The Canton Connection

EXTRA MILEER: Bob MacDonald and Louis Pereira were the first Plymouth-Canton Board of Education meeting. The Phipps girls have been working on the stage for their debut. The staff was honored for all their work.

By Diane Gale

Situation describing sexual en-development was a 14-year-old Phipps suspect and a 19-year-old Canton suspect who were arrested last month. The suspect's father contacted the police.

Public defender Edward Schwartz asked Washtenaw County Juvenile Judge Judith Wood to throw the suspect's name out of the case. The suspect is on the stage.

The defendant was made aware that he was under arrest when the deputy took his statements. However, defense attorneys identified the suspect who was initially questioned as a witness who knew Robert and could not speak light on the case. They said the boy freely helped in the investigation and could not be able to clear the defendant. The defense maintained that the defendant would have been too young to commit the crime.

The deputy identified the boy was arrested almost seven hours after the questioning began, during which time a polygraph test was administered.

Frank Combs, Washtenaw sheriff, said, the deputy was administered the exam at the time.
Family center to house condominium project

By Doug Funk

A Canton child care center will soon house a condominium project. The building will be expanded and renovated to accommodate the new tenants. The expansion will provide more space for the children and also serve as a commercial space. The project is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

The center is located in the heart of the city and serves as a vital community resource. It offers a variety of services, including child care, early education, and after-school programs. The project will not only benefit the children but also contribute to the overall economic development of the area.

Canton is known for its strong community spirit and commitment to providing quality services for its residents. This project is a testament to the city's dedication to creating a better future for its children and families.

Adult education comes under attack

By Jackie Brown

Schools deny charge of inflated figures

A report by the Michigan State Department of Education has raised concerns about the spending practices of some adult education programs. The report, released last week, found that some programs were not providing the educational benefits promised and were instead using the funds to support other initiatives.

According to the report, several programs were found to be spending a disproportionate amount of their budgets on non-educational activities. In one case, a program was found to be using funds to support a local theater group, while another was found to be using funds to support a local sports team.

The report also found that some programs were not providing adequate evidence of their educational benefits. In one case, a program that claimed to be providing training for nurses was found to have no records of the training provided.

The Michigan State Department of Education is working on a comprehensive plan to address these issues and ensure that adult education programs are providing the educational benefits promised.

Maternity leave reaction split

By Wayne Peal

Several local women legislators remain interested in maternity leave legislation, despite witheldness of a bill calling for adult "care-giver" leaves.

But those male counterparts remain uninterested in the idea, said Miller R-Birmingham, said Monday she was withholding her "care-giver" bill which would have given state employees time off for care of elderly or disabled relatives - but would have submitted a resolution urging the Michigan Civil Service Commission to study a similar policy.

"I generally support the concept, but we have to carefully balance the rights of the mother with the rights of the employer to expect someone to be there on the job," said Rep. James Robert Deccick, D-Port Huron, last year's sponsor of legislation that would allow new mothers four weeks off from work.

"It may be stereotypical, but I think we will see more resistance to giving time for males," he said. "The mother is the one having the baby."

Numerous sides issues need to be addressed, Law said.

1. Rep. Robert Geake, R-Grandville, warned that employees might not be as willing to give new fathers extended time off from work.

2. The Michigan Civil Service Commission would be asked to do what the governor wanted, Law said. "It was something more properly for the state legislature to do."

While dealing directly with maternity leave issues, Miller's bill was seen as a step toward state-legislated leave of absence to handle domestic needs, said state Sen. R-Robert Geake, R-Benton Harbor. "I generally support the concept, but I think you will see more resistance to giving time for males," he said. "The mother is the one having the baby."

Numerous sides issues need to be addressed, Law said.

1. Rep. Robert Geake, R-Grandville, warned that employees might not be as willing to give new fathers extended time off from work.

2. The Michigan Civil Service Commission would be asked to do what the governor wanted, Law said. "It was something more properly for the state legislature to do."

"I THINK we need to go in both directions," she said. "My goal is to create on-site day care and to educate employers as to how best it can be handled."

