Swartzwelter, Thomas re-elected

By Doug Funke staff writer

School Superintendent John M. Hoben said he probably will recommend tapping into surplus funds and delaying maintenance work after Plymouth-Canton voters turned thumbs down Monday on a request to override the Headlee Amendment.

The measure, which lost by a 3 to 2 margin, will cost the district $1.2 million in revenue, Hoben said.

Both school board incumbents whose terms were expiring, Dean Swartzwelter and Roland Thomas, won re-election by wide margins over a field of seven challengers

Headlee waiver is voted down The Headlee override - which requires direct voter approval to levy the full tax rate if property values increase faster than inflation - also was defeated last winter.

"IT'S EXACTLY the same margin of February," Hoben said. "You have to ask why. Northville passed it. They used the same material as we did. I don't know. I guess we've been spoken to and we'll have to adjust to it.'

Hoben said he doubted that he would recommend teacher layoffs or cuts in extracurricular activities.

"We're going to go to areas of delayed maintenance," he said. "What it means is some things aren't going to get done that need to be done. Some repairs will be put on the back burner.

"I want to maintain integrity of instruction as long as possible," Hoben said. "I. think there will be very limited (additional) hiring - probably less than 10.'

The school board must make all final decisions on expenditures, he emphasized Hoben said he doubts that he'd recommend another special election soon to ask for a tax increase in view of the Headlee override failure

"PEOPLE HAVE spoken twice," Hoben said. "Now it's time to suck it up and make cuts where available.

Voters approved the Headlee override in only two of 14 precincts - 193-155 at Hulsing Elementary School and 77-69 at Field Elementary School.

The final tally was 3,017-2,071 against the override.

Swartzwelter and Thomas won four-year terms on the board with 2,710 and 2,535 votes, respectively. The incumbents finished one-two in every precinct.

Robert E. Anderson, endorsed by a group concerned about teaching materials in the district, finished a distant third with 1,184 votes

Barbara Graham tallied 816 votes; Mary Dahn, 694; William Brown, 435; Nancy Quinn, 404; Brenda Anderson, 373; and Chris Robison, 152.

A total of 5,168 voters - 11 percent of those registered in the district - participated in the election.

Debate: Should assessors assess their own property?

By Diane Gale staff writer

Officials have different opinions on whether assessors should assess major parcels of property they own.

"It's a very sensitive situation there's no question about it," said Bob Vandermark, chairman of the state tax commission.

But most seem to agree there are enough safeguards in the system to prevent wrongdoing. The law says it's all right and people who study assessing policies don't object.

However, the president of the Michigan Assessor's Association, a professional organization, says the policy looks bad.

Glenn Shaw Jr., who contracts as assessor for Canton and Plymouth townships, is a principal owner in a 97-acre industrial-commercial park in Canton. Wayne County Appraisals, which is owned by Shaw, assessed the property.

He said it would be unfair to require assessors to hire outside appraisers when others don't have to.

GARY WOLFRAM, senior econo-

'It's a very sensitive situation there's no question about it.'

— Bob Vandermark tax commission chairman

"There's no statute against an assessor assessing his own property for tax purposes," Wolfram said. "It would be interesting to consider whether the Legislature might wish to make changes.

"I wouldn't say it's illegal or unethical to own and assess it and there are safeguards in that other industrial property owners can go to the board of review and say the property is not assessed right," Wolfram said.

"The county board of equalization is checking on the total value of industrial property, and it would probably come to their attention if there was a large difference in what was assessed and the value of the propertv.

OTHER CHECKS are the state as-to set the value.

Those opposing the situation should approach the local board of trustees or council, who ultimately hire the assessor, Howe said.

Shaw said it would be unfair to expect an assessor to hire an outside appraiser.

"If you're suggesting a guy who's an assessor can't own property, what a sad state of affairs that is," Shaw said.

Shaw said he wouldn't actually set the value of the property, because that would be his employees' job.

"The board of review can review that, and I will make them aware that I own it," Shaw said. Vandermark said "almost all" assessors own a home they assess. "The process is totally open," Vandermark said. "Any person in a community can come in and look at the assessor's assessment and bring it up before the board of review.

Memories Resident, 91, writing book for family

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

"The empty pages are there for one reason only - laziness. But that is a big part of upper middle age, 91.'

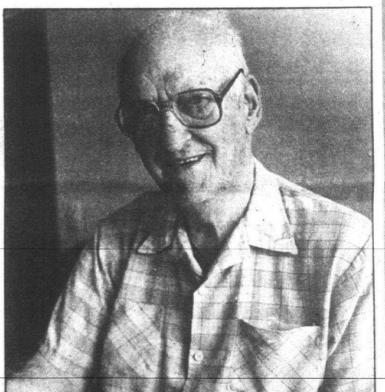

So reads the inscription in the "Grandparent's Book" William Buswinka is writing for his family.

Lazy is the last word to describe Buswinka - a Plymouth Township resident who campaigns for Plymouth-Canton school board candidates, sings in Our Lady of Good Counsel's choir, and drives to his voice lessons and to visit his 68year-old girlfriend.

Buswinka says "every person over 80 has a book in them that would be doggone interesting. It's one of the nice things about old age.

Buswinka, a Worcester, Mass., native, figures if his handwritten memoirs had more sex in them, he'd be a published-author mist for the Michigan Senate Republican policy staff, said the situation was "perfectly ethical." It would be unethical if the assessor placed the value of the land lower than it's worth, he said.

The records are public and appeals may be made to the local board of review, he said.

"It seems like there are a lot of people who would have an incentive for checking on this," Wolfram said.

Properties that are underassessed would cause the rate to be higher for other taxpayers.

sessor's board and the state tax commission.

However, the Michigan Assessor's Association president, Larry Howe, disagrees.

"We have a code of ethics that says we'll try to uphold the law, and we'll try to treat ourselves in a professional manner and try to stay away from situations that would lend themselves to improprieties.

"But we have no real enforcement of the code of ethics."

Howe said he would expect the ap-« praiser to hire an outside appraiser tem," Kolt said.

