The Canton Connection

CULINARY WINNERS: Two local culinary arts students were selected as winners recently at the Michigan Restaurant Association's 14th annual Hospitality Industry Culinary Art Salon in Cobo Hall. More than 400 edible creations were judged. The 10,000 spectators viewed the hors d'oeuvres, pates, cakes and pastries by professional chefs, apprentices, and students.

Two culinary art students from Plymouth Salem High School among those honored are: Renee K. Hausar, a gold medal for her petits fours; and Elizabeth B. Barnhill, a bronze medal for her hors d'oeuvres.

TO CHICAGO: A number of young people from Plymouth and Canton, who perform for the concert and chamber orchestras of the Livonia Youth Symphony, traveled to Chicago Heights on Palm Sunday for a joint concert with the Suburban Youth Orchestra of Chicago Heights.

Last year the Livonia Youth Symphony hosted the Chicago Heights musicians. Highlights of this year's three-day trip were a sightseeing tour of Chicago and a pizza party.

GOOD MOCKERS: Plymouth Salem High School and Ann Arbor Community High School took second place in the fifth annual Mock Trial Tournament held recently in the City-County Building. Winning teams were Grosse Pointe North and Livonia Stevenson. The four teams will go to state finals in Lansing on April 11. Coaches for the Salem team were Scott Beaman and Warren VanderBosch. Team members were Arul Chinnaiyan, Brian Zahnm, Carmelita Reyes, Jayna Erickson, Matt McAmmond and Jeff Kulczycki.

GOOD TEACHER: Deborah Young of Canton joined with Martha Irwin recently in presenting a session titled "Linking Reading, Writing and Technology" at the Michigan Reading Association Conference in Grand Rapids.

Young is computer coordinator for UAW-Ford/EMU Academy while Irwin is a professor of teacher education at Eastern Michigan University. Young conducts a computer awareness project for hourly employees at the Ford plant in Ypsilanti. She works with children and adults to use word processing and other software to develop and enhance reading and writing abilities. The Michigan Reading Association is an organization of educators, parents and others concerned with reading in the state.

MORE TERMINALS: Players of Michigan Lottery Daily and Lotto games will have 32 additional retail locations in Wayne County for buying tickets and collecting prizes by the end of April.

New locations in Canton include: Country Market, 51215 Ann Arbor Road; Dennis Market, 6104 Canton Center Road; Grapevine Wine & Deli, Ford at Sheldon; Julien's Grocery, Canton Center Road at Ford; Maria's Italian Bakery, Haggerty at Cherry Hill; and 7-Eleven, 7171 Canton Center Road.

Among the new retail locations are these sites in Plymouth: Danny's Foods, Dawn Donuts, Family Discount Drugs, Great Scott, Party Pantry, Pilgrim Party Store and Cloverdale Farms.

Statewide the Lottery's terminal network is being expanded from 2,600 to 4,000. Annual sales now are at the billion dollar level and prize amounts are near $500 million, says Lottery commissioner Michael Carr. Carr says the new terminals will eliminate much of the waiting time, and make it easier to collect prizes up to $600.

Michigan corridor to get facelift

By Diane Gale
staff writer

As far as images go Canton's Michigan Avenue corridor isn't doing too well.

But that might change soon as the Canton Township Board of Trustees is hiring a consultant to help change the corridor — Michigan Avenue between Hannon and Belleville roads.

If growth in the area continues as it has "it will be all strip development," said Gerry Martin, community and economic development research associate.

"Michigan Avenue is strip development east and west of us, and it's not what we would like to attract in Canton."

Canton will spend $14,980 to hire a consultant, McKenna Associates of Farmington Hills, to conduct a Michigan Avenue corridor study. The fee will be taken out of federal block grant funds.

THE TOWNSHIP has $126,736 of block grants earmarked for Michigan Avenue corridor rehabilitation programs, and another $100,000 has been requested from the 1987 block grant program. Martin said the goal is to reach $250,000 of the federal money for the project.

The bulk of the grants will be used to subsidize low interest loans — taken from local banks — for businesses that improve the landscaping and outside structure of their buildings, Martin said.

A major benefit is: If existing buildings in the corridor improve their looks, the chances of Canton luring attractive developments — especially to the vacant land south of Michigan — also improves. Much of the land south of Michigan is zoned light industrial.

"If what is there is spruced up it will attract better business," Martin said.

One incentive for the property owners to request a loan is to poten-

Cut-off earth removed

Construction of the long-planned Sheldon Center cut-off is under way. The road will run from Canton Center to Sheldon beginning on Canton Center south of Brunswick and continuing northeaster to Sheldon south of Gallimore School. A small curve in the road, called the Canton Center connector, will join Canton Center and Sheldon Center. The new roads run through Hampton Court West subdivision.

PUD approval likely

Cavalier Village residents in Canton are against a proposed apartment complex near their subdivision.

But the project likely will be approved by the Canton Township Board because the new zoning will result in less density than the way the project was originally planned.

Tuesday night the board approved agreements reached with the developer and instructed its staff and attorney to negotiate a final Planned Unit Development (PUD) contract agreement.

About 150 residents — on Harsdale, Palisades, Corinne, Cranford, Brittany and Nassau Court — have signed a petition opposing a rezoning request from J.A. Bloch & Co. of Southfield.

Joseph Bloch, owner and developer of property on the south side of Cherry Hill between Morton Taylor and Sheldon, wants to rezone 6.7 acres of commercial land to multiple family and 10 acres of single family to open space. Earlier Bloch had asked that the 10 acres also be zoned multiple.

THE CHANGE involves 57 acres of vacant land owned by Bloch, of which 40 acres are zoned multiple family. North of the land is Cavalier Village and to the south, east and west is vacant plus some longstanding random single family homes.

Bloch signed a PUD contract with the Canton Township Board in 1972 to develop the project. That contract allows for more density (685 units then to 672 now) and less buffering from existing residential than what the new agreement will provide, explains David Nicholson, director of economic development.

The Canton Planning Commission compromised on the request. The commissioners unanimously agreed to allow rezoning of the 6.7 acres of commercial property if the 10 acres would be used as open space, said Loren Bennett, Canton planning commissioner and trustee.

Planning commissioners also stipulated that current building standards will apply instead of standards that existed when the 1972 PUD contract was signed, Bennett said.

TUESDAY NIGHT trustees Robert Padget and Steve Larson argued that the rezoning would benefit the township as it provided for fewer units than the 1972 agreement, for more landscaping and buffering, and for higher building standards.

Supervisor James Poole expressed concern about increased traffic volume on Cherry Hill when the project is developed.

Members of the board of directors of Cavalier Village Association said they believe the project wouldn't be in the best interest of 300 homeowners.

School board sets drug abuse policy

By M.B. Dillon

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools should be better equipped to fight substance abuse in the wake of action taken at Monday night's school board meeting.

Trustees unanimously adopted for first posting standards and practices drafted by the Plymouth-Canton Community Substance Abuse Task Force.

Comprised of police officers, educators, clergy, elected officials, residents and others, the 12-member task force was formed after a Minnesota anti-substance abuse organization conducted a one-week seminar here in 1985.

"With continued reinforcement, this has great potential," board President E.J. McClendon said.

"What we're doing is defining what would generally be considered good practices that ought to be conducted in treatment, education and evaluation aspects of chemical dependency programs or services," said Dale Yagiela, task force spokesman.

"We're hoping to get organizations that provide those services or who fund those services to adopt them."

THE TASK force's six-page document covers everything from prevention and education to intervention, evaluation and in-patient and out-patient treatment.

E.J. McClendon shares some of his Indian artifacts with granddaughter Kim Lang, 5½.

Indian teaching still guides him

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Dr. E.J. McClendon's grandfather, a Choctaw Indian named Pleasant Reed, used to tell him, "There are only two kinds of bad Indians — grinning Indians and talkative Indians. You're both. Shut up."

McClendon, president of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education, does talk and smile a lot. But that's part of his appeal.

Seven-eighths Indian, McClendon vividly remembers growing up on a reservation in Tishomingo, Okla. — in uplands so unwelcoming that his family was reduced to planting corn on river bottoms.

As a child in the 1930s, McClendon traveled with his grandfather to tribal sub-councils — meetings in which leaders discussed Indian and land rights, education and treaty violations.

"I learned to ride bareback and chase cattle by age 5 or 6. I can remember riding to school on a horse. My grandfather would yell at me, 'If you want to ride Betty, put a bridle on her,' " recalled McClendon, a public health professor at the University of Michigan, and the first Native American to be granted tenure there.

"I knew where there were wild turkeys when the state said there weren't any more. I could find squirrel or wild rabbit if we needed a little extra meat," said McClendon, who also could be counted on to pick wild greens year round.

BORN IN 1920, McClendon really didn't have a first name until he enrolled at the University of Oklahoma.

"When I was born, the births of horses were recorded. But recording the deaths and births of Indians was like recording the deaths and births of chickens and pigs.

"I was the fourth of four boys, and my parents couldn't make up their minds," said McClendon, who also had four sisters.

"An old aunt called me 'Pietieu' (Choctaw for spoiled), and my brothers and sisters called me Pete.

"In school, they had to give me a name, and my parents were going to name me after E.J. Neathery — the doctor who delivered me (well, actually he arrived three hours after I did.)

"They asked my mom what the initials E.J. stood for, and she said they didn't stand for anything."

System helps local seniors

The Plymouth Community Council on Aging has chosen to provide Lifeline, a personal in-home emergency response system. Lifeline is made available to local senior citizens in collaboration with Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The problem of reaching senior citizens during a medical crisis is a serious one. The situation is frightening and worrisome for relatives, friends and neighbors of area senior citizens.

The Plymouth Community Council on Aging "is concerned about this group of seniors," said William F. McNamara, council president. The council has conducted a series of meetings to determine how best to stay in daily contact with those people.

Lifeline makes it possible to provide emergency help within minutes. The system provides 24-hour monitoring of the user.

THE EQUIPMENT includes an electronic unit, attached to the home's telephone, and a small pendant worn around the neck or wrist.

Users then press the emergency button to send out a call for help. It's not necessary to use the telephone to summon help; the electronic unit will pick up a signal from the emergency button.

The unit will pick up the signal from as far away as 200 feet.

The signal immediately links the user with the emergency response center at either Oakwood Hospital or St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. Lifeline works even if the telephone is off the hook or during an electrical power failure.

Trained staff members then answer calls immediately. For users who are unable to answer the phone, the center staff will call one of three volunteers who live nearby. Those volunteers will then report back to the hospital's emergency response center.

Center staff members determine what kind of help to provide. An automatic timer in the unit alerts the response center that something is wrong if the user has not used the phone or reset the timer within a 24-hour period.

The Plymouth Community Council on Aging has endorsed the Lifeline concept, according to McNamara.

"We will assist senior citizens to qualify for the Lifeline units."

For more information on the Lifeline system's use, costs or payment assistance, call the council's office at Plymouth City Hall, 453-1234. Information also is available from Oakwood Hospital, Lifeline manager, 1-800-832-LOVE, or from the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Lifeline coordinator, 572-3922.

Jewelry and tools are reported stolen

Jewelry valued at $5,000 was reported stolen last weekend from a house on Canton Center Road in Plymouth Township.

Earrings, necklaces and a diamond ring were taken, according to a report filed with police.

A garage door was jimmied, then a connecting door to the house was kicked open. Drawers in a couple of bedrooms were ransacked. The intruder(s) apparently escaped through a sliding door.

A former tenant at the Heritage Apartments on Heritage reported that several miscellaneous items were stolen from a locked storage bin in the basement of the unit.

That theft occurred earlier this month.

Among the items reported stolen were a router valued at $129, pots and pans at $100, a circular saw at $85, a Coleman propane stove at $55, and swim mask and fins valued at $55.

A maroon 10-speed Takara bicycle valued at $125 was reported stolen from a garage on Jener between April 3 and last Saturday.

A gray and black skateboard valued at $75 was reported stolen while left outside East Middle School Monday afternoon.

Gets promotion

Robert L. Scoggins has been promoted to sergeant for the City of Plymouth Police Department. Scoggins was a staff sergeant in the U.S. Air Force in security when he left the military to join Plymouth Police more than 12 years ago. He started as the city's first ordinance officer and became a patrolman the next year. Scoggins has earned an associate's degree in law enforcement from Schoolcraft College, a bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan and is working on a master's in public administration from EMU. He also studied music education for three years at Kent State University before joining the military. Scoggins, who served as a union steward for the PPOA for 10 years, has been active in crime prevention for the past couple of years. Scoggins has taken over as night supervisor, replacing the retiring Dan Carpenter.

Lot sizes shrinking

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Developers of two residential subdivisions in Plymouth Township are nearly ready to proceed now that they've received the go-ahead to build on minimum half-acre rather than full-acre lots.

Sheldon Shacket, president of Shell Development Co., said he plans to build 58 houses on a 37-acre parcel on the east side of Ridge Road between Powell and N. Territorial.

Ron Cook and James Courtney plan to build 29 houses on a 20-acre parcel on the north side of Powell between Beck and Ridge roads.

The township board Tuesday approved rezoning requests from the developers to reduce minimum lot sizes.

Both Shacket and Cook said they couldn't finance residential development in the township today on full-acre homesites.

"WHAT'S REALLY gone crazy are development costs — sewer, street and water," Shacket said.

"The land is very expensive in Plymouth Township and getting underground in is even more expensive," said Cook.

"There's no demand for a one-acre lot," Shacket said.

Even with smaller lot sizes, buying into either subdivision appears to be an expensive proposition.

"I imagine it would be $300,000 and up by the time we're ready to go," Shacket said.

That would include the lot and a colonial with a minimum of 3,300 square feet or a ranch with at least 2,500 square feet, he said.

Cook projected that a lot alone in his development, dubbed Hunters Creek, would cost $65,000. The total price would rise to between $200,000 and $250,000 when you add a house of 2,500 to 3,500 square feet, he added.

"WE'VE ALREADY got 25 percent of the lots requested," Cook said. "It's just been people knowing we can get you a half-acre lot in Plymouth Township."

Likely buyers, he said, are dual-income couples, professionals.

"They're all professional people," Shacket said of potential purchasers. "They're second- and third-time home buyers, people who have equity in their homes and cash out."

Cook said engineering studies have been completed for his project.

"We would like to have streets in by September, October of this year. We're shooting for that, at least."

The first houses may be ready for occupancy by spring of 1988, he said.

Shacket anticipates starting utility work this fall. A couple of models will be built concurrently, he said.

"Plymouth Township has always been the Bloomfield Hills of that general Wayne County area," Shacket said. "Plymouth Township is a very nice place to live."

"We're normally real estate brokers," said Cook. "We just got into the market because there's nothing to sell."

Startled by a fisherman, this duck takes off from the pond.

Gone fishin'

PLYMOUTH Township Park attracts its share of area residents, particularly when the skies are sunny and the breezes warm.

Some come to use the playground equipment or to toss a Frisbee. Others visit the park, at Ann Arbor Trail and McClumpha, to have picnics, to admire the Peter Rockwell play sculpture, or for the Easter Egg Hunt or Fourth of July Fireworks. For some visitors, the park's the place to go to read a good book or just to enjoy the company of good friends.

For one group, though, the park and its pond is more than just a place to play. For local fishermen, it's an ideal spot to go fishing.

Some of the younger and more squeamish participants may cringe a bit when live bait is used. Others, more experienced in the art of fishing, find a day of "going fishing" the ideal way to relax.

Each spring young anglers trek to Wilcox, Phoenix or Newburgh lakes to wet their lines for the first time. For residents west of Sheldon Road that adventure now can be experienced by traveling a shorter distance as the pond in the Township Park has been stocked with perch and other pan fish.

Conductor not renewed

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Leon Gregorian will conduct his last concert for the Plymouth Symphony May 3.

The symphony society board of directors Monday voted not to renew his contract for the 1987-88 season.

"The decision was made we couldn't afford him. Our finances aren't in condition to do that," said Clara Camp, president of the board.

"We are in the process of finding a new conductor. We should know by next week."

Gregorian, 41, made his debut with the Plymouth Symphony last year during a Fourth of July concert. He will have conducted six other concerts — including "The Nutcracker" twice — by the time this season ends.

Gregorian, a music professor at Michigan State University, also conducts the MSU symphony and chamber orchestras.

EVEN THOUGH he agreed to conduct the Midland Symphony next season, Gregorian said he wanted to return to Plymouth as well.

"He wanted to cut back on the number of concerts (to four)," Camp said. Gregorian, however, didn't want to take less than this year's stipend of $13,000 for conducting fewer concerts, she added.

"He's a marvelous musician. It's a shame that's the decision that had to come about," Camp said. "The society feels we have to have fiscal responsibility."

The vote on whether to renew Gregorian's contract was fairly close, she said. "I would say everybody in the room would like to have him back if we could swing it financially. Some more than others."

CONCERN ABOUT money also has the symphony board talking about going to a five-concert series next year, Camp said.

"And unless funding is received from one or more sources outside of its regular budget, there will be no Fourth of July concert accompanying fireworks this year in Plymouth Township Park, she said.

Musicians in the Plymouth Symphony are paid a minimum of $8 per rehearsal or performance. Other expenses include renting facilities, sheet music and programs. Then there's the stipend for a music director/conductor.

The budget this year is about $80,000, Camp said.

"By cutting back, it will save enough money to fit our budget much better. We're using up our savings," she said.

Services held for PTO leader

By Diane Gale

Marjorie L. Croll gave her all.

And education programs in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools benefitted from her dedication.

"She was the kind of person you knew you could depend on," said her friend Carol Davis, past president of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

"She was always willing to help and willing to work for what she believed in."

Mrs. Croll, 46, died from a brain tumor April 11. She was rushed to St. Joseph Hospital in Ypsilanti six days earlier after feeling ill at the close of a play she was attending.

Mrs. Croll was a Plymouth Township resident and Plymouth-Canton school district substitute teacher. Plymouth-Canton Superintendent John Hoben praised Mrs. Croll, calling her "an outstanding citizen, and a person who went far beyond the expected."

"We'll certainly miss her."

Mrs. Croll had worked as a full-time teacher — with a specialty in math — before moving to Plymouth.

SHE WAS past president of the Parent Teacher Organization Council and volunteered for numerous school programs, such as working as a math tutor and on the Talented and Gifted students program. Mrs. Croll also worked on the Schoolcraft College TAG advisory committee.

"She didn't do things for the glory or for the name — she was a worker," Davis said. "She was a good friend to a lot of people."

Mrs. Croll also was involved in activities of the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth and was a member of the Plymouth Community Arts Council, the American Association of University Women, Kappa Alpha Theta at Miami of Ohio, and Kappa Alpha Theta at Michigan State University.

Mrs. Croll, who loved the outdoors and enjoyed camping, met her husband at the Interlochen Academy for the Arts. She came to Plymouth in 1966 from Grosse Ile. Her husband, George, is a teacher for Livonia Public Schools.

MRS. CROLL ALSO IS survived by her daughter, Jennifer, an 18-year-old high school student; son, Paul, 15-year-old ninth grader; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rollin H. Simonds; and brother, Richard.

Funeral services were held April 14 at the First Presbyterian Church with burial at Riverside Cemetery in Plymouth. Arrangements were handled by Schrader Funeral Home Inc., Plymouth.

Memorial contributions may be made to the First Presbyterian Church, 701 Church St., Plymouth 48170 or to the Educational Excellence Foundation, Plymouth-Canton Schools, P.O. Box 449, Plymouth 48170.

Board head recalls reservation days

Mrs. McClendon figured she'd ask Dr. Neathery when he turned up again.

"He never did show up. He probably moved his practice," said McClendon, who has campaigned for Indian land and fishing rights. "I was in college by then, and the woman at the Bureau of Indian Affairs just typed in 'Edwin James.' The name never applied to me. If people call me Edwin, I know they don't know me."

AS FOR HIS last name, the Plymouth Township resident said, "for years and years we had no explanation for where those Scottish names came from."

Recently, a relative discovered that "in about 1754, shiploads of Scots came to America looking for free land and fortune.

". . . They ran into Choctaws in northern Mississippi on their way to new Orleans. The Choctaws had been isolated from the white man, so they welcomed him with open arms," said McClendon, who married a Cherokee named Ruby Scott before moving to Michigan to take a public health job in 1954.

Because Indians didn't believe in the ownership of land or children, they had little need for last names, with one exception.

"To sell your corn, you had to read and write English, and count," said McClendon, a World Health Organization consultant who's visited more than 20 countries.

"Families would send at least one son back east to an academy. If the son didn't have a last name, he had difficulty getting in. If you knew someone you liked, you'd adopt their name," said McClendon.

DESPITE HIS IMMERSION in the white man's world, Indian philosophies "are always back there dictating how I look at and feel about things," said McClendon.

"We live ad hoc. I'm often criticized for not doing long-range planning. But by and large if you don't do a lot of long-range planning, you don't do a lot of long-range worrying. I really do expect every day to take care of itself."

Retirement is something McClendon has thought about, however.

"I used to think I'd run satellite health clinics out in remote areas (of Okalahoma). The old full-bloods out there didn't have cars or access to health services, and they suffered for lack of it. But the need is not as great" since the Choctaw's new tribal chief climbed aboard. Health care has improved, said McClendon, a speaker at Ann Arbor's annual pow wows.

Because life was so hard and the mortality rate so high, children were "treasured greatly" by the Choctaws.

"A home without children wasn't a home," said the devoted grandfather of three. "I used to preach to our three kids, 'Don't have a child for your mother and me. Having a child carries the same sentence as second-degree murder — 20 years to life, and more than likely, it's going to be life.' "

GOING TO COLLEGE changed McClendon's life.

"I worked to support myself in a dining hall and in a men's clothing store.

"When you learn to tie a Windsor knot in your tie, and learn to put cuff links in a dress shirt . . . you never feel the same about stomping around in buckskin and boots."

Corridor to get facelift

tially get more business, Martin said.

"Presumably if an area looks good you'll draw more interest and more customers," Martin said. "And the people who move next to you will be a better class."

MCKENNA ASSOCIATES has six months to complete the study and "in the best of cases we would start the program at the end of the year."

It will include an outline of the development uses in the corridor, a traffic analysis and an environmental survey, according to a memo to the board from Dave Nicholson, community and econmic development director. Architectural problems will be identified and means for improvement suggested.

McKenna also will draw sketches of selected properties in the area to show what the property would look like after the changes.

Martin stresses involvement in the program is voluntary.

Last year the board designated the Michigan Avenue corridor a blighted area under standards outlined by the state, which is required for the block grants.

Drug policy is adopted

Last week, the task force was granted tax-exempt status that will enable it to accept tax-deductible contributions. The group has applied for a $50,000 federal grant through the state Office of Substance Abuse Services.

It's gratifying to see the hard work "of a neat combination of people" pay off, said Nic Cooper, the school district's program specialist in alternative education and substance abuse committee coordinator.

"We're eventually going to be seeking parents, professionals, counselors, ministers and others who are willing to go through substance abuse training," said Cooper, who also serves on the community task force.

The consequences of the community not adopting standard practices are severe, Yagiela said.

"The potential is for people not to get appropriate service, and to get service that may not be an effective response to their needs. It could be that people do not have an opportunity to recover, and that may ultimately lead to death," he said.

IN OTHER action, the school board unanimously voted to put on the June 8 ballot a waiver of the Headlee Amendment.

The measure, which would enable the district to levy millage previously authorized by voters, was defeated in February's school election.

Free library video rentals spark debate

A one-sentence amendment to two state library laws has stirred up a storm in the state House of Representatives, where it is headed after Senate passage.

Sen. Doug Cruce, R-Troy, sponsored identical bills saying public libraries "established under this act shall not charge a fee for the loan of a videocassette tape to a resident of the city, village or township which established the library."

Cruce contends public libraries are supposed to be free and are unfairly competing with taxpaying stores.

OPPONENTS such as Sen. Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, say the bills interfere with the rights of local libraries to conduct their own affairs.

Rep. Lloyd Weeks, D-Warren, who chairs the House Towns and Counties Committee, said he'll oppose the bills, which go to his panel.

"If we're going to do this, maybe we should close the libraries altogether, and while we're at it, close the state parks, too, because they compete with private parks," Weeks said.

His position is crucial because bills rarely make it through a committee when the chairman is opposed.

CRUCE'S BILLS seek to amend two laws:

- SB 132 affects free public libraries organized under an 1877 state law — approved 26-9.
- SB 196 affects libraries formed under city charters — approved 26-11.

Voting yes on both were Sens. Doug Cruce, whose district includes Birmingham; Richard Fessler, R-West Bloomfield, whose district includes Bloomfield Township, Bloomfield Hills and Southfield Township; and William Faust, D-Westland.

