,000 a few years

sources and the Wayne County Health Department have identified as a high target for landfills the area from Novi to Monroe. The Plymouth-Canton area is prime because of its high clay soil

A proposal made recently to locate a landfill in Canton was met with local resistance and was voted down by the township board. The request, however, is still alive as the petitioner has taken the next step in gaining approval. That procedure provides that if 67 percent of the 43 communities in Wayne County vote in favor of locating the landfill here then Canton gets the landfill - pe-

The shortage of existing landfills has been discussed among heads of government in Plymouth-Canton and by western Wayne governmental leaders. There has been some preliminary (almost wishful thinking), discussion about forming an authority to finance, build and maintain an incinerator as Westland, Garden City, Inkster and Dearborn Heights have done.

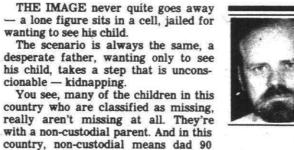

AN INCINERATOR authority needs to be explored.

But given the rising costs of landfill, the economics of incineration keep getting better. It takes a few years, however, to put together an authority, sell the idea to the voters, and arrange financing and construction. The best time to start a study was two years > be the only solution to the problem of solid waste disposal. Detroit, for instance, is looking at an incineration plant that would be able to burn less than 20 percent of the garbage generated in Wayne County. It is becoming increasingly clear that there is a need for a landfill operation to be located near-

> The solid waste disposal problem is being discussed by regional agencies, county government and local groups such as the Conference of Western Wayne. More intense discussions between Graper, Poole and Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen on the topic might be fruitful.

We may not want to wait on the state, region or county to come up with the best answer. Cooperation bet ween Canton, Plymouth and Northville on waste disposal certainly needs to be explored.

Libertarians back with chicken soup

YEARS AGO there was a Borscht Belt comedienne whose remedy for everything was chicken soup. Colds, flu, gout, change of life, a broken leg — take chicken soup.

Her hilarious routine came to mind as read the Libertarian Party's announcement that it is collecting signatures to get on the 1988 ballot.

The Libertarians have run Ed Clark for president, Dick Jacobs for governor, and Virginia Cropsey for various offic-es. They campaigned hard, answered League of Women Voters questionnaires, sought interviews and bought ads — but finished so poorly that they couldn't be readmitted automatically to the list of bona fide Michigan political parties without a fresh batch of petition

Negotiating one more compromise with age

TEVER HAVE I considered myself a hypochondriac, a person suffering from an unnatural anxiety about personal health - sometimes to the degree of creating imaginary illnesses. Even on those mornings when I had to shake myself to get the heart started, it was my conviction that a couple of aspirin plus time itself was cure enough.

Now I find that the body beautiful may not be such a temple against creeping decrepitude as pretended through seven decades, although I do differentiate between disease per se and the wear and tear that cause body parts

In the initial category, life is expected to bring measles, mumps, chicken pox, an occasional common cold and even a broken bone now and then. Sure, I've gone that route, but I still have an appendix, tonsils, gall bladder, etc., with never a suspicion of an ulcer or runaway blood pressure.

Spectacles have been a facial adornment for half a century. A pinched sciatic nerve was in payment for the best 3wood shot I ever clouted on a golf course, but prescribed exercises have kept me away from back surgery. And the collapsed lung and heart attack of a few years ago quite likely can be traced to a career of self-inflicted dissipation.

"The killers came in the night. They tortured me. I would not say where the gold was, so they cut off my hands to show that the corpse was that of a thief, and they shot me through the heart and went away. But they did not know something. I am the one man in a million who has his heart on the right side of his body. I lived."

So did I, without the theatrics of hidden gold. It is an oddity (the word I prefer to "deformity") which develops in the womb, of course, It astounds doc-

Support for appliance bill grows - slowly

special writer

'Government regulations cannot do a perfect job for everybody," said Joe Green, owner of D & G Heating and Cooling in Livonia. "There are trade-offs with every piece of legislation.'

He referred to the National Appliance Energy Conservation bill, which received unanimous congressional support last year but was pocket-vetoed by President Reagan in the fall.

The bill was reintroduced in Congress Jan. 6.

THE APPLIANCE bill (S 83-HR 87) sets tougher minimum energy efficiency standards for a broad range of heating and cooling appliances, including refrigerator-freezers, furnaces, clothes dryers, air-conditioners and dishwashers.

At present the U.S. Department of Energy sets appliance efficiency levels without legislative backing. Several individual states have passed their own standards.

Green has mixed feelings about

"Yes, it is good for consumers to have federal standards. People do not always know or care about energy efficiency, and they can get cheated by poorly manufactured products that can't produce the savings claimed," he said.

'On the other hand, standards are not good for the consumer when the law doesn't take into consideration how or where the appliance will be

Green said a standard for appliance efficiency for the whole country may not fit the needs of a particular region.

'In our part of the country, an inefficient furnace sometimes works better in an older home than one of the best energy saving types.'

COST TRADE-OFFS are also an issue with the new bill.

While proponents acknowledge tougher federal standards could raise prices of appliances, they say the resulting net energy savings and reduction in energy imports will offset higher prices

Researchers at Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory in Berkeley, Calif., have found the energy efficiency of the average new household appliance is well below the best unit available, and even further below the level of performance that is technically achievable and econom-

Studies at the laboratory show an individual may realize modest energy savings using the most efficient appliances available, but the total cost savings for all such appliances is impressive

One year of electric appliance sales represents the amount of energy produced by six large 1000-MW baseload power plants. The re-searchers contend the equation would drop to two power plants if all new appliances were as efficient as the best projected 1990s technology.

UNTIL RECENTLY, appliance manufacturers have resisted tighter federal standards. They say the standards were often unrealistic and too costly to be practical.

Their resistance crumpled after six states (excluding Michigan) enacted minimum appliance stand-

Eleven more states have moved to pass tighter standards.

Speaking in New York last week, Joe McGuire of the Airconditioning and Refrigeration Institute (ARI), a Virginia-based organization representing manufacturers of heating and cooling equipment, said appliance manufacturers were seeking federal standards to avoid the confusion of basing production on meeting different state standards.

Without federal standards, he said, "appliance manufacturers cannot take advantage of long production runs and the national distribution system to keep costs down.'

BOB NELSON, director of Regulatory and Consumer Affairs for the Michigan Public Service Commission (PSC), expressed a similar view. We feel that if 50 states enact minimum appliance standards, the public would have to bear exorbitant

According to Nelson, the higher appliance costs that may follow from tightening federal standards will be offset by personal energy savings.

