Water board puts snag in sewer plan

By Anita Crone Diane Gale staff writers

There is another roadblock for Canton and Plymouth townships to clear before hooking up with a new sewer system.

The Michigan Water Resource Commission denied plans June 18 to send excess flows from the Western Utility Authority involving Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships - to the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority sewage treatment plant.

The action will delay efforts by the communities to hook up to a new sewer system, which is reminiscent of the long-stalled Su-

"We've said we won't spend money on engineering studies until we're assured we can go to the plant," said Maurice Breen, Plymouth Township supervisor.

"We're still putting together the mechan-

THE SEVEN MEMBER commission rejected the plan and requested a study on the impact of increased flows of the lower Huron River and on Belleville Lake.

'The commission was reluctant to authorize the new level even on a study basis since it might be construed as approval for expansion," said Thomas Hoogerhyde, commissioner representing the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Plant expansion was needed by a preliminary agreement between YCUA and Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships.

Currently, YCUA is running at 50 percent of its capacity, said Roy Schrameck, Department of Natural Resource district supervisor.

"My understanding is there's not sufficient capacity in YCUA to serve the Western Wayne Utility to ultimate flow (which includes a 20-year plan)," Schrameck said.

THE COMMISSION'S ACTION caught WATA and YCUA officials by surprise.

Outgoing Water Resources Commission Chairman James Murray said he believed YCUA expansion is possible.

"I favor expansion of the plant. I'm not sure I favor doubling the capacity but I think some expansion would be acceptable.' Murray said studies performed by DNR and YCUA engineers have shown YCUA's outflow of effluent has usually been well below allowable levels. YCUA empties into Willow Creek, a shallow, slow-flowing river, and eventually ends up in the Huron. "Studies have shown that YCUA is not a contributor to pollution in either the Huron

River or Willow Creek," Murray said

The seven member water resources commission rejected the plan and requested a study on the impact of increased flows of the lower Huron River and on Belleville Lake.

Tornadoes don't daunt mobile home dwellers

staff writer

People who live in mobile homes in Canton and Plymouth townships apparently are more willing to stay put during severe weather than to seek shelter elsewhere, as advised by safety experts.

That's the impression gleaned by interviewing managers at mobile home parks in those communities after a tornado slammed into a mobile home park last weekend in nearby

Plymouth Hills Mobile Court and Oak Haven Trailer Court, both in Plymouth Township, have 424 and 109 units, respectively. A small brick laundry is at Plym-

Joan Jasin goes through rigorous training as part of her preparation for the Senior Olympics later this month.

On golden quest Senior Olympics lures 62-year-old

By Diane Gale staff writer

When Joan Jasin was 40 her sister suggested she was getting too old to be on a baseball team.

But she didn't stop then and she has no plans to slow down now.

At 62 the Canton resident has been accepted to compete in the swimming events in the first National Senior Olympics, which will be held in St. Louis, Mo., late this month and early next month.

Just because she's over 60 doesn't mean I have to sit in a rocking chair," she says.

JASIN IS A long way from that with a rigorous routine of jogging 2.5 miles four times weekly, playing on three baseball teams, swimming three or four times weekly and playing volleyball with the Canton's senior citizen's sports programs. Somehow she finds time to help with her husband's businesses in Garden City

'I'm up at 6 a.m. and go to bed at 10 p.m. — so there's no time to sit around," says Jasin, tilting her head back and laughing with her entire body.

"You can feel down and go out and exercise and feel 100 percent better - it's a shame people just don't investigate that. I just want to keep active to stay fit. I don't want to be a burden to my family.'

The mother of four says her children always have been "very supportive" of her athletic interests.

"I remember about 10 years ago saying I shouldn't be playing softball," she says. "And they said 'Go on, get your glove and mom. Jasin has a youthful spirit that emanates from her relaxed posture and optimistic attitude. "I try to look for the best. It's a waste to get angry about something you can't change, so you turn your thoughts to something else.' JASIN STARTED swimming as a kid in the creek near her Grand Blanc house. "If we got all our work done, we went down to the creek and

But even different parts of Canton were hit harder than others. The north end had about 5 inches of rain and the south end had about 3 inches, he said.

Canton DPW and police say residents near Lilley between Joy and Ford suffered the most. Canton fire officials cut off the electrical power at Honeytree Apartments at Joy and Basement flooding can be limited with installation of downspouts, which direct water away from the house. In fact, Dingeldey said, in Canton there's an ordinance requiring them. He expects the township to begin issuing tickets against homeowners without downspouts. Canton DPW employees clocked about $3,000 in overtime to deal with effects of the storm.