Opposing both were Robert Geake, R-Northville, whose district includes Livonia, Plymouth and Canton; Rudy Nichols, whose district includes the Rochester area; and George Hart, D-Deaborn, whose district include Garden City.

Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington, split his votes, favoring SB 132 but opposing SB 196. His district includes Southfield.

The Senate passed the bills April 9 and adjourned for a nearly two-week Easter break.

AN AIDE to Cruce said the sponsor's concern was that "current law says libraries shall be forever free to inhabitants."

"But libraries are taking on the look of pseudo-businesses. They're charging $2 a night for videocassette tapes most of which could be found in any store."

The Cruce aide said they covered such commercial favorites as "Star Wars" and "Texas Chainsaw Massacre."

Nichols, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, saw a constitutional problem in interfering with the autonomy of a library once it's set up.

"In my district, local library boards have made these decisions on whether to rent videocassettes. They debated the issue very thoroughly," he said.

To be consistent, Nichols said, the proponents of the bill should prohibit libraries from charging for any service — photocopying, phonograph records, borrowing of best selling books and the rest.

Geake, another opponent, said, "Renting videos is a way for libraries to increase their collections and increase service to the community."

The Wayne County senator said parents can feel more comfortable sending children to the library than to video stores.

THE BILLS reopened a long-standing argument from businesses that see government as competing against them.

Public libraries generally opposed the bill, arguing that they supply educational videocassettes that commercial stores don't handle. They said that for them to provide tapes free, they would have to dip into their budgets for book acquisitions.

Libraries also saw legal problems where they are part of a cooperative, multi-town service such as the Wayne-Oakland Library System. For example, a taxpaying resident of town A would be able to borrow a tape free from Library A, but could be charged by Library B even though it is part of the same system.

Agency assists needy, homeless

Food and lodging for needy western Wayne County residents is available through the Wayne-Metropolitan Services Agency.

Beginning this month, the agency began supporting 112 soup kitchens, distributing boxes of groceries, providing emergency lodging and assisting people faced with eviction or mortgage foreclosures.

The agency recently received a $140,000 grant from the Federal Emergency Management Administration.

People needing food should call the Food Hot Line, 721-4470, for referral to the nearest distribution site.

Western Wayne residents needing lodging or rent and mortgage assistance should call 728-7510.

People wishing to donate food, paper goods or other household items may call 721-4470.

The program is designed for personal crises requiring immediate attention, officials said. Benefits are limited to 30 days.

Hotels, motels and rooming houses provide temporary shelter for up to 30 days through a voucher system. Mortgage companies and landlords are also reimbursed through vouchers.

Food is available to people meeting or slightly exceeding federal poverty guidelines — yearly income of $6,000 or less for one person or $13,750 for a family of four.

Surplus cheese, butter, dry milk and donated foodstuffs will be distributed.

People seeking rent or mortgage assistance must present legal eviction notices indicating the amount of one month's rent, landlord's mailing address, telephone number and signature.

Mortgage assistance is available by presenting a letter of foreclosure and the amount of one month's payment. Homeowners must also show ability to utilize other financial resources to prevent foreclosure.

County has begun testing for AIDS

AIDS counseling and testing has begun through the Wayne County Health Department.

A limited program began Monday with expanded services available later this year, a spokesman for the department's disease control division said.

Program information is confidential.

The program is directed toward high-risk AIDS categories.

National statistics have shown 73 percent of all AIDS cases have occurred among homosexual or bisexual men and 17 percent among intravenous drug abusers. Other cases have occurred among people receiving contaminated blood, people with blood disorders, heterosexuals having contact with people carrying the AIDS virus and infants born to infected mothers.

People who feel they may be in a high risk category can contact the health department disease control division at 467-3325, 467-3326 or 467-3327.

The Schoolcraft College Choir, under the direction of Dr. Bradley Bloom, will perform. The festival will also feature a piano performance by music professor Don Morelock.

Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

Canham awaits penalty ruling

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

In emotional testimony, former Wayne County chief circuit judge James Canham said Monday he should have reported Michigan Appeals Court Judge S. Jerome Bronson to authorities for the November 1986 bribe attempt, which cost Bronson his life and "completely destroyed" Canham's.

The Redford Township resident said he "made a mistake" in not reporting Bronson, saying he believed a Michigan Attorney Discipline Board hearing panel wouldn't have found he committed misconduct — jeopardizing his license — had he reported Bronson.

'What more could you do to him and his family. He's been overly punished for everything you've found him guilty of.'

—Sheldon Miller, Canham's attorney

"THEY FOUND a way to find me guilty of the charge perhaps I'm guilty of," he said during a hearing to determine his penalty.

Those bringing charges against Canham, however, argued his law license should be taken away for acts that were the legal profession's equivalent of "first degree murder."

Chief grievance administrator Michael Alan Schwartz said the misconduct charge against Canham included more than his failure to report Bronson. Schwartz said there was no evidence to indicate Canham intended to turn Bronson in and substantial evidence, including taped telephone conversations, to indicate he was working with Bronson to solicit a $20,000 bribe from attorney James Finn.

"AS A LAWYER (this was) equal to a citizen committing first degree murder," Schwartz said.

Canham, however, disputed the intent of his taped statements, saying he was subtly trying to convince Finn to report Bronson.

Canham said the ordeal "completely destroyed" his life; he broke down in describing the effects of the attorney discipline board hearing — and its attendant publicity — upon his family.

"I have a pretty good family. they've suffered . . . God, they've suffered," Canham said before losing his composure, prompting a five-minute delay in the proceedings.

"What more could you do to him and his family," said Canham's attorney, Sheldon Miller. "He's been overly punished for everything you've found him guilty of."

MILLER ALSO asked the discipline board hearing panel to overturn its finding that Canham "aided and abetted" Bronson in seeking a $20,000 bribe in return for a favorable appeals court ruling.

A decision regarding the appeal — and, potentially, Canham's penalty — is expected within two weeks. Panel members said they would wait until transcripts of Monday's hearing were complete before issuing their decision.

Canham could face a penalty as light as a reprimand or as heavy as losing his law license.

The Redford Township resident's law license has been in jeopardy since the hearing panel's April 3 finding.

Canham said he has voluntarily ceased his Southfield law practice "until this cloud is lifted."

ATTEMPTING to bolster his case for the maximum penalty, Schwartz introduced a videotape, broadcast by WKBD-TV, in which Canham said Michigan attorney grievance commission chairman Angus Goetz would "have to pay his price," apparently for bringing charges against him.

Panel members, however, ruled the statement was made "in the heat of the moment."

"We're not concerned with the statements of Mr. Canham on that tape," panel chairman J. Robert Sterling said. "His conduct on that tape will not be held against him."

While Monday's hearing was designed to determine Canham's penalty, panel members allowed Miller to appeal their earlier decision.

ARGUING THAT CANHAM'S intent was never proven, Miller said panel members found his client guilty of failing to report Bronson — a breech of ethics not contained in the original complaint.

Schwartz, however, said Canham willfully concealed his knowledge of Bronson's intentions — and noted panel members ruled that action consituted misconduct in their earlier ruling.

Bronson took his life Nov. 14 after being arraigned on bribery and conspiracy charges.

Canham has the right to appeal the hearing panel's decision to the attorney discipline board, though Miller said after Monday's hearing that is unlikely.

Canham also retains the right to appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court.

Dan Collins, public relations/program chairman, is a junior majoring in business administration and the son of Daniel and Barbara Collins of Plymouth. He is a 1984 graduate of Catholic Central High School. Officers were installed March 31. Each will serve a one-year term. Participating students help organize and host major college events.

● NEW MEMBERS

New members also have been chosen for Leaders in College Service, the student-alumni association of Adrian College. In addition to Dan Collins and Paul Fletcher, freshman Jill Holthus was selected for membership. Holthus is the daughter of Frances Holthus of Plymouth and Raymond Holthus of Rochester. She is a 1986 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. LINCS members are chosen on the basis of leadership in campus organizations.

● ON STAGE

The theater department at Western Illinois University in Macomb, Ill., recently staged Shakespeare's "Hamlet" at the Horrabin Hall theater. Scene design for the production was done by Canton's S. Kent Miller, a graduate student majoring in theater.

● TAYLOR STUDENTS

AnnJanette Cuper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cuper of Canton, and Marcia Alvarado, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Alvarado of Plymouth, have been accepted for the fall term 1987 at Taylor University in Upland, Ind.

● BUSINESS COLLEGE

Plymouth-Canton students were among those named to the dean's list at the end of the fall quarter at the Detroit College of Business. To qualify, students were required to have a 3.50 or better grade point average at the end of the quarter.

Canton students are Ronald Philip Beattie, Florence Annette Beggs and Suzanne M. Hunter. Lynn B. Sobczak of Plymouth was also named to the list.

● GOLDEN GAVEL

Dan Collins, son of Daniel and Barbara Collins of Plymouth, was among Adrian College students honored recently with induction into the Golden Gavel Honor Society. Collins is a junior majoring in business administration with an English minor. Students are honored for outstanding service and leadership to the college community.

● CURTAIN GOES UP

The Adrian College Players recently presented Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer." Kris Holappa appeared as Bet Bouncer. Holappa, the daughter of Karen Holappa of Plymouth, is a junior majoring in earth science. She is a 1983 graduate of Huron High School in Ann Arbor.

● DANCE CONCERT

Sean Budlong, son of Robert and Judith Budlong of Plymouth, was among student dancers who performed in Alma College's winter term Orchesis dance concert. Budlong, a 1985 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School, was one of eight dancers in the modern dramatic piece, "By the Way of Suffering."

● LEADERSHIP

John Storm, son of John and Dorene Storm of Canton, was chosen to participate in the president's leadership program at the School of the Ozarks, Point Lookout, Mo. Storm is a 1986 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. The program was designed by Stephen Jennings, School of the Ozarks president, to help students develop leadership and organizational skills.

● STUDENT LIFE

David J. Liller of Plymouth has won a "Student Life" scholarship to attend Oakland University in Rochester this fall. Liller will graduate from Plymouth Canton High School. Judges want tough rules for cameras in court

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

As the heavily covered recent legal proceeding resumed, the prosecutor shooed away a battery of television crews.

"That's it fellows, we have to close the door now," he said.

That door could be temporarily reopened, however, depending upon reaction to a recent Michigan Supreme Court proposal.

The high court seeks comments on a proposal that would allow still cameras, video cameras and tape recorders into selected Michigan courtrooms for a one-year test period. All are currently banned.

While local judges don't necessarily oppose introduction of cameras into their courtrooms, they generally agree access should be permitted only under strict guidelines.

"IT SHOULD BE strictly controlled by the judge," said Wayne County Circuit Judge James Mies, a Livonia resident. "There are some cases where the public's right to know is so great it would be wise to have such coverage, but it depends upon the case."

Other judges also expressed apprehension.

"Sure, the court is open. but that doesn't mean you have to appear on the evening news," said Judge Robert Brzezinski of the 16th District Court, Livonia. "Being charged in and of itself doesn't mean you're guilty."

Several judges said they feared media representatives and witnesses might act irresponsibly.

"As long as the media didn't upset the forum and the witnesses didn't act as if they were on stage, I wouldn't have any objections," said Judge John Dillon of the 17th District Court, Redford Township. "There's a tremendous responsibility involved. If you picture someone, they could still be damaged for life even if they are acquitted."

OTHERS SAID cameras could slow court proceedings.

"In most cases it would cause a great slowdown in the trial," said Judge Thomas Smith of the 18th District Court, Westland. "But if it was a case of great public interest and you could get both parties to agree, it might be acceptable on some limited basis.

"In the majority of cases, it would just be unworkable," Smith said.

But others found no inherent problems.

"I don't have any problem with it," said Judge John MacDonald of the 35th District Court, which serves the Plymouth, Canton and Northville area.

"The obvious response is they shouldn't be allowed if they interfere with the proceedings. But it's my understanding that they've been pretty unobtrusive in states that allow them," MacDonald said.

State Supreme Court justices will take comments on the idea for 90 days after the proposed order is published in the May issue of the Michigan Bar Journal.

THE PROPOSAL'S publication doesn't guarantee its enactment.

State Supreme Court justices warned that "publication of this proposal does not mean that the court will issue an order on the subject, nor does it imply probable adoption in its present form."

If objections are few, most proceedings in the state's 241 trial courts and the state Court of Appeals and Supreme Court could directly covered by print photographers and broadcasters.

The proposal follows a recommendation by the Citizens' Commission to Improve Michigan Courts, which urged the Supreme Court to direct the State Bar of Michigan to develop a joint proposal with news media representatives for the proposed pilot program.

Under the proposed order, consent of the trial judge would be necessary for the news media to bring cameras and tape recorders into the courtroom and the judge could control the coverage during the trial.

JURY SELECTION coverage would be prohibited during the experimental program and witnesses in both civil and criminal trials would have the power to block film or electronic media coverage of their testimony, Supreme Court justices said.

The proposed order also would establish rules with regard to media equipment, lights, the number of media personnel, types of cameras, position of equipment and movement in the courtroom.

The news media would have to obtain advance written permission to use electronic equipment to cover a trial, the court said.

Michigan is one of only seven states banning photograpic or broadcast coverage of court proceedings. Such coverage is also banned in federal courts.

On July 19, 1983, the Supreme Court voted 4-3 to deny a request made by the Michigan State Bar's representative assembly urging a one-year experiment in electronic court coverage. But the State Bar resubmitted its proposal last November, and the Commission to Improve Michigan Courts added its support.

The Associated Press contributed to this article.

Avoid rabies, immunize pets, say county officials

People can contract rabies without being bitten, Wayne County Health Department officials said recently in advising residents to have their pets immunized and avoid wild animals as peak rabies months approach.

Rabies may occur through scratches and other flesh wounds in addition to bites, health officials said.

The disease is virtually always fatal once clinical symptoms have begun, health officials said. Symptoms generally occur two to eight weeks after exposure, but can occur in as litttle as 10 days.

There were 25 rabid animals found throughout Michigan in 1986, according to health department reports. They included 20 bats, three skunks, a raccoon and fox. In other years rabid dogs, cats, coyotes, cows, horses, sheep, oxen, bobcats and ferrets have been reported.

Additional information is available by calling the health department's environmental health division, 326-4900, or the disease control division, 467-3325.

Motorist is killed in M-14 accident

A 42-year-old motorist was killed at 4:12 p.m. Wednesday afternoon when the 1985 Chevy Cavalier he was driving slammed into an abutment on M-14 at Beck Road.

The man, of Rock Hill S.C., was traveling westbound at 80-90 mph before the accident occurred, said Sgt. Marshall Johnson of the Michigan State Police.

He was pronounced dead of multiple injuries at the scene by a Wayne County medical examiner, said State Trooper Michael Lewis.

No one else was involved in the accident.

Police were withholding the victim's name late Wednesday pending notification of relatives.

"Nobody cut him off or anything, according to witnesses," said Lewis.

"It appears he traveled 300 feet down the median before striking the pillar at Beck Road. He struck it head on."

Neither road nor weather conditions appear to have been a factor, police said.

"There's nothing that would lead us to believe his vehicle experienced mechanical failure," added Lewis. Plymouth Township police and rescue crews also responded.

State Dems to hold '88 caucuses March 26

AP — Four years ago, leaders of the Michigan Democratic Party devised a system for selecting national convention delegates that drew bitter complaints and court challenges.

This time around, fewer fireworks are expected.

The new presidential delegate selection plan of the Democratic State Central Committee backs away from the controversies of 1984, when candidate Jesse Jackson condemned Michigan's process as "official backroom politics" and unsuccessfully challenged it in court.

"I don't see any hot controversy," said state Party chair Rick Wiener.

PARTY LEADERS picked March 26 as the date for Michigan's 1988 presidential preference caucus.

They endorsed a system for turning caucus votes into 151 delegates and 46 alternates at the Democratic National Convention in Atlanta.

Wiener is enthusiastic about the March 26 date.

"My goal is to make sure Michigan plays a pivotal role," he said. "I believe Michigan has achieved that."

Michigan thus secures a niche in the Democratic presidential sweepstakes right behind Illinois but before many other large states.

"That's important, with (U.S. Sen.) Paul Simon entering the race," Wiener said. "We can't really impact on Illinois with a candidate from Illinois, but we certainly can impact on the rest of the process."

THE STATE party chief said few Democrats took advantage of a 30-day comment period to offer opinions about the proposal for picking Michigan's national convention delegation.

Whether that signals harmony remains to be seen. Last time, objections weren't lodged until after the system was irreversibly in place.

In 1984, former vice president Walter Mondale had almost all of Michigan's political muscle in his corner. The other camps complained the state's system was designed to put challengers at a disadvantage.

Critics in 1984 griped that 337 caucus sites weren't enough. At some Detroit locations, Democrats stood in line for two hours.

The party's 1988 plan calls for no fewer than 500 sites.

JACKSON AND then-Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado complained in 1984 that many Democrats would be intimidated by a system that required them to sign their names on their presidential preference ballots.

Some critics predicted the lack of privacy would keep partisans away from the caucuses.

That didn't turn out to be the case. About 135,000 Democrats turned out, up from just 16,000 in 1980.

Even so, the 1988 proposal drops signed ballots. It also tempers the part of the 1984 plan that most enraged Jackson.

Party leaders are being asked to alter a two-stage system that uses the boundaries of Michigan's 18 congressional districts to determine whether caucus votes get translated into pledged delegates at the national convention.

IN 1984, candidates had to pull at least 20 percent of the caucus vote in a congressional district to win a pledged convention delegate. For 1988, the proposed threshold is 15 percent.

Wiener backs the changes for 1988 while continuing to brush off complaints about the system he supervised in 1984.

"I thought four years ago was a very good process," he said. "It brought 135,000 people into the process. It was a tremendous party-building tool for us and I think that's at times lost on people."

Crash toll dropped 10 percent with belt law

The number of adult drivers and front-seat passengers killed in car crashes declined 10 percent in Michigan after passage of the state's mandatory seat belt law in 1985, according to a University of Michigan study.

Research scientist Alexander C.Wagenaar and associates at the UM Transportation Research Institute examined the short-term effects of the adult seat belt law. They also followed up on earlier studies of the long-term impact of the child restraint law.

Adopted in mid-1985, the adult seat belt law prevented 98 deaths during the first year it was in force, holding the number of front-seat fatalities to 913. The law prevented injuries to 7,278 adults during the first six months.

THE STUDY also showed a 28 percent decline in the number of children injured in car crashes since passage of the mandatory child car seat law in 1982.

An average of 552 fewer children have been injured each year the law has been in force, for a total of 2,070 children spared injury between April 1982 and December 1985.

The researchers looked at the number of reported injuries from auto crashes from January 1978 through December 1985 and fatalities from January 1978 through June 1986 with an analysis of injury rates based on population, number of crashed vehicles and vehicle miles traveled.

FINDINGS ON the effects of the adult seat belt law included:

- A 12.1 percent reduction in the frequency of injured occupants age 16 and over.
- An 11.6 percent reduction in the rate per population of injured occupants age 16 and over.
- A 16.1 percent reduction in the rate per crashed vehicle of injured occupants age 16 and over.
- A 29.9 percent reduction in the rate per crashed vehicle of front-seat fatalities among occupants age 10 and over.

The researchers also estimated that the annual cost savings from the two seat belt laws is at least $86 million to $158 million.

THE COST savings estimate accounted for the goods and service not purchased during the lost lifetime, the loss of ability to work, the psycho-social and quality of life costs and the value placed on life and safety.

"These cost figures are conservative since they assume that all injuries prevented were minor injuries. In fact, many of the injuries prevented would have been serious and the costs of severe injuries are considerably higher," Wagenaar said.

"These results clearly show the benefits of mandatory belt laws to the people of Michigan," said Wagenaar, whose research was sponsored by the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning and the U.S. Department of Transportation.

"The size of these reductions in injuries and deaths is substantial, and is consistent with what we expected, given that belt use among front-seat motorists in Michigan is now 44 percent.

"If we could further increase the proportion of motorists using safety belts, many more people could be spared injury or death."

MICHIGAN HAS two mandatory seat belt laws.

On April 1, 1982, a law passed requiring children under age 4 to be strapped into a child safety seat or, if the child is between ages 1 and 4 and riding in the rear seat, restrained with a seat belt.

On July 1, 1985, a law took effect requiring anyone traveling in the front seat to use a seat belt.

Utility workers to watch out for elderly, infirm

Consumers Power Co. employees are being trained to be "Gatekeepers" who keep a watchful eye on elderly and handicapped Michigan residents.

Some 672 of the utility's employees in the region serving western Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties have received or will complete this training program.

The format includes a 15-minute videotape and a brochure describing the signs of a potential crisis.

"All company employees who have daily or frequent contact with the public are being trained to be aware of symptoms or warning signs that can indicate crisis situations which elderly persons may experience," said Edgar L. Doss, Metro region general manager.

SYMPTOMS include overgrown lawns, mail piling up, physical coordination problems, confusion or extreme anxiety.

Utility employees will report their observations to the company's consumer affairs department. It will be responsible for notification of the appropriate local agency, usually the area Agency on Aging, for followup.

Gatekeeper was developed by Puget Sound Power and Light and the Washington State Bureau of Aging and Adult Services under a grant from the U.S. Administration on Aging.

Consumer Power's metro region serves two million residents in Western Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT was made by Lucille McCullough, commissioner of the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging, Doss.

Consumers Power will be Michigan's first utility — and one of a few nationwide — to participate in an innovative program to aid the elderly.

"By stepping forward to participate in the 'gatekeeper' program," Consumers Power is showing its concern for Michigan's elderly citizens," said Gov. James J. Blanchard. "I urge other Michigan's companies to demonstrate their commitment by becoming 'Gatekeepers' as well."

McCullough praised the utility's involvement, saying "Many of Michigan's elderly live alone which increases the potential for crisis situations going unnoticed. Gatekeepers will increase this number of friendly eyes and ears in our neighborhoods and reduce the possibility from happening," she said.

Dems push through rival budget

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending April 10.

HOUSE

1988 BUDGET — By a vote of 230 for and 192 against, the House adopted a fiscal 1988 budget projecting spending of slightly more than $1 trillion, a deficit of $108 billion to $132.5 billion, and unspecified new taxes of $18 billion.

The resolution (H Con Res 93) will go to conference with a companion measure now moving through the Senate. The resulting blueprint, which does not require President Reagan's signature, will guide Congress as it enacts spending and revenue bills for the fiscal year beginning this Oct. 1.

Authored by Democrats, the House blueprint sets a fiscal course sharply at odds with Reagan's budget request (below) and the priorities of the House GOP leadership, which this year did not propose an alternative budget.

In key disagreements, the Democratic budget provides less military and more domestic spending than favored by Reagan and the GOP leadership, and commits the House to approving substantial new taxes to trim the deficit.

Members voting yes favored the Democratic budget resolution.

Voting yes: Democrats Dennis Hertel of Harper Woods, William Ford of Taylor and Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

Voting no: Republicans Carl Pursell of Plymouth and William Broomfield of Birmingham.

THE PRESIDENT'S BUDGET — The House rejected, 27 for and 394 against, President Reagan's proposed fiscal 1988 budget.

Reagan had sought a defense spending hike of $7.8 billion above inflation, domestic spending cuts of $22.5 billion below projections, the eventual elimination of dozens of programs, and $6.1 billion from new revenue sources such as user fees, asset sales, tighter tax enforcement and levying the Medicare payroll tax on state and local government workers.

His budget was similar to the Democratic plan in its total spending and projected annual deficit.

Members voting yes favored President Reagan's budget.

Voting no: Pursell, Hertel, Ford, Levin and Broomfield.

BLACK CAUCUS BUDGET — By a vote of 56 for and 362 against, the House rejected the Congressional Black Caucus's fiscal 1988 budget plan.

This was the most liberal budget before the House. It recommended steeper defense cuts and more domestic spending than proposed by its competitors. And it urged much more revenue from new taxes, more generous domestic spending and zero funding of major weapons systems such as Star Wars and the MX missile.

Voting no: Pursell, Hertel, Ford, Levin and Broomfield.

CONSERVATIVES' BUDGET — The House rejected, 47 for and 369 against, the fiscal 1988 budget proposal of some of the House's most conservative members.

Roll Call Report

Along with their call for significantly higher defense and lower domestic spending than contained in the Democratic budget eventually approved by the House, the conservatives offered a fresh plan for easing the federal deficit — the issue of gold-backed government bonds.

Members voting yes supported the conservatives' budget.

Voting no: Pursell, Hertel, Ford, Levin and Broomfield.