"The current lull in the energy crisis does little to diminish the importance of saving energy. The energy problem is bound to heat up again. It is just a matter of time before we have to conserve again.

PSC supports the appliance act and has urged Michigan legislators to co-sponsor the bill.

"We would like quick action on this bill. The longer we continue having different appliance efficiency standards, the more costly it will be

Golden years often short on gold Reality hits hard Working for a report concludes better future

Ideally, retirement years are supposed to be a time for rest and relaxation.

Those "golden years" — following decades of heavy-duty responsibilities on the home front and in the workplace — are supposed to be

Yet for many, the reality falls far short of that ideal. Older women in particular are likely to find themselves in dire financial straits

According to U.S. Census data, 71 percent of the elderly poor are women. Even women who do not fall below the poverty line earn less than do men of the same age.

Women aged 45 to 49, for example, had a median income of $9,443 in 1984, compared to $25,094 for men that age. For those age 65 and older, the figures were approximately $6,000 for women and more than $10,000 for men.

That information is included in a report to the Michigan Legislature on older women's issues, prepared by the Task Force on Older Women's Issues of the Michigan Women's Commission. In 1985, the legislature directed the Michigan

Women's Commission to study three areas:

 Older women's access to employment and training programs.

Their access to health insurance.

Adequacy and structure of pension systems

THE TASK FORCE assembled to study those issues included more than 30 people from both the public and private sectors. Members of the task force were men and women representing a variety of occupations, ages, ethnic groups and geographic locations.

The task force held five hearings throughout the state, including a May 8, 1986, hearing in Canton Township. Other hearings were held in Detroit, Grayling, Lansing and Marquette.

Among those presenting testimony at the May 8 hearing in Canton was Virginia Nicoll of the Farmington chapter of the Older Women's League. Nicoll, now past president of that organization, served on the Task Force on Older Women's Issues.

'I think we did an excellent job," Nicoll said of the work of the task force. A number of those serving on the task force had been involved in those issues prior to serving. Their knowledge and experience were helpful," she said.

The Older Women's League is interested in the concept of "earnings sharing" as it relates to Social Security credit, according to Nicoll.

YEARS OF homemaking and taking care of ailing relatives lead to serious financial problems for women, particularly for those who are

"That's one of the chief reasons for low Social Security benefits among women alone," Nicoll

Benefits received are based on the 35 years of the worker's highest earnings. The bulk of women 65 and older depend on Social Security for their income, Nicoll said.

The concept of earnings sharing involves pooling all money brought into the marriage through earnings by both spouses. That money would then be split, with each spouse receiving credit for one-half.

The Older Women's League will concentrate this year on pushing to have the concept incorporated into the Social Security program, Nicoll said. The organization's Washington, D.C. office will lobby to see the concept enacted.

Last year, the focus in Congress was on tax law changes. This year, however, OWL will push for those changes in Social Security, Nicoll said.

A lifelong bias against women in the workplace works to their disadvantage in their later years, according to Nicoll. Women are concentrated in sales, service and clerical jobs with lower salaries and minimal or non-existent pen-

"It's due to lifelong bias and discrimination against women."

TODAY'S HIGHER cost of living means that more women are in the workforce. Even those with husbands earning substantial salaries often need that second income.

We hope that there will not be that pool of poverty-stricken women" in the future, Nicoll

Although the Social Security system is actuarially sound, the "graying of America" will nevertheless present problems in years to come, she said. Problems in medical care and benefits will surface as the "baby boom" generation ages.

The task force report examines some of the problems women face under the Medicaid and Medicare programs. Limitations of those programs can lead to older women living in pover-

The Older Women's League is concerned about the status of women with the responsibility of caring for their husbands in the men's final years. Such women often find themselves in poor health and with minimal resources to sur-

"That's a problem that's not going to go

Developing a national policy on retirement in-

OTHER INDUSTRIALIZED nations, however, do provide for women who have children. The U.S. is one of the few such countries with no pension credit for homemakers, Nicoll said.

'They're more concerned with the domestic life," she said of those countries.

The recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling upholding a California law requiring maternity leave to be provided was a step in the right direction, Nicoll said. She would like to see such leave extended to both parents.

OWL is also concerned about provisions allowing homemakers to establish individual retirement accounts independent of a spouse's earnings. The organization is also interested in revising tax laws to allow maximum annual contributions to IRAs of $2,000 for homemakers, the same amount set for wage earners.

The Older Women's League also advocates extension of pension benefits to part-time and seasonal workers, Nicoll said. The development of "pension-portability" — allowing a worker to carry a pension from one job to another - and reduced time requirements for vesting are also

Women are more likely to spend part of their adult years caring for children. They're also more likely to move when required to do so by a husband's career - and thus find themselves with reduced pension benefits in their later perience aging differently than men do. U.S. society, for example, considers women to be old long before men of the same age are viewed as being Television newscasters provide a perfect example of that difference, according to the report. Women the age of Walter Cronkite aren't a common sight on television. Women experience work-related age discrimination as early as 40 or even 35, according to the report, which also includes information on the economic problems of mid-life

OLDER WOMEN are also more likely to be unmarried and living alone, the report notes. Women live seven years longer than men do, on the average, but must make do with smaller incomes spread out over a greater life span.

According to U.S. Census data, the 1984 median income of women 65 and older was $6,020, only $1,020 above the poverty level. The comparable figure for men was $10,450.

Older women are overly represented in the ranks of the elderly poor, making up 71 percent of that group, the report notes.

The historical role of women in U.S. society leads to financial problems for older women. Attitudes, tradition, law, economics, education and business practices have worked to the economic disadvantage of SEX STEREOTYPING and d.scrimination have led to women being grouped into certain job categories. The job categories are those with lower salaries and minimal or norexistent pension benefits.

Women have also been limited in their ability to obtain the money and skills needed to start their own businesses, the report notes.

The aging of the "baby boom" generation will cause the ranks of the elderly to grow, the report notes. "We should address their needs now, before they become even more overwhelming.

"There is direct interdependence among the issues of job training, employment opportunity, retirement income and affordability of healthcare coverage," the report states. "All must be addressed if the state's social policy is to have a significant positive impact on women in poverty and allow them to become self-suffi-

"We do not know how many women are drawing pension benefits" based on their own years in the workforce. Estimates of that are approximately 1 percent, she said.