"We haven't found it to be a serious problem," Vandermark said. 'I'm not saying it hasn't been a problem. It's very healthy to have it so open.

Bob Kolt, Michigan Department of Treasury public affairs officer, said it is not illegal or unethical for assessors to be involved in assessments of land they own, because boards of review certify the tax rolls.

Accident victim dies of injuries

By Diane Gale staff writer

A 33-year-old Ann Arbor woman has died from injuries suffered in a car accident, which also killed her husband

Linda Milan died Monday afternoon in the University of Michigan Medical Center. Her husband, Phillip, 37, was pronounced dead shortly after the accident occurred Sunday afternoon.

Linda Milan was driving east in the left lane on Michigan Avenue and Sheldon when the car left the roadway and struck a no parking sign. The 1984 Mercury Lynx continued east and stopped in a ditch.

Neither was wearing seatbelts. Milan's death brought to 24 the number of people who died in the state as a result of auto accidents over the weekend, according to the Associated Press. One state police official said he couldn't remember the last time that many people were killed on state roads in one weekend.

A 20-YEAR-OLD woman was pronounced dead June 6 about 30 minutes after police found her slumped over in a car on Michigan Avenue.

Eeehaww! Canton festival is back

By Diane Gale

staff writer

The Canton Country Festival is returning in a big way. More than 40 floats, clowns, politicians and other entertainment acts will be high-stepping through Canton streets after a one-year leave.

Lack of participation kept the annual event from being held last year.

But under the direction of parade chairman Jan Hoffman the roster is filled.

The procession will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday, June 13, in the Meijer parking lot at Ford and Canton Center and march down Ford Road to Rose Shore Racquet Club between Lilley and Haggerty Spectators are invited to line the streets, Hoffman said.

Don't let gloomy skies keep you away, Hoffman said, because a little rain won't stop the event. No alternative dates have been set if it's "pouring buckets" and the parade is cancelled.

"Everyone has really bent over backwards to help," Hoffman said, referring to Canton employees and officials, as well as parade board members

FORD ROAD WILL be closed from Canton Center to Haggerty from about 10:50 a.m. until the end of the parade, which is not expected to last more than 11/2 hours, Canton police Lt. Alex Wilson said. Officers will be directing traffic.

Cherry Hill will be used as the primary alternate road and Warren will be the secondary route.

"People should be prepared for a delay if they're in the parking lots abutting Ford Road at 11 a.m.," Wilson said. "But if they're there, they can come out and watch the parade

Some of the parade participants include the U.S. Army color guard, the Canton Fife and Drum, Ronald McDonald, Celtic Pipe & Drums, Canton Historical Society covered wagon float, Wayne County Sheriff's mounted unit, Skatin' Station float, Farmington Elks motorcycles, Canton Big Boy and clowns.

Other parade entries are a miniature horse, Canton Senior Citizens float, Cub Scout packs, Bonnie Blue Bells majorettes and float, a Yankee Air Force plane, 150 Spiriters Baton twirlers ages 4 to 12 and Realty World and Canton Jaycees 1963 Cadillac Santa Mobile.

The Canton Corvette Club, the Centennial Polish dancers, LaDanse, Miss Michigan Pre-teen and Miss Dance Michigan will also be among the parade walkers.

The parade is the prelude to the Canton Country Festival, held June 19-21.

Cruising tickets go down again

Cruisers and pedestrians in downtown Plymouth this weekend can expect to see greater police emphasis on traffic flow and foot patrol. That's the word from Police Chief Richard Myers.

Seven temporary police hires will have completed orientation this week and will be out in force Friday and Saturday nights, Myers said. An eighth hire should be available in about a week

Motorists last weekend again weren't allowed to turn right off Ann Arbor Road onto Main and Harvey streets. The driveways of many businesses along Main were barricaded after closing.

Police issued only 53 tickets last weekend - the fewest since cruising started again this spring. Myers attributed that to fewer people in town and fewer officers on

'I believe that the parking lot program has been effective to the extent people understand the program, and they're not trespassing as much," he said.

"With graduation weekend, there may have been more parties at home keeping people from coming downtown.'

Twelve speeding tickets were issued, 11 for prohibited turns, four each for trespassing and excessive noise and three each for open intoxicants in a motor vehicle, disorderly conduct, possession of alcoholic beverages in a public place and disobeying a traffic signal, Myers said. Business people also have report-ed that the littering problem seems to be abating, the chief added.

police report said.

The Plymouth Township Board don't have an exploding population. I took a $15,000 crapshoot and lost. That's how much it budgeted for a special census this spring to determine whether the local population had grown by at least 15 percent from the 23,028 recorded during the, 1980 federal census.

A gain of 3,454 residents would have qualified the township for supplemental state revenue sharing payments through 1990. The count came up well short. In fact, it shrank to 22,544. "I'm surprised with the diminution," said Supervisor Maurice

Left to run an independent race, Riegle felt he owed little allegiance to the Nixon-led party. Less than a vear later, in February of 1973, Rie gle became a Democrat.

Compromise is sought on speed limit

A second conference committee is trying to seek compromise on efforts to raise the speed limit to 65 mph on 720 miles of rural Michigan interstate freeways.

Leaders appointed a new sixmember House-Senate panel after the House of Representatives rejected a Senate-approved bill that would raise speed limits but ban use of radar detectors to break the law. The vote was 20 for, 82 against and eight Reappointed to the new conference committee was Sen. Richard Fessler, R-West Bloomfield, author of the speed limit bill and opponent of banning "Fuzz Busters."

Other members are Sens. Vern Ehlers, R-Grand Rapids, who "chaired the first conference committee, and Michael O'Brien, D-Detroit; and Reps. Curtis Hertel, D-Detroit, Lewis Dodak, D-Flint, and Van Singel, R-Grant.

THE HOUSE vote on the first conerence report was:

Yes: Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia. No: Justine Barns, D-Westland, John Bennett, D-Redford, William Keith, D-Garden City, James Kosteva, D-Canton Absent: Gerald Law, R-Plymouth.