SENATE

PAY RAISE — By a vote of 30 for and 70 against, the Senate rejected an amendment concerning the recent $12,100 pay raise for members of Congress.

At issue was an attempt by Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., to saddle a bill providing homeless aid (HR 558; below) with language repealing the raise, which increased members' pay to $89,500.

To sidetrack the repeal, the Democratic leadership introduced a substitute amendment that drew this vote. It set a paperwork procedure for senators wishing to return their raise to the Treasury, something many senators already are doing without benefit of new federal forms.

After surviving this vote, the repeal attempt fell victim to parliamentary procedure.

Senators voting yes wanted to strip the pay raise repeal from the homeless bill.

Voting no: Michigan Democrats Carl Levin and Donald Riegle.

HOMELESS BILL — The Senate passed, 85 for and 12 against, and sent to conference with the House a bill (HR 558) authorizing $423 billion in fiscal 1987 emergency aid for the homeless.

The bill mainly funds locally run programs providing food, shelter and health care, as well as special help for mentally ill street people.

Senators voting yes favored the bill. Levin and Riegle voted yes.

INSURANCE PROBE — By a vote of 80 for and 18 against, the Senate directed the Federal Trade Commission to probe insurance practices such as the skyrocketing premiums charged doctors, municipalities and others for liability coverage, and the sale of health insurance to the elderly to supplement Medicare.

The vote, which authorized a study but not a rulemaking, occurred during debate on a FTC funding bill (S 677) that was sent to the House.

Senators voting yes wanted the FTC to investigate certain insurance practices. Levin and Riegle voted yes.

Why Spend Another Summer Peeling?

Owning a house that needs improvements can really get under your skin.

There's the peeling paint. The weather-beaten roof. Or the crumbling driveway.

And that's not to mention the fabulous deck you've been thinking about building all winter.

Well, with the Home Equity Line of credit from First of America, you can take care of all your home improvements simply by writing a check.

That's because you apply only once. And after approval, your home improvement funds are ready to use. Whenever you choose to use them.

And at an attractive variable* annual percentage rate, we'll also waive the $200 processing fee through June, 1987. As well as finance the closing costs of the loan.

So send in the coupon, stop by or call us at 1-800-222-1983.

Because when it comes to our Home Equity Line, all else pales by comparison.

WSU to house Rouge archives

Wayne State University is now part of the Rouge River cleanup team.

With an $80,000 grant from the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), WSU will set aside a portion of its Science and Engineering Library to house existing and future reports and documents about the Rouge River.

"This information will provide a single resource of all of the history of efforts and all the data on the Rouge River to help on that process," said Ralph Kummler, chair of the chemical and metallurgical engineering department at WSU.

THE ROUGE River Archive will supply the centralized store of information necessary for cleanup efforts. Kummler and Thomas M. Heidtke, associate professor of civil engineering, will head the project at Wayne State.

"The Natural Resource Commission and the Water Resources Commission, with the support of Gov. James J. Blanchard, have made a big commitment to clean up the Rouge River by the year 2005," Kummler said.

The Science and Engineering Library on the main campus in Detroit will house the archive in perpetuity at no cost, Kummler added.

The collection will be available to the public on a reference basis during library hours, presently more than 90 hours a week. The material will be catalogued using standard rules which allow entry of descriptive records into machine-readable databases and will be accessible via the WSU online catalog, an easy-to-use computer system.

Safety goal: more auto seat belt usage

By Warren M. Hoyt
special writer

A coalition of 11 public and private agencies next month will begin a program designed to increase use of vehicle safety belts to 70 percent from about 47 percent.

And two state leaders who are strong advocates of the mandatory belt law said they are considering a proposal to make failure to use the belt a primary offense.

The community safety belt challenge will be conducted beginning April 30. Participating communities will report their results to the Michigan Coalition for Safety Belt Use by Oct. 31, Robert Cullen, director of the challenge and traffic safety manager for the American Automobile Association, said.

Throughout summer and fall, communities will conduct pre-program surveys and educational activities. Awards will be given in five population categories for most effective programs.

BEFORE THE mandatory seat belt law was enacted in 1985, he said, usage was about 20 percent.

In the first six months after the law went into effect, usage was up to between 58.4 percent and 61 percent. In the first year of law, an estimated 7,300 injuries and 98 deaths were prevented, and Cullen said that with 70 percent usage, 300 lives could be saved annually.

Rep. David Hollister, D-Lansing, said, although it is discouraging that the usage rate has dropped to 47 percent, it is not surprising because "it is difficult to change behavior."

Hollister also said he would favor making a violation of Michigan's seat belt law a primary offense, with points given to those in violation.

Currently it is a secondary offense — that is, law enforcement personnel are not allowed to stop vehicles for seat belt violations only. Therefore the law is difficult to enforce, he said.

About 3,000 tickets a month are issued for safety belt violations.

MARVIN TABLEMAN, director of the Office of Program Analysis of the Secretary of State's office, added that if the speed limit in Michigan is raised to 65 miles per hour, as is currently being considered, Secretary of State Richard Austin will strongly advocate making failure to use seat belts a primary offense.

Communities are being invited to participate by the coalition and Gov. James Blanchard, who is sending a letter regarding the challenge to all mayors and township supervisors in the state.

Some techniques which have been effective in other areas of the country in similar challenges range from strict enforcement of the seat belt law by law enforcement agencies to people standing on corners and offering cash or gift certificates to people they see wearing seat belts.

EMPLOYERS ARE being urged to make better use of a job bank by the Michigan Employment Security Commission. MESC is launching an advertising and direct mail campaign to increase business awareness of the program.

MESC Director Richard Simmons Jr. said the goal of the new effort is to get more employers to list their job openings through the agency's Job Service.

Simmons noted businesses already pay for the job service through their federal unemployment tax, and Joy Service access is offered without a fee.

He said the MESC has joined with five adjacent Midwest states in a computerized Job Service Resume System, providing a single source for a wide range of professional, technical, managerial and sales skilled-employees looking for work.

Simmons said better use of the system could substantially cut employer costs, noting $62.9 million would have been saved if each of the 406,180 persons who received unemployment benefits in 1986 had found a job or been called back to work one week earlier than actually happened.

Headlee limits allow for people to decide

THE ANNUAL Plymouth-Canton school election on June 8 will include a ballot proposal asking voters to approve the authorized levy.

The proposal is a re-run of the ballot issue defeated in a February special election. Basically, it seeks voter approval to relieve the school district of the requirement that the property tax millage rate for operations be lowered due to inflation in the growth of assessments. A reduced rate is required by the Headlee Amendment to the Michigan Constitution.

The Observer withholds judgment on the ballot proposal itself until we examine the financial figures. But we do support bringing the proposal back to the voters.

Philosophically, Headlee could never stand still for the state mandating that local governments deliver inferior services in spite of the wishes of the people.

And so Headlee included in his amendment a very logical provision, given his belief in local control. Headlee allows governmental units to maintain the same operating millage when the tax base grows faster than inflation — if the people give their sanction at the voting place.

BEFORE THE Headlee Amendment was approved by voters in 1978, school districts and municipalities were able to receive higher operating income without increasing millage and without a vote of the people.

Whenever inflation increased real estate prices, governmental units could increase their revenues even as their tax rates remained level.

Aim of the Headlee Amendment was to ensure that governmental units could not benefit inflation-driven increases in property valuations. The Headlee proposal, approved in 1978, provided that operating millage would have to be reduced whenever the tax base (state equalized value) increased by more than the cost-of-living.

That's the gist of Headlee. A complicated formula determines if and by how much millage should be reduced, but the purpose was clear.

There was one important exception, however.

RICHARD HEADLEE, author of the amendment, strongly believes in local choice.

Philosophically, Headlee could never stand still for the state's mandating that local governments deliver inferior services in spite of the wishes of the people.

And so the Headlee Amendment contained a provision entirely consistent with his belief in local control. It allows governmental units to maintain the same operating millage when the tax base grows faster than inflation — if voters give their sanction.

To Headlee, and to us, the people's right to decide through ballot issues involving local services is pretty basic. And so Headlee, in the very first section of Article 9 of the Michigan Constitution, states: "Property taxes and other local taxes and state taxation and spending may not be increased above the limitations specified herein without direct voter approval" (italics added).

(For the record, in recent months Headlee has publicly supported "no" votes on ballot proposals to collect the authorized levy. Headlee reacted favorably to the Plymouth-Canton defeat in February and a similar defeat last week in Waterford).

WHAT PLYMOUTH-CANTON seeks on June 8 is exactly what Richard Headlee provided for and, in fact, believes in deeply.

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education simply is allowing residents of Canton and Plymouth to vote on the operating millage.

This year's inflation rate of 1.9 percent is the lowest in 22 years. For Plymouth-Canton, the tax base will increase by 8.6 percent. The administration estimates the district stands to lose $920,000 in revenue if it is forced to roll back its tax rate by 0.76 mills (76 cents per $1,000 of SEV).

Information on the merits will be presented to voters in the weeks to come. The Observer does, however, support the issue being placed on the ballot. Local control and Headlee both support the people's having a right to that choice. It is well that the people decide.

FIRST LADY AWARD

Viewing history a different way

Steve Barnaby

OK, OK, so I did sneak out of town for a bit to enjoy the wonders of southern California. You really can't blame a guy for trying to hurry up spring a bit.

You may have noticed that these 12 inches were occupied by colleague Catherine Trainor who provided you with some very worthwhile reading.

I thought Catherine to be an appropriate person to sit beside the Crackerbarrel and regale you with some fresh thinking. You see, she and I are sort of political soul mates.

Besides, Catherine always, always reminds me that the problem with our editorial pages is that they are full of white, middle-aged men. A woman's view was absent.

She's correct and I hope you'll be seeing more of Catherine in the future.

ACTUALLY, IT'S quite common to see the two of us shaking fingers at one another in the middle of the newsroom, voices raised and generally being disagreeable over some issue or other. Despite the fact that we are somewhat in political synchronization, we enjoy challenging each other.

But that's the way of us left wing, New Dealer types. We love to disagree, particularly with each other.

But recently, during a computer breakdown, Catherine and I found ourselves in an unusual moment of agreement as we mused over the wonders of Washington, D.C. For purposes of this column you should know that Catherine is vacationing in the nation's capital with her children soon.

We shared our fascination with being able to see the historical documents stored in mighty concrete vaults. In case you are unaware, the original Declaration and Constitution are among many of the documents on view in D.C.

It's like watching history come alive to see the signatures of Benjamin Franklin, Alexander Hamilton and other founding fathers right before your eyes. Some of the documents have been folded and creased, perhaps stuck in a pocket of Thomas Jefferson and John Hancock at one time or another.

But wait. All guys, Catherine. Something ought to be done.

Our state's first lady, Paula Blanchard, has a great idea to remedy viewing history from an all-male standpoint. On this 150th birthday of our state we have a chance to preserve some of our history as seen through the contributions of women.

She is sponsoring a competition to name 150 Michigan First Ladies. Their stories will be published and distributed to Michigan schools and libraries as a lasting record.

That way in the future young women will be able to look back and see some role models of their own. Not just men. Good idea. Dare I ask? What do you think, Catherine?

To get an entry form and a copy of the rules, write to the Michigan Women's Commission, 611 Ottawa St., P.O. Box 30026, Lansing, Mich. 489089.

Some hopefuls fail test

NINE RESIDENTS are running for election to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education June 8.

In evaluating their qualifications for office, the Observer Newspapers examines how well the candidates do in voting in local school elections. We consider voting a minimal qualification of citizenship and a minimum qualification to hold public office.

Voting is so easy that we view the practice as an indicator of commitment to community. Anyone who doesn't have time to vote certainly lacks time to serve on the school board. Anyone who cares so little about the community that he or she doesn't vote certainly does not care enough to deserve a seat of service on the board.

If a candidate is not committed enough to the community, or concerned enough about education, to vote in school elections then we doubt if the candidate has the concern and commitment needed to serve on the school board.

Following is the record of the nine candidates in voting in Plymouth-Canton school elections:

- Chris A. Robison of Canton has never voted. Seven school elections have been held since Robison registered Jan. 25, 1983.
- Brenda E. Anderson of Canton has never voted. Two school elections have been held since she registered Jan. 3, 1986.
- Robert E. Anderson Jr. of Canton, has never voted. Two school elections have been held since he registered May 15, 1986.
- Mary P. Dahn of Canton has never voted. She registered Oct. 31, 1986 and did not vote in the February 1987 election.
- Barbara G. Graham of Plymouth has voted three times in the 13 school elections held since she registered Oct. 2, 1979 — a turnout of 23 percent.
- William L. Brown of Plymouth has voted 12 times in the 24 elections held since registering Aug. 28, 1973 — a turnout of 50 percent. Brown first voted Jan. 18, 1979, and has voted in 80 percent of the 15 elections held since then.
- Roland J. Thomas Jr. of Plymouth, has voted in 15 of the 17 school elections held since registering Feb. 10, 1978 — a record of 88 percent.
- Nancy A. Quinn of Plymouth has voted in 23 of the 26 school elections held since registering Dec. 28, 1971 — 88 percent.
- Dean Swartzwelter of Plymouth has voted in 16 of the 17 school elections held since registering Aug. 26, 1977 — a 94 percent voter performance.

Let the record speak for itself.

Porn reflects way we treat sex in U.S.

Rich Perlberg

THREE WOMEN, PROPER but not fastidiously so, sat in a suburban Methodist church office. Slowly, steadily, they pulled from their shopping bags a cache of dirty magazines.

We're not talking Playboy, mind you. We're talking hard core. Whips and chains. Bondage. Degradation. Rape. Group sex. Incest. Even child porn.

Paper clips, red-lined circles, and dog-eared pages made it easy to find whatever abhorrent and kinky sexual acts you could imagine. And some you couldn't imagine.

The women spread the most offensive pages before me. "What do you think of those?" they asked.

IT IS A lot easier to defend the First Amendment when the work in question is "Catcher in the Rye", "Madame Bovary" or even Playboy. It's a lot tougher when the work is disgusting pornography and mothers are wondering why it is displayed in corner drug stores, beneath our noses but right at eye level for students at the nearby junior high school.

The works of James Joyce should flourish. But what about the scum of Larry Flynt (Hustler) and Bob Guccione (Penthouse)? The women thought a distinction should be made. The U.S. Supreme Court agrees with them.

For some time, the Supreme Court has said that material could be called obscene, and therefore unworthy of First Amendment protection, if 1) it portrayed graphic sex, 2) it appeals to prurient interests and 3) it contains no literary value.

Those who favor anti-pornography laws say the Supreme Court standard is objective and clearly defined. They particularly like subsequent court rulings that say the graphic sex and prurient interest criteria are to be measured by community standards. They are hoping for a similar ruling on the literary value issue.

In the extreme, such a ruling could give censoring rights to small factions of the nation. National publications might have to gear their contents to meet the community standards of backwater towns.

But it is a First Amendment issue. The Constitution does not limit freedom of speech to worthwhile subjects. Nor, Ed Meese's minions to the contrary, is there reason to believe that pornography causes sex crimes. It is more likely that pornography is a reflection of the way we treat sex in this country.

I leave you with the words of a Methodist minister who, while vigorously campaigning to rid his town of Hustlers and Forums, realized that the real struggle lay in another direction.

"We have to change our attitudes about sex," he said. "A starving man does not crave pictures or stories of food. Why does a man turn to magazines for sexual fulfillment?"

Road hogs command the supermarket aisles

Fred DeLano

Permit me to suggest, if you please, a new theory regarding that fabled bull in a china shop: To wit, it's obvious the poor beast must have been frightened by the sight of a matron thoughtlessly stalling traffic while standing midaisle behind a shopping cart.

Not for several decades have I heard the expression "road hogs." However, the weekly social outing wherein I so meekly tip my cap to the ladies of the community as I strive to reach across their blocking bosoms for a can of soup convinces me of the need for supermarket aisle dividers and blinking lights.

The irritations these inconsiderate buggy pushers stimulate by stopping a) to see if they have the correct discount coupons, or b) to double check this store's price against the one down the street, or c) to compare progress of little Gertie's piano lessons against little Ike's conquest of the violin next door drive me insane.

It isn't that I don't enjoy people watching, be it in supermarkets, airports, hotel lobbies or courtrooms.

FOR MANY YEARS I declined Mother Goose's invitation to play follow-the-leader through Hudson's, Jacobson's, grocery stores et al and sought a perch to watch humans in never ending variety as they marched by.

Then recently, I took it upon myself to organize our needs into proper lists so I could navigate aisle by aisle in disciplined fashion with specific targets in mind. Alas, I sense I have entered a house of horrors peopled by females trained to take umbrage at the slightest hint of hostility . . . and then they stop to write a check!

Actually, the original intent of this column was to quote a letter from the ombudsman of the City of Detroit, Marie D. Farrell-Donaldson, and to praise her publicly for her sense of humor.

Devout students of bifocals will recall that on March 19, I questioned whether she is qualified for her role in government because, in my opinion, a statement attributed to her in the Free Press reeked of "ill-informed, opinionated prejudice."

Marie F-D had been asked what she liked least about the opposite sex and replied, "I don't like the fact that when they're lost on a trip they will never, ever stop and ask directions. They will drive for hours and hours and refuse to acknowledge the fact that they're lost."

MY TOTALLY successful rebuttal, albeit with tongue in cheek, was based upon the contention that being temporarily misplaced in quest of adventure cannot be defined as being "lost" per se. Thus her typically feminine judgment was out of place.

Now in writing, if you please, she has admitted to "laughing all the way" when she read the column and calls it "extremely amusing," adding that she "enjoyed it immensely."

Marie F-D, that was doggone nice of you, but why did you add, "It's amazing how men, when they are wrong, refuse to admit the fact?"

There's one other small bone to pick and it relates to a confusion in identities. Readers may have forgotten, but I asked Marie F-D where I should go when I got to Woodward and the river and couldn't find the City-County Building where she is headquartered.

"As for where you should go, I suggest straight ahead," she wrote ever so smilingly and politely.

I DOUBT if Marie F-D is old enough to remember what a pleasant voyage it was when we could cross the Detroit River to Windsor by ferry boat, so perhaps she has been misled to believe I am an Olympic swimmer. The only alternative would be that I can walk on water.

My goodness, when one works long enough for Mayor Coleman Young maybe any dream is possible.

An emcee's lip- bone misses the brain-bone hookup

Roy Denial

BRAIN BONE/LIP BONE: Recently in the cool, pre-dawn darkness of early morning when I am lying in my trundle bed silently debating the advisability of reaching over to catch the alarm before it rings, I am remembering that I have another speaking engagement on my calendar for the next week. Normally not a prospect that bothers me. But after more than a few such engagements of late, I am being informed of things said by my lips that were not cleared with central HQ of the brain before being released to the general public. So with this problem in mind, and asking advice and compassion, I am meeting with my old friend, Eddie. As president of a local service club, certainly he should have insight into the problem greater than somewhat.

As Eddie and I, ensconced in our booth, endeavor to bite into a couple of tacos before they bite us, he is dismissing my concern.

"Not to worry," he is saying. "Audiences are much more forgiving than I ever imagined. I'll never forget a guy, name of J. Sam, who first spoke to our group a number of years back. At the time his reputation as a master of ceremonies exceeded most-you'd find this side of Timbuktu. He was always being called on for speaking engagements."

Eddie put down his taco for a moment. "I was the brand-new program chairman the first time our club had him. And as the evening progressed, I became increasingly convinced that program chairman was probably the highest office I'd ever attain in the club. I had lined up the wrong speaker. This J. Sam was proving to be a classic example of the lip-bone not being connected to the brain-bone. And this at our annual Dinner-Dance, with several tables of public officials and other visitors on hand . . ."

J. Sam (rising and slowly surveying the assembled crowd of husbands and wives): "I want to thank your officers for inviting me to act as MC for this important event. But from the looks of this crowd, you don't need an MC. After all, I've been married once, so I could hardly be considered an expert Marriage Counselor."

Eddie: (in a whisper): "They don't mean that kind of MC."

J. Sam: "In fact, someone who had been married frequently would have a deeper reservoir of experience from which to draw."

Eddie: "And they don't need somebody who can draw."

J. Sam: (turning toward the program chairman): "I do appreciate the briefing Eddie has been giving me. Now I understand much better. (pause for a drink of water). You don't want Marriage Counseling (MC). And you don't need Artistic Counseling (AC). Well, how about DC, Divorce Counseling?"

Eddie: (gets up from his chair and, putting his arm about J. Sam's shoulder, whispers): "We have with us tonight the president of a national therapy organization and his party. Would you introduce them?"

J. Sam: "They don't know each other?"

Eddie: (back in his seat and scribbling feverishly on a memo pad, he speaks to J. Sam through clenched teeth and a broad smile): "Mr. Sprecker and his family are at the far left table. Just ask them to stand, read names off this slip of paper and we'll all applaud."

J. Sam: "Oh yes, Mr. Sprecker, would you stand? Your national organization, Partners Without Principles . . ."

Eddie: "That's Parents Without Partners."

J. Sam: "Sorry, make it Parents Without Privileges."

Eddie: "Partners! Partners!"

J. Sam: "That's Partners Without Parents, and Mr. Sprecker is president. . . ."

Eddie: "He's not president. It's his father who's president. Mr. Sprecker Sr. Ask him to stand."

J. Sam: "Forgive me, Mr. Sprecker. I'm afraid I've said all those nice things about you and they're not true. Would you ask your father to stand up also?"

Eddie: "And the ladies?"

J. Sam: "Capital idea. Let's have all the ladies stand."

Eddie: "Not all the ladies!"

J. Sam: "Better yet, let's only have some stand. All those who are not ladies, please sit down."

Eddie: (again rising to clasp J. Sam about the shoulders. Somehow Eddie's reach is over-extended and his hand manages to cover J. Sam's mouth): "Would everyone please resume their seats once more?" (whispering to J. Sam) "Let's try to get Mr. Sprecker and his party introduced before it's time to go home!"

J. Sam: "Mr. Dave Sprecker Sr., we want to take this occasion to recognize the many years you have served as head of your organization."

Eddie: "He was just elected last month."

J. Sam: "Or maybe it just seems that long. Would the other members of your party please stand? At this time I'd like to introduce our honored guests, Mr. Dave Sprecker Sr., Mr. Dave Sprecker Jr., and their respectable wives."

Eddie: "Not respectable wives."

J. Sam: ". . . and their unrespectable wives? (Some laughing. Some screaming.) "Respectful wives?" (looking at Eddie, whose head is now buried in his hands.) "Prospectives wives?"

Procession recalls day in Jerusalem

By Julie Brown
staff writer

WORSHIPERS AT the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth didn't have the most routine of church services last Sunday.

Services at the church included a Palm Sunday procession. The worshipers walked from the church to Plymouth's Kellogg Park after each of Sunday's two services.

This is the fourth year for the Palm Sunday procession at the First Presbyterian Church. Those involved in the procession were pleased with its success.

"It was wonderful," Sandy Shelton, Christian education director at the church, said Monday morning. "We're still floating over here this morning."

The procession has been held each year to make members of the congregation and community more aware of the significance of Palm Sunday and the Easter season.

"I thought it would make Palm Sunday more meaningful to the children," Shelton said.

THE PROCESSION is also intended to "make the community aware of the true meaning of this season. That's what we're really trying to do.

"Again, it's a reminder to us of Christ's joyous entrance into Jerusalem."

Sam the donkey was one of the stars of the procession. The donkey's owner, Barbara Wiskowski, was at the services to make sure Sam behaved.

"He was adorable," Shelton said. "He was a perfect gentleman, shall we say. He's an old pro now."

Those at the church paid $80 for Sam's participation in the two services. Sam has been in the Palm Sunday procession each year it's been held.

"So Sam has become our traditional donkey. He's been here every year. He should know the route pretty well."

It took a bit of looking to find a donkey for the procession that first year.

"We looked high and low for a donkey the first year," Shelton said. "It was just hilarious."

The donkey hasn't been limited to Palm Sunday performances at the church. Sam has also come to vacation Bible school.

"So the children know him quite well."

The first Sunday morning service at the church included a Palm Sunday portrayal inside the church building. Tom Hinks did the directing for the portrayal and James Hull handled the technical details.

THE SECOND service at the First Presbyterian Church included a sermon.

The Rev. Mark Morningstar, assistant minister at the church, led the services in Kellogg Park. There were approximately 200 worshipers at the first service and about 100 at the second service, Shelton said.

"We had to make sure everybody had a chance to experience that."

Crystal Boyd and Patty Neu assisted Shelton with the work that went into the Palm Sunday procession.