The task force report also recommends that occupational guidance counseling in Michigan schools, colleges and universities be sex-neutral. It's important for educators to recognize the roots of sex-based discrimination. Nicoll said, and to avoid stereotyping in such counseling.

A Special Place

Concerned sons and daughters know there comes a time when an elderly parent is getting a little slower in step and needs a little more support and supervision. A nursing home is out of the question. Too expensive. Too much care and confinement. Now there is a gracious alternative - the luxurious Plymouth Inn, an assisted-living

Opening in January of 1987, this magnificent 50 room facility will be the first of its kind in the community. Designed for those elderly who are basically independent who can bathe, dress and feed themselves yet need some encouragement and motivation. The Plymouth Inn meets their needs, budget and lifestyle. It's a special place.

The Plymouth Inn provides 3 delicious meals, graciously served in a beautifully appointed dining room. Spacious mini-suites or deluxe semi-private accommodations overlook tranquil landscaped grounds. Extensive social programs and varied recreational opportunities keep minds involved and stimulated. A game room. Chapel. Beauty parlour. Many quiet cozy corners. The latest in fire and safety protection. All this and more await those who select the Plymouth Inn.

Call today. Arrange to visit our special place. Make it yours. It's here in Plymouth just 30 minutes from everywhere.

New pastor selected at Good Hope Lutheran

The Rev. Arthur Wilde will be installed as pastor at 3 p.m. Sunday. Feb. 8, at Good Hope Lutheran Church, Garden City.

The installation services at Good Hope Lutheran, Cherry Hill and Harrison roads, will be followed by a reception. Bishop Raymond Heine will preside at the services.

Wilde, 44, of Sparta, Mich., will succeed the Rev. Dean Beckwith, who left Good Hope Lutheran for a post in Illinois. Wilde comes from Peace Lutheran Church in Sparta, where he was pastor since 1972.

Wilde, who is a member of the English Synod and the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches, also served as assistant pastor at St. Peter Lutheran Church in East Detroit from 1968 to 1972. He was an intern at Faith Lutheran Church in Topeka, Kan. for two years, 1966-67.

Proper planning can prevent elder abuse

After reading your column on elderly abuse some weeks ago, the question I have is, what steps can we (the elders) take to prevent this tragic

Mrs. D.M., Hamilton Reader

Dear Mrs. M .: The problem of elderly abuse is extremely complex in that the abuse is not primarily physical but can be psychological and financial, and involve neglect. Therefore in order to avoid being a victim, an older person has to actively consider the potentiality of the problem and take definite steps to prevent abuse.

To best answer your question, I will quote from a recently published book on elderly abuse, ("Elder Abuse and Neglect," Springer, 1986, by Mary Joy Quinn and Susan K. Tomita). When addressing prevention they suggest the following "Plan for the possibility of disability by seeking out an attorney, possibly one that specializes in probate law, who can advise you about pow-ers of attorney, guardianships or conservatorships, natural death acts, and 'living wills.'

"Consider nominating co-c vators or co-guardians so more than one person knows your affairs and can take action if something goes amiss in the administration of your assets or personal care.

"Make a will and review it anual ly, but do not revise it lightly.
"Be wary about deeding your house or willing your house or other assets to anyone who promises to 'keep you out of a nursing home' or take care of you 'at home' if you become disabled.

"Be careful when asked to sign anything. Go the extra step and have

"Do not rely solely on family for your social life or for care if you have health problems. Continually cultivate friends of all ages so there are always people around who are concerned about you.

"If an adult child, particularly one who has led a troubled life, wants to return home to live with you, think it over carefully. Be especially careful if your family has a history of vio-lent behavior or drug/alcohol abuse. Instead, consider supporting the child in his or her own apartment.

"If there has been alienation from family or friends, make peace to the extent possible — not only because it is a healing thing to do, but because it creates a climate of concern for

Mrs. M., I hope these suggestions will be helpful to you and other readers who are interested in preventing difficult situations that can lead to abuse. Thank you for your letter.

Take care in picking day care

AP — Working parents often don't know how to find good day care for their preschoolers, state officials said last week in unveiling a campaign to help their hunt.

"Choose day care as carefully as your child would" is the slogan given the new program by the Department of Social Services, which licenses 13,000 day-care providers in the

The decision to make a choice about day care is probably one of the most important decisions we as parents ever make," C. Patrick Babcock, the agency's director, told a news conference.

One of the agency's goals is to help parents find a day-care center that es more than sit youngsters in front of a television, Babcock said.

THE DEPARTMENT is giving away pamphlets that provide a blueprint for comparing day-care cen-

Parents are advised to:

 Check play areas, nap areas and bathrooms to make sure all are clean and are large enough for the number of children under care there. Make sure cleaning supplies and medicines are locked up or kept out of the reach of children.

· Check whether stairs are protected by gates.

• Examine the play areas. Yards should not be cluttered with junk and should be protected from busy

 Check procedures used for emergencies.

• Watch the atmosphere of the day-care center. Are adults calm and gentle? Are parents encouraged to visit? Is there a consistent schedule for the children? Are there planned activities?

 Inquire about the center's policy regarding sick children.

 Find out exactly what food the children are given.

LISTS OF licensed facilities are available at local DSS offices and from local child care coordinating

Babcock said the state also is trying to find the unlicensed daycare homes - he estimated there could be as many as 80,000 in Michigan - and get them registered with

To get a license, the homes would have to be examined by a state inspector to show the homes are safe Babcock said.

"I think the net result will be to improve the quality of care in those providers as we achieve a more enlightened consumer," he said.

Michael Murphy, Gov. James Blanchard's child advocate, said a new initiative for helping preschoolers will be included in the State of the State message Feb. 4.

He said Blanchard will call for a statewide program to provide quali-ty preschool for children born into poverty.

"What we're going to be proposing is a preschool initiative for 4-year-olds at risk," he said. "The other part of the package is to expand day-care services" for recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children who enroll in school or a job-training program.

The administration wants to make up for federal cuts to the Head Start program, Murphy said. "We don't have a dollar figure yet," he added.

Lowest home mortgage interest rates in eight years!

It's a great time to buy a house.

At Standard Federal, we're offering 15-year and 30-year fixed rate loans at very attractive interest

The interest rates shown on the chart are based on the payment of a 2% loan discount fee. You can obtain an even lower rate by paying a higher loan discount fee.