THE SENATE last week approved the bill on a 22-15 vote. The roll call: Yes - William Faust, D-Westland; George Z. Hart, D-Dearborn; Robert Geake, R-Northville. No - None from western Wayne County House Speaker Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti, and Senate Majority Leader John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, agreed lawmakers wouldn't approve a speed limit increase tied to a radar letector ban. They said the proposals will have to be addressed sepa-

Fessler called the "obnoxious," saying it will boost speeds on some rural roads not constructed for it.

GOV. JAMES J. Blanchard asked for the ban on radar detectors, arguing their only use was to aid lawbreakers.

If passed, the bill would increase the speed limit on about 720 miles of rural freeway from 55 mph to 65 mph. Michigan has about 1,100 miles of freeway. No list is available yet of which freeway segments would be raised to 65.

On non-interstate, four-lane, limited-access highways - such as US-23 and M-14 - the speed limit would emain at 55. But motorists could drive up to 65 mph without risking oints. Michigan law otherwise calls for two points if caught speeding up to 10 mph over the posted limit.

Ridding a river of stagnant pools is almost like resuscitating someone. It's life-saving step. Afterwards, there still may be a need for surgery. Life must be restored before surgeons can take over. Saturday's effort was a life-saving resuscitation. Now for the surgery. The Rouge is being contaminated by some pretty heavy pollutants.

There are two major sources: industrial/commercial pollutants and people like you and me.

The state Department of Natural Resources knows where the pollutants are entering the river and, in many cases, knows the sources.

The list of approved discharge points (sanitary, combined sanitary and storm water, and industrial) into the Rouge River in Oakland and Wayne counties is five pages, single-spaced.

Weighty matter Could parents be bringing up a generation of 'butterballs?'

BUTTERBALLS. That's what type of children we are raising. Butterballs

Guy Reiff says so. He hails from lakeside property northwest of Ann Arbor where he toils for the University of Michigan Fitness Research Center. Recently, he has been spending time in West Bloomfield schools, one of 16 in the state that has adopted a Fitness for Youth program, paid for by a $262,000 grant from Blue Cross Blue Shield.

Reiff helped develop the program. Its premise is simple. Traditional physical education classes fall short in both the "physical" and "education" departments.

TOO MANY classes, at least when you and I were young, consisted of a football coach tossing a dodge ball into the court and saying, "Have at it, boys, I've got films to watch." And that's for only one year out of four. In earlier grades, students had a hodgepodge of gym sessions, often consisting of one or two 15-minute sessions

One result is that the kids likely to get the most out of gym classes need it the least: they are already proficient in the skill sports.

Reiff has nothing against the skill sports, except they benefit the few, not the masses. Even for the few, it's hard for a 35-year-old to rustle up 10 other guys to play a little tackle football after

THAT'S WHY people like Reiff decry the lack of education in the little physical training that youngsters receive. Instead of learning to make exercise as regular a part of their lives as brushing He's waiting for someone to call him.

2 10 Rich Perlberg their teeth, youngsters are barely touched by exertion or, if they are, they are taught that it is drudgery. You goof up on the playing field, you run two laps as punishment

Those lessons stick. Neither are such attitudes helped by a fast-food lifestyle. A quarter of today's kids have at least two of the big three cardiac threats obesity, high blood pressure and high cholesterol - says Reiff. Forty percent have at least one.

"Cardiac disease is not an adult disease," he says.

THE NATION'S billion-dollar-a-day health care costs are only going higher if we are raising a generation programmed for heart disease. That's why Blue Cross has entered the picture. "We can't turn back the clock on health care costs." savs Blue Cross spokesman Rude Difazio, "but we can try to contain

The nourishment problems faced by our youth that are traced to poverty are difficult and expensive to solve. But it's ironic that in a world where many children hurt from their hunger, our affluent, image-conscious nation is raising butterballs. For those children, the solution isn't expensive. It does require restructuring and emphasizing the socalled physical education programs now in place

It's easy to do. Just ask Guy Reiff.

Thinking of traditional floral expressions of maternal love, naturally I butted in and asked, "Don't you mean geranium pots?"

It was thus that I became acquainted with Lionel H. (Nel) Rouleau. For plebian financial reasons he has chosen to midwestern regional manager of The Mortgage Exchange, headquartered at Falls Church, Va., instead of staying in his native Maine where the family homestead is almost within spitting dis-

THERE I WAS, minding my own the world's most coveted and most echoes a decision I made the first time I ever went "Down East" many years ago

So now I was almost rubbing elbows with the son of an 86-year-old Maine lobster veteran. Then I found that the vounger Rouleau keeps 17 traps of his own dangling in the Atlantic waters off Wiscasset, not far from where the Kennebeck River flows into the ocean.

He has the gall to say, "Oh, yes, I have friends who gather the lobsters a advance his professional career here as couple of times a week and ship a few to me for personal use."

That's better than having an entire school of coho salmon jump into your boat

Rouleau joins me in cheering these added Reader's Digest statements: "The unquestioned aristocrat of the species, with a worldwide reputation, is our Maine lobster" . . . adding, as to relatives, "another is the smaller, clawless spiny lobster, found mostly in tropical on a hot dog bun for no more than $1.50, I learned that each of such non-comand subtropical seas. At the moment I invaded his conversational domain, Rouleau was telling an associate about the hors d'oeuvres he and three friends had been served at Happy Jack's in Lewiston, Maine.

"We were given four full Maine lobsters just like you might get a bowl of popcorn here," he said pityingly.

Å day to be proud

Graduation ceremonies are traditionally a time to remember the past and to celebrate the future. Whether the brand-new graduate is 18 or 80, the day's one that calls for hugs and handshakes.

Things were no different last week for a group of Plymouth-Canton Community Education students. The Wednesday, June 3. graduation and awards ceremony was held in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School; for the graduates, "Pomp and Circumstance" never sounded sweeter.