Even though DPW workers had their share of work during the weekend - with four main breaks on Friday and carnival activities throughout the weekend - Dingledey saw a bright side.

The total cost per unit, which includes installation, renovation, utility hookup and window coverings, will be about $28,110 per unit. School officials say that the cost of a new unit would have been $43,200 each. This represents a 48 percent savings by purchasing used units.

The McFadden Corporation, the only other company specializing in portable classroom renovation, could not complete the work before the school opening in fall and declined to bid for that reason.

According to Homes, projected 1987-88 enrollment at the four schools are: Bird, 650; Allen, 600; Eriksson, 780; and Fiegel, 625. Yearend enrollment was: Bird, 582; Allen, 606; Eriksson, 794; and Fiegel, 605. The board also approved $45,490.50 for the Van Buren Elec-

Must make clear election purpose

Susan Rosiek assistant managing editor

Trustees has asked permission from Wayne County Elections Division to conduct a special advisory election on hiring a full-time professional superintendent to adminis-

The county has not yet approved the election, and there may be some question about calling a special election for an advisory issue. The county may or may not approve the election date.

If the election is called, the Canton Township Board of Trustees needs to make clear to voters the advisory nature of the ballot issue. Residents should not be misled into believing that the results of the vote will be binding on the board; otherwise the issue is not advi-

AN ADVISORY ballot proposal does have value. An advisory question provides a formal method for residents to offer their opinions to their government leaders on a matter of importance to

The Canton board, in its regular meetings, allows time for citizen comments on its agenda. The reason is to allow trustees the advantage of participation by residents before making a decision. Their thoughts are weighed with other information trustees have access to before a final vote is taken. Some residents feel the board ought to "listen to the people" during citizen comments and then vote the way the people speak. But representative democracy does not

For the same reason, the board and administration should not be under any pressure to let the advisory vote be binding. The vote should be analyzed in

One problem is that only a minority must be left to the board.

THE ISSUE itself is an important one that will affect readers. The issue is important enough that there is nothing wrong with seeking the advice of the misled. The board must make it perfectly clear that the vote is advisory only. If that distinction is known, then the vote will have value.

Another point is that the law establishing charter townships allows for trustees to vote to hire a superintendent without a vote of the people. If the change is to be made, then the board should face up to its responsibility. Trustees would be ducking their responsibility by calling for an advisory vote and then "leaving it up to the people" to decide. The law provides this issue is to be decided by legislators and that duty should not be passed on to of residents will vote on the advisory issue. Will we let 20 percent of the electorate (an even smaller percentage of residents) decide the issue? What if the electorate splits 55-45? Do we disregard that advice but accept a 60-40 or 70-30 split? Surely an 80-20 split with an 80 percent voter turnout would mean something. A 10 percent voter turnout and a 55-45 split would mean little. That's why the analysis of the results

Residents are tired of the lawsuits and bickering among board members. Many or most residents may be ready to have the reins of government turned over to a full-time professional. The decision is important enough to take the pulse of the people, but the board must the same way opinions of residents at decide. Ultimately we will look at seven

Winning the fight for equality: Progress at a dinosaur's pace

That's the word from Richard Redding, curator of collections at the Cranbrook Institute of Science where lifelike dinosaurs are stomping, roaring and otherwise putting on a gigantic and spectacular show through Sept. 6.

When you say something went the way of the dinosaur, explains Redding, you are implying something failed to keep pace with the times and became that and, although some men are obsolete, probably through shortsight-

True, dinosaurs did become extinct, but only after ruling the planet for 130 million years. Humans still have a few millenniums to go to match that record. Still, during our short time on earth, humans have created their own dinosaurs, which leads me to the topic of club's membership ranks with worthy feminists. Don't hurl stones at me yet; sorts of both genders.

In Southfield, the Rotary unanimously accepted its first woman member, Rosaline Sparr, a store owner who said she was no "women's libber." She said she is committed to increasing that

SO WHEN I equate dinosaurs with feminists, I am not trying to be insulting. I'm talking about two groups not used to getting the proper credit.

This all reminds me of a stewardess in the early '70s who explained that she was not a feminist because the women's movement had done nothing to help her. She was married and a mother, something that would have grounded her career had feminists not made a ruckus. Pilots, by the way, were always allowed to be husbands and fathers. Pilots were also men. Vive la difference.