By acting now, you can take advantage of our competitive inter-

You can apply for a new mortgage loan at any of our conveniently located branch offices. Loan approvals usually take only 3-4 weeks.

Stop by and talk to one of our mortgage counselors about a new mortgage that will be just right for

Or it's a great time to refinance your present mortgage.

Even if you already own a home, you can take advantage of our low mortgage interest rates by refinancing your current loan. Chances are that we can save you thousands of dollars in interest and lower your monthly payment!

Here's an example of how much someone who obtained a 30-year loan for $50,000.00 at 12% (12.41% APR) interest in September of 1985 could save by refinancing that loan with a new 15-year loan at Standard Federal today.

The homeowners in this example had monthly principal and interest payments of $514.31. If they continue to pay on that loan until it matures, they will pay an additional $126,671.64 in interest. However, by obtaining a 15-year fixed rate loan now at 9.00% (9.50% APR) they will save $85,605.53 in interest. What's more, they will be able to pay off

All of the annual percentage rates in the above example are estimated based on a $50,000.00 loan with a down payment of at least 20%. The term of the loan and all of the normal prepaid finance charges (including a 2% loan discount fee) were taken into consideration in calculating these annual percentage rates.

> at 9.50% (9.84% APR). In this case, they would reduce their monthly payments by $96.10 and still save $25,852.73 in interest over the remaining term of their new loan.

The interest rates shown above are subject to change. So, now is the time! Stop in at any Standard Federal office and talk to one of our mortgage counselors to see just how much you can save.

conference in Acapulco, Mexico, or-ganized to bring businesses to that country. Many businesses are being lured south of the border to take advantage of cheap labor.

"Mexico is unique because it's in North America, but it has the econo-my of a Third World nation," he said. Their economy is worsening to the point of a crisis situation, so the Mexican government is pursuing any help it can get, and these conferences are one way of doing that."

Rosenberg said he attended the Acapulco conference for educational purposes and to stay on top of the latest in the industry.

"We don't have any plans to go into Mexico," he said. "With the type of business we operate it wouldn't be cost-effective for us to do so."

VAN DRESSER Corp., which has been in existence for 58 years, produces interior trim panels for automobiles and operates five plants in the United States and Canada. It employs 12,000 workers and operates in excess of $130 million each year, and is currently seeking a site for an additional plant in the mid-South.

"The type of businesses that see any cost savings by moving a plant to a foreign country are those that are very labor intensive," Rosenberg said. "Our company simply isn't labor intensive enough for a move like

As a result, companies that employ a large number of manual laborers may realize a significant cost savings to relocate.

Pressure from large companies, such as the big auto makers who have set up operations in Mexico, also can sway the smaller suppliers to locate there.

"A company can't just say, "That looks like a nice spot to manufacture our product," and set up shop," Rosenberg said. "There are a lot of factors involved when looking for a specific location."

IN THE PAST, automakers stored a large number of parts in the factory, and their suppliers made infrequent shipments of large orders.

Today, companies work under a "just in time" system, he said. This means instead of storing weeks of supplies, suppliers ship just enough

Job loss least of our worries? By Rebecca Haynes staff writer

Aside from the loss of U.S. jobs, the push to lure American businesses to Mexico and other foreign coun-tries may have other repercussions.

"It's not just an issue for the auto workers, but for the country in general," said Frank Joyce, UAW spokesman. "If we lack the capabilities to design and manufacture here, from refrigerators to automobiles, haven't we lost something in the process?"

Joyce said the auto industry's portion of the trade deficit has grown steadily and continues to rise.
"At least a third of the U.S. trade deficit is auto related, and things are not getting any better," he said. "The approach we're currently advocating is the passage of trade legislation that will address the issues of quotas and unfair trade practices."

Although other countries have local content laws that es to use a certain percentage of locally made products in the manufacturing process, no such rules exist here.

."We have nothing that compels our manufacturers to use U.S. parts or products," Joyce said. "The passage of trade legislation would help to make things much more

"It really makes us vulnerable when we rely on other countries for services or products," he said. "Critics say we're evolving into a service economy, but if we continue to lose manufacturing jobs, with what money are people going to buy these services?"

JOYCE SAID the UAW directly attributes the falling of the real wage and standard of living within the middle class to the decline in the manufacturing segment of

The UAW officially protested a recent seminar held in Mexico to promote that country as a place for American businesses. The conference was originally sponsored by the U.S. Department of Commerce, which had to withdraw its participation because of legislation passed over this protest.

U.S. Rep. Bob Carr, D-East Lansing, was instrumental in pushing through the legislation, which prohibits the government from sponsoring such conferences over

"It comes down to a very simple question," he said.

"Yes, there's a global economy, but is the direction of the global economy going to be to take down our stan-dard of living as well? We need to help increase the worldwide standard of living, not help keep it low."

Joyce said the UAW it it can to addre issues during contract negotiations with smaller shops as well as the large auto makers, but added that legislation is needed to fully address the problems.

Although a piece of trade legislation passed last year in the house, it was stalled in the senate. No other trade or local content legislation is currently on the house agenda, Carr's spokesman said, adding it's still too early in the session to predict when the issue might be ad-

earn to identify buying trends

How important is understanding customer buying behavior as part of market planning for small business?

Simply stated, buying behavior focuses on the "who, what, where, when, why and how" associated with customers' decision to buy. The ability to understand and predict behavioral buying patterns is critical for any business owner or manager expecting to enjoy long-term success in an ever-changing market. Recognizing these trends assists the market planning effort by identifying customer needs and wants that the business may or may not be satisfying on a regular basis. While demographic data are helpful when used to identify who is buying or may buy in a geographical area, its usefulness in forecasting more specific behavioral trends is limited.

In his book, "Practical Marketing for Your Small Retail Business, William Brannen suggests that the business owner view the customer as a problem solver. As such, the customer is influenced by both internal and external forces prior to resolving his "customer problems" and making decisions to buy. Internal forces include the individual's personality, attitudes, perceptions, motives and learning skills. External forces affecting purchase behavior include family, social class, reference groups and cultural influences.

Together these forces shape how an individual carries out the "problem-solving process" as a consumer. Depending on the product or service being offered, the consumer's acceptance of it as a new idea or concept, and his or her learning skills, the consumer's problem-solving process may be either extensive, limited or routinized in nature. This process is carried out regardless if your customers include other retailers. wholesalers or industrial buyers.