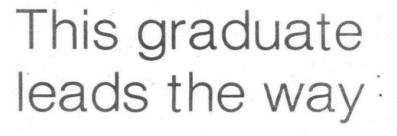

Diplomas were presented to the high school graduates during that evening's ceremony. The class of 1987 was represented by graduation speakers Terry Gawlinski and Marie Breach Awards and certificates were presented to health occupations students and to GED recipients during the ceremony. Several special awards were also presented.

During the Wednesday, June 3 ceremony, John Soave, evening program supervisor, referred to Densmore as "our most experienced graduate."

Most of the adult education students who received their diplomas that evening were out of their teens; some were well into adulthood. The others didn't, however, have memories of earlier high school days going back to the World War I era.

The summer reading club at the Canton Public Library is popular with local youngsters.

'We've already had calls about it," said Judy Teachworth, department head for children's services at the Canton Public Library. "People are eager to start.

The club begins June 22 and ends July 30. Registration starts June 22 and continues until July 22; registration must be completed in person at the library, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton.

"We're just about set," Teachworth said of preparations for the program. Fliers on the summer reading club have been distributed to area schools.

The club is for boys and girls in grades one through eight who have Canton Public Library cards. Only books from the Canton Public Library will be accepted; no cartoon or comic books will be accepted.

THIS YEAR'S theme is based on Michigan's sesquicentennial celebration. Children who read five books will receive a reading club certificate

Children will receive a "Read-A-Lottery" ticket for each book read. A lottery drawing for prizes will be held at the end of the program. Children will also participate in other contests for which prizes will be giv-

Participants pick books on their own reading level. The six-week program is designed to keep children reading during the summer months; it's also designed to encourage use of the library.

"They read their favorite books." Teachworth said. "They read whatever they're interested in.

Lighter fiction is a popular summer choice for the youngsters, "although some of them read non-fiction," she said. Sports books and books about animals are among the popular choices.

A reading record will be used to keep track of what books each child has read. Librarians try to take time to talk with the children about what they've read.

'But they don't have to give a formal report," Teachworth said. "It's not like school.

In addition to the club for children in grades one through eight, the library has a summer "Read to Me" program for preschool children.

THAT PROGRAM will include a 'Musical Rainbows'' session with Brenda MacDonald, scheduled for 2 to 2:45 p.m. Tuesday, July 21. The program of music and movement is for preschoolers and adults; each preschooler must attend with an adult Registration for the "Musical Rainbows" session will begin at 10 a.m. Thursday, July 16, by phone or in person.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

A 35th anniversary celebration of service.

At 7:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday, June 16-21, the Rev. and Mrs. J.M. Sullivan of Salisbury, Md., and singers the Rev. and Fred Wagner of DeFuniak Springs, Fla., will provide evangelistic services.

At 2:30 p.m. Sunday, June 21, there will be a special anniversary service to celebrate the church's 35 years in the area and give former members an opportunity to visit.

The church started in the home of the late Harold Nichols and moved to a small hall on Ford Road in June 1952. The church moved again before settling at its present location at 5737 Middlebelt Rd.

The late B.H. Lucas co-founded the church with his wife, the Rev. Ethel Lucas. He died in March 1983. Since then, his wife has served as pastor of the church.

Growing herbs can spice up your life

HIS information is from a Flint publication called "Natural Notes" published by Steve and Raenette Palmer:

Years ago, a household wouldn't have been without at least a small herb patch to see it through the year. These precious plants were used as teas, medicines, seasonings, refreshers and a host of other things.

Today herbs are no less important just because we can go to any market and buy a small tin of whatever strikes our fancy.

These facts might entice you to grow some herbs in pots, add them to your garden or start an herb garden:

Fresh herbs taste much better.
Herbs make great fillers in gardens, wonderful groundcover and gardens, wonderful groundcover and decorations for fences. • Herb gardens are pretty and smell good. • Herbs are easy to grow in containers both indoors and out.

• Herbs can be used in sachets, potpourris, bouquets and wreaths.

Herbs are easy to dry and store.

• Herbs require little care.

• Herbs can be planted in rows like a vegetable garden or in a formal design.

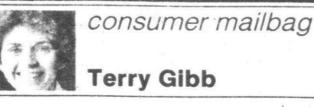

• Concrete blocks can be buried on their sides to make small herb containers.

• Recycled plastic jugs (with the tops cut off), hanging containers, barrels, old tires, wood sandboxes filled with dirt make creative planters.

• The oil released from 'the leaves of herbs makes most herbs fairly resistant to disease and insects. Yellow naptha soap and water is safe to use on culinary herbs to rid any plants of pests.

• Eight to 10 plants of each variety are enough to dry and, if used moderately, will last a year.

• If you buy herb seeds in packets that contain mixed seeds, the seealings will be hard to tell apart as they grown and may choke each other out. • Both perennials and annuals grow well from seed. • Annual herbs will produce

Most herbs like neutral to slightly alkaline soil which is well-drained and kept uniformly moist.

Most herbs will do well in full sun to partial shade.

Avoid strong spray from the graden hose when watering herbs.

Your plants will be bushier if you pinch off the top leaves as they grow.

Work needn't end with retirement

Dear Jo:

In three years I will be eligible for retirement. My plan is to retire from my present job to something else — and that something else is not the rocking chair.

Could you suggest some reading on this?

Mr. S. Mc., Detroit

Dear Mr. Mc.:

"Success Over Sixty," by Albert Myers and Christopher Andersen (Summit Books, New York), is just the book you need. It is an invaluable resource for active older people who wish to remain (as you do) productive members of society. It tells you how to match your experience to a new career, set up a business on your own, become a lifelong learner, make a rewarding contribution through volunteer work — and how to stay physically and sexually fit.

It contains 50 pages of sources, including ideas for entrepreneurs, franchises, volunteer opportunities, schools and sports. It has some practical tools to help you plan your future, such as tests for selfassessment and charts and graphs to keep you on target.

I wish you the best of luck in your retirement career. Because of your planning and positive attitude, I doubt if you will ever be a candidate for the rocking chair.

Thursday, June 11, 1987 O&E

By Marilyn Fitchett staff writer

Now's the time to find out how you stack up against Wall Street by testing your IQ.