The Rev. Mark Morningstar speaks to those gathered in Plymouth's Kellogg Park.

Lara Karam rides on Sam the donkey during the procession. Her father, Richard Karam, plays Jesus. The donkey was too small for an adult rider.

Procession leads to park

"You know, you get nervous," Boyd said. Things went just fine for the Palm Sunday procession, however, much to the relief of those involved.

"Everything just blended perfectly," said Boyd, a Canton resident who teaches geography at Schoolcraft College. "When the sun came out, that was the capper."

The weather cooperated for the Palm Sunday services.

"When I woke up, it was pouring rain," Shelton said. The rain stopped, however, in time for the outdoor portion of the first service. It did rain a bit for the outdoor portion of the second service.

"It still worked out pretty well," Boyd said. "It was only kind of sprinkling."

CHURCH MEMBER Richard Karam played the role of Jesus. Karam has also played that role for vacation Bible school at the church.

At each of Sunday's services, a child rode Sam the donkey to the park. Children who participated in the services were encouraged to wear shepherd costumes.

The Palm Sunday procession was a good learning experience for the children, Shelton said.

"It was very meaningful. I don't think they'll forget that one for a long time."

Laurie Anne Homann
young career woman winner

Homann named BPW honoree

Laurie Anne Homann has been named Young Career Woman of 1987 by District 9 of the Business and Professional Women's Organization.

Homann, 25, is the Wayne County program director for the American Cancer Society. She was selected Saturday from among three other woman at the District 9 spring meeting in Farmington Hills.

District 9 covers BPW organizations from eight communities including Garden City, Canton, Plymouth, Farmington and Detroit.

THE BPW program honors young career woman who have excelled in their field. Homann who was selected as the Garden City BPW Young Career Woman in February will now participate in the state program May 15-17 in Battle Creek.

Also participating in the program were Janet Webley, director of operations for the Community Federal Credit Union in Plymouth; Maria Holmes, community affairs and program director for Omnicom of Michigan, and Shawn McGee, an executive speech writer at Michigan Bell Telphone Co. Webley, who lives in Northville, represented the Canton BPW. Holmes, an Ypsilanti resident, represented the Plymouth club while McGee, who lives in Detroit, was sponsored by the Detroit Business Women's Club.

HOMANN, a graduate of West High School in Garden City, has worked at the Cancer Society's Garden City office since last March.

Among her accomplishments as county program director, Homann has helped triple the educational services and health awareness programming offered by the Cancer Society.

She also played a role in helping the group save $70,000 in annual equipment costs in 1986.

Homann shares the BPW philosphy of equality in the work place. In addition, she said the group provides a support system for herself and other young professionals.

BPW is an organization of women and men dedicated to advancing the status of all working women.

Homann said the young career woman program made her think about being a woman in America and pursuring a career.

"Three thing come to mind. The opportunity, the opportunity costs and the problems associated with those opportunities," said Homann, in her speech before BPW members.

Homann has worked full-time while finishing her undergraduate studies at Eastern Michigan University. She will graduate this spring with a bachelor's of science degree in health administration.

Homann will complete her last final for this semester on Friday, April 24. The next day, she plans to be married and then leave for a week-long honeymoon in California. In September, it's back to school when she starts work on a master's in business administration at EMU.

Judges for the young career woman program were Ginger Dery, presentation consultant and president of Dery & Associates in Birmingham; Peg Hoblack, state BPW public relations chairwoman and an analyst at Ford Motor Co.; and Dr. Vern Ramirez, dean of student development at GMI Engineering and Management Institute.

A mid-July wedding is planned at the Church of the Holy Spirit in Livonia.

Gaston-Herron

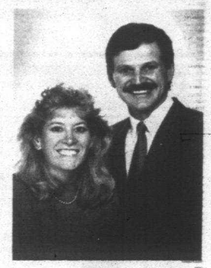
Julie Ann Gaston of Garden City and Ronald Neal Herron of Plymouth plan a May wedding at St. Matthew Lutheran Church in Westland.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gaston of Garden City. He is the son of Mrs. Betty Cunningham of Plymouth and Joseph Herron of Daytona Beach, Fla.

The bride-to-be is a 1979 graduate of Garden City West High School and received a degree in computer programming from Schoolcraft College in Livonia. She is employed as a field sales agent with the Automobile Club of America in Northville.

Her fiance is a 1975 graduate of Livonia Franklin High School and will graduate from Schoolcraft College in May. He is employed as a chef at Red Timbers Restaurant in Novi.

McClain-Champion



Ralph and Nancy Milanowski of Allendale, Mich., announce the engagement of their daughter, Tina L. McClain of Grand Rapids, to David S. Champion of Wyoming, Mich. son of Robert D. and Phyllis Champion of Canton.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Allendale High School. She is also a graduate of the dental assistant program at Grand Rapids Junior College.

Her fiance is a graduate of Plymouth Salem High School and of Grand Valley State College.

A late September wedding is planned in Grand Rapids.

Our games teach the wrong lesson

The name of the game is quite simple. 'Do unto them before they do unto you.'

IF IT WAS not all part of a long, sad tale, the latest chapter in the international fun game would be nothing short of humorous. The name of the game is quite simple. "Do unto them before they do unto you."

It isn't any secret that we have both been doing unto each other for quite some time. It has been so long that some would suggest that God picked the sides.

Part of our doing unto one another has been in the field of espionage and now we stand aghast. How dare they bug our embassy! To listen to our own government talk of it, one would think that we have been spectators through it all.

The fact that we have in the past bugged the car phone of the Russian ambassador doesn't come up in our public complaint sessions. That we set him up for the same sex-for-secrets game played by our Marines in Moscow is also left out of the conversation.

WE MAKE it sound as though the whole thing is nothing more than one big game of chess. We don't like it when they jump our men when we aren't watching.

If for one minute anyone believes that we don't do the same thing every chance we get, I would like to meet the person — I have a bridge in Zilwaukee that he or she might be interested in buying.

The issue here is really not Marines or Russian women. It is not about bugs and surveilance. And it is much larger than who broke what rules in a game in which most of the world's people are no more than the pawns.

Finger pointing is a game that little boys and girls learn at a very early age. Doing unto others before they do unto you is a line of reasoning practiced even in preschool gatherings.

The problem is that while we slap their fingers when they play such games, we show them in the dog-eat-dog world of adulthood that they have it right after all.

It has been said that in many areas of life the public sector will never provide adequate education for our children. It would seem that education concerning relationships between nations falls into that arena.

It becomes more and more obvious that government leaders in most countries — and our own is a blatant non-exception — have made their line well known.

IT IS SIMPLE: They are wrong, we are right and that is why we must do unto them before they do unto us. If our children are ever to learn a different approach to life it will have to be from us.

Not that many years from now, today's children will be sitting in halls of Congress. They will be the ambassadors and the embassy personnel around the globe. He or she from among their number will occupy the White House or will advise the one who does. Will they know a game any different than being played today?

Maybe we need to talk openly with our children about more than their personal lives. Perhaps part of that something more needs to be in the arena of foreign policy values.

And it might be that they have a right to hear at least as much about love and understanding in this arena as they do about the "kill a Commie for Christ" routine.

We might even want to ask them what they think about our games. Regardless of their response, it might give us a clue as to what we need to teach them.

The Rev. Robert Schaden is with the Newman House at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

Our Constitution protects buyers

Terry Gibb

IN THE spirit of the Bicentennial of our U.S. Constitution, the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs has entitled the National Consumer Week, April 19-25. It's called "Consumers Celebrate the Constitution."

The focus is on the rights and freedoms we enjoy as consumers in the American marketplace and the important role we play as buyers in an economic system based on the freedom to produce and purchase.

Article I of the Constitution recognized a free enterprise system by establishing common currency, standard weights and measures, reliable legal procedures and interstate and international trade. It provided the incentive for the invention of the new products through patents and trademarks and paved the way for a national postal system.

These same provisions are still working for consumers and businesses 200 years later.

THIS IS AN ideal time to reemphasize the Consumers Bill of Rights adopted by President Kennedy and endorsed by each succeeding President.

- The right to choose — to be assured, wherever possible, access to a variety of product and services at competitive prices.
- The right to information — to be protected against fraudulent, deceitful or misleading information, and to be given the facts to make an informed choice.
- The right to safety — to be protected against the marketing of goods that are hazardous to health or life.
- The right to be heard — to be assured that consumer interests will receive fair consideration in the formation of government policy.
- The right to consumer education — to be given information about each consumer's rights and responsibilities, so that each individual can participate completely in the marketplace.

EACH PURCHASING decision you make is a vote — for one product over another or no product. Do not make the choice lightly or abdicate the decision to others.

Consumer education is a lifetime process in our fast-paced society. National Consumers Week has been established to focus attention on consumers — you — as the hub of our economy. Celebrate National Consumers Week all year round by making responsible, informed choices when making a purchase.

ECO-TIP: One of Concern's goals is "to educate consumers so that they can make thoughtful choices for their own well-being and for the protection of the environment. Concern is offering a free fact sheet "Smart Shopping." To get a free copy send a self addressed, stamped envelope to the address below.

Weight loss brings poor humor

A. Jolayne Farrell

Dear Jo:

To decrease the pain due to arthritis in my knees, I would like to lose 50 pounds. I know I can do it as I have lost weight before.

The thing I am dreading the most is the poor humor I experience when I am dieting. I am 64 years old and would like to look and feel better. What would you suggest?

Mrs. D.W., Western Reader

Dear Mrs. W.:

My suggestion is that you have a complete medical exam and state your intention of losing weight to your doctor.

Then find a reputable weight reduction clinic in your city. The best ones are those that incorporate proper diet, behavior modification, exercise and group therapy.

Commit yourself to this major self-help project and in time you will be slimmer, and hopefully find that the pain in your knees has decreased.

New evidence brought to light by Rena R. Wing, Ph.D., assistant professor of psychiatry and epidemiology at the University of Pittsburgh, suggests that poor humor and irritability may not be inevitable side effects of losing weight.

After conducting a series of studies to measure the effects of dieting on mood, she found that people on a moderate calorie-restricted diet (1,200 calories a day for women, 1,500 calories for men), combined with behavior modification and exercise, felt happier and less anxious than before they started the program.

The study suggests a relationship between success with the weight loss program and an elevated mood. Dr. Wing stated there may be a number of reasons for a positive mood swing, particularly exercise.

So, Mrs. W., please note the results of Dr. Wing's studies and don't let your fear of poor humor interfere with your goal of losing weight. Good luck!

Dignity of work reflected in industrial, office parks

By Carolyn Carman
special writer

Industrial and office park developments increased dramatically in the past few years, changing the face of the workplace.

The Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce reports a 30 percent increase in the number of parks developed in 1986 over 1985, and it appears the trend will continue.

Mark C. Wanich III of Ticor Title Insurance Co., Birmingham, the newly elected president of the Michigan Chapter of the National Association of Industrial and Office Parks, says the outlook for more parks in Michigan is positive.

"Industrial and office parks are attractive, make good neighbors to communities and fit in well with the topography," Wanich said. "It is an enlightened way to display the workplace that we are now in."

NAIOP is a non-profit organization representing more than 6,000 professionals involved with developing, planning, designing, constructing, financing and managing industrial and office parks.

The association has 66 chapters in the U.S. and Canada and members in seven countries. Nationally the organization is involved in education of the developers on current trends and practices in building and land use along with legislative and public affairs involvement.

"Locally, our direction has been education," Wanich said. "We have focused on breakfast meetings and seminars that featured speakers who could offer an educational benefit to the development community. We are trying to give developers the information necesary to build the best product they can."

Wanich of Troy says there are 31 members on the Michigan NAIOP chapter, mostly from the Wayne and Oakland County area, but the chapter is asking people throughout the state to become involved.

MEMBERS OF the Michigan Chapter of NAIOP include some well-known developers and development organizations including Damone/Andrew, developer of Robbins Executive Park West in Troy, consisting of one million square feet of development. The park hosts the Saturn Corp. headquarters, the automobile headquarters of E.I. DuPont and the headquarters of GTE-Valeron Corp.

Oakland Technology Park, an 1,800-acre development in Auburn Hills, was a joint venture between member Schostak Brothers and Comerica Bank. Tenants include EDS, the UAW, Comerica and GMF Robotics. It is also the future home of the Chrysler Tech Center.

Another NAIOP member, Giffels-Webster Engineering, handled the site engineering of the Oakland Tech development.

"These types of developments are the future for Michigan," Wanich said. "As the industrial base built in the 1920s, '30s, '40s and '50s is replaced, it is moving to well-planned developments that offer access to good transportation, housing and a more pleasant environment."

NAIOP's slogan is "Building a Better Workplace for America." Wanich finds it particularly fitting for Michigan.

"Michigan is building and rebuilding its workplace," he said. "A transformation is taking place, industrial to service, older industrial to newer, more efficient facilities, shaping the way Michigan and our nation will look in the 1990s and beyond."

THE AREAS OF fastest growth for industrial and office parks in the metropolitan Detroit area are the I-275 and M-59 corridors.

The Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce reports 91 communities in southeast Michigan have at least one industrial park. Livonia has the most with 31; Troy is second with 15.

Wanich predicts the days of building "industrial slums" are gone, regardless of the need for work space, partly because of regulations and concern about the environment, but mostly because people have come to expect a workplace that is dignified.

"In the rebuilding of the workplace going on in Michigan, the quality is significant," he said.

Industrial and office parks will become even more diversified in the future, Wanich said. Originally industrial parks were large parcels of land with roads, sewers and uniform buildings or warehouses.

"Now the evolution is more toward lots that look like Oakland Tech park, rolling hills with mostly offices," he said. "And that has evolved into the thought that if you are going to put a lot of offices and people into a park, they have to eat and will want to shop so it will become more of a self-contained environment."

Wanich moved to Michigan from southern California three years ago and lives in Troy with his wife and three children.

Mark Wanich: "Industrial and office parks are attractive, make good neighbors to communities and fit in well with the topography. It is an enlightened way to display the workplace that we are now in."

Building pace not as brisk

Although the pace of residential housing construction in southeast Michigan continues to improve following four straight years of increased building activity since the recession bottomed out in 1982, that pace is not being kept in Wayne and Oakland counties.

But although Oakland County had a slight decrease in permits issued in 1986 compared to 1985, it still led the region's seven counties in both single family permits with 5,463 permits, and multiple family permits with 4,543 or 39 percent of the region's multiple family permits issued.

Wayne County issued 3,336 permits in 1986, a 2-percent drop from 1985 figures, according to figures compiled by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

Clinton Township led all communities in the region in total permits issued with 1,747. It also led the region in the number of mulitple family construction issuing 1,292 permits. For the eighth consecutive year, Rochester Hills issued the most single-family permits of any community in the region — 938.

Five communities, with more than 1,000 permits each, issued about 32 percent of the total region's permits. In addition to Clinton Township, they included Sterling Heights, 1,713; Rochester Hills, 1,430, Farmington Hills, 1,345; and West Bloomfield, 1,367.

THE 1986 figures reflect a changing growth pattern with Macomb County pushing ahead of Oakland County as the top growth area in the region. Of all counties in the region, Macomb had the biggest increase in number of permits issued with 2,171 more in 1986 over 1985.

In 1985, Farmington Hills led the region in total new dwellings with 2,425 and in two-family and multiple-family units with 1,778. In 1986, it fell to fifth place based on total units and fourth place in the two-family and multiples category.

Southfield fell out of the top 10 in 1986 in total dwellings. In 1985, it was fifth. And it fell from second to sixth in two-family and multiples.

The only Oakland community in the top 10 in 1985 to record more total permits in 1986 was West Bloomfield with 1,367 compared to 957. The township also raised its two-family and multiple-structure permits from 655 to 869.

In Wayne County, the growth leaders are Livonia with 764 permits and Northville Township with 660. They ranked seventh and ninth, respectively.

But Livonia failed to make the top 10 in two-family and multiple-family permits. Northville Township was seventh with 496 two-family and multiple-family permits.

Neither community placed in the top 10 in either category in 1985. Canton Township, which was seventh in total permits and sixth in multiple in 1985 did not place in the top 10 in 1986.

In addition to Wayne and Oakland, the region includes Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Washtenaw and St. Clair counties. SEMCOG is a voluntary association of counties, cities, villages, townships, intermediate school districts and community colleges in the southeast Michigan region.

Its principal functions are short- and long-term planning for housing, transportation, land use, public safety, recreation and open space, economic development and the environment.

Technology permits home detention

By Pat Walsh
special writer

A Florida firm can thank an Oakland County district court judge for helping to make electronic monitoring of non-violent offenders a success in the state.

Last month the 29th District Court in Wayne became the eighth district court in the state to offer ON GUARD, developed by Digital Products Corp. of Fort Lauderdale.

Michael Denton, marketing manager of Michigan Digital Surveillance Systems of Birmingham, the local licensee for Digital products, traced the development of ON GUARD from voice-activated phone callers and technology that had been waiting to be utilized.

Ten years ago Digital pioneered the technology for robot telephone callers, such as the voice-activated equipment used by Sears which is capable of giving a message and accepting a response.

"About three years ago," said Denton, "the state of Florida came to them (Digital Products) and said, 'Hey, we hear you have this technology, and we have an intensive supervision program (probation with 10 to 15 contacts per week with a probation officer).' What they wanted to do was augment that surveillance program with phone calls. So they started usifig the technology. And they were very happy with it."

But Florida said it would be even happier if two problems could be addressed. First, the program was labor intensive, and secondly, there was no way to verify the voice of the offender.

Each day, a state employee had to place the phone numbers into a machine which could dial the numbers only once. The solution, developed in 1985, was a menu-driven computer program that could randomly make calls within a defined period of time.

THE SECOND problem, that of voice verification, was solved with a bit more serendipity. Digital Products also developed a coin acceptance machine and had some related technology that could verify identification between two units.

Voice verification was replaced with a physical verification between a key and a matched box. The key is attached to a bracelet worn by the offender, and the electronic box plugged into the phone, creating the technology for the "electronic handshake."

The completed package — random caller, electronic verification with voice backup — was completed in February of 1986.

There are now 26 systems operating nationwide including one substance abuse program with the Flint Department of Corrections.

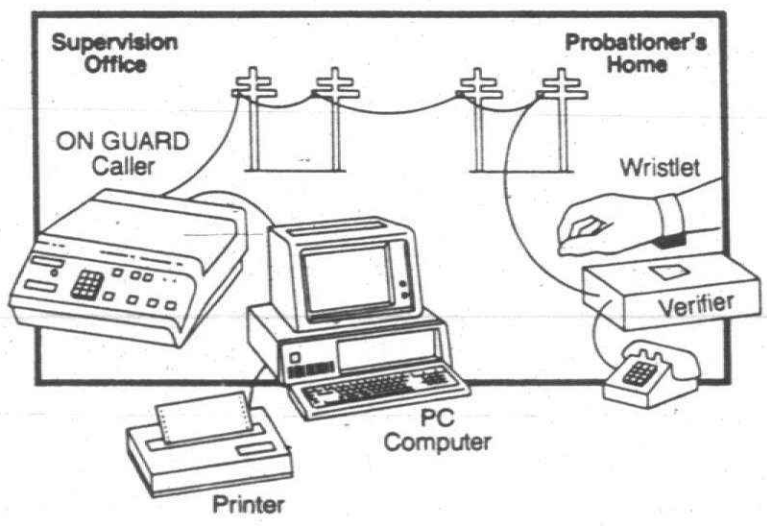
When the computer phones, the offender has a certain amount of time to reply, state his name and the time, then plug his bracelet into the verifier.

TO MAKE the package sell in Michigan's smaller district courts, 48th District Court Judge Bernard Friedman suggested another modification.

According to Denton, Friedman told him smaller courts would never use a complete system. "You put the sytem in. You do the monitoring and report the results to my probation officers," Denton was told.

It takes Denton about 40 minutes every morning to listen to the tape and compare it to the computer printout of calls in order to monitor as many as 56 offenders. Incompleted calls are flagged, and the appropriate probation officer contacted. A visual inspection of the riveted bracelet is made weekly by the probation officer.

ON GUARD's competition uses radio frequency technology to accomplish the monitoring. "It has inherent problems such as interference, dead signals, what they call false negatives and false positives. There are so many taxis that a city like New York won't even look at radio frequency," Denton said.



When the computer phones, the offender has a certain amount of time to reply, state his name and the time, then plug his bracelet into the verifier.

"It's also a lot more complicated. Radio frequency uses battery-operated units with a receiver hooked up to the telephone which monitors the offender within a radius of 150 to 300 feet. You have more sensitive equipment, down time and battery replacement costs. They're more expensive to use."

MIGHIGAN DIGITAL charges $4 per day to monitor an individual. A day in jail costs about $65. The system often is free to the courts because the offenders pay the fee.

In most district courts, drinking and driving-related offenses are what prompt judges to seek an alternative to jail, subsequent job loss and erosion of family life.

"There are people who, other than their drinking problem, contribute to society on a daily basis," said David Wiacek, 35th District Court administrator in Westland. "They are working. They have a family to support. They welcome the alternative to continue with their life without having to go to jail."

Local probation offers suggest that ON GUARD encourages individuals to confront their problems at home rather than running with drinking pals, forces them to break old habits and develop new ones.

SOME TECHNICAL limitations still exist. The system is not compatible with phones equipped with call forwarding or call waiting features.

Future developments include making the equipment more secure as the number of boxes in use grows and applications are increased. Each box currently mates with only one key. In the future, the computer will be able to identify which box is responding to the phone call, thus discouraging the use of stolen boxes.

Denton sees growth for the product as applications increase, including the the monitoring of juveniles who are chronic runaways. In addition to Wayne and Westland, ON GUARD is used in Bloomfield Hills, Inkster, Harper Woods, Detroit, East Detroit and Kentwood.

Government security plan brings tax-free income finances and you

Sid Mittra

Safety-conscious investors looking for reasonable growth in a world of low interest rates can take pleasure in learning about an attractive investment called ABC Government Securities Income Program (GSIP).

It provides safety with guaranteed income and offers partial liquidity to investors.

How GSIP works

Government securities are safe and liquid. However, contrary to the commonly held belief, government bonds are subject to the same types of interest rate fluctuations as are all other types of fixed income securities. And when the interest rate goes up, the market value of any fixed-income security drops.

This concerns those who depend on fixed monthly incomes and are unwilling to accept the risk of a loss of principal. In addition, many investors dislike paying taxes on the interest they receive on government securities.

GSIP addresses these concerns by putting together a tax-advantaged package that guarantees a monthly income and a return of principal. Here is how it works.

Say you want to invest $25,000 in GSIP. Your money will be invested in securities issued or guaranteed by the U.S. government, its agencies or instrumentalities.

Part of the money will accumulate tax-deferred, and you will receive the principal amount back at the end of six years (provided the interest for the sixth year remains unchanged).

In addition, each month you will receive about 1/12th of the yearly income of $1,491. Ninety percent of this monthly income will be tax-free. It is tax free because you are receiving part of your original $25,000 back. To more easily visualize what is happening, you can think of the interest, which is tax free, replacing that part of the principal you receive each month.

If you remain in a 35-percent tax bracket for six years, your annual after-tax income will be $1,439. This income will be guaranteed for six years.

Money accumulating tax-deferred is not reported as income and does not affect Social Security benefits. At the end of six years, when the principal is returned to you, you can do the same thing again, once again receive mostly non-taxable income.

If you are interested in exploring this investment, consult your financial planner who would be glad to explain to you the pros and cons of investing in this or other similar programs.

Educational Seminar: "Your Investments, Your Taxes and Tax Reform." The seminar, sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Coordinated Financial Planning Inc., will be held 7-9:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 19, at the Kingsley Inn, 1475 N. Woodward, Bloomfield Hills.

Know your customers before you set up

Mary DiPaolo

Deciding on a location-site type represents the second "level" of decision making relative to choosing the best location for a new or expanding business.

As mentioned last week, the entrepreneur must first decide on the general market area where the operation will be based (rural, small town, big city). Once this has been done, site-type selection follows.

Before investigating alternatives, the entrepreneur needs to identify the kinds of customers (target customer markets) that the business currently serves, or would like to serve, as a new business. The selection of target customer markets and location-site types are closely interrelated.

For example, a sandwich shop owner hoping to attract the white-collar lunchtime crowd would be foolish to consider a highway store as a possible site type for his business.

ON THE OTHER hand, a highway store would be one of the few locations appropriate for the gasoline station/restaurant owner looking to attract customers who are traveling long distances.

Highway stores represent one of two "free-standing location" site types available to the entrepreneur.

Freestanding locations are retail stores that depend on their own pulling power and promotion to attract customers as they are not adjacent to any other retail businesses.