The most successful retailers will tell you that understanding buying behavior is an ongoing process. Many business owners conduct their own research (via customer surveys) along with using professional judgand intuition to reliably predict consumer buying trends. Unfortunately, there are those who primarily rely on "best guess" statistics, rather than taking full advantage of the available options in collecting accurate behavioral trend

IN TODAY'S JOB MARKET EMPLOYERS WANT MORE THAN THE SAME OLD B.S.

Every year, over a million new college graduates put on their new blue suits and go job

All of them have degrees. Most of them have hearty handshakes. But very few have what employers want most — practical work experience.

That's why there's a nationwide program called Cooperative Education. It allows students to alternate studies at the college of their choice with paid, practical work experience in the career of

So Co-op Education students graduate with more than a degree. They have practical knowledge. And a competitive advantage in today's crowded job market. And that sure beats trying to B.S. your way into a job.

Mother says Mann was sexually harassed during stay at Plymouth Canton

By Chris McCosky staff writer

Barbara Mann, mother of former Plymouth Canton student Rachel Mann, said Tuesday that the recent investigation of the Ann Arbor Pioneer girls cross country program, which ultimately led to the team's forfeiture of the state Class A championship, was the result of ill will toward Pioneer coach Bryan Westfield "among cer-

She said that her daughter, who was ruled athletically ineligible by the Ann Arbor school district, was deemed eligible by both Pioneer principal Milo White and assistant superintendent of schools Wiley Brownlee prior to the start of the cross country season.

She also said her daughter was subject to "sexual harassment" while at Canton.

Mann, who had initially refused to speak to the media, decided to release a statement Tuesday afternoon because "there were a lot of things happening behind the scenes and that the people of the Plymouth-Canton community have only heard one side of the story," she said.

Mann cleared the statement with her lawyer, Marian Fapel, before releasing it. The Manns have retained Fapel presumably to challenge the school district's ruling that Rachel Mann was ineligible. Barbara Mann would not comment on the legal issue, and Fapel couldn't be reached for comment.

"RACHEL MANN fled the Plymouth-Canton school district as a result of being subjected to what we believe was sexual harassment and intentional infliction of emotional and intellectual distress from a member of the Plymouth-Canton school district," said Barbara Mann would not identify person nor say whethe was speaking about a student, teacher or coach.

George Pryzgodski, Rachel Mann's former coach at Plymouth Canton High School and the only person from the Canton district close to the situation available for comment late Tuesday night, said: "I don't know what she's talking about or who she's talking about." He refused to comment further on the charges until advised by the school's administration.

Mann said that Rachel and her father, Dustin Mann, moved in with friends in the Ann Arbor Pioneer school district last summer while waiting for their Canton home to be sold.

Barbara Mann said that she was told by members of the Ann Arbor school district to register Rachel at Pioneer. Rachel was granted an academic waiver to attend Pioneer, and her name was twice submitted to the school's athletic eligibility list. Both times, Pioneer officials ruled Rachel eligible, she said.

"Dr. Brownlee claimed he was at fault for not ruling Rachel ineligible at the time," Barbara Mann said.

She added that the school investigated Rachel's eligiblity twice. Both times Rachel was ruled eligible. "After the two other attempts failed, they came up with that rule about living with only one family member. We believe that Rachel was eligible," she said.

THE MICHIGAN High School Athletic Association confirmed Pioneer's ruling that Rachel Mann was ineli-

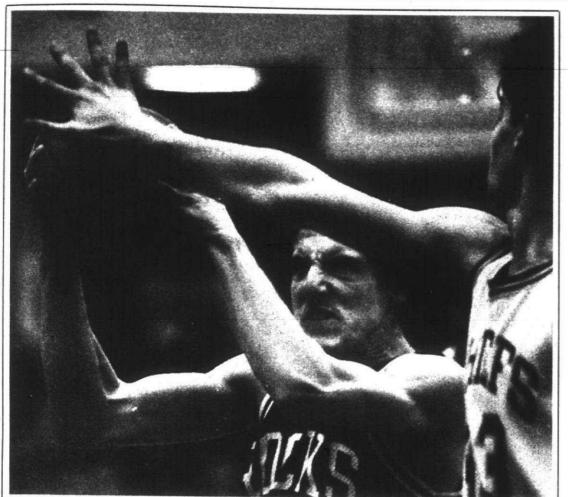

Jack Roberts, executive director of the MHSAA said, 'She (Rachel) did not move into the Ann Arbor Pioneer attendance area with persons she had been living with She had a brief residence with one parent in the home of a friend in the Pioneer district. When they did establish permanent residence in the Ann Arbor district, it was in the (Ann Arbor) Huron attendance area.

Barbara Mann said the repeated investigations were an effort by certain parties to hurt Rachel and Bryan

"Bryan Westfield would have never run Rachel in a meet if he thought there was any question of her being ineligible," Mann said.

She said that Rachel Mann ran for the Ann Arbor Track Club (which is coached by Westfield) for four weeks during the summer. She said that was the only contact Rachel had with Westfield before cross country

"This man (Westfield) does nothing for himself," Bar-bara Mann said. "Everything he does, he does for the children. He is always for the underdog. He has used his own finances to help underprivileged kids have a chance. To see this kind of man get torn down is sad. He should be praised."

Sensational

Salem survives Chiefs in OT

By Brad Emons staff writer

In one of the most exciting basketball games ever played at Centennial Educational Park, Plymouth Salem held on to beat neighbor Plymouth Canton, 64-63, thanks to a pair of Bryan Kearis free throws with only three seconds left in overtime.

Underdog Canton, playing at home, fell behind by as many as 11 points in the opening quarter, but gradually chipped away and sent the game into overtime when 6foot-3 sophomore Brian Paupore drilled a jumper from the corner with only 13 seconds left in regulation time to make it 55-all.

Salem had one final crack to win it in regulation, but the Rocks missed their attempt and time expired as the two teams scrambled underneath the basket for the rebound

Salem's Mike Hale scored the first basket in three-minute overtime, but Canton's Tyrone Reeves, who played a key role in the stretch drive, answered with a basket of his own to make it 57-all.

Salem's 6-foot-7 center, Rick Taylor, who led all scorers with 25 points, then converted a three-point play with 1:39 left to put the Rocks ahead, 60-57.

BUT REEVES cut the deficit to one, 60-59, with a drive to the hoop.