The National Association of Investors Corp., in cooperation with Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, is giving readers the chance to rate their bullishness by sponsoring a stock market contest called Investor's Quotient. Winners will be those whose fictional $1,000 portfolios show the greatest growth (exclusive of dividends) over the contest period.

First prize is a weekend for two to New York City including round-trip airfare, hotel accommodations for a Friday and Saturday and a tour of the New York Stock Exchange. Three second prizes of a weekend (two nights' lodging) at the Westin Hotel in downtown Detroit will be awarded.

The five third-place winners will receive one-year subscriptions to Better Investing magazine, the NAIC monthly publication. Five fourthplace prizes of one-year subscriptions to your local Observer & Eccentric newspaper will be given.

Contestants will have three weeks to enter the contest. Tracking of the portfolios will be done by NAIC and begins with the date listed on the entry. Entries will be received up to midnight Friday, June 28.

Contestants may select as many as five stocks from any of the three approved stock exchanges, NYSE, AMEX or NASDAQ. Stock listings are available in most daily newspapers. Contest results will be based on the published closing quotes of the stocks on Sept. 25. (See accompanying rules and entry blank.)

Prizes will be awarded at the NAIC national convention Oct. 14-17 at the Westin Hotel. Although most of the convention is open only to NAIC members, non-members have the chance to participate in the Investors Gallery, which brings together representatives of more than 75 publicly held companies who provide investment information free of Join the ranks of Wall Street warriors NAIC IS a non-profit organization of investment clubs and individuals based in Royal Oak that was established in 1951. It was founded to increase the number of individual investors in common stocks and to provide a program of investment education.

The organization's formula for successful investing includes these steps:

 Invest in a set sum regularly, usually once a month, regardless of market conditions.

• Reinvest dividends and capital gains.

• Buy growth stocks - companies whose sales are increasing at a rate faster than the industry in general.

 Invest in different industries and different size companies.

But Janke, taking into consideration the length of the contest, is offering some different advice for entrants.

"Look for an undervalued stock, a company that has had an earnings problem in the last two years, but which is undergoing a turnaround," he said. "In a good market, a stock can move up quickly."

He also suggested ignoring the recent volatility of the market.

'You should wash the highs and lows out of your mind. The volatility in the market is caused by institutions doing the trading. A 40-50-point drop can make headlines, but on a percentage basis, this is not as high as a 15-point drop a few years ago."

NAIC MEMBERS reflect a philosophy that runs contrary to Wall Street professionals and is reflected by a "people's choice" list of stocks, the "cause of Main Street and Wall Street intersecting rather than run-ning parallel." In its annual membership survey of the year's 100 most-widely held common stocks, AT&T took the top spot followed by IBM.

But perhaps the most-evident inconsistency between these Main Streeters and Wall Street was NAIC members' faith in restaurant stocks. Wendy's ranked third, Shoney's sixth, McDonald's 21st and Bob Evans Farms 62nd. Better Investing, the NAIC monthly magazine, quoted Value Line as recently ranking restaurants at 84 out of 91 on its industry timeliness scale.

NAIC has three classes of membership: individual, investment club

Kenneth S. Janke, NAIC president, sees the Investors Gallery as a chance for the individual investor to talk to the management of companies whose stock they have purchased or might have an interest in purchasing.

and corporate. There are about 15,000 individuals, 7,000 investment clubs with 100.000 members and about 75 corporate members.

Membership profiles show individual and club members are almost evenly divided between the sexes; 87 percent have a college education with 32 percent having done advanced college work; 90 percent have a family income that exceeds $25,000; 32 percent are under 40 years old, 52 percent are between 40 and 60 and 16 percent are over 60. The average club is 81/2 years old. For more information on the NAIC, call 543-0612.

- 5. Individuals whose portfolios show the greatest growth (excluding dividends) from the DATE OF ENTRY to the contest's closing date are winners.
- All entries must be postmarked no later than midnight, June 28, 1987.
- 7. Mail all entries to:

Strategic fund board names entrepreneur

By Tim Richard staff writer

Craig A. Smith thinks he'll bring something different to the board of the Michigan Strategic Fund.

MSF is the state's public-private tool for leveraging investments in start-up businesses that promise growth opportunities.

There are a lot of con agents in America. California and Florida are notorious for them. A successful entrepreneur is much more versatile at spotting those people than a banker," said Smith, 60, of Bloomfield Township Smith knows entrepreneurs. A 40year veteran of real estate development, he is executive vice president of Berger-Lewiston-Smith, a Southfield real estate development and management firm.

BEING ON the MSF is like being in the banking business - to a point. It involves investments and loan approvals

But MSF wants to deal with entrepreneurs - new firms, with new deas, new technologies, but lacking big balance sheets. Bankers are unable to deal with theea.

"The problem with banks in Michigan is ultraconservatism — the most conservative in America," said Smith, echoing a years-long and widespread complaint. "I find no fault with them, but it doesn't help the growth of the economy.

"I deal with 200 small contractors. I do not come from a huge corporate setup

"You have to know how entrepreneurs think. It's entirely different from the corporate sector."

It's a recurring theme as Smith talks: Big corporations are restrictive, and they're providing few new jobs. State government and other institutions need to help small entrepreneurs - if they can tell the worthy ones from the "con" men.

"FOUR BIG auto companies have dominated this state. Higher education has been big supporters of the corporate giants; that's where they got their money.

'We've not had an entrepreneurial culture in this state. That's beginning to change.

'I've seen surveys of business school students. Eighty percent want to go into business for themselves. They don't want the restrictions of the corporate world.

'Michigan is a very competitive state. We've got some sharp entrepreneurs in Michigan. If they're great in Michigan, they're geniuses in the rest of the country.

SMITH JOINED the nine-member board May 21. A conservative Democrat, he was the nominee of House Speaker Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti. His appointment by Gov. James J. Blanchard is subject to Senate confirmation.

"We have extensive staff reports," said Smith, after attending his first meeting. "We have specialists, and they are very capable. Information is sent to us weeks ahead of time.