In a generation's time, mothers have not only become stewardesses but women of all sorts are now allowed to join most service clubs. That's progress. But it is at a pace the dinosaurs would ond of out-dueling a former World Cup umping champion, the Canadian horse Aramis, in the $35,000 Michelob

Noting that American Olympic rider through Buddy Brown was in the saddle aboard Aramis, Frank whooped it up while bifocals shouting, "It took the best to beat us." It was one of those times when second place was almost as satisfying as victory because it proved to Northern Magic's connections that they have a potential champion in the making.

In John Madden, 27, from Hartland, Wis., they have one of the finest young trainers in the show world, a friendly sort who went on his own in 1986 after six years as farm manager and trainer the famed Katie Monahan of Bloomfield Hills. Madden, who has 28 jumpers in training on his 40-acre farm 30 miles west of Milwaukee, brought 15 of them to BOH and was the most successful trainer of main-ring jumpers during the six-day Detroit Lincoln-Mercury Horse Show. In Howard he thinks he has a future

But he's also cautious. He points out that jumpers don't reach their peak until about the age of 11 or 12 and says that although Northern Magic won the Challenge Cup at Devon, Pa., just before coming here, "This is part of his learning program."

IN OTHER words, John isn't going to rush the horse and Fisher, the owner, agrees with that approach.

Frank has five other horses — three Appaloosas and two thoroughbreds at the farm that he and his wife, Mariyn Fisher, maintain near Milford, but their riding is basically for pleasure. Northern Magic was bought just about a year ago because of their yen to get into the national circuit.

"The farm is really therapy for me," admits Frank. "I take care of it myself and am up at 6 every morning to muck of pace from what I do all day long.'

wife have horse show fever, they will follow Northern Magic on the trail as often as possible - including West Palm Beach and Tampa next winter, Frank significantly adds, "We're really not in it to make money; that's a byproduct. It won't support itself, but our whole family enjoys it. I can get away because I have a good group at the office who have been with me for years and I don't have to worry."

The last I saw of Northern Magic he was being loaded into a van for the long trek to Lake Placid, N.Y., to compete in the "I Love N.Y." show next week. But in owner Frank Fisher's eyes I think I also saw a dream of 1992 when his horse will be at that peak age of 11 and perhaps jumping in the Olympic Games.

There's plenty for the judges and onlookers to see at the Canton Country Festival pet

Talented pets steal the show

By Julie Brown staff writer

HE TASK of the pet show judges at the Canton Country Festival certainly wasn't an easy one.

The five judges saw impressive displays of talent during Saturday afternoon's competition They also saw plenty of love and affection on the part of pets and their owners who participated in the show.

Categories of competition included the most unusual pet, with Karl Groening's python, Ozzy, taking first place.

First-, second- and third-place ribbons were also presented for the most colorful pet, the most talented pet, the best-dressed pet and the best-groomed pet. The final category of competition, the pet with the longest tail, required the careful use of a measuring tape.

Each pet-and-owner team was he thought perhaps the crowd this

"I was overwhelmingly impressed," said Smith, who is parks supervisor for Canton Township. The pet show was sponsored by the Canton Country Festival and the Canton Parks and Recreation Department

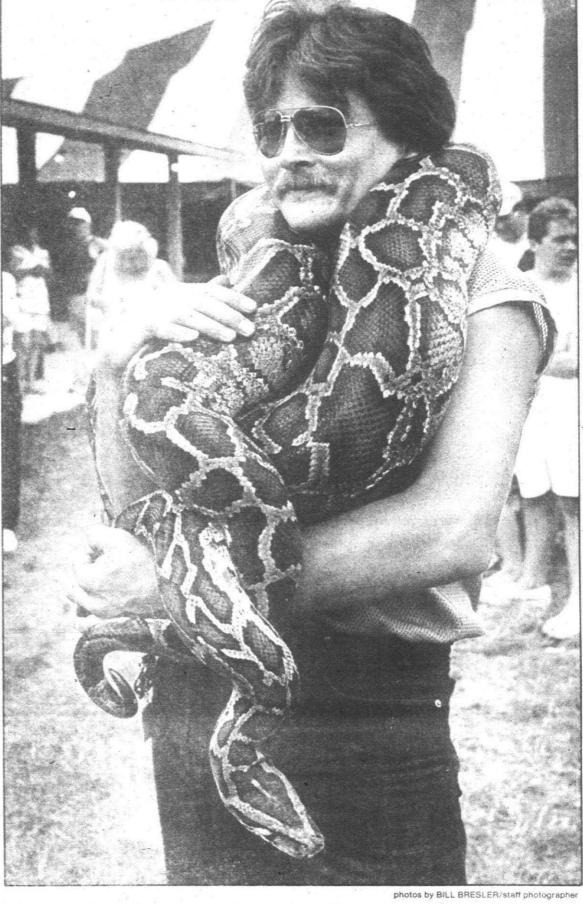

Smith had worried about turnout at the pet show; the event wasn't included in last year's festival and year would be small. "I was really pleased."