Neighborhood stores are the other free-standing location choice. A neighborhood store is one in a residential neighborhood that serves that small trade area.

Besides free-standing locations, business-associated locations represent another group of retail site-type alternatives. Business-associated locations are those where groups of retail shops are clustered together and work to attract customers to the area — but also compete against one another for these customers.

Business-associated locations are classified into two distinct groups — either planned or unplanned shopping centers.

A PLANNED shopping center would include super regional centers (at least 750,000 square feet), regional centers (300,000-750,000 square feet), community shopping centers (100,000-300,000 square feet), and neighborhood shopping centers (under 100,000 square feet).

Information on local planned shopping centers by market area is available through major metropolitan newspapers upon request.

Unplanned shopping centers are comprised of five distinct store groups. These will be discussed next week along with criteria used to help select the best site type for the current or proposed retail business.

Troy company buys Chrysler's schools

The O/E Corp. of Troy, a national training company, announced that it has purchased the name and assets of the MoTech auto mechanic and body shop schools from the Chrysler Training Corp.

The purchase is effective immediately. O/E Learning will continue to operate the MoTech Automotive Education Center in Livonia and MoTech Auto-Body Repair School in Detroit.

Chrysler Training has schooled more than 8,000 students in automotive mechanics, auto body repair, welding, diesel engine repair and fork lift repair since 1973 when the first MoTech training facility opened.

DONALD A. Biermann, president of the Chrysler Training Corp., the nonprofit organization that operated the two schools, said the sale "allows Chrysler Motors to focus more closely on the needs of its employees whose skills must be kept current with its ever-changing economic and technical work environment."

Thomas A. Doonan, president of the O/E Corp., called the acquisition "a huge and valuable asset. We look forward to continuing to provide the same quality training for automotive mechanics that MoTech has provided over the years."

Under the Internal Revenue code, the proceeds from the sale of MoTech must be donated to another tax-exempt non-profit corporation.

Neither the purchase price nor the recipient of the proceeds from the sale was revealed.

Putnam High Income Government Trust... 12.29%* Current Distribution Rate

The Trust is designed to provide high current return, consistent with preservation of capital, from a portfolio of U.S. government securities and may also use options and futures strategies.

The Trust offers you:
- ☐ Free checkwriting
- ☐ Regular monthly distributions
- ☐ Active management
- ☐ Ready liquidity, at the then current net asset value which may be more or less than original cost
- ☐ Affordability

Your investment is managed by Putnam's experienced professionals and diversified to reduce risk, but share price and current distribution rate will fluctuate. 1/15/86 and 1/15/87 net asset values were $12.07 and $12.40. Future distributions may vary with market conditions. While the underlying securities are issued or guaranteed by the U.S. government or its agencies, Trust shares are not.

IRAs or GENERAL INVESTMENTS

*Current distribution rate was computed by annualizing distributions for the previous three months of $0.40 per share ($.24 from net investment income and $.16 from net realized short-term capital gains) and dividing by the maximum offering price of $13.30 on 1/15/87. Option writing limits the appreciation potential of portfolio securities. 'Evil Dead 2'
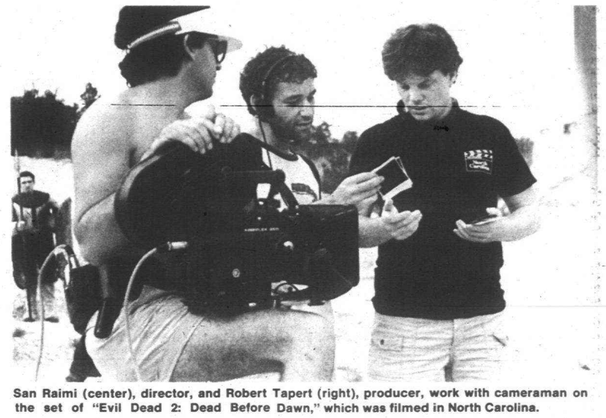
Fun is part of the gore

By Dan Greenberg
special writer



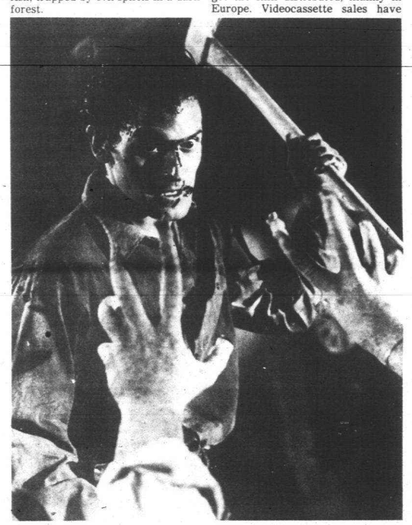
San Raimi (center), director, and Robert Tapert (right), producer, work with cameraman on the set of "Evil Dead 2: Dead Before Dawn," which was filmed in North Carolina.

THE OTHER DAY a student asked why I was ragging on TV news for its sensationalism. "After all," he said, "look what the movies routinely show. Violence is part of our lives."

Unwittingly, that student hit upon our major cultural flaw: Pain, sorrow, suffering, gore and gruesome graphic details are "entertaining." Violence has become fun, and funny.

At least it's funny if three local fellows have it their way. Sam Raimi, who directed and co-wrote "Evil Dead 2: Dead Before Dawn," intended the film to be funny. His co-producer and star, Bruce Campbell, and producer Robert Tapert agree.

All three are having fun and think their movie is funny as well, in spite of so much gore that they didn't bother to have it rated. It's a flashy, epic ghost story about a man named Ash, trapped by evil spirits in a dark forest.



Bruce Campbell stars as Ash, who has to fight against deadly forces in "Evil Dead 2." The R-rated film had its Detroit-area premiere last week and is currently playing at local theaters.

RAIMI IS A FORMER Franklin resident and graduate of Birmingham's Groves High School. He and Campbell, also a Groves graduate, joined with Tapert of Grosse Pointe Park to form Renaissance Pictures. The Ferndale company got underway a few years ago with a 30-minute Super-8 synopsis of "Evil Dead 1." They used that vehicle to raise $385,000 from local investors and produced "Evil Dead 1" in 16mm.

"That's just the first step," Raimi noted. "Then we had to get it distributed. We took it to New York and made the rounds."

"A distributor would agree to screen the picture, but we'd have to pay for the screening room. So, we'd scurry around and raise $200 before the projectionist would rack up the film," Raimi continued.

"Half the time the distributor would be gone when the lights came up — or asleep."

Tapert related how the trio finally got the film distributed, mainly in Europe. Videocassette sales have been their most successful distribution format.

In conjunction with last week's premiere of "Evil Dead 2: Dead Before Dawn," the film's three principals were in town. They appeared at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge Campus in Farmington Hills for a special edition of the cable TV show "Arts in Review."

THE WEEKLY SHOW, cablecast throughout Oakland County, is produced by students in Orchard Ridge's Broadcast Production Curriculum. "Arts in Review" features timely commentary by various faculty members, including this writer who also serves as the Observer & Eccentric film critic.

The program about the "Evil Dead" crowd — Raimi, Campbell and Tapert, — will be cablecast on all Oakland County public access channels this week.

It was particularly appropriate that this show was taped at Orchard Ridge where Raimi's younger brother, Theodore, studied. No one who knew Ted at Orchard Ridge would recognize him in his heavily made-up supporting role as the possessed creature, Henrietta, who torments Campbell in his lead role as Ash.

Another former Orchard Ridge student, Scott Spiegel, co-wrote the script with Sam Raimi.

When asked about doing his own stunts, and there are some pretty dangerous-looking one, Campbell modestly said, "You do what you have to do and hope it turns out well. A lot of what seemed difficult was the result of Sam's animation techniques."

While the technique made it look like Campbell was slamming into a tree with bone-crushing force, it involved the actor holding facial expressions and positions for inordinate amounts of time.

BY FILMING one frame every eight or ten seconds — 24 frames are needed for one second of screen time — an actor appears to do the impossible. Although it's hard work holding those positions, "... you do what you have to do."

One of the most striking elements of the half-hour interview taped with the "Evil Dead" principals: Here are three bright, handsome, fresh-faced young men, the very epitome of all that's good in our culture, and they're achieving success by rubbing audiences' noses in a gruesome ghost story heavily laced with blood.

But the blood is green and blue, as well as red, and that may make a difference, although the film is by no means for the faint-hearted. We recognize early on that it is just one big joke and there is a definite campy quality.

Raimi helps the joke along by directing the camera with a certain amount of modesty and pulls it back from the more gruesome aspects.

Clearly, here are three young men, and their production crews, having fun with a good, gory ghost story. If you like this sort of thing, join Raimi, Tapert and Campbell and their ghastly cast, brought to you by the Dino DeLaurentis Entertainment Group and by everyone's interest in a good scare.

Beauty faces up to going gruesome

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

Denise Bixler is Linda, who becomes possessed.

Being beautiful isn't enough for young fashion model Denise Bixler. She's an aspiring actress, too, and in her first movie role, she is required to go from gorgeous to hideous.

Bixler is the female co-star of "Evil Dead 2: Dead by Dawn," in which she plays a Michigan State University coed who becomes possessed by evil spirits. The movie opened a month ago in New York and Los Angeles (she didn't get a chance to see it then), and premiered last week at the Redford Theatre.

'They had four limos for the directors, writers, producer, myself and Bruce, the star," she said by phone this week. "I was very, very impressed with the movie. It was funny and very, very well done."

In "Evil Dead 2," she portrays Linda, who goes with her boyfriend, Ash (Bruce Campbell), to a cabin in Tennessee for the weekend. "I try to kill him. He ends up killing me. Then I come back from the grave, and he has to deal with me the second time around," she said.

TELLING ALL THIS isn't really giving away the plot, because that's where the real action begins, Bixler declared.

It wasn't difficult to play the demoniac character, in Bixler's film debut. Although she has a lot of modeling experience, she also has been doing acting and musical theater since the age of 10.

She had 10 years of dance, too, and this background was important. There's an animated sequence in "Evil Dead 2" where she dances.

"I had to do a lot of screaming and a lot of cackling when I'm possessed," Bixler said, talking about the more extreme aspects of the part she played. "At first, it was, like, embarrassing. When that first scream came out, I just couldn't get enough. It was funny.

"It was a very, very fun film to do."

Actually, the way she describes her appearance in "Evil Dead 2" is "horrific yet beautiful. I wear dentures, contacts and appliances that make me look possessed. My teeth get real ugly, my face gets pink like a doll and I have white eyes."

Asked if she would like to do another horror movie, the actress said, "I don't know if I'd want to play in a 'slasher.' This is really tongue-in-cheek."

THE VERSATILE performer doesn't have another movie lined up, but she will be appearing on television soon. She will sing on the "Saturday Night Music Machine," a nationally syndicated weekly talent show from Detroit station WDIV-TV. Taping was scheduled for April 14. No air date has been announced.

Bixler recently spent five months in Japan with a Japanese modeling agency, Daisho, and traveled all over Japan. She is moving to New York the first week in May, where she will be working with Elite, international modeling agency and Manhattan's biggest.

Another local actor in the cast of "Evil Dead 2" is Dan Hicks, former Southfield resident who plays the role of Jake.

Jazz star Betty Carter will perform at 8:30 p.m. Monday, April 27. Tickets are $12.50. Johnny Trudell plays for listening and dancing Mondays, including concert nights. Tickets are at Jamie's on 7, phone 477-9077 from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., and at Ticket Master.

● 'BRIGHTON BEACH'
Vito Guerra of-Southfield stars in the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford production of "Brighton Beach Memoirs," at 8 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays, April 24-25, May 1-2 and 8-9, in Redford. Another area resident in the cast is Kathleen L. Lietz of Redford. For tickets at $6, call 522-8057.

● IRISH MUSIC
The Traditional Irish Music Organization will present a program featuring Irish musicians at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 30, at the Monaghan Knights of Columbus Hall in Livonia. Relativity, an Irish-Scottish quartet, will sing in both English and Gaelic. Tickets at $8.50 are available at Irish Imports in Dearborn, by mail or at the door. For more information, call 537-3489 from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

● MUPPET BABIES
Jim Henson's top-rated cartoon series "Muppet Babies" brings its nursery antics to the stage in a new musical production "Muppet Babies Live!" through Sunday, April 19, at Cobo Arena in Detroit. For ticket information call 567-6000.

● ROUNDUP FINALS
Nine country bands from the Detroit area will participate in the Marlboro Country Music Talent Roundup finals at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 16, at the High Kicker Saloon in Pontiac. Local bands among the finalists are Larry Lee Adkins and the Hanging Tree Band from Westland, the Stillwater Band from Wayne and Cooley Pope from Rochester. Winners of the competition will receive a $5,000 check and opportunity to be the opening act when the Marlboro Country Music Tour comes to Joe Louis Arena in Detroit at 7 p.m. Saturday, April 25.

● PINE KNOB
Pine Knob Music Theatre in Clarkston has announced its 1987 Miller Concert Subscription Series. The 16th season of entertainment under the stars includes nine series packages. Among stars appearing are Liza Minelli, Frank Sinatra, Mikhail Baryshnikov, George Benson, Anita Baker, John Denver, Whitney Houston, Tina Turner, Barbara Mandrell, Hank Williams Jr. and Willie Nelson. A few of the musical groups are Air Supply, Beach Boys, Monkees, Moody Blues, Chicago, Heart and Crosby, Stills and Nash. For information about subscription series packages, call the Pine Knob ticket office at 872-1600.

● ISIS NAMED
Pine Knob has designated ISIS as its exclusive nightclub for the 1987 season. After-concert parties, including celebrity appearances, will be held at ISIS, which is 10 minutes from Pine Knob.

● MUSICAL COMEDY
The Players Guild of Dearborn will present the musical comedy "Chicago," opening at 8 p.m. Friday, May 1. Performances run through Sunday, May 17. Cast members include David Howell of Lathrup Village and Joe Donovan of Canton. Tickets are $7 in advance, $8 at the door. For reservations or further information, call 565-5392.

● JAZZ PLAYERS
A Jazz Master Series featuring top jazz players in the Detroit area will be presented at Jazz Wednesdays during April and May at Elan, a downtown Detroit nightspot. Reserved table seating at Elan's Centre Court is $7. General admission to the Jazz Ante Room is $5. Sets begin at 7, 8 and 9 p.m. For reservations call 965-2196.

● MEL TORME
Singer Mel Torme will perform at 8 and 10 p.m. Saturday, April 25, at Cleary Auditorium in Windsor. Torme was a Grammy winner in 1983 for the best male jazz vocalist. Concert tickets are available at all Ticket Master outlets. To charge tickets and for information call 423-6666.

● BUNNY TALES
Detroit Youtheatre will present Chicago's Melikin Puppet Theatre in "Tales of Beatrix Potter." Performances for "Wiggle Club" members (ages three to eight) and area families will be held at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday, April 18, and 2 p.m. Sunday, April 19, in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium. Additional performances will be given, during spring break, at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Tuesday-Friday, April 21-24, in the 400-seat recital hall. Tickets are $3.50 for children and adults. For more information, call 832-2730 during regular business hours.

● NEW MUSICAL
"We the People Remember," a new musical production commemorating the Michigan Sesquicentennial and the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution, will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday, May 1, Law Day, at McGregor Auditorium on the Wayne State University campus in Detroit. The show offers true-to-life accounts of events involving citizens in Michigan's past. Performances are targeted for secondary-school-age students, whose teachers will be given lesson plans and materials on the production. Tickets are $5 for adults, $2 for students. To order, send a self-addressed envelope with ticket order and check payable to the State Bar of Michigan, 306 Townsend, Lansing 48933. Tickets also will be available at the door.

● THEATER SEASON
New comedies and vintage musicals make up the 1987-88 subscription season at the Birmingham Theatre. David Merrick's musical "42nd Street" will open the season Sept. 9 through Oct. 11, and George Gershwin's jazz-age classic "Girl Crazy" closes the season May 17 through June 19. Another musical will be "Promises, Promises," based on the 1960 film "The Apartment." Three comedies include Neil Simon's Tony-award-winning "Biloxi Blues," Oct. 20 through Dec. 20; "Social Security," Feb. 16 through March 20, and tennis-playing businessmen in midlife crisis in "Doubles," April 5 through May 8. Subscription prices range from $76.50 to $125. For more information call the box office at 644-3533.

Ralph Rosati of Farmington and Jan Salisbury of Farmington Hills appear in a scene from Neil Simon's comedy "The Good Doctor," opening Friday, April 24, at the Farmington Players Barn in Farmington Hills.

● L'EXPRESS OPENS
Four bands will play at the grand opening of L'Express (formerly the Place) Friday-Saturday, April 17-18, in Royal Oak. Separate Checks will play jazz fusion. Other bands are the Larry Barris and John Allen Group, J.D. Lamb, and the Henry Feinberg Trio with vocalist Lynn Cheney. The restaurant, which serves only dinner, from a light menu, opens at 5 p.m. Entertainment will begin later in the evening. For the grand opening, there will be "free-flowing champagne."

● RADIO DRAMA
Several area residents are in the cast of "Dreamliner; Titanic," an original radiodrama to be broadcast at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 19, on WDET (FM 102). The story is based on the 1912 sinking of the Titanic. Anthony Hamilton of Farmington Hills plays the Captain and Lindy Bruton of Southfield is "Old" Heather. Also in the cast are Pat Judd and Randy Judd, both of Birmingham.

'Smooth Talk' is compelling

By Louise Okrutsky
special writer

Ah, spring! Early barbecues, mild weather and daylight-saving time almost make it a crime to sit by the electronic glow of the tube. But after the sun goes down and spring chill sets in, it's easy to backslide into some of those wicked winter ways.

There are even a few promising items on the tube this month to entice us. Joyce Carol Oates' view of awakening adolescent sexuality is the basis for "Smooth Talk."

Winner of the 1986 U.S. Film Festival's Grand Prize, the movie stars Laura Dern, 19-year-old daughter of actors Bruce Dern and Diane Ladd. Dern turns in an unsettling performance as the dreamy 15-year-old daughter of an average Midwestern family. As Connie, she fantasizes about a bad boy from the other side of the tracks, played by Treat Williams.

He's the sort of guy who'd make any parent of any 15-year-old cringe. Decked out in pegged jeans, driving a slogan-covered convertible, Williams isn't exactly your basic Prince Charming. Twice as old as Connie, he appears out of the blue knowing her name, her friends and one other important fact — she's home alone.

Williams' psychotic lover is by turns sweet talking and threatening. He dominates the scenes. Shot in colors evocative of a steamy Midwestern summer, its pace is almost as slow as a hot July day.

From a possible four stars, it merits three. For those with Cinemax, "Smooth Talk" airs Saturday and also Friday, April 24, and Wednesday, April 29.

ON A MUCH LIGHTER note, there's the claymation version of "The Adventures of Mark Twain." Twain, Becky, Huck and Tom are clay figures taking an intergalatic journey through time, space, heaven and hell.

Now, I'll admit this premise is enough to make you wish there was an erase option on your cable box. But give this one a chance.

First of all, the claymation, a stop-action technique using clay figures, is exceptionally well done. It's the same technique used in the old Gumby and Pokey series, as well as Davey and Goliath.

You won't forget you're watching little clay puppets, but if you observe them long enough you're bound to become fascinated by the smoothness of the action. Objects change shapes, grow, shrink.

The dialogue is made of chunks lifted from Twain's "Diary of Adam and Eve." As a sampler of some of Twain's best lines, I give this one a 2½. There's no substitute for the real thing, but watching this is bound to propel you to reach for the book. It's on the Disney Channel on Tuesday.

BRINGING A PLAY to the screen is like turning a novel into a screenplay. It's not a venture bound to please everyone. In fact, it seems designed to offend many. Even when plays are given a straightforward presentation on television, many lose the vitality they had on stage.

So when such an effort receives admiring reviews, one feels compelled to tune in. Broadway on Showtime's "Long Day's Journey into Night" is the sort of television that makes owning a set worthwhile.

Le Gala time

Cranbrook Kingswood's Le Gala de Cuisine will be celebrated for the ninth consecutive year, from 3-7 p.m. Sunday, May 3, at the school's Eliel Saarinen-designed Quadrangle in Bloomfield Hills.

More than 44 chefs from Detroit-area restaurants and country clubs will produce a culinary feast featuring hors d'ouevres, entrees and dessert specialties.

Lobster bisque from Bijou, spare-ribs from Bernardi's, grilled venison sausage from Jacques, a 100-pound truffle from Eddie Jona's Merchant of Vino, duck strudel from the Money Tree and escargots from the Pontchartrain are among the offerings.

Chef Patrick Michael Hanna of Ann Arbor's Sheraton University Inn will honor Michigan's sesquicentennial by serving three Michigan favorites: Upper Peninsula pasties, venision stuffed with morels and breast of duck stuffed with cherries.

General admission is $125; patron, $150, and benefactor, $200. Included in the admission will be beverages, a cookbook published especially for the occasion and continuous entertainment. For ticket information call 645-3134.

The Cranbrook Kingswood dance troupe, Cranbrook Kingswood Jazz Band and flute trio, the Madrigals and Woodwinds, Chamber Singer and strings quintet will perform throughout the day.

● EASTER BRUNCH

The Easter bunny will table hop, taking family souvenir photos, at the Easter Sunday Brunch, April 19, at the Omni International Hotel at the Millender Center in Detroit.

Unusual Easter breads and cheese, fresh fruits, salad bar, omelettes and Belgian waffles will be featured. Silver chafing dishes will be filled with eggs, bacon, seafood, chicken and beef dishes and vegetables. Easter lamb, ham and turkey will be at the carving station. There will be a separate dessert buffet, highlighted by white or dark chocolate mousse.

Harpist Lisa Walters, who regularly entertains at Sunday brunch, will perform throughout the day. Hours for brunch are 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Cost is $14.95 for adults and $6.50 for children under 12. A Mimosa with Brut champagne and orange juice is included, also valet parking.

● IT'S PARADISE

Shrimp dishes are being featured during "Shrimply Paradise" through Saturday, May 16, at Chuck Muer restaurants in metropolitan Detroit. Shrimp entrees starting at $8.95 include Stuffed Shrimp Imperial, Shrimp Scampi, Louisiana Shrimp, Shrimp Primavera Linguine, Shrimp Casino Pasta, Chinese Shrimp Stir-Fry and Shrimp Jamboree.

There are also shrimp appetizers — Shrimp Cocktail, Shrimp in the Shell, Chef Craig's Sapidity Shrimp and Louisiana Shrimp. One of the soups is Shrimp and Asparagus Bisque.

Rounding out the island-paradise theme are non-alcoholic Tropical Fruit Smoothies, special desserts and compatible wines.

● WILD APPETIZERS

No, rhinoceros isn't on the menu, but a lot of wild game is, at the Rhinoceros restaurant in Detroit's Warehouse District. Chef Mark Schwartz, who has been serving wild game dishes, now offers a sampler plate for those who want to try several kinds of meats.

Every weeknight from 5-7 p.m., guests may choose three kinds of wild game, such as sauteed buffalo tenderloin, grilled one-quarter quail, broiled rattlesnake Ka-Bob, roasted duck, grilled venison and sauteed moose. Each meat is prepared in a complementary demi glaze or sauce.

The platter, at ~~$8~~, includes wild rice, baby carrots and corn, homemade rolls and butter.

Co-stars delightfully paired in comedy

Dale Bishop as Mel and Eileen Weiss as his wife, Edna, make fine sparring partners in the Will-O-Way production of the comedy "The Prisoner of Second Avenue."

With high-energy intelligence, they're well-suited to Neil Simon's distinctive brand of comic repartee.

Mel comes unhinged when the frustrations of modern urban living gang up on him. For starters, he comes home to confront an air conditioner gone berserk, noisy neighbors, barking dogs and a garbage strike — everyday nuisances of life in the big city.

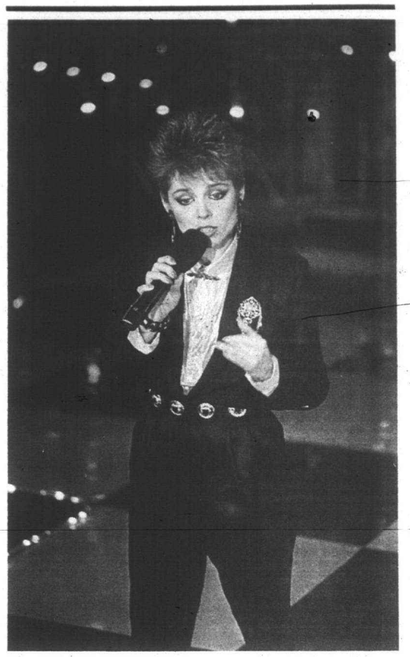
Two weeks later, he gets fired and burglars march into his apartment and steal the TV set, the hi-fi and all his clothes. They even make off with the only bottle of scotch. It's the last straw for poor Mel. He goes over the edge.