"But I go beyond staff reports. I research some of these things

"At our meeting we had 30 or 40 people. There were people from the attorney general's office and Commerce Department. There were bond counsel.

Smith will serve on MSF's loan committee but hasn't attended one of its meetings yet.

He's one of four new members of a board that's barely a year old. He replaces Michael Staebler, a corporate attorney in Ann Arbor.

NTHUSIASM, conviction, commitment, passion, tenacity and some good luck. That's the basic inventory for a would-be filmmaker. Add a twinkle in the eye and 28 years of hard work and you have a description of William Dear, director, co-writer and co-producer of "Harry and the Hendersons," which opened nationwide Friday.

"Harry and the Hendersons" is a refreshing comedy about a very typical American family (John Lithgow, Melinda Dillon, Margaret Langrick and Joshua Rudoy) who, literally, run into a Bigfoot on their annual camping trip. Harry, the Bigfoot, winds up in their house and that's a very funny thought.

Unlike so many stereotypical American families on film, the Hendersons are appealing, multidimensional folks; in fact, just like real people with all the good and bad qualities everyone possesses

THE HENDERSON family's appeal represents something very special in William Dear's character, a quality he expressed when he was in town recently for a special preview screening of "Harry and the Hender-Dear's opportunity "to do it" came when cinematographer Allen Daviau recommended him to Steven Spiel-"That lets you know if you have - berg to direct the "Mummy, Daddy"

"I was thanking my lucky stars that it was one of those times in my life when I had something. I wasn't writing it ("Harry") because I thought that opportunity was going to come to me."

Dear was writing "Harry" because you have to "constantly do stuff" if you want to be a filmmaker. He did and his passion, commitment, tenacity and enthusiasm are evident in "Harry and the Hendersons." So's the twinkle in his eye.

When Paul Anka opens the new season at Meadow Brook Music Festival Tuesday, it will be his first appearance there, although he does a few outdoor concerts each year. "It's a lot more personal outdoors," he said. His concert will include a filmslide show and a light show. In the slide show, the pictures show the Ottawa-born singer and his family back to the 1950s.

Talking by phone from Las Vegas last week, Anka said he was just winding up an engagement there. Then he was on his way to Europe to meet his producer in Germany and finish a new album, coming out in September.

He recently released another album especially for the Latin American market and is completing postproduction work on the music for a new Gene Hackman film "No Way

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own ... but it takes a bit of planning. Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item ... and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging. And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers . . . so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins. Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

Athletic ability abounds on elite squad

Stebbins tops All-Area boys track/field unit

By Brad Emons staff writer

HE 1987 ALL-AREA boys track team is a combination of power, speed and endurance.

The newest squad, selected recently by the coaches, is led by Farmington's middle distance star Al Stebbins, who was voted Observerland's Trackman of the Year.

Stebbins, a veteran on the tracks and cross country trails, was a member of the Falcons' state record-setting 3,200 relay team. He also finished third in the 800 run at the state Class A meet May 30 at Alma.

He is one of four Falcons selected to the first team (including a relay). The rest of the squad is dominated by Wayne Memorial, which landed four individuals and one relay on the first team, along with Redford Bishop Borgess, which garnered three first-team berths and two relays.

Shamrocks near state championship

By C.J. Risak staff writer

First and foremost, a team needs talent to reach the final four in the state tournament. But once arrived, that team and its coach will search high and low for an edge, something to use in preparation for the final push to the championship.

So is there any need to ask what Redford Catholic Central's baseball team is doing this week? The Shamrocks meet Lansing Everett in a Class A semifinal at 3 p.m. Friday at Lansing's Municipal Field. A win puts them into the state final against the Grosse Pointe South-Midland Dow victor at 5:30 p.m. Saturday at Michigan State University.

By now, Everett has been dissected and analyzed, with every strength and weakness scrutinized. The 27-10 Vikings will be studied in detail so every contingency can be planned for

That's right, isn't it? Isn't that how you prepare for a pivotal game?

"We're going in kind of blind," admitted CC coach John Salter.

HOW BLIND is kind of blind? "Mainly, I'd like to know if (Everett) is throwing a righthander or lefthander," Salter said. "We hit righthanders better. We faced lefthanders twice during the year, against Notre Dame, and we lost twice. And I'd like to know who their best hitters are."

In other words, real blind.

baseball

But that's the kind of season it's been for CC - nothing's followed form, so why plot strategy?

The Shamrocks were 13-7 in the Catholic League but 11-1 outside it (24-8 overall). They got hammered in the league playoffs by Riverview Gabriel Richard 11-4, but beat highly touted Westland John Glenn 9-8 in the state tournament. They followed the Glenn win with victories over Taylor Kennedy (1-0) and Livonia Franklin (4-2) in last weekend's regional

"It's been a funny season," said Salter. "In a way, we're finally playing the way we should have been playing earlier.'

State Games Northern Michigan site of Olympic event

By Bill Parker staff writer

No, the Soviets won't be there. Neither will the East Germans or Cubans for that matter. But not because they're boycotting, simply because they're not invited.

Hey, it's nothing personal, the Ohioans and Indianians weren't invited either. Only Michiganians who have resided in the state for more than 30 days will be eligible to participate in the Great Lakes State Games, July 31-Aug. 2 at the United States Olympic Training Center at Northern Michigan University.

The State Games will be Michigan's first ever Olympic-style, multi-sport festival complete with a torch run, an Olympic village atmosphere, opening ceremonies, an athlete parade, big name entertainment and an address by the governor. Patterned after the Olympics the Games will give athletes, spectators and volunteers an opportunity to experience the pageantry and excitement of an Olympic-style festival.

"WE PLAN to have these Games every year and the sesquicentennial year is a great year to start," said Karen Kunkel, administrator of the Olympic Training Center and director of the Games. "It's also logical to hold the first Games at the United States Olympic Training Center since it's one of only three in the nation. It's an Olympic-style event and this is an Olympic trainng center so this is where it should be."