The talent portion of the show was a crowd favorite. Pets that performed particularly impressive tricks got an appreciative round of applause from the crowd; even those animals that didn't do as well still got their share of applause.

Some pets in the talent competition didn't do quite what they were told to do by their owners; some pets, in fact, seemed to prefer socializing with the other animals or simply exploring their surroundings. That lack of obedience is particularly difficult for children who participate in the show with their pets, Smith said.

THE SHOW was for dogs, cats, fish, exotic pets and small barn-yard animals. Larger animals weren't included; Smith and the

Some health plans are like hospital gowns: They never cover as much as you wish they would.

When it comes to health care, traditional medical insurance leaves a lot to be desired. Because they only cover a portion of your costs. Health Alliance Plan, on the other hand, is much more comprehensive. We offer complete coverage for virtually everything from pediatrics to geriatrics. And this extensive medical coverage is available from over 1,600 physicians at 23 medical centers, 18 hospitals and hundreds of individual doctor's office locations.

To find out how you can become a member, call 872-8100. You'll learn why Health Alliance Plan is such a great way to cover your medical needs. And that's the naked truth.

Tabernacle dedication Girl seeks job helping elderly

My granddaughter, a senior in high school, would like to work with older people. She is not sure what to take in college.

This summer she hopes to get a job in a nursing home as an aide. I'm not sure that working with the ill elderly is the best place for her to start. Could I have your thoughts on

Mrs. K.I., Western Reader

Dear Mrs. L.:

Your granddaughter should ask her school guidance counselor about career opportunities that are related to working with the elderly. Her academic goals will determine her ca-

I agree that working with older people who are ill is not the best place for her to start. She should look for a summer job that involves working with seniors who are living in the community. There are jobs available through senior citizen centers, recreational programs, church-

Many jobs do not appear to be directly related to the elderly but provide service to this age group - fast food restaurants, travel agencies, etc. Any of these would provide your granddaughter with excellent experience in working with older persons.

My elderly aunt who is a diabetic is coming to visit me for a week. I would like to make her visit as pleasant as possible, but I don't know anything about her diet, what groceries to buy or when she should eat. I would appreciate your help.

shopping ahead and having the right foods on hand.

She can eat low carbohydrate vegetables such as asparagus, bean sprouts, broccoli, green beans, lettuce and mushrooms.

Any fresh fruit or fruit canned in fruit juice makes a fine dessert. You may also want to buy some unsweetened fruit juices and some sugar-free soft drinks.

Regular mealtimes are important for diabetics, particularly if they take insulin. Try then to plan your meal schedule as close to that of your aunt's as possible.

When serving the meals, it will be better for your aunt if you serve each food separately from a serving dish so she can select the food and quantity she can have.

Since the diabetic diet is a superb diet for just about everyone - it is easy to prepare and follow - I'm sure that it will not be a problem for

Retail spurt

When the going gets tough, the tough will have a lot more places to go shopping

By Brian Lysaght

staff writer

Detroit's retail market isn't splitting at the seams, but it is growing. From strip malls to new anchor stores in the malls, much of the activity is in the burgeoning northwest

Major retailers like Mainstreet, Mervyns and Target are moving into the Detroit market. Mainstreet will have anchor stores in several malls, including Northland, Westland and Livonia Mall.

Developers are split on whether the growth will continue. Some say the market is on the upswing; others say it's nearly saturated.

Doug Glaza, executive vice president of Frankel and Associates, said his company is trying to bring new names into the Detroit retail game. Frankel, developers of Somerset Mall in Troy, said the market continues to grow

"We've never had more interest in Somerset," Glaza said. "That means people are interested in Detroit."

Douglas Mossman, an owner of Oakland Mall Ltd., has developed the nearly complete Oakland Square in Troy. He said the market is nearly

"I personally feel we're getting to the point where the pie is only so large," Mossman said.

Milt Blumberg of Ramco-Ger-shenson said the Detroit retail market has been very strong the last few years. Ramco-Gershenson developed West Oaks and West Oaks II in Novi. Blumberg said new chains "are coming in and bringing new retail techniques with them.'

Here's a review of new shopping areas expected to open this year.