"The need is there. Many working women do so because of personal economic needs," Barnes said. "I don't feel we should encourage (giving) time off for any kind of job or career..."

"The woman have to go back to the exact job or a similar job - these are all concerns that must be addressed," he said. "There is a problem of doing business in this state. We have to be careful about mandating benefits to people."

"The women, R. Roberts Geake, R-Big Rapids, questioned whether state government should mandate leaves of absence.

"I believe maternity leave is a decision made by the mother and father, not something mandated by a state law," Geake said. "The idea of taking this responsibility from the employer and employee. How could a company with only five employees handle it?"

Rep. William Keith, D-Grandville, also said leaves should be designed through negotiations set up by the collective bargaining agreements.

"I really don't know anything about it," said Rep. Keith. "I don't know too much about it," said Rep. Keith. "I don't know what we would be asking to do what she proposed."

Workers brave the elements

THERE ARE any number of ways to make a living. That reality is easy to see by leafing through a U.S. Department of Labor/Bureau of Labor Statistics publication, the "Occupational Outlook Handbook." The handbook's index to occupations lists hundreds of job titles, ranging from A for academic librarians to Z for zoologists.

Job duties, level and places of employment, education and training requirements, advancement possibilities, earnings and job outlook are detailed, along with descriptions of other occupations requiring similar aptitudes, interests or training.

Working conditions for those jobs are also described. The publication notes that not all jobs consist of work done in the relative comfort of an indoor setting.

Jobs done outdoors require "a major portion of time to be spent outdoors, frequently without regard to weather conditions," the handbook states. "Roofers, who apply roofing materials to the tops of buildings, work outdoors."

In Michigan, the work must go on during the winter months, generally without — as the U.S. Department of Labor handbook notes — "regard to weather conditions." Those weather conditions can be harsh ones, even for the hardest of souls.

According to the National Weather Service, a total of 24 inches of snow fell in January of this year, compared to a normal snowfall of 10 inches for that month. This January thus qualifies as the second snowiest on record in the Detroit area.

Bitter cold and biting winds can also make the day's work difficult. Nevertheless, the work must be completed, whether it's clearing the roadways, delivering the mail, seeing that children get to school safely or doing construction work. These are some of the people who see that the job gets done — no matter what the weather forecast may be.

The cold doesn't bother Jack Wotfenbarger when he's working this hard. "Right now, I'm working up a sweat," he said.

Banking Is One Of Life's Necessities
The Experience Should Be A Good One.

You flip a switch and the lights go on. You want to eat and go about your day. You want to do, so long as things work like they should, you never give it a second thought. It's the same with banking.

You do not think about your bank nearly as often as you should. You expect your bank to do its job, and that's it. But the experience you have when you deal with your bank is just as important as the products and services you receive.

The way we run it

So it nearly 200 community banks across the Midwest, our bankers are trained to ensure that even though they're part of a large bank, customers know they're part of the small town.

They encourage customers to think of them as a partner, not just a provider of financial services. They want you to feel comfortable and have a positive experience.

You can reach us at our website, www.america-bank.com, or by calling our main office at 1-800-BANK-1000. We're open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

And, since our bankers are trained to handle customer relations and help, they are always here to assist you with any questions you may have.

Port of Detroit snubbed by local importing firms

BY JAMES BRANDON

Saturday, January 3, 1987

The port of Detroit is the third busiest in the nation with goods from all over the world flowing through it. But in one respect, generated from duty, the port slides to 15th position. Local based importers for goods from around the world are penalizing one industry, the recording equipment industry, which is growing faster than any other.

"Another print shop has moved into what used to be a vacant store space on the main street of a small town in the west.

"What business owners must realize is that it's becoming more and more difficult to compete with larger companies."

"The problem is that these 'small business owners' are often the ones who are the most unable to compete, yet they are the ones who are most likely to be left behind.""

"In 1987, we must make the most of the changes brought by the new tax laws. The key is to take advantage of the opportunities available to you.

"First, consider taking advantage of the new options for retirement savings. The IRA is a great tool for this purpose.

"Second, consider investing in bonds. The interest rates are low, but the returns are steady."