The concept of a state wide multi-sport amateur athletic competition was implemented in the United States in 1978 when the state of New York hosted the Empire State Games. Michigan now joins 36 other states which will hold a state game competition this year. Kunkel has been working on the concept for etter than four years. Through her many hours of work the Great Lakes State Games will open with a bang offering competition in 25 sports for participants of all ages and all levels of competi-

"We are the first state I know of that is starting with 25 sports," said Kunkel. "In the past some states started with four or five events. This is our sesquicentennial year and it's our year to shine. If we fill all the age divisions in all the sports we should have over 8,000 athletes partici-

"What we want to do is provide an opportunity for athletes to get together and appreciate some of the other sports. We want to get athletes together, regardless of their sport, for an Olympicstyled festival. The main thing isn't to win or lose but to participate as an athlete.'

Basketball, fastpitch softball (adults), slowpitch softball, wrestling, bowling and volleyball will have qualifying tournaments in each of four regions: southeast, southwest, central and north. Some of the finals-only events include archery, athletics, diving, horse shoes, judo and yachting along with developmental sports such as speed skating, team handball and events for the physically impared including wheelchair slalom, basketball and road racing. There will also be finalsonly competition in boxing, cycling, figure skating, tennis, taekwondo, swimming, soccer, shooting, road racing, rhythmic gymnastics, and golf. A non-scoring 10-kilometer volksmarch will also take place, promoted as a family event.

IN ORGANIZING the Games, which will provide a focal point for amateur athletic competiof most athletic organizations throughout the state including the Michigan High School Athletic Association, the United States Golf Association, the National Rifle Association and The Athletic Congress, among others.

"We've been in contact with state officials of national organizations, and the governing organzations in the state from the MHSAA to the USS-SA, and everyone has been cooperating," said Kunkel. "This is the one event in the State of Michigan that has worked for, and is getting the cooperation of all the organizations. There is no one governing body."

Gold, silver and bronze Olympic-style medalions will be awarded to the top three athletes respectively in each sport. Housing and meals for participating athletes is available for a nominal charge at NMU. The Marquette Area Chamber of Commerce has also set up a-commercial housing hotline - 1-800-544-4321 (9 a.m.-5 p.m. daily) which will provide information only on hotels, motels, camp sites and recreation vehicle facilities.

All Great Lakes State Game events have an entry deadline. For more information, call 1-800-5-CAN-WIN

An all-event spectator ticket may be purchased in advance for $6. Children under six will be admitted free. All-event tickets will be $8 the weekend of the Games. 3 operas break the age barrier

By Carolyn DeMarco staff writer

Yes, the casts are made up primarily of children. And yes, it's based on two fairy tales and a contemporary children's book. But don't think "Opera Trilogy: Two Fantasies and a Farce" is strictly child's play, says Oakland University professor and composer-in-residence Stanley Hollingsworth.

Hollingsworth wrote the three musical tales, which will be performed at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday in the Meadow Brook Theatre. Rhoda Levine of New York is director. David Daniels, chairman of OU's department of music and dance, is musical director.

"If I had consciously written for "THE SELFISH GIANT" is the story of a giant who brought on perpetual winter when he forbade children from playing in his garden. Spring returns when a child slips unnoticed into the garden and begins singing. The opera stars John Paul White as the giant and Jan Albright as Linnet.

Both are associated with OU's department of music. A number of children 9-13 also appear.

"The first time I heard it performed," Hollingsworth quipped, "the curtain opened and in the dead silence I heard (in a lisp), 'Is that the selfish giant?" I knew it was not for children." The Giant" was written 15 years ago while Hollingworth was in Vienna. His teacher, Gian Carlo Menotu, suggi sted it as a comple ment to "The Mother," which he wrote at the age of 28, then, too, as a student of Menotti. "Mother," says Hollingsworth, is a little known Andersen work and 'a little sad." It tells the story of a mother (Barabara Windham of Bloomfield Hills) whose child is peacefully dying at an early age. She appeals for help and is shown the terrible life the child would live if he were saved. The revelation allows her to accept his death. 'Harrison," a buffer between the ine calls "a musical cartoon." The musical uses the operatically untrained voices of a number of local children 12 and older.

Danny Gurwin of Southfield is Harrison, a boy who uses an umbrella the way Linus uses his security blanket. Other local children in the cast are Colleen and Pat O'Shaughnessy and Julie Barker of Troy, Carrie Bell of Lathrup Village, Brian George of Rochester and Vito Guerra of Southfield.

Local adults are Amanda Kitchens, Jeff Voight and Jay Conway of Rochester, and Scott Jussila of Birmingham.

THE RELATIONSHIP OF LEV-INE and Hollingsworth began at the Festival of Two Worlds 20 years ago in Spoleto, Italy. Their paths have crossed several times since. Levine, a New Yorker, has an international reputation in the musical theater, and has taught at the Aaron Copeland School of Music and Juilliard School of Mu-children I would have used different restraints, I think," Hollingsworth said. "But it is appropriate. It's quickly moving, paced. In that sense it works for children. It's been picked up for children."

"The Selfish Giant," a story by Oscar Wilde, is the first of the three 30-minute performances. "Harrison Loved His Umbrella," an adaptation of a children's book written by Levine follows. "The Mother," a reworking of a Hans Christian Andersen tale, rounds out the evening.

make choices. Often our educational sytems denies that."

Problems in directing children are "problems of circumstance," she said. "They're in school all day before they come to rehearsal. They have to be patient with us and we with them. Concentration is scattered. It's hard to rehearse and go back again and again. Repetition is hard on all of us. But it's only an ensemble that creates a viable piece. That includes the stage manager and the guy playing the tuba."

Levine believes no delineation is needed between theater and children's theater. "Almost all theater is good theater for children, if by good theater we mean thought-provoking, interesting. Some things that are called children's theater are exceedingly good."

(P,C,W,G)1E

"If you write down to children," Hollingsworth added, "the parents may think it's good children's theater, but the children certainly won't."

Ensemble, costuming save flawed 'Figaro'

By Mary Jane Doerr special writer

Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" is an opera of enormous dimension and highly deceptive in its simplicity.