WEISS PLAYS EDNA with a hilarious range of facial expressions as she tries to cope with her deranged husband. Mel's brother (Ron Hutchings) and three sisters (Sally Dubats, Francine Hachem and Nicki Hamel) meet at the Edison apartment for a conference on what to do about Mel. The eccentric, outspoken sisters show fine comic timing.

Brother Harry and the apartment don't fare as well. Harry fudges lines and his timing lags. The slapped-together set fails to match the acting which, for the most part, is excellent.

The Edisons' apartment, furnished in mediocre eclectic, seems more like a temporary roost for graduate students rather than the longtime home of a Manhattan advertising executive who supposedly makes good money, or did until he got canned. Liquor bottles clutter a shelf, the door to the balcony desperately needs paint, and two frumpy green throw pillows make war with everything else in the room.

Despite the uninspired set, director Celia Merrill Turner brings out the volatile comic humanity in the popular Neil Simon characters.



Winning singer

Karen Newman of Bloomfield Hills was the winner last week on "Music Machine," a nationally syndicated talent show that originates from WDIV-TV, Channel 4. The singer returns to face challengers and vie for "Entertainer of the Year" at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Newman is lead singer with a band called Reflections. She is a graduate of Oakland University, with a bachelor of arts degree in commercial music.

Bed and breakfast along Louisiana's River Road

First of a series.

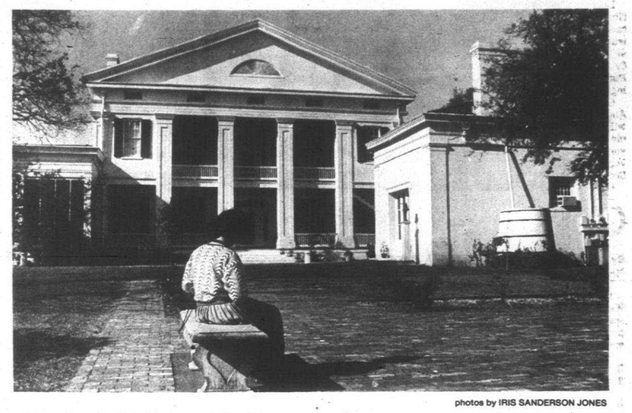
Hoop skirts and jogging shoes. That's the 1980s' fashion for plantation guides in Louisiana.



photos by IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Tara it's not. But Madewood Plantation on Bayou LaFourche near Baton Rouge has been featured in two movies. An overnight stay in the main house, including breakfast and dinner, is $150.

Baton Rouge, La.: You may or may not find the River Road listed on a Louisiana map, but that's the way it is known in story and song nationwide and in the everyday language of the people who live along the Mississippi River between New Orleans to Natchez.

The River Road is, of course, a road that follows along the banks of the river, but if you get logical about it you might expect it to be a continuous highway, always there. Instead, with the shifts of time and river, the road often disappears or has an entirely different name.

A river road is merely a passageway, but the River Road is a romantic idea from another age. It is the road that led from plantation to plantation during the grand 19th-century days of red brick mansions and white columns.

It is "Gone With The Wind" country, except that the guides who play Scarlet O'Hara wear jogging shoes under their hooped skirts.

THE MYTH AND legend of antebellum life have saturated our movie screens, but the reality is that most of the plantations were sagging slightly when recent history-lovers restored them, one by one, and put them on public view. That kind of restoration is an expensive business, so in many cases you can do more than tour; you can stay overnight.

There are bed-and-breakfast accommodations at Tezcuco, Oak Alley, Madewood and Nottaway plantations between Baton Rouge and New Orleans, at Mount Hope in Baton Rouge, and at Cottage, Asphodel, Catalpa, the Myrtles and Millbank in Feliciana Parish north of Baton Rouge. Technically speaking, Millbank was not a plantation, but it's a "great house" so you won't care.

From any of these great houses you can visit the plantations that don't have overnight accommodations, places like Rosedown, Houmas House, Live Oaks, etc. This remarkable collection of plantations, and the lush southern life they represent, come out of a very short period of time in American history.

There were settlements, and certainly planters, in Louisiana long before the turn of the 19th century, but the plantations along the Mississippi River were the result of some specific historic events.

A Creole planter called Etienne de Bore learned how to granulate sugar. Eli Whitney invented the cotton gin, which removed seeds from cotton. In 1803, Napoleon ceded the Louisiana Territory to the United States. Most of all, Fulton invented the engine that put steamboats on the Mississippi River.

History and science thus provided the means to farm the rich bottom land near the river and to get the crops out, while bringing luxurious furniture and building material in for the glamorous plantations that soon appeared along the Mississippi. It was only about 50 years between the first grand Greek Revival building, with its white pillars, and the Civil War that effectively destroyed that rich southern lifestyle.

Here are some of the plantations where you can stay overnight:

TEZCUCO PLANTATION — I began my tour by staying overnight at a very small plantation with a two-story white wood house and none of the "Gone With the Wind" look of the Greek Revival mansions. Like most of the plantations south of Baton Rouge, this was a sugar plantation in 1855.

Today, you can stay in an apartment at the top of the house, or in one of the many slave cottages that have been brought in from neighboring plantations in the Convent, La., area. The rooms have been redone with paneled walls and provide a kitchen area.

Rates range from $50 a night per couple for a bed-sitting room to $85 a night per couple for the honeymoon cottage, which is on the National Register of Historic Places.

Tezcuco is a great place for a family with kids, with room to run around, but it has none of the grand-mansion green-grass and live-oak look of the plantation you've seen in the movies; it is instead a collection of small cottages clustered near the main house. Contact: Tezcuco Plantation, 3138 Hwy 44, Darrow, La. 70725 or phone (504) 562-3929. Or just stop for dinner at the Pilothouse.

MADEWOOD PLANTATION — A large white pillared house on Bayou LaFourche (which leads off the Mississippi), has much of that movie look. It was built in 1846 for Col. Thomas Pugh, whose family is buried in the small cemetery behind the 21-room house.

A polished black mahogany bannister curves from the hard pine floor near the entrance to the four bedrooms open to overnight guests upstairs. The movies "Sister, Sister" and "A Woman Called Moses" were partly filmed here, and the guides will regale you with stories about them.

"And then there's the scene where an alligator eats the guide . . ."

The Harold Marshall family have spent $70,000 on Madewood since they bought the house and 20 acres for a song in 1964, and they've done a good job of restoration and furnishings. If you want to sweep up that staircase to your room, contact the business office at 420 Julia St. New Orleans, La., telephone (504) 524-1988 or call the plantation itself in Napoleonville at (504) 369-7151.

Rates are $150, including breakfast and dinner, in the main house, $85, breakfast and dinner extra, in the cottages.

OAK ALLEY PLANTATION — is everything you ever imagined about a southern plantation house and its grounds. You can walk from the house to the Mississippi River down a tunnel formed by live oaks that were planted 100 years before the mansion was built in 1839. The pillared mansion sits on sweeps of green grass and trees, with flowers blooming against every photographic view.

The overnight accommodations are in cottages down another alley of oaks at the back of the house. There are two late 19th-century cottages that represent a style of southern architecture known as the "shotgun double": two private dwellings open onto a common porch, sort of a southern turn-of-the-century duplex.

You rent one side, which includes two bedrooms and bath, from $60 to $75 a night for two people, $10 for each additional person. One room in the suite includes a fireplace. The rate includes a full breakfast in the restaurant across the pathway. Add $5 per person to tour the mansion.

Contact Oak Alley Plantation, Rte. 2, Box 10, Vacherie, La. 70090.

NOTTOWAY PLANTATION, built by John Hampden Randolph of Virginia, is said to be the largest plantation home in the south. This sugar empire included more than 7,000 acres when the mansion was built in 1859. The house, with 22 columns supporting encircling galleries, contains 64 rooms and covers 53,000 square feet. It was lovingly restored by Arlin Dease and opened to the public in 1981.

I didn't see this plantation but your wakeup call is supposed to come with sweet potato biscuits, Creole coffee and fruit juice, all of which is followed later by a planters breakfast. There are also candlelit dinners during the Christmas season and other special events. Guest rooms are in the house.

Contact P.O. Box 160, White Castle, La. 70788 or telephone (504) 545-2730. Rates are $115 to $175.

Next week: Feliciana Parish.

If you're moving in. . . . . or out,

Moving from one place to another can be an exciting experience! A new place to live, new people to meet. . . a whole new life-style! In most cases, it will mean some changes in your needs as far as furniture, appliances, and even services.

That's where Classified advertising comes in! It's the easiest, least expensive method of selling items that may fit into your new home or apartment. And then when you have a need to buy something new that does fit, again Classified is the place to turn. You'll find a vast array of items offered for sale each day. So if you're on the move. . .turn to Classified!

Taylor signs with Titans

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Salem's Rick Taylor has decided he'll stay at home to play his college basketball.

The 6-foot-7 senior signed a national letter of intent to play for the University of Detroit prior to the Rocks' post-season banquet Tuesday night.

U-D coach Don Sicko, who was on hand for the signing along with assistant coach John Mulroy, believes the Titans got a sleeper in Taylor, who also had seriously considered Kent State.

"I see a player who was pretty well hidden," Sicko said. "He was a well-kept secret. We feel fortunate to sign him."

Taylor, who played on Salem's JV team as a freshman, transferred back from East Lansing for his last year of high school ball but was sidelined by a tonsillectomy before the season began.

"WE SAW HIM early in the year and liked him then," Sicko said. "We were prepared to offer him a scholarship at that time, and, as the season went on, he got better and better.

"If he had not transferred and been healthy, he would have attracted much more attention than he did. There were mitigating circumstances in his situation."

The early-season illness sapped Taylor's strength and dropped his weight from 220 pounds to 185 just when pre-season practice was starting in November. But he recovered to average 16 points and 12 rebounds for the Rocks, who won the Western Lakes Activities Association title and finished 22-3.

"I have no excuses," said Taylor of his slow start. "I just had to deal with it and have a good season — and we all did. It was a great season."

TAYLOR CAPPED THE year with an outstanding two-game performance in the Class A regional in Eastern Michigan's Bowen Field House.

"I thought the regional he had was phenomenal," Sicko said.

Taylor was 11-of-11 from the floor and scored 24 points as the Rocks eliminated Monroe in the first round. He missed only four shots and had 35 points while playing only 21 minutes against Ann Arbor Pioneer in Salem's unsuccessful bid for the regional crown.

Taylor chose U-D because of its proximity to home and family, the appeal of the program and the rapport he established with the Titan coaches.

"I liked coaches Sicko and Mulroy and the interest they showed in me," Taylor said. "They recruited me pretty heavily."

The left-handed shooting Taylor believes his outside shooting ability will give him an edge in college, and that was one thing Sicko liked about him.

"HE'S A BIG, strong player, and he has unusual characteristics for a big man," Sicko said. "He has great basket awareness that a lot of kids his size don't, and he has a great shooting touch.

"He's a very, very fine offensive prospect, and his body is a plus," he added. "With a college weight program, he's going to get much stronger."

The Titans, who struggled through a 7-21 season, needed help in the frontcourt, and Taylor is the second

Darkowski 2-hitter lifts Chiefs to victory

Derek Darkowski fired a two-hitter to keep Plymouth Canton unbeaten in Western Division baseball with a 6-1 triumph over Northville Monday at Canton.

The win gave the Chiefs a 2-0 division record and a 3-1 mark overall in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

"He was in complete charge all the way," said Canton coach Fred Crissey of Darkowski's performance. The southpaw, now 2-0, walked just one and struck out eight. Northville's only run came on a home run in the seventh.

Steve Rudelic paced Canton's offense with two hits in four trips, knocking in two runs. Ron Balog added two hits, including a triple, and drove in a run.

"We've played a little better each time out since the John Glenn game," said Crissey. "We've played excellent defense, and that's where you have to start."

On Friday, Steve Waite and Vince Fox each blasted sixth-inning, two-run homers to trigger Canton's 8-4 victory at Walled Lake Western.

Waite got the win in relief, pitching the final two innings and striking out five of six batters. Mike Sulak started and went four innings, surrendering three runs (one earned); he was followed to the mound by Scott Browne, who was tagged for one run in one inning.

Rudelic again had two hits for the Chiefs.

With all challenges missing, Domke resigns at St. Mary's

C.J. Risak

WHAT CONVINCED Tim Domke it was time to go?

Frustration? Pressure? Administrative hassles? A better offer?

No, no, no and no. The only source Domke allowed to persuade him was himself.

That's why he's leaving St. Mary's College in Orchard Lake. He was frustrated, to an extent; the Eagles never quite reached the goals Domke established for them as basketball coach. But he was never pressured to quit. No ultimatums — "Win this year or else" — were issued.

St. Mary's administration was more than cooperative. Domke had a relatively free hand in scheduling. The school is growing, and so is the sports program. No cutbacks were threatened; no hatchet was hanging over his head, ready to drop at the first failure.

And although Domke admits he's talked with several friends who coach at NCAA Division I schools about a possible assistant coaching post, he has accepted nothing.

So what made Domke quit?

"I've done all that I can do here," he explained. "What am I going to do here we haven't already done?"

DOMKE IS 39. He has two sons; his wife teaches in the West Bloomfield school district. It was his wish to spend time with his family that first brought him to St. Mary's from University of Detroit, where he served as assistant coach to Dick Vitale. And his family is the reason he's leaving.

Well, they're part of the reason.

"I came here with a challenge," said Domke, who was given the task of resurrecting St. Mary's dormant college basketball program nine years ago. "That was to build a small college program. Coming here gave me the chance to be near my wife and my kids, and do what I love to do — coach.

"But now I've done that, and my kids are getting older . . . it's time for me to move on."

What's happening to Domke isn't so out-of-the-ordinary. Everyone experiences it, sooner or later. It's called a midlife crisis.

"I guess it is, in some respects," Domke agreed. "But I'm not unhappy. I just realized I'm 39 years old, I've got to look out for my family."

NO, 39 ISN'T old. But it is a time when people start thinking about pensions and insurance and — well, security.

St. Mary's, Domke insisted, was always fair to him. But he was at the top of the ladder; he could climb no higher in this small-college framework, financially or otherwise.

"I appreciate the school very much," he said. "They've been great to me. But one of the rules I made to myself when I came here was to have fun. It's not that challenging Division I schools like Ball State and U-D wasn't fun. But now we've done that."

So what else could Domke do? He could coach at St. Mary's until the Eagles beat those Division I schools. But that could take a while — indeed, it might never happen.

Small college programs must carry that burden; not only do they have to recruit against bigger schools with better facilities and more money, but when they play a Division I team they must do it on their terms — in the Division I team's field-forward they've signed — their fourth recruit overall.

Two years ago, the Plymouth-Canton High School Chiefs got off to a quick start by defeating both Wayne Memorial (10-3) and defending Class B State Champs Redford Thurston (6-3) on Opening Day. Highlights included Chief senior Pete Morman knocking in 5 runs with 3 doubles and catcher Dwayne Bennett's pair of hits that included a 3 run homer.

In the early signing period last November, U-D landed Cincinnati's Allen Clay, a 6-5 guard, Darian McKinney, a 6-7 forward from Lansing Sexton, and Brad Fifield, a 6-8 center out of St. Paul, Minn.

Recently, the Titans added 6-10 center Stacy Johnson, who played for Mott Community College and was considered one of the top 50 junior college players in the country, according to Sicko.

"We were decimated due to injury, illness and academic ineligibility," he said. "We needed to replenish our front line. We played way too small last year."

TAYLOR HOPES TO earn a spot in the starting lineup by his sophomore or junior year, and Sicko expects he'll fit into the Titans' plans quickly.

"I think he's got the ability to play early," Sicko said. "I think he'll be in our playing group at forward as early as next year."

Taylor said he's "not afraid" of the competition. "The more talent the better," he said.

The fact Taylor is familiar with the motion offense — coach Bob Brodie uses the same system at Salem — will help him make the adjustment to college ball, Sicko added.

Brodie was happy Taylor, who also was recruited by Wisconsin Stout and Robert Morris College of Pennsylvania, chose to stay where his roots are and will be playing college ball in "his own backyard."

"I've heard nothing but good things about coach Sicko, and you like players who you've seen develop go somewhere where you have confidence in the coaching staff," he said.

MIKE HALE, SALEM'S 6-5 forward, and point guard Bryan Kearis plan to play college basketball but have not decided what schools they will attend.

Hale is considering Grand Valley, Ferris State, Northwood and Schoolcraft, and Ferris State, Albion and Delta Community College are in the running for Kearis.

Also, 6-8 center Dave Collins will play for either Albion or Hope colleges, and Jeff Justice plans to walk on at Ferris. Ted Hanosh is going to Siena Heights College, but to play soccer.

Rick Taylor was a unique player for Salem — a 6-foot-7 forward with a soft shooting touch. Those were good enough reasons to convince U-D to sign him Monday.

Domke resigns

house. It won't be a home-and-home two-game set, that's for sure.

Such terms make it difficult — make that next-to-impossible — to succeed. And knowing the deck is stacked against you can wear down even the greatest optimist, a title that would certainly fit Domke.

HIS CAREER at St. Mary's, in which he compiled a 189-122 mark (including 18-16 last season), had its ups and downs. Except for the last few games of the season just concluded, there haven't been many bright spots for the Eagles' coach in the last three years.

Domke would disagree with that. "Tim Morton (from Avondale) was named an academic All-American," he said. "He's the fifth one we've had in five years. That's what I'm proud of."

He has other accomplishments to revel in, to be sure. But Domke's fondest memory isn't an upset victory or a championship.

"The coaching staff we've had here — Shoe (Bob Shoemaker), (Tom) Negoshian (of North Farmington), (Jay) Koby, Z (new coach Rich Zalenski) — has been fun.

"And I'll probably miss how nice it is here. All the people, too. They've honestly given me a lot of freedom. They're all good friends, they're people I'll miss."

WHAT WILL Domke do? He isn't sure; an assistant's job at a Division I school is a possibility. He says he has other business opportunities he'd like to explore. And he might accept the right high school coaching position (not Birmingham Brother Rice, however — "I don't even want to be mentioned as a candidate," Domke said).

What he is searching for is a new challenge. Zalenski, who served as co-coach last season, "can take (St. Mary's) to the next level," Domke said. "If anyone can, he can."

Domke doesn't plan on conducting a frantic search for a coaching spot somewhere. He'll take what comes. "I'm lucky because I have other skills," he said. "I'm not in a position that I have to find something right now."

He wasn't forced out by frustration or midlife panic or an unwieldy administration. Domke's leaving because his job at St. Mary's, as he envisioned it, was finished, and he was stagnating.

"I came here on good terms and I get to leave on good terms," he summarized. "How many coaches get to do that?"

lift Plymouth Salem past Walled Lake Central.

Cashero, who worked the first four innings, struck out nine but walked six, and the Vikings scored their only run off him in the second inning.

Hawley pitched the last six innings, recording three strikeouts and not allowing a walk.

Salem's Tim Dowd, who hit his third home run of the season — a solo shot — and had a sacrifice fly, was two-for-three with two RBIs, as was teammate Todd Marion.

Dowd is batting .571 with eight hits in 14 at-bats and has eight RBIs. Teammate Steve Woodard also continued his superb pinch hitting against WLC, making him four-for-five in that role this season.

The Rocks are 4-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association and 4-0 overall.

Salem stops North

Jill Estey ended a scoreless struggle by scoring a second-half goal, then assisted on another by Michelle Minton as Plymouth Salem dumped stubborn North Farmington 2-0 Monday at Salem.

The game was scoreless at the half and, as North coach Cathy Cole said, "It was just a matter of who came out in the second half and scored first."

Estey did, taking advantage of what Cole called "a mental breakdown" to convert a perfect centering pass from Jennifer Belhart. Estey then fed Minton for an insurance tally.

Ellen Schnackel was perfect again in the nets, recording her third shutout in six games. Salem is 4-0-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) and 4-1-1 overall.

On Saturday, the Rocks were blanked by Troy Athens 1-0.

STEVENSON 3, FARMINGTON 3: Farmington took an early lead Tuesday with two goals, from Carrie Maier and Margaret Martin, in the first half. But by halftime the Spartans had tied it up. In the second half, Maier scored again for Farmington.

Livonia Stevenson, missing six players, got goals from Lori Green, Karen Carney and Jacki Danahy. The Falcons led 18-15 in shots on goal.

On Saturday, the Spartans clobbered Walled Lake Western,13-0.

Sue Zatorski had a big day for the Spartans, scoring four goals and three assists. Tina Gelmisi added three goals and Karen Kudej had two. Other goal scorers included Michelle Hussey, Mary Pelloni, Allison Eichorn and Green.

On Friday, Stevenson tied Northville 1-1 on a goal by Laurie McLachlan. Northville scored with three minutes left in the game.

STEVENSON 1, MERCY 0: Stevenson got its goal from Zatorski, while Farmington Hills Mercy (1-2-1) got strong defensive play from Maureen Scullen, Leigh Clancy, and sisters Margaret and Elizabeth DeMattia. Stevenson collected 20 shots on goal to Mercy's 14.

On Saturday, Mercy met Kalamazoo Central halfway — in Jackson — and the teams tied 1-1.

DeMattia scored for Mercy in the first half on a direct kick from 25 yards. Two minutes later, Central tied the score. Mercy led in shots 22-9. "We really dominated the second half," said coach Gene Fogel.

Mercy's Colleen Raftery, Karen Baldas and Anne Scullen turned in sterling performances for the Marlins.

FRANKLIN 11, HARRISON 0: Farmington Harrison couldn't get a shot on goal in Monday's loss to Livonia Franklin (4-2-1).

The Patriots were led by Deanne Brda, who scored four goals. Linda McCaul and Heather Colvin added two each. Single goals came from Andrea Horn, Amy Zanetti and Toni Stilgmaier.

The best boys track times will reappear beginning Thursday, April 23.

Coaches from the following schools are asked to call Livonia Churchill coach Fred Price after 7 p.m. Monday through Friday (this week) at 420-3059: Livonia Franklin, Livonia Stevenson, Livonia Clarenceville, Plymouth Salem, Plymouth Canton, Westland John Glenn, Farmington, Farmington Harrison, North Farmington, Redford Bishop Borgess, Redford Catholic Central, Redford St. Agatha, Redford Thurston, Redford Union, Garden City, Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial.

All girls track coaches should call in best times

Livonia Franklin coach Steve Dolloway will again compile the best times.

Coaches from the following schools are encouraged to call Dolloway from 1 to 9 p.m. Sundays and 6:30-9 p.m. Mondays at 422-6124: Livonia Clarenceville, Churchill, Stevenson, Ladywood; Plymouth Salem, Canton; Redford Union, Thurston, St. Agatha, Bishop Borgess; Farmington Harrison, Farmington, North Farmington and Our Lady of Mercy; Westland John Glenn, Wayne Memorial, Garden City.

Rocks rally to win

Plymouth Salem rallied for three ninth-inning runs Monday to defeat Walled Lake Central 7-4 and remain unbeaten in softball.

In the top of the ninth, Mary Jo Callan singled and was sacrificed to second by Kim Berrie, who was the winning pitcher after working all nine innings.

Callan scored the go-ahead run on an error that allowed Jessica Handley to reach base, and, after a double by Marcie Walker, Ann Mundinger doubled to drive in both runners.

"This is the first tough game we've had," said Salem coach Rob Willette, whose team upped its record to 4-0. "It was nice to see the girls come back."

The Rocks also needed a three-run rally in the sixth inning to tie the game at 4-4.

Marcie Walker singled, and Mundinger and Denice Tackett followed with back-to-back RBI triples. Bonnie Wallace singled home Tackett with the tying run.

Berrie scattered seven hits and didn't allow a walk. She had three strikeouts.

Gymnasts head to state

Ten area gymnasts are among 15 the Michigan Academy of Gymnastics will send to upcoming state meets.

Debbie Skeppstrom, a senior at Plymouth Canton, will compete in the Class I meet April 25-26 in Freeland, and she also has qualified for the USGF state and USAIGC regional meets.

Competing in the Class III optional meet May 2-3 in Flint will be Garden City's Carrie Thompson, Livonia's Susan Bona and Amy Pollock, Plymouth's Denielle Cunningham, Heather Murphy and Stephanie Skeppstrom, Westland's Marissa Maybouer and Wayne's Susan Ronan.