"Finally, consider investing in your own education. The more educated you are, the more options you have for the future.

"By making the most of these opportunities, you can ensure a successful future.""

Ex-Warrior goes down fighting against U-M

Bill Parker

When asked if it was a tough game to reflect on, the newly crowned Mr. Michigan, Bill Parker, stated, "It's always tough to lose, but I think we were able to show some heart tonight."

PARKER said he and his teammates had "some bad passes and some bad calls" in the game against the Warriors. He also noted that "we had a lot of turnovers and our defense was not good enough.

The Warriors, who were led by their star forward, Mike Johnson, scored a total of 31 points in the game, with a majority coming in the fourth quarter.

On the flip side, the Hawkeyes, led by their senior center, Tom Johnson, scored 27 points, with 11 of those coming in the final quarter.

H screaming Hawk fans

"It was a tough game, but I'm still happy that we were able to win," said Tom Johnson.

"I think we had a lot of opportunities to score, but we just weren't able to convert."

Win or lose, the Hawkeyes always come out with a smile on their face.

"We never give up," said Tom Johnson.

"Even though we lost, we still had fun out there."

NOTES

PARKER is the third player in University of Michigan history to win the Mr. Michigan award.

He was also named the Most Valuable Player in the game.

WARRIORS are now 3-1 in the Big Ten and 10-3 overall.

HAWKEYES are now 2-2 in the Big Ten and 9-4 overall.

The Hawkeyes will play their next home game against the Iowa State Cyclones on January 28th.

The Warriors will play their next home game against the Ohio State Buckeyes on January 29th.

Marquis clears decks for 'Pinafore'

A SOUTHFIELD third-act couple will be featured when the musical 'Pinafore' returns to the stage of the Community Players' theater, 6:30 tonight and tomorrow.

George Bloomefield and daughter Mary Anne will be part of an all-star cast for the community theater's annual summer offering, which will continue through the season as Saturday night performances at 8:30 and Sunday afternoon performances at 2:30. Call 588-2300 for ticket information.

Professional singers and actresses will perform in this popular operetta, which stars the comic opera and Broadway classics of Gilbert and Sullivan. The production, with support from the City of Dearborn Recreation and Parks, is under the direction of Donald Slabach.

Tickets are $10, available at the theater in advance or at the door.
Fun side of caricatures is challenging

If you have ever been in a position where you want to make a caricature of someone, you might have felt overwhelmed by the challenge. Caricatures are a form of art that requires skill and creativity, and they can be challenging to create. However, with a bit of practice and determination, you can definitely master the art of caricature.

A caricature is truly an art form. It requires a deep understanding of the human body and how it moves. Caricatures are created by distorting the features of a person or object to bring out their unique characteristics. This can be challenging, but it is also very rewarding.

One of my art students, David Nagler, recently finished a caricature contest and exhibit to showcase his skills. He said, "Caricatures are a fun and challenging art form. It is all about capturing the essence of the person you are drawing. It is not about trying to make someone look ugly or unattractive. It is about finding the humor in the person and bringing it out in the caricature."

David Nagler's work is currently on display at the University Cultural Center. If you are interested in seeing his work, you can visit the center during the exhibition's run.

Caricatures can be done on paper, photo and extracting only those lines that are needed. It is a fun and challenging art form that anyone can try. So, why not give it a try? You might be surprised by what you can create.

If you are interested in learning more about caricatures, I highly recommend checking out the University Cultural Center's exhibition. It is a great opportunity to see some amazing work and to learn more about this fascinating art form.

Think of yourself as a poet

When you think of a poet, you might picture someone sitting at a desk, lost in thought, and writing words that are beautiful and meaningful. This image is often true, but it is not the only way to think of a poet.

A poet is someone who can write about anything, whether it be love, nature, or life. They can capture the essence of a moment and bring it to life on the page. This can be a challenging task, but it is also very rewarding.

I recently attended a poetry reading at the University Cultural Center, and I was amazed by the talent of the poets. They were able to capture the essence of a moment and bring it to life on the page. It was a wonderful experience, and I highly recommend attending a poetry reading if you get a chance.