It is an opera that depends on intricately knitted stage action for its impact, split-second timing for its humor, and rich voices for its ensemble harmony.

Last weekend the Michigan Lyric Opera brought this Mozart masterpiece to the Marquis Theater in Northville. It is a production rich in beauty with costumes of quality rarely seen in local theater, and sets designed by Stanley Moore that are simple, functional and elegant.

Conductor and artistic director Douglas Morrison led a small, perfectly balanced orchestra ensemble that consistently stole the show not because of volume, but for sheer artistry.

SINCE THERE WAS no listing of those musicians, credit is not possible other than to mention Timothy Cheek, for his expert harpsichord accompaniment.

Morrison repeatedly kept the production afloat balancing his orchestra with the singers, keeping the tempos exact, making concise entrances and exits.

This perfectly designed set, wonderful acoustics, marvelous orchestra, and some of the most exquisite costuming this critic has ever seen, however, weren't enough to overcome the distractions that came from misdirected cast members who appeared to wander about the stage aimlessly.

The well-trained singers repeatedly fell short of any humor or impact because of poor stage directions. Their timing was way off.

The show's star, Stephen Bryant, as Figaro, showed potential as a singer. It was not until the fourth act that he was able to make his audience laugh at some of the jokes, however. Philip Pierson, as Count Almaviva, found himself in much the same position. His voice was solid enough, but he had little idea of what to do on stage.

JULIE WRIGHT displayed wonderful stage presence and had an understanding of the regality of the role of Countess Almaviva. Unexplainably, she slowed the tempo of her "Dove sono," making the aria even more difficult. Wright has an exquisite natural sounding voice.

Summer sounds Ann Arbor festival focus on sesquicentennial

HE ANN Arbor Summer Festival, presenter of summertime cultural events, has announced its lineup for the 1987 season. which will run from June 20 through July 18, focusing on the state's sesquicentennial. Headlining the 1987 festival will be New York's Circle Repertory Company with its acclaimed production of Sam Shepard's "Fool for Love."

The company, which does not normally appear outside of New York, will make its festival debut this season. One of the country's most respected theater troupes, Circle Rep has claimed numerous honors, including 39 Obie awards, 13 Drama Desk awards, two Tony awards, and a Pulitzer Prize.

In the old-world tradition of miniature theater, the Colla Family Marionettes from Milan, Italy, make their US. debut this summer with only two stops — Spoleto Festival USA and the Ann Arbor Summer Festival.

A HAND-CARVED cast of over 200 puppets appear in "Excelsior," a miniature spectacle of breathtaking detail and imagination. Other theatrical offerings include performance artists Michael Morchen and Bob Berky in "The Alchemedians," a vaudvillian evening combining cornedy, illusion, clowning and magical virtuosity.

Ann Arbor's Michigan Theater continues its festival tradition with a silent film extravaganza, "The Three Musketeers," starring Douglas Fairbanks, Playing the original movie score, the Ann Arbor Chamber Orchestra will accompany the film and a alive onstage vaudeville prologue.

Ann Arbor Civic Theater's annual festival offering will be, "A Romantic Comedy," the fastpaced modern romance by Bernard Slade. The Brecht Company will make its festival debut with "Baal," Bertolt Brecht's first major work.

 FOLLOWING ITS successful production of Bernstein's "Mass," Ann Arbor's Peninsula Productions is slated to present "Nightingale," Charles Strouse's charming musical for children and young-at-heart adults.

A special matinee performance of "Nightingale" serves as the focal point of the festival's annual children's day. Also for young people, Ann Arbor's Wild Swan Theater performs its heartwarming production of "Hawk I'm Your Brother," performed in English and sign language.

Closer to home ...

Closer to home, the sounds of summer will hit a high note at the Music Under the Stars program sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission opening Thursday, July 2 and closing with a grand finale Sunday, Aug. 23, at an afternoon program at Greenmead, Livonia's historical site.

The popular Max Davey Singers will open the season at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 2, in Civic Center Park with a rousing salute to this country's birthday celebration and the state's sesquicentennial observance. Success Orkestra, a calypso group, will perform at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 9, in the park, with the big band sound of the Saxophone Symphony following at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 16.

Thursday, July 23, will see the Tony Russo concert band perform. A switch in locations from Civic Center Park to the historic Wilson Barn site at Middlebelt and West Chicago is scheduled for the 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 30, concert featuring the concert band of Bob Durant.

A. Generally, in the condominium documents, the requirement necessary to change the bylaws is set forth. It may vary from the master deed to the condominium bylaws to the association bylaws.

State statutes also regulate certain condominium projects with respect to the necessary provisions or requirements to amend the documents depending upon whether a coowner's rights are affected. You should consult with your condominium association attorney as to what requirements are necessary to amend the bylaws in your particular instance.

Polarizer filter adds impact to photos

Few photo accesories can add as much impact to your shots as a polarizer filter. It takes an investment of only $12-$20 to put this most exciting filter on your lens and it will pay for itself many times over in increased im-Polarizers do a number of things: 1) darken blue skies; 2) remove reflections from non-metallic surfaces; 3) penetrate haze; and 4) increase color saturation

Here's how a polarizing filter works:

• When a light ray hits a non-metallic surface such as glass or water, part of it is reflected completely in one direction. This is called "polarized light." Light from a blue sky is polarized because it is reflected off particles in the atmosphere. • A polarizing filter consists of two pieces of glass which rotates relative to one another. When the rotation is 90 degrees, the polarizer will block the "polarized light" in the sky. Becuase less light now strikes the film, the result in the final picture will be a darker blue sky.

• A polarizing filter works for both color and black and white film. To obtain the maximum darkening effect, try to take your shot at a right angle to the sun.

• And in black and white photography, use a polarizer in combination with a red filter for an through to the film. The result is an increase in absolutely black sky effect. Further, because color saturation. you're always looking directly through the lens of your single lens reflex cameras, you can see the a polarizer has a filter factor. It reduces the darkening effect happening as you rotate the amount of light reaching the film. You will need filter.