At the 58-second mark, Hale scored again, giving Salem a threepoint cushion. Teammate Tony Moore came up with a steal, only to have the darting Reeves make one of his own, scoring a layup with only 30 seconds left to make it a one-point game again.

Kearis was then fouled 10 seconds later, but the crafty 5-foot-8 guard made a critical mistake. His free throw was disallowed when he stepped on the line, a lane violation that nullified a point, giving Canton the ball.

That opened the door for Reeves, who slashed through a pair of Salem defenders, drawing a foul with only eight seconds remaining.

After a Salem timeout, the 5-10 senior calmly sank a pair of free throws, giving Canton their first and only lead of the night, 63-62.

KEARIS THEN charged down the floor and made up for his previous blunder, drawing a foul called on Roger Trice with three seconds remaining.

Kearis, although frozen at the line by a pair of Canton timeouts, hit nothing but net to win it for Salem. (He finished with 10 points, while Hale added 12.)

Canton, then rushed the ball up the floor, but Reeves' desperation shot just inside midcourt stripe fell short, ending the suspense.

"Canton is explosive," said Sa-lem coach Bob Brodie. "I compare them to University of Michigan from the standpoint that they can explode at any time.

"I told our kids after the game that we've been in a lot of close games and I felt we've kept our poise in the close games. That comes with having confidence.

Canton coach Tom Niemi, whose team fell to 6-6 overall and 5-4 in the Western Lakes Conference's Western Division (now tied for first with Farmington Harrison), had nothing but praise for his club.

"I'm proud of the kids," he said. "This could have gone either way. It was a fine high school basketball game. We've come off some illness, but we came ready to play. We've had this kind of effort all year."

with 19 points, including 12 in the final quarter, making a few spin-arama moves reminiscent of the Detroit Pistons' Vinnie Johnson PAUPORE ADDED 16, showing a fine touch from the outside. Reeves, meanwhile, added 10. Mike Lasota contributed eight off the bench and had a key steal near the end of regulation.

'We had to fight back, but it was a tremendous defensive effort," said Niemi. "I thought we showed poise, patience and we were aggressive on defense.

The win was a big one for Salem, now 10-2 overall and 8-1 in Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Conference (one game behind Westland John Glenn).

"I was really concerned about this one and now I'm concerned about going over to Walled Lake Central (on Friday) — that's like lion's den over there," said Brodie. "I hope with this game that we've gained some maturity and we'll learn. Last year we lost games to teams that we should have beaten.'

Confronted most of the night by a tenacious full-court press, Salem was able to withstand the Canton's pressure and find its huge front line, led by Taylor, a transfer from East Lansing who seems to have found himself during the past week

"RICK IS GETTING" better with each game," said the Salem coach. "The first two or three games this season, he was coming off some sickness and it took him awhile, but he was here as a freshman and I coached him on the JV He has shooting ability and now we've allowed him to move out on the perimeter."

While Salem travels Friday to Central, Canton will be hosting Walled Lake Western.

Tom Niemi wouldn't pass for being a jockey, but the Plymouth Canton basketball coach whipped his towel and prodded his team past rival Plymouth Salem in a battle to the wire Tuesday night, 42-40.

Salem missed sending the game into overtime, failing to capitalize on three consecutive shots in the frantic final seconds.

Canton had to rally for the victory after watching a nine-point advantage midway through the final quarter.

Salem, Canton won't compete in pole vault event

To vault or not to vault is becoming a hot topic of debate throughout Michigan's high school track and

Officially, five leagues have canceled the pole vault event: the Catholic League, the Detroit Public School League, the Macomb-Oakland Athletic Conference, the Southeastern Michigan Athletic Association and the Central Michigan League. That involves approximately 100 teams according to William Bupp, associate director of the Michigan High School Athletic Unofficially, several other leagues and individual teams are considering cancelling the event. The Western Lakes Activities Association is one. Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton will no longer ompete in the pole vault event. Teams forfeiting the event will lose nine points in dual meets and up to 30 points in the league meet. As many as five other WLAA schools, including Walled Lake Western, Walled Lake Central and Westland John Glenn, are considering dropping the event.

The reason: operating a pole vault team is both expensive and a RECENTLY, THE MHSAA has mandated that schools, as a safety precaution, extend the length of their pole vault pits both in front and in back. This, according to several area school officials, would cost anywhere from $3,500 to $5,000. To construct a brand new pit would cost $5,000 to $6,500. The cost of fiberglass poles has also increased. A new pole can cost from $200 to $300.

This is the third time since 1979 that the MHSAA, in conjunction with the national federation of high school athletics, has ordered improvements in pole vault facilities across the state.

"The event has simply outpriced tself," said Salem track coach Gary Balconi. "It was a very difficult decision for us to make. We have had an excellent tradition a Salem. We've had some outstanding vaulters. It's just hard to justify ding that kind of money on one event. We have to look at it in the long term, and we decided we would not compete anymore."

John Fundukian, athletic director of the Walled Lake schools, will ecommend to his district that the event be cancelled

"Our district's position has not seen determined, but my personal position is that the event has reached a point where it is irrewritten the Michigan High School

Athletic Association in regards to FUNDUKIAN SAID the Western Lakes conference will continue to sponsor the event, and it is up to he individual schools to decide whether to field a pole vault team.

"The league has already discussed this. Their position is consistent with all other decisions it has made: They will eliminate the event from the league if the event is eliminated by the Michigan High School Athletic Association.' But the state association isn't likely to eliminate the event.

"Our representative council, on Nov. 5, went on record saying they will continue the pole vault event in Michigan," said Bupp. "I can't imagine any reason for them to discontinue it.

Nor can Farmington Public Schools AD Ron Holland. Farmington, Farmington Harrison and North Farmington will compete in the pole vault event.

your pits up to code," Holland said. "We're going to go with it (pole vault). We're basically up to code. We will have to add the extensions in the front. We have very good people at the three schools who have worked very hard to keep those pits in shape.

Holland said he roughly estimates a $700 expense at each school to comply with the state's

THE THREE Livonia schools have yet to decide the issue. Sources at both Stevenson and Churchill indicated that it was likely the three schools would continue sponsoring a pole vaulting program.

SAFETY IS the key to the entire issue. To guard against risk of injuthe MHSAA keeps upgrading the facilities. To guard against product liability, manufacturers of poles and vaulting apparatus have upgraded their products and thus

Marian wins CEP crown

Birmingham Marian, ranked No. 2 in the state by the Michigan High School Volleyball Coaches Association, won its fourth tournament of the season Saturday and ran its win streak to 31 straight.