· One of the largest new developments in western Wayne County is Laurel Park West in Livonia featuring Jacobson's and a host of other stores. The complex has been planned for more than a decade. Jacobson's is expected to open Aug. 15 with remaining stores opening later this year at Six Mile and Newburgh roads. Livonia Mall will also get a MainStreet store, one of several Chicago-based Federated Department Stores has built or will build in the Detroit area

 In Westland, MainStreet is also moving in. The Westland store of 70,000 square feet is being built at the southeast section of Westland Center. It is expected to open by Nov. 1

On Warren west of Wayne Road is West Ridge, a 375,000-square-foot development to include Target and Mervyns. It is expected to open this summer. The city's planning director,

George Willhelmi, said "we're filling up fast but we've still got a fairly good amount of retail acreage left."

 Garden City officials envision a long-vacant six-acre parcel of land near Ford and Middlebelt will become a 60,000-100,000-square-foot retail center. A real estate broker hasn't yet seen a site plan or firm commitment. There were once three supermarkets in the Ford-Middlebelt area; all closed in the last 20 years.

· Canton economic development director Dave Nicholson says several projects are planned and several more are under construction. Coventry Commons, a 115,000-square-foot project at Morton Taylor and Joy roads will open this summer. An A&P supermarket will join Arbor Drugs and ACO hardware

Canton officials have approved plans for Canton Corners at Ford and Lilley roads. The strip center will be 144,000 square feet and will open next year.

AMC Theatres is building an eighttheater complex on Haggerty south of Ford. Another 100,000 square feet of retail space is expected to be built eventually. Some 80,000 square feet will be under construction this year.

'We have as much commercial space available as is presently developed," Nicholson said.

· Redford is renovating and revamping. A former auto care center at Joy and Beech Daly became a 24,000-square-foot strip center last

An old Korvettes store at West Chicago and Telegraph was renovated into a 12,000-square-foot center featuring TJ Maxx, Chatham and Hallmark. Another 20,000 square feet is to be built this summer.

 In Oakland County, Southfield has two new major retailers moving in. Syms, an upscale discount store, renovated an old tire warehouse on Telegraph north of Eight Mile. Syms, which opened recently, has about 48,000 square feet of retail, and 12,700 square feet of office space.

MainStreet is moving into Northland, renovating and building 80,471 square feet. It will open next spring.

• In Farmington Hills, two strip malls are being built, one at 14 Mile and Northwestern totaling 15,000 told the city's chamber of commerce square feet. Another, Country Ridge recently of the plans, but the city Commons, at 40,000 square feet, is at 14 Mile and Haggerty.

In the city of Farmington, Village Commons, a retail and office development of 48,000 square feet, is onethird occupied.

A photography studio is renovating 8,000 square feet of what was a metal shop. The building, on Grand River east of Farmington Road, is to be occupied this summer.

· Rochester Hills is one of the fastest growing suburban communities. The developments include University Square, 106,000 square feet of stores built on a 13-acre parcel at Walton and Adams roads.

Another is Auburn Place, built on a six-acre parcel near Crooks and Auburn roads.

The city has plenty of available commercial land, including a 90acre parcel on Rochester and Uburn roads, and 14 acres behind the K mart store on Avon and Rochester

• Troy, by contrast, reduced by 165 acres the amount of land available for development, said Troy planner Larry Keisling.

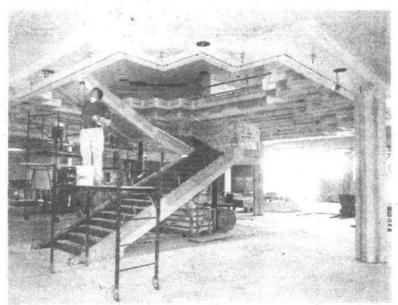

"We tried to end up with the amount of commercial land that the city's population could support," Keisling said.

The now open Oakland Square Center featuring Children's Palace, MainStreet and Service Merchandise is the largest of the new developments at 183,000 square feet.

Frankel and Associates has been unable to get the city's approval for its massive Somerset North project. But Somerset Mall is expanding. Frankel's executive vice president, Doug Glaza, said there is a list of retailers waiting to get into the mall.

 Birmingham has a couple of new developments. One is The Plaza, a two-story mini mall planned near Merrill and Woodward.

Another is Picadilly Square, which opened late last year. It is a two-story with a total 73,000 square feet.

Don Martin of Pontiac Ceiling & Partitions finishes a ceiling near a stairwell inside Jacobson's.

Woolard, Yates top 5-milers

Plymouth's Robbi Woolard won the women's competition, and John Yates was the men's overall winner Saturday in the Ninth Annual Canton Country Festival Five-Mile Run.