Stacey Shattleroe of Garden City is entered in the Class III compulsory meet April 25-26 in Port Huron.

In the Class II state meet Saturday, the MAG's Melissa Lyon placed fourth in the floor exercise.

Gymnasts advance to the state meets after qualifying at local and sectional levels. The state meet is the highest level of competition for Class III gymnasts. In Class I and II, the state meet is another step toward qualifying for regional and national competition.

Barber, Lessard rule half-marathon

By Tom Henderson and Marybeth Dillon staff writers

Ron Lessard of Bloomfield Hills blistered his way to a first-mile time of 5:05 en route to a 1:09:11 that was good for nearly a two-minute win in the West Bloomfield Half-Marathon Sunday.

He won a trip for two to the Bahamas.

Lessard and Tobin Jones of Westland dueled for a while, but Lessard was just a bit too tough.

The trip was gratifying, but what was especially pleasing was that the win capped a long comeback from injury. It was Lessard's first race since November 1985 and a knee operation in January 1986.

"It feels fine to run on," said Lessard. "It was just in the last six weeks that I decided to come back six months sooner than I was supposed to."

Lessard slowly stretched his early lead until he was 30 seconds up at the six-mile mark. By eight, he figured the race was about over.

"I relaxed a little. I was pretty tired. It was a good race. I train on terrain like this all the time, so it's ideal for me. The wind slowed me down, but it slowed Tobin down, too."

THANKS TO a stubborn boyfriend, Cindy Barber has herself a trip for two to the Bahamas and the championship in the women's division of the West Bloomfield Half-Marathon.

Up until the final few minutes before the start of Sunday's 13.1-mile road race through the twisting, rolling streets of the city, Barber had no intention of running a race.

"I had to drag her out here, then I had to twist her arm to enter," said Mike Keeler of Milan, who footed her $13 entry fee. It was the best money he'll ever spend. She won the trip for two and promised she'd reserve one of the spots for him. "She better," he joked.

Barber, 29, of Lincoln Park is familiar with winning races. She ran track for Eastern Michigan, is a past winner of the Free Press International Marathon, was once named the state's runner of the year by Michigan Runner Magazine and has already qualified to run in next spring's U.S. Olympic Marathon trials in Pittsburgh.

Still, winning Sunday came as a surprise. Winning the trip was a downright shock.

"I CAME HERE for a workout and ended up with a cruise. I can't believe it," she said. She finished in 1:23:38, good for more than a two-minute bulge on the runner-up, and a time that placed her 56th overall in a field of 853. "I ran races the last few weekends and needed to get a long run in today because I'm training for a marathon in June. So I wasn't going to race. I was just going to go out for a 20-mile run."

Somehow, Keeler convinced her to ride to West Bloomfield with him, then once at the high school, he cajoled her into joining the race. She didn't even sign up till 12:15 p.m., 15 minutes after registration was scheduled to close.

"I didn't even have time to warm up."

Once the race began, she ran with Keeler at a pace of about 6:20 per mile, racing for him, taking it easy for her. "I just wanted to help him run a good race," she said.

Along the way, people were telling her she was the third woman. She passed someone and the crowd and volunteers along the way would tell her she was in second. Finally, between seven and eight miles, she passed Charlene Catalano, who was to end up as the masters' (over 40) champ. "She didn't try to go with me, so I knew I had her."

The biggest shock came later at the awards ceremony, when Joey Spano, the director of parks and recreation, announced the trips to the Bahamas for the men's and women's winners. "Can you believe it?" asked Barber. "I figured I'd win a plaque or something."

THE WIND was a bit severe, but after previous years no one was complaining about the weather. There was no snow, no 90-degree saunas, no rain, so what was a little wind?

It certainly didn't bother Clifford Dorlin of Detroit, a past master's who was a cool breeze, both the way he ran and in his pure white outfit and headband at the awards ceremony. His birth certificate says 43, his body says 23 and his pace says "Follow me if you can."

Dorlin ran 1:16:39, good for 13th overall and almost a two-minute margin over fellow master Ellis Boal of Detroit, runner-up in the master's division of last fall's Free Press marathon.

"I still haven't recovered from the Free Press," said Boal, his shoes bloody from blisters picked up on the grueling hills of West Bloomfield.

"I kept thinking there was someone behind me with a green tag on," said Dorlin, referring to the tag worn by masters' runners. "So, that kept me going. Then, a couple of young guys pulled up and I went with them a ways. It's good to stay with those young guys."

RACE DIRECTOR Sally Slater Pierce created a new division this year, the Supermen's division for men 60 and over. And the winner lived up to the billing. Chuck Davey, a legendary state boxer in the 50s who once fought for a world title in Detroit and who later went on to success in the insurance field, has channeled his competitive fires onto the roads.

Davey is 61, but you couldn't tell it from his time. His 1:39:56 placed him well up in the top half of the field and gave him almost a three-minute win in his age group, with Howard Emmons of Troy coming in at 1:42:45.

A true superstar was Jim Ramsey of Detroit. He is a legend in state running circles, races nearly every weekend, runs three or four marathons a year and, oh, yes, just so happens to be 79.

"It was beautiful out there," he said. "I was feeling good. I'm just getting over the hamstring I hurt in Columbus (a marathon last November)."

Ramsey finished in 2:32:32, but made it clear he was just out for a training stroll.

"Getting ready for Pittsburgh," he said. He wasn't talking about an upcoming vacation. He was talking about his next marathon, a 26.2-mile run he'll be taking part in on May 3. "Gonna take momma to that one and go first class," he said.

Ron Lessard, overall winner of the West Bloomfield half-marathon, beat his nearest competitor by nearly two minutes.

Ideal conditions for WB runners

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

WHAT, NO SNOWSTORM? Where's the rain? What happened to the sauna?

The West Bloomfield Half-Marathon, something of a legend in local running for its incredible weather in recent years, was downright hospitable Sunday for the 11th running of the 13.1-mile road race.

Those grueling hills were still there. Those turns kept coming up relentlessly. But everything else was just fine. Rain fell before the run and after it, and the wind was a little stiff, but conditions were just about perfect.

They were certainly perfect for Ron Lessard of Bloomfield Hills and Cindy Barber, who finished first for the men and women and each won a couple of trips to the Bahamas (see related story on page 1D).

It was fine for race director Sally Slater Pierce, who was delighted with a field of 853, up 33 from last year despite those who say running is on the decline.

It was fine for the 150 or so volunteers who whooped and hollered, passing out encouragement as fast as they passed out cups of water. And from the looks on the faces of the 3- and 4-year-olds who stood in driveways along the way and jumped up and down with glee whenever a runner would take water from their unofficial aid stations, things were just fine in the neighborhoods, too.

A SUCCESSFUL road race is always more than the sum of its parts. On the surface, it is just a string of people running from here to there. Beneath the surface are tales of success, the culmination of heroic battles to conquer things like middle-age spread or the depression of divorce — for nearly every runner there is a story behind the simple matter of putting one foot in front of another.

Nagel finds home at U-M

By Brian Lysaght
staff writer

people in sports

Ed Nagel is looking forward to the NCAA tennis championships.

Nagel, a West Bloomfield High School graduate, is also enjoying his first year of Big Ten tennis this spring at University of Michigan. He transferred to U-M from Pepperdine University in Malibu, Calif. Nagel, 34-6 this season, is U-M's No. 1 singles player. He and partner Ed Filer are 15-8 in the team's No. 1 doubles slot.

U-M is ranked 17th in the nation and is favored to win the Big Ten crown for the second consecutive year. Michigan recently beat Minnesota, considered to be second best in the Big Ten. Nagel is hoping the team will make it to the NCAAs, May 16-23 in Athens, Ga. And he is hoping to qualify individually.

"In singles I have probably already made it if I can just maintain my playing," Nagel said, who is ranked ninth in the nation as an amateur.

AFTER MAKING the move from Pepperdine, Nagel sat out last season. But he didn't stop playing tennis. He said he concentrated on improving his game.

"I've worked very hard at it," he said. "Mentally I'm better. I'm not taking the game so seriously. Physically, I've worked hard and feel this is my best year."

So Nagel, who has in the past shown a hot temper on the court, says he has mellowed a bit. He says he will be prepared for the NCAAs when — and if — they come.

"My only goal besides the Big Ten is to do well in the NCAAs. If I go there and play well and win in the final round I'll be happy."

It is likely that if he makes it to the NCAA championships, Nagel will see Richey Reneberg of Southern Methodist University. Nagel waged a court battle with Reneberg at the ITCA Nationals. Reneberg edged Nagel 6-4, 3-6, 7-6. Earlier in the tournament, Nagel had beaten Pepperdine's Marty Laurendeau, the No. 1 player in Canada, 6-3, 6-3.

Nagel, 22, is a U-M senior and a general studies major. He still has another year of tennis eligibility.

NAGEL WAS a Class A state tennis champ and was ranked in the top 10 nationally among junior players. He accepted a scholarship to attend Pepperdine, but soon grew disconsolate. Some say he was unhappy with the program and his position as the No. 3 singles there.

Nagel says: "Malibu is a great area, but Pepperdine is a real small school and it wasn't for me. I wasn't from the area. I didn't have a car and I was far from home. I wanted to try some place bigger and closer to home."

Nagel plans to enter tournaments this summer and try to build up his amateur ranking. He may one day try to make it on the Grand Prix circuit, though he says he is not interested in giving up everything to play professionally.

"I think tennis is what I do best," he said. "I'm not a computer whiz or a baseball player. So I do have to think about playing professionally."

But first things first, he says. He is happy at U-M.

But doesn't he ever regret leaving Pepperdine in sunny Malibu?

"I have regrets when it's 20 degrees below zero in January."

● MCSWEEN LAUDED

Don McSween of Plymouth reaped in the awards at Michigan State's hockey banquet. The standout senior defensemen was honored five times for the NCAA runners-up, among them the team's Most Valuable Player award.

McSween, the team captain, also earned most valuable defenseman, outstanding senior, the Blue Line President's Award for scholarship and the Amo Bossone Award for athletic, scholastic and community achievement.

MSU reached the NCAA finals before losing to North Dakota 5-3, finishing the season with a 33-10-2 record. McSween collected seven goals and 23 assists this season, ending his career with 28 goals and 101 assists for 129 points. His assist and point totals are MSU career records for defensemen.

McSween traveled to Leningrad after the NCAA championships to play in the Pravda Cup, which served as an international tune-up for the world championships. The U.S. team was 1-3-1 in the tournament. McSween was staying in Europe afterwards to tryout for the U.S. team for the world championships.

● CRAIGER BASEBALL

Tryouts for the Craiger Pee Wee Reese travel baseball team will be 3-6 p.m. Saturday at Griffin Park, located on Canton Center just north of Cherry Hill. Interested players must be 11 or 12 years-old by Aug. 1.

For more information, call Bob Rueto at 397-8149.

● STEELERS SIGNUP

Registration for football players and cheerleaders interested in participating with the Plymouth-Canton Steelers Junior League Football Club this fall has been scheduled from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the following Saturdays: April 25 and May 9.

The registration sessions will take place in the lobby of Plymouth Canton's Phase III facility.

Players and cheerleaders ages 9-13 are eligible. The cost is $50 per player and $35 per cheerleader. There is a $125 maximum per family.

For more information, call Sue Herman at 455-7299 or Linda Roushkolb at 459-9519.

● LIONS FOOTBALL

Speaking of football, the Plymouth-Canton Lions are also holding registration for their 1987 season. Any boys or girls, 9-14 years old, interested in playing or cheerleading can sign up from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Ford Road McDonald's April 25 and May 2.

For further information, contact Ernie Parrish (981-1981) or Kathy Milligan (981-6406).

● SOFTBALL TRAVELERS

Any girls 14-16 years old interested in playing for the Mid-America Mustangs, a sponsored, slo-pitch softball travel team, this summer should call Ray Knickerbocker at 455-5893 for further information.

● CANTON GOLF LEAGUES

The Canton Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring several golf leagues at Fellows Creek Golf Course this spring.

The Thursday night men's league will begin April 23, tee times 4-4:44 p.m. The league will run for 22 weeks. Call 397-1000 for more information.

Registration fee for both leagues is $25 plus weekly greens fees. Each league will hold 36 players.

On Tuesday mornings, the seniors golf league will meet. Cost is $5 registration plus weekly greens' fees. Play begins in May. Call 397-5110 for further details.

On Friday mornings starting May 8, a women's golf league will take to the course at Fellows Creek. Cost is $10 for registration, plus weekly greens' fees. Call 397-5110 for further details. There will be a league meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 30, in the Canton Township administration building.

● PLYMOUTH SOFTBALL

The Plymouth Parks and Recreation men's slow-pitch softball league will begin the week of May 4. The entry fee is $500 per team.

New teams can sign up now. There will be a 32-team limit.

For more information, call 455-6620.

● CANTON SOFTBALL

The Canton Parks and Recreation Department still has openings for its men's and women's softball leagues.

Here are the fees: men's first division, $360; men's second division, $340; women's Class A, $350; women's Class B, $260.

Fees must be paid in full at the Canton Parks and Recreation Department.

Canton's P&R department is also sponsoring a coed softball league, with games scheduled for Sunday and Monday evenings beginning in mid-May. Cost is $140 per team, plus a new game ball and a $7 umpire fee before each game. Registration will continue through Thursday, April 30, at the Canton P&R department.

Call 397-5110 or 455-6620 for more information.

● WOMEN'S SOCCER

Anyone age 16-30 interested in trying out for the Canton Wildcats Great Lakes Women's Soccer League team should call Pam Bolser at 453-5413.

The outdoor season runs from June through August. Practices will begin in April.

SC star picks OU

What was a problem area last fall will apparently be an area of strength for Oakland University's soccer team next season.

The Pioneers started the 1986 campaign with Gino Soave as their goalkeeper. But Soave left the team before the first game, and it was mid-season before coach Gary Parsons was able to solidify the position with Vince Aliberti.

Aliberti played well enough to enable OU to advance to the NCAA Division II finals. He's only a sophomore, but he'll be pushed for playing time this year by a pair of recruits: Jeff Vakratsis, from Livonia Clarenceville and Schoolcraft College, and Nino DiCosmo, from Troy Athens.

VAKRATSIS HAD a strong season last fall for SC. He surrendered just 13 goals in 17 games (0.76 per game) in helping the Ocelots win the Region 12 championship for the second-straight season. SC was eliminated in the first round of the NJCAA Inter-regional Tournament by Lewis and Clark CC, 3-0.

Vakratsis chose OU for obvious reasons: "They recruited me. They have a good (soccer) tradition. That's why I chose them — they have a great program."

As for his playing chances, Vakratsis will have to work. Aliberti finished strongly in the nets for the Pioneers last year, and now DiCosmo has joined the battle for a starting role.

DiCosmo graduated from Athens in 1986. He enrolled at Old Dominion, dropped out and came to OU in January. He will carry either sophomore or freshman eligibility.

Vakratsis, who also started for SC's basketball team, will be a junior. And he figures he'll be in the hunt for a starting role.

"I figure I have as good a chance as anybody to start," he said.

A teammate of Vakratsis' at SC — sweeperback Scott Steiner of Livonia Stevenson — is also considering attending OU.

Spartan bats drop Falcons

By Brian Lysaght
staff writer

It wasn't pitching that decided the Farmington-Livonia Stevenson baseball game Monday. It was Stevenson's hitting.

Stevenson's bats kept the Falcons on the run as the Spartans prevailed, 13-7.

Stevenson coach Jim George started six juniors who didn't play varsity ball last year. They helped Stevenson battle back to take a lead Farmington lost and never got back.

"I'm pleased with the way we've been hitting the ball," said George. "Except for the Glenn game (8-2 loss), we've been doing real well. We scored 13 runs today and we can win with that."

Farmington led 3-1 until Stevenson's five-run, fourth inning put the Spartans ahead 6-3.

Spartan Pete Mazzoni scored first in the fourth when Junior Alan Pitts' grounder was bobbled. Junior Ted Fracassi doubled to left and two more runs scored. Dave Houghtby doubled to score Fracassi, but was thrown out to end the inning.

FARMINGTON ANSWERED with three in the bottom of the fifth. Falcon Eric Green doubled and Reid Gough singled. Dave Mote followed with a double that scored Green. Steve Howell singled in Gough. Designated hitter Art Eastman's sacrifice fly allowed Howell to score from third and Farmington to tie the game 6-6.

Fracassi kept the Spartan bats active in the sixth. He singled up the middle to score Laude to put the Spartans up 7-6.

In the top of the seventh, Stevenson scored six times on six hits. Falcon pitcher Bob Curtis walked two and Spartan designated hitter Rick Siavrakas singled in a run. Pinch hitter Ted Shymanski then singled in another run.

That forced Curtis off the mound. Darin Magera came in for Farmington's relief but he fared no better. Bill Covert doubled in a run, and with men on second and third, Steve Prokes hit a long double that scored two more. Fracassi followed with a double and his third RBI.

THEN, WITH TWO on, Houghtby's RBI single put Stevenson ahead 13-6. Farmington scored its final run in the seventh when Steve Howell's double sent Gough across the plate.

Laude gained the win for Stevenson with relief help from Houghtby in the seventh.

Spartan coach George said his winning pitcher, who opened the season last week with a three-hit shutout , couldn't keep his mind on the game because he was involved in a car accident over the weekend.

Pioneers continue to slide

Where's the rain when someone really needs it?

The only thing that rained on Oakland University's baseball team was runs, scored by Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference foes. The first-year Pioneers lost four straight over the weekend, losing twice at Hillsdale College Saturday by 10-0 and 8-2 scores, then falling twice more at home Sunday to Saginaw Valley State by 8-1 and 13-2 margins.

There wasn't much to report for the Pioneers. They managed just 10 hits — five in each double-header. In the 8-1 loss to SVSC in Sunday's opener, the Cardinals' Jeff Shernbarger had a no-hitter going for five innings.

OU's Eric Jorgensen ruined it with a lead-off single in the sixth, and Randy Bailey followed with the Pioneers' second — and last — hit. Jorgensen scored his team's only run on second baseman Rolly Noe's error.

Jim Kosnik pitched the first five innings for OU, allowing seven hits, three walks and five earned runs.

Noe and Tony Goble had two hits apiece and Tony Goble knocked in three runs for SVSC.

IN THE NIGHTCAP, the Pioneers were behind 9-0 before they even got to the plate. Jorgensen started for OU and failed to retire a batter, surrendering six runs on five hits and a walk. Gordon York followed and pitched all five innings (the game was ended after five by the GLIAC's 10-run mercy rule), giving up seven unearned runs.

Kosnik doubled in a run for OU in the third off winning pitcher Jon Skiba, who allowed just three hits and five walks, fanning five for SVSC (15-11, 4-4).

Saturday's games at Hillsdale were similar, and one big reason was Birmingham Brother Rice grad Joe Arends, the Charger shortstop.

OU lost the opener on the five-inning, 10-run mercy rule, with Troy Salvior stopping the Pioneers on two hits and a walk. He struck out five. OU's only hits were a fourth-inning double by Tom Zerona (from Wayne Memorial) and a fifth-inning single by John Finley.

CHRIS FOSTER was the losing pitcher. Foster was tagged for nine hits, three walks and seven runs in four innings.

Arends blasted a three-run homer in the fifth that helped invoke the mercy rule.

In the second game, Arends added another fifth-inning, three-run homer to finish the game with three hits and three RBI. OU trailed 4-0 after four, but struck for two runs in the fifth on two walks and Zerona's two-run single. But Hillsdale iced the win with a four-run rally in its half of the fifth.

Dave Waldis started and took the loss for OU, surrendering five hits, four walks and four runs in 3⅔ innings. Ron Eible limited OU to two hits and four walks in 4⅓ innings to post the victory.

The four setbacks dropped the Pioneers to 1-9 overall and 1-7 in the GLIAC.

Eagle newcomers make future bright

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Rich Zalenski could hardly ask for a better situation.

Zalenski was co-coach of St. Mary's College's basketball team last year. This year — with Tim Domke resigning to pursue other interests — Zalenski will serve not only as the sole basketball coach, but as athletic director as well.

His major concern will be basketball. As co-coach, he did most of the recruiting the past few years, so he should have few problems assuming complete command.

"I'm very excited about it," said the 26-year-old Concordia College graduate. "I think it's a great opportunity for me."

Zalenski will hardly be stepping into a rebuilding situation. The Eagles lost just two seniors — and one starter — to graduation. And five newcomers should more than fill those holes.

GONE ARE starting point guard Lance Davis and reserve guard Tim Morton (from Avondale). Taking over for Davis will be one of two redshirt juniors: Anthony Strickland (from Wayne Memorial and Michigan Christian College) and Clarence Jones (from Schoolcraft College).

Zalenski thinks both have better physical tools than Davis, but neither has displayed Davis' leadership.

In case they can't handle the job, Zalenski has recruited a freshman who might: Denny Butcher, a 6-foot guard from Milford-Lakeland who averaged 18.2 points and four assists a game as a senior. Butcher also happens to be the son of former Piston coach Donnis Butcher.

"He has exceptional court sense," said Zalenski of Butcher. "He probably won't help us right now, but he will down the road."

Zalenski earlier signed 6-3 guard-forward Andre Sasser of Detroit Cody. Sasser, too, can't be counted on to make an immediate impact, but will help St. Mary's in the future.

DAVE BANSEK is another story. The fifth newcomer to the Eagles is a 6-7½ forward-center who, according to Zalenski, "is one we're expecting to come in and help us immediately. He gives us some inches. We have no one over 6-6, and Dave is a very good leaper and a good rebounder. He can shoot from 22 feet and in and handles the ball real well."

Bansek is from Lorain, Ohio, where as a senior he helped Admiral King High School post a 23-1 record and No. 1 state ranking. Bansek spent one year at Henry Ford CC, but dropped out and did not play last season. At Henry Ford CC, he averaged nine points and 14 rebounds.

With the five newcomers and a solid group of returnees — including starters Jon Bow, a 6-6 forward and all-NAIA District 23 player; Mo Steward, a 6-5 center; Theo Pearson, a 6-4 forward; and Safaa Qasawa, a 6-3 shooting guard — Zalenski figures his team to be "better defensively and quicker.

"We'll play an up-tempo game, pressing from baseline to baseline. Strickland and Jones will probably score most of their points in transition."

The Eagles finished last season with five straight victories and seven wins in their last eight games to end up with an 18-16 record. Zalenski would like nothing better than to keep that streak going into next season.

Glenn gets past North

Westland John Glenn scored three unearned runs in the bottom of second inning to break a 3-3 tie and defeat North Farmington 7-4 in baseball Monday.

Trent Hiner batted three-for-four — two singles and a triple — and scored two runs for North, 1-2. Joe Siurtz slammed a first-inning homer and also scored a pair of runs, Lenoy Hill was two-for-four and Rick Karcher had a double and two RBI.

Karcher pitched the first four innings and was the losing pitcher. Mark Taylor pitched two innings of two-hit relief.

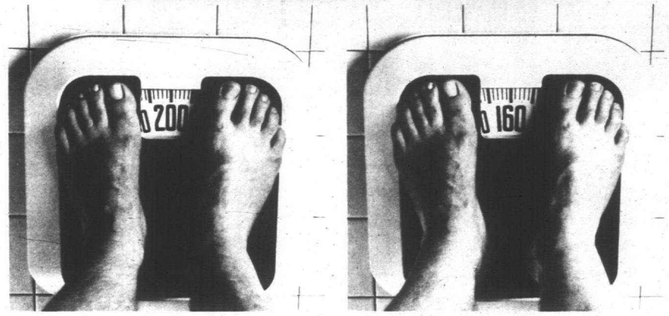
REDUCE YOUR CHANCES OF GETTING HEART DISEASE, KIDNEY DISEASE OR GOING BLIND.



Obesity can start a chain reaction to poor health that can be devastating.
To begin with, most physicians and researchers consider obesity to be the major cause of diabetes in adults. Up to 90% of adults diagnosed as having diabetes, in fact, are overweight.
Of course, once you have diabetes your chances of developing heart disease, kidney disease, or going blind increase dramatically.
As a person with diabetes you'll be twice as prone to heart disease. 17 times as prone to kidney disease. And 25 times as prone to blindness, if you are insulin-dependent.
Diabetes, in fact, can shorten your life expectancy by one-third.
Fortunately, diabetes in adults, in most cases, can be prevented with careful weight control, healthy eating habits, and regular exercise.
So if you're overweight, doesn't it make sense to take off the extra weight?
Instead of years off your life?
FIGHT SOME OF THE WORST DISEASES OF OUR TIME. Support the American Diabetes Association.

For the Best of Your Life!