The Mustangs knocked off Garden City, 15-7, 15-12, to win the third annual Plymouth Invitational Volleyball Tournament at Salem and Canton high schools.

Marian didn't yield a game throughout the tourney. The Mustangs dusted Brighton in the semifinals, 15-4, 15-6. They whipped a solid Walled Lake Western team in the quarterfinals 15-9, 15-9, and they were 8-0 in pool play.

In the other semifinal match, Garden City beat Saline 15-12, 15-6. Plymouth Salem, who escaped pool play with a 5-3 record, was ousted by Brighton in the quarterfinals, 15-6, 15-7.

Garden City's Nikki Stubbs was named the tournament's most valuable player. She slammed 53 spikes with 34 aces. GC's Mary Hebert and Salem's Denice Tackett were named to the all-tournament team.

Other area teams competing were Canton (0-8 in pocl), Redford Union (0-8) and Livonia Franklin (3-5).

PLYMOUTH SALEM won a three-set thriller against Western Lakes foe Farmington Monday, 11-15, 18-16, 15-7. The Rocks trailed 14-9 in game

"I told them they had better start moving their feet or this would be it," Salem coach Betty Smith said. "We came back like a totally different team. Jessica Handley (16 serves with 10 aces), Denice Tackett (10 of 11 serves and six kill spikes), Sarah Dupret (nine kill spikes) and Aimee Hayden (eight of 10 serves) were the standouts for Salem. The Rocks are 4-6 on the season.

As part of the dinner price, a choice of hot hors d'oeuvres follows the cold appetizers. The soup, cream of chanterelle mushroom, was sweet and delicious, but it was too strongly flavored with a salty beef stock. The pasta had mushrooms, pine nuts and Stilton cheese. At first, this dish seemed too mild - almost without flavor. But gradually, the flavor of the pine nuts became more and more evident, giving the pasta an unusual and quite enjoyable taste.

The sorbet, served before the entree, had crystallized and become too icy, perhaps indicating that it was not freshly made. Taken as a

Art show goer shares secret

By Ellen E. Mason special writer

"Van Gogh in Saint-Remy and Auvers" has attracted about 5,000 people a day since the exhibit opened to rave reviews at New York City's Metropolitan Museum of Art.

To date, more than 350,000 people have crowded into the Metropolitan to view the paintings of van Gogh's turbulent and productive last 15 months — a period which encompasses his voluntary commitment to the asylum at Saint-Remy in May 1889 to his suicide in the wheat fields of Auvers, France, in July 1890.

Museum officials expect crowds to swell each day as the show approaches its closing date of March 22.

What the museum hasn't advertised, and what it doesn't tell you unless you persist, is that every Monday, 600 or so people view the show "privately" at leisure and without massive numbers of other people jostling for prime positions in front of favored canvases.

You don't have to be a VIP or know anyone in particular to get in. Simply reserve a spot for any Monday (except Feb. 16). The museum is usually closed on Mondays. But during the van Gogh exhibition, it is open 1-3 p.m. for anyone with a reservation. Tickets are $15, instead of the usual $4.50 admittance fee for Tuesday through Sunday.

RESERVATIONS may be made by telephone (212-570-3711) or by writing to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Admissions Department, 5th Ave. at 82nd St., New York, NY 10028. To date, the museum hasn't had a sold-out Monday, because it has refused to publicize the Monday opening.

The exhibition, a magnificently mounted compilation of Van Gogh's last major works, include some of his most famous canvases, notably, "The Starry Night" and "Crows over the Wheat Field."

Perhaps, even more interesting though are the van Gogh works which are less well known, but also included in the show, "Blossoming Almond Tree" and "Rain," for example.

The show includes works gathered from museums and private collections from around the world. "View of the Church of Saint-Paul-de-Mausole," for example, is owned by actress Elizabeth Taylor.

One looks at the work, wondering why this unsigned canvas, devoid of people and rather barren in subject matter, appeals to a very public actress

One can't help stopping and puzzling at each canvas for clues as to what went through the artist's mind as he painted first the asylum, then the asylum garden, then the grounds beyond the asylum's walls, then street scenes and then, over and over again, gardens and fields. The exhibit moves us powerfully, visually and mentally through van Gogh's last days.

An absolute must for anyone attending the show, is to rent the cassette tape tour of the exhibit for $3.

ON THE TAPE, Philippe de Montebello, director of the Metropolitan, authoritatively comments on most of the works and reads from van Gogh's letters about several of the works.

The tape can also be purchased at the end of the exhibition for use with the show's catalogue.

If you go, be sure to check your coat before buying your ticket or before ascending the great staircase. No coat check is available otherwise.

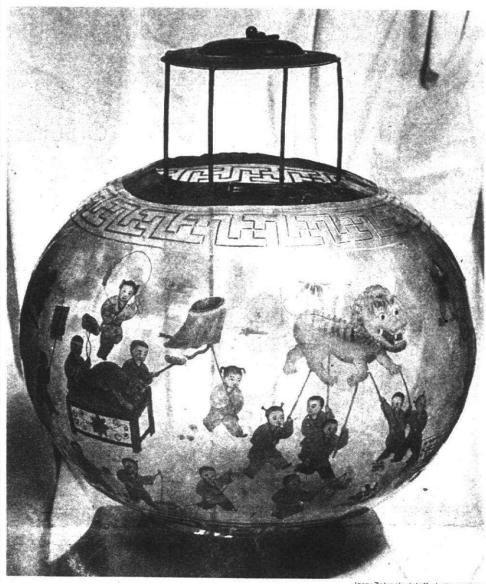

Besides avoiding the crowds, another reason to see the exhibit on Monday is a chance to see the museum on "housekeeping day." Walls are painted, fresh flowers are arranged, potted greenery is being watered and moved about.