Woolard, competing in the 30-39 age group was nearly four minutes faster than her closest female competitor. She crossed the finish line in 34:50 while Carolyn Wolf of Dearborn Heights was first in the 20-29 division with a 38:45 time.

Yates of Ypsilanti won the strongly-contested men's 20-29 competition with a 26:41 time. The second- and third-best runners came out of that bracket, also. Canton's Dave Williams and Scott Harrison were clocked at 27:01 and 28:40, respectively.

THE TOP three runners in each age group are provided below. See the accompanying numerical list for individual times.

Men 14-under: Mike Sheehan (Plymouth), Shane Keough (Canton), Eric Opdyke (Dearborn); 15-19: Alan Byrnes (Canton), Michael Frampus (Redford), Jay Michaelson (Canton); 30-39: Steve Bauslaugh (Canton), Larry Dahl-berg (Newport), Ken Sova (Wayne); 40-49: Harry Studdard (Whitmore Lake), Spiro Karras (Canton), Harold Read (Canton); 50-over: Ken Simpson (Lake Orion), Mel Schultz (Troy), Del Sisler (Livonia).

Loophole just might revive O&E classic proaching the problem from the wrong angle.

This is what I get for studying journalism in college instead of law. You can bet Tammy Faye's last $37,000 I'd be a better journalist today if jurisprudence had been my field of study.

Journalists, you see, attack a problem head-on. And honestly - no shortcuts, no sleaziness. After all, how can the public trust and believe a journalist who's dishonest?

A lawyer, on the other hand, is granted a certain latitude in his pursuit of - ahem - justice. His character is expected to be somewhat tarnished; he's supposed to find a different angle.

The basic difference between the two is, if a journalist tricks someone, he's dirtier than the scum on a toilet bowl; if a lawyer tricks someone, he's clever and resourceful - and

Which is why a lawyer would be better suited to handle the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) and its current rule against all-star games. Or at least the girls soccer all-star game the Observer & Eccentric sponsored before this year.

IT WAS JUST over a year ago that we last had that pleasure. As we've reported so many times, the MHSAA banned it by expanding its all-star rule to cover all sports (it used to include just football, basketball and hockey) and all 12 months (it used to be in force just during the school

Any underclassman who violates this mandate is banished from competition for one year. Without underclassmen, the O&E girls soccer classic just wouldn't be the same.

OK, you've heard all this stuff be-fore. What you haven't heard are ad-

we. The MHSAA has given us that "Magic Johnson played in a dozen all-star games when he was in high school" example every time we asked why. To prevent the exploitation of prep athletes is the highminded explanation.

Yeah, right - and Gary Hart and Donna Rice were merely pen pals.

Sorry, but I can't buy it. We were not exploiting athletes with an allstar game meant to boost our circulation. If we were, we're pretty poor businessmen; basketball or hockey would attract far greater attention.

No, we weren't being exploitive And the MHSAA knows it. "The rule does not apply to all sports with equal effectiveness," admitted Bill Bupp, an executive director with the MHSAA.

NOW, MAYBE you understand why a lawyer would be better suited to handle this mess. Lawyers are trained at deciphering regulationese, the language practiced by rulesmakers.

But more importantly we simple-minded journalists attempted to deal with the MHSAA and its guidelines with a written proposal asking to allow us to host the all-star classic - a lawyer simply would have plotted a course circumventing the rule.

Silly, isn't it? It amends the adage "laws are meant to be broken" by adding "and lawyers are meant to find loopholes."

Mind you, we've followed the intent of the all-star rule. If we didn't, the game would have been played by now. As I asked Bupp, "If we had tryouts for all Observer-area girls 18 and under interested in playing a soccer match against a team chosen by the same method from our Eccentric coverage area, would the MHSAA ban it?'

His answer: "Probably not, since they wouldn't be representing their high schools. If an underclassman is representing her high school in an all-star game, she would lose eligi-

So we could still have the classic, you see. A few cosmetic changes no mention of high schools and refer to practices as tryouts - and we could put the exact same players on the field as we would have anyway.

WOULD THAT be right and proper? Before answering, consider that the MHSAA's representatives never gave me a clear reason why summer games are included in its ban.

Then remember what sport is the greatest offender of the all-star rule basketball. Do you think for a moment the ban has had any effect on high school all-star basketball games? Think again; McDonald's still sponsors its team, the Dapper Dan Classic is still in existence even the state's coaches association sponsors all-star games.

Waite wants a first-year shot at starter's role with Hurons

By Dan O'Meara

Steve Waite will be in an Eastern Michigan baseball uniform next spring. That much is fact.