It's a special day for Tommy. His 9th birthday.

He's gotten a lot of great gifts. A new mitt, a bike, and one surprise no one expected.

When Tommy fell off his new bike this morning and broke his arm, his mom was glad she could rely on their McAuley Health Plan coverage for the care he needed: the visit to the doctor, the x-rays, and his new cast. Care that makes them both feel good.

This birthday will always be special for Tommy. And for his mom, too, because McAuley Health Plan lets her take care of the really important things.

Happy birthday, Tommy.

Study finds that time does heal

AP — Adjusting to widowhood often is easier than people expect, and many people appear to eventually adopt a positive outlook despite the loss of a spouse, says Miami University sociologist Sue Kunkel.

Her analysis of a seven-year study found what philosphers have said for ages: time is a great healer.

"That was an encouraging finding. To the extent we can generalize it, it's good news for the people who experience it," Kunkel said.

A team of Miami University sociologists, including Kunkel, studied the experiences of a men and women from the Oxford, Ohio, area. She began on the study in 1975 while a graduate student at Miami, whose main campus is in Oxford.

Because the study was limited to a small, rural Midwestern town, it did not consider big-city factors that could make life difficult for the widowed, including crime and lack of easily access to transportation, Kunkel said.

She said the closely knit support systems in a small town can help widows or widowers, compared with the problems faced by isolated, big-city counterparts.

"That's why we hesitate to make sweeping generalizations," she said. "I think that small-town feeling makes a difference.

"By no means is there a consensus that people do OK. Not having enough money can be a big deterrent to adjusting. The other concern is health, staying well."

She said the findings are similar to those of other studies done recently on the experiences of widowhood. The Miami study's subjects included men and women, ages 50 to 94.

Kunkel said she made it a point to include men and women in the study to determine whether one sex seems to have a harder time adjusting to widowhood. The researchers found some differences.

"Widowers see family as often as do widows. They see friends less often," Ms. Kunkel said. "But the biggest difference is how satisfied they are with those visits. Women want to see more of their family and friends than men do.

"A second difference is that widows show more symptoms of stress, particularly when it comes to being able to sleep."

The study did not indicate that men generally fare worse in adjusting to loss of a spouse, she said.

"There is a common assumption that when men become widowed, they become isolated and lonely, withdrawn from family and friends," Ms. Kunkel said. "There is this sad picture of these old men left to fend for themselves and being pretty unhappy and miserable, but this isn't the case at all."

Bob Atchley, director of the Scripps Foundation Gerontology Center at Miami, started the study and enlisted the help of Ms. Kunkel, his assistant. E.W. Scripps Co., a Cincinnati-based newspaper publisher, funded the project to to study population problems.

Business index choppy

In February, the Michigan business activity index (MBAI) fell to 131, a loss of five points from January, according to economist David L. Littmann of Manufacturers Bank.

Compared with the first two months of 1986, however, the MBAI has shown neither a net gain nor a net loss.

Economic activity in the state has been uncharacteristically choppy since September, principally reflecting spurts and retrenchments in production and sales stemming from sales or financing programs undertaken by the automakers.

Also, Littmann said, abnormally volatile investment-related activity is attributed in part to changes accompanying the federal tax reform program.

Top execs stay healthy

AP — Top executives of U.S. companies are a hard-working group who rarely get sick, according to a new survey.

The poll, published recently by Howard-Sloan Inc., an executive recruiting firm, covered 175 chairmen of Fortune 500 companies, the 500 biggest corporations in the country.

Sixty-seven percent of the chairmen polled said they worked between 50 and 65 hours a week, 16 percent work 65 to 70-hours and only 7 percent put in less than 40 hours.

Almost 70 percent of the top executives said they took no sick days last year, while nearly half said they do not take any breaks during the work day. Of those who do take some time out during the day, 36 percent use it to exercise, 26 percent just relax and 8 percent meditate.

● LCL INVITATIONAL

Budget problems last year forced the Livonia Cultural League to forego its annual purchase award invitational art show, but the event will definitely be held this year.

Under the chairmanship of Lucille McNamara, the show will be on exhibit in the Livonia City Hall from Monday, April 27 through Friday, May 15. Open to the public, the exhibit will feature the works of 75 Michigan artists. Traditionally, the LCL purchases the work of the first place winner. The art work then becomes part of a public collection permanently on display in the city's Fifth Floor Gallery and in offices in the City Hall.

Awards will be presented at a champage reception preceding the opening of the art show.

● WSU CHOIR

The Wayne University Choral Union and Orchestra, under the direction of Dennis J. Tini, will present a spring concert at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, April 26, in St. Genevieve Catholic Church, 29015 Jamison, Livonia. General admission is $5 with a $3 rate for children and seniors.

The choral union and orchestra will perform the following selections: Schubert's "Magnificat" and Vincet Persichetti's "Gloria" from "Mass for Mixed Voices." Singers from St. Genevieve and St. Raymond Church, Detroit, will join the WSU group for Verdi's "Te Deum."

The Women's Chorale will perform selections by Porpora, Walter Watson, Pulenc, Verdi and Dawson.

● AN EVENING WITH CHARLOTTE FORD

Author-lecturer-fashion expert Charlotte Ford will be presented in "An Evening with Charlotte Ford" on Monday, May 18, in the Birmingham Theater. Proceeds from a special afterglow will benefit the American Lung Association. For ticket information, call Michigan Women Magazine, one of the sponsors, at 851-5755 or the Birmingham box office.

● VAAL CLASSES

Registration is under way for spring art classes sponsored by the Visual Art Association of Livonia. The classes are conducted in Jefferson Center; 9501 Henry Ruff, Livonia.

Included in the schedule are night classes in watercolor and photography.

A new class being offered is "Everything You Wanted to Know About Modern Art but Were Afraid to Ask," will be offered from 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m. Fridays, beginning April 24. The five-week series will conclude in a tour of local galleries.

Workshops include "Wet in Wet Watercolors" by Michigan artist Edee Joppich from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Saturday, April 25. Price is $20 for members and $25 for non-members. She also will conduct a workshop, "Landscape on Location," from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Friday, June 5.

"Watercolor by Design" will be the focus of a third workshop to be conducted by VAAL instructor Marge Chellstorp from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, May 15. The price is $20 for members and $25 for non-members.

For more information, call Shirley Ceasar, 421-3207, or Marge Masek, 464-6772.

The Schoolcraft Choir, with Ruth Burczyk as guest pianist, will be one of the highlights of the final concert of the season of the Oakway Symphony.

The event will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 26 in Clarenceville's Schmidt Auditorium on Middle Belt Road, south of Eight Mile.

To be performed are Beethoven's "Fantasy for Chorus," with the orchestra under the director of Oakway director Francesco DiBlasi. Mozart's "Regina Coeli" will be conducted by the choir's music director, Dave Jorlett. Works of Bellini, Gounod and Wagner's Tannhauser Overture will also be performed.

Tickets for the concert are $8.50 and $6 and are available at Hammell's Music Store and Madonna College in Livonia and Executive Office Supply in downtown Farmington. For information, call 353-9128.

Canton Township resident Connie Lucas won second place in the Farmington Artists Club's annual spring exhibition, which opens next weekend, for her watercolor entitled "Red Pepper Green."

Art fest

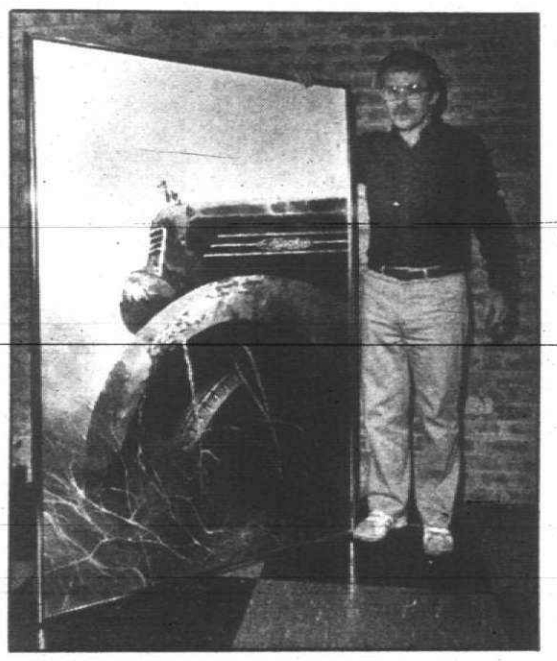
OVER 200 works — juried and unjuried — will highlight the annual spring exhibit of fine art by the Farmington Artists Club Friday through Sunday, April 24-26, in Mercy Center, Farmington Hills.

A reception honoring the artists will kick off the exhibit at 7 p.m. Thursday.

A prestigious juried gallery will feature 100 works and an unjuried gallery will show an additional 100 works. In addition to that, a budget-priced unframed section will also have approximately 100 works for sale.

Complimentary refreshments will be served. There is no admission charge.

The show's juror was William Girard, professor at the Center for Creative Studies for the past 19 years. Show hours are: 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. both Friday and Saturday; noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday.



A "Mack" attack won a first-place award for Northville resident Tom Hale, who works in acrylic with a "watercolor" technique.

Designer is de-barking up right tree

By Arlene Funke
special writer

KATHLEEN CROMBIE loves to put on her biking boots and forage for fresh barks and fallen tree limbs to fashion into unusual baskets.

Crombie, 35, is a well-known, award-winning basketry designer and artist who runs the Tint and Splint Basketry in Garden City. She especially enjoys gathering her own natural materials.

"I don't go out and chop down trees," said Crombie, a Dearborn resident. "I use expendable tree barks, prunings. It has to be fresh and (harvested) two or three days after cutting."

Crombie's bright, airy shop in the Sheridan Square Shopping Center, on Ford Road west of Middlebelt, smells fresh and woodsy. Brightly-hued strips of reed hang on the wall, waiting to take new life as a basket.

CROMBIE HAS BUILT her reputation by studying art and by teaching classes, both locally and out of state. She has won numerous awards, and she writes how-to articles for Westland-based Basketmake Quarterly and other basketry magazines. She sell basketry supplies through her national, mail-order business.

"I find it exciting," Crombie said. "I will never learn it all, but I want to. It's an opportunity to share what I enjoy the best. To me, coming to work is like playing."

Currently, Crombie is preparing for her upcoming workshop on tree bark basketry, to be held April 25-26 in her shop. In August, she will teach a week-long class at the Appalachian Center for the Crafts in Smithville, Tenn.

Throughout the year, Crombie sponsors two- or three-day weekend workshops in her store featuring other well-known basketry specialists. For example, Bryant Holsenbeck, of Durham, N.C., recently taught a seminar on experimental techniques.

"The one thing about basketry that you need to know is that there are so many forms of it," said Holsenbeck. She brought samples of her experimental work, including a purse, woven to look like a bird's nest and festooned with "found objects" such as buttons and beads; necklaces and earrings; and a hat that resembles an upside-down basket.

CROMBIE ENJOYS creating one-of-a-kind pieces. For example, she will use wood such as aspen from Colorado, or Kooboo rattan from Indonesia. She will remove the bark and oil the piece, weaving it with such materials as cedar bark or jute. A pink-and-green basket, of hand-dyed reed and date sticks, recently won the juror's choice award at an exhibition of the Michigan League of Handweavers.

"I call it Neapolitan because it looks like Neapolitan ice cream," Crombie said.

Crombie disagrees with people who would call basketry a fad. From her perspective, basketry is an ancient tradition that is both artistic and functional, having appeal to both beginners and advanced artists.

"Anybody can make a basket," she said. "Not everybody wants the same thing out of basketry. We are educators as well (as artists)."

CROMBIE GREW UP in Warren and graduated from Northern Michigan University in 1973, where she majored in speech and held a minor in psychology. Her career as an artist and businesswoman began with her interest in art, design and natural materials.

Crombie studied with Theresa Ohno, a Plymouth basket-maker. She also took courses to earn a master gardener certification from Michigan State University.

"I was planning to go into horticulture. This just evolved because of my background. I have always been a patron of the arts. It's amazing how it comes together."

While those plans were taking shape, Crombie worked as a sales representative for a tobacco company, taught basketry classes in her home and cared for two sons, Derek, now 12, and Chad, 10.

Crombie's business partner is her husband Robyn, an assistant football coach at Lincoln Park High School. They started the business almost three years ago, and recently moved from a shop a few blocks east on Ford Road.

THE NAME, TINT and Splint, comes partially from Crombie's penchant for using intense color on her baskets. Splint is another name for the flat reed which is a prominent material in basket-making.

"Always in my life, I have tried to do the best job I possibly can. I'm never satisfied with second best. I'm not afraid to take a chance, either in art or the business world."

Crombie is a member of the board of directors for the Garden City Chamber of Commerce, and is proud to have won that organization's Awareness Award last year, because her business brought recognition to the city.

At times, Crombie finds herself in a frustrating struggle between her dual roles as artist and businesswoman.

"You have to have a tremendous amount of patience. Some days I'm a business person, and some days I'm the artist. Some days, I'm both. A professional wants it all."

A shear delight

Spring comes in like a lamb at the Detroit Zoo in the first attraction of the upcoming season Thursday, April 23.

It's called "Sheep to Shawl," a demonstration in cooperation with Gloria Bellairs, owner of the Hillside Farm and Sheep Shed in Clarkston.

Expert shearer Douglas Hoolsema will shear the Detroit Zoo's own sheep at the barnyard exhibit at 10 Mile and Woodward. The Tuesday Treadlers, a spinning guild composed of former students of Bellairs, will cart, spin and weave the wool just as it was done 100 years ago.

A newly spun, fringed shawl, modeled by a celebrity guest, and other wool items will be sold during a 2 p.m. auction, conducted by Joe Walker through the cooperation of Dumouchelle Art Galleries in Detroit. Proceeds from the auction will be donated to the zoo's Adopt an Animal program.

The Michigan Hand Spinners Guild will be present in costume to entertain for the day.

WHAT MAKES dieting so difficult?

Last month I made the mistake of mentioning my diet in my column. Believe it or not, I had strangers pat me on the belly and say, "How's it going, Dave?"

Then there is a my diet sabotager, Mike Roman, a retired chef who loves to make jams and jellies. As soon as he finds out that I'm on a diet, he brings in jars of diet land mines — like gooseberry jam or apple cinnamon, strawberry, rhubarb and wild mountain blackberry jellies.

I have never asked him, but there is always the outside chance that he may be using Nutrasweet and I could . . .Oh, forget it.

I'M TRYING THIS dieting technique that calls for drinking water at certain times of the day. One quart in the morning, noon and before 8 p.m. Hey, I like water, don't get me wrong. But one of the things you must contend with is that what goes in must come out at some point in time.

But while it is time consuming, it's also working. I have only about 10 more pounds to go and my winter layer will be gone. But dieting is difficult.

Speaking of things being difficult, this month about 60 of my adult students have been working on portraits. After 59½ of them have asked the same question, "Why are portraits so difficult?"

This portrait of movie director Alfred Hitchcock was drawn by Betty Whyatt, a student in one of David Messing's art classes. The medium is white pencil on 921 black mat board.

I WOULD LIKE you to consider the word "critical" which means "careful evaluation" and keep it in mind in terms of things being difficult or just plain old hard to do — perhaps as some students perceive portrait painting.

Imagine you have just finished one of your still lifes. Let's say there is a daffodil in your painting. Now the many shapes on the stem, leaves and petals of the flower may, in number, exceed the shapes in a portrait. So the portrait should not be any more difficult to render than the flower, and, indeed, it is not. However, the portrait is many times more critical than the flower.

If, for example, you painted the petals of the flower inaccurately or just differently, it would not be of any great consequence. But if you represent a person's features inaccurately or differently, then the painting becomes less characteristic and very obvious.

Here again "careful evaluation" seems to be an excellent definition of the word critical. So carefully evaluate the sizes and shapes of the facial features. Not what you imagine they should look like, not what you feel they should look like and not even what the person in the photo wishes they looked like. In other words, what you see is what you get.

You can be slightly complimentary in your handling of facial features. Takaing a tad off the double chin, playing down a few wrinkles and a touch more color here and there certainly will please your customer.

TRACING IS ALSO very help, especially on portraits. If you a doing a portrait from a photo or even a caricature, you may find that you are overloaded with inform tion. Every skin tone imaginable, sub.. shes, tiny wrinkles catch lights in the eyes, lashe, brows, lines in the lips, etc. It doesn't take long before you are overwhelmed with details and lose the basic shapes.

Here's a tip: When drawing from photos, lay a sheet of tracing paper over the photo and trace all that you can see. Because tracing paper is translucent, it will block out most of the details and only the most basic lines and shapes will show.

Now after you have finished tracing, set the photo aside and begin your portrait looking only at your traced image. By tracing, you reduced the multitude of details down to just a few lines and shapes, which is, of course, a better beginning. Then, after you have correctly portrayed the characteristic feature or features, it is then easier to refer back to the photo for the finishing details.

One final thought: portraits are "critical" — diets are "d-i-f-f-i-c-u-l-t."

Sonoma's best to help music and dance

The Sonoma County Wineries Association Seventh Annual Tour will include a Detroit wine-tasting stop on Wednesday, April 22. The 7-10 p.m. gala event, held at the Novi Hilton, will benefit the Center for Creative Studies-Institute of Music and Dance.

Over 40 wineries from one of California's most prolific wine-growing regions will be represented with new and exciting releases.

Guests will have the rare opportunity to meet the winemakers in person to discuss their favorite vintages.

A silent auction featuring 22 magnums of Sonoma wine in specially designed wooden cases will be held from 7-9 p.m. The featured lot is a rare balthazar of Clos du Bois wine donated by J P Industries Inc. of Ann Arbor. (A balthazar is a single bottle containing 12 liters of wine.)

Hors d'oeuvres will accompany the wine. Music for the evening will be provided by the Andrea Moon Jazz Trio from the Insititute of Music and Dance.

IN SUPPORT OF this unusual tasting event, a number of area restaurants and retailers are making donations to the Institute of Music and Dance for Sonoma County wines sold during April. Participating restaurants include: The Chambertin, the Crystal Swan Room in the Novi Hilton, DaEdoardo's, Darby's, Escoffier, Fairfield's in the Sterling Inn, Little Harry's Pontchartrain Wine Cellars, and the Renaissance Club.

Retail stores participating are the Beverage Warehouse, Bottle and Basket, Gibb's Worldwide Wines, Merchant of Vino (Troy, Southfield and Birmingham), Village Corner and the Village Market.

The Institute of Music and Dance is the largest school of its kind in Michigan, offering high quality performing arts instruction at locations in Detroit, Southfield, Grosse Pointe and Mt. Clemens. Along with the College of Art and Design, the Institute is an affiliate of the Center for Creative Studies.

Tickets for the Sonoma County Wine Tasting are $25 ($30 at the door), and may be purchased by calling the Institute of Music and Dance at 831-2870. MasterCard and Visa are accepted.

Backlit clouds can produce a truly spectacular picture. Monte Nagler included just enough horizon to give his photograph a foundation.

Dramatic cloud patterns make exciting subject

Monte Nagler

ONE OF THE MOST exciting things to photograph, especially at this time of year, is clouds. How often does a dramatic cloud pattern catch your eye and you find yourself staring skyward, oblivious to other surroundings?

We've all marveled at fickle cloud formations constantly changing in shape and form as they're nudged across the sky by gentle winds.

And we've all shared an ominous feeling at the sight of a fast-approaching storm as black clouds threaten to disrupt a serene day.

Clouds come in a variety of shapes, textures, and colors. They can be huge and billowy white, or soft and wispy. They can be bold and dramatic, even frightening at times. Capturing them on film can be truly exciting and will reward you with many intriguing pictures.

HOW TO photograph clouds better? First, learn to "see" them. Look for constantly changing patterns and shapes that resemble animals and human faces.

See how clouds can become a colorful palette as the descending sun paints the sky. Notice how a receding dark storm cloud serves as an exciting backdrop for foreground subjects being lit by the rays of an emerging sun.

Once you "see" the clouds, how do you enhance your photographs of them? Begin by developing a good sense of composition by using a low horizon line to accentuate the clouds and give your shot a feeling of spaciousness.

When shooting white, puffy clouds against a blue sky with color film, use a polarizer filter. Position yourself at a 45-degree angle to the sun and rotate your polarizer until you see maximum blue. The result will be an impact-filled photograph showing the white clouds contrasted against a rich, deep blue sky.

ADD SPICE to your cloud pictures by using colored filters, such as orange or red. Used at sunset, these filters will give you truly spectacular results.

Black-and-white film "sees" white clouds and blue sky as almost identical tones. Thus clouds will become lost in the finished print. But filters in yellow, orange and red values will produce cloud separation for you.

A yellow filter will give you normal cloud-sky separation. Orange produces more. And a red filter renders a blue sky almost black with very striking results. A polarizer filter will also darken the sky in black and white photography.

TRAVELING BY air? Clouds from an airplane have a character all their own as they appear like a bed of fluffy cotton. Just set your camera at a fast shutter speed to eliminate vibration and the shot is yours.

Want an exciting idea? Sunbeams bursting through clouds can be captured on film. Be on the lookout for them and underexpose slightly.

● VOICES OF SPRING

International Opera Theater presents "Voci Di Primavera," a celebration of spring; songs and arias performed by Christina Lypecky, Kaye Rittinger, Denise Brander, Quinto Milito, Clayton Norris and commendatore Dino Valle. David Wilson will accompany on harpsichord and piano.

The event will take place at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 23, in Henry Ford Estate-Fair Lane on the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus. Tickets are $8. For ticket information, call 525-1111.

● SABBATICAL LEAVE EXHIBITION

Sabbatical Leave Exhibition will open Thursday, April 16, in Sarkis Galleries, Center for Creative Studies, 245 E. Kirby, Detroit, featuring Maxell Davis, Russell Keeter, Leo Mardirosian, Gordon Orear and Keith Vreeland. A reception for the artists 4-6 p.m. will highlight the opening.

● STUDIO ART GLASS

"Twenty-five Years of Studio Glass," from the Hilbert and Jean Sosin collection, will be on display from Friday, April 3, through Monday, June 15, at the University of Michigan-Dearborn library. The collection provides an opportunity to observe the growth of studio art glass from its early stages to today. There is no admission charge.

● OCC EXHIBIT

The Oakland Community College Arts and Humanities Club is presenting a "Small Works" exhibit at the Southfield campus through Friday, April 24. The juried show will feature multimedia entries. The exhibit will be open to the public from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday-Thursday, and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Fridays. OCC's Southfield campus is on Rutland Drive, just north of Nine Mile between Greenfield and Southfield roads. For more information, call 967-5747.

● AWARD PROGRAM

The Farmington Area Arts Commission has announced its annual artist-in-residence award program, which will end with the reception for the recipient Sunday, May 17, in the Farmington Community Center.

The award is given on the basis of high achievement and recognition in the fields of visual art, dance, drama, literature or music.

● DONATIONS NEEDED

Search your walls, attics and imagination for an appropriate work of art or an antique for the University of Michigan Museum of Art's art and antique auction and sale Friday-Saturday, April 24-25.

Anyone with items to contribute may call Ann Spehar or Mary Jane Hogan at 764-0395. Donations are tax deductible.

Proceeds will become part of the museum's acquisition fund. Sponsored by the Friends of the Museum, the sale and auction will be held from noon to 9 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday in the Michigan Union. Free admission and open to the public both days.

Photorama set for April 25-26

More than 2,000 photographers from across the midwest will meet Friday-Saturday, April 25-26 in the Dearborn Civic Center for the spring photo trade show, Photorama USA.

Photographers of all descriptions — shutterbugs, snapshooters, camera collectors, professional and beginners — are expected to attend. About 100 dealers will display new and used photo equipment; including cameras and lenses, as well as antique and collectable photograph items. Most of the dealers will be prepared to buy, sell or trade equipment.

Allan Lowy will conduct a workshop on model photography that will include models in a studio setting, with special lighting and backdrops. The public is invited to participate by bringing their camera and imagination.

Photorama will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $3.50. Photorama will operate a hotline from April 20. The number is 884-2243.

The Green Hill difference:

Do you come home to an apartment or a 75-acre estate?
Most apartment living measures 600+ sq. ft. Ours measures over 3,000,000 sq. ft. Green Hill residents enjoy a gorgeous 75-acre estate setting of park and woodland, peace and tranquility. You're right next door to the I-275 corridor, Michigan's multi-billion dollar explosive growth area, and just minutes away from I-96, a direct route to downtown Detroit. See our 1- and 2-bedroom luxury apartments, terrace residences and country townhouses on 9 Mile, 1½ miles west of Farmington Road, in Farmington Hills.