YOU CAN PASS through many of the museum's galleries alone and unhurried. It's best to know where you're going or where you want to go, instead of asking a guard, because if you ask, chances are you'll be told the museum is closed and you cannot enter. But if you simply walk around without asking directions, you'll probably be able to go wherever you like

In connection with the exhibition, the museum is offering a bookstore full of items. Some of the most useful, even for those who don't attend the show, are video cassettes ($34.95), audio cassettes ($7.95) and the show's catalogue ($18.50 or $24.95 all plus postage). All are available by writing the M useum Bookstore; 5th Ave. at 82nd St.; New York 100.09

Year of the rabbit starts today

Jerry Zolynsky/staff photographer

One of a pair of 19th century lanterns to be loaned for the Chinese New Year celebration in Southfield on Feb. 14 shows the beautiful "hundred children" theme designs which are painted on them. The pictures have a lot of meaning that goes beyond decoration. The lanterns, made of rhino horn, are being loaned by Virginia Hyman of Bloomfield Hills, former art dealer and author of books on Chinese rugs and art.

While there are many holidays on the Chinese calendar, none are more important than the 15-day New Year's festival.

It begins on the first day of the new moon after the sun enters Aquarius. That means that 4685, the year of the rabbit, begins today and the celebration continues through Sunday, Feb. 14.

One of the most-colorful celebrations in this time of goodwill, gift-giving and visiting family and friends is the Lantern Festival or the Feast of the First Full Moon.

The Chinese American Educational and Cultural Center of Michigan is sponsoring a Chinese New Year celebration 2-5 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 14, at the Southfield Civic Center.

Two large, 19th century, rhino horn lanterns, loaned by Virginia Hyman of Bloomfield Hills, will add an aura of color, mystery and excitment to the color action.

Hyman, collector of orientalia and former nationally known dealer, said her two lanterns probably belonged to a wealthy family because rhino horn is highly valued for its purported, medicinal properties.

Hyman said, "The process (of making the horn into semiopaque shade) came from India and Sumatra. The lanterns were a demonfuge. And that came from what was painted on them as well as the light light from the candle inside."

She said that in addition to warding off evil spirits, the pictures on the lanterns have many meanings. Each of the two she is loaning for the Lantern Festival and celebration are painted with the "hundred children" design.

"Each of the one hundred children is doing something that has a meaning," Hyman said. For instance, a child with a very old man's face is a form of protest.

The children, dressed in brightly colored clothing, are carrying flags, flying kites and supporting a big green and yellow paper lion on long poles. One very mysterious ceremony depicted is the transformation on a table of a child into a dragon after taking a pill.

The many other lanterns in the Southfield festival will be constructed by donors or sponsored by people making a donation of $10, $25, $50 or more.

Included in the festivities will be a Lion's Dance, classical and folk dances, demonstrations and exhibits of calligraphy, painting and folk art, films, singalongs and refreshments. Tickets are $2.50 children, $4 adults. For information, contact Southfield Parks and Recreation, 354-9603. The Civic Center is at 26000 Evergreen, Southfield

Highlighting Israel's rich, cultural mix

By Shirlee Rose Iden

Cryil Miles, water-colorist and designer, and Benny Schwartz, architect and artist, generations apart if years count, are together in an upcoming cultural project planned to reach thousands of metro area people.

Detroiter, Miles, and Southfielder, Schwartz, are putting the finishing touches on a comprehensive exhibit on Israel for the International Institute. To show will open Sunday, Feb. 1, and continue for six months.

"The message we're trying to get across is that diverse cultures have migrated from many continents to places such as Israel," she said. "Israel is a crossroads of three continents, a passageway."

"We're trying to link Christian, Judaic, Islamic culture so that people can gain some understanding and we won't blow each other up."

A NATIVE of Boston, Miles was brought to Detroit as a 5-year-old. With her husband, Arnold, she lives in a rambling Palmer Woods home with her art, her memorabilia, and her collections.

Half a century ago or more, as a noted water-colorist, Miles exhibited her work in a show that also featured two, 20th-century masters, Picasso and Chagall. At one crossroads in her career, she decided her work was worthless because it said nothing so she set out to create art with philosophy as well as technique.

Her steadfast love of art has never waned, as evidenced by the works that grace her home, as well as the books, and the archeological artifacts.

Another deep interest of the petite, loquacious woman, is the International Intstitute, which she has helped since 1978.

Schwartz, whose job it is to guide people who may want to move to Israel, came to Michigan more than two years ago with his family. Sometime this summer, they will go home, but Schwartz said "not without leaving a piece of ourselves here"

FOR THE ISRAELI working on the Israel exhibit affords him the chance to help people understand his land, his people.

The audience for the show will be a mixed bag of youngsters, primarily non-Jewish children, who come to the institute for an in-depth ethnic experience from schools in the

"The first group will be a kindergarten class," said Jan Jeffres, spokeswoman for the International Institute.

Elizabeth Stanhope, ethnic experience coordinator for the institute, pointed out that three of the world's major religions consider Israel holy.

"In order to emphasize this, the children will work with their own map of Israel and do group work with globes. This will tie into the six display cases used as reference for the program."

Stanhope said the cases include examples of ethnic crafts, art, and literature, a timeline of Israeli history and an ancient mosaic zodiac discovered at the Bet Alpha Kibbutz in Israel which was important in determining festivals and religious holidays.

"Children will find out the similarities of Judaism, Christianity and Islam and that the places mentioned with their respective holy books actually-exist." said Stanhope.

Cyril Miles, artist, and Benny Schwartz, architect, discuss the ancient mosaic zodiac found at Bet Alpha Kibbutz in Israel.

"What I would like children to get out of this, is an awareness of countries and customs outside of the U.S. They could then approach a foreign people and places with an open mind and curiosity rather than distaste. I would like children to become aware of Israel and its multi-ethnic population as real rather than a news item."

em Israeli Ethnic Sunday will be the opener for the six-month program. A two-hour program on Israeli culture will include a short film, performances by Israeli folk dancers, and songs by Judy Geldstein, folk singer.

A traveling exhibit of posters "Children of the World Paint Jerusalem" will be on display. Michael Kerem from the Israeli consulate in Chicago, will speak.

The program begins at 3 p.m. A $3

30 Elegant Ranch, Raised Level Ranch and Townhouse)

on 10 acres of rolling terrain, with units overlooking open space of untouched, natural beauty, majestic 150 year-old trees, a rambling creek, and three large ponds. Around the ponds, bushels of yellow daffodils, and from "Lilypons" on the east coast, beautiful water lilies imported. Lighted boardwalk, gazebo, and quaint bridge over the creek to the Community Center and Pool. All this, with the security of a fenced, small community, with gatehouse entry.

WRITE IT AND REAP!

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

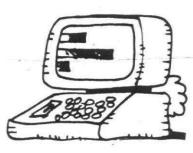

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.