But Waite also hopes to be in the team's starting lineup - at shortstop - when he begins his freshman season with the Hurons.

The prospects for playing a key role immediately was a major reason Waite, a senior at Plymouth Canton, accepted a baseball scholarship from EMU. "They almost guaranteed me I'd start for the team next year," said Waite, who led the Chiefs to a 19-8 season and share of the Western Division title in the Western Lakes. That was a major concern for me, to play my freshman year.

"I DIDN'T WANT to hang it up after my senior year," he added. "I definitely wanted to go on and play, and having the chance to play all four years is just great."

Roger Coryell, a longtime assistant under former coach Ron Oestrike, said there are four things he likes about Waite: his arm strength, his ability to hit with power, his academic standing and his potential for playing another position.

Because of Waite's arm strength,

Coryell believes he has the raw ability to become a pitcher if such a transition was ever attempted.

Jim Trahey, a member of West Bloomfield's state championship team in 1983 and an infielder at EMU, was drafted as a pitcher recently by the Toronto Blue Jays simply because of his potential at that

"THAT'S ALWAYS been in the back of my mind," Coryell said, "but we want to give him a chance to play shortstop first.

"With Scott Willis graduating, the position is wide open. We're hopeful (Waite) can come in and do it, but we also realize it's a big step. But he is coming from a good program. Fall baseball will be a key for him.

complaining about the lack of progress being made by the Department of Natural Resources in improving the state's fishery. License fees increase, the spouse license disappears and still no noticeable improvements of fishing opportunities in the state. The DNR has nibbled at the end of our line for too long now. The hook is about to be set. Progress is being made.

In 1986 the federal government passed the Wallop-Bureaux Bill that imposed an excise tax on all fishing and fishing related equipment. In October of '86 the DNR received the expanded appropriations from this tax.

"Passage of the Wallop-Breaux Bill tripled the amount of money we received from the feds,' said DNR fisheries biologist Ron Spitler, of the Pontiac District office. "That money, along with the license fees increase, should enable us to accomplish a lot more in the years to come."

PROBABLY THE BIGGEST change to date has been the expansion of the fisheries division staff. Statewide the division added 40 employees that, unlike in the past when there was a shortage of workforce, should enable the DNR to accomplish

Spitler. "So things are really looking up. We should be able to get a lot accomplished.' Those accomplishments are already taking FIVE REARING ponds are being maintained in Oakland County by DNR staff.

A northern pike pond was recently opened near Kensington Metropark and more than 2,000 threeinch fry were released into Kent Lake. The young pike will take three years to reach the legal 20inch minimum size.

The Nature Pond in Drayton Plains, the Seven Lakes State Park near Holly, and Camp Dearborn near Milford are the sites of three walleye rearing ponds. More than 100,000 walleye could be harvested through these ponds alone. Camp Dearborn also hosts of bass rearing pond. Already this summer the DNR has completed

On Big Lake (near Davisburg) the chemical antimycin was used to thin out the abundance of stunted panfish. Using a concentration of 1.4 parts per billion in the upper five-feet of water the chemical reclamation was successful. The larger panfish, along with the bass, pike and muskellunge were not harmed by the chemicals. The smaller, stunted fish along with some carp, which are also sensitive to antimycin, were removed

PLANS ARE in the works to build a fish ladder on the Huron River at Flat Rock. Due to the low water levels on Belleville Lake and the need for a new dam, however, the plans are pending.

The proposed ladder would replace the old ladder, which was built in 1925 and no longer works, and would increase the fishing opportunities along the river through Kensington Metropark. "A new ladder would help in passing salmon steelhead, white bass, walleye and even northern pike 14 miles farther up the river," said Spitler.

Additional projects proposed for Southeast Michigan in 1987 include a fish management barrier on Trout Lake, a shore fishing facility on Belleville Lake, a study on the growth and mortality of smallmouth bass in Lake St. Clair, a study on the dynamics of muskellunge on Lake St.

The Community House in Birmingham is another place that provides picnic food. Gale Colwell, director, said, "We can prepare any kind of carryout food." Box lunches are available, with selections basically offered from the catering or cafe menu.

Both the Community House's Bates Street Catering Company or its summer outdoor Bates Street Cafe feature such dishes as pasta salad, chicken salad on melon slices, ham and cheese croissants, and gazpacho or any cold soup.

Colwell said a picnicker recently requested sandwiches on small rolls, one beef tenderloin with horseradish sauce and the other smoked turkey breast with chutney - each guest to receive two sandwiches. Each picnic meal was served along with a small container of pasta salad

Other popular choices are fresh fruit and sandwich, or a basket (picnickers must provide their own) with brie; fresh fruit and french bread. Tomato stuffed with crab, shrimp and rice salad, or a crab and shrimp seafood salad are more favorites, and may be ordered on a croissant, if preferred.

The food is packed in covered plastic containers.

TO ORDER, call the Community House at 644-5832 and ask for food services. A copy of the catering or Bates Street Cafe menu may be requested, if there is time, or the customer may just ask for suggestions. Colwell suggests calling early in the week if you are planning a picnic for a weekend concert. The meal may be picked up, or it will be delivered for a service charge.

The Community House is open until 6 p.m. weekdays for food-order pickups. Saturday, it's open later, for stopping on the way to the concert.

Why do they call it the Olympiad? "We hold it every four years," explained Bill Hogg, one of the participants in the first theater festival and a volunteer for this year's event. "And like the Olympics, there's an element of competition."

Hogg calls the Olympiad "the only festival of its kind in North America." It is the brainchild of Detroit Recreation Department employee Shirley Harbin. "She's the instigator of the whole thing,"

Its purpose, in the words of Stagecrafters' Stan Newman, is: 'One, to promote international understanding. You know, to get people with similar interest together regardless of political backgrounds. Two, to showcase their particular talents and culture."

FESTIVAL participants are brought together under the auspices of the International Amateur Theatre Association and the Southeast Michigan Arts Forum.

Fair-tastic

JVONIA'S ARTS AND Crafts Festival had its ups and downs last weekend in its two-day a run at Greenmead.

Most of them had to do with attendance which was way up on Saturday over last year's but down Sunday, mainly because of the rain that spoiled things in the afternoon.

But all in all, the festival sponsor, the Livonia Arts Commission, was pleased at how smoothly thing. Things ran both days. Comments from the general public and the vendors indicated they artered.

Last year - the first time the gigantic art fair was held at the historical site - traffic snarls crued some grouphing. That was eased considerably this year with the establishment of new traffic patterns, particularly for the 220 vendors who participated.

"People were also appreciative of the shuttle service we set up this year," said arts commission president Dan Kachnowski. "We defintely hope to expand on that service next year. The public also seemed to appreciate the addition of more concession stands on the festival grounds. We think we will add by those, too, "Kachnowski added."

Further good news is that everyone was off the site and well on the way horse, when the railes and desistation winds bit the area.

Take the plunge — give art classes a try school is out? How could you not notice a million kids, all of a sudden walkin', cruisin' and milling around.

Of course, there are subtle clues at home that tell you, "It's that time of year." Like you can't always get into the bathroom, you can't watch the morning news because cartoons are on television. And, as a parent, you find yourself seeking out strange and quiet places.

I, for example, am writing this article sitting out by our wood pile. The only problem is, I can hear the 12 children in our swimming pool, five, of which, we haven't the slightest idea who they

Then there are those little things that a bored kid does - like shoot a plunger gun at the ceiling fan and skylight. For five days, a fluorescent orange plunger has been whirling around on our brass ceiling fan in the family room.

The ceiling is 16 feet high so retrieving a plunger is a little difficult. The plunger stuck to the skylight has also been up there a week now. so Adam decided it was time to get it down. Well what would you throw up there to unstick a stuck plunger? A little pillow from off the couch, Adam threw his boomerang! Yes, you guessed it, the boomerang went right through the skylight. So now there is a five-inch hole in the glass and about an inch from the hole is a fluorescent orange plunger still holding on.

IT'S ALL PART of a too-familiar pattern. After the first week or two of summer vacation, kids get a little bored and parents need to get away. An art or craft class can help the single three-hour class.

Our store has always run on a pay-as-youcome individual instruction basis. And this summer we are adding new lessons, like mirror and glass etching, scrimshaw, full color scratchboard, etc. If you have an indoor boomerang thrower, you might want them to try their hand at watercolor, oil painting or sculpture for chil-

If you would like them to try their hand at drawing, bring them for a few weeks or the

But what if it's you who needs to get away? Often mothers and fathers, attorneys, nurses or hi-lo drivers come into my art class and say, "I need a lesson." Why? Because nothing takes you away from it all like drawing, painting or sculpture. Sure, a movie can relax you but you take little out of the theater but sticky soles on your shoes and memories.

In art, the "get away from it all" produces something of value that will last well beyond the life of the artist.

There's another point. So many art teachers have so much to offer. I love to talk to other art teachers. Private art teachers often harbor a wealth of knowledge that you may enjoy in the privacy of their home, but private art teachers variety of short term classes. Some run a few often need more room than their homes can of-
